HUGH MORSON HIGH SCHOOL

Class of 1955

50th Year Reunion
June 11, 2005

Here's to Hugh Morson High School,

Here's to our High School days;

Sing out the good old songs, boys,

Ring out the good old "yeahs".

Here's to our comrades, all boys,

Loyal we'll be always;

Here's to Hugh Morson High School,

Here's to our high school days.

A BRIEF HISTORY OF HUGH MORSON HIGH SCHOOL

Although it is demolished and gone, Hugh Morson High School will remain in the memory of all who ever attended it. From 1905-1908, Raleigh's first public high school was located at the end of Fayetteville Street where Memorial Auditorium is now located. In the fall of 1908, it was moved to a new home on Morgan Street, just next to Raleigh's First Presbyterian Church.

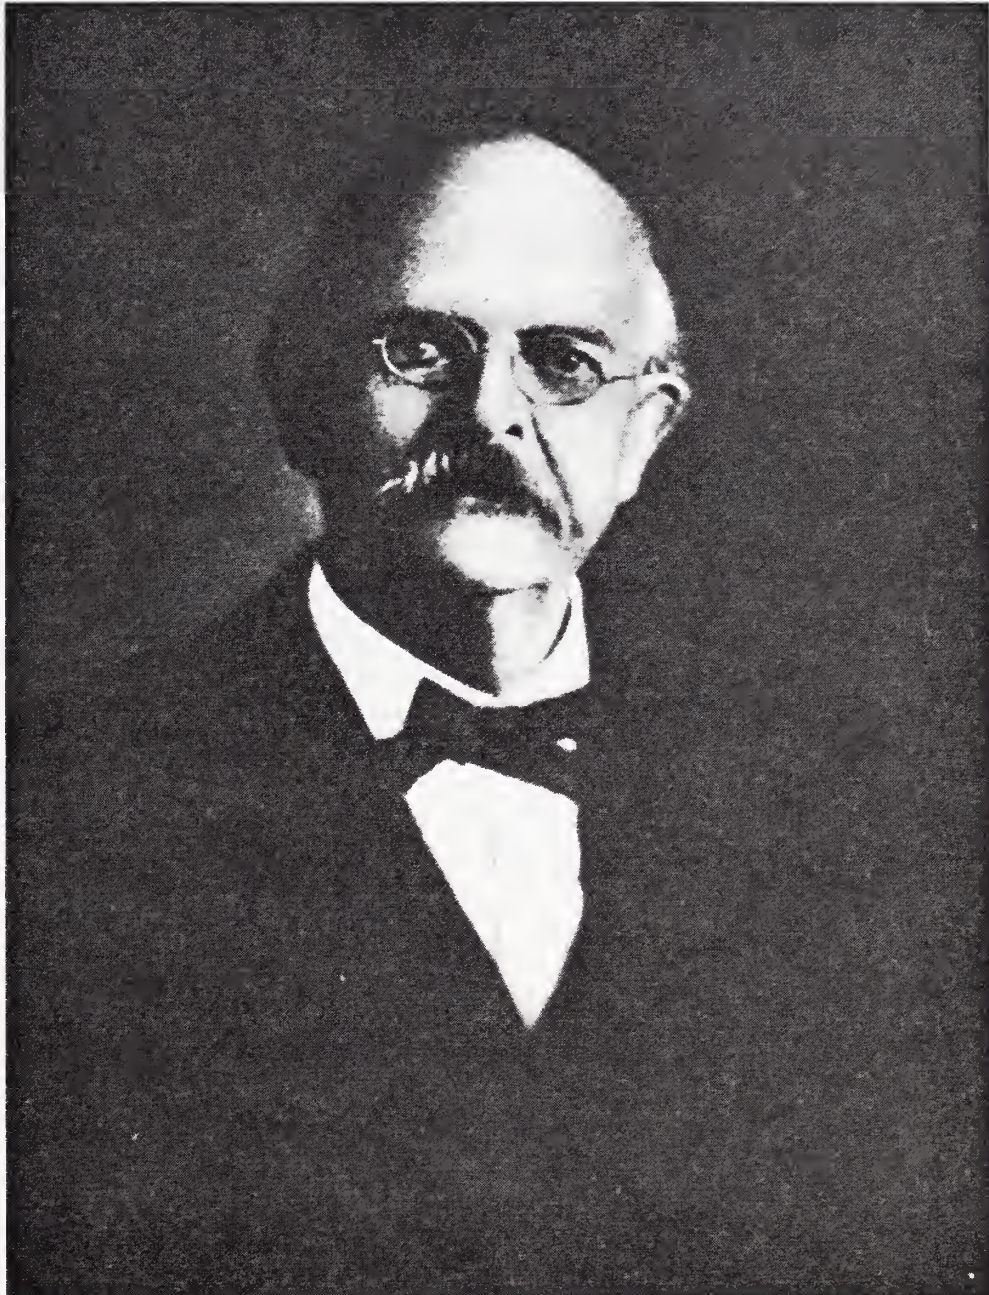

In the Fall of 1925, Hugh Morson High School came into being. It was constructed on a city block, bounded by Hargett, Person, Bloodworth and Morgan Streets. The first class was graduated in 1926, and Hugh Morson High School continued in operation for thirty years.

Back in the early twenties, choosing a name for a new high school was not difficult. Mr. Hugh Morson, a scholar and school master of great repute, had been principal of the Old Raleigh High School for fifteen years. Although he was never principal of his namesake, he was well known by many of the early graduates.

A memorial of the school is located in the second block of New Bern Avenue at Morgan Street, erected in remembrance of the school by former students.

The last senior class to graduate from this beloved school was the Hugh Morson High School Senior Class of 1955.

Mr. Hugh Morson

HUGH MORSON HIGH SCHOOL CLASS OF 1955

2005 MESSAGE (50TH Year Reunion)

“REMEMBERING THE FIFTIES”

It is said that the Fifties was an era of conformity, prosperity and rock ‘n’ roll.

The family was the pure essence of domestic bliss: Father was the breadwinner and Mother was the homemaker. Young girls played with Barbie dolls, while little boys wore coonskin caps. $300 million worth of coonskin caps and Davey Crockett accessories were sold between 1954 and 1955.

Teenagers were breaking out of the conventional molds of their parents, embracing their own style of music and fashion. They learned the hop from “American Bandstand,” rocked around the clock with Bill Haley and melted to Elvis Presley. Film stars James Dean and Marilyn Monroe – the seductive rebel and the blonde bombshell – burned up the big screen, and, together with Elvis, became enduring pop icons.

The fifties began less than a decade after the end of World War II, and the death of President Franklin D. Roosevelt. We lived in a state of Cold War tensions between the United States and the Soviet Union. The Korean conflict to contain the spread of Communism was over in 1953, but the U.S. was still feeling its effects and remained fully prepared for any thing that might happen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, a hero of WW II, became our 34th President of the U.S. in 1953.

The early fifties were formative years of the “Civil Rights Movement.” Rosa Parks refused to give up her seat on an Alabama bus, and the Supreme Court declared racial segregation a violation of the 14th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution.

The fifties brought many firsts:

- Jet planes were first used for commercial travel.
- Coca Cola Co. used “Coke” for the first time.
- Johnson and Johnson invented the first baby shampoo, “No More Tears.”
- The first fluoride toothpaste was introduced.
- McDonald’s 15 cent hamburgers were introduced.
- Disneyland, in California, opened.
- A large scale vaccination program of the Salk Polio Vaccine was begun.
- The patent for Velcro was granted.
- The game, Scrabble, was introduced to the game market.
- The Ford Thunderbird was introduced.

The New York Yankees held the World Series championship for six of the ten years of the 1950's. Car racing became more respected, and as we all know, has become a very popular sport with the largest attendance than any other single sporting event in the world. Raleigh had the first lighted speedway in the U.S., but it soon closed because the City would not allow racing on Sunday.

Some interesting facts pertaining to family budgets in 1955 include:

- The median family income was $4,418,
- The minimum wage was $.75 per hour,
- The average home cost was $17,500,
- The average car sold for around $2,000,
- Gasoline was $.29 per gallon,
- A loaf of bread was $.18, and
- A postage stamp was $.03.

It was the golden age of sci-fi, hi-fi, and the space race. Computers were born, but no one – including the chairman of IBM – expected them to take off.

There was a baby boom, a housing boom and a new, self-assured society of mass consumers ready to snap up the latest in washing machines, vacuum cleaners and blenders, paying for it all with shiny new credit cards.

Perhaps nothing sculpted daily life more than that new fangled invention, the television, which introduced a daydream world through “Leave It To Beaver,” “Dragnet,” “Lassie” and more than 120 different TV westerns. Lucy became a beloved member of the family, as the entire household drew together around the new American hearth, often with TV dinner trays on their laps.

Cars – long, luxurious, gas-guzzling machines with tail fins and dazzling chrome – were symbols of success and style. Families took driving holidays to newly developing theme parks, and teens cruised to drive-in movies, drive-in grills, and then to who knows where?

Parents worried about their children “going steady” amid the stirrings of a sexual revolution, with rock ‘n’ roll and Playboy magazine fuelling an already smoldering fire.

Still, this was a time much simpler, more relaxed, and more refined than the world we live in today.

Remember when we didn't have television and frozen foods? Remember when we didn't have credit cards, pantyhose, dishwashers, clothes dryers, electric blankets, air conditioners, drip-dry clothes and before man walked on the moon?

Remember the time before computer dating, dual careers, commuter marriages, day-care centers and group therapy. Do you remember when we got married first and then lived together? We were probably the last generation that thought that a man and woman should be married to have a baby.

All of these remembrances warm our hearts and certainly make us feel nostalgic, but on the occasion of celebration of our 50th year reunion our best memories start in September of 1950 when a group of fresh-faced young 13-year olds came together from various schools including Barbee, Boylan Heights, Murphy, Poole and Thompson to become the sub-freshman class of Hugh Morson High School. We were the youngest swans on the Hugh Morson lake, but we were destined for "Swan Song" distinction.

The next year as freshmen, we felt that we knew our way around.

As sophomores in our third year on "the lake", we realized that we must work hard in preparation for the next two – the hardest of all.

We shall never forget how toilsome, but yet how successful our fourth year was. We selected "Ebb Tide" as the theme for our Junior-Senior dance and pleased the seniors very much with our seashore backdrop, giant clam shell and Neptune's crown. We finished that year pleased and satisfied with the thought that next year we would be adult swans, as our new class rings indicated.

Finally came our fifth year and we were senior swans at last. That year was even more delightful and successful than we had dared to dream. We worked all through the year for our beloved lake, Hugh Morson, because we were told that this year was to be its last year as a high school for young swans like us. In the fall, we selected "Cheaper By The Dozen" as our senior play and made it a great success. The juniors worked hard and gave us a beautiful Junior-Senior dance in the spring.

Soon the tasks came of selecting invitations and calling cards; then, the pride of ordering our caps and gowns. The first of graduation activities was senior assembly; next was class night; then came baccalaureate and finally commencement.

In that year of 1955, when we the last senior class left Hugh Morson High School, the population of Raleigh was around 57,000 instead of the current population of over 322,000; while the Wake County population exceeds 627,000. There were three high schools and 14 elementary schools, while today there are 114,000 students attending 17 high schools and 112 elementary and middle schools.

Things have changed, and so have we, but the class of 1955 is still alive, and we cherish our memories.

Remember when Raleigh had one cafeteria – the S&W, one Chinese restaurant – the Canton, and one Italian restaurant – Ginos?

Remember the Fayetteville Street main shopping area with department stores like Efirds, Boylan-Pearce, Taylor's, Charles Store and Hudson-Belk; Walgreen drug store; Jolly's and Johnson's jewelers; Royster's candy store; Briggs Hardware; Stephenson's and Theims music store, hotels like the Sir Walter, Carolina, Andrew Johnson, Mansion Park and Park Central; and theaters like the Palace, Wake, Capitol, State and Ambassador? All of these are gone. Even the Village Theater built in Cameron Village is gone.

Remember and cherish your memories of...

Football games at Devereax Meadow and Riddick Stadium
Homecoming Parades
Cheerleaders and Pep Rallies
Open houses after the games
Friday nights at Brooks
The YWCA Youth Center
Dancing at lunch time on Fridays
That good cafeteria food
"Pickle Willie"
The Junior-Senior Prom
Beach trips after major dances
Ms. Shore and cutting up that frog
Mrs. Wood's music classes
Shop classes for the boys and Home Economics for the girls
"Dreamtime" and "Our Best to You" on the radio
Warlicks and Eckerds after school
Forest and Tower drive-in theaters
Johnny's Drive-In Grill (Front and Back)
Snowball fights at Capital Square, and the day they let us out of school because of Hurricane Hazel.

All of us will remember some of our favorite recording stars of the fifties: Nat "King" Cole, Doris Day, Eddie Fisher, Joni James, Kitty Kallen, Patti Page, Johnny Ray, Kay Starr, Jerry Vale, Roy Hamilton, Fats Domino, Little Richard, Chuck Berry and, of course, Elvis Presley. How about the groups such as the Drifters, the Coasters and the Platters?

Whether your fondest memories are in the area of music of our day, sports, dances, the city, or the everyday things that happened in those good old high school days of the fifties, we hope this has helped you to rekindle the things that are dearest to you.

Time draws us each apart,
But memories linger, and
In our hearts and minds
We think of times gone by---
Carefree times,
Times of youth and joy,
Happy Days.
