INTRODUCTORY.

To the Citizens of Winston, Salem and Greensboro :

We take pleasure in presenting to our patrons this, our first, Directory of Winston, Salem and Greensboro. The compiling of a directory is always a task of no mean magnitude, peculiarly susceptible to errors, but we have brought to this work the experience of several years in other and larger cities and have conscientiously endeavored to make the initial guide to Winston, Salem and Greensboro a credit to our many patrons and ourselves, and we trust that upon examination it will be found correct and satisfactory. It is our intention to renew the Directory in 1881, when it will be more extended and varied in its contents, keeping pace with your rapidly growing cities.

Hoping that our first work has been of such a character as to gain for us the confidence of the people, and cause them to retain their patronage for us in 1881, we remain

Your respectfully,

CHAS. EMERSON & CO.

HISTORICAL SKETCHES

SALEM.

IN 1749, the British Parliament passed an act recognizing the Moravian Church, or Unitas Fratrum, as a Protestant Episcopal Church, and attention being drawn to the Moravians as a quiet, sober and religious people, it became desirable to persons owning large tracts of land in the American Colonies and other countries, to induce them to make settlements thereon. Among the many invitations offered, the most acceptable was the one made by Lord Granville, President of the Privy Council, who was the owner of a large tract of land in North Carolina. He offered to Count Zinzendorf, a leading and zealous Moravian, 100,000 acres of land in North Carolina on very reasonable terms. The offer was accepted, and, in 1753, Lord Granville conveyed to Jas. Hutton, of London, Secretary of the Unitas Fratrum, the title of said tract, lying in what was then Rowan county, but which by the successive sub-divisions of that county into other counties, now lies in Forsyth county. The tract was called Wachovia, after a valley in Austria which it somewhat resembled and which was formerly in the possession of the Zinzendorf family.

The first settlement in the Wachovia tract was made in 1753, at Bethabara (or Old Town), about 6 miles from the

*In compiling the history of these towns, we have been greatly aided by copious extracts from the "Centennial Oration, delivered at Salem-Winston, July 4th, 1876, by Robt. L. Gray, Esq., of Raleigh, N. C.," and from "A Guide Book of North-Western North Carolina—a description of the country and its industrial pursuits, L. V. & E. T. Blum, printers, Salem, N. C., 1878."—E. & Co.

subsequently settled town of Salem. The second settlement (in 1759) was at Bethania, about three miles north of Bethabara.

On his last visit to America, in 1760, Count Zinzendorf, under the direction of the General Board of the United Brethren, had recommended the founding of a central settlement, to which he gave the name of Salem. On the 6th of January, 1766, the first tree was felled for the first house in Salem, and on the 19th of February, 1766, four newly arrived immigrants from Europe and four residents of Bethabara occupied the house—a log hut still standing and now used as a part of Mr. Shaffner's potter-shop. On the 20th of February, the place was surveyed and the public square was laid out. In June, 1766, the corner stone was laid for the first family house, and in August the building was completed. The first settlers were Gottfried Praetzel, Niels Peterson, Jens Schmidt, John Birkhead, George Holder, Jacob Steiner, Michael Ziegler, Melchoir Rasp.

In 1768, Fred. W. de Marshall, to whom James Hutton had transferred the legal title to the Wachovia tract, returned from Europe and commenced the administration of the new town. Mr. Marshall was the son of a Saxon army officer and received a strict military education in his youth. He was intended for military or court service, but his inclinations led him to the ministry, especially after he visited Herrnhut and formed the acquaintance of Count Zinzendorf and the Brethren. He was a man of great working capacity and possessed remarkable qualifications for organization, being determined, active, methodical and prompt in thought and action. He may be regarded the real founder of Salem, and the inspiring genius of its success and progress in its earlier days. In 1763, he had been appointed superintendent of all the temporal affairs of the Church in Wachovia, a position requiring the utmost prudence and vigilance, and a place which he occupied until his death in 1802. He came as the Attorney and Agent of James Hutton, of London, the Trustee of the Wachovia Tract, to administer the affairs of the Land Company which had been formed to facilitate the payment of the purchase money and the discharge of the annual rent of the land.

Lord Granville sold the tract of 100,000 acres, not in fee simple but on long lease, receiving a stated annual rent.

Mr. Marshall and his successors sold to purchasers in the same way, reserving a nominal rent. Upon the formation of the Land Company a tract of 500 acres was reserved for the Salem congregation which was subject to the lease system. The Company having paid to Lord Granville a gross sum in lieu of rent and obtained the fee, all the land sold beyond the 500 acres were sold in fee simple also. The title in Marshall's successors was confirmed after the Revolution by special act of the Legislature of North Carolina. There have been no leases created in Salem for about twenty-five years and the number of those in existence is being rapidly diminished as property changes hands by death or sales.

In earlier days all property was held by and business conducted under the supervision of a Church Board, and through agents appointed by it. The Church was the capitalist, and the hotel, store, tannery, or other business, was subject to its control. The agents received salaries and a certain per centage of profits, the surplus going into the Church fund to be applied to Church purposes, just as the profits of the Academy and Land Office are applied at present. The "Economy," a system something similar to that of the modern Commune, was never in vogue in Salem. In Herrnhut, Bethlehem and Bethabara it was in vogue for a time, but it was never observed in Salem. The monopoly system, by which all were restrained from following certain occupations except by permission of the Church authorities, was in vogue until 1849.

Prior to about 1850 no persons were allowed to reside in Salem, at least to hold property by lease or otherwise, except members of the Church. The first exceptions made were in favor of Thos. J. Wilson and Henry A. Lemly. In the case of the former, the Church Board, when it sold the tract of 51 acres to the county of Forsyth for a county seat, required that the lot held by Mr. Wilson under a lease, should be sold to him at a moderate price.

The municipal government of the town was also under the control of the Church, and remained so until 1857, when a disestablishment took place, and regular civil authority was established, and the management of the town affairs passed into the control of a Mayor and Board of Commissioners.

In 1770 the beautiful burial ground was cleared and enclosed. The same order and system which characterize all the undertakings of the Church and town were observed in the arrangement of the Cemetery, and have been adhered to through the long intervening years. Separate lots, or sections, were arranged for the burial of the different classes composing the congregation, one half of the acre, or lot, being devoted as a resting place for the female members and all the other for the male members of the congregation. These are subdivided into lots or sections for the burial of married and single brethren and sisters, and of children, according to sex and age.

In 1771 the Congregation, or Gemein House, was finished and consecrated, and remained until 1854, when it was removed to give place to the new Academy Building, which adorns the town. This was followed in slow succession, as appears to us in this generation, when towns are built in a fortnight and cities spring like magic from the plain, by family houses and buildings for the use of artisans plying the occupations so necessary and useful to a newly settled colony in a new and thinly settled country. The houses, built in the honest days were substantial and strong; many of them remain this day, while others have given place to the ravages of time and the greater and more urgent needs of the growing congregation and community.

During the Revolutionary War, Salem was visited frequently by detachments and scouting parties from both armies, and the main British army under Cornwallis passed through the settlement, taking provisions, cattle and horses, but not wantonly destroying any property.

In 1784 Governor Martin and 63 members of the Legislature spent several weeks in Salem for the purpose of holding their session, but did not obtain a quorum.

In May, 1791, Salem was visited by Gen. George Washington, first President of the United States, then on his way to visit Governor Martin, who lived in that county. He was entertained at the town tavern, now the Salem Hotel, and kindly and courteously received the large number of visitors who paid their respects to the distinguished soldier and statesman. The room he occupied is immediately above the office of the hotel, and is often exhibited to visitors by the kind and venerable gentleman who now dispenses the hospitality of the place. Tradition says that the large beam which spans the ceiling of the public room was placed there to support the floor of the room above, when thronged with the crowding guests of the President. President Washington was presented with a courteous and patriotic address in behalf of the people of Wachovia, and responded to the same in fitting terms, truly saying that "from a society whose governing principles are industry and the love of order, much may be expected towards the improvement of the country in which their settlements are formed, and experience authorizes the belief that much will be obtained."

In 1791 was built the old paper-mill, the first in the State, which was enlarged and supplied with new machinery from time to time, until January, 1873, when it was destroyed by fire, being owned at the time by Robert Gray, of Winston.

In 1798 the corner-stone of the present Church building was laid, and in 1800 the house was completed and consecrated to divine worship.

In 1803, the authorities, responding to the urgent requests of strangers who had observed the attention which the Moravians paid to the education of their children, and who desired that their own children should enjoy the benefit of the same excellent training, determined to establish a boarding school for girls, and in the same year the Academy was opened for the reception of scholars. Steadily since that time the school has increased in usefulness and reputation, noted throughout the Southern States for the thoroughness of the mental and moral training it affords, the excellency of the discipline it employs, and the comforts and conveniences which the boarding department ensures. It has never succumbed to the causes which produce failure in other institutions, but in the midst of wars and panics it has been liberally patronized by eager parents and guardians in every State of the South. Wherever one may go, in the South, he will find the representatives of this Academy, venerable and respected matrons and blooming maids, adorning society by means of the mental accomplishments and the graces and virtues of Christian character which they obtained at this school. Salem, in all its admiable history, can boast of no more fortunate event than the founding of the Female Academy.

There is only one church (the Moravian) in Salem. Its articles of faith are governed principally by those of the "Augsburg Confession." Baptism is administered by pouring. The Liturgical services are similar to those of the Episcopal Church.

The usages of German European society were observed for many years; but these customs have gradually become Americanized, although many of them yet linger among the Moravians.

Among the peculiar institutions of the early days was a single Brethren's house, where unmarried men of all ages could find a cheap boarding and lodging place, under the supervision of an inspector. The inmates dined in a large dining-hall (refectory) and lodged in spacious dormitories on the upper floors or attic of the building. The large living rooms were occupied by several Brethren, while the smaller rooms were rented to individuals. The rules of the house were enforced by the inspector, while the cook was lord of the kitchen, and it was always best to keep on the best of terms with him. The prices paid for these accommodations were very low, and intended only to pay current expenses, keep up repairs, &c. The living rooms were plainly furnished by the renters, and unnecessary show was always discountenanced, if not actually forbidden. This Brethren's house has long since been discontinued, and is now occupied as a Widow's house, where widowed members of the Church find a comfortable asylum at moderate rentals.

The single Sisters' house, an asylum for single sisters, is yet in successful operation.

These two buildings (Widows' and Sisters' house), with the Church, Academy, Boys' School and several large residences, grouped about the Public Square, give this part of Salem something of the appearance of an old German town. Indeed, all the surroundings of the town remind one very forcibly of Continental Europe, environed, as it is, by beautiful rolling woodlands and fine meadows, through which meander limpid streamlets, all affluent of the Middle Fork of the Muddy Creek, which flows at the lower end of the town. The elevation of Main street is about 1,000 feet above the sea, giving to the town a salubrious atmosphere and most excellent water.

Among the peculiar customs of the good old times is a night watchman, who originally intoned or sang, in the German language, the time of night, and announcing that all was well. Now, the conch-shell is used and time indicated in the following manner: 10 o'clock, one long tone; 11 o'clock, two long tones; 12 o'clock, three long tones. After 1 o'clock, one short note; at 2 o'clock, two short notes, &c., &c. The watchman retires about 4 o'clock A. M., or remains on his beat without noting the passing hours.

The town has an excellent system of water-works, established in 1778, but enlarged and perfected in 1878.

In 1837 the "Salem Cotton Factory" was built by a stock company, by whom it was operated for several years. It was then sold to private parties and has frequently changed owners. In 1876 it was purchased by Messrs. F. & H. Fries and fitted up as a steam flouring mill.

The chief enterprise of the town consists of the large cotton and woollen factories of F. & H. Fries, established by the late Francis Fries in 1840, and from time to time enlarged, until now they are, perhaps, the most extensive manufactories in the State.

The Salem Agricultural Works, C. A. Hege Proprietor, established a few years since, is the most extensive establishment of its kind in Western North Carolina, and does a large and increasing business.

The Salem Printing Office was established by John C. Blum in November, 1827. January 6th, 1829, the Weekly Gleaner, a family newspaper, appeared. In 1830 the paper was enlarged under the name of Farmers' Reporter and Weekly Chronicle, and published five years. In 1841 the Carolina Gazette was published, and continued for two years, followed in 1851 by The People's Press, which has been published over twenty-five years. The well known and popular Farmer's and Planter's Almanac was commenced in 1828, and has been published uninterruptedly by the same family for half a century. It has the largest circulation of any publication in the State.

WINSTON.

Adjoining Salem and separated from it by a street, is the town of Winston, the county seat of Forsyth.

After the division of the county of Stokes in 1848, and the erection of Forsyth county, a spot was selected for the county seat about one mile from the centre of Salem. The locality known as "Double Branches," near the County Pauper House, being nearly the centre of the county, was thought by some to be a proper place for the location of the seat of justice. It was, however, located as before stated, and was known as Salem. For some reason, most probably because of the lease system in vogue in Salem, as well as the system of monopoly in trade, which was not abolished until 1850, dissatisfaction arose in the county and a movement began for a change of name, which excited so much interest that it became the leading issue in the political canvass by the candidates for the Legislature in 1850. Those opposed to the change of name nominated a fusion ticket of two Whigs and two Democrats, those in favor of the change nominating four Democrats. The latter were elected, and the Legislature of 1851 declared that "the county town of Forsyth shall be styled and known as Winston, in honor of the hero of King's Mountain." Upon the selection of the spot for the county seat the Church Board sold 51 acres of land to the county of Forsyth at $5 per acre. This tract was divided into lots which were sold at auction, and from the proceeds of the sales the court house, jail and poor house were built, and the county started on its morning march, out of debt and full of hope for the future.

The court house and jail were planned by and built under the supervision of Mr. Francis Fries, in 1850. The first house built in what is now Winston was the present residence of Judge T. J. Wilson, though the town had not then been laid off. The first residence built in Winston, after its establishment, was that of the late Mr. Jesse Kennedy. The first settlers were T. J. Wilson, Harmon Miller, Jesse Kennedy, Robert Gray, Peter A. Wilson, Henry A. Holder, Francis L. Gorrell, John P. Vest and David Cook. Mr. Harmon Miller opened the first store in a little building which until recently occupied the site whereon now stands the Norwood Building.

The new town improved slowly; its trade was chiefly barter, though some of the merchants sold large quantities of dry goods, groceries, etc., to country merchants from the upper counties, at wholesale. In 1854 a plank road was completed to Winston from Fayetteville, to which latter town this Northwestern section of the State had long been tributary in the way of trade. After the completion of the North Carolina Railroad, the nearest depot for Winston was High Point, 18 miles distant, and between these places ran a daily stage.

In 1870 the population of Winston was only 470. In 1873 the Northwestern North Carolina Railroad was completed from Greensboro to Winston, distance 29 miles, thus furnishing the town with quicker communication with the busy world and increasing facilities of travel and freight transportation. The railroad was chartered by the State Convention of 1868. The citizens of Salem and Winston subscribed $30,000, Forsyth county $100,000 by a vote of the people, and Greensboro $20,000. The State appropriated $10,000 per mile for the road; the bonds were never sold, but returned to the State Treasury by order of the Legislature. Mr. H. W. Fries, of Salem, was the first President, and Mr. E. Belo his successor. Under his supervision, and by the assistance of the Richmond & Danville Railroad, the road was completed in July, 1873.

THE TOBACCO MARKET.

Previous to 1872, there was but little encouragement given to the people of Forsyth and adjoining counties for the cultivation of tobacco, to which the soil is especially adapted. The nearest market was Danville, Va., and the planters were compelled either to carry their tobacco by wagons to that market or sell to small manufacturers and speculators at prices which the latter might dictate. In 1872, Bob Moseley, at present the well known auctioneer of Brown's warehouse, and Tom Jones, both of Danville, located in Winston as their headquarters and established a small market for leaf tobacco, which they bought for shipment to Danville. In the same year Maj. T. J. Brown removed to Winston from Davie county and conceived the idea of establishing a warehouse for the sale of leaf tobacco. He entered cautiously upon the enterprise, leasing what had formerly been a hotel stable and arranging it for his purpose. At the first sale a few planters patronized the warehouse, and good prices being obtained for their tobacco, encouragement was given to others in the county. Buyers from Danville began to locate in Winston and the success of Maj.

Brown's enterprise was soon felt to be assured. During that season about 250,000 pounds of leaf tobacco were sold. A stimulus thus being given to the cultivation of tobacco by the competition of buyers on the market, Maj. Brown and others recognized the fact that the crop for the succeeding year would be much larger and his small warehouse would not be commodious enough to accommodate the planters. Accordingly a stock company was formed, with Mr. P. A. Wilson as President, and a large warehouse was built east of the court house. This, known as "Brown's Warehouse," and under the proprietorship of Maj. Brown and W. B. Carter, Esq., has been at different times enlarged, so that it is now one of the largest and best arranged warehouses in the South.

On the 18th of February, 1873, another warehouse was built by Dr. W. A. Lash; having a large capacity, and is now under the popular management of Cabell Hairston.

The Piedmont warehouse was also opened in 1873, under the management of Maj. Ham Scales and S. M. Hobson, who did a successful business. This house is probably the best lighted house in the place, and its accommodations are equal in every respect to either of the other two houses and enjoys a deserved and increased popularity second to no house in the State. Norfleet & Vaughn are its present proprietors.

In 1878, the sales of tobacco in the various warehouses amounted to about 8,000,000 pounds. In 1872 there was one tobacco factory, of limited capacity, operated by Major Ham Scales. Now there are sixteen factories of large capacity, some of them employing one hundred and fifty hands each. These manufacture all grades of chewing and smoking tobacco, which find a ready sale in this and other States.

Manufacturers in Richmond, Danville, Baltimore, New York, St. Louis and Canada have representatives on the Winston market, and these, together with the buyers for the home factories and a horde of buyers for speculation, render competition strong and insure the best prices for the products of the tobacco plantations of Forsythe, Davie, Davidson, Yadkin, Surry, Stokes, Rockingham and one or two border counties of Virginia. The tobacco is of a fine quality; much attention is paid to its cultivation and proper "curing;"

the soil of the counties named is highly suited to the staple; the farmers are prosperous and out of debt; and the possibilities of Winston as a tobacco market have not yet been half touched.

THE PROGRESS OF THE TOWN.

Upon the establishment of the tobacco market and the completion of the railroad from Greensboro in 1873, Winston began to thrive and enlarge its boundaries. The resident contractors and builders and those who flocked to the growing town, have been busy since that time erecting stores, factories and residences. New streets have been opened, and where six years ago were fields and forests, are now populous and busy streets. Then, a man standing at the court house could easily throw a stone to unoccupied woods, east or west; now the town extends a mile or more, east and west. The value of real estate has increased from one hundred to five hundred per cent. The buildings erected have not been flimsy, temporary structures, but substantial and permanent, and in many instances of marked elegance.

There are three large and commodious hotels operated by gentlemen who understand how to make their guests comfortable and pleasant—and what is more, succeed in doing so.

There are large wholesale and retail business houses, for the sale of all kinds of merchandise. The merchants are prosperous and prudent, and have an excellent standing in commercial circles. It might be expected that in a town of such rapid growth there would be reckless adventurers in trade and numerous failures in business; but it is a fact worthy of note, that there have been but two or three (and those insignificant) failures since 1873.

There are six churches in Winston—the Methodist, Methodist Protestant, Presbyterian, Baptist and Episcopal; two male academies and several smaller schools.

There are two National Banks—the First National, capital $100,000, and the Wachovia National, capital $150,000.

Winston has four newspapers. The Winston Sentinel, published by G. M. Mathes, Esq., and edited by him and Mr. Darlington; the Winston Republican, edited and published by J. W. Goslin, Esq.; the Winston Leader, edited and published by J. A. Robinson, Esq., and the Church Messen- ger, published by G. M. Mathes, Esq., and edited by Rev. W. S. Bynum.

There are many other enterprises which we might mention, if we had sufficient space, to show forth the wonderful growth and commercial importance of Winston. Suffice it to say, that the town now has a population of 3,500 and is continually growing. There is nothing of the "mushroom" element in the town—its growth and prosperity are substantial and lasting, and it must, in the nature of things, continue to grow and become the most important inland town in the State. It is the natural outlet for the products of a large semi-circle of counties in Northwestern North Carolina, rich in all the cereals, tobacco, fruit and metals. It has reached that point, too, of commercial importance which renders it almost independent of any attempts that may be made by other towns and sections to impede its progress by diverting trade from it.

A railroad is projected and will doubtless be built from Mooresville, a point on the A. T. & O. Railroad in Iredell county, through Davie and Yadkin county to Winston; and the town recently voted a subscription of $20,000 to the Mount Airy branch of the Cape Fear and Yadkin Valley Railroad.

We close our sketch of the towns of Salem and Winston by adverting to the facts that the climate is highly salubrious and healthy, and the people are industrious, honest, economical, intelligent and refined. The sale of spirituous liquors has long been strictly forbidden, and the salutary effect of such a policy is seen and felt in the high moral tone of the community.

THE WINSTON LEADER

Is Published Every Tuesday in WINSTON, N. C.

J. A. ROBINSON, Editor and Proprietor.

The Leader

Is Democratic in Principle--Independent in Everything-- Neutral in Nothing--Opposed to All Monopolies and Corrupt Rings in Municipal, State and National Affairs.

—IT WILL CONTAIN—

*THE NEWS OF THE DAY, Summarized with Brevity ;
CORRESPONDENCE from all points of interest ;
TOBACCO and COMMERCIAL REPORTS.*

It will Aim to be a Live Paper.

It demands economy and fidelity in every department of authority, and will fearlessly arraign those who abuse public trust, without stopping to inquire what political party is to answer for having clothed them with unmerited honors. It discusses public issues, public events and public men with that measure of freedom that is dictated by truth, but with that dignity and courtesy which should ever characterize the enlightened nation of the world. It relies solely upon its merits as a complete and fearless newspaper for its success. It has abiding faith that the people of this and the surrounding country will yield a liberal and generous support to an out-spoken, fearless journal, that gives the fullest and freshest news, at the lowest possible cost.

Terms of Subscription : One copy, one year, $1.50; six months, $1; 3 mos. 50 Cts.

Works at Waughtown.

Established in 1860.
BY W. E. SPACH.

I am better prepared for making Wagons than ever before, having a much larger and better stock of air-seasoned lumber, and the best Wagon Mechanics to be procured. I employ no more apprentices, and will endeavor to make my work my best advertisement, and guarantee satisfaction. All who use wagons must not forget first-class work costs and is worth more than cheap work. All work done by me, (being a practical workman, and working at the bench myself,) I can warrant to be well made.

The Biblical Recorder

(ESTABLISHED 1832.)

REV. C. T. BAILEY, EDITOR.

REV. T. H. PRITCHARD, D. D., ASSOCIATE EDITOR.

The BIBLICAL RECORDER, as the Organ of the Baptists of North Carolina, has for the last forty-three years ably and faithfully "contended for the faith once delivered to the saints" and accomplished a great work for us as a people. Under God it has been one of the most powerful instrumentalities in defending His truth and advancing the spiritual and temporal interests of His people. It is still a necessity, and with renewed vigor it is ready to enter every opened door to carry the glad tidings of the Gospel and do service for The Master. "Grounded in the truth," not carried away with new and strange doctrines, it is in the opinion of thousands of the wisest Baptists of the South, the best representative of Baptist faith and practice and among the ablest defenders of our denominational interests. It is a duty every Baptist family owes to its members that this paper should be regularly read by them. It will point your children to Christ. It will teach them the grand distinguishing principles of the Baptists. It will teach them to love and defend the religion of their fathers and of the New Testament. It will prepare you for the changes that are to come over us as a denomination and enable you to meet and defend your faith against the new forms of error and the new isms that some are attempting to bring in. Every Baptist family needs the RECORDER and should make some sacrifice to secure it. To its influence we owe the existence and prosperity of our College and the Baptist State Convention. More than ever before it is needed in sustaining these institutions and for the defence of our principles in the State. You need it Do you take it? Send for it Get your brethren to do so
