

James Fitzgerald

IBM

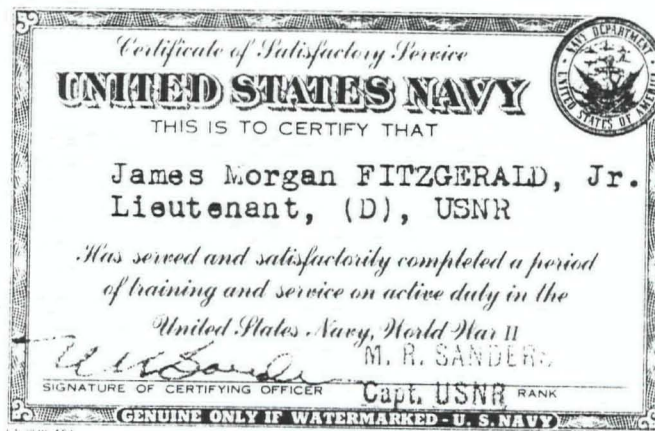

In January 1942 I volunteered to go into the Navy. In April 1942 I was taken into the Navy. I went to Midshipmen School in New York for training to become an officer. I was called one of the Ninety Day Wonders because I did become an Ensign.

My first tour of duty was up and down the Atlantic - searching for enemy submarines. Later I was transferred to the Pacific area. My ship was a small one - doing escort and convoy duty all over the Pacific area. We took on supplies from big ships - never seeing land for about two years. Sometime later I was transferred back to the States and became a Naval Instructor in New York. Later I became a Naval Instructor at Auburn, Alabama.

in their NROTC program. I stayed there until I was released from the Navy. After four years in the Navy I came home to Wilson. It was a happy day for me.
