PREFACE.

"It is not in the province of mortals to command success, but we can do more, Sempronious; we can deserve it."

This book is the result of much physical and mental labor. In its preparation many difficulties were encountered, not least of which was the seeming indifference to the necessity of such a work on the part of some intelligent people, from whom I had a reasonable right to expect otherwise.

While the primary object has been to afford the business community a reliable, up-to-date Directory, yet, had the advertising patronage extended me by Durham's business men been sufficient to justify the expense, I would have gone more fully into details concerning our educational, religious and industrial life, and have made the illustrations more numerous and elaborate. I trust, however, that, notwithstanding these necessary curtailments, it will prove useful to my patrons and of some benefit to the community.

The portraits, some of which are calculated to revive pleasant memories of "Auld Lang Syne," should interest the older citizens who have within the last twenty-five years witnessed the transformation of Durham, the little hamlet, into Durham, the foremost manufacturing city in the State. These portraits, like old wine, will grow more precious as the years roll by and the features of the old pioneers in Durham's birth and development become dimmed to memory's vision. All honor to these men. "They builded better than they knew."

To those who have kindly patronized and encouraged me in this enterprise, I make my obeisance and extend my heartiest thanks. Very respectfully,

D. C. MANGUM.

Employees: O. B. Foushee, Assistant Postmaster; Walter Jenkins, Delivery Clerk; Sam Henderson, Assistant Delivery Clerk; H. S. Pickett, Mailing Clerk; John L. Kirkland, James W. Markham, James A. Whitted, Jr, Letter Carriers; Paul A. Brown, Carriers' Substitute.

PUBLIC BUILDINGS, CHARITABLE AND PENAL INSTITUTIONS, ETC.

COUNTY HOME AND WORK HOUSE.

O. J. W. Perry, Superintendent; J. S. Durham, Jr., Assistant Superintendent; Andrew McBroom, Alvis Cook, Mebane Turner, Guards; Dr. J. M. Manning, Physician; Rev. R. Hibbard, Chaplain.

November 15th, 1881, the County Commissioners purchased a tract of 135 acres of land on the Christian's Mills road, about three miles north of Durham, and erected quarters thereon for the care of the aged, indigent and infirm. Later a work house, for the confinement of criminals undergoing sentences of not over ten years, was built on the premises, separate and apart, however, from the cottages of the unfortunates of the first named class.

The male prisoners are required to work on the public roads and to perform such other manual labor as comes least in conflict with free labor.

Within the last few years the lands have been brought into a high state of cultivation, whilst neat and well ventilated cottages (some of brick), have taken the place of the "poor cabins" that formerly served as shelter for the unfortunates whose only crime (?) was being poor and mentally or physically infirm. The poor inmates are now well housed, clothed and fed, and are surrounded by Christian influences and accorded humane consideration in striking contrast with the neglect, squallor and savagery that prevails at some similar institutions in some counties of the State. Here God's poor unfortunates find a home indeed, instead of a "poor house" and an inferno. Here they are not surrounded by humiliating reminders of their helpless dependency.

A neat Chapel has recently been erected, where lay services are held every Sunday afternoon.

To the untiring efforts of the present Superintendent, aided by his subordinates, and supplemented by the Board of Commissioners and County Physician, much praise is due for the truly satisfactory condition of this institution.

WATTS HOSPITAL.

This practical charity takes its name from its donor, George W. Watts, who, together with a very liberal cash endowment, presented the hospital, furniture and grounds, to the community. It is located on West Main street, just outside the corporate limits. Its location is admirable, its architecture pleasing and construction perfect. The arrangement of every detail is of the latest and most approved order. It is well ventilated and lighted and equipped from basement to attic with the latest improvements and devices for the care and attention of the sick and wounded. Completed in 1895, it has already proven a boon to hundreds of suffering men, women and children.

DURHAM GRADED SCHOOL.

Now that the manifold blessings of this institution are visible on every hand, and unanimously admitted, it is hardly possible for those unfamiliar with the history of its establishment, fifteen years ago, to realize that the proposition met with bitter opposition from some who are now numbered among its strongest friends and supporters, but such is a fact.

Referring to the election of 1882, when the people voted to ratify the Graded School Act, "Paul's History of Durham," published in 1884, when the facts and incidents attending that exciting contest were fresh in the historian's mind, speaking of the Graded School election, says:

"Where so many did such effective work in establishing this school, it might appear invidious to discriminate in ascribing leadership, but it is generally conceded that special credit is due the following gentlemen for extraordinary exertions in behalf of the movement, viz: C. B. Green, J. B. Whitaker, Jr.; John M. Moring, W. T. Blackwell, James W. Jones, J. F. Freeland, D. C. Mangum, R. W. Thomas, N. A. Ramsey and T. C. Oakley."

At the election in 1882 the colored people almost to a man opposed the school, because no provision was made in the Act for a colored school, further than to supplement their common school fund with the amount of taxes collected from the colored race only.

This failure to provide for a colored school was subsequently made a pretext by some of the white citizens who declined to pay the special tax provided for in the Act of 1881 for the support of the school, which refusal resulted in much litigation and a final decision of the Supreme Court in 1886, enjoining the Commissioners from collecting the tax and declaring the Act unconstitutional, on the grounds of discrimination.

The people were determined however, and immediately went to work to remedy all legal defects, and in 1887 secured the passage of an Act providing for a Graded School for BOTH races, which Act was ratified by the people in April of the same year.

Later the city issued $25,000 in bonds for the construction of suitable school buildings, and as a result we have the magnificent structure on Dandy street for the use of the white school, while Ramsey street is adorned with a beautiful and substantial building for the use of the colored school.

The fall session, 1897, opened September 6th with 670 white and 225 colored pupils enrolled.

POPULATION.

On September 30th, 1897, a house to house census of Durham and suburbs was completed. The work was done in a careful and systematic way, on printed blanks prepared for the purpose. The names of all citizens over sixteen years of age are given in the alphabetical list. Below is given the total population, male and female, white and colored, including children under sixteen years of age, separated according to location, and the grand total of the whole. The territory embraced extends east from R. D. Blacknall's residence in West Durham to Fitzgerald's brick yard in East Durham, and about half a mile outside of the corporation, north and south.

Oak Ridge Institute!

—o—

A Classical and Scientific School with special departments of Book-Keeping, Short-Hand, Type-Writing, and Telegraphy. This school is by all odds the largest and best equipped fitting school in the South, having an attendance yearly of 250 to 300. It has large and commodious buildings, a splendid Gymnasium, a well-filled Library with Reading-Room, and beautiful Society Halls. Everything is new, bright, and inviting.

PRESIDENT WINSTON SAID:

"Oak Ridge Institute has sent to the University some of the best athletes, best scholars, and finest gentlemen; a school is known by its fruits."

Dr. Kilgo Said, from the Platform of Trinity College:

"Oak Ridge Institute is the best equipped Preparatory School I have had the pleasure of visiting."

$160 Pays Board, Tuition and Washing

For One Scholastic Year (One Course).

The school is beautifully and delightfully located near Greensboro. One thousand feet above sea-level. For catalogue address
