

86 Seventh Street
Fullerton, Pa.
September 10, 1957

Dear Ruth and Bill,

We finally got the prints of the transparencies back - of which I send on three that we particularly liked.

But a lot of the pix taken on Ocracoke turned out gloriously. The general reaction, when we show them to folks, is utter amazement that such a place exists. The ferryboat rates hoots and hollers but the beach rates ohs and ahs. The aerial shots are fabulous in spite of the overcast that day. Remember, Ruth, the day you got Carolyn to babysit for us so we could go fishing? We knew Kristi was unhappy in the boat - but the pictures reveal her completely disgusted about the whole business - not one iota of enthusiasm! But I'm so glad that Paul went hog-wild in his quantity of pictures because now we are able to relive it all - and in spite of the many times we show them, we never get bored. Isn't that a type of proof that we had such a glorious time?

After we left Ocracoke, we went to Williamsburg, Jamestown, Petersburg, Richmond, Fredericksburg and Washington - so I got all my Civil War visiting in, too. But the second week was awfully strenuous. 'Twas a good thing we rested so thoroughly at Ocracoke first.

We hope you two and Doc still have vacation plans for this fall. We hope that you'll consider Fullerton in them, too. Your airport would be the Allentown-Bethlehem-Easton Airport (or the ABE) - about 60 miles NW of Philadelphia. When you arrive, just call us (HEmlock 4-1632) and Paul will dash madly out to pick all three of you up. We'd love to see you again, pet Doc and show you our neck of the woods.

Karen and Kayo are back in school - and even Kristi started Kindergarten. So it's a bedlam from 7 - 8 in the morning, but from 8-11:30 the stillness is oppressive. I still can't make up my mind which extreme I like better - perhaps it's the noise because I'm so used to it. But in due time, it will probably be the stillness - it's so much less nerve-jangling.

Paul just read what I have written here and said to tell you from him "Me, too!" - because we truly did enjoy our all too few days on Ocracoke. Thanks for everything.

Please give our regards to Geneva, Alycia and Dorothy - and we hope to see you this fall.

As ever,

Us Olsens

Peggy

And me too -

(the illiterate one!)

Paul