Haywood :: County

By MAJOR W. W. STRINGFIELD

Haywood County, the first-born and favorite daughter of good old "Mother Buncombe," was formed in 1808 and named in honor of Jolin Haywood, State Treasurer for forty years (1787-1827.)

The original boundary lines were summit of same, southward with Swain and Jackson counties to Tennessee Bald at the junction of Tennessee and Pisgah ridges, thence with Pisgah ridge and the Newfound range to the beginning.

The county contains about 300,000 quite large and included all the territory now embraced within the present counties of Macon, Jackson, Swain and Haywood. Macon was formed in 1828, of territory between the Cowee and Nantahala mountains, Jackson in 1852, Swain in 1871, of territory belonging to Macon and Jackson.

Haywood is bounded on the north by the Great Smoky Mountains and the Tennessee line, from Snow Bird on the Madison corner to Mt. Guyott at the north end and the junction of the Great Balsam with the Smoky Mountains, thence along the extreme acres, and produces in abundance wheat, corn, rye, oats, hay, millet, buckwheat, cabbage, potatoes and a great variety of the finest of vegetables and fruits. Haywood apples are famous for their variety and excellence, having taken the premium at every fair and exposition when displayed. It is said that the late Queen Victoria preferred the Haywood Pippin to all other apples and kept them in cold storage the year round for her private use.

Of timbers we have ash, cherry, chestnut, walnut, hickory, locust, all varieties of oak, pine, balsam—indeed, all kinds of timber.

The Big Pigeon river traverses the length of the county north to south, a distance of fifty or sixty miles, with a large number of smaller tributaries rushing in from all sides, adding a charm to the hundreds of beautiful hillocks, ridges and mountains that are almost daily being utilized in the erection of splendid dwellings, hotels, boarding houses, where our pure water and life-giving air are putting mers are so delightful that all manner of labor is a pleasure.

The great variety and abundance of the timber has attracted world-wide attention and we now have in course of erection the largest pulp mill in the world. We have numerous furniture factories, great saw mill plants, numerous wood working mills and several cotton mills are now looking this way, which would seem to indicate great industrial activity in the near future.

new life and energy into thousands every year. A lack of space forbids a full and just description of this wonderful country. A writer said more than fifty years ago, "Its climate is lovely beyond description and its scenery equals its climate." The same may be said today, but the visitor of a decade ago would open his eyes with astonishment to behold the vast improvement along all lines made in the intervening years.

While our winters might be considered a little crisp, this is only for a short while, as it is seldom the case that any class of work done by machinery or any out door work can not be carried on all the while. Our sum-

The water power in the county is unsurpassed. A fine electric light and power plant has been built on the river near the mouth of Fine's creek and is now supplying light and power to our progressive little town.

The county seat of Haywood is Waynesville, founded by Col. Robert Love, and named by him for Gen. Anthony Wayne, of Pennsylvania, a Revolutionary comrade. A memorial tablet in the court house commemorates this fact. Waynesville is distant 305 miles from Raleigh, and is the highest railroad town east of the Mississippi. It is a wide awake, progressive town, owns its own water supply, has its principal streets paved and others

The Haywood White Sulphur Springs, which is now within the limits of the town, is one of the most popular resorts in the South. Each season brings hundreds of visitors who drink its health-giving waters, many of whom return year after year. There are many nice boarding houses and hotels in Waynesville and although new ones are built each season, the place is briefly mention some of those who first settled in the county, most of whose descendants are still occupying the land inherited from their forefathers.

Robert Love, with other Revolutionary soldiers, settled here prior to 1792. He was a member of the State Senate from Buncombe from 1793 to 1796, and later was Presidential Elector for this section for thirty years.

Gen. Thos. Love, brother of Robert Love, Thos. Lenoir, Ninian Edmondston, John and William Welch, James always crowded, a sure test of its popularity as a resort.

Clyde and Canton are both progressive little towns and are becoming more popular each season with the summer tourists. In fact, we might say that the entire county is a resort, as the overflow of guests has filled so many of the farm houses. The pulp mill before mentioned is located at Canton and will add greatly to the material prosperity of the town.

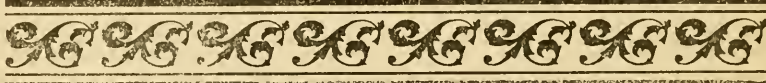

It scarcely comes within the purview of this article to say much of men or families, but rather to call attention to a grand and beautiful country. I consider it not amiss, however, to Gudger, Col. Joseph Cathey, Thos. Clingman, Michael Francis, Andrew Ferguson, Joseph Keener and Wm. H. Thomas seem to have held office at will. As most of them were old soldiers, it was no doubt a recognition of their honorable service.

Space forbids mention of many other worthy pioneer families whose descendants are today among our leading citizens, but this Directory will give their names as well as others of our good citizens who came to the county at a later date.

The County is divided by nature into many beautiful and fertile valleys which are traversed by the East and Four Revolutionary soldiers are known to be buried in the county. Robert Love and William Allen in Waynesville, Hugh Rogers on Fine's Creek, and Christian Messer on Panther Creek, whose son, Frederick Messer, still lives, at the age of one hundred and ten years of age.

The sons of Haywood have always shown a patriotic devotion to their County and State as the rosters of the troops in the different wars prove.

During the Civil War many of her brave sons gave their lives for their

With such an honorable past and natural advantages unequaled, Haywood can only have a bright future in store for her. Two years hence, when we reach the one hundred mile stone in our existence, let us kill the fatted calf and invite home all the wanderers in "a far country," who, seeing the vast material strides made in the past few years, like the prodigal son, will wish to remain in the land of their fathers.

EAGLE'S NEST

THE GEM OF THE APPALACHIANS

Is located on the summit of Junaluska mountain, a spur of the Balsams, 5,000 feet above the sea. It is 2,750 feet higher than Asheville, 30 miles distant and 2,250 feet above, and overlooks Waynesville, about 3 miles distant. Leading from this beautiful little city to the Nest is one of the finest mountain roads in this country, a drive over which is a pleasant feature of the trip, peculiarly attractive to lovers of ture that stretches uncircumscribed before the Eagle's Nest. It is easy to tell of the depths of the valleys, of the height of the hills, the name of this peak and that, of the uplifting of the heads of the mountains above the clouds, of the miles that separate them though seemingly so close, of the lights and shadows that play upon their tree-clad summits. But these all miss the soul of the scene; we realize our help-mountain scenery, embracing as it does, mountain and valley, forest and farm, with occasional streams adding a new element to the scene.

Eagle's Nest is justly one of the most popular resorts in this wonderful resort country. The vast panorama spread out from it on all sides is singularly grand and beautiful. In fact no words, no matter who the master hand that used them, has ever yet brought to mind a true conception of the unrivalled beauties of nature with which we are here surrounded. And no photograph has yet done credit to the piclessness intellectually when we attempt to describe the picture so that others not seeing can yet understand.

At this elevation we are above the valley fogs and chill and frequently above the clouds, a rare experience never to be forgotten. The temperature is more uniform than at lower altitudes. The early mornings as compared with Asheville and Waynesville are from 6° to 10° warmer, while at midday it is as much cooler. During the past four years the mercury has reached 78° but twice—it rarely goes above 76°.

A Few Facts About Waynesville Worth Noting

The organization of the Waynesville Factory Site and Electric Power Company took place in the spring of 1905. An immense stone dam 40 feet high has been completed on Pigeon river with water power capacity to generate 1,500 horse-power. Electrical machinery has been installed to supply electric horse-power at rates per annum as cheap as it can possibly be obtained in this section or elsewhere.

The work is now going on of macadamizing the roads in the Waynesville township, which will make delightful driveways the year around. Main street has recently been paved with vitrified brick. A new Baptist church was built in 1905, and the Presbyterian church, just completed, is a handsome structure.

Our graded school leads all similar schools in the State.

The last session of the Legislature granted the charter for the Waynesville & Asheville Electric Railway Company. In connection with this line a Chataqua ground will be established in the most beautiful mountain scenery in the Appalachian range adjacent to Waynesville, which insures Waynesville to be the coming pleasure and industrial center in the Southern Appalachian range. New trunk lines of railroad are heading from the North to South, so that will bring them through Waynesville, insuring trunk line transportation in four different directions within a short time.

Our visitors numbered in the past year over 3,500 and doubtless will double that this summer.

Our hotel service and accommodations are being improved all the time, and we have a great number of up-to-date, first-class boarding houses to accommodate the summer visitors.

Waynesville as a Health Resort

By Dr. J. Howell Way, Resident Physician and Secretary of State Medical Society

The town of Waynesville (in Lat. 33 degrees 25 minutes N. Long. 32 degrees 31 W.), is chiefly built on a lengthy little plateau in the Richland Valley. Main street has an altitude of 2,794 feet.

The mean average temperature for the year ranges in the neighborhood of 59 degrees, the maximum at 48 degrees, and the mean maximum for the same period being about 69 degrees. In mid-summer the thermometer rarely ranges above 85 degrees at noonday, and the passing of the afternoon always brings with its soft and balmy breezes a night sufficiently cool for one to sleep with covering. Very few gnats or flies exist here and the complete absence of the genus anopheles and his interesting and entertaining kindred (the various other species of the mosquito), present an important contribution to both personal comfort and health. The temperature at Waynesville in winter rises at mid-day with occasional exceptions, to 50 degrees or over, and in sheltered places, with direct sunshine and southern exposure, as high as 70 degrees. By far the greatest number of winter days have clear, bright sunshine.

The mean relative humidity for a term of a year was 70x, ranging from 58x in March to 77x in August. The average number of sunshiny days per annum varies from 258 to 306. The average rainfall per annum has been

$1,500,000 Pulp Mill

Col. S. A. Jones in Manufacturers' Record.

A few years ago, when I first wrote that the Balsam range of mountains, located mostly in Haywood, Jackson and Swain counties, North Carolina, would become a great pulp mill and center, and that there was 50 years' base of supply for the American consumption, the idea was called extravagant by the pulp men in New England spruce

3,000 horse-power generated electrically from the Pigeon river. The operations of the plant will require 10 carloads of sulphur a day and five carloads of arsenic, with many other supplies, and the Southern Railway is now lowering its grade from Asheville to the factory site. The company has bought about 30,000 acres of timber lands for pulp wood. I only mention the timberland purchase to show that the largest belts. I said it was only a matter of a short time when large pulp mills would locate here. That time has rolled around, and in the center of Haywood county, about eight miles from Waynesville, today the work of constructing probably the largest pulp mill in the world has begun—a plant that will cost over $1,500,000 and consume 600 cords of pulp wood per day and burn 200 tons of coal per day and employ over 1,000 people. Independent of the 6,000 horse-power developed from the coal the company will utilize pulp mill in the world is to be built here, and is owned by one of the largest paper companies in America, which is sufficient answer as to whether there is a plentiful base of supply of the raw material. I have in my previous letters stated, and I again reiterate it, that there is more pulp wood, more acid wood (or chestnut wood) and furniture available to the Waynesville valley than any other point left in the timber belt of America.

Pulp wood in the East and middle States is about exhausted and for a good many years past has commanded from $6.50 to $7.00 per cord f. o. b. Chestnut or acid wood will yield per cord about the same amount of tannic acid that the best cord of oak tanbark will yield; both are here in abundance and being supplied at present for an average of $3 per cord for acid wood and $3.25 per cord for pulp wood. Within less than four years four tannic mills have located in this section, three large tanneries, and now comes the largest pulp mill in the world, and, of course, others will follow. For no country in the world offers such a fine climate, such good water, such perfect health, rich soil, and labor can live cheaper in the midst of the base of supply than any portion of America. For but a few eatables for the table will have to be shipped here from a distance.

Acid mills, pulp mills and furniture factories and tanneries that locate early are making long-time contracts at low prices per cord for their supplies, and a number of cotton factories are arranging to come. Of course, prices for these woods will not remain many years below the Eastern and Western prices per cord. When it is taken into consideration that it takes the timber from four acres of well-timbered pulp land to make the paper for one day's issue of one of the big daily papers in New York, one cannot begin to comprehend the future value of pulp wood in the United States.

From the London Titbits of July 19, 1905, we quote the following:

"Once the manufacture of paper was a tedious process, but it is so no longer. Some time ago, at Elsenthal, in Norway, three trees were felled as an experiment in the presence of a notary, who was charged to certify the time taken. The cutting began at 7:35 a. m. The wood was reduced to small pieces, decorticated and converted into pulp, and at 9:34 the first sheet of paper was finished. The sheets were then driven two miles to a printing office and just after ten o'clock a paper was printed, so that in two hours and twenty-five minutes the wood of a standing tree was converted into a journal."

When a thought like this is considered, who can encompass with his mind at a single grasp the vast possibilities of the rise in the price of paper-making wood? For there is no industry, except it be iron and steel, that the daily growth in the increase of daily demand is greater than paper, not only in America, but throughout the world. No doubt the editor of the Manufacturers' Record well remembers that no longer than in 1895 heavily timbered lands carrying these pulp and acid woods in the Balsam mountains of North Carolina could hardly be sold at $1.50 per acre. Today there is being cut from these lands from 20 to 30 cords of pulp and acid wood, over and above this from 2,000 to 4,000 feet of first-class merchantable boards.

The Balsam range of North Carolina has more pulp and acid woods and more furniture woods than any other portion of the United States, and the territory it covers is small when compared with the growing demand. The discovery in recent years of tannic acid in chestnut wood should save millions of feet of fine oak and hemlock that has been wasted before, simply to yield the tanbark. Hemlock wood that was of too low value to ship can now be put into pulp for paper, and the hemlock bark into acid for the tanneries, making this, that was the cheapest of our timber growths, become one of the most valuable. Among this growth of timber in the Balsam range of North Carolina is almost unlimited water-power to supply power to work it. Inducements are being offered to pulp mills, acid mills and furniture factories to come to this section of North Carolina, because the best climatic and health conditions and cheapest power that can be had in the world is here.

Haywood county held its first annual fair at Waynesville on the 1st, 2d and 3d of last October. It would have been intensely interesting to people who are seeking homes from the old country as well as from different portions of the United States to have been here and seen sewing machines being run with electricity at three cents per horse-power for 12 hours, one horse-power for ten sewing machines, and in the vegetable world seen twelve Irish potatoes weighing 15 pounds of one kind and 15 Irish potatoes weighing 17 pounds of another kind; a single Southern White Queen Sweet potato, perfect in form, 12 inches long; pumpkins, squashes, cymbings equal to the best Eastern exhibit; ears of corn 14 inches long; celery superior to any that was ever shipped from Kalamazoo; 10 and 20-pound heads of cabbage a common occurrence; apples that have taken premiums all over America and Europe; cattle and milk cows, consisting of Jerseys, Durhams and Holsteins of the finest breeds and qualities; 11 different grades of sheep producing the finest wool; Berkshire and Chester White hogs, second to none in Kentucky; poultry of a character that shows that this climate is a paradise for the finest breeds; horses and colts sired by the French coach by Lexington's best saddlers and Lexington's best harness horses, with a half-mile race track to test speed and durability.

Our young city has just completed the paving of the sidewalks on her Main street, and is utilizing power for lights from the great dam on Pigeon river. Such are the changes of a few years, and marks Waynesville as the coming industrial center of the Land of the Sky.

Waynesville the Coming Fall River Manufacturing City of the South

The Southern States Cotton Association's Visit to Waynesville

By Col. S. A. Jones.

It was my honor to attend the three days' meeting of the Southern States Cotton Association at Kenilworth Inn, Asheville, North Carolina, this spring.

The convention, adjourning, accepted the invitation to visit Waynesville the day following. They wanted to see Waynesville, for they had already heard that its environments fitted it to be the coming Fall River manufacturing city of the South. They came, and they were convinced that this is the place for that purpose, and they will testify to it at the proper time, for they were made to see and understand that in their hands lay the power to make all the Fall Rivers needful to manufacture every bale of cotton that the South grows, and their visit to Waynesville and Haywood county opened their eyes and revealed to them the key that will unlock the golden gate that will save to the cotton growers and manufacturers in the coming industrial and pleasure center of the South unnumbered millions of dollars. It will stop the cotton that is already being manufactured in the South, paying $2.00 per hundred pounds to send it away to the East to find bleaching mills, when they can be erected at home, and every character of cloth can be woven that cotton yields, right here at home, and transportation saved, and have their mills and homes of their operators amid scenery so beautiful and grand with unsurpassed health, no pen can draw the picture it merits.

Why should a bale of raw cotton go to Liverpool to be manufactured into thread and cloth to be re-shipped to China, Japan, the Philippines, South America and to the West Indies? Why should a bale of cotton go to New England to be spun into thread and woven into cloth to be returned to the South for her people to wear, at an advance of from 300 to 500 per cent? Why should the people of the South continue to sell a pound of cotton even for 11 cents, and then pay 35 cents for the same pound woven into seven yards of calico to dress the child that picked the same pound of cotton in the cotton field? Why should the South continue to sell a pound of cotton for even 12 cents, and buy it back in the mercerized silk for $7.50 for the same pound of cotton? Why should the Southern cotton grower be forced to sell his cotton to pay his bills, when 50 cents on each bale for the present crop will give him $5,000,000 to hold the cotton until the manufacturer consumes it? Why should we allow her small growers to be bled for 10 and 12 and even 15 per cent., as stated in the convention, to get a little money to live on while they grow a bale of cotton, when 25 cents on the bale for this year will give the Cotton Association $2,500,000 to form a Cotton Association Bank from this one crop, and in three and a half years $10,000,000 can be accumulated at 25 cents a bale to loan to the little farmer at 3 per cent. to grow his crop. Is there a shiftless white man or negro in the South that grows cotton that would not pay the 25 cents from the sale of his bale of cotton, to help establish in three years a $10,000,000 Cotton Association's bank in the South, to protect him both in the growing and the selling of his cotton, at a low rate of interest? He would not even care if he never got back a penny of the 75 cents that he would pay in, in three years. Is there an intelligent reason to continue to pay $3.65 a bale freights to reach Liverpool and New England to find somebody to buy and manufacture the cotton? $3.65 a bale on 10,000,000 bales would be $36,500,000 for a single year's freight one way, and in three years it is over $100,000,000. Save this to the cotton growers of the South, and they can do it for themselves. It will build enough cotton factories to produce every article that cotton goes to make up, right here in the heart of the South, and certainly return freights that are now being paid, will carry the manufactured products to the market, whether at home or abroad. Why, 50 cents a bale would give on this year's crop $5,000,000 for a factory fund, or 25 cents a bale would give $2,500,000 to a banking fund, and the two together would give 75 cents on the bale. Take the two from the minimum freight rate of $3.65, still leaves a saving alone in freights of $2.90 a bale on 10,000,000 bales, equal to $29,000,000 to build factories out of a single crop. The 30 pound tare agreed on is equivalent to $3.00 a bale, nearly every penny of which could be saved, as no iron ties or bagging would be needed. A twine netting with a 4-inch mesh would hold it from the compress to the Southern factories in short shipments.

The Great Master, it seems to me, for the very purpose of giving an altitude in the midst of the cotton country, lifted a strip of the South's land close to the sky, with cotton fields on three sides of that strip, and nesting valleys in it, way up at 2,000 and 3,000 feet altitude, giving a delightful climate and beautiful scenery, and perfection of health that exist in no other section of our country along this latitude on the American continent. He made Waynesville valley immune from storm and flood, for he lifted mountain peaks still above the valley 6,000 feet to compel the cyclone to pass over it, and dug the river channels behind these mountains to save the valleys from flood; yet brought them near enough to harness their power. So this favored land bids the cotton planter to take 50 cents a bale from the $3.65 freight per bale he pays to reach New England and Liverpool, and build factories on lands we will give him free, for the privilege of furnishing his factory with the cleanest and cheapest power on earth, and housing and feeding his labor in the most healthful* and desirable climate, and the cheapest country on earth in which to live. Those of the Southern Cotton Association who came and saw for themselves will bear testimony that the story has not yet half been told by any words of mine, of this God-favored section, has offered the cotton growers of the South, the best channel on earth to get by systematic and practical business co-operations and just returns for his cotton. When the great Isthmian canal is open, the Southern factory is closer by nearly 2,000 miles to 75 per cent. of the foreign world that will consume our cotton exports, than any other ports on the American continent. So in behalf of the kind courtesy I received at the hands of the Southern Cotton Association, I bid them come and see the land on which they can save not only $3.65 freights per bale from the East or to Europe, but where they can save the profit by putting 10 cent cotton into seven yards of calico and selling it at 35 cents, or a 10 cent pound of cotton made into $7.50 worth of imitation China silk. Labor is cheap here, and permanent, for the people who live here, love these eternal mountains and will not leave them. So the manufacturer and the grower, can here, as in days of old, by coming together, or by the growers becoming manufacturers, save from $2.50 to $3.00 a bale the gambler demands, save $3.65 freight transportation demands, save $3.00 in tares that protection demands. This is what water power, good climate and central locations for factories in the South mean. Can an ordinary mind comprehend $3.00 in tares saved, $3.65 in freight saved, $2.50 gambler's bill saved, equal to $9.15 a bale in raw material in a single year? A 10,000,000 bale crop means the saving of $91,500,000 in one year. By the January meeting in Hot Springs, Ark., let the sleeping lion be aroused until the earth shall tremble at its tread, not to oppress human kind, but give honest reward to the toiling people of the South for their labor in the sweat of their brow.—Manufacturers' Record.

The Drives Around Waynesville

Are beautiful, many and varied. A short five miles to the great "Junaluska," 5,100 feet above sea level, is a grand sight never to be forgotten; while six miles to "Lickstone," over 6,000 feet, is presented a view unequaled in sublimity. To "Old Bald," distance but ten miles, with its altitude of 6,425 feet; and the two (Big and Little) "Balsams" are delightful and popular drives; and a little farther on, but sixteen miles from the Hotel is "Pisgah" with Mr. Vanderbilt's game preserve and lodge, while through the valleys, along the beautiful river banks and mountain streams, by fine farms and orchards, and through cool and shaded mountain trails and driveways, one can spend weeks exploring the surrounding country, either horseback or by carriage.

The Haywood White Sulphur Springs

Tradition and history both inform us that, dating as far back as the civilized mind can remember, it was at the Haywood White Sulphur Springs that the great Indian tribes to the east and south of the long Appalachian range of mountains, made annual pilgrimage; that here it was, in this beautiful little Richland Valley, under the majestic and time honored oaks, that surround the Springs, the Indian chieftains met and held their yearly councils; while on the beautiful green sward, by the banks of a winding brooklet, and within the sweet murmuring sound of the rushing waters of the Richland River, the Indian hunters and warriors, worn out with their long winter's chase and fray, pitched their summer tepees, rested their tired bodies, and drank of the God-given and inspiring waters that recuperated their lost strength and energies in the self-same manner as their civilized successors and followers are doing today—making even longer pilgrimages to receive the same earth-bestowing, God-given influences and benefits from these still-flowing, never-failing or unchanging fountains of health, now patronized and enjoyed by them under the more advanced and improved cosmopolitan conditions of the present time.

Too much cannot be said regarding the valuable medicinal and other properties of this particular White Sulphur Springs Water, distinctly fortunate in the rare combination of its assimilated virtues and differing so much from all respective physicians at home.

The grounds around the hotel are picturesque and attractive, comprising an extensive woodland of fifty acres, in which the wildness of nature has been carefully preserved and its beauty enhanced by man's generous skill. Dense forests cover the mountains to their very tops, gracefully sloping their wooded sides downward until they meet and mingle with the grounds other spring water in its distinct strength of pure "sulphur" and in the percentage of its associated proportions of other mineral and organic matter.

Many prominent physicians all over the country pronounce it one of the finest waters to be had in diseases of the kidneys and urinary passages, and a preventative to the lodgment of such diseases, and each successive season shows an increase in the number of persons benefited and cured of these troubles, whose visit and stay here during the summer season was influenced and due to the recommendation of their

at the rear of the hotel while in front is an extensive lawn overspread with shade trees and adorned with flowers and fountains, at the foot of which winds the beautiful Richland River, its banks shaded by fine old trees; while bounding brooks from the mountains flow through the grounds, and on their banks and the hillsides and lawns are hundreds of majestic oak and other shade trees interspersed with comfortable settees, easy chairs and swings, which make it in reality one of the most restful and delightful natural resorts to be found anywhere on the continent.

Haywood County Fair

HELD AT WAYNESVILLE EACH YEAR UNDER THE AUSPICES OF

The Haywood County Stock Raisers and Farmers Association, Incorporated

The object of this Association in holding these annual fairs is to develop the agricultural and live-stock interests of this section. The success which has attended it from its inception has been more than gratifying to the projectors. As a result, the Association has been incorporated with a capital stock of $10,000; suitable grounds for holding fairs have been purchased; handsome and commodious buildings have been erected; and the Association in every way put in position to push its object.

The Haywood County Fair is a permanent institution, and as the years roll on will increase in benefit to this entire section. It is the hope of the management to make this the representative fair of Western North Carolina, and in this ambition, the co-operation of all the people in this section is earnestly solicited.
