Do Not Weep For Me

"Do not stand at my grave and weep, I am not there, I do not sleep.

I am a thousand winds that blow, I am a diamond glint on snow; I am the sunlight on ripened grain; I am the gentle autunn's rain.

When you awaken in the morning's hush, I am the swift uplifting rush; Of quiet birds in circling flight, I am the soft stars that shine at night.

Do not stand at my grave and cry, I am not there, I did not die."

The Obituary

ROBERT GARLAND DUNCAN, JR., died on Saturday, December 23, 1995, following a lengthy illness. But he left behind him a legacy of kindness, generosity and caring that will long be remembered.

Robert was born in Charleston, South Carolina, on June 19, 1914, the son of the late Robert Duncan, Sr., a shoemaker, and the late Edna Levy Duncan. The eldest of three children, Robert learned early the joys and responsibilities of parenting. He bought clothes for his younger sisters out of his allowance and earnings. He also undoubtedly enjoyed, upon occasion, telling them what to do.

Robert moved to Durham, North Carolina, in the 1940's to work as Superintendent of Buildings an Grounds of North Carolina Central University. Robert and his wife of more than fifty years, the late Anne McKay Duncan, both enjoyed the company of the students who flocked to their home near the campus. They were surrogate parents to many such young people, and will live on through them.

Robert was an avid gardener and bridge player, and a dedicated member of Holy Cross Catholic Church, Holy Cross Men's Society, and the Knights of Columbus. But perhaps his favorite avocation was his service for many years as a driver for "Meals on Wheels" for the sick and shut in. Nothing pleased him more than to bring soft drinks and candy to the people along his route, and to sit and chat. For many of those elderly people, Robert's visit was the highlight of their day.

Robert is survived by family members he loved dearly -- his daughter, Allyson; his sister Ermine, his nieces and nephews, his sister-in-law, Helen Blackburn, and other relatives and friends.

~ The Dash ~

I read of a man who stood to speak, at the funeral of a friend; He referred to the dates on his tombstone From the beginning.....to the end.

He noted that first came the date of his birth, and spoke of the following date with tears;
But he said what mattered most of all, was the dash between those years.

For that dash represents all the time, that he spent alive on earth..... And now only those who loved him, know what that time is worth.

For it mattered not, how much we own, the cars....the house....the cash; What matters is how we lived and loved and how we spent our dash.

So think about this long and hard..... are there things you'd love to change? For you never know how much time is left, you could be at "dash, mid-range."

If we could just slow down enough, to consider what's true and real; And always try to understand, the way other people feel.

And be less quick to anger, and show appreciation more; And love the people in our lives like we never loved before.

If we treat each other with respect, and more often wear a smile..... Remembering that this special dash, might only last a little while.

So, when your eulogy's being read, with your life's actions to rehash.....
Would you be proud of the things they say, about how you spent your dash?

"There is no better exercise, for the human heart, Than reaching down, and lifting someone up."

~ In Memoriam ~

In life we loved you dearly,
In death we love you still
In our hearts you hold a special place,
No one could ever fill.
If we could build a staircase
And heartaches build a lane
We'd walk the path to heaven
And bring you back again.
Our family chain is broken
And nothing seems the same
But God calls us, one by one
The chain will link again.

The family acknowledge with great appreciation all prayers, visits, telegrams, cards, flowers and other acts of kindness extended to them during the illness and passing of their loved one. May god richly bless each of you in a very special way.

God saw you getting weary
So He did what He thought Best
He came and stood beside you
And whispered, "Come and Rest"
You wished no one a last farewell
Nor even said good bye
You were gone before we knew it
And only God knows why
When god called you to come and rest
You did not go alone
For part of us went with you
The day God took you Home.
