I honor and praise God as my Savior and for my being here today. I am most humbled to be here with you all today, guests, members, family and friends as we celebrate another homecoming and reunion. As I look out into the audience, my joy is overwhelming. This is truly a celebration – a celebration of God and family, for each and every one of us.

I stand here to emphasize our welcome to each of you for coming out to celebrate with the Tar River Church family. I say emphasize because no matter who invited you or what led you to us today, you already knew you were welcome. We are delighted you accepted the invitation and chose to be with us today. I believe that there is no better time or place to be today than in a house of worship to praise God and celebrate family.

I feel we are all family and it takes all of us, as a family to walk the path set before us by God. Martin Luther King said and I quote, "We cannot walk alone and as we walk, we must make the pledge that we shall always march ahead. We cannot turn back." We must pray, teach, and guide each other as we strive to reach that higher height of spiritualism. We pray your spiritual goal will be met during the service today and when you depart will share with others the mercy and goodness of God.

In closing I say you all are somebody extremely special and we are here to welcome and celebrate with you. Again you are welcome, welcome, welcome.
