THIRTY YEARS AGO AN INSIGNIFICANT VILLAGE WITH A POPULATION OF SOME FIVE HUNDRED. TO-DAY A CITY OF TWENTY THOUSAND INHABITANTS; CONTAINING MORE WEALTH, LARGER MANUFACTURING ENTERPRISES AND GREATER SCHOOL FACILITIES THAN ANY OTHER CITY IN THE STATE OF NORTH CAROLINA.

THE CITY OF DURHAM had its birth in the dark days of the Civil War. Indeed, Durham is one of the results of that conflict. The story goes, and is doubtless true, that while encamped near Durham in 1865, the Union soldiers, foraging for whatever they might lay hands on, seized a quantity of tobacco belonging to the oldest inhabitant and found the flavor so peculiarly suited to their taste that after the war was over and the soldiers had returned to their homes in the North, they wrote back to Durham for more tobacco of the same quality as that which they had appropriated. They were accommodated with one supply, then another, until, as a result of this trading, an industry was created which to-day assumes enormous and gigantic proportions.

Major William A. Guthrie tells the story that he stood on the steps of the First National Bank in Durham on one bright June morning and was approached by a stranger, who inquired, "Where is the back country from which this town draws its trade? Here is Chapel Hill and Hillsboro on the west, both within twelve miles; Roxboro on the north, within twenty-five miles; Raleigh on the east, and Pittsboro on the south, and I'd just like to know where this town comes in at." "Well," says the Major, "just step across the railroad here with me, and I will point out some of the back country you want to know about." He took him to the "Bull Factory," into the shipping department, and there on the floor lay case after case of tobacco marked for shipment, some consigned to San Francisco, Tokio and Alexandria, some to Calcutta, New Zealand and St. Petersburg. "These," says the Major, "are a part of the backwoods from which this town draws its trade."

One of the most hopeful features connected with the growth of Durham has been the steadiness which has characterized its development, and the additional fact that its expansion has been an "all round" one, not confined to any one industry, but comprehending all in its breadth, and embracing every feature of commercial and municipal activity; this is especially gratifying, as our city, while always one of the first, in the estimation of the world, as a tobacco manufacturing center, is noted for the quantity and excellence of its product in this line.

POPULATION.

The last government census taken in 1900 gave Durham a population of 8,000. The General Assembly of 1901 increased the area of the corporate limits from one square mile to 3.83 square miles, taking into the city a large number of suburban inhabitants. While no government census has been taken since 1900, in 1906 a census was taken under the direction of the Board of Aldermen, showing the population within the corporate limits to be 18,005; that of East Durham, 2,149; that of West Durham, 2,283, and that of other suburbs, 1,117, making a total of 23,554. Since that time the population has continued to increase rapidly.

LOCATION.

Durham is located twenty-eight miles west of Raleigh, the State Capital, and fifty-two miles east of the city of Greensboro. Is the center of the "Golden Tobacco Belt" of North Carolina, and has radiating in every direction five separate and distinct lines of railway, viz.: the Southern, the Seaboard, the Norfolk and Western, the Durham and Southern and the Durham and South Carolina. The Raleigh and Pamlico and the Durham and Charlotte are two more lines soon to be added to the present number. In point of railroad facilities Durham surpasses any other town in the State.

Durham is considered to be the wealthiest town in North Carolina, and, according to government statistics, at the time the last census was taken, the wealthiest city in the United States, population being considered.

The County and State tax rate is 83 cents on the $100, while that of the city is $1.10 on the $100.

The most prominent lines of manufacture in Durham is that of tobacco and cotton. Two of the largest tobacco factories in the world and five of the largest cotton factories of the South are located in Durham.

Aside from the manufacture of tobacco and cotton goods, Durham has the largest cloth bag and pouch factory and hosiery mill in the country, their product being sold in large quantities throughout many States.

BANKING FACILITIES.

In 1883 there was only one banking house in Durham—Eugene Morehead & Co. at that time established the first bank with a capital of $50,000, and deposits reaching not more than $200,000. At the present time we have five banking institutions with a combined capital stock and surplus of $814,326.37, and deposits amounting to $2,658,497.96.

Durham has an abundant supply of good, pure water, good streets and sidewalks, a complete up-to-date sewerage system sufficient for a city of 200,000 people. The city is lighted by gas and electricity. A Fire Department equal to all demands, as shown by the total loss in 1906 of $7,500; a good street system; also an up-to-date telegraph and telephone service.

In summing up, we can say that Durham is an up-to-date city, always ready to accept any new idea that will aid in its general uplift. There are seven railroads entering Durham, which is more than any other city in the State has.

Any one wishing further information about Durham, can secure it promptly by writing the
