The L.L.D. degree was conferred on him by Davidson College in 1932, and by Duke University and by the University of North Carolina in 1938.

In January 1945, Clyde Hoey became a United States Senator, a post he served with distinction until his death, at his desk in Washington, D.C., on May 12, 1954. He was buried in Sunset Cemetery in Shelby, North Carolina.

He was married to Bess Gardner, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. O.P. Gardner of Shelby, N.C. on March 22, 1900. They had three children: Clyde R., Jr., Charles A., and Isabel Y. Hoey. On their thirty-seventh wedding anniversary, which they could not celebrate as usual because the Legislature was in session, Governor Hoey stood in the House of Representatives and said: "Thirty-seven years ago tonight I was married. Whatever I have gained I owe to my wife. She means more to me than the Governorship of North Carolina." Mrs. Hoey died on February 13, 1942.

Clyde Hoey was a tall, white-haired, distinguished looking man. He habitually wore English walking coats with a vest, striped trousers, a high collar, a red tie, and always a fresh red rose or carnation in his lapel. He was often described as "the silver-tongued orator." He usually spoke without notes, but would have in mind what he wanted to say, would look at those before him for inspiration, and then would let the words pour forth in melodious prose.

Although a busy and important man, he took time to know his grandchildren. When they were small, he enjoyed having them sit on his lap and play with his pocket watch. As they grew older, he often wrote them notes in his scrawling handwriting, congratulating them on some achievement, offering encouragement, or just keeping in contact.

For more than fifty years he taught in Sunday School — the Men's Bible Class at Central Methodist Church in Shelby, N.C., and, while he was Governor, at Edenton Street Methodist Church in Raleigh, N.C. His deep abiding faith in God radiated through his whole being. This was shown in his day-by-day living, which made him loved, and marked him as great. He has been one who truly lived on after death, as through the years he continues to be quoted and reference is made to his beliefs and actions.

Sources: Newspaper articles, personal knowledge, family records.

— Mrs. Clyde R. Hoey, Jr.

DELLE WILSON HARRISON HOEY

597

Delle Hoey was fortunate to be the treasured daughter of three fathers. She was born August 17, 1895, to James Edgar Wilson and Delle Gibson Wilson at Hickory Hill, the beautifully preserved homeplace in Thomson, Georgia.

The local paper reported Delle Gibson Wilson's death twenty-one days later.

Delle's father, called "Big Papa" by her older sisters (Miriam, Marie, Maud, and Laurie) and brother (James Edgar, Jr.), reluctantly gave the new baby to his sister, Mattie Wilson Harrison to rear in North Augusta, South Carolina, forty miles away. Thus entered loving father number two.

Upon Mr. Harrison's death, Mattie married Dr. Charlie Churchill. Not legally but because she loved each father, Delle attached Harrison Churchill to her name.

Graduating from high school, she entered Brenau College at age fifteen to study voice and piano. Her musical talent was recognized by the famed Billy Rose. Mr. Rose heard Delle informally entertaining aboard a ship from for others and her infectious laughter and merriment were adored by all. In her long fight for life after being slowed by heart failure she remained gay and she loved and laughed with the last of her strength.

U.S. Senator Clyde Roark Hoey.

"We express sympathy to the family she loved and who shared her with her many friends . . . she was indeed "our Delle" . . . and her memory will be cherished during many lifetimes.

"We are reminded of these lines we read recently: 'All music into silence goes; To dust departs the regal rose.' Delle Hoey in her way was a symbol of both."

Delle was Regent of the Benjamin Cleveland Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution, President of the Junior Charity League, member of the South Washington Bridge Club, the Ishpenning Club, North Lake and Cleveland Springs Country Clubs. Her lineage to Col. Ninian Beall (Scotland, 1625) was established by me through the Colonial Dames after her death.

Delle and Frank had three grandchildren fathered by Leon Sloan Bradshaw of Salisbury, North Carolina: Eleanor Churchill (Mrs. Christopher Simon Thompson), Christopher Sloan, and Ashley Alexander Bradshaw.

Great-grandchildren are Douglas O'Brien Thompson, Courtney Delle Thompson, Brandon Hoey Thompson and Stuart Sloan Bradshaw.

— Eleanor Hoey Bradshaw

DORA BELLE HENKEL HOEY

598

Dora Belle Henkel Hoey (October 7, 1876—March 13, 1968) was educated in the city schools and at Claremont College in her home town of Hickory, North Carolina.

The artistically talented and beautiful daughter of Cicero Vance and Eleanor Little Henkel, Dora was courted by young Samuel Ernest Hoey, locally employed printer, who first saw her on the train and vowed inwardly to marry her.

The marriage took place May 18, 1893, in Newton, North Carolina, in the presence of a "Hotel full of people at the Summerow House at four o'clock, by Squire Brown," according to the Hoey Family Bible.

Present were Dora Belle's sister, Candace, and brothers, Columbus Vance, Thomas, and LaFayette Phaeton, whose histories are recorded in the Iredell County History Book.

Dora Hoey's German Lutheran background combined with the Irish/Protestant Hoey heritage produced their first son, Franklin Ernest, born in Hickory. Other children born in Shelby were: Cicero Alberto, Samuel Joe (who died in infancy), Flay Henkel, Wade William, Ralph Reece and Virginia Belle.

Two grandchildren born to this union were Cicero's Ruth (Mrs. Robert Lautz) and Franklin, her younger brother.

I, being the only Shelby born and reared grandchild, cherish memories of light, hot homemade rolls, candied sweet potatoes, tender scraped steak patties cooked on top of a wood stove, and fried apple turnovers, specialties by Mama for my lunch food at Marion

When I was ten the family moved to "Seven Gables," Cleveland Springs. Mother and Franklin Gordon, Charlotte architect who admired Elizabethan English architecture, collaborated to design the home. For thirty-four years, until her death August 14, 1963, Mama Delle, as the grandchildren called her, was the gracious hostess, offering warm hospitality to loved ones and strangers.

"She was 'Our Delle,'" wrote Grace Rutledge Hamrick. "Delle Hoey never vied for anybody's hall of fame nor sought any personal recognition . . . yet she found her way into the hearts of Shelbians and Clevelanders and remained there in vivacious friendship that grew and flowered.

"Delle gave meaning and grace to life . . . she was genuine in her eagerness and concern

Savannah to New York and invited her to his studio for an audition. However her talents were destined to be enjoyed by family, friends, and the children of the First Baptist Church, Shelby, to which she would become devoted.

A visit to the Schenck and Lattimore families in Shelby, North Carolina, fostered a romance between Delle and Franklin Ernest Hoey. On December 6, 1916, the anniversary of Delle Gibson's birth, Mattie Churchill gave her daughter in marriage to the handsome gentleman who had come courting.

"Delcourt", South Washington Street, was the home where their only child, I, was born, April 23, 1919. The "flu" epidemic endangered my life and Mother's but Dr. William Mitchell, Miss Nora Belle Alexander, nurse, and Mrs. I.C. Griffin saved us.

Street Elementary School. The school, half-way between the Hoey home and the Court Square, was convenient for Uncle Ralph to stop by to show off the latest model Austin or introduce me to a newly-bought pony that would be stabled in the South Washington Street back yard of "Delcourt".

Pastor Dwight D. Mullis, pastor of the Central Methodist Church, in his tribute to my grandmother said "... she was a woman who combined in her life gentleness with strength."

"She was so kind and considerate that she never raised her voice to anyone. She had a reverence for all life."

"She was one of the most unselfish persons our community has ever known, and during her last illness of some eleven weeks in the hospital, she was always concerned about the comfort and welfare of her nurses and helpers."

"But more than this, Mrs. Hoey was a woman strong in faith. As long as she was able she was faithful to attend church and served ably in many ways. She kept her Bible and Christian literature close at hand, and used it daily. Prayer was as natural to her as breathing."

— Eleanor Hoey Bradshaw

Dora Belle Henkel Hoey, 1876-1968.

FLAY HENKEL HOEY

599

The fourth son of Samuel Ernest and Dora Henkel Hoey Flay, was a lifelong resident of Shelby, born July 21, 1900.

A graduate of Shelby High School and North Carolina State College at Raleigh, Flay was agent for Pyramid Life Insurance Company most of his adult life. His second loyalty was to his brother Frank's Cleveland Drug Company. The two of them with their cigars were a familiar sight at the drug store gatherings.

He was a member of the Central Methodist Church, the Hoey Bible Class, the Shelby Elks Lodge, and the Cleveland Country Club.

Upon his death, June 8, 1968, Flay left his lovely wife, Frances McBrayer, at their beautiful home of many years in Cleveland Springs.

— Eleanor Hoey Bradshaw

FRANKLIN ERNEST HOEY

600

Franklin Ernest, first born child of Samuel Ernest and Dora Henkel Hoey, arrived March 3, 1894, in Hickory, North Carolina, but soon moved to Shelby.

Industrious and ambitious, as a small boy Frank, my daddy, pulled a wagon load of mineral water from Cleveland Spring, a distance of two and one-half miles, to be sold on the Court Square in the early 1900's.

Progressing to delivery boy and general helper at the Cleveland Drug Company during high school, Daddy left to attend the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and the School of Pharmacy to complete his education.

The same year, December 6, 1916, he and Delle Wilson of North Augusta, South Carolina, were married. By this time Frank had become part owner of the drug store that was to be his life.

Buying the remaining interest of former owner and partner, Mr. Robert Carpenter, Daddy became the "genial, handsome host," to quote Bea Suttle Morris, of the Cleveland Drug Company. Time spent at the Drug store was "a way of life." Daddy served his customers at all hours and enjoyed the sociability of Shelby citizens as they propped themselves at the soda fountain, or sat on the benches in front of the store, or, til the '50's, received curb service.

As Kays Gary said, "You could see Governor Clyde R. Hoey (Frank's uncle) in his morning coat with its lapel carnation shaking hands right and left, bowing to the ladies and giving an ear in front of the Cleveland Drug to colleagues of the bar or some snaggletoothed, barefoot farmer in overalls."

Daddy's personal trademark was a starched white shirt with cuffs reversed on his forearms and a good looking fore-in-hand tie. The one day he was prevailed upon to wear a blue shirt there was a front page article in the Daily Star, so never again did he deviate from the look that was his, as much as the more formal wingtip collar and tails were his uncle's.

Mother's death in 1963 left Daddy devastated and he weepingly sold "Seven Gables," Cleveland Springs Estates, which he and Mother had built and occupied since 1929. Adjustment was not easy.

An apartment in the Hotel Charles, his "rabbit box," was home until his death October 15, 1967. The location was perfect: across the street from the drugstore under new ownership; over the dining room where his fellow Kiwanians met; a block from his Central Methodist Church; and offered the privilege of feeding the birds on the Court Square lawn!

Mrs. Millie Earle had helped Mother and Daddy since my birth to make our home a place of joy and comfort and beauty. With home reduced to size of an apartment, Millie could still manage a traditional Thanksgiving dinner with all the trimming's, evidence of her talent and caring.

— Eleanor Hoey Bradshaw

THE NORTH CAROLINA HOEYS (HUEYS)

601

From the records of James Grandison Leroy Huey, his Memoirs and letter of June 19, 1884, from Magnolia, Bibb County, Alabama, which states:

"We were originally from Scotch stock, who sailed the shores of Scotland soon after the Battle of Boyne in Ireland in 1690, when the Catholics of the Northern Ireland were defeated by the force of King William, opening up the country to the Protestant immigration. The enterprising people of the adjacent coast of Scotland availed themselves of the opening of a fine country, emigrated in considerable numbers to the Emerald Isle.

"Most of these early settlers landed for the most part, in Londonderry, and spreading out in the direction of Belfast, occupied the countries of Down, and Antrim. These formed what was designated the Scotch-Irish population of that fertile part of the country, where our immediate race of people became Irishmen, though of Caledonian blood and were in faith, true Protestants.

"James Huey married Margaret, sister of Lord Hercules Ellis. Their older son, Alexander, trained for the military, was made a Captain of a war vessel in the British Navy. He was sent on a cruise to the West Indies, where he died about 1750. He left no issue.

"Hercules Hoey (their other son) married Catherine Persee, daughter of Richard Persee, a gentleman of wealth and culture and influence in the country of Ireland. From this family a considerable family sprang up.

"James Huey, the second son of Hercules, a short time before the Revolution, landed in Charleston, South Carolina, and settled in Waxhaw (Lancaster County). He served (as Captain) in the Army under General Sumter and Francis Marion. Hercules Huey died in September 1755, age 50 years; his wife Catherine, died November 16, 1808, age 80 years. They are buried in Old Waxhaw Cemetery, (having come to this country to live with their son, James)."

Hercules Huey's will recorded in Camden, now Kershaw County, South Carolina, Kershaw Wills, Vol. 1, page 55, South Carolina Archives, Columbia, shows that he and Catherine's children were Alexander, John, James, Hercules, Mary and Elizabeth.

Beside Hercules and Catherine in Old Waxhaw Cemetery are buried John Hoey, Esquire (died April 5, 1803, age 47) and Elizabeth Johnston Hoey (died January 11, 1802, aged 46).

Of John and Elizabeth's children, one, Samuel Johnson (born August 29, 1798, Union County, South Carolina, died August 23, 1845, Union County and buried, churchyard, Cherokee, South Carolina), married Clara Tillman Davis in 1820. Children were Sara Ann Elizabeth, John, Amos Davis, Eliza, Mary Catherine, John Edward II, M. Cornelia, Samuel Alberta, Julia Frances, Margaret Alice, and William Henry.

Samuel Alberta Hoey, father of William Rufus, Sissie, Samuel Ernest, Nellie Belle,

Clyde Roark and Eula May, was born October 4, 1840; died January 15, 1913.

Samuel's wife was Mary Charlotte Roark (born February 8, 1846; died, January 22, 1927). They were married November 11, 1865. Both are buried in Sunset Cemetery, Shelby, North Carolina, where they had spent their married life.

Samuel Johnson Hoey was graduated from South Carolina College at Columbia, South Carolina, with a law degree but he became a very successful farmer and built a beautiful home at the junction at Thickety Creek and Broad River in Union County, South Carolina.

Samuel Alberta Hoey served in the Confederate War. He was Captain in Company H., Thirty-Fourth North Carolina Regiment.

The above information was obtained from tombstones, various written extracts copied from Bibles, and from the United Daughters of the Confederacy records belonging to Harriett Elizabeth Hoey, great-granddaughter of Captain Samuel Alberta Hoey.

— Eleanor Hoey Bradshaw

RALPH REECE HOEY

602

Ralph Hoey bore a striking resemblance to Robert Taylor, movie star. It was the close of the winter season in Palm Beach, Florida, when this likeness to Taylor was discovered by an official of Warner Brothers Studio. The ensuing offer came from the studio's talent department was one Ralph was never able to consider. He suffered a heart attack July 27, 1937; age thirty-two.

To quote the Star: "The news of Ralph's sudden passing quickly spread over the city and cast a gloom over the entire community. He was beloved for his kindness, cordiality, and friendliness. He loved to know people, was gracious in manner and unselfish to the nth. degree."

The Blowing Rocket stated: "... one of Blowing Rock's best-loved summer citizens ... Memory Lane is sad at heart this week because of the death of its favorite son ... He helped make Blowing Rock a success more than any other person by his ready wit and ingratiating personality ..."

Ralph was on hand to help in his brother's Cleveland Drug Company in the winter, but summers he spent on the staff at elegant Mayview Manor, Blowing Rock, as desk clerk, riding instructor, and as Director for the Blowing Rock Horse Show, the oldest in the South.

It was printed in the Blowing Rocket that "no girl can consider her visit to Blowing Rock complete unless she has seen the Carolina moon from Mayview Manor balcony with Ralph Hoey."

As his favored niece, I remember Ralph for filling my young years with gifts of ponies (hoping for me to emulate his love of horses); chattered summer rides in Blue Heaven (his sky blue phaeton with the top down), filled with my girl friends, and curb service at the drug store the piece de resistance; and later years, dates arranged for me and my house guests with special trips to Lake Lure and Blowing Rock.

It was as if Ralph, born August 20, 1905, not knowing his time was short, wanted to make all the ladies happy, whatever their ages. He left those he touched loved and loving.

— Eleanor Hoey Bradshaw

Samuel Ernest Hoey, 1870-1937.

SAMUEL ERNEST HOEY

603

"Our friend Ernest Hoey lived simply but nobly. In his passing he leaves a rich heritage to his co-workers in The Star office, to his devoted family and friends — a heritage more priceless than silver and gold," concluded the tribute paid by Publisher Lee B. Weathers upon the death of Samuel Ernest Hoey, May 17, 1937.

The second son of Captain Samuel Alberta Hoey (1840-1913) and Mary Charlotte Catherine Roark (1846-1927), Papa Hoey, my grandfather, was born in Shelby, North Carolina, July 11, 1870. His brothers were William Rufus and Clyde Roark; sisters, Sissie and Nellie Belle.

After attending public schools, young Ernest entered the printing business and worked short periods in Hickory and Blacksburg. Location in Hickory resulted in the marriage of Papa to Dora Belle Henkel, May 18, 1893, and the subsequent birth of seven children.

When his younger brother, Clyde, bought the Shelby Review in 1895 and changed it to the Cleveland Star, Papa joined him as one of the original organizers of the company. For forty years he served as plant foreman of the mechanical department and secretary of the Shelby Daily Star, as it was later called.

Those men and women who worked with "Mr. Ernest" daily gave him their deep affection. Mrs. Renn Drum in her featured column of long-standing in The Star, "Today's Small Talk," wrote: "It seems impossible to associate the idea of death with one so genial, so full of happiness and good cheer ... impossible that tomorrow will not find him at his desk, greeting whoever comes his way with an exchange of pleasantries, a word of encouragement or sympathy ... impossible that no longer will that pleasant, bantering voice — never cross or commanding — call upstairs for return of a proof sheet, to hurry down misplaced or delayed mats, or to know if all personals are in."

My love of journalism, if not proficiency in it, was fostered by the hours spent at the Shelby Daily Star discovering the magic of typesetting that had to be read backward and placed by hand; and gathering all the rainbow colored paper samples that came to Papa's desk and into my possession.

Erma Drum wrote of the "trusted friend, confidante and advisor to everyone who worked with him ... If I were asked to name Mr. Hoey's most outstanding qualities I should think of his amazing capacity for friendliness, which caused a great many people of all types and ages to think of him as a friend. Next I would think of his serenity — even in the face of death. He had a grand philosophy of life, believing that few things were worth worrying over, and that it did no good to burden other people with your troubles."

Papa's world was his own community where he served several years without opposition on the school board and was a faithful member of the Central Methodist Church.

A Greensboro Daily News Editor writer said in part: "Mr. Hoey enjoyed life to the brim. The comradeship of his shop was largely a reflection of his own life, his joy in his social contacts and relationships."

Movie theatres, the Carolina and the Webb and later the Rogers, also, were Papa's favorite form of entertainment and therefore part of my early education nightly. Passes from the newspaper and the drugstore were our avenue to the world of escape and excitement outside the bounds of Cleveland County.

Papa was able to work and fill his niche in life to the end. He put in a full days work and enjoyed a movie in the evening less than a week prior to his death.

Being in New York at Mrs. Sample's School for Girls, I did not experience that last week of family anxiety. For me, Papa never really left this world. The happiness associated with his memory was never marred!

— Eleanor Hoey Bradshaw

WADE WILLIAM HOEY

604

The fifth son of the Ernest Hoeyes, a Shelby native, was born January 1, 1903, and died in the Veterans Administration Medical Center in Salisbury, North Carolina, July 29, 1980.

Wade was educated in Cleveland County schools, Randolph-Mason Preparatory School, the University of Virginia and Washington and Lee University.

He worked as Assistant Manager of John F. Clark and Company, stock brokerage firm and later at his brother Frank's Cleveland Drug Company.

Never married, Wade was a devoted companion to his mother, especially during the years after his father's death, and lived at the family home on East Marion Street.

In his younger years, he was an accomplished horseman and golfer and many thought his charm exceeded that of any of his brothers.

A member of the Shelby Kiwanis Club, the Central Methodist Church and the Hoey Bible Class, he was also a Mason and a Shriner. A veteran of World War II, he was a member of the American Legion.

— Eleanor Hoey Bradshaw

GOLD GRIFFIN HOLLAND, JUNIOR

605

Gold Griffin Holland, Junior was born December 4, 1862 in Cleveland County, North Carolina. He was the son of Gold Griffin Holland (1820-1889) and Cinthia Ann Moore (1821-1895). His father represented Cleveland County in the 1850 North Carolina Legislature. He was a Captain in Company H, 28th Regt. of North Carolina troops.

Their children were: Adeline, Thomas, Permelia Ann, Sarah, Mary, Oliver Franklin, Jane, Susan Elizabeth and Gold Griffin Holland, Junior.

His grandparents were William Isaac Holland (1786-after 1863) and Permelia Gold (ca 1787-ca 1874); Thomas Moore and Margaret McSwain.

His great-grandparents were Captain William Holland (ca 1747 Pa. -1837 NC), who served with North Carolina Troops in the Revolutionary War, and Margaret Hall (1765-1847 NC) of Mecklenburg County, North Carolina; probably Daniel Gold and Elizabeth Pleasants; John Moore and Elizabeth Jones; Charles McSwain and Margaret Norwood.

Gold Griffin Holland, Junior and Sarah Alice Champion were married January 10, 1886 when he was twenty-three years old and she was thirteen. They were married at her parents' home on Red Road, Number Two Township, Cleveland County, North Carolina. This house was later known as the Ross Smith House.

His health wasn't good and he died March 27, 1894 after only eight years of marriage. He is buried in Boiling Springs Baptist Cemetery, Boiling Springs, North Carolina.

They lived in the small house just west of his sister, Mrs. John Moore and Mr. Moore near Boiling Springs, North Carolina. The Moores later called this house "The Weaning House" because the young Moore couples made their homes there. It was a log house originally.

Gold Griffin and Alice had four children: Mary Vell Holland was born November 12, 1886 and died August 9, 1940. She married Willie Newton Weaver (son of Elijah and Adelia Blanton Weaver). Both are buried in the Mt. Sinai Baptist Cemetery, Cleveland County, North Carolina. They were farmers and lived in the Mt. Sinai Community with their children: Reginald, Delia, Mary Lois, Arey, James Ralph, Virginia Ray, Elijah Elam and Dorcas Ruth Weaver.

Roland Gustus Holland was born January 17, 1890 and died January 4, 1946. He married Nanie Lee Wilkins (daughter of John J. and Alice Kendrick Wilkins). Roland was an overseer and superintendant with the Dover Mills. Both are buried in Sunset Cemetery, Shelby, North Carolina. They lived in Shelby with their children: Roland Gustus, Junior, Griffin James, Lawrence Cobb, Alice Elizabeth and Dorothy Virginia Holland.

Bunah Vista Holland was born June 25, 1892 and married Julius Troy Jones (son of Benjamin Franklin and Susannah Clarinda Blanton Jones). He worked in hosiery mills in Newton and Shelby, North Carolina. She was a home-maker, South Shelby precinct worker, retiree of the Lily Mills Company packing department, and is still active in The Second Baptist Church of Shelby, the Frances Home Demonstration Club and craft classes and Flint Hills DAR Chapter. Her husband is buried in Sunset Cemetery, Shelby, North Carolina. They lived in Shelby with their children: Susan Aileen, Annie Ray, Frances Holland and Julius Troy Jones, Junior.

Millard Fillmore Holland was born October 7, 1893 and died May 16, 1972. He married Olive Herman Brady (daughter of Charles R. Brady and Eudora Herman) of Catawba County, North Carolina. He was a World War I veteran. He was associated with Regil Glove Company (formerly Warlong Glove Company), Conover, North Carolina where they lived with their children: Brady, Ernest, Robert and Walter Holland. He is buried at Conover, North Carolina.

— Annie Ray Jones Dodd

THE LAWRENCE PEGRAM HOLLAND FAMILY

606

Lawrence Pegram Holland (October 23, 1875 — June 11, 1954) was the first born child of Washington Freno and Ella Eugenia Hunter Holland. His father, of English descent, was mostly known as Captain Wash Holland who formed a military company in Gaston County, known as Company K, 4th Regiment, N.C. State Guard. Captain Wash was also a gifted musician and was a close friend of John Phillip Sousa, the famous band leader. Needless to say his grandchildren enjoyed the association of this outgoing and famous friend. Lawrence Holland's mother was the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J.B. Hunter of Gaston County. She was born January 5, 1858 and died May 9, 1884.

Lawrence Holland was very fortunate in inheriting a good religious heritage, but not very fortunate in any financial inheritance. His father, in 1889, lost everything he possessed, even his watch, shotgun, etc., which he gave to his debtors.

When the family moved to Mount Holly, N.C., in January 1892, he was employed in the Albion Cotton Spinning Company as a hired youngster at twenty-five cents a day. He soon became a clerk in the Seaboard Air Line Railway office where he learned the old Morse code of telegraphy. In 1900, he moved to Shelby, N.C., where he met and married Ola Margaret Suttle on June 5, 1903. Ola Holland was also a gifted musician, attended Meredith College and taught piano for many years. After being in the grocery business for a while, Lawrence went with the Lily Mills Company of Shelby, where he remained until his death.

He was a member of the Shelby Presbyterian Church for 45 years and was Treasurer for 25 years. He was elected Deacon in 1912 and Elder in 1916, a position he held at his death. He also served on the Shelby School Board for many years.

Lawrence and Ola Holland has three children: Esther Eugenia, born August 8, 1905; Violet Irene, born October 25, 1910, died June 1, 1912; and Lawrence Pegram, Jr., born July 17, 1914.

Eugenia, or better known as Gene, was a most popular and attractive girl and was also a gifted musician. She, like her mother, attended Meredith College and later continued her piano studies in Atlanta, Georgia. After her marriage to Charles M. Wall, Jr., of Lexington, N.C., she was church organist at the First Baptist Church in Lexington, and continues to be active in local music services. The Walls are parents of two daughters: Gene Holland, born August 8, 1936, is married to Dr. Robin Moore; they have three children; and June Pegram, born April 22, 1941, is married to Felix Goodrum; they have two children.

Lawrence Pegram, Jr., known as "Pig", was born in Shelby and attended grade school in the city schools, then went on to further his education at Mars Hill College and the University of North Carolina, where he was a member of the Sigma Nu Fraternity. After serving as an officer in the Corps of Engineers in World War II, with overseas duty on the Island of Okinawa, he returned home to the practice of architecture. He received his license to practice architecture in April, 1951. Shortly thereafter, the firm of Breeze, Holland & Riviere was formed (from the original Breeze office) and is now L. Pegram Holland, Jr., Architect, P.A.

On April 22, 1949, Pegram married Mildred Baber Laughridge who had been through the Shelby City Schools and Virginia Intermont College. She served as a Wave in the U.S. Navy during World War II with overseas duty on the Hawaiian Islands. Mildred's mother, "Miss Winnie" Laughridge, was known as one of Shelby's best cooks and possessed a vast amount of wit. Her father, Roger M. Laughridge, was postmaster of Shelby at the time of his death.

Their marriage brought them two sons, Lawrence Pegram III, born May 28, 1953 and Roger Laughridge, born October 24, 1956. The older son, Larry, is married to the former Sandy Johnson and is a North Carolina State Patrolman presently stationed in Gaston County. Roger, the younger son, has graduated from the Architectural School of North Carolina State University and joined his father's architectural firm. He is married to the former Robin Barry of Thomasville, N.C.

Pegram is active in religious and civic work, having served as a Deacon in the Shelby Presbyterian Church, a member of The Rotary Club, a trustee of the Cleveland Memorial Hospital, a past board member of the Salvation Army, and a member of the Greater Shelby Chamber of Commerce.

As an architect, he has worked on or been responsible for projects including the new Shelby Senior High School buildings, including the original plot plan, the football stadium, baseball stadium, tennis courts, the Malcolm E. Brown Auditorium and the Natatorium; the Cleveland Federal Savings and Loan and its branch; First Federal Savings and Loan and branches; Shelby Daily Star; Elizabeth Baptist Church; John Knox Presbyterian Church; Graham Elementary School; South and East Branches of the First National Bank; Lees-McRae College buildings, Banner Elk; Dutch Club, Lexington; Home Savings and Loan, Kings Mountain; Kings Mountain Country Club; Limestone Presbyterian Church, Gaffney, SC; and many residences throughout the region.

— L.P. Holland

North Carolina with their children: Pearl, Venus (girl), Carl, Spencer, Ethel, James Samuel, Kate, Sherman and Graham Weaver.

The family was truly "your kids, my kids and our kids".

Siblings of Alice Champion were: Carrie Champion Hughes (1868-1950), John Wylie Champion (1869-1940), Richard Crowell Champion (1874-1951), Samantha Champion Morehead (1876-1954), Oscar Hoyle Champion (1877-1929), Hattie Champion Weaver (1880-1963).

Her grandparents were: Robert Crowell Champion (1816 SC-1890 NC) and Salena Ledbetter (1818 NC-1890 NC); Nelson Turner and Elizabeth Matheny.

Her paternal great-grandparents were: Henry Ledbetter and Luraney Vina Bridges; maternal great-grandparents: John Matheny and Elizabeth McSwain (Hamrick Generations by S.C. Jones, Page 163).

My grandmother, Alice Champion Holland Weaver had a hard life in many ways but I remember her as an easy going person with beautiful white hair.

Some memorable times for me, when I was small, was going to visit Grandma and Grandpa Weaver in a Model T Ford and Daddy having to push the car out of the muddy ruts when going up the hill from Beaver Dam Creek.

Also, seeing rhubarb and flowers growing in her garden, going down a steep hill to see where the hogs were kept, the large open fireplace in the staying room, the gas lamp hanging from the ceiling, the pies and biscuits always in the kitchen safe.

Alice lived with one of her daughters, Kate Weaver Clary, after her husband's death. She always seemed to adjust to each change in her life.

She died November 14, 1940 and is buried in Boiling Springs Baptist Cemetery, Boiling Springs, North Carolina beside her first husband, Gold Griffin Holland, Junior.

Her grandchildren were: Reginald, Delia, Mary Lois, Arey, James Ralph, Virginia Ray, Elijah Elam, Dorcas Ruth Weaver (children of Vell Holland Weaver); Roland Gustus, Junior, Griffin James, Lawrence Cobb, Alice Elizabeth, Dorothy Virginia Holland (children of Roland Holland); Susan Aileen, Annie Ray, Frances Holland, Julius Troy Jones, Junior (children of Bunah Holland Jones); Brady, Ernest, Robert, Walter Holland (children of Millard Holland).

Lois, Macie Lee, Billie Sue Hamrick (children of Pearl Weaver Hamrick); James, Clyde, Alice Scruggs (children of Venus Weaver Scruggs); Harold and Carolyn Weaver (children of Carl Weaver); G.B., Grace, Billie Hawkins (children of Ethel Weaver Hawkins); Horace, James Everette, Joseph Ray, Mitchell Elam, Betty Joyce, infant Hugh Pinkney, Shirley Jane, twins Bobby Dean and Linda Jean Clary (children of Kate Weaver Clary); Glenda Z. Weaver (child of Sherman Weaver); Betty, Jean and Linda Weaver (children of Graham Weaver).

My great-grandfather, James Madison Champion, died while visiting us at our home on Shannonhouse Street, Shelby, North Carolina. I was almost six years old but it was a traumatic experience for me.

My mother was told that her great-grandfather, Robert Crowell Champion, gave the land to build the Flint Hill schoolhouse, just east of the Flint Hill Baptist Church.

— Annie Ray Jones Dodd

SARA SANDERS HULLENDER

608

"Aunt Sara", as she was best known, was born Sara Frances Sanders (b. 1864 — d. Feb. 12, 1954) daughter of Griffin and Elizabeth Sparks Sanders. Other members of her family were: James Sanders, who married Elie Bridges; Henderson ("Uncle Hint" — he had an eye lid that grew abnormally and hung below his chin — he lived next door when I was small and I remember it very well). Hugh Sanders, who married Liza Myers; Georgia who married a Whisnant; Florence who married Sidney Roberts and Minnie, who married Will Cooper. Sara married Jefferson Davis Hullender, known as Jeff had three children — Paul, who died as a child and:

1. Charlie Hullender married Nellie Webb. They had the following children: Clyde married Lula Mills; Oleen married Page Lawing; Myrtle married Odell Long; Jefferson D. married Quinna McKeithen; Paul M. married Vivian Barnes; twins — Charles married Helen Boyles and Virginia married George Gaskey; Louise married Y.G. "Pete" Lewis.

2. Ivey Hullender married Fannie Hustickler. Their children were: Pauline married Jessie Harris; Viola married Bill Borders; Jefferson Davis married Elsie Wolfe.

Sara was a tall, thin lady with a kind word for everyone and everyone who knew her loved her. After her husband's death she lived with her brother, "Uncle Hint", taking care of him until his death. One of her favorite expressions was "now gentle-mens". I love to hear Aunt Sara and others sit and talk about old times when she came to visit us for a few days. One of my favorite stories was concerning a "dumb supper" where several young girls would set up a supper and their intended husband would come to this supper in his sleep, unknowingly, who ever he was going to be. Another story concerned their boiling an egg and taking out the yellow and eating the white full of salt, they would dream that their intended would bring them a drink of water.

She was always a welcome guest, and we called her "Aunt" out of respect. She was my grandmother's first cousin. In her gentle, sweet ways she could get you to mind and display a good set of manners. She is one of the people I treasure in my life. She was buried at Pleasant Hill Baptist Church with most of her family.

— Elizabeth Camp Anthony

ALBERT R. HOMESLEY

609

Albert R. Homesley was the first born of nine children to Stephen and Ester Roberts Homesley, on March 16, 1816, at the family home which is now South Pink Street, Cherry-

Sarah Alice Champion Holland.

SARAH ALICE CHAMPION HOLLAND WEAVER

607

Sarah Alice Champion was born May 12, 1872 in Cleveland County North Carolina. Her parents were James Madison Champion (1847-1922) and Mariah Jane Turner Blanton Champion (1836-1921). Mrs. Champion's first husband, Burrell Wiley Blanton, was killed in the Confederate War and they had four children: Burl William, Mary Elizabeth, Liza Jane and Nancy Susan Blanton.

Following the death of Alice Champion's first husband, Gold Griffin Holland, Junior, (1862-1894) and then her aunt, Lucretia Parinetta Champion Weaver (1858-1896), she married Commodore Elam Weaver (1862-1938), son of Samuel Weaver and Nancy Edwards. Her cousins Eunice, Virgil, Fred Mitchell, Mirty and Vernon (girl) Weaver became her step-children. James and Jane Champion helped raise Alice's children: Vell, Roland, Bunah and Millard Holland.

Alice and Elam Weaver lived on their farm in the Flint Hill Community, Cleveland County, ville, N.C. The home is still owned and occupied by Homesleys. A.R. had a permanent limp in his right leg having suffered early in life with what was then described as "white swelling." He was also said to have been cross-eyed.

A.R. started selling cloth about his home area on horseback or by dray wagon. He continued in the dry goods business ventures in Cherryville and later in Shelby. In an article in the Bicentennial Edition of The Shelby Daily Star, May 1976, page two, it is reported that Mrs. E. V. Watterson bought calico for a quilt from Messrs. Albert Homesley, A.W. Quinn and Ancil Hardin, the first store that was put up in Shelby. An 1850 map printed in this same paper shows A.R. owned seven or eight lots on Marion Street, Lafayette Street, and in the vicinity of Graham, Warren, and Pinckney Streets, Shelby. He was one of the trustees of the Methodist Episcopal Church in May, 1845, when the church bought Lot 31, southeast square of town of Shelby, apparently the first church to receive a deed to a lot.

A.R. married Elizabeth Deuse (phonetic), a native of Tennessee and a school teacher. To this union at least five children were born — three growing to adulthood and two young children have marked graves in Sunset Cemetery, Shelby. A survey of Cleveland County cemeteries by B.E. Weathers, Forrest B. Williams and Anson G. Melton lists Margaret E. Homesley, five month old daughter of A.R. and E.A. Homesley, died January 31, 1846, and notes that this is the oldest marked grave in Sunset Cemetery. The same survey, page 81, lists A.R. Homesley appointed postmaster February 26, 1841, of Swangstown, now Patterson Springs.

A.R. built a house and lived in South Shelby, which had become a thriving farming town in a major cotton producing county. Slaves were brought into the country and A.R. made trips to the Atlantic Coast to bring slaves back.

Charlotte S. Beam, in her historical sketch of the Double Shoals Mill, shows that Albert A. Homsley bought 268 acres in Double Shoals in 1845. In addition to the cotton factory, Homesley ran a grist mill and a sawmill. "It is said by a 'confederate Veteran' that Homsley made the statement 'I owe the Yankees for some goods, but am not going to pay them because they took away my slaves.'" A.R. sold the property August 8, 1867. A.R.'s brother, Benjamin Stephen Homesley, and his family, including a daughter, Hester Elmina Homesley, grandparent of the writer, Ray Homesley, worked for A.R. at the factory during the Civil War. Confederate cloth or uniforms were made and dyed there. A.R. is also said to have started cotton factories at Henrietta and Caroleen, the latter being accidentally set on fire and burned before it was put into operation. An 1886 Cleveland County map shows a Homesley still in what is now the vicinity of Sulphur Spring Road and Stone Street and it is assumed A.R. owned this.

An article in The Shelby Daily Star, May 1976, entitled "The Start of Our Country", quotes the first meeting March 8, 1841, of the Court of Pleas and Quarter Sessions, and the twenty-eight Justices of the Court elected A.R. Homesley as clerk of the court. Further sessions quoted show A.R. was active in planning and construction of a permanent courthouse. This same paper shows that the Original Act of the General Assembly of North Carolina, which created a circular town, Shelby, named commissioners with no mayor; Richard Champion, A.R. Homesley, Dr. Thomas Williams, Thomas Cooper, and Dr. W.W. Morris.

In his book The Living Past of Cleveland County, author Lee B. Weathers lists A.R. Homesley as one of the incorporators of the Cleveland Savings Bank of Shelby organized in 1875.

In spite of his one time wealth, he died penniless February 2, 1895, and he and his wife were supposedly buried paupers, burial place unknown. Speculation is he lost his wealth due to the Civil War or because of slave trade and it was brought about by an act of providence.

— Ray Homesley

JOSEPH HOMESLEY

610

It appears that Joseph Homesley was one of the early Homesleys in what is now Cleveland County. A deed dated October 1, 1794 "between William Monday and Joseph Homsley (Hamsley) whereby Homsley is purchasing for thirty pounds, two hundred (200) acres of land lying on the long branch of the Muddy Fork of the Buffalo about James Hollands entry on said branch including the first large fork and the crossings of the paths that leads from the court house to Carsons and the path called Moores path." This deed quoted in part here is located in the Lincoln County Court House, Lincolnton, N.C.

An "Abstract of N.C. Wills" by Fred A. Olds, located in the Charlotte, N.C. Library lists the following under the year 1800:

"Joseph Homesley, to John, Beryl, Polly." No record could be located in the 1800 census for Joseph Homesley.

The book "Marriage Bonds of Tryon and Lincoln Counties, North Carolina by Curtis Bynum located in the Charlotte, N.C. Library lists Joseph Homesley as surety to the wedding of Stephen Homesley and Ester Roberts, February 13, 1809.

Stephen and Esther Roberts Homesley settled in Cherryville, N.C., on what is now Pink Street. The home place is still owned and occupied by Homesleys. It is not known what relation Stephen was to Joseph Homesley, but since Stephen is not listed in Joseph Homesley's will of 1800 he is not believed to be Joseph's son. It appears more likely that Joseph Homesley and Stephen Homesley were brothers, and possibly both were sons of Benjamin Homesley.

— Ray Homesley

BENJAMIN HOMESLEY

611

The earliest record found pertaining to the Homesley (sometimes spelled Homsley, Holmesly, and what appears to be Hamsley in old handwritten documents) name is a book entitled "Sandy Run Baptist Association, Mooresboro, N.C.", listing Ben Homesley 1782 — Tryon County. The book is in the Cleveland County Historical Museum, Shelby, N.C. Uncle Osborne Homesley, before his death, said he had heard through family legend that one of the real old Homesleys came over from England, "possibly the Daddy of them all," and his name was Ben Homesley. He stayed in America for years and near the end of his life he started back to England to die, and got lost on the road somewhere and died. Supposedly he started the first part of the journey on foot and some of his kin found his remains on the road or trail.

A deed in Lincoln County Court House, Lincolnton, N.C. in 1790 between James Palley and Benjamin Homsley or Hamsley, whereby Homsley purchased 155 and one half acres for 30 pounds from Palley. Land purchased joined land already held by Homsley on the Muddy Fork Creek. The above deed was proved in open court and ordered to be registered, Lincoln County, January Session, 1792.

The 1800 Census shows Benjamin Holmesly — Lincoln County, Morgan District. The census code number 00 301 00001-00, indicates three males ages 16 to 26 years, one male over 45, and one female over 45, (indicating Benjamin and his wife) and no free persons and no slaves.

It is believed by the writer that this Ben Homesley is the father of Stephen Homesley (1778 to 2/2/1859) who settled in Cherryville, N.C. Stephen named one of his sons, Benjamin Stephen Homesley, great grandfather of the writer.

— Ray Homesley

RAY HOMESLEY

612

Ray Homesley was born on October 1, 1926, at the family home one mile south of Cherryville, N.C., on Highway 274, along with a twin sister, Fay Homesley (Egnor), the seventh and eighth children of John W. and Betty Mullen Homesley. In about 1937 the family moved to a farm on Marys Grove Church Road, south of Cherryville, near Cleveland County. The children that had not finished school began attending Waco Grammar and High School. Dad, who was a barber in Cherryville for 31 years and also a farmer, sent us to the Waco, N.C., school because the school year started when crops were "laid-by" and then "let out" again when cotton "got white" in the fields. After cotton picking time the school again started and school year concluded. The school at that time only had eleven grades — seven grammar and four high school. Mr. Clarence M. King was principal and later a Mayor of Shelby. Mr. W.N. Pope was Principal at the time Ray Homesley graduated in 1945.

On June 30, 1945, Ray Homesley entered the U.S. Army at Ft. Bragg, N.C., and was sent to Infantry Basic Training at Camp Robinson, Arkansas. World War II ended and he was sent to Fort Meade, Md., to work in the office helping process soldiers for discharge from the army. Ray was honorably discharged Dec. 14, 1946.

He immediately applied for a job with the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) as his sisters, Fay and Helen, and brother, Wade, were already working there. He entered on duty as a Clerk in the Messenger Unit on February 10, 1947, and worked his way up to Special Employee by June 1951 and was transferred to New York City and later to St. Louis, Missouri. Ray continued to work and attend school at night studying accounting and was graduated in June, 1953, from Southeastern University, Washington, D. C.

Ray met Marilyn Alice Newman from Atlanta, Mo., who was employed by the FBI, and they were married in Atlanta, Mo., October 27, 1951.

On Nov. 22, 1954, Ray Homesley was appointed a Special Agent and after 16 weeks training at the FBI Academy was assigned to Phoenix, Arizona. He later was assigned to New York, Kansas City, and Charlotte. He retired February 22, 1979, and returned to farm land in Cleveland County on Neal Road where a new house was constructed.

Children are as follows: Craig Ray Homesley, born Mar. 30, 1954, St. Louis, Mo. Graduate of University of Missouri School of Forestry 1976. Now working for Missouri Conservation, Poplar Bluff, Mo.

Carolyn Fay Homesley Walden, born Jan. 21, 1956, Phoenix, Arizona. Married to Stanley Walden, Coach at Caruthersville, Mo. schools.

Vicki Grace Homesley, born 10-13-57, Hackensack, N.J. Graduated ASU, Boone, N.C., now teaching English at Mt. Rogers High School, White Top, Va.

Kent Newman Homesley, born 8-19-68, student at Burns Junior High School.

— Ray Homesley

Earl Douglas Honeycutt

EARL DOUGLAS HONEYCUTT

613

Earl Douglas Honeycutt was born February 23, 1894 in Iredell County. His father was William Vance Honeycutt, a Methodist minister and his mother was Ellen Sherrill. Earl had two sisters: Gertrude and Carrie, and one brother, Wren.

He attended Rutherford College and afterwards he came to Shelby to work for his brother-in-law, O.E. Ford. The O.E. Ford Company sold farm machinery and supplies. Earl later became a stockholder. He served in World War I returning to O.E. Ford Company in 1918. He met Mary Ethel Cline, a teacher in the Shelby Graded School System, at the reopening of the Cleveland Springs Hotel and they were married in 1923. They had two children: Earl Douglas, Jr., married Janice Roberts and Sara Ellen, married Julian Hamrick.

Earl sold his stock to Thad Ford and then became a partner in Arey Oil Co. in the 40's where he remained until his retirement.

Throughout his adult life he was a member of Central United Methodist Church where he was on the Board of Stewards and Chairman of the Finance Committee. For many years he was a loyal member of the Kiwanis Club. He loved music and had a sense of humor with a joke for nearly every occasion.

He died May 20, 1972.

Sources: Family information.

— Sara H. Hamrick

Alton Marion Hopper, Sr.

ALTON MARION HOPPER SR.

614

John Stough Hopper and his wife, the former Margaret London, celebrated her 25th birthday on March 10, 1907 with the birth of a son whom they named Alton Marion Hopper. Ironically, Margaret London was born on her mother's 25 birthday and years later Alton's only granddaughter would be born on her father's 25th birthday.

Born and raised in Shelby with two brothers and two sisters, Alton graduated from Shelby High School in 1925 and took off across country to California with Clyde Wilson in a Model T. This trip triggered and nourished a desire to travel, see and learn and over the years he and his wife have traveled in Europe and throughout the United States. His fondest memories are of the trip in the 1960's when he and his wife and their two grandchildren, David Hampton and Elinor Kyle Tyner, toured Florida in a very crowded Volkswagen.

Alton and Elva Cleo Sneed of Lincoln County were married July 20, 1930 in Gatlinburg, Tenn. They set up housekeeping in Shelby, established their business, became active members of the First Baptist Church and raised two children. Their son Alton Jr., is married to the former Sue Brevard Morris of Shelby and they reside in Charlotte. Their daughter, Elinor Ann, is married to O. Kendall Drake Jr., and they maintain homes in Charlotte and Southern Pines. Alton readily and boastfully admits that Elinor Ann's two children and his only grandchildren are the "apples of my eyes, my pride and joy" and the only two people in the world who could entice him into a "monkey suit" (Tails and/or Tuxedo) — the first time when he was Kyle's chief marshal in the 1975 Debutante Ball and then again in May of 1980, when he served as best man in David's wedding.

A civic-minded individual, he served as Fire Chief of the Shelby Fire Department in the late '30's and early '40's, when the department had only a few paid firemen and 24 volunteers. In 1949 and 1950 he served on the City Council as alderman from Ward 1. He has held membership in the Shelby Lions Club, The American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars and the Elks Club.

Going to work for Cleveland Oil Company in 1927, "Bub" as he is known to all his childhood friends and acquaintances, became proprietor of the business in 1933, changing the name to Hopper's Service Station which, according to a 1940 business news item in the Star, "is one of the most popular service stations in Shelby and Cleveland County doing a large business in servicing automobiles, and has a complete recapping service for tires."

After returning from England where he served in the Army during World War II, he formed a partnership with Gilman Brown and they became dealers for Studebaker and Packard automobiles in a new building and a new name, Brown-Hopper Motors. Since his retirement in the '60's he is now completing the circle of his business career by working part-time "at the hardware store" on North Lafayette Street where he held his very first job as a young boy.

— Elinor Hopper Drake

Front row: Grandchildren Clay and James. 2nd row: Burie, Gladys and son Max. Back row: Tucker and grandson, David

BURIE H. HOPPER and FAMILY

615

Burie Haskle Hopper, b. 5 Oct. 1906, was reared in lower Cleveland County, the youngest child of David H. Hopper and wife Mary Affie Davis Hopper. He received a high school diploma, took mechanical training, studied at home, took civil service exams and became a substitute mail clerk in Shelby Post Office.

In December, 1932, he married Gladys C. Horn, b. 25 May, 1906, daughter of James Bartlett Horn of Lattimore, N.C. She graduated from Lattimore High School, did four years College at Appalachian State and Western Carolina Universities and was a public school teacher in Earl School. They started house-keeping at Earl and in 1933 Burie developed rheumatoid arthritis in hands and feet and could not be appointed a permanent employee of the U.S. Post Office.

After teaching automotive mechanics at No. 3 High School during the war, he employed a mechanic and operated Hopper's Garage; later adding used cars. It is licensed in that capacity today. He established and operated Earl Coal and Electric Co. from 1943 to 1964 and Burie H. Hopper Jeweler and Watch Repairing 1938-1978 before he became disabled. After his parents' deaths, he operated a cattle and poultry farm and still has some cattle on the old homestead below Earl.

In 1958 Burie, or "B.H." as he is well known, became the No. 3 Township director and salesman for Farmers Mutual Insurance Company of Cleveland County, and continues in this position today (1982).

He has served on Board of Trustees for Cleveland Memorial Hospital; Cleveland County Human Relations Board, during first years of its existence; Democratic Precinct Committee; and has been awarded both the Bronze and Silver Medallion for meritorious service for the American Heart Association.

Both Burie and Gladys Hopper have been active in community and church life, having served in offices of Kings Mountain Baptist Association from New Hope Church. Burie served from this area on the Baptist State General Board 1969-73 and on the Executive Committee of the Association for some twenty-four years.

He has served as a deacon in New Hope Church, being Chairman many years, most of his adult life. Burie is currently chairman of New Hope Church Board of Trustees.

Gladys has taught adult ladies Sunday School Class, served as president of the W.M.U. and "Sunbeam Band" leader. She has been church librarian for twenty-five years, was elected church historian, has written a history of New Hope Church (organized in 1873), and a history of Earl School. Both are in the State Archives at Raleigh and the Baptist Heritage Collection at Wake Forest University.

She taught in Cleveland County Public Schools for almost twenty years, sixteen and one half of those years at Earl, until ill health forced retirement. She is a member of Cleveland County, North Carolina State, and National Retired Teachers Associations.

Both Burie and Gladys have long been members of Cleveland County Historical Association. They were on the working committee that collected historical items from the county, prepared and arranged displays in the different museum rooms. Gladys Hopper and Mrs. John B. Hamrick did the Religion Room.

They own a home in Earl N.C. and have lived there all fifty years of their married life. They have one son, Max Haskle Hopper, b. 10 September, 1947. He attended Earl Elementary School, Shelby High School and graduated from Western Carolina University in 1969. He is married to Olivia Tucker Ilgenfritz (b. 2 January, 1945) who is also a Western Carolina graduate with a masters degree in Reading from Winthrop College.

After graduation Max served four years in the United States Air Force as an O.S.I. Special Agent. When back in civilian life he did graduate study at N.C. State University in Public Administration and for eight years has worked as district manager for the Governments Division of Communications and Electronics of Motorola, in Charlotte, N.C.

Max and Tucker Hooper built their home near Gastonia, N.C. where she teaches in Ashbrook High School. Their sons David Haskle Hopper, b. 12 January 1968, Clay Burton Hopper, b. 16 March 1973, and James Penick Hopper, b. 22 May 1978, all attend Gaston Schools.

David Haskle Hopper and his brothers are the seventh generation of Hopper men born in America of direct descent from Joseph Hopper who came to this area from Ireland in 1800.

— Gladys H. Hopper

JOHN SARRATT HOPPER and FAMILY

616

John Sarratt Hopper settled in lower Cleveland County N.C. very near the South Carolina state line. He was the son of Charles Hopper and grandson of Joseph who bought land here in 1800 after coming from Ireland. He married Sarah L. Mullinax; they attended Buffalo Baptist Church, the oldest church in this section, organized in 1772. Here he was known as "Praying John." A true story goes that his prayers in church were lengthy and some of the young people became restless during these long prayers. Once on August 31, 1886 there was a bad earthquake in Charleston, South Carolina, doing much property damage there. Over one hundred people were killed. The earth shook badly here in upper South Carolina and lower North Carolina. The people in Buffalo Community were scared, some fearing it was the end of time. They lighted pine torches, went through the night to neighbor's homes. The whole community was aroused and frightened. Some of the young men who had dreaded John Sarratt's long prayers at church wished to be with him this frightful night when the earth shook so severely that it cracked the lower brick wall in the "Ramseur House." (See Picture in Shelby Daily Star issue Saturday Mar. 1, 1975)

John S., and wife Sarah, had four children:

Emily Jane Hopper married Pinkney Wylie. Their children: Minnie, married Wadell Sepaugh; Addie, married Curtis Dixon; Elbert, married Allie Watkins; David, married Margaret Mintz; Alice, married Reid Turner; Frank, married Ruby Hoss and Eular, married Boyd Allison.

Henry E. Hopper, went to Texas in his youth and married Laura King. Their children: Addie, married 1st Jack Ridings, 2nd P.K. Riddley; Fannie, married Charles Mahaffy; Ottie, married Thomas B. Scott; and Adar, married Mason J. Wright.

Elizabeth Hopper, burned to death at 10 years of age.

George Calvin Hopper, infant at mothers death married Mandy? Their children, 2 girls? and one son Tommy, married?

John Sarratt Hopper married the second time to Eliza Wilson; their children were Julius Mills who tells how he got his name. "When John Sarratt Hopper was leaving to go in to the Civil War he told his wife Eliza, who was expecting a baby, if he should get killed and the baby was a boy, to name it John Sarratt, but if he was alive when it was born to call it Julius Mills. He lived to get home, the baby was named Julius Mills."

Julius Mills Hopper, married Drucilla McArthur. Their children: Hershel Mills, married Cleo Wylie; Cyrus, married Cleo Wylie; Bessie, married Claude Grantham; Ola and Lona were twins, never married; and Berdie, married Barnett Duke.

Sallie Hopper, married Preston Green. Their children: Preston Jr., married Rosa Lee Rockmore; John, married Leona?; and Edgar, married Jimmie Rockmore.

Melvin Delvon Hopper, married Eliza Jane Borders. Their children: Carl, married Cecil Rachelle; Aron Wray, married Pegg Webb; Theos Elyn, married Mary Bradly; and Ralph Leslie, died at 3 years.

David Haskle Hopper, married Mary Affie Davis. Their children: George Calvin, married Eliza Leola Harris; Texie Elizabeth, married Clyde J. Duke; Era Clarice, married Early C. Sarratt; and Burie Haskle, married Gladys C. Horn.

William Gaston Hopper married Nancy Borders. Their children: Harry, married 1st Bonnie Glenn, 2nd Kathrin Maddox; John Sarratt II, married Bonnie Hord; Elijah Barnett died at age 14 yrs.; and Loucynthia, married Joe Lane Moore.

Elijah Barnett Hopper, married Mary Borders; no children.

Alice Hopper, married David Champion. Their children: Shivor, married Patsy Sepaugh; and Celia, married Clarence Self.

Mollie M. Hopper, married Auburn Woods; no children.

— Mrs. Gladys H. Hopper

THE HOPPER GENERATIONS IN CLEVELAND COUNTY

617

In 1800 Joseph Hopper came to this country from Ireland and settled on the east side of Broad River near what is now Dravo Electric Power Plant. A deed recorded in Old York County Courthouse then shows Joseph Hopper bought land there in 1807.

Joseph Hopper reared three sons: Charles, William (Bill), and Johnathon (Johnnie). Charles settled on his father's homestead and reared five boys and four girls. Boys were Jefferson Smith, Posey, John Surratt, Charles Jr. and Anthony. Girls were Solona, Polly and twins Erilissy and Nancy, all with Christian heritage.

Johnathon settled further up the river where Main Broad comes in. His three boys were Edward, Lansford and Samuel, there was one girl, Jane.

William settled about two miles up the river from his father's place where the state line crosses Broad River. He had four boys, Alexander, Joab, Zacariah and Haskle, girls were Rachel, Dulcenia, Polly Anna and some others.

Many Hoppers are buried in Old Buffalo Church Cemetery just over the state line in S.C. David, Melvin and William are buried at New Hope Cemetery in North Carolina.

Buril H. Hopper of Earl, N.C. is the fifth generation of Joseph Hopper's descendants in this land that he came to almost two hundred years ago. He has a son Max H. Hopper, who has sons, David Haskle Hopper II, Clay B. Hopper and James P. Hopper. So seven con-

Remember . . .

Articles
Are Indexed
By
Article Numbers
Not By
Page
Number

secutive generations of Hopper men have lived in lower Cleveland County in this direct family line.

Melvin, father of Theos Hopper lived in Shelby. So did William Hopper. A great part of these Hopper families attended Old Broad River Academy.

Many other Hoppers live in Cleveland that are descendants from the Joseph from Ireland. These seven generations of Hopper men I've mentioned are from John Surratt, son of Charles, whose father was Joseph, from Ireland.

— Mrs. Gladys Horn Hopper

THE HORD FAMILY

618

The lineage of the Hord family has been traced to Richard Hord, Shropshire, 1275 A.D. In 1553 Alan Hord, a member of that family and a Bencher of the Middle Temple, London, purchased the manor of "Cote," Oxfordshire where his family resided until it became extinct in the main line in 1840.

Younger branches of Alan Hord of the Middle Temple removed to London, to Ewell, in Surrey and to the southern and southwestern counties of England.

The Hords of Virginia and Kentucky are descended from Alan Hord of the Middle Temple whose grandfather, Thomas Hord was Attorney General during the reign of Henry VII.

"Aalan Hoord" came to Virginia with Colonel Moore Fauntleroy in May 22, 1650.

In "Visitation of Somersetshire" (published by Harleian Society) the family spelling was Hourd, Hord, Horde and Hurd.

There is a possibility the name was Scandinavian origin. There is a family in Sweden bearing the name Hord, of which General Hord was a valiant officer of Charles XII of Sweden and his son, the Count de Hordt died in Berlin in 1785 were distinguished members. So, the name may easily be an offshoot of the Swedish family name and during the incursions of the Norsemen, some of the Scandinavian Hords settled in England.

John Hord (1664 — will proved in 1749 is listed in "Immigrant Ancestors," a list of 2,500 immigrants to America before 1750). He settled in Christ Church Parish, Middlesex County, Virginia, August 1, 1708, then St. Ann's Parish, Essex County. His eldest son, Thomas, proved his importation into the colony, April 15, 1740. He settled at Shady Grove (Essex Co.). He was born in Ewell, England and came to Virginia in 1685 at age 21.

John Sarratt Hopper and Eliza Hopper with ten of twelve children. Family reunion, May, 1898.

John was an English gentlemen, born in England, December 29, 1664 and baptized the following January 19th. It is supposed he was engaged in the rebellion of the Duke of Monmouth against King James II and came to America after the defeat of the former at the battle of Selgemoor (1685). A record still exists showing Thomas Hord, Esq. of "Cote House" the head of the family then, was imprisoned in Oxford Castle for the offense.

He was a grand juror, 1721-24, and a surveyor of highways, 1731. He married Jane. When John came to Virginia, he purchased a large track of land which is now Caroline County, 2 miles South of the Rappahannock River (now "Shady Grove") and eight miles below the village of Port Royal. He brought the house over in sections. He lived there until he died and his will was probated in Essex County, November 21, 1740. Today the house is uninhabitable.

Hord Coat of Arms

Two brothers, John and James came to Rutherford County (now Cleveland County). They had once lived in Charlotte County, Virginia. John Alan Hord of Midland, Texas is an ancestor of this John.

Rev. Arnold Harris Hord has written two histories of the family. (His father, Robert, wrote an earlier history). His first history was in 1898, entitled "Genealogy of the Hord Family" and in 1915 "The Hord Family of Virginia." Both are stamped "Virginia State Library."

Rev. Hord was Rector of Emmanuel Church, Philadelphia and Registrar of the Diocese of Pennsylvania, Member of the Executive Board of the Church Historical Society, and member of the Virginia Historical Society.

William C. Kogee in "Early Families of Eastern and Southeastern Kentucky and their Descendants" has written a chapter on "Hord Family of Virginia and Carter County, Kentucky."

The "Hord" name appeared in Henry County, (Martinsville, Va. before or just after the Revolutionary War. There are many popular names in the family such as: Richard, Alan, Thomas, John, Thomas, James, William, Jesse, Mordecai, Sarah, Elizabeth, Jane, Susanna, over and over. There are few double names making it hard to trace all the Jesses, Mordecais, James, and Johns, etc. however, the Virginia State Library reports all persons by the name Hord are related.

James and "Patsy" (Martha) Hord were born in Virginia but moved to Cleveland County in 1821 (1860 Cleveland County Census). Their children were Richard T. (Thomas) born 1806, Jesse, born in Virginia in 1813; Patrick, born 1816, John (no record) and Susanna (married John Caveniss December 15, 1825.

Jesse and Richard married twice and had larger families. Jesse had 19 children and Richard T. had 10 children.

Jessie and Elizabeth Conner were charter members of Elizabeth Baptist Church.

A Hord relative, Patricia Anthony and hus-

Kate Hord and many more.

The Hords can be proud of their heritage.

— Mrs. W.M. Craft

THE ALBERT THOMPSON and EUGENIA ELDORA EATON HORD FAMILY

619

Albert Thompson Hord was born July 29, 1852 at Double Shoals, Cleveland County, North Carolina, died October 3, 1922 and was buried in Cleveland County, N.C.

Albert was the seventh child of a family of thirteen born to Richard Thomas and Margaret Harmon Thompson Hord, grandson of James and Martha Prayer (or Puryear or Pryor) Hord. His brothers and sisters were as follows: Thomas Jefferson, born 1840; Harret Amelia, born 1842; Abdalla Sabot, born 1844 and who served in the Confederate Army and was captured and released at Fort Lookout, Maryland in June 1865; Margaret Mahaley born 1846; Julia Ann born 1848; Emily Louvenie born 1850; Daniel Hartwell born 1854; James Madison born 1856; Mary Elizabeth born 1858; Eliza Lucinda born 1860; baby girl born and died 1862; Jane Harmon born 1863. Albert's mother died 1863 so his father married Mahaley Ramseur Ledford a few months afterwards and to them were born two sons, Richard Anderson and George Clifton.

Albert graduated from Shelby High School and from Wake Forest College in 1864. It is understood that he taught school in Shelby before attending college as he mentioned in one of his diaries of having certain pupils in class.

In the year of 1885 he was preaching in Franklin, N.C. He was appointed missionary over a territory of forty miles which he covered usually by horseback. Some of the places where he preached in the forty mile radius were Kerr Chapel, Berry Grove, Shuping's Schoolhouse and several other places. During this time he lived in Cleveland (formerly Third Creek) and boarded with the family of Dr. S.W. Eaton and in 1888 married one of the daughters, Eldora Eugenia (Dora) Eaton. He organized a Sunday School and Bible Reading which was held in Eaton's Hall and in which he helped build the benches on which people sat.

In 1886 Mr. Hord wrote in his diary of March 11th, "Tomorrow is the day appointed to organize Third Creek Baptist Church. Not a Baptist church in Rowan County nearer than Salisbury. This will be the fourth for whites church in the County." He had worked hard under difficult situations to establish a church at Third Creek and even worked harder getting the building built. It was a "heartbreaking" mission he had taken on for many obstacles were placed in his way but he travelled far and wide collecting money for the building. Sometime he was given ten cents, fifty cents and in several cases ten and fifty dollars, but it all went into the house of the Lord. Mr. Hord even went to the woods and worked along with the colored help in getting out timbers for the building.

St. Mary's Chapel, Bampton, England

band, Dr. Tom Bond spent their honeymoon, October, 1981 visiting "Cote House" in Bampton, England. They took some of the photos.

"Cote House" has been sold by owners Constance Cummings (actress) and playwright husband, Benjamin Levy to the Andersons. The Levys moved across from "Cote House" and farm.

Some professions of descendants are: Attorney Joe Mauney; Dr. Frank Weir, Jr., Dr. L.L. Anthony, Jr., Dr. W. Jacob Craft, Dr. J. Hord Craft, Dr. J.G. Hord, George A. Harris President of American Hospital Supply Co., James Edwin Hord, former Eastern Airlines Pilot, Dr. James Edwin Hord, Jr., Parker Hord, playwright (listed in 1931 Who's Who in America) and Dr. D.F. Hord (plus farmers) and teachers: Margaret Hord Anthony, Mary Frances Hord Cothran, Ruth Hord Craft, Richard C. Craft, Sue Hord Moss, Nancy Hord, Jen Hord, Marjorie Hord, Carolyn Hord Harris,

View of the front of Cote House

In 1889 through 1890 (or perhaps longer) he was preaching at Burlington and from there went to Glenville and was there until 1896. In 1890 he took part, acting as Deputy Grand Chaplain, at the laying of the corner stone of Elon College. Elon College opened its doors for its first session September 2, 1890.

Albert T. Hord spent his life trying to win souls to Christ but he also taught school and did some selling during his time on earth. He was a Mason, A.F. and A.M. for many, many years. The last place was at Cary, N.C.

Albert Hord believed in having a large family as he and Eugenia Eldora had twelve children as follows: Richard Samuel born February 24, 1890, died March 20, 1964; Annie Amelia Hord Davis, born May 30, 1892, died September 1958; Daniel Griffith, born February 4, 1894 killed in an accident September 17, 1928; Charles Edgar born April 1, 1896, died March 25, 1967; Beatrice Alberta Hord Britt born February 5, 1898, died July 16, 1967; Albert Blanks born October 9, 1899; Mary Ethel Hord Lambert born June 15, 1902; Eugene Claudius born August 27, 1904; Margaret Velna Hord McCune born March 17, 1907; Juanita Jossie Hord Miller born April 6, 1909; Rowena Meredith Hord Brown born November 19, 1911; Cornelia Armata Hord Cooperstein born November 6, 1915. Six of the surviving children live in the Pacific Northwest and the other one in Tucson, Arizona.

— Mrs. Edw. P. Miller (Juanita J.)

DAVID FLETCHER HORD, SR.

620

David Fletcher Hord, Sr. was born May 20, 1880 near Shelby in the Cleveland Springs area. He was the son of John Mordecai Hord (1854-1909) and Sara Jane Bookout (1852-1923), and the grandson of Jesse Hord (1813-1898).

He had five sisters who were: Mrs. Farris Ledford (Bess), Mrs. Tom Roberts (Mig), Mrs. Clarence Bumgardner (Tish), Mrs. Stough Miller (Delia), and Mrs. Frank Weir (Ethel). There was one brother, Blanton Hord.

Mr. Hord attended Shelby public school and graduated from a business college in Macon, Georgia, about 1900.

In 1906 he married Fannie V. Spake (1886-1958) of Shelby, daughter of Adam Phillip Spake (1864-1933) and Sara Rosana Wilson (1857-1917). The couple lived first in Waco, North Carolina, and later moved to Kings Mountain, where Mr. Hord was bookkeeper for the Cloth Mill Store, and later became associated with Plonk Brothers and Company. In 1925, he became active manager of D.F. Hord Furniture Company, Inc. and remained in this work until his death on February 7, 1943.

David Fletcher Hord, Sr.

As a youth he became a member of Elizabeth Baptist Church, having been baptised in Buffalo River by the pioneer preacher, The Reverend Thomas Dixon. In Kings Mountain, he joined the First Baptist Church and was a leader in the erecting of a new building in 1912. During his thirty-six years as a member of this church, he served as deacon, Sunday School teacher, church clerk and youth leader. He was moderator of the Kings Mountain Baptist Association and was a trustee of Boiling Springs College (now Gardner-Webb College) for over sixteen years.

Mr. Hord was interested in the civic affairs of his community. He was a member of the Business Men's Club and served for several terms as town councilman. At one time he was mayor pro tem. He was the first executive secretary of the Kings Mountain Merchants Association and was instrumental in its being organized.

There were three children born to Fletcher and Fannie Hord: Sara Nell (Mrs. H. Tom Fulton); Mae Sue (Mrs. George W. Moss); and David Fletcher, Jr., Doctor of Dental Surgery. The son's death occurred September 26, 1979.

Mr. Hord's death was in Memorial Hospital, Charlotte, North Carolina, and he is buried in Mountain Rest Cemetery in Kings Mountain.

Source: Family information.

— Sue H. Moss

DR. DAVID FLETCHER HORD, JR.

621

Dr. David Fletcher Hord, Jr. was a respected dentist in Kings Mountain for thirty years from 1949 until his death on September 26, 1979.

He was the recipient of the Distinguished Service Award presented by the North Carolina Society of Dentistry for Children in 1970. The coveted award is presented each year to a general practitioner and reads: "In recognition for his tireless efforts for improving the dental health of the children of his community and state and for devoted leadership in this Society." Dr. Hord was a charter member of the group and served as secretary-treasurer for four years.

Born in Kings Mountain on April 7, 1923, Dr. Hord was educated in the Kings Mountain schools. He did his undergraduate work at Wake Forest University and earned his Doctor of Dental Surgery Degree from Emory University in 1946. The third child of Fannie Spake and David Fletcher Hord, his two sisters Nell (Mrs. H. Tom Fulton) and Sue (Mrs. George W. Moss) are residents of Kings Mountain.

Upon his graduation from Emory, Dr. Hord was associated with Dr. E. W. Connell of Mount Holly.

After serving in the Army Dental Corps at Fort Sam Houston, Texas and Fort Jackson, South Carolina, the dentist was discharged with the rank of captain in 1948. In January 1949, he began practicing general dentistry in his home town.

Active in all phases of his profession, Dr.

Dr. David Fletcher Hord, Jr.

Hord was president of the First District of the North Carolina Dental Society in 1972-1973. He served as a delegate of the state Dental Society from 1973-1976.

On the state level, he was a member of the Executive Committee of the North Carolina Dental Society from 1977-1979, serving as chairman of that body for two years.

Dr. Hord was a member of the Charlotte Dental Society, Isothermal Dental Society, Pierre Fauchard Academy, Cleveland County Dental Study Club, North Carolina Unit of the Academy of General Dentistry and served as director for two years. He was a member of the Psi Omega Dental Fraternity serving as secretary and Grand Master of the state chapter.

A director of the Dental Foundation of North Carolina and alternate delegate to the American Dental Association meetings in 1977 and 1978, Dr. Hord was a participant in two workshops on the national level representing the North Carolina Society.

Dr. Hord was a devoted churchman and member of the Kings Mountain Baptist Church. Active in the choir, the deacon board, and Sunday School, he served as Sunday School Director and teacher. As a member of the First Baptist Church, he served as deacon and church treasurer.

A member of the General Board of the Kings Mountain Baptist Association, he was representative for North Carolina Baptist Hospital.

Interested in his county and community, the dentist worked in the successful campaign to fluoridate the Kings Mountain water system. The purpose of this effort was to help prevent cavities in children's teeth.

Dr. Hord was an active participant in the Red Cross Donor Program, having been cited for his contributions.

In 1945-1955, he was President of the Cleveland County Tuberculosis Association and since 1965 was a member of the Cleveland County Board of Health and had been vice-chairman for three years at the time of his death.

Dr. Hord was active in several community organizations. He was a member of the Board of Trustees of the Kings Mountain Hospital. As a young man, he was an officer in the Jaycees and in 1953, he served as president of the Kiwanis Club and later as president of the High School Parent-Teacher Association. An avid golfer, he was a member of the Kings Mountain Country Club and a collector of coins and stamps.

Dr. Hord was a family man. He married Leonora Eoline Keeter, a Cleveland County native, on August 9, 1946 in the First Baptist Church in Kings Mountain and they are the parents of five children; Mary Jo (Mrs. Stan Whitley) of Morganton, West Virginia; Barbara Spake (Mrs. W.S. Fulton III) of Kings Mountain; David III (who married Bonnie Patterson) of China Grove; Nancy Eoline (Mrs. Edward Bunch) of Asheboro, and Anne Byron Hord of Mars Hill College. There are four grandchildren.

The new tower of the Kings Mountain Hospital will have a room in Dr. Hord's honor. Brass offering plates and landscaping at his church, and the D.F. Hord Memorial Award given by the First District Dental Society to an outstanding dentist in the district commemorate his life. These four memorials, given by his friends and relatives, will perpetuate the memory of this versatile man.

Sources: Kings Mountain Herald Articles, obituary notices; family conversations & records.

Eoline K. Hord

THE GEORGE CLIFTON HORD FAMILY

622

George Clifton Hord was the son of Richard Thomas and Mahala Ledford Hord. Richard Thomas Hord born February 23, 1806, came from England along with six brothers and settled in Virginia.

According to information handed down from his descendants, he came to North Carolina in January 1837 and bought a tract of land from Martin P. Shuford. This land being located on each side of First Broad river between what is now known as the towns of Lawndale and Double Shoals.

He built this colonial home and in September 28, 1863 he married Mahala Ledford Horn born December 17, 1835. They had two children: Richard Anderson Hord born September 14, 1864; George Clifton Hord born January 3, 1867, George Clifton Hord lived here with his father until August 15, 1889 he married Lucretia Emma Lee born March 15, 1873. She was the daughter of William Crook Lee (October 26, 1841 — December 20, 1909) and Mary Lucinda Hardin Lee (August 15, 1835 — November 28, 1905). Both were buried in the Palm Tree Methodist church cemetery between Lawndale and Polkville.

After George Clifton married, he built a house about a mile from his father's house and moved in it. To this union was born twelve children: Maurice Clifton Hord (June 11, 1890 — May 16, 1892) was buried in New Bethel Baptist church cemetery located between Fallston and Lawndale; Lula May Hord (May 31, 1893, married Willis Birch Callahan November 17, 1918, died February 26, 1973) was buried in the town cemetery at Rutherfordton, North Carolina; Della Blanche Hord born January 18, 1895, married George Mark Borders November 20, 1919, died September 24, 1979 and was buried in Patterson Springs Baptist church cemetery; Lela Lee Hord born July 22, 1897 and married Charles Lawrence Putnam November 26, 1916; William Craven Hord born February 24, 1900, died September 23, 1902 and was buried in New Bethel Baptist church cemetery; Richard Forrest Hord born February 26, 1902 and married Ellen Beatrice Turner November 25, 1925; Gazzie Mahala Hord born February 1, 1904 and married Albert Henry Putnam December 21, 1922;

George Clifton Hord homeplace

Mable Lucretia Hord born October 14, 1906 and married D. Broadus Norman September 10, 1942; Lawrence Gilbert Hord born June 26, 1909, married Sadie Louise Patterson September 18, 1932, died October 22, 1974 and was buried in the town cemetery at Hickory, North Carolina; Edna Lola Hord born February 17, 1912; George Junior Hord born April 5, 1914 and married Margaret Juanita Bates December 24, 1939; Russell Thomas Hord born March 10, 1917 and married Edna Mae Roberts July 6, 1940.

George Clifton Hord had thirteen half brothers and sisters born to his father and first wife Margaret H. Thompson born January 15, 1823, died July 3, 1863 and was buried in the family cemetery about one quarter of a mile from the home place.

When George Clifton's mother, Mahala Ledford Hord, died he moved his family back to the home place and lived there until he died Feb. 19, 1948. Lucretia Emma Lee Hord died May 14, 1958 and they were both buried in New Bethel Baptist Church cemetery located between Fallston and Lawndale.

The home place remained in the Hord family until April 11, 1972 when the house was destroyed by fire. A few months after the fire the farm was sold.

George Clifton Hord was never a rich man, as far as money was concerned, but we always had plenty to eat and wear. He often made the comment he didn't want to die hungry. We farmed and raised most all we ate except sugar and coffee.

He was a devoted church worker. He always taught his family that when Sunday came we were all supposed to go to church. He was an ordained deacon for many years at New Bethel Baptist church. In 1946 he was made honorary deacon for the rest of his life. He attended the Kings Mountain Baptist Association for forty years without missing a single year.

Sources: Family records, relatives, personal knowledge, memories, and tombstones.

— Edna L. Hord

J.G. HORD, M.D.

623

Jacob George Van Buren Hord, L.I. and M.D. maintained a successful and prestigious medical practice in Kings Mountain of Cleveland County for more than thirty years.

Doctor Hord was born October 2, 1863 on his family's homestead farm that was located in township no. 5, Cleveland County. He was the son of Jesse and Elizabeth (Connor) Hord. Jesse was third generation Hord born in Virginia and his wife, Elizabeth was born in Cleveland County. Jesse was an outstanding farmer and was remembered long after his death at age of eighty-three in 1911. Prior to the Hords coming to Virginia they originated in England. John Hord came from England on August 1, 1708 and settled in Middlesex County, Virginia.¹

Doctor Hord being only one of nineteen children born to Jesse and Elizabeth, learned at an early age to depend on his own resources. He chopped wood for his brothers for twenty-five cents per cord and cleared land at two cents per hour. He plowed with a blind mule and many nights he planted corn and what by moonlight.²

Dr. J.G. Hord

Doctor Hord was a student for two and one-half years at the University of North Carolina and in 1889 he was graduated from the Tennessee State Normal College at Nashville, with the degree of Licentiate of Instruction. In 1891 he was graduated from the medical department of the University of Louisville, Kentucky. He was an avid follower of advances in medicine and surgical science. He took effective postgraduate courses in the celebrated New York Polyclinic and at the New York Post-Graduate Medical College.

Mrs. Mattie White Hord married Doctor Hord on November 25, 1891. Mattie was the doctor's first wife. She died in 1895.³

As a doctor practicing medicine, Doctor Hord had many humorous incidents to occur.

Some that are readily remembered are as follows:

He was called to a home near the North Carolina and South Carolina line to visit a sick baby. It turned out the baby was not as sick as the mother thought, and she apologized for calling him on a cold winter night when the roads were so bad. Doctor Hord said, "That's all right, if you thought you needed a doctor, you needed him."

On another occasion, while studying in New York, he roomed with a doctor whose family was well-to-do. The roommate was so lazy he didn't want to go out to buy food. He would put some money on the dresser and Doctor Hord was pleased to go and buy the food for both of them.

On another day, while he was walking through a store in New York — just looking around — a gangster stuck a pistol in his side. Doctor Hord calmly whispered, "I'm working this side of the store, you take the other side." Needless to say, the Doctor lost no time leaving the store!

Doctor Hord was to operate on a man for a hernia at the patient's home because there was no hospital in Kings Mountain at that time. The Doctor needed someone to give the ether, so when he saw a medical student on the street, who was home on vacation, he persuaded the student (Dr. O.G. Moss now living in Rutherford County) to assist. (Doctor Moss recently told this writer he was scared to death). When the operation was over the family said, "We'll see you." Doctor Hord said, "No, you won't. I have this man to pay for his help." So the family paid the doctor.

Otto Leon Hord, the only child of Mattie White Hord and J.G. Hord was killed in an auto accident when he was twenty-three on September 29, 1920. Dr. Hord married his first wife's younger sister, Carrie White. Dr. and Mrs. Hord had seven children.

Dr. Hord died on January 14, 1930; his second wife, Carrie Belle White died November 25, 1940. Both are buried at the Mountain Rest Cemetery in Kings Mountain, North Carolina.

Dr. Hord was one of the largest landowners in Cleveland County having property in Oklahoma and in the eastern and western part of the state. He built a beautiful home which was one of the finest and most modern houses to be found in Cleveland County. In 1905 Doctor Hord became one of the organizers and incorporators of the Peoples Loan and Trust Company of Kings Mountain. Doctor Hord had membership in Gaston County Medical Society. He was a Democrat, a deacon, an elder in the Associate Reformed Presbyterian Church, member of the Board of Alderman, and served as a member of the local Board of Education.

Residence of Dr. J.G. Hord, presently the Mauney Memorial Library in Kings Mountain.

Dr. Hord's family home is now serving as the Mauney Memorial Library in Kings Mountain.

Doctor Hord's children and their spouses and grandchildren:

Otto Leon Hord is unmarried and deceased.

Margaret Louise Hord and Luther Leslie Anthony (deceased) parents; Isabelle (Anthony) Hiatt Greensboro, North Carolina; Luther Leslie Anthony, Jr., M.D. Gastonia, North Carolina; Margaret "Sug" Anthony (deceased).

Ruth Elizabeth Hord and William McElveen Craft (parents); William Jacob Craft, Ph.D. Greensboro, North Carolina; James Hord Craft, N.C. Durham, North Carolina; Richard Carroll Craft, M.A. Forest City, North Carolina.

Jacob George Hord, Jr. unmarried and deceased.

Mary Frances Hord and Thomas White Cothran, II (parents); Thomas White Cothran, III Shelby, North Carolina; James Hord Cothran Shelby, North Carolina; Carolyn Virginia Cothran Charlotte, North Carolina.

Mr. and Mrs. James Edwin, Hord, Sr. (parents); James Edwin Hord, Jr., Ph.D. Panama City, Florida; Robert White Hord Garden Grove, California; Jacob George Hord Memphis, Tennessee; Bettie Hord Burger Marietta, Georgia.

Maude Eunice Hord unmarried and deceased.

Carolyn Rebecca Hord and James Abner Harris (parents); Jacob George Harris Deerfield, Illinois; James Wallace (Wally) Harris, Kansas City, Missouri.

All buried in Mountain Rest Cemetery.

Sources: "Early Families of Eastern and Southwestern Kentucky" "N.C. Rebuilding an Ancient Commonwealth" Hord family Bible.

— Ruth Hord Craft

THE JOHN HORD FAMILY

624

John Hord was born in England in 1700 and died in this country in 1803. We do not know exactly when he arrived in this country, but King George of England deeded him 1085 acres of land. That land was later sold to George Harriston the third (better known as Rusty Harriston), and he built a rock mansion (12 rooms) there, and this section was known as Hordville and was situated some ten miles west of Martinsville, Va. John Hord was buried just outside that mansion, and on that tombstone is dates 1700-1803. As stated, we do not know the exact date he arrived in this country, but his son James and wife Martha moved from Virginia to Cleveland Co. N.C., which was at that time Rutherford Co. Their arrival date here was in 1821.

William G. and Mary Ann Whitworth Hord on wedding day

The Children of James and Martha Hord, who moved here from Virginia, are as follows: Patrick Hord was married to Nancy Thompson. Richard Thomas Hord was married to Margaret Harmon Thompson first marriage then to Mahaley Ledford; Jesse Hord was first married to Nancy Gardner, and second marriage to Elizabeth Cannon; John Hord, we have no information on him. Susana Hord married John Cabaniss.

Information on Jesse Hord, being third child born to James and Martha Hord is as follows. Jesse Hord was born in Cleveland Co. September 17, 1813 and died June 20, 1898, and his first marriage was to Nancy E. Gardner, and to this union were born the following: (1) James Young Hord, born July 28, 1839 and died March 7, 1930, and he was married to Jane Harmon who was born Feb. 2, 1948 and she died June 23, 1906; (2) Tom Hord married Hulda Neil, no other information; (3) Becky Hord married a Barrett; (4) Jane Hord married Berry Barrett; (5) Mary Hord married a Hoyle, (6) Martha Hord married a Carpenter, then a Morrison.

Jesse Hord's second marriage was to Elizabeth Connor, and to this union were born (1) Haley Ford first married a Styres, then Haas Bridges, then to Sidney Weathers. (2) Mordecai Hord married Sally Bookout, (3) Ed Hord married Roxanna Kendrick, (4) Joe Hord married Fannie Stubs, (5) Adam Hord married Mattie Dover, (6) Jake Hord married Mattie White first then her sister Carrie after she died. (7) Bill Hord married Chatty Keller, (8) Sallie Hord married Robert E. Kerr, (9) Eliza Hord married Joe Kendrick, (10) Julia Hord married Jake Keller, (11) Lillie Hord married Ed Hord of another Hord family, and (12) Matilda Hord married Thomas (Tom) Allen.

James Young Hord, the first born of Jesse and Nancy Hord, begat the following children by his first wife Hane Harmond Hord. (1) William Gordon Hord married Mary Anne Whitworth. He was born Feb. 14, 1868 and died July 31, 1941, and the wife was born Nov. 25, 1872, and died March 29, 1966; (2) Jesse Lee Hord born Oct. 13, 1869 and died Dec. 7, 1944, and was married to Nora Dixon born Nov. 4, 1873 and died March 5, 1963; (3) Lucy Jane Hord born Nov. 5, 1872 and died May 15, 1937, and was married to William H. Caldwell; (4) John Richard Hord born Oct. 15, 1874, and died Feb. 2, 1960, and he was married to Ella Docia Whitworth who was born April 19, 1877, and died Jan. 6, 1967; (5) Robert M. Hord, born March 2, 1877, and died May 4, 1934, and was married to Zee Chumbly; (6) Sarah Hord born March 14, 1879 and died September 1941, and she was first married to Lawson Botts, who was accidentally killed in a hunting expedition, then many years later, she married D.F. Froneberger; (7) Walter E. Hord born Sept. 12, 1881, never married, and died July 13, 1906; (8) Martha Anne Hord born Oct. 13, 1883 and died June 19, 1957, and she was married to P.M. (Maynard) Washburn; (9) Benjamin Frank Hord born Nov. 25, 1885, and died March 10, 1950, (10) Salina Maudie Hord was born Dec. 31, 1887, and died March 8, 1878, and she was married to William V. Smith, (11) Fannie G. Hord born Feb. 29, 1890, and she was married to W. Henry Yeago. She is still living as of March 30, 1982.

Listed in the next chapter is the children of William Gordon Hord and Mary Anne Whitworth Hord.

Loron James William Hord born Sept. 15, 1892, and died March 29, 1969. He was married to the former Ellen Houser. Nannie Leslie Hord was born Feb. 3, 1896 and was married to Elisha F. McBrayer who is deceased. Raymond Dewey Hord born May 17, 1898 is married Dona Blanche Spake Sept. 15, 1920. Alvin Lee Hord was born Oct. 14, 1900 and died July 14, 1979, and he was married to the former Lalyage Blalock. Zona Jane Hord born Nov. 3, 1902 and was married to James Aubrey Clay Dec. 23, 1933, she was run over and killed by a new truck owned by Lutz Yelton Co. Dec. 14, 1954. Mary Lou Hord was born August 19, 1905 and married to Carl Davidson August 19, 1926, and he was killed instantly by a truck in Kings Mountain in 1945, she then was married to Jesse F. Niven August 3, 1953. He is now deceased. Maude Ava Hord was born December 31, 1907, was married to Frazier P. Patton who is now deceased. She then married John W. Wotring Dec. 25, 1962. John was born Dec. 31, 1897.

Raymond Dewey Hord and Dona Spake Hord's children are as follows:

Mary Sue Hord was born in Boiling Springs July 13, 1921, married L.W. Knight May 20, 1943. Elizabeth Elaine Hord was born Nov. 7, 1923 and died Feb. 14, 1924; Dorothy Caroll Hord was born April 30, 1927 in Boiling Springs, and married Yuell Reid Hawkins March 27, 1948. Yuell was killed by a train; Horace Blainey Hord was born Sept. 21, 1929 in Boiling Springs, and is married to the former Mary Ruth Dedmon June 2, 1955. An infant son was also born in Boiling Springs, Sept. 2, 1931 (still-born).

The children of Horace Blainey Hord and Mary Ruth Dedmon Hord are as follows: Deborah Lynn Hord was born July 2, 1956; Melanie Jane Hord was born 9/5/1958; Charlotte Elaine Hord was born Aug. 19, 1962; Emily Celeste Hord was born Jan. 15, 1965.

Most of the Hord men seemed to follow some kind of mechanical work. W.G. Hord had, and operated, two portable saw mills that were operated by steam traction engines, and one stationary saw mill that was located at his cotton gin. They were operated by a large steam boiler and stationary steam engine. He also operated a corn mill, black-smith shop, lumber planers, wheat threshing machine, shingle making machine and other pieces of machinery. Always something to do, never a dull moment. Raymond D. Hord has operated an automobile repair shop for many many years.

See Hord family portrait in memorial section.

— Raymond D. Hord

RAYMOND DEWEY and DONA BLANCHE SPAKE HORD

625

Raymond Dewey and Dona Blanche Spake Hord celebrated their sixtieth wedding anniversary on September 15, 1980. On September 14, their children honored them with a "This Is Your Life" program in the Fellowship Hall of Elizabeth Baptist Church. Raymond and Dona thought this was to be a reception, but when they arrived, the two hundred-fifty guests were already present and witnessed a flashback of the lives of the couple.

Raymond Dewey Hord, son of William Gordon and Mary Ann (Molly) Whitworth Hord, was born in Cleveland County May 17, 1898. He grew up in Waco, learning from his father to operate many kinds of machinery. He worked in the saw mill, with threshing equipment, and with heavy graders. He clearly remembers scraping the dirt streets around the Cleveland County Courthouse on the Court Square.

Dona Blanche Spake, seventh child of William George and Susan Roxana Irvin Spake, was born on August 11, 1897. Her home was located on Hickory Creek on the east side of Shelby where Bost Bakery now stands.

It was 1916 when Raymond and Dona met. Raymond was working on a threshing crew at Mike Borders farm when Mrs. Borders insisted that he get down off the machine and meet the girls that she had with her. One of those girls was Dona Spake, whom Mrs. Borders told Raymond he should choose for his sweetheart. He agreed, but did not make his feelings known for a while because of his extreme shyness. He took a job as conductor of the dining car on the Southern Railroad and traveled from Washington, D.C. to Atlanta. It was during that time that Raymond dreamed three times of Dona. He wrote her a card, which she answered, and a courtship was born. They were married by "Preacher Suttle" at the home of the bride's parents on September 15, 1920.

During their young married days, they lived in Boiling Springs, North Carolina, where all their children were born. The house still stands and is located to the rear of Beason's Sandwich Shop. Raymond operated a service station, garage, and barber shop. He earned the reputation of being an excellent mechanic, a rating he still holds today. Known as a "fast driver," he always had a good car.

After his business was twice-destroyed by fire, the Hords moved to Shelby, where Dona and the children lived while R.D. worked in Petersburg, Virginia, as chief automotive instructor at Camp Lee. After World War II Raymond returned to Shelby where he and son Horace worked together in a garage built near their home on Highway 150 East. After Horace left to enter North Carolina State College, Raymond continued to operate the garage, serving many customers throughout the years who refused to take their cars to anyone else. Raymond has now retired, but at this writing, at age eighty-three, still works on a few cars each week.

Raymond is a tall, energetic man with dark hair that has resisted graying. He continues to be a very busy person, spending many hours a week visiting patients in the local hospital and rest homes, and being active in the local Exchange Club where in 1980 he was awarded a plaque as the "Exchangeite of the Year."

Dona is a petite brunette with fair complexion, described by many who have known her as "a very pretty girl." Her beauty is more than "skin deep." She is also known to be gentle and kind and a fine Christian woman.

Both the Hords are active members of Elizabeth Baptist Church where Dona taught Sunday School for many years. They still reside on

Horace B. Hord

Highway 150 East at 215 Cherryville Road, Shelby, North Carolina, and can often be seen riding in their "little red truck" to visit friends or to express their sympathy to families who have lost loved ones.

Living children of Raymond Dewey and Dona Spake Hord are Mary Sue, Dorothy, and Horace. Elizabeth Elaine was born November 7, 1923, died February 14, 1924. The son born September 2, 1931 died in infancy. Mary Sue b. July 13, 1921 married Leslie Wilson Knight b. February 14, 1920 on May 20, 1943. Their children are Leslie Wilson Knight, Jr. b. March 24, 1954 who on his grandparents' fifty-ninth wedding anniversary September 15, 1979 married Janet Lynn Curry b. June 10, 1955; and Elizabeth Ann b. January 27, 1956 who married Ciro Piccirillo b. October 6, 1956 in a home wedding on January 7, 1978. Their son Ciro Knight Piccirillo was born March 19, 1981. Dorothy Carol b. April 30, 1927 was married on March 27, 1948 to Yuell Reid Hawkins b. April 14, 1928 — d. August 3, 1970. Their children are Yuell Glen Hawkins b. April 16, 1949 who married Carolyn Sue Barnes b. March 6, 1950 on September 28, 1969. Their sons are Joseph Glen, born August 11, 1971, and Charles Edward, born April 6, 1975; Carol Elizabeth b. October 16, 1951, who on May 24, 1974 married Ralph Fennell Pacheco b. January 2, 1950. Pacheco children are Elizabeth Anne, born February 13, 1975, Jonathan Hawkins, born November 7, 1976, and Nathan Armand, born January 23, 1980; Barry Reid Hawkins was born August 30, 1955; and Jack Raymond Hawkins b. November 20, 1956 who on December 19, 1981, married Lourdes Maria Ball-Ilovera who was born January 2, 1959 (Luly). Horace Blainey Hord b. September 21, 1929 married Mary Ruth Dedmon b. May 4, 1930 on June 2, 1955. Their children are Deborah Lynn b. July 2, 1956, Melanie Jane b. September 5, 1958, Charlotte Elaine b. August 19, 1962, and Emily Celeste b. January 15, 1965.

Sources: Oral history, subjects still living.

Dorothy Carol Hord Hawkins and Mary Ruth Dedmon Hord

HENRY HORN

626

Henry Horn, born 1786, was the son of Jessie and Mary Horn and was reared in Virginia during the years the Horns were migrating to the Carolina Piedmont. He married Peggy (Margaret) Bartlett, born 1790. Two of their eight children were born in Surry County, Virginia, one in York County, South Carolina.

He apparently was named for his great-grandfather, Henry Horn, Sr. who landed in Philadelphia in 1720 as a refugee from Germany. Henry has many descendants in Cleveland County today.

Children: (Male) Jessie, born 20 July 1809 in VA., married ??; (Female) Nancy, born 18 March 1811 in VA., married Willis M. Jones; (Male) Deniel, born 18 Jan. 1813 in York County, SC., married Ana Jones; (Male) John, born 28 Jan. 1815 Rutherford County, N.C., married Sarah Elizabeth Harding; (Male)

Johnathon, born 10 Jan. 1820 Rutherford County, N.C., married Lydia McKinny; (Female) Elizabeth, born 22 June 1822 Rutherford County, N.C., married James McKinney; (Female) Sophia, born 6 May 1825 Rutherford County, NC., and married William Wiggins, and (Female) Margaret, born 16 July 1830 Rutherford County, N.C., married Langdon C. Ramsey.

— Gladys H. Hopper

(SEVEN GENERATIONS IN CLEVELAND COUNTY) MY HORN ANCESTRAL LINE IN CLEVELAND COUNTY

627

My Horn Ancestors landed in Philadelphia in the early 1700's via Ireland and Holland as German refugees from the Rhineland of Germany. They migrated southward through Maryland and Virginia into the Piedmonts of North and South Carolina. Some went to Tennessee, Missouri and Westward.

Horn families settled in western Cleveland County, then Rutherford, descendants scattered over the county, some into South Carolina. Today hundreds of Horns and their descendants live in Cleveland County.

Documented lines and records show James and Jean Horn of Surry County, Virginia are parents of Jessie Horn, born May 15, 1752 of Rutherford, now Cleveland County. Marriage bonds and census records are recorded for this family in Virginia, Stokes and Mecklenburg Counties in North Carolina, York County in South Carolina, then Rutherford and Cleveland counties in North Carolina.

Jessie Horn born May, 1752, and wife Mary, who probated their will in Rutherford, now Cleveland County, in 1813 is the first recorded instance of my ancestral line of Horns' owning land and homes on which they reared a family in what is now Cleveland County. Seven children are listed in their will, some of which have descendants in Cleveland County now.

Henry Horn my great-grandfather, was the third child listed in the will. He was born in Surry County, Virginia in 1774, married Peggy (Margaret) Bartlett, migrated to Stokes County, NC then to York County, SC on to Rutherford, now Cleveland County in time for the 1800 census. Henry and Peggy Bartless Horn had eight children. All eight grew up in York County, SC and Rutherford, now Cleveland County in North Carolina.

John Horn, born February 28, 1815, third child of Henry Horn, my grandfather was a farmer, owning at one time about 600 acres of land on headwaters of Sandy Run Creek in Cleveland County. He paid five cents per acre for taxes one time his receipts show. He married Sarah Harding Hamrick, widow of Drewry Dobbins Hamrick, killed in Civil War. She had one child, Clementine who married Frances N. Gardner. She once told me John Horn was the best man she ever knew, he never spoke harshly to her during her childhood. He willed like amounts of land to Clementine as to his own three children who were all born at his home near Lattimore and all went to school there.

James Bartlett Horn, born September 5, 1876 was the youngest of John's three children. He married Hattie Elizabeth Jenkins born August 23, 1888. They reared eleven children of which I, Gladys Clementine Horn Hopper, am oldest. I married Burie H. Hopper of Earl, NC. We have one child Max Haskle Hopper born September 10, 1947. He married Tucker Ilgenfritz. They have three sons, David Haskle Hopper, born January 11, 1968, Clay Burton Hopper born March 16, 1973 and James P. Hopper born May 23, 1978. Thus seven generations of Horn descendants in this one family in Cleveland County.

— Mrs. Burie H. (Gladys Horn) Hopper

JESSIE HORN and FAMILY

628

Jessie Horn born 15 May, 1752 married Mary ? born 1750. They are the first Horn ancestors that records show owned land and home and reared a family in what is now Cleveland County. The 1790 Census shows six Horn families in Western North Carolina but not in Cleveland County.

A will was probated by Jessie Horn in 1813 in what is now Cleveland County but was Rutherford then. Records show him living in Surry County, Virginia at one time; later in Mecklenburg County, N.C. York County, S.C. before he came to then Rutherford County, N.C. He is thought to be the first American generation of the descendants of Henry Horn Sr., who landed in Philadelphia during the early 1700's from Germany, via Holland, Scotland, Ireland, as a German Refugee escaping the tyranny and persecution by the Catholic Church in the Rhineland at that time. Research shows the Horn generations to be of a fiercely independent nature and of Protestant religious faith. Hence it was natural for them to leave Germany at that time.

Jessie Horn's family migrated Southward from Philadelphia through Maryland and Virginia on into the Carolina's Piedmont. Later some went to Tennessee, Ohio, Missouri, and Mississippi. Jessie and Mary, with some of their family, were living in what was then Rutherford, now Cleveland County, for the 1810 Census. Their children are; Hamblin born 1774, Rebecca born 1778, Henry born 1786, Nancy born 1790, James and John born 1793, Elizabeth born 1796.

— Gladys H. Hopper

JAMES ALEXANDER ("COBB") HORN and DESCENDANTS

629

James Alexander ("Cobb") Horn was born on November 6, 1855, one of eight children of Jesse Hamilton Horn and Nancy Elizabeth (Moriah) Wesson Horn, born February 27, 1826, and died August 25, 1899.

The Horns came to America from Germany by way of Ireland in the seventeenth century. They settled first in York County, South Carolina, and then moved into Rutherford (now Cleveland) County. Jesse Hamilton Horn was born on February 22, 1814, and was killed by lightning on July 6, 1861, on his farm near Double Shoals. He and his wife are buried in Zion Church Cemetery.

The residence and family of James Alexander (Cobb) Horn in 1903

James Alexander was married to Loucreasea Lattimore, born August 1, 1856, daughter of Frank and Sophia Elam Lattimore, on December 20, 1877, by Thomas Dixon. "Cobb" and "Lou", as they were called, began housekeeping in Rutherford County. Their first four children, including twins, died there. One of the twins died at birth, and the others died of diphtheria within a period of eight days at ages seven, five, and three. These were Franklin Hamilton, born August 31, 1879, died January 14, 1886; Ambrose M., born September 10, 1881, died January 14, 1886; and Verna V., twin, born November 13, 1883, died January 23, 1886. The burials were in New Bethel Church Cemetery in Lawndale. Two other children — Bessie Jane, born April 29, 1886, and Daniel Thurman, born August 22, 1888 — were born in Rutherford County. They moved back to Cleveland County and bought a part of the Harrison Eskridge land adjacent to the old Horn homeplace where four more children were born. These were James Edgar, born November 15, 1890; Verdie Mae, born May 22, 1893; Essie Fay, born October 4, 1895; William Yates, born June 8, 1898; and Charles Coleman ("Cobby"), born April 13, 1901.

In 1901 Mr. and Mrs. Horn built a spacious modern home near the site of the original Hamilton Horn home. They reared seven children and lived there until their deaths in 1934. Since 1937 the home has been occupied by Daniel Thurman, the oldest son, and his family.

Mr. Horn was a farmer, a trader, and one of the earliest new car dealers in Cleveland County, having the Briscoe Agency. He did extensive trading in livestock. He was a good judge of values, bought only good land, and knew how to farm. At his death, he was perhaps the largest landowner in the county, owning between 2,000 and 2,500 acres before a division among his children. When each of his seven children married, he gave them one hundred acres with the privilege of buying more if they desired. None of his land has ever been sold by any of his descendants, and either one of his children or a spouse of one of his children, or one of his grandchildren still lives on the land he gave.

Mr. Horn was a rugged individual with keen business judgment, a fine sense of honor and integrity, and was a dedicated husband and father. Unusual forethought and self-sacrifice for his children is revealed by the following incident: One night as he and Mrs. Horn sat by the fire, she saw her husband take his pipe and tobacco and throw them into the fire. "What in the world is the matter, Cobb?" she asked. "Have to quit all these things if you're going to raise children," he said. And from that day on, no one can recall that he ever smoked or chewed tobacco, took a drink, or used an oath.

Mr. Horn was very civic-minded. He was very interested in the old Piedmont High School of which he was a trustee, was a faithful and generous member of Double Shoals Baptist Church where he was a deacon and was a dedicated Mason. He was a director of the North Carolina Cotton Growers Association for a number of years. He was always interested in politics but never sought any office.

After a lingering illness, Mr. Horn died on October 29, 1934, and was buried in Zion Baptist Church Cemetery with Masonic rites. His obituary stated that "One of the largest crowds to gather there for a funeral was present to pay their respects to a noble citizen."

Loucreasea Lattimore Horn was a devoted wife, a loving mother, and a gracious lady with a delightful sense of humor. The love and admiration of her family for her is shown in that five of her seven granddaughters are named for her. Mrs. Horn died of a stroke within two weeks of her husband although she was in perfectly normal health at the time of his death. She was buried beside her husband. They were married fifty-six years.

Their seven children and their spouses who survived them are as follows: Bessie Jane, died November 17, 1980, married December 19, 1909, Mont Glenn Cabaniss, born March 2, 1885, died September 15, 1967; Daniel Thurman, died June 26, 1981, married December 20, 1916, Martha Madeline Simmons, born January 13, 1897; James Edgar, died March 2, 1935, married December 23, 1914, Evageline Warlick, born January 10, 1895, died July 1, 1979; Verdie Mae, married June 15, 1919, Thomas Lawson Dedmon, born September 20, 1889, died December 9, 1956; Essie Fay, married December 23, 1919, Michaux DeWitt Harrill, born March 20, 1895, died September 29, 1951; William Yates, died December 7, 1976, married March 4, 1928, Cora Marie Cornwell, born February 15, 1901; Charles Coleman ("Cobby"), married (1) May 6, 1929, Sarah Roberts, born July 24, 1905, died August 2, 1962; married (2) December 28, 1963, Elizabeth McIntyre Lee, born July 27, 1916.

Only three children are living at the time of this writing: Mrs. Thomas L. (Verdie) Dedmon, Lithia Springs Road, Shelby; Mrs. Michaux D. (Fay) Harrill, Route 1, Lawndale; and Attorney Charles C. ("Cobby") Horn, Highway 226, Shelby. There are also eighteen grandchildren, forty-six great-grandchildren, and twenty-nine great-great-grandchildren.

Sources: Interviews; C.C. Horn, Mrs. T.L. Dedmon; Horn Family Bible; and Descendants of Jesse Horn of Rutherford County, North Carolina

— Vernie C. Piercy (Mrs. Brooks E.)

JOHN HORN FAMILY OF CLEVELAND COUNTY

630

John Horn b. 28 January 1815 was a son of Henry and Peggy Bartlett Horn of Rutherford, now Cleveland County, grew to manhood in the county. He was a farmer owning, at one time, about 600 acres of land on the headwaters of Sandy Run Creek. His old records show where he paid five cents per acre for taxes on his land for one year. He built his home near the present town of Lattimore, North Carolina.

John married Sarah Elizabeth Harding Hamrick, widow of Drury Dobbins Hamrick, killed in the Civil War. She had one child, Clementine, who married F.N. Gardner. Clementine once said John Horn was the best man she ever knew, saying he never spoke harshly to her during her childhood. He would like amounts of land to Clementine as to his own three children who were born at his home near Lattimore where they all grew up and went to school. Children of John and Sarah Horn were:

Annie Caroline b. 31 March 1871, married 1st, Victor Lovelace; 2nd, Cicero Bridges. Her children were Mallie Lovelace — married George Dover, Ethel Bridges — never married.

John William Horn b. 28 April 1873 married Docie Harrill. His children were: Addie — married Clyde Jones, Roy — married Sallie Grigg, Dewey — never married, Verdie — married James Lovelace, Effie — married Earl Edwards, Mary C. — married Lawrence Turner.

James Bartlett b. 5 September 1876 married — Hattie E. Jenkins. His children were: Gladys b. 25 May 1906 — married Burie H. Hopper; Thelma b. 4 July 1908 — married Roy Leonhardt; Everette b. 8 November 1909 — married Blooma Wright; William Howard b. 1 July 1911 — married 1st Elizabeth Edwards, 2nd Addie J. Hamrick; Elaine b. 18 February 1916 — married Dr. Neal J. Phillips; Jannette b. 11 January 1918 — married Woodrow W. Nanney; Fred b. 18 October 1919 — married Genevieve Hutchens; Margaret b. 5 January 1922 — never married; Raye b. 12, August 1923 — married A. Neal Spangler; Merriell b. 11 July 1926 — married Dr. Ben H. Battle (Ph.D.); Jack b. 2 April 1928 — married Sarah Green.

John Horn's three children and one step-daughter all built their homes on farms he left to them near Lattimore. His eighteen grandchildren all grew up on this land to become farmers, merchants, business men and women, teachers, nurses and homemakers.

John and Sarah Horn are buried at Double Springs Baptist Church cemetery.

Sources: Family information

— Gladys H. Hopper

HUGH DIXON HOYLE

631

Hugh Dixon Hoyle, descendant of pioneer Peiter Heyl (Peter Hoyle) who settled in Gaston County (then Bladen County) in 1774, was born August 27, 1891 Rockdale, Cleveland County, North Carolina. He was a son of David Lemuel Hoyle and Susan Jane Dixon. Paternal grandparents were William Bell Hoyle and Terissa Self Hoyle. His maternal grandparents were Colonel Thomas Marion Dickson (Dixon), son of Gilbreath Dixon and Lydia Houser Dixon, daughter of Jonathan Henry Houser, who built the Rock House on King's Creek near Kings Mountain Battleground. His maternal grandmother was Mary Adeline Warlick, daughter of Solomon Warlick and Barbara Warlick, who owned a very large farm on Jacob's Fork River, near the Catawba and Burke County lines.

Hugh had two brothers: Edgar Hoyle was born January 23, 1888 and served in the U.S. Army until his death August 18, 1925. Edgar was with the Evacuation Hospital Number 11 in France during World War I. His other brother, Marion Hudson Hoyle, was born September 19, 1889, married Margaret Eula Eford, and lived in Cooleemee, N.C. Marion was a pharmacist and owned the Cooleemee Drug Company. They had three sons; Marion Hudson Hoyle, Jr., Robert Eford Hoyle, and Edgar Dixon Hoyle. Marion Hoyle died January 29, 1977 and his wife died February 28, 1981.

Hugh Dixon Hoyle had two sisters: Addie Hoyle was born November 20, 1892. She worked with her brother Marion in his drug-store in Cooleemee, N.C. Addie never married. The other sister, Ada Hoyle, born February 20, 1895 married George Elliott Gold. Their children are Ruth, George Elliott Jr., Hoyle, Mary Sue, Addie Francis, and Betty Jane.

During Hugh's youth his father and grandfather, Billy Hoyle, had a grist mill, tannery, and leather shop at Rockdale on Buffalo Creek. The mill was powered by a waterwheel. Hugh and his brothers and sisters attended the Belwood Institute, a boarding school established by the Methodist Church in the late 1880's. Their home was about two miles from the school. Hugh's father and mother were in charge of the boarding house at the school for several winters. (In 1925 Hugh bought the school property and built his house where the Belwood Institute stood).

When Hugh was about seventeen years old he traveled with horse and wagon selling harness for his father. In his early twenties he worked in the Western states with wheat harvest crews. Later he joined the U.S. Navy and served in it during World War I. While on leave from the Navy in 1917, he met Vivian Thompson at a party in the home of Addie Alexander and they were married June 24, 1920 in Hendersonville, N.C. Hugh was in Hamburg, Germany when World War I ended and was discharged from the Navy in June 1919.

Hugh returned to Belwood in 1919 and acquired the harness and collar shop which had been operated by O.E. Ford as the Gantt Harness Company. The tannery and harness shop were established by M.P. Gantt during the 1880's. Hugh changed the name of the business to the Belwood Collar Company. Horse collars and harness were shipped to customers in Western North Carolina and some of the eastern counties. He operated the business until his retirement in 1950. Much of the farming was being done by tractors at this time, and the horse and mule were being retired from farm work. The machinery was purchased by L.C. Lentz of Gold Hill, N.C. in 1950 and some of the machinery is still in use.

Hugh was a very active member in the Kadesh Methodist Church. He held various offices in the church and taught a Sunday School class for a number of years. He served on the school committee when the new consolidated school was built at Belwood in 1926. His wife, Vivian, was also active in church and community life.

They had two children: Jack Thompson Hoyle, born May 27, 1921 and Susie Jeanette Hoyle, born August 14, 1923. Jack married Wilma Gladys Mitcham and Jeanette married Blaine Tillman.

In his later years, David Lemuel Hoyle made his home with his son, Hugh and wife Vivian. He died November 19, 1933. Susan had been dead since December 27, 1916.

During the later years of Hugh's life, Vivian spent much time by his bedside helping to care for him. He died March 22, 1980 and is buried at Kadesh United Methodist Church in Belwood near other relatives.

Sources: Gravestones, Personal papers, Genealogy of Peiter Heyl and His Descendants by Elizabeth Hoyle Rucker.

— Jack T. Hoyle

JACK and WILMA HOYLE FAMILY

632

Jack Thompson Hoyle, son of Hugh Dixon Hoyle and Vivian Thompson Hoyle, was born May 27, 1921. Wilma Gladys Mitchem, daughter of Walter Hoke Mitchem and Essie Gettie Bingham, was born January 24, 1921. Jack and Wilma were born and reared in the Belwood Community of Upper Cleveland County. They attended Belwood School and graduated from high school there in 1938. Jack attended Lees McRae College at Banner Elk, N.C. Wilma attended Brevard College at Brevard, N.C. for two years, then transferred to the University of North Carolina at Greensboro where she graduated in 1942. She taught school at Piedmont High School, Lawndale, N.C., for four years.

Jack joined the U.S. Navy in 1940. He attended the U.S. Naval Reserve Midshipmen School in New York, N.Y. from November 22, 1940 until February 28, 1941 at which time he was appointed an Ensign in the U.S. Naval Reserve. He saw duty in the Atlantic and Pacific Areas during World War II. Jack was appointed Lieutenant Commander prior to his release from active duty in 1945.

Jack and Wilma were married while he was in the Navy on October 4, 1944. After release from the Navy, he entered the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill in the fall of 1945. There their first child, Cynthia Jane Hoyle, was born June 14, 1948. Jack received his Masters of Arts Degree in Education from the University in 1949.

They moved to Lincolnton, North Carolina in the summer of 1949, and Jack began teaching science in Lincolnton High School. Their second child, William Robert Hoyle, was born June 2, 1950.

The Hoyle Family moved to Belwood, North Carolina in 1951 and occupied the house Wilma's parents had built. Her parents had moved to the Bingham Homeplace to care for her grandparents during their declining years.

On March 4, 1952 a third child, Joseph Lemuel Hoyle was born to Jack and Wilma. The children grew up in the Belwood community, attended Belwood High School, then later graduated from Burns High School.

Jane Hoyle graduated from Appalachian State University, Boone, North Carolina and taught school for several years. She is married to (Steve) Phillip Steven Hoyle, son of Kenneth and Elizabeth Yarborough Hoyle. They have two sons: Brian Phillip born September 9, 1972 and Darin Steven Hoyle born June 1, 1977. Steve is employed by Carolina Freight Carriers Corporation.

William (Billy) Hoyle graduated from Gaston College, Dallas, North Carolina and is employed by North Carolina Department of Transportation. He married Deborah Lynn Richard, daughter of W.C. and Mollie Sain Richard. Their children are: William Todd, born March 24, 1969 and Angela Lynn Hoyle, born April 28, 1972.

Joseph Lemuel Hoyle graduated from Cleveland Technical College, Shelby, North Carolina. He is self-employed in sales, service and installations of television and burglar alarm systems. He also works with the Boy Scouts and Upper Cleveland Rescue Squad.

The Jack Hoyle Family has always been deeply involved in the activities of St. Peter's United Methodist Church and in many community affairs.

Jack has taught at Lincoln High School for thirty-two years and is still teaching there.

Sources: Personal Papers

— Jack Hoyle

WILLIAM HILL HUDSON FAMILY HISTORY

633

William Hill Hudson Sr., founder of Hudson's Department Store, was born in Washington, Georgia, June 13, 1893 and died in Shelby on August 8, 1950. His wife, Mary Corinne Moses, a graduate of Georgia State College for Women and later a teacher in the Shelby school system, was born in Turin, Georgia April 28, 1891 and died May 22, 1980. Mr. Hudson was a Georgia boy by birth who discovered Shelby when he was on the road as a salesman. In 1915, while looking for a location in which to settle, he was debating between Shelby and Hickory. Because of the friendliness of Shelby people and at the special instigation of J.L. Suttle, Sr. and Paul Webb, Sr., he made his decision to locate in Shelby, and he never regretted that choice.

Early in his business career, Mr. Hudson became a traveling salesman in the wholesale dry goods field. He had a keen knowledge of merchandise and an uncanny memory of prices. He was always welcomed in the business establishments he served because of his integrity, his genial personality and his great optimism.

His first retail venture was as a partner with the late A.V. Wray, Sr. in the WRAY-HUDSON CO. from 1918 to 1928. When the Wray boys grew up, he sold his interest to his partner. Hudson was also half owner in KEETER STORES, INC. of Kings Mountain, N.C. from 1925 to 1945 at which time he sold his interest to establish with his son, W. Hill Hudson, Jr. the Hudson's Department Store in Shelby.

Mr. and Mrs. Hudson had three children: William Hill, Jr., born November 30, 1918; Carolyn Lanier Hudson born in 1925 but died in infancy; and Mary Alice Hudson born June 9, 1929. She is married to George Rellie Boyd, Jr. of Atlanta, Ga. and they are the parents of two sons and two daughters: George III, Mary Jan, Claire, and Hudson Boyd.

William Hill Hudson, Jr. was born and reared in Shelby, attended Shelby Schools and graduated from Duke University with an AB Degree in Business Administration in 1939. He was associated with Sears-Roebuck and Co. in Atlanta for 4 years before he entered the service in 1943 as a Naval Supply Officer aboard the troop transport USS GENERAL A.E. ANDERSON during World War II. After his release from active duty in December 1945, he returned to Shelby where in January 1946 the property at 213 and 215 South Lafayette St. was purchased, and father and son became associated in the establishment of HUDSON'S. Married to the former Mary Sue Morris of Hartwell, Ga. in November of 1941, the Hudsons are parents of three sons: W. Hill Hudson III; Louie Morris Hudson; and Robert Christopher Hudson.

W. Hill Hudson, Sr. 1893-1950

Mary Moses Hudson, 1891-1980

Hill III married Carole Ann Roberts of Forest City in 1965 after they both graduated from Duke University. They are parents of Mary Leah, Anne Elizabeth, and Hill IVth.

Morris graduated from Wofford College in 1969 and married Kathy Rogers of Lubbock, Texas. They had one child, Lindsey Morris. Morris remarried in 1980 to Renee Poe of Shelby and has a step daughter, Kelly Renee.

Both Hill III and Morris have succeeded their father in the management of HUDSON'S, and Chris, a 1973 graduate of the University of North Carolina at Charlotte with a Creative Arts Degree in Music, is in the entertainment field.

Sources: Family Knowledge, Family Bible

— W.H. Hudson, Jr.

ALBERT LOGAN and MARTHA KENNEDY HUFFSTICKLER

634

Albert Logan Huffstickler b. 1860 d. 1947 was the son of Logan and Marena Gladden Huffstickler. He was one of twenty children born to Logan Huffstickler.

As a young man he began a career in mining along with several brothers; Jeff and Rufus. He continued this throughout his working years until he settled on a farm down where Foote Mineral is now located. He married Martha Kennedy, daughter of Mrs. Mary Kennedy in 1883. Martha was the eldest child and at age 5 she tended to the younger children for her mother to go off to work. She worked for something like twenty-five cents a day. She had to accept responsibility early in life. Her sisters were Ellen and Nancy and brother Rass.

With Albert away at a mining job, Martha handled the discipline of the family. He worked at Kings Mountain Gold Mine on York Road. At one time there was a mining village, hotel and store near the mine — close to where Galilee Methodist Church and Paul's Fish Camp is now. At one time he remembered that they took out over a million dollars worth of gold. He used to talk about the large vein of gold they located, but couldn't get because of water coming into the mine. He also worked at a gold mine in Stanley County and the Bear Tieze Mine at Crowders Mountain. They were the parents of seven children: John Huffstickler m. Myra Green — died in China during the war WWI. Daisy;

Minnie Lee Huffstickler — m. Luther Bridges — (crippled by polio) Nina m. Lee Roy Camp; Lillian m. Homer Davis; Brunell m. Henry Bryant; Clyde m. Averice Eaker; Frank Hood m. Faye Wright; William E. m. Mildred Mullinax; Robert Arthur m. Virgiee Canipe; Edith Jane m. Rommie Carpenter.

Birdie Huffstickler m. Turner Murphy — Blanton (crippled by polio) Clyde m. Ledford; Alberta m. B.A. Smith, Jr.; Ruby m. Anton; Martha m. Melvin Boone; Wilbur Blanton m. Margaret Moss (died in fire of Smith Store).

Robert Huffstickler m. Nancy Hoyle: Owen Huffstickler, Vernon Huffstickler.

Nell Huffstickler m. Wissem Smith: Pauline m. Heeman Queen; Dot m. Dan Harney; Louise m. Bill Jolly; J.D. m. Dorothy Barrett.

Clyde Albert Huffstickler m. Pearl Denton — He was a career service man captured by the Japanese during the fall of Corrigador and held prisoner several years — during this time he developed cancer of the throat: Martha Nell m. Harold Erp; Clyde Albert, Jr.; Jack Denton.

Sudie Huffstickler m. Joe Barrett: Joe "Bud", Jr.; Dorothy m. J.W. Smith; Nell, Jean, Barbara.

Albert and Martha celebrated a 60th Wedding Anniversary in 1943. I remember lots of relatives attending. They were members of Boyce Memorial A.R.P. Church and attended as long as possible.

Albert died in 1947 about one month before son Clyde Albert. Martha died in 1950. All are buried at Mountain Rest Cemetery.

— Elizabeth Camp Anthony

Albert and Martha Huffstickler. L to R: Albert, Martha, Nina Camp (child of Elizabeth Camp) and Minnie Bridges

LOGAN HUFFSTICKLER

635

Logan Huffstickler (b. 1808 — d. 1895) was born in North Carolina according to census reports. On December 28, 1828 he married Sally Weir and their children were: 1. Elmira m. Falls 2. Sarah — never married lived with and worked for a Plonk Family 3. Andrew 4. Katherine m. Ware 5. Walter m. May Smith 6. Mary 7. Sally 8. David 9. Henry m. Elizabeth Bennett 10. John 11. James

After the death of Sally, he remarried a much younger lady — Marcana Ann Gladden. In 1850, we found Marcana living with her mother, Margaret Gladden, Martha age 4 and an elderly Harmon lady. In 1860 at age 25 she had married Logan Huffstickler, age 52. Marcana is listed on the membership list for Bethlehem Baptist Church near Kings Mountain. She was baptized by this church. We also find her name listed as Marcaney Huffstickler, so she continued going after her marriage. She and Logan also had a number of children: 12. Jane m. Simpson 13. Albert L. m. Martha Kennedy 14. Rufus 15. Lucinda m. John Holden Kennedy — cousin of Martha 16. Jeff 17. Phillip 18. Margaret m. McCord 19. William 20. Robert Logan was a blacksmith and a very respected man of his day. He also owned real estate, and possibly several slaves. Either his father, or grandfather had come over from Germany and some of the older folks used to talk about all the wealth their ancestors in Germany would leave them — of course none of this ever materialized. He had a relative in Mississippi who came to visit and others in Pennsylvania. During his last years he became blind. He is buried at El Bethel Church near Kings Mountain. According to family history he was a Captain in the Confederacy and was used to train troops in Kings Mountain.

After Logan's death, Marcaney lived around with her children. She was living with Rufus in Greenville, South Carolina when she died. This was during the time of the flood that destroyed the bridge near Gaffney and so many people died. They buried her near Greenville, S.C.

— Elizabeth Camp Anthony

JAMES DWYRE HUGGINS

636

He was born August 24, 1874 near Camden, South Carolina, fell from a farm wagon when about fifteen years of age, injured his right leg and developed a bone infection which finally caused him to have the leg amputated. With the exception of his acceptance of the Christian faith, this injury was perhaps the most significant experience of his entire life, for without this and the realization that he could not make a living by manual labor, coupled with a tremendous driving ambition to obtain an education and be of service to his fellowman, James Dwyre Huggins probably would never have entered college and made his way through graduation. "Made his way?" Yes. He was an invalid for four years, remained in bed for one year, and was troubled at times by this infirmity throughout his school years and through most of his entire life.

He was one of six children, the son of Theodore Norwood and Martha Joy Huggins and a member of a not-too-rich farm family. Not too rich in material goods, but a family of sterling character, high ideals, and a strong sense of democratic fairness and justice.

He attended The Welsh Neck High School, (now Coker College) and upon graduation entered Catawba College, Newton, North Carolina. He defrayed his college expenses by teaching school, making fires in the college buildings, and serving as purchasing agent for the college dining hall. In his senior year, he gave lectures and showed lantern slides with a stereopticon.

Graduating from Catawba College in 1903, he became principal of Bethany High School between York, South Carolina and Kings Mountain, North Carolina, serving four years. While here he married Bessie Atkins of York, an Erskine College graduate and teacher in the school. In May 1907, he was elected as the first principal of Boiling Springs High School, newly organized forerunner of Gardner Webb College. Except for three or four years when he was assistant principal or co-principal, he remained principal of this institution throughout its existence as a high school and became the first Dean of Boiling Springs Junior College, and except for one year in public school work held this position until his death in 1932.

During most of the years of the school as an academy, Mrs. Huggins taught Greek, Latin, or English. Later she served under Dr. Phil Elliott as a house mother in a girls' dormitory at Gardner Webb until her retirement fifteen years before her death in 1964.

Mr. and Mrs. Huggins had three children. J.D. Huggins, Jr. was with Cleveland County Schools forty-three years, twelve as a high school principal. Evelyn H. Prince taught twenty-three years, two at Lattimore. Rachel Hedrick and her husband Karl brought up a family of six children, four of whom are in school work and all are Gardner Webb graduates, either two or four-year. Of eleven of the Huggins' grandchildren, nine are Gardner Webb graduates and six are teachers. A great-granddaughter is a Gardner Webb sophomore.

Space prohibits use of quotations from writings of prominent former students to support these terse statements: Mr. and Mrs. Huggins were sincere, interested in students, loved the school, and above all were people of "simple, humble, Christian character." They both possessed that innate ability to put ideas across to students and to command their respect and love — simply, to teach. They buried their lives in the school.

Being an educator and believing as Charles B. Aycock did, that every child should be offered a high school education, "Professor" Huggins (affectionately called), to the dismay of some, voted for state high schools. These schools took their toll in enrollment and the Baptist school came very near closing even before the depression years. Mr. Huggins was as instrumental as any other one person in keeping the school alive in the late twenties.

"Professor" J.D. Huggins

Bessie A. Huggins

At a meeting of the trustees called at this time to decide whether to close the institution, this man, a gifted orator, made a fervent plea for converting the school to a junior college. At the close of this address, Mr. J.H. Quinn, Shelby lawyer and postmaster, Chairman of the Board of Trustees from the earliest years of the school through the first junior college years, a noble man, walked over to where Mr. Huggins was sitting, laid his hand on his shoulder and said, "This man has never given us the wrong advice." The vote was taken and what is now Gardner Webb College had survived the first of several crisis.

Sources: personal letters, The Kalarathea, personal knowledge.

— J.D. Huggins, Jr.

GENEALOGY OF ANDREW JACKSON and MARTHA JANE GOLD HUGHES

637

Andrew Jackson Hughes (July 4, 1838 — Feb. 2, 1906) was married July 2, 1863 to Martha Jane Gold (May 15, 1844 — Aug. 11, 1926). They had eleven children. Their names follow.

Cicero, (May 8, 1865 — Jan. 2, 1940) married Mary Ann Roark. They had ten children: Ira Bratton, Grace Lee, Forest Earl, Jennie Reece, Jackson Hoyt, Bessie Mae, William Thomas, Ella Glenn, William Floyd, Mary Ruth.

Cora (b. 1866 — d. 1930), married first to Robert Hardin had two children, Robert Curtis and Darwin. Her second marriage was to William Wightman Whisnant.

Mollie Mary (July 1, 1868 — Jan. 13, 1951) married H.G. Neal. They had five children: Sylvester Oates, Charles Oates, Goldie, Paul, E. Yates.

Sarah (Sallie) (Jan. 20, 1870 — March 18, 1941), married H. Simpson Love. They had six children; Mattie Belle, Hugh J., William Reece, John Grady, James Leslie, Sarah Elizabeth.

Daniel P. (Oct. 11, 1871 — April 30, 1900) married Minnie Vieva Lucas. They had one child, Daniel Crawley.

John Miller (Aug. 16, 1873 — Oct. 8, 1937), married Cora Chambers. They had five children; Ethel, Mary Frances, John Hartwell, Margaret, Anna Belle.

Charlie Jackson (b. 1875 — d. Nov. 22, 1946), married Annie Addy Holmes. They had five children: Charles Nesbitt, Helen Holmes, Olan, Jackson Frank, Mary Annie.

William Gordon (Feb. 9, 1877 — Nov., 1950) married Elvie Florence Wells (Grandparents of compiler) and had twelve children; Conrad, (father of compiler, see article on Conrad Hughes), Alma, Bertie, Nevette, Lucy, William Gordon (twin), Gordon William (twin), Marie, Victoria, Louise, Ruby, and Robert.

George Robinson (Oct. 16, 1878 — May 27, 1906), married Mable Westbrook. They had one daughter, Emily Jay.

Harvey Hatcher (Feb. 12, 1881 — Oct. 17,

Andrew Jackson and Wife, Martha Jane Gold Hughes

1945), married Janet Ranney Cool. They had one child, Ann Ranney.

Frances Fannie (Jan. 7, 1884 — Oct. 7, 1965), married Edward F. Adkins. They had one child, Jams Roy Adkins.

Sources: family records.

— Jack Hughes

THE BENJAMIN HUGHES FAMILY

638

Benjamin Hughes was born January 10, 1782 in Lunenburg County, Virginia, son of William and Nancy Bowers Hughes. He came to the present Cleveland County with his parents when he was no more than a teenaged young man. Circumstances tend to indicate that he was married twice; first, around 1802/3 to a girl whose name we haven't found. He had a son by this marriage, Young Hughes, who probably lived with his grandfather, William Hughes according to the 1810 census records. Young Hughes married Candice (or Candis) Hamrick, daughter of George Hamrick. Their children were: Sarah Manerva, born 1823, married William F. Jones; Cynthia, born 1825, married Drury McDaniel; Elmira, born 1827/8, married Elias Putnam; Lucinda, born 1829, married Pinckney Martin; Toliver, born 1830/31, was killed in Civil War. Young Hughes died in 1831.

Benjamin Hughes second marriage, which was about 1807/8, was to Nancy Bridges, daughter of James Bridges. They were the Remember . . .

Articles
Are Indexed
By
Article Numbers
. . . Not By
Page
Number

parents of nine children who lived beyond infancy, they were: (1) Sterling Hughes, b. 1809, married Nancy Hamrick and had children: William, b. 1831, m. Martha Turner; Julia Ann, b. 1833 (never married); Lucinda Jane, b. 1836, m. Nelson Watterson; Timmons Jefferson, b. 1838 (never married); Sarah Elizabeth, b. 1839, m. William Coggins; Mary Malinda, b. 1845, m. Rush Gladden; Nancy Susannah, b. 1847, m. Fendel Patterson; David L., b. 1849 (marital status not known).

(2) Sarah Hughes, b. 1810, married Jesse Jolley, son of James Jolley. They had fourteen children: James Porch, b. 1825, m. Malinda Moore; William Amos, b. 1827, m. Sarah Lovelace; Asberry, b. 1829, m. Sarah Moore; Sanford Willis, b. 1831, m. Susan Elizabeth Bridges; Arrena, b. 1833, m. Thompson Barnett; Jesse Landrum, b. 1835, m. Cynthia (McBrayer) Eskridge; Nancy Caroline, (twin) b. 1837 (no marital status); Kiziah Emaline (twin), b. 1837 m. Berry Hawkins; Mary N., b. 1839, m. Crowder Pruett; Crawford, b. 1841, m. Lucretia Jolley; Elizabeth, b. 1843; Lucinda, b. 1845; Lenira Jane, b. 1847, m. James Hamrick; Susannah, b. 1849/50, m. Thomas Louis Hamrick.

(3) Sanford Hughes, b. July 1, 1811, married Viridiranna Durham (see The Sanford Hughes Family, this volume.)

(4) Malinda Hughes, born Feb. 20, 1814, married David Davis Durham, son of Richard and Jane (Davis) Durham. They were the parents of nine children: Nancy Veranna, b. May 2, 1833; Seaton Gales, b. 1837; David Noah, b. 1841; m. Essie Coleman; Benjamin Hughes, b. 1843; Richard John, b. 1846/7, m. 1st. Sarah Jane Shuford, 2nd. Mary Modena Lewis; Wade Hill, b. 1849, m. Mary Sullivan; Josephus, b. 1851; Malinda Jane, b. 1853, m. Rease Davis; Cora E., b. 1857, d. 1863.

(5) James Hughes, born Dec. 21, 1816, married Elmira Ledbetter, dau. of Henry Ledbetter. They were the parents of eleven children: Salina Elizabeth, b. 1839, m. John Marion Gillespie; Berry Ezell, b. 1841, m. Martha Jane Gillespie; Dulcenia, b. 1843, James Elbert, b. 1844, m. Eunice Jane McSwain; Vinia, b. 1846; Nancy Verannie, b. 1849; Arena Craton, b. 1852, m. W.R. Willis; Mary Ann, b. 1856; William Andrew, b. 1859, m. 1st. Eliza M. Hawkins, 2nd. Evelene Collins; A. Catherine, b. 1862, m. William Chesser; Alvira Malinda; b. 1864.

(6) William B. Hughes, born August 5, 1823, married Rebecca Jane Justice. To them were born nine children: Laura Jane, b. 1842; Nancy A., b. 1848; Drury B. "Bud", b. 1850, m. Mary Jane Davis; Vinetta A., b. 1854, m. William Ferrell; Amanda C., b. 1856, m. James David Barnett; William P. "Doc", b. 1858, m. Mary Davis; Mary, b. 1861, m. Robert Davis; Joseph, b. 1867, d. 1889.

(7) Elizabeth Hughes, born 1824, was twice married. 1st. to Burwell Hamrick, son of Samuel Hamrick, to whom four children were born: Landrum, b. 1843; Amos Hill, b. 1846, m. Eunice Jane McSwain; James W., b. 1849/50; Mary Jane, b. 1852 (of these, only Amos Hill Hamrick married and reared a family.) Elizabeth (Hughes) Hamrick married 2nd. Willis Hicks. To them two sons were born: William Hicks, b. about 1860, m. 1st. a Miss Gardner, and 2nd. Cynthia Surratt; Benjamin Hicks, b. 1864, m. Mary Surratt.

(8) Nancy Catherine Hughes, born 1830, married James B. Hicks. To them, two sons were born: Monroe Hicks, b. 1849; Henry Gaither Hicks, b. 1856, m. Susanna Goforth.

(9) Mary Hughes, youngest child of Benjamin and Nancy (Bridges) Hughes, was born in 1832, married 1st. Thomas Pruett; 2nd. Asa Hamrick. There were no children.

Benjamin Hughes purchased fifty acres of land on March 25, 1805, from William Fouch, located on "the Rocky Branch of Sandy Run", joining lands of William Graham, Major Ross Alexander and Patrick McGinnis (Rutherford County Deed Book 22, page 330.) On October 29, 1808 he purchased one hundred acres of adjoining land from Graham (Deed Book 25, pages 214-215), and on October 20, 1810 he was granted an additional forty acres by the state. Benjamin and Nancy reared their family on Rocky Branch of Sandy Run, near Boiling Springs. Both are buried in the Boiling Springs Baptist Church cemetery where their graves are marked with marble slabs. Benjamin Hughes died September 10, 1869, aged 87 years, 8 months and 7 days. Nancy Bridges Hughes died April 23, 1875, aged 86 years, 2 months and 27 days.

Sources: Family records, Old Tryon County records.

— Mrs. Ernest Newton

Conrad and Eva Dunlap Hughes on wedding day, March 15, 1914

Conrad and Eva Dunlap Hughes on 50th wedding anniversary, March 15, 1964

THE CONRAD HUGHES FAMILY 639

Conrad Hughes (Sept. 29, 1897 — Jan. 29, 1966) was a son of William Gordon and Florence Wells Hughes. He was a grandson of Andrew Jackson and Martha Jane Gold Hughes (see related article in this volume). Conrad was married Mar. 15, 1914 to Willie Eva Dunlap (Jan. 1, 1898 — Feb. 1, 1975). They had nine children.

William Conrad (b. Aug. 8, 1915) married Margaret Alexander. They had one child, Faye, who married Melvin Propst. Faye and Melvin had four children: (1) Ranny Rena, who married John Eite, Jr. and they have a son, John Eite, III (who is the 10th generation from William and Nancy Bowers Hughes listed in this volume); (2) Susan Tena, (3) Melvin Jackson, and (4) James William Propst.

Mary Isabel (b. Nov. 24, 1917) married John Beatty Barber. They had three sons (one died in infancy); (2) John B., Jr., (married Teresa Davis) has a daughter, Audra and a son, Kevin; (3) Michael Steven (first, married Lisa Sherrer) has a son Michael Steven, Jr. (second, married Cynthia Smith).

Dudley Carroll (b. Oct. 29, 1919) served in the U.S. Army; married Evelyn Biddix. They had one son, Dudley Carroll, Jr. (b. Oct. 31, 1946 — d. Dec. 23, 1967). He served in the U.S. Navy and died in Viet Nam and is buried in Mountain Rest Cemetery, Kings Mountain, N.C.

Sidney Jackson (b. Jan. 13, 1924), served in the U.S. Navy; married Feb. 17, 1945 to Clara Belle Humphries. They had five children: (1) Howard Curtis (born and died Aug. 17, 1946 at Tarpon Springs, Fla.); (2) Sidney Waldo (b. Oct. 1, 1947 at Newberry, S.C. and died Oct. 4, 1947); (3) Sidney Conrad (b. Sept. 25, 1950 at Newberry, S.C. and died Oct. 4, 1950). These three sons were reinterred at Mountain Rest Cemetery at Kings Mtn., N.C.; (4) Mark Elwyn, by adoption, (b. May 22, 1951), married Patricia McDaniel; (5) Beth, by adoption (b. Nov. 23, 1954), married Randy McDaniel (Randy and Patricia not related). Beth and Randy have two sons, David Alan and John Sidney McDaniel. David b. Jan. 12, 1978; John b. July 12, 1980.

Miller Eugene (b. July 22, 1926), served in the U.S. Army; married Faye Sipes. They had four children: (1) Conrad Cleophus, (2) Edward (married Wanda Revis) and has two children, Sharon Lynn and Robert Miller Hughes; (3) Larry Dean (married Kathy Black), has one son, Larry Joseph Hughes; (4) infant Leon Nelson (born and died Oct. 29, 1957).

Harry Ray (b. May 14, 1928), married Arilla Caldwell. They have two sons: (1) Harry Ray, Jr. (married Beverly Plonk) and (2) Michael Dewey Hughes.

Erwin Newton (b. July 9, 1932), served in the U.S. Navy; married, first, Betty Childers (no children). After Betty's death he married Sue Scism. They had two daughters, Anita Ann, and Susan Renee Hughes (married Milton Mullinax).

John Lewis (b. May 23, 1935), married

Betty Moss. They have two sons, John Lewis, Jr. and Jeffrey Evans Hughes.

Shirley Phyllis (b. Sept. 19, 1937), married Henry Oliver. They have two daughters: (1) Cynthia Marie and (2) Sondra Lynn, who married Dennis Panther and they have a daughter, Crystal Lynette.

The Hughes ancestors have been mostly Baptist, farmers, carpenters, blacksmiths and livestock breeders. Hunting, fishing and baseball were the big pastimes and hobbies.

Conrad Hughes believed you had to have the best male line in all his farm animals to improve his breeder stock and he practiced this in his cattle, hogs and dogs, in which he took great pride. He bought his first registered Hereford bull in the early 1930's. About the same time, he bought a registered Poland China boar hog and offered him for service in the community. He had many fox dogs with names like Judge, Boston, Ruben, Sadie, Sweep, Hannah, etc. Our horse, "Nett", had many colts. Kate and Jane, our mules, grew up with us and were part of our daily life, and so were Star, Pet, and Otha, our cows. "The lambs and colts were the boys' to feed and keep, but when it came selling time, they were Dad's horse and sheep." (copied)

We were mostly Cleveland County born, Cleveland County bred and as we die, we are mostly Cleveland County dead.

My Mother seemed to grow up with us. She never seemed old. We enjoyed playing tricks on her. One trick we liked to play on her was, after killing a snake, bring the snake and put the head under the door step, leaving the remainder of the snake where she could see it. We would hide and watch. When she came to the door and saw it, she would say, "Shoot a monkey!" — her favorite saying. (If she knew any four letter words she did not use them.) She would run and get the little 410 double barrel, hammer gun and shoot the snake into pieces. Then we would all laugh and she would say "I'm going to get you boogers!"

Dudley Carroll Hughes, Jr. October 31, 1946 — December 23, 1967

If unexpected company showed up, out came the double barrel gun again — and look out roosters — she had chicken and dumplings — a plenty for all.

When we worked, Mom worked. When we played, she played with us, if she could find time. She was a happy — busy soul, and her hand went out to help anyone in need. I have seen her nurse a child while churning milk, with a dasher in a stone jar and reading her Sunday School lesson at the same time, to be ready for services at Antioch Baptist Church, where we went most of our lives. I do not know where she got the strength. She would be up when we went to bed and be up when we got up. She would ride anything with her children, from a motorcycle to a cable car up Stone Mountain, or chair lifts, or boats, or snow sleds, etc.

This is only a brief summary of the very happy childhood we enjoyed, shared with you by "one-ninth" of their children.

Sources: family records, personal memory.

— S. Jack Hughes

THE HUGHES FAMILY

640

Young Hughes and Sarah Blanton Hughes' fourth child was a daughter, Artelissa. She was born in 1815 and was called Arty by her family. She married Napoleon Duffy Davis and they made their home near Boiling Springs. Arty and Napoleon Duffy had five children Amos, Lorena, Perry, Henry and Lavena. Lavena was a chubby light-haired child who went with her father everywhere he would take her.

One year Henry Davis taught school near Rutherfordton and one of his new friends was James Mills Flack. The following summer Mills visited in Henry's home and met Lavena. A courtship soon developed, and Mills and Lavena were married the following year on Sept. 28, 1876. The wedding took place at the N.D. Davis home and was conducted by L.L. Smith the pastor of Sharon Church. Mills' brother Joseph and Lavenas' brothers, Amos and Henry signed as witnesses.

Mills and Lavena moved to Chimney Rock and lived in a log house where Mills and his brother George had been running a store. He and Lavena continued to operate the store for about four years. Two sons were born during this time, William Edgar and Joseph Duffy. Later there was a move to Shelby where seven more children were born. They were Bessie, John Mills, Stella, Lera, Velle, Harry and Horace. The last, a pair of twins, died in infancy, one in Shelby and the other after the move to Chimney Rock.

Arty died in 1894 and N.D. two years later. They are buried at Sharon Church.

The hot summers didn't agree with Lavena and she wanted to move back to the mountains. After the death of her parents Mills bought a large house in Chimney Rock from a Mr. Horton, and the family moved there in the late fall of 1898. They moved in two large wagons filled with household goods and a cow. It took two long days to make the trip.

Aunt Velle says she remembers it very well; she was seven years old.

Soon there was a steady stream of visitors coming to the mountains for vacations and to escape the heat. Mills added a large kitchen, family bedrooms and later bathrooms. That was the first indoor plumbing between Rutherfordton and Asheville!

The three oldest girls, Bessie, Stella and Lera went to the Presbyterian Home School in Asheville to complete their educations. There Stella roomed with a Miss Stella Johnston who later became my mother.

In the years of 1916-17, a large hotel was erected in front of the original building. The big flood came in 1916 and did a lot of damage in the valley. A large mud slide hit the back of the hotel and filled the first floor three feet deep in mud and water. They drilled holes in the floors to let the water escape. Some of the family papers have mud stains on them as a result of this.

The first telephone in the valley was installed and Uncle Edgar read the war news to Mr. Reynolds every evening after dinner. Mr. Reynolds was Velles' father-in-law. His phone was a party-line so it wasn't long before everyone was listening. Later Mills built a timber and cement dam across the river with a mill-race to the electric power plant. This brought the first electricity to the village and made it possible to add a washing machine, dishwasher and an electric churn to the hotel. This was the start of Mountain View Inn which they were to operate for sixty years.

Mills and Lavena had been married over sixty-seven years when he died October 7, 1943. Lavena lived to be nearly ninety-four, dying October 21, 1950. They are buried in Sharon Church Cemetery near her parents, Arty and N.D.

Their children traveled to Florida, Oklahoma, California, Montana and even Alaska before coming to North Carolina to live.

Lavena had six grandchildren, eight great-grandchildren and eleven great-great-grandchildren. At present there are four descendants living in Rutherford county, Harold Thomas and his brother John Charles Arrowood, Myrtle Flack and myself. The oldest living descendant is Velle Reynolds, ninety one; the youngest Daniel Laurance, eight months; both live in Florida.

Among the descendants there has been innkeepers, soldiers, bankers, storekeepers, managers, teachers and nurses. They tend to live long and be active and productive people.

— Leah Flack Justice

THE FORD HUGHES FAMILY

641

This family photograph is from an original by American View Company entitled "Our Home" and dated 1895. Shown in the picture are Sanford Willis Hughes (known as S.W. Hughes or Ford Hughes) and Mary Jane McEntire Hughes. With the parents are six of their ten children ranging in age from seven to nineteen. One other daughter, not shown, was twenty-one at that time. Three children were then deceased, two were infants and one ten years of age.

Ford's father was Sanford Hughes, son of Benjamin Hughes of Wilkins Creek of Beaverdam. (circa 1828, when that was Rutherford County). Sanford and Sanford Willis had houses near each other on farm land north of Broad River and south of Beaverdam Creek, less than two miles northwest of the confluence of First Broad with Broad River. Ford later lived with the family on a farmstead a short distance off the east side of the Shelby-Spartanburg Road, south side of Hickory Creek, not far from a brother-in-law, M.O. (Mark) McEntire. In 1914 Ford moved to the place known as the S.E. Bostic old home on the Zoar Church Road at the railroad (formerly the S.C. and G.R.R.).

Ford lived into his sixty-seventh year in 1915. Mary Jane lived twenty-three years longer,

The S.W. "Ford" Hughes Family

into her ninety-first year. She was buried beside her husband and seven of their children in the Zoar Cemetery. One daughter, Hattie H. Hawkins, was buried in Mt. Sinai Church Cemetery. Two daughters, Jeanette H. Justus and Belle H. Grigg, were buried in Sunset Cemetery. Names of grand-children of Ford and Mary Jane are: Robert and Clyde Hawkins and Orlie Mae Hawkins Putnam; Fowler, Gordon, Erskine and Clyde Edwin Justus; William Hughes and Hilton Putnam. In the eighty-odd years since 1895, there are now those of fourth and fifth generations.

Addendum:

We all know that two and two make four; ten, thus and plus, a thousand and more; twenty, a million, thirty a billion; on and on into the past we go.

— Gordon Sanford Justus

HATCHER HUGHES

642

Hatcher Hughes was born on a farm near Polkville, North Carolina, in 1881. The son of Andrew Jackson and Martha Gold Hughes, he spent his boyhood years in North and South Carolina. He was one of eleven children. Brothers and sisters were Cicero, Cora, Mollie, Sallie (Sarah), Daniel, John, Charlie, George, Fannie and Gordon. Gordon spent most of his life in Cleveland County, was a farmer, had twelve children and is buried at Kings Mountain.

Andrew Jackson Hughes fought in the Confederate Army, was wounded, and is buried with Martha Gold Hughes in the Rosehill Cemetery at York, South Carolina. Sanford and Viridianna Durham Hughes, grandparents of Hatcher Hughes, lived in Cleveland County and are buried in the cemetery facing Gardner-Webb College at Boiling Springs.

Hatcher Hughes attended high school at Grover, North Carolina and later taught there to earn money for college. He entered the University of North Carolina in 1901 and studied for two years. He dropped out of college because of lack of money and got a job as principal of a high school where he taught English, Latin and math. He went back to the University in 1905 to complete his study and taught freshman and sophomore English during his senior year to pay his expenses. He graduated in 1907 at the age of 26. He stayed one year at the University to study for his Masters degree. Two years of additional graduate study were spent at Columbia University in New York. There he completed work for his doctorate in 1911, but became so interested in writing plays that he never got around to writing his thesis. In 1912 he became a lecturer in the Department of English at Columbia and organized and taught Columbia University's first course in playwriting. In 1914 Hughes organized the Morningside Players. Assisted by Elmer Rice, leading dramatist on Broadway at that time, Hughes' aim was to provide an instrument for experimentation in the production of the University-written plays.

During World War I, Mr. Hughes served as Captain in the United States Army. Serving with the 80th Division, he went to France in

Hatcher Hughes, Playwright

1918. He fought in the battle of Argonne and was credited with bringing down the largest German plane in the war. He slept in the snow and his face and ear froze but left no permanent damage. He was not wounded but had a small twig shot from under his foot. He returned to America in the fall of 1918.

In 1930 he married Janet Cool of Cleveland, Ohio. It is reported that Janet's father objected to the marriage because of the age difference and took her to England hoping that she would forget the young playwright; however, Hatcher took the next boat and they were married in England. Miss Cool acted with the Morningside Players. They have one child, Ranney Hughes Moss, of Missoula, Montana.

In 1915, Mr. Hughes wrote Marriage Made in Heaven which was produced in 1926 and revised in 1935. Other plays were:

Ruint, written in 1920 and produced in 1925,

Hell Bent fer Heaven, the Pulitzer Prize winning play for 1923-1924 was written in 1922 and produced in 1924. Later the play was produced on screen in Paris, France.

Wake up Jonathan, written in 1921 was co-authored with Elmer Rice.

The Family Blues was produced in 1929.

The Lord Blesses the Bishop was produced in 1934.

Hell Bent fer Heaven is a folk play of the Blue Ridge Mountains. Mr. Hughes recalled happily the many summers spent with the mountain folk gathering material for his plays but smilingly denied the colorful background of newshawks placing his home in the hills, and his neighbors at work at their stills.

Mr. Hughes spent his time between his New York apartment and his farm in the beautiful Berkshires in West Cornwall, Connecticut. He never lost his love for the soil and enjoyed gardening, dairy farming and fishing. When he visited Cleveland County he would put on his walking shoes and he and his brother, Gordon, would walk over the farm and talk about the "crops". He enjoyed Southern cooking, especially fried chicken and apple pie.

He died in 1945 during a rehearsal at Columbia University. His ashes were scattered over his farm in Connecticut at a spot he called "Sunset Mountain". His wife, Janet, died in 1950. Their only child, Ranney Hughes Moss, is living in Missoula, Montana and has two sons and two step-children. She has very fond memories of her father reading to her and telling her stories and patiently sitting through a play which she wrote and directed for him.

Sources: Biographical sketch — Janet C. Hughes 1934. The Pulitzer Prize Play, 1918-1934 By — Kathryn Coe and William H. Cordell.

Southern Personalities — Holland's Magazine, February 1937 By — Grace Leake.

Dictionary of North Carolina Biography Sketch by — Richard Walser.

— Ruby Hughes Baker

ANDREW JACKSON HUGHES' CONFEDERATE STATES ARMY RECORDS

643

Andrew Jackson Hughes (see Sanford Hughes, this volume) was born July 4, 1838 near Boiling Springs, N.C. He grew up on the farm. At the outbreak of the Civil War, he joined the Cleveland Guards, a Company put together by Shelby Attorney, Augustus W. Burton, and Cap. Fulton, sixteen days after war was declared. In 1861, this Company was renumbered Co. E of the 12th Regiment of N.C. Infantry.

The first battle of Co. E, 12th Reg., was at Hanover Courthouse, Va. on May 27, 1862. Hughes was taken prisoner. He was held at Fort Monroe, Va. and Fort Columbus, N.Y. He was exchanged at Aikens Landing, Va. on August 5, 1862. The 12th Reg. invaded Maryland under General Lee in September 1862. Lee's army fought McClellens at South Mtn., a delaying action, and withdrew to Antietam Creek (near Sharpsburg, Md.) on September 17, 1862. The 12th Reg. supported Jackson's right flank. They were forced back to what is known as Bloody Lane. More Americans were killed at Antietam than on any other day in the war. Disease claimed almost twice as many as bullets during the war. In October 1862, Hughes was in the hospital for unknown illness. He returned to action before the Union disaster at Fredericksburg, Va. He is reported in Chinborazo Hospital, Richmond, Va. all of January and February, 1863, with contagious fever. More than 164,000 died of diseases. In May of 1863, Hughes fought with General Lee's army at the victory at Chancellorsville. May 1st and 2nd, 1863, the 12th Regiment marched with Stonewall Jackson's army around Hooker's Union Army's right flank. The Union Army was driven back. While on reconnaissance patrol, General Jackson was mortally wounded by his own men. Hughes told his family about seeing General Jackson wounded. General Lee furloughed many walking sick and wounded before he planned his invasion of Pennsylvania. Hughes was furloughed home, where he married Martha Jane Gold of Polkville, N.C. on July 2, 1863. Hughes missed the defeat at Gettysburg. He returned to active duty September, 1863. He was wounded at Morton's Ford, Va. on October 11, 1863.

The year 1864 started with General Grant's drive toward Richmond. On May 6, 1864, Hughes fought in the Battle of the Wilderness. Grant's army was stopped at the Wilderness, but it caused General Lee's flank to move toward Spotsylvania Courthouse, Va. The battle of May 10 to 12, 1864 resulted. The 12th Regiment was badly "shot up". On May 12, 1864, Hughes was shot in the right shoulder. His choice was to leave the ball in and for the rest of his life had little or no use of that arm. After being treated at Jackson Hospital at Richmond, he was paid $44.00 to buy new clothing and furloughed for sixty days. In November 1864, he was assigned to a hospital in Charlotte, N.C. In February 1865, he wrote Capt. Durham, his former Commander, stating it was time for peace with honor. His old regiment was with General Lee, trying to hold Petersburg, Va. On April 9, 1865, the 12th Reg. surrendered to General Grant at Appomattox, Va. Of the eighty who enlisted in the original complement, only ten were at Appomattox, Va.

On April 30, 1865, Hughes was paroled (not discharged — we lost!) at Charlotte, N.C. He returned to Polkville, N.C. where he and Martha Jane Gold Hughes raised eleven children. (See Andrew Jackson and Martha Gold Hughes in this volume.)

In 1885, Hughes received a pension from N.C., not to exceed $30.00 per year, because he could not perform manual labor. About 1886, Hughes moved his family to the Grover, N.C. area. He lived in York County (now Cherokee Co., S.C.) and later moved to the York, S.C. area, where he lived until he died on February 2, 1906. Martha G. Hughes lived until August 11, 1926. They are buried side by side, in Rose Hill Cemetery in York, S.C. with a C.S. Army marker. Cicero, their son; Fannie, their daughter; and Ella Glenn, their granddaughter, are also buried in the family lot.

Sources: national and state archive records.

Mark E. Hughes

THE SANFORD HUGHES FAMILY

644

Sanford Hughes, born July 1, 1811 on Rocky Branch of Sandy Run, son of Benjamin and Nancy Bridges Hughes. He married Virdiranna Durham, daughter of Richard and Jane Davis Durham and grand-daughter of Achilles and Mary Cates Durham, and Benjamin and Rebecca Smith Davis. Sanford and Virdiranna were married about 1830/32. They were the parents of twelve children:

(1) David Durham Hughes, born August 27, 1834, died November 12, 1919 in DeKalb County, Alabama. He married Mary Ann Beam, daughter of John Beam, at Cherryville, N.C. in 1855. They had ten children, all born in Alabama: Harriet, b. 1856, m. Pete Davis; John S., b. 1858 (never married); Edward, b. 1861 (never married); Malinda, b. 1864, m. Joe Carter; Jennie, b. 1866, m. Dock Horton; David Beam, b. 1868, m. Mary McNaron; Isiah Green, b. 1871, m. Ollie Bell Lee; William Wallace, b. 1873, m. Rosie Stafford; Bailey, b. 1875, m. Emma Killian; Benjamin W., b.

1878, m. Betty Grigg. Descendants of David D. and Mary Ann Beam Hughes still live in Fort Payne, Alabama.

(2) Greenberry Hughes, born in 1836 near Boiling Springs, died in a Union prison during the Civil War. He married March 28, 1859, in Cleveland County, Cynthia Elizabeth Tate. Shortly after their marriage they joined his brother, David, in DeKalb County, Alabama. They had two children, both born in Alabama: Rufus, b. January 15, 1861, m. Carrie Champion; Mary Ann, b. January 8, 1863, m. Silas Abernathey Carpenter. After the death of Greenberry Hughes, Cynthia brought the two children back to Cleveland County, where they grew up and married. Cynthia married second, William Conner.

(3) Andrew Jackson Hughes, born July 4, 1838, near Boiling Springs, died February 6, 1906 in York County, S.C., married Martha Jane Gold (see Andrew Jackson Hughes/Martha Jane Gold family, in this volume.)

(4) Malinda E. Hughes, born 1840/42, married Miles Francis (Nothing further is known about this couple.)

(5) Richard Durham Hughes, born October 10, 1844, died Sept. 5, 1916, married first, Eliza D. Turner, daughter of Nelson and Elizabeth Matheny Turner. They had six children: John Berry, b. 1867, d. 1930, m. Rena Adams Goode; Oscar Putnam, b. 1868, died young; Clifton C., b. 1871, m. Nancy Bagwell; Mary Jane, b. 1873, died young; Benjamin D., b. 1877 (no other data); James Richard, b. 1884, d. 1950, married first, Hannah McMurray (no children); married second, Flossie Hawkins (had twelve children, including this writer.) Richard Durham Hughes married second, Elizabeth "Betsy" Holland, daughter of Erasmus and Mary Moore Holland. They had six children: Columbus G., b. 1887, d. 1900; Eliza, b. 1889 (never married); Hoyle, b. 1890, m. Rose Ann Bailey; (two infants); Kansas, b. 1894, m. Samuel R. Bridges. (Richard Durham Hughes married third, Mary Ann Roberts. No children.)

(6) Esther W. Hughes, born 1846. Never married.

(7) Sanford W. "Ford" Hughes, born July 9, 1848, died March 23, 1915, married Mary Jane McEntire. They reared a large family, many of which are buried at Zoar Baptist Church, Shelby, where "Uncle Ford" and his wife are buried.

(8) Virdiranna "Aunt Ran" Hughes, born 1850, married Doctor B.F. Putnam. No other records available on this couple.

(9) Mary Jane Hughes, born December 23, 1851, died August 2, 1929, married Cleo Patrick Ellis, born May 11, 1861, died February 6, 1929. They were the parents of seven children: Fred, b. 1880, m. Alliee Robertson; Phillip Early, b. 1881, m. Zennie Harris; Clara, B. 1883, d. 1900; Tobe, b. 1885, m. first, Eliza Allison, second, Nettie Whetstine; Willie Love, b. 1887, m. Mamie Jolley; Lillie Ola, b. 1889, m. William Terry Bailey; Effie, b. 1891, m. Johnny Humphries.

(10) Sarah Ann Hughes, born 1854, married John Turner. No children.

(11) Harriet Susan Hughes, born December 21, 1855, married J. Wade Blanton.

(12) Benjamin Franklin Hughes, born 1859, married Malindy Jolley.

Sanford Hughes died June 3, 1893 and Virdiranna Durham Hughes died November 10, 1878. Both are buried at Boiling Springs Baptist Church cemetery, Boiling Springs, North Carolina.

Sources: Family records, Old Tryon County records.

— Mrs. Ernest Newton

THE WILLIAM HUGHES FAMILY

645

The first of the Hughes family to settle in Cleveland County was William Hughes. The place of his birth and the names of his parents have not been ascertained at this writing. He was probably born about 1752, as our first record of him appears in the 1773 tithe (or tax) list of Lunenburg County, Virginia and evidently was the year he reached his full legal age of twenty one years. He was listed as one tithe (himself) in what is presently known as Brown's Store township. In 1777 William Hughes married Nancy Bowers, apparent daughter of Francis and Rebecca Bowers, and sister to Pillemon, Young, Sanford and perhaps John Bowers, of Lunenburg County. She was born about 1760 in Virginia.

William and Nancy Bowers Hughes were the parents of six children that we have been able to account for. They were, Sterling (or Starling) Hughes, born about 1780. He was referred to in a Deed of Gift recorded in Lunenburg County Deed Book 14, page 327 in 1786 for "the love and good will I have towards my son Sterling Hughes." Sterling Hughes lived in Person Co., NC throughout his adult life, and evidently died there in the 1850's. His wife was Sarah, her maiden name unknown. Although Sterling and Sarah Hughes had a family, we are not advised as to their names, or any other personal information about them.

Benjamin Hughes, born January 10, 1782, came to this area with his parents and remained, leaving a large number of descendants (see The Benjamin Hughes Family.)

Phillip (or Pillemon) Hughes, born 1784-5 in Lunenburg County, Virginia. We have no doubt that this was one of the two sons of William Hughes listed in the 1800 census of Rutherford County, NC as being sixteen years of age, or older. He was married prior to 1810 when he is listed in the census with a wife and two sons under 10 years of age.

On June 20, 1809, Phillip Hughes purchased 130 acres (in two tracts) of land from Charles Wilkins, lying on the South side of Beaver Dam Creek, joining Chislem Bostick, Parrot and others. By 1820, Phillip Hughes had six sons in his household. We do not know the name of his wife nor either of his children. On February 7, 1822 Phillip Hughes sold his land to Richard Lee, at which time it joined the property of Daniel Blanton, Major McCombs, etc.

This deed says the land was originally granted to James Logan in 1763, and another portion granted to Wilkins and Arthur Johnson in 1800. Phillip Hughes evidently left this area at that time and we have no further record of him or his family.

Young Hughes, born June 4, 1787 in Lunenburg County, Va., married Sarah Blanton, daughter of Burwell Blanton. They were the parents of eleven children: Richard, born 1809, married Elizabeth Hamrick; Narcissa, born 1811, m. William A. Hamrick; Jesse, born 1813, died young?; Artelissa, b. 1815, m. Napoleon D. Davis; John Wesley, b. 1817, m. Sarah Ann Roberts; Israel Putnam, b. 1819, m. Julia Wray (he was a Methodist minister); Amos Hill, b. 1822, m. Jane Alexander; Anderson Ivan Jolly, b. 1824, died young; Elizabeth Aranna, b. 1825, m. John Wesley Blanton; Susannah, b. 1828, m. James McMurry; Sarah Wilson, b. 1831, m. John Blanton.

Rebecca Hughes, born Oct. 6, 1789 in Lunenburg Co., Virginia, married John Blanton, son of Burwell Blanton (see further details under John Blanton/Rebecca Hughes family in this volume.)

Nancy Hughes, born August 14, 1795. Nancy may have been the only child of William and Nancy Bowers Hughes to be born after their migration to North Carolina. Evidence indicates that she married Lewis Justice prior to 1818, when their oldest child, John Justice, was born. Nancy Hughes Justice died before 1850, when the census was taken for that year, showing Lewis Justice a widower with the following children: John, born 1818; Julia A., born 1822; Nancy, born 1824; Lewis, born 1830. For further record of this family we leave to the Justice researchers.

William Hughes entered the Continental Army in the state of Virginia in 1777 and served throughout the Revolutionary War, rendering service as a private soldier under Capt. Nathaniel Fox's Company, commanded by Lieut. Col. Charles Simms. His service took him through most of the major battles in Virginia, North Carolina and South Carolina, including the Battle of Guilford Court House. He was present at the surrender of Lord Cornwallis at York Town.

William Hughes brought his wife, Nancy, and their young children to the present Cleveland County, NC in the 1790's, settling on Beaver Dam Creek, near Boiling Springs where they spent the remainder of their days. William Hughes died on June 17, 1833. He is buried in the Hughes-Blanton (or Blanton-Hughes) family cemetery, his grave marked by a well-worn field stone inscribed simply, WH, AD, 1833. Nancy Bowers Hughes died on March 5, 1843 and is, no doubt, buried by her husband of fifty-six years. No stone has been found for her.

Sources: Family Records, Old Tryon County Records.
— Mrs. Ernest Newton

THE WILLIAM GORDON HUGHES FAMILY

646

William Gordon Hughes was born on a farm near Polkville, North Carolina, February 9, 1877, one of eleven children born to Andrew Jackson and Martha Jane Gold Hughes.

William Gordon Hughes

Florence Wells Hughes

Brothers and sisters were Cicero, Cora, Mollie, Sallie, Daniel, John, Charlie, George, Hatcher and Fannie.

Although William Gordon Hughes had little formal education, through such training as he could afford and through self education from reading, he was well informed on public affairs and history and excelled in spelling and mathematics. He loved the outdoors and was an outstanding hunter and fisherman. He was a farmer and practiced crop rotation and soil conservation. In addition, he bought land and cut the timber to finance the purchases.

As a young boy he attended Big Springs Baptist Church near Polkville, along with his family, and recalled having traveled by wagon to attend the services. Later, after he was married, he settled in the Dixon Community in Cleveland County and became a member of Antioch Baptist Church near Grover.

Around 1896 Gordon Hughes was married to Florence Wells of Cleveland County, and they began their life together on a farm near Grover. Later they lived on a farm near York, South Carolina, then in Ogden, South Carolina, where he operated a general store and cotton gin. Around 1914 they returned to Cleveland County, where he lived until his death in 1950.

Twelve children were born to Gordon and Florence Hughes. Conrad, born in Cleveland County, September 29, 1897, married Eva Dunlap of Ogden, South Carolina. Nine children were born to this union. Conrad was a farmer and an avid fox hunter. He died in 1966 and is buried in Kings Mountain, N.C.

Alma (born in Cleveland County, July 1899, died in 1915) is buried in Kings Mountain, N.C.

Bertie, born in York County, South Carolina, November 2, 1901, married Charles Campbell of Kings Mountain. Three children were born to this union. Bertie died in 1951, and is buried in Kings Mountain, NC.

Johnnie Nevet, born in Cleveland County, May 3, 1904, married Carrie Gaffney of Gaffney, South Carolina. A retired farmer, he now lives on a part of the family farm in Cleveland County.

Mary Lucy, born in Cleveland County November 15, 1906, married Clemmonsee Boone of Kings Mountain. They have two children, and live in Radford, Virginia.

Twin sons, William Gordon, Jr., and Gordon William, were born May 1, 1909. Gordon married Annette Ware of Kings Mountain. Three sons were born to them. Gordon died in 1977 and is buried in Kings Mountain. William (Bill) married Jessie Reams of Paris, Arkansas. They have two children. Bill is interested in antiques and Indian artifacts. He lives on a part of the family farm in Cleveland County and in Paris, Arkansas, hometown of his wife.

Florence Marie, born in Cleveland County June 29, 1911, married William Carroll of Kings Mountain, now lives in Asheboro, and has three children.

Elizabeth Victoria Hollice, born in Ogden, South Carolina, April 27, 1913, married William Atchley of Raleigh. They are parents of two children and live in Raleigh.

Helen Louise, born in Cleveland County September 13, 1915, married Ermon (Abe) Martin of Kings Mountain. They have one son and live near Kings Mountain.

Ruby Ernestine, born in Cleveland County November 6, 1917, married Luther Philip Baker, Jr., of Kings Mountain. They had two children. Luther Philip Baker, Jr. died June 1981 and is buried in Kings Mountain.

Claude Robert, born in Cleveland County April 27, 1921, married Sue Franklin of Grover. They are parents of three children, and live near Dunnellon, Florida.

With such a large family on a cotton farm there was always much work to be done and even the very young helped with the many chores. When time could be found for recreation, there were enough family members to play ball and other games. Sometimes there were short swim sessions in the old swimming hole during noon time breaks from work in the fields. Practically all the food for the family was raised on the farm. Hunters and fishermen in the family supplied the table with wild game and fish. The family ate well and there was always enough food to share with friends, neighbors and strangers who showed up at meal time.

Sources: Family Bible, Family members.

— Marie Hughes Carroll

WILLIAM HUMPHRIES AND DESCENDANTS

647

William Humphries, I, was born about 1750 in England. He came to Virginia and settled there, marrying Judge Walker's daughter, Morning (or Marrienne). After her death, he migrated to Number 1 Township, Cleveland County, N.C., then married, in 1788, Frances Surratt (1753-1848), in Spartanburg District, S.C. She was a resident of Cleveland County.

According to history, that area where William's residence was located, bordering the North and South Carolina line, was sometimes termed a "no man's land". There are records of land being granted, in that area, by the governors of North and South Carolina.

Records obtained from the War Department in Washington describe his service in the Revolutionary War and show that he served at different times under Colonels Campbell and Williams in the South Carolina troops and as brigade quartermaster in General Sumter's brigade and was at the Battle of King's Mountain. He served two years and was pensioned under claim No. W-4000. While in service, he received a wound by a ball passing through his thigh, from which he afterwards suffered. He died in 1827 and is buried about one hundred yards west of the old home place. The D.A.R. erected a marker on his grave in 1937.

Names of the children of William Humphries, I, were recorded in the old family Bible as John, William II, Samuel, Jesse, David, Margaret, Francis, Susanah, Anderson and Jane.

Samuel Humphries, I, (1781-1849) who was the son of William and Frances S. Humphries, married Nancy McCraw. The names of their children, recorded in the family Bible were Lawson, Celia, Daniel, Francis, William Bryson (or Brison), Thomas Jefferson, Elizabeth, Ranny and Samuel, II.

William Bryson Humphries (Mar. 8, 1812 — died ca. 1868), son of Samuel and Nancy McCraw Humphries, married Mary "Polly" Blanton. Their children were Pink, Hazael, Memory, Henry, Samuel Austin, John Perry, Arranah, Emaline and Jane.

Samuel Austin Humphries (May 17, 1850 — June 27, 1913), son of William Bryson and Mary "Polly" Blanton Humphries, married Louisa Jane Jones (Aug. 22, 1850 — Nov. 16, 1906). Their children were seven in number. (They were grandparents of the writer).

(1) Mary Ezell "Mollie" (May 5, 1875 — Dec. 12, 1899) m. John Vinesett; (2) Minnie L. (b. 1877) m. Zeb Moseley; (3) Jemima E. "Mamie" (May 15, 1879 — Nov. 17, 1959) m. Samuel A. Parker; (4) Andrew Jackson "Jack" (Mar. 16, 1881 — Nov. 6, 1952) m. July 20, 1901 to Martha Eudora "Docia"

Samuel Austin Humphries, husband of Louisa Jane Jones Humphries

Davis; (5) Lula (Dec. 18, 1884 — June 8, 1912) m. Aaron Humphries; (6) Marshall Davis "Marsh" (Aug. 23, 1886 — Nov. 26, 1939) m. Pearl Kennedy; and (7) Ferris Cordell Humphries (Nov. 26, 1893 — May 18, 1948) married Feb. 16, 1915 to Bertha Ledford (Dec. 11, 1896 — May 17, 1975), parents of the writer.

The eight children of Ferris C. and Bertha L. Humphries are as follows: (1) Edward Dwight (b. Jan. 22, 1916), married first, Dixie Howard; second, Betty Williams; third, Betsy Askins Scarboro; (2) Ella Jane (July 14, 1917 — Aug. 6, 1921), died of diphtheria (3) Herbert Brooks (b. Dec. 14, 1918) m. Mary Atwood; (4) Ruth Myrl (b. Nov. 19, 1920) m. Walter C. Stephens; (5) Clarabell (b. May 4, 1923) m. Sidney Jackson "Jack" Hughes; (6) Edna Earl (Aug. 4, 1925 — July 5, 1934), died of leukemia; (7) Thelma Raye (b. Mar. 11, 1928) m. Owen M. Holmes, III; (8) F.C., Jr. (b. Feb. 20, 1930) married first, Shylte; second, Gail Allen.

The children of Marshall D. and Pearl K.

Humphries were Phyrnia (died young); Jessie (married first, Herman Hammock; second to Robert Van Sleen); Hattie Mae (married first, Bob Childrez; second, Allan Gardner); Edwin Yates (married Mildred French); Earl Jennings (married first, Margaret Jenkins; second to Lucille Elmore); Martha Bernice (married Joseph Mills Porter); and Donald Brison Humphries, deceased, never married.

Lula Humphries married Aaron Humphries. Their children were Gladys, who married Clyde Bridges; and Lucy, a half-sister to Gladys, married a Brown.

Andrew Jackson "Jack" and Martha Eudora "Docia" Humphries's children were Wofford, Ralph, Dorch, Shirley, Hoyt, Thomas and one daughter, Madeline (married Richard Yates).

Jemima Elizabeth "Mamie" and Samuel A. Parker's children were Thomas Archie (1906-1949) and Mildred Paulette (married John W. Elliott).

The children of Mary Ezell "Mollie" H. and John Vinesett were Etha and Orin.

Many of the above named and other descendants of William Humphries, I, still live in Cleveland County and proudly claim him as their ancestor.

Louisa Jane Jones Humphries, wife of Samuel Austin Humphries

Sources: Mildred P. Elliott's research papers; wills; family Bibles; war records; and research of J.C. Coleman Humphries; census.

— Clara Humphries Hughes

HAROLD RICHARD HUNNICUTT FAMILY

648

Harold Richard Hunnicutt and Margaret Sue Neisler were married January 16, 1937 at her home, 510 N. Piedmont Avenue in Kings Mountain, North Carolina. Harold was born March 29, 1906 in Stallings, North Carolina, Union County, son of Richard Levister Hunnicutt and Lucy Conder. Harold's father died at an early age with typhoid fever and he and his sister were reared by his aunts when his mother came to Kings Mountain and opened a millinery shop.

Harold was educated in the public schools of Matthews, Kings Mountain, Westminster Presbyterian School and Glade Valley school. He was also graduated from the Gupton-Jones School of Mortuary Science in Nashville, Tennessee. He was a funeral director until A.A. Hovis in Charlotte asked him to come to Kings Mtn. and fill a vacancy at the Neisler Mills as Plant Superintendant, which he held until the mills were sold in 1955.

Harold was an active member of the First Presbyterian Church where he served as a Deacon several times. He was a charter member of both the Country Club and the Kiwanis Club where he served as president of the latter and had a perfect attendance record of thirty-two years. He was awarded the "Kiwanian of the Year" in 1962. He was active in the Red Cross Chapter, Civil Defense and Regional Director of the Boy Scouts. He was very active in ham radio and received the Public Service Award in Radio Relay League, and also participated in the Mars Unit.

Margaret, born October 23, 1907 is the daughter of Ida Pauline Mauney and Charles Eugene Neisler. She is a graduate of Kings Mountain High School and Queens College of Charlotte, North Carolina, with a Bachelor of Music degree in both public school music and piano. She was music supervisor in the Kings Mountain city schools for four years. She is a member of the First Presbyterian Church where she served as organist for around ten years, a choir member, leader of the Christian Endeavor and teacher in the primary department for over forty years. She has an attendance record in Sunday School of over thirty years.

Margaret and Harold have two children; H.R. Hunnicutt, Jr. (Dick) born September 1, 1938 and Margaret Sue born April 26, 1944. She was graduated from high school at Stratford Hall in 1962 in Danville, Virginia. She made her debut in a ball sponsored by Shelby Junior Charity League and also the Terpoichorean ball in Raleigh, North Carolina. She graduated with a B.A. degree in history from St. Andrews Presbyterian College in Laurinburg, North Carolina in 1966. She taught history at Independence High School in Charlotte. Sue married Reginald Lane Smith April 19, 1975. They have one daughter Susan Neisler Smith born December 6, 1977. Her husband, Lane, is an honor graduate of Clemson College in South Carolina with a B.S. degree in textile management. He is vice President of manufacturing in the Fabrics Division of Riegel Textiles. They now live near Atlanta at Roswell, Ga.

H.R. Hunnicutt, Jr. attended Davidson College and graduated from Belmont Abbey College with a B.A. in business administration. He then attended N.C. State University and was graduated Magna Cum laude with a B.S. in textile engineering. He worked for five years at Parkdale Mills, Inc. in Gastonia. In 1967 he helped form Kings Mill, Inc. of Kings Mountain where he served as vice president. In 1974 Kings Mill was merged into Tultex Corporation of Martinsville, Virginia, and is part of Tultex Yarn Group, composed of five spinning mills located throughout North Carolina. Hunnicutt has served as vice president of Tultex since 1977 and is also president of the Tultex Yarn Group headquartered in Gastonia. At the Board of Directors meeting November 11, 1981, H.R. was elected as senior vice president and director of Tultex Corporation.

Hunnicutt is a member of the First Presbyterian Church in Gastonia and the Gaston County Country Club. He is a member of the Board of the N.C. Textile Manufacturers Association and has served the American Yarn Spinners Association as board member, product group chairman, two terms as treasurer and is currently second vice president. He lives in Gastonia with his wife the former Esther Reid Adams of Gastonia and their three sons.

Esther attended Salem College two years, transferring to Winthrop College where she graduated with a B.A. in elementary education. She also attended the deb ball in Gastonia and the Terpsichorean ball in Raleigh. She is a former member of the Junior Service League of Gastonia.

Esther and Dick's three sons are: H.R. Hunnicutt, III (Hal) born February 28, 1966; Minor

Adams (Chip) born January 20, 1970; Reid Neisler (Reid) born October 28, 1971.

— Mrs. Margaret Hunnicutt

AUDLY MARTIN HUNT and DESCENDANTS

649

Audly (Edly) Martin Hunt, born 1860 and died 1922, in Rutherford County. He married Alice Catherine Whisnant, born 1862 and died 1904, of Cleveland County. She left four children, ages fourteen down to four. This made living rather lonely for all. But everyone did their part, and with help from neighbors, they made it.

Audly Martin had large land holdings and he was also a sawmill owner. He was first in his community to have carbide lights in his home.

To Edly and Alice were born four children: Virginia Myrtle 1890-1976, Emma Leonia 1892-1972, Winnie Florence 1894-1962, and Yates Tillman 1901-1962, (he was named for Judge Yates Webb of Shelby.)

Virginia Myrtle married Adam Witt Kowsky, 1884-1936, in 1912. They had one daughter, Jessie Pearl 1913. Kowsky was killed by lightning, during a thunderstorm.

Jessie Pearl (b. 1913) married J.D. Carpenter in 1934. He was from Rutherford County. To this union were born four children: Virginia Helen born 1934; Donald Glenn born 1941; Sheila Whisnant born 1946; and Larry Dean born 1951.

Virginia Helen married, Robert B. Hutchens of Reidsville, North Carolina in 1961. They have one son, Benton. They reside in Jacksonville, Florida.

Donald Glenn married Linda Joyce Wortman of Casar, North Carolina, in 1967. They have two children, Carla and Jeffrey. Donald is employed by Roadway Express. They reside at Route 5, Shelby, North Carolina.

Sheila Whisnant married Bobby Leon Morrow of Gastonia, North Carolina, in 1974. She is a teacher at Ashbrook High School in Gastonia where they live.

Larry Dean married Joyce Ann Mauldin of Lincolnton, North Carolina in 1974. They have two girls Miranda and Laura. Larry is employed with Sunbeam Bakery of Shelby. They reside at Route 1, Casar, North Carolina.

Emma Leonia married James Edgar Hunt, b. 1886-1978. They lived in Cleveland County and were a hard working family, earning their living from the farm. To this union were born four children: Alice Marie b. 1912; Bulah Clayton, b. 1917; James Lee b. 1920; and Hoyete, b. 1927.

Alice Marie married John Pleas Gold of Lattimore in 1934. To this union were born Edith Shirley, 1937 and Elizabeth Burnette, 1938. They moved to Jacksonville, Florida, during the second world war where Pleas worked in the shipyard and their last daughter, Linda Marie, was born in 1944.

Edith Shirley married John Kolb b. 1937, in 1962. He was from New York. They met while Shirley was working on her master's degree in Miami, Florida. She is a consultant decorator with J.C. Penny in Tampa, Florida where they live. They have a daughter Kelly born 1964, and a son Chris, born 1966.

Elizabeth Burnette married Steven Blanton of Lattimore, North Carolina, in 1956. Burnette is a registered nurse at Crawley Memorial in Boiling Springs. They have two children: Ricky b. 1957 and Dana b. 1959. They live near Shelby.

Linda Marie married Thomas Watson Hamrick, Jr., b. 1943, in 1964. Linda is an insurance agent. They have two boys: Bradley b. 1965 and Kaylan b. 1968. They live near Shelby.

Bulah Clayton married Allen White b. 1912, in 1935. They live on the farm in the Oak Grove Community near Polkville, North Carolina. They have two sons: Shannon Lerow, b. 1937 and Gerald Kenneth b. 1936. Gerald died in 1977.

Shannon married Ruby Shytles in 1956 of Polkville, North Carolina. They have one son, Gary Allen, b. 1960.

Gerald Kenneth married Ruby Morrison of Lawndale in 1957. He was in textiles and farming. They have two daughters: Lisa Dianne b. 1959 and Patti Faye b. 1961. Lisa married Dewey Leonhardt in 1977. They have one son, Luke b. 1980 and live in Georgia. Patti married James Ives of Lawndale in 1981 and they have one son born 1982.

James Lee Hunt born 1920 married in 1964 Moneta Elliott of Polkville (b. 1918). James served in World War II and was a parachute packer. He is employed with Shelby Concrete works of Shelby, where they live. They do not have any children.

Hoytte Edgar b. 1927 married Lucille Pruett (born in South Carolina in 1936) in 1953. To this union were born Belinda Joyce 1954 and Wanda Christine b. 1956. They reside in Cleveland County. Hoytte is with the Pantry Stores.

Winnie Florence married Fow Cooke of Rutherford County where they chose to live. They had two children: Lallage born in 1916 and Talmage Lee born in 1918. In later years Winnie went to Tulsa, Oklahoma, where she studied nursing and was a nurse. She died in 1962 and is buried in Tulsa.

Lallage married James Grigg of Lawndale in 1932 where they made their home. Their children were Joan and Jerry.

Talmage Lee married Lois (last name unknown) in Tulsa where he died in 1977 and is buried there.

Yates Tillman lived in Rutherford County until the death of his father, Audly Martin, then he went to Tulsa where he worked as an automobile mechanic. He married Mary Johnson of Anderson, Missouri. No children. He died in 1962 and she died later. Both are buried in Union Church Cemetery in Anderson.

Sources: Family Bible, Newspaper clippings, family interviews.

— Jessie Pearl Carpenter

JAMES MADISON and SARAH LATTIMORE HUNT FAMILY

650

James (Jim) Madison Hunt was born December 10, 1820 to William Kenchen and Rebecca Catherine Simmons Hunt in upper Rutherford County. He married May 7, 1842, Sarah (Sally) Lattimore, daughter of Francis (Frank) and Catherine Lattimore, the ceremony being performed by the Rev. Drury Dobbins.

They lived and reared their family in the Golden Valley section of upper Cleveland County (formerly Rutherford County), near First Broad Baptist Church. Minutes of this church, Feb. 7, 1849, read that James and Sarah Hunt were members of the church and he had paid on this date 50¢ "for support of preachers." (It is interesting to note in further minutes, on Aug. 10, 1850, a total of $2.55 was sent "to convention for home and foreign missions by church.")

The 1860 Cleveland County census lists him age 40, as a farmer with $1,000.00 real estate and $11,000.00 personal property. It is said that he continued to acquire much land in this area.

A granddaughter remembers him as a man of rather large stature, extremely sharp black eyes, and in his later years as having very white hair and beard. She recalls that he always asked the blessing at meal time, and vividly remembers ("I can see him now," she says) how his eyes were always wandering around to those seated at the table, seeing that they were properly behaved. As a young child, and in later years she wondered what thoughts were in his mind.

She, also, recalls her fear of fording the river in a buggy when the family went to visit, and once when the river was overflowing from heavy rains a business satchel being carried by an uncle was washed into the river. She felt this very frightening and dangerous. On a young, impressionistic mind these experiences left their imprint and have been clearly remembered through the years.

"Jim" and "Sally," it is said, were very entertaining and shared a hospitable home where friends and relatives enjoyed visiting. Habitually it was made their stopping place when they were in the area.

He died at age 95, March 30, 1916, of blood poisoning, resulting from an accident while chopping wood. She died July 8, 1901. They are buried in the First Broad Church Cemetery.

Census records give the names of eight children born of this marriage.

Rebecca Catherine (Cath) born April 8, 1847 died May 28, 1898, married Aug. 22, 1863, John Russell Gamble born January 3, 1844 died January 1, 1918, son of William Gamble. She is buried in the High Shoals Baptist Church Cemetery, Cliffside, N.C. They were the parents of thirteen children. Seven reached the age of maturity and were married. Six died young (age 18 years or less). Mary, born Sept. 30, 1864, married Hamp Jones. Billy, born February 12, 1867, married Eugenia Lattimore. Alice married Jack Jones. James Madison, born June 8, 1871; died June 19, 1934, married (1) Maggie Martin (2) Blanch Griffin, (3) Ella Wilson. Rachel Louise (Lou), born January 10, 1875; died Dec. 7, 1962, married Crawford Durham Hicks, October 11, 1897. (See Rachel Louise Gamble Hicks Family.) He was born January 23, 1876 and died April 2, 1952. George H., born Jan. 11, 1882; died April, 1942, married Oct. 7, 1913; Lula Pearl Grier born June 6, 1888; died May 5, 1933. Robert born Sept. 27, 1873; died Jan. 30, 1891. Jennie born Jan. 27, 1878; died Sept. 3, 1896. Minnie born Jan. 27, 1878; died July 25, 1898, married Willie L. Walker, born Nov. 23, 1873; died Nov. 5, 1909. Raney born July 27, 1880; died March 22, 1897. Jessie born May 27, 1885; died Sept. 11, 1898. Julie born Aug. 13, 1887; died Feb. 16, 1891. Dovie born April 8, 1890; died May 15, 1901.

John Jackson born Dec. 18, 1850 died; Jan. 6, 1921 married June 5, 1873 Elizabeth Ellen Peeler. (See John Jackson and Elizabeth Ellen Peeler Hunt Family.)

Robert W. (Rob) born 1853 went to Texas, date and place unknown. His wife's first name was Raney and a Record of Cleveland County Court Settlements, April 23, 1918 states that he is deceased with six children, names unknown, as sharing a joint settlement from a relative.

Lucretia (Lou), born 1854 remained single, living at the homeplace of her parents until her death.

George M. born Jan. 1858 died Jan. 18, 1906. It is said he was a man of large stature, a quick temper, emotional, a lover of square dancing and played the violin well. He had two marriages, first, to Julie Hamrick, and secondly, to King Price, daughter of Wade Price. His tombstone in the First Broad Church Cemetery where he is buried indicates he was a Mason.

Audley (Edley) Martin born Oct. 9, 1860; died June 5, 1922, married Alice C. Whisnant. (See Audley Martin Hunt Family.)

Mary L. (Missy) born April 4, 1865; died February 9, 1952 married Ben F. Gamble. They continued to live at the family homeplace with her sister, Lou. They are buried, along with their infant son, in the First Broad Church Cemetery.

James C., born 1863, went to Texas, also, and little else is known about him.

Sources of information are Cleveland and Rutherford County Census records, Cleveland County Marriage Bonds, church records, family records, gravestones and interviews with family relatives.

— Burnette Hunt

THE JOHN JACKSON and ELIZABETH ELLEN PEELER HUNT FAMILY

651

John Jackson (John) Hunt was born December 18, 1850, to James Madison and Sally Lattimore Hunt in the Golden Valley section of Cleveland County (See James Madison Hunt Family). He married June 5, 1873, Elizabeth Ellen Peeler, daughter of Alfred Graves and Elizabeth Cline Peeler who lived in the Belwood area.

They made their home in a large five bedroom house in Upper Cleveland County near Hollis where he became a prosperous farmer and extensive land owner. Since electricity had not become available, carbide lights were installed in the home to replace the oil lamps, and an interesting feature was the erection of lightning rods on the roof, customary of the period.

Elizabeth Ellen Peeler Hunt, wife of John Jackson Hunt, and granddaughter, Ruth Beam

Their children were taught to do their share in tending the land, the garden, and barnyard chores. Sharecroppers, also, assumed their responsibilities. The table was always laden with an abundance of food, with all the little niceties, such as jellies, jams, and honey, as the mother and daughters were excellent cooks. The "smokehouse" was filled in the fall with rows of hams, shoulders and "hind quarters of beef." As the children grew older and came back to visit the parents great joy was in sharing and having a ham, or something to give as a parting gift.

They always had beautiful horses for their buggies and surry, a sense of pride in their manner and dress, and it is said they made a striking appearance when they journeyed to social and religious events.

John Hunt had brown hair and very dark twinkling eyes, quite in contrast to "Liz" who was blonde. He had a speech impediment known as stammering and was said to be quite "witty and interesting."

He met with an accident around 1891 which paralyzed the lower part of his body, but this did not hamper his spirits. He used a wheel chair when necessary, but enjoyed sitting on the edge of porch while overseeing the farm duties, with legs in a comfortable position and crutches nearby to tease and trip the grandchildren as they came near.

He died January 6, 1921, of pneumonia and is buried along with his wife in the nearby Mt. Harmony Church Cemetery. After his death she came to live with her son, Dr. Robert Lee Hunt, in Lattimore. She died November 6, 1922.

They were the parents of eleven children, seven reaching the age of maturity.

Julia Texaner born 1873 died in infancy.

Esther (Essie) Suzner born December 25, 1874, died March 12, 1891.

James Gafney born December 11, 1876, died April 18, 1881. He met accidental death with a gun while playing with a friend.

Minnie Lector (Leck) born December 2, 1878, died March 28, 1947. She was married December 2, 1902 to James M. Beam of Cherryville, N.C., where they spent their married life, rearing four children, Paul H., J. Ralph, Ruth Elizabeth, and Robert H. She was a kind, compassionate, loving person with a warm, friendly personality, highly admired and respected by her many friends. She possessed both physical and spiritual beauty. She is buried in Cherryville Memorial Cemetery, Cherryville, N.C.

John Jackson and Elizabeth Ellen Peeler Hunt with grandson, Paul Beam

Daisy Lillian born Sept. 25, 1881, died March 29, 1949. She married Ivey Willis (See Ivey Willis Family).

Anna Dixon born December 24, 1883; died June 5, 1885.

Robert Lee born October 25, 1885; died December 18, 1957, married Alma Harrill (See Robert Lee Hunt Family).

Lura Lee born January 22, 1888; died May 13, 1960. She married Orange Lattimore October 15, 1924, son of John Bynum and Dorcas McFarland Lattimore, and was a school teacher before her marriage. She was a very industrious person and gave generously of her time and means to the Big Springs Baptist Church of which she was a member. There were no children. She and her husband lived at his family homeplace and are buried in the Lattimore Family Cemetery near Polkville, N.C.

John Lee, born January 18, 1890; died June 30, 1969, married Sally Cathleen Harrill (See John Lee Hunt Family).

Almira Eliza born January 29, 1894; died April 14, 1980, married James Augustus Self of Lincoln County. Before her marriage she taught in the county schools. She was a striking brunette in appearance, possessing grace, charm, and a captivating personality. Their married life was spent in Florence, S.C., where he was a prominent business man, operating a men's clothing store. They were the parents of two children: James Alfred and Martha Elizabeth. She and her husband are buried in Mt. Hope Cemetery, Florence, S.C.

Sarah Elizabeth (Lizzie), born September 20, 1896; died Sept. 1, 1970, married ca. 1916 Pet Harrill, son of Columbus and Susan Grigg Harrill. He was killed April 9, 1939, in an automobile accident. She reared her family in Cleveland County where she was a school teacher and an employee of Bost Bakery in Shelby. She was a petite, attractive brunette with a pleasant smile and a gracious manner. Her last years were spent with her daughter, Helen Christensen in Orem, Utah, where she died. She and her husband are buried in the Big Springs Baptist Church Cemetery. Children born of this union are J.P., Dorothy Sue, Helen, Max, Pansy and Barbara.

Sources: Family Bible and relatives.

— Burnette Hunt

JOHN JACKSON (JACK) D.D.S. and RUBY CROWDER HUNT

652

John Jackson (Jack) Hunt II was born Nov. 27, 1922 in Lattimore, N.C. to Dr. Robert Lee and Alma Harrill Hunt (See Robert Lee Hunt D.D.S. family). He graduated from Lattimore High School in 1939 and from Wake Forest College in 1943 where he was a member of Delta Sigma Phi Fraternity. He received his D.D.S. degree from Emory University in 1946.

Ruby Frances Crowder was born in Lattimore, N.C. on March 14, 1926 to Plato Dixon and Vada Spangler Crowder (See Plato Crowder family). After graduating from Lattimore High School in 1943, she attended Appalachian State University. While there she was on the Miss Rhododendron Court.

Jack and Ruby were married June 22, 1946 in the Double Springs Baptist Church by the Rev. John W. Suttle.

Jack served in the army in 1946-1948 and 1950-1952. Upon discharge from the army, he opened a dental practice in Cliffside, N.C. where they lived.

Later he bought a home (R.R. Hewitt house) in Lattimore and became a partner with his brother, Robert, in a dairy farm which they called the Huntland Farms.

Jack, like his father, began branching out in other business ventures. One interest was the salvage business from which evolved The Round-Up Stores, Inc.

Around the 1950's Jack became involved in various organizations in both Cleveland and Rutherford County. He has served as President of Isothermal Dental Society, Meredith College Parents' Association Board of Directors, has been active in The Young Life Program, and a deacon in the Lattimore Baptist Church.

He also became active with the Democratic Party, serving as precinct officer and county officer. Jack is a strong believer in the goals and ideals of the Democratic Party, and, also, in the two-party system of government.

Presently he is on the board of advisors of Gardner-Webb College, Crawley Memorial Hospital, is a member of the First Baptist Church of Shelby, and is a Mason and Shriner.

Jack is serving his fourth term in the state legislature. Chairman of the House Military and Veterans Affairs Committee is among one of the various committees on which he has served. He was elected an honorary member of the North Carolina National Guard Association for having rendered conspicuous service to The Veterans of North Carolina. Also, he received the North Carolina Battleship Award for distinguished service to the veterans and citizens of North Carolina. Presently, he is serving as chairman of the House Rules Committee.

Ruby and Jack embrace life. They have always had a strong, positive perspective which they have tried to pass on to their family, a message that it is better to dwell on the positive than the negative aspects of life.

When the Round-Up Store was burned by arsonists in 1980 and 1981, all of the family members were deeply hurt, outraged, and mostly bewildered at the senselessness of it all. This store had been a good family business where a lot of hard work had been done together. It was the source of many happy and exciting memories for the entire family as well as friends and customers. For Jack and Ruby it was all this plus a retirement plan, a place where they could go and sit while they were growing older, a place to work and sit outside and talk to their friends.

Firemen from both Rutherford and Cleveland Counties frantically fought to save what they could. Not knowing what to do or why any of it was happening, the family just sat and watched. Jack broke the silence with his characteristic, calm perspective saying, "It makes you feel good to see these forty volunteer firemen who have disturbed their own sleep and their families to come out here and fight this blaze, doesn't it? That's what you are supposed to be thinking about right now."

Ruby, as Jack, has much zest for life and she has enjoyed, benefited from, and contributed to his own ideas and plans, sometimes against her own better judgment. Both Ruby and Jack have had many reflections and comments on life, but there are two that seem to capsule their thoughts. Her philosophy is that "you shouldn't let your world get too small." Even when she was not certain that the right thing was being done, she tried to have an open mind about the possibilities of what could be.

Jack and Ruby have enjoyed life in many dimensions. They have always been participants in the community and contributors to life which may be why one of Jack's philosophies is "Don't look at the world through a peephole in the fence."

At the time of this writing (1982), Jack and Ruby live on their farm near Lattimore. Three of their five daughters live nearby.

— Sally Hunt

Easter 1960: 1st row L to R: Judy and Penny. 2nd row L to R: Cindy, Libby and Sally

JOHN JACKSON (JACK) D.D.S. and RUBY CROWDER HUNT FAMILY

653

Jack and Ruby are the parents of five daughters, Judy, Penny, Libby, Cindy and Sally.

Judy Frances Hunt was born May 16, 1949 at Cleveland Memorial Hospital, Shelby, N.C. She is a graduate of Shelby High School and received her degree from Meredith College Raleigh, N.C. in 1971. After receiving a Masters Degree in sociology from Appalachian State University, she married William Hanse Kohler, formerly of Pensacola, Fla. They have a daughter, Jackie Hunt Kohler and make their home in Blowing Rock, N.C.

Penny Ann Hunt was born July 4, 1951 at Frot Bragg, N.C. and is a graduate of Shelby High School. She attended Peace College in Raleigh, N.C. and in 1973 received her degree in Early Childhood Education from UNC, Chapel Hill, N.C. She married William James (Jim) Corn of Shelby and they have three children, James Hunter Corn, Annabeth Jones Corn, and William James Corn, Jr. They live in Lattimore, N.C.

Alma Elizabeth (Libby) Hunt was born at Cleveland Memorial Hospital, Shelby, N.C. on July 18, 1952. She is a graduate of Shelby High School and received her degree in Early Childhood Education and Home Economics in 1974 from Meredith College, Raleigh, N.C. She married Paul Mark Sarazen III of Shelby, N.C. They have two children, Paul Mark Sarazen IV and Elizabeth Hunt Sarazen. They live in Lattimore, N.C.

Cindy Jane Hunt was born at Royster Memorial Hospital, Boiling Springs, N.C. on March 19, 1954. She is a graduate of Shelby High School and attended Meredith College for two years before entering UNC, Chapel Hill where she received a Masters Degree in Physical Education in 1976. She teaches at Isothermal Community College in Rutherford County and lives in Lattimore, N.C.

Sally Lou Hunt was born at Royster Memorial Hospital in Boiling Springs, N.C. on March 1, 1956. A graduate of Shelby High School, she attended Appalachian State University for two years before entering UNC — Chapel Hill where she received an American Studies degree in History and Political Science in 1978. She works as Sales/Market Support Representative for a Word Data Processing Co. She married Roland Jones, formerly of Mt. Pleasant, S.C. They live in Raleigh, N.C.

— Sally Hunt

JOHN LEE and KATE HARRILL HUNT FAMILY

654

John Lee, born January 18, 1890, died June 29, 1969, was the ninth child of John Jackson and Elizabeth Ellen Peeler Hunt (See John Jackson and Elizabeth Ellen Peeler Hunt Family). He was born in Cleveland County, grew up on the family farm and attended Piedmont High School. At the age of 24 he married Sally Cathleen "Kate" Harrill, born August 31, 1897, daughter of Franklin and Rixie Stuart Harrill of the Double Springs Community of Cleveland County, and a direct descendant of Housen Harrill, Revolutionary War soldier. She attended Boiling Springs High School. For a number of years they lived at or near the Hunt homeplace, later moved to Lattimore, then to Polkville where their children grew up and graduated from high school. John was a farmer and dairyman. Kate was a homemaker, prepared delicious meals for the family, and helped with the farm and dairy work. John especially enjoyed raising hogs and curing hams and "Miss Kate," as the children affectionately called her, had a very special way of cooking it just right and serving it to family and friends. The Hunts were a good natured, fun loving, hard working family. They reared six children:

Daisy Frances, born October 23, 1915, entered Shelby Hospital School of Nursing after high school graduation and later worked many years in New York City.

John Billy, born December 17, 1918, served in the Army Infantry during World War II and was seriously injured in the Asiatic-Pacific Theater. He received the Purple Heart, Bronze Star with Oak Leaf Cluster and Good Conduct Medals. He married Kathleen Gillespie, daughter of J.S. and Mary Elizabeth Blanton Gillespie. They have two children: Doris Elaine and Robert Lee. Doris and Robert graduated from Crest High School. Doris is a graduate of Limestone College and teaches in the County School System. She is married to John Wesson, farmer and salesman. They live in the Poplar Springs Community. Their children are Mary Elizabeth, Joseph Iredell and Alice Caroline. Robert, a graduate of Gardner-Webb College, is married to Rachel Barber and they have two children, Laura Lee and Jesse Benjamin. Robert and family live in the Poplar Spring Community. He works with United Parcel Service in Charlotte.

Jane Elizabeth, born July 25, 1921, a graduate of Shelby Beauty College, married Darwin Earl Hobbs, son of Mildred G. and Earl Hobbs of Ellenburg Corners, New York. They established a home in Polkville where their only child, Daniel Lee, was born. They later moved to Hollywood, Florida, where he is engaged in heavy construction work. Danny is married to Vickie Coniff, and is the father of three daughters.

John Lee Hunt, 1890-1969

Sally Cathleen "Kate" Harrill Hunt, b. 1897

ters: Dawn Lee, Brandi Jane, and Tammy Ruth. Danny is pressman for the Ft. Lauderdale News and Times and Vickie is office manager for Century 21 Real Estate.

James Lee "Jim", born October 7, 1928, married Betty Grayson, daughter of Howard and Myrtle Wellman Grayson. For a number of years they lived in their home in Cleveland County and were engaged in farming, rug making, apple growing, but later moved to Lake James where they now reside and operate Benfield's Landing and Store. Their children are Jimmy Stephen, Donald Stuart and Franklin Scott. "Jim" and Betty have two grandchildren: Amy Lynn, daughter of Jimmy Stephen; and Amanda Jean, daughter of Donald Stuart.

Joe Alfred, born August 27, 1930, served in the United States Air Force in England. He was a Staff Sergeant in teletype and cryptographic repairs. He received BS and MA degrees from Appalachian State University and is Branch Manager, North and South Carolina, for Peerless Insurance Company, Charlotte. He married Joan Wesson, a registered nurse and daughter of Ray and Grace Owens Wesson. Joan is Injury Compensation Supervisor with the Charlotte Post Office. They reside in Waxhaw and have two children: Patrice Elaine, educated at Western Carolina University and Wingate College, and Joe, Jr., who holds a BS degree from Wingate College.

Betty Lee Hunt, born December 3, 1935, graduated from Appalachian State University and teaches in the Cherryville School System. She is married to C. Richard Blackwelder, son of John William and Ocie Witherspoon Blackwelder, who is a machinist. They have one daughter, Catherine Leigh, who has a BS degree in Middle School Education from Appalachian State University. They live in Cherryville.

Sources: Family members, family records and personal knowledge.

— John B. Hunt and Kathleen G. Hunt

ROBERT LEE HUNT D.D.S. and ALMA HARRILL HUNT FAMILY

655

Robert Lee Hunt, D.D.S. and Alma Harrill were married January 1911 by Rev. Gordon Washburn and were the parents of four children who were reared in Lattimore, N.C.

Robert Lee Hunt (b. October 25, 1885 d. December 18, 1957) was a proud and loving family man, giving unselfishly of himself and his resources to his family and fellowmen. (See Memorial Page, Robert Lee Hunt, D.D.S.) He is remembered as a generous benefactor, tender-hearted, and sensitive to those in need. He possessed a keen mind which served him well in business, along with the insight for problem solving, advising many who came to him seeking personal advice.

He was active in the civic, educational, and religious activities of the community. He served as town Alderman (Secretary and Treasurer) 1913-1917 and two terms as Mayor, 1929-1933 and 1949-1955. During this tenure (1929) the town owned electric light system was sold to Southern Public Utilities Company for $18,500.00 and in 1952 monies from the Powell Bill Fund was applied for and secured.

He was a person who was interested in growth and progress in the county and community. Within the small city limits of Lattimore are at least thirteen or more houses, buildings or lots where houses have been built which he sold to others. He was a Shareholder in the Cleveland County Fair Association and the Lake Lure Project.

A leader in the advancement of education he was influential in the building and growth of the Lattimore school in the 1920's serving as trustee for many years, giving generously and unselfishly of his time and means.

A member of the Lattimore Baptist Church he was a church deacon for many years. When the new church was completed in 1951, he had served actively as a member of the building committee, being called by many as a "peace-maker" when the committee could not resolve a particular issue.

He was a Pythian, Mason and Shriner, enjoyed hunting and fishing and was a basketball enthusiast. In his later years he spent many happy hours at his cottage in Lake Lure fishing with family and friends. By nature he was a happy man — always a ready smile, a contagious laugh and a good sense of humor.

Alma Harrill Hunt, b. April 17, 1888 was the daughter of Robert Lee and Julia McSwain Harrill (See Robert Lee Harrill Family). Her earliest memories of school (age five) was riding with her father on his bicycle to Lattimore where she would attend subscription school for the week. (The teacher was Mrs. Mary Calton).

As a young girl, being the oldest child, she assumed the responsibility of looking after her younger brothers and sisters and seeing that they had the proper clothes to wear. She made most of their clothes quite often without patterns, being a good creative seamstress. This talent was further appreciated as she reared her own family and continued with her grandchildren. She has remained meticulous as to fit and appearance in dress.

She was a good wife and prepared many meals on short notice for dental patients, hired hands, salesmen, friends, and anyone who happened to be around at mealtime.

She is a quiet, modest, humble, unassuming person who loves everyone and has no enemies. She has always had compassion and empathy for the underprivileged, and is an inspiration and pillar of strength to her children and grandchildren. She loves her Church and Sunday School and gives generously of her time wherever she can be of help.

At 94, she is very mentally alert and active in her home which we share. Others have been known to say they would not mind growing old if they could do it as graciously and beautiful as she.

The R. L. Hunt, D.D.S., and Alma Harrill Hunt Family: 1st row L to R: R. L. Hunt, D.D.S., "Jack," and Alma Harrill Hunt. 2nd row L to R: Julia, Robert, Jr., and Burnette

Alma Hunt, 80th Birthday. L to R: Burnette, Robert, Jr., Alma (Mother) Julia and Jack.

Her secrets seem to be not worrying about things which cannot be changed, not to speak unkindly or be critical of others, to be unselfish in all things and above all else love others as oneself.

Hazel Burnette Hunt (b. 1911) graduated from Lattimore High School in 1927 as class valedictorian. She was active in extra curricular activities, including the girls basketball team (later receiving a letter in basketball at Meredith). She received a BM degree from Meredith College in 1931, an MA with a major in Music Education from Appalachian State University in 1957, and continued further study in Choral Music at UNC, Chapel Hill.

She was Supervisor of music in the Hendersonville City Schools for three years before accepting a position as Choral Music Teacher in the Charlotte-Mecklenburg Schools where she taught for sixteen years before retiring in 1976. She was an active member of local, state, and national teacher organizations and the American Choral Directors Association. She always strove for excellence and was recognized throughout the state for the superior ratings awarded her choral groups, and was held in high esteem by her students, administrators and peers.

Presently, she is a member of the Old Tryon Geneological Society, the Cleveland County Historical Society where she has served on the Board of Directors for five years, and as Chairman of the Oral History Committee. A member of the Lattimore Baptist Church, she is active in the church choir, handbell choir, serves as Sunday School pianist, Extension Director, church hostess, and Vice-President of the Over 60 Club. She is a member of the DAR, a committee member of the Council on Aging, has an avid interest in antiques, and enjoys oil painting and sports, especially basketball.

The other three children (See related articles) are Robert Lee Hunt, Jr. (b. February 22, 1916 d. December 20, 1976) m. Mary Martha Bingham; Julia Cathleen Hunt (b. September 6, 1918) m. Walter Shields Clayton, D.D.S., and John Jackson Hunt II D.D.S. (b. November 27, 1922) m. Ruby Frances Crowder.

Sources: Family Bible, Lattimore Town Minutes, relatives and personal knowledge.

— Burnette Hunt
Florinne Marren

Alma Hunt, 90th Birthday.

ROBERT LEE, JR. and MARY MARTHA BINGHAM HUNT FAMILY

656

Robert Lee Hunt, Jr. (b. February 23, 1916 d. December 20, 1976) was the son of Robert Lee and Alma Harrill Hunt of Lattimore, N.C. (See Robert Lee Hunt, D.D.S. Family)

Robert attended Lattimore Schools where he excelled in both studies and sports. He was a member of the debating team, the State Championship basketball team in 1934, participated in many school plays and was voted "Best All-Around" student in the Senior Class. His interest in sports and the depression were deciding factors in his decision to remain in high school an extra year.

After graduation (1934) he attended UNC at Chapel Hill for two years. Undecided about his future he worked a few years with his dad in various family enterprises, also, surveying land for the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service. He saved his money and entered N.C. State College to study animal production, graduating with honors in 1943.

Robert began his career as a field representative for Coble Dairies, at Sugar Grove, N.C. His love of sports continued throughout his life, and it was on the tennis court that he met his future wife, Mary Martha Bingham, daughter of Charles McKinley Bingham (1896-1936) and Ruth Rhodes Bingham (1897-1980) of Sugar Grove, N.C. They were married November 18, 1945 in Waynesville, N.C.

Since his work necessitated frequent moves, he and his bride returned to his home in Lattimore permanently. With his brother, Jack, he bought a farm, (Huntland Farms) from his dad. For about fifteen years the farm was operated full-scale, producing most of the feed for the livestock. He was an able and patient farmer, especially proud of a herd of prize winning registered guerneys. He was one of the first to win an award from Cleveland County Dairy Herd Improvement (1958) and was secretary and treasurer of the County Artificial Breeders Association.

In 1960 Robert and Jack opened a Lowe's Associate Store in Shelby, later bought by Lowe's Inc. Robert remained with Lowe's until his health failed in 1975.

At any job, Robert did his very best. Although unassuming, he had a winning personality, a pleasant smile and was extremely kind and generous to others. He was always cheerful and had a good sense of humor. However, he is best remembered for his integrity and set an example for us to live by.

He was a charter member and life-long secretary of the Lattimore Lions Club, a faithful and active member of the Lattimore Baptist Church, serving as deacon for many years (one of the youngest deacons ever elected) and Sunday School teacher.

Mary Martha (b. April 24, 1927) graduated from Cove Creek High School, Sugar Grove, N.C. as salutatorian of her class in 1944. She attended Salem College and ASU before her marriage.

Always an excellent homemaker, a devoted wife and mother, she was happiest when the children were growing up. When the oldest child started to college, she took a position as a social worker with the County Schools, retiring in 1971 due to medical problems. She has been a dedicated church worker and is presently director of the W.M.U. She is kind, compassionate, and responsive to the needs of others. Her great inner strength and high Christian ideals have been an inspiration to those close to her.

Five children were born of this marriage: Mary Linda (b. February 3, 1947) was an from ASU in 1977. He is an avid sportsman who enjoys fishing, hunting, basketball, softball and tennis. He is employed by the N.C. Department of Agriculture in the Plant Protection Division and lives in a log cabin in Boone, N.C.

Robert Lee Hunt, Jr., 1945.

David Bingham (b. May 11, 1954) a graduate of Crest High School was a member of the Beta Club and lettered in track and football. He received his B.S. degree in Chemical Engineering from N.C. State University in 1976. Currently he is employed with Carlon in Woodland, California. He enjoys sports and toured England in 1979 with a Rugby team representing N.C.

John Jackson (b. January 27, 1956) graduated from Crest High School and Haywood Technical Institute (1976) in Forest Management. He is employed by the State as County Forest Technician. John's hobbies are farming, canoeing and backpacking. He is an Eagle Scout and is assistant Scout Master of Lattimore Boy Scout Troop 113 and president of the Cleveland County Earth Science Club. John lives with his mother on the farm where they continue to maintain a small herd of beef cattle.

— Linda Hunt Clemmer

ABRAM CHRISTOPHER IRVIN FAMILY

657

Abram Christopher Irvin (b. Feb. 4, 1843, d. Jan. 8, 1926) in the Zion Church Community, Cleveland County was the son of Ancil J. (b. 1815, d. 1895) and Elizabeth Beam Irvin (b. 1817, d. 1895). His grandfather, James Irvin (Revolutionary War Soldier) was among the first settlers in Cleveland County. His home (1785) is on the National Register of Historic Homes. His ancestors were Scotch-Irish and German.

As a young man A.C. Irvin served with the Confederate Army in the Civil War. He was wounded in the Battle of Cold Harbor in 1862 and was in the Battle of Chancellorsville and Gettysburg. He was captured by the "Yankees" on July 3, 1863, taken prisoner to Fort honor student and cheerleader at Crest High School. She graduated cum laude from Lenoir-Rhyne College in 1969 with a degree in Mathematics. On August 16, 1969 she married Leonard (Lennie) Clemmer, Jr. b. July 15, 1945, son of Leonard Clemmer and Anneliese Mueller Clemmer of Charlotte, N.C. They have a lovely home in Gastonia furnished with antiques, many of which they refinished themselves. They are instructors with the Clemmer School of Gymnastics in Charlotte and Gastonia.

Mary Martha Bingham Hunt, 1945.

Charles Lee (b. November 23, 1948 — d. November 27, 1948)

Robert Lee, III (Rob) b. April 17, 1951 was awarded the Eagle Scout badge in 1967. A graduate of Crest High School he was a marshall and member of the Beta Club. He received an A.B. Degree in Zoology from UNC, Chapel Hill, in 1973 and an M.A. in Biology

The Robert Lee Hunt, Jr. Family, 1978 — L to R, standing: Lennie Clemmer, David, and Rob. L to R, seated: Linda Hunt Clemmer, Mary Martha, and John.

Rev. Abram Christopher Irvin

Delaware and later to Point Lookout where he was kept for twenty-two months.

When he returned to his farm in Cleveland County he prepared to serve his Lord as fervently as he had served his country. Ordained to the ministry at Zion Baptist Church in 1875, he began his fifty years of service, as pastor of his home church.

It was while he was Moderator of Kings Mountain Baptist Association that Boiling Springs High School was established (1907), which is now Gardner Webb College.

During his ministry he served many pastorate both in Cleveland and surrounding counties. Among them were Beaver Dam, Boiling Springs, Double Springs, Lattimore, Elizabeth, Double Shoals and Zion.

The only means of travel was by horse and buggy. In the midst of winter he prepared for his comfort by heating bricks to keep his feet warm and seeing that the curtains on the buggy were in place. The automobile did come into use in his late ministry and he was once a victim of an auto-related accident. His faithful horse became frightened by a car, and when he got out of the buggy to hold the reins he was knocked against a wheel and painfully injured.

In all the half century as one of the pioneer Baptist preachers he never received more than $250.00 annually from any one church. Some of his charges only paid $40.00 a year. By serving several churches at one time his annual pay never exceeded $1,000.00. Yet in his own words, "I was amply provided for and richly rewarded in knowing that I had done the Master's Will".

Mr. Irvin was first married to Harriett Weathers (b. 1843-d. 1872). Ollie and Hessie were born to this union. Ollie (b. 1868-d. 1935) married Dr. J.W. Wood (b. 1861-d. 1935), a prominent country doctor of Boiling Springs. She was active in all phases of church work, especially missions. They had no children but sponsored two young men and treated them as their own.

Hessie (b. 1869-d. 1941) married Chivous Washburn (b. 1863-d. 1950) of the Double Springs Community. They later moved to Shelby to make their permanent home. Hessie was a dedicated home-maker and had the privilege of keeping her father in his latter years. Their children were Grady, Mozelle, Yates, Bufie and Selma. Mozelle, Yates and Selma died in early childhood. Grady first married Vastine Crowder and they had two sons and a daughter. His second marriage was to Estelle Davenport. Bufie married Baxter Kirkpatrick and they were the parents of one son.

Mr. Irvin's second marriage was to Mariah Jane Cornwell (b. 1839-d. 1915). Their children were James William (b. 1873-d. 1960); John Yancey (b. 1874-d. 1958); Guilford Pinkney (b. 1878-d. 1957); and May (b. 1880-d. 1918). James and Pinkney were farmers and spent their lives in Cleveland County. They were both active in Zion Church, holding positions as deacons, Sunday School Superintendents, teachers and church treasurer. John spent his life as an educator in the county, serving as Superintendent of County Schools, principal and teacher. May was a victim of polio and died in early womanhood.

James W. Irvin married Lillie Whiting Logan (1874-1948). Their children were John Randolph, who died in infancy, Lucile and Jane. Lucile married Andrew McCarter and they have one daughter. Jane married John M. Gold, Jr. and they have three daughters.

John Y. Irvin married Pearl Lattimore (b. 1883-d. 1953). John Y. Irvin, Jr. is their son.

G. Pinkney Irvin married Mary Elizabeth Simmons (b. 1880-d. 1920). Their children were Eubert, Ruby, Madge, James, Ruth, A.V., Jessie, Hugh and Mary. Eubert married Mildred Boyles. They had one son. Madge married Lowery Austell. They have a daughter and a son. James married Thelma Powers and they have a son. Ruth married C.L. Moore and has one daughter. A.V. married Alise Reid and they have two sons. Jessie married Robert Forney. Hugh married Catherine Dellinger. They have two sons. Mary married Evans Lackey, and they have one daughter and three sons.

As a reminder of this sturdy pioneer family, one can visit the home places of Ancil and Abram Irvin, now owned by Walter and Beatrice Cabaniss Davis on Davis Road and the James Irvin home near Beaver Dam Creek.

Sources: Cleveland Star Jan. 9, 1926 & August 1940. History of Kings Mountain Baptist Association 1851-1951. History of Zion Church.

— Lucile Irvin McCarter
— Ruby Irvin

THE JAMES IRVIN FAMILY

658

James Irvin was born in Chatham County, N.C. His tombstone reads "died May 15, 1845, aged 82 years, two months." He is buried in the family cemetery across the road from his homeplace. The house is near Crest Jr. High School in Cleveland County.

James Irvin built his home ca. 1785 and lived there until his death. In 1850 the family sold the house to Street Hamrick and it became known as the Hamrick homeplace. The Hamrick family still own the house and meet there every year from the Hamrick reunion. The house is listed in the National Register as the Irvin-Hamrick house.

James Irvin was a soldier in the Revolution (W-2117 National Archives). The government marker at his grave reads "James Irvin, Johnston's Co. Hammonds' S.C. Regt. Revolutionary War." He enlisted in the South Carolina State Troops in May, 1781, at the age of 16. He was living in the 96 District of South Carolina at the time of enlistment. His regiment was part of General Pinkens' army with whom Private James Irvin marched to "the high hills of Santee," and later to White Hall, South Carolina, where he was stationed for a short time. He later "marched about from one place to another in South Carolina" under the command of General Green, and was in the Battle of Eutaw Springs in September 1781.

It was during this Battle that he received three wounds, once in the head by a sword. He was taken prisoner by the British and kept until he recovered. He then reported back to his company and was granted permission by Capt. Johnston to go home, subject to being called back when he had fully recovered. By the time his wounds had completely healed, his six months term of enlistment had expired, and he did not return to duty.

Rev. A.C. Irvin family at home

In 1795 he married Rebecca Hardin. She stated in her pension application that they were married in Lincoln County, N.C.

James Irvin's will was filed for probate in Cleveland County Court at the August, 1845 term. He provided for his wife, Rebecca, and stated that all of his real and personal estate be sold and the proceeds divided equally among his nine children and one granddaughter, Margaret Susannah Irvin, the daughter of John Irvin, deceased. (His sons, John Young and Isaac James were not living at the time he wrote his will).

The eleven children of James and Rebecca were: Susanna (b. 15 May 1797 d. 9 May 1846) never married; Isaac James (b. 5 March 1800 d. 30 July 1839); Abram Collins (b. 4 Oct. 1801; d. 1 June 1865) married 16 March 1830 Louisa Beam (b. 1812); Rachael (b. 19 Dec 1803) married William Earls; John Young (b. 5 April 1806 d. 16 June 1829); Martha "Patsey" (b. 23 May 1818) married Loranzo Dow Webb, (See article else where in book); James Wiley (b. 17 August 1810); Hannah (b. 11 May 1813) married Jesse Hardin; Ancil Jackson (b. 2 Oct. 1815 d. 14 Sept. 1895); Elizabeth Martin (b. 24 Aug. 1819) married Matthias Mason; Sarah (b. ca. 1821) married Michael Workman.

Sources: Tombstones, Wills, census records, estate settlements and pension records

— Mrs. S. Arnold Ramey

MARGARET PLONK ISLEY

659

Margaret Regina Plonk, second daughter of Clarence Sloan Plonk and Ellen Patterson Plonk was born September 17, 1913 in Cleveland County six miles north of Kings Mountain, North Carolina.

She received her early education in Cleveland and Gaston County Schools, and graduated from Kings Mountain High School in 1930. She earned a Bachelor of Arts degree from Womans College, Greensboro, North Carolina (now University of North Carolina) in 1934.

Margaret was married to Sessler Carllyse Isley of Burlington, North Carolina June 23, 1937 in St. Matthews Lutheran Church, Kings Mountain, North Carolina.

Their only daughter, Kay Ellen Isley born May 27, 1941 married John Baker Lewis February 25, 1967. Their children are Benjamine May Lewis born May 16, 1970 and John Thomas Carllyse Lewis born January 6, 1973.

Their first son, Carllyse Scott Isley born September 29, 1947 married Cynthia Sessions November 26, 1977. Their only child is Caroline Sessions Isley born April 26, 1981.

The second son, Joseph Plonk Isley born June 9, 1952, married Pamela Ann Jewett November 26, 1976. Their only child, Kathryn Jewett Plonk, was born June 27, 1980.

Margaret taught school in Graham and Burlington, North Carolina. She has lived her entire married life in Burlington, where she has been very active in the social and civic life of the community.

Sources: Family, Newspaper, Cemetery, Our Kin — Hoffman

— Willie P. Patterson

HUGH IVESTER

660

Our great, great, great, great grandfather was Hugh Ivester, married to Barbara in Rutherford County in 1790.

Their children were Hugh, George, Jacob and John. John married Elizabeth Helms on July 14, 1817, she had a son named John. Our great, great, great grandfather was born April 12, 1822, whose name was also John, married also, a woman named Barbara. They built a log home in upper Cleveland County on about 300 acres of land which Hugh settled and had a son Albert Ivester, who in later years was called Uncle Bert.

Albert Ivester was a preacher, a circuit rider as he was called. He was a small man in size. He married Sarah McCall and had five children: one daughter born dead, Avette, (Esper) William, (Lero) Clemen and Velus. Albert died of the flu and pneumonia on January 17, 1923. Velus our grandfather, was born August 7, 1877. He lived with his father (uncle Bert) until he married Zula Edwards on May 21, 1899. Their nine children were Alvin, Evertt, Carl, Claude, Eloise, Warren, Forest Velus, Calver Lee and a daughter born dead. Grandmother Ivester died in child birth with Calver Lee, November 14, 1919. Velus married Rebecca Willis on June 21, 1922. They had three children: Boyd D., Ruth, and Velma. He built a home, which is still standing, and is in great shape. The land is now owned by Carl Ivester. It is about 200 yds. from the old log house which Hugh built around 1800. The log house was torn down several years ago.

Velus Ivester was one of the largest cotton farmers in the upper Cleveland area and was a champion chicken farmer. He won several awards and trophies.

He worked one day in a cotton mill and never went back. He later joined with two area farmers in a cotton gin. He always told the family if you were not a Democrat and Methodist you wasn't an Ivester, Velus died on October 28, 1966.

Warren Ivester, b. February 4, 1913, married Ruby Whisnant February 21, 1940 who was the daughter of Robert Whisnant. She was born July 3, 1919.

They had six sons: Richard, James Lee (Jim), Ronald, Donald, Phillip and Roger. Jim has twins: Mike and Sherry. Ronald has a son, Jason. Don has two, Tony and Gwen. Roger's children are Chad and Bradly.

Sources: Family Records

— Mrs. Carl Ivester

THE ANTONIO IZZI FAMILY

661

The IZZI Surname originated in Italy. Since history of the IZZI family has not been established, this synopsis will cover the IZZI coat-of-arms and the first IZZI's to settle in Cleveland County.

The IZZI coat-of-arms contains the letter "I", two wings divided by a small inner green shield and four vertical bands of black and gold. The coat-of-arms incorporated the color green. The color green represents Hope, Vitality, and Plenty. The wings symbolizes Quickness, Freedom, and Protection.

The first IZZI's to settle in Cleveland County sought Freedom and Protection. They received this. They were full of Hope for success in their new enterprise. Due to their vitality it was successful. The Plenty came in the form of children (nine) and many, many friends. The IZZI's were known as Mr. Tony and Mrs. Tony by many people in this County probably not realizing their surname was IZZI.

Antonio, (Tony) IZZI was born December 13, 1897 in Vitucoso, Italy, which lies between Rome and Naples. His parents were Michael IZZI and Dario (Papa) IZZI of Vitucoso.

Carmella (Dimeo) IZZI was born January 7, 1899 in Vitucoso. Her parents were Antonio Dimeo and Filomena Dimeo (maiden name also) of Vitucoso.

Antonio and Carmella were married in October, 1920, in Italy. They came to the United States in December, 1920 on a slightly delayed honeymoon. It was a long honeymoon, they never returned to Italy. The Honeymooners traveled from New York City, N.Y. to Rock Hill, South Carolina, where Antonio Dimeo (Carmella's Father) was residing. Carmella's father returned to Italy shortly after their arrival in South Carolina but the IZZI's stayed in Rock Hill with the Tony Jeanette's (Friends also from Vitucoso) for approximately two years. In October, 1922 the IZZI's moved to Gastonia, North Carolina where they started their first venture in the art of Ice Cream manufacturing. They worked for Ralph and Antonia Dimeo (cousins to Carmella who came to the U.S. after World War I) for two years. The IZZI's started their first ice cream business in Gastonia and remained until 1929. In August 1929 they moved their business equipment (a five gallon non-refrigerated ice cream freezer) to a modified basement in their home in Shelby.

The Big Depression which started in 1929 almost destroyed the ice cream business but the IZZI's perseverance beat the Depression. After several moves in East Shelby the IZZI's made a final move in 1931 to South Shelby on Lafayette street. The business grew slowly, due to the Depression but showed considerable improvement as the Depression waned.

Tony and Carmella lived on this street raising their nine children as good Americans (his phraseology) and selling their ice cream from a horse drawn wagon and retail store. As the Depression diminished, the better living conditions led to the sadness of replacing the horse and wagon with trucks. When the economy was getting into the "Good Ole Days" World War II broke out and started the Sacrificial days once more. The IZZI's sent four sons into the service from 1942 until the late 1950's. One of the happiest days of Tony IZZI's life was in 1943 when he received his United States Citizenship after many hard years of study and tests. Tony lived and worked in this location until his death December 14, 1955.

Carmella remained here until her death which occurred November 15, 1974.

The following children were born to Antonio and Carmella Izzi: Angelina (Izzi) Hall b. Rock Hill, S.C., living at Tacoma Park, Maryland; Jerry Izzi b. Gastonia, N.C., Deceased; Michael P. Izzi b. Gastonia, N.C., living at Shelby, N.C.; Catherine (Izzi) McArthur b. Gastonia, N.C., living at Shelby, N.C.; Pauline (Izzi) Glover b. Gastonia, N.C., living at Shelby, N.C.; Tony Izzi, Jr. b. Shelby, N.C., living at Shelby, N.C.; Lewis B. Izzi, Sr. b. Shelby, N.C., living at Shelby, N.C.; Christine (Izzi) Whisnant b. Shelby, N.C., living at Atlanta, Ga.; Joseph Izzi b. Shelby, N.C., living at Shelby, N.C.

There are people who remember the horse drawn ice cream wagon. Tony's big smile, and especially the language dialect. There are those who remember the retail store and the white ice cream trucks. The many people who ate Tony's Ice Cream expressed it was the best ice cream that was made. (Tony) and (Mrs. Tony) believed that all people deserved the best and lots of it and as I listen to people relate their stories I believe that Antonio and Carmella exceeded their goals.

— Mr. Michael Izzi

THE JAMES L. JENKINS FAMILY

662

The Rev. James L. Jenkins (native of Stanly County) and Mrs. Kate Watson Jenkins (native of Riverton in Scotland County) moved with their four children to Cleveland County in 1927 when he became pastor of Boiling Springs Baptist Church.

A graduate of Wake Forest College (1910), he attended Southern Baptist Seminary in Louisville, Kentucky. Mrs. Jenkins graduated from Meredith College (1912) and in the 1930s served as principal of Boiling Springs Elementary School. The Rev. Mr. Jenkins served pastorates in Parkton, North Carolina and Umatilla, Florida, before moving to Boiling Springs.

During the early years of his ministry at Boiling Springs, that church shared his services with the New Hope and Zion Baptist churches. At two intervals, for a total of three years during the Great Depression of the 1930s, he served as the unpaid president of Boiling Springs Junior College (forerunner to Gardner-Webb). He also taught Bible at that institution.

In 1951 the Rev. Mr. Jenkins was president of the North Carolina Baptist Pastors Conference. For a period of 20 years, before and after he retired as pastor in Boiling Springs in 1952, he was an instructor in homiletics at Fruitland Bible Institute. He lived in the Boiling Springs parsonage following retirement and a steady stream of his "preacher boys" continued to visit and solicit his help and counsel.

Mrs. Jenkins died in Boiling Springs at age 55 on June 27, 1946. The Rev. Mr. Jenkins died in Boiling Springs on March 21, 1973, at the age of 89; at the time of his death he was serving as teacher to the Bible Study Group of the Women's Missionary Society of Boiling Springs. The day of his death the Shelby Daily Star announced that Gardner-Webb College planned to bestow on him the honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity at its next commencement. The Rev. and Mrs. Jenkins are buried in Spring Hill cemetery near Wagram in Scotland County.

The Jenkins children are: James L. (Jay) Jenkins, Jr. of Raleigh, N.C. (married to the former Ruth Byers of Shelby, N.C.); parents of James L. (Jim), III; Catherine Watson of Cullowhee, N.C. married to Dr. E.W. Vosecky of Chicago, Illinois, and with him parents of Jeanne, married to Dr. Max White of Alto, Georgia and now living in Clemson, S.C. Their children are Douglas and David White; Kate Vosecky of New York, and W.E. Jr. of Cullowhee, married to the former Barbara Arnie of Cullowhee. Ella McNeill Jenkins of Shelby, N.C. married to Dr. R.G. Burrus, originally of Mooresboro, N.C. and with him parents of R.G., Jr. and Robert Jenkins both of Shelby, N.C., and Thomas Vernon Burrus, married to the former Ann Pence of Kannapolis, N.C. and now living in Shelby, N.C. Betty Lew Jenkins of Boiling Springs, N.C. married to Harry Eugene Washburn of Route 4, Shelby, N.C. and with him parents of Catherine McNeill of Chesnee, S.C., married to James Boyd, originally of Union, S.C. They are the parents of Wesley and Jerry Boyd; Elizabeth Wright Washburn of Boiling Springs, N.C. and Harry Eugene, Jr. of Boiling Springs married to the former Sherwin Johnson of Statesville. They have one daughter, Downey McNeill.

— Jay Jenkins

THE JAMES ALBERT JOHNSON FAMILY

663

James Albert Johnson was born December 17, 1875, Greenville County, South Carolina, at foot hills of the Blue Ridge Mountains, Tigerville, South Carolina.

The son of Oliver Perry and Martha Louisa Southern Johnson, his grandparents were Fortunatis and Mary Ann Cox Johnson.

When Albert was twenty-one years old he left South Carolina, on foot, and came to Lattimore, North Carolina. Brother Henry was already in North Carolina, Cleveland and Rutherford Counties.

He went to work for Mr. James McKinney, a large farmer, with a blacksmith shop and other trades.

Near the McKinneys lived another large farmer, Jesse Whitson Bridges, whose only daughter, Lora, had lost her husband in an epidemic of typhoid fever. She had returned to live with her father and mother, along with a small son, John Blanton. Being neighbors, Albert soon met and fell in love with Lora. They were married January 10, 1900.

James Albert Johnson and Lora Manassa Bridges Blanton had four children: Whitson Durham, born September 11, 1901; Aquilla Jane, born September 20, 1903; Mattie Lou, born July 3, 1907; Bether Berniece, born Deember 1, 1913. All children were born in Cleveland County.

Durham married September 3, 1924, to Dora Selma Greene, born July 6, 1904.

Aquilla married January 15, 1938, in Billings, Montana, to Louis Heinrick Otte, born June 15, 1900, in Horpel b Hannover, Germany.

Mattie Lou married December 2, 1931, at Lattimore, North Carolina to Alfred Paris Weathers, born May 24, 1908.

Bether Berniece married November 10, 1938, Cleveland County, to Wayne Estel Dawson, born August 19, 1911, Bloomington, Nebraska, died September 5, 1949, at Powell, Wyoming. Second husband was Wayne's brother, Russell William Dawson, married June 21, 1950, born May 4, 1913.

Durham had one child, Dora Lorene, born February 13, 1927, married Grady Alonza Humphries, July 18, 1942. Grady was born November 6, 1922.

Lorene had two sons, Ronald Bennett, born August 5, 1945; Dennis, born January 1, 1955. Ronald married Wand Rebecca Littlejohn of Gaffney, South Carolina. They had two children, Ronald Bennett, Jr., and Ronda Rebecca. Ronald Jr. born April 20, 1967. Rebecca born August 13, 1968.

Dennis is not married.

Aquilla Otte had two children: Daisy Beatrix, born February 7, 1939; Louis Albert born February 29, 1940. Both born in Park County, Wyoming. Daisy married March 17, 1956, to William Woodrow Berryman, born March 17, 1934. Their two children were Lorita Berniece, born February 14, 1957, and Michael William, born October 12, 1960. Daisy's second husband, Thomas Eugene Carter.

Louis Albert Otte, married May, 1961, to Mary Ellen Wilson. They had five children: Shannon Lou, born June 1, 1962; Randall Louis, born June 15, 1964; David Mark born November 15, 1968; Jeremiah Albert, born August 15, 1970; Sindi Jane, born August 7, 1973.

Mattie Lou Johnson Weathers had four children: Lora Jacqueline born November 7, 1932, married May 17, 1975, to Joseph Allen Duffel at Carmel, California.

Nancy Jane born February 11, 1934, married Richard Meriweather Mitchell on July 15, 1972, at Chapel Hill, North Carolina.

Alfred Paris Weathers, Jr. born October 30, 1935, married April 10, 1955 at Gaffney, South Carolina to Elsie Ann Jones, born October 22, 1936. Four children were born: Michael Dean born January 3, 1956, Shelby North Carolina; Ronald Wayne born December 9, 1958, Shelby, North Carolina; Sandra Lee born January 29, 1961, Rutherford County, North Carolina; Terry Loy, born April 6, 1963, Rutherford County, North Carolina. Michael Dean married June 6, 1975 to Cynthia Ann Moore, born April 4, 1957, Rutherford County.

William Albert Weathers D.D.S., born April 20, 1943; married Marcella Areleene Phillips June 30, 1973, at Burke County. Marcella born February 2, 1952.

Berniece Johnson Dawson had two sons, Wayne Estel Jr. born November 12, 1939 at Powell, Wyoming; John Albert, born September 25, 1942, Powell, Wyoming.

Wayne, Jr. married December 17, 1966 to Angeline Quijada Solis, of Douglas, Arizona. Three daughters, Betina Michelle, born on September 30, 1967, Indio, California; Julia Ann, born October 24, 1969, Lancaster, California; Barbara Kathleen, born February 24, 1971.

John Albert, not married.

Sources: family Bible

— Mattie Lou Johnson Weathers

MONROE GARLAND JOHNSON, JR. FAMILY

664

Monroe Garland Johnson, Jr. was born in Spindale, North Carolina (Rutherfordton County), March 18, 1929. He is the son of Una Setzer Johnson (July 5, 1907), and the late Monroe Garland Johnson, Sr. (1897-1964). His Mother resides on a farm in Cherokee County, South Carolina, and a sister, Mrs. Jane (Olin) Hunter (widowed) living in Charlotte, North Carolina with her children, Catherine and Will.

Garland was educated in the Spindale Elementary Schools and Rutherfordton Central High School. He left the Spindale area in 1945 to attend Woodberry Forest Preparatory School in Orange, Virginia, graduating in 1948. He graduated from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, North Carolina in 1952, where he was a member of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon Fraternity and Grogan's Head Lodge.

After his graduation from the University, and the Naval R. O. T. C. program, he was commissioned and Ensign and sent to Bayoone, New Jersey for Supply Officer training for two months. His next duty was at the Norfolk Naval Station, Norfolk, Virginia for two years, leaving the service in 1954 as a Lieutenant Junior Grade.

He returned to his family, who had since moved to a farm twenty miles outside of Gaffney, South Carolina, located between the Pacolet and the Broad rivers. He stayed for only a short time before joining his family's business, Cleveland Lumber Company, Shelby, North Carolina in 1955. This company was founded by his father in 1934. He now serves as Vice President and General Manager.

He was united in marriage to Graceliene Macklin on August 12, 1961 at the Lutz-Austell Chapel, Shelby, North Carolina.

His wife, Graceliene, born January 6, 1930 in Hutchinson, Kansas (Reno County) is the daughter of Fredrick George Macklin (1900-) and the late Mary Belle Farney Macklin (1902-1954), both born in Hutchinson, Kansas. She has three sisters, Betty Lucile Kruse, Miami Springs, Florida; Vada Belle Morgan, Tucson, Arizona; and Mary Louise Moss (Mrs. M.L. Thomas), Shelby, North Carolina, and one brother, Ira Edward Macklin, Denver, Colorado.

She was educated in the Hutchinson Elementary Schools and Hutchinson High School, graduating in 1947. She also graduated from Hutchinson Junior College, and attended the University of Kansas.

Monroe Garland Johnson Jr. Family. L to R: Garland, Graceliene, Carter and Teresa

Garland and Graceliene have two children. James Carter Johnson, born November 4, 1966, and Teresa Louise Johnson, born September 2, 1969.

The Johnson family are members of Central United Methodist Church, Shelby, North Carolina, where Garland has served on the Financial Board, Pastorial Relations Board, Building Committee and the Hoey Men's Bible Class. Graceliene has served as a Sunday School teacher.

Garland served as President of the Carolinas Lumber Dealers and Building Supply Association in 1980; was on the board of Union Trust Company, then a merger to be called Independence National Bank, and another merger to Branch Bank and Trust Company; a member of the Cleveland Country Club, North Lake Country Club, and the Shelby Elk's Lodge, No. 1709.

Graceliene is a member of the Shelby Junior Charity League, serving as 1981-82 Sustaining Member's Secretary; President of the Ladies of the Carolina Lumber Dealer's and Building Supply Association for 1980, and a charter member and past President of The Doll Study of Shelby.

The Johnson family resides at 1307 Montrose Drive, Shelby, North Carolina.

— Mrs. M. Garland Johnson, Jr.

THE RHETT and MARY JOHNSTON FAMILY

665

Mary Livingstone Boyd (b. August 21, 1862 — d. March 29, 1918) of York County, South Carolina, and William Rhett Johnston (b. January 11, 1852 — d. May 7, 1939) of Gaston County, North Carolina, were married on February 11, 1880 at Bethel Presbyterian Church near Clover, South Carolina.

They were rural people, both of Scotch Irish descent, and the roots of their faith were deep in the tenets of the Presbyterian Church.

Their formal education was limited to what was available to them in the public schools of their time. However, as young adults, they both taught in the public schools of their area.

About 1883 the couple migrated to Arkansas where they bought 100 acres of land in Pulaski County, northeast of Little Rock and Jacksonville. They reared their family on this farm and it continued to be home to all of them until the home was broken up after Mary's death in 1918. Ten children were born to the couple.

The Johnston siblings in order of their ages were: William Hamilton (b. November 17, 1880 — d. April 8, 1962). He graduated from the University of South Carolina and from Columbia Presbyterian Seminary, Decatur, Georgia, and became a Presbyterian Minister. He was twice married; first to Mary Harper and, after her death, to Nellie Gandy.

Ada Jane (b. September 1, 1882 — d. December 9, 1972). She became a practical nurse. She was married to John F. Gordon, who was postmaster and operated a general store at Tirzah, South Carolina.

Emily Caroline (b. September 4, 1884 — d. December 1, 1884).

Ula Erwin (b. October 2, 1886 — d. November 9, 1963). She graduated from Arkansas Teachers College at Conway and was a teacher before marriage to J. Frank Wilson, a farmer and wood craftsman. They lived in Gaston County.

Thomas Boyd (b. October 8, 1889 — d. October 24, 1959). He attended the University of Arkansas, "read law" under a Little Rock practicing attorney and passed the Arkansas

State Bar examination. However, he never practiced law. He became treasurer and office manager for a car dealership in Little Rock. He was married to Orrie Bell.

Mary Eleanor (b. February 11, 1892 — d. January 7, 1933). She attended Arkansas Teachers College and was a teacher before marriage to Carl B. Craig, a Presbyterian Minister. They lived in Laurinburg, North Carolina, and Suffolk, Virginia.

Velma Lavinia (b. November 20, 1893 — d. September 22, 1899).

David Dale (b. August 23, 1895 — d. June 13, 1975). He served in the U.S. Navy during World War I. After his discharge he owned and operated his own farm in York County, South Carolina. He was married to Lula Boyd.

Clara Willard (b. August 17, 1898 — d. October 31, 1974). She received her R.N. degree from the nursing school of the Pulaski County Hospital in Little Rock. Later she completed a course in anaesthesiology and was nurse-anaesthetist at General Hospital in Athens, Georgia, for 31 years. She was married to Ralph Saye of Athens, who was a cigarette salesman.

Erma Aleta, who came to Shelby in Cleveland County, North Carolina, in the fall of 1922, after graduation from Winthrop College in June that year. She taught in Shelby High School for a number of years. Later she became woman's page editor and columnist for the Cleveland Star (now the Shelby Daily Star) and continued her association with the Star for 34 years. She was married to Renn Drum, Sr., who was City Editor of the Star.

Rhett and his youngest son, Dale, are buried in Bethel Presbyterian Church cemetery. Mary and three of her daughters, Ada, Emily and Velma, are buried in Bayou Meto Cemetery near Jacksonville. Hamilton is buried in Sharon Memorial Park, Charlotte, North Carolina; Ula at Union Presbyterian Church Cemetery in Gaston County; Tom at Pleasant Grove Cemetery near Little Rock; Eleanor in Forest Lawn Cemetery in Greensboro, North Carolina; Clara at Evergreen Memorial Cemetery in Athens; and Erma expects, when her time comes, to be buried beside her husband in Sunset Cemetery in Shelby.

Rhett was a son of William Hunter and Martha Jane Johnston Johnston. The parents were second cousins. Mary's parents were John Hamilton and Jane Adelaide Laney Boyd.

— Erma Johnston Drum

HISTORY OF THE R. ALLEN JOLLEY FAMILY

666

Ancestors of the R. Allen Jolley family are known as far back as great-great-grandfather. Jessie Jolley lived in the general area around Rutherford and Cleveland counties, but the exact home place is not known to me. His son, Porch Jolley, my great-grandfather, served in the War Between the States, and died and was buried during the war with none of the family knowing the place of burial.

James Richard Jolley, my grandfather, lived in the Mt. Pleasant community, near Boiling Springs, North Carolina. My father, R.L. Jolley was born there, and died in the same area where he was born. The house was rebuilt after a fire in 1946 destroyed the Jolley homeplace. My father was a farmer, a traveling music teacher, a school teacher, and a carpenter. He and my mother, Eula Carter of Gaffney, South Carolina, met while they were both teaching school. He worked as a carpenter during the World War II years.

My brother, James Carter Jolley, and I came through some hard times. During the depression of the thirties we had plenty to eat, since we lived on a farm, but not much else. We did have a loving family, which helped. I remember especially that we did not have a car all during my teen years. However, many others were in this same shape, so we didn't feel too bad, and we survived.

In December of 1942 I married Betty Simmons. Our father's farms joined and we had known each other most of our lives. Her father, Flay Simmons, had been in World War I. He was a carpenter, and he and my father sometimes worked together.

Shortly after our marriage, I was inducted into the army for a stint of three years during World War II, coming home in 1946. Betty and I had a family when a daughter, Alicia Gay, made her appearance. Another daughter, Joy Ann, came in the fifties. Their happy names were not chosen by accident, and they live up to them.

After the war, I had planned to farm and raise beef cattle, but I soon felt divine leading to prepare to serve in a church-related field. I attended Gardner-Webb and Limestone colleges and other schools in preparation.

My first place of service was in my home church, Mt. Pleasant, in Cleveland County. Calvary Church in Shelby was the next place my work led us. We stayed there six years. In 1961 we came to Kings Mountain to begin serving in the First Baptist Church. As this is being written in 1981, this is still our place of service. In all the places, we worked with music and religious education. It has been a happy time and always the people were cooperative and good to work with.

During much of our married lives, Betty has worked as a cosmetologist. She was an instructor in Shelby Beauty College for several years.

Our children grew up while living in Shelby and Kings Mountain. Gay graduated from Shelby High School, and Joy graduated from Kings Mountain High School. While at Kings Mountain High School, her joy was in serving as a cheerleader for two years. Gay attended UNC at Chapel Hill, Gardner-Webb, and Appalachian State colleges, and Joy attended Gardner-Webb College.

Gay lives in Lowell, North Carolina, and teaches English at Ashley Junior High School. Joy works in First Federal Savings and Loan Association in Gastonia. She married Paul Shuman in 1976, and lives in Gastonia. They have one child, Melissa Ann, making Betty and me proud grandparents.

During the past five years, Betty and I have spent our vacations taking pictures in all of the one hundred counties of North Carolina. We present slide programs whenever possible and have appeared at civic and garden clubs, schools, churches, and other places.

We have been privileged to live in a wonderful time, just missing the horse and buggy days, but living to see, in living color on television, man walk on the moon. We lived through three wars, although some may have been called something else; a depression was weathered, and a family was raised. Our children were reared in three different homes, and we found that home truly is where the heart is.

Wherever we have been we have found that people have been good to us, and we thank God for our lives, and for what we have experienced. Our Depression days, when we were youngsters, gave us the capacity to live with less and be happy. Our families gave us love, and we have tried to pass this on to our children and to others with whom we have been associated.

Rhett and Mary Johnston Family. Front row L to R: Velma, Tom, holding Dale, Mary, Holding Clara, Ula and Eleanor. Back row L to R: Hamilton and Ada. Taken 1898

R. Allen Jolley Family

— R. Allen Jolley

THE THOMAS EDWARD JOLLY FAMILY

667

Thomas Edward Jolly was born in Gaffney, South Carolina, in 1920, the third child of Appy Horace Jolly (1892-1970) and Irene Martin

Jolly (1895-1970). Appy was the son of Joe Jolly, the son of Richard Jolly. Irene was the daughter of Elam and Margaret Boone Martin. Margaret Boone was an alleged descendant of Daniel Boone. The children of Appy Horace Jolly are as follows: Margaret Amelia Jolly (1915), Horace Boone Jolly (1918-1961), Thomas Edward Jolly (1920), Harvey Franklin Jolly (1924), Jack Pittman Jolly (1928), Bobby Reid Jolly (1932) who married Louise Frances and currently lives in Shelby.

Thomas graduated from Shelby High School in 1939. He served in World War II in the Eighth Air Force (1942-1945) in England where he was awarded the bronze star. Following his discharge he was and has been employed by Saco-Lowell Shops for thirty-four years, traveling and working in many different southern, eastern, and western states. He is an active member of Mt. Sinai Baptist Church, serving as a deacon and Sunday School teacher.

Jane Amelia Putnam Jolly was born in Spartanburg, South Carolina in 1923; the third child of Foy B. Putnam, Sr. and Wray Elam Putnam. The other children of this couple are Katherine Louise (1918, died in infancy), Foy B. Putnam, Jr. (1919) married Doris A. Fraser and they now live near Mt. Sinai Church.

Thomas and Jane were married in 1943 in Walterboro, South Carolina, where Thomas was stationed at the Walterboro Air Base. The marriage was in the Baptist parsonage.

The Foy Putnam, Sr. family lived on a farm in the Mt. Sinai community. Foy B. Putnam, Sr. (1888-1963) was the third child of Monroe and Lou Bostic Putnam. Lou was the daughter of Samuel E. Bostic. Foy Putnam, Sr. served in the U.S. Army (1912-1915) at Fort Caswell, N.C. Wray Elam Putnam (1891-1981) was the daughter of Franklin and Kate Wray Elam. Franklin was the son of Samuel Elam (1826-1907), son of Anderson Elam (1792-1875). Wray graduated from Piedmont High School in 1911 and taught for a few years.

Jane P. Jolly is a registered nurse (North Carolina Baptist Hospital School of Nursing, 1946 and Limestone College 1977) and has worked for over twenty-eight years as a nurse in Cleveland County. She is an active member of Mt. Sinai Baptist Church.

The children of the Thomas Jolly family are as follows: Stephen Edward Jolly (1946). He served in the U.S. Army (1966-1969), going to Vietnam twice; graduated UNC-C in 1978; married Joyce Murray in 1969. They have one child, Deborah Wray Jolly (1979).

Michael Thomas Jolly (1953) graduated from Crest High School in 1972 and is currently employed at Copeland as a machinist.

Miriam Thomas Jolly (1969) is enrolled in the seventh grade at Crest Junior High School.

Sources: Family Bibles

— Jane P. Jolly (Mrs. Thomas)

BENJAMIN FRANKLIN and DOVIE TOWERY JONES FAMILY

668

Benjamin Franklin Jones (November 9, 1873 — April 25, 1945) was the son of Asbury B. Jones (August 4, 1851 — May 10, 1932), son of Starlin and Malindy Philbeck Jones, and Melinda Jenkins (December 7, 1852 — April 4, 1924), daughter of B. A. Jenkins (September 10, 1829 — June 16, 1865) and N.V. Chitwood (June 30, 1830 — September 21, 1886). Ben was a lumberman working in North Carolina and Georgia. On January 14, 1897 he married Dovie Elizabeth Towery (November 3, 1882 — October 28, 1958) of New House, North Carolina. She was the daughter of William Pinkney Towery (March 18, 1854 — April 25, 1934), a blacksmith, and Sarah Jane

Thomas Jolly Family

Stephen Edward Jolly

Brackett Towery (December 25, 1860 — September 11, 1898), and the sister of Corrie Towery (May 13, 1886 — December 19, 1978) who married William French Bettis (September 21, 1879 — March 20, 1960), son of Allen Erastus (July 13, 1854 — April 15, 1928) and Leola Austell Bettis (January 5, 1861 — April 14, 1921).

To Benjamin and Dovie Jones two children were born: Pinkie Alpha (May 2, 1899 — July 12, 1981) who married Robert Landrum Nichols, and Evett Asbury (May 16, 1901 — September 17, 1979) who married, on September 1, 1923, Lera Mae Moss (August 25, 1898 —), daughter of Merrimon and Alice Randall Moss. Evett was an electrical engineering graduate of North Carolina State University, and was with General Electric Company from his graduation until his retirement in 1965, as order service manager of the South-eastern District.

R.L. and Pinkie had one daughter, Doris Jean, who married Thomas Bostick Austell.

Sources: Family Bible, Gravestones, Family Records
— Doris Nichols Austell

BENJAMIN FRANKLIN JONES

669

Benjamin Franklin Jones was a native and life-long resident of Cleveland County, North Carolina. He and Susanah Clarinda Blanton were married July 16, 1873 at her parents' home on Highway 150, West, when she was eighteen and he was twenty-one. They set up housekeeping in a little house near his parents' home at Lattimore, North Carolina.

They had eleven children before moving to the Poplar Springs Community, Cleveland County, in 1888. Later five more children were born. Thirteen children grew to maturity.

The boys enjoyed confusing people by saying that there were nine boys and they all had four sisters apiece.

Their children were: Laura Jane Jones (1874-1933) married Charles Robert Smith;

Doctor Young Jones (1876-1953) married Sallie Joanna Ponder; Clint Andrew Jones (1877-1943) married Janie Amanda Wesson and Bessie Pack; Infant Effie; Infant Joe; Samuel Edward Jones (1881-1957) married Ora Lee Blanton; twin Sidney Hamrick Jones (1883-1963) married Willie Hester Wallace; twin Cynthia Harrill Jones (1883-1967) married Robert Master Lemons; Winslow Washburn Jones (1884-1965) married Neater Texie Hamrick; John Bunyan Jones (1886-1960) married Lottie Carrie Arnold and Elva Gertrude Barnett; Julius Troy Jones (1888-1977) married Bunah Vista Holland; Wite Quitman Jones (1890-1961) married Elizabeth Lucindy Jenkins; Edmund D (NMN) Jones (1891-1974) married Donna Alice Queen and Mrs. Merle Dayberry Price; Loria Ann Jones (1893-1939) married William Plato Bridges; Agatha (NMN) Jones (1895-1963) married Lawrence Evins Hamrick; Infant, stillborn.

My father, Julius Troy Jones, said that about 1894 the family sold their home and moved to Henrietta, North Carolina hoping to learn millwork. They only stayed five months before moving to south Shelby, North Carolina where they briefly ran a cotton gin at the Belmont Mill. They farmed there for several years before moving back to the Poplar Springs Community.

Susan and all her children had measles, (which settled on her brain), while living in the house they built on Old Boiling Springs Road, later known as the Gilliatt Hamrick place.

They owned land and later built next to the Dr. Peeler house on West Warren Street in Shelby. Susan became paralyzed while living there and couldn't walk.

Their remaining years were spent with their son, Bunyan Jones, who lived next to Poplar Springs Baptist Church.

Poplar Springs Baptist Church "was not ceiled at the time it was built (1898), some years later Ben Jones sawed the lumber for the ceiling and gave it to the church" . . . " Bunion Jones was elected as sexton in 1911. His salary was one dollar per month." These notes from the church history, eightieth anniversary.

On the out-doors baptismal pool, one can still see where some of the Jones boys put their initials in the cement when it was poured.

Benjamin Franklin Jones was born April 2, 1852 near Lattimore, North Carolina and died December 15, 1924. He is buried in Poplar

Benjamin Franklin Jones Family. L to R: Benjamin Franklin, Evett Asbury. Standing: Dovie Elizabeth Towery Jones, Pinkie Alpha

Benjamin Franklin and Susan Blanton Jones

Salena Harrill Jones, 1827-1912.

Springs Cemetery, Shelby, North Carolina.

His father, William Alva Jones (1827-1898) was a private in the Infantry, Company B of the 34th North Carolina Regiment. His mother was Salena Kendrick Harrill (1827-1912). She was described as "good and easy" by her grandson Hudson Blanton. They are buried in the Lattimore Baptist Cemetery, Lattimore, North Carolina.

Alva, Salena and several of their children were granted letters in November 1891 from Sandy Run Baptist Church to help form a new church at Lattimore, North Carolina.

Their children were: Sarah, Benjamin Franklin, Roxanna, John, Infant, twins Martha and Mary, Albert, twins Drury and Doctor, Robert and Pantha Jones.

Ben's paternal grandparents were Edmund and Susanna McKinney Jones. Edmund was ordained a deacon at Sandy Run Baptist Church in June 1833. They are buried at the family homeplace near Lattimore, North Carolina. His maternal grandparents were Richard and Artie Mincie Dobbins Harrill.

His paternal great-grandparents were John and Mary Poole Jones; William and Amy Parrish McKinney. His maternal great-grandparents were Housen and Frances Philadelphia Street Harrill; Drury and Hannah Callahan Sams Dobbins.

— Annie Ray Jones Dodd

GILBERT GRIFFIN, SR. and LEONA BEATRICE DAVIS JONES and DESCENDANTS

670

Gilbert Griffin Jones, Sr., son of George Baily and Bell Wray Jones, was born in the northwestern part of Cleveland County, January 1890. His family moved to Shelby and ran a small grocery store.

While working at the Old Globe cotton mill in Gaffney, South Carolina, as boss spinner he met Leona Beatrice Davis, daughter of Jack

The ice business was only a warm weather occupation. In winter when no refrigeration was needed, Mr. Jones worked for K and S Trucking Company.

Mr. Jones in later years suffered from diabetes and cirrhosis. He died in a veterans hospital in Columbia, South Carolina, 1954, and is buried in Cleveland Memorial Park.

Leona became an excellent cook. She got up at three o'clock A.M. to start fires for morning meals. Leona, a pleasant, quiet natured lady cooked breakfast and noon meals for the men employed by Mr. Jones.

She makes her home with their second child, Ozelle Jones Harris. With her loving ways, she has cared for many grandchildren and still welcomes their many visits.

Their first child, Jack Leonard Jones, was born March 20, 1921. Jack married Virginia Bessie Gladden December 24, 1941.

Jack worked for J.P. Stevens Transportation Department, Greenville, South Carolina, until his death, October 24, 1964. He was involved in a trucking accident in Talledega, Alabama. Before authorities could reach the scene of the accident, he and his co-driver were robbed of their personal belongings. He is buried in Cleveland Memorial Park.

Virginia took great pride in making beautiful clothing for herself. She worked as a secretary for the Seal Wire Company on South Lafayette Street until she was stricken with cancer. She died May 24, 1973, and is buried in Cleveland Memorial Park.

Jack and Virginia had a daughter, Dana Michelle, born September 16, 1943; a son, Ricky Lind, born June 27, 1947.

Dana Michelle married Grant Grigg June 1967. They have three children, Danielle Nicole, born March 7, 1969; Kimberly Renee born February 2, 1971; and Jason Scott, born September 1972. They presently reside in Hudson, North Carolina.

K & S Trucking Employees. Gentleman in white shirt is Gilbert Griffin Jones, Sr.

Shannon Lea Jones, age 4, 1981

Ricky Lind married Deborah McAlister December 16, 1976. They are divorced now and Ricky makes his home in Shelby.

The second child is Ozelle Virginia Jones, born July 24, 1923. Ozelle married Charles William Harris, June 16, 1948. Ozelle began working at the Shelby Cotton Mills September 1942. She was secretary and bookkeeper there until the closing of the mill in 1977. She presently works for Rogers Pontiac.

Charles worked as lineman for the Savannah River Power Plant, Aiken, South Carolina, until he was stricken with Burgers disease. He died in August 1966 and is buried in Cleveland Memorial Park.

They had two children, Constance Lee Harris, April 1, 1949, and Charles William Harris, Jr., June 29, 1954. Constance married Bobby Hunnicutt in 1966 and Francis Scott was born March 8, 1967. Divorced, Constance teaches school in Charleston, South Carolina.

Charles, Jr. married Pam Kirkendall, June 13, 1977. Pam is a student, Gardner-Webb College, majoring in education. Charles Jr. works at Thermo Welco, Kings Mountain and East Texas Motor Freight, Shelby.

The third child, Gilbert Griffin Jones, Jr., was born January 30, 1926. He served in the Navy from March 1943 until April 1946 on the U.S.S. Vance DE 387, making 27 trips across the Atlantic Ocean. He began working for the Transportation Department of J.P. Stevens September 1950. Gilbert has driven more than 30 years and three million accident-free miles in his service to the Stevens Company. In December 1978, he was named Driver of the Month by the Motor Transportation of South Carolina.

By a previous marriage to Jean Elizabeth Toney one son Roger Gene Jones was born October 20, 1946. Roger is making a career in the Air Force. He has two sons, Kevin Scott Jones, born March 15, 1969 and Clint Corey born May 27, 1973.

Gilbert Jr. married Mary Katherine Lewis August 29, 1976. Mary was born September

5, 1950. She is of French-Indian-English descent. Mary, a registered Lab Technician, came from McDowell County to work at Cleveland Memorial Hospital. Mary presently works at Crawley Memorial Hospital, Boiling Springs. They have one daughter, Shannon Lea Jones, born May 28, 1977. They live in Shelby.

The fourth child, Wayne Bailey Jones was born August 25, 1928. He worked for Akers Motor Lines until he became disabled. Wayne married Judy Blanton. One daughter, Sandy Jones, was born. Sandy married Benny Ledbetter and they have two daughters. They live in Shelby.

On January 17, 1960, Wayne married Vernie Church Poole. They have one son, Wayne (Chip) Bailey Jones, Jr., born November 24, 1962. Chip is presently a student at Cleveland Technical College. There are three stepdaughters, Gail Poole Beason, Debbie Poole Arrowood and Susan Poole Hand.

The fifth child, Emma Jo Jones was born December 25, 1937. She married Joseph Bailey Anthony April 5, 1958. Joseph stationed in Italy served in the Korean Conflict. He was assistant office manager for the Shelby Mill until it closed in 1977. He presently works for Spectrum Fibers, Kings Mountain. Being of exceptional intelligence, and because of her avid devotion to the company, Emma Jo is Benefits Administrator for Fiber Industries.

One daughter, Lisa Jo Anthony, was born May 10, 1963. She is a student at Appalachian State University majoring in Business Administration.

Sources: Family records and interviews with family members.

— Mary Lewis Jones

Gilbert Griffin Jones, Jr.

GRANNY JONES and SOME WHO CAME AFTER

671

Mary Ann Magness Jones died at the age of ninety-nine on April 1, 1954. The "Cleveland Star" reported her to be the oldest citizen of Shelby at that time.

She was married to William ("Will") Donald Jones 12-28-1878. They lived in the Palm Tree Community and were instrumental in building Palm Tree Church and Palm Tree School.

After her husband's death July 28, 1916, she made her home with her youngest son, William Judson Jones, born Jan. 29, 1893.

"Jud" married Florence Belle Elliott, born July 14, 1885 in the New House Community. They met at Piedmont School and she came to teach at the Palm Tree School. They were married Feb. 15, 1917, lived in the Palm Tree area until moving to Shelby in 1921.

For the next fifty years, "Grannie Jones", as she became to many, related stories about living in the time of no cookstoves and sewing machines.

Her family played a real part in the Civil War. Her oldest brother was a physician and two brothers were captains. For several nights, as Yankee soldiers came through this area, her family slept in the woods near the house. They muzzled the dogs to keep them from barking.

Another story she liked to tell was that her sons married sisters because they owned only one buggy and the boys had to go courting at the same house.

The children of Florence and "Jud", who never tired of Grannie's tales, were:

Louise Magness Jones, born Nov. 24, 1917 married James Edward Byers June 12, 1943; Annabeth Hoyle Jones, born Aug. 6, 1919 married George Henry Corn May 29, 1941; William Judson Jones, Jr., born Sept. 25, 1921 married Millicent Hicks May 6, 1947; Thomas Reinhardt Jones, born Feb. 14, 1923 married Virginia McMurry Nov. 26, 1946. Florence died 05-10-1971. Tom died 08-1971. Both are buried in Sunset Cemetery.

Jud married Willie Mae Cline Lackey, widow of Doctor Austin Lackey 09-1972.

Sources: Cleveland Star, Family Bible, Memories.

— Ann Corn

MAMIE JONES

672

Miss Mamie Jones was born September 13, 1883. She was the daughter of R.S. Jones and Katie Beatrice Jones.

She was the great-great-granddaughter of the Revolutionary soldier, Martin Roberts who was buried near his father, the pioneer Morris Roberts on the old Roberts Plantation in Number Three Township, Cleveland County, North Carolina. She became a charter member of the Benjamin Cleveland Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution in December 1923.

She spent much time and energy researching Cleveland County history. She published many articles in the Shelby Daily Star and had planned to write a history of the county.

She was a member of Central United Methodist Church, the Woman's Bible Sunday School class, the DAR and the UDC.

"Miss Mamie", as she was affectionately called by many, was a gracious Southern lady. She had an exceptionally keen mind. She was honest and quite outspoken, had high ideals and strong connections. She seldom changed her mind — never for the approval of others. Her keen sense of humor added to her uniqueness. Anyone who asked "How are you?" heard the familiar response, "I'm young and beautiful!"

Anyone who really knew Miss Mamie loved her for her kindness and sincerity. If she was your friend, you possessed a priceless gift.

Sources: D.A.R. Records, Shelby Daily Star, Cemetery.

— (Mrs. W.H.) Virginia Brown

THE THOMAS REINHARDT JONES FAMILY

673

Thomas Reinhardt Jones, son of Florence Elliott and William Judson Jones, was born February 14, 1923 in Lawndale, Cleveland County, North Carolina. His family moved to Shelby during his early childhood and he attended Shelby schools, graduating from the local high school in 1940. He interrupted his education at Western Carolina Teachers College at the end of his sophomore year to enter the United States Naval Air Corps in August 1942. During his three and a half years of service Lieutenant, junior grade, Jones served on the air craft carriers Franklin, Hancock and the Ticonderoga. He flew bombers in the Peleliu, Formosa, Philippine, Iwo Jima and the China Sea campaigns. He received an honorable discharge December 21, 1945.

He was a life long member of Central Methodist Church, Shelby, North Carolina. He served as Chairman of the Board of Stewards and participated actively in the finance and building programs as well as most areas of service for the church.

He belonged to the Masonic Lodge, Number 202, the American Legion, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the Junior Chamber of Commerce — served as president 1949-50, the Shelby Rotary Club — served as president 1964-65, the Shelby Board of Realtors — served as president, and as Western Region Vice President of the North Carolina Board of Realtors 1966.

In 1948 he established the Carolina RefinOil Company. In the early 1950's he was active in the textile industry as a cotton waste broker. In 1957 he established a real estate and insurance business, Gilbert-Jones, Inc. Ralph Gilbert was a partner. The company was later named Jones and Honeycutt, Inc. In 1961 the firm completed Windsor Acres, the first subdivision in Shelby to be planned and executed under Shelby's all-embracing new subdivision ordinance. It was unique in Shelby real estate history because it was developed without any cost to the city. He was very active in the growth of real estate development in Shelby until his death in 1971.

He married Virginia Elizabeth McMurry, daughter of Julia Virginia Ligon and Andrew Willis, McMurry, on November 26, 1946, at the First Baptist Church where she was a member. She was born in Shelby, North Carolina June 10, 1923. She attended Shelby schools, graduating from the local high school in 1940. She graduated from Salem College, Winston-Salem, North Carolina in 1944 with a degree in Sociology-Economics.

She worked at the Shelby Public Library from 1944-1946. Along with the work inside the library she drove the bookmobile throughout Cleveland County. She joined Central Methodist Church in 1947, serving as teacher, girl scout leader, member of the Women of the Church and many other areas. She was a Social Worker for the Shelby City School system from 1967-1973. She has been the Director of Volunteer Services at Cleveland Memorial Hospital since 1975. She has been active in the Junior Womans Club, the Junior Charity League, the Cleveland County Boys Club, the Literario Book Club, the Shelby Art League and other community service groups.

Tom and Virginia had four children: Julia Virginia born August 30, 1948. BA English 1970, Queens College, Charlotte, North Carolina. MA Reading 1971, Appalachian State University, Boone, North Carolina. LLB Law 1977, Wake Forest University, Winston-Salem, North Carolina.

Jean Anne born May 16, 1952, BA Journalism 1974, University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill. She married Peter Adams Barnes from Chapel Hill, BA Journalism, 1974, University of North Carolina, LLB Law 1980, Yale University, New Haven, Conn.

Linda Louise born November 21, 1954. BA Economics 1977, Davidson College. Married James Joseph Kopel, Jr. from Venice, Florida. BA English 1977, Davidson College.

Thomas Reinhardt, Jr. born August 2, 1957, student at Appalachian State University, Boone.

Tom died at the age of forty-eight (coronary occlusion), August 13, 1971 and is buried in Sunset Cemetery, Shelby, North Carolina.

Source: Personal knowledge

— Virginia McMurry Jones

Salena Harrill Jones (1827-1912), wife of William Alvah Jones (1827-1898)

THE WILLIAMALVAH JONES FAMILY

674

William Alvah Jones was born February 3, 1827 in the family home south of Lattimore, N.C. A descendant of Benjamin Jones and Amy Parrish Jones of Wales (1700). He departed this life at the home place on April 26, 1898. He was a son of John Edmond Jones, born September 8, 1786 and died May 30, 1825. He was married to Susannah McKinney, born in 1785. She was a daughter of William McKinney, born May 6, 1766 and died October 31, 1857, a Revolutionary War soldier.

John Edmond Jones, father of William Alvah Jones was a son of John Jones, born February 19, 1750, also a Revolutionary soldier. He married Elizabeth Poole, born July 27, 1771. Fourteen children, eight boys and six girls were born to this John and Elizabeth Jones, John died May 30, 1825 and Elizabeth, his wife, died September 2, 1818.

On September 6, 1849, William Alvah Jones married Salena K. Harrill born September 30, 1827 and died 1912. Her mother was Mincie Dobbins, born 1797 and died 1878, daughter of Drury Dobbins born 1775 and died 1847, a famous Baptist Minister. Her Father was Richard Harrill born 1784, died 1859 son of Housen Harrill born 1731, died 1820, a Revolutionary War soldier. This makes her a granddaughter of a Revolutionary soldier. William Alva Jones, her husband, was a grandson of William McKinney a Revolutionary War soldier on his mother's side of the family.

The children of William Alvah Jones and Salena Harrill are as follows: Sarah Jane Jones (never married) born July 9, 1850; Benjamin Franklin Jones born April 2, 1852; Roxana Jones born March 18, 1854 (Saturday night); John Alexander Jones born November 3, 1856 (Monday). He married Mary Jane Jolley born May 11, 1857. They had one child, girl named Sunie Macie Jones, born December 30, 1885. She married John Broadus Lattimore January 2, 1906. There were two sets of twins in the Alvah Jones family. Girls — Martha and Mary Jones were born October 23, 1860 (Tuesday). Boys — Drury Dobbins and Doctor Miller Jones were born August 3, 1866 (Friday morning); Abnah Cissero Jones was born February 17, 1863; Robert Lee Jones was born July 31, 1869 (Saturday); Pantha Jones was born January 18, 1873. This makes eleven children. Large families seem to be characteristic of the Jones name. All of these children married but one girl, Sarah Jane.

William Alvah Jones was a large land owner in Cleveland County. He was living near the town of Lattimore, and was a prominent county civic leader. His home and those of several of his children helped to make Lattimore a Town. Their homes are among the oldest ones in the town. They were Baptists and very interested in church life.

William Alvah was a Confederate soldier serving in the Civil War. He entered February 22, 1863. He was a Private, Infantry, Cleveland County, 34th Regiment, Company B. He was wounded at Chancellorsville, Virginia, but lived to return home and continue having his large family. He was paroled at Appomattox Court House Virginia April 9, 1865.

There were only two girls, Jane and Roxana, when he left for war. The soldiers would come through and take food and cattle. Salena, his wife would hide meat because she never knew when the soldiers might come by. Alvah would never let his picture be taken.

William Alvah Jones and wife are buried in the Lattimore Baptist Church Cemetery. His father and mother are buried in the family cemetery at the old Jones homeplace south of Lattimore, North Carolina. I, Mary Agnes Lattimore, am a granddaughter of John Alexander Jones, son of William Alvah Jones.

Sources: Family Bible of William Alvah Jones. Family Bible of John Alexander Jones. Genealogical records compiled by Eddie McSwain, teacher at Crest High School. A Relative. Mrs. Warren Gamble records (a past D.A.R. Regent of Flint Hills Chapter, NSDAR.) The Hamrick Generations — Written by S.C. Jones Some Information as I remember myself. — Mary Agnes Lattimore

— Mary Agnes Lattimore

THE WINSLOW JONES FAMILY 675

Winslow Washburn Jones, son of Benjamin Franklin and Susan Blanton Jones, was born in Cleveland County on August 4, 1884. At age 21, he managed the farm for his father, who sawmilled, for a share of the income. His goal was to have enough wheat, corn, and meat to supply his basic food needs for a year before he took on the responsibility of marriage. On December 26, 1906, he married Neter Texan Hamrick, who was the daughter of Alonzo and Elnora McMurry Hamrick. A son, William Allen, was born to this couple on September 25, 1908. They also bought their first farm that year.

Winslow and Neter were faithful members of the Poplar Springs Baptist Church where he was a deacon. They were known for helping to care for the sick in the community. Neter was called by many to help with the delivery of babies although she was not a midwife.

Their generosity and love for others was shown by many experiences with others, especially young people. Bunyan, Winslow's brother, and his infant son Alvie lived with the Joneses for a while after the mother was fatally burned. Two others, Roy Splawn and Edison Noggle, came to live with the Joneses as teenagers. Katie Jones, a niece, lived with them for a time after her mother died.

Allen attended Shanghai Elementary School through the seventh grade then went to Boiling Springs where he boarded with the Byers family in order to finish high school. He continued his schooling there and was a member of the first graduating class of Boiling Springs Junior College in 1930. After college he came back home to work with his parents on the farm. He enjoyed the outdoors, fishing and hunting in his spare time. He was active also in the church, serving as Sunday School Superintendent, secretary and teacher.

At age 23, Allen married Hannah Jarrett McCurry, daughter of Robert Wilson and Maultie Jarrett McCurry from the Beaver Dam Community. They lived with Allen's parents and continued to farm. Peggy Love, the first child and only daughter, was born on August 21, 1932. Robert Allen was born on October 26, 1934. Lyman Winslow came the next fall on November 5, 1935. William Allen was born on November 6, 1936.

Allen became ill with typhoid fever in August, 1936. He died on August 27, 1936, at the age of 27 leaving a wife with three small children, four years of age and under, and one to be born in three months.

Hannah and the children lived with the Joneses until 1941. At that time they moved next door to a four room house where they lived for the first time as a separate family, working on the farm with the grandparents. Those were happy years, being out to themselves, and at the same time having the love and care of grandparents who tried to help fill the vacancy of a husband and father.

Hannah and the children moved back with the Joneses after Neter suffered a stroke and died in 1950.

Peggy graduated at the School of Nursing at Presbyterian Hospital in Charlotte and works part time as an RN at Cleveland Memorial Hospital. She married John Osborne (Jack) Ware from the Oak Grove Community. Jack is a foreman at Foote Mineral in Kings Mountain. Their children are Nita Susan Davis (Mrs. John), Jerry Scott who married Sandra Hendrick, and John Osborne Ware.

After high school, Robert helped his grandfather on the farm until he died in 1965. He has farmed and worked with farmers in the fertilizer business through the years. In 1957 he married Betty Jean Banning from Henderson County. Betty teaches English at Crest High School. Their children are Andy Winslow and Laura Jean Jones.

Lyman married Martha Jean Allen from Grover in 1957. Soon after graduating from high school, he began work at NuWay Laundry and Cleaners. After a short time he and Jean bought it and continue to operate it. They have two children, Ricky Allen and Paul Ann Jones.

Allen has worked since high school at the Ora Mill. He is married to Sonja Bess Hedrick from Boiling Springs. She is a kindergarten teacher at Boiling Springs School. They have two children, Rachel Elizabeth and Lyman Allen Jones.

Winslow gave each of the grandchildren a part of his farm. Peggy, Robert and Lyman live on that property. Hannah lives in the house he provided for her.

— Betty Jones

REV. H.A. KEATON, D.D. 676

History, we are told, is the recreation of the past for the enrichment of the present. It is fashioned out of the warp and woof of human experience; and into its rich tapestry are interwoven the strands of hope and fear, of dream and disillusion, revealing our kinship with past generations.

This sketch attempts, within the limits of a few paragraphs, to present in essence the life and works of Haywood Alexander Keaton.

Rev. H.A. Keaton, known throughout the A.M.E. Zion Connection as the organizer and builder of Churches, was born May 3, 1877, in Iredell County, N.C., eight miles north of Statesville, N.C. He was the son of Adolphus and Louise Keaton. As one of the older children he had the responsibility of taking care of his mother and father, sisters and brothers while working on the farm.

Rev. H.A. Keaton, D.D., Pastor of Wardell Chapel A.M.E. Zion Church, Shelby

As a young boy Rev. Keaton attended the public schools of Iredell County and later continued his education by means of a private tutor, by mail, and by associating with other ministers in the study and practice of the ministry. Some of his private teachers and mentors were D.T. Hawkins, a methodist minister, Dr. S.G. Atkins; Dr. G. Hodge, Dr. W.A. Blackwell, and Bishop L.W. Kyles. In further pursuit of his education he took courses by mail from Chicago University. The record will show that he took courses from Howard University, Washington, D.C., and was later awarded the D.D. degree from Hood Theological Seminary.

Rev. Keaton was admitted to the Western North Carolina Conference, which includes Shelby and Cleveland County, on Thanksgiving Day, the last Thursday in November 1902.

The minutes of the Western North Carolina and Blue Ridge Annual Conference of the A.M.E. Zion Church will reveal that he was so versed in the polity and discipline of the Church that he was an examiner of new ministers to be admitted to each conference.

One of Rev. Keaton's most outstanding contributions to the A.M.E. Zion Connection was his pastorate at Wardell Chapel in Shelby, North Carolina. When he was assigned to that church there were only fifty two members, the church building was in bad repair, and there was a debt of $2,400.00. In time a new structure was completed at a cost of $20,000.00. Before leaving Wardell Chapel the membership had grown to 337 and the mortgage had been reduced to $3,300.00.

Realizing the importance of education as a tool, Rev. Keaton taught for many years in the following elementary schools of Cleveland

Rev. Susanna Lackey Keaton, 1889-1978

County: Patterson Springs Elementary, Mooresboro Elementary, Borders School House and Hopewell Elementary. The latter two schools were later consolidated into Washington Elementary in Waco.

Rev. Keaton received several high honors: Pastor of some of Zions' best churches in the Conference, served as Presiding Elder, and brought help and a ministry of love throughout Shelby and Cleveland County.

He was married to the late Mrs. Susanna Lackey. The names of his children are Henrietta, Marybell, John Robert, Paul Roosevelt, Susanna Ruth, and Willie Beatrice Keaton Lee. It should be noted that Mrs. Willie Keaton Lee & Glen Keaton are still residents of Shelby, N.C. Willie is a member of the teaching profession (Shelby City Schools), and an active member of the church built by her father. Glen Keaton retired after forty nine years of work at Bost Bakery.

Rev. Dr. Keaton acquired greatness through his works. He will live always in the hearts of those men and women whose lives he touched.

Sources: Family Bible, Personal Records

— Willie Keaton Lee

THE JOHN BYRON KEETER FAMILY

677

John Byron Keeter was born June 8, 1896 in Grover, North Carolina, son of Dock John Keeter and Leonora Jane Harry Keeter.

He graduated from Grover High School, attended Wake Forest College and was a Veteran of World War I, at the end of which he went into the merchandising business with his father.

He was married to Mary Morris Alston of Powellsville, Bertie County, N.C. in 1919. To them, two daughters were born: Leonora Eoline — Mrs. D.F. Hord, Jr. of Kings Mountain, North Carolina; Kathryn Jo — Mrs. Randolph Madison Jr., of Petersburg, Virginia, and there are seven grandchildren.

He opened a store in Bessemer City which he ran for three years, then moved to Kings Mountain, where Keeter's Department Stores, Inc. continued successfully until his death in 1963 — also Dixie Bargain Store.

During World War II he was Director of several successful drives and fund raising campaigns. He served as Chairman of U.S.O. and Red Cross campaigns, also aiding in the Administration of the Selective Training and Service Act and was cited by these organizations for his work.

He was Chairman of the campaign to buy books for the Mauney Memorial Library when it was opened. He was a Mason, Elk, member of the Cleveland County Executives Club, and a charter member of the Kings Mountain Country Club.

He was the first President of Kings Mountain Merchants Association and served as President of the Kiwanis Club and as District Governor of Kiwanis International.

He was active in the church, served as Sunday School Superintendent in Grover and Bessemer City First Baptist Churches and was for years a Deacon in First Baptist Church of Kings Mountain and later in Kings Mountain Baptist Church. At one time he was a Trustee of Gardner-Webb College.

He owned and successfully showed Tennessee Walking Horses in the forties and early fifties.

He died December 26, 1962 and was interred in Kings Mountain cemetery.

Sources: Family Bible, Obituaries.

— Mary Alston Keeter

THE DOCK JOHN and LEONORA HARRY KEETER FAMILY

678

Dock John Keeter was born February 28, 1858 to John Calvin Keeter and Emaline Moore Keeter in Union Mills, Rutherford County, North Carolina.

As a young man he went to Grover as a Telegraph Operator for what is now Southern Railway. He later entered the Mercantile business.

He was married November 1, 1882 to Leonora Jane Harry, native of Grover and Cleveland County, where she spent all of her life. She was born June 11, 1868 — the daughter of John W. McMacklin Harry and Dicey Catherine Bell Harry. Her paternal ancestors were Washington Marion Harry and Mary McArthur (first cousin of Arthur McArthur, father of General Douglas McArthur) and John B. Harry and Sarah Ann Hutchinson. Her maternal grandparents were Fielding Bell and Jane Whisnant.

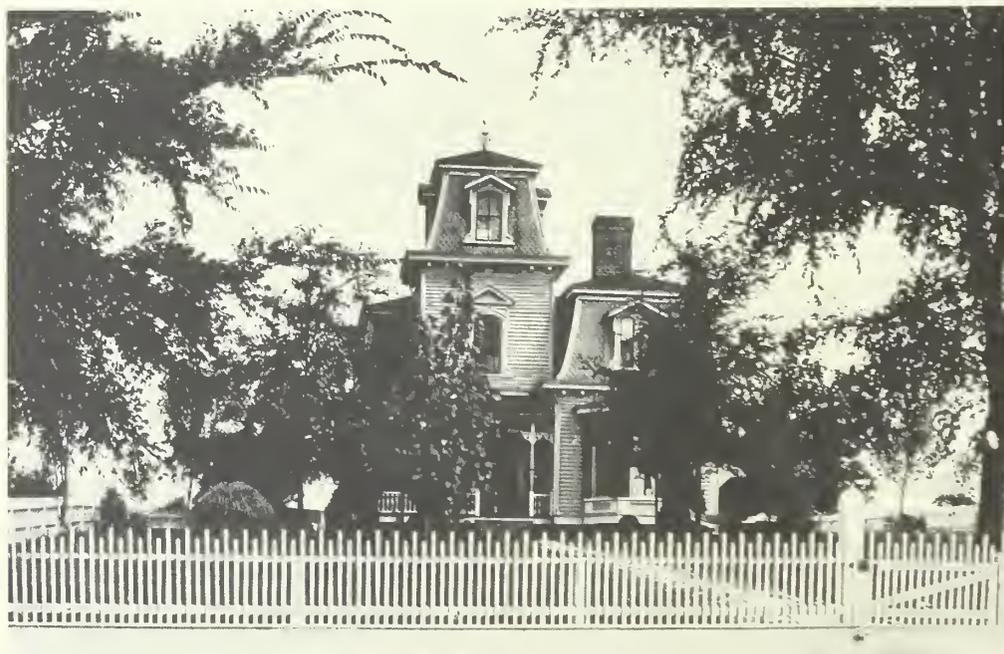

The D.J. Keeter home in Grover was built in the eighteen seventies by J.W. McMacklin Harry (father of Leonora Jane Harry Keeter) and lived in by his family and later by the Keeters who were married there by the Reverend G.P. Hamrick. Also four of their daughters' weddings took place there.

There were seven children — They were: Oviedo who was Mrs. Marvin Turner and is deceased; Viola who is Mrs. J.P. Wharton, of Greenville, South Carolina; Ethel who is Mrs. J.H.B. Jenkins, and lives in York, South Carolina; Leonora who is Mrs. Hamilton McBride, and lives in Dunedin, Florida; John Byron who lived in Kings Mountain, North Carolina and is deceased; Harry Paul who lived in Greensboro, North Carolina and is deceased; Mary Helen who was Mrs. Charles Pearce, and lived in Greenwood, South Carolina is deceased.

There were eleven grandchildren.

Mr. Keeter was a leading member of the First Baptist Church of Grover, being a Deacon and Teacher of the Ladies Adult Class in Sunday School for many years. He was a Mason and a Trustee of Gardner-Webb College for several years.

His Mercantile Business flourished and with his son Byron, he extended his interests to Bessemer City and later to Kings Mountain, becoming one of the respected business leaders of the County.

D.J. Keeter Home in Grover, N.C.

He died December 27, 1946 and was buried in Grover, North Carolina. Mrs. Keeter had died two years earlier.

Sources: Family Bible, Obituaries, newspaper

— Mary Alston Keeter

THE KENDALL FAMILY

679

Members of the Kendall family who emigrated to America in the early 1600s, had come from Westmoreland County, England, while many others came from Yorkshire, Essex and Sussex. A Kendall was with William the Conqueror when he arrived in England, in 1066. As early as 1265 Hugh de Kendall was a judge in Westmoreland County.

The town of Kendall is situated on the banks and dale of the River Ken. It was here the Kendalls began resenting the oppression of the British government, and came to the conclusion that freedom could be found in America. The first to arrive settled in Va. and Mass.

In the "Generall Historie" of Virginia, New England and the West Indies, by Captain John Smith, published in London in 1627, an item of interest states, "Mr. Miles Kendall was elected Governor of Bermuda, in 1615".

John Kendall, along with Thomas and brother Francis settled in Lynn and Woburn, Mass. respectively, about 1640. Later they were joined by "Mr." Miles Kendall who went to Va. John Kendall was one of the first arrivals. It was he who was the ancestor of the American Kendalls. John was born in the early 1600s and died at Cambridge, Mass. in 1660. The Kendalls appear among the earliest British Colonists in the New World.

It is interesting to note the businesses and professions followed by members of the family during the following generations. There were several millers, preachers, teachers, carpenters, writers, a few manufacturers, lawyers, and several army officers. This was an outstanding group, and an addition to a young nation.

The Rev. Benjamin D. Kendall, a Methodist minister, came from England to America soon after the Revolutionary War. He moved first to Va. and then to Stanley County, N.C. in 1784. In 1843 he died and is interred in Wadesboro, N.C.

William Pinkney Kendall, son of Rev. Benjamin, lived in Anson County. A son of William Pinkney's, Benjamin Douglas, born 1836, in Anson County, died July, 1902, and is buried in Sunset Cemetery, Shelby.

Benjamin Douglas Kendall married Sallie D. Horton, July 27, 1858. After more than twenty years of marriage, the couple decided, in July 1886, to make a new home for themselves and the family in Shelby, Cleveland County. In three generations, this branch of the Kendall family had left their homeland for the growing new nation of America.

In Benjamin Douglas's family there were seven boys and three girls, all of whom became successful citizens in their different fields. Two of the boys, Henry, and Bloomfield Horton became pharmacists. Bloom, as he was affectionately known, born May 6, 1876, died August 24, 1972, married Ethel Eugenia

Gaffney, born June 19, 1878, died October 19, 1972. They were married December 20, 1899. Bloom was employed by his brother, Henry, as a pharmacist at Kendall's Drug Store. He was paid the munificent salary of $40.00 per month!

After a number of years Bloom organized the Kendall Medicine Company. This he operated successfully until his retirement.

The Kendalls had three children, the oldest, Mabel Marie (Rhyne) of Hickory, Benjamin Horton, and Francis Bloomfield, of Tucson, Ariz. Benjamin Horton has remained in Shelby and became a dedicated and successful cardiologist.

Dr. Kendall married Ruby Spratt, a former school teacher. They have two sons, William Alexander, and James Marion Kendall, and five grandchildren.

As we trace the Kendall family line some names seem to repeat themselves, almost like a tradition. Names play an important role in establishing relationships. This practice is found in tracing almost all family lines.

Kendall names reappearing in many generations are: John, Francis, Jesse, Benjamin, Jacob, Isaac, David, Peter, Hannah, Anna, Mary, Sallie, Eliza, Sara, Elizabeth, Abigail, and numerous others. This tradition will, hopefully, be continued in generations to come.

Sources: Family knowledge, Bible

— Lucille Gaffney Thomas

HENRY ELI KENDALL (SR.)

680

Henry E. Kendall, born Nov. 12, 1869 — died March 15, 1922, is buried in Sunset Cemetery in the family plot. He married Mary Whitelaw Wiseman from Danville, Va., born July 15, 1871 — died April 13, 1957. To this union were born five boys — Henry Wiseman Kendall, Frank H. Kendall, Henry Eli Kendall, Jr., Plummer Whitelaw Kendall and Bloomfield Douglas Kendall.

Douglas Kendall died an infant at the age of only three months.

Henry Kendall Sr. was a pharmacist, and after a few years at a drugstore in Danville, Va., he opened his own store in Shelby which he ran for 35 years. He established the Kendall Medicine Co. of Shelby, a wholesale drug house, and was most active in public and civic affairs. For many years he was a steward of the board of aldermen for the town. Also, he was director of the Shelby Building and Loan Association.

He is buried in the family plot in Sunset Cemetery.

H. Wiseman Kendall, born March 19, 1897 — died Jan. 1, 1968, married Leslie Moss of Spartanburg, S.C. (born March 18, 1898 — died Nov. 15, 1961). H.W. (Slim) Kendall, graduated from Trinity College (Duke University) and started working as a reporter and later editor of the Rocky Mount (N.C.) Telegram. After a few years there, he became editor of the Greensboro Daily News where he continued as editor until his death. Although he had no children, he was active in the Greensboro area among the crippled and mentally retarded children and a building in Greensboro is named for Remember . . .

Articles
Are Indexed
By
Article Numbers
. . . Not By
Page
Number

him today because of his activity. He was an outstanding editor of the state and was a friend of many governors who sought his ideas and advice.

Frank Hunter Kendall was born June 25, 1901 and died June 6, 1973. He was married to Sara Thomas of Ridgeway, S.C. Frank attended Trinity College (Duke) and was a member of Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity. He returned to Shelby and worked at several jobs but was auto parts salesman for many years in Shelby before he retired prior to his death.

Henry E. Kendall, Jr. (born Aug. 24, 1905, died Dec. 4, 1981), married first to Isobel Gilman and later to Katherine Kerr. Henry received a degree in civil engineering from N.C. State College in 1926, and he served in the Army Corps of Engineers during World War II in Great Britain, the Philippines and Japan. He attained the rank of Lt. Col. in 1945.

He was in Shanghai for several years with Dibrell Bros. Tobacco Co. and on returning, worked in Danville, Va. with a construction company before being appointed commissioner of Employment Security Commission by Gov. Greg Cherry in 1946. He held this position until he retired in 1973.

In 1968 Kendall, Jr. received a merit award from the International Association of Personnel Employment for outstanding service to handicapped workers. He received the outstanding service award for Veterans of Foreign Wars in 1966. He was a member of the President's Committee on Employment of the Handicapped from 1957-1969 and received the outstanding service award in 1965.

In 1982 the North Carolina Capital Planning Commission voted to name their new building for Henry E. Kendall, a longtime Employment Security chairman.

Whitelaw Kendall (b. Jan. 27, 1908, d. Jan. 15, 1977) married Josephine (Jo) Arnett. To this union were born 2 children, JoAnne and P. Whitelaw Kendall, Jr.

Whitelaw grew up in Shelby and worked for many years in a drugstore. He later moved to Charlotte where he was a salesman for a national wholesale drug company. He was a member of the Lions Club and an elder in the Presbyterian Church.

He is buried in the family plot in Sunset Cemetery of Shelby.

Sources: Family records

— Henry Lee Weather, Sr.

JOHN BURL KENDRICK 681

John Burl Kendrick, youngest child of Lawson Irvin Kendrick and Zura Ponola Camp Kendrick, was born April 10, 1906, at the homeplace in the Pleasant Hill Community of Cleveland County, near Patterson Springs.

We have family pictures of Burl as an adorable little brown-eyed boy, who looked like a little girl with his long black curls, which were fashionable for little boys of that day.

Being the "baby" of the family, he received extra attention from older brothers, Gus, Yates, Quinn, Clyde, & Tom, and sisters, Annie, Edna, Ida, and Lizzie Lee, and told often of visiting older married brother, Gus, and his wife, Mae, who lived in "town."

His wit and humor began to show in early childhood, as one of his early school teachers told the story of his frantically waving his finger in class as if asking for attention. Impatiently, she said, "What is it, Burl?" He giggled and replied, "My finger."

Newspaper clippings tell of Burl's athletic prowess, even though he was relatively small of stature . . . about 5'10" . . . as he played basketball and baseball for Piedmont High School at Lawndale, and then at Boiling Springs High School, Boiling Springs, N.C.

Burl's sister, Lizze Lee, was a student at Boiling Springs High School during the same time that he was there, and at the beginning of the school year, she made a new friend, who was Reola Wall from Chesnee, S.C. (born, Jan. 11, 1907, daughter of Elias Franklin Wall and Sara Edna Martin Wall).

Early in the school year, the students gathered to welcome the baseball team home from an out of town game, and Reola confided to her new friend, Lizzie Lee, that the very handsome brown-eyed short-stop was the one she was going to 'set her cap for.' Lizzie Lee did not let on that she would tell her brother that Reola was interested. After much note-passing, that turned into love letters, it seemed to be generally known that Burl and Reola were sweethearts. We still have the dainty little pearl ring that was Burl's gift to Reola on her 16th birthday.

After graduation from Boiling Springs High School in 1925, Burl worked as a meat-cutter for Swift Packing Company in Charlotte, N.C. and Reola taught school in Hicks Grove Community near Cliffside, N.C., but the distance between proved too great, and Burl and Reola married, June 27, 1928, and moved Reola to Charlotte, too. There, they were blessed with their first child, a daughter, Frances Carolyn, on July 4, 1929. Almost ten years later, on March 9, 1939, the second child, a son, Charles Franklin, who was called "Buster" almost from birth, appeared on the scene.

In the fall of 1940, the family moved from Charlotte, N.C. "back home" to the Pleasant Hill Community of Cleveland County, where Carolyn and Buster grew up.

'Miss Ree and Mr. Burl' or 'Aunt Ree and Uncle Burl' or 'Bubba and Daddy Bill' to the children and grandchildren, were into many community and church activities. Their home was a favorite gathering place for young and old.

Every big event was cause for a family celebration, like on Carolyn's 16th birthday, Daddy Bill made arrangements to use a big cattle truck to take all the community kids on a picnic trip to Rainbow Lake; and after Buster's basketball team won the county championship in 1957, the whole team and their girlfriends were treated to a big meal at the Kendrick's home.

I doubt they ever missed a ballgame or school event at Number Three High School — and carried just as many children to the game as the old car could hold. Any program of community talents always included "Mr. Burl" to buck-dance. Also, he was quite at home on the square-dance floor.

Although Burl had grown up in a rural area, he did not choose to farm for a livelihood, but rather spent most of his time as a meat-cutter.

Miss Ree was known for her creative talents. Every new baby in the community was proud owner of a sweater and bootee set crocheted by Miss Ree. Her handmade afghans still add their beauty to many homes. Her kindness and love (and patience) was exhibited when her Sunday School class of teenage girls met at her home to make what seemed like tons of homemade candy to send to all the boys from Pleasant Hill Baptist Church who were away in service during World War II.

She had a way with words that made writing seem effortless and could write rhymes without erasing a word. Many of her human interest poems have been published in local papers. Most of all her talents, though, she and everyone else enjoyed her music, as she played piano, organ, and accordion.

Mother did work outside the home, for many years decorating cakes at Bost Bakery, then as floor-secretary at Cleveland Memorial Hospital.

On April 10, 1949, Carolyn married Bobby Gene Putnam (son of Spurgeon Britton Putnam and Maggie Lee Bridges Putnam) and on June 21, 1959, Buster married Priscilla Ann Panther (daughter of Archie Cree Panther and Annie Hudson Panther).

Death came to John Burl Kendrick on January 9, 1966 . . . and to Reola Wall Kendrick on February 1, 1971. Both are buried in the cemetery at Pleasant Hill Baptist Church, where they had faithfully served for a greater part of their lifetime.

Sources: interviews with relatives and friends and family memories.

— Mrs. Carolyn Kendrick Putnam

CHARLES FRANKLIN KENDRICK 682

Charles Franklin Kendrick, son of John Burl Kendrick and Reola Wall Kendrick, was born March 9, 1939 . . . in Charlotte, N.C. . . . but moved with the family to Cleveland County in the fall of 1940. He was married, June 21, 1959 to Priscilla Ann Panther (b. April 25, 1941) daughter of Archie Cree Panther and Annie Hudson Panther.

Children: Son, Charles Phillip Kendrick (b. May 2, 1961); Daughter, Karla Suzanne Kendrick (b. Dec. 6, 1964); Daughter, Angela Kay Kendrick (b. Sept. 24, 1967).

— Mrs. Carolyn Putnam

JOHN and ELIZABETH CHERRY KENDRICK 683

John Kendrick, oldest son of Thomas and Sarah Kendrick was born December 7, 1799. He married Elizabeth Cherry on April 16, 1822. Still in the possession of the Kendrick family is a handwritten paper labeled "A Record of the ages of Jn. Kindricks Children." Those listed are: Mary Kendrick, born January 26, 1823; Robert Kendrick, born March 28, 1825; Thomas L. Kendrick born August 12, 1827; Sally R. Kendrick, born September 20, 1829; Margaret E. Kendrick, born February 15, 1832; Elizabeth A. Kendrick, born June 26, 1834; Larkin S. Kendrick, born April 28, 1837; Amanda C. Kendrick, born November 7, 1840; and John L. Kendrick, born January 24, 1845. Notice that all names are spelled Kindrick. In most other places the "i" has become an "e" to form Kendrick.

John Kendrick is listed in the 1830-40 census in the Upper Regiment Militia, Lincoln County, which became Cleveland County 1841. He has living great-grandchildren who remember the John Kendrick homeplace on Machine Branch in Cleveland County near the Fairgrounds. J. Yates Kendrick (age 93) says he was born at the John Kendrick homeplace.

In John Kendrick's will, he mentioned his property adjoining that of Thomas L. Kendrick on Machine Branch and left that twenty-acre tract to Thomas's son Lawson Irvin at the death of John's daughter Elizabeth A. Kendrick. A piece of property "lying on the head waters of Hickory Creek of Buffalo Creek adjoining lands of Wilson Gidney and others" was willed to John's son, John L. Kendrick and to Thomas's son Joseph. This handwritten will is in the North Carolina Archives in Raleigh.

According to records found in the settlement of the John Kendrick estate, Mary married a Hicks, Sally R. married a Moss, Margaret E. married a Lindsay (whose heirs were J.M. Lindsay, M.M. Ferguson, and Jane Ann Lindsay); Elizabeth never married; and Amanda married D. Branton. Larkin's heirs were J.W. Kendrick and N.B. Kendrick. No information is known of Robert. John L. died in Gaffney, South Carolina. His daughter Margaret Lenora married Ingram Beauregard Allen and her descendants are in Cleveland County today.

Sources: Quoted papers, Will, Census records, Estate records

— Mary Ruth Dedmon Hord and Carolyn Kendrick Putnam

Lawson Irvin Kendrick Home, circa 1907. L to R: Annie, Ponola, Tom, Clyde, Lawson Irvin holding Burl, Lizzie Lee, Ida, Quinn, Edna. Not pictured: Gus, Yates, Claudie Lee (deceased).

THE LAWSON IRVIN and ZUAR PONOLA CAMP KENDRICK FAMILY

684

Lawson Irvin Kendrick was known as a gentle man and a gentleman. He gained the reputation of being a gracious host, a Christian man, a devoted husband and father, a good provider, and a successful farmer. His wife Ponola was known for her good personality and humor and ability to cook delicious meals for many. Together they provided a good home for their children and a welcome to anyone else who needed a place to say.

Lawson Irvin Kendrick, son of Thomas Lawson and Ann Jane Beam Kendrick was born July 9, 1862. At school he met a "beautiful shy little girl of ten." She won his heart and he won her father's consent to marry her while she was still only fifteen. But he was twenty-one and knew he could take care of her. One of their friends received a note from Ponola which said, "Dear Pink, You and Arthur Moore bring Mattie Dover and come over home Sunday and see Lawson and me jump the broom." For the wedding, the bride wore a brown mohair dress trimmed with brown satin, Basque style with big puffed sleeves. The groom wore a black suit made by his stepmother for the occasion. Rev. G.M. Webb performed the ceremony November 4, 1883. Afterwards all went to Pleasant Hill Church for preaching and returned to the Camp home for dinner — "cakes, pies, chicken, and everything that could be imagined." L.P. Allen and Dock Hamrick helped serve the seventy-five guests. The whole party spent the afternoon at Cleveland Springs. The following day, they all went to the groom's father's home for another big dinner.

After living with and near parents for nine years, they bought one hundred thirty acres from Ponola's Grandmother Roberts, built a log house, lived there several years before building "up on the road." In this house they reared their children, and it still stands at the fork of Ponder Pleasant Hill Church Roads. It remains in the Kendrick family and is the home of the widow of son Quinn Kendrick.

Zuar Ponola Camp Kendrick was the oldest child of Joseph Alexander (b. February 13, 1841 — d. October 12, 1923) and Ellen Mose-line (b. December 9, 1850 — d. September 14, 1888) Roberts Camp. Her grandparents were Joseph (b. 1800 — d. January 17, 1876) and Lucretia Taylor Camp (b. 1800 — d. January 1865) and Martin (b. March 1, 1828 — d. March 4, 1905) and Elizabeth Roberts (b. August 31, 1881 — d. July 31, 1912). Ponola was born August 10, 1868.

Loss and Ponola have four children living today, ages seventy-eight to ninety-three. As they reminisced recently, they recalled life in the Kendrick household. Being a farmer meant fulltime work to Loss Kendrick, who was about five feet nine inches tall with hazel eyes, black hair, and mustache. Ponola was five feet five and one-half inches, with black hair and hazel eyes. (The family always called them cat eyes.) The children remember the log barn where cotton was stored and livestock kept, the big barn with hayloft and stables for horses and mules, the two corn cribs with a wagon shed between, so they could drive in with a load of corn and pitch it into the cribs. There was a blacksmith shop where the family did their own horseshoeing and plow-sharpening, a wash pot used for making soap and washing clothes, a car shed, and a smoke house which every year was filled with a barrel each of pickles, kraut, molasses and peaches, strings of sausages stuffed and dipped in melted lard to seal and preserve them as well as the usual supply of hams and shoulder. They dried fruits and canned vegetables, made their own vinegar, and stored away hills of potatoes, so they purchased only a few basics such as coffee and sugar.

Although their family was large and they had many to care for, Loss and Ponola were known for opening their home to others. It is told by the children that they can remember that for twenty-five years there was someone staying with the family. Daughters-in-law Pearl and Ollie Kendrick remember that the couple always enjoyed having company and met all circumstances with good humor.

L.I. Kendrick was known as a strong churchman. He served Pleasant Hill Church as a deacon, Sunday School Superintendent, a member of various committees, and was Chairman of the Building Committee for the structure built in 1929.

In their mature years Loss and Ponola moved to South Lafayette Street in Shelby where their home became a gathering place for their many grandchildren. Every Sunday afternoon as family groups visited, all would go through the back porch to the dining room where they would lift the white cloth from the long dining table to see what was left from lunch and to snatch a bite here and there. A box of rock candy always stayed on the mantle of the sitting room, and at times Loss would dole out a few rocks to each grandchild. A favorite pastime for the grandkids was to pile into the car parked in the barn at the rear of the lot and take imaginary trips. Several granddaughters the same age would spend the night and sleep upstairs, each dressed in one of grandmother's white nightgowns.

Loss Kendrick died of a stroke on August 17, 1942. Ponola lived until January 3, 1949. Bodies of both are buried in Pleasant Hill Church cemetery.

Sources: Kendrick Family Bible, Family Records, Conversation with Family Members

— Mary Ruth Dedmon Hord
and Carolyn Kendrick Putnam

THE LAWSON IRVIN and ZUAR PONOLA CAMP KENDRICK FAMILY

685

The Lawson Irvin and Ponola Camp Kendrick Family is one of long-time residence in the Pleasant Hill Community. Their children and grandchildren are as follows:

Claudie Lee, first born (b. October 27, 1884), lived to be only thirteen years old. He became ill at school one day with severe pain in his arm. The doctor called it "flying rheumatism." It moved to his heart. He died at eleven P.M. on February 22, 1898. His brother Clyde, was born the next morning.

Augustus Beam, second son (b. July 25, 1886, d. December 23, 1959) had mechanical ability. He operated an ice plant before going into the meat-packing business and operating Shelby Meat Packing Co. He married Mae Turner (b. July 11, 1884 — d. May 14, 1962) on March 30, 1910. Children born to this marriage were Mary Aileen, Gary Benjamin, Dorothy Penola, and James Lawson.

Joseph Yates, third son, born March 23, 1889, celebrated his ninety-third birthday the year of this writing. As a young man he farmed, and for eighteen years he was also a deputy sheriff. He recalls several occasions where he tracked suspects and caught them. Yates married Selena Lowery (b. November 6, 1895) on December 9, 1914. Their children are Mayme, Louise, Annie Ella, Sophie, and Mary Jo.

Edna Moseline, born July 22, 1891, was a tall, black-haired girl who married William White Jackson August 26, 1908. She became a widow when their children Elizabeth, Kendrick, Viola, David, and Rachel were still young. Edna courageously worked to rear the children by operating a boarding house in Shelby. She died July 7, 1958.

Annie Jane (b. July 30, 1893) was quiet and reserved. She married Jesse James Neal (b. January 24, 1887 — d. June 15, 1966), in a home wedding on December 15, 1912. She died January 19, 1919, nine days after their child Alda was born.

Hugh Quinn, (b. November 26, 1895 — d. May 1, 1968) was the only son to serve in World War I. He returned to tell of being at the front lines on Armistice Day. He said "our boys" and the Germans were shooting at each other one minute and shaking hands the next. He was a farmer and married Luvicie Lowery (b. June 13, 1899) on December 11, 1919. Their children are Rebecca, Edwin Randolph, Lawson Irvin, Betty Catherine, Hugh Lowery, and Joe Reid.

Clyde Lawson, born February 23, 1898, loves sports. He remembers as a boy unraveling hand-knit socks with holes in the heel and re-wrapping the yarn around a small rubber ball to make a baseball. He says that on Sunday afternoons they would play Straight Cat (to get to bat, one had to catch one flyball or two balls on first bounce) and Round Cat (a game similar to baseball). As a young man Clyde traveled to the mid-west several times but settled in Pleasant Hill Community later to become a farmer, growing some of the finest cotton and the best watermelons in the country. He married Ollie Rippy (b. April 28, 1902) on June 6, 1924. Their children: Mary Nadine, born March 12, 1925 and died September 15, 1958 from open heart surgery; Evelyn Elaine, and Joseph Carl who was born January 6, 1930 and died September 1, 1933 from diphtheria.

Ida Maudillion, born February 18, 1900, was also quiet and reserved. She married Jesse James Neal, sister Annie's widowed husband, on January 7, 1920. She was an excellent cook and devoted mother to her sister's child and to her own child, James Irvin Neal. She died August 3, 1958.

Thomas Grady, born May 20, 1902, has always been full of humor. He is looked upon with fond affection by those who enjoy his quips and good stories. He remembers many funny happenings including driving a horse and buggy to church with brother Clyde. Each brother went home some other way, not knowing until the next day that the horse was left at the church. Tom married Pearl Moore (b. April 15, 1905) on October 29, 1924. Their children are: Billie Jean Donnis Nell, Marilyn Anne, twins Nancy Lane and Norma Jane, Thomas Lawson who died at age five, and Roger Hilton.

Lizzie Lee, born December 4, 1903, was dark-haired and vivacious. She remembers riding in the buggy to town to see the circus and falling in the mud and ruining her new umbrella. She became a teacher, married A.V. Dedmon (b. October 4, 1899 — d. October 5, 1967), on June 10, 1925, and had children Mary Ruth, Doris Ann, Charles Edward, Joseph Hal, Betty Sue, Roy Lee, and Richard Kendrick.

John Burl, youngest of the Kendrick clan was born April 10, 1906. He too was fun-loving and full of humor. He loved music and loved to dance. John Burl became a butcher rather than a farmer like his father and brothers. On June 27, 1928, he married Reola Wall. Their children are Frances Carolyn and Charles Franklin, better known as "Buster". John Burl died January 9, 1966.

Sources: Family records, Kendrick Bible, Tombstones, Conversations with family members, Family Tree

— Mary Ruth Dedmon Hord
and Carolyn Kendrick Putnam

THOMAS and SARAH KENDRICK

686

The first Kendrick known to be in North Carolina was Thomas Kendrick, born 24 January 1769 in Virginia; died 11 November 1855 in North Carolina. He married Sarah Lambert, born 11 November 1779, in Maryland. She died 24 July, 1865, in North Carolina. The marriage is listed as circa 1797, North Carolina.

The original handwritten will of Thomas Kendrick is in the North Carolina Archives in Raleigh. In it he lists wife Sarah and children Mary, John, Nancy Selena, Margaret, Elizabeth, Larkin, William, Thomas, and Anna Marilla. He also mentions specifically cows, calves, sheep, household and kitchen goods, as well as the "residue of my estate," thus indicating that he was a farmer.

The census for 1830-40 places him in the Upper Regiment Militia Lincoln County which today is the eastern portion of Cleveland County. That census gives no names of family members, only numbers of people within an age range. There is listed one male, age 20-30 (assumed to be son Thomas Kendrick, b. 29 October 1815 — d. 10 April 1905, m. Susan E. Starns, b. 1822) whose son Jacob Pinckney Kendrick moved to Oklahoma and has living descendants there; one male, age 30-40 (assumed to be son William M. Kendrick, b. 25 March, 1810); and one male, age 70-80 (Thomas, head of the household.) The females are: one, age 20-30 (assumed to be Anna Marilla); one, age 30-40 (Nancy Selena b. 20 July 1801); and one, age 60-70 (the mother, Sarah.) This information coincides with information secured from the National Archives in Washington by Ronald Herd, relative of the Thomas Kendrick descendants in Oklahoma.

Other family households listed on that same census page 59 are those of sons John Kendrick and Larkin Kendrick, showing that they have married and established homes of their own. It is assumed that the three daughters Mary, Margaret, and Elizabeth had also married and left home. Their married names are not known.

Sources: Census records, Will, Family genealogy from Archives

— Mary Ruth Dedmon Hord

Thomas Lawson Kendrick, circa 1900.

THE THOMAS LAWSON KENDRICK FAMILY

687

Thomas Lawson Kendrick, third child of John and Elizabeth Cherry Kendrick, was born August 12, 1827, in what is now Cleveland County, North Carolina. He lived almost eighty-eight years, fought in the Civil War, was married three times, and had eleven children.

His first marriage was to Elizabeth Watts (b. January 17, 1833), on October 17, 1850. To this union was born Sarah Elizabeth Kendrick. The mother, Elizabeth, died twenty days later on August 11, 1851.

Thomas Lawson's second marriage was on July 8, 1852, to Ann Jane Beam who was born near Waco, North Carolina on December 22, 1830 — died March 7, 1875. She was the daughter of Teter and Lettie Dickson Beam. Her grandparents were John Teter Beam (first Beam settler in America) and his wife Elizabeth Rudolph; and Thomas and Rachel Dickson. Children of Thomas Lawson and Ann Jane were: Manerva (b. August 17, 1853 — d. February 1854); Columbus Marion (b. October 23, 1854) who married Mary Allen; Robert Munro (b. July 15, 1856 — d. April 2, 1878) who married Susan Borders; Phillips Hill (b. September 8, 1858) who married Launy Babington January 5, 1887, and after her death married Eugenia Poston; Luler Beatis (b. August 25, 1860) who never married; Lawson Irvin (b. July 9, 1862 — d. August 17, 1942) who married Zuar Ponola Camp on November 4, 1883; Joseph (b. May 11, 1866) who married Elizar Hoard December 23, 1885; Ider Jane (b. March 25, 1868) who married Hill Blanton; John Cleveland (b. September 6, 1870 — d. August 15, 1876); and Ely Fa (b. June 24, 1873 — d. August 22, 1876).

As a young man with a family, Thomas Lawson, like most others, left to fight in the War Between the States. Still in the possession of the Kendrick family is a letter he wrote to wife, Ann Jane, on Christmas Day, 1864 "at the same place, Va." In it he wrote . . . "My loving wife this is the third Christmas that I

THE LARKIN ALEXANDER KISER FAMILY

689

In 1761 Lawrence Kiser settled on Long Creek, Gaston County, a grant of 300 acres from King George II of Great Britain and Ireland.

Lawrence Kiser migrated from Pennsylvania to North Carolina where he reared twelve children. His daughter Margaret married Jacob Paysour, son of George Paysour who came from Germany prior to the Revolutionary War. George Paysour, Jr. married Hannah Hoyle, grand-daughter of Peter Hoyle and Catherine Dobes who were married in Germany. Mary Paysour, daughter of George Paysour, Jr., married John Kiser, son of Samuel Kiser and grandson of Adam Kiser and Sallie Bost Kiser. They had nine children.

Their son, Levi Kiser, was born October 22, 1822 and died June 12, 1907, and was buried in St. Luke's Cemetery, Cleveland County. He had six children.

John Philip Kiser, son of Mary Mauney Kiser, was born April 9, 1852, Cleveland County and died October 22, 1932. John married Mary Elizabeth Sellers on July 29, 1874. She was born October 6, 1856 and died January 20, 1939. They were buried in St. Luke's Cemetery.

John Philip Kiser and Elizabeth had eight children: Larkin Alexander, Laura Elminer, Jacob Levi, Lucy Etta, William Andrew, Mary Pearl, Vernia Edith and Augustus Sellers.

Larkin Alexander Kiser, son of John Philip Kiser and Elizabeth Sellers Kiser, was born November 14, 1875, in Cleveland County and died May 2, 1932. He was buried in St. Luke's Cemetery Cleveland County, near Kings Mountain.

Lorena Jeanette Williams, the daughter of Joseph Williams, was born in Burlington on May 8, 1877. When "Rena" was a young lady, her brother Dennis ("Bud") Williams took her on the train to see brother Jess Williams in Kings Mountain. "Uncle Jess" introduced "Rena" to Larkin and it was love at first sight. They married on April 11, 1900 and have five children: Jesse, Eugene, Arnold, Dorothy and Ozell.

Lorena died March 30, 1939 in Gastonia City Hospital and was buried in St. Luke's Cemetery.

Larkin Kiser and his brother-in-law, Floyd Mauney, owned and operated Kiser-Mauney General Store until it was sold to Ideal Mercantile Company.

In 1920 Larkin A. Kiser, D.C. Mauney and others built the Sadie Cotton Mill in Kings Mountain. Larkin was President of the Sadie Mill until his death in 1932. He was a leader in St. Matthew's Lutheran Church where he served on the Church Council for many years. He worked with Boy Scouts and was a great humanitarian.

Jesse Alexander Kiser, born December 18, 1901, married Cora Watterson on November 2, 1922. He attended Lenoir-Rhyne College. Cora, born August 26, 1900, died on November 2, 1977. Her funeral was held at Edenton Street Methodist Church, Raleigh, and she he believed." Living descendants of residents of Pleasant Hill Baptist Church community tell that Thomas Lawson and wife rode horseback to church. When Elizabeth Baptist Church was organized, they became members there. Thomas Lawson died July 28, 1915. Bodies of Thomas Lawson and Elizabeth A. are buried in the Elizabeth Baptist Church Cemetery.

Sources: Kendrick Family Bible, Oral history, Civil War papers, conversation with living descendants.

— Mary Ruth Dedmon Hord
and Carolyn Kendrick Putnam

THE JOHN KESTER FAMILY

688

John Kester, b. April 8, 1905 — d. February 26, 1977, came to Shelby in 1929 to open the Kester — Groome Furniture Company. It was situated on North Lafayette Street facing First Baptist Church. Later in 1958 the name was changed to Kester Furniture Co., which is the oldest continuous furniture store in Shelby. Mr. Kester met and married Sedahlia Propst Kester, b. Sept. 13, 1910, and to that union was born an infant that died at birth, also John Glenn Kester, Jr. b. January 31, 1934 — d. February 26, 1957. Sue Kester Mauney, b. May 1, 1940, who is married to Joseph Billy Mauney, b. August 6, 1931, to them were born Elizabeth b. July 10, 1964; Anna b. June 24, 1967; and Susan b. May 22, 1970.

Also to the John Kester's was born James William Kester, b. October 26, 1949, who married Rebecca Williams, b. October 21, 1949 of Portsmouth, Virginia and they had three children: Michell b. August 2, 1971; Kristen b. August 30, 1974 and Adam James, b. March 6, 1979.

Sources: Family Bible, cemetery.

— Sedahlia P. Kester

Dorothy Kiser Ford and Ozell Kiser Freeman

have ben far from you and this morning my mind is running forward to another year and wonder if I shall be spared to ever see another Christmas morning." . . . He stated that he received a provision that she sent to him, mentioned others who had received packages, friends he had seen and that all were well. He asked her to tell his daughter Sarah Elizabeth to knit him a pair of gloves and send them by John L. when he came. He continued: "Jane ther is nothing new with us worth your notice. The boys is generally well. Some is barefooted which is not very comfortable. We get no money yet it looks like the Confederacy is getting sow they can get their fighting done without money or very much to eat so things is () but where or how things will end I cant say." He concludes with: "Let me hear from you soon. I ever remain your loving and affectionate husband. May the Lord smile on you all and preserve you from all is ever my sincere prere. T.L. to A.J. Kendrick"

Thomas Lawson did return home. He was released the 28th of June AD 1865. Baby Lawson Irvin had never known his father, so when Thomas Lawson came home from the war, Lawson Irvin (almost three years old) hid behind the corn crib when he saw the strange man. According to grandson Thomas Grady Kendrick, Thomas Lawson told of the difficulties they had. He said that many soldiers had worn their shoes out and that others could follow their trail home by the blood stains on the ground. He also told of their starving condition and how, when some of them came upon a duck near a farmyard, that they caught it, skinned it and ate it raw. Thomas Lawson said he got a small piece of it.

Thomas Lawson recovered from the war to become a highly respected farmer and churchman in this community. Granddaughter Lizzie Lee Dedmon remembers him as a "refined gentleman," always neat and well-groomed, with a little chin beard and glasses. Grandson Joseph Yates Kendrick remembers going with sister Annie to "my Granddaddy's" and staying a week or more. Grandson Clyde Lawson Kendrick and all others remember going to visit every summer on Grandpa's birthday. All took baskets of food, and as soon as the children arrived, they headed for the branch to play in the water with all the cousins. The branch was Machine Branch near the Cleveland County fairgrounds where Thomas Lawson owned a farm near his father John's farm.

Thomas Lawson's wife Ann Jane died March 7, 1875, leaving several young children, including two who died the following year with diphtheria. Thomas Lawson married Elizabeth Ann Beattie, June 27, 1875. She was known as Betsy, and the grandchildren all called her "Granny." She helped rear the children and following the death of Thomas Lawson went to live with Lawson Irving's family for a while before moving on to live with her relatives in Waco.

According to the Prisoner of War Release, Thomas Lawson Kendrick was six feet tall and had dark brown hair and hazel eyes.

He was well known as a churchman. Grandson Yates Kendrick says that Thomas Lawson was "solid, solid as a rock. He believed what

SEBASTIAN (BOSTIAN) KLEIN (CLINE)

690

For the true heritage of the Cline families of Cleveland, Lincoln, Catawba and a branch of Cabarrus Counties to be depicted, it is felt background information should be shown on their immigrant ancestor, Sebastian (Bostian) Klein.

Sebastian, later called Bostian, Klein arrived in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania on the Ship "Robert and Alice," commanded by Captain Walter Goodman, on September 3, 1739, from his native home, the Province of Palatinate, Germany. He was born in Germany about 1710-15. He married Elizabeth Beiber (Now called Beaver), who was the daughter of Mathias and Susannah Beiber. The Clines and Beiber-in-laws moved from Pennsylvania to Cabarrus County, North Carolina about the year 1750 and settled near what now is Mt. Pleasant on Elk Creek. They later moved to about 4 miles northwest of present Newton in Catawba County on Clark's Creek from which farm the Indians forced them to flee for awhile. They went back to Cabarrus County until the Indian dangers were past and then all, with the exception of the oldest son, Daniel, went back to the Clark's Creek Farm in 1768.

It is thought that Sebastian married probably in Lancaster County Pennsylvania, where it is said he lived until 1750. He had a number of deeds in Rowan County from February 28, 1755 through 1755 on Clark's Creek, later in Lincoln County, now in Catawba County. A deed of July 22, 1775 shows Bostian and wife, Elizabeth Cline, Germans, let John Cline, all of Rowan County, have land.

Bostian was a tanner by occupation, certainly in 1771, by another Rowan deed, when he and his wife, Elizabeth let George Pope have land, part of the tract upon which Bostian lives at that time. He was also appointed Constable on February 7, 1772 in Rowan County.

He must have been well-educated since he always signed his name in a flowing German script. His will was written on December 27, 1791, and probated in April 1792 in Lincoln County.

Bostian and his wife Elizabeth had ten children, but the Clines in Cleveland County descend from his second son Christopher, who was born about 1740 in Pennsylvania and who was about ten years of age when he came to North Carolina with his parents. Christopher was married twice and the Clines in Cleveland descend from Christopher and his first wife Margaret Ramsour, and through their third son, David, born about 1769 and died January 1872, living to be 103 years old. David married Salome Carpenter, and the Cline lineage follows through their son John Klein I, who was the father of David Anderson Cline. (See related article on David Anderson Cline).

Sources: Lincoln County Library and Mr. Robert Gidney, County Historian.

— Mrs. Ambrose B. Cline

Arnold, Jesse and Eugene Kiser

was buried in Mountain Rest Cemetery, Kings Mountain. Jesse was employed in Marketing by Exxon Company and retired after 41 years of service.

On June 25, 1978, Jesse married Ethel M. Daniels of Raleigh and they now commute between Raleigh and Myrtle Beach homes.

Harvey Eugene Kiser was born June 28, 1903. He was graduated from the University of North Carolina Law School and practiced in Charlotte. He married Willie Holt Wiley June 28, 1933, but died soon afterwards on July 31, 1933, following a tonsilectomy.

Louis Arnold Kiser, born June 15, 1906, attended Oak Ridge and textile school in Philadelphia. He married Julia Wright Kiser of Ingold on May 23, 1931, and they had one son, Louis Arnold Kiser, Jr. ("Johnny"). Arnold was President of Sadie Cotton Mill and treasurer of St. Matthew's Lutheran Church and a member of Church Council, Kings Mountain. He promoted the establishment of Kings Mountain Hospital and served as Board Chairman until his death on April 30, 1966. He died in this hospital and was buried in Mountain Rest Cemetery. Julia taught in Lowell and Kings Mountain City Schools.

Their son, Louis Arnold Kiser, Jr. was born June 29, 1934 and graduated from State College in textiles. He married Lila Brent Haney on June 15, 1956. They had three children: Louis Arnold III, born September 7, 1960; Julia Brent born March 20, 1962, and Thomas Wright born January 8, 1965. The children now live in Cary with their mother.

On April 15, 1971 Louis Arnold Kiser, Jr.

married a second time to Victoria Jean Umstead, daughter of Mrs. Charles Lee Umstead and the late Mr. Umstead of Bahama, North Carolina. They now live in Bloomfield Hills, Michigan.

Mary Dorothy Kiser, born July 22, 1908, graduated from the University of North Carolina at Greensboro, and taught in Gaston County until retirement. She married William Miller Ford on August 6, 1936 (January 26, 1905 — August 27, 1977) and was buried in Edgewood Cemetery, Lowell. He worked in the office of Cramerton Mills until he retired.

Philip Larkin Ford, their only child, was born January 2, 1948 in Gastonia. He graduated from Belmont Abbey College. Now, Captain Philip Ford and his wife, Captain Marjel Lane Ford, of Arkansas, are in the United States Air Force and stationed in the Azores.

Lucy Ozell Kiser, born June 30, 1910, attended Lenoir Rhyne College and spent 38 years teaching in North Carolina Schools, mainly at Salisbury where she was "Teacher of the Year" in 1974. Lenoir Rhyne College honored her with the 1975 Distinguished Alumnus Award. Ozell married Glenn David Freeman of Rutherford County on April 12, 1941. Together they produced The History of North Carolina — "The Goodliest Land" which is now in the fourth edition over with 12,000 copies. Glenn, a graduate of the University of North Carolina, is now President of Isenhour-Freeman Insurance & Realty, Co., Inc. in Salisbury. Ozell recently retired.

Sources: Family Bible and family members.

— Glenn D. Freeman

JAMES PINKNEY LACKEY

691

Pinkney Lackey was born Aug. 9, 1847 in Cleveland County (d) 1930. He was the son of James Lackey and Rebecca Mauney.

He was married to Sarah Crouse (b) 1848 (d) 1924.

Pinkney was a veteran in the Civil War at age 18.

The original home was burned in 1915 but rebuilt the following year. The home still remains and is owned by his grandson, Rev. Jacob Lackey.

He was sheriff of Cleveland County. His prisoners were first taken to the justice of the peace and if they could not come to a verdict, then the prisoners were sent for trial in Shelby, North Carolina. Sometimes he would take them to his home to work out their fee.

Pinkney was an outstanding farmer. His farm products consisted of red clover, corn, cotton and truck farming. An outstanding orchard was productive almost the entire year. He also had one-hundred beehives which produced much honey for the families and neighbors. The additional honey was sold.

On the back porch was a dry well, a large box pulled by a windless, which kept the milk and butter cool at all times. Butter was made by a dasher churn.

He kept his married children's families in green coffee, which he bought in Louisiana. Each family was given a large bag to be parched and then ground in a coffee mill. The aroma could take any one hurriedly to the kitchen for a good meal.

He also bought sugar by the barrels. It was very sweet and delicious as it came from the sugar beets and was shipped from Louisiana.

One other prize that he gave each of his grandchildren was an Aladdin lamp. At that time there was no electricity in the country. This lamp gave a white light, just as our electricity does today. They were not only useful, but very beautiful.

Pinkney's transportation was by horse and buggy and he really enjoyed visiting families and friends and always had plenty of time. He was never without his corn cob pipe and a bag of smoking tobacco.

Grandmother was a small woman of stature. She was most kind and a loving person. She was a good housekeeper. She dressed neatly and her loving face was always an outstanding feature.

Each Sunday afternoon their children and families gave them a visit. It was a great joy for all the cousins to go to the creek where there was a large waterfall. It was fun but often we were chased by the cows to the wire fence.

Pinkney was a very humorous person. He enjoyed life to the fullest. He enjoyed telling jokes on people, especially if someone had "pulled" a joke on him. Once his minister, who also liked to joke with his members, told grandfather that if he held his hand on the window and he took his hand in his, he could feel a pain. The minister kept asking if he felt a pain. This questioning kept going on for so long, but Granddad never could feel a pain. Finally, the minister asked if he didn't feel the window pane? This was just too much for Granddad, so to get even he thought up a good prank to get on his pastor. Granddad told him that a lady was visiting a few days ago with a baby. The baby was playing on the porch with a bottle and while no one was being attentive, it fell off the porch and broke its neck. The pastor was so heartbroken and concerned that the baby had broken its neck. After all the sympathy that could be given by the pastor, my grandfather related that it was the bottle that fell and broke its neck. There are many more humorous stories I could relate, but with the lack of space, I cannot continue with more.

Pinkney and Sarah were faithful members of St. Luke Lutheran Church. He was one of the founders of the church, which was composed of former members of St. Mark's Lutheran Church.

Pinkney and Sarah are buried in St. Luke's Cemetery on St. Luke Road in Cleveland County.

The children of Pinkney and Sarah are: Rufus Lafayette 1875-1954, buried at St. Luke; John — 1880-1954, buried at Mountain Rest Cemetery, Kings Mountain; Mary Etta — 1878-1958, married to Lawrence Wolfe; Grover — 1884-1951, buried at St. Luke's Cemetery; Pearle — 1891-1975, married to Frank Stroup, buried in California.

There were four sisters and one brother in Pinkney's family. The brother lived most of his life near New Orleans, Louisiana.

My grandfather decided to attend the "Old Soldiers Reunion" which was held in Texas. My father was to take him to board the train in Kings Mountain. Granddad kept looking for something, so finally my Dad asked, "Have you lost something, Mr. Lackey?" Granddad said, "Yes, my pipe, I can't find my pipe." Dad said, "Do you have one besides the one you have in your mouth?" Grandpa remarked, "Oh! By golly! I can't see; I can't see."

Sources: Family Bible, family memories.

— Mrs. Raymond Mann
and Mary Pearl Wolfe

NORRIS DIXON LACKEY and FAMILY

692

Mary Louise Baley and Norris Dixon Lackey were married on May 31, 1931, in Spartanburg, South Carolina. Louise Baley, born to Ray Suttle and Lewis J. Baley on August 19, 1909, in Shelby, North Carolina, was reared and educated in Atlanta, Georgia. She was a graduate of the Girls High School in Atlanta and of the Atlanta Museum of Art. Her childhood summers were spent in Shelby at her mother's homeplace, where she met Norris Dixon Lackey. Born to Elizabeth Peeler and Robert Reid Lackey on July 28, 1909, in Fallston, North Carolina, Norris Lackey was educated at Rutherford College and Tennessee Wesleyan in Athens, Tennessee.

In September, 1936, Norris Lackey founded the firm of Norris Lackey Motors, a Chrysler-Plymouth dealership, which proved to be, at its retirement in 1962, the oldest automobile agency in Cleveland County under its original management. Having been involved in the field of residential real estate development for several years, he continued in this endeavor by developing the land which had been a portion of his father's farm located in the western part of Shelby. He served for many years as a member of the Board of Directors of Cleveland Savings and Loan Association.

Louise Lackey, in addition to being a wife, homemaker, and mother, made many valuable contributions to her community. She was a charter member of the Junior Charity League of Shelby and served as its president, devoting years of service to all charitable activities of this organization. An accomplished artist herself, she was instrumental in the founding of the Cleveland County Arts Council, which later became the Shelby Art League, an organization that she was especially devoted to. Louise Baley Lackey died on November 3, 1977.

There were three children born of this marriage and six grandchildren.

Norris Dixon Lackey, Jr. (Dick) was born April 21, 1932, in Shelby; graduated from the University of North Carolina in 1954, having been a member of the football team, and was graduated from the University of North Carolina Law School in 1957. He married Lou Hawley of Florence, South Carolina, a 1955 graduate of the University of North Carolina, on November 26, 1955.

He is in the law firm of Whisnant, Lackey, and Schweppe, in Shelby. Dick and Lou Lackey are the parents of four sons: Mark Dixon, born May 7, 1958, a graduate of University of North Carolina, and a student in the University of North Carolina School of Law; Miles Marsdon, born on November 20, 1959, a graduate of University of North Carolina; Kevin Suttle, born on October 30, 1962, a student at University of North Carolina; and Seth Norris, born on July 5, 1965, a student at Shelby High School.

Ray Elizabeth Lackey, born on March 1, 1938, is a graduate of Wake Forest University and University of North Carolina. She was married to Edwin Winston Williams on August 7, 1965, and lives in Johnson City, Tennessee. "Betsy" and Edwin have two sons: Timothy Yeates and Jonathan Dixon.

Louise Baley Lackey (Lea), born August 16, 1947; a graduate of Winthrop College, she was married to Timothy Zachmann in June, 1977. Lea and Timothy Zachmann live in Winston-Salem, where she teaches Art at Salem College.

Sources: Family records, Bible, newspapers.

— Lou H. Lackey

RUFUS LAFAYETTE (PHATE) LACKEY FAMILY

693

Our father, Lafayette (Phate) Lackey, was born in Cleveland County. He was the son of Pinkney and Sarah Crouse Lackey (b) 9/11/1875 (d) 11/16/1954.

He was married to Josephine Oates on Christmas Day 1898 at Cleveland County Court House, Shelby.

Lafayette was dressed in a blue suit, bow tie, and gold watch chain, which made an outstanding appearance. His bride Josephine wore a sky blue dress, high neck, trimmed in lace with pearl beads worked in a flower design.

Lafayette was teaching when they were married and continued until he resigned about 1905 to be a sales clerk in Kings Mountain, where the family moved and lived until 1913.

He was highly educated for that day and time and a firm believer that his children should be educated.

My mother Josephine was a perfect housekeeper and a wonderful cook. She was always ready to entertain friends with a bountiful table of food, and ready to entertain any number of houseguests at any time.

Since Mother's parents were elderly, they asked my parents to live with them and deeded them the home. Addison only lived three weeks and my grandmother three years after the move was made.

My father continued as a clerk, traveling back and forth each day. Mother wanted to remain in the country home so this was the decision they agreed upon.

There was plenty of land to be farmed. Even though the children were small they began to farm the land. With the help of a hired man, the farm produced well. Cotton was grown as a money crop, feed grown for the animals, and a garden to supply for the family.

The house chores were given to each member of the family. Wood was to be cut, animals to feed, cows to be milked and water to be carried up a steep hill from a spring.

Transportation was by walking, bicycles, or horse and buggy. Later by a T-Model Ford.

My family were members of St. Luke's Lutheran Church. This was a country church with few family members. We held joint services with St. Matthew's in Kings Mountain, as we were not a large congregation. Each family visited in the homes of other families and the pastor always had a good meal with his congregation. During World War II the church was disbanded in 1945 and went into the congregation with St. Matthew's in Kings Mountain.

My school life began in a small country school near St. Luke's Church. It had two rooms and two teachers. I was in the primary room. We had to walk two miles to school. It was walk in all kinds of weather, whether it was rain, hail, or snow. No one missed a day of school unless very ill. The school term was only six months during the year.

Water for drinking at the school was carried from a home nearby with a spring. Lunches were taken in lunch boxes or baskets, as there were no lunch rooms.

My education continued in Waco High School. We were transported to and from school by bus.

Lenoir Rhyne College was my next venture in education. I entered during the depression years. These were desperate years to attend college, but since no one had money and only economical clothing, we were all in the same "boat" and all thankful for a chance to be educated.

I began a teaching career after receiving my degree. Phate and Josephine had five children and each chose his own career in life. Charles chose teaching and principal in high school. Carrye, also teaching. James, a good farmer as he enjoyed the outdoor life and nature. Jacob, the youngest son, a minister.

My wedding day was a day to be remembered, not only for our vows as husband and wife, but for all the wedding party and guests. Of all the days for it, snow was on Christmas Day 1947, on the day Raymond Mann and I had set for our wedding date. Most of the bridesmaids, maid of honor, and even the best man were stranded on the way and were not able to reach Kings Mountain. Even the groom found it most difficult getting from Charlotte, but declared he would have made it if he would have walked in snow to his waist. Even the bride, myself, had to travel eight miles in snow to the church, which was also very difficult. Fortunately the minister, my brother, whom we had chosen to perform our wedding service, finally made the trip with much difficulty with his wife who was also a bridesmaid. We were overjoyed, even though my pastor was standing by to have the wedding service.

We filled in the wedding party, with the exception of the matron of honor, and all things went well. We were married on the scheduled hour.

Telegrams began arriving asking we set a later date for our wedding, but we were married when they were received, and besides, all that seemed to matter to us was we had taken the vows of marriage and had become husband and wife.

I have so many humorous events that happened in my family, which I wish so much that I could relate, but I am given only a limited space in the historical book.

Sources: Family records and events remembered by the family and myself.

— Mrs. Raymond Mann

William Dixon Lackey, 1857-1928

WILLIAM DIXON LACKEY and DESCENDANTS

694

William Dixon Lackey, son of Jacob Cline Lackey and Martha Love Falls was born August 11, 1857 two miles northwest of Fallston N.C. His great-great grandfather, James Samuel Lackey is believed to have been born in Ireland approximately 1770. James Samuel Lackey and his wife, Jane Winters had eleven children according to the 1820 census of Lincoln County N.C. One of these children, Samuel Lackey, was born in Cleveland County in 1796. He and his wife, Sarah Cline Lackey are both buried at Knob Creek Methodist Church near Belwood in Cleveland County. Among their eight children was Jacob Cline Lackey born March 11, 1827 in Cleveland County. He married Martha Love Falls and they had four children: Samuel Pinkney, John Alexander, Sarah E. and William Dixon. Jacob Cline lived his entire life in the Fallston area except for the time he spent in the Confederate States Army. He enlisted in March, 1862. The company muster roll for September and October 1864, the last on file, shows him present. He was wounded twice; first, severely, at Gettysburg, shot through the ankle; the second wound, shot through the wrist, engagement not known. Union prisoner of war records show he was captured April 2, 1865 at Hatcher's Run; imprisoned at Point Lookout, Maryland seven days before the surrender on April 9, 1865. He was released on June 28, 1865, arriving home July 4, 1865 after having walked from Cape Lookout. He and his wife, Martha Love are buried in a private cemetery near Fallston, N.C.

When William Dixon Lackey was 12 years old, he moved with his parents, brothers and sister to the county home in the Fallston area where his father kept the home for four years. He helped his father farm and went to school at Cleveland Springs. When they moved back to upper Cleveland County, he went to various schools; Muddy Fork Academy, Rutherford College and a part of one year at the State University. In May 1879, he hired to his grandfather, J.F. Falls Sr. of Double Shoals, to work in the store as a salesman at a salary of $150.00 per year. At the end of the year, he had saved $135.00, only spending $15.00 for clothing, etc. On November 17, 1881 he married Harriet Hessentine Bridges of Boiling Springs, N.C. He continued to work in the store at Double Shoals until 1885 when they moved to Fallston, N.C., built a house and went in the mercantile business, forming a partnership with the Stamey Brothers. After about 3 years, he sold his partnership and went into the fertilizer business, ginning and buying cotton and farming.

William Dixon Lackey and Harriet had five children. Johnnie Lee born September 29, 1883 in Fallston N.C. She married Charles Young and they had two children, Thelma who married Lowery Suttle, and Reid M.

Jessie Lawrence Lackey, born May 17 1885 in Fallston N.C., married Letty Matilda McBrayer and they had three children; William Dixon who married Lillian Zimmerman. They had three sons: Harriet Isabel who married Curtis P. Moser and they had one daughter and Lawrence Evans, who married Mary Frances Irvin and they had one daughter and three sons.

Robert Reid Lackey was born April 22 1887. He married Margaret Elizabeth Peeler and they had five children; Norris Dixon who married Louise Baley. They had two sons and two daughters. Larue Lackey who never married; Hester Lee who married Roy T. Belcher and they had three daughters and two sons. Robert Reid, Jr. who married Helen Irene Barnett and they had one son and one daughter and Rose Elizabeth who married James B. Hamrick and they had one daughter.

Fuschia Annie Love Lackey, born September 21, 1891 in Fallston, N.C. She married Dr. Franklin Lackey and they had one daughter and two sons.

Charles Cline Lackey was born April 14, 1896 and he married Viola Chandler and they had one daughter.

In 1914, William Dixon Lackey was elected Sheriff of Cleveland County and he and his wife moved to Shelby, N.C. where he was re-elected Sheriff in 1916. He served as Chairman of the Cleveland County Board of Commissioners when the artesian well was bored on the square of the Courthouse in Shelby. The structure over the fountain was open on all four sides until many years later when it was inclosed and made into offices. He was one of the organizers of The Cleveland Savings and Loan and was its first secretary. He was elected Mayor of Shelby in 1923 and served through 1925. While he was Mayor he was called "The Sidewalk Mayor" because he was the instigator in constructing sidewalks in the residential part of town. Harriet Hessentine Lackey died March 25, 1924 while he was still Mayor. William Dixon Lackey died January 23, 1928 and they are both buried at Sunset Cemetery in Shelby, N.C.

Sources: The Cleveland Star, Shelby, N.C. Dated: October 1916, The Book of The Lackey Descendants

— Elizabeth Lackey Hamrick

THE AUDLEY MARTIN LATTIMORE FAMILY

695

Audley Martin Lattimore is a descendant of the pioneer John Lattimore of English origin, who sailed from Ireland to Philadelphia, about 1690. He (John) was the youngest of three brothers. He settled in Virginia, and married Isabel Frazier and had six children, three sons and three daughters.

His son John born 1745, had red hair and blue eyes. He died March 12, 1821. He married Jamima Stockton and they had three children, namely: John (known as red-headed John), Daniel and Rachel.

This John was born in Virginia. He was called Captain John, a Revolutionary soldier. He served in the battle of Kings Mountain during the Revolutionary war, but is listed as a private. Following the war, he settled near Kings Mountain Battleground, and several years later settled on Hinton's Creek in Rutherford County, North Carolina, (now Cleveland

Mary Jane Hamrick Lattimore (1849-1914), and Audley Martin Lattimore (1845-1931). Married February 25, 1869.

County) where he reared a family of three children. He was buried on his own farm under a small tree. He was first to be buried in what is now the Lattimore Family Cemetery.

Captain John Lattimore's son Big John was born October 16, 1781. He married Jamima McEntire. They had no children, she died and was buried in Zion Baptist Church Cemetery. His second marriage was to Isabel Carson and they had nine sons and two daughters, eleven in all.

Audley Martin Lattimore was the tenth of the above eleven children of Big John. He was born November 30, 1845. He married Mary Jane Hamrick, born June 1, 1849. She was a daughter of Wright and Ellen Peeler Hamrick. They were married February 25, 1869. They had seven children; four boys: Pink, Thomas, Broadus and Festus; and three girls: Ellie, Addie and Susan.

The nine brothers, children of Big John, namely William, Joe C., Dan, Little Johnie, Jim, Sam, Frank, Tom and Captain Audley Martin (youngest) all served in the Civil War as Confederate soldiers.

Audley Martin Lattimore was only seventeen years of age. He was made leader of a group of young soldiers. He was a member of Company C, 10th Artillery, Poague's Battalion. His group of soldiers marched to the front in January 1864. His service was around Richmond and Petersburg, Virginia, in the last fifteen months of the conflict.

He came home April 21, 1865 and soon married. He helped to rebuild a devastated section that finally became the Town of Lattimore, in Cleveland County. He was Commander of Cleveland County Confederate Veterans, Pension Board Chairman, and a civic leader in general. He attended the Confederate Soldiers reunions as long as he was able. He enjoyed talking about the war. I have visited in his home many times and heard him talk about the war. He was my grandfather and I enjoyed hearing him talk. The town of Lattimore was named for Captain Audley Martin Lattimore and brother Jim. Both settled after the war where the town is now located. Jim later moved to Rutherford County to live.

In his senior years Audley Martin Lattimore was better known as Uncle Edley by his many friends both young and old. He had a jovial spirit and loved his friends. Besides being a farmer, he was the first depot agent when the railroads came, and was named first mayor of the town. His favorite sport was hunting.

He was a Baptist, a deacon, a Sunday School teacher and Sunday School Superintendent. He loved to sing.

His children were all very devoted to him, and when his wife died at an early age, March 4, 1914, his oldest daughter, Ellie, born January 8, 1870 who never married, took on the responsibility of the home. Joseph Pinkney Lattimore, born March 21, 1871, the oldest son, never married and the two lived at, and kept the homeplace going the rest of their lives.

John Broadus Lattimore, born May 24, 1877 married Sunie Macie Jones, born December 30, 1885, daughter of John Alexander Jones who married Mary Jane Jolley, daughter of Jim and Salina Humphries Jolley. Thomas Jefferson Lattimore, born January 29, 1879, married Nellie Fitzpatrick of Georgia. William Festus Lattimore, born August 23, 1881, youngest son married Margaret Martin of Bostic, North Carolina. Sarah Addie Lattimore, born December 29, 1873 married Alonzo M. Hamrick and lived in Shelby, North Carolina. Susan Lattimore married Dr. L. Victor Lee and lived in Lattimore.

Uncle Edley, as he was better known, lived to be eighty-six years old. He died October 25, 1931, and is buried in the Lattimore Baptist Church Cemetery, Lattimore, North Carolina. His funeral services were conducted by Reverend Rush Padgett, his pastor assisted by Rev. I.D. Harrill and Dr. Zeno Wall. A large crowd attended for Mr. Lattimore was one of the county's noblest veterans and most beloved citizens, widely connected by kinship and friendship.

Sources: Family Bible of A.M. Lattimore; Shelby Daily Star (obituary write-up); History of The Lattimore Family in Cleveland County (P. Cleveland Gardner — August 1939); The Hamrick Generations — Written by S.C. Jones, Shelby, N.C. (1920) Edwards & Broughton Printing Company Raleigh, North Carolina; and personal remembrances.

— Mary Agnes Lattimore

THE JOHN BROADUS LATTIMORE FAMILY

696

John Broadus Lattimore is a son of Audley Martin and Mary Jane Hamrick Lattimore. He was born May 24, 1877, on Hilton's Creek in Cleveland County. Around 1880, when he was three years old, his family moved to the territory known now as the town of Lattimore, North Carolina. He had three brothers, namely: Joseph Pinkney, born March 21, 1871; Thomas Jefferson, born January 29, 1879; and William Festus, born August 23, 1881; and three sisters: Ellie (Elmina), born January 8, 1870; Sarah Adda, born December 29, 1873; Susan Ceora, born January 22, 1875.

John married Sunie Macie Jones, January 2, 1906. They were married at her home by Reverend A.C. Irvin. They had four children as follows: Margaret Salina, born October 17, 1906; Virginia Ruth, born March 25, 1909; and Mary Agnes, born August 18, 1911. Also one son, Thomas Alexander, born August 26, 1914. The girls never married. Thomas Alexander married Mary Frances Warlick, July 13, 1940. They have three children: John Broadus II born February 6, 1942, Martha Warlick, born February 6, 1945, and Thomas Alexander, Jr., born December 1950.

The oldest son, John Broadus, was married twice. His first marriage was to Joan Cline, daughter of Ed and Joan Cline, and they had one son, John Edley Lattimore. His second marriage was to Mildred Frey Weathers, daughter of Rufus Yancey and Mary Frances Weathers. They had two boys, Alexander Yancy and William Lee Lattimore.

The home of John Broadus (he was called Broad) is in the town of Lattimore, North Carolina. He was active in the civic life of the community and county of Cleveland. He followed in the footsteps of his father becoming second mayor of the town. He also became Seaboard depot agent following his dad. He was a farmer, a lumber and brick manufacturer. He also taught school in his earlier years before marriage. He taught at Cabiness school, Lattimore school, and Bostic, N.C. school. He was always interested in helping to improve the town of Lattimore. He was in the lumber business with his brothers Pink, Tom and Festus for several years and owned a brick company, manufacturing brick for forty years. He was general manager, secretary and treasurer of the company.

He owned a large farm worked by tenants and grew cotton, corn, wheat and oats. He was a Baptist and always interested in church work. He was on the building committee when the present brick church building was built. He was proud of it. He was a mason, a member of Mooresboro Lodge, a director of Alexander Mills in Rutherford County, and a first director in the Cleveland County Fair Association.

Mr. Broad, as he was called, was the last of his family to pass. He lived to be ninety-two years of age. He was very active until the last year of his life. He died July 2, 1969 and his funeral was at Lattimore Baptist Church by Rev. James P. Wass, Pastor, Rev. Hugh Harrill, Rev. C.C. Crow, and Dr. M. Van Murrell. (July 4, 1969). He died in Rutherford Hospital. Mrs. Lattimore died two years later March 8, 1971 at Shelby Memorial Hospital. She was eighty-five years old.

Sources: Family Bible (J.B. Lattimore) Daily Star, Obituary write-ups. My personal knowledge — Mary Agnes Lattimore (daughter)

— Mary Agnes Lattimore

Daniel Dobbins Lattimore, County Commissioner 1941-1949

DANILE DOBBINS LATTIMORE

697

Hanging on the wall of my parent's home is a deed dated 1854 from John Lattimore to his son, Daniel Dobbins Lattimore, (b. 1818 — d. 1904), giving him the land on which our house and part of the surrounding farm stands. This house was built by my grandfather, Danile Dobbins Lattimore, II called Mr. Dobb by those who knew and respected him.

Mr. Dobb, the youngest son of Walter S. and Rachel Packard Lattimore, was born in 1891, on the home place that had been his fathers and grandfathers, he was raised in the house his grandfather built in the 1940's.

As a young boy he worked on the family farm, but decided to further his education beyond the one room school of the day. As a result, he attended Boiling Springs School. An interest in teaching must have been sparked by his experience at school because he decided to become a teacher.

After teaching for several years, he married another teacher, Blanche Gold, on September 20, 1922, soon after this he gave up teaching and began work on the farm. In 1933 they were blessed with the arrival of their first and only son, Daniel Gold Lattimore, my father. In 1935 a daughter Nancy Frances was born.

Mr. Dobbs service to the community didn't end when he gave up teaching for farming. He recognized the growing need for electricity in the rural area and set out to improve the situation. He was instrumental in the formation of the Rutherfordton Electric Membership Corp. and served on its board of directors from the organization formation in 1938, in 1940 he became a county commissioner. He served at this for eight years, at which time he resumed his position with REMC which he held until his death in 1965. He was a deacon in Big Springs Baptist Church, also serving on the church building committee.

— Mrs. Beth Lattimore

John Broadus Lattimore, 1877-1969

Sunie Jones Lattimore, 1885-1971.

DR. EVERETT BEAM LATTIMORE

698

Born near Double Shoals on December 20, 1873, Everett Beam Lattimore was one of the seven children of Matilda Beam and Thomas D. Lattimore. The family moved to Shelby, and Dr. Lattimore was educated in the public schools and at Captain Bell's Military Academy on West Marion Street. He graduated from Wake Forest College in 1893 at age nineteen, being the youngest graduate of that institution up to that time. He then attended the North Carolina Medical College at Davidson and went on to Bellevue Hospital Medical College in New York City, receiving his degree as Doctor of Medicine in 1897. He became one of the first licensed doctors in Cleveland County when his father, then Clerk of Court, signed his license to practice.

After a year in Red Springs, Dr. Lattimore returned to Cleveland County, where he practiced for the next sixty years. He began his local practice in Lawndale. In 1901 when he married Sue Brevard, daughter of John D. Brevard of Shelby and Asheville, a special run of the "Lawndale dummy" (train) brought friends and relatives from the upper part of the county to the wedding at First Baptist Church in Shelby. The couple lived in Lawndale for a few years, and their first child, Matilda Lattimore, was born there in 1902. The Lattimores moved to Shelby, and their son, Brevard Lattimore, was born in 1904.

During the first seventeen years of practice, Dr. Lattimore made calls all over Cleveland County in a horse and buggy. Often he would fall asleep on the way back, trusting that the horse knew the way home. In the flu epidemic of 1918 he often went for days with no more sleep than he got this way. People would see him at a neighbor's house and get him to come to theirs. From years of this type practice he knew who lived in most homes around the county. Always a great story-teller, some of his best were about horse and buggy days and local "characters."

Owning one of the early cars in the county was a tremendous help in his practice. Long after the coming of the automobile, however, his love of horses remained. His one hobby and recreation was horseback riding, where he cut a fine figure in the saddle into his eightieth year.

During World Wars I and II he served as Medical Examiner for the Draft Boards of Cleveland County. In 1923 he was one of the doctors who helped start Cleveland Memorial Hospital. In 1925 he helped organize the Cleveland County Fair Association and served as a director for many years. He was a charter member and past president of the Shelby Kiwanis Club. He was a charter director of the Cleveland Savings and Loan Association. He was a member of the local, state, and national medical associations. He was a lifelong member of First Baptist Church in Shelby and served as a deacon.

In 1949 "Dr. Lattimore Day" was held at the Cleveland County Fair, and many of the more than three thousand "Lattimore babies" attended to pay tribute to the doctor who delivered them. Included in these babies were twenty-two sets of twins and four generations of several families. In 1950 Dr. Lattimore was named North Carolina's "Doctor of the Year" and was runner-up for Nation's General Practitioner Award the same year at the American Medical Association's Convention.

Dr. E.B. Lattimore

Probably the honor that would most gratify Dr. Lattimore was being voted in 1976 as one of the county's Ten Leading Citizens when the Cleveland County Historical Museum opened.

Dr. Lattimore died at ninety in 1964, and Mrs. Lattimore in 1975. They are buried in Sunset Cemetery. Their daughter, Matilda (Mrs. R.W. Morris), died in 1954, leaving one daughter, Sue Brevard Morris (Mrs. Alton Hopper, Jr. of Charlotte). Their son, Brevard Lattimore, died in 1976, leaving two sons and a daughter (Charles Lattimore of Dayton, Ohio; Everett Lattimore of Cheriton, Virginia; and Olivia Lattimore Buck of Mechanicsville, Virginia).

Matilda Lattimore Morris (see Roy W. Morris) was born June 24, 1902 at Lawndale to Dr. Everett Beam and Sue Brevard Lattimore. She graduated from Shelby High, the University of North Carolina-Greensboro, and received a Master's degree at Columbia University in New York. An exceptional history teacher, she was involved in all cultural activities in Shelby and led in organizing the Contemporary Book Club and the American Association of University Women. She was married to Roy Wilson Morris in 1928 and had one daughter, Sue Brevard Morris. She was a member of Central Methodist Church at the time of her death, January 14, 1954. She was buried at Sunset Cemetery, Shelby.

Sources: Cleveland Star, October 1916, Shelby Daily Star, June 15, 1964, Ibid.

— Sue Morris Hopper

FRANCIS (FRANK) LATTIMORE A BRANCH OF LATTIMORE FAMILY TREE

699

A search of the Confederate Military records in the Army archives shows the records of Francis Lattimore, (later known as "Frank") a private of Company of 34th Regiment, North Carolina Infantry, Confederate States Army, enlisted 20 April 1864 at Camp Holmes, North Carolina. Union prisoner of war records show that he was captured 2 April 1865 at Petersburg, Virginia and imprisoned at Point Lookout, Maryland, where he was released 29 June 1865 on taking the oath of Allegiance to the United States. His residence at that time was stated as Cleveland County, North Carolina. Francis (Frank) was one of the nine sons of Big John Lattimore and Isabel Carson Lattimore. Records show that all the sons served in the Confederate Army. There were also two daughters in this large family.

Frank Lattimore was the eighth child and he married Edith Chitwood, a daughter of William Chitwood and Sarah Magness Chitwood. Their children were: Georgia E. born December 12, 1874, married Rev. I. D. Harrill, and had three children. Marion C. born July 8, 1876, died at sixteen with pneumonia and is buried in Lattimore Family Cemetery near the first John's old homeplace. Jessie R. born December 24, 1877, died at two years of age. Mattie L. was born April 10, 1879, she remained single and faithful to her family until her death at fifty-seven years.

Alpha E. was born February 20, 1881. He went west with relatives and married Clifford Bullard. They made their home in Kansas City, Mo. They had two daughters. Edley M. was born November 21, 1882. He married Bessie Cabaness and they lived in the Zion Community. Sarah I. was born October 30, 1884. She remained single and lived eighty four years, dedicating her life to her loved ones.

The next child born to Frank and Edith died soon after birth. Ray L. was born April 24, 1887, married Frank Stephenson in Kansas City, Mo. and lived there a number of years. In 1940 they moved to Shelby, N.C. They had no children.

Franklin Bruce, born August 16, 1889, married Blanche Burns of Ellenboro, North Carolina. They had two daughters. He was a veteran of World War I, serving in the Rainbow Division.

Margaret J., born March 11, 1892, married Dr. H.R. Sherrill lived in Shelby. William C., born June 27, 1893, married Sarah Alpha Elliott, had one son. Will was in World War I, and was overseas. Because of serious illness he was never sent to the Front.

Guy, the youngest in this family, was born July 24, 1895. He married Gertrude Burnette of Callison, S.C. whom he met at Piedmont School in Lawndale, N.C. They had three sons and one daughter. Their family is: (a) William Audley, who married Beverly Smith of Memphis, Tenn. A son, Robert Franklin, was born. They divorced and later he married Cecelia Reynolds of New Orleans, and had a son Hubert Reynolds. Several years later they were divorced and she left the State carrying their son to an unknown destination. He married Ann Cofer Logan of Winston Salem. A daughter was born of this union, Billie Ann Lattimore. They live in Winston-Salem.

(b) Marion Everette, married Doris Ann Godbey. They live in Marshall, Texas and have three sons and a daughter. Melissa Ann, Guy Michael, Joe Godbey and John Kenneth. (c) Phyllis Ray married William Rodney Roberts. They had a son and two daughters. William Rodney Jr., Alice Lynn, and Jayne Elizabeth.

(d) Franklin Chitwood married Ann Randall. They have two daughters and a son. (1) Susan Lee married Dale Leonard Beaver, and they have a daughter, Erin Elizabeth and a son Adam Curtis. They live in Shelby. (2) Phyllis Ann married Charles Ronald Howard. They had a son Charles Ronald, deceased at birth. A daughter Adraine Leigh, lives in Clyde, N.C. (3) Son Franklin Chitwood Lattimore Jr.

— Mrs. Guy Lattimore

THE SAMUEL NELSON and LOLLIE MAY DOGGETT LATTIMORE FAMILY

700

Samuel Nelson Lattimore (Aug. 1, 1881 — Aug. 13, 1936) and Lollie May Doggett were married in Shelby on April 10, 1907. Nelson Lattimore attended North Carolina State Agricultural and Mechanical College (now North Carolina State University) and played on the football team. He and his father, Thomas D. Lattimore, operated the Buffalo Mill a few miles from Shelby. Nelson was exceptionally gifted in understanding mechanics and engineering and gained some recognition as an inventor, having invented a spark intensifier which caused automobiles to start quicker. Always interested in the new and innovative, he was a salesman for one of the first stokers for coal-fired furnaces and for one of the first bread wrapping machines. He was a member of First Baptist Church. Perhaps his greatest contribution to the community was in serving as coach of the baseball and football teams for young people.

Lollie May Doggett Lattimore was active in church and community affairs. She was superintendent of the nursery department of the Sunday School of First Baptist Church for 20 years and taught in the children's departments for 40 more years. She was a member of the Shelby Library Board; was a charter member of the Shelby Woman's Club; and was an active member of the Cleveland Guards Chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy. After her children were grown she enrolled in a business course, where she earned a diploma and made excellent grades, an unusual accomplishment in that day. She worked for a number of years in the office of the Cleveland County Fair, serving as secretary to Dr. J.S. Dorton and she was in charge of exhibits. During World War II she operated a cannery where people from the county brought their produce to can under her supervision.

S. Nelson and Lollie May Doggett Lattimore had three children:

Charles Thomas Lattimore Feb. 29, 1908; Samuel Nelson (Bill) Lattimore, Jr. June 23, 1910 — June 7, 1980; and Laura May Lattimore Nov. 1, 1914.

Charles Thomas Lattimore is now living in Tucson, Arizona. He served in the Remount in World War II training mules to be shipped to the mountains of Italy. Because of the mountainous terrain, the mules were essential in the campaign. Charlie married Nina Lopez-Mena on December 15, 1948. He taught horseback riding and operated a ranch. For years he was grand marshal for the Fourth of July parade in the City of Tucson. He also worked in movies. Charlie and Nina Lattimore have one son, Charles Thomas Lattimore, Jr. July 19, 1949, who is married to the former Linda Harkins. He has two sons, Brian and Jason. Tom owns and operates a welding service in Tucson.

Samuel Nelson (Bill) Lattimore, Jr., (June 23, 1910 — June 7, 1980). Bill served in World War II in the infantry from 1941 to 1946. He was in the European theatre and attained the rank of Master Sergeant. He married Lela Mae Smith Ragan of Gastonia, North Carolina, on June 23, 1950. Bill worked for Esso Standard Oil Company and for the North Carolina State Highway Department. He was a member of First Baptist Church, American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Disabled American Veterans, and was a charter member of the Elks Club.

Lela Mae Lattimore was chief operator for Southern Bell Telephone Company in Shelby for twenty years until her retirement. She was president of the Business and Professional Women's Club for two years. She is a member of First Baptist Church and the Dorcas Sunday School Class.

Laura May Lattimore b. Nov. 1, 1914 attended the Woman's College of the University of North Carolina (now University of North Carolina at Greensboro) and worked on the staff of the University for forty-five years until her retirement in 1980. She worked in several departments and was administrative assistant in physical plant when she retired.

May Lattimore married William Glenn Adams (July 10, 1893 — Aug. 21, 1975) of Greensboro, North Carolina, on January 23, 1943. They were married in Shelby, North Carolina. Both May and Glenn have been active in Sunday School and First Baptist Church in Greensboro. Glenn was the first man in the church to serve in a nursery department of the Sunday School. May was director of a pre-school department in Sunday School for a number of years. She is now a member of the finance committee of the church and is a deacon, having been one of the first four women elected to that office in the church.

Glenn was a perfectionist in his work with Burlington Industries and in his hobbies of gardening and horticulture. He enjoyed sharing vegetables and flowers with friends and neighbors. He enjoyed hunting and fishing and owned and raised hunting dogs. He was a member of Guilford Lodge No. 656, Ancient Free and Accepted Masons and received a twenty-five year membership award.

May Adams is active in the work of Pilot

Remember . . .

Articles
Are Indexed
By
Article Numbers
. . . Not By
Page
Number

Club International, having served in every office in her local club. She has served on and chaired committees at the district level.

Glenn and May Adams have one son, William Glenn Adams, Jr., born April 3, 1946. Bill is a graduate of North Carolina State University and is living in Millington, New Jersey. He is operations oil manager and chemical engineer with Proctor and Gamble Company in Staten Island, New York. On July 28, 1973, he married Florence Raye Tubbs, born September 19, 1949, of Jackson, Tennessee. She is computer systems analyst for Warner-Lambert Company in Morris, Plains, New Jersey.

Sources: Family Bible, A History of First Baptist Church, Shelby, North Carolina, personal knowledge and memories

— May Lattimore Adams

THE THOMAS D. LATTIMORE FAMILY

701

T.D. Lattimore was born November 25, 1843. He was the son of "Big John" Lattimore, said to be "a giant in height, size and strength," and Isabelle Carson Lattimore, and the great, great grandson of the pioneer settler of English origin, John Lattimore and Isabelle Frazier. The Lattimores are of German, Scotch-Irish, and English heritage. In 1871, Tom Lattimore was married to Lettie Matilda Beam, daughter of Joshua Beam and Susan Abeline Heavner, and granddaughter of John Teter Beam, pioneer from Germany.

Tom was a veteran of the Civil War where he was a lieutenant of Company F in the 34th regiment in the General Pender-Scales Brigade. He wrote the history of his regiment for Clark's History of the Civil War. He was a popular and efficient Clerk of Superior Court of Cleveland County for twenty-two years. He was one of the leaders in the religious, social, and political life of the county, serving twenty-five years as superintendent of the First Baptist Church Sunday School, and nearly as long as treasurer of the King's Mountain Association.

"Tildy," as Mrs. Lattimore was lovingly called, was known for her kindness to others and her ability to cook — and share what she cooked. At Christmas many families all over Shelby knew they would receive, in a carton, slices of a large variety of cakes she had baked. Neither did she ever forget the delivery boy nor anyone working for her in any way.

This couple had seven children: Hattie Lee (June 23, 1872 — March 28, 1938) — see W.B. Nix family; Everett Beam (December 20, 1873 — 1964) — see E.B. Lattimore Family report.

The third child was John Joshua (October 4, 1875 — 1960). He was a bookkeeper most of his life. He married Mamie Cabiness October 31, 1900, and they had one daughter, Mary Helen (January 31, 1905), who was an exceptionally gifted pianist. She married A.O. (Red) Dellinger and after a divorce, Heath Pemberton.

Wade Stough was the fourth child (September 6, 1877 — April 23, 1896). He was drowned at Stice's Shoal while attending a Sunday School picnic.

The next son was Thomas William (August 16, 1879 — July 3, 1945) who married Mabel Joseph from Virginia, (1878-1953). Tom was a salesman for Shelton-Williams, Charlotte, and later (1911) manager for City Shoe Store in Shelby. After that he was a partner in the Nix-Lattimore merchantile business. The last place he worked was for Belk-Stevens. The thing most remembered about Mabel is her great fear of electric storms. During a storm she would cry and rock and pray. Provoked at this, Everett asked her if she had never heard that lightning never struck the same house twice? She answered, "Yes, yes" and continued crying, rocking, and praying. Everett, trying to calm her (?) said, "Well, do calm down. This house has been struck seven times."

Samuel Nelson, the next child (August 1, 1881 — August 13, 1936) is reported under the Charles R. Doggett family.

The youngest child, Susan Pearl (June 2, 1883 — May 3, 1952) was loved for her good humor, thoughtfulness and kindness to others. She loved to cook and share her "goodies." She married John Yancy Irvin (December 8, 1874 — July 19, 1968) who graduated from Wake Forest College in 1900. He was active in school work all his adult life. He was Cleveland County Superintendent, Superintendent of the Kings Mountain School system, and then taught mathematics at Shelby High School — very successfully, to say the least. Pearl and John had one son, John Y. Irvin, Jr. (February 6, 1936) who worked in the grocery business. He married Eugelia Cabiness and they had one son Stephan Terry (September 9, 1940).

Thomas D. Lattimore died September 15, 1911, and is buried in Sunset Cemetery in Shelby. His wife Matilda died May 15, 1923, and is buried by her husband.

Sources: Family Bible, Shelby Daily Star, Family History

— Rosalynd Nix Gilliatt

EVIE SPANGLER LAUGHLIN

702

At the age of nineteen, Lea Evaline Spangler married Rufin Clifton Laughlin, age twenty-five. Evie was born and grew up in the Double Shoals Community of Cleveland County, North Carolina. She was born April 22, 1896, the fifth child of A. Dick Spangler and Patience Green Spangler. Clift also was born and grew up in the Double Shoals Community within a mile of Evie's home. Clift, born June 26, 1890, was the son of Frank Laughlin and Julia Eskridge Laughlin. Clift and Evie lived with Clift's parents for several years after they were married — their three oldest children were born there. Then they moved toward town, first living just outside the city limits on what is now North Lafayette Street, then moved out toward Highway 74 for a year and returned to the house on North Lafayette Street just a short piece from Hopper Park Bridge and made their home there for some fifty plus years.

Clift worked for the City of Shelby until his retirement and Evie was a housewife. Their fifty-seven years of marriage brought five children — four sons and one daughter.

Reid Laughlin, born January 21, 1917, married Nell Thurman. They live in Atlanta, Georgia and have one child, Jerry and three grandchildren — Lisa, Kimberly and Jerry Laughlin.

Alton Laughlin, born May 11, 1920, married Peggy Welch. They live in California and have three children and two grandchildren. Children: Wayne Thomas who has two children — Tracy and Martie. Patricia Laughlin, single and Mary Ellen Laughlin, single.

Wayne Laughlin, born August 28, 1924, married Julie Bostic. They have two children — Ronnie and Gary. Ronnie has two girls — Julie and Kathy. Gary has one child — Kelly.

Geneva Laughlin, born June 18, 1929, married Johnny McCoy. She died in 1957.

Ben Laughlin, born February 11, 1934, married Alice Henderson. They live in Georgia and have two children — Steven and Daniel Laughlin.

After moving to town, Clift and Evie joined First Baptist Church where Evie still goes. Clift died December 21, 1972 and is buried in Sunset Cemetery, Shelby. Evie still makes her home on North Lafayette Street, where a sister lives with her.

Sources: personal knowledge, family Bible

— Theresa Lowe

Thomas D. and Matilda Beam Lattimore

GRADY LAWRENCE

703

Grady Lawrence moved to Cleveland County, (Shelby N.C.) in October 1924, from Athens, Georgia.

He was born to Nathan Lawrence and Eula Barrow Lawrence on January 17, 1910. He was one of four children born in Athens, Ga., and one of eight, that never once left Cleveland County to make any other place home. His family later moved on to West Virginia to raise tobacco, still seeking their fortune. Grady refused to go. He made Cleveland County his home the first day he arrived.

On December 23, 1939, he married Lillie Bell Ruff (Emma). They farmed and Grady worked with the Highway Commission.

In 1944, they moved to James Turner's farm in Belwood, N.C., where their first child was born Shirley Mae, on March 30, 1945. Their second child was born eight years later, her name is Susie Mae, born August 20, 1948. Grady then moved his family to Debro Peeler's farm behind Kadash Church, where he worked as a farmer, hog killer, and wood cutter. His hobbies were making pop guns and sling shots.

Later our small family gained two new members, one sister and one brother. Alice Faye was born April 20, 1950, and Grady Jr. was born January 15, 1952. We then moved to Roscoe Guy Dixon's farm where another new member was added, born on June 18, 1954. His name was David Guy. He was named Guy after Mr. Roscoe.

We then moved to George Martain's farm in 1958, there the last child was born on December 3, 1958. Her name was Gerda Ann.

Daddy describes these as the best years of his life.

On this farm it was said that Emick Norman had buried ten dollars in gold pieces. We were always digging wherever we had cotton or a garden, searching for the gold pieces, that we never found. It was here we spotted a bear down near an old chimney, but it was frightened away by our dogs. We were sure it was a bear and later it was named as the Sugar Hill bear.

Daddy is now buying a brick home which is located on Kadash Church Road. This is home for all of us because we have talked so much about the good times in those woods behind Kadash Church.

He is retired now but yet continues working everyday of his life, except Sunday.

His hobbies today are whittling, making ax handles, making wind mills, cutting wood and eating peanuts.

We have grown to be a close and loving family through the help of our Mother and Daddy. There is a saying "that every man can be called father, but it takes a special man to be called Daddy." To all of us a Daddy he has been. We love him.

— Ann Lawrence

The William Alonzo "Webb" Ledford Family. 1st row L to R: William Cicero, William Alonzo "Webb," father of all others on photo, Lee F. 2nd row L to R: T. Curtis, Biddie L., Willis Key, Donnie L. Mitchum, Gertie L. Proctor, Minnie L. Gales, Florence L. Bridges, J. Plato

Ella Irene Gales Ledford (Mrs. W.C. Ledford)

LEWIS LEDFORD and DESCENDANTS

704

Lewis Ledford (1788 — Dec. 20, 1862) was a pioneer settler of Cleveland County. He has many, many descendants living in Cleveland and adjoining counties. He was married twice, having five children by each wife.

His first wife was Fannie Thackerton. They had the following children: James Laney, Craton, Ellis Ellsberry (Buck), Rixy, and Darcus E. Ledford.

His second wife was Fannie B. Pool (1798 — Mar. 19, 1861). She is said to be the first person buried in New Bethel Baptist Church cemetery. Her husband was buried by her side the following year. Their five children were Deilma, (married Lewis Turner); Lewis McKay (m. Annie Williams); Francis B. (m. John Yarbrough); Mahala Ramsuer (was second wife of Richard Hord); and Quincy, who died at age two.

Lewis McKey Ledford and family moved to Carpenter's Knob on Nov. 15, 1881. Their first child was William Alonzo, known as "Webb" Ledford (1852-1945), who married Ann Parker (1855-1921). Their other children were Mahala Jane (b. 1854), who married Wes Williams; and Julius M. Ledford (b. 1857).

Nine children were born to "Webb" and Ann P. Ledford (the writer's great-grandparents). They were (1) William Cicero (Oct. 11, 1875 — Aug. 16, 1939), married Ella Irene Gales (Mar. 16, 1880 — Jan. 23, 1959); (2) Lee F. (m. first, Lillian Long; second, Ida Crocker); (3) Biddie Ann (m. first, Decatur Willis; second, James Kee); (4) Florence Ellen (m. Charlie Bridges); (5) J. Plato (m. first, Georgia Costner; second, Eugenia Gable); (6) Minnie Etta (m. Julius Gales); (7) Gertie Nora (m. Javan Proctor); (8) T. Curtis (m. Ann Susan Hoyle); (9) Donie Laura (m. Junius Mitchem).

William Cicero ("Will") and Ella Irene G. Ledford (grandparents of the writer) were married on Aug. 27, 1895. Their marriage was blessed with eleven children. They were: (1) Bertha Mamie Ethel (Dec. 11, 1896 — May 17, 1975) married Ferris C. Humphries (Nov. 26, 1893 — May 18, 1948), parents of the writer; (2) Roy Sly (Oct. 26, 1898 — Feb. 19, 1968) married Emma Morris; (3) Clarence Theodore (July 2, 1900 — Feb. 28, 1974), married Eula Hayes; (4) Florence Olivia (b. Feb. 27, 1902) married Junius E. "Jack" Hullender; (5) Earl Dewitt (Dec. 17, 1903 — Jan. 4, 1981) married Nellie Hord; (6) Harry Lee (Oct. 24, 1905 — Nov. 24, 1953) married Marie Taylor; (7) Paul Webb (b. Nov. 9, 1910) married Lessie Garris; (8) William Odell (Jan. 19, 1913 — Dec. 27, 1920); (9) Ruby Irene (Sept. 8, 1915 — Oct. 15, 1918); (10) Ann Emiline (b. May 8, 1918) married Clyde Murphy; and (11) Grace Jeanette (b. Jan. 19, 1923) married Frank White.

Many happy family reunions are remembered that were held near Carpenter's Knob while grandfather William Alonzo "Webb" Ledford was living. They were later held at the different homes of his children.

For many years now the annual Ledford reunion has been held at the home of Curtis and Annie Ledford (both now deceased) and their daughter Edith and her husband, Everette Lutz, of near Lawndale. Edith Ledford Lutz is presently serving, and has been serving since 1976, as a member of the North Carolina House of Representatives.

The children of Bertha Ledford and Ferris C. Humphries are Edward Dwight (b. Jan. 22, 1916), m. first, Dixie Howard; second, Betty Williams; third, Betsy Askins Scarborough; Ella Jane (July 14, 1917 — Aug. 6, 1921), died of diphtheria; Herbert Brooks (b. Dec. 14, 1918) m. Mary Atwood; Ruth Myrl (b. Nov. 19, 1920) m. Walter C. Stephens; Clarabell (b. May 4, 1923) m. Sidney Jackson "Jack" Hughes; Edna Earl (Aug. 4, 1925 — July 5, 1934), died of leukemia; Thelma Raye (b. Mar. 11, 1928) m. Owen M. Holmes, III; F.C., Jr. (b. Feb. 20, 1930) m. first, Shytle; second, Gail Allen.

Lewis Ledford's will was dated Feb. 2, 1860 and he died Dec. 20, 1862. In his will he said (written as stated), "I give and bequith to my loving wife Fanny Ledford the plantation on which we now live with two chois negrous and two chois hors beast, the waggons and pleasure carriage, all the stock of cattle, hogs and sheep, the farming implements, the house hold and kitchen furniture with all the provisions that shall be on hand of what ever kind to have for her use during her life or widow hood and at her death or marriage the property to be equally divided between all of my lawful children or their legal representatives — "

He named his wife and his son, James L. Ledford (his first child by his first wife) " — Executors of this my Last Will and Testament"

Sources: Margaret Ann and Flora Herndon Ledford's research material; family Bibles; wills.

— Clara Humphries Hughes

Dr. Lawrence Victor Lee

LAWRENCE VICTOR LEE, M.D. FAMILY

705

Dr. L.V. Lee (born 7 September, 1871; died 9 October, 1943) was born in Boiling Springs, NC, to Timmons Gamewell (born 9 February 1846; died 24 December, 1928) and Permelia Ann Holland Lee (born 21 September, 1845; died 21 March, 1930). He was the grandson of Osborn Lee (born 29 February, 1812; died 26 January, 1864) and Rosanah Bridges Lee (born 9 August, 1809; died 15 January, 1867). Also of Boiling Springs, NC, and the great-grandson of John Lee (born 8 March, 1784; died 20 December, 1823) and Sally (Sarah) Lee (born 1782; died 3 January, 1856).

Dr. L.V. Lee attended old Boiling Springs High School. He began the study of medicine at Davidson Medical College and was graduated from Atlanta Medical College (now Emory University) in 1894. For two years he practiced medicine at Bostic (Rutherford County) NC., and then in 1897 he located permanently at Lattimore (Cleveland County) NC.

He started the practice of medicine traveling with a horse and buggy. The unimproved roads of the area hub-deep in mud, made travel by horse and buggy very slow and difficult. After the invention of the automobile, Dr. Lee was one of the first individuals to own one. The first one being purchased by William Calton of Lattimore.

He was secretary of the County Medical Society, a member of the State Medical Society, and served on the State Medical Advisory Board. In addition to his large medical practice he gave his time and talent to other areas. In a business way Dr. Lee was interested in several flourishing and successful enterprises. He was Vice President of the Farmers Bank and Trust Co. of Forest City, NC, Vice President of the Farmers Bank and Trust Co. (later changed to Union Trust Co.) in Lattimore, President of the large Kendrick Brick and Tile Co., of Mount Holly, NC, and member of the board of directors of the Stone Cutter Mill as well as the large Lake Lure Development.

Susan C. Lattimore Lee, wife of Dr. Lawrence Victor Lee

Iva and Norman Lee, Shrine Convention at Atlantic City

He was active in the church, civic, and progressive affairs of the town of Lattimore. He was one of the town members who was instrumental in bringing electric power to Lattimore. He served as secretary to the local school board from 1930 to 1943. Dr. Lee, his son Norman and Dr. Dwight T. Bridges, owned and operated the Brilee Drug Co. which served the town for several years.

In 1897, he married Susan C. Lattimore (born 22 January 1875; died 22 September 1958) daughter of Audley Martin Lattimore for whom the town of Lattimore was named, and wife Mary Jane Hamrick of Lattimore. She attended Fairview boarding school near Morganton. Miss Susan was a homemaker, who was always interested in the welfare of her family and neighbors. If anyone on her street became ill she was always there with a hot tray of delicious food. Reading and growing flowers were among her many interests. She was a charter member of the Lattimore Baptist Church. Dr. and Mrs. Lee, an infant son, and Norman are buried in the church cemetery.

Norman Lee (born 10 June, 1902; died 14 September, 1976) the son of Dr. and Mrs. Lee attended old Boiling Springs High School (Gardner-Webb College) and the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. For many years he was employed by the Union Trust Co. Bank of Shelby. In 1943, he joined Jefferson Standard Life Insurance Co. as their agent and remained with them until his death. He was a deacon and Sunday School Superintendent of Lattimore Baptist Church, A charter member of the Lattimore Lions Club, a mason, a shriner, director of the Cleveland County Fair, and president of the Old Lattimore Telephone Co. As a hobby, Norman spent many happy hours in his basement operating his ham radio. His stations call letters were W4DGU. He had been a radio enthusiast since 1922, and for years enjoyed making friends all over the world through his radio. Norman was of large stature and a conservative fashionable dresser. He always wore a bow tie in which he took great pride in tying.

Norman Lee married Margaret Iva Sperling (born 27 November 1901) the 19 June, 1929, the daughter of George Elzie and Mary Justice Sperling, granddaughter of John Jefferson and Margaret Eskridge Sperling and her maternal grandparents, John Jefferson Justice and Harriet Jane Gold Justice. Iva attended Boiling Springs High School (Gardner-Webb College) and Mary Washington College, Fredricksburg, VA. After moving to Lattimore, Iva became very active in the civic and social life of the town. She helped organize the churches Baptist Training Union and served as director for eighteen years. She was a Sunday school teacher, member of the church choir, president of the WMU, First president of the Lattimore Woman's Club (which she helped organize in 1938), president of the Cleveland County Home Demonstration Club, and vice president of Group #4 confederation of Woman's Club. She also served on the board of trustees of Gardner-Webb College, being a member of the board when the name was changed from Boiling Springs Jr. College to Gardner-Webb College. In spite of her many civic responsibilities she found time to pursue her much loved hobby — that of growing beautiful roses.

— Mrs. S. Arnold Ramey

RICHARD TORRANCE LEGRAND FAMILY

706

Richard Torrance LeGrand, a descendant of James LeGrand who came from France in the mid-eighteenth century, was born on a farm in Richmond County, N.C. on Sept. 26, 1879, to Homer E. LeGrand and Minna Torrance LeGrand. After his father died, when he was five years old, he moved to Charlotte with his mother, and two sisters. He entered grade school, and worked after school and on Saturdays in the old Law Library at $2 per month. He later worked as a soda-jerker at Jordan Drug Store for $7 per month. Hearing about textiles from some of the textile executives who stopped by the drug store, he asked Mr. Charles Johnston, of Johnston Mills, for a job, and at about age twenty, he was allowed to go to work at Highland Park Mills, but without pay. He worked for three months without pay, working 72 hours per week. He was later paid 60¢ per day, and after three years was made night overseer of carding and spinning, at $1.25 per night. He later erected machinery for H & B American Machine Co., Sykes Company, and Universal Winding Company.

While erecting machinery in a textile plant in Dallas, Georgia, Torrance LeGrand met Miss Lillian Branham Fain, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Fain. Torrance LeGrand and Lillian Fain were married on Dec. 24, 1908. In 1907 LeGrand went to the Hanover Mills in Concord, N.C. as superintendent, where he stayed until 1910 when he took the superintendency of Palmetto Mills in Georgia. After two years, he returned to Hanover Mills, where he stayed until March 14, 1914, when he became superintendent of Shelby Cotton Mills, in Shelby, N.C. Mr. Charles C. Blanton was President of Shelby Cotton Mills, and Mr. J.C. Smith was Secretary-Treasurer, and they employed LeGrand as superintendent.

Under the direction of R.T. LeGrand, the Shelby Cotton Mills expanded a number of times, in equipment and in space, and became one of the largest textile plants in the area. He became Secretary-Treasurer in 1924, upon the death of Mr. Smith, and was made president in 1944 upon the death of Mr. Charles Blanton. LeGrand continued as president of Shelby Cotton Mills (later renamed Shelby Mills, Inc.) until 1957 when he became Chairman of the Board, and was succeeded as President by his son, R.T. LeGrand, Jr.

In March 1954, when Torrance LeGrand had completed 40 years of service with Shelby Cotton Mills, he was honored by the employees and associates at a dinner, and was presented a plaque which was later placed in the office. On March 16, 1954 the following editorial appeared in the Shelby Daily Star: "Forty Years of Fortitude". "That was a most appropriate gesture Saturday night when the employees and business associates of R.T. LeGrand, Sr., presented him with a bronze plaque in recognition of his 40 years as an executive of the Shelby Cotton Mills. This textile plant was organized at the turn of the century to afford local employment. It didn't do so well for a score of years and the stockholders nearly lost their investment and the employees their jobs. Mr. LeGrand came, with his experience, his vision and his fortitude to push and expand. Now it is the largest single textile unit in the county. The executive of any large industrial or business establishment carries a heavy responsibility that involves constant study and planning. The plaque, commends him for his 'high and able leadership' and it has been just that, for Mr. LeGrand, modest though he is, has always had the human touch with his associates, a charitable and abiding interest in the welfare of his friends and our community".

Richard Torrance LeGrand, Sr.

Mr. and Mrs. LeGrand had seven children: Eugenia, who died soon after birth.

Minna Gaston, who was born in Birmingham, Ala., and married Herbert C. Combs. The Combs had four children: Fain LeGrand (Eskridge) of Greenville, S.C.; Herbert C., Jr., Torrance LeGrand, and Minna Gaston (Suttle), all of Shelby.

Elisabeth Reid, was born in Charlotte, N.C., about the time her parents moved to Shelby. Elisabeth (Peg) married James Havelock Bond, and lives in Batavia, Ill. The Bonds had one son, James Torrance, who lives in Ypsilanti, Michigan.

Richard T. (Dick), Jr., was born in Shelby. He married Jean Ware and they have three children: Richard Ware of Phoenix, Arizona; Sandra Jean (Tilt) of Birmingham, Ala., and John William of Hollywood, California.

William F. was also born in Shelby, and is married to Carolyn Mabry. They have three sons: William F., Jr., of Rock Hill, S.C.; Stuart

Hayes of Shelby; and David Mabry of Inman, S.C.

Homer E. was born in Shelby and married Emma Jo Beam. They have four children: Homer E., Jr. of Victoria, Australia; Bryan Fain of Wilmington, N.C.; Anne Bryce (Crumley) of Minneapolis, Minn; and Elisabeth Josephine of Charlotte, N.C.

Lillian Fain, was also born in Shelby.

Mrs. Lillian Fain LeGrand was a devoted mother, and was an active member of the Shelby Presbyterian Church, where she served as Circle leader, president of the Westminster Bible Class, chairman of the music committee, and a member of the choir. She was also a member of the 20th Century Book Club, the United Daughters of the Confederacy, the Daughters of the American Revolution, the Shelby Garden Club, Shelby Women's Club and was one of the first presidents of the Marion School Parent Teacher's Association. Mrs. LeGrand died on July 12, 1954, and is buried in Sunset Cemetery in Shelby.

In addition to his work at Shelby Mills, Inc., Mr. LeGrand, with other local people organized and started the Planters & Merchants Warehouse Co. in 1922. He served as president of P & M until his death. In 1927 LeGrand became a director of the Shelby & Cleveland County Savings & Loan Association (later changed to First Federal), and later became president. He was a director of the First National Bank of Shelby for many years, and also served as a Vice-President. In 1938 he was made a Vice-President of the Eagle Roller Mill. LeGrand was a charter member of the Shelby Kiwanis Club. He was a member of the City School Board for a number of years, and was instrumental in helping to organize a band, which was later taken over by the school system. He was an original stockholder of the Cleveland County Fair Association, and was a member of the Masonic Lodge for over fifty years.

Torrance LeGrand was a prime mover in organizing the Shelby & Cleveland County Foundation, which built the community center building at the City Park, and was later deeded to the City of Shelby, as part of the City's recreational program. The Foundation was the fore-runner of the recreational program in Shelby, which was an aid in attracting new industry to the area.

Lillian Branham Fain LeGrand, Sr.

Mr. LeGrand was an active member of the Shelby Presbyterian Church, where he served as a Deacon for many years, and later became a life-time Elder. Mr. LeGrand and Mr. John McKnight donated some property to the Shelby Presbyterian Church, to be used for an out-post Sunday School. From this beginning the John Knox Presbyterian Church was later organized. He was always interested in the Boy Scouts, and sponsored a Scout Troup at Shelby Mills. His three sons became Eagle Scouts. Having been born on a farm, he continued his interest in farming, having bought a small farm in Mecklenburg at an early age, and later operating several farms in Cleveland County, after moving to Shelby. Mr. LeGrand died May 14, 1961 and is buried in Sunset Cemetery.

Sources: Family records, personal knowledge.

— R.T. LeGrand, Jr.

RICHARD TORRANCE LEGRAND, JR. and FAMILY

707

Richard Torrance (Dick) LeGrand, Jr., son of Richard Torrance LeGrand and Lillian Fain LeGrand was born on August 9, 1916 in Shelby, North Carolina. He is married to the former Jean Ware of Kings Mountain, N.C., daughter of Moffatt A. and Johnsie Pettus Ware. The LeGrands were married on October 3, 1942, and have lived in Shelby since that time.

The LeGrands have three children: Richard Ware (Rick), who lives in Phoenix, Arizona with his wife, Colleen, and two children — Richard Torrance, III, and Travis Ware. Rick is Senior Vice-President of Combined Health Resources, Inc., and President of St. Luke's Enterprises, in Phoenix.

Sandra Jean is married to Dr. Douglas C. Tilt, formerly of Shelby, and they live in Birmingham, Alabama with their two daughters — Alex LeGrand, and Lindsey Carroll. Dr. Tilt practices internal medicine in Birmingham.

John William is not married, and lives in Hollywood, California, where he is a tennis professional, and is also involved in some writing and acting.

Mrs. Jean Ware LeGrand was born in Kings Mountain, and attended public school there. While in High School she won the Selma Webb Declaration Contest for Cleveland County, and the State contest, which was held at Guilford College. Jean attended Erskine College and Carnegie University in Pittsburgh. During the summer months she attended Plonk's School of Creative Arts in Asheville. While at Carnegie she was chosen to spend a summer with the Summer Stock Theater in Cohasset, Mass. Others at Cohasset at the time were: Sinclair Lewis, his wife, Dorothy Thompson, Fay Wray, John Arthur Kennedy, and others well known in the drama field. Jean served as a hostess for Bernard McFadden Publications at the New York World's Fair, and afterwards was a John Power's and Arthur Manning's fashion model. She was chosen to represent North Carolina as hostess on the first Southern Railway Streamline train, between New York and New Orleans; and between Washington, D.C. and Memphis.

Since moving to Shelby in 1942, in addition to raising three devoted children, Mrs. LeGrand has been active in church work at the Shelby Presbyterian Church, and in many community activities. She has served as Circle Leader at the church, Vice-President, and later President of the Women of the Church, member of the Building Committee, member of the Choir, chairman of several church committees, and is presently serving on the Pulpit Committee for an Associate Minister. She is a former member of the Junior Women's Club, and the Shelby Garden Club, and has been active in the Junior Charity League for many years, having served the League as Secretary and as President. She has served on the Board of Directors of the Shelter Home of Cleveland County, the Shelby Art League, The Cotillion Club, and North Lake Country Club. She is a member of the Renaissance Book Club, and has served on the Beautification Committee and Spring Seminar Committee at Gardner-Webb College. When her children were in the local school system, she was active in PTA work.

Richard T. (Dick) LeGrand, Jr., attended the local schools in Shelby and Davidson College. After leaving Davidson he started working at Shelby Cotton Mills in 1935. He worked in numerous capacities at the mill, and was elected a Director in 1937. He was elected Secy. & Asst. Treas. in 1940, Secy. and Treas. in 1948, and in 1957 was elected President and Treasurer, succeeding his father, R.T. LeGrand, Sr., who was elected Chairman of the Board. In 1966 Shelby Mills merged into United Merchants and Manufacturers, Inc., and Dick continued to manage the local division of UM&M.

In 1970 Dick resigned from UM&M, after 35 years of service with the mill, and with the help and backing of a number of local people, organized and started Artee Industries, Inc., a manufacturer of carpet yarns from synthetic fibers. A new plant was built in 1970, and additions were made in 1973 and 1978. LeGrand has served as President and Treasurer of Artee Industries since it was incorporated. In addition to his affiliation with Shelby Mills and Artee Industries, LeGrand has been associated with Planters & Merchants Warehouse for many years. He became a director in 1939, Vice President in 1942, President in 1979, and Chairman of the Board in 1982. Dick has been a member of the Board of Directors of the First National Bank of Shelby since 1961.

Dick LeGrand has been active in many community activities during his life in Shelby. He was a member and President of the Shelby Jaycees, and received their "Young Man of the Year" Award in 1945. He has been a member of the Shelby Lions Club for over 40 years, and served the Club as president in 1951. LeGrand helped to organize the United Way of Cleveland County and was one of the original directors. He continues to be active in the United Way as a member of the past Presidents' Council and Board of Directors. He helped to organize the Shelter Home of Cleveland County, and served as the agency's first President. He also helped to organize the Shelby and Cleveland County Foundation, which built the community center building at the City Park, and was the beginning of the city's Parks and Recreation Program. He served as a member of the Board of Directors and was Treasurer of the Foundation, and later served on the Parks & Recreation Commission, and was chairman in 1954. The Holly Oak Park facilities were added while LeGrand was on the Commission. He served on the Board of Directors of the Shelby Hospital in the late 1940s, and was Vice-Chairman of the Board. He has previously served on the Board of Directors of the American Red Cross, and is currently serving on the Board of Advisors of the Salvation Army, and the Board of Directors of the Life Enrichment Center.

He was active in the Boy Scout program in Shelby and Cleveland County for many years, and was an Eagle Scout during his youth. Both of his sons later became Eagle Scouts. Dick has been active in the Shelby Presbyterian Church, where he is a life-long member. He has served as a Sunday School Superintendent, Chairman of the Building Committee on two building programs, member of the Board of Deacons, and is currently serving as a Sunday School teacher, and an Elder, and is Clerk of the Session. He is a former member of the Board of Advisors of St. Andrews Presbyterian College, Peace College, and Gardner-Webb College. He was a Vice-Chairman of the Advisors at Gardner-Webb, and is currently a member of the Board of Directors of the Broyhill Academy at the college.

The LeGrands are members of The Cotillion, which they helped to organize 20 years ago, and Dick served as their first president. They are also members of North Lake Country Club, and the Cleveland Country Club. Dick is a past president of the Cleveland Country Club, and served several terms on the Board of Directors.

Dick has been active in Senior Tennis for a number of years, and is currently ranked #1 in Singles and Doubles in 65s in North Carolina. He is also ranked #7 in Singles and #6 in Doubles in the South, and #26 in Singles and #21 in Doubles Nationally.

Sources: Family Records and Personal Knowledge.

— Sandra LeGrand Tilt

JULIA ALLEN and JOSEPH B. "BUD" LEIGH

708

Julia Allen (b. Oct. 24, 1877 — d. Nov. 23, 1960) was the daughter of James and Marcelia Camp Allen of the Patterson Springs Section of Cleveland County. She was one of fourteen children. She and Joseph B. "Bud" Leigh (b. Dec. 24, 1872 — d. May 10, 1956) married at a young age. They farmed and worked in the mill. Later they moved to East Kings Mountain where they lived until they died.

Julie will be remembered for the yard she kept full of beautiful flowers. Each flower seemed to be quite special and she worked them with her hoe. She was a tiny person with enough energy to move a mountain. When she fell and broke a leg during her seventies, this only slowed her down temporarily. She was happiest when she could get up early, get her work done and visit around in the neighborhood. She came to my house every day and if we needed an extra hand she gave it. I remember a few times she gave me bathes. She was my Grandmother's first cousin but we called her Aunt Julie. She always had a cheerful smile and a word for everyone. I remember if someone happened to tell her that her slip was showing she always said: "Well at least you know I have one on."

Julia and Joseph "Bud" Leigh

She and Bud had the following children: Rev. George Leigh; Bulah Leigh (June Nance) Mary Leigh (Charlie Lail); Theodore Leigh; Albert Leigh; Hudson Leigh and Hettie May Leigh. There are many descendants — some of which I do not know. Uncle Bud died first and Julie lived alone as long as she could, finally moving in with one of her sons. They are buried at Pleasant Hill Baptist Church among many relatives. She especially will be remembered for they don't come like her any more.

— Elizabeth Camp Anthony

NORMAN GRADY LEMMONS

709

Norman Grady Lemmons was born November 8, 1908 to Palmer Lemmons and Lizzie Timms Lemmons. Norman Grady had four sisters and three brothers. In 1936 he was called into the ministry. In 1941 following five years of Evangelistic Ministry in cottage prayer meeting, church and mostly tent revivals, Rev. Lemmons came to Shelby and organized Davidson Memorial Baptist Church. He remained here as Pastor until 1974. Davidson Memorial Church is an independent Baptist Church supporting missionaries worldwide.

The church started with thirty-four charter members and when Mr. Lemmon retired in 1974 there were 800 members.

Rev. Lemmons married Ruth Freemon and they had three children: Rudolph Norman, Norman Grady, Jr., and W. Paul Lemmons. Rudolph followed his dad in the ministry and is now pastor of Clearview Baptist Church at Grover.

Rudolph married Pauline Hutchins, a Cleveland County native. They have four children; Patricia Ann, Rudolph, Jr., Stephen and Barry.

Norman Grady, Jr. married Clara Bivin, a Cleveland County native. They have three children: Gail, Horace Wayne and Rickey. Grady is an automobile dealer.

W. Paul married Margaret White, a Cleveland County native. They have two children: Michael Eugene and Paula Ruth. Paul is a professional photographer in Shelby.

Rev. Lemmons' wife and mother of his children, Ruth Freeman Lemmons, died in 1931. He then married Elmina Riddle in 1937. They now reside in Oconee County, South Carolina.

— Paul Lemmons

Leon Eugene Ligon, February 22, 1872 — February 5, 1934

Daisy Harris Ligon, died September 27, 1943

Rev. Norman Grady Lemmons

Railroad for twenty years. In 1907 he moved to Shelby from Rock Hill, South Carolina and after leaving the Southern Railroad, he was city clerk and treasurer of Shelby.

He was a member of the Central United Methodist Church and a Mason. He died in Shelby, North Carolina February 15, 1934 after a long illness from a heart attack and was buried in Fort Mill, South Carolina.

Every two years the Ligon Family has a reunion in outstanding cities of the United States. Every ten years they go to England to visit their ancestral home, Madresfield Court Worcestershire. The first Ligon Reunion was held in Richmond, Virginia July 7th, 8th, and 9th, 1937 and was attended by members of the family from 17 states of the union and from the British Empire. The last reunion was held in Washington, D.C. I was fortunate enough with my daughter Virginia McMurry Jones and my daughter-in-law Virginia Faunce McMurry to attend the last one. There were 175 present from all over the United States and one from Alaska.

— Julia Ligon McMurry and Mrs. Willis McMurry appreciate anyone having information about this family please contact me. I have made many inquiries and hopefully will receive some answers.

The facts I am sure of are that my grandfather was a Baptist minister in the Shelby area for many years and was my father, James Victor Limerick's father, (Sept. 15, 1893 — July 30, 1925). My mother Lithis Miller Limerick (Nov. 2, 1898 —) and my father were married Nov. 24, 1915.

The only Limericks I have found in any records I have searched is on a passenger list "1600-1700, July 1635, Original List of Persons of Quality". (1635 Launcelott Limrick, age 20) In the Paule of London, Leonard Bitts Mr bound to Virginia, certificate from Minister of Gravesend of their conformity to the Church of England."

In the 1790 Stafford County Virginia census (1783-1786) There is a: Francis Lembrick, 13 white souls, 1 dwelling, and 2 other buildings; — William Lembrick, 7 white souls, 1 dwelling and 3 other buildings. COULD IT BE THEY WERE ENGLISH?

— Barbara Miller Limerick Beattie

LEON EUGENE LIGON

710

Colonel Thomas Ligon of Madresfield Worcester England, born in 1586 was the founder of the Ligon family in the New World. He came to Jamestown, Virginia in 1641.

Leon Eugene Ligon born February 22, 1872 in Winnsboro, South Carolina was a direct descendant of Colonel Thomas Ligon. He was the son of John Smith Ligon and Julia Virginia True. On August 25, 1895 he married Daisy Harris of Fort Mill, South Carolina. They had seven children as follows: Nell Eugenia Ligon Hull, John Robert, Julia Virginia Ligon McMurry, Stanhoise Alexander, Harris Fennell and James Harris.

Leon Ligon was an agent with the Southern

REV. RICHARD LEMUEL LIMERICK

711

Rev. Richard Lemuel Limerick (Jan. 1, 1851 — July 13, 1918) married Margaret L. Bingham (May 28, 1864 — August 9, 1931). They are buried at the Bethel Cemetery in Ellenboro, N.C. I know very little about my grandfather. One story is he ran away from his home in Storch, Virginia when he was fourteen because the soldiers had ransacked their home, taken his horses and his father committed suicide. Another story is his father was a liquor distiller and tried to make him drink so he ran away from home.

I know less about my grandmother. She had one sister Laura Bingham Williams. I would

JOSEPH HENRY LINDSAY

712

Joseph Henry Lindsay was born December 13, 1825, died May 4, 1904. He served in the Civil War, Company F, 56 N.C. Infantry, C.S.A. He was a miller, millright and a cabinet maker. He was the seventh child of Samuel Lindsay (not positive of father's name as he died before 1850) and Mary Lindsay b. 1800, d. March 17, 1865. There were twelve children in this family:

Joseph married Frances Elizabeth Shittle January 13, 1851. Fannie, as she was known, was the daughter of Katherine Young and Henry Shittle, Katherine and Henry were married in 1829. Katherine died in 1835 leaving four small children; Fannie, Susan, Roxanne and John. These children were reared by

JOHN WESLEY LINEBERGER FAMILY

713

John Wesley Lineberger, son of Fredrick and Nancy Wilkinson Lineberger was born July 2, 1836 in Lincoln County. He first married Nancy Hobbs, July 26, 1856, and to them were born two sons, John Dixon and James Wallace. His second marriage, on October 18, 1904 was to Jane Houser of Cherryville, N.C.

He was a blacksmith by trade. After moving to Shelby in 1856, he founded a buggy business. A few years before his death he retired to look after his farm in east Shelby.

He was a Member of Central Methodist Church, was one of the oldest Masons in the county, and was a Confederate veteran. At 75 years he died March 29, 1911 and was buried in Sunset Cemetery.

John Dixon Lineberger was born July 21, 1862 in Shelby, N.C. He died March 6, 1912. He was the son of John Wesley and Nancy Hobbs Lineberger and the grandson of Fredrick and Nancy Wilkinson Lineberger. All except Fredrick, who is buried in Lincoln County, are buried in Sunset Cemetery.

He married Lucinda Elizabeth Munday, of Statesville, N.C., on March 9, 1881. Their children were Ethel Morrison, William Munday, and John Dixon, Jr. A daughter, Marie, died in infancy.

John Dixon owned a firm established in 1856 by his Father, John Wesley Lineberger. He was a member of Central Methodist Church, a Mason and Shriner, and a Captain in the Cleveland Guards.

Sources: Family Records

— Mrs. Betty McLarty

WILLIAM MUNDY LINEBERGER

714

William Mundy Lineberger, born December 23, 1886 in Shelby was the son of a prominent pioneer citizens, John Dixon (born July 21, 1862 — died March 6, 1912) and Elizabeth Mundy Lineberger (born September 21, 1860 — died April 3, 1924).

His grandfather, John W. Lineberger, was a blacksmith by trade and in 1848 was engaged in manufacturing wagons, buggies and farm implements in Shelby. He continued this business until his death. The business was carried on under the title of J.D. Lineberger's Sons, with John Dixon as owner. After his death, sons William M. and John D., Jr. were owners until February 2, 1926.

William attended Shelby Schools and Trinity College. He served six years of service in the First National Bank of Shelby. In 1917 he reorganized the Shelby Creamery Company, of which he was president, treasurer and general manager. The firm under his direction became one of the most successful milk-distributing concerns in the state. Its product, Shelby Gilt Edge Creamery Butter, set the standard for excellence throughout this region.

He also organized and became president of the Cleveland Building and Loan Association, and in the late 1920's and 1930's was president of Kendall Medicine Company. He organized the Paragon Furniture Company of which he was president.

In May 1920, he organized and was president of Cleveland Bank and Trust Company until 1922. He became president of Union Trust Company in 1930 until his death in 1936. He was one of the organizers and vice-president of the Cleveland County Fair Association. Mr. Lineberger also owned and developed Belvedere Park, which remained throughout his life as one of the finest residential districts of Shelby. He was a member of the Agriculture Committee of North Carolina Bankers Association, a trustee of Shelby Hospital and a director of Shelby Chamber of Commerce.

He was an active member of the Shelby Kiwanis Club. He was also a loyal supporter of the Central Methodist Church, serving on the building committee, as secretary-treasurer of the committee. He served as superintendent of its Sunday School for 13 years. The membership of the Sunday School increased from 150 to 900. He was a member of the Board of Stewards of the church at the time of his death.

On June 10, 1910, he married Mattie Flack

Rev. Richard Lemuel Limerick

Margaret Bingham Limerick

the grandparents John Young and Mary Sides Young.

Joseph and Fannie reared nine children: Mary Catherine b. September 1, 1853, d. July 10, 1940; Columbus b. February 20, 1856, d. February 1949; D. Franklin b. June 19, 1858, d. February 6, 1933; Sarah Jane Hendrick b. December 22, 1861, d. September 28, 1939; R. Louise Smith b. July 17, 1863, d. May 5, 1944; John W. b. April 26, 1966, d. February 26, 1942; M. Fletcher Ross, b. February 23, 1869, d. December 23, 1926; Circo b. November 6, 1871, d. November 2, 1944; M. Dellar Richard b. December 26, 1876, d. March 15, 1943.

These children married and lived in Lincoln, Burke, Cleveland and Buncombe counties. John lived in Washington, D.C. Columbus married and lived in Fort Worth, Texas.

Source: Family Bible

— Mrs. J.C. Palmer

Store of J.D. Lineberger, manufacturers of farm equipment on West Warren Street, Shelby

(born November 25, 1886). They were the parents of three children: Mary Mundy (born July 27, 1914), married Hubert M. Wilson (died December 10, 1938). They had one son, William Edward. Mary married Thomas Williams Hawkins, Jr. They had two children: Thomas Williams III and Martha Vaughn.

Adeline Hudlow (born June 17, 1917), married Robert Franklin Lutz (died December 25, 1944). They had one son, Robert Franklin, Jr.

William Mundy, Jr. (born November 13, 1920), married Hanson Hartzog. They had three children: Martha Lynn, William Mundy III and Sarah Hanson. William, Jr. later married Hazel Brady.

William M. died October 24, 1936 and was buried in Sunset Cemetery.

Sources: Shelby Daily Star Personal Records

— Adeline Lineberger Lutz and Mrs. Robert F. Lutz

William Mundy Lineberger

THE THOMAS MAX LINNENS FAMILY

715

The first contact with Cleveland County came for the Linnens family in 1950 when Rev. Linnens brought his wife, Anne, and two children, Larry McFarland, age three, and Nancy Ann age ten months to Boiling Springs when he entered Gardner-Webb College to begin his education to prepare himself to serve as a minister of the gospel. During the time he was here, 1950-52, he served at the East Baptist Church, Gastonia, the Spencer Baptist Church, Spindale, and the Temple Baptist Church, Kings Mountain.

After being graduated from Gardner-Webb College with highest scholastic honors, he attended Wake Forest College for two years, majoring in Greek. He was elected to Phi Beta Kappa, and was graduated summa cum laude. He attended Southeastern Baptist Theological Seminary, Wake Forest for three years, receiving his M. Div. degree. During these school years he served as pastor of Lystra Baptist Church, Chapel Hill, 1952-56, and as pastor of the First Baptist Church, St. Paula, 1956-58.

On the first Sunday in September, 1958, Rev. Linnens became the pastor of Boiling Springs Baptist Church and has continued in that position until the present time, April, 1982.

During the years 1958-68 he served as Chaplain to Gardner-Webb College in addition to his duties at the church. He served his denomination as a member of the Board of Directors, Biblical Recorder for four terms, and as a member of the Christian Life Commission for two terms. He worked with a small interested group in establishing the Cleveland County Mental Health Center and Association, and served as a charter member of that Board. He served as Consultant to the North Carolina Medical Society's Committee on Medicine and Religion from 1965-75.

The Boiling Springs Baptist Church was host for the first workshop on human relations put together by the Interracial Department of the N.C. Baptist State Convention featuring Dr. Carlyle Marney, Dr. Samuel Proctor, and Dr. Robert Seymour. This large, peaceful gathering of white, black, and Indian pastors and members of their churches was the beginning of great progress.

Rev. Linnens led his deacons and congregation in negotiations with Gardner-Webb College which resulted in the sale of the land and buildings of the Boiling Springs Baptist Church to the college. A new educational building and house of worship were constructed on a thirty-seven acre tract of land some two blocks south of the old location. The pastor and all the choirs led the congregation in a procession down the highway and entered the new building on the last Sunday in August, 1969.

Mrs. Linnens gave outstanding service as the Children's Worker for twelve years. She also served as Director of the Kindergarten from 1963 until the elementary school in recent years established a kindergarten work. She continues as Director of the church Play-school for four year olds.

During the years of Rev. Linnens ministry, the Boiling Springs Baptist Church has developed a wide variety of programs to minister to various persons and age groups.

Four children were born to the Reverend T.M. Linnens and his wife, Anne Thomas Max II, deceased, Larry McFarland, Nancy Ann, and Stephen Davis. Larry McFarland finished Crest High School and received a degree in Police Science from Cleveland Technical College. He served with the Cleveland County Sheriff's Department, and radio stations WOHS and WADA. He is presently playing piano for the State Line Band. Nancy was graduated from Gardner-Webb College and teaches third grade at Washington School. Stephen was graduated from Crest High School and went to work for Fiber Industries. He is married to the former Renee Goode, and Larry is married to the former Donna Gettis.

Rev. Linnens has had a keen interest in the study and writing of poetry throughout his ministry. Some of his works have been published in the college literary magazine, "Reflections." Robert Decker of the Gardner-Webb College faculty composed the music to his poem, "Legacy for my Children," which was sung as a mini-concert by Dr. George Cribb's touring chorus during 1979.

Rev. Linnens serves as an adjunct professor to Gardner-Webb College, teaching Hebrew, New Testament, and Greek.

— Thomas Max Linnens

MISS MELDONA LIVINGSTON 716

Miss Meldona Livingston was a truly remarkable woman. Born in Tennessee in 1873, she attended Carson-Newman College. In 1910 she came to North Carolina as a teacher in Round Hill Academy, a Baptist School. After a number of years there, she came to Grover to be principal. She was the first accredited woman principal in North Carolina.

She was not only a teacher, but a community benefactor. She did not stop with helping those who came to her; she sought out the needy, the sick, the stranger who needed someone to cheer, to comfort, and to uplift.

With a lantern and soemone to accompany her she searched the streets for boys to see that they were in their homes by the 8:30 p.m. curfew. Men today tell how they dug stumps and carried rocks to fill holes in the street at her direction. She had young men to escort the young ladies to practice for the lovely music and chorals that she insisted were necessary to complete the classics.

At school she had assembly every school day. Each student answered the roll call with a scripture verse. In her latter days, many of those whose lives she had touched as a teacher and friend rose up to call her blessed.

Source: personal memory.

— Bessie Howard Harry and Jackie Harry Rountree

Meldona Livingston

HISTORY OF HUGH ALLISON LOGAN FAMILY

717

Hugh Allison Logan, son of John Randolph Logan and Emily Allison Logan, was born in Cleveland County, North Carolina on February 22, 1877. He married Loula Herndon Logan who was born January 13, 1881, on November 7, 1900 in Grover, North Carolina. Hugh Allison Logan died September 21, 1931 and Loula Herndon Logan died May 31, 1959.

Eight children were born to this union: Graham Randolph Logan, born September 25, 1901 and died October 23, 1977; Beulah Herndon Logan, born July 29, 1903; Fred Gaffney Logan, born June 7, 1905; Harriett Emily Logan, born January 22, 1908; Hugh Allison Logan, Jr., born June 28, 1912 and died February 21, 1978; Evans McBrayer Logan, born August 3, 1914; Dovie Blanton Logan born November 13, 1919; and Charles Otis Logan born October 20, 1922.

Graham Randolph Logan and Priscilla Aylene Walker were married December 31, 1931. To this union, four daughters were born: Mary Randolph Logan, born December 15, 1932 and married to Richard Barbour; Suzanne Walker Logan was born November 21, 1935 and is married to Thomas Leard Keeter. Four children were born to this union: Thomas Christopher Keeter, Leard Logan Keeter, Stephen Glenn Keeter and Angela Suzanne Keeter; Loula Elizabeth (Betsy) Logan, born August 24, 1939 and is married to David Milton Phillips. Two children were born of this union: David Milton Phillips, Jr. and Virginia Aylene Phillips; Linda Aylene Logan was born November 1, 1941 and is married to John B. Kennedy, Jr. Two children were born of this union: Kimberly Aylene Kennedy and Anna Kristine Kennedy. Priscilla Aylene Walker Logan died March 28, 1963.

Beulah Herndon Logan and Yates McSwain were married October 7, 1924. One son was born to this union: Mallory Logan McSwain, born July 2, 1935 and married Wanda Farley. Two children were born of this union: Jeffrey Yates McSwain and Melissa E. McSwain. Yates McSwain died January 10, 1959.

Harriett Emily Logan and Dean Franklin Duncan were married March 20, 1926. Three children were born to this union: Dean Franklin Duncan, Jr. born November 24, 1926 and married Betty (Bebe) Smith. Born of this union were two sons: Dean Franklin Duncan III and Kyle Martin Duncan; Hugh Monroe Duncan was born June 25, 1929 and married Ann Taylor Webb. Born to this union were two sons: Hugh Monroe Duncan, Jr. who married Jill Howard and Thomas Taylor Duncan, and Harriette Emily Duncan born June 9, 1935.

Fred Gaffney Logan and Scotto Snyder were married April 2, 1933. Five children were born to this union: Scotto (Scottie) Logan born May 10, 1934 and married to Kenneth Broome and four children were born to this union: Ann Scotto Broome, Robin Victoria Broome, Kenneth Roger Broome and Leslie Logan Broome; Daty Blanton Logan was born September 27, 1936 and married Justin Carl Montgomery. They had two children: Christopher Logan Montgomery and Allison Montgomery; Freda Ellen Logan was born March 4, 1941 and Fred Gaffney Logan, Jr. was born January 12, 1947 and married to Jill Speet; and Thelma Emaline Logan was born June 25, 1948.

Hugh Allison Logan, Jr. and Mabel Warlick were married on October 14, 1946. Born to this union were three children, Hugh Allison Logan III born December 7, 1951 and married to Charlotte Duncan, born to this union is one son, Hugh Allison Logan IV; John David Logan, born October 11, 1952 and married Donna Paternostro. Born to this union is one daughter, Julia Katherine Logan; and Barbara Lou Logan born October 11, 1952 and married to Phillip Hamrick and born to this union is one daughter, Allison Logan Hamrick. Hugh Allison Logan, Jr. died February 21, 1978.

Evans McBrayer Logan and Mary Holmes were married on October 31, 1940. Born to this union were two sons: Evans McBrayer Logan, Jr. who was born October 31, 1941 and married Rebecca Huie. Born to this union are two sons, Jason Evans Logan and Daniel McBrayer Logan; and Michael Holmes Logan who was born February 13, 1946 and is married.

Dovie Blanton Logan was married to Hugh Ferguson Hamrick on September 14, 1946. Hugh F. Hamrick died May 21, 1949. Born to this union was one daughter, Dovie Melinda Hamrick, born September 3, 1947. Dovie Logan Hamrick was married to Charles Brantley Penny on March 6, 1954. Born to this union was one daughter, Esther (Jenny) Jennings Penney who was born May 15, 1955. Esther Jennings Penney married Joseph Steven Oliver. Charles Brantley Penney died on February 9, 1966.

Charles Otis Logan was married to Eleanor Murphy on May 22, 1948. Born to this union were two children: Charles (Chip) Otis Logan, Jr. born January 21, 1952 and Roberta Sue (Bobbie Sue) Logan born October 6, 1956.

— Mrs. Dovie Logan Hamrick Penney

Hugh A. and Loula Herndon Logan

HUGH ALLISON LOGAN

718

"Hats off, lights dimmed as a Gentleman goes" began one of the numerous newspaper tributes at the death of Hugh Allison Logan, son of John Randolph and Emily Allison Logan. The article continues . . . "It will be many years, a generation will have to come and go before Shelby and Cleveland County cease to remember Hugh Logan — Sheriff Hugh to some, Captain Hugh to others and just Hugh to many."

Hugh Logan, Feb. 22, 1877 — Sept. 21, 1931, married Loula Logan Herndon on November 7, 1900. The Shelby Star reported the marriage in part as follows: . . . "A large number of friends and relatives of the contracting parties were present and the happy event will be long remembered by all present. The bridal presents were numerous and costly and attested the popularity of these well known young people. The groom is a fine specimen of the noble young manhood of this country and the bride is popular and accomplished and worthy of the love of any man."

Hugh served as Sheriff of Cleveland County during the years of 1919-1928, declining to run again due to failing health. When first elected sheriff, he succeeded Sheriff W.D. Lackey who had resigned. The commissioners offered to appoint him to fill out the unexpired term of Sheriff Lackey, but he insisted on an election in order that the people might make a choice.

Many years were given to military service before he became Sheriff. As a young man, he served as First Sergeant in the Spanish-American War and came home to be elected Captain of the Old Company K, First North Carolina Regiment, a unit which served on the Mexican border. When the World War broke out, Captain Logan offered his services, and his war record was one of sacrifice and heroism. His men always held him in the very highest esteem for he had none of that exalted air which caused him to belittle or bemean those under his command. In all his record as a public servant, he enjoyed the confidence of political opponents as well as his friends and supporters.

He was unafraid to speak his mind against wrong when he thought it was wrong, and he was never too proud or haughty to take up the cause of an underdog when he considered him in the right. Men he had thrown in jail thought the world of him; boys in his old company, some of whom he had sent to the guardhouse, always remembered him. One reason is that all knew they were getting fair play. Good natured and friendly, he was nevertheless frank spoken and fearless.

At the age of twenty-five, Hugh joined New Hope Baptist Church at Earl and later moved his membership nearer home to Patterson Springs where he served as Deacon. He was later a member of the First Baptist Church in Shelby. He was a member of the Masonic Fraternity, the Junior Order and the Patriotic Sons of America, the American Legion, and Commander of the local post of Spanish American War Veterans.

Upon his death, the Shelby Daily Star stated that . . . "Sheriff Logan was one of the county's most outstanding citizens. His giant physique carried a heart of gold that loved humanity and bore no ill will toward anyone. He was kind-hearted, generous and upright in his life and conduct. Cleveland County has produced few men more popular and beloved than he. When you find any leader of men, a 'boss' whose men will fight for him, then as Kipling would say it, 'you've found a man, my boy'."

John Randolph Logan, born April 10, 1811 in the county of York, South Carolina, was the son of John B. Logan and Lou Rainey. He was author of a book, Sketches, Historical and Biographical, of the Broad River and Kings Mountain Baptist Associations, From 1800 to 1882. The biographical sketch of the author was written by R.L. Ryburn, Esq., Shelby lawyer, and it is from this sketch that the following biography of John Randolph Logan is taken in its entirety.

John Randolph was reared amid humble surroundings and his early childhood gave little promise of that long career of usefulness and honor that was his. Of his early trials, of the difficulties with which he had to contend and of the manner in which, even in those early days, he rose superior to all obstacles and to his surroundings, little is known.

As soon as he had come of age, John Randolph acquired a knowledge of surveying and for more than fifty years was actively engaged in this business. As a surveyor, Logan's services were in great demand and at the time there were few homesteads in Cleveland County not run off by him. Surveying in those days, according to Mr. Ryburn, was considered an honorable and lucrative profession. It was an art many people could not easily understand and a surveyor was regarded with a kind of awe and looked up to as a superior, both socially and mentally.

Surveying was by no means Logan's only work. As a young man, he taught school in York County where he was also an acting Justice of Peace. When he moved to Cleveland County (then Rutherford) in 1836, he located on a farm which he owned and operated successfully for forty-eight years. He counted honest labor honorable. Also, Logan always took a deep interest in public affairs and was, throughout his life, a close student and active church worker.

The Shelby Baptist Church (now known as The First Baptist Church) was formed on June 19, 1846 and was received into the Broad River Association on October 15, 1847. William Roberts, John Randolph Logan and David Warlick were the first deacons and Elder James M. Webb was chosen its first Pastor.

In 1841, shortly after coming into North Carolina, Logan was appointed Deputy Sheriff under Charles Blanton, the first sheriff of the newly formed Cleveland County. (It is noted here that two of Logan's sons, Ben F. Logan and Hugh Allison Logan both served as sheriff of Cleveland County from 1870-1880 and 1919-1928 respectively; and a grandson, Hugh Allison Logan, Jr. served as sheriff from 1947-1951.)

Logan was County Superintendent of Public Instruction and according to Mr. Ryburn, Cleveland County had had no more active or energetic educational worker. He was for a time County Surveyor and a constant member and chairman of the County Court. His views as a staunch advocate of States Rights never changed. After the Civil War, he was County Commissioner for several years and for three Leonidas M. (1880-1937) married Mitchell Barber. Their children were Helen and Leonidas Marion.

Bessie married Lee Carter, and they had four children: Harry, Mary Carter, George, and Clarence Poe.

Jane (1885-1908) married Maurice Little, and they had one daughter, Sarah Little Hayes.

John Jackson Logan, my father, was born in 1869 and died in 1939 in Cleveland County. Daddy served as deputy sheriff, surveyor, policeman, veterinarian, and farmer in Kings Mountain. He married Susan Sellers Harmon, and they had five children.

Thomas Gaffney (1905) married Bessie Dollar and they have three children: Mary Beth Logan Cree, Joyce Logan Hollingsworth, and June Logan Russell. They are living in the Abilene, Texas area. Thomas was a World War II Navy veteran.

Albert Pinkney (1907) married Lucille Mauney. They have four children: John (United States Army), Thomas (United States Navy), Philip, and Grace Logan Nelson.

William Bryan (1913-1968), World War II Army veteran, married Dellie Gallman Payne, and they have one son, Jerry Payne Logan (United States Army).

Mattie Elizabeth (1910) is a World War II Army veteran. She served in the medical division. She and her husband, Paul H. Ginther, are living in New Holland, Illinois.

Lula J. Logan (1918) married Elmer T. Hardin in 1939, and they have four children.

John Webster (1941), United States Navy 1958, married Jacquelyn Dixon, and their children are John Scott (United States Navy), David Brian, and Jacquelyn Renee.

David Michael (1944), United States Navy during Vietnam war, married Freida Burton, and they have two children: Susan Leila and Freida Gail.

Robert Stephen (1950), United States Army 1970, married Annette Dover, and they have one daughter, Carrie Rose.

Lynda J. Hardin (1949) married Tracy Mackanders Stewart, and they have one son, Tracy Mackanders Stewart, III.

The Logan brothers enjoyed singing in quartets together and with their family and friends. Our home was always open to preachers and singing teachers throughout the county. Daddy encouraged his children to sing by the shaped notes in the old hymnals. We enjoyed gathering together and singing the hymns of old. His favorites were The Old Rugged Cross and When They Ring the Golden Bells for You and Me. His motto for his children was "Always treat your fellowman as you would like to be treated, and let your word be your bond."

Burials are in Bethlehem, Sunset (Shelby), Myrtle Beach, Kings Mountain, and Austin, Texas cemeteries.

Sources: Documented records, relatives, family Bible, and memories.

— Lula Logan Hardin

After a decline in health, extending over several years, Sheriff Hugh died at the young age of fifty-four. Two days prior to his death, he was unconscious except for a brief moment when he seemed to recognize his wife who stood constantly by his side; his wife who lived to complete the rearing of their five sons and three daughters. "Across the hill the faint notes of a bugle, borne on the clear night air . . . taps for a soldier and gentlemen."

Sources: The biography is taken in its entirety from newspaper articles appearing in the Shelby Star (Wednesday, September 23, 1931, Vol. XXXVII, #113) lest it appear too positive a recounting of Hugh Logan's life. These were statements made by his peers at the time of his death and compiled by his descendants for appropriate inclusion in a history of Cleveland County. He may not have done so since, to quote one of the newspaper articles, "He always desired to remain out of the limelight and never attempted to advance himself unduly upon his accomplishments; In his public career he cared nothing for publicity for himself. This is evinced by the fact that at the time of his death The Star had no photograph of him for publication."

— Linda Logan Kennedy

JOHN RANDOLF and SARAH P. JACKSON LOGAN FAMILY 719

John Randolph Logan, born 1811, was the son of John Black Logan of York, South Carolina. He was the grandson of William, a revolutionary soldier, and a native of Virginia and Cleveland County. (Cleveland County was formally called Lincoln County.)

John Randolph married Sarah Jackson in 1836. She was the daughter of David Jackson of York, South Carolina. He was taught, at an early age, the art of surveying by my husband's great-great grandfather, Abraham Hardin. After years of surveying, judicial services, and teaching school, he moved to Cleveland County on the Buffalo Creek near the South Carolina line.

He lived forty-eight years in Cleveland County as surveyor, historian, organizer of churches, and other related duties. He was also superintendent of public instruction and a state legislator.

Six sons and four daughters were born to Randolph and Sarah. After Sarah's death, he married H.E. Allison in 1870. They had two daughters and one son.

My great grandfather, Randolph, author of Sketches of Broadriver and Kings Mountain Baptist Association, died before his book was completed. His son, Marion Leonidas, my grandfather, took the task of completing and having the book published in 1887.

Marion, my grandfather, married Sarah Elizabeth Herndon, and they had five sons and two daughters: George, Benjamin, William, Leonidas, John, Bessie, and Jane.

George (1875-1935) married Alma Westbrooks. Their children were Elizabeth Logan S. Schinhan, Betty Logan Wilcox, Nell Logan Nixon, Harold, and Robert.

Benjamin (1877-1935) married Etta Ann Wells. Their children were Marion V., James (World War II veteran), Zelma Logan Blalock, and Mabel.

William F. married Mary Little and their children were Lawrence, Elmer, Sallie, Mary Jane Logan Lackey, and Virginia Logan Sams.

J.R. Logan

John Randolph Logan, 1811-1884

terms — 1860-61, 1862-63, and 1865-66 elected to the State Legislature from Cleveland County. As a legislator, he was faithful to his constituents every interest and a hard working, conscientious and intelligent Representative.

John Radolph Logan was a self-made man. He had no early educational advantages; and yet despite this fact, he won honors which do not come to every man. By dint of his own energy and by setting before himself only high ideals, he added honor to himself and left a gracious memory to his children. He was obviously active in the many churches of which he was a part and in the Kings Mountain Baptist Association. While he had deep denominational commitments, he could be found worshiping with many different religions when time permitted.

Logan had, in his early days, an erect carriage and was withal a handsome figure. He was a full rounded christian gentleman. In all his associations, he was characterized by a gentle dignity, an unconscious grace, and a tender sympathy for his fellows that marked him as one of nature's noblemen.

Logan was twice married. In 1836 he married Sarah P. Jackson of York, South Carolina, and from this union there were born six sons and four daughters. His first wife having died, he again married in 1870 to Harriet Emily Allison also from York, South Carolina. The children of this marriage were one son and two daughters.

As a father, he was loving and affectionate but never demonstrative. He called forth the highest respect from his children who regarded him as a friend as well as a father and confided in him as children rarely do. He required rigid observance of the Sabbath from them. Two of his sons died in the Civil War and those living led honorable, useful lives. He was a smooth, even dispositioned man who was never meddlesome, quarrelsome or fractious; but when aroused, had all the determination and combativeness one could ask.

Logan, Ryburn continues, filled up to the full measure Justinian's maxim: "Live honestly, do no harm and render to each man his own." He was a gentleman and a character that must have had its influence for good on all with whom he came in contact. His is a memory that is well worth preserving. His is a name of which his children, his county and his church may well be proud, Mr. Ryburn adds.

On April 14, 1884, while at work on his farm, John Randolph Logan was stricken with apoplexy and died. Like a full ripe shock of grain, he was garnered, and at the age of seventy-three he slept the sleep of the righteous, lying down in peace and in honor.

The descendants of John Ranolph Logan are grateful for the above biography written by R.L. Ryburn, Esquire.

— Linda Logan Kennedy

HISTORY OF THE LOGAN FAMILY FROM 1749

721

William Logan was born in Virginia in 1749 of Scotch Irish Ancestry. He was married to Jane Black of Lincoln County, North Carolina and born to this union were five sons and two daughters.

William Logan was in service and fought in the Battle of Kings Mountain as a Private, and after the war settled and lived on the Main Buffalo Creek on the border of York County, South Carolina where he died by dropping dead while feeding his cattle in 1832 at the age of 83. During the Battle of Kings Mountain, he was in Mattocks Company.

John B. Logan was one of William Logan's sons. John B. Logan was born December 25, 1786 and died March 6, 1860. He was buried in Columbia, South Carolina.

John B. Logan and Lou Rainey were the parents of two children. They were John Randolph Logan and Betsy Sallie Logan. Betsy married H.G. Gaffney, Esq. of Gaffney, South Carolina. She died September 2, 1881. She and her husband are buried in Gaffney, S.C.

William Logan and his family were members of the Baptist Church.

John Randolph Logan was born April 10, 1811, and his first wife was Sarah P. Logan who was born February 27, 1818.

Ten children were born to this union. They were David Jackson Logan, born September 22, 1837, buried near York, S.C.; John Pickney Logan, born January 8, 1840, buried Zoar Baptist Church near Shelby, N.C.; Ben F. Logan born June 24, 1842, buried Sulpher Springs Methodist Church near Patterson Springs, N.C.; L.M. Logan, born October 19, 1844, buried Bethlehem Baptist Church near Kings Mountain, N.C.; H. Gaffney Logan, Medical Doctor, born January 30, 1847, buried Edwards Cemetery, Logan Township, near Newark, Arkansas; Hugh G. Logan, born July 12, 1849, buried Zoar Baptist Church near Shelby, N.C.; Elizabeth Logan (Married a Love and Bomar), born November 21, 1851, buried in Spartanburg, S.C.; Emma C. Logan (Married a Herndon), born October 12, 1854, buried Bethlehem Baptist Church near Kings Mountain, N.C.; Mary Amanda Logan (Married a McBrayer), born June 2, 1858, buried Patterson Springs Baptist Church near Patterson Springs, N.C.; and Ida Ann Logan (Married a Hogue and Felmont), born December 3, 1861, buried Macedonia Cemetery near Newark, Arkansas.

Sarah P. Logan, first wife of John Randolph Logan, died October 1, 1869 and was buried at Zoar Baptist Church near South Shelby, North Carolina.

Emily Allison was the second wife of John Randolph Logan. She was born July 23, 1833 and they were married in 1870.

John Randolph Logan and Emily Allison Logan had three children. They were Violet B. Logan (Married an Austell and Ellis) was born March 2, 1872, died June 10, 1955, buried New Hope Baptist Church Cemetery, Earl, N.C. She had one son, Michael Hugh Austell who died July 3, 1981 and was buried in Raleigh, N.C.; Lillie W. Logan (Married an Irvin) was born December 28, 1874, died July 31, 1948, buried Zion Baptist Church Cemetery, Cleveland County, N.C. She had two daughters, Lucille and Janie; and Hugh Allison Logan, born February 22, 1877, died September 21, 1931, buried Shelby City (Sunset) Cemetery, Shelby, North Carolina.

— Mrs. Dovie Logan Hamrick Penney

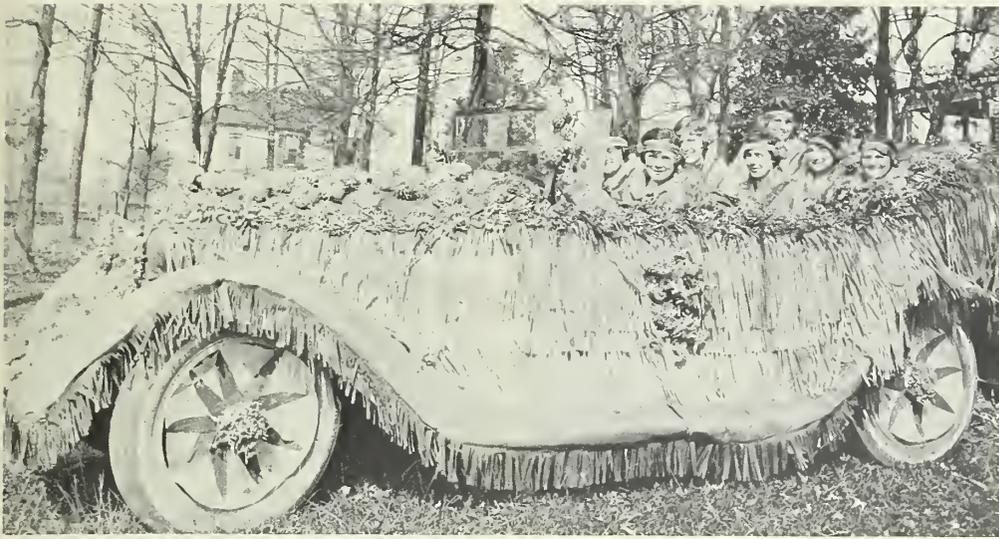

Margaret Marion Dover Love (Mrs. J. Frank Love), 1982

MARGARET MARION DOVER LOVE

722

Margaret Marion Dover was born December 30, 1898 to John Randolph and Ella Elizabeth Toms Dover, and was the fifth of nine children. A separate article on this significant family can be found in the index.

Margaret Dover married James Franklin Love June 6, 1920 and lived in Lincoln, North Carolina with his family. James Franklin Love was born in Gastonia, July 31, 1894 to Edgar Love, a textile pioneer, and Katherine McLean Love. Margaret and Frank had two children: J. Frank Love, Jr., born April 26, 1921, is currently President of American & Efid Mills, Inc., Mount Holly, N.C.; and Kathryn Elizabeth Love born March 31, 1924, is a retired Executive Director of the Girl Scouts which was located on South Post Road. At the birth of his last child he was working at Tillman Firestone.

Margaret Dover Love driving local women in Lincoln parade in the 1920's

Some time later he began working at Crawley Chevrolet and found the job that furthered his love for engines. He worked as Service Manager until Crawley Chevrolet sold to Carter Chevrolet. He continued in this capacity for several more years. In 1972, he decided to try his hand at teaching school. At Crest High School he taught Small Engine Repair until his official retirement in 1975 at the age of 65. However, he is not a man to be idle for long. Shortly after his retirement he began working part time at Lowery's Country Corner, a grocery store and quick stop owned by Wells' nephew, Ronnie.

He has taught Sunday School to the Young Men's Class at Pleasant Hill Baptist Church for 53 years. In the past he has served as a deacon many times and also as Training Union Director. In fact, Wells has served in almost every capacity of leadership in that church. He has sung in the choir for 50 years.

Wells and Helene Lowery have the following grandchildren and great-grandchildren: Sonja, who was married to Alan Bettis and Ray Short, has the following children: (1) Jan Bettis who married Timothy Lankford. They have two daughters Katina and Jody. (2) Jill Bettis who married Frank Morehead. (3) Kandace and (4) Craig.

Richard, who married Kaye Goforth, has the following children: (1) Richelle, (2) Laura Kaye, and (3) Matthew Wells.

Sources: Helene Lowery, personal knowledge, family records, and memories.

— Kaye G. Lowery

ROBERT LEE LOWMAN

724

Robert Lee Lowman, son of Rev. David Lowman and Sallie Deal Lowman from Burke County, came to Cleveland County in 1924. He started Charlie Morrison Construction Co. He met and married Viola Williams, February 12, 1925. A son, Joseph David Lowman was born December 12, 1925. He went into business for himself in 1926. He built the Ida Hamrick home in 1926, which was bought by Mr. W.V. Ellis in 1957.

Robert Lee Lowman

of America. Margaret is a descendant of the Wray, Webb, Blanton, Toms and Dover families of Cleveland County.

During her youth, music was very important to Margaret. It was a part of many family get-togethers held at "The Farm" near "Uncle Bob" Dover's property, a buggy ride away. Margaret remembered how she played the piano while "Poppa" Dover played the violin and someone else played the harp. She remembers playing the piano every night with "Poppa" on the violin at the Dover homeplace on South Washington Street. Once a friend asked Margaret to visit in Spartanburg, S.C. Margaret asked her mother, who agreed, but she didn't tell "Poppa". He wrote her a card in Spartanburg telling how he tried to play the violin without her, but he broke a string on it and she broke a string in his heart for leaving without telling him.

Margaret went to Elizabeth College in Charlotte, N.C. and later Virginia to continue studying music. She was on the Charlotte campus (now Presbyterian Hospital), when she recognized C.B. Suttle and Charlie Estridge who had come down from Shelby in their car. She spoke to them from the hedge and was reprimanded by being campused.

Spur-of-the-moment adventures appeal to Margaret and always have. Upon one occasion, John and Evelyn Dover Fox and brother, Jack Dover, were returning to New York after visiting Shelby. Margaret was on the train telling them goodbye, and they held her as the train pulled out of the station. The kidnap "victim" laughingly insisted that she couldn't go to New York with just the clothes on her back, but her captors could tell from the weakness of her protests that she was game. Margaret spent two weeks in New York. Fortunately, she and Evelyn wore the same size dress and she had a marvelous time, totally unconcerned that she hadn't planned the trip at all.

Margaret has always taken community responsibility seriously and has always been a hard working volunteer. On July 18, 1950, she received the Roy Sisk Memorial Cup after having been named Shelby's Woman of the Year at the Business and Professional Woman's Club meeting. The award was made each year by presidents of the various women's civic clubs in Shelby to the woman who had rendered the most outstanding service to the community. Margaret was cited for her work as a Red Cross volunteer and in the Junior Charity League. As chairperson of the All Volunteer Services for Cleveland County, she recruited all volunteer workers in the 1950 Red Cross Fund Campaign. She was active in volunteer work during World War II. Margaret was given a Red Cross service pin that year and later was elected to their board of directors. She was the league representative on the hospital board. She had many responsibilities at the First Presbyterian Church as well as being a member of the concert association and Cecelia Music Club.

Margaret's family has always meant a lot to her. A granddaughter and great-granddaughter are namesakes. She has two children, two grandchildren and three great-grandchildren. She currently lives quietly on Love Acres Farm outside Shelby and enjoys having her family visit.

Sources: Shelby Daily Star, family tradition, interviews and Dover family records.

— James F. Love, III

ROBERT WELLS LOWERY

723

Robert Wells Lowery was first born son and child of Tom Lowery and Clara Francis Lowery. He was born on August 2, 1912 at home on Pleasant Hill Church Road which is very near Buffalo Creek. He was named partly in honor of the doctor, a Dr. Wells, who delivered him. He attended his elementary school years at a school right beside Pleasant Hill Church. This was less than a fourth of a mile from his home. The school is no longer there. He was in the first graduating class of Number Three Township High School. This was in 1932 and he was sixteen at the time.

On January 12, 1935 he married Hattie Helene Putnam and they had the following children: Mona Helene, who died at birth, Sonja Henie, and Richard Wells.

His first job was at Wrays Department Store. He then worked at Maxwell Furniture Store and then at Esther Mill. For several years he owned and operated Lowery's Grocery

Robert Lee Lowman's Persian Team. Patsy Lee Lowman standing beside driver, Bill Hunt.

Cleveland County Centennial Parade — 1841-1941

In June, 1926, he bought and remodeled a log house on five acres of the M.D. Hopper farm on North Post Road. The tenants moved and we moved in January 3, 1927. It was on a dirt road, had outside toilet, we used oil lamps, boiled clothes in wash pot with Red Devil Lye, used stick brooms. Hard work, but "Home Sweet Home."

He built the Carl Thompson home and the J.D. Lineberger home (used today as B.P.O.E. Club) in 1929. He remodeled old Charles Hotel and Cleveland Drug Store after fire burned part of the building. In 1930 he remodeled Marion School, where Winn-Dixie Store is today on East Marion Street. He remodeled old Daily Star Building on East Warren Street.

The Depression started and it was bad. We raised hogs and cattle for sale and our food, also canned vegetables, fruits, meats. We got electricity from Duke Power in 1930 — electricity for lights and well pump — hurrah! After the stock market crash in 1929, the depression was so bad only one out of four people had jobs.

Our home burned May 11, 1932. Neighbors helped save part of our things by carrying what they could out the back door. We built back on the same site. Lee's brother, carpenter, my dad, Joe Williams, brick mason, many good friends and neighbors, and warm weather, and then we were back in our home again.

Franklin Delano Roosevelt set up Public Works Administration 1933-1934. Lee qualified to do work. He built the American Legion Hut, using native rock, built the grandstand at Cleveland County Fair Ground, and slowly the people came out of the depression.

He rebuilt Eagle Roller Mill, 1933, after fire destroyed it.

On October 14, 1935, our daughter, Patsy Lee Lowman, was born. We were blessed again.

Lee Lowman built Frank Hoey home in 1930. Later it burned and Lee rebuilt it like it was before from first plans. It is one of the homes displayed in the city today. In 1940 he remodeled Sanitary Lunch, also Hudson's Department Store, built the W.H. Hudson, Sr. home, remodeled West Kings Mountain grammar school, remodeled Court House inside. Lee had clock fixed (weights had fallen when Haywood Allen, Sr., was sheriff), and built well house. Patrol Sergeant Haywood J. Allen, Jr., issued driving licenses from 1950'til they moved to new building.

Lee built W.O.H.S., Shelby's first radio station. I have a picture of Lee standing on sub-flooring. Also a duplex for R. M. Woodson, general manager, and Steve Woodson, first announcer, to live in.

J.D. Lowman, our son, came home from service, our business became R.L. Lowman and Son. We built much in the county in the next ten years: remodeled Charles Store, made two stories, remodeled Young Brothers Store, remodeled Sterchi Bros. Store, 1956, built Pleasant Grove Baptist Church, 1956, built addition to Bethware School and gymnasium, 1956, built addition to Universal Manufacturing Co., 1954, built Osborn, Sr., home, 506 E. Marion Street and Gaston County building beside Court House on Franklin Avenue. Lee got sick, and J.D. finished project to complete satisfaction of architects in 1956.

His last job was Hunter School. Lee retired 1959 due to poor health.

He was a World War I veteran, serving from May, 1915 to April 18, 1919. He engaged in many battles overseas in which they used horses and wagons.

He entered Oteen Veterans Hospital November 18, 1963 and died December 26, 1963. The doctor informed us of his serious condition. We talked about our house on North Post Road in sight of the church. He wanted to be buried there. He learned to love our town and felt he was a part of it. He was buried in Elizabeth Baptist Church cemetery.

Sources: Family records, memories

— Viola W. Lowman

EDITH LEDFORD LUTZ

725

Edith Ledford Lutz was born on Oct. 20, 1914 in Upper Cleveland County, N.C. Her parents were the late Curtis Ledford and Annie Hoyle Ledford, both of Cleveland County. As a young girl, the family moved to Kings Mountain then Shelby and in her teen years they moved again. This time it was to the Belwood Community in Upper Cleveland County.

Edith attended Belwood School and it was here she met Marvin Everett Lutz. Everett is the son of the late Marvin Lutz and Mamie Elliott Lutz. Shortly after their high school graduation, Edith and Everett were married — Oct. 25, 1933 — and settled down in the Belwood Community.

They were farmers, active in their community, and members of Kadesh United Methodist Church where they have been active in the church programs for many years.

They have one son, Jacob, who, with his wife, Joyce Hartman Lutz and three daughters — Lori, Elizabeth, and Lindy — also live and farm in the Belwood Community.

Edith was the first woman ever appointed from Cleveland County to the N.C. House of Representatives. She was appointed to finish a term in 1976, ran for election in 1977, and was elected for three terms since. She has served her district diligently and with much ability. Edith was not a newcomer to politics since her father was always active in political affairs. He would be very proud, had he lived, to see his daughter in office.

Edith has served on the following legislative committees: Local Government II (Chairman), Agriculture (Vice Chairman), Appropriations Base Budget on Human Resources (Vice Chairman), Appropriations Expansion Budget on Human Resources (V-Chairman), Appropriations Base Budget, Appropriations Expansion Budget, Corrections, Election Laws, Human Resources, and Mental Health.

— Mrs. Joyce Lutz

JOHN OGBURN LUTZ FAMILY

726

John Ogburn Lutz was born in Cleveland County, North Carolina, June 25, 1888. He was the oldest child of John Franklin Lutz and Octavia Weathers Lutz. His two brothers were Roscoe and Irvin Lutz and his three sisters were Mae Lutz Boggs, Lu Lutz Gantt, and Ella Lutz Cline.

After attending schools in Belwood, North Carolina, and Shelby, he attended Trinity College (now Duke University). His education was interrupted by the death of his father, when he returned home to assist his mother in managing the family farm.

Ogburn was a faithful and devoted member of Central United Methodist Church in Shelby. The church was an important part of his life and Ogburn enjoyed teaching Sunday School as well as serving in many other phases of church life.

Ogburn Lutz was amazingly active throughout his entire life. His special brand of energy and his ability to engender a sense of teamwork placed him in many positions of leadership in the community. He served as Chairman of the Board of Union Trust Company (now Branch Bank and Trust Company), a director of Cleveland Savings and Loan Association (now Cleveland Federal), president of the Kiwanis Club and the Shelby Chamber of Commerce. He was also a past master of Cleveland Lodge 202 and a Shriner.

In the early 1900's, Ogburn became a partner with R.E. Campbell in the operation of Campbell's Department Store and he remained in this capacity for more than thirty years. Then in 1946, under his leadership and guidance, his twin sons, James and John, opened Lutz Furniture Company. It was located on North Morgan Street across from the old Lutz homeplace. In 1949, Ogburn left Campbell's Department Store and joined his sons in the furniture business. Today, his grandsons, James Lutz, Jr., and John Lutz, Jr. operate the business in the same location.

In 1914, John Ogburn Lutz married Annie Mae Webb, daughter of James Edgar Webb and Minnie Jane Houser. She was born February 24, 1894, the oldest of thirteen children. Annie Mae attended the public schools in Shelby. She was a gentle, loving wife and mother who took pride in making her surroundings comfortable and attractive for her family and friends. She loved her church, Central United Methodist, deeply and spent much time and energy in every phase of church activity.

Ogburn and Annie Mae Lutz had four children. Twin sons, James Edgar Lutz, John Franklin Lutz and two daughters, Marjorie Elizabeth Lutz and Nancy Ann Lutz.

James married Grace Carolyn Rawlings (Gastonia, North Carolina) and they had two children, James Edgar Lutz, Jr. and Linda Carolyn Lutz. James Jr. is married to Claudia Abernethy Lutz and they have two children, Elizabeth Elmore Lutz and James William Lutz. They live in Shelby. Linda married Cameron Stokes Ware (Kings Mountain) and they have two children, Kimberly Lynn Ware and Cameron Todd Ware. They live in Kings Mountain, North Carolina.

John married Nancy Gray Coble (a first cousin to James' wife Grace Rawlings). They now live on Lake Norman. Their children are Ann Gray Harry, Susan Webb Allred, Eugenia Carpenter, and John Franklin Lutz, Jr. Ann is married to Charles Franklin Harry, III, and they have two children, Robin Lynn and Franklin Scott Harry. The Harry family resides in Shelby.

Susan Webb Lutz married Hiram Herbert Allred, Jr. (Mt. Airy, North Carolina), and their two children are Benjamin Hartley and Jason Anthony. Susan is a candidate for a Master of Divinity degree at Duke University. They live in Chapel Hill, North Carolina.

Eugenia Lutz married John David Carpenter, II. David is in the Air Force and their family is stationed in Germany. Their two children are Jennifer Dawn and John David Carpenter, III.

John Lutz, Jr. married Theresa Shull and their two children are John Alexander Lutz and Meredith Leigh Lutz. They live in Shelby.

Marjorie Elizabeth Lutz married Dr. John Munroe Douglas and their three children are Dr. John Munroe Douglas, Jr., a Research Fellow in Infectious Diseases at the University of Washington School of Medicine in Seattle, Washington; James Ogburn Douglas, a landscape architect in Nashville, Tennessee; and Davison McDowell Douglas, a law student at Yale in New Haven, Connecticut. Marjorie and John live in Charlotte, North Carolina.

Nancy Ann Lutz married J. Carver Wood, Jr. and their two children are J. Carver Wood, III and Ann Ogburn Wood. Carver Wood, III works for the Ford Motor Company in Ohio and Ann lives in Texas. Nancy and Carver live in Birmingham, Michigan.

"Daddy Lutz", as Ogburn was known by all his grandchildren, entertained them by telling stories of his childhood, playing Chinese checkers and showing pictures of interesting foreign lands on the parlor stereoscope.

Those who knew Ogburn Lutz loved him and admired his radiating optimism and good will. Many people throughout the county were recipients of his thoughtful acts which included thousands of cards and letters sent to express joy or sympathy. It has been said that though Ogburn Lutz made many contributions to his community, he will not be remembered principally because of the positions that he held, but chiefly because of the simple goodness of his life.

John Ogburn Lutz died March 15, 1964, as a result of an automobile accident. Annie Mae died May 19, 1952. They are buried in Sunset Cemetery in Shelby, North Carolina.

Sources: Family records and personal knowledge.

— Mr. and Mrs. James E. Lutz, Jr.

LLOYD L. LUTZ FAMILY

727

Our daddy, Lloyd L. Lutz, was born in Cleveland County, October 9, 1909, to William Cicero and Theodocia Jane Webb Lutz. He was a brother of John Ray Lutz.

Lloyd was educated in the Shelby public schools, Riverside Academy, and Duke University.

He was a co-founder of the Lutz-Yelton Companies. He had been in the tire and oil business since 1930. At the time of his death, he was President of The Auto Inn of Shelby, Inc.

He was director emeritus of Cleveland Savings and Loan and a Charter member of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes.

Lloyd was a member of the Shelby Rotary Club, Cleveland Country Club, North Lake Club, Cleveland Lodge Number two hundred two AF and Am, Oasis Temple and the Elk's Lodge. Lloyd was a member of the Shelby First Baptist Church and Morgan Bible Class.

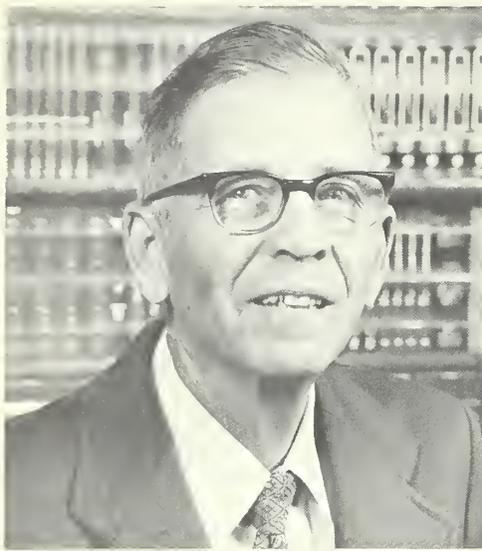

Our daddy was a gentleman and a "gentleman" to his family, and was dedicated to his church, business, and community.

He married Mary Josephine Suttle, born April 30, 1909, daughter of Joseph Linton and Mary Walker Suttle, December 25, 1932. Mary was a sister to Marjorie Suttle and J.L. Suttle, Jr.

Mary was educated in the Shelby public schools, Meredith College in Raleigh, Queen's College in Charlotte, and Mrs. Plonk's School of Creative Arts in Asheville. She taught expression and piano in Shelby, after her marriage.

James Ogburn and Annie Mae Webb Lutz

Lloyd L. Lutz

Mary was a member of First Baptist Church of Shelby, Philathea Sunday School Class, Renaissance Study Club, Chicora Club, Cecilia Music Club, and a former member of the Triple Deck Bridge Club.

Mary died August 12, 1978 and Lloyd died July 31, 1981. Both are buried in Sunset Cemetery, in Cleveland County.

Lloyd and Mary had three children. Their first child, a son, Lloyd Linton Lutz was born November 7, 1934, and died November 9, 1934.

Their second child, Marjorie Jane, born March 10, 1936, married Harold Joe Hamrick, son of William Harold and Sara Houser Hamrick, November 23, 1956. They have two daughters. Mary Kimberly, born November 27, 1958, graduated from Shelby High School, Peace College, and North Carolina State University in Raleigh. Kelli Jane, born June 10, 1961, graduated from Shelby High School, Peace College, and is presently a student at North Carolina State University in Raleigh.

Their third child, Mary Lynn, born November 10, 1938, married Howard Vincent Carpenter, Jr., son of Howard Vincent and Rachel Jane Thomas Carpenter, August 27, 1960. They have three children. Vincent Todd, born August 30, 1961, graduated from Shelby High School and is presently a student at Western Carolina University in Cullowhee. Margot Lynn, January 30, 1964, is a student at Shelby High School. Rachel Leanne, born October 13, 1967, is a student at Shelby Junior High School.

Sources: obituaries, family records, personal knowledge and memories.

— Marjorie Hamrick and Lynn Carpenter

MARVIN LEE LUTZ

728

Marvin Lee Lutz was born August 10, 1883 in the Belwood community of Cleveland County. His parents were Martin Luther Lutz (1833-1912) and Louvita Williams Lutz (1842-1915). The Lutzes were of German descent.

Marvin Lutz was a farmer, landowner, fertilizer dealer and lifelong resident of the Belwood area.

He was first married on August 14, 1907 to Mayme Elizabeth Elliott. She was a daughter of Robert and Minnie G. Peeler Elliott. To this marriage was born eight children, Lois Inez, Robert Luther, Marvin Everett, Minnie Lu Bryte, William Boyte, Maymie Pearl, Lois Ethel and Johnnie Dwight.

Mayme E. Lutz was born March 11, 1890 and died September 8, 1924.

Marvin Lee Lutz married Mary Amy Cansler on November 3, 1928. She was a Hickory, North Carolina native, who taught school in Lincoln County. Her parents were Henry Martin Luther and Claudia Ann Helderman Cansler. To this marriage was born two sons, Marvin Lee and William Henry.

Marvin Lee Lutz, Sr. died October 14, 1945 and Mary Amy C. Lutz died June 17, 1946. She was born February 22, 1895.

Remember . . .

Articles
Are Indexed
By
Article Numbers
. . . Not By
Page
Number

The Lutz family were active and faithful members of Kadesh United Methodist Church. In this church cemetery are buried Marvin, Sr., Mayme E.; Amy C.; Inez, Bryte, W. Boyte, Lois and Johnnie Lutz.

Sources: Family Bible and Family Records.

— Marvin Lee Lutz

Roscoe Eli Lutz, 1898-1951

THE THEODORE HENRY LUTZ FAMILY

730

Theodore Henry Lutz was born in 1873 in Cleveland County soon after the close of the War between the States. He knew about the hardships and poverty during the reconstruction of the South. A man of strong character and great integrity, he was an avid reader with unusual ability for retaining and remembering all the reading material that came his way.

He married Donna Patterson, a lovely and vivacious neighbor. They settled in the Old Zion Community, later moving to Shelby; from there he continued his farming operations. He was hard-working, honest and compassionate, devoted to his five daughters.

Donna P. Lutz died February 4, 1945, and Mr. Lutz died December 20, 1949. Both are buried in Sunset Cemetery, Shelby, as well as their daughter, Sarah Evelyn Lutz, who died July 13, 1973. Another daughter, Margaret Jane (Mrs. C.F. Bean) died March 2, 1978, and is buried in Sky Lawn Cemetery, Belmont, California.

Their surviving daughters are: Luna (Mrs. Paul Wellman) who now lives in Morganton, North Carolina; Faye (Mrs. Henry Overton) who lives in Rocky Mount, North Carolina; and Anne (Mrs. Hunter Neisler) who is a resident of Hilton Head Island, South Carolina.

— Mrs. John O. Plonk

DAVID McBRAYER

731

Most of the McBrayers in Cleveland and Rutherford counties today are descendants of David and Delila Webb McBrayer.

David McBrayer, third generation of the first McBrayer settlers in America, was among the first McBrayers to live in North Carolina.

David and Delila came to Rutherford County (now Cleveland County) in 1805 and settled on several hundred acres north of the Broad River. The two-story log house they built near Sandy Run Creek is still standing today beside a road named in their memory. It was in this house that they lived the remainder of their lives and raised their twelve children.

David is the only child of William and Martha McBrayer who has been located and traced, according to "The McBrayer Family", a book written by Carl McBrayer of Oklahoma and copyrighted in 1980. David was born on Jan. 4, 1775, in York County, S.C., he married Delila Webb in York County. The couple and their first two children moved to North Carolina after the death of David's father, William, in 1805. David died at age 68, on January 5, 1843. Delila died on July 10, 1867.

David's ancestry is Scottish. Family researchers say his father, William was born in 1734, presumably in Northern Ireland. William came to America with his parents, William and Rebecca, in about 1735 or 1736 and settled in Pennsylvania. In about 1865, he migrated to South Carolina.

William's father, William, was born in 1696 in Scotland or Northern Ireland. Some re-

Mary Jane Austell Lutz

ROSCOE ELI LUTZ

729

Roscoe Eli Lutz (January 5, 1898 — April 25, 1951) was the youngest of six children born to John Franklin Lutz (1857-1912) and Zoar Octavia Weathers (1854-1928). He was the great grandson of Eli Lutz and the grandson of Luther Lutz. His maternal great grandfather was Squire William Weathers, father of Rufus Y. Weathers.

It was in the home of William Weathers that the first term of Superior Court for Cleveland County was held on November 8, 1841. Roscoe Lutz acquired the lumber from the house when it was demolished. Members of the family used this hand-hewn pine to make furniture for their homes.

On March 12, 1919, Roscoe married Mary Jane Austell (July 27, 1900 — October 4, 1970) daughter of James Petty Austell and Cora Ann Magness Austell. The wedding took place at the home of the bride's parents on West Warren Street in Shelby. The rooms of the home were decorated with masses of yellow daffodils which were in full bloom that time of year.

After his marriage, he became a partner in Lutz and Jackson Funeral Home. He sold his interest in this business to organize with his brother-in-law, Charles B. Austell, in 1932 the Lutz-Austell Funeral Home. The business is now operated by the third generation of this family.

Roscoe and Mary had three children: Robert Franklin (Bobby) Lutz, b. January 30, 1920, d. December 25, 1944; Betty Ann Lutz, b. December 18, 1924, and William Austell Lutz, b. April 24, 1927.

Bobby married Adeline Lineberger and they had one son, Robert Franklin Lutz, Jr., born May 22, 1943. Robert Jr. married Ann Fortenberry of Shelby and they had four children.

Betty was born December 18, 1924. She married Robert Jones Burton of Bethel, North Carolina, on August 4, 1945: They had three sons: Robert Jones Burton, Jr., William Lutz Burton, and Cecil Manning Burton. They lived in Garden City, New York until the death of Robert, Sr. on February 8, 1964. They moved to Shelby and Betty became a teacher at Shelby Junior High School. William (Bill) married Mary Frances Champion and they live in Rumson, New Jersey. They had four children: Leslie Lutz Tuthill, Linda Lutz Walbridge, Lindsay and William. Leslie is the mother of a son born February 1982.

— Betty Lutz Burton

L to R: David, Robert and John E. McBrayer.

searchers show his origin as Dumfries, Scotland, a town rich in McBrayer (MacBair) heritage. Others say he may have been born in County Down, Ireland, of Scottish parentage.

David, like his grandfather, was apparently a farmer, judging by the farm animals, equipment and slaves he left his wife and children in his will.

His children were born about every two years for twenty-four years. Their names and their spouses were; Levisa, born in 1801, married Housen Harrill; Narcissa, born in 1803; William, born in 1805, married Drucilla McIntire; Robert, born in 1807, married Francis Harrill; Margaret, born in 1809, married Reuben Hill; James W., born in 1812, married Susan Harrill; Martha, born in 1814, married Noah Weeks; Edy, born in 1816; Elisha, born in 1818, married Juliet Stroud; David, born in 1820; Emelia, born in 1822, married Alberty T. Elliott; and Reuben Hill, born in 1825, married Elizabeth Stroud.

Of those children, four have been traced and seem to be the progenitors of most of the McBrayer descendants still in the area. Those four are Robert, James, Elisha and Reuben Hill. One son, David, went west and was never heard of again. Another son, William, had at least two daughters, but few records were kept on the female lines of the family.

David willed large tracts of land and a number of slaves to his heirs, and many of them stayed in the area. Robert, Reuben Hill, and Elisha remained in what is now Cleveland, and James W. moved to Forest City in what is still Rutherford County.

Much of the countryside David and his family farmed in the 1800's remains undeveloped today. The view from the front porch of the old homeplace includes beautiful rolling hills, pastures, farmland and the mountains in the distance and is much the same view as David and Delila must have seen in the 1800's.

Today, David and Delila are a part of that scene. Both are buried in the old McBrayer family cemetery atop a knoll overlooking the old McBrayer homestead.

Sources: McBrayer Family by Carl McBrayer

— Susan McBrayer

DAVID B. and MARTHA BLANTON McBRAYER

732

David B. McBrayer, son of Robert and Frances Harrill McBrayer, was born in Cleveland County, North Carolina on March 30, 1844. He lived with his family on their farm near Mooresboro.

During the Civil War, while still in his teens, he enlisted and served in the 9th Regiment, Company I, First North Carolina Calvary. At the end of the war, he walked from Lincolnton to his Mooresboro home. During the Reconstruction period, federal troops leaving Shelby, camped in the woods just opposite and north of the McBrayer house. David and his brothers took the livestock up Sandy Run Creek to a swamp to hide them from the troops who were stealing cattle, horses and other personal property.

David's father gave him a one hundred forty acre farm on the Lattimore-Boiling Springs Road. Much of this farm was in woodland which had to be cleared for farming. He built his home on this property and lived there the rest of his life. For many years, he was in business in Mooresboro selling livestock and fertilizer and at the same time carrying on his farm work. He was known for his frugality and industriousness.

After completing his home, he married Martha Ann Blanton (B. July 31, 1852) on January 25, 1871 at the home of her parents, Albert Blanton (1826-1905) and Roxanne Irvin Blanton (1837-1880). Martha was famous for her culinary skills and guests often found their way to her table. Many heirlooms have been handed down from her grandmother, Louisa Beam (1811-1878) who married Abel Irvin (D. 1865) and are still treasured by family members.

Both David and Martha were active in the Sandy Run Baptist Church until 1891. At that time, a new church was being organized at Lattimore, and they became charter members of the Lattimore Baptist Church. He served as deacon and on many committees at both churches.

They had three children: (1) Olive Bruce McBrayer (1872-1949) married Dr. S.S. Royster (1867-1948), (2) Charlie C. McBrayer (1874-1940) married Pearl Wray and (3) John Albert McBrayer (1876-1941) married Annie Barr Blanton (1887-).

In later years, David and his son, John, who lived with his parents, conducted the livestock business and farming operation from the homeplace which was usually bustling with activity.

David, who lived to be 91 years old, died on June 7, 1935, and Martha died fourteen months later on August 7, 1936, age 84. They had lived together for sixty-four years on the same farm and in the same house which still stands. They are buried beside his ancestors in the McBrayer-Lovelace Cemetery which is located near their home.

— Ruth Dover

JOHN ALBERT and ANNIE BLANTON McBRAYER

733

John Albert McBrayer, who was born on September 21, 1876, was the son of David (1844-1935) and Martha Blanton McBrayer (1852-1936). He attended school in Cleveland County and the boarding school in Fairview, North Carolina around 1895.

When he completed his education, he went into business with his father who was a livestock dealer and farmer. John spent weeks each winter in Tennessee, riding the mountains, buying mules and horses. Many times his feet would be frozen into his stirrups and the ice would have to be broken before he could dismount. On horse back, he would drive the mules over the mountains to his Cleveland County home, taking five days to do so. Later, the railroad was a big help in the business. He would buy the mules in Tennessee and ship them by train to Lattimore.

From the station, he and his helpers would ride and drive the mules to the homeplace. This was always an exciting time at the McBrayer household. Customers, friends and especially the McBrayer children eagerly awaited the arrival of the new mules and horses.

On December 16, 1913, John and Annie Barr Blanton (b. July 8, 1887) were married in the Sandy Run Baptist Church. Annie is the daughter of J.B. Blanton (1857-1928) and Aurelia Barr Blanton (1859-1892).

The children of John A. and Annie McBrayer are: (1) John Albert, Jr. (b. January 28, 1915) married Mary Frances Bankhead, (2) Martha (b. August 31, 1919) married Earl E. Bradsher, (3) Charles (b. September 5, 1921) married Ruth Scruggs Hatchette and (4) Ruth (b. February 15, 1928) married Jack Ray Dover.

Their grandchildren are: (1) Ann McBrayer (b. July 10, 1946), (2) Jane McBrayer (b. July 29, 1950) married Robyn Gangi, (3) Susan McBrayer (b. August 21, 1954) married James Surratt. These are the children of John Albert and Mary McBrayer: (4) Earl Bradsher, III (b. January 22, 1944) married Frances Yoder, (5) John Bradsher (b. December 25, 1947) married Sarah Winstead, (6) Janet Bradsher (b. May 30, 1952) married John Strickland. These are the Children of Martha and Earl Bradsher. (7) David Dover (b. July 14, 1952) married Kathy Ledford, (8) Donald Dover (b. December 6, 1955) married JoRene Causby, (9) John Dover (b. January 1, 1960). These are the children of Ruth and Jack Dover. Charles and Ruth McBrayer have no children.

John was active in the affairs of his community and church. He served as chairman of the Lattimore School Board and chairman of the deacons in the Lattimore Baptist Church where he was a charter member. He lived his entire life at the homeplace of his father, David. This house, which still stands, is located on the Lattimore-Boiling Springs Road. He died December 10, 1941 at the age of 65 and is buried in the Lattimore Church Cemetery.

Annie was a member of the Mooresboro Presbyterian Church, and later when this church closed, the membership was transferred to the Ellenboro Presbyterian Church. After her marriage, she attended the Lattimore Baptist Church with her family.

She went to school in Mooresboro and the State Normal in Greensboro, now UNC-G. Even in her early years, she had a profound love for children which was expressed by her devotion to her younger brothers and sisters as she helped care for them. After her college days, she taught young children in the Mooresboro School for several years. When she was married she gave up her teaching, but this love of children was very evident as she reared her own children and then later helped with the nine grandchildren. At all times, she was available when needed, showing love, concern and thoughtfulness for others.

There was much activity at the McBrayer homeplace with customers, friends and relatives visiting often. Annie helped with the bookkeeping and enjoyed entertaining her family and friends, always having plenty to eat whenever guests arrived. It was a special treat for visitors from the city who got a taste of farm life with country cooking, many animals, a creek for children to dam up and various areas to explore.

Annie, who is 94 years old and in good health, lives with her daughter, Ruth, near the old home. Her great-grandchildren enjoy her warmth and sense of humor just as their parents and their parents' parents did before them.

— Martha Bradsher and Ruth Dover

LANDER F. and DOVIE SUTTLE McBRAYER

734

Lander Fulenwider McBrayer was born November 3, 1878 in Shelby N.C., the son of Reuben McBrayer and Mary Fulenwider McBrayer. His father died when Lander was fourteen years old, therefore his hopes of being a Physician or a Lawyer were in vain as he was not able to go to college.

He owned a drug store for a short time which he sold to Paul Webb about 1905. (Paul Webb Drug Store ran for many years on North Lafayette Street).

Lander was a book lover who enjoyed reading and often quoted Dickens and Shakespeare and other authors. His friends said that he knew the answers to many questions concerning both medicine and law. After selling the drug store he traveled for a drug firm but later became an insurance agent.

Records show that Lander McBrayer was the first president of the Shelby Merchants Association in 1904. He was a life long member of the First Baptist Church and an ardent member of the Masonic Order.

On November 12, 1902 he was married to Dovie Elizabeth Suttle. (See Charles Beattie Suttle).

Dovie Elizabeth Suttle was born March 14,

1880 in Cleveland County on Sharon Road, the fifth child of Charles Beattie Suttle and Esther Jane Wray Suttle. She remembered moving to Shelby on West Marion Street when she was two years old.

As a young girl she was said to be very pretty. She had auburn hair and blue eyes. She attended school at Shelby Female College which was then located where the present City Hall now stands. Her favorite sports were bicycling and riding in a horse and buggy.

The wedding of Dovie Suttle and Lander McBrayer was held in the First Baptist Church of Shelby of which they were both members. The bride's brother, the Reverend John W. Suttle, performed the ceremony in a setting of beautiful yellow chrysanthemums, which were ordered from Atlanta, as Shelby had no resident florist at that time.

At the wedding reception, which was held at the bride's home, fruit cake was served and an aunt of the bride saved a piece, wrapped it in tin-foil, placed it in a tin box and presented it to the bride. She told her to keep it until her first child could appreciate the fact that she would be eating her mother's wedding cake. (My brother and I, the writer, ate the cake at ages four and two).

Dovie Suttle McBrayer was a charter member of the Chicora Club, the oldest literary club in Shelby. She was known for her serene disposition and her talents as an excellent cook. She also had a life-long love of young children and she charmed them with her loving, magnetic personality.

Lander and Dovie Suttle McBrayer were the parents of four children. They were Dorothy Suttle McBrayer, Gerald Fulenwider McBrayer, Charles Reuben McBrayer, and Mary Esther McBrayer, who died at five years of age in the Influenza Epidemic of 1920. (See Lander and Dovie McBrayer Descendants).

Lander Fulenwider McBrayer died on January 24, 1955, after being an invalid due to a stroke of paralysis for eleven years. Dovie Suttle McBrayer died of a heart attack on January 9, 1965. Both are buried at Sunset Cemetery.

The McBrayers lived at 607 North LaFayette Street. The house has now been torn down but Dovie McBrayer continued to live in their home until five years before her death when she went to live with her daughter Dorothy McBrayer Moore.

She was a beautiful person and continued to love all people and she always maintained her serene disposition, and happy outlook on life.

Sources: Family Bible, Family History, Personal Knowledge.

— Dorothy Suttle McBrayer Moore

LANDER F. and DOVIE SUTTLE McBRAYER DESCENDANTS

735

Dorothy Suttle McBrayer was born August 21, 1903, the daughter of Lander F. McBrayer and Dovie Suttle McBrayer in Shelby, N.C. She graduated at Shelby High School and went on to Meredith College in Raleigh, North Carolina where she graduated as an English Major.

She taught high school English in Salisbury,

John Albert McBrayer

Annie Blanton McBrayer

Lander Fulenwider McBraye

Spencer, and Shelby. She was married in 1938 to Larry Holland Moore, who was a native of Durham, North Carolina. After his death in 1958 she returned to the teaching profession for eleven more years. teaching English at Casar and Burns High School. Her hobbies are poetry and dramatics. She is a member of Shelby Presbyterian Church, North Carolina Retired Teachers Association, Contemporary Book Club, Contract Bridge Club. They were no children of this marriage. She is now retired and lives in Shelby, where she is active in the religious and social life of the community.

Gerald Fulenwider McBraye was born September 22, 1905, the first son of the McBrayes. He graduated at Shelby High School and attended State College in Raleigh for two years. He joined the J.C. Penney Company when they opened the first store in Shelby in 1925. He was promoted to manager of the Penney store in Reidsville, North Carolina, where he lived until he died on November 2, 1968. He had been active in the First Baptist Church of Reidsville, and the Rotary Club. He was part owner of the Radio Station and was an officer in the local Building and Loan Association.

Gerald married Sarah Hubert from Decator, Georgia and they had two children. Elizabeth Hubert McBraye was born in Shelby on July 19, 1928. She married Charles E. Sasser and they live in Morganton, North Carolina. The Sassers have four children: Charles McBraye Sasser, Tom Sasser, Sarah Sasser, and Pride Sasser.

The second child of Gerald and Sarah is Gerald Fulenwider McBraye Junior, who was born January 30, 1934 in Reidsville. He married Audrey Graham and they live in Morganton, North Carolina. They have four children: Margot McBraye, Dovie McBraye, James Graham McBraye, and Christopher John McBraye.

Charles Reuben McBraye was born in Shelby on December 22, 1910 the son of Lander F. and Dovie Suttle McBraye. He joined the J.C. Penney Company store in Shelby soon after graduating from Shelby High School. He was promoted to the Harrisonburg, Virginia store where he met and married Virginia Lee from Glen Burnie, Maryland. He was later promoted as manager of the Penney store in Greenville, North Carolina. From Greenville he was promoted to the Penney Store in Huntsville, Alabama where he stayed for fifteen years before he came back home to Shelby as manager of the Penney store. He was president of the Shelby Merchants Association in 1967-68. He took early retirement and now lives in Shelby, where he pursues his many hobbies. Charles and Virginia are active in the First Baptist Church.

Dovie Elizabeth Suttle McBraye

Charles and Virginia had four children all of whom were born in Greenville, North Carolina. Virginia Lee McBraye was born March 23, 1940, and married Floyd Frazier in Huntsville, Alabama. The Fraziers have three children who are Dorothy Lee Frazier, Mary Virginia Frazier, and John David Frazier.

Charles Lander McBraye and Harry Lawrence McBraye, twins, were born September 23, 1942. Charles married Jan Watson in Huntsville, Alabama. They have three children: Charles Lander McBraye Junior, Stuart Watson McBraye, and Melissa Jan McBraye. This family now lives in Chattanooga, Tennessee where Charles is employed at the J.C. Penney Company.

Larry McBraye married Susan Cummings in Huntsville, Alabama and they have three children who are: Susan Sherrill McBraye, Karen Lee McBraye, and Christina Cummings McBraye. They live in Montgomery, Alabama where Larry is employed at J.C. Penney Company.

The fourth child of Virginia and Charles R. McBraye is Charles Reuben McBraye Junior, who was born on May 20, 1947 in Greenville, North Carolina and lived later in Huntsville, Alabama, but now lives in Shelby, North Carolina, where he is employed at the Malcolm Brown Auditorium. He married Betty Sue Downing from Aiken, South Carolina. They have no children.

Sources: Family History, Personal Knowledge

— Dorothy Suttle McBraye Moore

THE REUBEN McBRAYER FAMILY

736

Reuben McBraye was born in Cleveland County on December 2, 1850, the third son of Elisha McBraye and Juliet Stroud. He graduated in Law from the Pearson Law School in 1874 and practiced law in Shelby and later in Asheville, N.C.

He was elected to the N.C. General Assembly in 1876 and was an active member of the house in 1877-1878. In 1878 he married Mary Elizabeth Fulenwider and six children were born of this union.

In 1884 Reuben McBraye came within a few votes of being nominated to the U.S. Congress. He was a leading attorney of the Western half of N.C. He was a trustee of Wake Forest College, a member and Deacon of the First Baptist Church, a Mason and a Democrat. He was a man of unimpeachable character and a citizen of great worth to the locality in which he lived and to his state.

He moved to Asheville, N.C. from Shelby and practiced law there for several years, but when he discovered that he had Bright's disease he returned to his home in Shelby and died at forty-one years of age, July 12, 1902. He is buried at Sunset Cemetery in Shelby, N.C.

The McBrayes lived at the home he built for his bride at 231 North Lafayette Street. The house was torn down and the property is now the site of the Social Security Administration Offices.

The widow of Reuben McBraye, Mary Fulenwider McBraye continued to live, with her two daughters, in the home until her death in 1945. (See Reuben McBraye-Mary Fulenwider McBraye)

The six children of Reuben and Mary were as follows: Lander Fulenwider McBraye, the first child was born November 8th, 1878 and in 1902 he married Dovie Elizabeth Suttle, the daughter of Charles Beattie Suttle and Esther Wray Suttle. (See Lander F. McBraye)

The second child of Reuben and Mary was Evans Edgar McBraye, born in 1880. He became a prominent and successful men's clothing merchant of Shelby. He did not marry and lived with his mother until he died in 1934. He is buried at Sunset Cemetery.

Kathleen McBraye, 1884, was the third child and first daughter of the McBrayes. She married W. Hugh Wray also of Shelby. They lived in Gastonia, N.C. They had no children. They are both buried at Sunset Cemetery in Shelby, N.C.

Agnes Lawing McBraye was the fourth child of Reuben and Mary. She graduated at North Carolina College for Women at Greensboro and became a primary grade school teacher. In her early years she taught in Southern Pines and Haw River, N.C., before coming back home to Shelby where she taught for many years and became Principal of Washington School, an elementary school in the Shelby City School system. She was also a teacher in college summer schools.

She was never married and lived with her mother and continued to live in the same house until her illness. She is buried at Sunset Cemetery. She died October 11, 1974.

Harry Gordon McBrayer was the youngest son of the McBrayers. He married Mary Abbott Candler of Murphy and they had three children. He became a traveling salesman for men's clothing and later a merchant in Anderson, S.C. where he and his family lived.

Ruby Helen McBrayer was the youngest child of the McBrayers. She never married and lived with her mother at the homeplace. She is buried at Sunset Cemetery. She was born April 10, 1881 and died May 22, 1970.

Sources: McBrayer Genealogy Pub. 1926, Obituary from Shelby Paper, Family Bible, Personal Family History

— Dorothy McBrayer Moore

Mary Fulenwider McBrayer

MRS. REUBEN McBRAYER (MARY FULENWIDER McBRAYER)

737

Mary Elizabeth Fulenwider was born in Lincoln County on February 2, 1855, the daughter of Eli Fulenwider and Martha Lander of Lincoln, the daughter of Reverend Samuel Lander.

When Mary was six weeks old her mother Martha died leaving her in the care of her father Eli who was then twenty-three years old.

Eli Fulenwider was a prominent merchant in Shelby, who built his home at 323 South Washington Street where it still stands and is now known as the Ebletoft house. He remarried in 1858 and took young Mary to live with him. In the intervening years, she had been cared for by the William (Billy) Roberts family. Eli Fulenwider and his second wife had six sons, thereby giving little Mary six half brothers.

As a child Mary played in the yard and when the large boxwood was planted she wanted to help. Her young playmate Kans Andrews (later Mrs. James R. Webb) and Mary tramped in bare feet around the earth when the bush was set out.

Mary grew into a very pretty and vivacious young lady who had many admirers. She met a prominent young attorney named Reuben McBrayer, who after many attentions, asked her to marry him. She asked her father's advice about her choice and he said to her, "I think he is a young man who would keep meat in the smokehouse and flour in the barrel."

Mary Elizabeth Fulenwider and Reuben McBrayer were married in 1878 and moved into the home he had built for her at 231 North Lafayette Street. According to her account they had a very happy life and became the parents of six children. (See Reuben McBrayer Family)

Reuben died when he was 41 years old and left Mary a widow of 36 years of age with six children, the eldest of whom was fourteen. She did not re-marry and she talked, to her dying day, at nearly 91, of the kindness, nobility and intellect of her husband. She lived in the home he had taken her to as a bride until her death.

"Miss Mary", as she was called by her admirers, once got a letter simply addressed "To Shelby's Sweetheart." She had a cheerful disposition and a deep religious faith. She once told me, her granddaughter, that she never failed to sleep because of worry. She said "I put my head upon my pillow and my burdens on the Lord."

She was an active member of the First Baptist Church and always in attendance. She was a charter member of the Chicora Club, the first literary club in Shelby.

She was admired for her friendliness and her happy spirit but mainly for her phenomenal memory. Each morning she telephoned greetings to everyone whom she knew was celebrating a birthday or anniversary. She was known as "the Birthday Lady."

On her own birthday February 2nd she dressed in her best dress to receive the visits, telephone calls, flowers and gifts that always came to her. Mary could not tolerate gossip or ill speaking. On hearing such she would quote these lines "Throw the veil of charity over the mistakes of others, and tread lightly on the graves of the dead."

Before my approaching marriage she said to me, "Granddaughter I have only this advice for you 'stand to the rack fodder or no fodder.'"

Mary fell and broke her hip, leaving her bedridden for seventeen months, but this did not dull her mind nor lessen her interest in others. She continued remembering the birthdays and instructed her daughter Agnes to call the celebrants for her.

She died on October 13, 1945 at 90 years of age and was buried at Sunset Cemetery. Just before she lapsed into unconsciousness she said, "Though he slay me, yet will I trust him."

Sources: Annals of Lincoln County, 1940 100th Anniversary Edition, Shelby Daily Star, Personal Knowledge, Family History, Conversations with Subject.

— Dorothy McBrayer Moore

REUBEN ALLEN McBRAYER

738

Reuben Allen McBrayer, DVM was born in Shelby, Cleveland County, North Carolina on April 23, 1895.

He was the son of Elizabeth Allen McBrayer and beloved Dr. Charles Evans McBrayer, both of Shelby.

He had two sisters, Frances McBrayer Morgan (Mrs. Gerald Morgan), and Miriam McBrayer Holmes (Mrs. George Holmes). He also had two brothers, Col. Charles McBrayer, M.D., U.S. Medical Corps and Claude (Pat) McBrayer, a lawyer, all natives of Shelby. All of the sons and daughters of Dr. and Mrs. Evans McBrayer have died, leaving no one to carry the name of that line of the McBrayer family.

Allen received his education in the schools in Shelby, then at George Washington University in Washington, D.C. He later attended the University of Florida in Gainesville, Florida. He was a member of Sigma Nu Fraternity.

He was of the Baptist faith, but attended the Baptist and Methodist churches regularly. After completing his college training he became Assistant State Veterinarian with headquarters in Chipley, Washington County, Florida, a position he held until his untimely death. He owned a farm near Quincy Florida and was part owner of a pharmacy in Quincy, Florida.

In 1929, a young girl, thirteen years his junior, and recently graduated from Florida State in Tallahassee, came to Chipley to teach home economics in the Washington County High School. This girl was a seventh generation Floridian. She never lived in North Carolina, but her forebearers were distinguished citizens of the Colony of North Carolina in colonial days. She is descended from citizens who once lived in Bertie, Johnston, Anson, Onslow, Orange and Wayne Counties. Allen and this young girl fell in love and planned to be married. But this was not to be. In less than twenty months after they met he became ill and died after a short illness. This was devastating to his fiance, and it took a long time for her to get over the traumatic shock of having to give him up.

She later married a fine man and that union was blessed with three wonderful children.

Allen McBrayer was loved and respected by all who knew him. He was slim, tall, erect, had blue eyes and light reddish hair. Some of his friends called him, "the dear doctor". He was a typical southern gentleman.

He loved to hunt birds during the hunting season and owned fine bird dogs which he prized and loved. He always wore a smile and had a pleasant word for everyone.

Dr. McBrayer died in a hospital in Dothan, Alabama during the night of April 10, 1931. His body was shipped to Shelby where he was buried in Sunset Cemetery. "Love is eternal," 1 Corinthians 13.

Sources: Dr. McBrayer, The Cleveland Times, The Cleveland County Historical Society, Inc., and Friends

— Henrietta Braswell Chapman (Mrs. Thomas Henry Chapman, Jr.)

ROBERT and FRANCES HARRILL McBRAYER

739

Robert McBrayer was born in Cleveland County, North Carolina on December 17, 1807 to David (1775-1843) and Delila Webb McBrayer (1787-1867). He lived in the two-story log house located on the Lattimore-Boiling Springs Road with his parents and eleven brothers and sisters. This house still stands and is occupied today.

Sometime after 1824, he bought the Dr. Joseph Hamilton home and farm on Highway 74 near Mooresboro. The old log store building where Dr. Hamilton operated a store and practiced medicine has been preserved. Robert deeded this property to his son, John E., and later it went to his son, Yates, who still lives at the homeplace.

Robert was a farmer by trade. He was a active member of the Sandy Run Baptist Church where he served as a deacon for many years.

On March 10, 1831, he married Frances Harrill (June 10, 1815), daughter of Samuel (1772-1871) and Susanna Hamrick Harrill. "Aunt Frankie" as she was affectionately called, was active in her community and her church. In 1891, she and her family left their church in Mooresboro to become charter members of the newly organized Baptist church in Lattimore.

The children of Robert and Frances McBrayer were:

(1) Cynthia (1832) married Samuel Eskridge and Jessie Jolley, (2) Pricilla (1834-1858) married James Greene, (3) Amos (1836-1879) married Amanda Stroud, (4) Delilah (B. 1839) married W.J. Wilkie, (5) Samuel (1841-1862), (6) David (1844-1935) married Martha Ann Blanton, (7) Robert B. (1846-1911) married Carrie Eskridge and Amanda Logan, (8) John E. (1849-1923) married Margaret Lovelace, (9) James (1852-1859), (10) Susannah (1856-1857), (11) William (1859-1860).

Robert died June 30, 1884 at the age of 76 years. The following is from his obituary in the Cleveland Star. "Upright, honest, pure, loyal and affectionate, he lived as he died, a consistent christian. He was a good father and a loving husband, no one knew him but to admire him."

Frances, who was 95, died January 23, 1911 and was buried in the McBrayer-Lovelace Cemetery beside her husband. Eight of her children had preceded her in death.

— Ruth Dover

VICTOR McBRAYER, M.D.

740

Victor McBrayer was the son of Reuben and Pinkie Stroud McBrayer and fifth generation of William McBrayer, a Scottish immigrant. He was born September 25, 1853 in Cleveland County and in 1875 he graduated in medicine at the University of New York. "Dr. Vic", as he was known, began the practice of medicine in Shelby immediately after his graduation. He was the first doctor in the area to correctly diagnose an appendicitis.

Dr. Victor McBrayer, 1853-1897

On April 28, 1880 he married Esther Suttle of a prominent Cleveland County family. In 1884, Dr. Vic constructed one of the largest and prettiest Victorian houses in Shelby for his family. The house still stands at 507 North Morgan Street and is on the National Register of Historic Places. The house is the residence of Mrs. Elizabeth McBrayer Owen, who was born in the house on October 13, 1897. Dr. Vic had the first telephone in Shelby with a line between his home and office. His home also had its private water system and one of Shelby's first bathtubs.

A deacon in Shelby Baptist Church, Dr. McBrayer was the "beloved physician" of his community and a leading business man. There were many elements of the true hero in his character. For several years before his death in September 1897, he became aware that he had "Bright's disease of the kidneys" but continued his work. When his sickness made his retirement compulsory visitors from the county towns inquired as to his health and expressed wishes for his restoration to the business circles where his stern integrity was recognized.

Dr. McBrayer died when he was only forty-four years of age. All of the business in Shelby closed their doors and the upper grades of school were dismissed to attend his funeral services.

Mrs. McBrayer, Esther Jane Suttle, lived thirty-four years after her beloved husband passed on. She was a daughter of Rev. Joseph P. Suttle, who was one of the pioneer Baptist preachers in Cleveland County, and Elvira Elizabeth Blanton Suttle, who was the daughter of the first sheriff of Cleveland County. Mrs. McBrayer always actively identified herself with the religious and social life of the community and was a most active member and constant attendant at the First Baptist Church where she held her membership since young womanhood. Gentle, thoughtful and sympathetic she was one of Shelby's most lovely characters.

Dr. and Mrs. McBrayer had the following children: Almer Gray, Montrose Pallen, Willie Ruben, George David and Elizabeth Victor.

Alma married Paul Webb, a prominent apothecary and financier of Shelby. They had one son, Paul Webb, Jr. born June 8, 1902 and died January 7, 1960, he married Annie Estelle Clark on June 12, 1926.

Montrose Pallen, was born August 21, 1886 and died August 28, 1964. She married Otis M. Mull, a prominent attorney and financier of Shelby on June 12, 1907. They had one daughter, Montrose Pallen Mull, who was born on July 25, 1909 and died May 24, 1972. On June 8, 1938 she married Earl Holleman Meacham. The Meacham's had two children; (1) Otis Mull Meacham born December 18, 1949 and (2) Montrose Pallen Meacham born August 5, 1943. On June 12, 1965 Montrose Pallen Meacham married Lacy Henry Ballard, Jr. The Ballard's live in Shelby and have two children: (1) Montrose Rebecca Ballard born April 1, 1968 and (2) Lacy Henry Ballard, III born March 19, 1973.

Dr. Victor McBrayer's Home

Willie Reuben McBrayer was born October 22, 1890. He lived in Raleigh, North Carolina and died on October 28, 1972.

George David McBrayer was born June 18, 1892 and died October 3, 1898.

Elizabeth Victor McBrayer was born October 13, 1897 less than a month after the death of her father, Dr. McBrayer. She married Penry Owen on July 5, 1934. Mr. Owen was born July 30, 1899 and died February 1, 1971.

— Elizabeth McBrayer Owen

Sara Jacquelyn Harry McCarter

McCARTER — HARRY

741

Sara Jacquelyn Harry, April 18, 1920, daughter of Audy and Bessie Howard Harry. Sara, better known as Sady spent the active part of her life serving others. She excelled in cake decorating, catering and teaching the art.

In 1939, she married Wilburn (Bill) McCarter, also of Grover, a son of Dave and Maudilion Cony McCarter. They raised two daughters, Elizabeth Ann and Mary Susan.

W.W. McCarter "Bill" is active in church life as Music Director, Sunday School teacher. He was elected Mayor in 1975 and is still serving in 1982.

— Bessie H. Harry

FAMILY OF JOHN LEWIS McDOWELL

742

John Lewis McDowell, born March 27, 1897, is a descendant of Ephriam & Margaret McDowell of Ulster, Ireland. Ephriam was born in 1673 and lived more than a century, dying after 1773. He and his wife moved to Pennsylvania and later to Virginia. Col. Joseph McDowell, great-great-great-grandfather of Lewis McDowell fought in the Battle of Kings Mountain during the Revolutionary War in 1780.

Lewis McDowell served in the Aviation Signal Corps. Overseas in World War I. He married Docia Eleanor Bowers, who was born Sept. 24, 1887. They have lived in Shelby since 1921. Lewis McDowell was Railway Express agent and later Asst. Postmaster of Shelby Post Office. He has been active in many civic organizations including membership in Rotary Club and Masonic Lodge. He served as Commander of American Legion and Fire Chief of volunteers Shelby Fire Dept. He is a member of Hoey Bible Class and Central United Methodist Church.

Docia McDowell was born in Galax, Va., and was very active in community activities. She was an officer in DAR, Shelby Woman's Club, Phil Acres Garden Club and Hospital Aux. Mrs. McDowell was a member of Ladies Bible Class and Central United Methodist Church. Docia died Jan. 5, 1972.

A daughter, Harriette McDowell, was born Dec. 17, 1921. She graduated from Shelby High School and Queens College, with a BS in Home Economics. She married J.M. Holton from New Bern.

Harriette taught Home Economics at Shelby Senior High School for 30 years. She served as State President of N.C. Home Economics Assoc. for two years. President of N.C. Education Assoc. in Shelby, National adviser of Future Homemakers Board, Delegate to two International Home Economics Meeting in Paris, France and Bristol, England representing the USA. She had many state and national Future Homemakers of America Officers from Shelby High School. Harriette was chosen as North Carolina Home Economic Teacher of the Year in 1974 and National Merit Teacher of USA.

Harriette Eleanor Holton daughter of Harriette and J.M. Holton, was born July 20, 1947. Eleanor was an honor graduate of Shelby High School and Limestone College, Cum Laude. She was selected as one of the two in the nation as the most outstanding Home Economics students in college and served as College Editor for FORECAST for HOME ECONOMIST and CoEd MAGAZINE in New York. Eleanor served as South Carolina Home Economics State President for two years (Harriette and Eleanor were first mother-daughter state presidents in American Home Economics history). Eleanor was Pillsbury Scholar Award Finalist, Pillsbury Co., and served on the White House Conference on Children and Youth. She was chosen as Outstanding Young Woman of America. Eleanor married Mac Hugh McIntyre July 3, 1976. They have a daughter, Susan Dianne, born Nov. 22, 1979 and a son, John Lewis McIntyre, born Dec. 17, 1981. They live in Starkville, MS.

Robert Garen McDowell and Geraldine McDowell, brother and sister of Lewis McDowell and his mother, Helen McDowell made Shelby their home for several years.

— Harriette McDowell Holton

WILLIAM FULTON and ISSAC ABERNATHY MCGILL

743

William Fulton and Issac Abernathy McGill, who live in No. 5 Township, Cleveland County, trace their family back to John McGill. John was born in 1768, and came to North Carolina from County Tyrone, Ireland, during the latter half of the 18th century. The exact date of his arrival is unknown. He married Rebecca McKinney about 1796. He died February 12, 1819, and was buried in Old Pisgah Cemetery near Kings Mountain, North Carolina.

A few years after his death, John McGill's widow, the three daughters and a son moved to Georgia. Another son went to Illinois. Only the oldest child Thomas Porter McGill, born March 22, 1797, remained in North Carolina. On July 12, 1821 he married Martha Dickey. Early in their marriage they built a house which has been added to and remodeled. At present it is occupied by Mary Boyce McGill, a great granddaughter. This house is on a Gaston County road just off North Carolina 216 at the intersection of St. Luke's Church Road in Cleveland County.

Thomas Porter McGill was a farmer. His first wife Martha died and then he married Elizabeth Fulton, November 25, 1859. He died on December 27, 1877 and was buried in Old Pisgah Cemetery near Kings Mountain, North Carolina.

Thomas Porter and Martha Dickey had eight children, four sons and four daughters. The seventh child and third son, William Oates, was born May 19, 1834. He married Mary Catherine Stroupe June 7, 1855. They established their home two and one-half miles from the old home place, but in Cleveland County.

To William and Mary Stroupe McGill (born February 26, 1839) five children were born. Their names, birth and death dates follow: Thomas Abernathy (October 8, 1856 — November 2, 1922), Issac Alexander (November 16, 1858 — August 20, 1937), Ernest Lee (July 22, 1862 — July 29, 1929), Mary Emma (October 10, 1864 — July 7, 1943), and Frances Isabell (October 25, 1866 — April 4, 1933). Only Issac spent his life in Cleveland County.

William McGill died on November 3, 1867. At his death his oldest child was eleven and the youngest, one. Relatives discussed taking the children from Mary Stroupe McGill, but she is reported to have said, "Nobody is going to take one of my children." She farmed and kept the family together. She died February 9, 1901. She and her husband William are buried at Mt. Zion Cemetery near Cherryville, North Carolina.

Issac Alexander McGill spent his life as a farmer on the land where he was born. At one time he had a sawmill, store and cotton gin. He owned land in Gaston and Cleveland counties. He sold the Gaston County land in the 1920s but kept the Cleveland County land.

On November 20, 1889, Issac McGill married Mary Amanda Fulton. Twelve children were born to them. Their names, birth dates and, if deceased, death dates and places of burial follow: James Mills (August 24, 1891 — August 22, 1979), Siloam Baptist Church Cemetery near Harrells, North Carolina; George DeKalb (February 19, 1893 — December 24, 1978), Siloam Baptist Church Cemetery, near Harrells, North Carolina; Gussie Lee (December 1, 1894 — September 4, 1914), Old Bethel Cemetery, Cleveland County; Mary Kathleene (September 16, 1896); Emma Pratt (January, 14, 1899 — September 21, 1962), Elizabeth Church Cemetery; Edna (November 11, 1900 — April 9, 1901), Old Bethel Cemetery, Cleveland County; Laura Alexander (February 11, 1902 — October 3, 1956), Oak Grove Cemetery, Cleveland County; William Fulton (February 27, 1904); Mildred Ardella (August 19, 1906); Issac Abernathy (October 9, 1908); Raymond (March 1, 1913); and John Leland (May 6, 1916).

George and James McGill moved to eastern North Carolina where they farmed and sawed timber until both were in their middle eighties. George married Elizabeth Woody December 21, 1941 and had one son who lives at Harrells, North Carolina.

Mary Kathleene McGill married Rufus Lawrence Plonk on January 4, 1918 and reared five children.

Emma Pratt married a Cleveland County farmer, George Alanzo Spake, on May 24, 1922 and had three children.

Laura McGill married W. Lee Wolfe November 2, 1921 and had a child, Addie Louise, born September 6, 1923. She is married and lives in the Oak Grove section of Cleveland County.

Mildred McGill became a registered nurse, married Paul Pressly Rumble August 28, 1931 and had five children. She lives in Castle Hayne, North Carolina.

William Fulton McGill married Bessie G. Weaver December 21, 1939 and Issac married Edna Grant April 15, 1933. The two brothers operate the farm owned by their grandparents and have purchased additional land. They have done sawmilling, and owned and operated heavy construction equipment used in building dams and moving earth. They built an earth dam for a reservoir for water which Kings Mountain used until Moss Lake was built.

Raymond McGill moved to Charlotte, married Edna EuJearia Dulin Marcy 27, 1945 and had one daughter. Edna EuJearia died on July 13, 1976. He married Dorothy Sawyer April 1, 1978. He and his daughter live in Florida.

Leland McGill moved to eastern North Carolina, married Eleanor Olivia Dixon January 11, 1942 and currently lives near Wallace, North Carolina.

Sources: Whitesides, Martha Elizabeth McGill. History of the McGills of Gaston County and Roll of Descendants of Thomas Porter McGill and Martha Dickey. Wolfe, Annie Lee; Carpenter, Ellen McGill; Gamble, Jean McArver; and Harmon, Martin. Originally compiled by Martha Elizabeth McGill Whitesides, 1940. History of the McGills of Gaston County and Roll of Descendants of Thomas Porter McGill and Martha Dickey. Revised 1972. Personal knowledge. Cemetery records. McGill Family Bible. Correspondence with Bessie Weaver McGill and Mary Kathleene McGill Plonk. Interview with Issac Abernathy and Edna Grant McGill.

— Martha A. Plonk

THE BROADDIE V. and MARY HARDIN McINTYRE FAMILY

744

Broadie Veronia McIntyre (1887-1964), born in Cleveland County, was the son of Squire Mike Osborne (1845-1922) and Sarah Logan Putnam McIntyre (1845-1925). He was a brother to Florence Elena McIntyre Rippy (1869-1930), Alice Corena McIntyre Hamrick (1870-1937), Ellen Eugenia (1872-1900), William Renzo (1875-1939), Martin Franklin

Broadie Veronia and Mary Rosetta Hardin McIntyre.

(1878-1963), Theodocia Fostiena (1881-1883), and Marshall Clifton McIntyre (1884-1885).

On February 16, 1910, Papa married Mary Rosetta Hardin (1889-1977), daughter of Joshua Augustus (1860-1941) and Heathern Elizabeth Hamrick Hardin (1866-1939). She was a sister to Joe Marvin (1895), Pansy Flay Hardin Turner (1897), and Walter Yates Hardin (1905-1970).

Their wedding was held at the home of the brides parents in Number Three Township. The Reverend D.G. Washburn conducted the ceremony in the crowded setting room with R.L. Putnam, M.W. Street, and J.W. Pruitt serving as witnesses.

Papa and Mama lived with his parents the first five years of their marriage. During that time their first three children were born, Franklin Floyd (1911), Madge Elizabeth (1912), and Ray Ilene (1914). Papa supported his growing family by farming and doing whatever carpentry jobs that were available.

In 1915, Papa and Mama moved to a house near the First Broad River south of Shelby. A short time later they moved to the Lloyd Hamrick place, also in south Shelby, where their fourth child, Mary Helen (1917), was born.

Papa and Mama moved to the old Doug Hardin homeplace in 1918 which was located in the grove of trees at the present Shelby Sales Barn. Their remaining six children were born there, Thelma Lee (1919), Dewey William (1921), Blaine Edwin (1923), Gus Hardin (1925), Margaret Ruth (1927), and Sara Jacquelin (1930).

In 1939, Papa moved his family the last time when they moved in with Mama's father, Gus Hardin, to care for him and his farm. When Grandpa died in 1941, Papa and Mama bought half of the farm and Mama's brother, Yates, bought the other half.

When the children were small, Papa and Mama would help them with their homework. Papa would take one group and have them recite their studies and Mama would do the same with the other children. Education was very important to them and they made sure all ten of their children finished high school.

In the early years before radio and television Papa would entertain the family with his harmonica and autoharp. He had made a harmonica holder to fit around his neck and would play both instruments at the same time. During the "laying-by-time," the period between the hoeing and picking of cotton, Papa would entertain by playing hymns and the children would gather around and sing. Many evenings the neighbors would hear the music and go to Papa's house for fun and fellowship.

For many years Papa either drove his mule-drawn wagon or walked through the woods from the Sulphur Springs Road area to Zoar Baptist Church on Highway 18. In 1950, however, he joined the newly organized Putnam Memorial Baptist Church which was much closer to his home. He loved Sunday School and attended every Sunday except one when he was ill, and then the class met with him. This enabled him to achieve ten years of perfect Sunday School attendance.

Not only was he a faithful member to the church but he was also a faithful worker. He was a deacon for many years and in 1957 the church bestowed on him the title of Honorary Deacon, a title given to only one other member of the church.

Papa died of a stroke in 1964 and was buried at Cleveland Memorial Park near Boiling Springs. Mama continued keeping house for herself and her youngest brother, Yates, until his death in 1970. At that time she sold the farm and moved in with her oldest daughter, Madge, where she lived until her death in 1977.

Although Papa and Mama did not contribute anything of monumental significance to the history of Cleveland County, their presence was felt by many. They left a feeling of love and pride in their children and grandchildren who wished to share a piece of their heritage with you.

Sources: Family records, Gravestones, Family memoirs

— Debby McIntyre

EZRA FESTUS MCKINNEY

745

Ezra Festus McKinney, usually known by the initials "E.F.," often called by the more familiar "Mr. Mac," was born near Lattimore, North Carolina, 8 September 1883. His father, Samuel Jefferson McKinney (1855-1929), was descended from William and Amy McKinney, early settlers of the Sandy Run section, and his mother, nee Octavia Bridges (1860-1942), was the youngest of the fourteen children of John and Cynthia Jones Bridges.

E.F. McKinney was the oldest son among their nine children: Augusta, married J.B.

Broaddie McIntyre Family

Whitaker; E. Festus, married Alice Poston; Elmer, married Nettie Green; Hubert, died, age 1; Dennis (twin), married Annie Beam; Sere-nus (twin), married Ellen Wilson; Winford, married Lela Price; Bertha, married Beauford Hord; Maude, died, age 3.

Three of these families settled in Cleveland County: E.F. and Alice Poston McKinney and Elmer and Nettie Green McKinney in Shelby, and Beauford and Bertha McKinney Hord in Lawndale. The others lived in Rutherford County.

Soon after his marriage, Samuel purchased a farm near Ellenboro, North Carolina, and he and Octavia reared their children, instructing them to "Search the Scriptures," live by Biblical teachings, and engage in honest work. Samuel's old account book shows meticulous entries for customer services, sharpening plows, replacing wagon wheels, shoeing horses, and making spinning wheels. Also entered was the cost of building Philadelphia Primitive Baptist Church which the family attended.

Samuel and Octavia Bridges McKinney are buried at Bethel Baptist Church Cemetery, Ellenboro.

Grandchildren relate happy times in the Samuel McKinney home where the teacake jar was always full and picking fresh figs was a special treat. Grandma's keen sense of humor enlivened her stories and the Edison phonograph furnished a musical background.

E.F. McKinney worked as a farm laborer to earn money to attend the preparatory division of Mars Hill College. When lack of finances did not allow him to continue, he passed a teacher's examination and taught briefly at a school at Pea Ridge. In 1906 he was employed by T.A. Spangler Company, a meat and grocery business in Shelby. He became owner of a similar business which he operated until 1935 when he sold it to a nephew, James Magness.

By this time he had acquired a large farm acreage, adding substantially to his wife's inheritance of land in Cleveland County. Here he grew cotton and grain, ran a cotton gin, cleared new ground, built rental houses, and was agent for fertilizer companies.

In these projects he had the assistance and loyal devotion of his wife, nee Alice Poston, daughter of Daniel and Margaret Ann Weathers

Poston, the latter a granddaughter of William Weathers in whose home was held the first session of Cleveland County Court in 1841. In addition to her home duties, she also served as family nurse and was often called by relatives and friends. She loved growing flowers, an interest her husband shared, and while other mothers sent boxes of food to their college children, she once included from her garden a carefully packed bouquet of her daughter's favorite little blue hyacinths.

E.F. and Alice Poston McKinney were parents of two children: Troy Vaughn, married first Eileen Stikeleather, and second, Ethel Currie; Mildred Lucille, married Felix Otis Gee. In the midst of busy lives, the McKinneys made time for their children, teaching them responsibility, setting a Christian example and providing a college education.

They were members of First Baptist Church where E.F. served as a deacon and on various committees.

When the children were quite young, their father built for them a small swimming pool and later a tennis court. The Shelby home was always open to their friends and their mountain cottage at Chestnut Hills was a gathering place for friends and relatives, young and old.

Having been instilled with the work ethic, he pursued it with great determination, and even in advancing years, E.F. McKinney found it difficult to retire. In his last years he operated a riding stable, mostly for a hobby. Here many Shelby youth and also adults learned to enjoy horseback riding. Returning home from a horse show on 15 August 1954, he stopped to assist the driver of the horse van and was fatally injured when struck by an approaching car.

His widow, a semi-invalid in her last years, died 25 June 1977. They are buried in Sunset Cemetery, Shelby, North Carolina.

Sources: Family Bible records, family records, personal knowledge, interviews, and Cleveland County deed records.

— Mildred McKinney (Mrs. Felix) Gee

JAMES MCKINNEY

746

James McKinney, born 2 July 1818 near Lattimore, presently Cleveland, formerly

Rutherford, County, North Carolina, was the son of William Henry and Elizabeth Dugger Callahan McKinney. He grew up on land inherited by his father, a part of the acreage settled in 1800 by James' grandparents, William and Amy McKinney.

James married a neighbor, Elizabeth Horn, and they were parents of nine children; Jesse, died age 1; Nancy Susanna, single; Margaret Elizabeth, married John Webb McKinney; Sarah Wilson, single; Bidy Mela, single; David James, died age 17; Samuel Jefferson, married Octavia Bridges; Francis Roxanna, married Doctor Joe Suttle Walker; John Alexander, married Johnnie Francis Price.

Interviews with those who knew James suggest that he was a farmer and blacksmith who used his forge to make farm instruments and machinery as well as cooking utensils. In later years he and his son, John Alexander, ran a grist mill. Letters to and from his parents who moved to McDowell County indicate a close relationship. The family belonged to Philadelphia Primitive Baptist Church where James was a leader.

A great grandson of James, Clyde Spurgeon McKinney, deceased son of Elam McKinney, and former resident of Columbia, South Carolina wrote in the 1970's his recollections:

"Great-Grandfather McKinney was a farmer, blacksmith, and a cabinet maker. His home was two stories built of pine lumber without a knot in the house. The planks were dressed by hand, the nails made in the blacksmith shop and the framing fastened together with wooden pegs. Of special interest was a fan over the dining room table. In days when there were no electric fans, this one was run by a grandfather clock, which when wound would run for two hours. Joining the nearby blacksmith shop was a woodworking shop where furniture, wagons, plowstocks and caskets were built. A large water wheel to run my grandfather's grist mill was also fashioned there.

"Grandfather was a kind and gentle man who loved all of his children, grandchildren and great grandchildren. He gathered medicinal herbs and although not a physician was often called to help sick neighbors."

Described as age 46, 5 feet 7 inches tall, with dark complexion, dark hair and gray eyes, James McKinney, Private, is listed on the Confederate Army Muster Roll of Company H, 4th Regiment of the North Carolina Senior Reserves commanded by Colonel John Hoke and Captain Robert Magness. Also known as the 73rd Regiment of N.C. Troops, it was composed of "men between the ages of 45 and 50 and a portion of them was sent to Salisbury to guard the prisoners there confined." This information is from Volume IV of Walter Clark's Histories of the Several Regiments and Battalions From North Carolina in the Great War 1861-64, pages 66-67.

James's letters and correspondence from fellow soldiers, James M. Wilson and William Wiggins, provide sidelights of Confederate history not found in textbooks. James wrote often to his family expressing his love and concern for them and describing with sadness the terrible conditions at Salisbury prison. He advised his wife when to plow, how to take care of the livestock and when to sell the crops. He thanked her for sending "pokes of food" and for her letters. He insisted that daughter Margaret teach the younger children to write and added: "Search the Scriptures" . . . "Obey your mother" . . . "Be careful how and when you speak, especially to old people" . . . "God rules and in Him I put my trust" . . . "Try to live a life becoming a Christian."

Following the war James returned to an active life in Lattimore community. After his wife's death in 1883 his maiden daughters provided a happy home for him. Newlywed neighbors, George and Lillie Poston Magness, now deceased, remembered the family with special fondness and Mrs. Magness said, "I can see him now coming down the road with a split basket, one he'd made, filled with June apples for us. He was always sharing."

James outlived his daughters and spent his last years with Samuel's family near Ellenboro. Samuel's children always spoke lovingly of "Grandser." He died 6 December 1914, age 96. The casket he had made for himself was drawn by a wagon he also had built, and he was buried beside his wife at McKinney Cemetery near Lattimore, North Carolina.

Sources: Personal interviews, Cleveland County deeds, Family Bible records, Histories of the Several Regiments and Battalions from North Carolina in the Great War 1861-65, by Walter Clark, National Archives Record, Group 109; Original McKinney correspondence and papers.

— Mildred McKinney (Mrs. Felix) Gee

WILLIAM MCKINNEY

747

William McKinney (1766-1857), the oldest child of Daniel and Sarah Weathers McKinney, was born 6 May 1766 Sussex County, Virginia. With his parents, he migrated to Bute County (Franklin and Warren in 1779) around 1778. Daniel and Sarah left Franklin County in 1790, selling two hundred sixty-three acres and deeding one hundred acres to their son, William, as a gift.

The senior McKinney family moved to York County, South Carolina, later to Mecklenburg, and finally to the Sandy Run area of Rutherford, now Cleveland County, North Carolina. This was the same pattern of migration followed by many Sussex, Virginia friends and relatives so the early travellers were not usually among strangers.

After a few years William, who by then had a wife and children, sold his land in Franklin County, Va., and joined his parents. However, he settled permanently in North Carolina and did not move on with his father and his younger brothers and sisters. Six of them settled in Tennessee: John, Seth, Mary (Murphy), Rebecca (Julian), Sarah (Horn), and Nancy (Crowder); James and Jesse went with their father to Monroe County, Mississippi, where they lived the remainder of their lives.

In the Revolutionary War, Daniel McKinney served for a period in the Continental Line and William entered service from Franklin County, Va., as a substitute for his father. GSA File 9017 contains William's application and approval for a pension for his military service.

In the application he stated that he was with

Colonel Washington and General Lee when they took possession of Charleston. It reports "the fires of the gard (sic) still burning. When we received news of the peace we were marched into a large old field near General Gist's and had great rejoicing and drew double rations. The officers carried a high pole to be set up and candles fired thereon to luminate the camp."

William said men he served with included Charles Durham, Daniel Gould, David Beam, Samuel Bailey and John Hord, names familiar in Cleveland County. Drury Dobbins, clergyman, and Lemuel Moore concurred in the opinion that he was a Revolutionary soldier, and Willis Weathers deposed that he was acquainted with William and attested to his tour of service.

The War Department replied that "William McKinney is entitled to receive thirty-six dollars and sixty-six cents per annum during natural life commencing 4th day of March 1831."

William and Amy and their children joined Sandy Run Baptist Church, the parents transferring from Sugar Creek (now Flint Hill) in York County, South Carolina where William had served as deacon and treasurer. In 1850 William and some of his family were leaders in the organization of Philadelphia Primitive Baptist Church.

William McKinney's Bible records his marriage to Amy, surname not given, on 17 August 1783 and lists the birth dates of their children: Susanna, 1 March 1785 (married Edmund Jones); Burnice, January 1788 (married Millie Jones); Polly, 25 February 1790 (married Robert Jones); Sally, 2 September 1791 (single); Bedie, 4 June 1793 (married Zacharia McDaniel); Willis, 9 January 1796 (married Patsy Buchanan); William Henry, 5 June 1799 (married Elizabeth Dugger Callahan); Leathy, 14 March 1801 (married John Green). Many descendants of these families now live in Cleveland County.

A few years prior to his death William McKinney, Senior, made deeds of gift of one hundred acres to each of his two sons Willis and William Henry, who by then had families of their own. His will, probated 1857, names all the children on the Bible record; his wife had pre-deceased him. He and Amy are buried in the McKinney family cemetery near Lattimore, North Carolina.

William Henry McKinney, the seventh child of William and Amy McKinney, was born 5 June 1799. He married Elizabeth Dugger Callahan 12 August 1817, and they lived for a while on land given William Henry by his father.

They were the parents of five children: Aletha, married Simon McKinney; James, married Elizabeth Horn; Daniel, married first, Sarah Forbes and second, Phoebe Davis; Sarah, married Nathan Davis, Lydia, married Jonathan Horn.

By 1865 William Henry, his wife, their daughter, Lydia McKinney Horn, and her children and a granddaughter, Narcissa Jane, daughter of Daniel and Sarah Forbes McKinney and later the wife of Francis Gardner, were all living in McDowell County where census records listed William Henry as a minister. William Henry and Elizabeth McKinney, their daughter and a grandchild are buried in the old Epps Cemetery in McDowell County.

Sources: Deed, probate, census records of Bute. (Va.), Franklin, (Va.), Rutherford, McDowell, and Cleveland Counties; Albemarle Parish Register of Surry and Sussex Counties, Virginia; genealogical correspondence; and family Bible records.

— Mildred McKinney (Mrs. Felix) Gee

ARCHIBALD GORDON McLARTY

748

Archibald Gordon McLarty was born July 7, 1939 in Durham, North Carolina. He was the only son of Fruman Gordon and Elizabeth Suttle McLarty. He was educated in the Shelby and Durham city schools, Horace Mann Academy, New York City, Hargrave Military Academy, Chatam, Virginia, and Wofford College in Spartanburg, South Carolina.

With an avid interest in sports he became a golf professional in Spartanburg. He was later associated as a stockbroker with the firms of Hornblower & Weeks and McCarley & Company in Spartanburg. He is currently engaged in the wholesale car business and manager of the Shelby Auto Auction.

On December 10, 1966, he married Barbara Ann White, daughter of James Wilson and Okley Chapman White. They have two daughters: Melinda Ann b. December 31, 1968 at Cleveland Memorial Hospital; Mary Angela b. December 29, 1969 at Cleveland Memorial Hospital.

Barbara Ann White McLarty was born on July 6, 1942 in Cleveland County. She is a graduate of Shelby High School (1960) and Salem College (1964) in Winston-Salem, North Carolina. She earned a degree in sociology-economics. She is a mother, housewife and part-time real estate broker.

The McLarty family are members of Central United Methodist Church in Shelby. Gordon's grandfather, Dr. E.K. McLarty, was the minister there in the early 1930's.

Sources: Family records

— Barbara White McLarty

FURMAN GORDON McLARTY

749

Furman Gordon McLarty was born in Asheville, North Carolina on September 14, 1906. He was the son of Rev. Emmett Kennedy and Mary Brown McLarty. He died on December 26, 1951 and is buried in Asheville.

He graduated from Asheville High School in 1923, and entered Duke University the same year. He majored in Greek. While at Duke he was a member of the Order of Red Friars, Omicron Delta Kappa, "9091", and Delta Sigma Phil. He was president of his senior class when he won the Rhodes Scholarship to Oxford University in England for three years. At Oxford he received his B.A. and M.A. from New College. Two years (1930-1932) followed at Harvard University where he received the Ph.D. degree. He joined the Duke faculty in 1933 and there he received a doctorate in philosophy.

Willis McMurry, June 12, 1899 — November 26, 1975.

In 1934, he married Esther Elizabeth Suttle in Shelby, North Carolina. They had one son, Archibald Gordon McLarty.

During World War II he served as a lieutenant in the U.S. Naval Reserve at various European bases.

At the time of his death he was Duke's Director of Undergraduate studies in philosophy and was president of the Duke Chapter of Phi Beta Kappa. He was the permanent president of his college class.

Music was always a dominant interest for him. He was a founder of the Durham Civic Choral Society and was its first president. He was a member of Trinity Church and its Board of Stewards as well as being a tenor soloist there and at the Duke Chapel.

Esther Elizabeth (Betty) Suttle McLarty was born on October 4, 1907 in Shelby, North Carolina. She is the daughter of Julius Albert Suttle, Sr., and Ethel Lineberger Suttle. She attended Shelby City Schools and Converse College in Spartanburg, South Carolina, as well as The School of Creative Arts in Asheville, North Carolina.

On June 11, 1934 she married to Furman Gordon McLarty. They had one son, Archibald Gordon McLarty, born on July 7, 1939. Furman and Elizabeth have two granddaughters, Melinda Ann (December 31, 1968) and Mary Angela (December 29, 1969).

Sources: Family records, Newspapers clippings

— Barbara White McLarty

ANDREW WILLIS McMURRY

750

Andrew Willis McMurry and a twin sister Sara Elizabeth McMurry Moore were born in Kirksville, Kentucky on June 12, 1899. They were the children of Avery Winslow McMurry and Cora Belle Willis. When they were six months old the family moved to Shelby, N.C. since his father was a native of Shelby.

After Willis finished high school he went to State College in Raleigh, N.C. and picked up some honors including membership in Psi Psi textile fraternity. He also played football for four years and was an all-Southern football end. Following graduation at State College, he married Julia Virginia Ligon of Shelby, N.C. January 21, 1921. They had three children as follows, Avery Willis McMurry born November 7, 1921 who married Virginia Faunce of Philadelphia, Pa. Virginia Elizabeth McMurry born June 10, 1924 who married Thomas Reinhardt Jones, John Eugene McMurry born October 6, 1927 who married Rachel Louis Venning of Charleston, S.C. Willis was an all-around enthusiast. He liked fishing, baseball, and golf. But he was such an all-around guy, that he could turn a hand at almost anything including ice, which he once demonstrated to amazed friends at Colorado during a Rotary Convention at San Francisco, California.

When Willis was drafted for chairmanship of the Special Gifts committee of the United Fund, this committee prime raiser enlisted in a cause in which he believed intently and worked at over twelve years. Over the past 31 years after he returned from State College, he was called into just about every local financial campaign directly or indirectly until he found it taking so much of his time that he urged a Community Chest which was organized.

At 53 Willis was a partner in a cotton firm with John D. Campbell and Company, but from the time he graduated in textile engineering at State College, he was closely associated with textile industry in Cleveland County. For four years he was superintendent of Double Shoals Mill at Double Shoals, N.C. For nearly twenty years, he was superintendent of the Belmont cotton mill of Shelby which his family owned for many years. He was a member of the Shelby Rotary Club and served as President in 1952. While serving as President, the local club gave a miniature diesel train to the city park. That was only a part of the many sided civic activities of this busy Clevelander, who was active in the First Baptist Church and its Newton Men's Bible Class, the Elk's Club, the American Legion, the forty and eight, the Chamber of Commerce of which he was a director, the Cleveland Country Club which he was also a director of, a trustee of the Shelby and Cleveland County Foundation, and a U.S. army veteran of World War I. He was a first lieutenant in the National Guard in Shelby from 1930 to 1938.

After Willis retired, he spent his time farming and was a real successful farmer. His pleasure was raising super vegetables and giving them to friends, and also to his grandchildren to sell and earn spending money. Willis died suddenly at his home, from a heart attack on November 26, 1975 and was buried at Sunset Cemetery in Shelby, N.C. His home was at 511 South Washington Street.

Avery Winslow McMurry

— Mrs. Willis McMurry

AVERY WILLIS McMURRY, M.D.

751

Avery Willis McMurry, the first-born of three children, to Julia Ligon McMurry and Andrew Willis McMurray, on Monday, November 7, 1921, in the Leon Eugene Ligon house on North Morgan Street, Shelby, North Carolina. Dr. E.B. Lattimore attended the home delivery. The McMurrys then returned to their home near the Double Shoals Cotton Mill at Double Shoals, North Carolina. Andrew Willis McMurry was Superintendent of the Mill, which his father Avery Winslow McMurry owned at the time. The Andrew Willis McMurrys lived at Double Shoals for two and a half years, and then moved to South LaFayette Street in Shelby, North Carolina, across from the Belmont Mill, where Avery's Father was transferred.

He attended the former Marion Elementary School, located on the site of the Winn-Dixie Store on East Marion Street. He was baptized at the age of nine on April 12, 1931 in the First Baptist Church under the pastorate of Dr. Zeno Wall. He first was a member of Boy Scout Troop #6, and later a member of Troop #2, and earned the Eagle Scout Medal with two palms, on January 25, 1937. Many years later on returning to Shelby, he served on the Cleveland County District of the Piedmont Council, now renamed the Battleground District. He became the Chairman of the Council, organized the Medical Explorer Post at the Cleveland Memorial Hospital, and is still advisor to this Post. On February 13, 1968 he and his brother John Eugene McMurry, received the coveted adult leadership award of the 'Silver Beaver'

Graduating Valedictorian in 1938 at the age of sixteen from the original Shelby High School, he entered the Citadel in Charleston, South Carolina where he studied Pre-Med, and earned the Bachelors of Science Degree in 1942. He was a member of the Citadel Honor Society, Cadet Captain, and Company Commander of 'E Company'. He received the American Legion Award for outstanding Company Commander.

Attending Jefferson Medical College in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, he earned his Doctor's degree in 1945. A member of the Phi Chi Medical Fraternity, received the physiology prize in his sophomore year, and was elected to the 'Alpha Omega Alpha Honor Society' in his junior year. A rotating Internship at the Pennsylvania Hospital in Philadelphia during 1945 and 1946. He entered the Air Force as a Captain in the Medical Corps, and served as a Flight Surgeon with the Air Transport Command, stationed at Orly International Air Field in France. He became a member of the Caterpillar Club after having to bail out of his plane over Turkey, on December 9, 1947. On returning to the United States after his discharge from the Air Force, he resumed his Medical Career at the Pennsylvania Hospital, studying Pathology in 1948, followed by four years of surgical and thoracic training.

Avery Winslow & Cora Willis McMurry, Wedding Day March 4, 1895.

Preparing for his future practice of surgery in Shelby, he brought Virginia Eleanore Faunce R.N., to his home for the Christmas Holidays in 1952. At this time he was making plans for his partnership with the late Dr. John W. Harbison, who was practicing General Surgery in the old Professional Building on South Washington Street. In August 1953 an announcement of their engagement appeared in the local papers. The wedding took place in the newly constructed Webb Chapel of the First Baptist Church on November 7, 1953 with Rev. Harlan Harris officiating. The Saturday evening event was also the occasion of Dr. McMurry's thirty-second birthday, and was a double celebration. One year later on their first anniversary, Warren Winslow McMurry was born; November 7, 1954. On February 19, 1956, David Willis McMurry was born, and one year later on February 19, 1957, Harris Ligon McMurry was born. A baby girl finally arrived on August 5, 1958, she was named Carol Avery McMurry.

Dr. McMurry was certified by the American Board of Surgery on May 11, 1954, became a Fellow of the American College of Surgeons in January of 1956, and has been recertified by the American Board Of Surgery in November of 1981. He has been a member of the American Medical Society, the North Carolina Medical Society, the Southeastern Surgical Congress, and the Cleveland County Medical Society. Also a member of the Medical Staff at Cleveland Memorial Hospital and the Kings Mountain Medical Staff from 1953 to the present. In 1968 he served as Chief of Staff at the Cleveland Memorial Hospital, and as President of the Cleveland County Medical Society in 1967. He has also been Chief of Surgery at Cleveland Memorial Hospital.

Among his civic interests were many years service to the Jaycees, and he received the 'Outstanding New Jaycee Award' in 1955. In 1966 he was nominated 'The Outstanding Citizen Of The Year' by the Shelby Lions Club.

His contributions to the American Cancer Society started in 1955 with the organization of a Cancer Detection Center, which operated for ten years. Along with this, there was a research and prevention study done, with the help of many recruited volunteers, which kept statistics and information on approximately 1,130 families interviewed in Cleveland County.

The Cleveland County Chapter of the American Red Cross dominated many years of service in his civic life. Twice being Chapter Chairman, three times Chairman of the Blood Program, served on the Board Of Directors of the local Chapter, on the Borad of the Piedmont Regional Blood Program executive committee, State Moderator for the Blood Program, Vice-Chairman of the North Carolina Fund Raising Committee, served as Chairman for the Southeastern Area Advisory Council from 1966 to 1969, and was Chairman of the Greater Carolinas Chapter in 1971-1972.

He is currently a member of the United Fund Board, active in the Shelby Rotary Club, and recently served on the State Cancer Commission, and Vice-President of the North Carolina Division of the American Cancer Society for the year 1981-1982. He has formerly served on the Salvation Army Board, and in 1981 was elected to a three year term on the Western North Carolina Health Systems Agency.

Besides swimming with the Shelby Masters program he enjoys tennis and snow skiing. He and his wife reside at 820 East Graham Street in Shelby.

Warren Winslow McMurry and his wife, Linda Essa McMurry, reside in Charleston, South Carolina, where Dr. McMurry has started a Surgical Residency at the Medical University of South Carolina. Warren completed his undergraduate studies and his Medical Degree from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

David Willis McMurry, upon graduation from Medical School at the University of North Carolina in Chapel Hill, in May 1982, will be starting a Medical Residency in Savannah, Georgia.

Harris Ligon McMurry, a graduate of Davidson College in 1979, is currently in Graduate School at the University of North Carolina, in Chapel Hill, in the School of Biomedical Engineering. He is also employed in the Radiation Therapy Department at the North Carolina Memorial Hospital.

Carol Avery McMurry received her B.S. degree in Nursing from the University of North Carolina in Chapel Hill, N.C., in May 1980, and is now a Lieutenant in the United States Navy Nurse Corps. Working in the Surgical Intensive Care Unit at Balboa Hospital in San Diego, California.

Sources: Family Bible, Birth Certificates, Year Books, Certificates of awards, plaques, and diplomas and newspaper clippings.

— Mrs. Avery Willis McMurry

AVERY WINSLOW McMURRY

752

Avery Winslow McMurry, a native of Cleveland County, was the son of Margaret Hamrick and Jesse Jenkins McMurry. He was born about four miles west of Shelby on October 25, 1872, at the homeplace of his parents in a section of Cleveland County where his forebears had lived for generations. His great-grandfather, John McMurry, and his grandfather, John Wilson McMurry, had farms which were in the original land grant.

Avery had an older brother named Simeon Andrew, (1870-1958) a sister Hannah Elizabeth, (1874-1903) and two other brothers who died in infancy.

Great grandchildren of Avery Winslow McMurry.

When his mother died, his father moved to Shelby in order for the children to be educated. Avery went to the public schools and later to Captain Bell's private school.

Then he attended Wake Forest. After hearing his older brother tell tall tales about the west he too, traveled west. After returning from the west, he went to eastern Kentucky with several friends as representatives of the Babbington Sewing Machine Company.

There he met Cora Bell Wills (May 2, 1876 — September 20, 1951) and they were married March 4, 1895. They lived near Richmond, Kentucky returning to Shelby in 1900 with a daughter, Margaret Hamrick (Born April 20, 1896) and twins Andrew Willis and Sara Elizabeth (Born June 12, 1899). Later another son J.J. McMurry was born (March 5, 1904) in Shelby.

When in Kentucky he developed a love for beautiful horses, and for many years he kept several thoroughbreds. Many of these horses came from the Fox Farm in Danville, Kentucky.

He managed the Shelby Hotel when he first returned to Shelby. This was a large frame building facing the Courthouse on the lot where Loy's, McNeely's, and Fraziers now stand.

At this time he was in the Livery Stable business with Stough Wray.

In 1920 he and Hugh Miller, Senior built and operated the first Electric Light System in Shelby. An article in the Cleveland Star reported "that Shelby was a well lighted town, but suggested that the town could very well contract for five more large lights, making thirty instead of twenty-five.

Together with his father J.J. McMurry, and his brother Sim & others, purchased the Belmont Cotton Mill in South Shelby from A.C. Miller. Avery was Secretary and Treasurer and general manager for many years. Later on with others they bought the Double Shoals Mill near Lawndale, where A.W. was Secretary and Treasurer, as well as manager. He was active in the cotton brokerage business with his father, brother, his son Willis McMurry and nephew, Jesse Washburn.

"Mr. Mac," as friends called him, was always interested in schools and churches, and was one of the moving spirits behind the rebirth of Gardner-Webb College. He and his brother gave generously toward a building as a memorial to their father J.J. McMurry. He was chairman of the executive committee at Gardner-Webb and on the board of trustees for many years.

He was active in every thing pertaining to the development of Shelby. He loved sports and games of all kinds.

When the Cleveland Memorial Hospital opened in 1923, he served on the first board for twenty or more years. He was so proud of Shelby for having such a fine hospital. "Mr. A.W." operated two large farms on the outskirts of the city and even after he retired, was active in farming.

In 1944 he sold the Belmont Cotton Mill to the Neisler Mills of Kings Mountain. The Double Shoals Mill had been sold previously.

The McMurry's loved to travel. He said he had promised to take "Miss Cora," his wife, back to Kentucky every summer. She and her four children went the first of June to her mother's plantation near Richmond, Kentucky meeting her five sisters and their children to spend the entire summer. In all there were twenty five.

There were many trips all through life to New York, Miami, Florida, Hot Springs, Arkansas, but after retirement to Orlando Florida in winter, and to Blowing Rock or the beach in summer.

Mrs. McMurry died September 20, 1951 and Mr. McMurry on February 22, 1960 and they are both buried in Sunset Cemetery.

Their four children: were Mrs. David Wyeth Royster, Mrs. John Thomas Moore, Andrew Willis McMurry, J.J. McMurry, II. Seven grandchildren were: Dr. Avery W. McMurry, Mrs. Thomas R. Jones, John E. McMurry, David Wyeth Royster, Jr. Mrs. James B.

Taylor, J.J. McMurry III, Sarah Thomas Moore, and 23 great grandchildren.

Sources: Family Bible, Shelby Daily Star, Town Records
— Mrs. D.W. Royster (Daughter)

JESSE JENKINS McMURRY

753

Jesse Jenkins McMurry (Born May 1, 1849 — Died Jan. 5, 1934) son of John Wilson McMurry (Born Feb. 1825 — Died Jan. 27, 1910) and Elizabeth Jenkins (Born Dec. 20, 1831 — Died July 10, 1909). He was born on his grandfather's farm a few miles west of Shelby. Land that bordered on Brushy Creek, Broad River and on Old Sharon Road. He married Margaret Hamrick (1869) and to this union three children were born Simeon Andrew McMurry (Born Feb. 19, 1870 — Died Sept. 6, 1958) Avery Winslow McMurry (Born Oct. 25, 1872 — Died Feb. 22, 1960) and Hannah Elizabeth McMurry (Born July 27, 1874 — Died Jan. 1, 1903). They lived on a farm adjoining his grandfather's farm on Sharon Road.

His wife Margaret died (1885) and later, after he moved to town, he married HESSIE Gardner a sister of Governor O. Max Gardner and Mrs. Clyde R. Hoey. "Miss HESSIE" died six years before Jesse Jenkins. They did not have any children but "Miss HESSIE" was mother to his children, Max Gardner, and later Jess Washburn, a grandchild.

No more highly esteemed and influential citizen lived in the county and Shelby than "Mr. Jesse". He was an authority, both as a farmer, cotton broker, and the merchantile business, having part ownership in the McMurry & Hull Store located on LaFayette Street across from the Courthouse. He was a large land owner growing much cotton and timber. He was also interested in textile manufacturing. When the Shelby Mill was being built, he furnished 2,500 cords of wood (at $1.25 per cord.) In 1902 he was elected to the Shelby Cotton Mill board of Directors. Later he became Secretary and Treasury and after that he was made Vice President in 1922. He was also President of the Belmont Cotton Mill.

He always gave his support to all civic movements. His acquaintances extended into many states. All who knew him loved him for his kind gentle manner, his sound judgement, and generous spirit.

He was a devoted member of the First Baptist Church, his country and to his friends. He was always considerate of the poor and unfortunate.

His daughter, Hannah McMurry Washburn, (married H.L. Washburn) died leaving two small children Jesse Heywood, and Hannah Elizabeth Washburn. He raised the small boy who shared his name Jesse, and then his sister, Ida McMurry took the baby girl Hannah, and reared her as her very own daughter.

His sons, Sim and Avery, donated a twenty four bed wing of a large Dormitory to Gardner-Webb College as a memorial to their father.

He was deeply interested in young people getting an education, and since their mother, Margaret Hamrick, had lived in Boiling Springs in a home practically located on the College Campus. They knew this gift would have pleased him.

Mr. Jesse died on January 5, 1934 leaving his sons and their wives, six grandchildren, Mrs. D.W. Royster, Mrs. Tom Moore, Andrew Willis McMurry, J.J. McMurry II, Jesse Heywood Washburn and Mrs. Phillips Robinson, and several great-grandchildren. He is buried in Sunset Cemetery just two blocks from his homeplace where he lived for many years.

Sources: Family Bible, Family History, The Shelby Daily Star

— Mrs. D.W. Royster

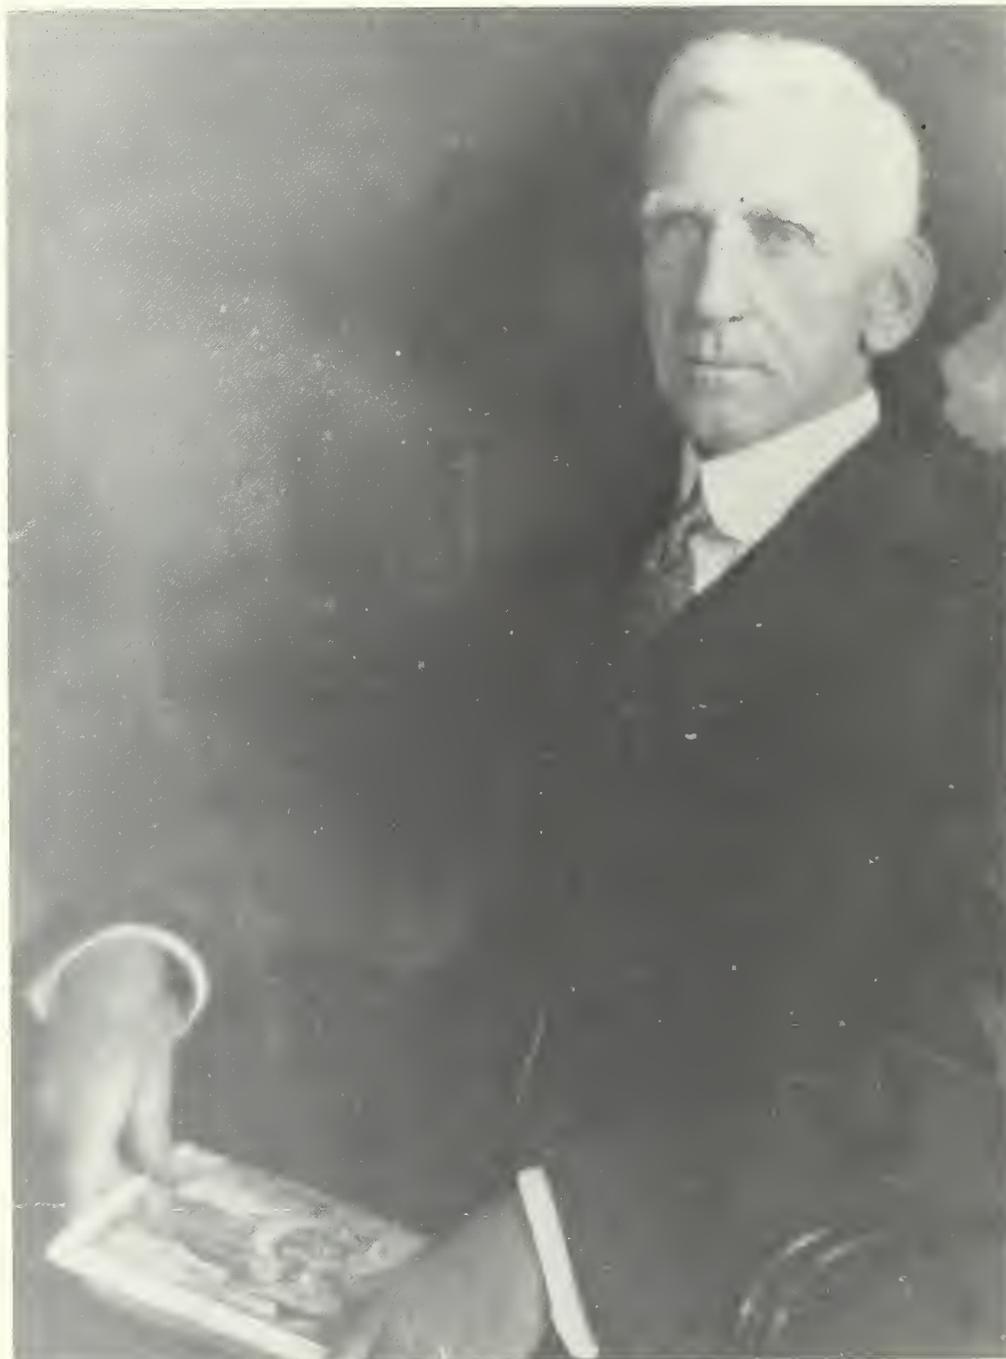

JESSE JENKINS McMURRY, II

754

Jesse Jenkins McMurry, II, J.J., as he was called was born March 5, 1904 in Shelby, N.C. He was the son of Avery Winslow and Cora Willis McMurry.

He graduated from Shelby High School (1921) while there he was a member of the football and baseball teams, and excelled in track meets. According to a write up in the Charlotte Observer about a track meet between the Charlotte and Shelby Schools, J.J. ran the 100 yards in ten seconds flat, probably establishing a high school record and getting in the class of swiftmen. Quoting the article, "There is no doubt about McMurry being the greatest sprinter seen here in years, and could probably be put in the class of Duffy Paddock and others whose records stand out. McMurry not only took first place in the century, but he also took first place in the 220 yard dash, doing it in 24.4. Second place in the running broad, the standing broad and the shot put."

After high school he attended Bingham Military Academy in Asheville, N.C. and later graduated from University of North Carolina. He was on the track and football teams while at the University being listed an "all Southern Football Player" for three years.

Jesse Jenkins McMurry

Four Generations, L to R: J.J., A.W., Willis and Dr. Avery McMurry.

He married Miss May Washburn (Oct. 1902) daughter of Seaton and Susan Hamrick Washburn of Shelby in 1927. At this time Jay and May moved to Clinton, N.C. where he was distributor for the Gulf Oil Company. In 1929 they moved to High Point, N.C. and there he was associated with his cousin Jesse Heywood Washburn in the Washburn Oil Company, Gulf Distributorship and served as president for a number of years.

He was a member of the First Baptist Church of High Point, of Acacia Lodge 674 A.F. & A.M., High Point Chapter no 70 Royal Arch Masons, High Point Commandry No 24 Knights Templar and the Oasis Temple Shrine. He was also a member of B.P.O.E. No 1155, the North Carolina Wild Life Federation, and Emorywood Country Club.

Jay liked to hunt and fish as well as all kinds of games and sports.

It was his ambition in life to help his friends in any way he could. Those whose lives were touched by Jay were enriched by knowing him.

After his wife's death (Oct. 1934) he married Miss Edith Farrington on April 1, 1946. They had one son Jesse Jenkins McMurry, III (Born December 25, 1946) who married Miss Joanne Farward on Sept. 2, 1971. They have one daughter Lynn McMurry (Born April 19, 1971).

J.J. McMurry, II died of a heart attack May 5, 1967 and is buried in Floral Gardens Cemetery in High Point, North Carolina.

Sources: Shelby Daily Star, Charlotte Observer, Family History

— Mrs. D.W. Royster

JOHN EUGENE McMURRY 755

John Eugene McMurry was born October 6, 1927 in Shelby, NC. He is the son of Julia Ligon McMurry and Andrew Willis McMurry. On his mothers side he is a direct descendant of Colonel Thomas Ligon of Madresfield, Worcestershire, England, recorded on page 539 in the 1st Edition of the Ligon Family and connections by William D. Ligon Jr. and on his father's side the McMurry family settled in Cleveland County, seven generations ago in the 1700's.

John attended Shelby High School. After graduating from High School, he went to The Citadel, a military college in Charleston, SC and graduated with a B.S. Degree in Pre. Med.

He also attended the University of Georgia doing advanced studies. On December 2, 1950, he married Rachael Louise Venning, daughter of Elias and Rachael Venning of 16 Tradd Street, Charleston, SC. Louise and John have six children: Rachael Louise (Lucy) born May 28, 1952 — married James William Ward, November 22, 1980; John Eugene, Jr. born March 31, 1954 — married Jane Height December 28, 1976; Andrew Venning born October 10, 1956 — married Patricia Jean Ellis May 27, 1978; Simeon Avery born March 21, 1961; Julia Lynn born September 29, 1965; Elias Venning (Skipper) born June 18, 1967.

John was active in the U.S. Army Reserve for eight years and attained the rank of 1st Lieutenant. He was honorably discharged in 1959. In October, 1950, he went to work for the Coca Cola Company in Atlanta, Georgia, as a chemist and worked in several states. Later in 1953, he worked for Jefferson Island Salt Company as salesman until 1959. After leaving that company, he went to work for Fulbright Laboratories in Charlotte, NC, who sold out to The Mogul Corporation in 1963. He continues working for Mogul as a District Sales Manager for sales in North Carolina, Virginia and eastern Tennessee. During this period he has won many honors including being the top salesman in the company for many years.

John is an active member of the First Baptist Church where he has served as an usher for many years. He is a Rotarian and was President in 1975 & 1976. During his time as President he led the club in celebrating their Golden Anniversary. He worked for over a decade with the Explorer Scouts and was awarded the Silver Beaver for service to scouting.

He and his family reside at 130 Hillside Drive, Shelby, N.C.

— Mrs. Julia L. McMurry

Jesse Jenkins McMurry, II

John Eugene McMurry

JOHN WILSON McMURRY

756

The stories about our ancestors fill us with pride in the sturdy pioneer Scotch-Irish people who braved the mountain wilderness of the early frontier, to build their homes, raise their families, and later on to fight for their beloved country.

The history of the McMurry family will of necessity have to begin before there was a Cleveland County. Our county was originally a part of New Hanover, Bladan, Anson, Old Tryon, Rowan, Mecklenburg, Rutherford, Lincoln and finally Cleveland. It was to Rutherford County that the first McMurrays came, for the Scotch Irish were among the frequent early arrivals in the colonies. Between 1720 and 1775 over a quarter million Scotchmen settled in places like the Shenandoah Valley of Virginia, the Piedmont county of North Carolina and all along the Eastern seaboard.

By the time the colonies declared their independence from England, one out of ten American settlers was Scotch Irish. These hearty people helped their new homeland in another way. When they found all the good land along the coast was already taken these Scotch-Irish became the corps of pioneers who took wagon trains to settle America's heartland.

John Wilson McMurry's great-grandfather was William McMurry who's wife was Margarette. They had seven children: Samuel, Mary Margarette, James, John, Cathern, William and Sara. These were mentioned in William's will in 1808. In this will written in Rutherford County, he left his son John McMurry, land lying on the west side of Broad River about four miles west of Shelby.

This John McMurry married Peggy Smith on May 26, 1811 and they had the following children: Martha S. Webb, William, Nathaniel, James W., Elizabeth C. Blanton, John and Bartlette Y. McMurry. In John McMurry's will in 1850, he left each child an equal part of his estate. His son John Wilson (Born 1825) and his wife Elizabeth Jenkins (Born 1831) inherited a part of the land on Sharon Road and they lived there until they moved to Shelby about 1850.

In the 1870 census these were listed as children of John and Elizabeth: Jesse Jenkins, Nathaniel, John E. Miller, Lenardo H. Fletcher A., Eleanora E. and Pinkney B., a daughter Ida was born about 1872 or 1873.

Ida married Debro D. Wilkins, a former sheriff of Cleveland County, and they built a house next to her parent's home on West Marion Street, just two blocks from the Court House. She had one son McMurray Wilkins and raised a niece, Hannah Washburn.

His oldest son Jesse Jenkins McMurry lived several blocks farther out on West Marion Street and another son Pinkney B. and his wife lived near-by. The other children lived on farms near Shelby.

John Wilson McMurry died in 1910 and his wife Elizabeth in 1909 and they are buried in Sunset Cemetery. Their home 231 West Marion Street still belongs in the family.

Sources: Census, Deeds, Wills

— Mrs. D.W. Royster

SIMEON ANDREW McMURRY

757

Simeon Andrew McMurry was born in Cleveland County March 19, 1870 about five miles west of Shelby on his grandfather's farm and died in 1958.

He was the son of Margaret Hamrick and Jesse Jenkins McMurry. When he was two years old his family moved into a house near the home of Alonzo Hamrick on Sharon Road.

Later his father, after his mother's death, moved to Shelby. Sim was about fourteen. He went to school in an old wooden building on West Marion Street and he studied under Captain Bell at his Military School.

He attended Wake Forest College for a year, and shortly before his eighteenth birthday, he and a school chum got a yen to go West. He went to Weatherford, Texas, where he got a job with Wells Fargo and Pacific Railroad.

It was about that time he first began smoking cigars, a habit he continued always; with Muriels his favorite. In 1893 he began traveling for a snuff company, and in 1900 he and his father opened a general merchandise store on a lot facing the west side of the Court House.

Mr. Sim, as he was called, was married to Mary Irene Suttle (born July 12, 1874) daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Beatie Suttle, on February 7, 1901, by her brother, the Reverend John W. Suttle, on the same site of the present First Baptist Church.

For the first fourteen months after their marriage they lived in Lattimore, after which they moved back into "Aunt Irene's" ancestral home, where they lived the rest of their lives. The home, a pretty white frame house with gingerbread trim, located on West Marion Street, was built in 1873 by her maternal grandparents, the late Mr. & Mrs. J.A.L. Wray. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C.B. Suttle lived there most of their married lives, moving there when Irene was a little girl, and reared their seven children there.

Uncle Sim and Aunt Irene had no children of their own, but were second parents to several nieces and nephews, whom they loved as dearly as if they were their own. J.L. Suttle, Jr., Mary Suttle Lutz, Louise Baley Lackey and Louis Baley, Jr.

In 1946 they celebrated their forty-sixth Wedding Anniversary with a beautiful party and again on their fiftieth celebration, Mrs. Irma Drum, Social Editor of the Shelby Daily Star, asked Mrs. McMurry. "What is your secret for living together for half a century?" Mrs. McMurry was ready with her answer "We've always had faith in God, and trusted him to take care of us. We've always had good health, and very little sickness". To the same question Mr. Sim answered, "Well we've been mighty happy together". Mrs. Drum finished her article by writing "what better formula could anyone have for building a happy marriage partnership."

Mr. Sim was a member of the First Baptist Church and was an usher there for over forty years. A Mason and former Kiwanian, he was associated with the J.J. McMurry Co., a cotton merchants firm and president of the Belmont and Double Shoals Manufacturing Companies.

He was a director of the Shelby Cannon Mill and Cleveland Savings and Loan Co. He served Shelby as Mayor for three consecutive terms (1929-1935). When he ran for the third term, he secured enough votes over his three opponents not to necessitate a second race. While Mayor, he was elected tenth district director of the North Carolina Municipal Association.

He had one brother, Avery Winslow McMurry, who married Cora Bell Willis and one sister Hannah Elizabeth, who married H.I. Washburn, and many nieces and nephews belonging to the McMurrays, Suttles, and Washburn families.

Uncle Sim died September 6, 1958; Aunt Irene, March 2, 1962. Both are buried in Sunset Cemetery.

Sources: Family Bible, Shelby Daily Star, town records.

— Mrs. D.W. Royster

DAVID and SUSANNA HAMRICK McSWAIN and DESCENDANTS

758

George Hamrick from Germany, George Blanton from England, William Champion from France, Henry Green from Scotland, and others came over across the waters leaving their station in 1730. They landed in 1731 at Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. They spent 6 months on the water, and later came to Boiling Springs, North Carolina, and all settled around there. They came over on account of religion. There was a period of 21 years they worshiped in different homes before they were able to build a church in 1784.

They built, and organized a church at York, South Carolina, and called it Buffalo Church. James Camp was the first pastor. The church was 40 ft. long, 25 ft. wide, and 25 ft. high with the cracks 4" wide; and 1 door at each end, and 1 window in the center of the building that had a partition in the back end reserved for colored people. They usually went on Saturday, and walked back home on Sunday.

Simeon Andrew and Irene Suttle McMurry.

The women wore homemade dresses made of material which they had corded, and spun by hand. Their shoes were made of homemade leather the heels on the shoes were as large as the shoes, and the women went barefoot, until they neared the church having to stop and put on their shoes. The people walked 8 to 10 miles to hear the gospel preached in those days, and never seemed to get tired. The benches in the church were logs split open, whereas one log made two benches.

In 1789, Sandy Run Church was built on the same order as Buffalo Church, they were both deeded to the Baptist.

From this background came a McSwain-Hamrick marriage.

(2.) Wm. McSwain and wife Susanna Hamrick settled near his father (1.) David McSwain (first generation) on the east side of First Broad River, and was buried at the old McSwain graveyard which is now known as the old Buck McSwain graveyard.

They had 8 children: Wm. McSwain m. Judith Moore; David McSwain m. Rebecca Cowhart, 2nd Catherine Robertson; Benjiman McSwain m. Rebecca Smith, Precilla McSwain m. Gabriell Washburn, Jonathon McSwain m. Sarah Norwood, Elizabeth McSwain m. John Mathny, Charles McSwain m. Margaret Norwood, and James McSwain m. Elizabeth Moore (no children)

(3.) Wm. McSwain and wife Judith Moore's 13 children were: David McSwain m. Susanna Hamrick, James McSwain m. Sarah Bostic, Hannah McSwain m. Ruben Hamrick, Sarah McSwain m. David Hamrick, Mary McSwain m. Elijah Hamrick, Rebecca McSwain m. George Champion, Elizabeth McSwain m. James Moore, John McSwain m. Judith Moore, Judith McSwain m. John Green, Thomas McSwain m. Franklin Bridges, George McSwain m. Mary Weathers, Susanna McSwain never married, and Wm. McSwain m. Mary Bridges.

(4.) Wm. McSwain and wife Mary Bridges had 9 children: Burwell McSwain m. Eliza McSwain, 2nd wife Jane Hamrick (no children); George McSwain m. Hannah McSwain; Mary McSwain m. James Hamrick; Susanna McSwain m. Allen Hamrick; Richard McSwain m. Mary Weathers, 2nd wife Susanna Moore; Elizabeth McSwain m. David Bridges; Nina McSwain m. Wiley Padgett; Jane McSwain m. Benjiman Green; and Wm. McSwain m. Sarah McSwain.

(5.) Wm. McSwain and wife Sarah McSwain, had 5 children: Perdrie McSwain m. Dulcena McSwain; Temmons McSwain m. Isabell McSwain, Lasisoa McSwain m. Green, Robert McSwain never married, and Wm. McSwain m. Margaret McSwain.

(6.) Wm. McSwain and wife Margaret McSwain had 1 son: Floyd McSwain m. Hester Green.

(7.) Floyd McSwain and wife Hester Green, had 14 children: Wm. Noah McSwain m. Johnsie Kishman; Eva McSwain m. Perry White; Plato McSwain m. Elizabeth (1 son died a baby), 2nd wife Hester; Robert McSwain m. Mary, 2nd wife Estelle Sain; Bethel McSwain m. Ira; Jethro McSwain m. Ruth; Janie, Nouella, Lucy, Mother, Wince, Ambrose, and Marvin died and were buried in one week during the influenza 1918; Wm. Noah McSwain married Johnsie Kishmon, one daughter Claudia Hester McSwain; and Hester McSwain married Ernest Addy, five children.

The children of Hester and Ernest Addy: Wm. H. Addy m. Jenifer Darrah, David Addy m. Joyce, John, Tommy, and Susan.

Wm. H. (Billy) Addy and wife Jenifer Darrah, 1 child, Meredith Ashely Addy.

Eva McSwain and husband Perry Rosca White, 2 children: Mary Hester m. James Roy Mode and Ruth m. George Powell.

Mary White and husband James Ray Mode, 3 children: Margie Rae Mode m. Charles James Van Dyke; Julia Rosca Mode m. Maxine Foster, and James Roy Jr. Mode m. Lana Thomas.

Margie Rae Mode m. James Van Dyke, 7 children: Trisa Ann Van Dyke m. Mickle Ramsey, a daughter; Melissa Ann; Pamela Rae Van Dyke m. James Baisden, a daughter, Darillna Nichola; Darrul; Allen; Richard; Russell; and Denice.

Julian Rosca Mode m. Maxine Foster, 1 son, Julian Rodney Mode.

James Roy Mode, Jr. m. Lana Thomas, 3 sons: James Edward Mode m. Brenda Wortz, Raymond Lee, Timothy Scott, and James Edward Mode m. Brenda Wortz, a daughter, Danielle Lynn.

Ruth White m. George Powell, 7 children: Jimmie Powell m. Sarah Lineburger, Betty Powell m. Emit Ayers, Marrien Powell m. Betty Foster, Donald Powell m. Vickey McSwain (Divorced), Carlina Powell m. Paul Barrett, Charlie Powell m. Linda Frum, Billy Powell m. Candy Smith.

Jimmie Powell and wife Sarah Lineburger, 2 sons, Barry and J.J.

Betty Powell m. Emit Ayers, had 2 children, Robbin and Danny.

Marrien Powell m. Betty Foster, 1 son, Wayne.

Donald Powell m. Vickey McSwain, 3 children, Jeffery, Chris and David.

Charlie Powell m. Linda Frum, 2 sons, Tony and Timmy.

Carolina Powell and husband Paul Barrett, 2 children, Rodney and Jesse.

Billy Powell and wife Candy Smith, 1 child, Rahanda.

Plato McSwain and wife Hester, no children.

Bob McSwain m. Estelle Sain, 3 children: Nellie McSwain m. Lynn Skipper, Dean McSwain m. ; and Joann McSwain m. Marrien Allen.

Nellie McSwain m. Lynn Skipper, 2 children, Lynda and Sissie.

Joann McSwain m. Marvin Allen, 2 children, Susan and Marty.

Bethel McSwain m. Ira, 5 children: Pedrew (Bill) McSwain m. James McSwain m. Steve McSwain, (twin) Clouda Ray McSwain m. Cloudia, and (twin) Clara Fay married Joe Moss.

Jethro McSwain m. Ruth, 5 children: Sandra, Judie, Floyd, Wm. (Bill), Kathy. All married.

Sources: Family records and family interviews.

— Mrs. Ray Mode (Mary)

DAVID McSWAIN

759

David McSwain came to Cleveland County, North Carolina from Scotland. He left Scotland for Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, and later migrated to North Carolina. He married Judith Hamrick and settled on the east side of the First Broad river. He died there and was buried on his place now known as the old "Buck" McSwain graveyard. The McSwains left Scotland with other families in order to have a freedom of choice of religion. They worshiped in different homes for over twenty years before they could build a church.

The Hamricks came to America in 1731 from Germany. Eighty percent of the Hamricks married kin.

In 1918 during the Spanish influenza epidemic, Hester Emeline Green McSwain and five children died within one week. Mrs. McSwain and Wentz were buried in one casket; in another were buried Marvin, Novella, Ambrose and Lucy. They are all buried at Elizabeth Baptist Church, Cleveland County.

This account has been prepared by Johnsie Grady Kirkman McSwain, the widow of William Noah McSwain. William Noah McSwain migrated to Guilford County, North Carolina. Mr. McSwain worked as a carpenter and lived the rest of his life in Greensboro, North Carolina. He is buried at Tabernacle Methodist Church, Liberty Road, Greensboro, North Carolina.

Mrs. McSwain has prepared this from "word of mouth" collections and from The Hamrick Generations by S.C. Jones, Shelby, NC, Copyright 1920.

Sources: Indicated in Article

— Hester McSwain Addy

FLOYD and HESTER GREENE McSWAIN

760

Grandpa and grandma were tenant farmers in different places in Cleveland County as they raised their 14 children. Two of their children died at birth. There were 4 girls and 9 boys: Jane, Nowla, Lucy, Eva, Noah, Plato, Robert (Bob), Bethel, Ambors, Marvin, Wince, Winford, Jethro. The girls wore long dresses down to their feet. Mother said they would get wet and dirty working in the field. They had to carry water from a spring and the only way they had of getting heat in winter was building a fire in the fireplace and sometimes it didn't heat the room as there were cracks in the walls. They cooked on a wood stove. They always tried to get their stove wood cut and split and racked up in March so it would dry out good to do them during the summer months. They had to carry their clothes down to the spring to wash. They had a big black pot they boiled their clothes in and rubbed them on a rubboard and hung them on bushes to dry. To clean their floors they would get white sand and put it on the floor and take a shuck mop and scrub the floor and take clear water and rinse it off. Grandpa made benches for the table, one on each side for the children. They had a long way to walk to school and there were so many of them that they carried their lunches in a large basket with a lid on it. They had a big round stove to keep the schoolhouse warm. The bigger boys would have to get the wood for the heater and they got their water from a spring. They walked to church and the girls would gather at the spring and the boys would always wander down to the spring for the boys and girls did not have the freedom they have today. Mother said there was always a crowd of boys and girls at her house on Sunday evening. They had an organ and they would sing and play games or just pair off and talk. She said it was a hard time but they had love and fun.

I don't know what year grandpa bought a house on South Washington Street. He and the older boys did carpenter work.

My mother, Eva McSwain, born in 1892, married Perry Rosco White, born in 1886 in Earl. They farmed for a while. One year mother said they had all their food in for the winter and one night there came up a bad looking storm and they lived in a small house so they went across the road to the landlord's house to stay until the storm was over. While they were sitting and talking a neighbor knocked on the door asking about them and he told them their house was gone.

I was born the year of 1918, the year the influenza was so bad and so many people died. My mother and daddy had influenza. Dr. Palmer told mother to keep liquor mixed with water and sugar in me to try to keep me from taking it. She said it was an awful time. People were scared, they would fix food and put it on peoples' porches, knock and run. It divided the family, her mother, and 6 children. They said so many people were dying that they had to bury 4 in one grave. Daddy got better before mother and one night 2 men knocked at the door and asked daddy about getting mother ready for burial. She heard them and knew it was her sister. She didn't know her sisters and brothers were dying like that. She didn't get to see any of them.

I don't know what year it was that we moved to town. Daddy was a carpenter and mother said times got bad and daddy couldn't find work so we moved back to the farm. We raised most of what we ate and canned in summer for winter. I had to walk about 2 miles to a one-room school below Earl. I carried my lunch but mother always made tea cakes or molasses bread for me, as I look back. I know it was hard on mother and daddy but for me and my sister, Ruthe, it was a lot of fun except picking cotton.

I was born 6 am on August 30, 1918 and five years later on August 30, 1923 at 6 am my sister Ruth was born. We walked to church every Sunday, and back on Sunday night and when we had revival we went every morning and back at night for 7 days. Most of the time the churches were full. The black people that lived around the church would come at night and sit on the back seat. If there was not room they would sit on the door steps. They always had revival the last of July or the first of August when we wouldn't be working in the field.

Eva McSwain married Perry White in 1915. They had two girls, Mary and Ruth. Mary White married James Roy Mode, Sr. They had 3 children, Margie Rae, Julian Rosca, James Roy, Sr. Margie Rae Mode married James Van Dyke and had 7 children: Darrell, Teresa, Pamela Rae, Richard, Charles Alan, Russell Dale, Sharon Denice.

Julian Rosco Mode married Janie Maxiene Foster. They had one son, Rodney Julian Mode.

James Roy Mode Jr. married Lana Thomas. They have three sons, James Eward, Raymond Lee, Timothy Scott. Tirisa Ann Van Dyke married Mickie Ramsey. They have one daughter, Melissa Ann. Pamela Rae Van Dyke married James Baisden. They have one daughter, Darillnon Nichole. James Eward Mode married Brenda Wartz. They have one daughter, Danielle Lynn.

Ruth White married George Powell. They had seven children, Jimmie, Betty, Marvin, Donald, Carolina, Charlie, Billy. Jimmie Powell married Sarah Lineburger. They have two boys, Barry, J.J. Betty Powell married Emiet Ayers. They had two children, Robbin, Danny. Marvin Powell married Betty Foster and they had one son, Wayne. Donald Powell married Vickiy McSwain (now divorced). They had three children, Jeffery, Chris, David. Charlie Powell married Linda Fruam and they had two boys, Tony, Timmy. Carolina Powell married Paul Barrett. They had two children, Rodney, Jesse. Billy Powell married Candy Smith and they had one child, Rahanda.

— Mrs. Ray Mode (Mary)

GEORGE GREEN McSWAIN

761

Benjamin Franklin McSwain and Nancy Green McSwain were the parents of George Green McSwain. He was born May 18, 1848 and died January 5, 1919.

George's wife was Patia Jane Green, daughter of Joseph Green and Sarah Hamrick Green. Patia was born August 1, 1856 and she died July 6, 1897. He owned a big farm in the Boiling Springs area. He owned and operated the first cannery in the Boiling Springs area. He grew his own vegetables and fruits. He canned them in tin cans and sealed them with an old time soldering iron. He carried them to Henrietta and Caroleen and sold them and did good business.

He sold spectacles and so far as I know he knew nothing about optometry. He had cards with different sizes of print on them. He let people try spectacles on until they found a pair that they could see through. I never heard of any one complaining about their glasses not giving satisfaction. He owned the first sewing machine around this area and until he got the sewing machine all the sewing was done by hand. George carried his sewing machine around to different homes and sewed for folks. Five or six women would gather at one home and carry their material to make dresses, underwear, men's trousers, etc. The women cut their garments out and basted them and then George would sew them on his machine. He could sew as fast as they cut and baste their garments. The ladies were all amazed at how fast he could sew.

George was well known throughout North Carolina. He traveled through the state sharpening cotton gins, (as there were several.) George McSwain was identified by his red hair and was nick-named Red-Headed George McSwain.

When Boiling Springs built their new Baptist church in 1905 or 1906, he had some big pictures made of the church. He sold them and gave the money to the church to help pay for the carbon lights in the church. (He was not a member of the church.) Why, I do not know. He always attended church and was always ready to help the church in any way that he could.

He didn't have the opportunity to go to school very much, but he used his talents as best he could. He read his Bible and many other good books. In fact, he was a book agent and sold many good books.

He was a brave and gallant soldier in the Civil War. He was awarded a certificate of meritorious service. He was a Mason and was a charter member of the Boiling Springs Lodge No. 464.

George and Patia Green McSwain were the parents of three children. Carrie McSwain was born May 13, 1883 and she died February 1967. She married James Lester Green son of John Green and Cinda Green. He was born July 22, 1880 and he died May 13, 1944. Joseph Franklin McSwain was born April 8, 1885 and he died April 13, 1911. He married Etta McSwain daughter of Berry Ezel McSwain and Nancy Jane Etters McSwain. Etta still survives at the age of 96 years old. She was born September 1885. Hattie McSwain was born November 4, 1889 and she died May 1925. She married Audley Crowe.

Sources: personal interviews, family records.

— Ollie Connie Green

THE GEORGE WASHINGTON and LUCINDA P. WRIGHT McSWAIN FAMILY

762

George Washington McSwain son of David and Susannah Hamrick McSwain, was born July 23, 1821 and died June 25, 1909. He was married May 13, 1841 to Lucinda P. Wright (born September 4, 1819, died February 1, 1897), daughter of John Wright and Peggy Boswell Wright and granddaughter of Jobe Wright, Revolutionary Patriot. His wife, Lucinda, was a native of Virginia and relatives relate that he rode horseback to Virginia where they were married. They returned to Cleveland County together on horseback.

They made their home on a large farm in Cleveland County about two miles east of the present Pleasant Ridge Baptist Church, which is located near Lattimore. His great-granddaughter, Alma Harrill Hunt, now ninety-four years of age, recalls having "spent many a night there" and "he always had an apple, a stick of candy, or something to give." She remembers the mules, cows, hogs, and "many sheep" that were on the farm. She, especially, remembers how the sheep were sheared in the spring, and the wool washed, carded, and spun into thread from which cloth was woven and made into clothing for the family. The thread was also used for knitting their socks and stockings. Cotton was used in the same manner and sometimes cotton and wool were combined, the "warp and filling," for weaving.

George Washington and Lucinda P. Wright McSwain.

As was customary of the time food for the family was grown on the farm. Vegetables and fruits were canned, dried, or made into preserves, pickles, jellies, and jams. Beehives were kept for honey and sugar cane grown for molasses. The "potato house was built back of the chimney for storing potatoes during the winter. Cabbage was made into kraut and stored in large stone jars." Meat was provided by beef cattle, hogs, and poultry. There was a "springhouse" where milk, butter and perishable vegetables "were kept during the summer." The spring furnished water which had to be carried "up the hill to the house."

The kitchen particularly stands out in her memory as being an unusually large room with open fireplaces, cookstove, and "long table." "During the winter most of the meals were cooked on the fireplaces. They stayed in this room during the day and in the evening a fire was laid in the "big house," with one large room and two small bedrooms, where they slept." During cold weather she recalls that she, her two sisters, and brother "would stop by to warm their feet at the big fireplace on their way to school, a one room building where Pleasant Ridge Church now stands."

In her mature years she remembers her great-grandfather as a quiet man, of medium stature, with "blue eyes and white hair," an upright citizen of the community and "a good provider."

They were the parents of eight children, five girls and three boys.

Sarah Elizabeth (born May 18, 1842 died June 18, 1915) married first Andy Hamrick. They had one daughter, Lucinda, who remained single. Her second marriage was to Nimrod Champion and they had no children.

Mary Elizabeth (born November 16, 1843) married Hoyle Rinehart Blanton. They are buried in the Sharon Church Cemetery. Their children are Burwell Henderson, Sarah, George Monroe, John Wiley, William Hoyle, Posey Crowell and Daisy Ella.

John David (born February 8, 1846 died July 19, 1913) married September 4, 1866 Lucy Harriett McSwain (see John David McSwain Family).

Nancy Jane (Jenny) (born October 13, 1849 died May 31, 1911) remained single and lived at the homeplace with her parents and is buried in the Pleasant Ridge Baptist Church Cemetery. She is remembered as a meticulous housekeeper and "good cook."

Margaret Lucinda (born October 19, 1850) married Berry Bostick Melton. They were the parents of three children, Roxanna, Cicero and George, and made their home in Rutherford County. She and her husband are buried in the Walls Baptist Church Cemetery.

J. Cynthia (born March 13, 1853) married Johnnie Green. They are buried in the Trinity Baptist Church Cemetery. They had one daughter, Lillie Mae, who married B.B. Harris.

George Washington, Jr. (born July 26, 1855 died June 6, 1932) married July 19, 1874 Eliza Jane Hamrick (born 1861 died January 2, 1951) daughter of Elijah and Emaline Webb Hamrick. Their children are Johnnie B., George Billy, and Ollie. According to the obituary in "The Star" he was a charter member of Pleasant Ridge Baptist Church and "from that time until his death he served as a deacon and a useful member of the church." It continues that "it is remarkable that this man and his two sons, Johnnie and Billy, served together on the board of deacons at Pleasant Ridge Church for several years."

William (Bill) Kaiser (born March 31, 1859 died June 29, 1945) married Salina Miller Leford. They lived in the Sharon Community and are buried in the Poplar Springs Baptist Church Cemetery. They were the parents of four children, Aquilla, Orvilla, Willard and Lillian.

Sources: George Washington Bible, Census records and relatives

— Alma Harrill Hunt and Burnette Hunt

HUGH KERR McSWAIN FAMILY

763

Hugh Kerr McSwain was born August 27, 1817 the son of James McSwain and Rachel Riggins. He was a farmer in southern Cleveland County. Hugh Kerr first married Adalissa Hopper. She was born January 7, 1818. They had eight children whose births are recorded in the family Bible. Rachel McSwain was born May 30, 1840. She married August 26, 1858 (1) John H. Padgett by Lewis McSwain, Cleveland County. (2) to Mastin Rippey. William Swanson McSwain was born May 22, 1842 and died in 1865. Emily Jane McSwain was born December 15, 1844. She married John Wiley. John McSwain was born February 3, 1847 and died in 1857. Luther Carson McSwain was born December 31, 1849 and died July 9, 1913. He was a carpenter and sold mineral water from a wagon. He helped build his half-brother LeRoy's house. Luther married January 20, 1878 to Martha Roxanne Randall who was born June 26, 1855 and died August 17, 1907. They lived and are buried in Patterson Springs. They leave many descendants in this area. Margaret L. McSwain was born January 26, 1852 and married William McSwain. George Davis McSwain was born January 13, 1854 and died July 8, 1855 and is buried in Buffalo Baptist Church Cemetery, Cherokee County, South Carolina. Adalissa McSwain was born February 27, 1857.

Adalissa the wife of Hugh Kerr died and was buried in Buffalo Baptist Cemetery with the inscription, "Adalisey McSwain died April 13, 1857, age 39 years, 2 months, 26 days."

Hugh Kerr married a second time in York County, South Carolina on April 29, 1858 to Catherine A. Davis, the daughter of Vincient Davis. Hugh Kerr purchased two tracts of land from Catherine's brothers located in now northern Cherokee County, then York County, South Carolina. Catherine was born February 19, 1832 (tombstone date) or 1827 (Bible record). They had six children. Their first child Peter Willis McSwain was born February 7, 1859. Peter was stricken as a child with a disease probably infantile paralysis. He was a very stockily built man with very short useless legs. He was also blind. He traveled about in his goat cart along with his black dog. He would call his goats and they would come to him to be hitched up. Several pictures of Peter in his goat cart are existant. Peter died October 21, 1894 and is buried in New Hope Baptist Church Cemetery. Joseph Davis McSwain was born December 25, 1859 and died a few days later.

LeRoy Wellington McSwain was born May 28, 1861. He married first Zulie Sophia Rippy. Her tombstone in New Hope Cemetery reads, "born January 12, 1868 died October 15, 1888." There is an error in the death date as LeRoy married a second time and had one child and another one on the way. LeRoy's second wife was Maggie Delean Rippy, a sister to Zulie and the daughter of William Rippy and Marena Mauney. Grandmother would tell of the times LeRoy came to the house to court Zulie. She was younger and always liked to sit and talk to him. After the death of her sister, she soon was courted by the man she admired so much.

Miles Clifton McSwain was born August 15, 1863 and died the same year. Lawson Mills McSwain was born September 8, 1866. He married February 15, 1891 at R.S. Porter to Minne Mary Porter. She was born November 3, 1869 and died July 21, 1956. Lawson was a charter member of New Hope Church. He was a carpenter and farmer. They had ten children. His son Marvin McSwain lives at the home place. This farm originally belonged to Hugh Kerr McSwain.

The original house burned around 1912. Through the woods it is within easy walking distance of LeRoy McSwain's farm on McSwain Road. Lawson died November 25, 1954 and is buried at New Hope. Elizabeth Avalona McSwain was bory May 28, 1871 and died in 1899. She married William Hardin. She had two sons Virgil and Roscoe. I remember Cousin Virgil had been raised by his Uncle LeRoy and Aunt Maggie. He was an amateur ventriloquist and as a small child I was fascinated with his dummies. Catherine died August 28, 1879 and is buried in Buffalo Cemetery.

Hugh Kerr married his third wife December 27, 1879 at the widow Mary McSwain's house in #3 Township. Witnesses were Phillip Sepaugh, Mary McSwain, and Hannah McSwain. His new wife, Sarah Elizabeth Rippy, was born July 15, 1846. They had three children. Zenas (Zenice) Hicks McSwain was born April 10, 1883. I remember him walking across the branch to Grandma's house. He married Harriett (Aunt Hattie) Truelove. Hicks died October 21, 1964 and is buried at Cleveland Memorial Park with his wife. They had no children. Clarissa Daisy McSwain was born April 22, 1881. She married William Meak Griffin and they had eight children. We met one of Daisy's children, Eva Griffin Runyans, a couple of years ago. She and my mother, Ida, were close friends in childhood spending the night with one another. Hugh Carr McSwain was born April 23, 1885. He married Mary (Minnie) Smith. Hugh Carr died March 3, 1964 leaving many descendants. He and his wife are buried in New Hope Cemetery.

Hugh Kerr died May 9, 1899 and was buried in New Hope Cemetery. Sarah Elizabeth (Granny Liz) died November 1, 1936 and is buried beside him.

— Jean Oates McSwain

JAMES and ANN ELMORE McSWAIN

764

There is a controversy in the research of the McSwain Family. S.C. Jones in his book, "Hamrick Generations," states David McSwain and his son David came to Rutherford County and David was the first white man to be buried in this part of the country. He also states that David Jr.'s son James married Elizabeth Moore and left no heirs.

Eleanor McSwain in her book, "Some Descendants of David McSwain Isle of Skye," gives David as being born in 1700 in the Isle of Skye, Scotland. He came to America aboard 'The Snow Louthier — Joseph Fisher Master from Rotterdam last from Dover, October 14, 1731.' David, his wife, and two sons David and Charles left Skye. William was born enroute. To help clarify generations, I will use her system of numbers in the name.

I have been unable to find property transactions in the McSwain name in Old Tryon, Lincoln or Rutherford Counties prior to the deed dated May 13, 1789 in Rutherfordton where William McSwain purchased 500 acres of land on Bowen's Creek joining land of Jacob Randal from John Logan. Witnesses for this were Abednege Adams and David McSwain. William sold 250 acres of this property to Edward Rippy March 22, 1792.

William McSwain married Juditha Moore and she bore his children. After Juditha's death and burial in McSwain Family Cemetery, William married a widow with two sons, Elizabeth Hicks. This wife was listed in his will and Revolutionary War Papers. William's will dated February 23, 1833 is on file in Rutherford County witnessed by Hu or H.W. Kerr and John McSwain. Among his children he listed a son James. This James was born September 17, 1787 according to Bible records in the possession of O.P. Owens, Lumberton, N.C. "Hamrick Generations" states he married Sarah Bostic and lists his child as Lucindy. James wrote a letter in 1854 concerning his father's pension. James' will in Cleveland County dated September 15, 1854 leaves his estate to his wife Sarah and beloved granddaughter, Lucinthia Susan, giving her the same amount he had given his daughter Lucy upon her marriage. Executors of the will were Sarah and his son-in-law David.

A copy of a letter written by Sally Lutts to William F. Rippy dated May 7, 1907 states, "Our great grandmother, Mary Elmore Rippy had a sister Ann. She married a man by the name of McSwain. He died leaving her with one child, a boy. His name was James. I remember being at his house. If I am not mistaken he lived between old Grandsire Rippy's and Uncle Martins. He had a daughter named Hannah and a son named Hicks. They are all I can remember distinctly. Uncle Jim McSwain's mother then married old Hugh Carr, a school teacher, after she lost her first husband. I can well remember Uncle Hugh but I never saw Aunt Ann." The 1850 Cleveland County Census list Hugh Kerr, 71, school teacher in this area.

Hugh Kerr purchased 100 acres of land on Bowen's Creek on May 1, 1801 from John Boggs. This deed was witnessed by Wm. McSwain and Edward Rippy. March 29, 1806 Hugh bought 100 acres on Bowen's River and 50 acres on Mills Creek from John Logan. The property joined Edward Rippy's. John H. Alley, sheriff, sold this property at public auction with James McSwain being the highest bidder. James in turn sold it to Hugh Kerr on November 13, 1813.

According to a marriage bond in Orange County, N.C. dated May 1, 1782, James McSwain married Ann Elmore. She was the daughter of John Elmore.

It is interesting to note deeds located in Orange County show David McSwain and John Moore were issued a grant of 300 acres of land on Haw River. June 4, 1792 David McSwain, Anson County, N.C. sold his interest in this property to John Moore. January 23, 1787 David McSwain of Orange County sold 190 acres of land in the same area that he had purchased from John Ellis of Camden District, S.C. to John Moore.

James McSwain and his wife Ann moved to Rutherford County, N.C. prior to 1789. James died and Ann petitioned the Court of Common Pleas and Quarter Session in October 1789 for Administration Papers. She returned with the inventory in January 1790. We do not know where James was buried. My Uncle Trent McSwain, who still resides in Cleveland County, remembers helping his father, LeRoy, clean off the Old McSwain Cemetery when he was a young boy. He does not remember why and no marker for James can be found.

James McSwain and Ann had a son James born August 1, 1789. There is also a possibility of an older daughter. Rutherford County

Marriage Bonds record Hannah McSwain married Daniel Mooney on April 30, 1807, Bondsman was H.W. Kerr and W.M. McBrayer Witness. Legislative papers #314 lists a divorce petition of Hannah Mooney dated November 19, 1818 listing one minor child. Affidavits signed Justice Hu Kerr, J.B. Graham, Hugh Quinn Esq. In the divorce petition Hannah states Daniel had squandered what possessions she had owned.

Rutherford County Superior Court Minutes dated July, 1809 state Daniel Mooney and Hugh Kerr security came into court and stays the judgement obtained against him at the suit of Matthew Raney and Francis Adams.

— Jean Oates McSwain

THE JAMES McSWAIN FAMILY 765

James McSwain, the son of James and Ann Elmore McSwain, was born August 1, 1789 and died September 3, 1851. He was buried in Buffalo Baptist Churchyard, Cherokee County, S.C. He spent his life farming in what is now number 3 Township, Cleveland County.

James married three times. His first wife was Rachel Riggins. She was buried in Buffalo Churchyard and her tombstone reads, "In Memory of Rachel McSwain who died 1839 aged 50 years."

James and Rachel had five children. 1. Hugh Kerr McSwain was born August 27, 1817 and died May 9, 1899. Buried New Hope Baptist Church, Cleveland County, N.C.

2. Susannah McSwain was born 1818 and died in 1847. She married Athis Nathis Elmore. She was buried in Buffalo Baptist Churchyard along with her day old infant.

3. Hannah McSwain then married Athis Nathis Elmore. Hannah is listed in the 1850 Cleveland County Census as being 26 years old and Athis Nathis Elmore is 44 years old. Athenatus was a family name in the Elmore and Rippy Families.

4. William Carr McSwain was born in 1820 and died in 1870. He married first to Judith Champion, second to Margaret Champion, (both daughters of George Champion and Elizabeth Bostic), and third to Mary Ann Sarratt, the daughter of James M. and Julia Sarratt.

5. Berry Hicks McSwain was born February, 1828 and died April 30, 1864, aged 36 years, 2 months, Buried at Buffalo Baptist Churchyard. He was married to Mary "Polly" Rippy who was born August 21, 1827 and died November 4, 1887. She was buried in New Hope Baptist Church Cemetery. Berry Hicks enlisted in the Confederate service March 8, 1863. They had 6 children: James McSwain, Rachel Riggins, Susannah Hopper, and Margaret.

1. Sarah A. McSwain was born October 4, 1861 and died December 4, 1929. She married Rufus P. Francis who was born in March 1854 and died March 23, 1931. Both are buried in New Hope Baptist Cemetery.

2. Nedy Ross McSwain was born November 2, 1847 died August 19, 1935. He married first on October 23, 1879 to Barbey Rippy who was born May 18, 1861 and died June 9, 1898. He then married on December 27, 1899 to Mary Putnam.

3. Rachel McSwain was born May 8, 1858 and died August 28, 1942. She married Jesse Craig Runyan who was born July 1855 and died August 6, 1905. Both are buried at New Hope Baptist Cemetery.

4. Hannah McSwain was born July 11, 1850 and died August 25, 1881, 31 years, 1 month, 14 days. She was buried at New Hope.

5. William Mastin McSwain was born January 25, 1852 and died May 31, 1926. He married Juliette (Julia Etta) Sepaugh who was born August 6, 1861 and died October 2, 1940, the daughter of Phillip Sepaugh and his wife Martha Caroline Rippy. Both are buried at New Hope.

6. Walter Gyton McSwain was born December 12, 1856 and died May 22, 1928. He married Mary Margaret Angeline Sepaugh who was born September 18, 1859 and died June 28, 1906. She was a sister to Juliette. Both were buried at New Hope.

After the death of Rachel, James McSwain married, 2nd, Susannah Hopper who was born in 1805 and died in 1847. She is buried at Buffalo. Susannah bore three children:

James McSwain was born February 25, 1842 and died March 7, 1907. He married Pamela Elizabeth Wylie who was born September 4, 1852 and died April 3, 1920. Both are buried at New Hope, where James had served as a deacon.

John Twitty Miller McSwain was born August 18, 1844 and was nicknamed Doctor.

Cynthia Rebecca McSwain was born May 7, 1847. She married Martin Randall the son of Jane Wells and Jacob Randall the carpenter-cabinet maker who built Piney Grove Methodist Church.

James McSwain married a third time to Margaret. She was listed in the 1850 Cleveland County Census as being 40 years old.

After the death of James' last three children lived with their half-brother, Hugh Kerr McSwain and his family. Their births are recorded in his family Bible.

Sources: family records and research.

— Jean Oates McSwain

JOHN DAVID McSWAIN

766

John David McSwain (b. 8 Feb. 1846; d. 19 July, 1913), son of George Washington (1821-1909) and Lucindy P. Wright McSwain (1819-1897), was born in the Beaver Dam community in Cleveland County. He was the great grandson of the Revolutionary Patriot, Jobe Wright of Virginia.

He was reared on a large farm near the present Pleasant Ridge Church. He volunteered in the service of the Confederacy, going with the last of seventeen year olds and served only a short while in the war. One of his favorite war stories that is remembered by his granddaughters, Alma Harrill Hunt and Garva Harrill Blanton, is that while he was in service he woke up one morning and found himself covered with snow. He said that he did not know that it was cold for the snow served as a blanket and kept him nice and warm. His warm breath had made a hole in the snow which enabled him to breathe.

On 4 September 1866 he married his first cousin, Lucy Harriett McSwain (1847-1903), daughter of Berry (1822-1904) and Barbara Padgett McSwain (1818-1910), of the Beaver Dam community. Lucy Harriett was a petite, well dressed woman who showed much concern for her family.

John David and his son-in-law Robert Lee Harrill owned and operated a cotton gin. The grandchildren remember helping fill the large baskets with cotton, pouring the cotton into a large hopper and watching the gin remove the seeds and then card the cotton. John David farmed on a small scale, raised a good garden and had plenty of fruit from the orchard. His neat, white frame house can still be seen in the Beaver Dam community. It is across the road from the present McSwain's Antiques on Highway 74. He lived here until after the death of his wife Lucy Harriett.

The Lattimore Baptist Church minutes state John David and his second wife Malinda E. "Tint" Padgett joined the church by letter, coming from Beaver Dam Baptist Church (1909). He was very active in the affairs of both churches, having served as a deacon and teacher.

John David and Lucy Harriett's four children were:

1. Julia Jane (1869-1950), married Robert Lee Harrill (see article elsewhere in book).

2. Carrie Missouri (1871-1957), married Thomas William Green. Their children were: David Lewis, Summie Aubrey, Carrie Lillian and Garvis Wade.

3. Lou Vina Candis (1873-1963), married Burwell Henderson Blanton. Their children were: Zarthan; Lillie, who served 41 years as postmistress of Lattimore; and George.

4. Summey Weathers (1874-1961), married Docia Ann Bridges: They had one child, J.C. McSwain who married Gena McKinney. Their children were Ed and Ray Eugene.

John David and Lucy Harriett are buried in the Beaver Dam Baptist Church cemetery. Their children are buried in the Lattimore Baptist Church cemetery.

Sources: Family records, minutes of Lattimore Baptist Church.

— Mrs. John S. Blanton

LEROY WELLINGTON and MAGGIE DELEAN RIPPY McSWAIN

767

LeRoy Wellington McSwain was born May 28, 1861 and died December 30, 1935. He had lived all his life in southern Cleveland County. He married Maggie Delean Rippy who was also raised in the #3 Township. Some people say the name should be spelled Magdalene, but all records I have found spell it as two words. Also when I would write letters to Grandma, Mama told me to spell it Maggie Delean. Maggie was born November 12, 1870 the daughter of William Rippy and Marena Mauney. She died February 29, 1952.

LeRoy and Maggie are buried in New Hope Baptist Church Cemetery. They were lifelong members of this church.

Grandma and Grandpa had eleven children. Sallie and Carrie lived at the homeplace. Uncle Trent lived just up the road and Uncle Kermit next to him. All were within walking distance for a child.

Ezra Clifton McSwain was the first born on November 22, 1887. He worked in Kings Mountain for a while then in Concord, N.C. There he married Josie Willie Dover on February 19, 1910. Josie was born Near the Kings Mountain Battleground. As a child she had moved to Kings Mountain and then on to Concord. Her family worked in the mill and that is where Ezra worked. Ezra and Josie lived in South Boston, Virginia; Kings Mountain, and Gibsonville, North Carolina but the majority of their life was spent in Robbins, (formerly Hemp) North Carolina. They ran a dry goods store, cafe, barbership, and beauty shop.

Their marriage produced five sons: Ernest Patterson, LeRoy Clifton, James Thurse, Arthur Charles and Carl Douglas. Ezra was very active in civic affairs. He died July 26, 1944 and was buried in Pine Rest Cemetery in Robbins. Josie spent the last few years in Cary, N.C. with her son, J.T., who ran McSwain's Mobil Home Park. Josie died December 28, 1971. She was buried in Pine Rest Cemetery. Josie loved to crochet and made each of her children a bedspread.

Broadus Henderson McSwain was born January 4, 1889. On February 9, 1909 he married Minnie Ross of Cleveland County who was born January 9, 1891. They spent their later years in Charlotte, North Carolina. Uncle Broadus worked for Lance Packing Company. As a child we looked forward to his visits. He always brought us "treats." We would make homemade ice cream often. Aunt Minnie loved ice cream and would wrap up to keep warm and continue to eat it.

Broadus and Minnie had four children: Herman Eugene, Katheen Ross, Hazel Lee, and Broadus Henderson, Jr. Minnie died May 16, 1941. Broadus died August 21, 1961. They are buried at New Hope.

Carrie Vada McSwain was born May 17, 1890. She married L. Gidney Hamrick who was born March 25, 1885. They lived in Morganton, North Carolina where Uncle Gidney worked for Broughton Hospital. They had two children: Shadrick C. and L. Gidney. A year or so after Gidney's death on September 20, 1940, Aunt Carrie moved back to her parent's home. She died June 23, 1958 and was buried beside her husband in New Hope Cemetery.

Joseph McSwain was born May 19, 1891 and died in March 1892. Eva Marenia McSwain was born February 3, 1893 and died February 20, 1893.

Sallie Myrtle McSwain was born January 13, 1896 and died June 5, 1957. She never married. She and Carrie worked on the family farm. In their spare time they crocheted, tatted and embroidered. They made beautiful quilts also. It was Aunt Sallie's task to feed and water Goober, a real old mule on the farm. It was always a highlight of the trip to go with her and pet Goober.

Ida Mary McSwain was born September 11, 1901. She married Thomas Leroy Oates.

Kermit McSwain was born April 17, 1904. He married Sue Saintsing. They had two children: Charles and Jack. Uncle Kermit had a country band, which played on radio and for special gatherings. Kermit played fiddle and Charles played Guitar. Kermit ran a store on Highway 18 south. He died June 15, 1973 and is buried at New Hope.

Herman McSwain was born September 24, 1906. He died of one of the childhood diseases on July 6, 1908. My mother, Ida, always said he was one of the sweetest children she had ever seen, so good natured.

Audie Trent McSwain was born April 2, 1909. He married Myrtie Eudora Hancock of Moore County, North Carolina on December 12, 1936. Uncle Trent was the last baby delivered by Dr. Trent of Earl. Grandma had always had Dr. Trent. Even though he had quit delivering babies he promised Grandma he would come and deliver this one. When the time drew near, Dr. Trent went to the McSwain home and stayed a couple of days. When he had delivered a healthy boy he commented the child should be named for him as it would be the last he delivered.

One of the highlights of our trips to Grandma's was the trip to the store with Uncle Trent for candy. This is the home that welcomes us on our extended trips to do Genealogical research. Uncle Trent is a wonderful guide and Aunt Myrtie is a fantastic cook. Our children look forward to their visits to Earl, North Carolina. Roy and I feel we have truly visited our "roots."

— Jean Oates McSwain

Rev. Louis H. McSwain, 1814-1890

REVEREND LOUIS H. McSWAIN

768

Louis McSwain was descended from one of the early families of Tryon and Rutherford counties which eventually became Cleveland

County. The McSwain family was in North Carolina in the latter part of the 1700's. One such McSwain was Louis' grandfather, William McSwain. (Court Records)

William, the son of David, was born in 1762, probably in Virginia. He married Juditha Moore and was in the Revolutionary War serving in Brevard's Company, Tenth Regiment. Their children were David, Polly, Hannah, Sally, James, Rebecca, William, John, Thomas, Judith, Elizabeth and George. In 1831 Juditha died after which he remarried Elizabeth Hicks who was a widow. William died in December 1838 in Rutherford County. (Hamrick Generations by Jones, McSwain, by McSwain, cemetery record, pension papers)

Louis McSwain's father was John, the son of William. John was born in 1794 in North Carolina. He was living in 1800 in Rutherford County with his parents. John married Susannah who was probably the daughter of Nancy Morris. (1800, 1850 census, cemetery inscription)

It may be that Susannah Morris was a cousin of Davy Crockett. Davy's aunt Ruth Crockett married a Morris but is uncertain what his first name was. There has been a story handed down through the generations that Davy Crockett was a cousin of the McSwains which could be worth researching by anyone who is interested.

John and Susannah's children were Louis, Martha, Judith and Nancy. John died September 27, 1867 and is buried in the McSwain cemetery in Cleveland County along with his father and other family members. Susannah died several years later and is also buried there. (Hamrick Generations, cemetery record)

Reverend Louis McSwain, son of John and Susannah was born in October 1814 in Rutherford County. He married Mary Hamrick, daughter of Deacon D. Hamrick. Their children were Judith, Martha, Rebecca, Hannah, Nancy, Oliver, Ruben, Lucy, John, Lewis, Bonnar, Sarah, Ambrose, Margaret. (cemetery inscription, Sketches of Broad River and Kings Mountain Baptist Associations, census)

Louis' beginnings in the church came when he put his faith and trust in Jesus and joined the Baptist Church at Buffalo in 1839. He was led by the Lord to preach and got his license to do so that very same year. In 1848, after showing his consistency in the faith Louis was officially ordained as a minister.

He organized Mount Sinai Baptist Church and was chosen it's first pastor in 1848. Mount Sinai was located in Erwinsville which is now Shelby. Besides pastoring the Mount Sinai Baptist Church, Louis took an active part in the running of the Broad River and Kings Mountain Associations for many years.

Louis and his family moved to Yorkville, York County, South Carolina between 1860 and 1870. Most of their children stayed in the North and South Carolina area but their daughter Judith, with her husband Edwin Padgett, son of Wiley and Lavina moved to Arkansas sometime before 1870, probably never to see her parents again. Judith and Edwin, who were neighbors in North Carolina, married in 1862. Their children were William, John, Mary, Edna, Minnie. Judith and Edwin are both buried in Lonoke County, Arkansas. (census, Bible)

Louis died January 25, 1890 in Grover, York County, South Carolina and is buried in the Antioch Baptist Church Cemetery there. After his death, Mary went to live with their son Lewis in Cherokee County, South Carolina until her death on January 13, 1906. She is buried with her husband.

Louis was not an educated man but was sound in the faith and well versed in the Scriptures. He found favor with God and rendered good service in His cause, having been instrumental in the salvation of many precious souls.

Mount Sinai Baptist Church celebrated its 125th Anniversary in 1973! If Louis were alive today he would be a very proud man at what the Lord has done since the formation of this church. It started out as a meager building, probably made of logs. It has progressed through the years through various stages of development and is now a beautiful brick structure. Yes, Louis would be proud, not only of the building but of the people who are now members, some of them McSwain descendants, working for the Lord just as Louis so faithfully died. (History of the Broad River and Kings Mountain Baptist Associations by Logan, 125th Anniversary Mt. Sinai Baptist Church)

Sources: as quoted.

— Mrs. Donna G. Pilcher

PLATO FLOYD McSWAIN

769

In the year 1982 there are seven great grandchildren of seven grandchildren who carry the name of McSwain. They are the descendants of Plato Floyd McSwain who was married in 1879 to Hester Emeline Greene, daughter of William and Nancy Champion Greene, granddaughter of Elbridge and Sarah Jetton Stubbs, great-granddaughter of Seth Stubbs.

Plato Floyd McSwain, who was raised by his great-Uncle Timmons McSwain in Boiling Springs, and Hester were the parents of twelve children, which included two sets of twins. During the flu epidemic of 1918, four of the children died within two days and were buried in one grave at Elizabeth Baptist Church near Shelby. A week later, Mrs. McSwain and another child died and were buried together in the same cemetery. Another daughter, Jane (Pendleton), who had recently married also died of the flu and is buried at Elizabeth.

The immediate survivors of this family were: Evie (Mrs. Perry) White (1892-1963), Jethro (1913-1978), Bethel "Bib" (1901-1966), Wm. Noah (1890-1949), Robert Floyd "Bob" (1899-1976), and Plato.

The seven grandchildren bearing the McSwain name were and are: Billy Gene "Pedro" (1928-1979), Claude Raye (1934-1975), Steve Franklin (1932-1978), James Plato "Jimmy" (1930-1980), Robert Dean (1931), Floyd 1945 and William (1951).

The seven great grandchildren carrying the McSwain name, (year of birth and present addresses) are: John Martin (1955), Gastonia, N.C.; Charles Avery (1959), Ellenboro, N.C.; Eric Drew (1959), Oxnard, Calif.; Keith (1969), Trenton, N.J.; William (1972), Trenton, N.J.; Larry Dean (1958), Alexandria, Va.; and John Thomas (1964), Alexandria, Va.

Sources: Family records, personal knowledge.

— Nellie McSwain Skipper

THE WILLIAM BERRY McSWAIN FAMILY

770

William Berry McSwain (18 October 1822; 5 May 1904) was the son of David and Susanna Hamrick McSwain of the Beaver Dam community.

The 1860 census of Cleveland County list him as a farmer with a real estate value of one thousand one hundred fifteen dollars, and personal property at five hundred twenty five dollars.

His two great granddaughters that are living at this writing, remember him as a tall man, with white hair, and a long white beard. He was always in a serious mood, and seldom did they see him smile.

Around 1843 he married Barbara Padgett (21 December 1818; 1 April 1910) daughter of Ephrim Padgett and wife Hettie (surname not known). A clipping of her obituary states the following: She was residing with her son D.R. McSwain at the time of her death. She joined the Sandy Run Baptist Church at the age of sixteen and was baptized by the Rev. Drury Dobbins. Her membership remained at Sandy Run until Beaver Dam Church was organized. She was a charter member of Beaver Dam. She lived a christian life and was loved by all who knew her for her christian graces. She was buried in the Beaver Dam Church cemetery. The funeral service was conducted by Rev. Gordon Washburn and Rev. A.C. Irvin. Her husband is also buried at Beaver Dam.

William Berry and Barbara's eight children were: Chelsedona, born 1845 married Leander Padgett; Lucy Harriett (1847-1903) married John David McSwain, her first cousin (see article elsewhere in book); Larkin Arkansas (1849-1929) married Louisa Matilda Lovelace; Coatsworth Henderson (1861-1950) married Susan Martha Elliott; Cordelia, born 1854 married Christopher "Chris" Hamrick; Barbara Finetta (1856-1942) married William Toliver D. Green; William Berry, Jr. (1858-1920) married Mary Elizabeth Justice; Drury Reubin "Doc", born 1863, married Willer Ovella Ramsey.

Sources: Census, tombstones, and personal knowledge.

CAPTAIN BENJAMIN MAGNESS

771

Benjamin Magness was born in Virginia in 1755 and died in Rutherford (later to become Cleveland) County in 1828. He was the son of Perrygreen Magness (who was born in England in 1722, migrated to Virginia, then to North Carolina and died about 1800) and Sarah Hamrick Magness. Benjamin came with his parents at the age of ten to Tryon County which later was divided into Rutherford County and then Cleveland County.

Both Benjamin Magness and his father, Perrygreen Magness were participants in the American Revolutionary War. Perrygreen Magness (spelled Mackness at the time) was one of the signers of the Tryon County Declaration of Rights and Independence from British Tyranny. Perrygreen and Benjamin Magness were on the Tryon County Committee of Public Safety in 1776 established to prepare for the Revolutionary War. The Committee also bought gunpowder for the protection of the homes from the savage Indians. Perrygreen and his son, Benjamin both were Captains in the War and fought in the Battle of Kings Mountain.

In the Battle of Kings Mountain, Captain Benjamin Magness' white steed was shot from under him, but he stepped off the falling horse unharmed. His sword used in that Battle is held by a great, great granddaughter. During the Revolutionary War, Negro servants hauled meat and produce from his farm to Captain Magness' company. While Captain Magness and his troops were watching for the enemy at the Battle at Cowpens, he had his favorite servant, Joe, bring along with the load of food, his first child, Jeremiah. When the time came for Captain Magness to take charge of his company for battle, he placed the child in care of his trusty servant to take home, but while Joe was preparing to start home, the two-year-old child wandered into the battleline. When his father gave the command, Forward March, the child was knocked down and tragically killed by the marching soldiers.

The Will of Captain Benjamin Magness probated in Rutherford County in 1828 leaves his vast tracts of land and his slaves to his many children. Some of his children were by his first wife, Elizabeth Mauney, and several were by his second wife, Nancy Walker, daughter of John and Erslie Covington Walker, whom he married on March 4, 1809. One of the children by his second marriage was Robert Magness, resident of Cleveland County and Captain of the Home Guards in the Civil War. Robert Magness was born August 22, 1817 and died on October 5, 1884 and is buried at Rehobeth Methodist Church Cemetery between Lattimore and New House. He was first married to Susanna Grigg and later to Mary (Polly) Whisnant on August 20, 1868. They had six children, Robert, Florence, John, Samuel Coon, George and Cora Ann. George and Cora lived and their descendants continued to live in Cleveland County. George was born on June 10, 1877 and died on August 31, 1959. He married Lillie Poston and they had the following children: Margaret Magness Dodd, Charles (Coon) Magness, James Magness, Faye Magness Royster and Dorothy Magness Poston. Their grandchildren were George Magness, Charles Magness, Jr., Margaret Magness Hamrick, James Magness, Jr., Joan Royster McDaniel, and David Poston.

Robert Magness and Mary Whisnant Magness' daughter, Cora Ann Magness was born on September 24, 1879 and died in Shelby June 18, 1945. She was born in her father's house near Lattimore about ½ mile North of the homeplace of her grandfather and Revolutionary War ancestor, Captain Benjamin Magness. Cora Magness married James Petty Austell and they had six children: Mary Jane Austell Lutz, Charles Benjamin Austell, Sarah Magness Austell Nolan, Elizabeth Austell Porter, James Petty Austell, Jr. and Cora Ann Singleton. Their grandchildren were Robert Lutz, Betty Lutz Burton, William Austell Lutz, Mary Adelaide Austell Craver, Harry Lee Nolan, Jr., Charles Austell Nolan, Johnsie Porter Rizzo, John Porter III, James Porter, Mary Ann Austell Spencer, Robert Austell, and James Marcus Singleton. Cora Magness Austell was always proud of her Revolutionary War ancestors and throughout her life was an active member of the Daughters of the American Revolution. The Benjamin in the name of her son, Charles Benjamin Austell was for his great grandfather, Captain Benjamin Magness.

Sources: Family Bible, D.A.R. Records, Tryon County Courthouse Records, Rutherford County Courthouse Records, Personal Knowledge.

— Mary Adelaide Austell Craver

Carl Magness

CARL JACKSON MAGNESS FAMILY

772

Carl Jackson Magness was born January 18, 1897 near Lattimore in Cleveland County, North Carolina. He was the son of Rufus Luther Magness and Hester Crowder of Cleveland County. In 1916 he married Dorcas Salome Greene, daughter of William Tolliver David Greene and Barbara Finette McSwain of Cleveland County.

Carl loved music and had a good tenor voice. He sang in the Lattimore Church choir many years. When he was a little boy his father took him to many community "singings", instilling in him his own love for music.

He was a salesman most of his life. During World War II (1941-44) he and his wife moved to Baltimore, Maryland, where he worked in an airplane plant. He died in September, 1968.

Carl's wife, Dorcas, was an excellent seamstress and made all the dresses for her three daughters and five granddaughters. She was also brought up in a musical home. Her father taught "singing schools" in churches over the county and she attended many of these. She went on to Piedmont High School and studied music there.

Dorcas Greene Magness

Dorcas was active in the Lattimore Woman's Club in Lattimore and in the Women's Missionary Circle of Lattimore Baptist Church where she was circle treasurer for twenty-five years. She died in October 1978.

The three daughters of Carl and Dorcas and their husbands are: Hester Donniss b. 1916, m. J. Wyatt Martin, Sr.; Millie Jocelyn b. 1918, m. Edward B. Clayton, Sr.; Hillary Jackson b. 1922, m. Rev. Wilson Padgett, Sr.

Sources: Personal knowledge, Family records

Mrs. Wyatt Martin

THE CHRISTOPHER GOLD MARTIN FAMILY

773

The father of Christopher Gold Martin was James P. Martin, who was born around 1813, lived in Cleveland County and reared a large family by two wives. He first married Elizabeth Gold (born ca 1815) and fathered six children. They are as follows: Christopher Gold Martin, born ca 1835; Sarah Martin, born ca 1837; twins Weldon H. Martin and Abram M. Martin, born ca 1839; Reuben K. Martin, born ca 1841; and William A. Martin, born ca 1845. By his second wife Martha Mooney (1837-1910), James P. Martin fathered six more children: Phillip, Josie, Jennie, Carrie, Corie, and George Cabiness Martin. This father of twelve children worked as a carpenter for at least part of his life. When the Civil War came, James entered 29 March 1862 and served in the war with Company C from Cleveland County.

The oldest child of James P. Martin and Elizabeth Gold was Christopher Gold Martin, born around 1835. Christopher married Mary Esther Gardner on September 23, 1858 and settled in the Fallston Community. Christopher and Mary had only three children, but from these have come numerous descendants. Their oldest child was Cicero Martin (June 1859 — 6 July 1912), who married Ann Lavendar. Daniel Lafayette Martin (29 December 1860 — 15 February 1940), the second child, first married Mary Alice Wright and then after her death married Ida Wright. The youngest child was Christopher Columbus Martin (1 November 1863 — 7 December 1935), who married Gazarene Scism. Times were hard for the young family. The Civil War took many men both young and old. Christopher Gold Martin fought for the CSA and was killed 3 May 1863 in the Battle of Chancellorsville. He had married at about the age of twenty-three, was a father at twenty-four, and died at twenty-eight, with his last child born about five months after his death. In the 1879 Census of Cleveland County, Cicero, the "man" of his family after his father's death, is listed as a farm laborer at the age of eleven.

Mary Esther Gardner (ca 1837-13 September 1890), the widow of Christopher Gold Martin never remarried and spent her life bringing up her children. Mary was the daughter of William Hoyle Gardner and Rebecca Beam. Through her father, William Hoyle Gardner, Mary Esther was related to many of the Gardeners of Cleveland County. Her grandfather, Thomas Gardner probably was the first Gardner of the line in America, coming to this country prior to the American Revolution. One of twenty-one children, Thomas Gardner, probably the son of William Gardner of England, married (Olivine Martin (ca 1780-29 July 1826) and fathered twelve children. Mary Esther Gardner Martin lived in the Fallston Community on what is now Highway 18; she is buried at New Bethel Cemetery. Her three sons grew to adulthood and established long lines of descendants.

Cicero Martin, the eldest son, migrated to Polk County, where he and Ann Lavendar Martin had eight children: Clarence, who married Lillie Bridges; Blanch; Furman; Bertha, who married a Smith; Minnie, who married Dewey Whitesides; and Mollie and Lottie, who never married.

Daniel Lafayette, the middle child, who was called Fate, stayed with and cared for his mother in Cleveland County until her death. The homeplace is still in the family with the house that they lived in still standing on Hwy 18 in the Fallston Community. Daniel Lafayette Martin first married Mary Alice Wright and had six children: Farris, who married Mollie Hoyle; Essie, who married Clenzo Wright; Clem, who married Elsie Beam; George G., who married Mary Lizzie Gant, and Mary Alice, who died as an infant. By his second wife, Ida Wright, Daniel Lafayette has two children: Grier Lafayette, who married Eloice Royster, and Warren Jackson, who married Eudora Hoyle.

The youngest son, Christopher Columbus Martin, went to Lincoln County after his marriage to Gazarene Scism, the daughter of Peter Scism and Melvine Ford. Christopher and Gazarene had eight children: Jasper Franklin, who married Julia Ann Tildana Faulkner; Orlander, Lawrence, and Vatha, who died young; Pearl Martin, who married John Navy; Choyce, who married Gus Shrum; Gold, who married Ellie December 29, 1860), and Christopher Columbus (born November 1, 1863).

My grandfather, Christopher Gold Martin, was killed in the battle of Chancellorsville, Virginia, and was buried there. My father, Daniel Lafayette Martin, was married twice. To he and his first wife, Mary Alice Wright, were born six children — Farris, Cleo, Essie, Clem, George, and Mary Alice, who died as an infant.

The following is a record of the descendants of Daniel Lafayette Martin by his first wife. Farris married Mollie Hoyle. Their children were Gazzie, Estelle, Mattie Lee, Virginia, Mary Kate, and Hoyle. Cleo married Dennis Wright. They had one child, Luna. Essie married Clenzo Wright. Their children were Lucy, Thelbert, Wray, Azelene, Wayne, Madge, and Bryte. Clem married Elsie Beam. Their children were Doyle, Robert, Floy, Evelyn, and Billy. George married Mary Lizzie Gantt. Their children were Wellington, Vivian, and Doris.

To my father and his second wife, Ida Drussilla Wright, were born two children — Grier Lafayette and Warren Jackson. The following is a record of the descendants of that union. Grier married Eloice Royster. Their children were Marilyn, William Alton (W.A.), Joreka, and Joyce. Marilyn married Ray Warlick. They had two sons, Ray Jr. and Terry Lane. William Alton (W.A.) married Sue Blanton. Their children were Deborah, Dennis, and Denise. Joreka married Joe Spangler. They had two sons, Michael and David. Joyce married Dwight Meade. They had one son, Kale. Warren Jackson married Eudora Hoyle. Their two children were Kirby Dean and Teresa Ann. Kirby married Lettie Jo Cummings. Their children were Richard, Steve, and Mary. Teresa married Leon Leonhardt. Their two children were Martie and Douglas.

Sources: Cleveland County Censuses 1850, 1860, 1870, 1900, Records of P.C. Gardner, Cleveland County Historical Museum, Records of marriage of Cleveland County, Roster of the 15 Companies in Cleveland County in the Civil War by P.C. Gardener; gravestones in Cleveland County; Interviews with Warren Martin, E.Y. Martin, and other family members.

— Warren J. Martin

Daniel Lafayette Martin

James Wyatt Martin, Sr., was born March 15, 1913, just over the county line in Rutherford County, North Carolina. He is the son of Julius Ceasar Martin and Lillie Walker. He attended grammar schools in Lattimore, North Carolina, Boiling Springs College in 1935 (now Gardner-Webb), and later completed a barber course in Spartanburg, South Carolina. He had a general store and barber shop for many years. In 1937 he began a feed business in Lattimore known as Martin Milling Co. In July, 1942, he was drafted into the army where he served four years — two of which were overseas. He was in the 344th Ordnance Company of the Third Army during World War II.

In December, 1942, Wyatt married Hester Donniss Magness (born 1916) of Lattimore. She is the daughter of Carl Jackson Magness and Dorcas Salome Greene. She graduated from Lattimore High School in 1934 and entered Boiling Springs College (now Gardner-Webb) where she studied music. Later she taught piano in Rutherford County schools. In 1960 she became assistant music director in the Lattimore Baptist Church, accompanying choirs and playing organ. She is bookkeeper for the family business, Martin Milling Co. in Lattimore.

Donnis and Wyatt's first child was a daughter, Patricia Dorcas (called Patsy and Pat) born December 13, 1946. She went to school in Lattimore and Crest, the high school near Boiling Spring, North Carolina. After graduation there she attended Mars Hill College, Mars Hill, North Carolina, and Limestone College, Gaffney, South Carolina. She is now an art teacher in Cleveland County schools (1982). She married Jerry Robert Greene in 1966 and they live in Boiling Springs, North Carolina.

James Wyatt Martin, Jr. ("Jim") was born January 21, 1950. He graduated from Crest High School in 1968 and from Gardner-Webb College in 1972. In March, 1969, he married Teresa Jane Tillman ("Terry") of Shelby, North Carolina. He worked with his father in the feed business for several years. He and his wife are engaged in a barbecue business and the sale of wholesale meats in Shelby, North Carolina. They have two daughters: Catherine Ansley, born August 20, 1970 and Mary Holly, born April 23, 1975.

The Wyatt Martin's third child was David Jackson, born November 26, 1952. He graduated from Crest High School in 1971 and entered N.C. State University in Raleigh, North Carolina, the following year. He has a wood and furniture shop in Lattimore and also works with his father in the feed business.

David is a bluegrass musician and belongs to two bands. He plays all the string instruments used in bluegrass bands, including a violin that belonged to his grandfather Martin. He will marry Cindy Jane Hunt of Lattimore on May 8, of this year (1982).

Sources: Personal knowledge and family records

— Mrs. Wyatt Martin

Christopher Gold Martin

Wentz; and Mary Martin, who married Lee Shronce.

In June 1981, the descendants of Christopher Gold Martin and Mary Esther Gardner gathered at Fallston United Methodist Church to meet relatives never seen. Their three sons were born in the late 1850's and the early 1860's, grew up without a father. To help make life easier, reared large families of eight children each, made contributions to many lives, and left a legacy of strength and values for future generations.

Sources: Cleveland County Censuses 1850, 1860, 1870, and 1900; records of P.C. Gardener, Cleveland County Historical Museum; Records of Marriage of Cleveland County; Roster of the 15 Companies in Cleveland County in the Civil War by P.C. Gardener; gravestones in Cleveland County; Interviews with Warren Martin, E.Y. Martin, and other family members.

— Peggy J. Martin

THE DANIEL LAFAYETTE (FATE) MARTIN FAMILY

774

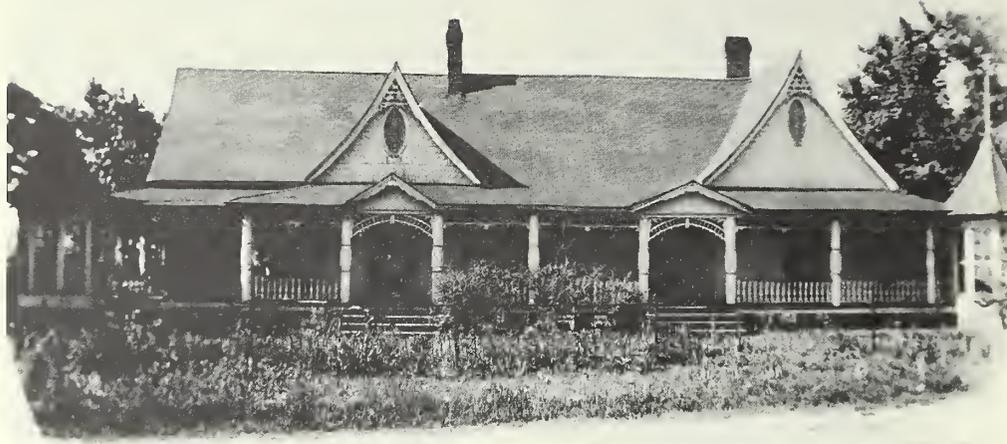

This a partial history of the Daniel Lafayette (Fate) Martin family written by Warren Jackson Martin.

According to my search of the records, there was a Christopher Martin who emigrated to North Carolina from Virginia or Europe just before the Revolutionary War. He had a son whose name was James Martin, my great-grandfather.

He also had a daughter, Olivine Martin, who married Thomas Gardner about 1780.

James Martin was the father of six children by his first wife, Elizabeth Gold. Their names were Christopher Gold, Sarah, Weldon, Abram, Reuben, and William. James Martin's second wife was Martha Mooney. To this union were six children — Josie, Porie, Jennie, Carrie, Corie, and George.

My grandfather, Christopher Gold Martin, the oldest son of James Martin was born in 1835 and married Mary Esther Gardner, daughter of William Gardner. To this union were born three children — Cicero (born July 9, 1859), Daniel Lafayette, my father, (born

The Wyatt Martin Home, built by Wm. Calton, 1899-1900

Julius Martin in his surrey

THE JULIUS CEASAR MARTIN FAMILY

776

Julius Caesar Martin was born May 4, 1870, in Rutherford County. He was the only son of Richard (Dick) Martin and Susan Owens. In his younger days he taught school briefly, and was a salesman of stoves and clocks in Georgia, Alabama and Florida. At age twenty-one he returned to his farm in Cleveland County. He was a good farmer and a hard working man. He loved people and music and played the violin well. Hymns and folk music were his favorite music. He played for square dances and other social events. He was friends with the best native musical talents of that day and encouraged his children to play an instrument. He was always present at the corn shuckings, cabin raisings, public singings and anywhere people congregated. He drove his horse and surrey everywhere he went.

In 1901 Julius married Lillie Angeline Walker, daughter of Roxanna McKinney and Doctor Joseph Suttle Walker. (It was the custom for the seventh son in a family to have the name Doctor.) Lillie was from the Sandy Plains Community in Cleveland County. On the day of their wedding a great emergency occurred when Lillie's wedding dress was being pressed for the important occasion. One sleeve was badly burned with a flat iron that was much too hot! It was quickly returned to the dressmaker, Mrs. W.E. Fite, and a new sleeve was put in just in time for the wedding. Lillie's father paid Mrs. Fite a Beckler gold dollar for making his daughter's wedding dress.

Lillie made a good home for Julius. She was a good cook and housekeeper and was an excellent mother for her five sons and two daughters. They were strict parents and the children had great respect for them. All of them had the benefit of college.

Often as many as one hundred friends gathered at the Martin home for a musical extravaganza. Good food and music were always in abundance. Lillie always saw that there was no drinking nor rowdy conduct in her house and her rules were always respected.

The Martins lived in many communities over the years — Mooresboro, Ellenboro and Boiling Springs. The final move was to Lattimore in 1943 after the children were grown and going their separate ways. Four of the five sons were drafted into the armed services during World War II. It was during these years that you could see Julius still riding in his surrey to visit his farm at Piney Mountain near Ellenboro in Rutherford County. He was perhaps the last man in Cleveland County to give up his horse and surrey.

Julius was a participating Mason, a Baptist and a Democrat. He made friends, young and old, wherever he went.

Julius Martin died March 5, 1953. Lillie Walker Martin died December 22, 1967.

The following children were born to this couple:

Donna, born June 27, 1902 and died at seventeen years on March 14, 1919 when she was a student at Boiling Springs High School.

Lala Estelle, born April 7, 1905, retired from teaching school in 1970 after forty years. She was very devoted to her parents and took excellent care of them as long as they lived.

Julius Edley was born April 9, 1907. He was a school teacher and sold real estate for many years. In 1937 he married Evelyn Bobo, a piano teacher from South Carolina. He lives in Rutherfordton, North Carolina.

Lyman Hoyt Martin was born September 26, 1910. He was an agriculture teacher in Rutherford County schools. He married (1942) Beulah Smith of York, South Carolina. Lyman died in June, 1965.

James Wyatt was born March 15, 1913. For many years he was a barber. In 1937 he opened up a General Merchandise Store and Feed Manufacturing business. He is married to Donnis Magness of Lattimore. They have three children — a daughter and two sons.

Thomas Wilber was born September 1, 1917. He is a school principal in Cleveland County. In 1942 he married Elene Connor, a teacher in Lattimore School. They have a son and daughter.

Howard, the youngest child, was born April 8, 1921. He was a train engineer in Florida. He married Martha Duncan of Rutherford County. In 1953 Howard was killed in an automobile accident in Florida. Two daughters live in Florida.

A portion of a poem, "Take This Surrey Home," by Pat Martin Greene about her grandfather, Julius Martin, read as follows:

"Climbing in that surrey with old Pearl all hitched to go
To wander over roads of pavement where dirt ones used to flow.

He recalled the days of youth and love as cornfields glided by
And the shining star that he called 'Lilly' — The woman he took to his side."

Sources: Family records and personal knowledge

— Mrs. Wyatt Martin

DORRIS (DORUS) CARL MAUNEY

777

Dorris (Dorus) Carl Mauney, fourth son of Jacob Simri and Margaret Juletta (Julia) Rudisill Mauney, was born in Kings Mountain, North Carolina on July 24, 1881.

Mr. Mauney grew up in Kings Mountain,

Dorris (Dorus) Carl Mauney, July 24, 1881 — October 15, 1956

attending the local schools. He attended Roanoke College, Roanoke, Virginia, for one year, transferring to Atlanta Business College, Atlanta, Georgia, graduating with a degree in Business Administration. He returned to Kings Mountain to manage the Mauney Brothers General Store.

On September 1, 1904, he and Sarah (Sadie) Elizabeth Fisher were married in Concord, North Carolina, home-town of the bride.

In the Spring of 1918, Mr. Mauney and Larkin A. Kiser organized and built the Sadie Cotton Mills in Kings Mountain, North Carolina. This company is in operation today (1981).

In addition to being Secretary and Treasurer and Chief Executive Officer of Sadie Cotton Mills, he was also President of Bonnie Cotton Mills, a Director in Kings Mountain Manufacturing Company and Mauney Steel Company, a yarn brokerage company in Providence, Rhode Island.

Mr. Mauney was active in Saint Matthew's Lutheran Church, serving as Sunday School Superintendent as well as being on the Church Council for a number of years.

He served as Chairman of the Kings Mountain School Board for two terms, being instrumental in re-building the Central High School building that had burned to the ground in the winter of 1931-32.

Mr. Mauney's wife (Miss Sadie to her friends) was active in both church and civic affairs. She taught Sunday School classes for a number of years at Saint Matthew's and was active in the Womens Missionary Society.

In 1913 Mrs. Mauney and Mrs. C.Q. Rhyne organized the first social club in Kings Mountain, The Thursday Afternoon Book Club, which is still active. She was a charter member of the Kings Mountain Womens Club, a member of the Daughters of the American Revolution, Daughters of the American Colonists and Daughters of the Confederacy. She was a person who lived for her family, her friends and the community in which she lived. She died in June of 1952 at the age of 72 years.

Since Mrs. Mauney was very much interested in the building of a club house for the Womens Club, her husband made a liberal contribution to the club in her memory enabling them to complete the building as per the original plans.

Mr. and Mrs. Mauney were the parents of three children: Carl Fisher Mauney, born April 30, 1909; Joseph Stanhope Mauney, born October 11, 1911, died in June of 1950; and Laura Juletta Mauney Houser, born April 4, 1914.

Dorris (Dorus) Carl Mauney lived an active and useful life, held in high esteem by his family and friends. He died October 15, 1956 at the age of 75 years.

Sources: Kings Mountain Heralds, Deppen, Counting Kindred, Summers, Three Mauney Families Hoffman, Our Kin Shinn, History of the Shinn Family

— Mrs. Geroge H. Houser

JACOB SIMRI and MARGARET JULETTA RUDISILL MAUNEY

778

Jacob Simri Mauney, one of Kings Mountain's pioneer settlers, was born April 6, 1846, on a farm in Gaston County — now the Muddy Fork section of Cleveland County, North Carolina. His parents were David Mauney, a descendant of Christian Mauney, and Barbara Frances (Fannie) Carpenter. His early education was in the old field school at Caperneum, near Waco. The Civil War interrupted Mauney's education at Catawba College.

At the age of fifteen, Jacob Mauney was in the drilling service for the Confederacy. In 1863, he enlisted in the 72nd Regiment of N.C. Troops. His unit was stationed at Wilmington, North Carolina, where he accomplished the feat of swimming the Cape Fear River at its widest point.

After the war, Mauney faced the hardship days of Reconstruction and farmed for a short time.

On Sept. 11, 1873, Mauney married Margaret Juletta (Julia) Rudisill, (born Jan. 26, Jacob Simri and Margaret Juletta Rudisill Mauney, 50th Wedding Anniversary, Sept. 11, 1923.

1850), of Lincoln County. She was the daughter of John A. and Mary Amanda Smith Rudisill. They had five sons and two daughters, Samuel Augustus Mauney, Rufus Lawrence Mauney, John David Mauney, Dorris (Dorus) Carl Mauney, Vera Lavene Mauney, William Kemp Mauney and Edith Eudora, who died in infancy.

Mrs. Mauney was small and for many years of frail body. She was of indomitable energy and will power, keenly interested in life, friendly and sociable with all classes and conditions of people.

Shortly after the Mauney's were married, they moved to Kings Mountain, then called White Plains. Here Mr. Mauney and his brother, William Andrew Mauney, became merchants and farmers. The first store was the small, white dwelling house on North Battleground Avenue at the old overhead railroad bridge. Later, the store was moved to a location south on Battleground Avenue, and in 1878 the Mauney brothers replaced the wooden building with the town's first two-story brick structure.

After the railroad was completed through Kings Mountain and the town began to grow, the Mauney brothers, Jacob and Andrew, pioneered practically every line of endeavor in the new town.

In 1888, Jacob Mauney was one of the organizers of Cleveland County's first cotton mill, the Kings Mountain Manufacturing Company. Mr. Mauney became General Manager of this mill in 1896 and from 1929 until his death, was President. Later he was interested in the organization and building of the Bonnie, Dilling, Mauney and Sadie mills.

In January 1900, the Bank of Kings Mountain received its state charter. The first officers were William Andrew Mauney, president; Jacob S. Mauney, vice-president; R. Lawrence Mauney, a son of Jacob Mauney, cashier. Six months later this bank received its national charter and became the First National Bank of Kings Mountain and was the first national bank in Cleveland County.

Jacob Mauney was deeply interested in the religious growth of the community. In 1876, Mauney, with others, organized St. Matthew's Lutheran Church, holding services in a small house where the Mauney Memorial Library now stands. Mr. and Mrs. Mauney were charter members of St. Matthew's Lutheran Church.

Jacob S. Mauney was greatly interested in the general work of the church. He was a large contributor to Lenoir-Rhyne College where he endowed the Jacob Mauney Scholarship Fund and was one of the chief contributors to the erection of Mauney Hall. For over 20 years he was a member of the Board of Trustees and supporter of the college. While a large contributor to his own church, Mr. Mauney and others contributed in building a Lutheran church in Hendersonville, as a memorial to his parents, David and Frances (Fannie) Mauney. A son, Rev. John David Mauney, was pastor of this church for a number of years. Today, there are four grandsons and four great-grandsons active ministers in the Lutheran Church of America.

In Dec. 1935, a banquet honoring Mr. Mauney was held in Kings Mountain. Principal speakers were Gov. Clyde R. Hoey and Federal Judge E.Y. Webb, who paid tribute to him as a community builder.

Mrs. Mauney died on January 27, 1930 and Mr. Mauney died on Nov. 13, 1936. Both were buried in Mountain Rest Cemetery, Kings Mountain.

In Nov. 1947, as a living memorial to Jacob S. Mauney and Margaret Juletta Rudisill Mauney, the Mauney children and families presented to the City of Kings Mountain the Jacob S. Mauney Memorial Library.

Sources: Kings Mountain Herald, The Living Post of Cleveland County, Our Heritage, Textile Leaders of the South, Counting Kindred, Three Mauney Families, Centennial booklet of Kings Mountain, and Jacob S. Mauney Scrap Book.

— Elizabeth Winget Mauney

Front: Virginia LeFils and Beulah Mauney. Back: A friend, and James (Doc) Mauney.

JAMES EARNEST and BEULAH MAUNAY

779

Beulah Teague (b. Nov. 23, 1896) daughter of William H. and Roena Teague is one of Kings Mountain's most distinguished citizens. She met James Earnest Mauney, at Weslyn College in Athens, Tennessee. Besides "Doc" she had another suitor Claude Bush — the canned bean man. The school newspaper quoted: "Be still sad heart, cease your pining, Behind the bush the moon's still shining."

Doc and Beulah were married in Titusville, Florida on January 1, 1918 and rode the train back to Kings Mountain, N.C. For a while they lived with "Doc's" parents, Caleb and Margaret Kennedy Mauney and his sisters; Carrie, Edith, Ruth and Elizabeth (Rhea). Doc helped his father in the store in Bessemer City.

On Saturday Beulah and Margaret Mauney would take the buggy and go to Kings Mountain. The mule must have had religion because when he got to Grace Methodist Church he would turn-in and stop for a while before he went any further.

Beulah used to walk several miles each way everyday to teach at the "ole Red School House" located on the grounds of what is Burlington's Phenix Plant. She also taught Sunday School for over forty-five years at Grace Methodist Church. Students of both schools still have fond memories of her. For many years "Doc" and Beulah operated a store at the end of Church Street in Kings Mountain. There are many stories from many people that they helped. One lady recalls that she owed them $89. When she went to pay her bill it was Christmas and "Doc," on learning that the children were not going to get anything, gave her the money back and told her to buy the children some shoes and toys with it.

You could find Beulah in many places, working as a Red Cross volunteer; She rolled miles of bandages at the City Hall during WWI. She operated the Canteen for the Bloodmobile in Kings Mountain. She is a charter member of Otis Green Unit 155 of the American Legion and served as it's chaplain for many years. Her visits to the local hospital to deliver magazines and cheer will be long remembered. She has always had a helping hand. Everybody says that she has never spoken a cruel word about anyone. She finds good in everything and everybody. Besides the store they owned a lot of real estate and rented houses to many families.

After getting out of the business affairs, they spent time traveling and visited every state except Hawaii and Alaska. "Doc," who was born August 11, 1894, died of a heart attack on September 11, 1965. Beulah continued to give of her service to her church and community. Kings Mountain is a better place to live because of this distinguished couple.

— Elizabeth Camp Anthony

JOHN DAVID MAUNAY

780

The Rev. John David Mauney, the third son of Jacob S. and Margaret Juletta Mauney, was born in Kings Mountain October 15, 1878. Though the plans of his early youth projected a business career in his native community yet his eventual life calling dictated otherwise.

At the completion of his high school preparation in Kings Mountain he entered Roanoke College, Salem, Virginia, where he received his A.B. degree in 1901. In that same year, November 12, 1901, he married Bessie Miller Frantz, the daughter of Marshall P. and Virginia McCauley Frantz of Salem, Virginia.

The young couple completed plans to settle in Kings Mountain where he entered into its business life and where they constructed their new home. At the end of a year there came a call to enter into the Gospel Ministry, which led

Remember . . .

Articles
Are Indexed
By
Article Numbers
. . . Not By
Page
Number

to the sale of their unoccupied new home, and which propelled them to return for a year of preparation at Roanoke College where he qualified for a master's degree in 1903. That was followed by three years of theological study at the Philadelphia Lutheran Seminary.

In 1906 John D. Maaney was ordained by the Tennessee Synod of the Lutheran Church and accepted his first call, to Beth-Eden Lutheran Church at Newton, North Carolina. Later his additional pastorates took him to Columbia, South Carolina, then to Hickory, North Carolina, followed by a call to Augusta, Georgia. In 1921 he returned to North Carolina, this time to Grace Lutheran Church at Hendersonville, then back to St. Andrews, Hickory, where he completed a ministry in that congregation of some twenty years. During a portion of his ministry in Hickory he also served as a Bible Professor at Lenoir-Rhyne College.

Among his official positions may be noted his service as Secretary of the Tennessee Synod, as a member of the Board of Trustees of the Lutheran Theological Southern Seminary, and as a delegate to the constituting convention of the United Lutheran Church in America.

Under his leadership as pastor of Grace Lutheran Church in Hendersonville he erected the church building, which was a gift of the Maaney family in memory of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. David Maaney of Cherryville. Special attention should be directed also to the fact that in honor of his long service at St. Andrews, Hickory, his brothers and sister made a major gift toward the new educational building, which impelled the congregation to set it aside as a memorial to its late beloved Pastor Maaney.

Seven children were born to John D. and Bessie Frantz Maaney: Dorothy, the late Mrs. Ben G. Brown of Atlanta; the Rev. Dr. J. Luther of Roanoke, Virginia; Margaret, Elizabeth (Mrs. Dennis Blythe), and Mary, of Western North Carolina; the Rev. Dr. John D., Jr. recently of Fayetteville; and the Rev. Dr. Marshall F. of Norfolk, Virginia.

John David Maaney died June 13, 1947, and is buried in the Mountain Rest Cemetery in Kings Mountain. His was a full life marked by Christian leadership in the communities in which he and his family lived, where he was known for his outstanding proclamation of the Gospel by word and deed.

— J. Luther Maaney

THE MATTHEW MARCUS MAUNEY FAMILY

781

In 1780, a young German, Christopher Maaney, and his bride migrated from Rotterdam, Holland to Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. Christopher brought his Dutch Bible, habits, customs and hardihood with him. They located at Germantown, Pennsylvania, but later moved to Virginia, and from there farther south to what is now Gaston County, North Carolina. John, born in 1804 one of four sons of this union settled in Gaston County. His brothers moved elsewhere. John married a Scotchmans daughter and Matthew Marcus Maaney was one of their four sons. He was born September 25, 1844. "Mark" was regarded as a very substantial citizen and played a very important role in the growth and progress of the entire County.

Rev. John David Maaney, 1878-1947.

"Mark"s homeplace had been the John M. Tucker plantation, and along with the transfer of the farm went a mill site, a sawmill and several big steers. "Mark" moved here after he married Sarah Bailey of Fort Mill, South Carolina in 1876. She was the daughter of Richard Thomas Bailey, wagon-master to Rober E. Lee. To this union was born six sons. After the death of his wife Sarah, Marcus married Mattie Bailey, a sister of his first wife. To this union was born seven daughters and three sons.

The "Mark" Maaney home was the gathering place for young and old alike. Bountiful meals were the order of the day. Farm and political problems were discussed by the adults, while the young ones played, worked, or courted in a fashion typical of a well regulated family.

"Mark" Maaney was a pioneer in farming — a man of vision and forethought. He lived ahead of his time and introduced many new and needed improvements for farming. He was the first man in his community to plough with two horses, and the first to own a wheat drill. He was in every way a professional farmer, wide awake and sensible.

He was known as a pioneer road builder. In this area he was far in advance of his generation. He believed in good roads, talked good roads, and surveyed good roads with his own set of surveying instruments.

For twelve years he served on the Cleveland County Board of Commissioners. He was conscientious and performed his duty faithfully. Because of his thorough knowledge of construction he was appointed to supervise the building of the County Courthouse (now Cleveland Historical Museum). This was, and still is, considered to be a very magnificent building. His name is on the southeast corner of the building. Another outstanding construction achievement was the building of the first steel bridge across Main Broad River.

"Mark" was also a builder of manufacturing plants. In cotton mill construction he had an enviable record. The Shelby Cotton Mill was built under his direction and supervision. He was a well known mill-wright and civil engineer and was connected with several large enterprises. One of his greatest accomplishments was the building of a dam on Catawba River in South Carolina, now the site of a large hydroelectric plant.

He was a Master Mason and an active member as long as he lived. Beside his varied activities he managed the farm where he reared his large family. After his death the near one thousand acre plantation was divided among his children.

As a Confederate war volunteer at age seventeen, and without any military training he plunged into the fight. Wounded at Gettysburg he lay on the battlefield for days before being discovered and treated. The bullet which was removed from his leg was in his possession when he died. Twice after the surrender he visited the battlefield where he was wounded.

House built in 1900 by Rev. John D. Maaney. Now the home of Dr. & Mrs. Charles J. Maaney, great-nephew.

He professed religion on the battlefield, and while he never joined a church he helped every denomination with a willing hand, and a liberal purse. He donated land for Union Baptist Church and grounds. He always administered to the sick and unfortunate with an open heart, and he loved and worshipped his Master with free mind.

"Mark" had no formal education, but had a practical kind of education that an interested, strong and retentive mind had acquired from business experience and contacts with his fellow-man.

After a long and fruitful life of sturdy pioneering "Mark" died on his homestead in upper Cleveland County on November 9, 1917. Following simple religious and Masonic ceremonies he was buried in Union Baptist Church Cemetery, Highway 226 North, Shelby, North Carolina.

Sources: Family Records, Daily Star Three Mauney Families, 1967 by Bonnie Mauney Sumners

— Madge Mauney Harris

under Mr. Charlie Blanton and Mr. George Blanton, Sr.

In 1900, the National Bank of Kings Mountain was organized by Jacob S. Mauney, father of R. Lawrence Mauney, and William Andrew Mauney, uncle of R. Lawrence Mauney. Mr. R.L. Mauney was made cashier and served in this capacity until 1937 when he was made Vice-President, a position he held until his death. This bank, now The First Union National Bank, was the first Chartered National Bank in Cleveland County. In 1950, Mr. Mauney was honored by the North Carolina Bankers Association for fifty (50) years of banking service in North Carolina.

On March 12, 1902 Rufus Lawrence Mauney was married in Ansonville, North Carolina to Jennie Grace Redfern, daughter of William Dorsey and Winifred Watkins Redfern. To this union were born two children — Winnie Vera Mauney, who married Garland Everette Still, and Dr. William Lawrence Mauney, the first Doctor of Podiatric Medicine teacher for a number of years. He was active in the Lutheran Brotherhood and contributed to all phases of the Lutheran Church in North Carolina and some in Virginia and South Carolina.

Mr. Mauney, a charter member of the Kings Mountain Kiwanis Club, died in Kings Mountain, September 25, 1958. At the time of his death, Mr. Mauney was Vice-President and director of Bonnie Cotton Mills Inc., and Kings Mountain Manufacturing Company; President and director of the Sadie Cotton Mills Inc.; a director of the Kings Mountain Savings and Loan; Vice President of Mauney Mills Inc. and Vice President and director of First National Bank of Kings Mountain — now First Union National Bank.

Both R. Lawrence Mauney and Jennie Grace Redfern Mauney (who died June 9, 1951), are buried in Mountain Rest Cemetery, Kings Mountain, North Carolina.

Sources: National Cyclopaedia of American Biography Vol. XLVII Kings Mountain Heralds; Weathers, The Living Past of Cleveland County; Shelby Daily Star, Our Heritage Durham, Down Home Summers, Three Mauney Families Redfern, History of the Redfern Family Jacob S. Mauney Family Scrap Book

— Dr. W.L. Mauney
and Elizabeth Winget Mauney

Rufus Lawrence Mauney, 1876-1958

Jennie Grace Redfern Mauney

RUFUS LAWRENCE and JENNIE GRACE REDFERN MAUNEY

782

Rufus Lawrence Mauney was born March 7, 1876 in Kings Mountain, N.C. His parents were Jacob Simri and Margaret Julietta Rudisill Mauney, early pioneers of Kings Mountain, N.C.

"Mr. Lawrence", as he was affectionately known in Kings Mountain, attended the Captain W.T.R. Bell school, predecessor to Kings Mountain Public Schools; Roanoke College, Salem, Virginia; and Kings Business College, Charlotte, North Carolina. Before going into the business world Mr. Mauney taught school for a short time near Cherryville, North Carolina.

In late 1890 Mr. Mauney served an apprenticeship in banking with the Bank of Shelby — Now the First National Bank of Shelby, N.C.

in Cleveland County.

Mrs. Mauney's father was an educator and professor at Anson Female College, Ansonville, North Carolina — the second chartered female college in North Carolina.

Mrs. Mauney was born August 15, 1875 in Ansonville, North Carolina and attended Ward's Seminary, now Ward-Belmont, Nashville, Tennessee. She majored in music and art which she taught in Albemarle, North Carolina and Kings Mountain, North Carolina, where she made her home for over fifty years. Mrs. Mauney was a member of St. Matthews Lutheran Church where she was active in most phases of church work. Also, she was a member of the Col. Hambright D.A.R. Chapter; the U.D.C., and a charter member of the Kings Mountain Woman's Club.

A Lutheran by faith, R.L. Mauney was a life long member of St. Matthews Lutheran Church; Kings Mountain, where he served on the Church Council, was superintendent and treasurer of the Sunday School as well as a

THE SAMUEL AUGUSTUS MAUNEY FAMILY

783

Samuel Augustus (Gus) Mauney, the eldest son of Jacob Simri and Margaret Julietta (Rudisill) Mauney, was born October 17, 1874 in Kings Mountain, North Carolina, Cleveland County, where his parents had moved in 1872. He completed his education at Captain Bell's Academy, and at an early age he became book-keeper for the Kings Mountain Manufacturing Company.

Over many years with this company he served as secretary, treasurer, vice-president and president until he retired in 1944. He was associated with other cotton mill industries in this area such as the Indian Creek Manufacturing Company in Lincoln County which he helped organize and served as secretary and treasurer until 1907, when the business was sold. He also served as president of the Bonnie Cotton Mill in Kings Mountain and secretary/treasurer and manager of Anna Cotton Mill at Crowder's Mountain in Gaston County.

In addition to his manufacturing interests he was owner of many farm properties, where he raised fine Hereford cattle. His main hobby was horses and he always owned three or more at a time. His greatest joy was riding horseback to oversee his farms early in the mornings before breakfast. He never learned to drive a car, although he owned several, he preferred his pretty buggy or surry.

Another one of his pleasures was to take his whole family on camping trips to the mountains or other locations. This was before motels, etc, were available; so beside the family car a truck was required to take all the necessary paraphernalia such as: a large tent and cots for sleeping and a smaller tent with stove for cooking and table for eating. In the summer of 1915 his family camped where the second Cleveland Springs Hotel was later built. On this occasion he took a cow along so that his family would have fresh milk, which was sometimes hard to get at the camping site.

Home of Rufus Lawrence and Jennie Grace Redfern Mauney. Now the home of their daughter, Winnie Mauney Still.

On December 20, 1899 Mr. Mauney married Susan Anna Isenhower, a daughter of Philo E. and Margaret Catherine (Stine) Isenhower of Conover, Catawba County, North Carolina. They were the first young couple to marry in Concordia Lutheran Church which was new at that time. They were privileged to celebrate their fiftieth wedding anniversary in 1949 with all their children and grandchildren present. For this celebration they chose to have all the family attend services at the church where they were married.

Mr. Mauney died November 23, 1952 and his wife died November 8, 1974. Both were buried in Mountain Rest Cemetery in Kings Mountain.

Mr. and Mrs. Mauney were members of Saint Matthew's Lutheran Church and were closely associated with all the church activities. Mrs. Mauney served as Sunday School and Catechetical teacher and as a member of the church choir, the visitation and altar committee, and Women of the Church. Mr.

Susan Anna and Samuel Augustus Mauney on their Wedding Day, December 20, 1899.

Mauney served the church in many capacities and for many years he was a member and secretary of the church council.

On the seventy-fifth anniversary of the church, he wrote the church history. In addition to his local church he contributed liberally to other churches, orphanages and colleges and served for years on the board of trustees of the Lutheran Children Home, Salem, Virginia and the Lowman Home, White Rock, South Carolina.

Mr. and Mrs. Mauney were blessed with seven children and all were born in Kings Mountain, Cleveland County.

The eldest was Samuel Aubrey Mauney, born December 8, 1900. On June 26, 1930 he married Katharine Shenk, born November 8, 1907 and the daughter of the Reverend and Mrs. Elonza Ashby Shenk. They have a daughter, Peggy Ann, born September 8, 1931, and a son, Gene Ashby, born January 28, 1933.

Juanita Elizabeth Mauney born June 15, 1902. On September 11, 1925 she married Herman B. Wolf, born September 10, 1896. They have three daughters: Elizabeth M. Wolf born August 12, 1926; Anna Wolf born January 8, 1929; and Edith Juanita Wolf born March 13, 1934.

Julia Catherine Mauney born July 3, 1905; and married July 30, 1935 to Bahnson N. Barnes, born August 29, 1903. They have two sons: Luther Barnes born December 6, 1938 and Kenneth M. Barnes born May 30, 1945.

Susan Frances Mauney born August 10, 1907 and married September 5, 1936 to Lawrence Luther Lohr, born June 16, 1894. They have one son, Lawrence Luther Lohr, Jr. born May 29, 1937. Lawrence L. Lohr died November 15, 1966 and is buried at Mountain Rest Cemetery, Kings Mountain.

Jacob Philo Mauney, born November 19, 1912; and married February 3, 1940 to Myrtle Kelly, born November 20, 1912. Myrtle Mauney died June 1, 1975 and Jacob P. Mauney died October 20, 1975. Both are buried in Mountain Rest Cemetery, Kings Mountain. They had two sons: Jacob Philo Mauney, Jr. born March 25, 1942 and died May 12, 1980; Samuel Kelly Mauney born May 20, 1946 and married to Margaret Castillo.

Martha Lou Mauney born March 4, 1920 and married June 30, 1943 to Reverend Clifford Paul Fisher, Jr. born October 16, 1918. They had children as follows: Martha Jean Fisher; born December 27, 1945; Zelia Elizabeth Fisher born August 18, 1948; and Clifford Paul Fisher, III, born April 14, 1953. Dorcas Nell Mauney born and died April 5, 1922 and buried at Mountain Rest Cemetery, Kings Mountain.

Sources: Family Bible, and North Carolina Biography, Volume IV by Archibald Henderson

— Frances M. Lohr

THE WILLIAM ANDREW MAUNEY FAMILY

784

Mr. William Andrew Mauney, one of the founders of Kings Mountain, was born December 18, 1841, on a farm in the Muddy Fork Section of Cleveland County, North Carolina. This was the homesite of his parents, David and Fannie Carpenter Mauney.

He was educated at Caperneum school, near Waco, at Lohr's school in Catawba County, and at the Hoover School in Lincoln County. At the age of fifteen, he began teaching at the Lackey school, then at Morrison school near Cherryville, at Fairview in Gaston County, and then at Long Creek school, when he was eighteen and nineteen.

On August 6, 1861, he volunteered and enlisted in the state's service and after training was a member of Company B of the 28th North Carolina regiment. In October he was appointed commissary sergeant. After participating in several battles, he was captured in 1862 with forty-five others at the Battle of Hanover Court House in Virginia. He was sent to prison at Governor's Island, New York. Later that year he was sent to Richmond to be exchanged and returned to his own regiment with which he remained until April 1865.

Facing the Reconstruction, he farmed, surveyed, and taught school until 1873. In 1868, he married Susan Ramseur (born March 10, 1841) and went to live on the Dameron farm near Shelby. Here their first children were born.

In 1873, he and his brother, Jacob, came to Kings Mountain (then White Plains) where they became merchants, textile manufacturers and farmers. In 1888, he and others built Kings Mountain's first textile mill, Kings Mountain Manufacturing Company.

During his remaining life he was identified with practically every line of enterprise in the community. He was the first mayor and the first postmaster. He was representative to the North Carolina Legislature from Cleveland County in 1917, and State Senator in 1907. He was editor of the first newspaper in the town and was one of the founders of St. Matthew's Lutheran Church (1876). He served as elder from February, 1880, until May 1905; thereafter he alternated the office with his brother every two years until his death.

Augustus and Anna Maaney on their 50th Wedding Anniversary December 20, 1949. L to R: Jacob, Martha Lou, Frances, Julia C., Juanita and Aubrey.

His first wife, Susan, died in 1886. Their children were Ida Pauline, born October, 1870, married Charles E. Neisler; Laura Ella, born November 25, 1872, married William A. Ridenhour; and David Hunter, born January 19, 1877, married Jessie Mundy (later moved to Lincolnton).

In 1894, Mr. Maaney was married to Candace Miller, born March, 1860, the daughter of The Reverend Adam Miller and his wife Susan Carpenter Miller (of Catawba County). Their children were Bonnie E., born 1897, married Frank R. Summers; and Virginia E., born 1900, married James E. Herndon.

Mr. Maaney died May 15, 1928. He, Susan R. Maaney, and Candace Miller Maaney (died June 28, 1954) are buried at Mountain Rest Cemetery, Kings Mountain.

— Mrs. L.E. Hinnant

WILLIAM KEMP and SARAH JANE HOFFMAN MAUNEY

785

William Kemp Maaney was born July 4, 1889, in Kings Mountain, North Carolina, the youngest son of J.S. Maaney and Margaret Juleta Rudisill Maaney.

His early education was in the Kings Mountain school system. He graduated from Lenoir College (now Lenoir-Rhyne College, Hickory, North Carolina) in the Class of 1910. During the years he was there he made a name for himself as an athlete, a scholar, a musician (he played the cello and violin), a singer (he was the Poo-fah in Gilbert and Sullivan's operatta, "The Mikado.") He helped to organize the first football team Lenoir College ever had back in 1907 and was one of its star backfield players.

After graduating from Lenoir College in 1910, he attended the University of South Carolina to obtain his law degree.

On October 19, 1916, W.K. Maaney married Sarah Jane Hoffman, only daughter of Laban Miles Hoffman, prominent Dallas, North Carolina lawyer and educator, and Martha Jane Jenkins Hoffman.

Sarah Jane Hoffman was born September 9, 1887, in Dallas, N.C. She was graduated from Gaston Female College in Dallas, where her father taught Greek and Latin. L.M. Hoffman was the author of the book, "Our Kin," published in 1915. Sarah Jane Hoffman graduated from Elizabeth College in Charlotte. She holds a certificate of music from the Southern Conservatory of Music, Durham, N.C., and a Masters Degree in music from Teacher's College, Columbia University in New York City.

Mr. Maaney's first business venture was the establishment of a Ford dealership, The Kings Mountain Motor Company, Inc., which he operated until 1929. In 1929 he took over the operation of the old Enterprise Cotton Mill, which was then the Mason Cotton Mill, as a receiver in bankruptcy. The new organization was Maaney Mills, Inc.

In spite of the Great Depression of the 1930's, Mr. Maaney managed to become successful in the cotton yarn mill and later took over the management of three other cotton yarn mills, namely, the Bonnie Cotton Mill, Kings Mountain, N.C., the Nuway Spinning Company and the Howell Mfg. Co., Cherryville, N.C., all of which were very successful.

Mr. Maaney was an esteemed Christian businessman who had so applied his talents in industry as to give support to his church and its schools, its missions, its Brotherhood, and its other organizations.

Mr. and Mrs. Maaney are both of the seventh generation of the family in the United States. Both share the same ancestors of Peter Heyl and Catherine Dales who came to America in the ship "Robert and Alice" which sailed from Rotterdam and landed in Philadelphia on September 11, 1738. Mr. Maaney is descended from three of Peter Heyl's children — Michael, John and Katrina, and Mrs. Maaney is descended from two daughters of Peter Heyl — Elizabeth and Katrina. Mr. Maaney's great, great, great grandfather was Jacob Muni who arrived in Philadelphia from Rotterdam on the ship "Phoenix" on August 28, 1750. Mrs. Maaney's great, great, great grandfather was Jacob Hoffman who came to America from Germany several years before the American Revolution.

A life-long member of St. Matthew's Lutheran Church of Kings Mountain, Mr. Maaney served several terms as a member of the Church Council and also served several years as its chairman. He served as superintendent of the Sunday School for a number of years.

In 1924 he was elected by the N.C. Lutheran Synod to the Board of Trustees of Lenoir-Rhyne College, which school belongs to the Synod. He was re-elected to that office every three years for forty years. As a member of the Lenoir-Rhyne College Board of Trustees, he served a number of years on the Executive Committee and Finance Committee, as well as Vice-Chairman of the Board.

In 1950 Lenoir Rhyne College honored Mr. Maaney by awarding him the Doctor of Law honorary degree.

In 1963 the Lenoir Rhyne Alumni Association presented Mr. Maaney The Distinguished Alumni award presented annually "in honor of outstanding service and in recognition of living reflection of the principles of education and Christian character."

In 1941 Mr. Maaney established a scholarship fund with Lenoir-Rhyne College that would provide a scholarship for a boy or girl from the graduating class of the Kings Mountain High School for each year in the future at Lenoir-Rhyne College.

In 1960 the Maaney Music Building was dedicated on the campus of Lenoir-Rhyne College. The $352,000.00 structure was given to the college by Mr. and Mrs. Maaney. The gift also included a pipe organ and four Steinway pianos.

Mr. Maaney joined with other members of his family to build Maaney Hall, a dormitory for girls at Lenoir-Rhyne and in 1939 Mr. and Mrs. Maaney established a scholarship fund at Lenoir-Rhyne to assist worthy boys and girls in acquiring an education. This is a $25,000.00 endowment fund.

W.K. Maaney took an active interest in the work of the Boy Scouts of America. He served as chairman of the organization and extension committee of the Piedmont Council and was awarded the Silver Beaver Award, scouting's highest award for outstanding service to boyhood. His five sons each attained the rank of Eagle Scout.

Taking an active interest in Kings Mountain civic activities, Mr. Maaney served several terms as a city councilman from ward one and was a former mayor.

He was a past president of the Kings Mountain Kiwanis Club and took an active interest in the club activities.

William Kemp and Sarah Jane Hoffman Maaney, married October 19, 1916.

Mr. Maaney served as president of the Kings Mountain Savings & Loan Association and was for many years a director of the local First National Bank.

Mr. and Mrs. Maaney, with the other members of the J.S. Maaney family, gave the City of Kings Mountain the city library as a memorial to their father and mother, which is called the Jacob S. Maaney Memorial Library and stands at the corner of Piedmont Avenue and King Street.

Mr. and Mrs. Maaney's children are W.K. Maaney, Jr., George H. Maaney, Miles H. Maaney, Ernest J. Maaney, deceased, and David L. Maaney.

Mr. Maaney died January 1, 1970, at the age of 81 and is buried in the family mausoleum in Mountain Rest Cemetery in Kings Mountain. His wife, Mrs. Sarah Hoffman Maaney, survives him and is now 94 years old and is living in the family home on Piedmont Avenue in Kings Mountain.

— William K. Maaney, Jr.

WILLIAM KEMP MAANEY, JR. and MARY SIMPSON MAANEY

786

William Kemp Maaney, Jr. nicknamed Billy, was born August 15, 1917, in Kings Mountain, N.C., the eldest son of W.K. and Sarah Hoffman Maaney. He attended grammar school and high school in the Kings Mountain City School System at Central School on Ridge Street. He graduated from high school from the eleventh grade in 1934. He attended Lenoir Rhyne College in Hickory, N.C., graduating in 1938 with an A.B. Degree with majors in math and history. While a student at Lenoir Rhyne College, he served one term as President of the Gamma Beta Chi Fraternity and was a charter member of this fraternity. He was a member of the Lenoir Rhyne College Band and the A Cap-

PELLA Choir. As a boy of twelve, he joined the Boy Scouts of America and obtained the rank of Eagle Scout. All four of his brothers also obtained the rank of Eagle Scout.

After graduating from college, he trained in the Maaney Mills, Inc. and became proficient in operating all the various machines in the plant.

On June 2, 1939, he married Mary Elizabeth Simpson of Hickory, N.C., who was born February 14, 1920, in Anniston, Alabama. Mary finished Hickory High School in 1937 and attended Queens College in Charlotte, N.C. and Lenoir Rhyne College in Hickory, N.C.

Children of W.K. Maaney, Jr. and Mary S. Maaney are: Sarah Frances Maaney, born December 30, 1946, married to David B. Faunce, Jr., and they have two sons, Britt David, III and Justin Howard Faunce; Mary Leigh Maaney was born September 3, 1949, married Rowland Goodrich Turner, Jr., and they had two children, Natalie Turner and Rowland Goodrich Turner, III; this marriage ended in divorce and Mary Leigh married Gerald Fred Broadwell, III, in 1978; William Kemp Maaney, III, born April 21, 1951, married to Delva Sprouse and, as of this writing, have one son named William Kemp Maaney, IV, born March 21, 1979; Martha Jane Maaney, born September 21, 1955, is not married at the present time.

In 1939 Mr. Maaney started a small hosiery mill operation as a division of Maaney Mills, Inc. with 24 knitting machines and six employees. This hosiery department of Maaney Mills, Inc. was sold in 1943 to a partnership under the name of Maaney Hosiery Company of which W.K. Maaney, Jr. was a 50% partner. In 1947 the Maaney Hosiery Company was sold to a corporation by the name of Maaney Hosiery Mills, Inc., of which W.K. Maaney, Jr. was the major stockholder. Today the Maaney Hosiery Mills, Inc. employs 300 people and the annual sales are over 8 million dollars. Production is in excess of 1,200,000 dozen pairs of socks per year.

Other business ventures of Mr. Maaney include founding the Carolina Throwing Co., Inc. in 1955 which was liquidated in 1982. At the peak of operations of this plant there were 250 employees, and production exceeded 200,000 pounds of yarn per week.

Mr. Maaney and Jack Hauser organized a partnership called Double Knit Fabrics and for a period of about ten years operated this plant, employing 35 people and producing approximately 30,000 pounds of double knit fabrics per week until the operation became unprofitable and was liquidated.

Mr. Maaney and Buford Cline formed a partnership known as Double "B" Ranch where they had approximately 120 milk cows in a dairy farm and owned at one time approximately 1,000 acres of farm land. The dairy business became unprofitable in 1973 and this partnership was liquidated. About 350 acres of this farm was condemned by the City of Kings Mountain for a water reservoir, now known as Moss Lake. Mr. Maaney took the remaining 150 acres of the Moss Lake property that was not condemned and formed the Faunce Realty Company on Lake Moss which is now selling lake lots.

Mr. Maaney owns and operates three mobile home parks in Mecklenburg County with approximately 80 rental lots.

In recent years Mr. Maaney has been acquiring condominiums for rent and sale in the Myrtle Beach, S.C. area.

Mr. Maaney has been active in religious, civic and political activities. He has served three terms as lay Vice-President of St. Matthew's Lutheran Church in Kings Mountain, where he has been a life-long member. He has served as Superintendent of the Sunday School and as a Sunday School teacher.

Mr. Maaney was elected President of the Kings Mountain Jaycees in 1953 and President of the Kings Mountain Lions Club in 1947-48 where he has been a Lion since joining in 1939. Mr. Maaney served as chairman of the fund drive for Kings Mountain March of Dimes program and as chairman of the fund drive for the Red Cross in Kings Mountain. He was President of the Industrial Association for the Kings Mountain area 1965-1968. He also served as a scout master for Troop #2 in Kings Mountain for a number of years.

In his political career Mr. Maaney was elected to the N.C. House of Representatives in 1967, 1969 and 1971, serving three terms as a representative of Cleveland, Rutherford and Polk counties. In 1973 and 1975 he was elected to the N.C. Senate, representing the counties of Cleveland, Gaston, Lincoln, and Rutherford. His record in the Legislature of North Carolina is recorded in the state's history.

Mr. Maaney served on the Lenoir Rhyne college Alumni Association Board of Directors and on the Lenoir Rhyne College Board of Trustees for twelve years and served on the executive committee of the Board of Trustees for six years.

Mr. Maaney served on the Board of Directors of the Catawba Valley Hosiery Association in Hickory, N.C. for three terms. He has served on the local Board of Directors of First-Citizens Bank & Trust Company, and he served on the Board of Directors of the Cleveland County Mental Health Association 1967-1976.

William Kemp, Jr. and Mary Simpson Maaney.

Mr. and Mrs. Maaney reside in Kings Mountain at 200 East Gold Street.

Sources: Personal knowledge

— W.K. Maaney, Jr.

WILLIAM LAWRENCE MAUNEY 787

William Lawrence Maaney, son of Rufus Lawrence and Jennie Grace Redfern Maaney, was born in Kings Mountain, North Carolina on March 20, 1914. He attended the Kings Mountain City Schools and Fishburne Military School Waynesboro, Virginia. In 1936, he graduated from Temple University, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, School of Chiropody — Now The Pennsylvania College of Podiatric Medicine. Following graduation, Dr. Maaney did a year of post-graduate study at The Illinois College of Podiatric Medicine. In 1947, after serving in World War II, Dr. Maaney established practice in Kings Mountain and Shelby, North Carolina, thus becoming the first podiatrist in Cleveland County.

On September 12, 1942, William Lawrence Maaney married Billie Louise Black, daughter of Dr. Charles Jefferson and Annie Louise Black. Mrs. Maaney, a graduate of North Carolina Baptist Hospital School of Nursing in Winston-Salem, was born in Wingate, North Carolina on February 4, 1917 and died in Kings Mountain, North Carolina June 15, 1951. To this union was born two sons — William Lawrence Maaney, Jr., a career officer in the United States Air Force, and Dr. Charles Jefferson Maaney, a Podiatrist, who married the former Priscilla Kay Hamrick, of Bessemer City, N.C.

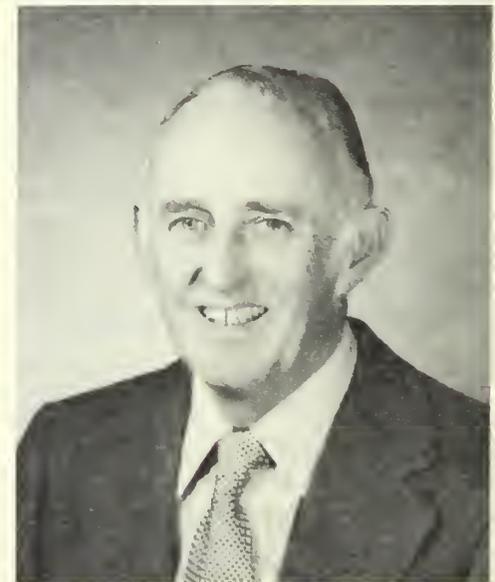

In August 1943, Dr. Maaney entered the service of his country. He served first with the United States Navy and was attached to the Naval Hospital Corp. Later, he was transferred to the 1st. Marine Division, 5th Regiment and Headquarters Company of the 1st Battalion with whom he served in the Southwest Pacific. He was in active combat during the Okinawan campaign and was later sent to Peking, China with the same division for occupational duty and acceptance of the Japanese surrender for the Chinese government. Before this mission was completed, Dr. Maaney received orders to be returned to the Navy and was given an Honorable Discharge on Jan. 6, 1946 because the war was over and he had enough points to be discharged from active service.

On February 21, 1953 Dr. Maaney married Elizabeth Fisher Winget, born April 12, 1919 and daughter of Arthur Knox and Minnie Gray Winget. To this union was born one daughter — Jennie Gray Maaney a medical technologist, who is married to David Wayne Hinshaw of Winston-Salem, North Carolina.

Mrs. Elizabeth W. Maaney attended the Gastonia, North Carolina and Albemarle, North Carolina City Schools. She graduated from Salem College Winston-Salem, North Carolina in 1941 with a Bachelor of Arts degree in History and English. In 1949 Mrs. Maaney received a Bachelor & Science degree in Library Science from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. In 1980, Mrs. Maaney retired after serving 24 years as a school librarian in the Albemarle, North Carolina and Kings Mountain City Schools. During these years, she was active in the North Carolina Education Association, the North Carolina School Librarian Association, and the National Education Association. Mrs. Maaney was elected in 1950 to membership in Delta Kappa Gamma, a National honorary educators society. Mrs. Maaney has been active in civic affairs: The Kings Mountain Womans Club, the Col. Fredrick Hambricht D.A.R. and Parent Teachers Association. As a member of St. Matthews Lutheran Church, Mrs. Maaney has been active in Lutheran Church Women, the Sunday School and is a member of the Altar Guild.

Dr. Maaney after forty-two years of practice in Cleveland County, retired and during these years he was active in the North Carolina Podiatry Association, and held the office of Secretary-Treasurer, and President of the Association. In 1980, he was given a Life Membership. Also for a number of years Dr.

Dr. W.L. Maaney

Mauney was associated with the Bonnie Cotton Mills Inc. Kings Mountain, N.C. as Vice-President and Assistant Secretary. The mill which was founded by his grandfather, Jacob S. Mauney and others. Today, he is a director and Vice-President of Sadie Mills Inc. Kings Mountain, N.C.

William Lawrence Mauney, a Lutheran by faith, is an active member of St. Matthews Lutheran Church, Kings Mountain, North Carolina. He has served as Councilmen, President of the Lutheran Brotherhood of his local church and for a short period as a Sunday School teacher.

In 1953 the W.L. Mauney and Mrs. Winnie Mauney families gave the pews in the new Sanctuary of St. Matthews Lutheran Church in memory of their parents — R. Lawrence Mauney and Jennie Grace Redfern Mauney.

In August 1975, Dr. Mauney was awarded the Service Cross of Honor by the William Wilson Allen Chapter of the United Daughters of Confederacy of Shelby, North Carolina. Interested and active in community affairs, Dr. Mauney was a member of the North Carolina Jaycees, and Kings Mountain Kiwanis Club. Today Dr. Mauney is a member of Fairview Masonic Lodge No. 339 A.F. and A.M.; Carolina Consistory; Oasis Shrine Temple; American Legion; and Veteran of Foreign Wars.

Dr. and Mrs. Mauney reside today in Kings Mountain, N.C. at 704 West Mountain Street.

Sources: Redfean, History of the Redfean Family; Kings Mountain Herald; Jacob S. Mauney Family Scrap Book; Navy Service Records and Documents.

— Elizabeth Winget Mauney

Montrose Mull Meacham

MONTROSE MULL MEACHAM
788

Mr. and Mrs. Otis M. Mull had one daughter, Montrose McBrayer Mull, who was born July 25, 1909. Montrose received her education in Shelby Public Schools, Peace Junior College of Raleigh and Meredith College. In 1931 she was appointed the North Carolina Queen of Cotton by Governor O. Max Gardner. In 1938 she married Earl Holleman Meacham of Statesville. She served from 1962 to 1966 as a member of the Board of Trustees of Wake Forest College in Winston-Salem.

She was a lifetime member of the First Baptist Church of Shelby and a member of the Philathea Sunday School Class. Mrs. Meacham was a former Sunday School teacher and visitor for the Extension Department.

A woman of many interests, she was a member of the Reviewers Book Club, The Dutch Club, The Benjamin Cleveland Chapter of the DAR, The American Legion Auxiliary, The Elks Auxiliary, the Wake Forest University Stadium Club, The Deacons Club, the Cleveland Country Club and North Lake Country Club. She was also a very active member of the Democratic Party.

Mrs. Meacham passed away on May 24, 1972. Surviving other than her husband are one son, Otis Mull Meacham, one daughter Montrose Meacham Ballard; and two grandchildren, Lacy Henry Ballard, III, and Montrose Rebecca Ballard.

— Earl Meacham

ANDREW CALEB MILLER
789

David Miller of Ulster, Ireland, and wife, Mary Kerr (of Ireland or Scotland — unsure) with five children emigrated to America about the year 1764. The children were John, Andrew, Martha, Hester and Mary. Some records say that they settled in Pa. for about two years, then about 1766 came down the Wagon Road to Old Tryon and settled there. He acquired land grants and settled in Tryon which later became Rutherford County, built a house and became an entry taker. He also farmed.

The older Son, John, married Susannah Twitty, daughter of William Twitty who accompanied Daniel Boone on some of his exploratory trips and was killed by Indians. John was an Ensign in the N.C. Militia (DAR Patriotic Index, pa. 693) and Susannah (Susan) was a heroine in the battle of Graham's Fort (Drap-er's History, p. 146-146).

John (1754 — April 30, 1807) and Susan Twitty Miller (1763-1825) had six children. They lived on land given them by his father, David Miller, located near Broad River and Mountain Creek, now in Rutherford County. They are buried in the Twitty-Miller Family Cemetery near the homeplace and on Mt. Creek.

The third son of John and Susan was William John Twitty Miller, who became a physician. They lived in Shelby, N.C. He married Elizabeth Fulenwider of Lincoln Co. They are buried in Sunset Cemetery.

The youngest of their children was Andrew Caleb Miller. He was born March 14, 1850 in Sharon in Cleveland County. His father, Dr. William John Twitty Miller, was a physician and lived in Rutherford County for a while where he represented the County and State Legislature several times and also the State Senate. His mother was Elizabeth Fulenwider of Lincoln County. Andrew Caleb married Emily Graham (born Jan. 8, 1845, died July 31, 1936). His wife was from Marlboro County, S.C.

A.C. Miller helped built the Miller Block on West Warren and South LaFayette Streets but later sold his interest. He and his brother later built the Belmont Cotton Mill on South LaFayette and operated it until 1907 when it was sold to J.J. McMurry and Sons. Mr. Miller was a member of the board of directors for the School of the Deaf at Morganton for many years and was chairman of the Finance Committee. He took an active part in his church, where he was an elder in the Shelby Presbyterian Church, for over 30 years. For many years he was superintendent of the Sunday School.

A. C. Miller promoted and was the president of the Shelby and Cleveland County Building and Loan Association (now the First Federal S&L).

On November 3, 1874 he married Emily Graham (born Jan. 8, 1845 — July 31, 1936) and to this union were born three children; Hugh G. Miller, Sr.; Robert C. Miller and Andrew Cleveland Miller.

His first son, Hugh G. Miller Sr., (born Jan. 15, 1876, died Aug. 24, 1954) married Margaret LeGrand (born Oct. 24, 1881, died 1966). He lived in Raleigh and had three children; Hugh G. Miller Jr. (born June 9, 1907, died May 21, 1981), who married Ruth Arrowood (born Jan. 15, 1907); Eugene LeGrand Miller (born 1907) who married Mary Neil Cummings (born 1913); and Emily Graham Miller (born Feb. 3, 1918) who married James Selden Lay Jr. (born Aug. 24, 1911). Hugh Miller Sr. was connected with the School of the Deaf in Raleigh for many years.

His other son was Robert C. Miller (born Sept. 6, 1877 — died March 2, 1963).

His third son was Andrew Cleveland Miller (born July 1, 1883, died April 3, 1968), whose first wife was Annice Floyd. They had no children. He later married Rochelle Davis (born Dec. 13, 1901). He talked and preached to the deaf people of the area, and his wife, Rochelle, lead the singing in sign language. To this union were born three children; Dr. Andrew Miller (born June 16, 1930) who married Rebecca Whitesides; Annice (born Feb. 23, 1927) who married Richard Arey (born June 4, 1927) and Mack Davis Miller (born Feb. 2, 1935) who married Barbara Ledford.

Andrew Caleb Miller and wife Emily Graham are buried in Sunset Cemetery in Shelby, as are two of his sons, Robert C. Miller and Andrew Cleveland Miller and their wives.

Hugh Miller Sr. is buried in Raleigh.

There is evidence today of many signs of development and growth of Shelby and the community around this prominent Shelby family.

— Henry Lee Weathers, Sr.

COLUMBUS MILLER

790

Columbus Miller (Jan 22, 1869 — Oct 28, 1925) son of David Walter Miller (Aug 16, 1825 — Oct 27, 1888) and Margaret Gardner Miller (Sept 6, 1830 — July 6, 1905) and grandson of John Miller (Oct 3, 1793 — April 15, 1867) and Mary Miller (1806 — was still living in 1850 census). John Miller was born in S.C. "Protestant immigrant to S.C. by Reville," list John, David and Elizabeth Miller passengers from Ireland on the ship "Pennsylvania Farmer" and petitioned for land grants in S.C. John Miller 150 acres, David Miller 300 acres. The passenger journal dated Jan 6, 1773. The warrants of survey are dated 1765. They were promised these grants to settle in S.C., John, David, Walter are family names and John, Mary, David Walter, Margaret Gardner Miller, Eli Alexandria Miller, Mahula Miller were buried at Capernaum Baptist Cemetery. David Walter and Eli Alexandria Miller died from wounds received in the Civil War. There is a John Miller who married Susannah Twitty and was a Revolutionary soldier. I suspect they are part of the same family, however, there are Millers with the same family given names who were loyalist (because of their business connections) who fled to Pennsylvania after the Revolutionary war, then returned to N.C.

Columbus Miller married Martha Barbara Emma Mauney (Dec 4, 1865 — Dec 1, 1919), (both buried at Capernaum Cemetery), daughter of Christopher (Christy) Mauney (Oct 26, 1823 — killed in Civil War, buried in Richmond Confederate Cemetery, Richmond, Va.) and Malinda Eaker, married Sept. 7, 1858. Emma Mauney Miller's grandfather was Peter Mauney, and her great-grandfather was Christian Mauney and her great-great-grandfather Jacob Mauney, Sr. Emma is a descendant of Jacob (Mooney, Mony) Mauney Sr. died in 1780. He and his three sons Peter, Christian and Jacob Jr. came to America in 1750 from Germany on the ship Phoenix from Rotterdam and lastly Cowes, landing in Philadelphia port. These Mauneys came to Tryon County (now Lincoln) between 1760-70 and received land grants. Christian Mauney (1741-1815) Jacob (-) and Peter (1790 — May 30, 1840) are buried in the Beaver Dam Lutheran Church Cemetery now St. Marks. Christian Mauney was a worthy pioneer and patriarch, a good public servant and a patriot. Virginia Summers Hinnant, National No. 382580, holds membership in the NSDAR on service and lineage records of Christian Mauney.

Court was held in Christian Mauneys home for nine years until the Court House was built (July 1774 — Jan 1783). A room in his log dwelling was used as a jail. The Tryon County Court House, prison and stocks were built at "cross roads" on Christian Mauneys land between the heads of Long Creek, Muddy Creek and Beaver Dam Creek. Christian was granted a license to keep an "ordinary". An ordinary was an inn where food, lodging and drinks were supplied to patrons at prices fixed by law.

Columbus and Emma Mauney Miller lived in what is now Waco. Emma never joined the Waco Baptist Church, but continued her Lutheran membership. Their children are as follows: Ernest Miller — married 1 — Edna McQuarters 2 — Dositia Falls. Annie Miller — married Charles Putnam. Julia Miller — married Maldry Putnam (Charles and Maldry were cousins). Hoyle Miller — married Annie Mae Blackwelder. Lithis Miller — married James Victor Limerick. There were seven other children who died in infancy.

Sources: Census Records: Three Mauney Families: Pennsylvania German Pioneers, Strassbarger and Hinks Micra Film, Cleveland County Library.

— Barbara Miller Limerick Beattie

WILLIAM JOHN TWITTY, MILLER M.D.

791

William John Twitty Miller (1805-1885) was the son of John and Susan (Susannah) Twitty Miller whose home was on the Broad River in Rutherford County, N.C. His grandparents were David and Mary Kerr Miller of Scotch-Irish descent who, with their five children, emigrated to America from Ulster, Ireland and settled on a land grant in old Tryon County, N.C. in the early 1760's. His mother, Susan Twitty, the daughter of Captain William Twitty, was called the heroine of Graham's Fort of Revolutionary fame.

W.J.T. Miller studied medicine at the University of Transylvania at Lexington, Kentucky graduating in 1827. He then returned to Rutherford County to begin his practice.

On February 7, 1833 he married Elizabeth Fulenwider (1815-1892) of Lincoln County, the daughter of Jacob and Mary Margaret Hoyle Fulenwider. Jacob Fulenwider, was a Revolutionary War soldier, and an iron master at Ware Shoals, N.C.

Dr. Miller practiced medicine for fifty years. He was a prominent and public-spirited citizen who represented Rutherford County in the Columbus Miller Home built 1880's, burned 1909. L to R: Anderson Lutz, tenant; Columbus, Lithia, Hoyle, Annie, Emma, Cameron Putnam, tenant.

General Assembly in 1836, 1838, and 1840. He took an active part in having Cleveland County formed from Rutherford and Lincoln Counties; this was accomplished in 1841. He was a member of the State Senate from Cleveland County in 1842, 1848, and 1864 and a member of the N.C. State Seceding Convention in 1861.

The oldest son of Dr. W.J.T. Miller, John Fulenwider Miller, after graduating from Jefferson Medical College at Philadelphia in 1858 became associated with his father in his medical practice in Shelby, Cleveland County. This lasted for three years until Dr. John F. Miller entered the Confederate Army as a surgeon. After the war he lived in Goldsboro, N.C.

Other children of Dr. W.J.T. and Elizabeth F. Miller who reached maturity were:

Eli H. and David M. who lost their lives in the Civil War; William Henry, Robert Burton and Andrew Caleb who spent their lives in Shelby; Mary Elizabeth (Mrs. James E. Moore) and Alice (Mrs. Samuel G. Brice) who moved to S.C. after marriage.

William John Twitty Miller and Elizabeth Fulenwider Miller are buried in Sunset Cemetery, Shelby, N.C.

Sources: Clarence Griffin: History of Old Tryon and Rutherford Counties; Amanda E. Fulenwider: Torchbearers of Freedom; A Carolina-Virginia Genealogy compiled by York Lowry Wilson; family records.

— Mrs. Marjorie Miller Triebert

WILLIAM LAFAYETTE MILLER FAMILY

792

William Lafayette Miller came from Lenoir, Caldwell County. He was born May 27, 1874 and expired December 22, 1932. He was married to Sara Etta Champion in 1886 who was sixteen years old. She was the daughter of Isreal and Missionary Champion. Her mother and father were nicknamed "Is" and "Mis". Her birthday was April 18, 1880 and she expired December 23, 1942. She was buried on Christmas Day.

To this union fourteen children were born; six sons and eight daughters; Macie (Mrs. F.L. Rollins), Dewey Miller who died in infancy, Lawrence, married to Blanche Gantt and has one daughter Mary Beth and four sons Gene, William Joe and Johnnie; Selma, married to Lee McMurry, seven children, two daughters, Nellie died in infancy and Bernice. Sons, Dwight died in infancy, Robert, Joe Fitz and Jack. Everette Miller now deceased, married to Bryte Elmore has two sons, Jimmy and Joe.

Minnie married to C.B. Tickle, has one daughter Carolyn. Mamie married Yates Deviny had three sons, one died in infancy and Tommy and Harry. Three daughters Doris, Sarah, Mary Minta. Kathleen married Henry Ormand, one son, Ragan; Banks married Elizabeth Bowen. They had five sons, Banks, Jr., Bob, Jerry, Steve and Donnie (deceased). Mildred married J.W. Brackett, one daughter Peggy, two sons, Tommy and Sam. Carl married to Martha Falls has two daughters, Carolyn and Rachel. Three sons, Marion, Roger, Olin. Jeanette married to J.D. Horn. They had one daughter Vangette, four sons W. Edgar died in infancy. Donald, Gene and Jimmy. Chalmus married Pauline Spurling and had one daughter Paulette, two sons, Charles and Dale.

Helen married Heywood Allen and to this union there were one daughter Lynn, two sons Larry and Billy. Helen has said she was glad there were fourteen children or she might not have been here.

We were raised on a three hundred and fifty acre farm with Maple Creek running through the farm. This is near Fallston and was bought for twelve dollars per acre. William Miller was a hard working farmer, a faithful member at New Bethel Baptist Church, on the Advisory Board with Reverend John W. Suttle as pastor who baptized the entire family.

We lived in a nine room home. Some of the neighbors said for every child that was born, another room was added to the house. At first there was no electricity, and no running water. The milk and butter was kept in the spring. In later years, when the wife and mother got running water in the home, a bathroom and a washing machine, we felt like we were the richest family in the neighborhood.

Another good memory was when we got the new piano. We would gather around and sing hymns. The older children married and would come home on Sunday. Mother always made six pies on Saturday and two cakes. We had chickens, cows, hogs, raising most of our food. She never did any field work but did all the cooking and preparing meals, washing and supervising the garden.

Each child had his chores to do. She really belived that idleness was the "devil's workshop." She was talented in many ways. Sewed for eight daughters and could take the Sears Catalogue and make dresses to look like the pictures without a pattern.

All thirteen attended school at Piedmont and Fallston. At one time she fixed seven lunches to go to school. Sometimes it would seem like running one egg through twenty-one biscuits. Peanut butter was bought by the gallon.

Two of the girls made teachers, two nurses, three bookkeepers, one a housewife. Three boys farmed, one is vice-president Bordens Ice Cream Co., one is with Veterans Administration. The forty grandchildren consist of twelve teachers, two principals, two pharmacists, three ministers, two engineers, four carpenters, three machinists, one doctor (dentist), and various businesses.

Fond memories of the rustling of the leaves and the sound of the water splashing over the rocks; fishing in the creek and gathering in the crops in the fall, paying the bills with not much left in material possessions, but untold treasures being reared in a christian home!

In 1982, twelve of the thirteen are living and have a reunion each year.

Sources: Family Bible

— Jeannette Miller Horn

MARY FRANCES GREEN MODE 793

Mary Frances Green Mode, the Daughter of Charles Abner and Louise Frances Callahan Green, was born Dec. 21, 1953, in Shelby, North Carolina. She attended Shelby City Schools and graduated from Shelby High School, class of 1972.

She married Robert Charles Mode Dec. 18, 1971. He is the Son of the late Charlie and Elvie Lowrance Mode of Shelby, N.C. Robert Charles Mode was born June 14, 1948. He attended Shelby City Schools and is a graduate of Gardner Webb College, class of 1979. He is employed in the tax department of Cleveland County.

To this union were born two children. Amy Lea, born March 7, 1975, in Shelby, N.C. and David Christopher, born April 2, 1979, in Shelby, N.C.

— Charles Abner Green

THE JOSHUA MONTGOMERY FAMILY

794

Virginia Louise Young Montgomery was the only child of Ezra Lula Young Staten Beam. She was born on January 28, 1915 in Mooresboro, N.C. Her maternal grandparents were Tom and Lillie Horn Young. The maternal Great-grandparents were Amos and Diana Horn.

She attended the local school in Mooresboro until she finished the seventh grade. In her effort to get a high school education she rented a room from the Means family in Shelby. While living in Shelby she attended Cleveland Training School where she was an honor student. Due to circumstances at home Virginia had to drop out of high school to help at home.

Virginia married Joshua Montgomery the third child born to Charlie and Diana Wimberly Montgomery. The Montgomerys had moved to Cleveland County from Georgia in 1921. The family included the parents, Ophelia, Leonard and Joshua. The Montgomery children also attended Cleveland Training School after their father bought them a new 1924 Ford to drive to school.

Joshua and Virginia had three children, Emily Jean, Warren Henry and Mildred Virginia. The family moved to Salisbury, N.C. and spent part of the war years in Portsmouth, Virginia. They moved back to Mooresboro in 1945. Joshua returned to work at Duke Power and Emily and Warren attended Green Bethel School in Boiling Springs, North Carolina.

Tragedy struck during the spring and summer of 1949. Joshua became ill and was unable to work in the spring. Mildred, who had been an invalid most of her life, died. Warren was having difficulties with his legs and was later diagnosed as having a mild case of polio.

Emily and Warren graduated from high school at Green Bethel in 1952 and 1953. Emily received a B.S. degree in biology and chemistry from Bennett College in Greensboro, North Carolina in 1956. Warren was a General Marion and Vistie Hamrick Moore.

Ford Foundation Fellow at Morehouse College in Atlanta, Georgia until the end of the first semester his junior year. At this time he joined the U.S. Army "to see the world."

Warren married Doris LaVaughn Gardner between tours of duty with the U.S. Army. They had seven children, four boys and three girls. Wayne Trevor, Wanda Anita, Warren Henry, Junior, who died in infancy, Cheryl Denise, Adriann LaVaughn, Darryl and Jerald were born in this order. Wayne is serving his country in the U.S. Air Force in Germany. Since graduating from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill Wanda is doing research at the Smithsonian Institute. Cheryl married Robert Littlejohn and has one child, Patrick O'Brian. Adriann is a student at Gardner-Webb College and Darryl and Jerald are students at Crest Junior High.

After his first marriage ended in divorce Warren married Alice Poston of Shelby, North Carolina. They have one daughter, Tiffany.

Emily married Zan Calvin Withrow on December 30, 1957. They have two children, Eric Zan and Lorna Clarice. The children's great-grandmother Ezra died when Lorna was two weeks of age.

The year 1966 was a year of change for the family. This was the first year that school facilities were integrated and Emily was moved from Green Bethel to Piedmont. Joshua died in December after losing a fight with cancer. After the new year Virginia had major surgery twice in less than eight months. Zan and Emily moved into their new home in the Ramseur Community in 1967 during January.

Eric and Lorna graduated from Burns Senior High in 1979 and 1981. Eric attended A. & T. State University for two years and Lorna is attending N.C. State University.

Sources: Family Bible; Courthouse and School Records.

— Emily Withrow

GENERAL MARION MOORE

795

General Marion Moore was born on October 5, 1836 and died on April 30, 1910. He married Vestie Victoria Hamrick (b. November 11, 1844 — d. July 26, 1922). They were born in what is now Cleveland County.

General served in the Confederate Army, according to records supplied by the National Archives. His enlistment began on April 27, 1861, in Shelby. He was a private in Company C of the 5th Regiment North Carolina Infantry (Volunteers) which was organized in June 1861. Its designation was changed to the 15th Regiment North Carolina Infantry (State Troops).

According to the documents, General was five feet and six inches tall with a light complexion, brown hair and hazel eyes. He was promoted to corporal on May 2, 1862. He apparently was injured according to records of time spent in Jackson Hospital in Richmond, Va., on May 28-29, 1864. He is named on a Roll of Honor before he is listed as a Prisoner of War at Point Lookout, Md. He was captured at Sutherland Station on April 3, 1865, and released on June 29, 1865, after taking an oath of allegiance.

He and his wife are buried in Poplar Springs Baptist Church cemetery. This verse is written on his tombstone:

"An amiable Father here lies at rest as ever God with his image blessed, the friend of man, the friend of truth, the friend of age, the guide of youth."

General, along with some of his children, John Matterson, Malland Dovus, Margaret Jane, Marshall Morris and Mary Narcissus, were charter members of Poplar Springs church organized in 1898. Dovus, in particular, was active in the early life of the church.

General and Vestie had eight children. They include:

Malland Dovus (July 17, 1868 — June 15, 1935) was a farmer, a teacher, and a Mason. Many people referred to him as "The Preacher." He served as a deacon at Poplar Springs. He and his wife, Elizabeth Lattimore, who were married on March 16, 1899, had eight children: Halys G., Buren R., Jessie Lou, Howard M., William Eubert, Joe Lane, Mary Lee and George Caroll.

Marshall Morris (September 24, 1869 — March 5, 1951) was a farmer and a lawman, serving as a county deputy and a city policeman. He gave law-breakers a second chance and kept an eye out for his tenants at his farm. His wife, Dovie Gertrude Blanton, said one way to find her husband was to go uptown and look for the worst fellow and there Marshall would be.

He rarely cursed, preferring instead to say only "pshaw-pshaw." He gave land to Sharon United Methodist Church to start a cemetery. Later, some of his land was sold for the Shelby Airport. He was a Mason. He and his wife had four children: Occie Ethel, Vaughn O., Salier Shaw and Marshall Dean.

John (August 8, 1872 — June 1, 1919) was a farmer and a merchant. He married Effie Jane Freeman. He owned land where Cleveland Me-

1941 Birthday Celebration for Marshall Morris and Marion Olive Moore (third & fourth from left, second row).

1980 Moore reunion at Lattimore Women's Club.

1784, died in 1872.

As a child he was called George Robert. Later he dropped the George in favor of his father's name, James, and was called Bob.

He was educated at home by his mother and later attended school at Boiling Springs, walking five miles each way to and from school. He learned telegraphy and worked as telegraph operator first with Seaboard Air Line Railway, later with Southern Railway, in Shelby, Charlotte and Asheville. In 1899 he became associated with Henrietta Mills and while working there he built (about 1907) a home in Shelby, choosing a location near the Shelby Graded School because four of the children were having to attend boarding schools (Piedmont and Boiling Springs). He commuted by train from Shelby to Henrietta. During this time for several years as "J.R. Moore and Sons" he and his sons operated a poultry business in Shelby, breeding Barred Rocks and winning a number of trophies in poultry exhibitions in southeastern United States. In 1918, he became secretary-treasurer of Alexander Manufacturing Co. which was built under his supervision near Forest City, North Carolina, and the family lived at Alexander Mills until 1932. He died in Marion, North Carolina, on August 24, 1936, and is buried in the Moore family plot at Sunset Cemetery, Shelby.

Always active in his church, he taught a class at Caroleen Baptist Church; served as Sunday School superintendent at First Baptist Church, Shelby, 1913-1915, and as a deacon; was a charter member of Alexander Baptist Church, organized September 28, 1919, and served there as a deacon and as Sunday School superintendent.

In Shelby he was a member of Cleveland Lodge No. 202 A.F. and A.M., and in Forest City was a member of the Kiwanis Club. He maintained a lifelong interest in poultry, apiculture, and horticulture as hobbies.

On November 23, 1882, he and Mary Jane Green were married by Dr. W.A. Nelson, pastor of Shelby Baptist (First Baptist) Church. She was the daughter of George McSwain and Patience (Washburn) Green, and was born November 24, 1864, near Boiling Springs. Her family moved to Shelby when she was quite young and she was educated in the Shelby schools. She remembered little about living in the country but did recall before they moved trying to find a favorite doll she had "planted" because her brother teasingly told her that if she would plant it a doll tree would come up were two other sons, Austin S. Moore, born July 20, 1857, and William Burwell Moore, born March 25, 1862.

Moore Home on West Marion Street, Shelby, 1908.

Mr. & Mrs. J.R. Moore, 1900

James C. Moore enlisted in the North Carolina Troops of the Confederate Army on May 5, 1862, and served as a private in the Fifty-fifth Regiment, Infantry, Company D, at Camp Magnum near Raleigh and Camp Johnson at Kinston, and died of typhoid fever at Goldsboro on October 10, 1862. Jane Bridges Moore died October 15, 1912, at the Moore home in Shelby. Both parents were buried at the Moore family burying ground near Trinity Baptist Church in Cleveland County.

J.R. Moore's only recollection of his father was of playing in the room behind his parents who were sitting before an open fire. He said he could remember the shape of his father's head but could not see his face. He told of two events remembered from the War Between the States. A small group of Union soldiers stopped by their house, found him hiding under a bed behind a keg of molasses, and just laughed at him. They took two horses and left two of their own. He also remembered having bread made from wheat flour only for Sunday morning breakfasts, eating corn bread all other meals. He never cared for cornbread.

His grandparents were James C. Moore, born April 7, 1792, died November 19, 1869, and Elizabeth (McSwain) Moore, born January 21, 1792, died October 3, 1865; and Aaron Bridges, 1789-1887, and Margaret Matilda (Peggy Holland) Bridges, born December 25, morial Park was later built. He and his wife had one child, Elaine.

Mary Narcissus (April 6, 1879 — August 3, 1968), better known as Aunt Mollie, lived in Boiling Springs. She married Charlie Putnam. She was the organist at Poplar Springs for many years, but she later joined Boiling Springs Baptist Church.

Aquilla Blanche (February 4, 1884 — March 5, 1927) and her husband, Coel Blanton, had no children. She is buried in Sharon Methodist Church cemetery.

Marion Olive (October 8, 1881 — June 13, 1966) was a merchant. He worked as a clerk at the Lily Mill company store in Shelby. He was known as "the fish-fry king" for his assorted gatherings on Second Broad River. He married Alice I. (Burna) Harrill on October 13, 1913. He was a Mason and a member of First Baptist Church of Shelby. He is buried in Sunset Cemetery in Shelby. He and Burna had two children: Bessie and Harrill W.

Margaret Jane (July 15, 1875 — March 16, 1958), better known as Aunt Mag, loved her family, church and community. She had a smile for everyone. She and her husband, John E. Morehead, had two children: Maude and Marion O.

Carrie Ann (July 5, 1886 — June 20, 1978) volunteered her services in Lattimore, most notably for the women's club. She married Lawton Blanton, who was known as the "Professor." The Moore reunion is held in Lattimore because of Carrie's wishes. She and Lawton had five children: Genevieve, Marsdon, Geraldine, Betty and Bill.

— Franklin Shaw Moore
and Mary Lee Moore Borders

MR. and MRS. J.R. MOORE 796

James Aaron George Robert Moore was born December 2, 1859, near Mooresboro in Rutherford County, son of James Christmas Moore, born July 9, 1831, and Malinda Jane (Bridges) Moore, born June 3, 1833. There and she would have lots of dolls like that one.

She was a devoted wife, mother and church member. Her home was always open to family, friends, friends of her children, and friends of her grandchildren. She taught Sunday School classes at various times and was very active in the Woman's Missionary Society of every church to which she belonged. Following the death of her husband she returned to the Moore home in Shelby and lived there until her death, November 11, 1953, and is buried in the Moore family plot at Sunset Cemetery. At her death she was the "oldest" member of First Baptist Church in that she had joined the church earlier than any other living member, having been baptized on March 26, 1877.

The Moores were parents of the following children: Foy Victoria, Patience Jean (Thompson), James R., Jr., Mary Nelson, George Green, Crawford Durham, Jefferson Davis, Terry Austin, Truman Ellinwood, and Ruth (Hoey).

The Moore home is currently the home of one of the grandchildren.

Sources: Family records.

— Miss Mary Sue Thompson

JOHN FRANKLIN and SUSAN HOLLAND MOORE

797

John F. Moore, son of Thomas and Mildred Morrow Moore, was born August 2, 1862, in Rutherford County. The birthplace is now a part of the campus of Isothermal Community College. Forebears reaching Virginia in mid-seventeenth century immigrated from the British Isles. Early ancestors reaching Rutherford County — Roberts, Jones, Suttle, Bushrod, Doggett — arrived before the American Revolution.

On December 31, 1884, John Moore, young carpenter and farmer, married Cynthia Susan Holland, born in Cleveland County October 11, 1860, daughter of Cynthia Moore Holland and Gold Griffin Holland. He represented Cleveland County in the General Assembly in 1850, was a captain of the Confederacy serving at Gettysburg, and at Appomattox signed terms of surrender for his company.

Susan, great-granddaughter of William Holland, Captain in Colonel Davie's North Carolina Regiment during the American Revolution, was a collateral descendant of James Holland. A charter member of the Board of Trustees of the University of North Carolina, he served on the committee that selected the site for the University in Chapel Hill.

After marriage, the Moores lived in Rutherford County for twelve years. There, he continued his farming and carpentry while experimenting as cabinetmaker. Grandchildren and great-grandchildren treasure items he made, and great-great grandchildren happily eat from one of his tables. Five children — Odus, Marietta, Ollie, Kate, and Dan — were born in Rutherford County.

Upon the purchase of land just east of Boiling Springs, the Moores moved to Cleveland County. They lived in what had originally been the kitchen portion of the Holland property while building their house. (That older house is now owned by Dan Moore, Jr; the newer, by Glenn A. Williams.) The other children, Tom, D.F., E.V., and Holland were born there.

The Moores worked hard on their farm and were active members of Boiling Springs Baptist Church of which she had been a member since girlhood. He had joined around 1912, having previously been a member of Pleasant Grove Methodist.

Having been born during a very turbulent period in American history, the Moores experienced hardships which stagger one's imagination. Carpetbaggers were as real to them as ACC is to today's youth. Instead of becoming bitter because of hardships, they learned early in life that perseverance, faith, hope, and hard work were essential to survival.

The one thing denied these two intelligent people was a formal education; but they sent their children, all of whom are deceased, to school. Six of those children and fourteen of their fifteen grandchildren graduated from college.

Gardner Webb College, originally Boiling Springs High School, is evidence of the Moores' respect for education. Not only was he one of the original trustees, but both contributed in many ways to the school. Working from dawn to dusk, he hauled the first brick, did manual labor in the construction of the first buildings and gave financial and moral support for the rest of his life. His wife supported him in his total commitment.

In spite of hard work, the Moores always had time for their grandchildren and great-grandchildren who, early in life, learned certain things. His "Hurrah" meant to get busy with the assigned task. If she mentioned her "cat switch," we were being too noisy while picking up magnolia leaves. We also learned that the pink grapes went to him; the white, to her. We could have all the blues we wanted!

Never since has watermelon tasted so sweet nor fresh apple cider been so refreshing as in summer when the family gathered on Sunday afternoons. The adults visited on the porch while the children played in the yard.

Physical death for her occurred on June 7, 1944; for him, October 28, 1954. Each of these people, as well as eight of their nine children, lived far beyond their allotted time.

I am convinced that their ideals, values, faith, and industriousness live on in the grandchildren, great-grandchildren, and great-great-grandchildren. Our grandparents believed that: work which is honest is honorable; what one does with his life is far more important than material possessions; giving to or caring for others brings its own rewards. We believe as they did!

Sources: Family Bible, Shelby Daily Star, Laurinburg Exchange, family documents, personal knowledge.

— Helen V. Hamrick

THOMAS MOORE

798

Thomas Moore was born in 1797 and died in 1877. He married Margaret McSwain, who was born about 1798. He was probably born in

Remember . . .

Articles
Are Indexed
By
Article Numbers
. . . Not By
Page
Number

what is now Cleveland County. She was probably born in Stanley County, what is now Rowan County. They are buried in a cemetery in Boiling Springs across from the Gardner-Webb College chapel.

Thomas was a farmer; Margaret a housewife. They lived around Beaver Dam Creek in the southwest corner of Cleveland County. Their home was diagonal to Memorial Park and near the Earl Owensby studio. Many of their descendants lived in this area.

They had eight children: Francis (1818) (?) - (?) who married Loucindy O'Neal; Cinthia (March 3, 1821 — June 28, 1895) who married Gold Griffon Holland in 1841; Martha (1827(25)-(?)) who married Calvin Holland who was born in 1820(?)-(?); Leah (1828-?) who married Leander Jolley; Mary (1830(?)-?) who married Erasmus Holland; Sarah (1833(?)-?) who married David Hamrick on September 28, 1852 (?); and General Marion Moore who married Vestie Victoria Hamrick.

Confusion surrounds the Moore line, past Tommy. However, according to research done by Mrs. Virginia Fowler in Gaffney, S.C., John Moore was Tommy's father.

According to a pension roll dated March 4, 1834, John appeared in open court on November 11, 1833 when he was 78 years, eleven months and twenty-three days old to apply for a pension for service in the Revolutionary War.

He said he was born in Brunswick County, Virginia, on November 19, 1754; moved to Orange County in North Carolina when he was about 18; moved to Rowan County for about four years; to Rutherford County where he lived for about twenty years and from there to York District, South Carolina.

John said he entered service about 1772, while he was in Orange County. He fought in several battles. John later moved to Harmony Post Office in South Carolina. Mrs. Fowler speculates John did this because he was related to a Captain Jones through marriage. John is believed to have married Elizabeth Jones, daughter of Benjamin Jones. John, a brother, Richard, Benjamin Jones and Amy (Anney) Parrish are believed to have come on the ship together.

Mrs. Fowler's interest comes from an ancestor named John Moore Jr. (called 'Jack') who m. Anna Davis, daughter of Philip and Mary Davis, in 1830. His ancestors had come from Ireland during a potato famine. There were twelve tall sons. Once, a man had come to Cowpens, S.C. searching for descendants of this John Moore and twelve sons for an inheritance. In the archives at Salt Lake City, Utah, Mrs. Fowler found a John Moore b. 1758 — Elizabeth Jones b. 1760 of Rutherford County. Their children included: William, John, James, Jonathan, George, Francis, Richard, Jones, Joseph, Farmer, Thomas and Lewis.

This sketch presents only bits and pieces of Mrs. Fowler's research. For further information or contributions, call 1-803-489-5501.

Other sources of information for the sketches of Thomas Moore and General Marion Moore include census records, family memories and help from friends. The principal research was done by Franklin Shaw Moore and Mary Lee Borders, who are grateful for past help and welcome future advice.

— Franklin Shaw Moore
and Mary Lee Borders

THE CHARLES POSTELL MOREHEAD FAMILY

799

My daddy, Charles Postell Morehead, was born in Cleveland County October 15, 1877, to William Miller Morehead and Mary Jane Blanton Morehead. He had six brothers and one sister. His oldest brother, Bob, first married Ockie Bostic, his second wife is not known. Herod married Samantha Champion, Jim married Selena Champion, John married Mary Smith, Torrence married Veola Blanton, Seth married Josie Smith. His sister, Curtis, married Vermon Fitzgerald.

Daddy, his parents and all his brothers are deceased. Bob was buried in Sandy Run Church Cemetery in Mooresboro, Herod and Torrence were buried in Sunset Cemetery in Shelby, and Jim was buried in New Hope Cemetery in Earl. Charlie, John, and Seth along with their mother were buried in Sharon Cemetery. His father was buried in Oakland Cemetery in Gaffney, South Carolina. His sister, Custis, is still living in Gaffney, South Carolina at the age of 93. A sister-in-law, Josie Morehead, is still living in Shelby, North Carolina at the age of 92.

William Miller Morehead married Savannah Davis after the death of his first wife. To this union were born three children: Zera married John Stowe, Ben first married Polly Hill and secondly married Faye Coward, Ocie married P.K. Phillips. These half sisters and brothers are deceased: Zera and Ben were buried in Oakland Cemetery in Gaffney, South Carolina, and Ocie was buried in Simpsonville, South Carolina.

Charles Postell (b. October 15, 1877 — d. March 30, 1939) married Alma Blanton (b. September 17, 1882 — d. April 19, 1973) on July 15, 1907. She was the daughter of Burl Benjamin and Arminda Hawkins Blanton. My parents were married at her home on what is now Maple Springs Church Road. The old house is still standing, though not used as a residence.

Daddy was a farmer back in the days when "cotton was king". The farm and garden produced most of our needs. Mother did her share by canning, preserving, drying, sewing, knitting, and by selling what extra eggs, butter, etc. she might have accumulated.

Our family may have been short on material wealth, but we received enough love from our parents to fully compensate. We always had the necessities of life, but at Christmas there was always an extra treat. One Christmas, I remember, we had coconut candy. It wasn't like the candy you get today. It was a big slab or hunk, probably weighing four or five pounds. Daddy bought the candy, brought it home, and put in the till of a big trunk. It had to be cut with a sharp knife, and each time it was served was certainly a treat.

Another incident I remember was the flood of 1916. The bridge across Broad River was washed away. It spanned the river over which Highway 150 now passes. A young man was drowned. Daddy took us girls to the scene where we could see people being carried across the river in a canoe. This was a real experience for us.

Daddy was a faithful member of Sharon Methodist Church until his death. He served many years as a steward. My mother was a member of the same church and it was an important part of their lives. As a young woman mother played the organ at church. Both parents were buried in Sharon Cemetery.

My parents had three children. Helen A. Morehead (b. February 5, 1909 — d. October 23, 1940) married Ralph Dover (b. August 11, 1912 — d. August 5, 1974) on December 4, 1938. Helen lived less than two years after her marriage. An infant son died at the same time.

Johnnie W. Morehead (b. June 1, 1911) married Floyd A. Queen (b. August 29, 1910) December 11, 1936. They have two sons, Floyd, Jr. and Charles Jackson. Floyd, Jr. (b. September 22, 1943) married Carolyn Ann Tessneer (b. February 5, 1946) on June 20, 1965. Floyd and Carolyn Queen have three sons: Robert Paul (b. October 11, 1967), Jeffrey Brett (b. May 31, 1970), and James Floyd (b. November 3, 1971). Charles is not married.

Ila Mae Morehead (b. February 4, 1913) married John Zero Bivins (b. September 22, 1897) on May 5, 1961.

Sources: Family Bibles, personal knowledge, memories, and relatives.

— Johnnie M. Queen

O.Z. MORGAN and HIS FAMILY

800

Few people who knew O.Z. Morgan knew what his initials stood for nor were they curious. Cleveland Countians just knew to call on "Mr. O.Z." for their gardening needs.

Joseph Hilliard and Sarah Anne Young Morgan named their first child Ottis Zelma Morgan after the doctor that delivered him. He was born November 27, 1897, in Piedmont, Anderson County, South Carolina. Little O.Z. soon had a sister, Mary Morgan (Brezeale) and twin brothers, Harry and Harrison.

A handsome young man with a strong jawline, steel blue eyes and light hair, his wife remembers him as a small boy, "He was just a little tow-headed boy running through the cotton fields." Minnieta Foster became Mrs. O.Z. Morgan on December 16, 1920. The couple married in Pelzar, South Carolina and went to the picture show in Easy for their honeymoon.

O.Z. Morgan, late 1960's

Morgan took several short courses at Clemson University and became interested in the control of insects. Through Clemson, he went to Cleveland County in 1923, with the help of the Kiwanis Club, to help farmers discourage the boll weevil. After a few months, Morgan saw Cleveland County as his opportunity and sent for his growing family which included young Robert Foster Morgan who was born June 24, 1922. They made their home on the George Blanton farms west of Shelby.

The Morgans had two more children. Saran was born June 26, 1926, and Otis Jackson on May 10, 1929. The family lived in the Beaver Dam Community. Morgan served as a Deacon at Beaver Dam Baptist Church.

As a farmer, Morgan became interested in the ginning business. In 1935, he established Morgan and Company, a feed, seed, and fertilizer store located beside Southern Railway between Marion and Warren streets (in the present Farmers Market building.)

Morgan contributed a great deal to the agricultural growth of Cleveland County. He was the first to promote certified cotton seed in the area. He served as president of the Caroling Ginner's Association, as a delegate and director of the National Cotton Council, and on the Agriculture Committee of the Shelby Chamber of Commerce. In 1957, he made a successful trip to Washington to get increased cotton acreage for Cleveland County. In 1963, he received the Farm Bureau Service Award for Cleveland County. The Carolina Ginner's Association named him "North Carolina Ginner of the Year" in 1970.

O.Z. Morgan died January 6, 1972, at the age of 74, after a two-year battle with cancer. He is buried at Sunset Cemetery in Shelby.

Robert joined his father in the business in 1946, after attending Gardner-Webb College and North Carolina State University, and serving in the United States Air Force. He married

Ruth Norment Moore of Lumberton, on June 13, 1953. They have two daughters. Serena Lee was born on September 8, 1956, and married Learned Davis Barry of Richmond, Virginia, on May 31, 1980. Mary Moore Morgan was born on May 16, 1959. Robert served in the North Carolina Senate from 1952 to 1964.

Jack joined the business in 1949, after attending Presbyterian College in Clinton, South Carolina. He left briefly to serve in the United States Army from 1951 to 1953. He married Barbara Jane Roebuck of Shelby on November 28, 1953. Their children are James William Morgan, November 21, 1954; Eleanor Ann, August 19, 1957; and Joseph Hilliard on August 31, 1964.

Saranan taught Physical Education and Health Education at Shelby High School and Gardner-Webb College. She married Thomas Anthony Brady on March 28, 1964. The couple lived in Charlotte and Miami Beach, Florida, until Brady's death in 1973. Mrs. Brady returned to Shelby to live with her mother and help with the family business.

Sources: Shelby Daily Star, family records.

— Eleanor Morgan

ROY WILSON MORRIS

801

Roy Wilson (Casey) Morris, long-time Shelby High School teacher and coach was born in Gastonia August 2, 1898, the son of Emma Faulkner and Samuel Malcolm Morris.

Casey attended public schools in Gastonia and graduated from Fishbourne Military School in Waynesboro, Virginia. In the fall of 1918 he did military service in the Student Army Training Corps at Lenoir Rhyne College. After one term at North Carolina State College, he transferred to the University of North Carolina.

At Chapel Hill he continued an athletic career that began in prep school. In 1923 Morris became captain of both the Carolina football and baseball teams. A plaque there records his hitting the longest ball at old Emerson Field. After receiving one of the top University honors, membership in the Order of the Golden Fleece, he graduated in Business Administration in 1924.

From 1924 to 1934 Morris was a teacher and coach at Shelby High. He also owned the Owl Soda Shop on West Warren Street. On August 28, 1928, he married Matilda Lattimore, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. E.B. Lattimore of Shelby. They had one daughter, Sue Brevard Morris, born in 1931. From 1934 to 1937 the Morrises taught at Belmont High School. He became part owner of a student supply company while in Belmont.

Junior Legion baseball was the top entertainment during the Depression, and thousands of fans crowded ball parks. Casey coached two seasons in his hometown, nearby Gastonia, and his boys won the United States Regional title in 1933. He coached Shelby's team the next year and followed that as business manager of the local semi-pro club in North Carolina's Western Baseball Circuit.

In 1938 Morris bought the Cleveland Gas

Roy "Casey" Wilson Morris

Company in Shelby, and for several years was distributor of Essotane, a new bottled gas for cooking. He also served in the local National Guard during World War II. The Morrises returned to teaching at Shelby High. Mrs. Morris died in 1954. Casey continued teaching, but retired from coaching in 1958.

"His teams won their share of championships from 1924 till 1958: state baseball championships 1924, 1925-29, 1930, with nine or ten conference wins. He also assisted with winning basketball teams. Hundreds tag him as the Number One influence in their lives. One said, 'Respect is a weak word for what we felt for Coach Morris. I learned the meaning of the words Honor and Loyalty. He absolutely refused to accept unethical play.' "

In February 1965 Casey Morris received the first Hall of Fame Award presented for outstanding service to the advancement of sports and recreation by the Shelby Chamber of Commerce.

In 1955 he had married Beatrice Nye Suttle (widow of Ben Suttle), and they both retired from teaching in 1963. They lived at the family farm on New Prospect Road where he enjoyed raising cattle and keeping up with sports events.

He was a member of the Cattlemen's Association, the Rotary Club, and a trustee of Central United Methodist Church for many years. He died at his home February 27, 1973, and was buried in Sunset Cemetery, Shelby.

Bea is active in Church, music and literary clubs. Delta Kappa Gamma Society — Cancer and Historical Boards. In 1977 she received the Shelby "Lady of the Year" Service Award.

Sources: Charlotte Observer, March 4, 1973. Shelby Daily Star, November 1977.

— Sue Morris Hopper

JAMES STEPHEN MORRISSETT

802

James Stephen Morrisett was born the only child of John (son) Gregory Morrisett (born July 24, 1872; died October 1944) and Maude Edwards Morrisett (born October 6, 1873; died November 1948) on June 2, 1906 in Scotland Neck (Halifax Co.), North Carolina. His paternal grandparents were Johnson Morrisett (born 1829) and Angerona Warr (born November 8, 1837; died January 27, 1904, who were married on April 5, 1854. His paternal great-grandparents were John Warr (born 1815; died June 27, 1846) and Louisa T. Clements (born 1820; January 30, 1852) who were married on January 3, 1837.

Young Stephen passed his childhood in Winston-Salem, North Carolina where his father was a prominent dry goods merchant. He had his first piano lesson at the age of six, and by the time he was a teenager, he was already a serious pianist. He was also organist for the Christian Church in Winston-Salem during his high school years, and upon graduation from R.J. Reynolds High School in 1925, he went off to study at Curtis Institute of Music in Philadelphia, Penn. In 1930, he obtained a bachelor's degree from Columbia University, and in 1932, a Master's Degree in Musicology from Cornell University. The next fall, he took a teaching position at Westminster Choir College in Princeton, New Jersey.

On the front row of his Art History course at Westminster sat a young lady named Mary Catherine Keeley (born December 10, 1910), who hailed from Dayton, Ohio, and on June 10, 1933, he married her. They remained on faculty at Westminster for five more years, during which time two sons were born to them: James Stephen Morrisett, Jr. (born August 2, 1934); and Peter Edward Morrisett (born July 12, 1937).

In 1913, at the age of seven, Stephen had become a Christian and had been baptized into the fellowship of Brown Memorial Baptist Church in Winston-Salem. Twenty-five years later, in 1938, he was called to preach the Gospel. Consequently, he moved himself, a wife, and two young sons to Southern Seminary in Louisville, Ky. in order to prepare himself to fulfill that calling. During his stay at the Seminary, he pastored a small church in Blue River, located just out of Salem, Indiana. He was ordained to the ministry on August 2, 1939 in First Baptist Church, Winston-Salem, and in 1940, he completed work for a Bachelor of Divinity degree.

James Stephen Morrisett, June 2, 1906 — April 23, 1969.

Mary Catherine Keeley Morrisett, born December 30, 1910.

Another major interest during these years was travel, and on the last of the extended journeys, he suffered a fatal heart attack. A small bronze plaque in Ise, Japan, marks his passing on April 23, 1969.

His descendants at present include four children, seventeen grandchildren, and two great-grandchildren.

Sources: personal knowledge and family Bible

— Rebecca Morrisett Causby

MRS. JAMES STEPHEN MORRISETT (MARY CATHERINE KEELEY)

803

Mary Catherine Keeley was born in her parents home in Dayton, Ohio on December 30, 1910, and was christened in Memorial Presbyterian Church in Dayton. She was the younger of two daughters born to John Edward Keeley (born November 22, 1884 in Frankfort, Ky.; died March 6, 1959) and Lottie Carrie Lousia Hauss (born August 23, 1884; died December 11, 1961) who were married June 18, 1908. Her paternal grandparents were Frederick Keeley (born in County Kent, England) and Mary Elizabeth deCosta (born 1856). Her maternal grandparents were David Thomas Hauss (born June 7, 1860; died November 17, 1926) and Hannah Hennings (born October 5, 1858; died November 9, 1939). They were married September 11, 1883.

Mary had her first formal piano lesson when she was eight years old, and by the time she was a fourth grader, she was sufficiently proficient to command the interest of Dr. John Finley Williamson who later founded Westminster Choir College. She continued her music studies throughout her teenage years, but was an avid sportswoman as well, playing championship tennis and basketball, and in swimming and ice skating.

She was educated in the public schools of Dayton and in 1928 she was the composer of the class song for her graduating class from Steele High School. After graduation, she attended Westminster Choir College for two years and during that time held a music position in the First Baptist Church in Groton, New York. The following year, in 1930-31, money was in short supply, and she left school for a year to pool her funds while she worked in the payroll office of a General Motors subsidiary in Dayton.

In 1931, she went back to Westminster where she again held a church position in Canandigua, New York. The following year, she won a full Masonic scholarship, and she went back for her senior year. Her German professor that year was a young gentleman named James Stephen Morrisett (June 2, 1906) from Winston-Salem, North Carolina, and evidently he knew a good thing when he saw it. They were married in Princeton University Chapel on June 10, 1933, just two days after she received her Bachelor of Music degree with a major in organ from Westminster Choir College.

The next year, she taught secondary piano at Westminster until the birth of their first son. She continued to teach privately, and three years later, in 1937, a second son was born.

In 1938, the family moved to Louisville, Ky. so that Mr. Morrisett could study at the Southern Baptist Seminary. It was there that she was baptized into the Baptist church, and during this time that she studied Greek at the Seminary. They then moved to Elkin, North Carolina, and Mrs. Morrisett conducted the Young People's Choir at the First Baptist Church, and taught music privately. A third son was born in 1942 during their stay in Elkin. At the conclusion of the war in 1945, the family moved to Boiling Springs, North Carolina, and three years later, a daughter was born.

During the twenty-seven years since her move to Boiling Springs, Mrs. Morrisett has continued to teach piano and voice privately. She has conducted The Adult Choir at Lattimore Baptist Church (1950-57), the children's choirs at Boiling Springs Baptist Church (1957-64), and the Adult Choir at Boiling Springs (1962-64). In 1957, she was instrumental in dispensing with the split school session in the Cleveland County School System.

Mrs. Morrisett, widowed in 1969, continues to pursue various interests such as teaching, practicing, listening to music, studying, needlework, and gardening. She is "Gran" to a now somewhat extensive family which include four children, seventeen grandchildren, and two great-grandchildren. They are as follows: James Stephen Morrisett, Jr. (born August 2, 1934) who married Lois Jean Dawn of Gastonia. They are the parents of Michael Edward (1954), Cynthia Dawn Morrisett Coleman (1956), Diana Jean (1958), Richard Anthony (1960); and the grandparents of Esther Shana Morrisett (1981) and Mary Ruth Coleman (1982).

Peter Edward Morrisett (born July 12, 1937) and Edith Suzanne Hamrick of Boiling Springs who are the parents of Mary Catherine (1962), Laura Helen (1962), Julia Lynn (1963), Janet Irene (1964), and John Gregory (1967).

Joel David Morrisett (born May 2, 1942) and Mary Willard Myers of Charlotte who are the parents of Elizabeth Keeley (1968), Samuel David (1970), Sarah Ruth (1973), John Daniel (1975), and Miriam Esther (1977).

Rebecca Ann Morrisett (born April 5, 1948) who married Harold David Causby of Shelby. They are the parents of Lucinda Warr Causby (1972), Katherine Wise Causby (1976), and Stephen Winston Causby (1980).

Sources: personal knowledge & Family Bible.

— Rebecca Morrisett Causby

STAFFORD A. and MARTHA WHISNANT MORROW FAMILY

804

Stafford A. Morrow was born May 24, 1809 and moved to Kings Mountain from South Carolina. He was married the first time to Martha F. Whisnant, December 5, 1853. She was born June 3, 1813 and died August 16, 1875. During this marriage five children were born.

William B. Morrow was born October 2, 1836. He married Margaret Dickson, March 17, 1859. Her death was not recorded in our family Bible. Two daughters, Sallie and Callie, were born into this family. Callie was married to Rush Watterson. Sallie was born October 19, 1860 and died January 17, 1918. She was married to Hoyle McDaniel and they had seven sons and two daughters: Dixie, Lee, Grier, Ode, Gaither, Bate DeCalb, Abernathy, Maggie McDaniel Ware, and Angie McDaniel Putnam.

Columbus Morrow was born June 28, 1848 and his death was not recorded. He was married to Eliza Ann Harry, born January 26, 1851. They had five children from this union: Cleve, Dave, Loonie, Maggie, and Dessie.

Roberson Morrow was born July 23, 1839 and died April 19, 1916. Roberson, blind most of his life, made his home with his sister, Sarah, and her husband, George Sellers.

John A. Morrow was born February 19, 1846 and died January 12, 1848.

Sarah Elizabeth, my grandmother, was born January 17, 1843 and died April 11, 1916. She married George A. Sellers November 1, 1863. Six children were born into this family: Mattie Sellers Wells, Elizabeth (died December 28, 1891), Susan Sellers Harmon Logan, Lillie Sellers Love, Michael A., and William Baity.

Stafford A. Morrow was married the second time to Jane Hardin, November 31, 1880. Jane was born October 19, 1833 and died February 8, 1916. They had no children. Stafford died June 6, 1884.

Several members of the Stafford Morrow family are now living in the old Dixon School area, near the Kings Mountain Battleground, which was the Morrow homeplace.

Burial grounds for members of this family can be found in the old Shiloh Church cemetery, near Grover, North Carolina; Antioch; and Bethlehem.

Sources: grave stones, family records, personal papers, and interviews with family members.

— Lula Logan Hardin

EZRA VERNON and PEARL HOUSER MOSS, SR.

805

Ezra Vernon Moss, Sr. the long time mayor of Cherryville, North Carolina was born April 15, 1890 in Cleveland County and died in Cherryville, Gaston Co. October, 25, 1961 and is buried at the City Cemetery in Cherryville, N.C. He married Pearl Houser of Cherryville on November 23, 1921. There were three sons born: Aaron Bernard (November 19, 1922), Marcus Lee Thomas (March 10, 1924), and E.V., Jr. (November 22, 1932) in Cherryville.

A few people who do business at Cherryville's First National Bank remember the executive vice-president as the man who used to cut their hair. E.V. Moss's success story was an accepted fact in Cherryville. Mr. Moss managed the bank from 1934 til his death. He was almost as much an institution as the bank itself. Much of the bank's success can be attributed to the quiet and friendly, but efficient, guidance of the son of a Cleveland County tenant farmer.

Ezra Vernon Moss

Pearl Houser Moss

Mr. Moss is probably best known as the man who thwarted a bank robbery in 1941. His name was in all the papers when he grabbed a pistol out of the robber's hand. The pistol bullet ripped through the banker's hand, but the robber fled and was captured by police a few minutes later. That was one of the few spectacular moments in a life marked by steady determination and hard work.

As a boy, Mr. Moss worked his way through high school by working a twelve hour night shift in a cotton mill. He barbered as a student at Cherryville High School and later at Boiling Springs High School and Gardner-Webb College. He was still "shaving his way through school" at the University of North Carolina when World War I erupted.

Mr. Moss joined the Navy as an enlisted man. He passed the tests for officer training school and was an ensign when the war ended.

After a year in the Merchant Marine, Mr.

Moss returned to Cherryville. He took a job as bookkeeper of the bank and married.

He had worked his way to assistant cashier when the banks closed in 1933. He reorganized the bank in 1934 and became the cashier.

Mr. Moss helped organize the Local American Legion Post and was elected to serve as the Post's first commander. His interest in the American Legion was not confined to one particular area but was broad in scope. Of the many programs of the American Legion, Mr. Moss's first love was without doubt the Legion baseball program, which he supported faithfully from 1937-1961. His love of young people turned the task into a labor of love. He took time from his busy schedule to seek out young men to participate in this great program. Ezra Vernon Moss was inducted into the American Legion Baseball Hall of Fame in 1972.

Mr. Moss was a member of the Cherryville City Council for four years. He served on the Cherryville school board for six years. He was a member of the Methodist Church, Woodmen of the World, Knights of Pythias, Lions Club, Rotary, American Legion and The Masonic Order, Ezra was also the republican candidate for the eleventh congressional district of North Carolina in 1942.

Ezra was the youngest son of Marcus Lafayette Moss (June 2, 1854 — February 15, 1903). Born in Waco, Cleveland County, died and buried at Mt. Zion Church. His mother was Jane Alice Lenora Harrelson. They were married December 27, 1877. The other children were: James Hampton, (September 25, 1878 — June 9, 1964) buried at Mt. Zion. He married Cleo Carpenter November 24, 1901, Sarah "Sally" Suzanna (March 23, 1880 — February 29, 1980) buried at City Cemetery. She married John Wesley Quinn II October 6, 1904, Joseph Lee (December 1, 1881). He married Lula Jane Henderson on July 25, 1909. Lula died (April 12, 1976) and is buried at City Cemetery, Cherryville, Walter Graham (August 14, 1883 — January, 1967) and is buried at Mt. Zion. He married Bessie Cunningham on May 14, 1905. Barband Candes (September 10, 1885 — April 16, 1939) who married Pledger Putnam on February 1, 1905. She is also buried at Mt. Zion. Ezra was the next child born, Maggie Bess (February 20, 1894 — February 24, 1929, married Lee Dellinger August 29, 1909. She is also buried at Mt. Zion. Clarence Little and Junie Mae (January 23, 1896), he died October 28, 1900 while Junie Mae continued to live and marry John Caldwell Bridges on November 20, 1915, Mamie (November 3, 1901) married Ben Dixon Newton. There was an unnamed stillborn child born later.

Jane Alice Lenora was the daughter of James Franklin Harrelson (September 16, 1821 — April 16, 1891) and Margaret Amanda Dellinger (August, 1830 — May 20, 1896).

Rev. Noah Hampton Moss was the father of Marcus Lafayette Martin Buchanan (1796-1850) Cleveland County, was the father of Noah Hampton, James (Rutherford County 1766-1820) was the father of Martin Buchanan (circa 1796-1850 Cleveland County). Henry (circa 1741 — ?) was born in Virginia and the father of James whose father was William (1698-1773) in Virginia. William was educated in England circa 1653-1654).

Pearl Houser Moss was born (March 1, 1894 —) she was a strong influence in the lives of all those around her. She was always giving without expecting to be rewarded. She loved to work in her yard so that everyone could enjoy the pretty flowers that she cultivated. She was a truly remarkable wife and mother.

Her parents were Augustus Lee Houser and Roxanna Houser who were called "Mama" and "Papa" Houser.

Sources: The Cherryville Eagle, personal knowledge, records, history done by a niece.

— Mrs. M.L. Thomas Moss

DR. MARCUS LEE THOMAS MOSS and MARY LOUISE MACKLIN MOSS

806

Dr. Marcus Lee Thomas Moss, son of Ezra Vernon Moss (April 15, 1889 — October 25, 1961) and Pearl Houser (March 1, 1894 —), was born in Cherryville, Gaston County in (March 10, 1924 —).

Tom played American Legion baseball and high school basketball. He graduated from Cherryville High School in 1941, attended the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill from 1941-43, 1946-1949 and was in the V12 program. Earning his undergraduate degree in chemistry and his master of science degree in public health.

Tom took a job at Camp Dettick, Maryland, in research, before going to Atlanta, Georgia to help produce slides and a movie on preventive measures for handling live viruses. This is still being shown in colleges and universities all over the United States. It was made by the United States Communicable Disease Center of Atlanta. He was the principle actor.

In 1951 he entered the Southern College of Optometry and earned a bachelor of science and doctor of optometry degrees in 1954. That same year he opened his optometric office in Shelby in the Lineberger Building on North Lafayette Street.

On July 19, 1952 he married Mary Louise Macklin (May 29, 1927 —) of Hutchinson, Kansas, Reno County, whom he met while attending optometry school in Memphis, Tennessee. They had two children, Thomas Macklin Moss born at Cleveland Memorial Hospital (October 31, 1955 —) and Carol Louise Moss who was born at Charlotte Memorial Hospital, Charlotte, North Carolina, Mecklenburg County (March 25, 1964 —).

Dr. Moss served as a trustee of the North Carolina State Optometric Society, Inc. for four years, after which he served as vice president from (1973-1974), executive vice-president from (1974-76) and president (1976-1977). He is a member of the Shelby Presbyterian Church serving as a deacon 1972; he served as pack master of pack number 100 (1971-1972) member of the Jaycees; Kiwanas Club as secretary for two years. Dr. Moss was also a charter member of the Uptown Shelby Association and currently a director. He is a member of the Cleveland Country Club and the Men's Golf Association.

Dr. Moss has been a lover of golf for many years but gave it up for five years in order to have time to care for Carol's ponies and horse which she was showing on the "A" circuit of the American Horse Show Association. He and Mary Louise groomed, hauled and tended to the horses for Carol to show. They traveled from South Carolina to Pennsylvania.

Mary Louise Macklin Moss was the daughter of Mary Belle Farney (May 22, 1902) (Mulvane, Sedgewick, Kansas) (February 26, 1954), Halstead, Reno, Kansas and Frederick George Macklin (May 17, 1900 —) Reno County, Kansas. Was born (May 29, 1927 —) Hutchinson, Reno County, Kansas. She attended schools in Hutchinson and graduated from HHS in 1945, Kansas State University 1950 with a B.S. in home economics and education. Marcus Lee Thomas Moss and she were married July 19, 1952 in Hutchinson. They moved to Shelby from Memphis, Tennessee in October, 1954.

She served as president of the women of the Shelby Presbyterian Church (1968-70), Shelby Junior Woman's Club 1961, the Auxiliary to the North Carolina State Optometric Society, Inc. (1973-74), charter member (1975) and president (1980-82) of the Doll Study Club of Shelby, a member of the Shelby Junior Charity League and the Novice Bridge Club, and Dr. Moss and she belong to a supper-bridge club which was organized in 1955.

While a member of the Shelby Junior Woman's Club Mary Louise entered the Vogue Sewing Contest which was sponsored by the General Federation of Woman's Club in cooperation with Vogue Pattern Service and won 2nd place in the state in 1961.

In 1966-77 they built the house they presently live in. Mary Louise drew the plans and did all the sub-contracting for the construction. She bought every piece of lumber and supplies down to the nails. She supervised the construction from start to finish, including the interior decorating and made most all of the draperies. Her hobbies are doll collecting and horseback riding.

— Mary Louise Macklin Moss

THOMAS MACKLIN and CAROL LOUISE MOSS

807

Thomas Macklin Moss was born at Cleveland Memorial Hospital (October 31, 1955 —) to Marcus Lee Thomas Moss and Mary Louise Macklin Moss in Shelby, North Carolina.

While at Shelby Senior High School he was President of Interact (1973-74), awarded a North Carolina National Bank and The Charlotte Observer Certificate of Merit — Scholastic Art Award 1975, Special Award 1979 & 1973 by the Amateur Athletic Inc., Union of the United States, North Carolina Association, boys 15-17 — 2nd 200 meter freestyle relay, boys 15-17 1st 200 yard medley relay.

Tom helped organize the first swim team at Shelby Senior High School in 1974. He continued to swim at the University of North Carolina and letter in 1975-76 and 1976-77. He was on the Atlantic Coast Conference Honor Roll at UNC in 74-75, 75-76, 76-77. He was voted the most improved swimmer in 1977 which was one of only three awards given. He loved water polo and played in both undergraduate and medical school. In 1974 he was certified by the National Association of Underwater Instructors in scuba diving.

Tom was a boy scout going up the ranks from cub to eagle in October 1971, then on into explorers.

While a student at UNC he was president of

The Moss Family, Christmas 1979. L to R: Thomas Macklin, Mary Louise, M.L. Thomas and Carol Louise

THOMAS MOSS and DESCENDANTS

808

The name of Moss was derived from resident of "mossy or marshy" places in the north of England. From Bedfordshire, John Moss settled in London. His son, Clement, became Comptroller of Chamber of London in 1633 and his descendants were among the earliest colonists of the new world.

During the Civil War Thomas Moss (1829-1866) left his family, wife Mary Bell whom he had married in 1848 and their children Rufus (1849-1904); Jerome (1853-1908); Emily Jane (1854-1862); and Sara Moss Ferguson (1861). His concern for his loved ones was agonizing. In a letter written by the light of a campfire, Thomas cautioned Great-Grandmother Mary to keep Jerome, a mere lad, from any participation in the Ku Klux Klan. Thomas closed the letter by his lonely request to kiss the curly haired Sara goodnight for him.

Surviving the war, his loved ones were overwhelmed with emotion to see Thomas walking up the lane to his home, now Grover, North Carolina in Cleveland County. Next year Thomas died. Both he and wife Mary are buried in the Old Buffalo Community Church Cemetery in South Carolina.

Rufus A. Moss (1849-1904), older son of Thomas Moss married Wilbourn F. Moore (1847-1934). Rufus and Wilbourn reared the following children: Clarence (1873-1888); Dave (1874-1936); Merimon T. (1877-1918); Cyrus (1879) Broadus (1883); W. Moore (1887); Edna Petty Carter (1888); Lizzie (1889-1894). Three children of this union survive. Edna Petty Carter, now 93 years old of Carolina Beach, Cyrus and Broadus live in Spartanburg and Columbia, South Carolina.

Mattie R. Rippy, wife of Dave Moss, was a postmistress in Earl, North Carolina, for twenty years. Her daughter, Wilburn Moss Nickols, succeeded in the same position but served as postmistress for twenty-nine years and pre-

Frederick George and Mary Belle Macklin.

Granville South (1977-78), inducted into the order of the Old Well (1978), lettered in swimming (1976-1977 — 1977-1978), was a member of Phi Eta Sigma Freshmen Honor Society (1976).

In 1978 he received his degree in chemistry and entered the University of North Carolina School of Medicine and graduated May 16, 1982.

Carol Louise Moss was born to Dr. Marcus Lee Thomas Moss and Mary Louise Macklin Moss at Charlotte Presbyterian Hospital in Mecklenburg County, Charlotte, North Carolina on March 25, 1964.

She was a proficient equestrian and rode her small pony Lydia to third place in the American Horse Show Association Small Pony of the year Award in 1976. They won the North Carolina Hunter and Jumper Association Small Pony of the year Award in 1976. Carol was Reserve Champion in Pony Equitation in 1976. She won the Sam T. Eckerd Equitation Award two consecutive years. They were champion or reserve champion at the following shows, Washington International (Washington D.C.), Mecklenburg Hounds (Grand Champions), Tryon Hounds, Tryon Riding and Hunt Club, Knights of Columbus (two consecutive years), Bethlehem of Hickory, Horse Sports of South Carolina, Ramblewood of Aiken, South Carolina, Greensboro Interstate. Ingleside Stable, Little Bite Pony Farm, West Virginia State Fair, Ronce-Verte, West Virginia, Miss Pitty Pat's of Durham, Blowing Rock, Casa Del Toro Stable, Shelby Charity.

Carol won a McDonalds Art Award, was a cheerleader (1979-1982), Co-editor of Shelby High School Annual, attended Governors at Salem College 1981, a presidential classroom for young americans in Washington, D.C. 1982, and was presented to Western North Carolina Society at the 37th annual debutante ball in 1982.

In 1977, Carol wrote and had published an article for American Girl magazine on page 24 of the October issue. It was titled, "Lydia, My Favorite Show-Off". She and Lydia were featured in an article published in "Tarwheel Wheels" written by Richard K. Dedmon titled, "Carol and Lydia, The Champions of 76", page 3.

Carol was also a marshal and a Shelby High School nominee for the Morehead Scholarship. She entered the freshman class at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill in August, 1982.

Sources: Personal knowledge

— Mary Louise Moss

Thomas Macklin Moss, UNC Swim Team, 1977.

Carol Louise Moss and Pony "Lydia"

Sara Faye Moss Padgett.

Robert and Beulah Moss and their deceased children, Richard (1923-1934) and infant Bobby D., are buried in the Grover cemetery.

Sources: Moss and Ferguson Bible, Michael Whisnant and Feeling Bible, Thomas Moss Bible, personal conversations, Genealogical records — National Archives, Burke Landed Gentry.

— Odessa Moss Powell

THE MULL FAMILY (MUHL, MOLL)

809

The Mull Ancestors immigrated from Holland and originally spelled their name "Muhl" or "Moll". They first settled in Lancaster County, Pennsylvania but later learning of a milder climate in the South and because of the defeat of General Bradford by the Indians in 1756, some of them migrated to North Carolina.

The earliest authentic record of the ancestors of the present Mull clan was one John Mull, who according to the U.S. Census of 1790 was living in Lincoln County, near Catawba County, and was the head of a family composed of four males and six females. He was the ancestor of most of the Mull descendants now living in Catawba, Burke and Cleveland Counties.

John Mull, was born in 1744, and was married to Mary Anthony. He settled in the Jacob Fork section (Jacob's River section or three County Corners) of Catawba County in 1762. The date of his death is not known, however, a special proceedings of record in Lincoln County show a division of his real estate by Commissioners in 1833.

The names of his children were: John, Jr., Peter, Henry, Jacob, William, Sall, Catherine and Elizabeth Mull Mosteller. His other three daughters possibly died without issue between the time of the census and the division of his lands, their names are not known.

Jacob Mull settled in Catawba County some three miles down the river from the Three-County Corner. Peter Mull settled in the edge of Burke County on the farm now known as the Solomon Hoyle Farm. He was one of the first Sheriffs of Burke County and served from 1790 to 1792. William Mull settled near Morganton and Henry Mull settled on upper Fork River.

Henry Mull, Jr. and Jacob Mull had the two rivers named in their honor — the Lower South Fork being frequently called "Jacob's Fork" and the upper South Fork frequently called "Henry's Fork".

As to John Mull, Jr.'s descendants, he was the father of Abraham, Barbara who married a Setzer, Martha who married a Whitener, and William.

Henry Mull, son of John Mull, Sr., had the following children: Sara, John III, Eli, Harrison William, Frank, and Alfred.

Jacob Mull was the father of Captain P.M. Mull, Jacob, Jr., George and Archibold, Annie Carpenter and Emeline.

The children of John Mull, son of Peter Mull were Mary Jane Carpenter, Julius, Roxanne Peeler, J.L. Houston, Ambrose and Leila Mull Downs.

Evelyn Moss Bridges' daughter, Joyce, married John Laughridge.

Granddaughter Janice Moss Holmes was born to Ada Mae Moss Holmes and husband, William.

Walter Jerome Moss (1878-1937), second son of Jerome and Adeline Moss, married Mary Julia Herndon (1878-1937) in 1900. To this union the following children were born: Dorritte Avery (1901) married Mary Oveda Martin (1927). Their daughter, Claudia Moss (1943) married Charles Edward McLean and has two daughters: Adele Claudette (1968); and Angela Oveda (1972).

Dr. George Oren Moss (1902) is a medical doctor and married Ann Finch in 1931. Their children are: Walter Lee Moss (1935) and Barbara Ann Moss (1932) who married Darrell Peeler (1951) of Hickory. Three daughters and a son were born in the Peeler family.

Addie Elizabeth Moss (1906) was a R.N. in Cleveland County hospitals. At an early age her twin sister, Agnes Josephine (1906-1913) died of leukemia.

Mary Frances Moss (1920) married Richard Irwin (1956).

Walter Jerome Moss and Mary Julia Herndon Moss were buried in the Grover cemetery.

Two daughters were born to Jerome P. and Adeline F. Moss. Carey Lee Moss (1880-1946) married Charles Turner, lived in Grover and had two sons, Willard Edward and Walter Boyce, both now deceased. Carey Lee and second husband, Horace Johnson, had no children.

Another daughter, Minnie Pearl (1883) married William Bunyan Herndon. Their children Alma, Meredith (deceased), and Gertrude who died at nine years of age of diptheria.

Minnie Moss Herndon and husband, Bunyan, are buried at Myrtle Beach.

Robert Delmar Moss (1887-1970), the youngest child of Jerome and Adeline "Addie" Moss, married Beulah Carner (1891-1976).

The children of Robert and Beulah Carner Moss are: Robert Delmar, Jr. (1915-1963); sently resides in Earl. Rufus and Wilburn Moss are buried in Old Buffalo Church Cemetery in S.C.

The second son of Thomas Moss, Jerome P. Moss (1853-1908), of Whitaker, South Carolina (now Grover, North Carolina) married Frances Adeline Jane Ferguson (1853-1938) on March 8, 1872. The only girl in her family, mother Elizabeth Rose Ferguson named her daughter for the three Rose Sisters.

The children of Jerome and Adeline Moss were: William Alexander (1876-1929), Walter Jerome (1878-1937), Carey Lee Turner (1880-1946), Minnie Pearl Herndon (1883) deceased and buried at Myrtle Beach, South Carolina, and Robert Delmar (1887-1976).

Jerome and his brother Rufus of the Buffalo Community were experienced farmers with extensive land holdings. Colored tenant families lived on the farms in three room houses helping with farming, storing of corn in cribs, packing cotton into special storage, curing of meat in the smokehouses, and other farm chores.

The oldest child of Jerome and Adeline, William Alexander married Minnie Ada Falls (1881-1966). The children of Will and Minnie were: William Woodford (1899-1929); Mary Odessa Powell, wife of Dr. Herman Sutton Powell; Mildred Mozelle wife of Lawrence Roscoe Hollifield; Evelyn Delta (1909-1982) married Homer Estes Bridges; Ada Mae married William Holmes.

Woodford and Bertie Cloninger Moss' children are: Roy Maurice, Jr., who married Odessa "Dot" Wilson (1948). Roy's son Woodford Wilson married Sharlene Manley; Maurice, Jr.; Barry Tyler married Kay Solesbee. Their daughter is Treva Grey Moss Brooks; children are Ben Brantley, Jr., Maurice Dale and Bolenda Grey. Dale and wife, Rebecca Burns Moss, are the parents of Amy Michelle.

Mary Jane, another granddaughter, married Sam Newton Stevenson (1966). The Stevenson great-grandchildren are Beth and Michael Scott.

Houston Mull who married Margaret Ann Carpenter was the father of Otis M. Mull of Shelby.

— Otis Mull Meacham

OTIS McCOY MULL

810

Statesman, attorney and churchman, Mr. Mull was born in a one-room cabin in Cleveland County, September 18, 1880. His parents were Houston and Margaret Carpenter Mull. His grandfather, John Mull, was a planter and merchant. His great-grandfather was Peter Mull, Sr., and his great-great-grandfather was John Mull, a member of a Dutch family that immigrated to Pennsylvania and moved to Lincoln County prior to 1790.

Slightly more than a year after Otis was born, his father died at the age of twenty-six. Thus Otis was left to the care of his twenty-two year old mother. When Otis was six, his mother married a second time, and Julius L. Smith assumed the burden as head of the family and opened the way for an education for the child.

Otis pursued his education as a pupil in the Belwood Institute from 1892 to 1898. After finishing the schooling the community afforded, he began a career as a farmer. But the price of farm crops dropped beneath the cost of production. In one year's labor, Otis produced four bales of cotton which he sold for $98.67, or 4½¢ per pound. The distress and hopelessness produced by four-cent cotton proved valuable. They caused him to become determined to go to college. He was a high school graduate and held a first grade certificate, so he left the cotton field for the school room and taught for $25.00 a month in the Cleveland County Public Schools and at Belwood Institute.

In 1889 Otis entered Wake Forest College and in three years completed the four year course with distinction of "Suma Cum Laude" averaging above 97½ for the full course. He obtained a law degree in 1903 from Wake Forest completing the two year course in one year and graduating "Magna Cum Laude".

In 1907 Mr. Mull was chosen to represent his district among North Carolina's lawmakers, and again in 1919. During the 1919 session he was co-author of the Mull-McKoin Bill, which was the predecessor of the statewide highway building program. From 1928 to 1932 Mr. Mull was Chairman of the Democratic State Executive Committee and for a longer period one of its members. He exerted a widely felt influence over public thought and action in political affairs in North Carolina. In all he served six regular terms and two special terms as a member of the North Carolina House of Representatives, and during the 1941 session he was Speaker of the House.

During his terms as a member of the House, Mr. Mull introduced legislation that: (1) established vocational education in the state's public schools; (2) provided for the physical examination and treatment of school children; (3) permitted Shelby to hold election to vote for the first brick school house in the county; (4) provided for a bond issue for Shelby's first water system; (5) permitted the purchase of the electric light system from private ownership; (6) authorized a vote on the liquor question which resulted in the outlawing of the legal sale of liquor in North Carolina from 1908 to 1935; (7) brought North Carolina into cooperation with the Federal Government in establishing the present system of farm and home agents; (8) appropriated the money to establish the North Carolina Vocational Textile School at Belmont.

Locally, Mr. Mull's first official position was membership on the Shelby School Board. He was also president of the Shelby and Cleveland County Foundation that constructed the Shelby City Park; later he led a fund drive to establish a swimming pool at Holy Oak Park; and served as attorney for the City of Shelby for fifteen years. He drafted the bill to vote a bond issue to establish the Shelby Hospital and assisted in its construction in 1922.

Mr. Mull was a charter member of the Shelby Kiwanis Club and served as its second president in 1924. He was president of the Cleveland County Bar Association in 1938 and 1939 was vice-president of the North Carolina Bar Association. He was also one of the organizers of the Sixteenth Judicial District Bar Association.

As a churchman, Mr. Mull worked in behalf of the Baptist cause, on both local and state levels, with such marked success that he was known as "Mr. Baptist of North Carolina". A pillar of the First Baptist Church of Shelby, he served as chairman of the Board of Deacons, superintendent of the Sunday School, a member of the Building Committee during three periods of construction, and founded and taught for thirty years the O.M. Mull Bible Class.

Mr. Mull's love of church, politics and Wake Forest College merged in 1937 when a move was made in the General Assembly to establish a four year medical school at the University of North Carolina. Mr. Mull was named to a committee to study the proposal and it was decided that the school should be built if the money could be found. But the state was not fully recovered from the depression and the funds were lacking. Mr. Mull told the committee "If you will give me about a month, I will go around the state and see if I can get the money from private sources". The committee agreed and Mr. Mull began his rounds. Mr. James A. Gray, President of R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Company and Chairman of the Bowman Gray Foundation, was impressed with the medical school idea and told Mr. Mull to have the committee present a formal request to the foundation's board of trustees. Mr. Gray mentioned that the policy of the foundation would require that the medical school be built in Winston-Salem and expressed doubt that the university would locate anywhere other than Chapel Hill. The committee turned down the Gray offer, although Mr. Mull and Dr. Ben J. Lawrence of Raleigh submitted a minority report in favor of acceptance.

Otis McCoy Mull

After the committee turned down the offer, Mr. Mull informed Mr. Gray that Wake-Forest College would confer with the foundation trustees about moving the Wake Forest Medical School to Winston-Salem. At a meeting in Winston-Salem details of the offer were worked out thus forming the Bowman Gray School of Medicine.

About 1944, Mr. Mull pursued the possibility of obtaining part or all of the income from the Smith Reynolds Foundation for Wake Forest College. In 1946, the Baptist State Convention in special session voted to accept the offer of a ten million dollar fund for a perpetual endowment from the Smith Reynolds Foundation.

During this period of time, Mr. Mull was a trustee of the five hundred bed Baptist Hospital, a member of the Building Committee of the Bowman Gray School of Medicine and Chairman of the Building Committee for the new Wake Forest College which was moving from Wake Forest to Winston-Salem.

In 1950 when Dr. Kitchin retired as president of Wake Forest College, Mr. Mull was a member of the committee that elected his successor, Dr. Harold W. Tribble. Later, when a ripple of dissension threated the college, Mr. Mull became president of the Board of Trustees at the age of seventy-five to bolster the Tribble administration and hold Wake Forest on its path of progress.

Mr. Mull passed away at the age of eighty two on November 27, 1962.

— Montrose Meacham Ballard and Otis Mull Meacham

THOMAS EDISON MULL

811

Thomas Edison Mull was born April 6, 1891 in Burke County to Joseph Lucius and Emeline Hudson Mull. The Mull ancestors came from Germany via Rotterdam to Philadelphia, Pa., September 10, 1731, aboard the Pennsylvania Merchant.

Mr. Mull was educated in Burke County public schools and Piedmont Boarding School in Lawndale, N.C. He served in World War I, having duty in France. He was a farmer and landowner in Burke and Cleveland Counties.

On April 10, 1930 T. Edison Mull married Lydia Ethel Crow, a daughter of E.M. Pinkey and Martha Ann Tallent Crow of Lincoln County. She was born August 3 1905. Mrs. Mull attended Lincoln and Catawba County schools and Lenoir Rhyne College.

They established their home on the Mull farm in Cleveland County near the Three County Corner area. Both were active members of Zion Hill Baptist Church. Thomas Edison was church clerk, building fund treasurer and a deacon. Lydia served as a teacher in the Junior Dept. for more than twenty years.

The Mulls had one child, Martha Evelyn, who married Marvin Lee Lutz of Cleveland County, and two grandsons, Marvin Lee and Thomas Luther.

Thomas Edison Mull died April 1, 1975. Lydia Ethel Crow Mull died November 10, 1979. They are buried at Zion Hill Baptist Church near their home and farm.

Sources: Family Bible, The Heritage of Burke County and Family Records.

— Evelyn Mull Lutz

Nancy Naomi Neal

J. MARION and NANCY NAOMI WARE NEAL

812

J. Marion Neal (b. 1844) was the son of John W. Neal (b. Jan. 1809) and Mary Neal (b. May 17, 1808). John W. Neal was listed as a mechanic in the 1860 Census Records. He had large real estate holdings and above average personal property. He and Mary are buried at Long Creek Presbyterian Church. Their other children were: Margaret (b. 1839); John C. Neal (b. 1841) and Hester J. Neal (b. 1846).

J. Marion Neal married Nancy Naomi Ware (Wear) (b. May 24, 1847 d. April 14, 1889). She was the daughter of Alford B. Ware (b. Aug. 14, 1817 — d. Aug. 10, 1892) and Sarah G. Ware (b. Dec. 27, 1824 d. July 1866).

Alford B. Ware was a farmer with large real estate and personal property according to Census Records of 1860. Alford and Sarah are buried at El Bethel Methodist Church.

Nancy was from a good size family. Others in her family were: John F. Ware; Marcus Ware; William Ware; Sarah M.R. Ware; Boyce Ware; Amanda J. Ware (married a Dr. Glenn); Sophronia Ware (married Sam Rhea); Collumbus Ware and James A. Ware her twin brother; according to 1850 Census records.

Marion served in the Confederate Army — Company C 55th Regiment. He joined the Army on July 10th, 1865.

Children of J. Marion and Nancy Naomi Ware Neal were: Angeline Neal who married Adam Hovis, Georgia Neal married Miles Ware, Fallie Neal married Luther Barrett, Quillia Neal married John Page, Garfield Neal married Mae Camp, Bynum married Minnie Blanton, Sallie Neal married Ralph Early and Monsieur "Monte" Neal married Gertrude Dovie Bowen (see additional article). Nancy Naomi and J. Marion Neal were buried at El Bethel Methodist Church in Kings Mountain.

— Geneva H. Neal
and Elizabeth C. Anthony

MONSIEUR C. and DOVIE BOWEN NEAL

813

Monseieur C. Neal b. Sept. 22, 1878 — d. Mar. 20, 1956 was the son of J. Marion and Nancy Naomi Ware Neal. (see other article).

Monsieur married Gertrude Dovie Bowen b. Feb. 26, 1887 — d. Sept. 26, 1972 daughter of Jacob and Katie Randall Bowen. Her father did masonry work as well as plastering in many of the older homes in the Shelby area. Her mother died when she was young and she had a step-mother that she didn't particularly like. They lived in the Sulfur Springs Area of Cleveland County. Other children in the family were: Lillian, Babe, Maude and several brothers — Jessie North Bowen, Samuel Bowen, Thomas Marshall Bowen, Brodus Bowen, Brack Bowen and Willie T. Bowen. Her grandparents were Samuel and Hannah Bowen.

Monseieur, also, had a hard time growing up. His mother died when he was 10 years old. He was bound out to work for another family for his keep.

"Monte" as he was best known, had a farm on the road between El Bethel and Bethlehem Church. Besides farming, he had a three-storied mill on the creek where he ground corn meal, flour and ginned cotton. He also had a saw mill, where he would do sawing for people. In the fall he operated a cane mill to make molasses. He used a horse to walk and turn the mill. Across the creek he had a country store. This was after World War I. Son Fred remembers adding cotton to the bales after they were ginned so they would weigh more.

He was a short man with a limp, after a run-away horse caused him to break a hip. Although he never held a church office, he was one of the staunch pillars that kept the church going during the depression. He would give the food away from his own table when there was need. The family remembers during the depression of a family wanting to borrow some flour so he gave them all he had and ate corn bread for breakfast himself. He was also thrifty — he had to take insulin for diabetes and the drug store closest sold it for five cents higher than Kings Mountain Drug. So he told the man he would go to the other store and save five cents. The man said, but Mr. Neal you'll have to walk a good distance — he said "well, I haven't got anything else to do anyway." He used to tell about going to the "5 & 10 cent store" and asking to buy ten cents worth of candy. The girl told him that it would be eleven cents. He said that he didn't want eleven cents worth — he only wanted ten cents worth. She said she couldn't do that, so he said — give me two five cents bags and I'll keep my penny.

When he had to take medicine, he would try to get his wife to take some too — he would say, "It'll make you feel better!" She would say "I ain't gonna do it — there ain't nothing wrong with me."

Nothing gave him more happiness than having his grandchildren around. He would have liked to have them there all the time. After automobiles became popular he bought one but never tried for a driver's license. He would drive it on the dirt road where he lived and if he wanted to go anywhere else, he would drive up to the highway and let grandson Bill Anthony take him where he wanted to go.

Dovie was a quiet person, very talented in crochet, knitting, tatting and other forms of needlework, when she was able to do them. Besides raising her children, she raised three grandchildren, after their father J.D. Neal was killed in a plane crash across the field from their house in 1947. Her children went to the old Bethlehem School and later to Bethware High School.

After Monte's death in 1957, Dovie bought a trailer and lived at a daughter's house. She died in 1972 and both of them were buried at El Bethel Church — two courageous people — the type America was made of. Their children and grandchildren are:

1. Marion Hord Neal (b. Jan 14, 1910 — d. 1939) married Cornelia Cox.

2. Katie Naomi Neal (b. June 7, 1911 — d. 7-21-1965) married A.P. Anthony. Their children: Margie married Kenneth Gates; Cornelia "Neely" married Jack Eaker; William Pinkney married Elizabeth Camp; Robert Neal married Joann ; Tony Reid married Charlotte Martin.

3. Jacob Dennis Neal (b. Oct. 25, 1912 — d. June 28, 1947) married Pansey McGee. Their children: Dennis Neal; Rachel L. Neal married Neil Holcomb; Hazel Neal married Bill Watterson.

4. Helen Neal married David R. Hamrick. Their children are: Norma Kay Hamrick married (1) Robert Moore (2) — Doc "Buc" Glasco; Brenda Gail Hamrick married Steve Martin.

5. Fred Ray Neal (b. 6-18-1920) married Geneva Homsely. Their children are: Dianna Neal married Larry F. Allen; Daniel Fred Neal.

6. Fairy Elizabeth Neal (b. May 31, 1922 — d. Feb. 19, 1981) m. Edward Anthony. Their daughter Willie Elizabeth Anthony married Jack Howard.

7. Boyce Dewitt Neal (b. April 29, 1924) married Faye Starnes. Their daughters are: Alice Faye Neal married Henry Hillard; Linda Jane Neal married Craig Yanoudenhagen.

8. Paul Neal (b. Oct. 9, 1932) married Emma Hamrick. Their children are: Valarie, Gregory, Scott, David and Mark.

There are a good number of great-grandchildren at this time and a few great-great-grandchildren. From a farm in Cleveland County, they have gone north to Virginia and Maryland, West to California, Texas and Okinawa, South to South Carolina, Georgia, and Florida. "From a small acorn grows a mighty oak" — so the Neal Family.

— Geneva Neal
and Elizabeth Anthony

Monte and Dovie Bowen Neal

CHARLES EUGENE NEISLER

814

Charles Eugene Neisler, manufacturer, was born in Concord, N.C. on February 3, 1868, son of Joseph Rankin and Margaret Ellen Phillips Neisler and grandson of Joseph and Rachel Shinn Neisler. Neisler was graduated A.B. in 1888 from Gaston College, Dallas, N.C. In 1892, he became superintendent of the Dallas Cotton Mills. He left that post in 1893 to become associated with the Kings Mountain Manufacturing Company in Kings Mountain, N.C., the city's first cotton mill, which was organized in 1888 by Jacob S. Mauney and others. Neisler served as superintendent of the company until 1918. Meanwhile, in 1899, he joined with Samuel A. Mauney in organizing and building the Indian Creek Manufacturing Co. near Lincolnton, N.C. and he was manager of that enterprise until it was sold in 1907. A year later, he built the Pauline Mills, Inc., in Kings Mountain, which was incorporated in 1910, and he served as president and chief executive.

In 1918-19, after the First World War, in association with his sons, Neisler built the Margrace Mills, Inc., for the manufacture of bedspreads and the Patricia Mills, Inc. for the manufacture of napkins.

In 1927, the Pauline, Margrace and Patricia Mills, Inc. were consolidated under the name of Neisler Mills Inc. Neisler served as a member of the Kings Mountain Board of Aldermen, a director of the First National Bank, now First Union, Kings Mountain and Chairman of the City School Board.

His religious affiliation was with the First Presbyterian Church, Kings Mountain, where he served as superintendent of its Sunday School.

He was married to Ida Pauline Mauney, daughter of William Andrew Mauney of Kings Mountain and had eight children: Charles Eugene, Paul Mauney, Joseph Andrew, Hunter Ramseur, Hugh, Margaret Sue Neisler Hunnicutt, Laura Grace Neisler Page, and Ida Pauline Neisler Brewer. Charles E. Neisler died near Bessemer City, N.C. on April 14, 1931.

— Mrs. Charles Neisler

CHARLES EUGENE NEISLER, JR.

815

Charles Eugene Neisler, first child and son of Charles Eugene and Ida Pauline Mauney Neisler, was born in Kings Mountain, N.C. on January 15, 1895. He was educated in the Kings Mountain schools and Davidson College, Davidson, N.C.

He was, upon the death of his father, made president of Neisler Mills, Inc. and later president of Neisler Brothers Inc. after the sale of the Neisler Mills in November, 1955. He was, also, an officer of the Archdale Farms and Mines, located in Cleveland County. He was a member of the First Presbyterian Church, Kings Mountain where he served as ruling elder until his death.

He was married on June 29, 1921 to Myrtle Kathleen Baker. Their only child was Charles Eugene Neisler, III who, on December 27, 1961, married Lucille Terry of Charlotte, N.C.

Neisler died while on a vacation in the Western States on August 19, 1966.

— Mrs. Charles Neisler

HUGH NEISLER

816

Hugh Neisler, fourth son and child of Charles Eugene Neisler, was born on July 11, 1902. He attended Kings Mountain City schools, Davidson College, Davidson, N.C. and the School of Textiles at North Carolina State College, Raleigh, N.C. He was superintendent of the Pauline Mill in the Neisler chain of mills.

Fun loving and a happy bachelor, Hugh Neisler was an active member of the Knights of Pythias, the Civitan Club, Cleveland Springs Golf Club and was an organizer of the Lake Montonia Club, located in Gaston County, serving as secretary and treasurer. While at Davidson College, he was a member of the Kappa Sigma Fraternity. He was a member of the First Presbyterian Church, Kings Mountain, N.C. never married and died on July 19, 1932.

— Mrs. Charles Neisler

THE HUNTER RAMSEUR NEISLER FAMILY

817

Hunter Ramseur Neisler born December 27, 1904 in Kings Mountain was the fifth son of Charles E. and Ida Mauney Neisler. Educated at Davidson College and Philadelphia (Pennsylvania) Textile School, he was an officer and chief designer of Neisler Mills, Kings Mountain.

On October 7, 1931, he married Anne Lutz of Shelby. Their children are Patricia Anne (Mrs. John Oates Plonk) born August 10, 1932, and Hunter Ramseur Neisler, Jr., born December 27, 1940.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Neisler were active in the First Presbyterian Church of Kings Mountain where he was both a deacon and elder. They were also widely involved in the civic and social life of the town until Mr. Neisler's retirement when they moved to Hilton Head Island, South Carolina, where they now live.

— Mrs. John Plonk

THE JOSEPH ANDREW NEISLER FAMILY

818

Joseph Andrew Neisler was born November 10, 1899 in Kings Mountain, North Carolina. He was the third child and the third son of Charles Eugene and Ida Pauline Mauney Neisler.

He was educated in the Kings Mountain School System, Westminster Preparatory School in Rutherford County, and was a member of the Class of 1922 at Davidson College.

Mr. Neisler was employed by Neisler Mills, Incorporated from 1921 until 1955. He served as Secretary of the company until 1955.

He is a member of First Presbyterian Church of Kings Mountain, North Carolina. He served on the Town Council for several terms during the 1930's. Mr. Neisler was a member of the Kiwanis Club and is a Mason.

Mr. Neisler was married to the former Annie Lee Miller of Lincolnton, North Carolina on April 19, 1923. There were five children born to this marriage. The four surviving children are as follows: one daughter, Betty Lee born January 11, 1924; three sons, Joseph Andrew, Jr. born December 13, 1930; Hugh Miller born January 9, 1934 and Robert Preston born August 12, 1936.

Betty Lee was married to Joseph Winston Timberlake, Jr. of Gastonia, North Carolina in 1945. They now make their home at Lake Waccamaw, North Carolina. Their three children are Joseph Winston, III who lives in Richmond, Virginia with his wife Deveron. Robyn who is married to Reverend William Albert Ruth and lives in Graham, North Carolina with their children Vicky and Christy, and Vicky who is married to Garmon Burton, Jr., they make their home on Bald Head Island, North Carolina.

Joseph Andrew, Jr. married the former Marlene Hedrick of Lenoir, North Carolina in 1954. Their four children are Stella Lee who married Gerald Eugene Putnam and lives in Kings Mountain, North Carolina with their daughter Virginia Lee; Joseph Andrew, III who married Kim Latham from Raleigh, North Carolina and now make their home at Lake Waccamaw, North Carolina and daughters, Melissa Marlene of Meredith College, Raleigh, North Carolina and Theresa Anzelett of the home.

Hugh Miller married the former Jane Thompson of Shelby, North Carolina in 1955. They lived in Pageland, South Carolina with their children Hugh Miller, Jr. and Pauline Elizabeth Neisler.

Robert Preston married Nora Jane Deese of Kings Mountain, North Carolina. They also make their home in Pageland, South Carolina with their three sons, Robert Preston, Jr.; Matthew Ramseur and Christopher Edgar Neisler.

Mr. Neisler on his retirement moved to Lake Waccamaw, North Carolina and married Mary Hatcher. They still make their home there.

Mr. Neisler in 1941 purchased a Pre-Revolutionary War home, "Oakland Plantation", the home of General Thomas Brown in Bladen County on the Cape Fear River. He restored the home and uses it as a hunting lodge, entertaining guests from all over the world. He has given much of his time and energy to the betterment of the Wildlife Program of North Carolina.

— Mrs. Joe Neisler, Jr.

THE PAUL MAUNEY NEISLER FAMILY

819

Paul Mauney Neisler, second child and son of Charles Eugene Neisler, was born on December 3, 1897 in Kings Mountain, N.C. He attended public school and Davidson College, Davidson, N.C. He was a lifelong member of the First Presbyterian Church, where he served as Deacon and Chairman of the Building Committee when the present sanctuary was erected in 1934. He married Dicey Kathryn Moss on October 20, 1920. From this union was issued three sons, nine grandsons, one granddaughter, one great-grandson and one great-granddaughter.

Eldest son, Paul Mauney Neisler, Jr. was born February 9, 1922 and was married June 3, 1944 to Joan Alexander of Charlotte, N.C. Second son and eldest twin, Henry Parks Neisler was born September 14, 1927 and was married November 8, 1949 to Marilyn Sue Biggers of Charlotte, N.C. Third son and youngest twin, Charles Andrew Neisler was born September 14, 1927, was married to Mary Virginia Sommers of Charlotte, N.C. on March 31, 1951.

Paul Neisler was Treasurer of Neisler Mills Inc. until its sale in 1955 to Massachusetts Mohair Plush Company. In December of that same year, Neisler and his three sons founded Dicey Mills, Inc. and Dicey Fabrics, Inc. in Shelby, N.C. for the manufacture and sale of upholstery goods. Paul Mauney Neisler died February 6, 1973.

Neisler's grandchildren carry on in the family textile business. Four of his grandsons, Henry Parks Neisler, Jr., George Scott Neisler, father of the one great-granddaughter, Wendy Ann Neisler; William Hayne Neisler and David Carl Neisler are employed by Dicey Mills, Inc. Paul Mauney Neisler, III, father of the great-grandson, Paul Mauney Neisler IV, and Charles Henry Neisler are associated with Elizabeth Weaving Inc., Grover, N.C. with their father, Paul M. Neisler, Jr., whose daughter, Catherine Elizabeth Neisler practices law in Cabarrus County, N.C. Another grandson, Charles Andrew Neisler, Jr. practices law in Cleveland County, N.C. Grandson, Lee Sommers Neisler, student, will follow in his grandfather's and father's footsteps upon graduating from college and, finally, grandson, John Alexander Neisler is employed with the Coca Cola Bottling Company, in San Francisco, California.

— Mrs. Charles Neisler

Alma Wilson Newman, age 16, 1914

ALMA WILSON NEWMAN

820

Alma Wilson Newman was born May 10, 1897 in Cleveland County, North Carolina to James Andrews and Amanda Dover Wilson. She was the eldest of the five Wilson children; the others being Isabell Poston, Annie Weathers, Hackett Wilson and Della Bachmann.

The Wilson family lived so far from a school that a tutor was employed for them until they moved to Shelby. An exceptional student, Alma excelled in English, spelling and history. In June 1914, her senior year in high school, she brought honor to her Shelby High Class by winning the B.H. DePriest gold medal for her essay "Woman." She also won a spelling medal. She wanted to attend college but these dreams were shattered when her mother told her she would have to stay home and help with the large family. Following her graduation from high school she was offered a teaching position "way up" at Double Springs which actually was only a few miles away. Many of her students were older than their sixteen year old teacher but this did not discourage her in the least.

In 1936, Alma started work as Cleveland County's first School Attendance Officer. She served the county, Shelby and Kings Mountain systems, Negro and white schools for 26 years. Mrs. Newman was forbidden by law to lay a hand on truant youngsters, but she coaxed, cajoled and even carried hundreds of them back to school in her own car. Once she "chased" a young lad to the top of "the highest poplar tree I'd ever seen in my life." Sty-mied on the ground, she told him firmly she would meet him the next morning — in his classroom. She was sitting in the room the next morning, and so was he. There was a time in the beginning when her job had little prestige — and cooperation from court officials and school officials was slim. As she approached the end of her twenty-six years in this capacity she had learned that welfare assistance, special education classes, mental health and health department agencies and other community facilities as well as increased emphasis on attendance made the task easier and there was less tendency for truancy. Credit was given to special education classes particularly with "saving" a lot of youngsters who might have otherwise dropped out of school because they couldn't do regular classroom work.

Looking back over her career, she said, "many of the hundreds of boys and girls that I dealt with hated me, but there were many who didn't. Some were scared of me." Miss Alma got a "large charge" when Shelby's current Sheriff, Dale Costner said to her, "Miss Alma you scared me stiff when I was in grammar school." "It thrilled me to pick up a paper and read something good about one of the children I helped back to school and it hurt me just as much to read of one of them being sentenced to prison. I was just trying to help them," she said.

The former Alma Wilson, descendant of a historic Cleveland County family was first married to Jarvis S. Hamrick, son of John C. and Charlotte Harrill Hamrick. They had three children: Sara Lousie, Betty Love and Mary Jarvis, Betty Love's twin sister who died at birth.

On May 13, 1956, Alma Hamrick was married to Clarence Newman of Powell, Wyoming. Mrs. Newman was an active member of First Baptist Church of Shelby, past matron of Eastern Star, past regent of Benjamin Cleveland Chapter of Daughters of American Revolution, senior president of the Susan Twitty Society of the CAR and a member of the Cleveland Guards chapter of UDC. She worked closely with school children in another field too — the writing of American history essays for contests and the organization of Junior American Citizens clubs. She was a charter member of Cleveland County Historical Society.

Due to declining health in March of 1968, Alma and Clarence Newman moved to Charlotte to live with the oldest daughter, Sara Louise. Betty Love and her husband N.J. Melton also live in Charlotte. They have a daughter, Mary Elizabeth, who lives in Greensboro, N.C. Their son Joseph Hamrick lives in Charlotte.

Alma Newman was a member of Commonwealth Baptist Church in Charlotte, North Carolina. She maintained her interest in her church, family history and love of people. Genealogical research was her hobby.

Her husband died November 22, 1978 and she died November 10, 1977 and they are buried in Cleveland Memorial Park, Shelby, North Carolina.

Sources: Family records, personal knowledge and personal papers.

— Sara L. Hamrick

ANDY BRYSON NEWTON FAMILY

821

Andy Bryson Newton was the son of William Benny and Eliza Catherine Downs Newton. When he was a small boy, Bryson had the misfortune of having most of one foot cut off by an axe. While his family was cutting wood, he placed his foot on a log that was being chopped and his brother cut it off. His mother saved him from bleeding to death by applying a tourniquet on his leg and letting off on it, off and on while they traveled four miles to see a doctor with a mule and buggy. When Bryson grew up his parents wanted him to have more education. They took him to Piedmont Boarding School in Lawndale, North Carolina. He always laughed about how he went through that school; because he only stayed one night and returned home. Later he married Evie Luckadoo. They were married in 1925 at Casar, by Cullen Hull, Justice of the Peace and witnessed by W.N. Newton and C.F. Downs.

Bryson and Evie had five children with only three surviving. Eliza Pauline Newton married Amos Earl Pruett the son of Edgar and Stella Pruett; Ruby Lee Newton married Sidney A. Mauney, then later got a divorce, she is not married at present.; Wayne Adam Newton married (1) Maxine Black, with two children. (2) Malinda Fryer, also with two children, and also divorced of present date 1982. There were two sons died in infancy.

Margeret Evie Luckadoo Newton died July 8, 1945. She was buried in New Home Methodist Church Cemetery.

After the death of his first wife, Bryson married a second time to Dessie Brackett Carpenter, widow of Clyde Carpenter. There were no children born to this marriage.

Due to his handicap Bryson was unable to follow a mule and plow a crop like most of his brothers, he learned the trade of automobile mechanics. Bryson moved his family from the old home place on No-Business Creek to Casar about 1930. He worked for Frank Morrison Sr. for a while. Then he and his cousin Acie Downs rented shops from different people in Casar. Two of those were Ausney Hoyle and Clyde Warlick. About 1940 Bryson bought land from Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Wortman and built his own garage. He operated this garage until December 1947 when he had a heart attack and died while working. This building is still standing in Casar today.

Andy Bryson was buried in New Home Methodist Church Cemetery, beside his first wife.

— Pauline Newton Pruett

CAPTAIN BENJAMIN NEWTON

822

Benjamin Newton was the oldest son of Ebenezer and Elizabeth Buchanan Newton, born February 3, 1748 in York County, Pennsylvania. Benjamin Newton's mother was a sister to James Buchanan Sr., the father of President James Buchanan, Jr. Before her marriage to Ebenezer Newton, she was Elizabeth Buchanan, daughter of John and Jane Russell Buchanan.

Elizabeth Buchanan Newton was President James Buchanan's aunt, and therefore her son Benjamin was a first cousin to President James Buchanan.

Benjamin Newton's father, Ebenezer Newton, came to North Carolina about 1767, when Benjamin was about nineteen years old. They probably settled first in Orange County, North Carolina along with the John McCall family. Here he married Nancy McCall, daughter of John McCall.

Soon after his marriage, he settled on the South Fork of the Catawba River in Tryon County. Which, in 1779, was divided by the Legislature to form Lincoln and Rutherford Counties.

While residing here, he entered the service of the Army of the American Revolution in 1776 and served as Lieutenant in Captain John Mattock's Company, Colonel William Graham's Regiment.

In 1778, he served as ensign in Captain Jack's Company in the regiment commanded by Colonel Dudley of Virginia. He also served in Colonel Reed's Regiment; and then in the Regiment commanded by Colonel Marshall of South Carolina.

In 1780 he served under Major Harris in the North Carolina Troops, and was in an engagement at Hawfield in Orange County. In 1781 he served in Captain John Clark's North Carolina Company, and was in an engagement at Polk's Mill in which he was wounded in the thigh by a British ball. It was in 1781 that he was appointed Captain and served with this rank until the close of the War in 1783, amounting in all to two years as Captain.

Benjamin Newton on January 24, 1775, married Nancy McCall, who was born January 22, 1760 at the home of her father, John McCall in Orange County, North Carolina about Seven Miles from the Town of Hillsborough (Hillsboro). It was about the year 1802 that Benjamin Newton moved into Rutherford County, that part which is today Cleveland County, and settled on the waters of Crooked Run Creek. This place of settlement was within one mile of the present site of Casar, in the Clover Hill Church Community. It is thought to have been on the John H. Magness place or either the Cicero Queen place, for many good springs could have been found then between the two places. Both are old, well established places.

Captain Benjamin and Nancy McCall Newton were the parents of thirteen children: They are listed in order according to the way they were listed on his application for pension filed in 1832, with the Veterans Administration, Washington 25, D.C. for service rendered in

Remember . . .

Articles
Are Indexed
By
Article Numbers
. . . Not By
Page
Number

the Army of the American Revolution as a soldier.

Their children are as follows: Jane, born January 17, 1777 married a Queen; Elizabeth (Betsey), born November 27, 1778, married W.M. McGlamery; Ebenezer, born November 22, 1780, married Elizabeth Rucker; Patience (Patsy), born September 4, 1783, married Hampton; Mary (Polly) born July 2, 1785; John McCall, born October 4, 1787, married Jane Erwood; Margaret (Peggy), born October 19, 1789, married Robert Goins; Benjamin Jr., born September 28, 1791, married Fanny Crowder; George, born July 27, 1793 married Martha Rucker; Nancy McCall, born September 22, 1795, married (1st) Daniel Goins, (2nd), John Queen; Cynthia, born February 12, 1798, married a Lewis; Calvin, born September 4, 1801; John, born May 20, 1810.

Back in the days before the establishment of churches, people would gather together and have what was called Camp Meetings. It was on this man's land that one of the first Camp meeting grounds was held. The people would come in buggies and covered wagons or horse back to this site, and bring their food and clothing and camp for one or more weeks at the time, while these religious services were being held. They would cook on open fires and sleep on the ground or in wagons. They must have had a glorious time in the Lord for them to have made these sacrifices to worship. Many of the young boys and girls probably met their sweethearts at these meetings. It is believed that from some of these meetings is how the Clover Hill Church was formed. It is thought to be one of the oldest Methodist Churches in that community.

It is a known fact that quite a few of Captain Benjamin's children married and remained in Cleveland County. Most of the Newtons in upper Cleveland County are direct descendants of this Captain Benjamin and Nancy McCall Newton.

Sources: War Records, Dr. Posey Downs' Book of Genealogy on Newton & Downs.

— Pauline N. Pruett

BENJAMIN O. NEWTON FAMILY

823

Benjamin O. Newton was the fourth child of George and Martha Rucker Newton. Benjamin O. was born in 1825 in Rutherford County, North Carolina, now Cleveland County. He married Mahalia Proctor, born 1826, the daughter of William and Elizabeth Melton Proctor.

To this union were born eight children: Dailcenla Arminda Newton married Owen C. London; Martha Newton married David Crotts; Oliver Newton died while rather young; Barbara Newton married William Winfield (Bud) Hardin; Robert A. Newton married Annie Gantt; Calvin Newton married Mary Crotts; William (Benny) Newton married Eliza Catherine Downs; Mahala Catherine Newton married David S. Downs.

Benjamin O. Newton enlisted in the Army of the Confederate States of America as a member of Company F. 55th North Carolina Infantry. He was with General Robert E. Lee in his campaigns around Richmond, Virginia, and was wounded while so engaged, losing two fingers from one hand and a bullet wound in one leg, which necessitated his spending some time in the Confederate States of America Hospital in Richmond to cure the gangrene which developed from the wound in his leg.

John ("One Legged John") A. Newton, a first cousin of Benjamin O. Newton, who had lost one leg in the Battle of Gettysburg by wounds, and Silas Proctor, a Brother-in-Law of Benjamin O. Newton, went with Mahala Proctor Newton to visit her husband in the hospital. They had to travel by mule and buggy to Clover, South Carolina so they could catch a train going to Virginia. When Benjamin O. was able to leave the hospital, he was given a furlough to come home, and was at home on his only such furlough when General Lee surrendered to General Grant at Appomattox, Virginia.

Benjamin O. and his wife Mahala later bought a farm on the waters of No-Business Creek in the upper part of Cleveland County. This farm was about one mile north of New Home Methodist Church, which is about four miles west of Casar, North Carolina. Here they lived and farmed until the death of Benjamin O. Newton. Mahala stayed on and tried to raise her family the best she could. Times were hard and rough in those days especially for a widow with a family. Benjamin O. and Mahala Proctor Newton are both buried in Clover Hill Methodist Church Cemetery.

— Pauline Newton Pruett

EBENEZER NEWTON

824

Ebenezer and Elizabeth Buchanan came to North Carolina from York County, Pennsylvania in 1767. They are of particular interest as the parents of Capt. Benjamin Newton and wife Nancy McCall Newton who founded a large family in northern Cleveland County.

Ebenezer is thought to have been born in New England, a son to John or Jessee (of Connecticut) of the Susquehanna Land Company in Pennsylvania. An Ebenezer Newton brought a suit against the company in 1788 which was dismissed. The will of Ebenezer (born 1725, died 1812) and the Ebenezer of our articles states "and if my suit is settled."

Ebenezer and Elizabeth lived in Shrewsbury

Township, York County, Pennsylvania before coming to North Carolina.

The children of Ebenezer and Elizabeth Newton were: Capt. Benjamin, 1748-1855; Ebenezer, Jr., born 1761; Martheu, born 1760; Rev. John, 1759-1797; Rev. Thomas, 1764-1843; Rev. George, 1765-1840; William, 1757-1824, married first cousin, Margaret Buchanan daughter of William; Martheu Newton married Thomas Buchanan, son of William (died 1764) and lived in Rutherford County, North Carolina.

The Newton, Buchanan, and McCall families were associated and related in York County, Pennsylvania. Capt. Benjamin Newton and his brother, Rev. George Newton, both married daughters of John McCall. There are statements in York County Historical materials that the Newton and McCall families came to North Carolina together. Gwinston Presbyterian Church records, York County, Pennsylvania state that the McCalls and Newtons lived at Hopewell, and that some Newtons lived at Shrewsbury. These are located in southern York County.

Capt. Benjamin Newton, born February 3, 1748, York County, Pennsylvania, married on January 24, 1775 to Nancy McCall, born January 22, 1760. They moved to upper Cleveland County near Casar about 1802. Capt. Benjamin Newton served in the Army of the American Revolution from 1776 to 1783. He was appointed Captain in 1781. He died February 20, 1835. Nancy McCall Newton died May 12, 1845. They are buried in the Old Clover Hill Methodist Church Cemetery, Casar, North Carolina.

The children of Capt. Benjamin Newton and Nancy McCall Newton were: Jane Newton, born January 17, 1777, who married a Queen; Elizabeth Newton (Betsey), born November 27, 1778, who married a McGlamery; Ebenezer Newton, born November 22, 1780, who married Elizabeth Rucker; Patsy Newton, born September 4, 1783; Mary Newton, born July 2, 1785; John McCall Newton, born October 4, 1787, married Jenny Erwood (possibly Arrowood); Margaret Newton, born October 19, 1789; Benjamin Newton, Jr., born September 28, 1791, married on January 7, 1817 to Fanny Crowder; George Newton, born July 27, 1793, married on February 5, 1814 to Martha Rucker; Cynthia Newton, born February 12, 179-; and Calvin Newton, born September 4, 1804.

So far as is known, all the children of Ebenezer and Elizabeth Buchanan Newton came to North Carolina. The three sons who were ministers are thought to have been Presbyterian, and one of them served in the Swanao, North Carolina area. The Newtons were members of the Presbyterian Church in Pennsylvania.

— Elizabeth S. Cofer

EBENEZER NEWTON FAMILY

825

One of the earliest of the Newton Ancestors to come into this part of the country, was Ebenezer Newton, born ca. 1730 and died April 29, 1812 in Rutherford County, North Carolina. He was married in 1747, to Elizabeth Buchanan, born ca. 1730 in Pennsylvania, died 1821 in Rutherford County. Elizabeth Buchanan was the daughter of John and Jane Russell Buchanan. Elizabeth was a sister to James Buchanan Sr. the father of President James Buchanan.

Ebenezer Newton lived in Shrewsbury Township of York County, Pennsylvania. He came to North Carolina about 1767 with his family and settled in Mecklenburg County. He bought land on both sides of Sugaw Creek amounting to about 243 acres. He sold this land for a considerable profit. He was a farmer and bought and sold a considerable amount of land.

There was no other record of them until 1777, when they bought land in the Tuckaseegee Ford area of the Catawba River in Tryon County, now Gaston County. The John McCall family also settled in this area. The Newtons and McCalls were neighbors in Pennsylvania.

Two of Ebenezer Newton's sons married John McCall's daughters. Benjamin married Nancy McCall and George married Mary (Polly) McCall.

According to record's of the Daughter's of the American Revolution; Ebenezer Newton was a patriot during the Revolutionary War. He supplied the militia of North Carolina, Virginia and South Carolina with provisions on a number of occasions. Three certified copies of manuscripts from the archives of North Carolina show proof of aid; from Tryon County, North Carolina.

Ebenezer and Elizabeth had seven children: Benjamin Newton born February 3, 1748 married Nancy McCall; William Newton born ca. 1757 married Margaret Buchanan; Reverend John Newton born February 20, 1759 married Catherine Lawrence; Martha Newton born ca. 1760 married (1) Ellender Rutherford (2) Thomas Buchanan; Ebenezer Newton Jr. born ca. 1761 married Rachel Rutherford; Reverend Thomas Newton born December 12, 1763 married Ann Martin (Martyn); Reverend George Newton born 1765 married (1) Mary (Polly) McCall (2) Anne ? (3) Helen Martin (Widow Martin) McCall.

In 1799 he came to Rutherford County and bought land located on Maple Creek near Isaac Whites land. Ebenezer owned land on both Maple and Knob Creeks. He paid 50 shillings for over 100 acres of land. Here he remained until his death. Several of his children remained in what is now Cleveland County and reared their families.

In his will he left the bulk of his estate to his wife, Elizabeth Newton.

Ebenezer Newton died April 29, 1812. His wife Elizabeth Buchanan Newton died in the year 1821.

Sources: Magna Carta Dames. Deeds, Will and Census.

— Pauline N. Pruett

GEORGE NEWTON FAMILY

826

George Newton was the ninth child of Benjamin and Nancy McCall Newton. He was born in 1791, in probably Old Tryon County, North Carolina, where his father settled soon after his marriage. He came to Rutherford County in the early part of the eighteen hundreds with his family.

George married Martha (Mattie) Rucker, February 5, 1814, with Ebenezer Newton, his brother as bondsman and Robert Wells as a witness.

George and Martha Newton were the parents of seven children: William Newton married Rody (Rodia) Newton; Ebenezer (Eben) Newton married Rebecca Eliza Canipe; Ebenezer Newton enlisted in the Army of the Southern Confederacy of America on October 20, 1863, and was taken prisoner, June 17, 1864. It has always been presumed that this Ebenezer Newton died while in prison for he never returned. He and his wife had no children. Elizabeth Newton never married; Benjamin O. Newton married Mahala Proctor; Jerushia Newton married George S. Newton on August 8, 1851; Martha Newton never married; Oliver Newton died when only a teen age boy from exhaustion, it was thought, as result of chasing a calf, trying to get the calf back into the place where it belonged.

Not too much else is known of this George and Martha Rucker Newton except they remained in the same territory as his Father Benjamin. He was listed in the first census records taken of Cleveland County in 1850: George Newton age 65 years. Martha Age 55 years; daughters Elizabeth age 30 years, Russia age 23 years, Martha age 20 years.

George was listed as a farmer and his real estate at $400 dollars. George and Martha are buried in the Clover Hill Church cemetery near Casar and were probably some of the early members that helped organized the Church.

Sources: Dr. Posey Downs' Book of Genealogy (Newton & Downs)

— Pauline Newton Pruett

WILLIAM (BENNY) BENJAMIN NEWTON FAMILY

827

William Benny Newton was the seventh child of Benjamin O. and Mahala Proctor Newton. Benny was a young boy when his father died, and he grew up helping his mother on the family farm.

There was an incident in his life when about twelve years old for some unknown reason, the Ku Klux Klan came riding up to their home. They were hollowing and shouting and carrying lighted torches. This frightened Benny, and he ran back into the house, grabbed his father's shotgun, loaded it and came out pointing it at those people. They turned and left, and after they were gone he realized he had only one shell, and it was in the gun.

William Benny Benjamin Newton married Eliza Catherine Downs, the daughter of Louis S. and Sarah Wortman Downs. They were the parents of ten children: (1) Ada Newton married Carlo Newton. (2) William Nolan Newton married Zula Wall. (3) Vester S. Newton married Eliza Turner. (4) Melvin Cleatus Newton died in his early teen age with what was presumably an attack of appendicitis. There was no hospital at that time nearer than Charlotte, North Carolina and there was no way to get there in time. (5) Robert E. Newton married Elva Wall a sister to Zula Wall the wife of his brother, Nolan. (6) Clarence Lee Newton married (1) Celeta Stimson, they lived in Norfolk, Virginia and also San Diego, California. (2) Clarence Lee married Hazel P. Sanders. (7) Andy Bryson Newton married (1) Evie Luckadoo (2) Dessie Brackett Carpenter. (8) Dora Elizabeth Newton never married. (9) Bessie Newton married Jessie Davis. (10) Freddy Benny Newton married Elsie Fortenberry.

After their marriage, William Benny and Eliza Newton, lived on in the house with Mahala Newton his mother for some time. Later he built a home for himself and his family on top of the hill above the old home place.

We remember as children going to Grandfather Newton's to visit. They would let us children help carry water in an eight pound lard bucket from this spring. The spring was at least three tenths of a mile down a very steep hill, then we children would have to carry the water all the way back up the hill.

Grandmother would take her laundry down to the spring to wash. There she had a big black iron wash pot in which to boil the clothes. She also had a large block of wood and a battling board to beat the dirt out of the clothes.

We remember she kept her milk and butter in the spring house in a stream of water that ran through it. They had an old fashion molasses mill near the spring also. The pasture for the cattle was made of old split logs for a rail fence.

In the early days there were no radios or t.v.'s so the women would sit by the fire and piece quilts, crotchet or do embroider scarfs and pillow cases with only a kerosene lamp for light.

Eliza Catherine Downs Newton died August 1937.

William Benny Newton died April 1946. They are both buried in Clover Hill Methodist Church Cemetery.

— Pauline Newton Pruett

ROBERT EUMENUS and ELLIE WILBURN NICHOLS FAMILY

828

Robert Eumenus Nichols (February 14, 1871 — January 16, 1943) was the son of Rufus Nichols (1840-1922), Civil War soldier, and Naomi C. Mullinax (February 7, 1847 — November 23, 1898), organist and organ teacher.

Robert Eumenus Nichols was a section foreman on the Southern Railroad for many years, retiring in 1938. On April 23, 1891 at "1½ o'clock P.M." he married Ellen (Ellie) Keron Wilburn (June 30, 1872 — October 11, 1935), daughter of Hiram Wilburn (November 18, 1807 — December 23, 1895), a descendant of John Wellborn who came to Jamestown, Virginia in 1610, and Mary Ellen Robinson Wilburn (September 30, 1830 — January 31, 1887). Ellie Wilburn Nichols was superintendent of the Cradle Roll Department at New Robert Eumenus and Ellie Wilburn Nichols with baby Wilburn Caldwell.

(September 10, 1943 —), all of Asheville. Linda has a daughter, Teresa Faye Adams (January 20, 1963 —).

Robert Landrum was educated at North Carolina State University, majoring in electrical engineering, and was assistant manager of the Shelby Branch of Duke Power Company for many years, retiring from the company in 1966 after 38 years service. He was a deacon and Sunday School teacher at New Hope Baptist Church in Earl, North Carolina. On June 7, 1926 in Atlanta, Georgia, R.L. married Pinkie Alpha Jones (May 2, 1899 — July 12, 1981), the daughter of Benjamin Franklin and Dovie Towery Jones. She was a teacher in the Cleveland County Schools, and an active member of New Hope Baptist Church, serving as pianist and organist for over 50 years. R.L. and Pinkie Nichols had one daughter, Doris Jean, who married Thomas Bostick Austell.

Sources: Family Bible, Conversation with family members, Welborn-Wilburn History-Genealogy

— Doris Nichols Austell

THE WILLIAM BENJAMIN NIX FAMILY

829

W.B. Nix was born December 3, 1854 in Hampton County, South Carolina. He was the son of John W. Nix and Martha Smart.

W.B. spent some time in Denver, Colorado, working in the law office of Nix (his brother), Pratt and Norlan. During that time he joined the "land rush" west and was able to secure a section of land. There were two ladies in the group who were not so fortunate, so he gave them his section.

Around 1885 he moved to Shelby where he picked up the name "Golly Nix" among his closest friends, because when Hattie Lattimore first saw him, she exclaimed, "Golly, what a man!" He established the Nix Company with his brother Abner. Since W.B. was quite large and Abner was quite small, they were known as "Big Nix and Little Nix." Their store was on the square. Abner sold his interest to A.V. Wray in 1911 and the store was called Wray-Nix. Soon W.B. sold A.V. his interest and established the W.B. Nix General Merchandise Store a block north of Wray-Nix. At one time this was the Nix-Lattimore (Tom Lattimore, Hattie's brother); then still later it became the W.B. Nix Company.

W.B. and Hattie Lattimore were married September 5, 1894 at the First Baptist Church in Shelby. Hattie helped at the store some while keeping house. All her life she called W.B. "Mr. Nix," except at home where he was always "Honey." In 1885 Mr. Nix bought four thousand square feet of land on the four hundred block of North Morgan Street from W.H. Strickland. They built a house in the corner of this land and this is where both their children (Lucile, July 13, 1896, and Rosalynd, May 28, 1904) were born. (See Cecil Lee Gilliatt Family)

Hattie Lattimore Nix (June 23, 1872) was a civic, social, and Christian leader in Shelby. She graduated from the Shelby Female College around 1895, in the same class with Dr. Delia Dixon Carroll.

Hope Baptist Church in Earl, North Carolina for many years.

To Robert E. and Ellie Wilburn Nichols eight children were born: two infants who died at birth, Joe Maxwell (April 30, 1897 — November 9, 1907), Vera Cathleen (May 15, 1895 — May 30, 1896), Wilburn Caldwell (August 12, 1893 — January 12, 1962), Robert Landrum (October 9, 1901 — July 2, 1968), Aubrey Leon (December 29, 1903 — June 13, 1961), and John Hervey (December 4, 1906 — February 22, 1951).

Wilburn was a Certified Public Accountant in Wilmington, North Carolina. He married Adah Bell Campbell on December 25, 1913 and they had one daughter, Helen Wilburn (July 5, 1915 —), who married John Henry Fussell, Jr. (July 25, 1915 —). They live in Blowing Rock, North Carolina.

Aubrey married Bert Watson Smith on November 19, 1932 in Fayetteville, North Carolina. Aubrey was a florist and restaurant owner in Fayetteville.

Hervey married Clara Shadel on December 24, 1932 in Frackville, Pennsylvania. A graduate of North Carolina State University, Hervey was an electrical engineer in Asheville, North Carolina. He and Clara had three daughters: Blanche Evelyn (March 8, 1934 —), Barbara Ellen (July 27, 1937 —), and Linda Faye Robert Landrum Nichols, 1901-1968.

Pinkie Jones Nichols

William B. Nix, 1854-1939

Hattie Lattimore Nix, 1871-1938

She and Mr. Nix were active members of the First Baptist Church where Hattie taught a Sunday School class and played the organ at church — as well as being a leader in the Woman's Missionary Union. She was exceptionally talented in some several ways (which she did not pass on to either daughter); she played the piano, organ and violin and could get music out of just about any instrument; she excelled in handwork such as crocheting, embroidery, cut work, and dress making. Another talent she enjoyed was art; she did burned-wood work and painted in watercolor and oil media. Her friends thought her paintings were quite good. An acquaintance, after having many kind things to say about some cats she had painted, asked where she had studied. When Hattie said she had never had an art lesson in her life, the lady cocked her head, studied a minute and said, "Those cats do look wild around their eyes."

She was an early member of the Chicora Literary Club, and a charter member of the Cecilia Music Club (1913). She was often secretary, and her minutes were enjoyed because of her poetic form of writing. She was one of the organizers of the Civic League which later became the Shelby Woman's Club. For many years she served on the Shelby Library Board. She was on the first Board of Directors of the Cleveland County Memorial Hospital. While serving on this board, she formed a close friendship with Miss Ella McNichols. This friendship was meaningful to her the rest of her life.

Lucile (July 13, 1897), their first daughter, was the first grandchild of the Tom D. Lattimores and the only one for seven years — need more be said? She outgrew it though! She finished Shelby High School in 1911 and attended Meredith College for one year. After that she secured a teacher's certificate and taught, with the exception of one year when she clerked at Gilliat Florist, until she was 65. She taught in several schools in the Cleveland County system as well as in the Shelby City Schools.

Lucile was an active member of the First Baptist Church. She worked in every phase of the Woman's Missionary Union and taught Sunday School or was superintendent of a department until she had to retire because of poor health. She was an active member of the Business and Professional Women and the Evening Division of the Woman's Club. She now resides in the Fair Haven Home in Forest City.

Rosalynd, the younger daughter, was born May 28, 1904 (see Cecil Gilliat Family for a report on her).

W.B. Nix died July 28, 1939 and Hattie Nix died March 28, 1938. Both are buried in Sunset Cemetery.

Sources: Family Bible Recorded Deeds, Minutes of Clubs

— Rosalynd Nix Gilliat

THE WILLIAM ARTHUR NOBLITT FAMILY

830

The name Noblitt with it's varying spellings (Noblit, Noblitt, Noblet, Noblett, Noblette De Noblette) means "noble": noble in physique, in character, or noble of title.

Most of the male Noblitt's have outstanding physical characteristics. They have: a ruddy complexion, piercing brown eyes, thick hair with a Cupid's bow on the forehead, no balding or receding hairline, a large nose, and protruding ears. In the younger boys the ears are an embarrassment, but with maturity they become a proud distinctive family characteristic.

William Arthur (called Arthur) Noblitt was one of those men with most of the distinctive features that go with the name. Arthur was born near Forest City, N.C., as were his brother, Roy Lee (1901-1969), and sisters, Viola Smoot (1905-), High Point, N.C. and Pauline Henson, (1915-), Forest City, N.C.

He was an eighth generation son of the Noblitts in America: John (late 1700's-1748) and Ann: William (1740-1788), and Catherine; John and Mary Brown; William and Sarah McCaslin; Martin (1824-1899), and Sarah; William Riley and Arabella Sisk (1843-1880); Thomas Leonard, (1874-1952) and Nettie Vassey; and William Arthur, (1907-1956); and Pearl Weast and Beulah Philbeck.

The centuries were not easy on the Noblitts. They were living in France, England, and Ireland in the twelfth century. Being Huguenots, they were persecuted in France until things came to a climax the 24th of August, 1572, with the massacre of St. Bartholomew. Before then many of the Huguenots had escaped to Wales, Ireland, England and other parts.

In the year 1681 and following, William Penn sent letters and pamphlets to Quakers in England, Scotland, and Ireland, extending to them a welcome to his new settlement in Pennsylvania. Some time prior to 1729, the first Noblitts accepted the invitation. They came from Ireland to Pennsylvania.

They were sometimes disowned by their church for marrying their choice of a spouse. (William and Catherine, the first into North Carolina). They were disowned by the Quaker Friends by fighting for their country. There have been Noblitts in every war in which America had a part.

Arthur served a time in the army prior to World War II. He was in Company K, 21st Infantry and spent most of his time in Hawaii. He enlisted while the family lived at Cooleemee, N.C., following the textile trade. When he was dismissed they had moved to Cleveland County where he met and married his first wife, Pearl Weast (youngest daughter of Charlie and Linda Adams Weast).

When their only child, Nancy Jenell Noblitt (1933) was five years old, her mother died (Beaver Dam Baptist Church).

Two years later, 1941, Arthur married Beulah Philbeck. World War II was looming. Arthur went to Wilmington, N.C. and spent the next four years building liberty boats.

Their oldest son, William Thomas, (1945), was born about the end of the war. Ann, (1948), was born three years later.

After the war, Arthur worked with S.H. Philbeck, his father-in-law. They operated Philbeck's Grocery Store at Mooresboro. Then Arthur operated the Esso (Exxon) Station at Swainsville, west of Shelby, until his untimely illness and death in 1956 (Pleasant Ridge Baptist Church). William Thomas and Ann were eleven and eight years old at that time.

After Arthur's death, Beulah Noblitt quit her textile job and went to Gardner Webb and Limestone Colleges and earned a teachers degree. she taught several years in the Cleveland County School System, before her retirement. In 1978 she married Robert Lee Ridings of Shelby. They reside on Route 4, Shelby.

Jenell Noblitt married Billy Wayne Dishmon (1933-1973), Charlotte. They have three daughters; Debbie Spivey (Dwayne) of Cherryville; Wendy (1970), and Dawn (1972) of the home at Shelby, N.C.

William Thomas Noblitt went through the Vietnam conflict (B. Battery 9th Artillery) and settled in Palmdale, California. He is an auto mechanic.

Ann Noblitt married Robert E. Wright (div.). She lives on Route 2, Grover, N.C. They have two sons: Robery Lee Wright (1970) and Christopher Scott Wright (1974). Ann teaches school in Cleveland County school system.

There is one great-grandchild, Amber La Chelle Spivey. She is twenty-one months old.

S.H. Philbeck always said that Arthur was the only person whom he would rather have keep his money than for himself to keep it. Arthur was that honest with everyone in all his dealings.

The family remind each other from time to time of Arthur's admonition, "Learn to stand on your own two feet."

Sources: Military service records, U.S. Census records, family Bible, personal knowledge, and a book on our family history.

— Beulah Ridings

ANDERSON NOLAN

831

Anderson Nolan, born Nov. 3, 1834, d. March 6, 1926, married Sara R. Crowder, b. Dec. 13, 1844, d. May 9, 1917. They both are buried at the Bethel Baptist Church in Cleveland County.

To this union were born 3 children; John Beam Nolan (1869-1945) who married Della McBrayer; Amelia Octavia (1861-1942), who married A.P. Weathers; and Florence Jane (1877-1940) who married Virgil A. Gardner.

Anderson Nolan died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. A.P. Weathers, at the age of 91 years. He was a confederate soldier and marched at the head of Company F, 56th Regiment, Ransom's Brigade, carrying the confederate colors. He was wounded in the thigh in a skirmish at Plymouth, North Carolina. After the war, he lived near Lawndale where he farmed.

In his obituary from "The Cleveland Star" of March 8, 1926, it read: "Mr. Nolan was a man of powerful physique, strong, religious convictions and alert mind. His recollection of the past was most vivid and he talked with much interest of the trying days of the 1860's during the Civil War. His bible was his daily companion and he read the New Testament through 8 times." He was discharged from the Army in Columbus, Ga. and walked home or caught a ride on a wagon to his home in Fallston.

Sources: Family

— Henry Lee Weathers, Sr.

THOMAS NORMAN, SR.

832

Thomas Norman, Sr. had land in parcels and large tracts near and around Buffalo Creek in Cleveland County, which was, in 1769, part of Tryon County then becoming Lincoln County. This land was purchased with English pounds. This became later a part of Cleveland County.

Thomas Norman, Jr.'s (son of Thomas Sr.) will and last testament handwritten in Cleveland County in the courthouse Superior Court Registry, registered in 1852 and executed in 1854. He left his plantation to his beloved wife, Jane. At her death, or if she should remarry it would go to his sons, James and Robert. Other gifts were to his daughters, Willa, Mary and Sally.

James Norman, son of Thomas Jr., left his plantation to his six sons, Alexander, Hose, Pinkney, Max, Tom and Frank Eli. Frank Eli buying out his brothers and keeping most of Thomas Jr.'s share of land together. Some of his children are still living on parcels of this track in Cleveland County.

Frank Eli was born June 16, 1862, died December 29, 1935. He was buried in Knob Creek Church cemetery. He married Martha Louise Queen in 1884. She was born in 1868 and died in 1956 at the age of ninety-seven. She was the daughter of Joe and Margaret Cook Queen. To this union were born twelve children, eight girls and four boys as follows: Lawrence Lorance (deceased), Clemie Frances (deceased), Lona Esther, Lovie Lou Ella, Maggie Jane, Myrtle Mae, Ethel Bryte, Fannie Belle, Minnie Rosalee, Ambrose Franklin, Odus James, and an infant daughter who died at birth in 1918.

Lawrence Norman was born January 10, 1885, died August 1957. He was married to Lola Ledford and they had five children: Emmitt, Selma, Carl, Loy and Amos.

Clemie Norman was married to Bessie Lowery and the following children were born to this union: Clayton, Mamie, Malvin and John Henry.

Lona Norman married Clarence Ledford and their children were: Hoyte, Mattie Lee (Mrs. Dwight Wright), Wendall, Clarence Jr., Ruth (Mrs. J.B. Hastings), Harris and Harold (twins). Harold was drowned during the flood of 1939. Lovie Norman married Walter M. Chapman. They had two children: Maggie Myrr (Mrs. Jethro Hoyle), Ruby (Mrs. Lloyd Ivester).

Maggie Norman married Ambrose Jeffers and had three children: Warren, John Frank and Dwight. Myrtle Norman married Jack O'Brien and to this union were born two children: John N., and James (Jimmy). Ethel Norman married Evoy Lutz and their children were: Charles, Jean Ann (Mrs. Ben Privett) and Thomas. Fannie Belle Norman married Bynum B. Chapman and they had one son: Leon. Minnie Norman married Burgan Grigg and their children were: Pauline (Mrs. Frank Lattimore), Helen (Mrs. J.L. Carroll), Myrtle Mae (Mrs. John Sparks), Burgan, Jr. Ambrose Norman married Pauline Leatherman and they have one adopted son, Amon.

Odus Norman married Lucy Sam. To this union were born ten children: Gene Granklin, Sibyl (Mrs. Robert L. Poole), Sherrill Fletchel, Janice (Mrs. Lee Roper), Milba, Joe, Frances (Mrs. David Pittman), Stanley, Anita and Patricia "Pixy" (Mrs. Derex Owens).

Sources: Court records; personal knowledge.

— Mrs. Bynum (Fannie Bell) Chapman

THOMAS LEROY and IDA MARY McSWAIN OATES

833

Ida Mary McSwain was born in Number Three Township, Cleveland County, N.C. on September 11, 1901. She was the daughter of LeRoy Wellington and Maggie Delean Rippy. She attended Number 3 School. She was baptized into New Hope Baptist Church August 13, 1916.

Thomas LeRoy Oates also of Cleveland County was born December 11, 1890 the son of John James Oates and Cornelia Josephine Rohm. Cornelia was the daughter of Isaac Rohm and Sarah Cook from Number 5 Township Muddy Fork. Isaac was a confederate soldier from Cleveland County. He never returned to his wife and five children after the war. Isaac died in Maryland April 1, 1865.

John James Oates was originally from the Pisgah A.R.P. Church section of Gaston County and was a member of that church. He and Cornelia moved to the Park Yarn Mill near Kings Mountain, N.C. He tended the gardens and horses for the mill. Grandpa John only had one arm. He lost the other while running a girl's bonnet through a molasses mill. The Oates and Josie Dover McSwain, the wife of Ezra, were neighbors at Park Yarn before her marriage.

In November 1818 Ida McSwain was visiting Josie and Ezra McSwain. Thomas Oates was on leave from the military due to the death of his sister, Amanda Moss, (the mother of the current Mayor of Kings Mountain). By the time he had reached Kings Mountain from Camp Sevier they had already taken Mandy to the cemetery. Josie saw Tom and asked him in. She introduced Tom to Ida. They courted for a year. Tom would catch the train to Earl Station and walk to the McSwain house about a mile away. They were married November 16, 1919 in Cleveland County.

Tom and Ida lived in Rhodhiss, Newton and Lenoir in the early part of their marriage. They moved to Homestead Village, Leaksville Woolen Mills. Tom worked for this mill for 30 years prior to his death February 10, 1956. Ida died June 8, 1956 and was buried in Forest Lawn Cemetery, Charlotte, North Carolina. Tom and Ida had bought a farm in Mecklenburg County and settled there in 1947 to raise their children. After their death the property was divided into eight tracts each child receiving one. Six of the children have built their homes there. The area is called "Oatesville" and we enjoy gathering together as one "big family." Tom and Ida had eight children.

Maggie Josephine Oates, the first born, married Henry August Miller. She works for I.B.M.

Dorsie Mae Oates married Harry Tyre White. They have two children, Rodney and Marsha. They own and operate Harry T. White Plumbing Company.

Mary Elizabeth Oates married Ernest Lee Moore. They have two children, Lynn and Tommy. Mary works for Eastern Air Lines. They are the "adopted grandparents" for my children.

Thomas Wellington Oates married Joyce Ann Smith Haglar. They have a daughter, Debbie. T.W. runs a garage.

John James Oates married Jean Carlyn Station. They have three children: Tammy, Terry and David, or "Bucky" as he prefers to be called. Johnny also owns and operates a plumbing company in his name.

Barbara Thelma Oates married Nathaniel Macon Tomlinson. They have three children: Elaine, Beverly, and Nathan. When we mention Charlotte my boys automatically say Nathan's. Nathan is near their age and has all kinds of farm animals.

Virginia Irene Oates lives in Charlotte. She works for Trans-Conn lines Trucking Company as a secretary. She directs the choir at Homestead Methodist Church and has a beautiful soprano voice.

Last on the list is Sylvia Jean Oates. We all attended Paw Creek School. The first four graduating from Paw Creek High School. The last four going the last years to Consolidated West Mecklenburg High.

Ida was the fifth generation of Baptists. Tom was a sixth generation Presbyterian. They had eight children to join the Homestead Methodist Church. Seven of the eight still attend this church along with their families.

One thing that has been true in all generations, our ancestors loved children. Our home life holds many fond memories of taffy pulls, making homemade ice cream, baking cookies etc. It was a place friends and relatives were always welcome.

Daddy never lost his love of the soil. He enjoyed farming and hunting with a little "Amateur gold mining" on the side. He respected nature as a gift from God to be used but not abused.

After the death of our parents, T.W., Johnny, Thelma, Virginia and I shared the home. Thelma was only six years older than I but we nicknamed her "Mama" because she was the one Virginia and I had to ask for permission.

Sylvia Jean Oates married LeRoy Clifton McSwain on February 19, 1972. We own and operate McPhail Greenhouses, a florist shop, in Sanford, North Carolina. We have three children: LeRoy Clifton McSwain Jr. born June 8, 1973; Joseph William McSwain born April 18, 1975; and Trent Ernest McSwain born May 29, 1980.

Our family attends Edgewood Presbyterian Church where Roy is an elder and a member of the choir. Our hobby is genealogy. We have been Cleveland County bound for our vacations for several years. I would say Trent is one of the youngest family researchers. During the summer of 1980, he visited all the court-houses in the Old Tryon County area.

— Jean Oates McSwain

THOMAS MILTON ADDISON OATES

834

Addison Oates was born Mar. 1 1827 (d) Jan. 17, 1913. He was the son of William and Elizabeth Espy Oates. Addison's father was born on a ship sailing from Ireland to America.

As a boy, Addison was taught the skills of farming, building, surveying and business.

At age 29 he married Sarah Ann Kiser on October 14, 1856, whose ancestry was German.

The first home is what is now known as the "old kitchen." Later the original part of the home place was built. It is estimated to be between 115 and 120 years old. Some additions have been made to the original home.

Addison received three hundred acres of land from his father's estate. He was not only a good farmer, but also an excellent businessman. He built and opened a general store in 1860 which still stands today, complete with counter and shelves.

During the Civil War, Addison's duty was making gunpowder for the Confederate States of America.

After the war he returned home and took up farming and storekeeping full time. Later he became Justice of the Peace. He married people and also had the power to try minor offenses, including assault to kill. Trials were held in what is now the bedroom. The youngest member of the family was known to try to listen at the keyhole to the proceedings. Sometimes she was caught in the act.

In 1883 Addison became postmaster of a new post office. The postmark read "Fancy, N.C." Mail was sorted and kept in a high back desk which is still in use today. There was no rural delivery so each family came to the post office.

Since Addison's home place was once a federal post office, the postman or rural mail carrier was required to deliver the mail to the house from the public road.

Addison also ran a cotton gin where the community had their cotton ginned. A dam was built on the creek and was operated by a large water wheel. The pond also served the family with fish during the autumn season. Fish were salted and put in large barrels for winter use.

My grandmother was an excellent cook and a perfect housekeeper. Every week the unpainted white floors were scrubbed with soap, water and sand. The curtains were washed and ironed every week and even the chairs were scrubbed.

Grandmother was also a good nurse to the sick in the community. She was often called to the homes and seemed to have a good remedy for all ordinary diseases.

Addison's home place was deeded to my parents, Phate and Josephine Lackey, in 1912, since they were asked to live and care for them for their lifetime.

I was three years old when we came to live with my grandparents. I, with a load of furniture, came in a wagon with an uncle who was moving us.

Grandmother, from that day on, gave me every wish I desired. I followed her every place she went, but I sure got into a lot of mischief. She spoiled me to the 9th degree and because I loved her so much and did what she allowed, my parents "spared the rod." I have so many memories of those days that I only wish I had the space to relate some of them, such as painting all the windows and white walls with shoe polish.

My grandparents were members of Long Creek Presbyterian Church. Grandfather was an elder in the church most of his adult life. He was a very stern Christian. No cooking was allowed by him on Sunday, and no house cleaning. Food was cooked on Saturday and eaten cold on Sunday. The children were not allowed to read anything except the Bible on the Sabbath.

Grandfather's eyesight was perfect as long as he lived and he read a great deal of the time. He lived to be eighty-six years old and the year he passed away he had picked three bales of cotton.

After my father's death in 1954, my husband and I gave up our home to live with my mother until her death in 1966, and at that time the home was deeded to us. My husband died in 1978 and at this time I am continuing to live at the original Addison Oates home place. Our aim was to preserve it and keep it in good condition as long as we lived. There are so many memories to this homestead, as it has passed through three generations.

Addison and Sarah are buried in Long Creek Cemetery in Gaston County.

The children of Addison are: Converse Oates, Susann Oates Froneberger, Charles Oates, Dr. George Oates, Lula Oates Harris, Thomas Oates, Choin Oates, Franklin Oates, Maggie Oates Carpenter, Josephine Oates Lackey. All of the above are deceased.

Sources: family records, personal knowledge, and a family book, A Harvest of Oates, composed and written by Miriam Lackey Williams.

— Mr. Raymond Mann

THE OSBORNE FAMILY

835

Sir Peter Osborne of Kent, England, sent his three sons, John, Thomas and Henry with their tutor, John Rosse, to America after securing permission to "pass from England beyond the seas" on March 2, 1633. John, from whom this Osborne family descends, settled in Massachusetts. His great-grandson, Ephraim, who married Sara Fisk in 1759 was a Minuteman who was called out by the battle of Lexington on the first alarm and who marched to Concord.

Ephraim's grandson, Amos Wright Osborne, born May 26, 1790 in Fitchburg, Mass. came to Lockart Shoals, S.C. and married Elizabeth McCalle of Chester, S.C. in 1820 or 1821. They lived and died at Lockart Shoals. They were the parents of Dr. James Ephraim Osborne, born on November 8, 1821, who came to Cleveland County about 1840 as Cleveland County was formed from parts of Rutherford and Lincoln counties. Dr. James Ephraim Osborne lived at Belwood at Knob's Creek. He was just out of Charleston Medical College and moved to North Carolina for the practice of medicine, and was considered an outstanding doctor during that period. He was married to Ann Peeler of Cleveland County, daughter of Joseph Peeler. They were the parents of (1) Alfred Brucias Osborne, who married Aurelia Ellis, whom he had met at the home of his grandfather at Lockart Shoals and who had been a governess in the home of his grandfather; (2) Joseph Cullen Osborne, who married Margaret Schenck and lived in Lawndale where he practiced dentistry for a number of years; (3) Mary Osborne, who married Pinkney Baker, a large landowner in Catawba County, N.C.; (4) Alice Osborne, who married Franklin Willis and who lived near the Osborne home in upper Cleveland County; (5) James Ruffin Osborne (born June 30, 1861 and died in Shelby on July 28, 1947). Dr. James Ruffin Osborne was a prominent dentist in Shelby while his brother practiced in the Lawndale-Belwood area. Dr. James Ruffin was the first president of the Dental Society of North Carolina. He was the first president of the Dental Society of America, also.

Dr. James Ruffin Osborne was first married to Laura Dixon from upper Cleveland County and to whom two children were born, one died in infancy and a daughter Maude married Garland Manning Greene of Boiling Springs, N.C. His second wife was Textia Anna Lattimore, born near Polkville on March 28, 1867 and who died August 4, 1940. They had a foster daughter, Madge, born February 15, 1891, who married Charles P. Wilkins; they had two children;

Thomas Hall Osborne, now deceased, was born July 5, 1893, married Faye Elmore and their children were Thomas Hall Osborne, Jr., now deceased, and Ann Osborne, who is married to Dr. Dan Hoover of Charlotte. Thomas Hall Osborne, Jr., now deceased, was married to Mary Evelyn Suttle and to this marriage were born two children, David Suttle Osborne and Jean Osborne. A son, Joseph Evans Osborne, first married Ruth Coulter of Connelly Springs, N.C. His second wife was Edith Culler. They lived in Rosman, N.C. where he was a dentist and medical doctor until his death in 1966. Also a son, James William Osborne was born in Shelby on December 20, 1903.

James William Osborne grew up at the family home on East Marion Street in Shelby, five blocks from the Courtsquare; at this time the city limits of Shelby only reached the intersection of Belvedere, and delivery boys hated to "take an order to the Osborne house because it was a half mile from town and up and down hill the whole way." As a young man, James William, the youngest son, worked in hardware stores that are famous names in Shelby history: Washburn's (now Phifer's Cleveland Hardware). Farmers' Hardware (owned by the late J.D. Lineberger) and Shelby Hardware (operated by the late W.A. and W.L. McCord). In the depths of the depression he became Deputy Clerk of Superior-Recorder's Court, under Clerk A.M. Hamrick. He then took advantage of the opportunities this position offered and studied law for five years, passing the North Carolina Bar examination on August 6, 1937. In the general election of 1939 he was elected Solicitor of Cleveland County Recorder's Court and remained in office until 1942.

During World War II for a period he served as Assistant File Clerk in the U.S. House of Representatives, after which he returned to the practice of law in Cleveland County. In 1956 he was named Clerk of Superior Court, a position he held until December, 1966 when he resigned to again practice law. A white Stetson hat was his trademark and a familiar sight around the Square and the streets of Shelby. Always active in community life, he helped students with instructions in law at Gardner-Webb College (Boiling Springs), was a charter member of Shelby Lions' Club, formed in 1929, serving as president and secretary of this organization. He was a Mason for over fifty years and a faithful member and lay leader of Central Methodist Church, where he taught an Adult Sunday School Class for many years.

James William Osborne was first married to Minnie Catherine Warlick, daughter of A.C. and Octavia Warlick, who died September 17, 1973. His second wife was Daisy Leigh Boyles Hill, to whom he was married on January 29, 1975. Characterized as "the man with a heart the size of the Court square", Bill died on May 27, 1978.

— Mrs. J.W. Osborne

J.W. Osborne, 1902-1975

WILLIAM LEGRANDE PACKARD

836

Lee Packard November 17, 1863 — September 15, 1923 as he was known — was born in Duncan's Creek township, Rutherford County, North Carolina the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Marion Packard. Lee Packard's mother was Sallie Lattimore, who was sister of Captain Thomas D. Lattimore, a great grandfather was William Carson who was for a generation sheriff of Rutherford County, North Carolina.

At the age of (24) twenty-four years with little education, but a strong mind and a willing body, went to Major Schenck's factory at Cleveland Mills, and applied for work. Major Schenck put Lee Packard to work in the woods getting out bills of lumber. He was a general utility man around the mill for several years and proved his worth to Major Schenck, who advanced him, step by step, until he became superintendent of the newly built mill at Lawndale.

Mr. Lee Packard remained at Lawndale Mill which he had looked after building for fifteen years. After this, he came to Shelby, North Carolina, as superintendent of the Shelby Mill for two years.

The next connection of Lee Packard was with Henrietta Mill, where he was superintendent for two years. The late R.R. Haynes regarded him as one of the most effective mill superintendents in North Carolina. With Mr. Haynes, Lee Packard helped build the Haynes' Mill at Avondale, North Carolina.

Lee Packard was not only a fine builder, but a thorough mill man who knew the business from doffer boy to "super". The thousands of employees that have been under him during thirty-five years in mill business, have always found him a fair, efficient, broad, and charitable "boss", who stood always ready to help his fellow man.

Mr. Lee Packard was a fine christian character, and gave much of his time to religious work. As a Sunday school teacher and superintendent, he was an active, concentrated worker who found joy in winning souls and building Christian character. Wherever he worked, his fellow workers found him "true blue". He enjoyed the confidence of all his associates in business, and his advice was always sought on matters of textile business, because in this line, he was a graduate in the school of practical experiences.

After some years with Cliffside mills and Haynes mills, Lee Packard retired to come to Shelby, North Carolina, to spend more time with his family in their elegant home on North Morgan Street, Shelby, North Carolina.

During Lee Packard's experience in mill business, he was associated with Major and John Schenck Senior, S. Bobo Tanner, J.R. Dover, and R.R. Haynes.

Mr. Lee Packard was a deacon in the Shelby First Baptist Church, a mason of high rank, and was also connected with local business enterprises.

From backwoods country boy, handicapped for lack of education, with no pull, slowly but surely, he mounted the ladder of success. Every opportunity to learn more about his profession, was taken advantage of, and when he died, had nothing, but praise for his example christian character. Hundreds of his employees gathered Sunday to drop a tear on his bier, and express words of sorrow to his bereaved family.

Mr. Lee Packard married Miss Jennie Farris of Texas while he lived in Lawndale, North Carolina. She came there to teach school while he was connected with Lawndale Mill. Mrs. Packard was a devoted help mate and loyal companion through their many years of married life.

Two children were born to Lee and Jennie F. Packard. Their names are Mrs. George Shuford of Cliffside, North Carolina, and Jennie Lee Packard who lives in Shelby, North Carolina.

Lee Packard died suddenly with a heart attack on September 15, 1923, at his home on North Morgan Street in Shelby, North Carolina.

Memorial service was held at the First Baptist Church on Monday, September 17, 1923, in Shelby, North Carolina. A crowd that more than filled the church attended the service, and one of the largest floral offerings that has ever been seen here, poured forth as a testimony to the esteem and worth in which he was held in the community. The expressions of sympathy for one of Cleveland County's most beloved citizens, and one of the foremost cotton mill superintendents in North Carolina, were many.

Sources: newspaper clippings.

— Mrs. Jack Shuford

VIRGINIA BELLE HOEY PADGETT

837

Mrs. Charles King Padgett, only daughter and youngest child of Samuel Ernest and Dora Henkel Hoey, is unspoiled in spite of the attention bestowed upon her by five loving brothers, her parents and many friends.

No children of her own, Virginia's unselfish nature has manifested itself through the years in care for those first loved her and a host of others. Physical beauty and graciousness have been nurtured by her inner beauty apparent to those close to her.

Relationship to others is illustrated by her life and work in the First United Methodist Church. She was awarded a Life Membership in the Woman's Society of the church.

Virginia attended Converse College, Spartanburg, South Carolina where she was a member of Delta, Delta Phi Sorority. She made her debut at the Terpsichorean Ball in Raleigh.

Being the dear friend as well as cousin of Isabelle Hoey, daughter of Governor Clyde R. Hoey, Virginia enjoyed special privileges such as being matron of honor as Isabelle christened the battleship U.S.S. North Carolina on June 13, 1940 at the Brooklyn Naval Yard.

Her marriage to Dr. Charles King Padgett, son of the Mr. and Mrs. T.R. Padgett of Forest City, was performed at "Seven Gables", home of her brother, Frank, and Delle Hoey, in Cleveland Springs. In a few years the Padgetts were to build their own lovely home, "Spring Hill," located a few doors away.

Dr. Padgett attended the University of North Carolina, Wake Forest College, and Jefferson Medical College in Philadelphia.

Past President of the Junior Charity League and member of the Reviewers Book Club, my aunt Virginia is an avid bridge player and plays regularly with the Triple Deck, the Tuesday and the Round Dozen clubs.

Both Ruth Hoey Lautz and I feel privileged to call this admired young matron "Aunt" Virginia.

— Eleanor Hoey Bradshaw

HARRY EPHRIAM and GRACE NEISLER PAGE FAMILY

838

Harry Ephriam Page and Laura Grace Neisler were married July 24, 1937. Harry, born January 28, 1908, is the son of the late Addie Mae Hoover and Harry Page of Lincolnton, North Carolina; his grandfather, George Augustus Page who was English by birth, was a carriage maker and minister, having organized the Derita Methodist Church in Mecklenburg County.

Harry was educated in the Lincolnton Public Schools where his father had served as chairman of the Board of Education. He later attended Christ School in Arden, North Carolina. He worked for the P & N Railroad before beginning a thirty-year association with Neisler Mills in Kings Mountain. Later he became a merchant and gentleman farmer in that community. As an active member of the First Presbyterian Church there he served as superintendent of the Sunday School, as a Deacon, an Elder, Clerk of the Session, and President of the Men of the Church. Harry has also been active in civic affairs as a charter member and past President of the Kings Mountain Kiwanis Club and a regional director of the Boy Scouts.

Grace, born March 1, 1910, is the daughter of Ida Pauline Mauney and Charles Eugene Neisler. She is a graduate of Kings Mountain High School, Ward-Belmont Junior College, and George Peabody College. An outstanding sportswoman, she was the North Carolina Skeet Shooting Champion for two years, 1935 and 1936. Like her husband, Grace has been active in church and civic work, serving for over twenty years as a teacher of youngsters in the Kings Mountain Presbyterian Church and for seventeen years as a leader of the Brownie Scouts. She has also been active in the Women of the Church, the Red Cross, and the Kings Mountain Women's Club.

Grace and Harry have two daughters, Pauline Neisler Page, born July 23, 1940, and Laura Jean Page, born May 2, 1945. Both girls graduated from Kings Mountain High School and made their debuts in balls sponsored by the Shelby Junior Charity League.

Laura graduated from Meredith College in 1967, taught in the Atlanta Public Schools for two years, then began a career involving extensive world-wide travel. She started by teaching for the Department of Defense for one year in Okinawa and a second year in Stuttgart, Germany. Shortly after returning to Atlanta she became a travel agent, working primarily with international travellers. In that capacity she organized and escorted one of the first American groups into the People's Republic of China even before the United States established formal diplomatic relations with that country. Laura is also active in church and civic affairs as a member of the North Avenue Presbyterian Church and the Junior League of Atlanta.

Pauline (Polly) graduated from Agnes Scott College in 1962. She also made her debut in Raleigh's Terpsichorean Ball. After a two-year job as a social worker in Raleigh, she married David Humphreys Moreau in 1964. They have two children, Catherine Page, born July 7, 1967, and David Stewart, born May 2, 1970. Their family now lives in Chapel Hill, where Polly is active in the Sunday School and kindergarten of University Presbyterian Church. She is a sustaining member and formerly a director of the Chapel Hill Junior Service League, active in Girl Scouts, a member of Agnes Scott's Alumnae Board, and a public school teacher.

Her husband, a native of Natchez, Mississippi, holds engineering degrees from Mississippi State and North Carolina State and a PhD from Harvard awarded in 1967. He joined the faculty of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill in 1968 where he is now Professor of Environmental Planning and Engineering and Associate Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences. He is an Elder in University Presbyterian and served as Chairman of the Orange Water and Sewer Authority. Through his work in water and air resource management he has served extended periods with the United States Environmental Protection Agency and several international organizations.

— Grace N. Page

DR. VALENTINE JACKSON PALMER

839

Valentine Jackson Palmer, 1829-1916, married Mary Donoho Bedford, 1830-1895. He was the son of Loammi Charles and Kate Rowell Palmer. She was the daughter of Joseph and Nancy Elliott Bedford.

His parents lived on a farm near Marion, South Carolina, and had six children: Susan Catherine, born 1823, William born 1825, James born 1827, Valentine Jackson born 1829, Benjamin Hazard born 1831, and Caroline Elizabeth born 1833 and died an infant. Kate Rowell Palmer died in 1836 and was buried at Tabernacle Church near Marion, South Carolina.

After his wife's death, Loammi Charles Palmer decided to take his four small sons — ages 5, 7, 9 and 11, and go west to Texas. A cousin, seventeen-year old Pinkney Avery Avent, went with them, and also a few slaves. They loaded a wagon and some ox carts for the journey. They arrived at Mobile, Alabama, after three weeks travel. Loammi (the father) fell from the wagon and received internal injuries. He took a cold and pneumonia and died. Cousin Avent and the slaves dug a grave beside the road and buried him in 1836.

The slaves and the Indians quarreled. The Indians tried to steal the Palmer boys, but Cousin Avent made peace with them. One night the oxen got loose and ran away. Cousin Avent paid the Indians fifty cents to catch the oxen and bring them back. Then he, the Palmer boys, and the slaves went back to Marion, South Carolina. The children went to live with their Uncle, William Rowell and his family. They lived with their uncle until they were almost grown.

Valentine Jackson was six years old when his mother died, and seven when his father died. He had malaria fever and measles in the teens, and came to North Carolina, Rutherford County, for his health when he was 17 years old. He stayed with Cousin Pinkney Avery Avent, who was a young minister. Here he met and fell in love with Mary Donoho Bedford. Then he decided to study medicine, and went to Lincolnton, North Carolina, where he read and studied medicine under Dr. Butt and Dr. Brown.

In 1852, when he was 23 years old, he and Mary Donoho Bedford were married. He wanted to go to college, so he borrowed some money from three good farmers and friends who trusted and admired him, and thought he was a very worthy young man. He went to Jefferson Medical College in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, and graduated on October 2, 1856. In March, 1858, he located on a farm near Duncans Creek in Rutherford County. He came to Cleveland County December, 1862 and located just north of Polkville.

In 1862, Dr. Palmer and Major H.F. Schenck organized the last volunteer company in Cleveland County in the Civil War. He could have been a surgeon in the army, but preferred fighting in the front lines with his comrades. He became a First Lieutenant in the Infantry and fought in many battles: Chickamauga Creek 1863, Fort Steadman, Plymouth, Five Forks, Drury's Bluff, Petersburg, April 2, 1865, and Williamsburg. At Plymouth he was badly wounded in the left thigh — a shell cut the flesh out to the bone. After five months he was able to go back to the Infantry. In April 1865, he was captured at Williamsburg, Virginia, and was imprisoned at Johnsons Island, Ohio, but he and many other soldiers were released June 29, 1865. Dr. Palmer came home and practiced medicine for many, many years.

Dr. Palmer and his wife, Mary had eleven children. Dr. Palmer was thrifty, honest, a hard worker, and never cursed nor swore. He was very religious and a good neighbor. He often supplied for pastors and conducted many funerals. He rode horseback many years to visit the sick. He was the first in the county to buy a gig, and then a buggy pulled by his faithful brown horse named "Bay." He bought the first reaper in the county. He was a doctor, but believed in "early to bed and early to rise."

Mary, Dr. Palmer's wife, died in 1895 and is buried in the Elliott Cemetery which was the garden of the home of her grandparents, John Crenshaw and Mary Donoho Elliott.

Dr. Palmer was married the second time to Mrs. Margaret Groce Williamson — no children. Dr. Palmer died in 1915 and is buried by his wife Mary in the Elliott Cemetery. The second Mrs. Palmer died in 1919 and is buried at Pleasant Grove Methodist Church near Forest City, North Carolina.

Children of Dr. V.J. Palmer and Mary Donoho Bedford:

Nancy Catherine, 1853-1927, married William Leander Toms. Children: Mamie, Bob, Will, Everette, John, Olen, Pearl, Am, Hugh and Katie Mai.

Margaret Bedford Palmer, 1855-1939, married William Milton Gold. Children: Joseph, Will, Katie Belle, Lucy and Tom.

William Butt Palmer, 1856-1912, married: 1. Susan Magness — Children: Oscar Oliver, Valentine Jackson and Elijah. 2. Josephine Ledbetter — no children. 3. Sallie Cline — no children.

Joseph Bedford Palmer, married Victoria Rollins. Children: Zennie, Ethel and Kate.

Thomas Rowell Palmer, 1860-1887.

Valentine Jackson Palmer, Jr., 1862-1877.

Jonas James Palmer, 1864-1934, married Bessie Reichard. Children: Mary Ann, John and James Clyde.

John Daniel Palmer, 1866-1877.

Mary Susan Palmer, 1869-1900, married Frank Jones, no children.

Dr. Benjamin Hazard Palmer, 1861-1924, married Emma Cline. Children: Mary Eva, Lela, Ben, Sarah and Ralph Ray.

Loammi Charles Palmer, 1874-1938, married Catherine Cline Hoyle. Children: Mary D., Thomas V., Hewitt H., Dr. Yates S. and L. Charles.

Sources: family records, obituary notices, and an old family Bible.

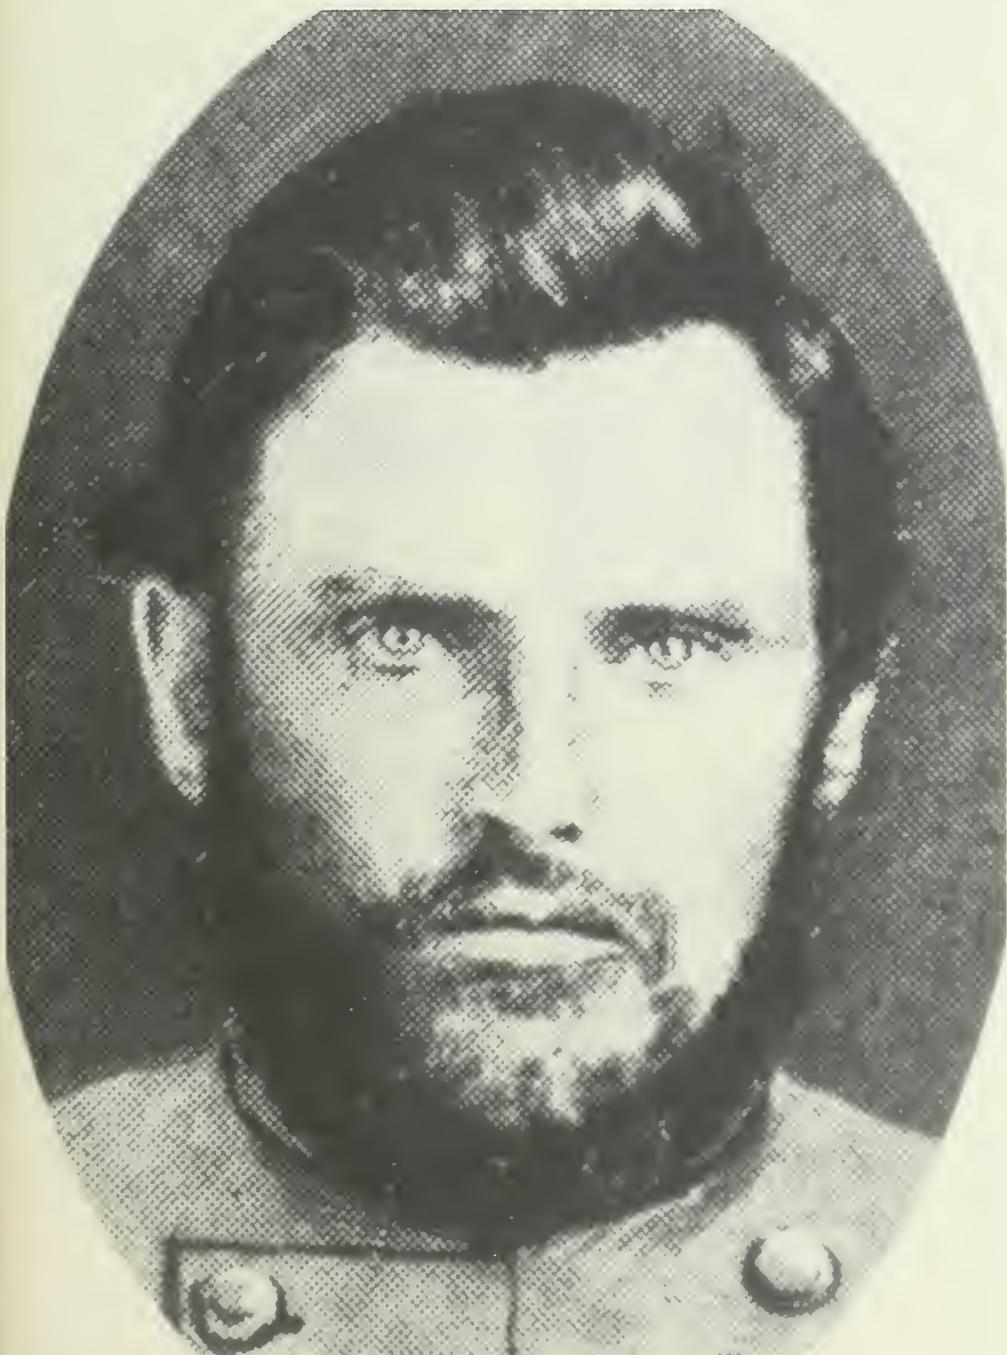

— Jack Palmer, Jr.

DR. V.J. PALMER #2 840

Dr. V.J. Palmer, physician of the soul as well as the body, soldier of the Confederacy, pioneer and builder of a splendid county and community, father and gentleman, crossed over the river Monday evening June 23, 1915 at 6:05 to rest in the shadow of the trees with his comrades forever.

In Dr. Palmer's passing, Cleveland County lost one of its most valued citizens. For fifty long years he was a practicing physician, attending thousands of suffering men and rendering to them, his best medical skill. He belonged to the "saddle bag and pill box" variety of physicians, practicing in a territory and in an age when physicians were scarce, hospitals were unknown, drug stores had never been introduced and modes of travel and communications were slow. For years he rode his horse because buggies were not made. Later he bought a gig and when buggies came into use, he introduced a more modern method of travel. Whenever he was called to visit a patient, he never denied his services even though the patient may have been indebted to him. His life work was that of relieving suffering humanity, and in this he stands a peer of any man of his day. Often times he traveled 35 miles and went steadfastly about his duty when he would be feeling worse than the patient he was going to see.

Dr. Palmer was born in Marion County, South Carolina, February 9, 1829, and came to Cleveland County in January 1850 and remained a short time. He studied medicine with Britt and Brown in Lincolnton and graduated from Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia, in March 1858 and first located in Rutherford County at Duncan's Creek and came to Cleveland County in December 1862, located at Polkville where he was an honored and useful citizen until his death. For a number of years he was president of the county medical society and was highly esteemed by his professional brethren. In 1852 Dr. Palmer was married to Miss Mary Bedford by whom he had eleven children, thirty-one grand-children and seventeen great-grand children in 1915.

Dr. Valentine Jackson Palmer

After the death of his first wife, he married Mrs. Martha Ann Williamson with whom he lived happily and contentedly until they were separated by death. Mrs. Palmer is a noble Christian woman who is greatly loved and honored by all who know her. She was ever faithful and dutiful to Dr. Palmer and ministered unto him during his spells of illness in his advanced years.

Dr. Palmer was truly a good man. He had a kind heart, respect for his fellow man, a sound mind and gave sober advice to his host of friends when they called upon him for such. If he had an enemy in the whole world, he has not yet been discovered. Dr. Palmer was a friend to everybody, and was never known to make an uncomplimentary remark about his fellow y. He lived a life of doing unto others as he would have them do unto him and this golden rule elevated the souls of men with whom he came in contact in his broad travels. In the absence of ministers in those early days, he conducted many funerals, reading passages of Scripture and offering public prayers as ably and well as any layman could do.

Dr. Palmer was first lieutenant in Company F. 56th North Carolina Regiment, one of the last volunteer companies to be organized in Cleveland County. He helped organize it with Mayor J.F. Schenck in 1863. The doctor could have passed the examination and become a surgeon in the Confederate Army, but he preferred to serve with his men at the front and his record was one of heroism and devotion. He was in the following battles: Chicahominy, Fort Steadman, Plymouth, Five Forks, Drury's Bluff, Petersburg, Turnpike between Richmond and Petersburg, Williamson in Halifax County, North Carolina, and Reem's Station. In the battle of Plymouth he was wounded severely when a shell struck his left thigh and cut the flesh to the bone in April 1864. He came home to recuperate and went back in the fall, lying in the ditches around Petersburg. A great portion of the time he was in command of his company and never ordered a man to go where he would not dare go himself. His men had the greatest respect for him and his constant order to his men was "Cut the Belt, Men" knowing that this was the vital spot of man.

At the battle of Five Forks his company had dwindled to a mere handful of men because of wounds, capture and illness. He stood upon the breastworks at Five Forks and fired at the enemy while his men reloaded the rifles in the pit. He kept firing until the gun barrels became so hot he could not hold them and every time he fired he took aim as deliberately as he would at a squirrel. A few days before the surrender he was captured.

He came home to help build up a wrecked and devastated country; to resume his labors as a healer and a helper of men. Along with his professional work he maintained one of the best farms in the county. About 1915 he gave up his practice, rounding out a half century of active work. His out door life gave him unusual vitality and is responsible for his having lived to be 84 years, 4 months and 12 days.

The funeral was conducted Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock at Elliott's church burying ground by Rev. J.P. Davis, assisted by Rev. I.D. Harrill. A great crowd was present and witnessed the solemn service under a large poplar where favorite old songs, which the Doctor loved, were sung.

Many gray-haired comrades were present and at the request of the family, were given a chance to express their feelings over the passing of their beloved friend. Mr. J.F. Lucas recalled how Dr. Palmer would visit him on picket duty and give him great cheer and comfort on the battle front. Mr. A.M. Lattimore, Mr. T.G. Philbeck and others told of his unbounded love for all, his inspiring life, his discreet words and his noble character. The beautiful black casket was borne to the grave by comrades T.J. Dixon, M.W. Crowder, J.C. Elliott, Alfred Whisnant, W.F. Gold, A.M. Lattimore, Joe Walker and J.F. Lucas. Each threw a shovel full of dirt in the grave and the younger men finished the interment.

Sources: Newspaper article

— Mary Gordon Elliott

Beulah Herndon and James L. Parker on their Wedding Day, October 1909.

THE JAMES L. PARKER FAMILY

841

Beulan Herndon (1881-1966) married James Lindsey Parker (1877-1929) on Oct. 20, 1909. Beulah grew up in the Grover area and Jim grew up just across the state line in the Antioch and Mt. Paran section — near Gaffney and Blacksburg, S.C. Beulah attended the Asheville Normal and became a teacher. Jim worked with the railroad in the mail service. When they married they moved to Atlanta, Ga. taking with them Jim's two children by a previous marriage, Edna (1905-1940) and Eugene "Gene" (1903-1967). Later the family moved to Grover and the children attended school there.

Gene graduated at Clemson College and married Elizabeth Evans of Cheraw, S.C. They lived most of their married life in Washington, D.C. where Gene was with the Internal Revenue Service. They had one daughter, Salley.

Edna graduated from Limestone College and served as a teacher in the Shelby City Schools. She married Paxton Elliott and they had one daughter, Sara Elizabeth. While Edna and Eugene were in college the Parkers moved to Shelby where Jim opened up a grocery store on N. Washington Street near the Seaboard Railway Station.

In 1927 their daughter Jacqueline "Jackie" Elaine was born. Jackie attended the Shelby Schools and graduated at Furman University. She became a home economics teacher and later served as School Food Service Director with the Cleveland County Schools. Jackie married (1950) Russell S. Davis (b. 1920). Russell Davis grew up in the Mooresboro community, served 6½ yrs. in army during World War II. He worked with Duke Power Co. for 30 years and later with Sears and Williams Electric Co. Jackie and Russell had two sons:

Russell Jr. (b. 1952) and Robert G. (b. 1958) Russell, Jr. received a B.A. degree in journalism at U.N.C., Chapel Hill, NC and a M.A. degree in Political Science & History at U.N.C., Charlotte, NC. He served in the U.S. Army for three years. At the present time he resides in Charlotte and is employed at Biggers Brothers in Charlotte.

Robert attended Central Piedmont Community College in Charlotte and studied Computer Science. He is employed by Southern Bell in Atlanta where he presently resides.

— Mrs. Jacqueline Parker Davis

ARTHUR PATTERSON, SR.

842

The Pattersons (son of Patrick) originated in Scotland, moved to Northern Ireland in the 17th century, and emigrated to the Colonies in the 18th. century. Three Patterson brothers, James, Arthur and John, landed at Philadelphia in 1748 and moved to the western frontier of Pennsylvania in Franklin County. They farmed, married, and reared families there during the French and Indian Wars. Arthur left Pennsylvania at the height of "Pontiac's War" in 1763 and joined his brothers near Salisbury, N.C. Arthur lived in Charlotte and then bought property on King's Creek (near Kings Mountain) in 1778, two years before the crucial battle of Kings Mountain which took place adjacent to his home.

Arthur had six children: a daughter Sarah (Mrs. Gordon), and five sons; Thomas (1755-1805), William (1758-1793), Arthur Jr. (1764-1856), James (1770-1840), and Robert (1774-1854). Lyman C. Draper's history (King's Mountain and Its Heroes) has it that Arthur Sr. was killed in the battle of Kings Mountain on October 7, 1780 while trying to rescue three of his sons who had been captured by the British.

On the morning of October 7, 1780, prior to the battle, a party of Ferguson's British foragers arrested Arthur's sons William, Thomas, Arthur Jr., and a neighbor boy, James Lindsey. The boys were on King's Creek hunting their father's cows when the foragers came upon them, and fearing that the boys might tell their location, arrested them and carried them to Ferguson's camp. When the boys failed to return home Arthur Sr. went searching for them. When he discovered that they had been arrested he went to the British camp to negotiate their release. He arrived just as the battle started, entered the fight with his own rifle, repeatedly fired and charged with the colonials until he was killed by the British muskets.

Rufus Urbane Patterson, 1816-1905. Grandson of Arthur Patterson, Sr.

The Patterson boys had been tied to trees, but during the battle they managed to free themselves. Thomas, who was 25, ran for the American lines but managed to snatch up a rifle that had fallen from a wounded soldier's hands and began firing at his captors. William, 20, also joined the battle and the N.C. Historical Society has placed a tombstone at his grave. Arthur Jr., bound tighter than the others eventually managed to get loose from the tree and, with hands and feet still tied, rolled down the mountainside and got into the American lines. The tradition is that Arthur Sr.'s body was buried on the western slope of the mountain and a small stone marked the grave. The stone marker was destroyed before a better one could be erected and now the burial place is unknown. However, family records indicate that Arthur Sr. survived the battle and continued to live on his large farm on Kings Creek in robust health until his death in 1803.

A few days after the battle the Patterson boys and several friends were walking over the battlefield when they came upon a wounded soldier from Ferguson's army. They tried to capture him but he fired at them with his gun. They grabbed him, hung him to a tree and left him to die. The body remained there until it decayed and fell to the ground. For years the rope could be seen still dangling in the tree. The battlefield was visited for weeks afterwards by those who lived nearby, and many souvenirs were recovered. Arthur Jr. picked up a string of beads taken from a woman in Ferguson's camp. One of the first to be killed, the woman was thrown under a brush pile and the young Patterson found her body with the beads on her neck. The beads were handed down in the E.A. Patterson family and were used in the display during the Celebration of 1880.

Arthur Sr.'s sons continued to live near him on property of their own. Arthur Jr. married Ellender Price (1770-1842) and they had ten children: Isabella (b. 1795); Sarah (1797-1863) who married Robert Dickson (1773-1856); Milton (1799-1828); Thomas (1801-1827); Asenath (1803-c. 1900) who married Francis R. James and moved to Jefferson County, Tennessee on Arthur Jr.'s Revolutionary War Land Grant; Eli Armstrong (1806-1882) married Mary Patterson (1802-1898); John M. (b. 1808) married Rachael Goforth; Emily (b. 1810) married W.W. Dickson; Arthur H. (1813-1844) married Sarah Hambricht (1821-1844); and Rufus Urbane (1816-1905) married Sarah Hardin (1821-1903).

A number of the young Patterson soldiers died in the Civil War by 1865. Rufus Urbane's surviving son was Ira Hardin Patterson (1853-1934) who married Angelina Whitesides (1854-1941). Ira and Angelina had twelve children and many of their families still live in Kings Mountain. Ira gave the property for the Patterson Grove Baptist Church (near Kings Mountain), founded in 1884. Arthur Sr.'s descendants are numerous; hundreds continue to live in Cleveland and nearby counties; many others moved to southern states before the Civil War and their children to southwestern and western states after 1865.

— Dr. Bob E. Patterson

EDWIN A. PATTERSON

843

Edwin Albert Patterson, third child of George Barto and Hattie Hardin Patterson, was born January 15th 1920. He attended Patterson Springs elementary school and graduated from Number Three High School.

A Veteran of World War II, he was a soldier, served 31 months in the Army Air Corps as a Radio Operator and Communications Specialist, graduating from the Army Air Forces Technical Training Command School of Communication in Madison, Wisconsin.

In 1942 he married Emily H. Buice, daughter of Charles and Corrie Allen Buice of Shelby, N.C. To this union was born two children, Anita Louise and Edwin Albert Jr.

In 1946 he was employed as Chief Engineer of the newly formed Radio Station W.O.H.S. This was the first radio station on the air between Gastonia and Asheville. He helped build and operate this facility for 28 years. He also owned a wholesale radio supply in Shelby, and maintained the communications equipment for the City of Shelby for a number of years. He spent six and a half years in maintenance at Cleveland Memorial Hospital where he retired in 1982.

A life long member of Sulphur Springs United Methodist Church, where over this period of years he has filled almost every office. He is a charter member and past president of Number Three Ruitan Club, the Shelby Radio Club, a charter member of VFW, past president of Patterson Springs and Number Three PTA's, and has served seven years on Number Three School committee. He is a mason, member 202 Shelby, member York Rite bodies, Gastonia, a shiner, member Oasis Temple Charlotte. He is also a charter member of Piedmont Shrine Club, a charter member of Piedmont Pistons, and local Shrine Parade Unit. Also, he served as the first mayor of Patterson Springs, and is now filling out an unexpired term of a former Commissioner and has been re-elected as mayor.

Sources: personal interview.

— Edwin Patterson

FENDAL S. and NANCY SUSANES HUGHES PATTERSON

844

Fendal S. Patterson was born in Cleveland County, August 3, 1842, to John Thomas and Barbara Whitworth Patterson, in a house that once stood where the old water works is located on Grover Street near Broad River. He was a brother to Samuel, Thomas, Mary, Masina, John Maryan, and William.

As a young boy, Fendal and his older brothers helped their daddy operate a furniture factory below the house closer to the river. They made all types of furniture including cord beds. People would come from everywhere to buy their furniture.

Around 1850 Fendal's daddy purchased and moved on to four hundred acres of land around the area of what is now Pleasant Hill Baptist Church. John Thomas Patterson donated the land for the first church and cemetery in 1850.

In 1861, at nineteen years of age, Fendal joined the Confederate Army in the United States Civil War along with his four brothers. His brothers did not survive the war, and returning home in 1865, Fendal helped his parents raise his brother's children.

On January 12, 1871, he married Nancy Susanes Hughes, born October 25, 1847, to Stantin and Nancy Hughes. Along with his brothers children they raised eight of their own: Thomas H., Lemuel, Juluis, Mary Jeamsanna, Emily Jane, Dovie, William and John Patterson (see the John Patterson History).

Fendal was a neat, proud man, who was said to have had the best looking beard in Cleveland County. It was every bit of five inches long and would cover a tie so he never wore one. His hair and beard were always clean and trimmed to perfection. He carried a comb in his pocket and pulled it out often to comb his hair and beard. What a pity he would not allow his picture to be taken to show off his handsome beard!

Susanes was a pretty little woman who always wore a "rat" in her hair, a long brown roll that she wrapped her hair around to ball it up in back.

Along with all the women in her day she wore two and three petticoats under her long dresses. As she walked along she held the right side of her skirt up to make moving easier.

Near 1912, Fendal and Susanes bought the lease for a hundred acre farm, for twenty-five dollars a year, located off Highway 74 where the freezer locker now stands. There was a house and barn on the land. Eventually they built another house and barn nearer the road and moved there.

Here they farmed and lived off the land. They only bought what they could not raise such as coffee, sugar, black pepper, salt and soda, swapping chickens or eggs for these.

They would make sausage and put it in lard buckets with grease on top to seal it. These buckets were hung across the back porch. When they wanted sausage they would get one of the buckets, pry the grease off, and fry some of that delicious sausage.

When they planted their vegetable garden, they would plant flowers along each side of the garden paths. This created a thing of beauty as well as a source of food.

They would bed their sweet potatoes down in a "tater hill" to preserve them through the winter. Fendal was a jolly person and when his granddaughters would come to visit he would say, "let me show you something that will make you smart, so you will wash dishes and help your mama churn." The he would raise up a plank over the "tater hill" and there would be a big "hoppy toad". "But," he said, "if you see a lizard first you will be lazy."

When they were no longer able to farm they moved into the lower house and let their daughter, Jennie, and her husband, Tommy Camp, move into the upper one. They continued to plant gardens, raise chickens and turkeys and keep bees.

Fendal developed heart dropsy and when the "flu" epidemic came he could not fight it off. He died December 8, 1918. Two years later on March 24, 1920, Susanes died. They are buried side by side in the Pleasant Hill Church Cemetery.

Sources: Family, Bible grave stones, and interviews with family members.

— Betty Patterson McIntyre

GEORGE BARTO PATTERSON SR.

845

George Barto Patterson Sr. was born in Cleveland County, North Carolina, the fifth child of William George and Rebecca Hogue Patterson early in the Civil War. He grew up helping with his fathers Summer Resort and also in a wide farming operation, which spread over much of his early years. Several years were spent assisting an Uncle near Columbus, Georgia in a farming operation which produced thousands of bales of cotton each season. He returned to take over the operation of Patterson Springs Hotel from his aged father in the latter part of the 19th century and ran it until 1899.

In 1896 he was married to Hattie Elizabeth Hardin, daughter of William Kim and Laura Roberts Hardin of the local Community. To this union was born three living children, Hattie Christine, George B. Jr. and Edwin A. Patterson. After operations of the Patterson Springs Hotel ceased in 1899 this property was sold to other interests and he continued his career in farming. He was successful in this endeavor, amassing several hundred acres of land, which he pushed to high production of cotton and other farm products. He was very interested in his community and never missed a chance to help and promote it in any way that he could. For many years served as a member of the Number Three Township Road Commissioners, helping to plan, build and maintain the road system. Many of these roads with modifications are still in use today.

Nancy Susanes Hughes Patterson

He was a strong supporter of Education and served many years on the local school board. In 1923 while serving in this capacity, it was decided to incorporate several schools and build a modern school at Patterson Springs, teaching grades one through ten. A Bond issue was passed by the local people and one of the counties early brick schools began raising, but alas before it was completed, funds were depleted until another tax year passes. Rather than to wait, he and another Board Member Mr. J.B. Lowery signed personal notes at local banks, enabling the building to be completed and properly furnished with desks and other needed equipment and classes could begin without delay. In the early 1930's he and other progressive leaders in Number Three Township foresaw the need of a full service high school. This was during the depression years, money was scarce but the decision was reached to build this much needed facility, and a local bond issue was passed to do so. This school, Number Three High School was to serve all the people in Number Three Township and was the first consolidated high school in Cleveland County. The building was completed and classes were first taught in January 1932.

He was a strong believer in the Golden Rule, his honesty was a virtue. He was an avid baseball fan, loved his family and his community, enjoyed a good joke, loved people and was blessed with a wide friendship among all he came in contact with. Mr. Patterson was born November 17, 1861, died January 28, 1938. Mrs. Patterson was born November 11, 1879, died October 26, 1965. Both are buried in Sulphur Springs United Methodist Church Cemetery adjoining the former Patterson Springs Hotel Property.

Sources: Family Bible, Cemetery records.

— Edwin Patterson

THE JOHN PATTERSON FAMILY

846

John Patterson (May 7, 1883 — October 25, 1918) was the youngest of eight children born in Cleveland County, North Carolina, to Fendal S. and Nancy Susanes Hughes Patterson. He married Fannie Wilson (July 16, 1886 — February 8, 1960), daughter of Tom and Maggie Kendrick Wilson.

Johnny and Fannie were blessed with six precious children: Janie (November 5, 1902 — died in infancy); Billy (December 9, 1904 — December 15, 1980), Fenley (April 5, 1907 — February 21, 1980), Ruth (June 7, 1908), John Lewis (September 10, 1911) and Margaret Francis (September 6, 1917 — October 15, 1918).

John and Fannie Wilson Patterson

They started out their married life living with his parents on a farm called "the Wells Place" located on Hickory Creek off Earl Road.

Fendal, Johnny's father, had a wagon and a team of mules. Johnny and his brother, Lem, helped their father haul the bricks that were used to build the Lily Mill in 1903.

Johnny moved his family into their first home on Earl Road on the Hacket Blanton land which they farmed for him.

He kept mules to trade at that time, and once he traded a mule for a donkey. Not wanting his family to laugh at him, he tied the donkey on Hickory Creek until he could find a way to tell them what he had done. The donkey, with his loud, harsh braying, announced to everyone "Johnny's trade".

They moved into another house on Hacket Blanton land set back off South LaFayette Street. Here, Johnny farmed for twenty-five cents a day and Fannie for fifteen. She could pick over three hundred pounds of cotton on a good day while her small children played on a quilt in the cotton patch.

Johnny began to have epileptic seizures. Very little was known about this disease then, and a great deal of superstition was connected with it.

Around 1915, they moved to the Buffalo Mill village where Johnny worked until his illness forced him to quit. Then Fannie, working in the mill, became the sole supporter of the family.

Once, while she was at work, Johnny had a seizure and fell unconscious in the floor with his feet in the fireplace. The children screamed for help. A neighbor, Jessie Tritt, heard them and sent her husband, Charles, to help. He pulled Johnny out of the fire. Miraculously he was not burned.

Johnny and his oldest son, Billy, would walk up the railroad track from the Buffalo Mill to Shelby seeking medical help. His seizures, however, were uncontrollable.

Tom Wilson persuaded his son-in-law to come back to Shelby where they moved into a house on LaFayette Street in front of the Belmont Mill.

Fannie went to work in the mill on the night shift and Billy started to work on the day shift.

One day Billy went home for lunch with a terrible headache. Johnny tried to get his son to stay home, but he returned to the mill to doff his last round of twisters.

When he finally came home, he was so ill he lay down in the floor, on a pallet, in front of the fireplace with his baby sister, Margaret Francis. He gave her a fifty cent piece to play with and she put it in her mouth. Billy called for his mother to get it out and that was the last thing he remembered. He passed out with the dreaded "flu" of 1918.

Once during his illness he remembered seeing his daddy, Johnny, standing over his bed offering him a banana. When Billy finally regained consciousness, Margaret Francis and Johnny had died with the "flu" and were buried in the Pleasant Hill Church Cemetery.

Fannie later married Charles Lee Tritt, who had also lost his wife in 1918. They had three children: Elizabeth (April 13, 1920), Charles Lee, Jr. (December 26, 1922), and Elsie Madelene (January 30, 1927).

John Patterson Children. L to R: Fenley, Ruth, Billy (not pictured John Lewis)

John Patterson was only thirty-six years old when he died. Having been ill for so many years he was unable to accomplish a lot in this life. But, he left a legacy with his children of a kind, easy going, gentle man who always carried a smile on his face and who was filled with love for his family.

Sources: Family Bible and interviews with family members.

— Betty Patterson McIntyre

WILLIAM GEORGE PATTERSON 847

William George Patterson, son of Colonel Edward and Mildred Lewis Patterson of Spartanburg, South Carolina came to Cleveland County in 1848, and was married to Rebecca Hogue, daughter of David and Jane Hogue, residents of the Zoar Community, three miles south of Shelby. He was a soldier in the Confederate Army, was taken prisoner and retained during the war. There were six living children born to this union as follows: William Lewis, David Edward, Charles Jacob, Harriet Elizabeth, George Barto and Leonard Pinkney Hayne.

In 1849 he purchased the Hogue family farm, where he resided for six years. In 1855 he purchased a small summer resort, Epps

Mineral Springs near Swangs, five miles southeast of Shelby. Iron, Freestone and Sulphur Springs flowed freely within a two hundred yard area. After making extensive building additions, including long wide porches on both floors with outside stairs, also adding adjacent family living units, for those who chose to spend long periods. Recreation areas were also added with outdoor bowling alleys, swings, nature trails and picnic areas, he chose to change the name to Patterson Springs. People came from a three hundred mile area to drink and enjoy the health giving benefits of the mineral waters and partake of the fine foods prepared and served family style on spacious tables in a large dining room. Food was gathered daily from local gardens, purchased from neighbors and Shelby markets, with plenty of fresh fruits in season, dairy products, poultry, eggs, pork, beef and of course country ham by the platter-full. This establishment was a place of great resort during the summer season for invalids and voltagies of pleasure, with many guests remaining the winter season also. During the winter season many people from Shelby and surrounding areas enjoyed the frequent gatherings and dances, with live bands, held in the large dining room.

Mr. Patterson was a strong supporter of local churches. He gave land to expand Zoar Baptist Church Cemetary and lumber from his estate to build the first Sulphur Springs M.E. Church. He became a large land owner in Number Three Township where he was held in high regard by his neighbors and friends who stretched over three states.

He was honored when Southern Railway Petitioned the Post office Department to change the name of near-by Swangs to Patterson Springs in the late 1880's. Patterson Springs was incorporated in May 1973 with a population of 630 people, the 1980 census shows a population of 733, a growing and prosperous community. Mr. Patterson's Grandson Edwin A. Patterson was named the first Mayor of the Community. Mr. Patterson was born February 18, 1823, died July 3, 1899, Mrs. Patterson was born August 4, 1827, died October 3, 1892, both are buried in Sulphur Springs United Methodist Church Cemetary adjoining the original Patterson Springs Hotel property. After his death the property was sold to other interests, who were never able to restore it to its former grandeur. After several attempts, by different parties, the buildings and ground were left unkept and mostly vacant until it burned in 1936.

Sources: Family Bible and geneological study.

— Edwin Patterson

WILLIE PLONK PATTERSON 848

Willie Lucille Plonk, the first daughter of Clarence Sloan Plonk and Ellen Patterson Plonk, was born August 10, 1909 in Cleveland County six miles north of Kings Mountain, North Carolina. She was christened in St. Lukes Lutheran Church November 7, 1909.

Willie received her early education in the Cleveland County Schools and graduated from Kings Mountain High School in 1926. She received her Bachelor of Arts degree from Lenoir Rhyne College in 1930 and did graduate work at the University of North Carolina, Winthrop College and Appalachian State University. She also studied at Plonk School of Creative Arts, Asheville, North Carolina.

Willie married Jay Hart Patterson of Fayetteville, North Carolina on November 8, 1933 in St. Matthews Lutheran Church, Kings Mountain.

Their first son, Jay Hart Patterson, Junior, born October 26, 1935 married Carolyn Geneva Bell January 12, 1957. Their only child is a daughter, Gina Lee Patterson born July 10, 1960.

Their twin sons, William Sloan Patterson and Joseph George Patterson, were born July 16, 1947. William Sloan married Rhonda Lynn Hefner December 28, 1969. Their children are Laura Sloan Patterson born June 28, 1974 and Sarah Hefner Patterson born September 9, 1980.

Willie taught in the Cumberland County Schools, Cleveland County Schools, Fayetteville City Schools, and the Kings Mountain District Schools before her retirement in 1974.

Sources: Family documents, newspaper records, and the book Our Kin by Hoffman.

— Willie P. Patterson

ISABEL YOUNG HOEY PAUL 849

Isabel Young Hoey Paul, the third child and only daughter of Clyde Roark Hoey and Bess Gardner Hoey, was born in Shelby, N.C. on January 26, 1907. She attended Woman's College in Greensboro and received her A.B. degree from Duke University. For a year or two thereafter she taught school in an elementary school in South Shelby. She went to Simmons College in Boston for training in personnel work, and following the completion of that course became Personnel Director for Ivey's in Charlotte.

During the years 1937-1941 she lived in the Governor's mansion in Raleigh while her father was Governor. She assisted her mother by assuming the responsibility for directing the housekeeper regarding arrangements for the entertaining which was a necessary part of living in the mansion. In 1940 she had the honor of christening the battleship, U.S.S. North Carolina.

Following her return to Shelby after her

Isabel probably should have lived in New York, for she dearly loved the theater. She enjoyed wearing fashionable clothes and dared to wear outlandish hats. She was an avid reader of fiction, with a particular interest in mysteries. Often she would read late into the night, completing six or seven books a week. She had a vibrant personality, liked to entertain, and was well loved by old and young alike, although she seemed to relate particularly well to youth. She was a handsome and attractive woman. Her personality and zest for life attracted many friends. She had a charisma that added a bit of glamour to everyday life.

Those whose lives were touched by Isabel find that she lives on in their hearts and minds. Her final gift was the donation of sight by corneal transplant to a patient at Duke Hospital, who otherwise would be blind.

The following are excerpts from a memorial resolution adopted by the North Carolina General Assembly February 23, 1961:

"On January 31, 1961, Isabel Hoey Paul departed this life. In her death the state has sustained a great loss keenly felt by her legion of friends and many others who appreciated and understood her selfless and useful virtues.

"A person of charm, poise, wit, warmth, and understanding, who received her greatest satisfaction in serving others, Isabel Hoey Paul neither requested nor needs eulogy, for her life was her eulogy. 'To Know her was to love her.'"

— Dan M. Paul
and Charlotte Hoey Mansfield

CHARLES LORENZO PEELER FAMILY

850

Charles Lorenzo Peeler, born September 3, 1933 was the fifth and youngest son of Randolph Theodore and Elva Elmina Peeler of Belwood. Peeler is a German name. He married Alvin Joan Propst, born October 21, 1933 and she was the only child of the late J. Alvin Propst and Mrs. Fred Panther. Propst is also a German name.

Charles was educated at Belwood High School, later graduating from Cleveland Technical Institute with a Criminal Justice degree. He was raised on a 200-acre farm where he enjoyed the outdoors and especially driving the tractor where the family raised crops of cotton and grain. At Belwood, he played basketball and baseball and was in the Future Farmers of America Club. While in the 4-H Club he won many honors for showing cows and in 1951 he won a trip to the American Royal Show held in Kansas City, Missouri. He took extension courses at North Carolina State University in cattle artificial insemination.

Joan was born and raised in Shelby. As a child, she won honors in dancing and acrobatics. She had seven years of piano. She graduated from Shelby High School in 1952 where she was a cheerleader and attended Gardner-Webb College where she was a cheerleader and a business major.

Both were twenty years old when married on April 25, 1954 at Webb Chapel, First Baptist Church in Shelby by Rev. John Lawrence. Charles carried on the farm work for his mother for two years until he was drafted into the Army. His wife worked at Union Trust Company Bank as a bookkeeper.

In 1956 when drafted into the Army he was based out of Fort Dix, New Jersey, at a Nike Missile Base in Livingston, New Jersey. His job was to guard New York City by a radar detector. The following year was spent in Portsmouth, Virginia, where he attained the rank of sergeant. One month before his duty was over they had a daughter, Paula Joy, born September 6, 1958 weighing 7 lbs. 12 ozs. at Shelby Hospital. She had so much dark hair the nurses tied a ribbon in it at the hospital. Four years later they had a son, Charles Franklin, nicknamed "Chuck" on September 23, 1962, weighing 8 lbs. 2 ozs.

Both were charter members of Aldersgate United Methodist Church. Charles did office work with Shelby Supply Company for three years then joined Carolina Freight Carriers in Cherryville as a long-line driver. They bought a house at 709 Branton Drive in Shelby in 1959 and later in 1964 they moved up a block to a larger house at 1315 Wesson Road.

Mrs. Peeler is a substitute teacher in the Shelby System. She is a member of Elks Auxiliary, American Legion Auxiliary, Democratic Women of Cleveland County, and an antique judge for the Cleveland County Fair.

Charles is a member of Cleveland Masonic Lodge 202, a 32nd degree Mason of the Scottish Rites, a Shriner and member of Oasis Temple of Charlotte, also the Piedmont Shrine Club of Shelby, Shelby American Legion Post 82, Disabled Veterans, The American Veterans and Benevolent and Protective Order of the Elks. He was selected by the American Biographical Institute and its Editorial Board to appear in the 1978-79 Tenth edition of Personalities of the South."

Both Peelers are Democrats. Charles has run for Sheriff in the past against Haywood Allen, running a real close race against the 30-year incumbent but was unsuccessful. He is running again this year, 1982, for sheriff.

Paula, their daughter is twenty-three. She is a graduate of Clemson University where she majored in early childhood education. She was a majorette there all four years; having performed in two Gator Bowls and one Peach father's term of office, she wrote a column, "Dear Public", for the newly-founded newspaper, The Cleveland Times. She was a member of the Contemporary Book Club, the Junior Charity League, and the Shelby Business & Professional Women's Club. In 1947 she was selected as the Woman of the Year, being the first recipient of that honor bestowed by the Shelby Business and Professional Women's Club. She was active in directing the Shelby Little Theater, and was responsible for the creation of the debutante ball in Shelby.

Isabel Young Hoey Paul

On November 1, 1942 Isabel married Daniel Murray Paul of Raleigh and Pantego, N.C. They lived in Shelby for a short while, but then moved to Raleigh, where Isabel served as President of the Sir Walter Cabinet. She was the mother of two sons: Lewis Whitford Paul II and Daniel Murray Paul, Jr. Isabel died on January 31, 1961 and was buried in Sunset Cemetery, Shelby, N.C. She was a member of the Central Methodist Church in Shelby until after her marriage when she joined her husband in membership in the Episcopal Church of the Redeemer.

Charles L. Peeler

Joan Propst Peeler

Bowl. From 1971-75 she competed in baton on the national level winning 183 trophies and 98 medals. She is now a certified baton teacher, judge, and school teacher.

Chuck is a sophomore at Western Carolina University where he is active in Lamda Chi Alpha Fraternity. He will appear in the 12th edition of "Personalities of the South". He has had a great history of playing baseball having been a 3-time winner of the "Best Hitter" trophy, once at Clemson Camp, Shelby High School, and American Legion Post 82 in Shelby. He received a certificate of merit in Spanish. In 1976 he was selected to serve as a Page in the House Representatives in Raleigh.

Sources: Personal Records

— Mrs. Charles Peeler

CLARENCE STOUGH PEELER

851

Clarence Stough Peeler is the eldest son of Randolph and Elva Peeler, born in Belwood, North Carolina, April 28, 1914.

He finished his high school year at Belwood High School in Cleveland County and graduated from Boiling Springs Junior College, Boiling Springs, NC. He spent one year at Wake Forest College and then joined the U.S. Navy. He served in the medical corp at the U.S. Naval Hospital for several years in Norfolk, Virginia. He later had several tours of sea duty as a medic on hospital ships. He was serving aboard the U.S.S. Somers 381 when Pearl Harbor was bombed by the Japanese on Dec. 7, 1941.

Stough married Grace Epps of Surry, Virginia, in 1939 and they have one son, Gerald Wayne Peeler, born November 19, 1946. Jerry is a graduate of Newberry College in Newberry, South Carolina. He served in the American Theater of War during the Vietnam war. He is married to Nancy Godley Peeler of Islandton, South Carolina. They live in Summerville, South Carolina, with their son, Jason who is five years old. Both Jerry and Nancy work with the Social Security office in Walterboro, South Carolina. He has held this position for eleven years.

Stough retired from the Navy after twenty-three years of service with the rank of 1st Class Petty Officer. He remained in the Naval reserve for ten years and worked at the Naval Base in North Charleston for ten more years before his final retirement.

He and his wife, Grace, live in North Charleston, South Carolina, and are members of the Cooper River Baptist Church there.

Sources: Personal Knowledge

— Mrs. Robert Peeler

FRANKLIN HUGH PEELER

852

Franklin Hugh Peeler was born November 28, 1922 to Randolph and Elva Peeler at Belwood, North Carolina in Cleveland County.

He was very athletic in high school and enjoyed all sports but excelled in basketball. He graduated from Belwood High School in 1939 and had a perfect attendance record for his eleven years of school.

After his school years he joined the National Guard Co. K in Shelby in 1940. He left when they were called to duty by the president and served at Fort Benning, Georgia, and Huntington, West Virginia. He went overseas with the Rainbow Division in 1944.

Franklin Hugh was killed in action in Alsace, France, January 18, 1945 and was buried in the American cemetery there.

Sources: Family Bible, Personal knowledge.

— Mrs. Robert Peeler

JOHN HENRY PEELER

853

John Henry Peeler, son of David Peeler and Elizabeth London, was born January 19, 1828. John H. died December 29, 1894 in Cleveland County and is buried at Palm Tree Methodist Church, Lawndale.

About 1849 John Henry Peeler married Cassay Louisa Hastings.

He enlisted into Company B, Fifth North Carolina Infantry, C.S.A.

Children of John H. and Cassay L. Peeler were as follows: Joseph, born March 27, 1850, married Cordova Crowder; John Coon Peeler, born December 18, 1851, married Fannie Elizabeth Crowder; William Franklin Peeler, born November 19, 1854, married a Miss Beam; Columbus S., born April 22, 1857, married Sarah Rebecca Gardner; Andrew S., born December 11, 1859, married Delia Wilson; Mary C., born January 1, 1861, no information; and Elizabeth L., born Novem-

Children of Mr. & Mrs. Charles L. Peeler. L to R: Chuck F. and Paula Joy.

Remember . . .

Articles
Are Indexed
By
Article Numbers
. . . Not By
Page
Number

sidered a college at that time.

He went to Whiteville, North Carolina, in 1910 to go into the saw mill business. In 1912 he returned to Belwood to help his father, Peter, on the farm and operate a cotton gin.

He was married to Elva Elmina Parker born March 7, 1896 on February 9, 1913. She was the daughter of Dennis Parker and Ollie Dellinger Parker. Elva's grandfather, Enoch Parker lived to be 102 years old.

In 1928, Randolph bought a new Model A Ford truck without a cab or windshield and went to Florida. He brought back 50 bushels of oranges. Neighbors from all around came to see the fresh oranges from Florida. He continued to haul produce through 1940. He had opened a produce stand in the old Lyric Theater Building which is now Hudson's Department Store. He rented this building from First National Bank for $20 a month.

Randolph T. Peeler, Cleveland County Deputy Sheriff, late 1930's-early 1940's.

He owned and operated a saw mill and thrashed wheat for the public. The engine he used was a Frick Steam Traction engine which was fired with wood. Besides his farming he operated a fertilizer business.

Randolph was elected Constable in the early 1930's and later served as Deputy under Cleveland County sheriff, D.D. Wilkins, Raymond Cline and H.A. Logan.

His wife Elva, a christian wife and mother, kept the homefires burning at her home. She enjoyed sewing for her family and seeing to the needs of her five sons. She liked to work in her garden to have fresh vegetables during summer and to can for their needs in winter. She also liked growing flowers in her yard.

She quilted during winter months for she wanted to have enough for herself and all her sons. No matter how busy she was, she always had time to read her Bible and before she died she had read it through three times.

Randolph and Elva had five children, all boys: Clarence Stough, Robert Earl, Franklin Hugh, Walter Harrel and Charles Lorenzo. Franklin was killed in action in Alsace, France, during World War II.

Randolph died June 18, 1955 at the age of 64, and Elva died June 5, 1978 and was 82 years old.

Source: Family knowledge

— Mrs. Charles Peeler

ROBERT EARL PEELER

855

Robert, son of Randolph Theodore and Elva Elmina Parker Peeler, was born July 24, 1918 at Belwood, North Carolina in Cleveland County. He attended Belwood High School and graduated there in 1935.

He was married September 2, 1938 to Audrey K. Crawford born October 5, 1917 at Chesterfield, South Carolina. She was a nurse at Shelby Hospital in Shelby, which is now known as Cleveland Memorial Hospital.

Robert was a member of the Shelby Police force for three years. In September 1941, he went with Duke Power Company at the Steam Station in Cliffside, North Carolina.

In 1943, he was inducted into the U.S. Navy and served for three years in The American Theater of War. He attained the rank of 1st Class Petty Officer. He then went back to work with Duke Power at Cliffside.

Audrey and Robert are parents of two children: Rebecca Suzanne born October 1, 1944 and Robert Earl Peeler, Jr. born June 1, 1947. Suzanne was a graduate of Chase High School in Rutherford County and later majored in Business Administration at Western Carolina University at Cullowhee, North Carolina. She is married to Barry Long of Gastonia, North Carolina and has one son, Robert Marion born June 11, 1969. He is twelve years old and they reside in Gastonia, North Carolina.

Their son Bobby graduated from Bandy's High School in Sherrills Ford, North Carolina. He served in the Navy Sea Bees for three and one-half years having taken training in Great Lakes, Illinois. He spent one year in Guam; then took Marine training at Camp LeJune, North Carolina, and from there he served in Vietnam. After his return to the states he was employed by Duke Power Company in Sherrills Ford, North Carolina, for three years. He is now self-employed in the Dry-Well and Building Business in Catawba County.

He is married to Dorthy Cashion Peller of Newport, Tennessee, and they have two daughters: Angela Michelle born July 4, 1977 and is five years old; Jennifer Leigh born February 7, 1981. She is a year old. They live in Denver, North Carolina.

Robert, Sr. retired August 1, 1980 from Duke Power Company at Cliffside Steam Station as Superintendent of Operations. He had worked there for 39 years.

Audrey and Robert live at Riverbend in Shelby and are members of Aldersgate United Methodist Church.

Sources: Personal knowledge

— Mrs. Robert Peeler

SUMMY ALFRED PEELER FAMILY

856

The Summy Alfred Peeler family of Cleveland County trace their ancestry to Johannes Von Buhler of Stuttgart, Germany, who landed in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania in the year 1717. He sailed from Hamburg on the German vessel MOLLIE commanded by Captain Michael Weir.

Johannes reared a family of three sons in his new home. The first child was named Michael after his beloved captain. David and Jacob remained in Pennsylvania while Michael, with other settlers, immigrated to North Carolina in the spring of 1748 and settled in what is now Rowan County.

Peter Peeler, one of Michael's seven children, moved with his wife, Elizabeth, to Rutherford County (which is now Cleveland County) and settled near the headwaters of Knob Creek on land presently owned by the Gaston Spurling family. They lived in what was known as "the red house"

There is no concrete evidence when the name was changed from Von Buhler to Buhler to Peeler but apparently it was during Michael Sr.'s lifetime as records show Peter as being a Peeler.

Peter died in 1813. He had reared four sons and one daughter. One son, Barnabus (born in 1790) married Sarah Hoyle of Gaston County. Of their nine children, Alfred Graves is the family link to the Summy Peeler family.

Alfred Graves married Elizabeth Cline and raised eight children in the same "red house" in which he was born and reared. He was considered one of the most prominent and wealthy citizens of Upper Cleveland County, owning several hundred acres of land. His son John Ambrose Peeler married Rosa Boggs and to this union were born nine children: Docia Genelia, Clayton Plato, Margaret Elizabeth, Summy Alfred, John Boggs, William Robert, Barney Paris, Sallie Emmaline and Mary Eva.

Summy Alfred Peeler (Born July 22, 1889) married Mattie Dixon Stamey (born December 3, 1891) December 29, 1910 and settled in the Belwood Community of Upper Cleveland County. He was a prosperous farmer who also owned and operated a saw mill and a cotton gin. Because of his integrity and moral character, Summy Peeler was highly respected in the community. He was an elected member of the Belwood School Board and also the Official Board of Kadash Methodist Church.

Mattie Peeler was equally loved and respected by her family and the community. She was known for her acts of kindness and love for others. Her title was a "professional mother", bestowed on her by one of her in-laws, fitted her perfectly. Love for their seven children and devotion to their care and training was the main goal of this extraordinary, christian couple.

All but the oldest (who was born in Lincoln County) of their children were born in the Belwood Community. In order of birth they are:

Rosemary Isadore, whose husband Carroll E. Beam is deceased, has four children: Donald Everette, Thomas Carlyle, Mitchell Paul, and Julia Carole (Mrs. Johnny Carl

Summy Alfred Peeler, 1889-1965

Mattie Dixon Stamey Peeler, 1891-1961

Hoyle). She has ten grandchildren: Sharon Beam Rogers, Donald E. Beam, Jr., Sandra Beam Clark and Amy Leigh Beam; Thomas C., Jr. and Jennifer Ann Beam; Michael Eugene and Martin Alfred Beam; Gregory Todd and Matthew Wade Hoyle.

Dorothy Gaynelle (Mrs. Edward Branton) died August 5, 1979. Her children are Theda Gaynelle (Mrs. Robert Grimes), Robert Edward, Carolyn Sue (Mrs. James C. Spangler), and Thomas Alfred Branton. Her nine grandchildren are: Thomas Branton and Marcus Llewellyn Grimes; Myra Sue, Robbie Lynn and Ann Lee Branton; Gregory James and Grant Carson Spangler; Krista Gaye and Brian Edward Branton.

Thomas Alfred is married to the former Eliza Hunt. Their only child, Eliza Diane, is married to John B. Sherman. They have one grandchild, Eliza Beth Sherman.

Harry Ambrose is married to the former Blanche Brackett. They have an only child, Phyllis Jo (Mrs. Thomas S. Hill) and two granddaughters — Kelly Anne and Elizabeth Elaine Hill.

Blanche Elizabeth (Mrs. Robert D. Warlick) has three daughters: Sheila Lynn (Mrs. Nelson London), Roberta Anne (Mrs. Ralph W. Dixon, Jr.), and Susan Elizabeth (Mrs. Mark Jolley). Their grandchildren are Seth Warlick and Robert Nelson London; Christopher Paul and Heather Michelle Dixon.

Forrest Edward is married to the former Mozelle Sigmon. They have a daughter, Carol Lee (Mrs. John dePerczel) and a son, Michael Forrest Peeler. They have one grandchild, John Forrest dePerczel.

William Stamey is married to the former Margaret Southerland. They have three children: William Stamey Peeler, Jr., Ann Clark Peeler and Ellen Southerland (Mrs. Kirk Adams).

Summy and Mattie celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary in December 1960 before she died August 11, 1961. Summy Peeler died March 19, 1965. They are interred in the mausoleum at Cleveland Memorial Park.

Sources: Books History of Peeler Family, Peter Hoyle Family

— Tom Peeler

WALTER HAROLD PEELER

857

Walter H. Peeler, son of Randolph Theodore and Elva Elmina Parker Peeler was born October 23, 1927 at Belwood, North Carolina. He grew up on the family's 200 acre farm and was educated at Belwood School.

He married Dessie Walker of Upper Cleveland County, born December 19, 1925. They have two daughters: Doris Linda born February 10, 1945 and Donna Jean born March 23, 1951.

Walter served as a Shelby City Policeman from December 1950 until February 1956. Then he entered school to train for a Highway Patrolman, after graduation his first assignment took him and his family to Fairmont, North Carolina, in the eastern part of the state; from there they went to Waynesville, North Carolina. The family enjoyed this location living in the mountains. This is where their oldest daughter met and married her husband, Michael Norman of Waynesville. They have two children: Michael Todd born November 3, 1966. He has had an outstanding year as a tackle with his football team which went undefeated. Their daughter is Thelissa Tonya born August 20, 1968 and she has won many awards for dancing competition.

Walter was promoted to sergeant while at Waynesville and was sent to Salisbury, North Carolina, where he remained until retirement. He and his wife and daughter Jean returned to Waynesville to make their home where he was employed by the N.C. School Bus maintenance for Haywood County.

Dessie enjoys being a homemaker and working with her flowers; while Walter enjoys all sports, especially football which he attends many of the college games. He likes to travel, having been in all fifty states and in 1979 he traveled in Europe, having visited England, Switzerland, Austria, West Germany, Holland, Belgium and France. While in France he visited his brother Franklin Peeler's grave site where he was killed during World War II. He has a slide collection of his tour.

Their younger daughter Jean is a Department Manager at Sky-City in Waynesville, North Carolina.

Dessie and Walter are members of Grandview Baptist Church in Waynesville where he is a Sunday School teacher of the Men's Adult Class.

Sources: Personal interviews

— Mrs. Charles Peeler

WILLIAM BROUGHTON PETTY

858

William Broughton Petty's family (1893-1969) began with Absolum Petty (1750-1802) and Mary Clayton, his wife, from Bedford County, Virginia before the Revolutionary War. Absolum moved to Union County, South Carolina between Linky Creek and Thickety Creek. The family was very active in the Revolutionary War. Moses F. Petty was wounded in the Battle at Ox Hill and Gettysburg, September 17, 1881. Jefferson G. Petty was killed May 3, 1868, at Chanceville. The records show that Private James C. Petty served in the Second Battalion, Company M, of the Confederate States Army from February 1864 until the 9th of April, 1865 and he was honorably discharged from service at the Columbia Hospital on the 20th day of May 1865. During the times of his service, he served under the command of Captain W.T. Wilkins.

The entire family has always been active in the church and community when a cause was worth fighting for.

William Broughton Petty was the son of James Judson (September 4, 1855 — March 23, 1900) and Phoebe Ann Harrill Petty (August 31, 1861 — October 1, 1943) (buried at Big Springs Church). He married Sara Lucinda Grigg Petty and lived in the Shanghai Community on the site of Crest High School. During the depression the farm was sold to pay off the mortgage. He was a dedicated family man that believed in establishing and supporting the local Baptist Church. He and his family attended Poplar Springs Baptist Church, and a clock still hangs in the church sanctuary that he and his family donated to the church. After moving to New House he was a dedicated tither and supporter of Sandy Plains Baptist Church. According to his family and neighbors, he sometimes was known for giving too much to the church when things seemed to be needed at home for the support of his wife and eight children.

Many times when neighbors and friends visited the family, Broughton would find a very diplomatic way of inquiring if they were attending church. According to his oldest son, Judson, he often felt that he should have been a preacher, but times were very difficult to support a family and prepare for the ministry at the same time. Church members and friends that have been in his presence while he was praying never forgot his sincere dedication for the welfare of his fellowman. On the farm at New House, a rock is buried (place of prayer — W.B. Petty) on the spot where Broughton prayed each day.

There were some of the Pettys that Grandpa (Broughton) did not like to talk about. In 1958 after finishing Clemson University, James

William Broughton Petty, 1893-1969

Broughton Petty moved to Casar and met Charlie Page, who was 96 years old and lived on Pheasant Creek. Charlie knew Pink Petty from North Wilkesboro. Pink seemed to be the traveling fox hunter who supplied the people on the South Mountains with corn made in liquid form. William Broughton Petty was a farmer and was not interested in telling about how Pink would store his liquid corn in caves along the mountains. Charlie Page told about the honor system in trading gold nuggets for the liquid corn. Pink would keep the caves supplied with the liquid corn and the customers would leave the gold in the caves. Pink would retrieve his gold on his return trip home. Pink did such a good job with his fox hunting, he was honored by Governor Broughton with a gold plated fox horn.

Much of the family history is recorded in Gaffney, South Carolina. The family cemetery is located west of the Kings Mountain Battleground where the names of relatives such as Addie Austell (1866-1906), Martha Elizabeth Barber (1872-1896), Jonas G. Blanton (1849-1925), Donald Wayne Camp (1934-1934), Berryman Hicks Clary (1821-1884), Larry Bruce Cudd (1948-1948), Ethel Petty Goforth (died in childbirth), Martha Humphres (1824-1853), Dudley Lemmons (1874-1950), Hugh Moore (1823-1904), Robert E. Nance (1840-1890), Sam A. Stacy (1843-1908), Levina Petty Turner (1810-1894), Violet M. Wilkins (1847-1898), and many others are buried and give some idea of relatives that continue to be a vital part of the Piedmont of North and South Carolina. There are also 31 other graves that bear the Petty name in the cemetery near Gaffney, South Carolina.

Sources: Family records.

— Dr. James B. Petty

THE ANCESTORS AND DESCENDENTS OF MAJOR PHILBECK

859

The Philbeck's who came to this country were from the Southwestern part of Germany and spelled their name "Felbach".

During the latter part of the first half of the eighteenth century, the family of Wilhelm Ernst Felbach moved to Scotland. Wilhelm's wife, Maria Elizabeth, was of Scottish ancestry. Wilhelm's oldest son, Johan, came to America in the company of a family named Goss. They arrived on the British ship the "Good Intent" at the port of Philadelphia on October 23, 1754. Johan, or John as he was now called, went to the colony of South Carolina and was presented a "Land Grant" by Governor William Bull. Wilhelm, Maria, and their four remaining sons did not come to America until 1771. These four sons were George, Peter, William, and Phillip.

In 1790 John Philbeck contracted to build a hotel and way station on the route of the Rutherford-Lincoln stagecoach line which lay between what is now Hollis and New House. John Philbeck liked the hilly Rutherford County countryside and persuaded the family to move there some years later. John remained a bachelor until his death in 1796.

George and Phillip Philbeck were the first family members to actually take up residence in North Carolina. Before the move, Wilhelm had died in 1801.

The line of the Philbeck family that Major Philbeck descended from was through Phillip Philbeck who, in 1806, settled in the area that was later to become Bostic, N.C. He married Elizabeth Davis in 1809. It is our belief that Richard Philbeck was one of the sons of Phillip Philbeck although there is some disagreement on this in various parts of the family. At any rate, Richard had a son born in 1852, Daniel Johnson Philbeck, who was the grandfather of Major Philbeck.

Family legend has it that Richard Philbeck could broad jump as far as any of his sons when he was 70 years old. In the later years of his life, Richard, after visiting any of his sons would say as he left — "Y'all take notice." As far as can be determined, no one knew exactly what he meant.

Richard and Daniel Johnson Philbeck finally settled in the New House section of Cleveland County near where John Philbeck had built the stagecoach hotel in 1790. Daniel Johnson Philbeck, who lived from 1852 until 1916, married Frances MaryAnn Wright. One of the sons born of this union was Hoyle Philbeck who was born in 1880 and lived until 1947. He was married to Georgia Lookadoo and their son, Major, was born on February 7, 1910. They lived in various places until about 1928 when they moved to an old house which, if still standing, would now be about a mile south of Crest Jr. High School. Living no more than a quarter mile away, as the crow flies, was the family of M.M. Steep which had several pretty girls among its number. One of these was Margie Kathryn.

Major and Margie met at what was commonly referred to as a "Bresh" Arbor Meeting. Major asked Margie if he could sit on the bench with her because there was not enough room for his feet back where he was sitting. Margie recognized the line for what it was but later on in the evening warmed up enough to allow to Major as how she had heard that he was one boy who really knew how to show a girl a good time. So, the courtship was off and running.

On November 5, 1932 they were married in Gaffney, S.C. and after the ceremony spent their honeymoon picking cotton on Hoyle Philbeck's farm.

Major and Margie's first four children were Carolyn, Mary Frances, Donnis, and Joyce. But finally on November 7, 1942 they got what they wanted when a boy, Charles Larry, was born.

Carolyn, Mary, and Donnis all attended Shanghai School and had to walk a dirt road about a half mile to catch the school bus. Less than halfway between the house and where they caught the bus was a creek. It is said that on many school days the three girls would stop at the creek, eat the lunch that Margie had prepared for them, and then go back home and declare they had missed the school bus.

In 1964 Major and Margie won first the Cleveland County and then the North Carolina Farm Family of the Year Award. So many accolades were being given them that it worried Major. He remembered that somewhere in the Bible it said that "woe be unto the man when all men speak well of him". However, his mind was relieved a little later on when one of his neighbors mildly critized him.

Carolyn married Don Wesson and their children are Wanda, Donnie, Jeff, Major Todd, and Katie. Mary Frances married Bob Boyles and their children are Kelly and Scott. Donnis married Ghazi Sakran and their children are Tammie and Paul. Joyce married Jerry McKinney and their children are Mark, Jason, and Marge. Charles Larry married Eunice Faries and their children are Alex, Rocky, and Jennifer.

Major often expressed the desire to live to the Biblically promised "three score and ten". When he died on August 27, 1980 he was 70 years, six months, and twenty days old.

Sources: Oral family history from Major and Margie Philbeck and from the book by Maynard Philbeck Lineage and Biography of Wilhem Ernst Felbach and North Carolina Descendants.

— Charles L. Philbeck

The Philbeck family loved farming and life on the farm. They came to this country in 1754, and following, in order to live peaceful lives tilling the good earth. This life continued and the first three brothers to come into Rutherford County (now part Cleveland) multiplied until there are now many descendants. The first to live in this area were William, Jr., George, Sr., and Phillip Philbeck.

It was not uncommon for cousins to marry among the pioneer families, so Spurgin Hollifield Philbeck (1887-1960, commonly called "Holl") has double ties with a sixth generation offspring of the German immigrant William Ernest Philbeck (William Ernest Felbach) and Scottish, Maria Elizabeth Philbeck, (who settled in Union County, South Carolina), through, George Sr.; George Jr.; William H. He is a fifth generation through Phillip, John, and Mary. Mary and William H. married and were the parents of Robert Dupont who married Lucinda Davis (daughter of Nathaniel and Minerva Davis).

The German name Felbach means Phillip by the brook or stream. William Ernest Felbach came from a section of Germany by the same name. Somehow through the years Robert Dupont left his birthplace in upper Cleveland County and took up other occupations. For awhile he ran a grist mill and made furniture. From there he moved to Caroleen and began working in the Cotton Mill. Holl went to work in the mill for ten cents a day — seventy-two hours a week as a "spool boy". The employees worked thirteen hours a day until Saturday noon. His father and older sisters were working in the mill also, so they saw that Holl kept his boxes full of spools.

That schedule did not leave much time for an education. Later the family moved to Bessemer City, still in textile work. While at Bessemer City, Holl went to night school. There he met Dora Swofford (1888-1965) daughter of Joseph Martin and Dowie Beemgardner Swofford. They were married at Cliffside Methodist Church (1911). Holl had been a member of the Methodist Church for several years, however his family was strong Baptist. He was named Spurgin Hollifield the namesake of two famous Baptist preachers.

Holl and his family were long time members of Polkville United Methodist Church at the time of their death. Things seem to equalize. All three of their daughters married Baptist men and went with them to the Baptist.

Holl and Dora lived in Gaston County and did textile work. After their second child was born they decided tilling the soil providing a healthier life for rearing a family, so back to the farm in Cleveland County. They farmed until retirement age, then they moved to Mooresboro (1945), to run the Queene City Bus Terminal and a country grocery store until 1960. Holl took influenza and pneumonia from which he could not recover. Then Dora lived with daughter, Beulah Noblitt until 1965.

To this couple were born four children: Robert (1912), Beulah (1914), Florence (1917), and Mae (1920). Robert served in the

Richard Philbeck, 1811-1894

HAROLD EDWIN PLASTER, SENIOR FAMILY

861

Harold Edwin Plaster, Sr. was the last of nine children born to Louis Arthur and Lillie Seaford Plaster in Winston-Salem, N.C. on Feb. 14, 1917. He graduated magna cum laude from the University of Maryland School of Dentistry in 1939, and after a year of oral surgery residency at Johns Hopkins Hospital, established his practice with his older brother, Hubert S. Plaster, in 1940.

Coming with Harold to Shelby was his new bride, Helen Spaug Plaster, whom he had married on July 5, 1940. Helen was the elder daughter of William and Estelle Binkley Spaug and was born in Tupelo, Miss. on June 27, 1918 and attended Mississippi State College for Women at Columbus, Miss.

Helen and Harold lived on South Washington Street before moving to East Warren, and then to 608 Forest Hill Drive. Harold had a farm on Double Shoals Road and is remembered driving his dilapidated jeep around town and to the golf course.

One of the chief gathering spots in Shelby from the 30s to the early 70s, was Smith's Drug Store on the Square. Harold had his dental office over Smith's from 1954 to 1970 and was often seen taking his coffee break at Smith's.

In 1970, Harold Edwin Plaster, Junior, who had finished Wofford College and the Medical College of Virginia's School of Dentistry came to town to practice with his father. There was not enough room for both over Smith's so the two moved their office to Grover Street.

Harold, Jr., was born Jan. 2, 1943, had met

Martha Brown Rogers of Pikeville, Ky. in Richmond, Va. where he was in dental school and she was teaching French in high school. "Brownie", daughter of Lon Brown and Mary Walton Rogers, finished at Salem College and has a M.A. in French from the University of Kentucky. Brownie and Harold, Jr. were married June 8, 1968.

Margaret Helen Plaster, Helen and Harold's other child was born Oct. 15, 1957, and graduated from Converse College in 1979. "Meg" married Charles Laverne Stovall, Jr. on Nov. 7, 1981. Chuck is a graduate of Erskine College, and is a native of Greenville, S.C. They are presently living in Inman, S.C.

Grandchildren of Harold, Sr. are William Rogers Plaster, born May 26, 1971 and James Walton Plaster, born July 15, 1975.

Harold, Sr. and Helen, and Harold, Jr. and Brownie are all active members of Central Methodist Church and have served the church in various capacities. They have, over the years, all had an active interest in the community affairs of Shelby and Cleveland County.

Sources: Personal knowledge.

— Martha Plaster

DR. HUBERT S. PLASTER

862

Hubert Seaford Plaster was born Oct. 12, 1904 in Winston-Salem, N.C. He was the second of nine children born to Lillie Seaford Plaster and Louis Arthur Plaster.

He attended public schools in Winston-Salem and Salem College, and after graduating with honors from the School of Dentistry of the University of Maryland in 1926, he declined a professorship at that school and came to Shelby that year to practice dentistry where he remained until his death.

On Oct. 14, 1927, he married Ruth Howie (born March 24, 1900) in Monroe, N.C. (see Ruth Howie Plaster).

Having over twenty years of active service to the city of Shelby, Plaster served as mayor for four terms. He was first elected mayor in 1963, served as city councilman for eight years from 1951-59, and was mayor pro tem from 1957-59.

One of Plaster's most important characteristics was his unselfish giving of his total time to various aspects of civic work including the Boy Scouts, the American Red Cross and of course, his church to which he was very dedicated.

He was president of Electricities of North Carolina from 1972-74 and founder of the organization.

During Plaster's tenure as mayor, some of the city's accomplishments included the following: reducing the city tax rate three times; increasing the city water plant from six million to 10 million gallons per day; creating five neighborhood playgrounds; creating seven off-street parking lots, including three that are city-owned; continuing urban renewal; five annexations to the city; upgrading Holly Oak Park; giving $75,000 each to a new county library and a new civic auditorium; construction of low income apartments and housing navy during World War II. First, he married Virginia McCluney (daughter of Talmadge and Lilly Sisk McCluney). Two children were born to this union; Bob, of Burbank, California, and Rose (Mrs. Hubert Green) of Spindale, N.C. Secondly, Robert married Evelyn Frith of Burbank, California. In 1979, Robert and Evelyn came to N.C. to visit. Robert became ill, entered the hospital, and had surgery for a brain tumor. After three months in the hospital, he died and is buried in Polkville United Methodist Church beside his parents.

The oldest daughter, Beulah, married William Arthur Noblitt (son of Leonard and Nettie Vassey Noblitt). Two children were born of this union. William Thomas Noblitt (1945) of Palmdale, California, and Ann Wright (1948). Secondly Beulah married Robert Lee Ridings, (son of Fred and Lucy Hutchins Ridings). They reside at Route 4, Shelby, N.C.

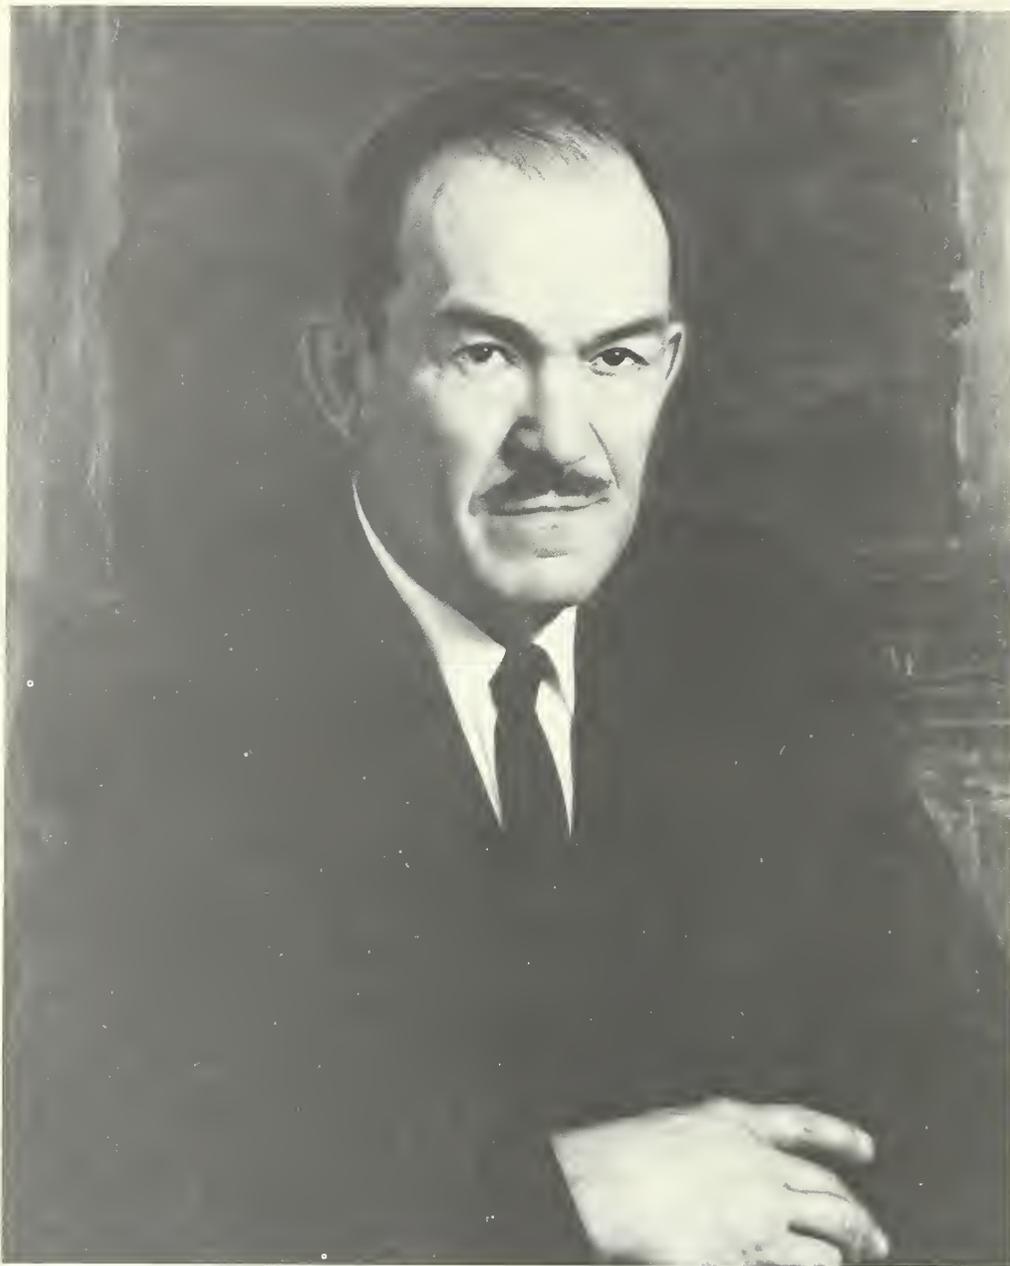

Florence married Colin Ray Bridges (son of R.H. and Laura Lee Bridges). They have three children: Robert H. (1936) Washington, N.C.; Barbara Jean Murray (1946) Nashville, Tenn.; and Colin Ray Bridges Jr., Rutherfordton, N.C.

First, Mae married Joe Freeman Sailors (son of Walker and Mae Sailors). Two children were born: Patricia and Gerald, both of Atlanta, Georgia. Secondly, Mae married James Natheny. They live near Kings Mountain, N.C.

— Beulah Philbeck Ridings

Front row L to R: Robert D. Philbeck holding Frank Johnson, Lucinda, Thomas. 2nd row L to R: Minnie Philbeck Taylor, Lee Taylor, Robert F., Romeo, Ida Philbeck Johnson, Lillie Denton, Agathie Philbeck Denton, Bunyon. 3rd row L to R: Dollie Texie Payne, Millie, Fannie Philbeck Hawkins, Spurgin Hollifield.

Dr. Hubert S. Plaster

projects; obtaining federal grants amounting to three million dollars for parks and recreation, water and sewer systems, public housing, law enforcement and city planning.

He played a leading role in Shelby's becoming an "All American City" in 1971 and headed the delegation to Portland, Ore. for the presentation.

He was a member of the N.C. Dental Association and a former trustee of Gardner-Webb College, president of Shelby Industries, Inc., member of the Rotary Club and Shelby Chamber of Commerce. He received the Lions Club Citizen of the Year award in 1953 and was a Mason, a member of Cleveland Lodge 202, and a York Rite Shriner and a member of the Oasis Temple.

An active member of the First Baptist Church, Plaster had served as deacon and Sunday School teacher and was a member of the choir.

Dr. Plaster and his wife Ruth had one child — Victoria Plaster Whitelock, M.D., born Dec. 5, 1935 in Shelby, married Aug. 20, 1960 Leland David Whitelock, Jr., M.D. He also had three grandchildren — Elizabeth Howie, born March 29, 1962; Lillianne Plaster Aug. 29, 1964; Susan Ruth, born Sep. 13, 1967. His daughter and family currently live in Norfolk, Virginia.

Dr. Hubert Plaster died of a heart attack Jan. 24, 1976 and is buried in Sunset Cemetery, Shelby.

Sources: Shelby Daily Star.

— Dr. Vickie Whitelock

RUTH HOWIE PLASTER

863

Ruth Howie Plaster was born to Cora Dry Howie and Torrence Victor Howie March 24, 1900 in Monroe, N.C. Reared and educated in the public schools of Abbeville, S.C., she completed her secondary education at Corey High School near Raleigh under the tutelage of her uncle, Marcus Dry, later founder of Wingate College.

She graduated from Brenau College in Gainesville, Ga. in 1920 with a degree in organ. When she explained that she had completed the degree requirements for both organ and piano, the college would issue only one, and they gave her the choice of the two instruments. She claimed she was the first sophomore inducted into the music honorary fraternity. Until that time only upper classmen had been selected.

Following graduate study at the University of Wisconsin, she taught elementary school and private piano classes briefly in Abbeville, S.C. She came to Shelby in 1925 at the invitation of school superintendent, Mr. O.C. Griffin.

Following the interview, Mr. Griffin invited Mrs. Plaster and other job applicants to his home for lunch. His home later became her home (and my home) — 525 S. Washington St. She loved to tell how on her first day in Shelby she ate lunch in the house that would be her home for over fifty years now.

As a teacher in Shelby, Mrs. Plaster taught in the Morgan (South Shelby) and LaFayette schools. Also, almost simultaneously she became organist at the First Baptist Church, and was able to celebrate her golden anniversary there in May 1975.

She, also, was professor of organ at Gardner-Webb College in the 1950's.

Once she said she had played for her first church service at age 14. She retired from the organ in Jan. 1976, adding up to sixty-two years of service as a church musician.

— Dr. Victoria Plaster Whitelock

CLARENCE SAMUEL PLONK

864

Clarence Samuel Plonk, the sixth son of Clarence Sloan Plonk and Ellen Patterson Plonk, was born July 26, 1921, in Cleveland County five miles north of Kings Mountain, North Carolina.

He received his early education in Kings Mountain Public Schools, and graduated from Kings Mountain High School in 1940. He attended the University of North Carolina one year. He was drafted into the armed services where he served two years with an overseas assignment in Italy.

Clarence Plonk married Mary Julia Pollock August 28, 1942 in Cape May, New Jersey.

Their first son, Clarence Thomas Plonk born April 2, 1947, married Rebecca Josephine Marvin August 31, 1968. Their children are Julia Ann Plonk born February 20, 1975, Joseph Clarence Plonk November 1, 1977, Thomas Joshua Plonk September 26, 1979, and James Marvin Plonk August 28, 1981.

Their second son, James Kenneth Plonk born July 11, 1948, married Sandra Gail Ledbetter September 4, 1970 (divorced).

Their twin sons, Michael Stanley and Gary Steven Plonk, were born April 3, 1954. Michael Stanley married Sharon Harris Timms June 16, 1978. Their son is Michael Zachary Plonk born May 8, 1981.

Steven married Karen Lynn Sparks August 7, 1976. Their children are Stephanie Lynn Plonk born August 8, 1977 and Samuel Robert Benjamin Plonk born July 8, 1980.

The fifth son, Richard Sloan Plonk, was

Ruth Howie Plaster (Mrs. Hubert S. Plaster)

born January 18, 1960.

Their only daughter, Judith Lee Plonk born May 5, 1957, married Steven Forest Davis August 11, 1979.

Clarence has engaged in dairy farming, truck farming and meat sales.

Sources: Family, newspapers, cemetery, Our Kin — Hoffman

— Willie P. Patterson

CLARENCE SLOAN PLONK

865

Clarence Sloan Plonk, son of William LaFayette Plonk and Martha Regina Ware Plonk, was born July 2, 1883 in Cleveland County six miles north of Kings Mountain, North Carolina. His forebears were of Dutch origin, the immigrant ancestor of the line John Jacob Plonk coming from Holland in 1747.

Clarence Plonk was christened in St. Marks Lutheran Church, Gaston County. As a boy he traveled by horseback in order to worship in this church.

He was educated in the local school and Lenoir College (now Lenoir-Rhyne). He became a man of keen perception, exceptional energy, and had executive ability. He was a God fearing man with a high moral code and the ability to read and understand people.

He was an outstanding farmer with various other business interests. For many years he was a leading mule-dealer throughout the area. He also dealt in real estate and other products — any thing that might be bought and sold interested him.

On April 20, 1905 he was married to Ellen Fuller Patterson born June 23, 1886, daughter of Ira Hardin Patterson and Margaret Angeline Whitesides.

Their children were Fred Wendell Plonk born June 6, 1906; Zeb Oates born January 15, 1908, Willie Lucile born August 10, 1909; Hal Sloan born April 16, 1911, Margaret Regina born September 17, 1913; Wray Augustus born August 24, 1915, George Webb born March 17, 1919; Clarence Samuel born July 26, 1921, Clara Elizabeth born January 24, 1924 and John Butler born September 19, 1928.

Ellen Plonk was a devoted wife and business partner throughout their sixty-one years of marriage. She kept all books and records. Through her keen interest in her husband's business she contributed much to his success. In spite of her many duties she always had time for her children and saw that their needs were met. She is now ninety-five years old and lives in her home.

Clarence died September 24, 1966 and was buried in St. Lukes Lutheran Church Cemetery near his birthplace.

Sources: Family members, Newspapers, Cemetery data and the book Our Kin by Hoffman.

— Willie P. Patterson

FRED WENDELL PLONK

866

Fred Wendell Plonk, the first son of Clarence Sloan Plonk and Ellen Patterson Plonk, was born June 6, 1906 in Cleveland County six miles north of Kings Mountain, North Carolina.

Fred received his early education in Cleveland County and Kings Mountain Schools. He graduated from Riverside Military Academy, Gainesville, Georgia in 1926. He received a Bachelor of Science degree in Business Administration in 1930 from State College (now North Carolina State University). He married Susan Ferguson Rhodes of Bessemer City, North Carolina June 3, 1933.

Their first son, Fred Wendell Plonk, Junior, was born December 17, 1935 and died November 24, 1938.

The second son, David Torrence Plonk born December 30, 1940, married Betty Ruth Huntley May 17, 1964. Their children are Teresa Ruth Plonk born December 29, 1964, David Steven Plonk born November 10, 1966 and twins Chadwick Huntley and Christopher Sloan Plonk born November 27, 1971.

The third son, James Wendell Plonk born March 9, 1942, married Barbara Crossman, August 25, 1972. Their children are Timothy Matthew Plonk born September 18, 1974, and Heather Ann Plonk born March 6, 1979.

The fourth son, Robert Rhodes Plonk born, August 15, 1945, married Diana Louise Cleveland February 28, 1978. They have one daughter Audrey Lynn Plonk born March 22, 1980.

Susan Ferguson the only daughter born October 26, 1947 married Tony Harrison Key October 18, 1975.

For three years after graduation Fred was employed by Liberty Mutual Insurance Company and Brown Williamson Tobacco Company in Louisville, Kentucky. He returned to Kings Mountain in 1936 where he has been active in automobile, oil, and real estate businesses for the past forty-five years.

Fred, like his grandfather, has also expressed a keen interest in education. He was a member of the Kings Mountain Board of Education for twelve years. He served as chairman seven years.

Sources: Family records, newspapers clippings, cemetery records, and the book Our Kin by Hoffman.

— Willie P. Patterson

GEORGE WEBB PLONK

867

George Webb Plonk, the fifth son of Clarence Sloan Plonk and Ellen Patterson Plonk, was born March 17, 1919 in Cleveland County five miles north of Kings Mountain, North Carolina.

He received his early education in Kings Mountain City Schools and graduated from Clarence Sloan and Ellen Patterson Plonk.

Kings Mountain High School in 1936. After his graduation from the University of North Carolina in 1940 he studied in the North Carolina School of Medicine (1940-1942). George graduated from Jefferson Medical School in 1945 and served an internship at Lankeau Hospital, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.

He entered the armed services as a First Lieutenant and served two years with an overseas assignment in Italy. After his release from the army, he practiced general medicine in Murphy, North Carolina for eighteen months. He then studied at the University of Pennsylvania for one year after which he returned to Lankeau Hospital for a three year residency in general surgery. He is certified by the American College of Surgery and is a member of the board of American College of Surgeons.

George Webb Plonk married Margaret Julietta Cooper June 26, 1941 in St. Matthews Lutheran Church, Kings Mountain, North Carolina.

Their first daughter, Carole Elizabeth Plonk was born December 24, 1942 and married William Mitchell Fenimore June 26, 1965. Their children are William Mitchell Fenimore, born April 18, 1972, and Scott Collins Fenimore, born May 17, 1976.

The second daughter, Margaret Julitta Plonk, born October 31, 1945, married Kenneth Joseph Pollack August 7, 1971. Their children are Matthew Ryan Pollack, born December 15, 1978, and Adam Cooper Pollack born October 27, 1980.

The only son, George Webb Plonk, Junior, born October 18, 1947, married Judy Morris August 16, 1969. Their children are Palmer Ellen Plonk, born October 23, 1973; Erin Margaret, born February 27, 1975; Sara Adell Plonk, born January 19, 1977; Drew Patterson Plonk, born June 12, 1979; and Ann Rollins Plonk, born March 28, 1981.

The third daughter, Barbara Ann Plonk, born July 24, 1949, married William Douglas Bridges June 11, 1971. Their children are William Douglas Bridges, Junior, born January 25, 1975; Sidney Sloan Bridges born February 14, 1977; Wesley Hudson Bridges born March 20, 1979; and Matthew Bradley Bridges born November 9, 1981.

Their fourth daughter, Susan Rebecca Plonk, born August 24, 1953, married Major William Loftin on May 23, 1975.

George Webb Plonk practiced general surgery in Raleigh, North Carolina five years before returning to Kings Mountain where he has practiced general surgery for twenty-five years.

Sources: Family records; newspapers clippings; cemetery records, and the book Our Kin by Hoffman.

— Willie P. Patterson

HAL SLOAN PLONK

868

Hal Sloan Plonk, third son of Clarence Sloan Plonk and Ellen Patterson Plonk, was born April 16, 1911 in Cleveland County six miles north of Kings Mountain, North Carolina.

He received his early education in Cleveland and Gaston County Schools, and graduated from Kings Mountain High School in 1930. He received a Bachelor of Science degree in Textile Manufacturing from State College (now North Carolina State University) in 1934.

Hal was married to Jennie Ruth Umberger August 6, 1938. their first daughter, Joyce Elenor Plonk born May 25, 1943, married James Sherwood Forrest July 31, 1965. Their children are Michael Bradley Forrest, born July 16, 1972, and Gregory Sloan Forrest, born June 19, 1975.

Their second daughter, Marion Ruth Plonk, born September 15, 1944, married Don Eldon Clagett on August 3, 1968. Their only child, Adrienne Ruth Clagett, was born July 15, 1971.

Their third daughter, Kathryn Gail Plonk, born April 27, 1950, married Thomas Frank Goforth August 8, 1970. Their children are Thomas Frank Goforth, Junior, born January 7, 1975, and Warren Sloan Goforth, born July 18, 1978.

Their fourth daughter, Sharon Virginia Plonk, born August 4, 1955, and married William Dreull Evans November 21, 1981.

Hal Sloan Plonk was employed by Cannon Mills Kannapolis, North Carolina for seven years. He served in the United States Air Force for five years and retired from the United States Air Force Reserves as a Lieutenant Colonel. He has been associated with the Plonk family in real estate business for a number of years.

Sources: Family information, newspapers clippings, and the book Our Kin by Hoffman.

— Willie P. Patterson

THE JACOB PLONK FAMILY

869

John Jacob Plonk emigrated to America from Holland in 1747. He settled first in Lancaster, Pennsylvania, and later moved to North Carolina.

His two sons, Jacob Plonk, Junior (1747-1840) and Peter Plonk, are pioneers of the Plonk clan in this section. They came to North Carolina and settled in Lincoln County to live on property granted to Jacob Plonk by King George III of England. This land lies on Indian Creek one mile from Crouse and four miles from Lincolnton, North Carolina. Three houses were built on the same site and seven generations drank from the same spring.

Jacob Plonk, Junior supported the Crown. He left the first house unfinished in order to fight in the Revolutionary War.

JOHN BUTLER PLONK

870

John Butler Plonk, the seventh son of Clarence Sloan Plonk and Ellen Patterson Plonk, was born September 19, 1928 in Cleveland County five miles north of Kings Mountain, North Carolina. He received his early education in the Kings Mountain City Schools, and graduated from Kings Mountain High School November 26, 1949 in Central Methodist Church, Kings Mountain, North Carolina.

Their first daughter, Deborah Ann Plonk, born January 11, 1951, married Timothy Norris Webster June 15, 1972. Their second daughter Joan Carpenter Plonk (1952-1952) died at birth. The third daughter, Beverly Dorcas Plonk born December 23, 1953, married Harry Ray Hughes June 20, 1981.

Their only son, John Butler Plonk, Junior was born December 18, 1955.

John is engaged in farming.

Sources: Family in formation, Newspapers, and the book Our Kin by Hoffman.

— Willie P. Patterson

THE JOHN O. and ELVIRA FOUST PLONK FAMILY

871

John Oates Plonk, Sr. was born on November 23, 1880 in the Saint Luke's Church Community of Cleveland County to William Lafayette and Regina Ware Plonk. The ancestry was German and Dutch. He was the oldest son in a family of ten children, namely: Ida, John Oates, Clarence, Eunice, Rufus, Laura, Lillian, William, Carl and Mary. He attended the community schools, and early in his life he assumed a responsible place in his family for helping to provide for younger members of the family.

At the age of nineteen, he was employed by Kiser Department Store in Kings Mountain. Later he, along with other members of his family, bought an interest in the business. Shortly thereafter the Kiser interest was purchased and the store became Plonk Brothers and Company. John Plonk's principal business interest was this store which he operated until his death. He was one of the founders and officers of the Commercial Bank and Trust Company, a leading establishment among private banks of its day. He was a civic leader of the area, a city commissioner, a many years member of the St. Matthews Lutheran Church Council. He was a Mason and a Shriner.

He early recognized the wisdom and value in acquiring large tracts of land, both farm and timberlands. His far sighted ecological considerations, in regard to these holdings, were well known and respected. He especially appreciated and loved the mountain land. Its beauty and the joy it provided became a part of his nature.

On July 3, 1912, he married Elvira Worth Foust, who was born in Mount Vernon Springs, North Carolina in Chatham County on June 15, 1887.

Elvira Foust was educated in the schools of the area, going on to graduate from the North Carolina Industrial and Normal School (now U.N.C.G.) in Greensboro, North Carolina in 1908. She graduated with honors and received the coveted award for proficiency in writing. She was a first grade teacher in Kings Mountain and Shelby schools before her marriage.

She loved little children and delighted in their company. She was an accomplished "teller of stories" and in her later life she wrote her childhood memories in a book Stories About Elvira for her grandchildren. Mrs. Plonk was an early member of Providence Methodist Church in Chatham County; however she attended the Presbyterian Church in Mount Vernon Springs because of its easier accessibility to her home. After her marriage, she joined the Central Methodist Church in Kings Mountain where she was a devoted and caring member until her death on January 30, 1970.

Mr. Plonk died on October 14, 1951. Both John and Elvira Plonk are buried in Mountain Rest Cemetery in Kings Mountain.

Six children were born to them. The oldest son died in infancy and five children survive to this day.

— Douglas Plonk McElwee

DESCENDANTS OF JOHN O. and ELVIRA FOST PLONK

872

Six children were born to John O. and Elvira Foust Plonk. The oldest son who died in infancy is buried in Mountain Rest Cemetery in Kings Mountain, North Carolina. Five children survive to this day. Their names, spouses and children are listed:

Mary Foust Plonk, born November 18, 1914, married William Rhodes Weaver. Their two children are Monette Weaver, born March 2, 1945, married Dr. Roger Wood. They have three children: Alyssa Anne, Laura Wrenn and Ryan Austin Wood. Reagan Hale Weaver, born August 29, 1951, married Ardith Goldstein.

Douglas Regina Plonk, born March 17, 1917, married William Henry McElwee. Their five children are: Douglas Marian McElwee, born January 1, 1944, died May 28, 1961. William Henry McElwee III, born March 31, 1945, married Catherine Parks. They have two children: William Henry McElwee IV, and Mary Catherine McElwee. Elizabeth Elvira McElwee, born June 10, 1947, married Bedford Eugene Cannon. Their two children are: Ashley Elizabeth and Jean McElwee Cannon. Dorothy Plonk McElwee, born August 25, 1949, married Gary Dale Shartzter. They have two children, Douglas Truman and Samuel Bryan Shartzter. John Plonk McElwee, born February 20, 1954, is unmarried.

Dorothy Plonk, born April 12, 1919, married Dr. Robert Edward Lewis (died May 7, 1978). Their four children are: Mary Suzanne Lewis, born June 5, 1945, married Dr. Ernest Tonski and they have one son, Jacob Edward Tonski. Patricia Foust Lewis, born August 13, 1946, married Richard Blaine Johnston, Jr. Their three children are: Andrew Lewis, Mary Lewis and Blaine Patrick Johnston. Robert Edward Lewis III, born October 25, 1950 is un-

Jacob Plonk was drafted twice to fight three month periods against the Cherokee Indians. He was allowed government pensions for these services. He is thought to have died in 1840 since that was the last year he received government pension. He is buried on the old Plonk Plantation on Indian Creek.

Jacob Plonk (1747-1840) married Christina Kiser. Their children were Jacob Plonk III, John Joseph Plonk (1788-1888), Susie Plonk, and Sallie Plonk.

John Joseph Plonk born May 1, 1788 married Barbara Rudsill September 28, 1816 Their children were Jacob Plonk, John Jonas Plonk (1823-1908), David Plonk, Philip Plonk, Michael Plonk, Sallie Plonk, Katie Plonk and Betsy Plonk. He died July 1, 1888 and was buried in the family graveyard beside his wife Barbara Rudsill Plonk.

John Jonas Plonk, born March 18, 1823, married Ann Ellen Oates August 17, 1847. Their children were Joseph Calvin Plonk born December 9, 1852, William LaFayette Plonk born February 6, 1855, John David Plonk born March 14, 1857, Michael Plonk born May 3, 1859, Rufus Plonk born June 12, 1866, Thomas Plonk born November 14, 1869, Margaret Plonk born March 7, 1876, Martha Plonk born July 2, 1863. Five children, who died in infancy, are buried in Long Creek Presbyterian Church Cemetery, Gaston County. Each of these graves has a marker.

John Jonas Plonk was a dominant figure in the county's history. He was known for his uprightness of character and sturdy manhood. He contributed much to the upbuilding and growth of the section that he loved. He died December 7, 1908, and was buried in Long Creek Church Cemetery, Gaston County with his five children who died in infancy.

William LaFayette Plonk (1855-1924) married Martha Regina Ware February 6, 1878. Their children were Minnie Ida Plonk (1878-1907), John Oates Plonk (1880-1951), Clarence Sloan Plonk (1883-1966), Annie Eunice Plonk (1885-1973), Rufus Lawrence Plonk (1887-1971), Laura Emma Plonk (1890-1966), Lillian Lenora Plonk (1894-1979), Carl Alexander Plonk (1897-1961), William Luther Plonk (1892-), and Mary Ellen Plonk (1902-1975).

William Plonk was the promoter of many commercial enterprises in his community. He is probably best remembered for his interest in education. For twenty years he served as chairman of the Cleveland County Board of Education, and eighteen years as chairman of the Board of Kings Mountain Schools.

A placque hangs in Central School, Kings Mountain, North Carolina which reads

William LaFayette Plonk 1906-1924.

He Loved Little Children. He was also a member of the Board of Trustees of Lenoir College (now Lenoir-Rhyne).

William Plonk died May 1, 1924, and is buried in St. Lukes Lutheran Church Cemetery near the old Plonk homesite.

Sources: Family papers, Cemetery records, and the book Our Kin by Hoffman.

— Willie P. Patterson

married. Margaret Elvira Lewis, born November 1, 1952, married Charles Douglas Turner. They have one son, Robert Charles Turner.

Maude Plonk, born January 16, 1922, married Thomas Wilson Harper. They have four children: Susan Carolyn Harper, born December 16, 1947, married Gerard John Roche. Their four children are Ryan Harper, Melissa Coleman, Katherine Foust and Charles Harper Roche. Mary Louise Harper, born December 21, 1950, married James Barry Ware. Their one son is Allen Harper Ware. Thomas Charles Harper, born August 5, 1953, is unmarried. Barbara Jean Harper, born August 6, 1957 married Timothy Bruce Thornton. They have no children.

John Oates Plonk, Jr. born March 27, 1930, married Patricia Anne Neisler. Their five children are: Anne Hunter Plonk, born October 15, 1953, married William Thomas Boone, Jr. Their children are Sarah Katherine and William Thomas Boone, III. Laura Foust Plonk, born May 17, 1955 married Gary Ronald Ball. They have one son, John Garrett Ball. Elizabeth Ashley Plonk, born July 25, 1958, married Robert Strachan. John Oates Plonk III, born June 29, 1959 is unmarried. Carl Neisler Plonk, born December 18, 1962 is unmarried.

— Douglas Plonk McElwee

THE JOHN OATES PLONK, JR., FAMILY

873

Born in Kings Mountain on March 27, 1929, he is the fifth child and only son of John and Elvira Foust Plonk. He attended the University of North Carolina and served in the United States Army.

On October 11, 1952, he married Patricia Neisler in Kings Mountain. Mrs. Plonk attended Mary Baldwin College. She served as co-chairman of the Kings Mountain Bicentennial Celebration with Howard B. Jackson in 1976.

Mr. Plonk is a manufacturer's representative and president of Foust Textiles; he owns with his family Plonk Brothers, Incorporated. He is active in the Central United Methodist Church in all phases of church life, and has contributed generously to the civic progress of Kings Mountain.

The Plonk children are: Anne Hunter (Mrs. William Thomas Boone, Jr.), born October 15, 1953 (children: Sarah Katherine, born November 12, 1979, and William Thomas, III born May 16, 1981); Laura Foust (Mrs. Gary Ball), born May 17, 1955 (son, John Garrett, born March 3, 1980); Elizabeth Ashley (Mrs. Robert Strachan) born July 25, 1958; John Oates Plonk, III, born June 29, 1959; Carl Neisler, born December 18, 1962.

— Mrs. John O. Plonk

RUFUS LAWRENCE and MARY KATHLEENE MCGILL PLONK

874

Rufus Lawrence Plonk, the fifth child of William LaFayette Plonk and Martha Regina

Ware Plonk, was born on October 18, 1887 on a farm in No. 5 Township Cleveland County, North Carolina. He attended local school and graduated from Lenoir College (now Lenoir-Rhyne College) in 1910. On January 4, 1918, he married Mary Kathleene McGill, the fourth child of Issac Alexander and Mary Amanda Fulton McGill. She was born on September 16, 1896. The McGill and Plonk farms joined. She attended local schools and graduated from Boiling Springs High School, a boarding high school in upper Cleveland County in 1916. In the summer of 1916 she attended summer school at what is now Appalachian State University.

After college, Rufus Plonk became a farmer. He purchased land from his father for his farm. During the early years, he diversified his farming with cotton as the principal crop. In the 1940's he switched to dairying. He was an innovator in the community in trying new crops and farm methods. He was a man who lived by the principles he held. He served on the Cleveland County School Board and the Farm Security Administration Advisory Committee.

Before and for a period after marriage, Kathleene Plonk taught at Plonk School, a one-teacher, seven-grade school one mile from her home. After teaching she became a full-time farmer's wife and, upon having children, a good mother.

The Plonks reared five children. Their names and birth dates follow: Martha Amanda (September 1, 1919); Virginia Catherine (March 8, 1921); Nancy Jane (March 27, 1927); William Lawrence (November 19, 1932); and Mary Rachel (September 12, 1934). Nancy Jane graduated from Bethware High School and the other four graduated from Kings Mountain High School.

Martha Plonk completed her bachelor's degree from Woman's College of the University of North Carolina in 1940. She worked in North Carolina until she joined the U.S. Naval Reserve as a WAVE in 1944. After military service she completed a master's degree at Ohio State University in 1949 and a doctoral degree from Michigan State University in 1964. Most of her working life was spent in university teaching, first at West Virginia University and later at Oregon State University.

Virginia Catherine graduated from Woman's College of the University of North Carolina in 1941. She was an elementary teacher and taught in North Carolina, Texas, Georgia and Tennessee and in the army dependent schools in Japan and Turkey. She took time in 1944-45 to work with the American Red Cross in Brussels, Belgium and Marburg, Germany. On June 15, 1952 she married Lovell Jason Morris, Junior, U.S. Army. The Morrisises have two children: Erma Kathleen, born February 14, 1957, and Lovell Jason Morris, III, born June 4, 1958. The Morrisises live in Signal Mountain, Tennessee.

Nancy Jane Plonk attended Gardner-Webb College, graduated from The Plonk School of Creative Arts in Asheville, North Carolina in 1951 and received her bachelor's and her master's degrees from the Staley College of the Spoken Word in Boston, Massachusetts. She worked for the Buncombe County Schools as a speech therapist and in the summer, she was on the staff of the Plonk School of Creative Arts. On January 26, 1963 she married John Thomas Sutton of La Grange, North Carolina. Since 1965 she has been employed by Lenoir County Schools as a speech therapist. La Grange, North Carolina is the home of the Suttons.

William Lawrence Plonk (Bill) graduated from the North Carolina State University in Raleigh in 1954 in dairy husbandry. He returned to the family farm and is a dairy farmer on the land that has been in the Plonk family for over a century. On July 14, 1956, Bill Plonk married Marguerite Thomason, a Greenville, South Carolina native. They have four daughters. Their names and birth dates follow: Bertha Johnson (Jodie) (August 13, 1958); Janice Anne (February 27, 1961); Jill Lawrence (January 5, 1966), and Jacqueline Thomason (July 14, 1971). Jodie graduated from Newberry College in 1980. Janice is currently studying at Furman University. The two younger children attend public schools in Kings Mountain.

Mary Rachel Plonk graduated from Lenoir-Rhyne College in 1956. She taught in Charlotte public schools and at present teaches in the Kings Mountain public schools. On August 12, 1956 she married Timothy Gerald Gladden, a Kings Mountain native. They have one son, Timothy Gerald, Junior, born December 15, 1965. Currently they live in Kings Mountain.

The Plonks were members of St. Luke's Lutheran Church and moved their membership to St. Matthew's Lutheran Church in the 1940s. Rufus Plonk died on November 4, 1971. He continued to work on the farm as his strength permitted until his death. He was buried in St. Luke's Lutheran Cemetery across the road from his farm.

Sources: Whitesides, Martha Elizabeth. History of the McGills of Gaston County and Roll of Descendants of Thomas Porter McGill and Martha Dickey. No date and publisher. Wolfe, Annie Lee, Carpenter, Ellen McGill; Gamble, Jean McArver; and Harmon, Martin. Originally compiled by Martha Elizabeth McGill Whitesides, 1940. History of the McGills of Gaston County and Roll of Descendants of Thomas Porter McGill and Martha Dickey. Revised 1972. Personal knowledge. Cemetery records. Correspondence with Kathleene Plonk, Virginia Morris, Nancy Sutton, Rachel Gladden, and Bill Plonk. Hawaca. 1910. Lenoir College, Hickory, North Carolina Annual.

— Martha A. Plonk

WRAY AUGUSTUS PLONK

875

Wray Augustus Plonk, the fourth son of Clarence Sloan Plonk and Ellen Patterson Plonk, was born August 24, 1915 in Cleveland County six miles north of Kings Mountain, North Carolina. He received his early education in the Cleveland County Schools. After his graduation from Kings Mountain High School he attended State College (now North Carolina State University). Wray married Alma Jane Putnam May 8, 1938. Their first child, Betty Jeanne Plonk born May 4, 1939, married David Carlyle Beam August 27, 1960. Their children are Shannon Aurinda Beam born March 7, 1965 and David Marion Beam born June 2, 1969. Their only son, Wray Augustus

Plonk, Junior, was born July 30, 1941. He married Mary Frances Bridges March 24, 1962. Their children are Timothy Wray Plonk born June 13, 1965 and Kelley Lee Plonk born November 28, 1966.

The second daughter, Sandra Jane Plonk born November 7, 1943 married Garnis Kieth Bumgardner August 18, 1962. Their children are Theresa Jane Bumgardner born July 29, 1963 and Russell Edward Bumgardner born June 17, 1969. The third daughter, Linda Ellen Plonk born July 12, 1948, married Carl Edgar Jester August 2, 1975.

Wray has engaged in farming and the sale of textiles.

Sources: Family, Newspapers, Cemetery, Our Kin — Hoffman

— Willie P. Patterson

ZEB OATES PLONK

876

Zeb Oates Plonk, second son of Clarence Sloan Plonk and Ellen Patterson Plonk was born January 15, 1908 in Cleveland County six miles North of Kings Mountain, North Carolina.

Zeb attended the Cleveland County Schools and graduated from Kings Mountain High School in 1926. He received his Bachelor of Science degree in Business Administration from State College (now North Carolina State University) in 1930. He also studied Advanced Management at Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration.

Zeb married Rachael Gale Walraven December 20, 1933 in Baltimore, Maryland. Their first son, Donald Clarence Plonk born March 14, 1935, married Melba Daniel May 31, 1957. Their children are Daniel Warren Plonk born August 31, 1961, Donald Clarence Plonk, Junior born March 20, 1964 and Kristin Claire Plonk born July 1, 1971.

Their second son, Glenn Warren Plonk, born April 7, 1937 married Ann Morrison January 12, 1963. Their children are Wendy Gale Plonk born August 21, 1963, Steven Glenn Plonk born September 10, 1965 and Susan Elizabeth Plonk born March 8, 1968.

The only daughter, Jane Suellen Plonk born April 1, 1939 married James Robert Sims August 20, 1962. Their children are Jeffery Thomas Sims born February 9, 1963, Jonathan Wade Sims born July 27, 1965 and Jennifer Leigh Sims born August 13, 1970.

Zeb Plonk was employed by Liberty Mutual Insurance Company for forty-three years. When he retired in 1973 he held the position of Vice-President with this company. He worked in Boston, Baltimore, New York and Atlanta. After his retirement he returned to Kings Mountain to make his home.

Sources: Family, Newspapers, Cemetery, Our Kin — Hoffman

— Willie P. Patterson

CLARA PLONK POLITIS

877

Clara Elizabeth Plonk, the third daughter of Clarence Sloan Plonk and Ellen Patterson

Plonk, was born in Cleveland County five miles North of Kings Mountain, North Carolina January 24, 1924.

Clara received her early education in the Kings Mountain City Schools, and graduated from Kings Mountain High School in 1940. She holds degrees from Lenoir Rhyne College and from The School of Creative Arts, Asheville, North Carolina. Her special interests were voice and drama. She also holds two Master degrees in the field of education from the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, Michigan.

Clara was married December 27, 1955 to Demitros Politis (divorced).

Their children are Theodore Politis born November 21, 1956, George Politis born August 7, 1958, and Ellen Politis born November 17, 1963.

Clara teaches in Ann Arbor, Michigan where she has taught for a number of years.

— Willie P. Patterson

DANIEL PINKNEY POSTON and FAMILY

878

Daniel Pinkney Poston, descendant of John Poston I who came to America from England in 1703, was born October 26, 1859 in Cleveland County. He was one of the eight children born to James Poston (1820-1879) and Sarah Wilson (1823-1899), whose mother, Elizabeth Love Wilson, gave the land for Elizabeth Baptist Church east of Shelby. Pinkney's brothers and sisters were Elizabeth (b. 1851), who married Pete Mabry; Martha Jane (b. 1853), who married Henderson Herndon; Dovie (b. 1865), who married Dr. Lee White and moved to Georgia and then to Miami, Florida; Samuel McBride (b. 1849), a Bachelor; John Thomas (b. 1855), who married Sophie Herndon; James Osburn (b. 1857), who married Ellen Kerr and William Gaston (b. 1867) who married Fannie Hamrick.

Pinkney, as most of the earlier settlers in the county, was a farmer. Upon the death of his father, Pinkney, who was a young boy at that time, helped his mother, Sarah Wilson Poston, operate the well known Wilson Springs Hotel (later called Cleveland Springs) which they owned.

He married Eugenia Hogue, daughter of Jacob and Jane Borders Hogue, on November 24, 1885 at Zoar Baptist Church. Eugenia was born September 19, 1867 in Cleveland County and died January 27, 1949.

Four sons and two daughters were born to Pinkney and Eugenia as follows:

Edna Azelia, born December 5, 1886 and died May 4, 1888.

Clyde Graham Poston, born December 2, 1888 and died August 25, 1964, whose first wife was Thornton Weathers (1886-1922) and second wife, Ruth Leonard, born October 26, 1907. Children of Clyde and Thornton were Clyde G. Poston, Jr., born January 28, 1916; Annie Eugenia, born June 20, 1917; Edna Frances, born March 15, 1919 and Claude Arey Poston, born November 10, 1920. Children of Clyde and Ruth Leonard were Daniel Cleveland, born November 20, 1933; David

Jack, born August 7, 1935; Jerry Shepherd, born April 3, 1937; Barbara Kay, born May 14, 1939; Glenn Albert, born July 17, 1941; Donald Lee Poston, born February 15, 1944 and Ronald Douglas, born February 20, 1946.

Samuel McBride Poston, the third child of Pinkney and Eugenia, was born August 7, 1890 and died April 9, 1969. His first wife was Isabell Wilson (1899-1921). They had one child, Evelyn, born October 3, 1921 and died January 29, 1923. McBride, known as "Mack", married Mattie Lee Cline the second time and they had two children, Martha Jean, born July 25, 1925 and Samuel McBride Poston, Jr., born October 1, 1928.

Paul Grady Poston, born April 17, 1892, died January 26, 1977. He married Margaret Lee ("Maggie") Hord, born July 17, 1896. They had ten children: Curtis McBride, born February 24, 1918 and died November 10, 1970; Pinkney Gardner Poston, born January 30, 1920; Jack Dale, born September 25, 1921 and died March 31, 1925; John Hord Poston, born May 4, 1924; Everett Conrad, born October 27, 1925 and died November 12, 1925; Paul David, born September 25, 1926; Elizabeth Dolores ("Dolly"), born February 8, 1929; Bonnie June, born April 30, 1930; Dorothy Faye, born June 16, 1932 and Henry Lee, born February 23, 1935 and died February 25, 1935.

Magel Cleona, the fifth child of Pinkney and Eugenia, was born July 21, 1894. She married Julius S. Mull, born August 31, 1892 and died December 7, 1960, and they had the following children: Bryan Hogue, born February 8, 1916 and died October 24, 1981; Paul Fred, born August 7, 1920; Julius Franklin, born March 18, 1922 and they adopted a daughter, Thelma, born May 3, 1922.

Pinkney Bryan Poston was born September 2, 1896 and died July 15, 1981. He married Flora K. Allen, born March 25, 1897, who died October 5, 1968, and their children are Sara Katherine (b. 1921); David Pinkney (b. 1922 — died in infancy); Wilma Ruth (b. 1927); Pansy Neva (b. 1934) and Bryan Allen (b. 1924). His second Marriage was to Tula McCurry Allen.

The Poston homeplace was a large two story frame home located on Post Road at the intersection of what is now NC 180 and Kings Road East of Shelby at the site of what is now Wickes Company.

Pinkney died October 16, 1897, not quite reaching his thirty eighth birthday. He is buried in Elizabeth Baptist Church Cemetery. Upon Pinkney's death, Eugenia was left at the age of thirty four with five children, all under the age of nine years to support. Shortly thereafter, she and the children moved to Boiling Springs where she worked as Matron at the school and where the children attended school, but it was necessary due to her poor health that they return to the Poston homeplace and the farm. Eugenia had an abounding love for people and for her family and was known for her immense faith and goodness. In later years of her life, she operated a small general store at her home on Post Road.

Pinkney and Eugenia's sons, Clyde, Paul and Bryan built homes on parcels of the Post Estate on which their families still live. Their daughter, Magel, who married Julius Mull, lives just about one mile from the old homeplace and McBride lived on East Marion Street, only some two miles or so away, so one can reason from this they were a very close-knit and home loving family.

Eugenia was a faithful member of Elizabeth Baptist Church and is also buried in the church cemetery beside her husband, Pinkney.

Sources: family records.

— Mrs. Ambrose B. Cline

Samuel McBride Poston

JOHN and DANIEL POSTON

879

John Poston (1797-1862), son of Samuel and Rachel King Poston, was born in Rutherford, now Cleveland County. He grew up at the old Poston home near Shelby and as executor of his father's estate assisted his mother with business relating to the settlement. John continued to make purchases of adjoining land, increasing the acreage he had inherited from his father.

He married Mabel Patterson (1796-1884), daughter of Robert and Mabel Patterson, who migrated to McMinn County, Tennessee. John and Mabel are buried in the family cemetery near their home on Highway 226 north of Shelby. Theirs are the oldest marked graves in the plot.

Personal records show that John Poston was a meticulous bookkeeper, leaving records of guardian accounts, personal business, tax and other receipts. He was a businessman who often made trips to Columbia, South Carolina, returning with sugar, salt, molasses, and cloth to fill requests signed by neighbors. After his death, his widow, with the help of her children, managed the farm and even attended to business matters dealing with the Union Army occupation officers.

John and Mabel Patterson Poston were the parents of nine children:

Samuel married (1) Barbara Wilson (2) Ann Jane Smith;

Nancy died in childhood;

James married Sarah Wilson whose parents owned the Old Cleveland Springs, and the Postons operated the old hotel until shortly after 1887;

Robert (Robin) a minister, married Julia London and one of their sons, Furman, became a minister;

Abel married Selina Cabaniss;

Daniel married Margaret Ann Weathers;

Sarah married Henry London;

Rachel married C. Monroe Weathers;

William married (1) Margaret Wilson (2) Elizabeth Ann Stroud, and they migrated to Texas.

Among former Cleveland County residents descended from John and Mabel Patterson Poston are James Pressley, Associate Director of Arts and Crafts at North Carolina State University, through the line of James; Eugene Poston, D.D., past president of Gardner-Webb College, and Albert Propst, minister and naval chaplain, both through Samuel's line; and Troy McKinney, retired Comptroller in the U.S. Department of Defense, grandson of Daniel.

Daniel Poston (1822-1895), son of John and Mabel Patterson Poston, was born in the Poston log house north of Shelby. He remained a bachelor and helped care for his widowed mother until at age forty-eight. Then he married Margaret Ann Weathers, aged eighteen, and daughter of Jenkins Devaney and Unicey Ann Bailey Weathers. Margaret Ann's brother, Monroe, had earlier married Daniel's sister, Rachel. Monroe and Rachel later became owners of the Poston homeplace.

Daniel was a millwright, mechanic, and farmer and at one time owned a cotton gin. Although he suffered great loss through investment in Confederate bonds, he was able to leave his young wife a comfortable estate. In his will he instructed his wife to "school the children as best she could" and contrary to most testators, he left provision for her to inherit one-fourth of his estate even if she remarried.

Margaret Ann did not remarry, and her obituary in The Cleveland Star 11 June 1924 stated:

"She was a hard worker and a good business woman of exceptional ability, so the estate was kept intact and produced well."

She is buried in Zion Church cemetery, and her husband, who died twenty-nine years earlier, is buried in the Poston family cemetery.

The children of Daniel and Margaret Ann Weathers Poston are: Samuel Lester Ann married Jordan Putnam; John Devaney married Emma Pearson; Lillie married George Magness; Sarah Rachel, married Sankey Mauney; Ada married Augustus L. Anthony; Mamie Alice married E. Festus McKinney; James Monroe married Pauline Allen; Mabel married Harry Gallimore.

Zion Baptist Church records list John Poston and his sons, Robert, Samuel, and Daniel on building committees for early church houses, Daniel as deacon and treasurer, and Robert, called Robin, as pastor for fifteen years. Robin's son, Furman, also became a minister, and his granddaughter, Lyda Poston, wrote and illustrated "A History of Zion Church, 1816-1955." Rachel Poston Weathers, a Sunday School teacher, known for her ministry to the sick, was the first member to leave a bequest to the church.

A brush arbor meeting led by Robin Poston in the Ross Grove area in 1879 resulted in the beginning of a Sunday School which later developed into Ross Grove Church. Daniel Poston, who lived nearby, helped build the Sunday School house. His family attended there, and Robin was pastor of the church from 1881-1883 and 1886-1889.

Poston descendants continue to worship and serve as faithful members of Zion and Ross Grove and many return for memorial services held in the churches of their ancestors.

Sources: Original Poston papers and documents; Deed, Probate, Census, and Marriage Records of Rutherford and Cleveland Counties; History of Zion Church 1816-1855 by Lyda Poston; and History of Ross Grove Baptist Church 1881-1957 by Harold House.

— Mildred (Mrs. Felix O.) Gee

Mattie Lee Cline Poston

JONATHAN and SAMUEL POSTON SR.

880

Poston immigrants came to America from Shropshire, England, some as early as 1703, into Maryland and Pennsylvania. Samuel Poston and his descendants are believed to be descended from the Maryland group who migrated to Virginia and later to North Carolina, first to Anson County, then to Rowan, Lincoln, and finally to Rutherford in the area that became Cleveland. North Carolina Land Grant #1420 was issued to John Poston 5 December 1760 in Anson which at that time encompassed much of central and western North Carolina.

Poston family papers and documents now in the possession of a descendant, Mrs. James Harris of Shelby, North Carolina, identify Jonathan and Mary, surname unknown, Poston as the parents of Samuel Poston. An early receipt signed by Samuel Farmer, 3 July 1762, was comprehensive: "Then Recd of Jonathan Poston all debts, dews, and damans from the beginning of the world to this day of pay." Another original receipt shows Jonathan's payment of "his publick county tax for ye year of 1763, rec'd. Wm. Masery." Masery was sheriff and tax collector of Rowan County in 1763, the same year Jonathan Poston had paid twelve pounds for one hundred acres on Brushy Creek fork of Abbotts Creek, (Rowan Deed Book 5, pages 389-391). In 1769 Jonathan and Mary, his wife, signed a deed selling the land for thirty-nine pounds, ten shillings, proclamation money, (Rowan Deed Book 7, pages 63-64).

The names Jonathan, Samuel, William, Thomas, and Daniel are repeated throughout generations of Postons, with Jonathan or John in almost every one from the earliest on a passenger list in Charles County, Maryland in 1703. The Jonathan in Rowan from 1763-1769 or longer was likely the grandson of the immigrant from England 1703. An old record found with original Poston papers lists the birth dates of the children of Jonathan and Mary Poston: Ann, 2 March 1759; John, 23 March 1761; child, name illegible, 1763; Samuel, 8 October 1765; Rachel; date illegible; Daniel, 1769.

The family may have lived in Lincoln County as marriage bonds for Daniel, Samuel and John were issued there. However, no will or estate settlement for Jonathan has yet been found, and little else is known about him.

Samuel Poston, son of Jonathan and Mary, born 8 October 1765, probably in Rowan County, married Rachel King 17 January 1790. Also in 1790 the state of North Carolina issued licenses and receipts to Samuel in Rutherford County, where he lived until his death in 1819. Beginning with a grant for two hundred eighty-five acres on Hickory Creek, he and his descendants became extensive land owners in the section, now Cleveland County, adjoining Weathers, Horn, Cabaniss, Ross, McEntire, Cornwell and Wellmon.

Samuel, likely too young for the Revolutionary War (no military record), was commissioned captain in the North Carolina militia in 1805. His September muster at Duncan's Old Fields included the names of Patterson, Downey, Ross, Erles, Hardin, Wilson, Plummer, Collins, Fouch, McEntire, Smith, Adams, Farmer, Bradley, Moore, Ledbetter, Francis and Morris.

The children of Samuel and Rachel King Poston were: Rilly (McEntire); Mary (Green); Rachel (Putnam); Nancy (Nowlin); Betty; William; John, husband of Mabel Patterson. The log house which served as their home is still standing on Highway 226 north of Shelby. It has remained in the Poston family and has been renovated by the present owner, Mrs. James Harris, who inherited it from her mother, Mrs. Rachel Poston Mauney (Mrs. Sankey Mauney). Mrs. Harris has hosted family reunions here.

Samuel Poston died in 1819 and his will, recorded in Will Book C, page 121, Rutherford, left his land to his sons, John and William, and the remainder of his estate to his wife. He further stated that he wished his daughters to have a home while they remained single. Rachel outlived her husband by thirty-four years. She was listed as blind in the 1850 Cleveland census and a granddaughter, Rachel Putnam, was living with her. At her death in 1853, her will named her daughters, Rilly McEntire and Mary Green, her two sons, John and William, and seven grandchildren (children of her deceased daughters, Rachel Putnam and Nancy Nowlin): Susannah Nowlin, Rachel Nowlin, Anderson Nowlin, Lucinda Nowlin, Devaney Putnam, Samuel Putnam, and Rachel Putnam. By the time her son John, Executor, and guardian for minor heirs, made final payments to the grandchildren, Rachel Nowlin had married M.L. Williamson and Susannah had married James B. Grigg.

Sources: Original Poston papers and documents, Deed, Probate, Census, and Marriage Records of Anson, Rowan, Lincoln, Rutherford and Cleveland Counties, Poston research by James Pressley John Hamill Poston by Colin James A South Carolina Poston Family by Emma P. Landers

— Mildred McKinney (Mrs. Felix) Gee

SAMUEL McBRIDE POSTON

881

Samuel McBride Poston, more familiarly known as "Mack", was a descendant of John Poston I who came to America from England in 1703.

Mack was born August 7, 1890 on the Wilson Farm, which was his Grandmother's and which is now known as Cleveland Springs, East of Shelby.

His parents were Daniel Pinkney Poston (1859-1897) and Eugenia Hogue (1867-1949). His brothers and sisters were Edna, who died in infancy; Clyde Graham; Paul Grady; Magel Cleona; and Bryan Pinkney.

Mack died April 9, 1969 and is buried at Elizabeth Baptist Church of which he was a member since early childhood.

His early years were spent on the farm, however, upon the death of his father when he was only seven years old, the family moved to Boiling Springs where he attended school, while his mother worked as matron. The family later moved back to the Poston Farm in 1909 and during his youth Mack worked at McMurray's General Store in Shelby. Young Mack rose his bicycle from the homeplace, which was East of Shelby on NC 180 (on which Wickes Co. is now located) and worked to help support the family. On one of his trips to work, he was bitten by a dog with rabies, which was quite a traumatic experience back then, making it necessary for him to travel to Raleigh to stay for three weeks in order to take twenty-one treatments.

At the outset of World War I, Mack volunteered for the U.S. Army, receiving his training at Greenville, South Carolina. He served in active duty in France and was a member of the 30th Infantry Division. He was shell-shocked and in August of 1918 was severely wounded. He remained in a hospital in France for quite a long time before returning home, unannounced one day in May of 1919.

Mack's career was in law enforcement work to which he was greatly dedicated. In his early years, he worked with the Fire Department in Kings Mountain and in Shelby, and later entered the Police Department in Kings Mountain, before returning to Shelby in 1925 with the Police Department. He was appointed Chief of Police in 1930 in the City of Shelby and served as Chief until 1934 when he resigned as Chief of Police due to his being appointed United States Deputy Marshal for the Western District of North Carolina. He served in this capacity from July 1934 until his retirement in 1956.

One of the interesting highlights in his twenty-two years of service with the Justice Department was his assignment to travel in a motorcade which guarded President Franklin D. Roosevelt on his tour through Western North Carolina. They travelled in large, open touring cars on US 74 through Cleveland County. This was a big event for which everyone turned out, causing schools to be closed and crowds to gather along the highway just for a close look at the President.

Mack was married in 1920 to Isabell Wilson, who was born June 7, 1899, and who died at the birth of their first child, Evelyn, on October 3, 1921. Evelyn, their small daughter, died January 29, 1923.

His second marriage in 1924 was to Mattie Lee Cline, of Lawndale, daughter of David Anderson Cline and Martha Jane DePriest. Mattie Lee was born February 22, 1900. To this union two children were born:

Martha Jean, born July 25, 1925, who married Ambrose Borders Cline, born July 16, 1924. They were married December 30, 1945 and had one son who died at birth on October 7, 1946 and one daughter, Amy Jean Cline, born September 30, 1959.

Samuel McBride Poston, Jr., second child of Mack and Mattie Lee, was born October 1, 1928 and married Emily Jane Nolan, born August 24, 1935, on July 3, 1957. They have one son, Samuel McBride Poston, III, who was born June 20, 1971.

In 1928, Mack built a home for his family on East Marion Street (across from Hickory Creek Shopping Center) at the East Shelby City Limits and which, incidently, is just a short distance from his place of birth in Cleveland Springs.

Sources: family records.

— Mrs. Ambrose B. Cline

AUDIE AYCOCK POWELL and FAMILY

882

He began life at Lawndale, North Carolina, one of the seven children of Lola Champion and William Jackson Powell. He learned his love of the land of God from his father, while he acquired his wit with word and cheerful nature, from his mother. Later, he would love to tell stories of his youth in turn of the century Cleveland County, remembering the days of the one room school house (where someone put bullets in the old wood stove) and times when he and a friend double-dated in a horse and buggy, or when the travelling preacher came or when he hid in the barn to hear his father pray.

Like many farm-trained boys, he was agile, loved sports and became an "ace" baseball pitcher and once played for a semi-pro team. More than sports, he loved to learn and after finishing at Boiling Springs boarding school,

Audie Aycock Powell

Mary Elizabeth Pratt Powell, wife of Audie Aycock Powell

the fore-runner to Gardner-Webb College, he acquired teaching credentials and a degree in Law, a Magna Cum Laude graduate from Wake Forest University.

His career as attorney-at-law began in Shelby in 1933 as an associate of the Gardner-Morrison (Washington, D.C. firm). Soon he left practice for seven years to become a Recorder's Court Judge. A noted municipal law expert, he was the City Attorney for Shelby until his death at age seventy. He was also attorney too the cities of Kings Mountain and Boiling Springs. His talent as an orator was well-known and exemplified when arguing before the Supreme Court to acquire natural gas for Shelby, he moved the entire Court when he spoke with tears streaming down his cheeks about the people of the community and their needs.

During the 1930's and 40's, before mass television, a major form of entertainment for the people of the county was to attend trials at Court, certain attorneys always "drew a crowd". Powell and his lifetime friend, the noted attorney Mr. C.C. Horn, provided showmanship in court trials that is remembered and talked about even today.

He was a champion on the down-trodden and those in genuine need. He was the first attorney to challenge the constitutionality of a municipal law that practice of not allowing blacks on the jury for the trial of a black-man — a case which he won in the Supreme Court in 1947. Later he would be instrumental in forming the Human Relations Board of Shelby. His greatest concern was that all people live in justice and peace.

During World War II he was commended by President F.D. Roosevelt for his legal work for the Selective Service. He was always politically active in the Democratic Party and served as Party Chairman.

A large man, 6 feet 2 inches tall, his trademarks were hats, big cigars and booming voice often heard in laughter. He had extraordinary musical talent, playing both piano and guitar

"by ear", and his tenor voice was heard for thirty years in the choir of the First Baptist Church where he also served as Deacon.

His love of music led him to work to bring the arts to the people, and he was the first president of the original Community Concerts of Shelby in 1940's and 50's. Active in the community, he was a Mason, a president of the Lion's, on the Shelby City School Board, and once raised $500,000.00 as Alumni president for Gardner-Webb College. A true "city father", he worked to achieve an "All American City" award for Shelby and proudly learned of the award just before he died. He was a charter member of the Cleveland County Historical Association.

While a school principal at Caroleen, North Carolina he met and married a young teacher, Mary Elizabeth Pratt, on December 23, 1931. His bride had come to Caroleen after completing her college studies at the age of sixteen, an honors graduate at Lander College, Greenwood, South Carolina. Greenwood was also her birthplace on October 26, 1907. She was the first of eight children born to Lilla O'Dell and Hal Moseley Pratt.

Accomplished in music, art and language, she used her talent as a teacher in Shelby, as a young bride, and after their only child, Mary Ann, was born on October 8, 1941, she became active in community affairs. Her love of history and deep sense of patriotism led her to becoming active in the National Society, Daughters of the American Revolution. She has held both local and State offices and is currently a District Director for Western North Carolina. With her husband, she is a charter member of the Cleveland County Historical Association. Mrs. Powell resides in Shelby and today still is a noted civic leader.

One of seven children, his brothers, were Vester Albert (died September 30, 1971), Clyde Ezell (died December 22, 1971), Curtis Benjamin (died December 8, 1977), and Walter Foster Powell currently of Lawndale. His sisters were Lillian P. Greene (Mrs. Cletus, died December 1, 1979) and Della P. Elmore (Mrs. Ira), currently of Belwood, North Carolina.

The Judge "was loved by many, feared by some. He was advisor and friend to those in need, yet could be a formidable opponent. Generous with his time, talent and money, he anonymously arranged funding for many students who could not afford and desired to have a college education. He derived joy from helping the youth of the community.

He believed there was "no disgrace in failure, only in low aim" and once wrote for a speech he was to deliver, "All men who deserve to live, desire to survive their funerals, and to live afterward in the good that they have done mankind. The true (one) labors for the benefit of those who are to come after him . . . To sow that others might reap, . . . to bless with the glorious gifts of Truth, and Light and Liberty those who will neither know the name of the giver, nor care in what grave his unregarded ashes repose, is the proudest destiny of man."

Many years before, in his first campaign for public office (1936), he said "I will render decisions and judgements without fear or favor . . . and serve the people of the entire county . . . free to act upon my best sense of justice . . . ”

William Jackson Powell sons and sons-in-law. Front row L to R: Celtus Green, Vester, Ira Elmore, Clyde, William Jackson. Back row, L to R: Audie, Curtis, V.A., Foster

At the end of his life he was eulogized as a man of indomitable courage, for he never wavered in his belief of God, mankind, and country, even in his painful, final illness. He had fulfilled his own proud destiny and kept his campaign promise.

Sources: family Bible, Union Church Cemetery records, Letters, speech draft, interviews.

— Ann Powell Whitmire

JOHN PREWITT and SON SPENCER PREWITT

883

One of the earliest Prewitt ancestors was The Reverend John Prewitt, born about 1750 in Bedford County Virginia, now known as Pittsylvania County. In January 1778 he married Eady — (last name unknown). She was born in Virginia, and died September 2, 1839 in Rutherford County, North Carolina.

John was a private in the Revolutionary War. He saw action in the Continental Line of Virginia, under the command of General De Marcas, and fought in the Battle of Guilford Courthouse just over the State Line in North Carolina. Nothing more is known of his military service.

He moved into Burke County, later Rutherford County, and present day Cleveland County after the War. He died April 30, 1837. This information was given in an Application made in 1851 by John's son Spencer for a Revolutionary War pension. No. R-8455-R. was refused because entirely too much time had elapsed. The records show that John and Eady had seven children including one who died in infancy. The remaining six were: Nancy Prewitt married Thomas Jefferson Stockton; Elizabeth Prewitt married Smith; Burgas Prewitt married ?; Spencer Prewitt married Sarah Stockton; Davis; and Frances.

The National Archives proves that Spencer was John's son when he filed Pension papers in 1850. Spencer married Sarah Stockton and owned a large plantation in NO. 11 Township of Cleveland County. Spencer and Sarah had eight children: John Prewitt married Sarah (Sussanah) ?; Eady Prewitt married John Hoyle Swofford; David Prewitt married Sady ; William Prewitt married Nancy Cook; Susannah Prewitt married Joseph W. Swofford; Jemimah Prewitt married Reverend John Bumgardner; Newberry Prewitt married Delilah Chapman; Peter Prewitt married Malinda Patton. When a group of seventeen people met together July 4, 1840 to form Pisgah Baptist Church of Casar, North Carolina. Spencer and wife, and his two sons John and William and their wives, and daughter Eady Swofford and her husband were in the group.

Sarah Stockton Prewitt was the first original charter member of this Church when it was organized in 1841. Spencer was also one of the first charter members.

It is presumed, on authority of other well established Pruetts that John and Eady Prewitt are buried in unmarked graves, along with Spencer and Sarah Prewitt with tombstones in the Pisgah Baptist Church Cemetery of Casar, North Carolina.

— By Amos E. Pruet

Dr. Daniel Price, 1827-1910

DR. DANIEL GUINN PRICE

884

Dr. Daniel Guinn Price, my great-grandfather on both parents side, was born January 28, 1827, in Chester Co., S.C. It is unknown when he went to Cleveland Co., N.C. but, on April 1, 1851, he married Margaret Stevens, born 23 January 1836. They had eleven children of which ten (four sons and six daughters) were born in Cleveland Co., N.C. prior to moving his family to Winston Co., Miss. where one more daughter was born.

While living in Cleveland Co., N.C. my grandfather volunteered and served in the War between the States from December 9, 1861 to August 19, 1862 in Co C-Fifteenth Regiment-Infantry, where he learned the medical profession and became a doctor. He did some practice in Cleveland Co., N.C. but felt he could do better in Miss.; therefore, he moved his family to Winston County where he continued his practice all over the county (some for charity) and always made his visits by horse and buggy. In 1901, he returned to N.C. to care for his daughter, Mary E. Price Ellis during her illness. Grandma Price died November 23, 1900 and Grandpa Price died June 18, 1910. The following epitaph is found on Grandpa's tombstone in the cemetery where he is buried: "A truer, nobler heart never beat within a human breast".

When my grandparents moved to Mississippi, one daughter, Mary Elizabeth Price, born November 6, 1856, remained in Cleveland Co. She married John Wallace Ellis of Cleveland Co. Another daughter, Margrette Ann Price, born May 1, 1865, was married to Thomas Jefferson Glass, born March 19, 1861 in Winston Co., Miss. on April 6, 1881.

These two marriages made great aunts and grandmothers to the twelve children of Felix Guinn and Mary Octava Glass Ellis.

This is known facts by Jessie Ellis Farish, age 81, the eldest grand-daughter on both sides of the family.

Source: Family records and personal knowledge

— Jessie Ellis Farish and Margarett Ellis Johnson

SOLON GIDEON PRICE

885

Solon Gideon Price was born in Rutherford County October 17, 1867, and died September 17, 1949. He was the only son of Oliver Dixon (1844-1930), and Hannah Caroline Mode Price (1829-1920).

At age 17 Gideon was a clerk in New House General Store owned by Tom Depriest. In 1889, he and his father started a store in Lattimore, North Carolina.

Gideon worked hard to get the first depot for Lattimore, even offering to serve as depot agent free. He was successful, and was paid $5.00 the first month the Flag Shop was in operation, and $15.00 per month afterwards.

He was Lattimore's rural mail carrier for 29 years, using a horse and buggy for delivery part of that time. He retired in the 1930's and really began the happiest career of his life — gardening. Here he could be found from daylight to dark, weather permitting, with his floral beauties for which he was widely known, and which was seen by thousands visiting the gardens.

Mary Elizabeth Price and John Wallace Ellis

In 1889, he married Doris Covington (1870-1894), daughter of Tom Covington. His only son, Edgar R. Price born 1891, died in England in October 1918 during World War I, as a private in 322 Infantry, USA. Willie Gaynelle (1893-1899), was the youngest daughter, she died shortly after the death of her mother. Daisy O. Price (1889-) the oldest child, married Julian Lamer DeBerry (1888-1941). She has carried on her father's contributions to the Lattimore Community. She gave the land for the Lattimore Baptist Church parsonage, and Community Club House. Both Gideon and Daisy are known for their witicism and anecdotes.

Sources: The Cleveland Star and tombstones.

— Mrs. John S. Blanton Jr.

S. Gideon Price

ALBERT WINFIELD PROPST FAMILY

886

Albert Winfield Propst b. April 24, 1851, d. November 26, 1918, married Mary Hudson b. February 4, 1853, d. November 15, 1934. They were married in Burke County by Pink Whitner, February 16, 1871. They bought a farm in Casar and raised a family of six children. They were Dora P. Lingerfelt, William, John, Thomas, Sam, & James.

James Osco Propst b. January 8, 1890, d. April 8, 1943, married Cary Bumgardner b. January 29, 1885, d. July 23, 1980. They were married in Casar November 24, 1907. There were three children: Boyd D. b. Sept. 20, 1908, d. Sept. 7, 1980, married Elsie Hicks b. April 22, 1907, d. March 1, 1982. Sedahlia b.

September 13, 1910 married John G. Kester b. April 8, 1905d, d. February 26, 1977. Sue b. February 3, 1915 married Charles H. Wells, Jr., b. April 16, 1915.

Source: Family Bible

— Mrs. Sue P. Wells

J. ALVIN PROPST FAMILY

887

Julius Alvin Propst was born May 29, 1908 in Casar of Upper Cleveland County and was the son of Thomas Clyde Propst and Bessie Ellen Ledford Propst. He married Henry Pauline Dixon born March 23, 1909, daughter of Henry Pickney Dixon and Alice Jane Skinner Dixon of the Kadash Church Community of Belwood. They were wed in Shelby at the Edgar W. Dixon home, brother of the bride, on Grover Street December 23, 1929. Propst is a German name.

Alvin Propst was educated at Piedmont Boarding School in Lawndale, attended Appalachian State University in Boone. He majored in education and taught at Belwood school and later taught and was principal of Dover school. Mrs. Propst did substitute work at the schools.

A lot of his early years were spent living with his grandparents, Julius Macklin (Mack) Ledford and Mary Jane Spurling Ledford at their home near Carpenters Knob in Upper Cleveland. Alvin and Pauline spent their first year of marriage living with them.

He achieved the rank of Eagle in Boy Scouts, and his enthusiastic interest in scouting lead him to serve as a leader and also serve as Scout Master in Shelby.

They moved to Shelby and were living in Belvedere when their daughter, Alvin Joan was born October 21, 1933. She was their only child.

Propst later in 1937 became associated with government work and was North Carolina District Fieldman for the department of Agriculture. He would be gone as long as a week sometime and his wife and daughter would sometimes accompany him. In 1942 they built a colonial home at 110 Brookhill Road.

They were members of First Baptist Church where Alvin was Sunday School teacher for the men's Newton Bible class and Pauline was a Sunday School teacher in the Primary Department for twenty-six years. She was a member of the Music and Art Club of Shelby. Both were active democrats.

Their home was filled with antique victorian furniture, lamps, and china which she collected. This was a hobby and her favorite color pink radiated the house in hand-painted china and satin glass. Her husband and daughter acclaimed her to be an immaculate housekeeper and the best cook!

Alvin had many hobbies among which was stamp collecting and his favorite was making home movies and slides. He had traveled in all states including the family taking a trip to Havana, Cuba, in 1937. His movie collection included different surgeries performed at Shelby Hospital by Doctors Schenck and Harbison; among these were two appendectomies (one

Remember . . .

Articles
Are Indexed
By
Article Numbers
. . . Not By
Page
Number

being of Pauline) a leg amputation, a caesarean section, and surgery being performed on a cow by Dr. Story. Therefore concluding Alvin had nerves of steel. Their home contained a dark room built in the basement for him to develop and work with pictures.

He became an avid golfer in later years, playing almost everyday at Cleveland Country Club of which he was a member and director.

Joan, the daughter, won many awards for tap-dancing and acrobatics as a child, once winning a trip to Myrtle Beach to dance at the Pavilion. She had seven years of piano. She graduated from Shelby High School in 1952 where she was a cheerleader, a member of Future Homemakers Club, and Homeroom officer. She attended Gardner-Webb College where she was cheerleader both years and active in Christian activities on campus.

On the morning of October 1, 1953, Alvin had a massive heart attack and died at home at the age of forty-five. He was buried at Sunset Cemetery October 3, 1953. Pauline was left a widow at age forty-four. She began work at the Agricultural Stabilization Conservation in Shelby which was clerical work pertaining to the work her husband had been engaged in.

On April 25, 1954, Joan was married to Charles Lorenzo Peeler of Belwood in the Webb Chapel of First Baptist Church by Rev.

J. Alvin Propst

Pauline Dixon Propst

Methodist Church, Lawndale, North Carolina. She is a graduate of Polkville High School and Howards Business College.

Their children are: Jerry Thomas Propst, born January 20, 1967 at Cleveland Memorial Hospital, Shelby. Jill Renee Propst, born January 1, 1973 at Cleveland Memorial Hospital. She was the New Year's baby of Cleveland County that year. Danny James Propst, born July 22, 1978 at Cleveland County Memorial Hospital.

Judy Dixon Propst and Bobby Gene Hamrick were married July 10, 1965 at St. Peters United Methodist Church. His parents are Fred Monroe Hamrick and the late Kathleen Hoffman Hamrick of Fallston, North Carolina.

He is a graduate of Fallston High School. Their children are: Joel Brett Hamrick, born January 11, 1970 and Jason Corbett Hamrick, born October 15, 1973. Both of these were born at Cleveland Memorial Hospital, Shelby, North Carolina.

All members of our families are members of St. Peters United Methodist Church.

Source: Personal knowledge

— Rebecca Propst

John Lawrence and they lived with her mother for a year. On April 10, 1955, Pauline was remarried to Gred Morgan Panther of Shelby and they had nineteen wonderful years together until his death of cancer in 1975.

Twenty-six years after Alvin's death, July 1979, his remains were moved from Sunset Cemetery to Kadash United Methodist Church Graveyard where the entire family has bought plots to be buried together.

They have two grandchildren: Paula Joy Peeler, born September 6, 1958 and Charles Franklin Peeler (Chuck), born September 23, 1962. (See Charles L. Peeler for their family history.)

— Mrs. Charles Peeler

J.C. PROPST FAMILY

888

James Clyde Propst was born February 20, 1915 in Lawndale, North Carolina, to Thomas Clyde and Bessie Ledford Propst. The family moved to Belwood, North Carolina, when he was three years old. He is a graduate of Belwood High School and was married to Rebecca Ruth Dixon, born April 2, 1920.

She is a graduate of Fallston High School. Her parents were Thomas Gold and Ruth Branton Dixon who resided on Lithia Springs Road, Shelby, North Carolina. They were married at Ross Grove Baptist Church parsonage by the Rev. Lawrance Roberts on December 24, 1940. Their home has always been Belwood.

They have two children: Thomas James (Jimmy) Propst, born May 18, 1942 at Cleveland Memorial Hospital, Shelby, North Carolina. He is a graduate of Belwood High School.

Judy Dixon Propst born October 12, 1946 at Dr. F.D. Edwards Clinic, Toluca, North Carolina. She is a graduate of Fallston High School and Gardner-Webb College. She is a nurse for Doctors Collins and Burrus at their clinic.

Thomas James Propst and Dorothy Sue White were married June 2, 1963 at Clover Hill

THOMAS CLYDE PROPST and DESCENDANTS

889

Thomas Clyde Propst was born on November 3, 1881, in lower Burke County. His parents were Albert Propst and Mary Hudson Propst. The five brothers and sister of Thomas Propst were: Dora Propst Lingerfelt, John Propst, Bill Propst, Sam Propst and Jim Propst. Although the Propst family was reared in Burke County, Albert and Mary moved to Casar in Cleveland County around 1900. Albert died in 1918 and Mary in 1934. They are buried at Casar Baptist Church in Casar.

When Thomas Propst was a young man he went to Texas to "seek his fortune" in the lumber business. He spent several years working in Texas before returning to North Carolina.

On May 16, 1907, Tom married Bessie Ellen Ledford of the Knob Creek section of upper Cleveland. Bessie was the daughter of Julius Mack and Mary Jane Spurling Ledford. Mack owned a country store and ran a monazite mining business on Knob Creek. Bessie taught school at Ledford School.

Tom and Bessie's first home was in Casar where the first of eight children were born. A son, Julius Alvin was born on May 29, 1908. Soon afterward, they moved to Lawndale where Tom worked in the Lawndale Mills Company Store. A daughter, Mary Selma, was born on December 21, 1909, at Lawndale. Bessie had phlebitis and was in bed several weeks, while Tom was seriously ill with typhoid fever.

Joan Propst — 1938. Dress made by mother, Pauline Dixon Propst

Bessie's parents took Alvin to care for him in their home. After the parents recovered, it was decided to let Alvin live with his grandparents permanently. Tom and Bessie had two other children born at Lawndale: Thomas Fred born October 21, 1912, and James Clyde born February 20, 1915.

In 1918, Tom and Bessie bought about 100 acres of land known as the Jim Willis farm near St. Peters Methodist Church in the Belwood community. He raised cotton, corn and wheat. It was on this farm that their last children were born. Cecil Everett was born November 9, 1921; Mildred Poneze on June 6, 1924; Annie Ruth on December 17, 1926; and Charles Gerald on December 9, 1930.

Poneze Propst was killed on July 29, 1930, as she got off the school bus the first day she ever went to school, hit by a passing car.

Cecil Propst was killed in Smithfield, North Carolina, on March 7, 1942, when an ammunition loaded truck exploded. He was a graduate of Boiling Springs College and working as Game Protector at Lake Mattamuskeet in New Holland, North Carolina.

Tom enjoyed bird hunting in the wintertime. He trained bird dogs for many people, from Morganton to Charlotte. He was an expert marksman, always hunted with a double-barrel shotgun and usually bagged two birds, one with each barrel. And Bessie's bird pie was a treat looked forward to, especially by kinfolk, at Christmas time.

Bessie enjoyed making quilts and sewing for her family. Her flower garden is still remembered by all who saw it. Tom was a member of Zion Hill Baptist Church in lower Burke County, while Bessie was a member at Carpenter Grove Baptist Church. They both enjoyed going to gospel singings that were held at various churches on fifth Sunday afternoons.

Tom Propst was instrumental in forming a co-op to get electricity for the Belwood community. They installed private lines and purchased power from Cleveland Mill and Power Company in Lawndale. This enterprise was later sold to Duke Power Company.

Tom Propst died November 26, 1953. Bessie Propst died April 12, 1960. They are buried at Carpenters Grove Baptist Church.

Sources: family Bible and personal knowledge.

— Mrs. Carl Carpenter

CHARLES GERALD and SARAH FRANCES COSTNER PROPST

890

Charles Gerald Propst is the youngest of eight children born to Thomas Clyde and Bessie Ledford Propst. He was born on December 9, 1930, at the Propst farm in the Belwood community in northern Cleveland County.

He grew up working on the farm, attended Belwood School and graduated in 1948. In 1950, he enlisted in the Air Force. While in service, he attended several service connected schools and was awarded a diploma for airplane and engine mechanic. His tour of duty included a stay in Okinawa where he was Crew Chief on a B-50 bomber during the Korean War. Upon his discharge from service he returned to the Propst farm.

On October 10, 1954, he and Sarah Frances Costner were married in a noon wedding at Pleasant Grove Baptist Church in the Beams Mill Community by the Reverend C.C. Crowe. They lived on the Propst farm until 1956, then moving into their present home which is also located in the Beams Mill Community.

Sarah Frances, the oldest child of James Ralston and Elizabeth Bridges Costner, was born March 23, 1935. She also grew up working on the farm, attended Fallston School and graduated in 1953. During high school she was selected to the Beta Club, played varsity basketball, was class secretary and member of the Drama Club. Upon graduation she began employment with the Hudson Hosiery plant until 1958 when her job career was changed to mother and homemaker. Later Frances attended Cleveland Tech for two years, working on a secretarial major. For the past ten years she has been employed part time at Alston Bridges Bar-b-que.

On January 6, 1955, Charles began employment with Lithium Corporation of America, a chemical processing plant located near Bessemer City, North Carolina. During his 27 years with this company he held several operator positions and in 1962 was promoted to payroll clerk. This led to two years of night school at Gardner-Webb College and a promotion to cost accounting. In 1967 he was given his present position of accounting supervisor.

On March 28, 1955, Charles became a member of Fallston Masonic Lodge and from 1957 to present date has held an office in the lodge. He was elected master for nine years as well as being chosen Outstanding Mason in 1968 and also 1980. He is a 32nd degree Scottish Rite mason, a member of Oasis Shrine Temple and a charter member of South Mountain Shrine Club.

Charles and Frances are active members of Pleasant Grove Baptist Church. He has served as deacon, Sunday School teacher, usher, trustee and on various other committees; while she has served as Sunday School teacher, Vacation Bible School director, G.A. leader, W.M.U. director, and recording secretary. They both had more than thirteen years perfect attendance at Sunday School.

This doesn't leave much time for hobbies but Charles still manages some serious spring and fall fishing as well as golf at every opportunity, while Frances spends her leisure time on ceramics, cross-stitch, needlepoint, reading and growing roses. The roses became a trademark of Frances' numerous visits to the hospital as well as decorations for church, weddings, office and friends. Her hobbies have won numerous blue ribbons at the Cleveland County fair.

Their only child, Susan Elizabeth, was born at Cleveland Memorial Hospital on August 13, 1958. She attended Fallston Elementary and Burns High School, graduating in 1976. During high school she was a member of the band, Quill and Scroll, and listed in Who's Who Among American High School Students.

Susan is a talented pianist and organist, having studied under Mrs. E.T. Bailey and Mrs. John Gold. Her playing was much in demand at weddings, funerals, talent shows and at Pleasant Grove Baptist Church where she was a member. She also had thirteen years perfect attendance at Sunday School.

Susan graduated from Western Carolina University with a Bachelor of Arts degree in social work. At Western she met her husband, Paul C. Johnson, Jr. of Newland, North Carolina. They were married at Pleasant Grove Baptist Church on June 7, 1980. They presently make their home at Banner Elk, North Carolina. Susan is employed as social worker at Crossnore School while Paul is an assistant football coach at Lees McRae College.

Sources: personal knowledge

— Charles G. Propst

THOMAS FRED PROPST

891

Thomas Fred Propst, third child of Thomas Clyde and Bessie Ellen Ledford Propst, was born on October 21, 1912 in Lawndale, North Carolina. He graduated from Belwood High School in 1932. In 1933 he joined the Marine Corps, where he served until 1938.

He was married in 1940 to Geneva Keegan in Alexandria, Louisiana. A son, Thomas Fred Propst, Jr., was born to them on January 29, 1945. Mrs. Propst died in July, 1950; and in 1951 Fred and his son returned to North Carolina and lived in Belwood with Fred's parents.

He was employed by Bridges Auto Parts in Kings Mountain until 1959, when he and a partner opened City Auto & Truck Parts.

On June 11, 1960 he and Madeline Porter were married.

He is now semi-retired.

— Thomas Fred Propst

AMOS E. PRUETT FAMILY

892

Amos Earl Pruett was born September 26, 1922 the son of Edgar and Stella Bumgardner Pruett. Amos graduated from Casar High School in 1942 and soon afterwards married Pauline Newton the daughter of Bryson and Evie Luckadoo Newton. He was drafted into the United States Army in January 1943. He took his training at Camp Hood, Texas in the field artillery, and was in the desert, near Yuma, Arizona on maneuvers when he injured his back and spent three months in Brun's General Hospital, New Mexico before being medically discharged. Amos and Pauline became the parents of four children, two girls and two boys. Edith Hazeleen, Ronald Earl, and Charles Edgar; one daughter Jeannie Paulette died at five months of age.

All three of the surviving children graduated from high school. Hazeleen graduated from Burns High School. She then entered the Womans College in Greensboro, North Carolina and received a one year Commercial Certifi-

EDGAR PRUETT FAMILY

893

Edgar Pruett was born August 25, 1892 the son of Julius and Ella Sain Pruett. He married Stella Bumgardner born October 25, 1890 the daughter of Lewis Holden and Delia Johnson Bumgardner. They were married by and at the Home of Miles N. Pruett, Justice of the Peace, on May 12, 1912. To this union were born Eleven Children, with two set's of Twins.

Their Children were: Pauline Pruett married Otto Deviney, Delia Faye Pruett married Deibert (Buck) Chapman, Julius Edison Pruett married Martha Loyal, Amos Earl Pruett married Pauline Newton, Lewis Doyle Pruett married Jewell Brown, Elouise Pruett married Theodore McNeilly, Dorothy Dean Pruett married C.B. Crotts Jr., the others died in infancy, including Annie Pearl the Twin sister of Amos Earl.

Stella Pruett taught school in what was called Black Mountain and the Old Pruett School in upper Cleveland County. She traveled by Mule and Buggy in all kinds of weather. These were small one room Building's, probably made of logs.

Edgar was a well known farmer and Carpenter, living in the Casar Community. Edgar and Stella were trying to raise a large family during the Depression Years. It was during some of these years due to the drop in the price of cotton, the main money crop, that Edgar was forced to leave his family and go to South Carolina to help build the Barracks at Camp Croft. He worked there as a carpenter until the Barracks were completed. He made the remark during this time, that he hoped neither of his boys would have to use them, but one later was inducted at Camp Croft during World War II.

Edgar and Stella were devoted church going people dedicated to the work of the Lord. They were some of the first members of Old Zoar Baptist Church and largely responsible for its success when it was Organized in 1937.

Two of Edgar and Stella's sons became dentists. They were Julius Edison and Lewis Doyle. Edison graduated from Gardner Webb College, The University of Wake Forest, and the University of Louisville Kentucky School of Dentistry. Doyle graduated from Appalachian State University, and The University of Louisville School of Dentistry, Louisville, Kentucky.

All three boys served in the Armed Forces of the United States. Julius Edison served as Lieutenant Jg. in the Navy during World War II, Amos Earl served as Private in the Field Artillery of the Army during World War II. Lewis Doyle served as Lieutenant in the Army Air Force after the war ended.

Three of their children; Pauline, Delia Faye and Amos Earl married and remain in the Casar Community of Cleveland County. The other four Julius Edison, Lewis Doyle, Elouise and Dorothy Dean married and moved out of Cleveland County.

After the death of Stella March 28, 1948, Edgar remarried a second time to Emma Upton daughter of Samuel and Lola Upton of Spindale, North Carolina. To this union were born three children: Samuel Roy, Lola Mae and Mary Ella.

Samual Roy Pruett was inducted into the Army of the United States and served two years in the Occupation of Germany. After Roy's marriage to Susan Elliott he found work at Spindale, North Carolina and moved there. Lola Mae Pruett married Max Deviney. They have one child, and live in the Brire Creek section of Rutherford County, North Carolina. Mary Ella Pruett married J.C. Walker Jr. they have two daughters, Lola Mae and Mary Ella who remain in Casar Community along with their mother.

Edgar Pruett died June 10, 1961. He and Stella are buried in The Old Zoar Baptist Church Cemetary of Casar, North Carolina.

— Amos E. Pruitt

THE JOHN PRUETT FAMILY

894

There are many ways of spelling Pruett, but all are pronounced the same. There are different ideas about where the Pruett's came from. It seems from research by many descendants that as early as the 1200's they were in England. There is speculation that they were in France before that time. It is said that there are tombstones in England in Gloucestershire with a motto which means "Loyal and Trustworthy".

John Pruett was the son of Thomas Pruett. Thomas was the first of this family in Cleveland County. Thomas who married Jane Hamrick, was the son of Revolutionary soldier William Prewitt. William's wife was Ellender Walker. William was the son of Thomas Prewitt. William enlisted in the American Revolution to relieve his father for six months.

John Pruett (1823-1892) married Susannah Holland (1822-1893), the daughter of William Isaac Holland and Permelia Gold. William Isaac was the son of William Holland, a revolutionary soldier, and Margaret Hall. The Cleveland Star of May 22, 1901, Clyde Hoey Editor, and The Shelby Aurora of the same date tell of a Holland reunion on May 18th. This was said about Mrs. John Pruett (The only woman mentioned in the article and she had died in 1893) "Mrs. John Pruett was a sister of the Holland Brothers. She was the mother of the Rev. L.R. Pruett who has made quite a reputation as a pulpit orator, also the mother of J.L. Pruett, of Boiling Springs, who is noted for his honesty, sobriety and prosperity, also the grandmother of Mr. Clarence Hamrick who is one of the professors of the Cleveland Commerical College."

The children of Mr. and Mrs. John Pruett are Eugenia who married Elam Hamrick; Wm. Thomas who married Margaret Spurling; Greenberry who also married Margaret Spurling; his brother's widow; Gold Griffin who never married; Permelia Jane married James Louis Lovelace; James Leroy married (1) Louisa Hamrick, (2) Ella Kirby; Perry Henderson married Hannah Susannah Lovelace; Leonard R. married Dora Shaw; Sarah never married; Doctor Melvin never married.

There was much happiness in the Pruett home, but also sorrow. Gold Griffin was deaf cate. After working for a while in Wachovia Bank in Charlotte, North Carolina, she married Howitt Smith of Fallston, the son of Hubert and Margaret Spurling Smith. Howitt graduated from North Carolina State with two years of pre-engineering, one year at R.C.A. Institute in New York, and Gaston Technical College in Electronics. He is now an Electronics Engineer for I.B.M. in Spartanburg, South Carolina, where they make their home, near Inman, South Carolina. Hazeleen and Howitt are the parents of two girls, Adriene and Lisa. Since her marriage Hazeleen has received brokers license, and graduated from the University of South Carolina, at Spartanburg, S.C. with a B.S. Degree in Business Administration. Their oldest daughter, Adriene will graduate from Boiling Springs High School in South Carolina in the spring of 1982 and will enter Clemson College in the fall. She was a member of the Beta Club and spent one summer for gifted children at Western Carolina University, Brevard, North Carolina.

Lisa Smith is a member of the Beta Club, president of the Science Club and cheerleader for ninth grade at Boiling Springs Jr. High School at South Carolina. She attended two years of summer school for gifted children at Western Carolina University, Brevard, North Carolina.

Ronald Pruett graduated from Burns High School Polkville, North Carolina, and took the Data Processing course at Gardner Webb College in Cleveland County He graduated from Limestone College at Gaffney, South Carolina with a B.S. degree in Business Administration. Ronald married Beth White, daughter of Joe R. and Anna Maude Queen White. Beth graduated from Burns High School and Appalachian State University at Boone, North Carolina with a B.S. degree in English. Ronald and Beth have one son Gregory Pruett. Gregory is a student at Boiling Springs Elementary school in Boiling Springs, South Carolina. He was a second place certificate in the Fifth grade District #11 from the Lt. Governor's Awards for excellence in writing. Ronald and Beth live near Spartanburg, South Carolina, and are formerly from Cleveland County.

Charles Pruett graduated from Burns High School. He married Barbara Hull. Charles is presently employed in maintenance work of Shelby High School and part time radio announcer for W.O.H.S. Radio Station in Shelby, North Carolina. They have no children. Barbara is employed at Hewlitt Manufacturing of Cherryville, North Carolina.

Amos and Pauline started married life as farmers then later went into textile work. They own a small farm in the Casar Community where they have lived all their lives. They are Members of Old Zoar Baptist Church at Casar; and are members of the Historical Museum and the Broad River Genealogy Society of Cleveland County.

Sources: Family records

— Amos E. Pruitt

The homeplace of John Pruett family, late 1800's

after the age of six. His deafness was caused by a case of scarlet fever. He attended the School for the Deaf in Raleigh for four of five years. Perry lost an arm in a cotton gin, owned by his father, and as a result he lost his life at age 33. John Pruett had operated the cotton gin, a corn mill and a saw mill, but after Perry's death he sold these businesses and only farmed.

Dr. Melvin had just graduated from medical school in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania when several members of his family became ill with influenza. He came home and also became ill. This resulted in his and several deaths in the family.

Greenberry lived in Ellenboro, North Carolina. He was active in politics and represented Rutherford County in the General Assembly in 1883. From 1903 to 1930 he served as clerk and moderator of the Sandy Run Baptist Association. He served as postmaster at Ellenboro for 24 years.

An editorial published at the time of Leonard's death said that his passing closed a record of activity that was notable and exceptional. Dr. Pruette had moved to Charlotte in 1894 to engage in Baptist Mission work. He was instrumental in founding a number of Baptist Churches in Charlotte, among them was Ninth Avenue Baptist Church, which he served as pastor for thirty years, until he retired from the active ministry. He served as trustee of Wake Forest and Wingate Colleges, and as vice-president of the Baptist State Convention and as a member of its mission board.

Thomas Pruett and John Pruett were among the first members of Boiling Springs Baptist Church which was organized on the 15th day of September 1847. Thomas was elected as one of the first deacons on "Friday before the first Lord's Day in December 1847." Leonard, their grandson and son served as pastor of the church beginning in 1908.

The Pruettes have contributed wherever they have lived. There have been preachers, doctors, lawyers and many have been outstanding in education.

Sources: The spelling of the name shown here is as it was found in the research material. Family Bible, Clarence Griffin Book

— Mrs. James L. Padgett

JULIUS PRUETT FAMILY

895

Julius Pruett, the son of Reverend Newberry and Delilah Chapman Pruett born November 12, 1868, married Susan Ella Sain born May 24, 1871. She was the daughter of Winehart and Rosa White Sain. To Julius and Ella were born nine children, with seven surviving, they were: Edgar, Decator, Noah, Rosalee, Bryson, Lester, and Oscar. Vina Elminer died at age of six years, disease unknown. Chester Leore died at age ten months.

Edgar Pruett married Stella Bumgardner with eleven children, Decator Pruett married Ovedia Dedmon with two daughters, Noah Pruett married Mammie Hunt with four children, Rosalee Pruett married Bill Nitsche with two children, Bryson Pruett married Bessie Hoyle with seven children, Lester Pruett married Donna Newton with three children, Oscar Pruett married Zennie Hudson with one son.

Julius was a prominent farmer of his day. He was one of the excutors of his father's estate. He inherited some of the land from his father, and it was there he built a home for himself and his wife. They lived in the same general territory as the rest of the Pruett ancestors, this being in the upper part of No. 11 Township of Cleveland County. During Julius's years of farming he maintained a home, barn and numerous other out Buildings. He kept the team of mules at all times with which to plow the ground for planting, and to till the crop after it came up. He grew cotton, corn, wheat and hay. They planted lots of vegetables in the family garden, growing most of what they needed to eat. He had his own fruit orchard and kept hives of bees for honey. They made lots of apple cider to drink and to use as vinegar for preserving. In the fall when crops were gathered and the corn was pulled and piled in long rows in the barn yard, they would invite their neighbors in for a corn shucking. Ella would serve a chicken pie supper to all who came. She would make this chicken pie in a large iron kettle in the back yard. After the corn was shucked, they would eat supper and then most everyone would play games and sometimes have music and dancing. This favor was repaid, by going back and helping their neighbors when they had a corn shucking.

Julius loved to go fox hunting in the surrounding mountains. He would ask his friends and family to go along. When they met together, Julius would get his old powder horn and give several loud blows to call the dogs in for the hunt. They would come running, because they knew the sound of the horn and what it meant. Many happy hours were spent hunting and enjoyed by everyone. Julius and Ella were members of Pisgah Baptist Church, where former members of the Pruetts had helped establish.

Two of their sons were conscripted into the First World War. They were Decator and Noah.

Later Lester served a time in the service of our country, Also Oscar was an M.P. (military police) during the Pacific Campaign of the Second World War. Rosalee became a registered Nurse, worked in Illinois, and later in Los Angeles, California where she and her husband Bill Nitsche moved.

Bryson is the only surviving member of his family. He lives on the land he inherited from his Father. Most of this family married and raised their families in Cleveland County.

Julius Pruett died May 10, 1947 at 78 years. Susan Ella Pruett died October 23, 1948 at 77 years. They are both buried in Pisgah Baptist Church Cemetary, of Casar, North Carolina.

Sources: Personal knowledge

— Amos E. Pruett

REVEREND NEWBERRY PRUETT FAMILY

896

Newberry Pruett was the son of Spencer and Sarah Stockton Pruett, born December 8, 1827 in Rutherford County, North Carolina; that part is today Cleveland County. He married Delilah Chapman, born November 19, 1827. To this union were born twelve children: Albert Pruett married Anne Walker, Amos Pruett married Patience Mc/Neilly, John Pruett married Sarah ----?, Spencer Pruett Jr. married (1) Sarah Hoyle (2) ---- Swink (3) Roxanna Cooke, Miles N. Pruett Married (1) Dovie Horton (2) Lillar A. Peeler, Azor Pruett married Vinnia Wright, Julius Pruett married Susan Ella Sain, William Pruett married Margaret Buff, Sarah Pruett married Peter (Big Pete) Buff, Ruth Pruett married ---- Hoyle?, Viny Pruett married Peter Wright, Rachael Pruett married Smith?.

Newberry became a Baptist Minister and preached for forty years. He served as pastor for a number of churches. These churches were generally in the upper part of Cleveland County and the lower part of Burke County, North Carolina.

According to his will dated January 30, 1895, Newberry owned a large territory of land in No. 11 Township of Cleveland County. He names at least seven hundred and fifty acres, plus some farms to which no acreage was given. Most of the Pruetts in No. 11 Township of Cleveland County are direct descendents of Reverend Newberry and Delilah Chapman Pruett.

This report from the Catawba Baptist Association 1896, supplied by Wake Forest University Baptist Historical Collection, report on obituaries of Reverend Newberry Pruett reads, "Elder Newberry Pruett was born in Rutherford County in the year 1827, and departed this life on May 16, 1895. Age about 68 years. He joined the church July 29, 1849, and entered the ministry about the year 1853. He served as pastor for a number of churches, Mt. Gilead, Pisgah, Pleasant Grove, Zion Hill and several others. He was beloved by all of them. He leaves a widow and twelve children, eight sons and four daughters. Brother Pruett was a humble, consecrated christian minister of the gospel. He was unassuming in his demeanor and naturally of a different turn of mind, never pressing himself to the front. When in the pulpit preaching the word, he entered heart and mind into the spirit of the gospel with that humility and sweetness of temper that at once impressed his hearers with the thought that he had been with the Lord. By industry and economy he had accumulated a good living and was noted for his hospitality. May the example of the departed father be a guide to his surviving children. Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord."

Signed — E.A. Poe, S. Deal, J.H. Cooke
Reverend Pruett left a legacy of family and property, much of which is owned by his family. Many members of his family still reside in the same Casar area and have contributed much to the up-building of Cleveland County.

— Amos E. Pruett

DR. JAMES JEFFERSON PURCELL

897

Dr. James Jefferson Purcell was born October 1, 1829, in Forsyth County to Pleasant Purcell, of Irish and French ancestry, and to Mary Shultz of Dutch ancestry. Pleasant Purcell came from Virginia and settled in Clemmonsville, North Carolina. An orphan at the age of 15 years, James went to live with Rev. Jesse Rankin, a Presbyterian minister, and Mrs. Rankin, who educated him. James later married Mrs. Rankin's sister, Henrietta Louise Salmon. James and Henrietta taught school in Iredell County and then in Shelby before he received his medical training. The had four children: Douglas, Leland, Mary and Myra.

Henrietta died. He then married Harriett Melissa Baird on April 14, 1875. In a letter to his first wife's sister, he said, "I have a good, kind, affectionate wife who will be good to the children. It is not in her nature to be otherwise."

Harriett (Hattie) Melissa Baird was born August 6, 1853, in East Tennessee to James

Franklin Baird and Hannah Humphries. James Franklin Baird was the fifth son of William Baird, who sailed from Trent County, Ireland because of religious persecution. He hid his Bible in a false bottom of a tub. His young wife died at sea. He landed at Baltimore, Maryland. Later he married Anne Lewis from Maryland and then he came to North Carolina and bought a farm near Davidson College.

Harriett's maternal grandparents, John Humphries and Mary Taylor Humphries were from Tennessee. Harriett's grandmother was Mary Taylor. Two of Mary's brothers married two of James K. Polk's (11th President) sisters. Mary's cousins, brothers Bob and Nathaniel Taylor, were governors of Tennessee; one a Democrat, the other a Republican. Zachery Taylor, also, was a relative.

Her maternal grandfather was Johnny Humphries, Esquire. His family lived on a large farm in Washington County, Tennessee, within one mile of Washington College. He sent his sons to this college.

At the age of four, Harriett's family returned to North Carolina and lived within five miles of Davidson College, where her grandparents had lived. Her father was a cousin to Zebulon Baird Vance, Governor of North Carolina during the Civil War.

Harriett and the daughter of the President of Davidson College bought textbooks and were taught privately by the College professors. She claimed to be Davidson College's first co-ed. Later she attended a Female Institute in Salisbury. Then at the age of 20 years, she surprised many people by going to Florida to teach school. In 1873, this was unusual.

She returned to North Carolina and married Dr. Purcell. They moved from Kings Mountain to York County, and then to Mooresboro. They had four living children. Two babies died.

Alice Lillian Purcell was born February 17, 1877. She married John Batey Blanton on September 18, 1892. He was born March 21, 1857.

Lawrence Baird Purcell was born February 3, 1879. He married Leana Lane on May 14, 1902. She was born October 16, 1884.

Hattie Estell Purcell was born November 10, 1880. She married Joe Neil Casslos on February 7, 1900.

Leila Ada Purcell was born September 19, 1888. She married Albert G. Prichett on February 28, 1910. He was born January 18, 1883.

Dr. Purcell was the first doctor (known) in Mooresboro. He had a wide practice. He died of a heart attack on November 25, 1889, after helping remove furniture from a neighbor's burning house.

Hattie became a widow at 36 years of age. To support her children, she taught school in her home. After her children married, she made her home with her daughter Lillian (Mrs. J.B. Blanton) of Mooresboro. Hattie (Grandma Purcell) became an important part of the four generations who lived at the Blanton home-place. A strong Presbyterian, she taught the Presbyterian catechism to her Baptist grandchildren and great-grandchildren. She had learned to read at the age of 4 years and encouraged her family in good education, the use of proper English and good manners. She was a small aristocratic lady who often wished for money to help other people with specific problems.

She died April 15, 1942, at the age of 86 years at the Cleveland Memorial Hospital after breaking her hip. She and Dr. Purcell are buried at Sandy Run Baptist Church Cemetery.

Sources: Harriett Purcell's letters and autobiography, Family Bible — Family record compiled by Hattie Smith October, 1944, Edna Hendricks' family papers, Other grandchildren.

— Constance C. Young (Mrs. Carlos)

THE ARTHUR BENTON and AUDREY WARE PUTNAM FAMILY

898

Arthur Benton Putnam was the son of Lorenzo Dow Putnam who was born July 7, 1845 and died May 5, 1917. His mother was Clarissa Jane Kendrick Putnam born January 7, 1851 and died on December 26, 1930. Benton was born on January 8, 1888 deceased on April 21, 1962. He was born and reared in the Oak Grove Section of Cleveland County. He had three brothers, Hill, Dow and Crowder. They were born in a weathered wooden house near Oak Grove Baptist Church. The family farmed and raised sheep. Wool from the flock was processed in the home by their mother and used to make items of clothing. Another home was built later for their occupancy which had three porches, a front, side and back porch.

His early schooling was in a one room building with one teacher. Later Benton attended school in Kings Mountain. One of his favorite teachers, Eunice Plonk Harmon, noted his aptitude in math and encouraged him to further his education with this in mind. This he did, taking accounting in boarding school at Boiling Springs, now Gardner Webb College. On weekends he rode several miles on a bicycle to achieve this goal.

He was not eligible for military service but worked in a gun powder plant in Hopewell, Virginia during World War One.

On November 13, 1913 he was married to Audrey Leona Ware at the home of the bride's parents, William Preston and Swanora Ware, in the Patterson Grove Community of Cleveland County. The ceremony was performed by the Reverend John R. Miller in the presence of family and friends.

To this couple four daughters were born, one dying in infancy. The other daughters are: Zoe Putnam (Hill) born January 8, 1915, Alma Jane Putnam (Plonk) born September 13, 1916 and Nina Putnam Welsh (Nebel) born March 31, 1921 all in Cleveland County. Benton and Audrey also had ten grandchildren.

Benton served his church, Patterson Grove Baptist of Kings Mountain in many capacities over the years. He served as teacher for various ages, Department Superintendent, Youth Director, Treasurer and Chairman of the Building Committee. He had many years of perfect attendance. He and his wife also served as leaders of the Community 4-H Club.

After their marriage Benton and Audrey lived on Gold Street in Kings Mountain for a short period of time. They later moved to their permanent residence on Waco Road near Kings Mountain where their three daughters were reared. Their home was made merry with music of their own making. Audrey, then church organist, at the organ and Benton on the fiddle or violin. The children, neighbors and friends often sang far into the night.

For some time Benton worked as a merchant. He was known as a builder of churches and homes. His desire was for permanency of these structures. He drew many of the plans used in his business, working on them at night. Some of the buildings under his supervision were Oak Grove Baptist Church, Temple Baptist Church, Mauney Rock Apartments, Carl Mauney rock home and the country home of the Wray Plonks; also Patterson Grove Church which has now been replaced with a new edifice.

Audrey Leona Ware was born in the Patterson Grove section of Cleveland County to William Preston Ware who was born Sept. 10, 1868 died April 7, 1941 and Swanora Beattie Ware who was born on August 11, 1875 and died on April 16, 1963. Audrey's birth date was October 24, 1891 and the deceased date was February 4, 1975. She was the eldest child and had four brothers and one sister. They were Frank, Otto, Hunter, Lawrence and Bessie.

Theirs was a farming family and they grew many fine trucking commodities. They also produced honey and hickory smoked hams. The fine cooking of this family was well known from the annual corn shucking at the family farm.

Audrey served the church, Patterson Grove Baptist, long and well. She was organist and director of music for many years. She taught Sunday School, Vacation Bible School, was a Department Superintendent and youth leader over the years. She was a Community 4-H Club leader. She was a member of the Home Demonstration Club for many years, and served on the fair booth committee as well as holding other offices in the club. She was a talented seamstress and homemaker.

It is noteworthy for future descendants that Audrey was a direct descendant of Preston Goforth of Revolutionary war fame. Her grandfather, James W. Ware (Weir) was married to Sarah R. Goforth. This information in D.A.R. records of Mollie Ware Campbell, aunt of Audrey Ware Putnam, NSDAR National #134200. It is also historically important that the archives in Washington, D.C. note that predecessors of Audrey and Benton were Confederate soldiers during the war between the states 1861-1865. These being Lorenzo Dow Putnam and James W. Ware (Weir).

Gravestones are in the Patterson Grove cemetery, of Audrey and Benton Putnam and also of all the afore mentioned deceased.

Sources: Presented for preservation and in loving memory of parents by Alma Putnam Plonk (Mrs. Wray Plonk) R #3 Box 175, Kings Mountain, N.C.

— Mrs. Wray Plonk

Arthur Benton and Audrey Leona Ware Putnam, Wedding Picture — November 13, 1913

AVERY JENNINGS PUTNAM

899

My father, Avery Jennings Putnam, was born March 6, 1890 in Waco, North Carolina. He was one of fourteen children born to Thomas D. and Fannie Jenkins Putnam.

Daddy sent most of his life in Waco except for the time spent in the army during World War I. He enlisted September 18, 1917, was engaged in combat in France and was discharged July 27, 1919. According to the occupation given on his discharge, he was a farmer.

My mother, Kathryn, was born in Robeson County, North Carolina, August 19, 1890. She was the oldest of eleven children born to Joseph Z. and Sarah Britt Stone. After graduating from high school, she attended East Carolina Teachers College. She taught school in Robeson and Columbus Counties. In response to a newspaper ad she came to Waco to teach in July, 1925. She had become interested in teaching in the foothills or mountains when she attended summer school at Western Carolina Teachers College. Avery Putnam met the train that brought her to Waco. Just after he met her, he confided to his friends that this new teacher would be his wife. Their marriage took place April 20, 1926 in Shelby, at the home of the groom's pastor, Rev. John W. Suttle.

Soon after they married, Mother and Daddy remodeled the Putnam home, where Daddy was born, and made this their home for the rest of their lives. They purchased the Putnam farm, located just west of Waco. In addition to being a farmer, Daddy was a cotton broker. Mother taught school in Gaston and Lincoln Counties. She could not teach in Waco because the local school board would not employ married women.

In 1938 Mother and Daddy purchased the Beam Brothers Store in Waco. Together they operated the store until Daddy's death in 1949. Mother sold the store a few years later.

Mother and Daddy were members of Waco Baptist Church. Daddy was a deacon and Mother taught in Sunday School.

Because Mother was known as Miss Stone when she came to Waco to teach, she was nicknamed "Stone" for the rest of her life. Daddy was called A.J.; a few older people called him Avery.

Daddy died June 23, 1949, and Mother died April 12, 1976. Both are buried in Capernaum Cemetery near Waco.

Their first child, Fanny Elizabeth (Beth), was born in 1932. Another daughter, Ann Avery, born in 1936, died in infancy and is buried in Capernaum Cemetery. In 1957 Beth married George Wilson Hamrick, son of Lester O. and Margaret Wilson Hamrick of Lattimore. They have two daughters, Elizabeth, born April 1, 1962 and Kathy, September 1, 1964.

Sources: Personal knowledge, memories and family records.

— Elizabeth Putnam Hamrick

THE BAXTER PUTNAM FAMILY

900

Baxter Cleveland Putnam, b. March 1, 1885 in Cherokee County, S.C., d. February 14, 1955, Cleveland County, was the son of James Monroe Putnam, b. February 16, 1857, d. April 10, 1923 and Sara Louise Bostick, b.

Baxter Putnam — 1907

Ida Hamrick — 1907

these years, when Baxter was eight, he worked at Belmont Mill for thirty five cents a day. Monroe then sold the house and moved to Dravo Dam where "Lou" ran a boarding house and the rest of the family farmed. He later bought a farm in the Mt. Siani Community.

Baxter, b. June 28, 1883, d. February 14, 1956, had wanderlust and went west. He served as a blacksmith in the Army in 1910, and aboard the USS Iris in 1914 at San Diego, California. His collection of mounted deer heads and bear rugs expressed his love for hunting. He compensated for his third grade education by reading, memorizing the World Atlas, studying geography, went to the Philippines and had crossed the U.S. five times by 1927.

Not being able to forget the girl back home, with whom he corresponded, he came back to Shelby and on March 12, 1921, married Ida Hamrick, b. June 29, 1883, d. June 9, 1965. They left for California, a wild, beautiful and exciting state at that time — so wild that there were only Catholic churches and to Ida's amazement everyone worked on the sabbath.

Before her marriage to Baxter, Ida had a very hard life, her mother having died when she was eight and being the eldest she felt responsible for Belva and Darfer. They did stay with their grandparents for a while and attended the All Healing Boarding School and Asheville Normal. Her father remarried but then her step-mother, Pricilla, died after a very long illness during which time Ida had all the house keeping responsibilities plus attending three children, Joseph Turner Cabiness, Phocians Vinis Hamrick, Bernice Hamrick. She did not feel free to marry until the younger children went to college.

Baxter and Ida were the parents of only one child, Frances Rebekah, b. January 13, 1922, premature. For a year she was fed on goats milk and strained vegetable juice and received a blood transfusion each month. This was done by injecting a large syringe in the groin.

In 1924, the Putnams' were returning to Shelby on a visit. Driving along the Pacific Ocean at Capistrano, their car skidded and flipped on its top. Ida and Rebekah finished the trip by train leaving Baxter to stay until the car was repaired. This frightening experience left Rebekah so afraid of cars, she would only travel by train or streetcar for quite sometime.

In 1927, the Putnams moved back to Shelby and opened a blacksmith shop, shoeing horses and repairing farm equipment.

Baxter suffered lasting effects from the flu during the 1918 epidemic. He had three nervous breakdowns and became an alcoholic. The doctors recommended he develop a hobby to help control the alcohol addiction. He became a well known collector of guns, antique furniture and millstones. History classes toured the Putnam home as well as many people throughout the state and surrounding states. Baxter Putnam is given credit to this day for opening eyes to the importance of collecting and refinishing guns. In 1947, he sold his collection to Remington Rand and some individual gun collectors. Thanks to his hobbies and a miracle, he did not drink during the last seventeen years of his life, and gave of his time trying to help other alcoholics.

Being an only child, Rebekah was a most precious possession of her parents. Her father would let her help him in his blacksmith shop, heating and reshaping iron. He built water wheels for her and took her hunting and fishing. Her parents supported her in all her activities.

Ida, being a great disciplinarian, was in command of every situation. Her greatest joy was seeing their farm hands become land owners. She progressed with the times and lived for the future.

Sources: Bible Records, Memories.

— Frances Rebekah Putnam Ellis

December 29, 1859, Rutherford County, d. November 28, 1922, Cleveland County, who were married August 4, 1881. His paternal grandparents were Samuel Putnam, b. October 5, 1837, d. March 30, 1919, and Artie Hardin, b. October 5, 1835, d. October 30, 1921 and were married February 8, 1855. Artie was the daughter of George Hardin her grandfather was Thomas Hardin. Baxter's great grandparents were Elias Putnam II, b. December 2, 1800, d. November 26, 1859, married Rachel Poston, b. June 13, 1808, d. July 1841. Elias I, b. 1771, d. 1848 married Nancy Roberts, b. 1774, d. 1857.

His father Anderson Putnam migrated from Virginia. His maternal grandparents Samuel Evans Bostick, b. July 10, 1830, d. January 11, 1910 was married October 15, 1850 to Jane Price Suttle, b. January 21, 1835, d. October 35, 1921. Jane Price Suttle was the daughter of Sara Baxter and Benjamin F. Suttle. Sara Baxter was the daughter of William Baxter who came from Ireland about 1758. He married Sarah Berryhill. Samuel Evans Bostick's father was John Bostick, b. 1805, d. 1873, who was married to Cynthia Harrill, b. 1808, d. 1861.

Monroe's family of seven boys and two girls moved to South Shelby for a few years. During

Baxter Putnam

BENJAMIN FRANKLIN PUTNAM

901

Benjamin Franklin Putnam, born 4-12-1849, died 11-30-1925, was the son of Wallace and Mary Putnam, who came to Cleveland County around the 1830's and settled on a farm in Number Two Township. When Wallace died in 1850, Benjamin grew up helping his mother on the farm and raised corn, cotton, hogs, and sheep.

In 1869 he was married to Verdia R. Hughes, b. Apr. 2, 1851, d. Mar. 12, 1920. Verdia's parents were Sanford Hughes, b. Nov. 10, 1812, d. Jan. 3, 1893 and Veranda Hughes, b. 1816, d. 1878.

Benjamin, called "Doc" by his neighbors, was active in church as a deacon and singer. He carried all his children to church on a wagon. The following children were born to "Doc" and Verida: Cansis, b. Aug. 15, 1874, d. Oct. 1, 1952; Carrie, b. May 15, 1876, d. Mar. 15, 1926; Leo Ramseur, b. May 23, 1878, d. Aug. 26, 1954; Cossie, born Nov. 11, 1879, died Feb. 7, 1959; Elisha, b. 1881, died, 1898, unmarried; Burton, b. May 12, 1882, d. Mar. 2, 1920; Ressie, b. May 15, 1885, d. Aug. 27, 1953; Duran, b. June 5, 1887, d. Nov. 11, 1969; Etta, b. Mar. 28, 1889, d. Dec. 10, 1947.

Cansis Putnam was married to Julius Spurling, b. Apr. 24, 1859, d. June 1, 1940 who, by a former marriage, fathered Gizzie Spurling b. Aug. 15, 1897, d. Aug. 15, 1970, and Cabot (dates unknown). Julius was one of the first veterinarians in Cleveland County. He and Cansis had no children.

Carrie Putnam married Richard Crowell Champion, b. Feb. 18, 1873, d. Mar. 12, 1950. "Dick" operated a grocery store in South Shelby. Their children were: Olney Phene, b. Jan. 17, 1902, d. Mar. 24, 1974; Norwood C., b. Sept. 25, 1897, d. Jan. 24, 1925 unmarried; Marion C., born Oct. 5, 1905, d. Oct. 31, 1955 unmarried; Benton, b. Dec. 6, 1907, d. June 7, 1977; Grady, b. Apr. 20, 1910, d. Jan. 29, 1933; Corene C., b. Mar. 5, 1912, d. Nov. 2, 1981; Margaret C., b. Jan. 6, 1914; Ben Palmer C., b. Dec. 30, 1919; Lawrence C., b. Sept. 8, 1899, d. Dec. 22, 1900.

Olney Phene C. married William S. McCurry, b. Apr. 1, 1899, d. Dec. 29, 1965. Their children were: Carrie Elizabeth McCurry b. Jan. 30, 1922 who married Joseph Howard Debrew, b. Apr. 4, 1920. To this union were born Joseph Ladd Debrew, b. Dec. 5, 1948 who married Martha Pharr and their child is Robert Howard Debrew born June 2, 1954. Olney's second child, William Smith McCurry, Jr., b. May 15, 1924, married Marcele Allen, b. Mar. 13, 1926 in Savannah, Ga. Their child was Mary Catherine, b. Aug. 25, 1949, who married Thomas Leon Steward in Birmingham and their children are Christopher Thomas Stewart, b. Nov. 29, 1976 and Leslie Anne, b. May 5, 1980.

Olney's third child, Pamela Jean McCurry b. May 11, 1952 married Kim Koutsky and they live in Chicago. Olney's fourth child, Cynthia Ann McCurry, b. Aug. 1, 1957 married Donny Hyde in Plainsville, Ohio. Clifford Benjamin McCurry, Olney's fifth child b. Sept. 18, 1926, married Doris Hughes on July 2, 1950. To this union was born Benjamin Hughes McCurry b. Feb. 21, 1956, who married Thea Ann Dedmon on Nov. 3, 1979. Clifford's second child was Ellen Doris McCurry, b. Dec. 4, 1958.

Olney's sixth child, Catherine Dale McCurry, b. July 24, 1928 married Quillian Standridge. Their children are Jane Dale Standridge, b. Jan. 9, 1948. Jane married Bernedtt Enner Johnson III. Their children are B.E. Johnson IV, b. June 25, 1974 and Bryan Eric Johnson, b. July 22, 1977. Linda Standridge, b. July 10, 1950, married John Frederick Morrill. They live in Idaho. Their children are Michael Scott Morrill, b. June 12, 1967 and Christine Ann, b. Apr. 18, 1970. Alfred Jerry Standridge, b. June 25, 1953 married Therse Laymon. To this union was born Jennifer Leigh, b. June 6, 1975, and Jamie Lynn, b. June 4, 1976, and Diane, b. Dec. 22, 1977, and Lisa Maria, b. Oct. 26, 1981. Alfred's family lives in Redding, California.

Olney's next child, Mary Jo McCurry, b. May 16, 1933 married James Wallace Hester, b. Nov. 22, 1959. To this union was born Barbara Jo Hester, b. Aug. 29, 1961, who married Donald Bryan Cantrell in Aug., 1980. Donald Eugene McCurry, the eighth child, b. Sept. 27, 1937 married Kathryn Bridges on Sept. 14, 1957. Their children are Donald Eugene McCurry Jr., b. July 16, 1959 and Kathryn Ann McCurry, b. May 6, 1961 who married Bobby Arnold Thackerson on May 17, 1980.

Robert Bruce McCurry, b. Aug. 18, 1930, d. July 4, 1931. Olney's tenth child was Ella Jane McCurry, b. May 18, 1941, married Carol Thomas Harris, b. Sept. 7, 1941. To this union was born William Thomas Harris, b. Jan. 19, 1967. They live in Reidsville, N.C.

Marion Champion, b. Oct. 5, 1905, d. Oct. 31, 1955 was unmarried.

Charles Benton Champion, b. Dec. 6, 1907, d. June 7, 1977 was married to Ethel Robinson, b. Mar. 8, 1910, d. Oct. 12, 1976. Their children were Charles B. Jr., b. 1930, John Richard, b. Oct. 31, 1934. John is married and his children are; Leslie, John Jr., and Cellise Champion.

Grady Champion, b. April 20, 1910, d. July 29, 1933, was unmarried.

Corene Champion, b. Mar. 5, 1912, d. Nov. 2, 1981, married Raymond Lewis. Their child is Esther Jean, b. Mar. 7, 1931 who married W. Frank Helton. Their children are W. Frank Helton, Jr., David Lee Helton, and Carol Jean Helton.

Margaret Lee Champion married Hudson Hoyle. Their children are Sandra Faye, b. Jan. 5, 1938, Mary Clayton, b. Nov. 4, 1947, and Van Richard, b. Mar. 14, 1954.

Ben Plamer Champion, b. July 6, 1914, married Lillian Robinson, b. Jan. 17, 1912. To this union was born Ben Douglas, b. July 6, 1936, who married Doris Dean Martin, b. Mar. 19, 1935. Their children are; Wade D. Champion, b. July 1, 1959, Katina Lynn, b. Apr. 19, 1970, Ben Palmer III, b. Sept. 26, 1937, Robert Palmer, b. Mar. 27, 1959, married Diane Kobar, b. Aug. 2, 1941. Their child was Christina Kokar, b. July 5, 1968.

Elisha Putnam was the son of Benjamin Franklin, b. 1881, d. 1898, unmarried.

Burton Putnam, son of Benjamin Franklin, b. May 5, 1881, d. Mar. 2, 1920 was married to Gizzie Spurling, b. Aug. 15, 1897, d. Aug. 15, 1970. To this union was born, 1) Frank Putnam, b. Mar. 13, 1911, who married Edna Waters, b. July 28, 1919. Their children were; Linda Putnam, b. Sept. 21, 1941. She married Kenneth Tessner. Jean P., b. Aug. 19, 1944 who married James Stepp, Frances P., b. Nov. 24, 1946 who married Barry Jones. Aileen P., b. June 11, 1949, Helen P., b. June 10, 1951, Marie P., b. Sept. 8, 1956 who married Steve Stallings, and Lloyd Frank Putnam, b. Feb. 15, 1959. 2) Corene Putnam, b. Mar. 2, 1919, married Richard Hooper. Their child was named Kathy Hooper.

— T.S. Putnam
and Edna Putnam

BOBBY GENE PUTNAM

902

Bobby Gene Putnam, son of Spurgeon Britton Putnam and Maggie Lee Bridges Putnam, born March 4, 1929 . . . in Number Three Township of Cleveland County, N.C. Married, April 10, 1949 to Frances Carolyn Kendrick (b. July 4, 1929) daughter of John Burl Kendrick and Reola Wall Kendrick.

Children: Son, Robert Wayne Putnam, (b. Nov. 19, 1952) married June 11, 1977 to Peggy Ann Atkinson (b. Nov. 14, 1950) daughter of Samuel Ralph Atkinson and Bobbie Jean Page Atkinson of Fairmont, N.C.

Daughter, Carol Jean Putnam (b. Nov. 11, 1954) married February 11, 1978 to Vernon Christopher Horne (b. Feb. 7, 1955) son of Wallace Lee Horne and Marie Silver Horne of Shelby, N.C.

Grandchildren: Leah Atkinson Putnam (b. Dec. 2, 1979) daughter of Robert Wayne Putnam and Peggy Ann Atkinson Putnam. Kristen Carol Horne (b. June 5, 1981) daughter of Vernon Christopher Horne and Carol Jean Putnam Horne.

— Mrs. Carolyn Putnam

COSSIE PUTNAM

903

Cossie Putnam, son of Benjamin F. Putnam, was born Nov. 11, 1882, d. Feb. 7, 1959, married Ida Ellis, b. Apr. 7, 1883, d. Mar. 28, 1963. To this union was born, Cecil Putnam July 2, 1903, d. Oct. 26, 1958 who married Frieda Savage. Their daughter was Ruth Leah Putnam Debenidetus. Cossie's second child was Dorcus Eugenia, b. Sept. 24, 1904, d. Sept. 1975. Her husband was Jeff Colliers, b. Sept. 1901, d. Sept. 1975. They had three children; Frances Elizabeth (Collier) Hillman, Jeff William Collier and Mary Josephine Collier. Ethel Agatha Putnam, b. Apr. 2, 1907 married Ford Monroe Brown b. Dec. 17, 1906, d. May 5, 1971. Their children were Mary Priscilla Brown, b. Oct. 21, 1923 and Dorthy Ann Brown b. Feb. 28, 1926. Addie Sue Putnam, b. Mar. 6, 1909 married Hardy Addington b. Apr. 7, 1907 d. Nov. 5, 1961.

Their children are Jane Elizabeth (Addington) Pampy and Charles Phillip Addington. Mary Lee Putnam, b. May 17, 1913 married J.T. Leverette. Their children are: Sarah Joan Leverette b. Apr. 14, 1932, married Melvin T. Thomas, b. Jan. 15, 1932. Their children are Harold Wallace Thomas b. Sept. 9, 1952, who married Janice Deborah Pruett b. Oct. 1, 1952. They have a son, Jason M. Thomsa, b. Apr. 28, 1979. Mary Lee's second daughter, Mary Lois Leverette, b. Aug. 4, 1933 married Jerry Joseph Sewell, b. Jan. 21, 1941. Bruce Evans Leverette, b. June 9, 1936 was married to Shirley Jean Addison, b. Nov. 28, 1937. To this union was born Daniel Evans Leverette Aug. 31, 1957, d. May 31, 1969 when he fell from a load of hay; Ronald Thomas Leverette b. May 14, 1944, who married Linda Vista Walker Painter, b. Feb. 28, 1947 who had a daughter by a former marriage named Linda Lou Painter b. June 27, 1963; Jeffrey Bruce Leverette b. Oct. 18, 1959 married Valencia Carol Bryson, b. Nov. 12, 1959. They have a daughter, Tiffany Renee, b. Sept. 29, 1949; and James Richard Leverette, b. Oct. 3, 1965, who is unmarried.

Cossie's 6th child, James Terrell Putnam, b. Oct. 27, 1918 married Ovice Wilkerson. They had two daughters, Janice and Sheron who married cousins by the name of Wilson.

Louise Putnam, b. Feb. 7, 1916, married Fred McClean b. Jan. 22, 1919. To this union were born three daughters: Carol, Joyce and Freida. Joyce is married to a McKay.

Cossie and Ida Putnam moved to Toccoa, Georgia soon after they were married in early 1900's. Their children grew up around that area.

William O. Ressie Putnam, Son of Benjamin F. Putnam, was born May 15, 1885, d. Aug. 27, 1953. He was married to Daisy Pearson, b. Dec. 23, 1886, d. Nov. 16, 1973. To this union was born Alma (no dates), Dorthy, b. June 6, 1911 and Bruce, b. Sept. 13, 1916, d. June 10, 1948, and three others who died in infancy. Ressie was city mail carrier in Shelby for 30 years. This family was active in Shelby Second Baptist Church as long as they were able to attend. Dorthy married Roy Newton, b. June 6, 1911, d. Aug. 20, 1965. Roy was a Baptist minister for several years, serving in Pineville, Ky. He established two small missions just outside Pineville and served them many years. He established another mission in New Lebanon association in the state of Virginia. To this union was born Leita Jo, b. Jan. 19, 1936, and twin boys, Tyrus and Cyrus b. Sept. 6, 1939. The twins graduated from high school in 1956, returned to Shelby and joined the Air Force in 1959. When Roy died in 1965 Dorthy brought his body back to Shelby for burial and re-established her home in Shelby. Leita Jo married Paul Rogers and lives in Atlanta, Cyrus also lives in Georgia. Tyrus died on Nov. 28, 1980. Bruce was killed in a traffic accident in Shelby in 1948.

Duran Putnam, son of Benjamin F. Putnam, married Mabel Russ b. Oct. 23, 1884, d. Dec. 21, 1960. Three children were born to this union: Edward, b. Apr. 30, 1920, d. Aug. 25, 1955, Verdia b. June 18, 1918, Helen, b. Jul. 23, 1925 (unmarried). Verdia married Elmer Earls, b. Apr. 14, 1917 and their children are Kathryn b. Dec. 28, 1951 and twins, Stanley and Steve b. Dec. 13, 1947.

— T.S. Putman

ELIAS PUTNAM and DESCENDANTS

904

Elias Putnam, along with two brothers, came to North Carolina from Virginia in the latter part of 1700. They settled in the Zoar Church Community and reared large families.

Elias was born in 1771 and died in 1848. He married Nancy Roberts on December 2, 1796. Both are buried at Zoar Baptist Church in Cleveland County, North Carolina. They were charter members of Zoar. To this union two children were born that I have record of, Elias Putnam and Susan Putnam.

Elias was born December 2, 1800, and died in 1859. He was married to Rachel Poston (1800-1841). They had three children — Devanney, born 1835; Samuel, born June 28, 1837; and Rachel, born 1841. Samuel was my grandfather.

Susan Putnam, second child of Elias Putnam and Nancy Roberts, was born September 28, 1797, and died April 27, 1877. She was married to James Love (born 1796 — died 1878). Susan and James were also charter members of Zoar Baptist Church and are buried there. James Love is remembered for giving land to the town of Shelby, North Carolina.

Susan and James had six children, Christopher, born 1825; James Ingram, born 1830; Susan Ann, born 1831 and married to Dr. W.P. Andrews; Thomas W., born 1833; Anderson M., born 1838; and William Love.

Samuel Putnam, my grandfather, married Artie Hardin, daughter of George and Mary Harrell Hardin, on February 8, 1855. Both are buried at Double Springs Baptist Church. Samuel and Artie had twelve children — nine boys and three girls: Munroe, John D., William, Clifton, Jordan, D. Franklin, Charles I., Pinkney, Samuel Tildon, Rachel, Mary and Esther.

Samuel entered the Confederate Army, Company "B", 49th Regiment, on May 14, 1861. He was wounded twice, once near Wilson, North Carolina; and at Drury's Bluff near Richmond, Virginia. He lost his left arm on May 16, 1864.

My grandfather Samuel, although he had only one arm, was an active farmer and church member. He walked four miles to Double Springs Church and led the singing there. He had a good voice and tried to teach me to sing but had to give up on that deal.

When talking to an acquaintance of Samuel, a Mr. Jones, I was told of an incident that happened at a community log cutting. Mr. Jones asked my grandfather if he needed help trimming his log. Samuel replied, "You trim yours, and I'll trim mine." Mr. Jones said that although he had only one arm, Samuel finished cutting his log before Mr. Jones did.

Samuel Tildon Putnam (son of Samuel and Artie Hardin) was my father. He was born May 16, 1876, and died March 22, 1952. He was married to Vella Evans Eskridge (January 28, 1878 — May 7, 1961) on December 14, 1908. Both are buried at Zion Church in Cleveland County, North Carolina. They had three children, Pauline, Hal W., and Earl.

There are many Putnams in Cleveland County, probably all descended from Elias Putnam and his two brothers. The Putnams are related to many families in Cleveland County: Hanricks, Hardins, Harrells, Postons, Dobbins, Golds, Wellmons and many more.

Sources: tradition, family Bibles, church records, and cemetery inscriptions.

— Pauline Putnam Roberts

LEO RAMSEUR PUTNAM

905

Leo Ramseur Putnam was born May 23, 1878 and died on August 18, 1954; married Ada Gertrude Weaver, born October 17, 1879, died March 4, 1966. Leo was a farmer, carpenter, bricklayer, and a dedicated church man.

Their children were William Yates, b. Mar. 14, 1902, d. Jul. 27, 1903; Oveda, b. Feb. 11, 1904; Etha, b. Jan. 19, 1906, d. May 20, 1962; Edna Jean, b. April 27, 1902; Taft Spurgeon, b. Oct. 17, 1908, Ithiel Hythe, b. Oct. 25, 1910, d. Sept. 9, 1974; Crete, b. April, 29, 1914, d. June 30, 1966; Elijah Joseph, b. April 2, 1915, d. Feb. 21, 1920; Ezra Lee, b. Nov. 10, 1917; Willie Gertrude, b. Oct. 24, 1922.

Oveda was married to L. Guy McKinney of Ellenboro in 1928, moving to Houston, Texas that year. L.G. Jr. was born in 1931. Guy worked with Phoenix Dairies several years and Oveda taught in the City Schools. Guy worked in the Houston Post Office from 1938 until 1966. L.G. Jr. graduated from Baylor University and was assigned as a missionary to Hong Kong, China. He is a gifted musician and translates American Hymns into Cantonese language and the natives use them in worship. L.G. Jr. married Florence Fielder of Houston, a daughter of Dr. Wilson Fielder who has served as a medical missionary in China. Florence assists L.G. Jr. as a school teacher. Their adopted son, Daniel Scott is a student in the University of Houston. Their adopted daughter is in high school in Hong Kong where she serves as a consultant between teachers and pupils.

Etha, Leo's second daughter, graduated from Appalachian State College and taught in elementary schools around Siler City, N.C. until she was married to Andrew Hunt, b. Dec. 15, 1905, d. Jul. 16, 1966, of Mt. Sinai community where she grew up. Andrew operated a shoe shop in Shelby for many years. Etha helped in the shoe shop as cashier. They were both active in Mt. Sinai church although they lived in Shelby. Their only child, a son, died shortly after birth.

Edna, was never married but her brothers, sisters, nephews, nieces, and neighbors love her like a grandmother. She graduated from Boiling Springs High School in 1930. She worked as sales lady in Shelby's Belk's, Roses, and found Blanton's Variety Store in South Shelby as her favorite place of work. She is very active in church at Mt. Sinai.

Taft Spurgeon, oldest living son of Leo, worked on the farm with his father, graduated from Boiling Springs High School, worked three years in a cafeteria and entered the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill and received the A. B. degree in Education. He taught at Piedmont High School for 8 years and in 1943 was appointed Postmaster there, serving until 1973. In 1938, he married Ruby Warlick, b. Feb. 6, 1908, who was teaching Home Economics at Piedmont. She received her B. S. in Home Ec. from High Point College in 1932. Between teaching both high school and kindergarten she had her family: Rebecca, b. Apr. 13, 1941, Kathy, b. Aug. 16, 1942, and Robert, b. Dec. 30, 1946. In 1948, she opened a kindergarten in her home and for 26 years she taught preschoolers from Lawndale and surrounding communities to sing, color, and get along well together. Taft and Ruby have both been active in New Bethel Baptist Church since coming to Lawndale. He has served as deacon and Sunday School Superintendent or teacher for years. She has taught in children's department many years also. Both have served in the choir as well. Taft has been active in Boy Scouts, Lions Club, Mason Lodge, and other civic organizations. Rebecca went to Wingate Junior College two years and graduated from Appalachian State University, CUM LAUDE. She taught in Marion School in Shelby for a few years and married Conrad Beam on June 30, 1963. Their children are Susan, b. July 1, 1966, Barbara, b. May 23, 1969, and Jonathan, b. Dec. 8, 1970. They live in Charlotte where Conrad is employed by Celanese Corp. They are both active in Church. Susan is a member of S. Meck. H.S. Band. Barbara and Jonathan are active in sports. Kathy graduated from Appalachian State University. She married Dale Martin from Jonesville, N.C., June 14, 1964, and taught school in Jefferson, Ga., and is teaching in Gastonia now. Dale, b. June 1, 1941, is Scout Executive in Gastonia office where they now live. Their children are Laura, b. Apr. 20, 1967, Beth, b. Feb. 20, 1969, and Matt., b. Apr. 23, 1970. Laura and Beth are interested in sports while Matt is interested in scouting. Robert Dixon, was educated in Burns High School, Polkville, Gardner-Webb Jr. College, and Appalachian State University. He played American Legion Baseball in Shelby, and while at Gardner-Webb their team competed for National Championship in Grand Junction, Colo. finals in 1967. He also played baseball while at Appalachian State University. He then taught Special Ed. at North Cleveland, Physical Ed., and Health at Central and Burns Jr. High where he now teaches and coaches football and golf. He married Marilyn Dycus, b. Oct. 24, 1948, in 1970 and their children are Robert Dixon Putnam, Jr., b. Nov. 3, 1973, and Deniece Tanya Putnam, b. July 15, 1975.

Ithel Hythe Putnam, son of Leo Putnam, worked as carpenter for Henrietta Mills, was very active in church as deacon and Sunday School teacher and lay leader concerned with all church members physical and spiritual needs. He married Ruth Hicks, b. July 14, 1916, of Mooresboro, N.C. She is also active in church as teacher and musician. To this union were born, 1) William Leo, b. Feb. 21, 1935, 2) Marjorie, b. Jan. 16, 1937, 3) Peggy Jean, b. Aug. 16, 1939, and 4) Joseph Steven, b. Oct. 25, 1947. William L. graduated from Appalachian State and now serves as principal of Bostic Elementary School. He married Joyce Harris, b. 5-15-36, who teaches with her husband. Their children are Jimmy Dean, b. Mar. 25, 1959, who is studying at Appalachian State University. After Hythe's death Ruth was married to Jack Dawson, b. Mar. 24, 1906. Marjorie Putnam was married to Bill Scruggs and their children are Charlene, b. May 29, 1960 and Sharon, b. Nov. 25, 1963. Marjorie was later married to A.Y. Morgan. They live in Aiken, S.C.

Peggy Jean Putnam, b. Aug. 16, 1939, attended Limestone College and is a realtor in Florence, S.C. She was married to Wayne Houser, b. Apr. 18, 1938, of Cliffside. He works for Fiber Industries in Florence, S.C. Their children are Gary Houser, b. Jan. 27, 1959, attended Davidson for 2 yrs., and is a senior at Frances Marion in Florence, S.C.; Bruce Houser, b. Sept. 26, 1960, is in Senior year at Clemson Univ.; Pamela Houser, b. 9-2-1962, married to Darrell Bridges in 1980; Susan Houser, b. Feb. 18, 1967.

Joseph Steven Putnam, b. Oct. 25, 1947, graduated from Appalachian State Univ., cum laude, joined the Navy and his rank is L.C.D.E., Norfolk. He married Marsha Brooks, a teacher, b. Apr. 29, 1949. Their children are: Jason, b. Jan. 5, 1976 and Travis Marshall, b. Nov. 9, 1979.

Crete Putnam, son of Leo Putnam, graduated from High School, worked in Shelby Post Office, was drafted into Army in 1942 and served with the European forces until strain and exposure led to hospitalization. At the end of WW II he remained several months in hospital. Crete married Ophelia Borders, b. Dec. 20, 1916, d. Dec. 13, 1962. Their daughter died at birth. They adopted Richard Mike, b. May 3, 1949, on July 12, 1949. Crete was active in First Baptist Church of Shelby as deacon. He and Ophelia worked with Primary S.S. class, also. Richard Putnam serves First Baptist Church as deacon and pianist. He records and entertains groups often. He is married to Robin Weaver, b. Jan. 25, 1954. Robin is active in church and in Little Theater work. Their children are Ashley P. b. May 20, 1973 and Emily Grace, b. May 25, 1976.

Ezra Lee Putnam, son of Leo Putnam, carpenter, and employee of N.C. State Hwy Dept. for many years, has been active in Mt. Sinai Church as deacon and S.S. teacher. He married Sarah Williams, b. May 19, 1924, d. Sept. 24, 1970, was a graduate nurse in Cleveland Memorial Hospital in Shelby. After Sarah's death Ezra Lee married Thelma Ingle, b. 1-13, 1925. Thelma is an inspector in L & K Mfg. Co.

Willie Gertrude Putnam, daughter of Leo Putnam, employed by Fiber Industries, Shelby; has been WMU leader and teacher in Mt. Sinai Bapt. Church. She married Jack R. Putnam, b. Sept. 4, 1923, who has worked with Lutz-Yelton Oil Co. in Shelby for many years. Their children are 1) Jacquelyn Anne, b. Dec.

23, 1944, graduated from Mars Hill College with a major in music. She married Ramond Geary Miller from Bostic, b. Dec. 18, 1944, supervises a chain of vending machines in and around Atlanta, Ga. Their children are Anne Kathryn, b. Jul. 19, 1972, Kandis Yvonne, b. May 26, 1975. 2) Phillip Loyd P., b. May 15, 1948. Phillip is employed at Fiber and is married to Cheryl Thomas Putnam, mother of Pamela Gail, b. Apr. 12, 1966, Brian Steve, b. Sept. 30, 1968, Charles Robert, b. Jul. 19, 1969, and Melissa Dianne Putnam, b. Aug. 5, 1974. 3) Christopher Robin Putnam, b. July 26, 1955, graduated from Belmont-Abbey, 1981, cum laude. He had been elected to Phi Beta Kappa fraternity. His major was accounting. He is employed by J.A. Grisette & Co. in Rutherfordton, N.C.

— T.S. & Edna Putnam

SAMUEL PUTNAM

906

Samuel Putnam (1837-1919) born in Cleveland County, the second child of Elias Putnam II (1800-1859) and Rachael Poston (1808-1841). Samuel was the grandson of Elias Putnam I (1771-1848) and Nancy Roberts (1774-1857). Elias and Nancy were also parents of Susan Putnam wife of James Love. Samuel was the great-grandson of Anderson Putnam who came from Virginia; he was the brother of Devaney Putnam (1835) and Rachael Putnam (1841). Samuel married Artic Hardin (1835-1912) in 1855. Artic was the daughter of George Hardin and the grand-daughter of Thomas Hardin. Samuel and Artic had twelve children; they are as follows: Rachael (1856), James Monroe (1857), George (1858), lived two days, John (1859), Will (1861), D.J. (1866), Clifton (1867), Frank (1870), Mary (1872), C.I. known as Charlie (1873), Tilden (1876), Pinkney (1879), and Esther (1880-1972).

Samuel and Artic had three children when he went away to the Civil War. One was born after he left. He lost an arm in the battle of Druey's Bluff, Virginia. Artic could have lived with her father during the war but chose not to do so. She borrowed a horse from Mr. Irvin and plowed corn. She also plowed for Mr. Irvin. She kept a cow and pig allowing them to "run out" at night.

Samuel and Artic reared their family on a farm on Cabaniss Road, between Double Springs and Zion Churches. They are interred at Double Springs Church.

The children of Esther who married Wade Yancey Elliott are: Mary Ethel Elliott Ellis (1914) and Wade Yancey Elliott (1916).

Monroe Putnam married Louise Bostic (1859-1922) and their children are as follows: Pleasant Holcomb (1882-1939), Baxter Cleveland (1882), Foy B. (1888-1963), Loyd Yates (1890-1957), Ila (1892-1976), Paul Carrell (1895-1929), Janie (1897) lived one month, Dovie (1898), Grady (1901-1978), Guy Moore (1905-1961).

Below are some of the descendants of Samuel and Artic Hardin Putnam:

Jack R., Foy B. Jr., Jane P. Jolly, Rebekah P. Ellis, Arvill S., Rena McSwain McGinnis,

Samuel Putnam Family. 1st row L to R: Frank, Cliff, D.J., Will. 2nd row L to R: Samuel, Artie, Rachael, Monroe, John. 3rd row L to R: Esther, Pink, Till, Charlie, Mary Evelyn McSwain Simmons, Reba McSwain Moss, James E., Jerry C., Helen Raye Davis, Evelyn Gold Blanton, Emma Gold Wilson, Inez Putnam Connor, Lois Putnam Bowling, Dr. Richard F. Bowling, Pauline Roberts.

Sources: Sam's family Bible and word of mouth story from daughter Esther and grand-daughter, Ethel Elliott Ellis.

— Jane Putnam Jolly (Mrs. Thomas Jolly)

SPURGEON BRITTON PUTNAM 907

Spurgeon Britton Putnam, the oldest child of Clarence Gordon Putnam and Leola Gibson Putnam was born August 28, 1905 in the family home that still stands on Allen Road in the Hickory Creek section of Cleveland County. An old family story tells that in the hot summer months before Spurgeon's birth, his mother, Leola, sought out the cooling comfort of Hickory Creek banks, and a birthmark on his knee resembles bull-frog spots, the baby marked by her playing with the frogs. His brother and sisters include: Gibson 'Buddy', married to Gladys Whisnant, Hattie Helene, married to R. Wells Lowery, and Donnis Lee, married to Ralph Walker.

Spurgeon, known in childhood as "Bant" because of his small stature and 'bantam rooster' spirit, began his lifelong tobacco chewing habit around age four. His great-grandmother, Sara Turner Gibson, also had the tobacco habit and would share her tobacco with the little boy. She would allow him to take eggs to the country store to trade for tobacco and tell him not to tell his mother.

He learned early to skip rocks over the pond — and was a sure-shot at a target. Once, when a chicken got his cake off a stump, he threw a rock, hit the chicken, and killed it. A never-forgotten "whippin" was the result when he threw a rock at Leola's younger brother, Hartness Gibson, who was his constant childhood playmate.

Spurgeon referred to himself as a "mean" little boy, but we are inclined to believe mischievous is the proper word. He was a spunky high school basketball and baseball player, standing 5 ft., 6 in. tall, weighing about 130 pounds, known as the 'runt' of the team, who could hold his own with any opponent. He recalls guarding a 7 foot forward on an opposing basketball team . . . unable to reach that height, even with up-stretched arms, standing on tip-toes, he "out-spunked" him by guarding with the hand on the referee's side, and "accidentally" bumping the forward's elbow with his left hand everytime he tried to shoot, making him overshoot the goal.

On December 13, 1925, Spurgeon married Maggie Lee Bridges (b. Feb. 29, 1908). Spurgeon and "Lee" were blessed with four handsome sons: Bobby Gene, (b. March 4, 1929); Billy Roger, (b. August 1, 1931); Don Britton, (b. May 15, 1936), and Gary Lane, (b. December 27, 1952).

Spurgeon was active in the farming community, farming first with his father, then renting land, then owning his own farm. He was quite adept as a carpenter and supplemented the family income with carpentry work when not working on the farm. He will always be remembered for his handsome fine-furnished furniture, especially cedar chests, one of which was made for Dr. Vic Moore as payment for delivery of baby, Don.

Maggie Lee, daughter of John Lee Bridges (1882-1981) and Mamie Julie Harris Bridges (1886-1974), is a petite, soft-spoken lady of many talents. The aroma of hot homemade biscuits fill the air around Lee's kitchen, and guests are always invited to enjoy pies and pastries. The children and grandchildren look forward to their mealtime visits, and the great-grandchildren all know where she keeps the "tea cakes." She spends many hours during the summer canning and freezing vegetables from their garden. Her handwork and embroidery decorate many homes, and not one great-grandchild is without heirloom baby pillow handmade by "Mawmaw." Her little boys wore baby dresses with scallops, lace, and embroidered rose-buds on the collars.

A tragic house fire in 1941 left this family homeless with only the clothes on their back and one kitchen chair. This chair is still part of the furnishings of the Putnam house and carries many lasting memories.

Since retirement, Spurgeon and Maggie Lee spend their time doing what they like to do and what they do best: he, fishing, chewing tobacco, reading . . . she, cooking, gardening, baby-sitting with great-grandchildren. He entertains the grandchildren by telling stories of old-times. One favorite thing, he predicts a wintertime snow by listening to the fire crackle in the fireplace, for the sound he describes as the sound of footsteps in the snow.

Children's marriages: Bobby Gene to Carolyn Kendrick, daughter of John Burl and Reola Kendrick; Billy Roger to Bonnie June Poston, daughter of Paul Grady and Margaret Hord Poston; Don Britton to Betsy Idonna Costner, daughter of Jim and Elizabeth Bridges Costner; Gary Lane to Linda Sue Ledford, daughter of William Ticie and Ruby Ray Toney Ledford.

Grandchildren include: Robert Wayne Putnam, son of Bobby Gene, married to Peggy Atkinson; Carol Jean Putnam Horne, daughter of Bobby Gene, married to Chris Horne; Donna Lynn Putnam London, daughter of Don Britton, married to Ronnie London; Deborah Jane Putnam Davidson, daughter of Don Britton, married to Bobby Davidson.

Great-grandchildren include: Tyler Lee Davidson, son of Debi Putnam and Bobby Davidson; Leah Atkinson Putnam, daughter of Wayne Putnam and Peggy Atkinson Putnam; Kirsten Lee London, daughter of Donna Putnam and Ronnie London; Kristen Carol Horne, daughter of Jean Putnam and Chris Horne.

Sources: Scrapbook, Family Bible, Family Memories, interview with relatives, and personal knowledge.

— Jean Putnam Horne

LONA DIXON QUALLS 908

I was born October 22, 1902 to Henry and Alice Dixon. My father died when I was seven years old. I remember very little about him, but the memories I have are very precious.

I had sixteen beautiful years with my mother. She was a beautiful Christian mother and was loved by her family and neighbors. She spent many hours on her knees talking to the Lord and reading the Bible, seeking help to rear a large family and to keep food on the table. After her death, we spent several years on the farm with our oldest brother, Ed Dixon. I went to Cherryville, N.C. to live with my sister Bessie.

I finished High School in Cherryville and worked a year for Harrelson Brothers in their new Department Store. I decided to go back to school and came to Appalachian State University in Boone, N.C. I later taught in the Watauga County Schools.

I met my husband, Ed S. Qualls, at Appalachian, and we were married in 1923. Our home was blessed with two boys and two girls.

Spencer, our oldest son, was called into service, World War II, for three years. He went to the University of North Carolina where he majored in Journalism. He married Lyn Brown. They had one son, Jerry Qualls. His second marriage was to Betsy Swain. They have three children — Rodney, Shelby, and daughter Ellen.

Lona Dixon Qualls

Martha Qualls is a graduate of Appalachian State University, Boone, N.C. having graduated Magna Cum Laude. She has been a High School English Teacher and is now Executive Vice-President of an insurance company — home office in Richmond, Virginia. She married Robert Quinton Collier of Richmond, Virginia. They have two children, Cathy and Bobby, a graduate of the University of Virginia.

Dixon Qualls is a graduate of the University of North Carolina and has received his D.D.S. Degree. He is in Asheville, N.C. He is married to Landy Brown, and they have three children — Gregg, Gary, and Chris.

Nancy Qualls is a graduate of Boone High School and a graduate of Cosmetology School in Charlotte, N.C. For the past 13 years she has been with the Food Service at Appalachian State University. She has two daughters, Rebecca and Amy Rhymer. Ed was in the hardware business. Later he had his own new car dealership.

I had a dress shop for several years while raising our family, but I still was not doing what I wanted in my life. I decided to go back to school. This time it was to a Cosmetology School. I think I really found myself because I was working with people. Somehow, I always made time to talk with each child and help solve their problems and be a good listener.

I had lots of hobbies. Growing flowers was one. I could always bury my troubles in the ground. The flowers seemed to thrive on them. My rose garden was my pride and joy. I used the roses for the church since I was the Church Flower Chairman for 10 years.

I taught Sunday School in the Junior Department and was the young people's leader. I have been in mission work for 50 years, president of my Sunday School Class, and belong to a prayer group. Over the years I have tried to put in practice what my mother taught me.

I am a Life Member of the Garden Club of North Carolina, a member of the Blue Ridge Garden Club and member of the Worthwhile Woman's Club. A few of my hobbies are flower arranging and painting — I have presented the Junior Dept. in the First Baptist Church with a painting 6'x30", but best of all is being a grandmother to eleven beautiful grandchildren.

— Lona D. Qualls

THE WILLIAM L. QUEEN FAMILY

909

William (Will) Labron Queen (b. July 10, 1870 — d. November 30, 1957) was married to Margie Candus Stroupe (b. May 12, 1871 — d. June 10, 1957) on March 13, 1891. They were both born in Lincoln County near Stanley and both were buried in Antioch Church Cemetery in Cherokee County.

In their 66 years of marriage they spent most of those years farming or in textile plants. This entailed a lot of moving on their part. When they left Lincoln County they moved to Shelby where one of their sons met and married his wife. From Shelby they moved to Gaffney, South Carolina, then to Marion, North Carolina, back to Chesnee, South Carolina, to Marion, North Carolina, and then back to Cherokee County, South Carolina where both died and were buried.

Will Queen had two brothers, Edward and Ephriam, and one sister, Ida. Candus Queen had two sisters, Della and Emma, and one brother, Macon.

They had four children: the eldest, born in Lincoln County, was Benjamin Cathy Queen (b. March 12, 1892 — d. December 17, 1928) who married Ollie Jackson Barnett (b. January 17, 1979) on September 26, 1909. They lived most of their lives in Cleveland County and both are buried at Poplar Springs Baptist Church Cemetery. They were faithful members at Poplar Springs for many years. The children born to this union were Floyd, Archie, Raymond, B.C., Kathryn, and Myrtle. These children were all raised in Cleveland County.

The second son was Claude Spurgeon (b. June 19, 1895 — d. March 16, 1917). He was born in Lincoln County and is buried at High Shoals Cemetery.

The third son was Charles Leonard Queen (b. May 6, 1909) born in Shelby, North Carolina. He married Alice Ruby Isler (b. May 31, 1923) June 21, 1947. They live in Cherokee County, South Carolina, but they attend First Baptist Church in Grover, North Carolina. Charles was in service about three years during World War II. About two years of this time was spent overseas. He was at Normandy Beach and followed the invasion through to the end. Charles and Ruby had two daughters,

Remember . . .

Articles
Are Indexed
By
Article Numbers
. . . Not By
Page
Number

Patricia Anne (b. November 26, 1950) and Charlene Rubette (b. December 16, 1952).

The fourth child, their only daughter Nellie Lucrecy (b. December 8, 1910), was married to Benjamin Oliver Black (b. October 23, 1903) on October 21, 1927. They had one son, Oliver Benjamin Black (b. March 16, 1929). He also served his country in the United States Navy for about three years.

— Johnnie W. Queen

FLAY DEWITT QUINN

910

Flay DeWitt Quinn (1887-1957) was the son of Henry Beckham Quinn (1854-1924) and Quiltina Quillania Andrews (1854-1925). He was born in Shelby, attended the Shelby schools, and graduated from the School of Pharmacy at the University of North Carolina in Chapel Hill.

He married Helen Amanda Dover (1890-1972), a native of Shelby and a music teacher.

With the exception of about one year, the couple spent their entire married life in Shelby, and lived most of the time at 313 South DeKalb Street.

The six children in this family were a boisterous, happy crowd, and the home was a gathering place for all friends, just as their mother's home had been when she was growing up.

DeWitt's hobbies were fishing and being a friend to all those who called him "Doc." Helen put all her energy into giving her children every advantage she could manage, even in times of adversity. She was the supplier of courage and faith when everybody around her needed it. When she died, one of the adults who had been in the Quinn home, almost as a member of the family when he was a youngster, said that in spite of all the noise, laughter and sometimes tears, he never heard her raise her voice.

Helen graduated from Oxford Seminary in Oxford Seminary, and studied piano in New York City. She taught music at Gardner-Webb (then Boiling Springs) when her students were younger than she.

This family was one of the many caught in the Depression of the Forties, and their survival was due in part to their own efforts, and in part to the support of those close to them who cared.

The Quinn children are: (1) Esther Andrews married to Edwin C. Ford, (2) Flay DeWitt, Jr. ("Bill") married to Mary Virginia Taylor (1921-1959), (3) Henry Randolph, (4) Helen Virginia married to Troy Shelton Williams, (5) Carolyn Dover, (6) James Toms married to Sonnya Hamilton.

DeWitt and Helen Quinn are buried in Sunset Cemetery.

— Esther Ann Ford

HENRY BECKHAM QUINN

911

Henry Beckham Quinn (1854-1924) was the son of Anonymous W. and Ellen Erwin Quinn, both natives of Shelby, where "Beck," as he was known, was born. He was married to Quiltina Quillania Andrews (1854-1925) daughter of Dr. and Mrs. W.P. Andrews, and granddaughter of James Love, who gave land for much of the present down-town Shelby area.

Beck Quinn was a tall, quiet gentle man. During a good part of the first quarter of the twentieth century, he was an ever present figure in the small fountain house on the east side of the Court Square, from which he sold Lithia water from the Lithia Springs of his farm north of Ross Grove Church in Cleveland County. This water was dispensed by the glass or the five-gallon blown glass jugs. Cleveland County was known for the mineral water from the many springs in the area, and the claims for good health which this water abetted were vouched for by natives and visitors alike.

The fountain house was a gathering place for many, of all ages, who came downtown for any reason, and Beck Quinn counted them all his friends.

Fly DeWitt Quinn (1887-1957) was the only child in this family.

Beck and "Quill" (as she was known) are buried in Sunset Cemetery.

— Esther Ann Ford

SHIRLEY ARNOLD and BEATRIX BLANTON RAMEY

912

Shirley Arnold Ramey (1914-1971) was the son of Shirley Samuel and Ida Todd Ramey of Low Gap, North Carolina, and the grandson of the Civil War soldier, Josephus Ramey and wife Matilda Walker Ramey.

He was graduated from Beulah High School and Appalachian State Teachers College (1940). His post graduate work was at the University of Colorado and the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. He was an educator having held positions at Fries, Virginia, Mt. Airy High School and Catawba College, Salisbury, NC. He is listed in Who's Who Among Educators of the South. In World War II he served as an air force captain in the European Theater. He was an avid golfer and proudly displayed his "hole-in-one" award.

He died the 17th of December 1971 and is buried in the Lattimore Baptist Church cemetery.

On 30 May 1958 he married Jenny Beatrix Blanton (b. 1913) of Lattimore, Cleveland County, the daughter of John Samuel and Garva Ella Harrill Blanton.

Lithia Springs Fountain, east side courtsquare early 1900, where Beck Quinn sold lithia water.

Beatrix entered the field of education (1940), Boiling Springs Junior College (Gardner-Webb), Appalachian State Teachers College (1940), and the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill (1949). She also did post graduate work at the University of Colorado and the University of London. For thirty-nine years she was employed by the State of North Carolina, having taught in the Yadkin County Public Schools (1940-1944) and Hickory City Schools (1944-1958) upon leaving the public schools in 1958, she became a professor in the College of Education at Appalachian State University, Boone, North Carolina. She is listed in Who's Who Among American Women.

Beatrix and Arnold had many hobbies, among them were tracing the history of their ancestors. They have spent many hours in libraries, courthouses, museums, cemeteries and archives trying to locate and learn about these early people. Beatrix still continues the hobby in genealogy. She has taught genealogy and local history classes at Cleveland County Technical College and Isothermal Junior College. She was a member of the state organization of Junior College local history-genealogy instructors, which was the beginning of the genealogy program in the State of North Carolina under the direction of Dr. Maurice Stirewalt. She has also served on the Board of Directors of the State Genealogy Society. Beatrix and Arnold have two publications in the field of genealogy: Cleveland County Marriages and 1850 Cleveland County Census.

Sources: Family records.

— Louise B. Blanton

BLEUFORD RANDALL DESCENDANTS

913

Little is known of Bleuford Randall's early history. Records confirm he had three sisters named Sarah, Peggy and Elizabeth. Their parents names, dates and place of birth are not known.

During the War of 1812 Bleuford served with the militia in the Second Regiment of Rutherford County, North Carolina. Organization date for the unit was August 1814.

On the 15th day of July 1819 Bleuford married Kissiah Willis, daughter of David Willis. They made their home near Knob Creek on a farm which is in the present community of Belwood. They were the parents of seven children: Francis (Fanny), David, William, John Ligger, Caleb, Thomas Parker and Susannah Self.

Bleuford died sometime between February 1845 and February 1846. Kissiah died sometime between April 1852 and February 1853. Both are believed to be buried in the Willis Family Cemetery near Belwood.

William Randall was born on the 31st day of July 1827. His parents were Bleuford and Kissiah Randall. On the 7th day of December 1851 he married Susannah A. Ross. Susannah's parents were Aaron and Jane (Ledford) Ross.

William's occupation was farming as his father's had been. During the Civil War he was a member of the State Guard in the Confederate Army.

S. Arnold and Beatrix Blanton Ramey

William and Susannah had a total of twelve children among which were two sets of twins. Their children were John Jonas, Pinkney A., Mary J., Sarah E., James S., Nisa Ann, Catherine, Noah W., Ester Letta, Charlotte, William Frank and Maggie R.

William died the 27th day of October 1911 and Susannah died the 20th day of October 1918. Both are buried in the Bethlehem Baptist Church Cemetery near Kings Mountain, North Carolina.

A family reunion for the descendants of William and Susan is held on the first Sunday in October each year at the Bethlehem Fellowship Center, which is located at Bethlehem Baptist Church, Kings Mountain, NC. This tradition was started in 1951.

Pinkney Randall was born on the 2nd day of January 1854. His parents were William & Susannah Randall. He was married to Francis Sophronia Procter. They had four children: Charles A., Zennie, W. Bergan, and Artis Pascal. His first wife died on the 3rd day of December 1885.

Pinkney's second wife was Susan E. Whisnant. They had six children: Bessie, Novella, Addie, Alex Taylor, Minnie, and Pinkney Lee.

Pinkney died the 23rd day of December 1935 and Susan died the 16th day of November 1945. They are both buried in the Bethlehem Baptist Church Cemetery near Kings Mountain, North Carolina.

A family reunion for their descendants is held on the fourth of July each year at the Bethlehem Fellowship Center which is located at Bethlehem Baptist Church, Kings Mountain, NC.

Alex Randall was born the 19th day of November 1893. His parents were Pinkney and Susan Randall.

Alex married Mary Ethel Davidson, daughter of John and Martha Davidson. Alex's occupation was farming and Ethel was a school-teacher. They lived in the Oak Grove Community. Their family consisted of four sons: Alex Talmadge, Thomas Bayne, Hugh Davidson and Robert Alton.

Alex died the 28th day of July 1973 and Ethel on the 2nd day of March, 1964. They are both buried in the Oak Grove Baptist Church Cemetery near Kings Mountain, North Carolina.

Sources: Family members, court records & deeds, federal census.

— Thomas Bayne Randall, Jr.

JAMES HARVEY RANDALL FAMILY

914

James Harvey Randall, July 27, 1835 — December 1, 1899; married Eunice Elizabeth Green, (July 20, 1838 — February 14, 1907); in Cleveland County on January 11, 1856. Her parents, John Green, (November 8, 1793 — July 23, 1875), and Judith McSwain, (October 31, 1798 — October 26, 1875), are buried at Boiling Springs. James Harvey's great-grandfather, Jacob Randal, immigrated from England and was killed in the Battle of Kings Mountain. Jacob's son, Silas, homesteaded 400 acres in south Cleveland County. Silas'

Six children of James Harvey and Eunice Green Randall. Front row L to R: John Martin Kelly, James Pinkney, Kershaw McNeilus. Back row L to R: Alsy Green, Jacob Miles, Tilden Edgar son Martin, (1810-1881) a wagon maker; married Marthy Gladden (1808-1881). They are buried in Pine Grove United Methodist Church Cemetery. (See John Randall History by Miss Stella Randall for details and dates).

James Harvey; farmer, slave holder, soldier, was my great-grandfather. While living in south Cleveland County, he enlisted in Company D, 55th Regiment, North Carolina Troops as a private; February 24, 1862, just five days after his fourth child's birth. He was commissioned Second Lieutenant, May 29, 1862; captured at Gettysburg; listed as a prisoner on Johnson's Island, New York, 1864.

James Harvey's ten children were all born in Cleveland County, but in 1880 he bought 75 and 3/4 acres on the waters of Webb Creek in Rutherford County and in 1893, another 100 acres.

James Harvey, a Methodist, was attending Bethel Baptist Church in Ellenboro with his son John Martin Kelly, a Bethel member. In keeping with Baptist Church policy, he was denied the Lord's Supper. Kelly said, "My father is the best Christian I know. If he cannot partake I will move my membership." He did, to Oak Grove Methodist Church, where he served as a steward and choir director. He lined the hymns; a tuning fork his only instrument.

James Harvey's family Bible was given to him by a neighbor.

These are the children of James Harvey and Eunice and their dates of birth and death:

1. Martha Jane, (July 11, 1857 — October 22, 1905); married Robert Biggerstaf, (September 30, 1855 —).

2. John Martin Kelly, (September 28, 1858 — April 6, 1925); married Martha Familiar Dedmon, (January 16, 1864 — December 6, 1957).

3. Thomas Pinkney, (June 21, 1860 — October 29, 1919); married first, Roseanna Holland, (May 23, 1859 — August 2, 1902); second Augusta Emeline Harrill, (August 5, 1875 — February 5, 1924).

4. Kershaw McNeilus, (February 19, 1862 — June 14, 1934); married first, Pantha Hamrick, (September 29, 1866 — July 1, 1901); second, Arrie Hamrick, (August 23, 1876 — February 26, 1916); third, Claudia Hamrick, (September 18, 1880 — October 10, 1959). (The second and third wives were sisters and the first wife their cousin).

5. Alsy Green (Boss), (February 15, 1866 — December 7, 1932); married Mary C. Hamrick, (February 11, 1869 — October 14, 1928).

6. Cora Ada Louise, (September 1, 1868 — May 14, 1930); married Lorenzo Dow Wilkie, (November 27, 1862 — December 14, 1941).

7. Jacob Miles, (June 21, 1870 — November 29, 1924); married Cordelia Ann Harrill, (August 22, 1870 — February 24, 1947).

8. Mary Margaret Judith Susan Hannah, (December 12, 1873 — July 19, 1960; married C. Baxter Harrill, (May 22, 1869 — February 10, 1954). (She was named for kin so as to offend no one).

9. Tilden Edgar, (December 14, 1875 — January 10, 1942); married Lelia E. Harris, (December 30, 1879 — December 10, 1920).

10. Joseph Hoyle, (August 4, 1879 — October 6, 1884).

James Harvey and Eunice and all their children are buried in the Oak Grove United Methodist Church Cemetery in Rutherford County, except Martha Jane Randall Biggerstaff, who is buried at Rehobeth United Methodist Church Cemetery in Cleveland County, and Margaret Randall Harrill, who is buried in Concord Baptist Church cemetery near Bostic, North Carolina.

My father, John North Randall, one of Kelly and Martha Dedmon Randall's nine children, and an ordained Methodist Minister, was pastor of Pine Grove Methodist Church, 1931-1933. Pine Grove was built in 1830 by Jacob Randall.

Our son, Howard Randall Wilkinson, his wife Rebecca Padgett Wilkinson and their sons

Carey Randall and Casey Wilson Wilkinson live in Shelby.

Sources: James Harvey Randall's Family Bible, Randall Family Tree and John Randall History by Miss Stella Randall; cemetery markers; census records, wills, deeds of Rutherford and Cleveland counties; marriage records of above counties.

— Lenora Randall Wilkinson

THE JOHN RANDALL FAMILY 915

Jacob Randal was born in the 1750's and died October, 1780. His family immigrated from England in the 1700's and settled in Pennsylvania. Jacob came south and settled on Jumping Branch in the Antioch Community three miles east of Blacksburg, South Carolina, and three miles west of Kings Mountain. He and his wife had two sons: John and Silas. Jacob fought and died at the Battle of Kings Mountain in 1780. His son John went to Georgia or Alabama. His son Silas settled in lower Cleveland County near Bowen's River. This spot was on the present Highway 18 South, to the right of Bowen's River. This is one-half mile south of Pine Grove Church. Silas built a three story log house with detached kitchen, using a house plan brought from England. This house was still standing in the 1920's. Silas and his wife Sarah raised their family there.

Silas and Sarah had six sons: John Randall (1795-1870) whose wife was Elizabeth Dixon (1795-1872); Jacob Randall (1799-1889) whose wife was Jane Wells; Silas Randall, Jr. (1803-) whose wife was Sarah; James Randall (1806-1870's) whose wife was Martha Wylie (1806-1870's); Martin Randall (1810-1881) whose wife was Marthy Gladden (1808-1881); and Harvy Randall (1815-1832).

Silas Randall (1770-1855) homesteaded about four hundred acres of land in lower Cleveland County in the vicinity of Bowen's River. His sons settled and raised families on this land and in the same general area, acquiring additional land for their needs, with the exception of Silas, Jr. who moved with his family to Texas shortly after 1860.

My great-grandfather, John Randall (1795-1870), settled in a region about a mile west of the Silas Randal home place, still bordering Bowen's River. He and his wife, Elizabeth Dixon (an aunt of the famous author, Thomas Dixon, Jr.), had two sons: (1) John Calvin (1829-1894) and (2) Silas Dixon (1830-1912). They had two daughters: Sarah (1832-1917) and Jane Ann (1838 ?). These children were raised at this home place.

The Randall Compound included homes and several other buildings — barns, cribs, a smoke house, a grist mill, a saw mill, a tannery and a button factory. They farmed and had extensive orchards and vineyards. John Calvin was a cabinet maker until he went to the Civil War, serving as a Chaplain. He was wounded at Antietam and lost an arm. After the war he married Mary C. Hardin, whose people were proprietors of the Sulphur Springs Resort Hotel. This was back of Sulphur Springs Church, south of Shelby. Calvin and his wife and a daughter, Mary, went to Texas with other Hardin relatives. They had six children.

Calvin was Methodist minister and traveled far and wide in the Methodist Circuit in Texas, his wife helping him in the ministry.

My grandfather, Silas Dixon Randall, served in the Civil War as captain of Company D of the 55th North Carolina Regiment and fought gallantly through the war until he was captured at the battle of Gettysburg and imprisoned at Johnston's Island until the end of the war. After the war he married Maria Caroline Alexander, an orphan raised by Isaac and Abigail Collins. Isaac was a blacksmith and a saddler. Dixon and Caroline Randall had three sons and two daughters: Clara who died at age two, Lucius Youree (1869-1935), John Alexander (1871-1958); Benjamin Oswald (1873-1950), and Lillian Elizabeth (1875-1965). Dixon and Caroline raised their family at the John Randall home place. Caroline inherited land from her step-father, Isaac Collins. This land was northwest of the John Randall home place and is on the south side of the Mt. Sinai Church Road.

There was a need for a school. Through Dixon Randall and others of the neighborhood and Caroline who gave the land for the school, Broad River Academy was established in 1875. It was on the present Mt. Sinai Church Road. The Randall children, Sarratts, Hoppers, Harrills, Champions, Weavers and many others attended the school. Teachers included C.F. Hopper, V.G. Rollins, Robert Howell and R.J. Balfour, a Harvard man who was the most popular teacher. Dixon's sister, Jane Ann married Professor Balfour. In addition to the six-month winter term supported by patrons of the school, there was a six-week subscription summer school. The building still stands and is used for storage.

Dixon's sister Sarah married Rufus Roberts. They had one son Frank Roberts. Frank was founder of Shelby Savings & Loan of Shelby, North Carolina.

Dixon Randall's sons insisted that they build a new home on the Caroline Alexander property on Mt. Sinai Church Road. So Dixon and his sons built this new Randall home place in 1900 just in front of the Broad River Academy. Dixon and his family then lived here. On this land they farmed and had a saw mill. But their main business was running a gin.

Lucius Randall inherited this home and made many improvements. He and his wife lived there and had two sons. These sons, William and Dixon, live in this home place now. They have also remodeled the home.

Pine Grove Methodist church was established in 1830. Silas' son, Jacob, a carpenter and cabinet maker, built the church. Jacob also built Sulphur Springs Methodist Church in exchange for a farm. Silas and his children were founders and loyal members of Pine Grove. John Hopper gave land for the church. It was rebuilt in 1947 with the guidance of their minister, James Howell Coleman. It is on Highway 18 South about one mile north of Bowen's River and the Silas Randall home site.

— Stella Alice Randall

THE DESCENDANTS OF SILAS DIXON RANDALL and CAROLINE ALEXANDER RANDALL

916

Dixon and Caroline had three sons: Lucius Youree Randall who was a successful businessman of Gaffney, South Carolina. He was a machinist and he owned and operated a foundry. In this foundry they made, among other products, a universal joint which was an invention which Lucius patented. It was used as an improvement on Jacquard looms. These were sold throughout the southeast wherever Jacquard looms were in operation. Lucius married Amanda Hogue and they had twin sons, William and Dixon Randall. They live in the Randall home place built in 1900. William Randall married Jo Wilson. They have two children — a daughter, Amanda Marie who married Tommy Lowery. They have a son, Joshua, and a daughter, Jennifer. William and Jo have a son, Steven who married Debbie Parker. They have a son, Joey.

Silas Dixon and Caroline Alexander Randall

The Silas Dixon Randall homeplace

John Alexander Randall was a manufacturer of many kinds of handles and ball bats. He was a machinist and ran a saw mill at various times. He owned a farm and did some farming. John married Delia Webber. They had a daughter, Stella Randall who was a high school mathematics teacher. They had one son, John A. Randall, Jr. who is a master mechanic and a television and electronic technician. John, Jr. married Ruth Nance. They have a son, John A. Randall III who is in the television and electronic business with his father in Blacksburg, South Carolina, where they live.

Benjamin Oswald Randall was a farmer and a machinist. He worked with Lucius at his foundry for a while. He married Iva Ellis. They had two daughters: Era and Carolyn. Era stayed in the home and became a fine cook, hostess, and gardener. Carolyn married James Howell Coleman who was a Methodist minister. Carolyn and Howell had two sons: Hayne Coleman who is a mechanic and operates a repair shop, and Randall Coleman who is still in college as a music major.

Dixon and Caroline had a daughter Clara who died age two and a daughter Lillian Elizabeth Randall who married Eula Sarratt. They lived in Blacksburg, South Carolina where Eula had an interest in a general store. Lillian and Eula had one son, Garland Sarratt who was a sales representative for McCormick and Company and later went into farming. Garland married Eva Holobaugh and they had two sons — Garland, Jr. and Randall Sarratt. Garland worked as an efficiency engineer for a textile firm and later went into farming. Randall worked as a production engineer for a textile firm and later became a salesman of commercial real estate in Atlanta, Georgia.

— Stella Alice Randall

THE FAMILY OF STEPHEN COLLIS RAYBURN

917

Stephen Collis Rayburn was the eighth child born (1862) (McDowell County) in a family of eleven children, his father being James Monroe Rayburn (1821-1896) who came from Virginia around 1841, married Elizabeth Morgan (1824-1898) in 1845. They reared eight boys and three girls in McDowell County. As a youth and young man Stephen Collins Rayburn farmed and then worked a few years on the track of The Southern Railroad at Vein Mountain doing apprenticeship track work. He was sent to Camden, South Carolina for several months and back to Rutherfordton around 1900. Stephen Collins Rayburn and Drucilla Emeline Bright were married October 6, 1887 (Family Bible). Some of their children were born while living at Vein Mountain; some at Rutherfordton, one at Lattimore.

Lola Belle, being the first child born at Vein Mountain, married Solon Lawrence Beam about 1915. They lived in the country a few years, near New House Community, and then moved to Avondale. Solon, being a carpenter, helped build many houses there. Lola taught school when young, later worked some in stores in Shelby. They moved to Shelby where he remained in his trade. Both died there.

Candace Rhoda, being number two child, taught school twenty years in Cleveland and Rutherford Counties. She died in 1938.

John Monroe, being child number three, boy number one, attended school as others did, worked with his father and some on the Seaboard Railroad until Uncle Sam called and he went to World War I, for two years. Returning, he worked with the Seaboard bridge force a few years and then back with his father. He was soon to get a foreman's job on the railroad. He was sent to Hickory Grove, South Carolina, met and married Sallie Wray. They were transferred to Lancaster, Summerville, and Rock Hill, South Carolina. He lived in Rock Hill his remaining days, dying there. His wife, Sallie, died in 1981. They had one daughter, Frances Louise, now Religious Education Director, First Methodist Church, Rock Hill. She married Wilson Duncan and they have a son doing religious education work, after graduating from Clemson University. The daughter is at Winthrop College.

Bertha Anna married Horace Harrill. They had one son who died in 1931, age seven. They lived in Lattimore a few years, Horace working for the Lattimore Oil Company. They later moved to Avondale and Shelby, passing away in 1972.

Ina, born November 11, 1899, died March 10, 1900.

Carrie Olive, number five for the girls, attended Round Hill High School in Union Mills, Rutherford County. She graduated at Boiling Springs Baptist School 1919, taught school a few years, then went to Mars Hill College, returned to teaching and met Reverend Lee A. Powell. They were married 1932. They lived in Drexel a few years, he being pastor of some churches. In 1943 they moved to Maryland where he was pastor of a large country church. Carrie died there in 1947. Mr. Powell returned to Drexel. He died there 1978.

Willard Maxwell attended Waco High School, married Myrtle Miller of that town. He operated the telephone switchboard a few years and moved to Shelby. Myrtle died and he married Mary Cathryne Rains in 1972.

Durham Hazzard was the last to be born in Rutherford County. The family moved to Mooresboro October 1907, then to Lattimore April 1908. The Railroad transferred Mr. Rayburn. Durham attended High School at Lattimore, later working on the railroad with his dad. However, every son of Stephen's worked, at some time, on the Railroad with his dad and he also worked on the Seaboard Railroad. Durham married Willota Green from Mooresboro, lived in Mooresboro a few years. Willotta died and he later married Mary Ridings in 1960. They lived in Henrietta a few years until his death in 1979.

James Spurgeon, the only one to be born in Lattimore, graduated from Lattimore High School 1926, Boiling Springs Junior College, 1933, worked with the Blue Ridge Ice Cream Company in Shelby, until 1941, going to Baltimore to work with the Glenn L. Martin Aircraft Company until 1947. Leaving there he attended Appalachian State University, of Boone. He received a degree and teaching certificate in the spring of 1949. He taught school two years, met another teacher, Frankye Vance Marshall, of near Winston-Salem. They were married in 1950; both taught; she retired early. He taught twenty-five years and retired. He and Willard, out of the nine children, are the only ones living. Wherever James was, he took an active part in community activities. He and Mrs. Rayburn are now living in Forsyth County, near Walkertown, and are active in community and church activities.

— James D. Rayburn

ALBERT AUGUSTUS RICHARD

918

A.A. Richard was born October 12th 1883 in the Lee's Chapel Community. Gus, as he was called, moved with parent to Casar at the age of six. His parents were James Smith Richard and Mary Christeen Hardin Richard. His brother and sisters were: Minnie F. born Nov. 2, 1875, died May 25, 1877; Lizzie I. born Aug. 20, 1879, died May 11, 1880; Lenora Ada born July 18, 1881, died May 16, 1928, married Boston Smith: Gus born Oct. 12, 1883, died Sept. 4, 1970; Ethel born Jan. 22, 1885 died July 17, 1978, married Henry Smith: Wesley Clarence born July 17, 1888, died July 6, 1974, married Susan White: Mary Amanda born Jan. 20, 1890, died Feb. 4, 1958.

Gus worked on his father's farm, at a saw mill, cotton gin, and planner. On Dec. 13, 1905 he married Dellar Lindsey, born Dec. 26, 1876, died March 15, 1943. Dellar was the youngest of nine children born to Joseph Henry Lindsey and Fannie Elizabeth Shittle. Gus and Dellar had four children: Infant son born Oct. 28, 1906; Doshia Christain born Sept. 19, 1908, married Henry Perry Hall of Granville County and resides in Oxford, N.C.: Mary Lou born Aug. 29, 1912, married James Clyde Palmer: Fannie Gustee born March 8, 1915, married Edmund Williams.

In Casar 1906 a 25 mile rural mail route was established with O.C. Fortenberry as carrier. A year later Gus became the assistant carrier. In Sept. 1908 he was appointed the regular carrier. He retired Oct. 31, 1953 at the age of 70, having carried the mail 46 years. He started his first years with an open buggy and horse. Later he bought a white mail buggy. His first horse was 'Ole Barney.' He carried the mail eleven years, he would always walk over to a mailbox and stop even on Sunday. At one time, Gus related, "It had been a wet season and Briar Creek, which I forded four times on the route was high above the axle of the buggy and midway of the stream a hame string on the harness broke. I was about to be washed down the creek. 'Ole Barney,' a smart horse, held the buggy in place. I tied the mailbags secure to the buggy, then I got out on the axle, held the broken parts and said "go Barney go." He pulled us out of the swift stream. In ice and snow I could always depend on Barney."

In celebration of the 4th of July, I chose a spotted horse to ride that I also owned instead of Barney because I thought he would show up. What did Barney do? When the band started marching, Spotted Fred just walked gangling' along while 'Ole Barney' danced and pranced to the music, he and his rider were the stars of the parade.

Gus retired many horses. In 1926 he used his first car on the route, a Model T. This could only be used in pretty weather. He also retired several cars. In 1947 the route had been lengthened to 40 miles. The weather, bad roads, kept him from keeping a regular schedule. With the horse, people claimed, if the clock had stopped they could set it by the mailman.

Gus, a baptist was always interested in his church, having served many years as Sunday School Superintendent, a teacher, deacon, treasurer and on various committees. He was also interested in community affairs. He worked for better schools, served many years as a school committee. He worked for better roads and electric power. He lived to see all of this come to Casar and surrounding area.

Gus said, "Its a good thing to help people all you can, I was always interested in my patrons and their affairs. They were my friends, helping me whenever I needed aid on the route and I always tried to be their friend."

— Mrs. J.C. Palmer

THE ROBERT LEE RIDINGS FAMILY

919

The oldest son of Fred and Lucy Hutchins Ridings, Robert Lee Ridings, was the first Ridings by name to reside in Cleveland County. He was born (1913) near Harris, Rutherford County. In August of 1933 he married Era Shelly McAlister, youngest child of Forney and Minnie Stroup McAlister. They lived within a one block area on Blanton Street for 46 years. There they reared their three daughters: Jean Price (Artie), of Charlotte; Sybil Martin (Michael), of Huntsville, Alabama; and Vickie Clark (J.D.), of Greer, South Carolina. They have two grand daughters: Toni Price and Julie Clark, also; two grandsons: Eric Price and Andy Martin.

Robert worked for Dover Mill Company most of his working years as a slasher operator at the Ora Mill. He took pride in running a good warp and had an independent character that prevented him taking kindly to much criticism. He had many trainees through the years. He said he could tell in a few days if a person had the ability to make a good slasher operator.

The Ridings are generally lovers of the outdoors with brown eyes, ruddy complexions, and large rugged frames.

Traditionally the name comes from a former occupation. In this instance, as "riding" for the King or Lord of the manor. It was their responsibility to ride ahead and scout the territory, for impending dangers, whether it was for a business trip, guide an army, or a hunting expedition. It is not proven for sure when the "s" was added.

The Ridings family originated in France during the French Revolutions. They migrated to England, and later James and John came to the New England States.

James, who was born in England, came to Virginia in 1634. The name of his wife is unknown, but their son, Thomas, (1840 Va.) married Rose Ann Yeardley (Probably the granddaughter of Sir Yeardley of England). Their great-grandson, John, was born in Surry County, N.C. By the early 1810's there were many Ridings in Surry, Polk, and Rutherford Counties in North Carolina, and Spartanburg County, South Carolina. The second great-grandparent of Robert Ridings is A. Ridings, born in Virginia, Ca., 1785. The estate was settled in 1859 (Polk County Records). The 137 acre farm on Green River was sold and divided among the nine children. Robert's great-grandfather, Joseph, made many land transactions in Polk County. One of the farms fell into the hands of Dock Ridings, Robert's grandfather. (Rutherford County Records)

Dock reared his family of six on the farm. With the formation of Polk County in 1855, the new line fell across the farm. The barn fell into Polk County, while the house and spring were left in Rutherford County. They are both near the South Carolina line which accounts for many Ridings filtering into that state. It also accounts for Joseph and Dock Ridings both claiming brides from South Carolina, Janie and Emily Cudd.

Dock Ridings went without shoes several months of the year. As a lad, Robert remembers him coming up from the road toward the house; his overall jacket slung over his shoulders, feet bare, a walking stick in one hand, a gallon jug of whiskey in the other hand. He always stopped by the barn, took a "nip," and hid the jug in the barn before coming to the house. He would take his "medicine," sit on a protruding root from a large oak, and whittle for hours. Robert never saw him intoxicated.

Albert Augustus Richard, with mail buggy, 1907

Another instance that Robert remembers was when an electrical storm came up. Dock came in from the field, stopped at the spring for a drink of water, then started on toward the house. Two large poplar trees shaded the spring. When Dock was about 50 feet from the spring, lightning struck. It split one tree and broke out the top. The tree did not die completely, but sprang out into a double topped tree. Robert made a picture of the tree before it was cut down about two years ago.

Robert's father, Fred, raised his family; Robert, George, John Lee, Mary (Rayburn), Aileen and Oscar on or near the homeplace before it was sold and fell into the hands outside the Ridings family. Then they moved into the Hollis area of Rutherford County, where Robert lived until he moved into Shelby.

Some time after the death of Robert's first wife, "Esee," (1978) as she was affectionately called, Robert married Beulah Philbeck Noblitt, daughter of Spurgin H. and Dora Swofford Philbeck. They are both retired and reside west of Shelby in the Swainsville area. They belong to Pleasant Ridge Baptist Church and furnish many of their friends with fresh fish, as they enjoy their hobby.

Sources: Family members, personal knowledge, U.S. census, and cemetery records.

— Mrs. Robert Ridings

CHARLES HENRY REINHARDT FAMILY

920

Charles Henry Reinhardt was born Nov. 23, 1886 in Catawba County and was raised in Lawndale. In the early part of 1931 he purchased a general merchandise and grocery store and became a prominent business man and land owner of south Shelby. In the early 1940's he owned a shoe store on Lafayette St. in "downtown" Shelby. During the Great Depression of the 1930's he helped many families with extended credit, eventually to his own financial ruin. He also owned the first A Model Ford that was used as a taxi in Shelby and transported people to town for 5¢. The door to his home was never locked because he had the only telephone in the community and let all the neighbors use it for emergencies and pleasure at any time. Saturday nights and Sunday afternoons the Reinhardt home was a favorite gathering place for the community because of the family radio, also Orrie his wife was noted for her singing. In the days of the visiting preachers they were proud that both the Baptist and Methodist preachers were often at their home. This quite often resulted in six to eight extra dinner guests each weekend. His most outstanding characteristic was his love of children. He had nine children and loved to taken them and many of the other children in the neighborhood to the local creek for swimming and picnics.

Charles Henry and Orrie's children were Matilda Irene, Marjorie Elizabeth, William Franklin, Elnora Adeline, Carolyn Bell, Nathalia

Virginia, Charlene Ann, and Constance Dean. The ninth child died as an infant.

Charles Henry's father was Lewis Franklin Reinhardt born Nov. 6, 1850 from Catawba County. He moved to Lawndale, N.C. and was a member of Palm Tree Methodist Church and married Mintie Cobb March 14, 1879. They had 10 other children: James of Shelby, S. Emitt (Rat), Summie Lewis of Knoxville Tenn., Annie Yelder McMurry of Shelby, Burtha Barnhardt of Shelby, Bessie, Essie, and Evie Reinhardt Whisnant all of Shelby, Logan Edward of Lawndale and Arlegnever (Artie) of Shelby.

Charles Henry's wife Orrie Virginia Smith Reinhardt was born Aug. 30, 1900 and was noted for her beautiful singing voice. She sang solo often at Lafayette St. Methodist Church where they were members and by invitation at the Second Baptist Church. She was noted in the community for her midwife and nursing skills and tended to the sick often staying for days at a time until the person was in good health. She continued to do this until she was in her late 70's. They were married May 4, 1919.

Her father was William Schenck Smith born Dec. 10, 1860. His father was John Gosey Smith who was a house builder and is listed in the Cleveland County Census of 1860. John Gosey Smith's wife was Elizabeth Adeline Haynes born Dec. 21, 1824 from Shelby. They had 11 other children: Dovie Smith Williams, Conley, Alister Bartlet, Pixley, Dora Harmon, Elza, Ludasky, Fannie, Lucinda, Charles, and Clara.

William Schenck Smith's wife was Rita Moria Bell Zora Quinn Smith from "Turkey Creek" in Mitchell County N.C. She lived to be 94 years old. They had 14 children: Viola Lillie, Etta, Bartlett, Elaie, Marvin Stokes, Clarence Ivey, Madia Vera, Vernia Verrie, Sam, Otie Jenette, Orrie Virginia, Tannie Irene, Vista Bell, Juanita Elizabeth and "E.A."

Charles Henry Reinhardt's nickname was "peanut" because of this small stature as a child and he retained this nickname even though he was quite tall as an adult. He was educated at the old Piedmont School in Lawndale. He was excused from military service because he was the sole support of his aging parents and several siblings during the war years. He died Aug. 2, 1952 of stomach cancer and is buried in Sunset Cemetery in Shelby.

Terry Thompson of Hickory N.C. has a detailed genealogy of this Reinhardt family dating to the 1700's and their ancestors from Germany.

Sources: Family memories, the Reinhardt family Bible dated 1892 and public records.

— Jo Ann Shields Vaughn

EDWARD RIPPY I FAMILY

921

"The first Rippy that set foot on American soil that we have ever had knowledge was from Dublin, Ireland. His name was Edward and he was born around 1729. His father lived in Dublin, owned and ran a large linen factory. Edward ran away from his father and came to America. Edward's father was very much opposed to his son's coming to America telling him that if he did come here among barbarians and heathens that he should never inherit a dollar of his estate. However, Edward being of a roaming nature and no doubt had confidence in himself to feel he could make it thru life without his father's assistance so he ran away and took passage on a ship that was coming to America. He was six months on the water and at one time while on his voyage the ship on which he sailed got lost and the whole crew came near perishing.

Edward never wrote a line to his parents in Ireland. Nor ever received a word of news from them to the day of his death. He said that his father's family was the only family with the name of Rippy that he had ever heard of in Ireland.

Edward first settled in Orange County, N.C. on the Haw River. Edward married Susannah Thomas of Virginia who was born in Wales on March 3, 1733. She was the daughter of Massey Thomas and Mary Price of Stafford Virginia. In 1790, Edward and his family moved to Rutherford County in that part which is now Cleveland. They lived, died, and were buried there."

Sallie C. Lutts wrote in her Journal that she remembered "seeing their graves and the house they used to live in, tho I was quite young". She was 70 years old in 1907 when this was written. She also stated that she got the date of Susannah Thomas Rippy's birth from an old Bible but had no knowledge or memory of other important dates in the lives of this couple.

The family Bible belonging to Edward I, listing the children of Edward and Susannah's children was in the possession of Edgar A. Rippy of Temple City, California, a fifth generation descendent, in 1955.

The children were:

Mary (2) Rippy was born December 3, 1762. She married June 22, 1782 in Orange County, North Carolina to William Elmore. William was a soldier in the Revolution. They moved to Lincoln County and that is where they lived when he filed his pension application.

Edward II Rippy was born March 23, 1764 and died December 9, 1853. He married March 16, 1782 to Mary Elmore in Orange County. He and Mary moved to Rutherford County in 1792 and are buried in Buffalo Baptist Church Cemetery, Cherokee County, South Carolina. He was a Revolutionary soldier.

Anne (2) Rippy was born July 22, 1766. She married John Elmore February 3, 1784, with Edward Rippy, Bondsman, in Orange County. The same month as the marriage the court in Orange County awarded them guardianship of James, Athanatius, Mastin and Sarah Elmore. John Elmore served in the Revolutionary War. John and Anne moved to York County, South Carolina in 1793. They sold their property in 1803 and moved to Barren County, Kentucky. Pension papers list Nancy born July 22, 1766 in North Carolina.

Rody (2) Rippy was born May 13, 1768. Tradition has it she married a Gilmore. The 1850 Cleveland County Census #716 list Rody

EDWARD RIPPY II

922

Edward Rippy II was born March 23, 1764 in Orange County, North Carolina, the eldest son of Edward Rippy I and Susannah Thomas where he lived on a farm. Edward II married Mary Elmore born 1761, daughter of John Elmore, who lived near the Haw River area as did Edward II. Their marriage bond was dated March 16, 1782. Edward served in the Revolutionary War. He was taken prisoner and kept aboard a ship in Wilmington for five or six months before his release and subsequent discharge. He reenlisted to help protect Hillsborough.

In 1792 Edward and Mary sold their property on Haw River and purchased 250 acres of land on Bowen's River in Rutherford County, North Carolina.

Edward II and Mary Rippy were received by experience in 1812 into Buffalo Baptist Church in what is now Cherokee County, South Carolina. Edward II was a deacon for 40 years. Both Edward II (March 23, 1764 — December 9, 1853) and Mary (1761 — September 7, 1844) are buried at Buffalo Baptist Church.

The inscription on the tombstone for Mary reads, "Mary Rippy 1761 who died September 7, 1844, aged 84." The tombstone at Buffalo for Edward reads, "Sacred to the Memory of Edward Rippy Esq. who died December 9, 1853 aged 93 years and a deacon of the Baptist Church for the last 40 years."

Sallie C. Lutts tells of her Grandfather. He was honest, industrious and lived a Christian life; honored and respected by all who knew him. By honest industry, he accumulated a good deal of property, consisting of land, slaves, stock of all kinds and money. He lived in ease and comfort for many years before his death, and lived to a ripe old age somewhere in the nineties, I think at his death. I well remember his face, the most pleasant one I ever looked upon. I remember hearing him talk of the hardship he passed thru during the Revolutionary War. I used to delight in sitting at his feet and listening while he talked of old times, the most of which I am sorry to say I have forgotten. I can't remember my great grandmother so well as she crossed over to the other shore when I was quite young but still I remember her.

She, my great grandmother, Mary Rippy had a nephew who was at one time governor of South Carolina. He sent word to his Aunt Mary that if she would visit him he would make a present of a cook, a servant. She sent back word to him that she would like much to visit him but as to a cook she had long since owned one herself". Edward and Mary had seven children.

Sarah (3) Rippy was born April 28, 1789 and died October 15, 1868. She married December 24, 1808 to Valentine Martin, a son of Thomas Martin Sr. (son of William of Chatham County). They moved to Bedford County, Tennessee in 1840's.

Edward (III) Rippy was born in 1791. He married in Lincoln County, North Carolina on May 31, 1810 to Polly (Mary) Martin (1796 — January 13, 1839), daughter of William Martin. Edward (III) also married Selena Hopper, (October 10, 1812 — February 12, 1847), Margaret Webb, (died June 2, 1862), and Elizabeth Seely, (died February 26, 1901).

Homeplace of William Rippy, 1813-1895. Built in 1832 on Road 1108.

James (3) Rippy was born in April 1793 and married Polly Holt.

Jesse (3) Rippy was born in 1795 and married Sally Lowry.

Mary (Polly) (3) Rippy was born in 1797. She married Guyon Black and died in Mississippi.

Anna (3) Rippy was born in 1801 and married Mathias Turner.

Mastin (3) Rippy was born October 12, 1802 and died December 3, 1892. He married (Amanda Turner) "Mary Arnold, daughter of Rodick Arnold, joined the church December 26, 1819, married to Mastin Rippy June 18, 1820 and died December 7, 1878 aged 76 years 8 months and 9 days." according to the inscription on the tombstone at Buffalo Baptist Cemetery. They were farmers in the #3 Township, Stices Shoals.

Sources: Sallie C. Lutts (1837-1927) 1888, 1891, 1907 letters, Edward Rippy II marriage bond; Buffalo Baptist Church records; Cherokee County, S.C. records; Edward Rippy II American Revolution Pension Record and will.

— James H. Martin, Jr.
Thelma Gunthorpe
and Mrs. Jean Oates McSwain

EDWARD RIPPY III

923

Edward Rippy III was born 1791 in Rutherford County, what is now Cleveland County. Edward III was the eldest son of Edward II and Susannah Thomas Rippy. Edward III was nicknamed "Squire Ned". Squire Ned was respected in the community and church. He had a good deal of land and property. Squire Ned joined Buffalo Baptist Church in 1812. Squire Ned became a Justice of the Peace of Rutherford County, in what is now Cleveland County. An area of Cleveland County, Rippy TWP and fire district, was named for Squire Ned. He was blessed with four wives and 17 children.

Squire Ned's first wife was Mary (Polly)

Rippy 78 F living in the household headed by John Roberts 61, Margaret 55, and others.

Jesse (2) Rippy was born December 20, 1769. He married September 8, 1794 in Orange County, N.C. to Elizabeth (Polly) Moody. They moved to Ohio.

Fanny (Frances) (2) Rippy was born December 25, 1771. She married Abednego Adams Jr. They had 6 children. Fanny died August 6, 1852 and was buried in the Adams' Family Cemetery in Cleveland County. Their son William (3) Adams married Elizabeth (Betsy) Martin a daughter of William Martin and Hannah Irvin. They moved to Water Valley, Mississippi. John (3) Adams married Hexrey Cox, marriage bond dated January 1, 1819. Martin (3) and Frank (3) Adams were burned to death around 1813. Mary (3) (Polly) Adams married August 13, 1815 in Lincoln County, North Carolina to James Martin, a baptist preacher, who founded the Bethel Baptist Church, Chickasaw County, Mississippi. James Martin was a brother to Betsy Martin. Elizabeth (3) Adams married Thomas Moreland. They moved to Tennessee then Alabama.

John (b. Feb. 5, 1773 d. 1823) Served in War of 1812 in the Second Rutherford County, N.C. Regiment. Buried at the Buffalo Baptist Church, Cherokee County, South Carolina.

The deeds in Orange County, N.C. show the McSwains, Rippys, Elmores, Davis, Ellis, Collins, and Moores were located in the area around Haw River in that county. William Martin owned property on the Chatham County side of Haw River. The Martins and Elmores had owned adjoining land in Brunswick and Lunenburg Counties, Virginia. Each of these families had immediate members to settle in the Lincoln, Rutherford, York Counties area. Mostly in the area now known as Cleveland County.

Sources: Family Bible, family records, church records, and geneological research.

— James H. Martin, Jr.
Thelma Gunthorpe
and Mrs. Jean Oates McSwain

Marena Mauney Rippy, 1830-1923. Grandmother of Mrs. Thelma Gunthorpe

Homeplace of Edward Rippy III — 1791-1874

Martin. Mary was the daughter of William and Hannah Irvin Martin Jr., who was a deacon of Buffalo Baptist Church and the first pastor of Antioch Baptist Church Cherokee County, S.C. Edward III and Mary (b. December 1791 d. January 13, 1839) were married on May 31, 1810. Mary died suddenly in 1839, after blessing Squire Ned with 13 children.

The children of Squire Ned and Mary Martin were as follows:

Sarah (4) Rippy was born March 26, 1811 — died April 24, 1887, and married Marcus Mart Martin, born 1805 — died May 21, 1861. He was a brother to Posey Martin and a son of Thomas Martin, Jr.

William Billy (4) Rippy was born November 10, 1813 and died December 22, 1895. He married first to Mary Newell Crawford and 2nd to Marena Mauney (March 10, 1840 — March 27, 1923). William built a house on Road #1108 Cleveland County where his granddaughter Mrs. Thelma Gunthorpe now lives.

Lucindy (4) Rippy was born September 21, 1815 and died July 26, 1912. She was buried at Buffalo Baptist Cemetery. She was the wife of Posey (Hoss) Martin, born 1815, brother of Thomas M.

James (Dry Jim) (4) Rippy was born September 17, 1817. He married Minerva Rippy (b. August 18, 1821, d. October 1, 1887), she was the daughter of Mastin Rippy. He died August 1, 1887 and both are buried in New Hope Baptist Church Cemetery, Earl, North Carolina.

Mary (4) Rippy was born March 21, 1820 and died October 1825. She is buried at Buffalo Baptist Cemetery.

Atha (Athenatius)Elmore (4) Rippy was born July 10, 1822. He married Elizabeth Martin (b. October 7, 1814 — died ?) the daughter of Sarah Rippy and Valentine Martin. Athenatius died January 10, 1879. There was a printed death notice circulated about Elizabeth. It stated she was born October 7, 1814 and died June 6, 1905 at 8 p.m.

Edward Martin (4) Rippy was born May 30, 1824 and died March 18, 1910. His wife, Mary (Polly, Molly) Hopper was born November 8, 1824 and died October 30, 1900. They were residents of Cleveland County.

Hannah (4) Rippy was born June 15, 1826. She married Alonze Ellis (b. 1821 — d. 1905) the son of Ben J. Ellis. They were farmers in Cleveland County.

Mary (Polly) Moore (4) Rippy was born November 29, 1828. She married Marcus Ellis a brother to Alonzo. They were farmers in #3 township, Stices Shoals.

Elizabeth Ann Cordelia (4) Rippy was born August 19, 1830 and died June 11 or July 14, 1846 (conflicting dates) and is buried in Buffalo Baptist Cemetery, Cherokee County, S.C.

Susannah Almeda (4) Rippy was born October 20, 1832. She married David William Morrow. She lived in Stices Shoals and died March 7, 1902 and is buried at Mount Paran Baptist Church Cemetery, Blacksburg, S.C.

Martha Caroline (4) Rippy was born December 4, 1834. She married September 28, 1858 to Phillip Sepaugh. They lived in Stices Shoals. There is a story told of Phillip who was a Confederate Soldier. It seems he was taken prisoner by the Yankees and held with others in a corn crib down near Gaffney. The only rations the Yanks had to serve them was corn bread. When Phillip would get his bread he would poke holes in it with his fingers and look through it and talk about someone coming after him. The Yankees thinking he had really gone crazy asked him which way was his home. Phillip pointed the opposite direction. Thinking he would never find his way and would probably be killed, they set him free. Phillip went straight home. Phillip and Martha Caroline are buried at New Hope.

Samuel Houston (4) Rippy was born December 24, 1836. He married Cynthia Sepaugh who was born October 23, 1836 and died December 28, 1923. Samuel was known as "Mighty Hunter." He died May 28, 1915 and both are buried in Mount Paran Baptist Cemetery.

Mary Martin Rippy died. The inscription of her tombstone at Buffalo reads, "Consort of Edward Rippy Esquire died January 13, 1839, 43 years 3 months."

Edward III Rippy married Selena Hopper in June, 1840. Selena was born October 10, 1812 and died February 12, 1847. They had two children:

Barbara Angeline (4) Rippy was born March 21, 1842 and who married Henry Borders. They lived in Stices Shoals.

Charles Hopper (4) Rippy was born January 25, 1845. He was a soldier in the Confederate Army and fell in the "Seven Day Battle of Richmond."

Edward III married for the third time to Margaret Webb on January 25, 1848. Margaret died June 2, 1862.

Edward III married Elizabeth Seely in November 1865. They had two children.

Margaret Eva (4) Rippy was born July 8, 1866. She married W.L. Moss.

Phillip Van Buren (4) Rippy was born July 13, 1868.

Elizabeth died February 26, 1901. She was preceded in death by Edward III who died May 15, 1874.

Edward Rippy III was laid to rest at Buffalo Baptist Church, along with his parents, his first wife Mary, and several of his children.

Sources: Sallie C. Lutts (1837-1927); 1888, 1891, 1907 letters; Marriage Bond of Edward Rippy III to Mary Martin; Buffalo Baptist Church records, Cherokee County, South Carolina; Family Bible of Edward Rippy III.

— James Hugh Martin, Jr.
Thelma Gunthorpe
and Mrs. Jean Oates McSwain

EULA EVRU RIPPY

924

My great grandfather, William Rippy, a descendant of Edward Rippy of Dublin, Ireland and Susan Thomas of Wales was born November 10, 1813 died December 22, 1895 and married (1) Mary Crawford (2) Marena Mauney. He had six children by the first marriage. They were: Mary Elizabeth, William Crawford, James Edward (my grandfather), Julius Parletter, John Henderson, and Martha Clementine. He had eleven children by the second marriage.

My grandfather, James Edward, was born February 23, 1848, died June 27, 1920, married Emeline Hopper, born 1850 died 1894. Their children were: Luna, C. Edgar, Johnny, Lela, Frank, Irvin, and Eula Evru (my father).

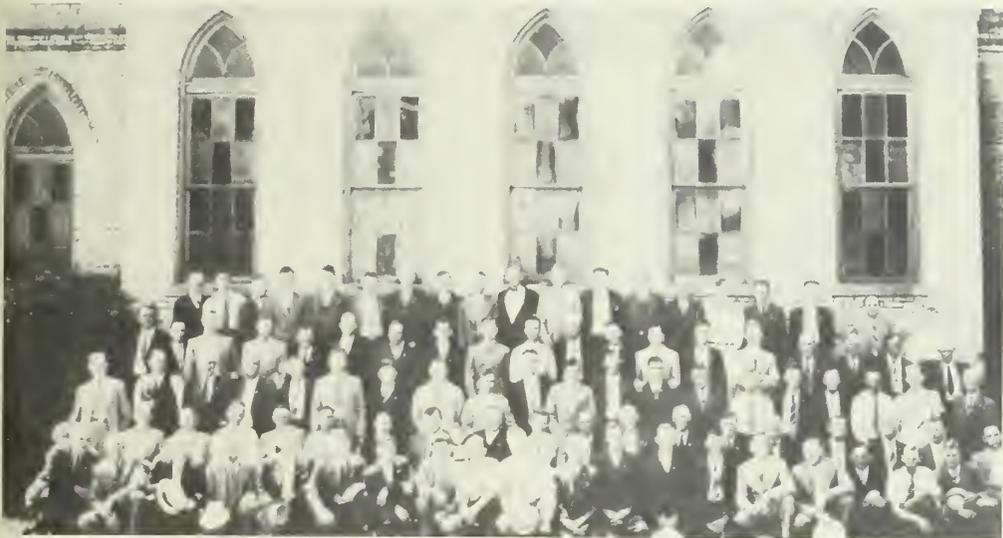

Eula Evru was born in Grover, July 27, 1888, died July 28, 1973, and married Victoria Hartensia Byers, daughter of Raymond Byers of Gaffney, South Carolina April 2, 1914. Victoria was born November 15, 1890, died February 25, 1970. Their children were: Eldon, married Ruth Camp; Allen, married Minnie Camp; Olete, married Fay Camp; Doris, married Carlisle Cloninger; Lela, married Paul Pennington; Reba, married Daniel Hoopaugh; and Norma, married David McDaniel.

Mr. Rippy's mother died when he was six years old, but her Christian influence inspired him to read and study the Bible at a very young age. His father then married Margaret Whisonant to whom he gave much praise for being like a mother to him.

He had the opportunity to go to school only four months out of a year because his father needed him to help on the farm. Many times he carried his books to the field so he could study to the teaching staff at Blacksburg High School to help educate the veterans.

Mr. Rippy's Class of 1914, Pondsfield, Eula Rippy, Teacher. Notice dog in picture.

E.E. Rippy, Teacher, S.S. Friendly Bible Class, First Baptist Church, Grover.

He insisted on having devotions in his class although it had been ruled out. He was granted the privilege through unanimous vote of the students. Rev. Hoyle Alexander, a pastor of the area commended him for his influence on so many of the young men.

He never really retired. He was still drawing blue prints and laying off houses at the age of eighty. After his wife died in 1970 his health began to decline and he spent two years in hospitals and rest homes. He taught Sunday School in the rest home where he stayed as long as he was able.

— Lela Rippy Pennington

WILLIAM RIPPY and DESCENDANTS

925

William Rippy, the son of Edward Rippy, III and Mary Martin Rippy was born November 10, 1813 and died December 22, 1895. William Rippy was born in Cleveland County and he built his home in Rippy Township in 1833. Rippy Township was named for his father, Esquire Edward Rippy. Many of the homes at that time were built in a valley near a spring but William, being an ambitious young man, built his home on a hillside overlooking the beautiful countryside. He did not let the task of digging a well hinder him from building on his favorite spot of his estate. This home was restored and is now occupied by his granddaughter, Thelma Wilson Gunthorpe. William Rippy was a successful farmer and owned many acres of land.

He married Mary Crawford, who was born February 21, 1814 and she died December 6, 1856. Their first child was Mary Elizabeth, who was born July 28, 1841 and died November 17, 1864. Their second child was William Crawford, born August 16, 1845 and died June 20, 1908. William Crawford married Sarah Arnold, who was born September 3, 1846 and died March 9, 1905. The third child was James Edward, born February 23, 1848 and died June 27, 1920. James Edward married Emeline Hopper, born in 1850 and died in 1894. The fourth child was Julius Parlette, born December 23, 1849 and died April 26, 1908. Julius Parlette married Roxada Arnold, who was born March 25, 1849 and died July 27, 1895. The fifth child was John Henderson, born June 4, 1852 and died September 26, 1918. John Henderson married Elizabeth Runyans, who was born November 24, 1855 and died July 22, 1928. The sixth child was Martha Clementine, born April 24, 1854 and she married William (Willie) Martin, who was born February 12, 1849 and died January 2, 1928.

William Rippy's second marriage was to Marena Mauney. Their first child was George Alexander, born June 15, 1865 and died October 15, 1947. George Alexander married Florence McIntyre, who was born February 28, 1873 and died May 30, 1930. The second child was Rhoda Driscilla, born December 16, 1866 and died July 20, 1951. Rhoda Driscilla married Miller Hendricks, who was born February at every rest break. He studied by lamp light at night. This enabled him to keep up with his class. He later attended Mars Hill College and obtained a grade A Teachers certificate in Cleveland County in 1912. The certificate along with his scholarship are on display in the Cleveland County Museum.

He taught at the Borders School in Cleveland County in 1912-1913, Pondsfield School in 1914. I recall hearing him tell an interesting episode that happened during his teaching period at Pondsfield. He was advised not to take the school because there was no way to obtain order since there was a mischievous boy that disturbed the class. The first day of school the boy confronted him with a challenge, that if he could not bring his dog to school he would not attend. He claimed the dog carried his books and those of his brother. They had a satchel they threw across the dogs back.

Mr. Rippy consented, provided the dog stayed outside and caused no trouble. He soon found that by making friends with the dog he had gained the friendship of the boy. The boy was not only obedient but he assisted with the children in lower grades. (The class contained 7 grades.)

On one occasion the dog began to bark a very exciting bark. The boy insisted the dog had jumped a rabbit and he begged to go outside. One more bark of victory from the dog brought the boy to his feet. Being convinced the dog had caught the rabbit, he offered to give it to the teacher if he would just let him go out and get it. Mr. Rippy was very fond of rabbit so he could not turn down the offer. The boy returned with a dressed rabbit. Mr. Rippy's landlady cooked it that evening.

After Mr. Rippy's marriage he attended Winthrop College and secured a South Carolina State First Grade certificate. He taught at Antioch School in Cherokee County, South Carolina during the years of 1927-1928.

Eula was a very active church member. He became a deacon and Sunday School teacher at the age of twenty four. He remained faithful until his death. He taught the Men's Bible Class at Grover First Baptist Church for fifteen years and had an attendance of more than one hundred. He helped organize several mission churches, giving of his time and means.

One of his main interests was the farm he owned and operated. He worked with the soil conservation and acreage allotment program for many years and was sent to Washington as a representative. Prior to World War II he aided in building army camps in South Carolina and Georgia. He continued to work in construction for many years. After the war, he was elected

Eula and Victoria Rippy, 50th Wedding Anniversary — 1964

17, 1862 and died January 13, 1938. The third child was Zulie Saphira, born January 10, 1868 and she married Leroy McSwain. The fourth child was Magdaline, born November 12, 1870 and she married Leroy McSwain. The fifth child was an infant daughter, born October 6, 1872. The sixth child was an infant son born December 18, 1874. The seventh child was Sarah Pamela, born March 28, 1876 and she married Walter McSwain. The eighth child was Cletus, born July 31, 1877 and he married Mattie Bagwell, who was born June 20, 1879 and died October 12, 1930. The ninth child was Willie Rosillie, born November 25, 1874 and died April 13, 1944. Willie Rosillie married Robert A. Putnam, who was born January 1, 1875 and died December 2, 1960. The tenth child was Jesse Irvin, who was born February 15, 1882. The eleventh child was Ina Belle, born March 3, 1884 and died March 12, 1963. Ina Belle married Robert H. Wilson, who was born May 16, 1876 and died in 1949.

William Rippy's children consists of six children by his first marriage to Mary Crawford and eleven children by his second marriage to Marena Mauney. There were a total of seventeen children born to William Rippy.

— Lela Rippy Pennington

WILLIAM 4 (BILLY) RIPPY, MARY NEWELL CRAWFORD AND MARENA MAUNEY

926

William 4 Rippy was born in Cleveland County, North Carolina on November 10, 1813 the son of Edward Rippy and Mary Martin. He was a farmer in Number 3 Township. He married Mary Newell Crawford who was born February 24, 1814. William built a story and a half house with a large front porch in 1832. The house is located on Road #1108 and is occupied by one of his granddaughters. William and Mary had six children in this home.

Mary Elizabeth 5 Rippy was born July 28, 1841. She died November 17, 1864.

William Crawford 5 Rippy was born August 16, 1845. He married May 26, 1867 to Sarah Arnold who was born September 3, 1846. Sarah died March 9, 1905. William was a farmer and died June 20, 1908. William and Sarah are buried in New Hope Baptist Church Cemetery, Earl, North Carolina.

James Edward 5 Rippy was born February 23, 1848. He married Emeline Hopper who was born November 10, 1850. She died October 28, 1894. There is a stained glass window in her memory at Mount Paran Baptist Church. James Edward died July 27, 1920. They are buried at New Hope.

Julius Parlettia 5 Rippy was born December 23, 1848. He married on November 7, 1869 to Roxada Arnold. Roxada was born March 25, 1849 and died July 27, 1895. Julius died April 26, 1908 and buried beside his wife at New Hope.

John Henderson 5 Rippy was born June 4, 1852. He married Eliza Runyan on January 30, 1875. She was born November 24, 1855. John Henderson died September 26, 1918. Eliza died July 22, 1928. They were buried in New Hope Cemetery.

Martha Clemetine 5 Rippy was born April 24, 1854. She was married December 27, 1873 to William B., (Willie) Martin. Willie was born February 12, 1849. He died January 2, 1928. Martha Clemetine died November 6, 1938. They were buried in Mount Paran Baptist Cemetery.

Mary Newell Crawford Rippy died and was buried near the Crawford Family in Bethany A.R.P. Church Cemetery, York County, South Carolina. The inscription on her tombstone reads, "Mary N. Rippy died 6 December 1856, age 42 years, 9 months, 12 days, Wife of William Rippy."

William 4 married Marena Mauney who was born March 10, 1840 the daughter of Jonathan and Mitheny Mauney of Cleveland County. They had nine children.

George Alexander 5 Rippy was born June 15, 1865. He married August 20, 1886 to Florence McIntyre. They are buried at Zoar Baptist Church Cemetery, Cleveland County, North Carolina.

Rhoda Drusilla 5 Rippy was born December 16, 1866. She married August 27, 1882 to Eli Miller Hendricks who was born February 17, 1862. They had four children: Jethro, Ila, Addie, and Summey. Eli died January 13, 1938. Drusilla died July 20, 1951. They are buried at New Hope.

Zulie Sophia 5 Rippey was born January 10, 1868. She married LeRoy Wellington McSwain. Her tombstone in New Hope Cemetery gives the death date as October 15, 1888. This date is incorrect as LeRoy was married to Maggie Rippy by this date and had one son born and expecting his second son.

Maggie Delean (Magdalene) 5 Rippy was born November 12, 1870. She married LeRoy Wellington McSwain who was born May 28, 1861. LeRoy died December 30, 1935 while a patient in Presbyterian Hospital, Charlotte, North Carolina. They were buried in New Hope.

Sarah Pamela 5 Rippy was born March 28, 1876. She married Walter G. McSwain. They are buried in Cleveland Memorial Cemetery.

Cletus 5 Rippy was born July 31, 1877. He married Mattie Bagwell on December 5, 1897. He is buried in New Hope. She is buried in Sunset Cemetery, Cleveland County. They had one daughter Jessie Mae (Mrs. A.W. Heffner) a resident of Number 3 Township until her death recently.

Willie Rosillie 5 Rippy was born November 25, 1874. She married Robert A. Putnam who was born January 1, 1875. Willie died April 13, 1944. Robert died December 2, 1960. They were buried in Blacksburg, South Carolina.

Jesse Irvin 5 Rippey was born February 15, 1882. He was buried in New Hope.

Ina Belle 5 Rippey was born March 3, 1884. She married March 20, 1904 to Robert H. Wilson. Robert was born May 16, 1876. Ina and Bob had three children: Thelma, Harlan and Hascal. Thelma spent many years researching the family records. Without her unselfish sharing of her information and records this history would not be possible. Ina and Robert were buried in Sunset Cemetery.

William 4 Rippey died December 22, 1895 and was buried in New Hope Cemetery. Marena died March 27, 1923 and was buried beside him.

The First Annual Rippey Reunion was held in the yard of Ina and Bob Wilson in 1951. All of those who attended had their picture taken in front of William 4's home. This picture was used on the Second Annual Reunion Bulletin, July 20, 1952.

— Jean Oates McSwain

DOROTHY MULDER ROARK 927

Dorothy Mulder Roark, wife of Lester Davis Roark, is a native of Holland, Michigan and the daughter of the late Peter William and Hattie Brummel Mulder. She is a graduate of Holland High School and Michigan State University where she earned a B.S. in Home Economics and a M.A. in Communications.

Following college graduation, she was employed by Michigan State University's Extension Service as a county home economics agent in Sanilac County, Michigan. She later received a direct commission in the United States Air Force and served two years on active duty as an administrative officer. During the Korean War, she served as Assistant Adjutant General for 20th Air Force Headquarters at Kadena Air Base, Okinawa. Following active duty, she was promoted to the rank of Captain in the USAF Reserve.

In 1953, upon entering Michigan State University to begin a master's program, she was advised to pursue a graduate degree in Communications. Educational television was in its infancy and MSU was one of the early pioneers in this new field of telecommunications. During the year of study, she held a graduate assistantship in TV production with the college station, WKAR-TV. She completed requirements for a M.A. degree in Communications in June, 1954. Her master's thesis topic was "An Experiment In The Use of Television For Organized Viewing Groups."

She was among the first women in the U.S. to hold an advanced degree in the area of educational television. Of the many TV job opportunities available at that time, she chose North Carolina. In September, 1954, she accepted the position of Women's TV Editor with the newly-licensed North Carolina State University Educational TV Station, WUNC-TV at Raleigh. WUNC-TV began telecasting in October, 1954.

Two years later she resigned her TV position to marry Shelbiana Lester Davis Roark, who was then Editor of the Cleveland Times. They were married June 2, 1956. They have continued to live in Shelby. Their two children are Pamela Sue born December 31, 1957 and Jeffrey Scott born May 12, 1960.

During the child-rearing years, she did not continue her professional career, but was active as a volunteer in church and community activities. Highlights of her volunteer work include: girl scout leader for the Shelby Presbyterian Junior Troop, 1965-70; member of the Pioneer Girl Scout Council Program Committee, 1970-71; member of Shelby Branch, American Association of University Women for 25 years and Branch President, 1966-67; member of the Phil Acres Garden Club, 1960-71; Associate Editor of the North Carolina Gardener Magazine, 1968-71; member of Shelby Presbyterian Church for 25 years, Sunday School Teacher, Women of the Church officer, and member of the Kings Mountain Presbyterian Christian Education Committee.

In the summer of 1971, she re-entered the work world for a short-term position as Parent Coordinator for Project Headstart with the Shelby City Schools.

In the fall of 1971, she accepted a position with Cleveland Technical College as Media Specialist. She has continued to work at CTC and is currently the Director of Development.

Since returning to a career, she has completed advance graduate work in education and was awarded the Education Specialist's degree in educational administration by Appalachian State University in 1975. At present, she is completing requirements for a doctoral degree in educational administration at Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University, Blacksburg, Virginia.

Her hobbies include golf, gardening and Oriental flower arranging. She is a member of the Charlotte Chapter of Ikebana International. She is recognized as an advocate of women and has served on the North Carolina Council on the Status of Women since 1979.

— Mrs. Les Roark

JAMES ALEX and MARGARET EARLE ROARK

928

James Alex Roark was born in what is now Cherokee County, South Carolina on July 9, 1882, son of Green Nelson and Emmer Wilson Roark.

Margaret Avalona Earle was born in the same county on August 28, 1885, daughter of William M. and Rebecca Hardin Earle.

They were married there on September 19, 1905 and had several farming operations between Blacksburg, S.C. and Grover, N.C., during the next 19 years. Eight sons were born during this time.

Their names and birthdates were: Glenn Nelson, Dec. 2, 1906; Wayne McClain, Aug. 2, 1909; Reece Alex, Nov. 13, 1910; Coley L., Aug. 12, 1912; James Broadus, July 10, 1914; George Hubert, Feb. 3, 1916; Sidney Edward, Aug. 27, 1918; Lester Davis, Oct. 31, 1924. (Reece died of pneumonia 12-20-10).

James Alex Roark (1882-1933)

Alex and Margaret Roark and their seven surviving sons moved to the Long Branch Community near Grover in November, 1924 and began a new farming venture on 78 acres of freshly cleared land.

Roark was an intense, hardworking and aggressive farmer. They cleared land, removed stumps and converted "new grounds" into productive fields. He planted fruit trees and grapevines, built a mule barn, dairy barn, corn crib, "smoke house," blacksmith shop, and later, a potato curing house.

In addition to cotton, corn, wheat and hay crops, Roark put about 15 acres in pasture and started a small dairy operation. He delivered fresh milk and butter by horse and buggy to customers in Grover.

He became a leader in sweet potato farming by the late 1920's and built his own curing house which was large enough to accommodate his own production of 600 to 700 bushels per year and also for the farmers in the Long Branch and Bethlehem Communities. His standard charge for curing potatoes was 10 cents per bushel. Most of his own potatoes were sold to small grocery stores and "peddled" door-to-door in Grover and Blacksburg, S.C.

Much of the promising farming venture and expansion efforts were financed with borrowed money and the Great Depression was looming just ahead. The late 1920's and early '30's began to take their tolls and survival on the farm became more difficult. The family itself began to change.

On October 11, 1931, the oldest son, Glenn, was killed in an automobile accident. He was not married.

In the summer of 1932, Coley, the fourth son, left the farm and went to Laurel, Miss. There, he married Lillie Mae Smallwood on May 26, 1933. They had two sons, William and Robert.

On August 8, 1933, Alex Roark died of cancer after a lingering illness. With his death, the farm lost its leader and manager. The depression continued and economic conditions grew worse.

Margaret Earle Roark (1885-1971)

On August 4, 1935, Wayne, the second oldest, married Thelma Isler of Blacksburg, S.C. They stayed at the Roark homeplace and helped with the farming operation until the following year when they moved to a farm in Cherokee County. They moved to Grover in 1939 where they now live. They had four sons, Donald, Harold, David and Larry.

Hopes for keeping the farm faded. In the fall of 1936, it had to be sold to pay off the mortgage. Equipment and tools were sold at public auction. The 12-year old, 78-acre farm produced a "net" pay-off of $586.00 for the Roark family. With that, they built a small four room house in Grover and moved there late in 1936.

In the meantime, James Broadus, the fifth son, entered military service and remained to serve in World War II. He was killed in combat in Germany on March 6, 1945. He was married to Anne Valenti of Belmont, Mass., and they had one son, James.

George, Sidney and Lester, (see Lester David Roark) all entered the military service and served overseas during World War II.

On December 24, 1942, George married Ernestine Stewart of Buies Creek, N.C. They had no children. He died in Womack Army Hospital in Fayetteville, N.C., on June 29, 1981 and is buried in Sanford, N.C.

After the war, Margaret Roark and her sons, Sidney and Lester moved from Grover to Shelby in the fall of 1946. She died in Whispering Pines Nursing Home on June 12, 1971.

Sidney married Rosemary Rippy of Shelby on October 10, 1946. They have two daughters, Ramona and Tammy, who live in Mass.

Lester married Dorothy Mulder in Holland, Michigan on June 2, 1956. They have a daughter, Pamela and a son, Jeffrey.

Coley returned from Mississippi in the late 1960's and died in Charlotte on November 23, 1976. He, along with his parents and his brothers, Glenn and Broadus, are buried in the Grover Cemetery. Reece was buried in the Antioch Baptist Church Cemetery in Cherokee County.

Sidney now lives in Patterson Springs and Lester lives in Shelby.

Sources: family Bible and family recollections

— Lester Davis Roark

LESTER DAVIS ROARK

929

Lester Davis Roark is a man of many talents, but perhaps is best known for his record of service on Shelby's City Council for 19 years before becoming mayor in 1976, a post he held until 1979.

Roark Plaza, a beautifully landscaped park connecting city government buildings in uptown Shelby, honors his name and recognizes his achievements. The park is a fitting tribute since he is known as the father of Shelby's first citywide beautification program, introduced formation of the Shelby Appearance Commission, instigated Thompson Gardens, the former East Graham Street Park and Playground and supported numerous other landscaping projects. He pushed for the "back-zoning" on South Washington Street.

Roark urged a tight fiscal policy and low tax rates while an alderman and as mayor. He supported city funds for a new library, Malcolm Brown Auditorium, Shelby High's indoor swimming pool, tennis courts and other improvements. He organized and carried out a fundraising effort to build the Veterans Stadium (baseball field) at Shelby High and initiated the idea for the Shelby Economic Development Commission and a Downtown Farmer's Market.

While Roark was mayor, Shelby was involved in its last major building period with completion of the Charles Road Fire Station, the Public Works Building and the new Police Station, all built with pay-as-you-go financing. He was a fierce advocate of open meetings, helped organize the Cleveland Association of Governmental Officials and served one term as chairman.

Roark, known to most as Les, was born October 31, 1924, youngest of eight sons of James Alex and Margaret Earle Roark who moved from Cherokee County, S.C., where all the children were born, to a 78-acre farm near Grover. There, they built a home, barns, storage buildings and raised cotton, corn, wheat, hay and sweet potatoes. They also ran a small dairy. His brothers were Glenn Nelson, Wayne McClain, Reece Alex, Coley L., James Broadus, George Hubert and Sidney Edward.

Les was eight when his father died. The Depression was taking its toll and his mother was forced in 1936 to sell the farm, equipment and livestock to pay off the mortgage. With the older brothers gone, she built a four room house in Grover and Les graduated from high school there in 1942 where he excelled in debating, played baseball and basketball.

World War II was underway and Les worked for awhile with General Outdoor Advertising Co. in Charlotte and with Glenn L. Martin Airplane Co. in Baltimore, Md., before being drafted into the U.S. Air Corps in February, 1943. He served until February, 1946, and was an aerial gunner and gunnery instructor. He served with the U.S. 8th Air Force in England. He and three brothers served overseas with one, Broadus, losing his life in combat in Germany.

Les moved with his mother to Shelby in 1946 and after a succession of jobs became a house painter with Branton Construction Co. He left his $80 per week job in April, 1952 to take a reporter's job at $35 per week on The Cleveland Times, a semi-weekly in Shelby, where he applied his skill as a writer and became editor in 1954. He had taken a course in creative writing with the Palmer Institute of Authorship and was excited about a writing career.

As a newspaperman, he was a photographer, sold advertising, read proofs, covered sports, court and all meetings of school boards, county commissioners and city council, where he developed his keen interest in city government.

He announced as a candidate for city council from Ward I in 1953, losing by 82 votes to the incumbent, W.H. Hardeman. He was elected in a run-off in 1957 and was re-elected in 1961, 1965, 1969 and 1973. City government changed from a full-time mayoral system to city manager system in 1963 and Roark ran for mayor, but was defeated by Dr. Hubert Plaster who served until his death in January, 1976. Roark and Plaster worked together in close friendship and as mayor pro tem at Plaster's death, Roark succeeded him, serving until 1979 when he retired from public office.

Lester Davis and Dorothy Mulder Roark — 1976

Pamela Sue and Jeffrey Scott Roark, children of Lester Davis and Dorothy Mulder Roark.

Lester Davis Roark taking oath of office as Mayor of Shelby, January 29, 1976, Mike Kennedy, City Attorney, on left.

Roark left newspaper work in 1956 to go with National Old Line Insurance Company and was later Shelby Unit Manager for Pilot Life Insurance Company's Ordinary Division. With W.K. Carpenter and Joe Mull, they owned and operated a professional baseball franchise in Shelby for three years. In 1965, he became involved in fast food restaurant and franchising and at one time was co-founder and co-owner of Burger Barns, Little Moo Dairy Barns and Cleveland Foods. He was involved in development of Ebenezer Village residential project and initiated the River Bend Golf Course and residential development.

In 1974, Roark joined Robert Morgan's campaign for U.S. Senate as a volunteer. In January, 1975, Sen. Morgan named him director of his administrative staff in North Carolina. He worked in that capacity with offices in Raleigh and Asheville until Morgan's term expired in 1980. Roark now has a real estate business in Western North Carolina.

Roark was married to Dorothy Mulder of Holland, Michigan on June 2, 1956 (see Dorothy Mulder Roark) and they reside at 703 Phillips Street. Their two children, a daughter, Pamela Sue (December 31, 1957) is a graduate of Appalachian State University and lives in Boone; and a son, Jeffrey Scott (May 12, 1960), a senior at Clemson University with a major in Architecture.

— Grace R. Hamrick

THE BIG GEORGE and KITTIE ROBERTS FAMILY

930

Big George Roberts was born in North Carolina in the year 1804. His mother, Lucy Roberts, a slave, was born in Virginia and was brought to North Carolina by planters before he was born. He was called Big George because he was stronger than other slaves. Kittie was also born in North Carolina but we do not have the date. She was the daughter of an African born woman named Sylvia. Kittie resided on the plantation of John Roberts and later his son William. She was a small built woman who weighed about one hundred pounds. She died while attending the wake of her sister but we do not have the date.

Big George and Kittie became man and wife on the Roberts plantation. They were the parents of 15 children who were Vatch, Noah, Archie, Gilbert, Oliver, George, Peter, Nelson, Wattie, John, Adeline, Patsy, Betsy, Lucinda, and Jane Roberts. Vatch married Harriett Roberts, daughter of Issac Roberts, and they had children Vatch, Eliza, Andrew, Haney, Mary, Martha, and Perry. Louise Roberts and Ramona McDaniel in Shelby are their direct descendants. Noah was born in 1831 and died in Gaston County on May 26, 1921. His wife's name was Hannah and they were the parents of Sussanah, Nelson, William, Sidney, Mary, Jennie, Avery, Charles, Emma, Frank, Sallie, and George. Rev. Dwight Costner, Ted Roberts, and Dr. Joseph Roberts are descendants. Archie was born in 1832. He died Sept. 26, 1922. He married Harriett Webber and they were the parents of Dora, Mary, Olliver, George, Berry, Adam, Philitus, Hattie, Archie, Martha, and Harriett. Mattie Sue Gill, Dunbar Roberts, and the children of the late Clarence Roberts are descendants. Also, Charles, Billie, and Mattie Lee Roberts of Washington, D.C. Gilbert — No record. Olliver was born in 1843. He married Dinah Jennings, daughter of Peggy Jennings. They did not have any children. Olliver died on Aug. 17, 1918. Dinah died Dec. 24, 1918. Both are buried in the old Freedman Cemetery. George was born about 1840. He was twice married and had five children by each wife. His first wife was Jane Ware, Daughter of Jordon and Harriett Ware. She died in March, 1878. His second wife was Laura Gaither. She died on May 22, 1917. The children of George and Fuller, Nelson, John Westley, Margie, Gilbert, George, Hattie, Lafayette, Augustas, Mary, and Willie. Daeira, George, and John Westley Roberts are descendants. Also, Charles Saunders, and Riley and Togo Cabiness. Peter — No record. Nelson — No record. Wattie — No record. John married Jerifena Aderhold and they were the parents of John, Mary, Jane, and Thomas Roberts. Adeline — No record. Patsy — No record. Betsy — No records. Lucinda — No records. Jane married Ezakel Cassthran on Dec. 20, 1890.

After Kittie died, Big George later married a second time to a woman named Patience McLove. She died on Sept. 28, 1892. Big George died between 1892 and 1900.

Big George and Kittie Roberts have many descendants living in Cleveland County, Washington, D.C., North Carolina, Virginia, New Jersey, California, and elsewhere.

Sources: Family records of the late Rev. John Westley Roberts and Bonney Roberts.

— Louise Roberts

Sources: Family history notes of Rev. Dwight Costner. Charles Saunders. U.S. census records county marriage, birth, death, and estate records.

—Spurgeon Alexander Roberts

THE ELI and SARAH LATTIMORE ROBERTS FAMILY

931

Eli Roberts was born in slavery about the year 1840 on the John Roberts plantation. He was one of six sons born to Simpson and Martha Roberts. The other sons were Albertus, John, Philetus, Caleb, and George. Simpson died sometime before slavery ended. Martha later married a second time to a man named Solomon Howell and they were blessed with four children who were Wattie, Daniel, Annie, and Betsy. Martha died between 1870 and 1880 and Solomon died between 1880 and 1900.

After they were freed, most of the sons of Simpson and Martha took the family name of one of their former owners, Henderson Borders. Others took the family name Roberts. After freedom, Eli worked on the railroads until he could save enough money to purchase a 310 acre farm from his former owners. The farm was located about two miles beyond the present fairground site on the old Buffalo Road. His daughter, Ida, was later to say, that the former owners sold Eli this land for practically pennies. Eli subsequently purchased more land and became the largest black landowner in Cleveland County.

Eli was married to Sarah Lattimore, daughter of Abner and Maria Lattimore. They had the following children:

Simpson — born Dec. 31, 1870. Died Sept. 12, 1909.

Abner — Born Feb. 11, 1873. Died March 21, 1929. Married Veronica Hatchett in 1895.

Ida — born May 16, 1876. Married Jerry McCurry on Sept. 23, 1921.

Earnest — born June 16, 1878. Died June 15, 1972.

Mary D. — born Oct. 8, 1880. Died in 1979.

J. Arthur — born March 16, 1883.

Essie — born Dec. 25, 1886. Married D.H. Council on Sept. 14, 1916.

Mason — born June 9, 1888. Died Jan. 16, 1974. Married China Borders on Feb. 23, 1923.

George — born Feb. 10, 1892. Married Willie B. Phillips on March 21, 1917. George is the only surviving child.

In 1906, Eli, John Westley Roberts, Westley Mauney, and a few other relatives who were descendants of Billy Roberts' slaves organized the first family reunion. These reunions have continued to the present time and are held on the third Sunday of August of each year. For many years, these reunions were held on Eli's homestead.

Sarah Roberts died at home, at the age of 89, on Dec. 17, 1932. She was buried in Washington Baptist Cemetery on Dec. 21, 1932. Eli died at home, at the age of 93, on June 23, 1933. He was buried in Washington Baptist Church Cemetery. He was active until two weeks before his death.

During his life time, Eli was a well respected member and community leader. He donated the land on which Borders School was located. He has many distant cousins in Cleveland County and elsewhere.

Sources: Family Bible records of Eli and Sarah Roberts, the late China Borders Roberts, China Stokely, Miss Ezra Bridges, Cleveland Times, U.S. census records.

— Spurgeon Alexander Roberts

ETHEL HOUSE ROBERTS

932

Ethel House Roberts hails from Georgia but is definitely a Shelbian as she migrated to Cleveland County in 1925. After finishing high school at Madison, Georgia, she came to Shelby to visit an older sister, started to work as cashier at Woolworth's and never returned to Madison to live.

About two years after coming here she married Herman (Shorty) Roberts from the Pleasant Hill area. "Shorty" as everyone called him, was a friendly, happy-go-lucky, handsome guy and was loved by all, especially Ethel's family. In fact, he was often referred to as the second Archie Bunker of the famed TV comic series, "All In The Family". Shorty was born a natural salesman and was in the automobile business here in Shelby for many years. He had the Oldsmobile agency for a number of years and then went into the used car business. Our beloved "Shorty" died May 20, 1972 and is buried here in Sunset Cemetery and Ethel still lives in their home on Brookhill Road.

Speaking of Brookhill Road, Ethel loves everyone on it, every house, every tree, even the branches and says she never wants to leave that street. It is very peaceful and quiet. In fact, she rarely leaves Shelby, going only to Madison for a short visit about twice a year. She has lived on this street for 37 years and thinks she owns it.

Ethel has always been referred to as the "hub" of the wheel and the rest of us as only "spokes". This is truly true as her four sisters and one brother turned to her for advice, help and love and she never disappointed any of us. I remember she gave me my first "store-bought" dress at graduation and also my wedding dress.

After her years at Woolworth's she finally gave birth, at age 39, to their only child. It was a girl named Betty Louise who is now married to Dr. Steven Shorman. They live in an old remodeled home in Lattimore, North Carolina, with Steve's offices in Shelby. "What a blessing to receive and a joy to behold" was Betty, as she still is today.

About thirteen years after the birth of Betty, Ethel went back to work but for Norman Harris and Son where she was the bookkeeper for twenty-seven years. She worked a few more years after Robinson Services Enterprises bought out the business. She finally retired in 1981 at the age of seventy-four but is still "going strong" with visiting, bridge and yardwork. Mrs. Norman Harris (Monnie, as we affectionately call her) is a very close friend after fifty years or more and many others of fifty years plus friendships.

Ethel has been a member of Central United Methodist Church for fifty-seven years and "her" bench, second row from the front, should have her name imprinted on it. Woe to anyone who sits there as she will crowd in or give them a glare that makes them move to another section. She has a beautiful alto voice and sang in the choir at Central Methodist for many years.

My sister, Ethel, is a wonderful friend as well as blood-related. I came to Shelby in 1932 after one year of college to visit her and Shorty, met and married H.A. Logan, Jr. and lived with Ethel and Shorty for over a year before my marriage. H.A. and I were divorced in 1945 and I returned to Atlanta, Georgia, but made my way back to Shelby in 1979 to be near my sister.

Remember . . .

Articles
Are Indexed
By
Article Numbers
. . . Not By
Page
Number

We were very poor growing up but our father and mother gave us a sense of pride, integrity, and fairness that we will never outgrow. We were all born in Winder, Georgia, including mamma and daddy, with the exception of me and I was born in the little town of Commerce, Georgia.

Ethel gives meaning and love to life and is genuine in her eagerness and concern for others. She has a vibrant personality, well loved by young and old alike and, "To Know Her is to Love Her".

Source: Personal knowledge.

— Doris H. Lloyd, Sister

FRANCES MARGARET ESKRIDGE ROBERTS

933

Frances Margaret Eskridge was born April 4, 1877 in the big white house on Highway 74, on what is now Blanton Farm, to Mary Judith Blanton Eskridge and Abram Richard Eskridge. The house was the home of her mother, who was the daughter of Frances Doggett and Burwell Blanton. She was named for her two grandmothers, Frances, on the maternal side, and Margaret, for her father's mother, Margaret Durham Washburn, wife of Elijah Eskridge.

She spent most of her childhood in Shelby living at 522 West Marion Street in the large Victorian house now located at the rear of the lot facing West Sumter Street. The house was moved in 1954 when her daughter, Mary Adelaide Roberts Austell, and her husband built a new residence for themselves at 522 West Marion Street which is presently occupied by their daughter, Mary Adelaide Austell Craver, and her husband. As a child, Frances also lived for a brief period with her parents in Atlanta and Asheville where on one day she received two medals for excellence in her studies.

She and her only brother, Forrest, also attended school in Shelby and after her school days were over, she was able, with the help of her uncle, Charles C. Blanton, who was ever ready to help ambitious young people, to go to college.

She went to what is now University of North Carolina in Greensboro, but at that time was known as the Normal School. She completed the four year course in two, and was one of the early graduates of the school. One of her classmates was Dr. Delia Dixon Carroll, sister of Thomas Dixon and one of the first female doctors in this area. In later years, Dr. Carroll said she remembered Frances Eskridge as the smartest, sweetest and prettiest member of her class.

She returned to Shelby after her graduation, and began her teaching career in the high school here. She taught Latin and Mathematics. Both then and in later years she is remembered by many who through the years were her students, for she never gave up her teaching entirely, continuing intermittently as a full-time or substitute teacher.

She married William Joshua Roberts, Jr., born September 13, 1875, son of Minnie Eddins and William Joshua Roberts of Shelby, on June 23, 1904. They had two daughters, Mary Adelaide, born August 16, 1905, and died November 24, 1975, and Minnie Eddins, born August 12, 1908. Mary Adelaide married Charles Benjamin Austell of Shelby, born April 17, 1904, and died January 27, 1967. Their daughter is Mary Adelaide Austell Craver, born July 1, 1942, who is married to Richard Davidson Craver of Shelby, born August 19, 1942. Their children are Joseph Newton Craver II, born January 12, 1975, and Adelaide Austell Craver, born July 16, 1976. Minnie Eddins married George Moore Carpenter of Forest City, North Carolina. He was born May 8, 1907. They have no children.

Frances Eskridge and her husband lived in Shelby where she was active in all community affairs. She was a charter member of the Twentieth Century Club, The United Daughters of Confederacy and other organizations. She was a life-long member of the First Baptist Church, where for many years she was the teacher of the adult women's class. She also served as president of the Woman's Missionary Union and other church groups.

She was characterized in her obituary as having a brilliant mind and social and cultural graces which impressed themselves upon her list of friends.

Frances Eskridge Roberts — 1890's

Frances Eskridge Roberts died December 29, 1942 and is buried in Sunset Cemetery.

Sources: Personal knowledge, Newspaper clippings, Eskridge History, Family Bible.

— Minnie Eddins Roberts Carpenter

GUY HOUSTON ROBERTS FAMILY

934

Guy H. Roberts' father, Robert Ernest Roberts (Bob), was born near Kings Road in Shelby on September 21, 1878. Bob was the oldest son of William Roberts. Bob married Margaret Rebecca Borders (Maggie), daughter of Elzie Borders and Susan Wilson Borders on December 12, 1900. They lived for the most part on Kings Road in a two-story frame house which is still standing. Bob was a farmer and later operated a grocery store in Shelby.

Times were difficult for everyone, especially a family with nine children. Bob and Maggie's children were: Guy Houston (b. 10-11-1902), Frances Louise (b. 8-20-05) who married Harold Kelly; Carl Evans (b. 10-5-07) who married Eunice Jones; Sarah Faye (b. 9-2-12) who married Ernest Miller; Maruice Henderson (b. 11-2-09) who married Evelyn Hord; Virginia Dare (b. 9-22-10) who married Alfred Kale; Robert Ernest, Jr. (b. 3-6-20) who married Chancey Pernel; Rebecca Madeline (b. 7-7-23) who married Lee Freeman; and William Elzie (b. 6-15-26 d. 11-2-73) who married Shirley Price.

Bob died December 24, 1940 and is buried at Elizabeth Baptist Church. I still have the pleasure of remembering visiting Grandma Roberts when I was a young boy. She died April 26, 1977, is also buried at Elizabeth and had twenty-three grandchildren, forty-eight great grandchildren.

Guy Houston Roberts was born in the home of his parents on Kings Road. After receiving his education in the elementary and secondary schools of Shelby, he began his career early.

Guy Houston Roberts

After working a few years for his father in the grocery store, he joined the Shelby National Bank as bookkeeper and teller until 1924. He was then a teller at the First National Bank and survived the disastrous cave-in on August 28, 1928. In 1935, at the request of his friend, O Max Gardner, Guy began work at Cleveland Cloth Mill as comptroller and paymaster, and after ten years there, became a stockholder in the Lutz-Yelton Company. He served there as Director-Officer, supervising accounting procedures and financial arrangements and worked closely with another good friend, J. Ray Lutz, until Guy's death in 1964.

Guy Roberts was held in high esteem throughout Cleveland County. He had been a member and clerk of Company K of the North Carolina National Guard. While a member of the Gardner-Webb College Board of Trustees, he was chairman of the Finance Committee. Guy had a genuine interest in the welfare of this school and spent many hours in its behalf. He served with the Selective Service Board during World War II, for which he received the Presidential Certificate of Appreciation, and was on the board of directors of the Shelby Kiwanis Club. He held membership in the Elks Club, Cleveland Masonic Lodge No. 202, Oasis Temple of Shrine and the Cleveland Springs and North Lake Country Clubs. His political party was Democratic. In Cleveland County he attended Elizabeth Baptist Church, and in Shelby he was a member and deacon of the First Baptist Church.

On December 7, 1925, in Kings Mountain, Guy married Bonnie Smith, daughter of John North Smith and Emily Margaret (Huffstickler). Bonnie was born in Kings Mountain on February 18, 1906. Her father was a mining engineer and farmer. Daddy Guy and Mother Bonnie (as known within the family) became parents of two daughters and a son: 1. Janice, now Mrs. Earl D. Honeycutt, Jr. Their children are Earl Douglas III, Thomas Roberts and Guy

Frances Eskridge Roberts — 1930's

Houston. 2. Gary Houston, married Barbara Nolan Wray. Their children are Suzanne Wray and Gary Houston, Jr. 3. Sara Sue, now Mrs. William Franklin Mabry. Their children are Susan Roberts, William Franklin, Jr., Bonnie Lee and Christopher Hayes.

To say that Daddy Guy was a kind and thoughtful man would be an understatement. On one occasion, while fishing with my cousin, Doug, the young boy caught his first fish (too small to keep). Daddy Guy held it up and said "Hey, everybody look what my grandson just caught," praising and congratulating Doug.

Guy Roberts' leisure interests included golf and fishing, walks and trips through the countryside, auto trips and travel abroad. Another of his main interests were genealogy.

Guy Houston Roberts died September 1, 1964 and is buried at Sunset Cemetery in Shelby.

Sources: family records, personal knowledge

— Gary Houston Roberts, Jr.

HUGH KERR ROBERTS

935

Hugh Kerr Roberts led a useful, eventful and interesting life during the 77 years and 11 months that he lived. Some of the positions that he held show that he must have been a competent, reliable and trustworthy person.

Hugh Kerr Roberts was born Sept. 22, 1821, in North Carolina. The names of his parents and the exact place of his birth are unknown at this time. On Oct. 17, 1839, shortly after his eighteenth birthday, he married Elizabeth McSwain nearly 21. She was the daughter of Thomas and Frances "Frankey" Bridges McSwain of Cleveland County. Thomas McSwain's tombstone reads "Died 22 Dec. 1872. Aged 76 y 8 m 14 d. He was a Deacon of the Baptist Church." His wife's tombstone reads "Frances McSwain. Died Jan. 8, 1862. Aged 68 yr 1 mo 15 da." They are both buried in the McSwain Family Cemetery in the Mount Sinai Church Community southwest of Shelby. The cemetery is on the north side of an unpaved road about one mile north of the junction of County Road #1140 with the Mount Sinai Road. Buried in this same cemetery is the first child of Hugh Kerr and Elizabeth McSwain Roberts. This tombstone reads, "Infant daughter of H.K. and E. Roberts. Died 29 July 1840. Aged 10 days." This stone is missing. It is recorded by the Historical Records Survey (WPA) in 1939 and is on file in the N.C. Archives.

Hugh Kerr and Elizabeth Roberts lived near Grover, N.C. In the 1850 Cleveland County Census Hugh Kerr Roberts' occupation is listed as farmer. Also listed as a farmer living in his household is an eighteen-year-old Fernando C. Roberts, probably a younger brother of Hugh Kerr. Ten years later in the 1860 Census, Fernando C. Roberts is not listed. However, Hugh Kerr Roberts' occupation is listed as waggoner. He was also a Justice of the Peace and married numerous couples, beginning as early as 1853 and as late as 1899, the year he died.

Hugh Kerr Roberts ran a grocery store in Whitaker, S.C. and was postmaster. He also served as a road commissioner for some time.

Due to the redrawing of boundaries, Hugh Kerr Roberts' homesite was for a while in York County, S.C., and is presently in Cherokee County, S.C., in the Antioch Community near Grover, N.C.

In 1855 Hugh K. Roberts was granted 20 acres in Cleveland County.

In York County, S.C., between 1884 and 1893, there are five separate tracts of land showing transfers of deeds from H.K. or H.K. and Elizabeth Roberts to others.

On Oct. 28, 1863, Hugh Kerr Roberts, 42, enlisted as a private at Camp Holmes, Raleigh, in the Confederate Army. He served under Capt. Joseph Jones, 14th N.C. Infantry, Gen. Jubal Early's corps.

H.K. Roberts was captured by Union Gen. Sheridan's forces on Sept. 19, 1864, at the Battle of Winchester (Opequion) in Virginia. His name appears on a Roll of prisoners of war at Harper's Ferry, W. Va. From Harper's Ferry, he was sent to Point Lookout, Md., on Sept. 23, 1864. When the war ended, he was pardoned at Richmond, Va.

H.K.'s son, Jasper Newton Roberts, also served in the Confederacy. (See article on Jasper Newton Roberts.)

H.K. Roberts' wife, Elizabeth, died Aug. 22, 1894, and he died Aug. 22, 1899. Both are buried in Antioch Church Cemetery.

Hugh Kerr and Elizabeth McSwain Roberts had the following children: Sarah Ann Roberts was born Dec. 27, 1841, near Grover, N.C., and died Jan. 2, 1925, she married Lewis Moore McSwain, born June 17, 1851, and died July 21, 1941. They had seven children.

Rosannah Roberts was born Nov. 5, 1843, at Grover, N.C., and died March 31, 1915. She married in 1865 to Oliver Perry Morgan, a Cherokee County, S.C., native and confederate veteran. He died June 19, 1905. They had 13 children, but only seven lived to be married.

Jasper Newton Roberts was born Feb. 14, 1846, near Grover, N.C., he was a confederate veteran and died March 20, 1927, in Lowell, N.C. He was first married on January 12, 1869, to Cynthia Jane Dickson born Feb. 28, 1846, in York County, S.C. She was the daughter of James Harvey and Mary Brice Yongue Dickson, and died April 11, 1906. "Jap" and Cynthia Jane Roberts are both buried in Edgewood Cemetery, Lowell, N.C. They had ten children.

Jap's second marriage was to Mrs. Hazel Hendrix Ray, a widow with five children. Jap and Hazel had no children.

John Lafayette Roberts was born Oct. 7, 1848, near Grover, N.C., and died March 5, 1927 (he and his brother Jap died about 15 days apart. He was first married March 19, 1872, to Mary Amanda Madora Bird, born May 1, 1851, and died Jan. 3, 1899. She was the daughter of Marcus Ross and Dorinda Nance Bird. They had nine children.

John L. Roberts' second marriage on Dec. 12, 1899, was to Annie Crook born Dec. 12, 1870, in Oconee County, S.C., and died on January 24, 1958. They had three children.

John L. Roberts and his first wife, Madora, are buried at Antioch Church Cemetery.

Frances Elizabeth Roberts was born March 9, 1851, near Grover, died July 16, 1914, and was married about 1872 or earlier to Perry Black, born April 10, 1853. He died Jan. 29, 1919. They had five children.

Eliza Delila Roberts was born Aug. 5, 1853, near Grover, N.C., died May 10, 1911, and was married to John Moore Dillingham, born June 28, 1860, in Cherokee County, S.C., he died Oct. 28, 1945. Both of them are buried at Antioch Cemetery. They had four children.

Harriett Katherine Roberts was born Oct. 21, 1857, near Grover, N.C. died February 7, 1934, first married a Mr. Woods and they had a daughter. She then on Sept. 30, 1888, married Ancel Hardin, who was born Nov. 20, 1861, and died Oct. 19, 1917. They had four children.

Sources: Descendants of Hugh Kerr Roberts compiled by Ruby Killian Jenkins.

— Mildred Jo Roberts Owens

ISSAC ROBERTS and DESCENDANTS

936

Issac Roberts was born in North Carolina in the year of 1794. His wife Haney was born in 1811. No records exist of the names of their parents. Issac lived on the plantation of John Roberts where he was known as Issac "The Miller". He was also an overseer. It was said that John Roberts was an elderly, kind man who took good care of his slaves, used them as overseers, and would not allow slavers on his lands. His slaves included men of ability who were carpenters, blacksmiths, and carriage men etc. After John died, Issac was willed to William Roberts and apparently remained on his plantation until he was freed.

After being freed, Issac and Haney took the family name of their former owners and settled down in township #5. He listed his occupation as a carpenter. Both he and Haney died between 1870 and 1880. They were the parents of a number of children but we do not have names of all of the children. The names we do have are Harriett, Phoebe, Adeline, Josh, and Lucy Ann. Harriett married Vatch Roberts, son of Big George and Kittie Roberts. Vatch died during the civil war on Moorehead Island, near Wilmington, North Carolina, while helping to build breast works for the confederate arm forces. Harriett died between 1864 and 1868. They were the parents of Vatch, Eliza, Andrew, Haney, Mary, Martha, and Perry. Vatch, Jr. was born in 1858. He was a miner. He married in Charlotte and later moved to South Carolina where he died. Eliza married Adolphus Dameron and they had two children who were Vatch and Mary. Mary married Albert Logan. She died Dec. 20, 1938 in Santa Cruz, California. This family moved to California in the latter part of the 1800's supposedly to seek their fortune in the gold mines. Andrew married Mary Elliott and they moved to Georgia. Haney moved to Tennessee. Mary married Jonaton Brooks. Martha married Phillip Clemons. She died near Concord, North Carolina. Perry was born in Jan., 1864 and was the youngest child of Vatch and Harriett. He was twice married.

His first wife was Mary E. Strong and they were married on Nov. 28, 1889. Mary was born in Oct., 1873 and was the daughter of Frank and Eliza Strong. They were the parents of four children who were Hattie E., Albertine, Lema, and Daisey. Mary E. died in childbirth on March 11, 1907. Perry Roberts second wife was Mary Pratt, daughter of David and Parthenia Pratt. She was born in March, 1872 in York County, South Carolina. They were married in Shelby on August 1, 1907 and were the parents of two daughters, Nora Alice, and Louise. Perry built his home on Lineberger Street in 1890 and the home is still occupied by his family. He died at home on July 26, 1926. The Shelby Star eulogized him as a devoted servant. Mary died on April 1, 1936. Adeline Roberts was married twice but we do not have records on her family. Phoebe Roberts was born in 1829 and died between 1880 and 1887. She married Andrew Borders, son of Sarah Borders. Andrew was born in North Carolina, in 1811. He was a blacksmith and a farmer. They had at least three children who were Miles, Issac, and Dora. We have no family records on Issac and Dora. Miles was born in 1856. He married Lina Wheeler, daughter of Amanda Wheeler, and they had six children who were Forrest, Lester, Clarence, Mattie, Ethel and Lillie. Forrest married Zora Toms on Nov. 28, 1900 and they had a daughter Clory. Lester married Mary Burchett on Dec. 12, 1909. They had a son, Lester, Jr. (Fats) who married Othello Moore. Clarence — no information. Mattie married Bernard Burchett. Ethel (Weedie) married Henry Burchett on August 24, 1910. Lilly married Simon Floyd and they had children Nevada, Birdie, Marie, Robert, Smiley, Lina, Odessa, and Vera. Lucy Ann married John Miller and they had children: Georgia, Amanda, Alice, James, Eva, Margaret, and Ida. Ida married John Rogers on Sept. 30, 1910. They had a daughter Louise who married Major Reid. Josh — no information on him.

Issac and Haney have descendants living in Cleveland County, in Rutherford County, around Gaffney, South Carolina, in Virginia, Georgia, and Pennsylvania. Dr. James Deotis Roberts, a minister, writer, and president of inter-denominational theological center in Atlanta, Georgia is also a descendant. Dr. Roberts wrote the books "A Black Political Theology" and also "Liberation and Reconciliation; A Black Theology". J.C. Roberts of Spindale and the late Beatrice Byers were also descendants. The Roberts family helped to organize Wardell Chapel A.M.E. Zion Church.

Sources: Ezra Bridges, Louise Roberts, Ramona McDaniel, and Rev. Dwight Costner. Family records of Rev. John W. Roberts; U.S. census records; county marriage, birth, death, and estate records.

— Spurgeon Alexander Roberts

JAMES EDDINS ROBERTS FAMILY

937

James Eddins Roberts, born in Shelby, North Carolina February 25, 1885, was the second son of William Joshua (1853-1914) and Minnie Eddins Roberts (1855-1892). His brothers were William Joshua and George Williams Roberts.

James Eddins and Luna Roberts, wedding day picture, 1904

James Eddins Roberts mother, Minnie Eddins, taught at the Shelby Female Academy. (see related article in this edition). After her father's death Minnie Eddins mother, Adelaide Williams Eddins, married Colonel Lee M. McAfee and they lived on South Washington Street in what is now the O. Max Gardner house, and Eddins, as he was called, and his brothers Will and George were born there.

James Eddins Roberts mother died at the age of thirty seven. His father, Josh Roberts, later married Mamie Logan and they moved to their large plantation near what is now Moss Lake dam, and Eddins grew up there. To this union were born six children: Catherine Roberts Arey, Sarah Roberts Horn, Mary Roberts Whisnant, Lieutenant Colonel Ruth Roberts, Ben Roberts, and Robert Roberts. William Joshua and Minnie Eddins Roberts are buried in Sunset Cemetery.

James Eddins Roberts married Luna Roberts in 1904. Her parents were William (Billy) Roberts (1851-1911) and Sarah Allen Roberts (1854-1929), who are buried in Elizabeth Baptist Church cemetery, being charter members of that church.

To James Eddins and Luna Roberts were born seven children: Paul, born April 8, 1905, died May 24, 1966, buried in Cleveland Memorial Park. Paul married Maude Gamble (1908-1977), daughter of Frank and Laura Watterson Gamble. To them were born four children: Patsy Jean died in infancy (Elizabeth Baptist Church cemetery). Forrest Eugene married Elsie Vann — they live in Charlotte, North Carolina. Their children are Elizabeth Ann Roberts Renfro (her children, Michele, William Roberts Renfro), Mary Lynn Roberts Sloan, Carol Roberts, Forrest Eugene, Jr., and Edward Timmons Roberts. Joseph Andrew Roberts, a Baptist minister, Greenville, South Carolina, married Shirley Huskey. Their children are Steve and Lisa. Paul Roberts, Jr., Haines City, Florida, married Sarah Farrow. Their children are Tracy Roberts Suarez, Casey, and Robbie. Casey was named after Casey Morris, a beloved coach of Paul, Jr's in his high school days.

George William Roberts, born March 21, 1907, died May 30, 1908, buried in Elizabeth Baptist Church cemetery.

Josh Roberts, born December 5, 1909, died January 5, 1976. He is buried in Sarasota Memorial Park, Sarasota, Florida, where he and his family moved about 1953. Josh married Pauline Putnam, daughter of Tilden and Vel Eskridge Putnam. Their seven daughters are: Peggy Joyce Roberts, Pella, Iowa; Nancy Eddins Roberts Gray, Birmingham, Alabama (son, Dale); Edna Iris Roberts Selleck, Sarasota, Florida, (children — Debra, Michael, deceased, and Shelly); Jo Linda Roberts Scheaver, Sarasota, Florida, (children — Randy, Dean, Carla); Mary Ann Roberts Park, Birmingham, Alabama, (children — Kenneth, Lyndel); Lena Evans Roberts Dickinson, Englewood, Florida, (son — Kevin); Sarah Elizabeth Roberts Brennan, Seffner, Florida, (children — Josh, Jennifer).

James Eddins Roberts, Jr. (Eddie) born April 14, 1911, died October 15, 1965, buried Sunset Cemetery. Eddie married Vangie McKee Wilkie, daughter of Clyde and Dovie Rumpfelt McKee. Their daughter is Elizabeth Eddins (Beth) Roberts Patrick, Haughton, Louisiana, (son, Tyler). Eddie was a Staff Sergeant in World War Two, serving in the Pacific theatre.

Fred Roberts, born December 20, 1913, served in the Army in World War Two, being in Belgium during the "Battle of the Bulge". He was married to Elizabeth Carver Wilson (1916-1979), daughter of Dwight Carver and Madge Thompson Snyder. He is now married to Lorene Lee Vess, daughter of Buren and Jean Lee, and has one stepson, Steve Vess, (son — Christopher).

Edna Roberts Hord, born July 2, 1916, married Russell Thomas Hord, son of George and Emma Lee Hord (see related article in this edition). They have one daughter, Judy Catherine Hord May, and a grandson, John Michael May. Judy is a teacher in the Charlotte-Mecklenburg schools.

Sarah Catherine Roberts Dorsey, born September 14, 1920, was married to Thomas Warlick Dorsey (1909-1979), son of Ed and Zennie Warlick Dorsey.

James Eddins Roberts died May 28, 1929, at the age of forty-four. Luna Roberts was a widow for twenty-six years, and was a member of First Baptist Church of Shelby for most of that time. She was a devoted mother and sacrificed much for her children. She died May 11, 1955. They are buried in Elizabeth Baptist Church cemetery. They left many good memories and a proud heritage for their family.

Sources: Personal knowledge, family Bible, grave stones.

— Edna Roberts Hord

CAPTAIN J. FRANK ROBERTS and DESCENDANTS

938

Captain J. Frank Roberts, as he was known in this area, was born in Patterson Springs, September 2, 1869. He was the son of Rufus Roberts, (1828-1905) and Sarah Randall (1832-1917). At the young age of seventeen, he was already employed as a school teacher in that community and later owned and operated a general merchandise store. His Father, Rufus Roberts, was Postmaster of what was then called "Swangstown", now Patterson Springs. Captain Roberts assisted in handling the mail.

Capt. and Mrs. J. Frank Roberts

In 1890, Captain Roberts was married to Miss Bessie Cabaniss (1869-1933). Mrs. Roberts was very active in community activities and wrote quite a few articles about historical events. Later Captain Roberts married Mrs. Charlie Kimmel, the former Charlie Randall (1881-1956). Mrs. Charlie Roberts was fondly known by her step-grandchildren as "Aunt Charlie". She was an artist and each year hand-painted eggs for her grandchildren at Easter.

Captain Roberts settled in Shelby after returning from the Spanish American War, and in the meantime had been elected Register of Deeds, a post he held for six years. He was then elected a member of the Board of County Commissioners and served on that body as Chairman when the present Cleveland County Historical Museum, then the Cleveland County Courthouse, was erected. Captain Roberts also served on the city school board.

Captain Roberts was a member of the Building Committee of Central Methodist Church when it was erected and was instrumental in getting the window on the West side which can be seen from the street, bearing the motto "Come Unto Me".

Captain Roberts founded the Shelby Building and Loan Association in 1905 the first one in Shelby and was selected to be its first Secretary-Treasurer. He held this office until becoming Executive Vice-President and assumed this position until his death.

Captain Roberts was a charter member of the following organizations; Lafayette Chapter,

No. 72, Royal Arch Masons; Shelby Commandery No. 36, Knights Templar, serving this lodge as Worshipful Master for eight terms and was one of the original Trustees and member of the Building Committee of the Masonic Temple and the Kiwanis Club.

Captain Roberts was a Director of the First National Bank since 1923 and served in this position until his death in 1956.

Captain Roberts and his second wife, Charlie Kimmel Roberts, died as a result of an automobile accident. Captain Roberts and his first wife, Bessie Cabaniss Roberts, were the parents of six children: Elizabeth Roberts, Mrs. Louie (Patty) Hunter, James Roberts (1900-1948), Edwin Roberts, who died as a child, Dr. Louis Roberts of Durham, N.C. and Mangum Roberts of Laurinburg, N.C. There were eight grandchildren and 20 great-grandchildren.

James F. Roberts, born on March 24, 1900, entered service at the age of sixteen and served in France during World War I. He returned from the war and attended Rutherford College and later settled in Shelby. He was a member of Central Methodist Church. On October 14, 1925, he married Rachael Kennedy Allison of Hickory Grove, S.C., the daughter of John Kennedy and Lula McDill Allison. Like his Father, James Roberts served as Worshipful Master of the Masonic Lodge and was active in the American Legion. He was employed by the Shelby Post Office. James Roberts died on July 7, 1948.

Survivors included his widow, Mrs. Rachel

Roberts, two daughters, Mrs. Paul Mowery of Shelby and Mrs. James Elam of Lawndale, N.C.

Mrs. Rachel Roberts, before marriage, attended Linwood College and was employed as a schoolteacher in Kings Creek, S.C. Later she was employed as a housemother at the Episcopal Family Home in York, S.C. Mrs. Roberts, a true "Southern Belle", remained in Shelby until the time of her death in February, 1982. A Member of Central United Methodist Church, she was known by her friends for her southern hospitality and fondly known by her grandchildren and a great many others as "Mema". For quite a few years, she won first place for her homemade yeast bread in the Cleveland County Fair.

At her death, Rachel Roberts, left behind two daughters, Mrs. Roger (Martha) Proctor of Shelby, N.C. and Mrs. James (Marilue) Elam of Lawndale, N.C., twelve grandchildren and ten great-grandchildren.

Martha Proctor was originally married to Paul Mowery who died in 1964. Martha's children include: Paul Vincent Mowery, Jr., born December 15, 1946, married to the former Linda Self and their children, Paul Vincent Mowery III and Lisa Ann Mowery; Mary Allison Mowery, born December 24, 1947, married to Ray D. Crocker and their children, John Thomas Crocker and Brian C. Crocker; Catherine Elizabeth Mowery, born October 3, 1950, married to Donald Lee Poston and their children, Leah Elizabeth and Candice Catherine; James Frank Mowery, born September 9, 1951, married to the former Kay McSwain and their children, Jeremy Paul and Joseph Sean; Richard Dale Mowery, born November 27, 1952, married to the former Brenda Patterson and their children, twin sons, Richard Dale and Robert Louis; Claire Nell Mowery, born March 5, 1955, married to David Owens; and John Thomas Mowery, born December 27, 1959, all of Shelby, N.C. Martha Roberts was married to Roger Proctor of Baltimore, Maryland in 1970.

Marilue Roberts was married to James D. Elam on March 23, 1948. Their children include: Rachel McCall Elam of Jacksonville, N.C. born July 25, 1950; James Douglas Elam of Shelby, born August 4, 1952; Elizabeth Allison Elam, of Shelby, born April 28, 1960, William Roberts Elam, a student at East Carolina University, Greenville, N.C. born February 4, 1962 and Mark Todd Elam, of the home, born August 31, 1964.

Sources: Family Records, Newspaper Clippings, D.A.R. Records

— Elizabeth Allison Elam

JASPER NEWTON ROBERTS

939

Jasper Newton Roberts was the fourth child and first son born to his parents, Hugh Kerr and Elizabeth McSwain Roberts. He was born February 14, 1846, in Cleveland County, near Grover, North Carolina. (See article on HUGH KERR ROBERTS.)

As soon as Jasper "Jap" Roberts was old enough, he enlisted in the army of the Confederate States of America since his father

James F. Roberts, 1900-1948

Rachael Allison Roberts, 1902-1982

eightieth birthday, Jasper N. Roberts died at his home in McAdenville.

— Mildred Jo Roberts Owens

COL. JOHN ROBERTS FAMILY 940

Col. John Roberts was born in Chesterfield County, Virginia. He grew up on his father's, Morris Roberts, farm on Hickory Creek. About 1788, he married Sarah Magness (1772-1828). She was the daughter of Perrygreen and Sarah Hamrick Magness. Col. John and Sarah settled at the junction of Hickory Creek and Broad River, not far from his sister's Jane Quinn, home at the "BLUE SPRING" on Shoal Creek.

About the year 1816, Col. John Roberts and his family moved to what was Lincoln County to take up residence on the farm of his brother-in-law William Magness who had passed away that year. This farm contained about 800 acres, and is located just east of State Route 2047. All of the rich bottom land now lies beneath the waters of Moss Lake. His house stood on a knoll about 300 yards east of the old cemetery where he is buried.

Col. John Roberts was well respected by his community. He earned his military rank of Colonel in the Rutherford County Militia. In 1836 he and his son William were members of the committee representing Lincoln County who sent a petition to the General Assembly calling for the creation of the new county of Cleveland.

Col. John Roberts farmed on a large scale for this area, and it is said that he traveled to Columbia, South Carolina to market his crops (P. CLEVELAND GARDNER). He survived his wife by almost twenty years. He died in 1847 at the age of 79. He is buried at the old Roberts cemetery which is in a grove of cedars on a high knoll just off State Route 2047 about four miles east of Shelby. His children were: Mary (married Charles Doggett), Jane (married Albert Summey), Susannah (married Charles Smith) Sarah (married Samuel Greene), Joshua (1795-1865; married Lucinda Patton), William (1796-1865; first married Margaret Fullenweider, then Katherine Wray), Rufus A. (1817-1835), Thomas (1799-1841), Perrygreen (1801-1837), John Martin (1811-1848) and Morris (1808-1875).

Col. John Roberts' son Joshua moved to Buncombe County and founded the Highland Messenger, their first newspaper. He was also Clerk of Superior Court for that county. William Roberts, son of Col. John, was a gun maker and also one of the largest farmers in Cleveland County. His home was on the opposite side of Buffalo Creek from his fathers place. At one time, he owned over seven thousand acres stretching from his home to the court square in Shelby. Perrygreen Roberts practiced law in Lincolnton. He was one of the founders of the "LINCOLN HERALD" in 1833. Morris Roberts, son of Col. John Roberts built his home on Hickory Creek, near Kings Road in Shelby. He married Susannah Adams. Their children were: John E. (1841-1909), Thomas A., Elizabeth, Mary, was already serving in the army. Jap was enrolled by Col. Mallett on May 27, 1864, at Camp Holmes in Raleigh, N.C., for the duration of the war. He was a private in Company D under Capt. J.H. Wells, Second N.C. Jr. Reserves. Other statistics were given as follows: Age: 17 yrs. 3 mo. 2 days; Height: 5' 10"; Complexion: fair; Hair: dark; Eyes: dark; Occupation: Farmer; Where born: Cleveland Co., N.C.; Receipt roll for clothing: June 2, 1864; Present: Sept. & Oct., 1864, Co. D of Anderson's Battalion of the N.C. Jr. Reserves.

After General Robert E. Lee surrendered at Appomatox Court House in Virginia, Jasper Newton Roberts and his father returned home to Cleveland County.

Before his twenty-third birthday, Jasper Newton Roberts was married on January 12, 1869, to Miss Cynthia Jane Dickson who would also be twenty-three years of age on February 28, having been born in the year 1846. Jap was only about fourteen days older than his wife. Cynthia Jane Dickson was the daughter of James Harvey and Mary Brice Yongue Dickson. The bride's parents and the bride and groom were all residents of York County, S.C.

Jap and Jane Roberts had ten children born to them, all born in York County, S.C. They are as follows:

Their first child, John Campbell Roberts, was born October 11, 1870, died June 17, 1941, and married on December 14, 1892, Margaret Lucinda "Maggie" Smith who was born August 21, 1874, in York County, S.C., died August 22, 1917, in Lowell, N.C.

Their second child was Mary Emma Roberts who was born September 26, 1872, and died June 9, 1900. She never married and is buried in Edgewood Cemetery, Lowell, N.C.

Their third child was Hugh Kerr Roberts, born August 16, 1874, married September 1, 1896, to Lula Walker of Taylorsville, N.C.

Jap and Jane Robert's fourth child was Elizabeth Edna Roberts who was born March 23, 1876, and died May 26, 1880.

Their fifth child was Harvey Dickson

Roberts, who was born April 1, 1878, and married first on December 27, 1897, to Addie Stradley of Gastonia, N.C., who died August 13, 1923. They had no children. On August 5, 1933, Harvey Dickson Roberts married Elizabeth Ann Brown in Belmont, N.C., and they had two children.

The sixth child of Jap and Jane Roberts was William Emmett Roberts, born February 3, 1880, and married April 12, 1900, to Florence Walker of Taylorsville, N.C.

The seventh child of Jap and Jane Roberts was Walter Barron Roberts, born December 29, 1881, and married May Ingle of Pin Hook, N.C.

Jap and Jane Roberts' eighth child was Herbert Lee Roberts who was born December 20, 1883, died April 21, 1918, and married to Carrie Stafford.

The ninth child of Jap and Jane Roberts was Wister Young Roberts (notice the spelling of the family name Yongue was changed). Wister Y. was born October 9, 1885, and married on December 17, 1905, to Grace Zenas Johnston.

The tenth and youngest child of Jap and Cynthia Jane Roberts and Cynthia Louella Roberts who was born September 13, 1887, and married to Jake Stafford.

On Wednesday afternoon, April 11, 1906, Cynthia Jane Dickson Roberts died in the Presbyterian Hospital at Charlotte, N.C., as a result of an internal cancer.

About three years after his first wife died, Jasper was married to Mrs. Hazel Hendrix Ray, a widow with five children: Edgar Sylvanus, James, Vester, Davis Calvin, and Fewell Ray. There were no children born to Jasper and Hazel Roberts' marriage.

Jap was as kind to his step-children and step-grandchildren as he was to his own. After Hazel's children had grown up and left home, Jap bought her a babydoll which she kept on her bed, and when the grandchildren visited they knew not to touch or play with "Grandma Ray's" doll.

On March 20, 1927, about a month after his Jasper Newton Roberts, February 14, 1846 — March 20, 1927. Veteran C.S.A.

Amanda, Sarah, and William (1851-1911). Morris is buried at Pleasant Hill Baptist Church.

Morris's son William inherited his fathers farm on Hickory Creek. William farmed cotton on a fairly large scale. He was also an expert cabinet maker. He made many fine pieces of furniture. One corner cupboard that he made of walnut is still in our family today. William married Sarah Allen. Their children were: Julie, Maggie and Ora (TWINS), William (married Margaret Poston), and Robert Ernest (1878-1940). William and his wife Sarah are buried at Elizabeth Baptist Church.

Sources: family records, personal knowledge, and Guy Roberts' notebook. Credit must also be given to the late Mrs. J. Frank Roberts, mother of Elizabeth Roberts for the sketch she wrote on the Roberts family.

— Earl Douglas Honeycutt, III

THE REVEREND JOHN WESLEY ROBERTS FAMILY

941

The Reverend John Wesley Roberts, D.D. was born in 1861, on a farm near Buffalo Creek, between Shelby and Kings Mountain. He was the first principal of the first school for blacks in Shelby, (Shelby Graded School) now Cleveland School located in the Freedmen section of Shelby.

Reverend Roberts was a minister, artist, and writer. He was so skillful in the spencerian style of miniature penmanship that he could condense the Lord's Prayer within the circumference of a dime coin. A specimen of the calligraphic feat once appeared in the nationally syndicated newspaper column, "Ripley's Believe It or Not".

Reverend Roberts was the first black man from Cleveland County to graduate from college. He graduated at Fayetteville Institute, (now Fayetteville State University) and later attended Biddle University (now Johnson C. Smith University, Charlotte, North Carolina) for seminary studies.

Reverend Roberts was married to Ida E. Roberts, also of Cleveland County.

Upon completion of his theological studies, Reverend Roberts accepted a pastorate at Washington, North Carolina. He subsequently returned to Cleveland County and became principal of the Negro graded school in Shelby, and pastor of Roberts Tabernacle C.M.E. church which was organized by him and named in his honor. His wife Ida E. was also ordained as a minister in the Christian Methodist Church. Reverend Ida Roberts was also a public school teacher. In addition she taught music, and was a church organist, poet, and public speaker. The Reverend John W. Roberts was a presiding elder in the Christian Methodist Episcopal church, and served for several years as editor of the church publication the Eastern Index, published in Memphis, Tennessee.

The second generation of the John W. Roberts family consisted of six children, Dathula, Dilutha, Beebe, John Ida, Bannaka, and Daeira.

Dathula married Converse Rice and moved to Beverly, New Jersey in 1918. The Rice family operated a laundry business. Among their six children are the Reverend D.C. Rice, DD former pastor of Montclair First Baptist Church located in New Jersey. He also was a public school administrator; Dr. DeBois Rice, dentist in upper Montclair, New Jersey; Mrs. Dura Hill, deceased, former social worker, graduate of Temple University and the Atlanta School of Social Work; Mrs. Delobian Myatt, registered nurse, graduate of Harlem Hospital School of Nursing, New York City, and inventor of the official registered nurses cap; Mr. Delain Rice, deceased, graduate of Temple University, and a public school teacher; Colonel Dealion Rice, U.S. Army Air Force.

Dilutha Roberts married Riley Cabiness, a public school teacher. She taught music and was a church organist. She attended Paine College located in Augusta Georgia. The three Cabiness children are Dr. Riley R. Cabiness, Jr. Ph.D; Togo Cabiness, M.A. a graduate of New York University, and Washington, D.C., public school professor; Mrs. Lucretia Clay, Macon, Georgia, a beautician and nurse.

Beebe Roberts was the eldest son of the Reverend and Mrs. John Wesley Roberts. He attended A & T College. He migrated north about 1920 and became an ordained minister. He and his wife Bessie were the parents of four children, Iramanuel, Beebe Jr., Geneva, and Sadie. Iramanuel, Beebe Jr., and Geneva attended Bordentown Institute in New Jersey. Geneva married Eugene Dixon, a television star with sid Caesar's "Star of Stars" television show. Beebe Jr. is a New Jersey businessman and Sadie is an entrepreneur in Hong Kong, China.

Dr. J. Ida Jiggetts was the third eldest daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. John W. Roberts. Dr. J. Ida Jiggetts is a psychiatric therapist. She attended Temple University and earned her doctoral degree at New York University. She is currently director and founder of the Westchester Drug Abuse Clinic in Mount Vernon, New York. She is the author of several books, including Religion, Diet and Health of Jews, and Israel to Me. She was married to the late J. Phelps Jiggetts, an attorney.

Bannaka D. Roberts, deceased, the second son of Rev. and Mrs. John W. Roberts followed in his fathers footsteps and became principal of the local high school for Negroes, Cleveland High School. He later migrated to Charlotte, North Carolina where he served as principal of Myers Street, Isabella Wyche, and Elizabeth Schools. He was a well known athlete, musician, and graphic arts. He played professional baseball with Satchel Paige, and presented numerous one-man art shows around North Carolina. He earned an M.A. degree at Columbia University, and did further graduate study at Wisconsin University and the University of North Carolina. He was married to Annie W. Roberts of Charlotte, North Carolina.

Mrs. Daeira Roberts, the youngest child of the Reverend and Mrs. John W. Roberts, is currently a well known Shelby resident and operates the Roberts Rest Home on Buffalo Street. She attended Paine College, Augusta Georgia and Mercy Hospital School of Nursing, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. She is active in the Christian Methodist Episcopal Church, and in fraternal organizations. She is a well known church organist and has traveled widely in the United States and abroad. She is the mother of one son, John W. Roberts.

There are presently twenty great-grandchildren, fifteen great-great-grandchildren in the Reverend & Mrs. John W. Roberts' family.

Source: personal knowledge.

— Dr. Riley Cabiness and Mrs. Daeira Roberts

James B. Eddins and Adelaide Williams Eddins

MINNIE EDDINS ROBERTS

942

Minnie Eddins Roberts was born August 10, 1855, in Yorkville, South Carolina, the daughter of James Bolivar Eddins, born July 10, 1825 (the grandson of the South Carolina Revolutionary hero, William Eddins, brave soldier and eloquent and consecrated preacher) and his wife who was Adelaide Alice Williams, born at Yorkville, South Carolina, October 31, 1835. She was the daughter of Colonel George

Minnie Eddins Roberts

Washington Williams and Sarah Beatty Williams. Colonel Williams was a South Carolina legislator and senator, Judge in the federal court and, according to newspaper clippings of the time, the most outstanding South Carolina lawyer of his day. At birth, Minnie Eddins was named "Mary Adelaide Eddins" but later had her name changed to "Minnie McAfee Eddins." She was educated at Yorkville Female College, Charlotte Female College and Raleigh Female Seminary where she graduated in 1872, taking a thorough course in music.

In 1873 she made a tour of North Carolina with Miss Carrie Jenkins for the benefit of the Oxford Orphans' Asylum. Newspaper clippings say her magnificent instrumental performances, piano and guitar, and her wonderful soprano voice created a sensation at every concert and by universal consent she was styled "The Mockingbird of North Carolina". A clipping from an Asheville paper dated September 15, 1873, said "she charms her listeners not less by her exquisite grace of figure and movement, than her splendid voice. Her arias from the opera were brilliantly rendered, while her charming little ballads brought down the house."

On December 22, 1874, Minnie Eddins married William Joshua Roberts, born March 7, 1853, son of the prominent family of Mr. William Roberts, pioneer settler and landowner who lived several miles east of Shelby. Three sons were born to them: William Joshua Roberts, Jr., September 13, 1875; James Eddins, 1885 and George Williams, 1890.

William Roberts, Jr. married Frances Eskridge and had two daughters, Mary Adelaide, born August 16, 1905; and Minnie Eddins, born August 12, 1908. Mary Adelaide married Charles Benjamin Austell and they had one daughter, Mary Adelaide, born July 1, 1942. She married Richard Davidson Craver, and two children were born to them: Joseph Newton Craver, II, born January 12, 1975; and Adelaide Austell Craver, July 16, 1976. Minnie Eddins married George Moore Carpenter of Forest City. He was born May 8, 1907, and they have no children.

Eddins Roberts married Luna Roberts and had six children; Edna Hord, Paul, Josh, Eddins, Fred and Catherine Dorsey. George Roberts married Edna Cabe and had one child, Virginia Gossett.

Minnie Eddins was a teacher at Shelby Female College, incorporated in 1883, gave of her time and talents to the Baptist Church of which she was a member, and to the entire community. She had sung at Reuben McBrayer's funeral just a week before her death from Typhoid Fever on August 12, 1892 at the age of thirty-seven. She is buried in Sunset Cemetery, beside her mother, who died November 18, 1888.

Minnie Eddins' father, James Bolivar Eddins, died when she was only two years old and her mother, Adelaide Alice Williams Eddins, later married Colonel Leroy (Lee) M. McAfee, who was a native of Cleveland County, born in 1836. He graduated from the State University at Chapel Hill in 1862, receiving the highest honors in a class of sixty-nine. At the beginning of the war he was a resident of Texas, where he practiced law, but came back to North Carolina and entered the service as a private soldier. He attained the rank of Colonel in the 49th Regiment, the highest ranking officer in Cleveland County.

As a soldier he was conspicuous for his gallant bearing and for his bravery on the field. He had been especially complimented by General Lee.

Miss Mamie Jones, local historian, wrote that during the humiliating days of Reconstruction from 1868 to 1874, following the crushing (not conquering) days of the Confederacy, when the legally constituted officers of the state and federal governments were intent on creating chaos instead of order, and the Ku Klux Klan became a necessity, he was chosen by Confederate General Nathan B. Forrest to organize the Klan in Cleveland County. It was later disbanded when the need was less. Colonel McAfee's death occurred in 1873 at the age of thirty-seven, and he is buried in Rose Hill Cemetery in York, South Carolina. His sister, Amanda, was the mother of Thomas Dixon who dedicated his book The Clansman from which the motion picture, "Birth of a Nation", was filmed to his uncle Colonel Leroy McAfee.

The house at 403 South Washington Street, now known as the "Gardner House," was for many years known as the "McAfee House," as this house was deeded to Adelaide Williams McAfee in 1869 and the McAfees and her daughter, Minnie Eddins, lived there. After Minnie Eddins' marriage to William Joshua Roberts in 1874, they lived there with her mother and their three sons were born there. The family continued to reside there until 1905.

Sources: Family Bible, Tombstones, Obituaries, Newspaper Clippings and personal knowledge.

— Minnie Eddins Roberts Carpenter

MORRIS ROBERTS FAMILY

943

Morris Roberts was born in Wales (History of Buncombe Co., Vol. 2, pp. 757-58) in 1736 and came to this country when he was very young. He first lived in New Jersey and later moved to Pennsylvania. Morris settled in Chesterfield County, Virginia, with his parents and their family sometime before 1768. He and his father shared the same name. His mother was Jane Pride. By this time (before 1768) he had married his wife, Unity, (last name unknown), and was at this time the father of six children: Susannah, Martin, Joshua, Mary, Jane, (married Hugh Quinn), and John (will of Walter Pollard, LINCOLN CO. WILLS, C.R. 060.801.21).

Morris was a successful planter, and by the early 1770's he had accumulated enough money to move to North Carolina where there was better land for farming. On July 6th, 1775, Morris Roberts bought 300 acres of land on both sides of "Little Hickory Creek" in what was then Tryon County, North Carolina. He bought the land at auction for the sum of 21 pounds, 12 shillings and sixpence (LINCOLN CO. REAL ESTATE CONVEYANCES, VOL. 2 Pg. 192, C. 060. 40002.). This property is located three and seven tenths of a mile due south of Shelby, and one mile west of Sulphur Springs Methodist Church. My grandfather, Guy Houston Roberts, wrote that Morris built his home on the north side of Little Hickory Creek and just north of a "Good Spring Water."

Morris Roberts and his family contributed to the religious growth of his community by constructing a building for public worship located on his farm. The log structure stood a short distance from the old cemetery where Morris and other members of his community are buried. This church was a place of interdenominational worship, welcoming persons of various religious preferences. It was said to be the forerunner of Sulphur Springs Methodist Church. (P. CLEVELAND GARDNER).

Col. Leroy M. McAfee (after Civil War)

Morris had two sons, Joshua and Martin, who fought in the Revolution on the side of the Patriots. Martin Roberts (1758-1834) was the oldest son of Morris Roberts. When the rest of his family emigrated to North Carolina, Martin remained in Virginia. In December of 1776 at CHESTERFIELD COUNTY COURTHOUSE, VIRGINIA, he enlisted in the Fifth Virginia Regiment, Continental Line. He fought at the battles of Trenton, Princeton, and Germantown. He served as Foragemaster in the Quartermaster Corps from August 5th, 1780 to August 1, 1782. He applied for pension at Rutherford County Courthouse in 1825. He married Elizabeth Durborrow of Fast Landing, Delaware, and moved to join his family here in 1797. He is buried at the old Hugh Quinn, Martin Roberts, Michael Borders grave yard.

Martin's brother, Joshua, applied for pension at Lincoln County Courthouse in 1831. He married a Miss Moore, sister of Col. John Moore, who was defeated at the Battle of Ram-sour's Mill. Col. John Roberts, third son of Morris Roberts, was born in Virginia in 1767. It is from him that my family has descended. He will be further discussed in a following sketch.

Morris's first wife, Unity, died sometime before the Revolution and he married a second time. The name of his second wife is unknown at this time. By this marriage at least eight more children were added to his family (some say ten). Their names were: Josiah (married Mary Linsey); Oliver, Morris, Jr., Kezia (married John Fondien), Nancy (married Elias Putnam); William, Step, and Thomas.

Morris Roberts farmed the land for his entire lifetime, as did many of his descendants after him. He died in 1831 at the age of 95. He is buried in the old Hugh Quinn, Martin Roberts, Michael Borders Cemetery, which is in a field in No. 3 Township just off State Route 1109 south of Shelby. The place of his burial can be found by the memorial stone of Hugh Quinn and that of his son, Martin Roberts.

Sources used in this sketch include the notebook left by my grandfather, Guy H. Roberts, which includes a copy of the family history written by Capt. Rufus Roberts (1828-1905). Rufus Roberts is buried at Sulphur Springs Methodist Church. He fought with the 49th REGIMENT OF RUTHERFORD COUNTY in the WAR BETWEEN THE STATES. This notebook is now in possession of GARY H. ROBERTS of SHELBY.

Sources: personal knowledge and family records.

— Earl Douglas Honeycutt, III

SYLVIA "FULENWILDER" "ROBERTS" and DESCENDANTS

944

We are descendants of African slaves who were brought into the state of North Carolina from Virginia before the year 1799. Sylvia was our earliest known African ancestor. She was born free in Guinea, West Africa, and reputedly was the daughter of an African Chief. She was abducted by slave traders in Africa and sold in Virginia to a North Carolina planter, John Fulenwilder. He brought her to his lands which were then located in Lincoln County. Either before or after his death, in 1826, Sylvia descendants came into the possession of another North Carolina planter named, John Roberts. John died in 1845 and his slaves were willed to his family, including his sons, William and Morris Roberts. William and Morris were also plantation owners.

Sylvia was the mother of seven daughters and one son by three different men. These children were: Delila — (Dillingham-Beam). Her children included a son, Josh Beam, and a son Madison. Betsy — (Forney) was born in North Carolina. Her children included Benjamin, Jake, and Caleb Roberts. Also Synenimus, Martha, Jane, and Peter Forney. Sylvia we have no information. Kittie was born in North Carolina. She married Big George Roberts, and they had fifteen children who were Vatch, Noah, Archie, Gilbert, George, Peter, Olliver, Nelson, Wattie, John, Adeline, Patsy, Betsy, Lucinda, and Jane. Fannie was born in 1799, in North Carolina. She married Nelson Briggs and they had children including Fannie, Emmaline, Jane, Nelson, Ann, and Caroline. Percilla was born in 1814, in North Carolina. She married Sammuel Mauney and they had children Jane, Caroline, Roxanna, Fannie, Elvira, Westley, Alvin, Charlie, and Sam. Martha was born in 1819, in North Carolina. First husband was Simpson Roberts, and they had six sons Eli, Alburthus, Philetus, John, Caleb, and George. Some of their sons took the name Borders after they were freed. Her second husband was Solomon Howell and they had four children who were Wattie, Daniel, Betsy, and Ann. Josh died before achieving manhood. We do not have a family record of the African name, birth or death date of Sylvia.

Some of our ancestors who lived on the Roberts plantation intermarried with other Roberts families including those of Emmanuel, Issac, and Bob Roberts. They also married into families on the Borders Plantation. After they were freed, they took the family name of their former owners. Others who were owned by Henderson Borders, took the family name Borders. Most all of the black families, named Roberts, in Cleveland County are descendants of these families. Some of the Borders, Mauney, and Howell families are also descendants.

After they were freed, these ancestors became leaders in the educational and religious life of Cleveland County, and this has continued to the present time. Caleb Roberts, George Roberts and Peter Forney helped to establish the first Black School Academy in 1872. Olliver Roberts was appointed school Committeeman for the Shelby Colored School District in 1879. Emmanuel Roberts, Caleb Roberts, Benjamin Roberts, William Andrew Roberts, and J.L. Roberts became preachers. Eli Roberts became the largest black land owner in Cleveland County.

Family members were active in the early history of Washington and Ebanezer Baptist Churches. Caleb Roberts was a founder of Vestibule A.M.E. Zion Church. Perry Roberts and J.C. Roberts were founding fathers of Wardell Chapel A.M.E. Zion Church. Rev. John W. Roberts was a founding Father of Roberts Tabernacle C.M.E. Church.

In recent years, T.K. Borders and Bonney Roberts were principals of Cleveland Training School. Railey Cabiness, Broadus Howell, Mary Gleaves, Joseph Roberts, and others became educators.

Rev. Dwight Costner became a minister. Dr. John Ida Jiggetts, a social worker, became the first black person to write a book about Jews. Dr. James Deotis Roberts became a minister, writer, and president of Inter-Denominational Theological Center in Atlanta, Georgia. Lester "Fats" Borders became a well known mortician. Many other family members are also excelling in their chosen occupations in Cleveland County and throughout the country.

Sylvia has hundreds of descendants living in Cleveland County and throughout the country. They are too numerous to mention in this article. Since 1906, this family has held an annual family reunion in Cleveland County. The reunion is on the third Sunday in August.

Sources: Family records of Rev. John Westley Roberts. Daeira Roberts, Louise Roberts, China Roberts, Rev. Dwight Costner, and Charles Saunders. Wills, Estate, and Census records.

— Spurgeon A. Roberts

THE WILLIAM JOSHUA ROBERTS FAMILY

945

William Roberts came to the Cleveland County area from England by way of Chesterfield County, Virginia, about 1737. His son, Morris, born in England in 1736 had sixteen children by two wives. One of his sons, Colonel John Morris Roberts, was born in 1767 and died in 1847. He fought in the War of 1812 and is buried in the Roberts' Cemetery near Moss Lake in Cleveland County. He married Sarah Magness, born in 1772, daughter of Perrygreen and Sarah Hamrick Magness.

Among his children were Joshua, who became Mayor of Asheville, North Carolina, and William, who was known as "Captain" and "Squire Billy". William was born in 1796 and the 1850 Cleveland County Census shows him owning 7500 acres of land between Shelby and Kings Mountain and thirty-three slaves. He was a farmer and manufacturer, as newspaper clippings report he was one of three men who had iron works in the county at that time.

He opened one of the first private schools after the war for the teaching of reading, writing and arithmetic and was a charter member of First Baptist Church and one of the first deacons. He died in 1865 and was buried in Roberts' Cemetery. His body and that of his first wife, Mary M. Fullenwider, were moved to Sunset Cemetery when the land was flooded for Moss Lake.

His second wife was Catherine Wray Roberts Borders. Their son was William Joshua Roberts ("Josh") who was born March 7, 1853, and died September 22, 1914.

William Joshua Roberts was twice married,

WILLIAM JOSHUA ROBERTS, JR.

946

William Joshua Roberts, Jr. was born September 13, 1875, to Minnie Eddins and William Joshua Roberts. He was born in what is now known as the "Gardner House," at 403 South Washington Street, but was then known as the "McAfee House," as it belonged to his maternal grandmother, Adelaide Alice Williams Eddins McAfee. His maternal grandfather was James Bolivar Eddins of Yorkville, South Carolina, and his grandmother married Colonel LeRoy McAfee after her first husband's death.

His father, William Joshua Roberts, was the son of William and Catherine Wray Roberts who lived east of Shelby. "Will," as he was called, had two brothers, James Eddins and George Williams.

He married Frances Eskridge on June 23, 1904 and they had two daughters, Mary Adelaide, born August 16, 1905, who died November 24, 1975, and Minnie Eddins, born August 12, 1908. Mary Adelaide married Charles Benjamin Austell, born April 17, 1904, died January 27, 1967, and had one daughter, Mary Adelaide, born July 1, 1942. She is married to Richard Davidson Craver, born August 19, 1942, and has two children, Joseph Newton Craver, II, born January 12, 1975; and Adelaide Austell Craver, born July 16, 1976. Minnie Eddins married George Moore Carpenter, born May 8, 1907, the son of John E. and Margaret Padgett Carpenter of Forest City. They have no children.

As a young man, Will Roberts traveled for a Charlotte wholesale drug house, later was postmaster in Shelby during the Wilson Administration, and was salesman in the Piedmont section of the two Carolinas for Piedmont Mills of Lynchburg, Virginia. It was during his term as postmaster that the Washington Street Shelby Post Office was built. This new federal building was praised by all and proved to be not only a beautiful building, but one adequate to the needs of the county for first to Minnie Eddins, born in Yorkville, South Carolina, on August 10, 1855, and died August 12, 1892. She, her husband and her mother, Adelaide Alice Williams McAfee, are buried in Sunset Cemetery. To this union were born three sons, William Joshua Roberts, Jr., James Eddins Roberts and George Williams Roberts.

William Joshua Roberts, Shelby Courtsquare — Early 1900's

William Joshua Roberts, Jr. was born September 13, 1875 in Shelby, and died December 5, 1933. He married Frances Margaret Eskridge, and had two daughters, Mary Adelaide Roberts Austell and Minnie Eddins Roberts Carpenter.

James Eddins Roberts married Luna Roberts and had six children; Edna Roberts Hord, Catherine Roberts Dorsey, Fred Roberts, Paul Roberts, Josh Roberts and Eddie Roberts. George Williams Roberts married Edna Cabe and had one daughter, Virginia Roberts Gossett.

Josh Roberts' second marriage was to Mamie Logan. They had seven children, Catherine, Mary, Sarah, John, Ben, Ruth and Robert. John Roberts died in 1901 at sixteen months. Catherine Roberts married Will G. Arey, and had four children, William Griffin Arey, Jr., Robert Jackson Arey, Richard Everett Arey and Mary Alice Arey Dorton. Sarah Roberts married C.C. Horn and had three children, Mary Louise Martin, Charles and James. Mary Roberts married Herbert Whisnant and had two sons, Richard and Jack. Ruth Roberts was a Lieutenant Colonel in the Air Force and was never married. Ben Roberts married Katherine Borders. He died in 1956 and was survived by ten children: Mary Estelle Bridges, Nell Carroll, John Logan Roberts, who died 1977, Betty Kimbrell, George Roberts, Eva Harrill, William Josh Roberts, who died 1980, Dorothy Beam, Edward Roberts, Donald Roberts, and Jerry Thomas Roberts.

Josh Roberts was a member and deacon of Elizabeth Baptist Church. Newspaper clippings state that when "Squire W. Josh Roberts" died, the county lost one of its landmarks, one of the widest known, one of the largest land owners, one of the most substantial and esteemed citizens of the county. He lived and farmed east of Shelby, and it is said that after the funeral service, as his body was brought in to Shelby where it was buried with Masonic honors in Sunset Cemetery, the road was lined with his black friends, many of whom were descendants of Roberts' slaves and lived on Roberts' land.

Sources: Family Bible, gravestones, newspaper clippings, and personal knowledge.

— Minnie Eddins Roberts Carpenter

William Joshua Roberts, Jr. — 1930's

William Joshua Roberts, Jr. and daughter, Mary Adelaide — 1905

many years.

In 1914, the "Anthony House" on West Marion Street was remodeled and enlarged and became the Roberts' home. It is now the residence of one of the Roberts daughters, Minnie Eddins and her husband, George Carpenter. "W. J." as he was also sometimes called, was active in the First Baptist Church where he served in many capacities, and in the community. He was a Mason and a Shriner. His obituary states: "He had a happy disposition, a striking personality, a keen sense of humor and was widely known and loved among the merchants of the two Carolinas, and his home people."

He died December 5, 1933, at the age of fifty-eight, and is buried in Sunset Cemetery.

Sources: Family Bible, Shelby Daily Star clippings, and personal knowledge.

— Minnie Eddins Roberts Carpenter

ROBERT HAMER ROGERS

947

The R.H. Rogers family came to Shelby from Durham in June, 1931. Mr. Rogers acquired the Ford Agency from Mrs. Charles L. Eskridge after her husband's death. He operated Rogers Motors for a number of years prior to his death. He was a successful business man and developed the property on the two hundred block of East Marion Street known as the Rogers Building of which the Rogers Theater is a part. He was owner of the Rogers Finance Company at the time of his death, as well as having other extensive business interests here and elsewhere.

Robert Hamer Rogers was born in Roland, North Carolina, to Robert Lonzo Rogers and Floretta Yates Thompson. He married Clara Elizabeth Ellenberg of Greenwood, South Carolina on February 21, 1926 in Lancaster, S.C. Mrs. Rogers is the daughter of Joseph Samuel Ellenberg and Sara Elizabeth Wells. Mr. Rogers died August 11, 1942. He is buried in Sunset Cemetery. Surviving are his widow, Clara Ellenberg Rogers and five children:

Robert Hamer Rogers, Jr., born March 18, 1928 in Great Falls, South Carolina; married Marjorie Amplus Hoyle, born August 9, 1928, in Casar, North Carolina. Date of marriage, October 4, 1952.

Ruth Ellenberg Rogers, born January 7, 1930, in Great Falls, South Carolina; married Hadley Edgar on September 10, 1953. Issue: Elizabeth Ann Edgar, born November 15, 1958; Barbara Lynn Edgar, born July 30, 1961; died 1965.

Ervin Thompson Rogers, born April 14, 1931, in Durham, North Carolina; married Marian Frances Bishop, born June 30, 1928, Union, South Carolina. Date of Marriage, August 23, 1964.

William Wells Rogers, born October 20, 1934, in Shelby, North Carolina; married Minnie Lorene Williams, born January 7, 1937. Date of Marriage, August 18, 1968.

Julian Samuel Rogers, born July 31, 1940, in Shelby, North Carolina; married Linda Louise Beaver, born January, 19, 1943. Date of Marriage, August 12, 1966. Issue: Joseph Samuel Rogers, born November 6, 1975.

John Harve Rollins and Family

JOHN HARVE ROLLINS AND DESCENDENTS

948

According to a story told by a great aunt of my father's, his great, great grandfather came over from Ireland on a cattle boat. She did not know whether he was a stow away or worked his passage on the boat. How or why he came to North Carolina, we never knew. His son, James C. Rollins, born January 4, 1795 had two sons, Jonas Rollins and James Jefferson Ellison Rollins.

On January 31, 1856, James Jefferson Ellison Rollins married Elizabeth Wilson, who bore him three sons; Commadore Perry, born in 1857; John Harve, born July 28, 1859; and William Alston, born in 1861. Their father, James Jefferson, fought in the Civil War, was wounded in the Battle of Gettysburg, and later died in an enemy hospital.

His lovely wife, Elizabeth, then married a "carpet bagger" and believing him to be well to do, moved across the mountains with her three small sons to live in Tennessee. Arriving there she found there was no house, as he had promised, no property or security. Soon she packed her belongings in a covered wagon and with her sons and a little dog crossed the mountains back to North Carolina. They carried a coop of chickens which they ate for food on the way home. A little red rooster was food for their last day of the trip. Arriving in North Carolina, Elizabeth drank water from a mud puddle and declared it was the best water she had had since leaving North Carolina. Some time later she married Robert Wall, and they had one son.

John Harve Rollins married Theodocia Ann Hughes in 1892. She had the title of being the prettiest girl within fifty miles of her home town of Ellenboro, North Carolina.

There were nine children born to this union. The eldest, Coran Stephan, born April 15, 1894, served overseas with the 105th. Engineers in the 30th. Division during the first world war. His first wife was Ruby McSwain of Earl, North Carolina. She lived only a few years after their marriage, dying in Lakeland, Florida where they were living. He returned to North Carolina and married Lela Mann of Canton, North Carolina. They had two children, a son and daughter. Coran Stephan died August 29, 1980.

The second child, Lillie Mae Rollins was born May 9, 1896. She married Lawrence Euler Weaver, who owned and operated a music store in Gaffney, South Carolina after serving in World War II. There were no children, and he preceded her in death in 1945. She died December 17, 1979, and both are buried in Mount Sinai Church cemetery in Cleveland County.

The third child, Ural O'Clair Rollins was born September 20, 1898. She married David Evans Bostic who was born July 12, 1889. They had one daughter. David Evans Bostic died July 8, 1934 and a number of years later Ural married Carl Edwards, who also preceded her in death. She died 12-1-71.

The fourth child, Dewey Bryant Rollins was born May 27, 1900. He married Essie Hunt and she bore him nine children. Dewey Bryant Rollins died November 19, 1976 and Essie still lives at the Rollins homeplace where all the children and grandchildren visit her.

The fifth child, Eugenia Mozelle Rollins was born February 18, 1905. She married a Baptist minister, Charles Evans Crawford and they were blessed with three children. Eugenia Mozell Rollins died August 27, 1980.

The sixth child, Mona Maude Rollins was born June 1, 1906. She married Jasper David Branton June 3, 1930. They lived in Portsmouth, Virginia where he worked with the Housing Authority during World War Two. Maude worked as a telephone operator for a number of years and later taught school. After the war they moved back to North Carolina and operated a Marina at Lake James in Burke County. They were living in Morganton when Jasper David died August 15, 1971. Maude retired from teaching and she still resides in Morganton, North Carolina. She has one stepson who lives in Charlotte, North Carolina.

The seventh child, Zelia Norine Rollins was born November 21, 1909. She married Iley Chester Whiteley, August 25, 1937. Iley was a pharmacist, and owned and operated Whiteley's Pharmacy in Morganton, North Carolina for a number of years. He died September 6, 1961, and she sold the pharmacy. She resides in Morganton, North Carolina and continues to operate two beauty salons.

The eighth child, Buna Agnes Rollins, was born March 13, 1912. She married Wayne Wade Hitt August 8, 1934. They have one son. Buna retired from work at Jones Pharmacy and now helps her son at the Camera Center in Morganton, North Carolina where her family resides.

The youngest child, John Rollins was born February 24, 1917. He married Margaret Lee and they had six daughters and one son. They were divorced and he later married Shirley Phillips. They had one son. John died December 15, 1971 and his widow and son reside in Shelby, North Carolina.

— Norine R. Whiteley

THE ROLLA DAVID and CLAUDIA THOMPSON ROSE FAMILY

949

Rolla David Rose was born February 8, 1940, at Cabarrus County Hospital in Kannapolis, North Carolina. He was the third of four sons born to Frances Marion and Myrtle Beauchamp Rose. In 1942 the Roses moved to Shelby and remained there as a family until the "4 Roses" grew up and attended schools away from Shelby. David attended Marion College in Marion, Indiana, in 1958. He went back for the 1961-62 school year and decided that Indiana was too far away. In 1963 he went into the Army, attending various schools for aviation maintenance. He was discharged August 1966 as a E-5 Technical Inspector. He served in Korea and Thailand, and was lucky enough to only spend ten days in Vietnam. While stationed at Fort Riley, Kansas, David played baseball on the Special Troops team that later went on to win the Kansas State baseball tournament.

As a child David always enjoyed playing baseball and taking things apart and usually calling on his father to put them back together. He always envisioned himself as a major league ball player even through his senior year in high school. David has always felt that the Rose family was a close knit family and he feels that his parents kept them close by allowing enough freedom for them to be boys but strict enough to keep them on the right path. For this the boys will always be grateful to their parents.

Claudia Irene Thompson was born March 27, 1943, at Cleveland Memorial Hospital in Shelby, North Carolina. I was the first child born to Joseph Rush and Mabel Barnes Thompson. A sister (Sue Barnes Thompson Stuckey) and a brother (Joseph Rush Thompson, Jr.) were born later. My birthday was always a Thompson family celebration since March 27 was also my parents' anniversary, my paternal grandfather's and his twin brother's birthday, my paternal grandparents' wedding anniversary, and an uncle's birthday. I attended Shelby Public Schools and was presented at the Shelby Debutante Ball in 1961.

When it came time for college, N. C. State was my choice, but my father said: "Girls don't go to State." So I went to Woman's College of the University of North Carolina at Greensboro (now UNC-G). After graduating in 1965, with a BA in Math, I taught one year at Shelby Junior High. Realizing I was wrong in my profession, I joined the National Cash Register Company as a Systems Analyst/Computer Programmer. I have continued this occupation on an Independent Consultant basis since leaving National Cash Register Company in 1970.

David and I were married on Sunday, May 7, 1967, at Central Methodist Church. David was employed by Nabisco and the center of his territory was Lincolnton, North Carolina. The day we went to Lincolnton to find an apartment was a rainy Saturday. My first memory of Lincolnton was a Klu Klux Klan march down main street. I wondered just what David had gotten us into.

Our first daughter, Jennifer LeMaster Rose, was born at Cleveland Memorial Hospital in Shelby even though we lived in Lincolnton. On January 1, 1973, we moved home to Shelby just in time for the arrival of our second daughter, Claudia Rebecca Rose, on March 3, 1973. I finally convinced David we needed a third child after he realized that with two children there might be a Christmas when neither could be home. He reasoned that with three children surely at least one could be home. Thus we had our Valentine, Susan Elizabeth Rose, born February 14, 1977. Both Becca and Susan were born at Cleveland Memorial Hospital.

David has become an avid "Ham" (Amateur Radio Operator) and is active in the Shelby Amateur Radio Club, having served as Vice-President and President. Since David is not a "Club Person," this is no small accomplishment for him.

At the other extreme, I am an avid "Club Person" and am involved in the Junior Charity League, Beta Sigma Phi, my Circle, the Elks Auxiliary, the Shelby Garden Club, and the American Association of University Women. I am currently serving a third year as North Carolina State Division AAUW Treasurer. My term will end June 30, 1983. My Mother says I am too busy to work because of all my club work.

We are members of Central United Methodist Church. Both David and I have served on the Administrative Board and as Sunday School teachers. I have many good memories of growing up in this church and have a special fondness for the beautiful building because my paternal grandfather was instrumental in building it.

Sources: Personal knowledge

— Claudia Thompson Rose

GRADY LEE ROSS, D.D.S.

950

Grady Lee Ross (son of Landrum, son of James, Osbourn, Moses) was born at Earl, Cleveland County, North Carolina, May 10, 1897. He married Robbie Lee Gillis of Charlotte, North Carolina, in Miami, Florida, October 7, 1925.

In 1906 the Ross family moved to Shelby. While a messenger boy there, Grady learned telegraphy which was of great benefit to him in his growing and developing years.

In order to get experience, in 1914, he worked without pay, as assistant agent and telegraph operator at Earl, Cleveland County. After three months, he transferred to Midway, South Carolina for the munificent sum of $30.00 per month. He also worked at Forest City. In 1916, Grady was transferred to South Carolina, working in York and Denmark. He came to Charlotte the latter part of 1916 with the Western Union. Later, he moved to Bluefield, West Virginia affiliating himself with the Norfolk and Western Railroad. He remained there until he volunteered his services in World War I at Raleigh, North Carolina. He was sent to the United States Naval Base at Hampton Roads, Virginia. Because of his experience, he was assigned to the telegraph desk. After his discharge on January 11, 1919 he worked until he entered Vanderbilt University in the fall of 1919 for the study of dentistry. In order to defray his expenses for the next four years, Grady worked at the Western Union, Postal Telegraph, railroads, fired furnaces and worked as a shoe salesman.

After Dr. Ross' graduation from Vanderbilt in 1923, he opened his offices in Charlotte in the Independence Building on August 15th, for the practice of general dentistry.

JAMES ROSS

951

Dr. Ross advocated and practiced the insertion of dentures immediately after the extraction of teeth as early as 1933. This was a revolutionary idea, at that time, though a general practice today.

In 1939, Dr. Ross was ready to limit his practice to Oral Surgery and he went to New York University for the training and study in this field.

Many clinics and lectures were given by Dr. Ross, some of which were to the North Carolina Dental Society, South Carolina Dental Society, Southern Dental Association, Five State Post Graduate Clinic in Washington D.C., American Dental Association in Houston, Texas, and the Federation Dentaire in Rome, Italy.

He is a former President of the Charlotte Dental Society, a member of the Second District and North Carolina Dental Societies, American Dental Association, American Society of Dental Anesthesiology, Southeastern Society of Oral Surgeons of which he is a charter member and former president, North Carolina Society of Oral Surgeons which was organized in the home of Dr. Ross, and the North Carolina Society of Dental Anesthesiology and its first president. Dr. Ross is a member of St. Johns Baptist Church, Charlotte Country Club, a Mason and Shriner, American Legion, Mecklenburg County Wild Life Club and former president. He is a former member of the Charlotte Rotary Club.

Dr. Ross' love for children and young people knew no bounds. Having had such a struggle to get his own education, many a young man and young lady has his college degree, due to the generosity and the interest of Dr. Ross.

What kind of character does he have? He is fair, sincere, loyal, generous, kind, humble, and has a keen sense of humor. He is widely known for the stories that he tells.

He has two daughters as follows: Jewel Mae Ross, who married Wilbur Reid Caldwell. He died in 1977. They had two sons, Wilbur Reid Caldwell, Jr. and David Ross Caldwell. Ross was killed in an automobile accident October 24, 1980. Reid married Susan Martin of Charlotte and they have one son, William Reid Caldwell.

Robbie Lee Ross married Ezra Preston Andrews Jr. They are divorced. To them were born three children. Ezra Preston Andrews, III, Robbie Lee Andrews and Grady Ross Andrews. Preston married Catherine Helen Davis of Charlotte and they are parents of two daughters, Natalie Stuart Andrews and Catherine Melissa Andrews. Robbie married Christopher Wayne Davis of Greensboro, they have a son, Michael Christopher Davis. Grady is a bachelor.

After her children were grown, Robbie Lee Ross Andrews married a former high school sweetheart, Herbert Conrad Bridges of Charlotte.

— Mrs. Grady Ross

The research for the early Rosses in Rutherford County show the name spelled as Ross, Rose, Ruse, and Russ. Clerks, in those days, spelled names as they sounded to them.

The Rock Cut Section, about three miles north east of Shelby, is where the Moses Ross family "burying ground"; is located. Along with other tombstones, one inscription reads:

James Ross
Hannah Ross
Died May 2, 1829, aged 95 (born 1734)
Died April 11, 1835, aged 90 (born 1745)

It is logical to believe that they were parents or grandparents of Moses Ross, for several reasons. The 1790 census of Rutherford County, Morgan District, lists two men by the name of James Ross, each with a male under the age of sixteen. No other Rosses were listed in the County. Bible records show that Moses was born 1785. The 1800 census lists the two James Rosses, both forty-five and up, but only one as having a male 10-16, which could have been Moses. However, two William Rosses had males of Moses approximation. By 1810, Moses was listed in his own household. Other Rosses listed were, George, George, and Solomon on page 430. On page 343, were James, James Sr., James Jr., Samuel and Moses. None of the above Jameses were old enough to have been the James born 1734. No other Ross household, from 1810 through 1840, showed anyone of James' and Hannah's ages. It is assumed that, because of their advanced years, they were living with one of their daughters or granddaughters, married names unknown.

Moses and James Ross were chain-bearers when a survey of 300 acres of land was made for James Ross on July 21, 1793. It was in "Rutherford County on the headwaters of Hickory Creek, both sides of said creek joining Criders line, joining William Hanes land, including own improvement and the land the Meeting House is on and round it for complement, granted to self" (1779-1795 — S.S. 962.1, unindexed book at Raleigh). This is the same land that Moses Ross devised to his daughter, Easter Lettie Ross Hardin, and she gave fifteen acres of it for Ross Grove Baptist Church.

In order to try to establish the relationship between James and Moses, an important deed found is: "August 14, 1814, James Rutherford to Moses Ross, land on Hickory Creek (volume 22-23, page 420)", which is the same land James Ross bought on February 2, 1801 from Joshua Earles. No sale was found for this land and how James Rutherford received the land is unknown.

The Reverend Sherman Ross prepared an Historical Sketch of the Ross family which was read at the Ross family reunion at Waco on September 6, 1958. He wrote: "Something over 200 years ago, three Ross brothers came over from Scotland, Ireland. One of the brothers went West and Moses came here to North Carolina, and as to where the others went, there is no record. To our great grandfather, Moses, that came over from Ireland, his grandmother wrote in his Bible:" "When I

Remember . . .

Articles
Are Indexed
By
Article Numbers
. . . Not By
Page
Number

am dead and gone — remember me and Mother. I may meet you in heaven. My days is not many. I am going to heaven. God told me so. God bless. I will see you there." Does this mean that the grandmother of Moses was Hannah of the tombstone record? She outlived James.

Much research has been done in an attempt to distinguish between the two James Rosses in Rutherford County of the early census reports. Research continues to hide documentary proof that James was the father or grandfather of Moses. The closest is Moses approximation in the 1790 and 1800 census reports, of James Ross and Moses Ross' being chain-bearers in James Ross' survey, and Moses acquisition of James Ross' land through James Rutherford, plus the grave in the present Cleveland County of James Ross (1734-1829) and his wife, Hannah (1745-1835).

— Mrs. Grady Ross

JAMES ROSS

952

James Ross (Osborn, Moses) was born August 19, 1844 and died June 29, 1879 in Cleveland County. He is buried in the Sunset Cemetery in Shelby. On October 9, 1866, he married Marsilla Parsade Patterson, daughter of Samuel and Nancy Emeline London Patterson. His parents were John and Barbara Whittier Patterson. Emeline's parents were Henry and Mary Elam London, both of Virginia. Marsilla Parsade Patterson Ross was born November 23, 1845 and died March 4, 1920. Her grave is in the New Hope Baptist Church Cemetery at Earl, a few miles south of Shelby.

James went to Wilmington with his father and uncles and volunteered in the Confederate States of America forces on March 2, 1863. He was a private in Company F, 56th Regiment North Carolina Infantry. The War Department records in Washington show that he was in a hospital October 31, 1863 and again, on May 19, 1864. Union prisoner of war records show that he was captured April 1, 1865 at Five Forks, and imprisoned at Point Lookout, Maryland. He was released June 17, 1865. James lost a leg in the War, but it did not deter him from walking from Petersburg, Virginia, with a forked stick and swimming the Catawba river to his home.

James was an industrious, hard working, determined, and ambitious man. He was also a good manager. Although he lived only sixteen years after the war, he provided well for his family. The personal property he left to his widow, listed on three pages of court records, consisted of all the household furniture, silver, books, large amounts of farm equipment, live stock and the crops. He owned his farm and left $1,100.00 in gold, a sizable sum in those days.

The children of James and Marsilla Parsade Patterson Ross were four sons and two daughters.

Robert Marion Ross, born July 9, 1867, died August 12, 1941 in Colbert, Georgia. He was the bank president. On December 9, 1903 he married Maude Crowder. Their two sons were Fay Gaffney Ross, whose wife was Myrtice Stewart and Matthew Yates Ross, whose wife was Josephine Faucette. The latter were parents of five children, Matthew Yates Ross, Jr., whose wife is Frances Garmon. Their children are David Stephen, Virginia Frances, and Julia Mrie Ross. Betty Josephine Ross, husband Harold Ray and children Daniel Glenn Ray, Karen Joe Ray and Dean Ross Ray. Martha Ruth Ross, husband LeRoy Gregory and children Elaine Gregory and Linda Kay Gregory. Marian Ross, husband Melvin Pair and children Marylou Jean Pair, Sandy Machille Pair and Chris Pair. Bobbie Marian Ross, husband Bobby Dickens, children Charles Marion Dickens and Richard Vance Dickens.

Landrum Beatty Ross — See Section for him.

Columbus Patterson Ross, who changed his name to Charles Ross, born March 11, 1872, died March 1936 in Grantwood, New Jersey. He was first married to Elizabeth M. Baker on June 18, 1902. No issue. Second marriage was to Eva Blanch Tilton. They had one son, Charles Ross.

Laurynn Ross was born October 18, 1874 and died November 14, 1874.

John Latham Ross, born November 26, 1876, died March 27, 1954 in York, South Carolina. On November 3, 1894 his first marriage was to Missouri Green. She was born September 21, 1878 and she died June 12, 1979, over a hundred years of age. They were divorced. The names of his second wife and children are unknown. John Latham and Missouri Green Ross were parents of six sons and eight daughters; Patterson Carl Ross married Grace Holland, daughter died as a child; Raymond Miller Ross married Bertha Ware; Infant daughter, Margaret Olar Ross married Ambrose Grigg; John Latham Ross, Jr. married Lonnie Mae Lovelace; Nannie Lee Ross married Melvin Clyde Lovelace; Ginelie Ross married Hillard Thrift; Josephine Ross married Jasper Grigg; Lawrence Ross married Ruby Camp; infant daughter; Clyde Marion Ross married Bertha Wilson; and J. Fred Ross.

Mary James Ross, born December 13, 1879, five and half months after the death of her father. She died 1967 in Akron, Ohio, at the age of 88. Her marriage in Grover, South Carolina was to John R. Hamrick on September 23, 1898. They were parents of one son and two daughters, Louis Pless Hamrick who was killed in an automobile accident at the age of 32, Lucille and Rae Hamrick. No issue of these three.

Sources: Family records

— Mrs. Grady Ross

LANDRUM BEATTY ROSS 953

Landrum Beatty Ross (James, Osbourn, Moses) was born November 29, 1869 in Cleveland County and died April 20, 1952 in Union Mills, Rutherford County, North Carolina. He is buried in the Baptist Church Cemetery, Union Mills. His first marriage was to Amanda Ola Shuford on February 8, 1891. She was the daughter of John Jacob and Maggie (Margaret) Rippey Shuford. Ola Shuford Ross was born November 8, 1870 in Cleveland County and died September 15, 1929 in Charlotte. She is buried in the New Hope Baptist Church Cemetery at Earl. Landrum's second marriage on December 31, 1935 was to Enza Elizabeth Smart of Union Mills, Rutherford County, North Carolina. They had no children.

Landrum was born at a particularly bad time for the South, just four years after the close of the War Between the States. The South was devastated, with no Marshall plan to help, no seed to plant, no animals to work the farm and, the Carpetbaggers running rampant all over this once proud and beautiful land. Never in the history of this country has a nation, as was the South which was in its Constitutional right to secede from the Union, been as mistreated and abused as was the South by the United States government. This government has furnished money, arms, medicine, grain, and the best of technology to every nation which has been conquered by the United States and some of our bitterest enemies. They are today, leading world powers. None of that was done for the South. It's citizens were raped, mansions and court records burned, and people were left without food or shelter. The male citizens were disenfranchised for ten years. The Reconstruction period was long, hard, and sad. Making bread for the table was a day to day struggle for many. It was in this environment that Landrum was reared. Landrum eked out a living on his mother's farm near Earl for some years. He felt the educational advantages were limited at Earl, so he moved his family to Shelby on December 20, 1906, in order to give his children a better chance at an education in the public schools. He bought their house at 405 North Washington Street from Ike Kendall for $925.00.

Ola and Landrum Ross were parents of seven sons and two daughters: Infant son. Robert Marion Ross, whose wife was Ray Putnam, daughter of Marion and Margaret Anthony Putnam of Shelby. They had two sons, Robert Marion Ross, Jr. and William Putnam Ross. Marion Jr.'s children are Robert Marion Ross III, Rebecca Gibson Ross Palmer, wife of Gary Palmer and Shirley Ray Ross. William married Lola MacWhirter of Charlotte. Their children are Roger Putnam Ross whose wife is Lynn Chastain of Atlanta, and Joy Edna Ross. James Martin Ross, struck by lightning at age five. Dr. Grady Lee Ross, see section on him. Ori Livingston Ross whose first wife was Nora Cathey and his second wife is Ethel Hartis. No issue. Lola Ross, whose husband is John M. Farrell, no issue. Landrum Heywood Ross, first married to Catherine Armour, divorced and second wife is Louise Hart. They are the parents of two children. Sharon Ross Robertson and Michael Heywood Ross. Sharon is the wife of Richard Roberson. Their children are John Samuel Roberson and Erin Louise Roberson. Margaret Elizabeth Ross who married Huell H. Roseberry. Their three children were Jane, John Huell, and Elizabeth Ann Roseberry. Jane's husband is Landrum Beatty Ross. Arthur Methvin and their children are David, Brian and Laura Jane Methvin. John died a child. Elizabeth's husband is Max Costa. Kermit Solon Ross whose wife was Helen Loretta Kozmor. No issue. Kermit was in the Navy during World War II. He enlisted on December 27, 1943 and was discharged November 6, 1945 at Lido Beach, Long Island, New York.

— Mrs. Grady Ross

Lee Roy and Nina (holding Elizabeth) Bridges Camp

LEE ROY and NINA BRIDGES CAMP ROSS

954

Lee Roy Dixon Ross was born April 16, 1897 to Lizzie Lillian Camp and Rueban C. Ross. His grandparents were Dickson and Sally Sanders Camp and Moses and Mary Ledford Ross. His parents separated when he was three or four and he lived with his Camp grandparents and mother and started using their name.

He grew up on a farm and learned to work at an early age. At age five he took a clock apart and put it back together and it ran. He had a natural knack for fixing any mechanical thing from the smallest watch to an automobile. There was little opportunity for schooling. He had several years and could read and write, but school was boring. If he had had the opportunity to go, he would probably have been a dropout (I'm sure he was a dyslexic such as Einstein). He had a grandson diagnosed as a dyslexic and this is certainly inherited. With a limited education he read everything and especially the Bible. He was certainly a man ahead of his time in thinking, his ability to predict the future and his outlook.

After he left Margrace Mill because of allergies, he earned his living by many ways; he was a mechanic, watch repairman, had a saw mill and sold wood, produce, made molasses and farmed. I remember molasses time, lots of the young people could come to taste and chew on a piece of cane. Most of the neighborhood kids came to our house to ride bicycles or to go places with my daddy in his truck . . . very few people had cars in those days. Several credit him with teaching them to be mechanics and one distinguished gentleman told me that he wished my daddy had been his daddy . . . because my daddy taught him so much and his daddy couldn't do anything. He always had time for a child, and if he was out with his truck selling produce, he always gave every child an apple. He was a victim of cancer of the bone and was such an optimist that he never stopped believing that he would overcome it. On the day he died he wanted me to go to town and get a jar of coffee that he had heard about on TV, but he never got to try it.

Nina Bridges Camp was the daughter of Luther and Minnie Huffstickler Bridges. She was the oldest of twelve children. Her grandparents were: Albert and Martha Kennedy Huffstickler, and William and Sara McGee Bridges. She learned responsibility early and was working in the cotton mill at about age 7. At one time while she was very young her family lived near the old Linwood College in Crowders Mountain and one of the students gave her a very pretty china doll which she kept and we still have. She was born August 22, 1907 and died February 12, 1949. She lived a very short life but a life full of caring for other people. After marriage she never neglected her crippled mother and elderly grandparents. She was a faithful member of Grace Methodist Church in Kings Mountain and made sure her children attended.

Children of this marriage are: Elizabeth Lee, married to William P. Anthony of Kings Mountain, and grandson Neal Ross Anthony.

Reba Frances married first to George Joy; and then Frank Conner who lives in Baltimore, Md. Her children are Kimberly Stein; Donna, Jill and Viola Joy.

Son, Miles Richard Camp, married Mary Herron and was the father of four children: Sara Ann Camp Carpenter, David, Robert and Randy Camp. Richard drowned at Lake Wylie in a boating accident in 1977.

Roy and Nina are buried at Pleasant Hill Baptist Church between Kings Mountain and Shelby, along with many of his relatives.

— Elizabeth Camp Anthony

MOSES ROSS

955A

Moses Ross was born April 16, 1785, and died November 21, 1878 in Cleveland County, North Carolina. His first marriage was to Mary Spurling on September 8, 1808 in the County of Rutherford. His second wife was Rachel Bookout. They were married in Lincoln County on September 18, 1819. The bondsman was John Bookout. This is the only record of Moses in Lincoln County. It seems that he merely went there to get married. Rachel Bookout Ross was born May 15, 1804 and died April 29, 1863.

P.O. Ross, grandson of Moses, and son of Noah Webb Ross, wrote a letter dated August 22, 1942, in which he stated that his "grandfather and two of his brothers came to this country from Ireland and all three settled close to where Ross Grove Church now stands. Grandfather settled permanently but his two brothers moved up in Burke County and from Burke they moved to Virginia and from Virginia they came to Gaffney, South Carolina where they settled permanently. They lived here to be old — as to being in the Revolution War, grandfather and his two brothers came to this country just after the Revolution."

There is a Ross family cemetery on land that Moses owned. It is in the Rock Cut section about three miles north east of Shelby. About thirty years ago, the only tombstone inscriptions legible were: James Ross, Hannah Ross, died May 2, 1829, aged 95 (born 1734) died April 11, 1835, aged 90 (born 1745). Moses Ross, died November 8, 1878, aged 93 years, 7 months, 5 days. Eliza Ross, died March 8, 1871, aged 52 years (born 1819). Elizabeth Nowlin, died January 6, 1848, aged 22 years (born 1826). Elizabeth Propst, died January 5, 1855, aged 69 years (born 1786). Elizabeth Ross, died May 10, 1835, aged 10 years (born 1825). Marion Ross 1813, died August 18, 1833. Laura E. Ross, born 1821, died November 21, 1821. It seemed that there were other graves but the identification markers had disappeared through the years.

On August 18, 1814, James Ross sold to Moses Ross one hundred acres of land on Hickory Creek. On March 9, 1818, Moses bought forty acres from James Rutherford. Moses continued to buy parcels of land and, on May 21, 1850, he and his wife sold 600 acres on the waters of Buffalo to D.H. Bookout.

Moses devised his will on April 4, 1867, leaving his land and entire estate of two hundred and ten acres to his three daughters, Julia, Easter Lettie, and Eliza Ross. The will stated that he had given his sons all he intended them to have. Julia and Eliza were deceased by March 17, 1877, so Moses added a codicil, giving everything to his daughter, Easter Lettie Ross Hardin, wife of Able Hardin. Not having children of their own, they adopted two children, John Calvin Ledford and Mary Alice Ledford who married J. E. Blanton. Their descendants have the Moses Ross Bible. Since so many lineal descendants of Moses Ross are interested in this Bible, it would be a magnanimous gift to the Archives and History Department of the state of North Carolina if the Blanton family would place the Bible there, so that many descendants would have access to it.

Moses and Rachel Bookout Ross were parents of four sons and four daughters:

Osborn Ross — See section for him.

Eliza Ross, born July 7, 1828, died March 8, 1871;

Perry Ross, born November 18, 1831, died in Quinton, Arkansas, Married October 11, 1860 to Margaret L. Morrison.

Moses Calvin Ross, born June 13, 1835, was killed August 29, 1862 in the Second Battle of Manassas, married Mary Crowder July 26, 1855. They were charter members of the Ross Grove Baptist Church.

Easter Lettie Ross, born June 26, 1837, died December 21, 1915. She married Able Hardin December 17, 1871. No issue, but adopted two children mentioned earlier. Easter Lettie Ross Hardin donated fifteen acres of land for the Ross Grove Baptist Church. She was known as a "saintly lady"; Julia Ross, born February 14, 1841, died December 7, 1869; Noah Webb Ross, born October 21, 1843, died March 5, 1907. Married December 25, 1866 to Elizabeth Jane Wilson. The 1870 census shows they had two children, Abner M. Ross, aged 2, and Plato O. Ross, aged 5 months. Noah volunteered in the Confederate States of America forces with his father, brother and nephew in Wilmington, North Carolina; Margaret Caroline Ross, born July 3, 1846, died April 29, 1864.

— Robbie Gillis Ross

MOSES ROSS

955B

Moses Ross was born April 16, 1785 in North Carolina. In 1808 he married Mary Spurling, daughter of John Spurling. There is no record of children born of this union. Mary must have died early, for in 1808 he married Rachel Bookout (b. May 15, 1804 — d. April 29, 1863). They were the parents of eight children:

Osborne (b. May 3, 1823 — d. May 5, 1863) married a first cousin Easter Lettie Bookout. He died of measles at Goldsboro while in the Confederate Army. Their children were: James married Marsella Patterson; Elizabeth married Martin Ledford; John moved to Mississippi, Martin went to Arkansas, Annalizer married John Hord and Moses married Mary Ledford (see additional article).

Elizabeth Ross born 1828 died 1871 and was buried in the Ross Family Cemetery "Rock Cut". She never married.

Perry Ross, born 1831, married Margaret Morrison. After he came home from the Civil War, he and Margaret went to Quitman, Arkansas where he died in 1905. They had no children.

Moses C. Ross, Jr., born 1835, was killed at Manassas, Virginia in 1862 fighting in the Civil War.

Easter Lettie Ross, born 1837 married Able Hardin. They had no children but they adopted two; Alice and ?. Easter Lettie inherited most of her father's estate and deeded some of this land for what is now Ross Grove Baptist Church on Highway 18 outside of Shelby, N.C. Easter Lettie and Able Hardin are buried at Ross Grove Baptist Church Cemetery. Decendents of Moses Ross meet at this Church on the last Sunday in September for a reunion each year. Relatives welcome.

Julia Ann Ross born 1841 died in 1869. She never married. She is also buried at "Rock Cut" family cemetery.

Noah Webb Ross born in 1843 married Elizabeth Jane Wilson; they were parents of eight children: Albert Moses born 1867, married Alice Myers Proctor; Plato O. Ross born 1870, married Julia Camby; George A. Ross born 1872, d. 12-6-1886; Melinda M. J. born 1873, married Sam Camby (father of Plato's wife);

Fannie Laura Ann born 1876, married William Kertis White; C. C. born 1878, (Margaret) married Barry C. Hamrick; Sallie Aline Ellen born 1881, married William Yoder; Noah Wright Ross born 1883, married Georgia ----- and Noah Webb Ross married Nancy Regina Harmon the second time and they were the parents of four children: Reuban Jacob Forest born 1891 married Elizabeth Ramsey; Lettie Ula Belle Ross born 1897 married Tom Ramsey; Ada Maude Matine born 1900 married Cecil Jenkins and John Lester Crowell Ross born 1903 married Mary Lou Houser.

Elizabeth Jane Wilson Ross died 11-27-1886, nine days before her son George died.

Moses Ross was a large land owner in Cleveland County and we believe this was from a land grant. Buried in the Ross Cemetery located across from the present home of the Paul Weathers Family or what remains due to destruction by time, elements and with some help by local farmers who continued to edge closer in, the cemetery has almost disappeared. This is on the old Shelby Airport Road off Highway 18. There is a stone which bears the names of James Ross and Hannah Ross. We believe these to be the parents of Moses Ross born in 1785.

We find many records of James Ross in the late 1700's and early 1800's. He signed many records of the day as well as helped with surveying. He was also a land grant holder. In Moses Ross will he states that at the time it was written he had only 215 acres left in 1876. He was leaving this to Easter Lettie, since he had already divided up all he was giving to his sons.

I have been told that he was a tall man with a long white beard and that he always rode a white horse. There are many descendants throughout Cleveland County as well as surrounding counties and states.

— Elizabeth Camp Anthony

MOSES and MARY LEDFORD ROSS

956

Moses Ross was the son of Osborne and Easter Lettie Bookout Ross. He was born October 30, 1852. He was the grandson of Moses and Rachel Bookout Ross. His father was in the Civil War and died of measles at a Confederate Hospital in Goldsboro, N.C. His mother was the daughter of Levi Bookout, and a first cousin of her husband. He had a brother James who married Marsella Patterson, a sister Elizabeth who married Martin Ledford, brother of Mary Ledford Ross, a brother John who went to Mississippi to live, a brother Martin who went to Arkansas to live with other members of the Ross family who went west; and a sister Annalizer who married John Hord.

Mary Ledford Ross was the daughter of Ellis Ellsbury and Frances Hoyle Ledford. She was the grand-daughter of Lewis and Fanny Thackerton Ledford. Lewis Ledford had a plantation in Cleveland County. His will lists several slaves he owned. Her brothers were Martin who married Elizabeth Ross, Jacob, David, Louis M., John P. and William R. and sister Nancy.

Moses and Mary Ledford Ross Family. Front row L to R: Moses, Mamie and Mary. Back row L to R: Evans, Forrest, James, Florence and Lee. Not pictured — Reuban C.

Moses and Mary L. Ross were charter members of Ross Grove Baptist Church and later joined New Prospect Church where they are buried. Their children were: Florence Ross born in 1871 who married Braum C. Dobynes. Florences' children are: Lois, who married Frank Keslich and moved to West Chester, Pa., Kermit, Tyson and Iberia who married William Kressly and lives in Lee, Florida. Lee Ross was the second child of Moses and Mary and he married Ada Lovelace first and their children were: Grady Lee Ross who married Elsie Putnam and lives in Grover, Carrie Gertrude, who married Walter Randall and lives in Hickory, N.C. After Ada Ross died, Lee married Laura Wright Wallace and their children are: Venry Ross, deceased, Edna, wife of Pinkney Cook of Grover, Fred of New Smyrna Beach, Fla., Mildred who married Oliver Lowman and lives in Hilderbran, N.C. and Hubert.

Son Reuban C. Ross was born in 1877 and married Lizzie Lillian Camp the first time. They had a son Lee Roy Dixon who married Sara Nina Bridges. He grew up in his Grandfather Dixon Camp's home and used the name Camp instead of Ross. After the marriage broke up he went into service during the Spanish-American War and went to Cuba. Later he married Sara Elizabeth Tallent and they had William Howard Ross of Asheville, single, who retired from the National Art Gallery in Washington, D.C. He is a graduate of Julliard School of Music and teaches advanced students. Yates Ross of Daytona Beach, retired from Dan River, Danville, Va. as head chemist, also single. Fred Ross who married Gladys Cook and lives in Yadkin County. Lloyd Ross, retired who lives in Cincinnati, Ohio. Daughters Alda Williams and Grace Hair both live in Orlando, Fla. Reuben married Flossie Burn the third time and preceeded her in death in 1958. He is buried in Moncure, N.C. where he was living at the time.

James Ross was born in 1879 and married Amanda Howell. Their children are: Blanche who married Lawrence W. Hicks, Maurice Ross who married Faye Bell, Millison Ross who married J.D. Ledford, Hershall Ross who married Edna Hoffman, Rev. Sherman Ross who married Irene McNeely, L.J. Ross who married Irene Walker and Clive Ross who married Mary Lou McNeely. Amanda died in 1921 and James died in 1929. Most of their descendants live around Shelby, N.C.

Evand Ross was born March 15, 1881 and married Amanda Conner born June 19, 1881 and was the daughter of one of Shelby's merchants. Their children are: Ethel who married Joe Camp and has five grandsons who are ministers. Nora married Frank Ware. Thelma married Clarence Watterson. Geneva married Demsey Falls. Cilia married Earl Falls. Horace married Maxine Phillips. Louise married Harvey Lee Stroupe. Lawrence married Lois Lovelace. Elzie never married and is now deceased. Bessie married Arthur Anderson. I remember Evan riding around town on his horse. He died in 1953 and Amanda died in 1972. They are buried at Oak Grove Baptist Church in Kings Mountain, N.C.

Forest Ross married Elsie Rumpfelt. They lived on a farm near Kings Creek, South Carolina. Their children are: Stella m. Richard Earnhart; George Ross m. Edith Jones; Margaret m. Elwood Beam; Louise m. Floyd Hopper; Ruth m. J.B. Wallace; Pauline m. Floyd Boheler; Helen m. ; Claude m. ; Nell m. Chambers; Mable m. Howard Allen, and Charles Eugene m. Chris.

Younger child Mammie married Rev. James Self and they had one daughter, Jessie, who married Allen Armstrong, and lives in Bessemer City, N.C.

— Elizabeth Camp Anthony

OSBORN ROSS

957

Osborn Ross, (Moses) was born May 3, 1823 in Cleveland County, which was Rutherford County at that time. He died May 5, 1863 in Goldsboro, North Carolina, where his body is interred. On May 1, 1842 he married Easter Lettie (Hettie) Bookout, daughter of Levi and Prothania Parker Bookout. She was a niece of her husband's mother, Rachel Bookout, Ross, wife of Moses Ross. The inscription on her tombstone at New Prospect Baptist Church Cemetery at Waco, about five miles north east of Shelby, gives the death date as 1892.

Osborn, his son James and two brothers, Moses C. and Noah went to Wilmington and volunteered their services in the Confederate States of America military forces. Another brother, Perry, may have volunteered also. Osborn served in Company F, 56th Regiment, North Carolina Infantry. He enlisted March 2, 1863 and was deceased from measles, two months later in a hospital in Goldsboro. A claim for his effects was filed by E.L. Ross, widow.

The widow and heirs, four sons and two daughters, sold the eighty eight and one half acres which they inherited, to Abna Lattimore Freedman on January 6, 1870.

The sale of land and the 1850 census record for Cleveland County lists the children of Osborn and E.L. Ross as: James Ross, see section for him. Elizabeth Ross, born September 17, 1845, married Martin Ledford, no issue. John Ross, born April 23, 1847. He left Cleveland County in a wagon and settled in Kossuth, Mississippi. Martin Ross, born October 10, 1848. Died in Arkansas, south of Little Rock.

Annialyse or Annalizer Ross, born May 22, 1851. Her husband was John Hord. She died eighteen miles south of Cornith, Mississippi.

Moses C. Ross, born October 20, 1852 and died March 30, 1923. His wife was Mary Dorcus Ledford, daughter of Buck Ledford and sister to the above Martin Ledford. Their children were Florence, Lee, Reuben, James, Evans, Forest Edgar, and Mamie Ross, whose husband was Jim Self. Their daughter was Jessie A. Self.

— Mrs. Grady Ross

ROUNTREE

958

From a Family History of Rowntree and Rountree (1521-1953) by Joseph Gustave Rountree II.

"According to tradition, the first person to have this name was a child who was found under a tree called "Rowan Tree," or mountain ash tree, growing in Yorkshire, England. The child was a boy and was dressed in fine clothing. He was found on the estate of a nobleman who took compassion on the child and raised him as his only son, naming him "Rowantree" after the tree under which he was found. The origin of the child he did not know and never found out. This boy's descendants now run in the thousands, and they live in all parts of the world. I believe they are all sturdy, honest, law-abiding persons, as I have never heard of a bad Rountree or Rowntree.

This boy could possibly come from Norway or Denmark, as the Vikings settled and colonized Yorkshire, England in the 15th and 16th centuries. The Rowan Tree was held sacred by these Norsemen — their conception of the world being a huge Rowan Tree, within whose embrace lay all living things, people, and animals."

A 19th century claim to fame came about when Judge Rutherford Harrison Rountree and his daughter, Elizabeth (Patsy), were among the passengers on a stage running between Mammoth Cave and Cave City, Kentucky when they were robbed, the judge of a very valuable heavy key-winding gold watch that was a present to him from the Governor of Kentucky, and his daughter of a valuable diamond ring and a plain ring with the name "Patsy" engraved inside.

A $500 reward was offered for the arrest and conviction of the robbers. A suspect, J.J. Hunt, was tried and convicted, though Judge Rountree and others had their doubts that this was the robber. Soon afterwards Bob Ford shot and killed Jesse James. When the judge saw his picture in the newspaper, he recognized Jesse James as one of the robbers. Jesse was wearing the watch when he was killed — and his wife the gold ring with "Patsy" engraved inside. The diamond ring was never recovered. At last account Judge Rountree's grandson of Kentucky had the watch. The Governor issued a pardon for J.J. Hunt on May 1, 1882.

The Rountrees of Grover begin their heritage in Emmanuel County Georgia beginning with Andrew Jackson Rountree (1853-1912) and Mary Mozelle Coleman (1857-1912) married in 1876. They had three daughters and eight sons. Their second child, Charles Ross Rountree (b. 3-29-1879 — d. 5-20-1950) married December 21, 1904 to Emma Iris Parrish (b. 4-22-1887 — d. 9-20-1957). They had six sons and two daughters. Their second son, Glenn Ross Rountree (2-26-1911) married Effie Jeanette (Jackie) Harry (10-31-1919) of Grover, North Carolina, Cleveland County, on February 8, 1942. They have children — Jacquitha Eugenia (Mrs. James) Reid, 1942; William Harry (1944); Joel Ross (1949); Charles Glenn (10-11-54 — 10-14-54); and Holly Holmes Rountree (1957). Any of these descendants are eligible for membership in the following: Magna Charta, Order of the First Crusade, Knights of the Garter, Daughters of the Barrons of Runnemedede, Colonial Dames, Sons of the American Revolution, Daughters of the American Revolution, Children of the American Revolution, Hueguenot Society, and other hereditary societies.

There are at least nine Revolutionary Soldiers from which they are descended.

Sources: Media Research Bureau, Washington, D.C., Univ. of Texas Archives.

— Jackie Rountree

Rountree Coat of Arms

FAMILY OF GLENN ROSS ROUNTREE

959

Glenn Ross Rountree, son of Charles Ross and Emma Parrish Rountree, was born in Emmanuel County, Georgia. He grew up there and attended school at Emmanuel County Institute. He spent some time while in his teens playing baseball in Galveston, Texas.

In 1938 he was employed by Atlantic Greyhound Lines in Winston-Salem, N.C.

Jeanette (Jackie) Harry was born in Grover, N.C., Cleveland County. Her parents were Charlie and Effie Holmes Harry. She attended Grover School, and graduated from Blacksburg, S.C. high school after which she attended Woman's College of the University of North Carolina in Greensboro — now UNCG. She graduated in 1940 and began teaching that same year in the Business Department of Clemmons High School in Forsyth County.

Mutual friends and co-workers introduced Glenn and Jackie. They were married and lived in Winston-Salem until January, 1950 at which time they moved to Georgia and lived there until August. It was then they moved home to Jackie's hometown of Grover. Once when they had visited in Grover from Winston-Salem they went down to the 'ole home place. It was love and longing for at first sight for Glenn. So, on July 1, 1958, the 'old home place became the new homeplace for The Rountrees.

Glenn was employed by Minette Mills until 1979 at which time he retired. He also operated a service station in Grover until 1966. He has been caretaker of the Grover Cemetery and is still in charge of the sales of cemetery lots. He is an active member of State Line Lodge #275 (Masonic), and a charter member of The Grover Lions Club. He was a Grover School Board member and has been a Sunday School teacher and Camp Counselor for young people's groups.

While the Shiloh and Dixon Presbyterian Churches shared the same pastors, Glenn joined the Dixon Church to be their choir director. While there he was an elected elder. He presently is a member again of Shiloh Presbyterian Church.

Shortly after he moved to Grover, a nephew, Charlie, 111, renamed Glenn "STUMP" and Stump has stuck with him ever since. His by-line while operating the service station was "Let Stump Do It."

Once an avid sportsman, hunter and fisherman, his ardor is now directed towards the preservation of animal life of all kinds. Thusly, there are houses, gourds and condominiums for all variety of birds all over the yards of the 'ole home place, to say nothing of the yard full of kitty-cats.

If so desired, information about Jackie Rountree may be found in articles throughout the Harry Family articles within The Cleveland County Heritage Book. Jackie was Jeanette, Jane, or Jenny Jack until her older sister, SaDelle, went to N.C.C.W. (North Carolina College for Women) and roomed with a girl named Jackie. When SaDelle came home from college she started calling her little fat sister "Jackie."

G.R. Rountree — 1926

G.R. and Jackie Rountree — 1975

Stump and Jackie Rountree leave four living children and five grandchildren, as of 1982, to be a part of The Heritage of Cleveland County.

Sources: Personal knowledge.

— Jackie Rountree

JEANETTE (JACKIE) HARRY ROUNTREE

960

I didn't know that warm summer day as I walked across my yard to meet a young lady the effect she would have on my life. Her name was Jeanette (Jackie) Harry Rountree. She moved into my life as a friend. Time was to prove she was a friend to many from all walks of life, not just to me.

Friend — A person you can share your everyday thoughts and cares with; to talk to of children; to brag a little of their accomplishments or to share your failures with. One who was there in times of sorrow to give comfort and love. One who remembers your birthday, your children's birthdays and yea all of Grover's birthdays and even beyond. Who writes you when you are away from home to tell you of the joys and happiness, of the sickness and sorrows of home. But just most of all she cares for you.

There are many facts to Jackie's life I learned as the years passed. Her Christian witness in all its ways — Elder in our church, Sunday School Superintendent, Teacher, Bible School Leader, President of Women's Work, Circle Leader and Editor and publisher of our church letter. It goes out to touch more than 300 homes with her love and faith. Her Bible study leadership in our Circle over the years has had a profound effect on the lives of all who have heard her. Jackie is one who lives her Christianity from day to day. It is there in her love and caring for others. Especially in the concern for the elderly. Her visits to the shut-ins, the sick, sorrowing, or just a friend who needs a lift. The person who needs a lift to church, the doctor — whatever, she is there. To me she is the embodiment of the word Christian.

Good citizen? Where do I begin? Red Cross, Bloodmobile, Election Board, Girl Scout Leader, PTA, Woman's Club, which all these things entail; giving of her time and talents. Her interest in Cleveland County Historical Society has been one of encouragement and help from the start. Not only her own work but she has been the legs and wheels for the work done by Mrs. Bessie Harry over the years.

An on-going of loving, caring and serving. I'm glad it has touched mine. My life is richer for having crossed the yard and met a friend one day in May.

— Beatrice Jones Cockrell

CHILDREN OF GLENN ROSS and JEANETTE (JACKIE) HARRY ROUNTREE

961

Glenn and Jackie had five children: Jaquitha Eugenia, William Harry, Joel Ross, Charles Glenn, and Holly Holmes.

Jaquitha was born in Winston-Salem, North Carolina November 25, 1942. She started school there with the "bumper crop" of World War II babies. The schools were so crowded they held two shifts every day. For six weeks she went to school in the morning and for six weeks in the afternoon. For a few months she went to school in Metter, Georgia, and to Grover School second grade through the seventh. She finished Shelby High School in 1961, and was a participant in the Sub-deb activities that same year.

She was in the first freshmen class at St. Andrews Presbyterian College in Laurinburg, North Carolina, and graduated there in 1965. She taught in the Business Department of Red Springs, North Carolina high school for the year 1965-1966.

While in Red Springs she met James Richard Reid, oldest son of Mary and Richard Reid of Pilot Mountain, North Carolina. Jim, a North Carolina Highway Patrolman was transferred to Kings Mountain in 1966. He and Jaquitha were married August 20, 1966, and have made their home in Kings Mountain ever since. They have one daughter, Jenny, and one son, Jon.

Jeanette (Jackie) Harry Rountree in the Garden of Gethsemane

Children of Glenn and Jackie Rountree. L to R: Joel, Holly, William and Jaquitha

Grandchildren of Glenn and Jackie Rountree. L to R: Katy, Jenny, Jon, Laura holding Josh

Jaquitha teaches at Kings Mountain Senior High School. They are members of the Boyce Memorial AR Presbyterian Church in Kings Mountain.

Those who knew him prior to his army days called William Harry Rountree "Bubba." Since then he encourages the name "Bill." He was born in a Gastonia hospital and lived in Grover with his grandparents for his first month. Then he went home to Winston-Salem, N.C. where he lived until he was five years of age. On his fifth birthday (b. 5-21-44) a baby brother, Joel Ross Rountree (b. 5-21-49) joined the family.

After living a few months later in Metter, Georgia the family moved back to the mother's hometown of Grover, N.C. This was the latter part of August. Grover School still had the split session of starting the school year in mid-July, going six weeks and letting out six weeks in September and October for cotton picking. So, Bubba started his school career a month late.

He went to the Grover and Shelby schools, graduating from Shelby High School in 1962. He finished Presbyterian College in Clinton, S.C. as a Second Lieutenant in 1966. He and his wife, Virginia Crutchfield of South Bay, Florida lived in Petersburg, Virginia, Ft. Devens, Massachusetts and in Shelby. They have one daughter, Laura Elizabeth Rountree, who lives with her mother and stepfather, Bill Hall, and young brother, Charlie, in Lakeland, Florida. In 1967-68 Bill spent a year in Vietnam. He has been employed by Minette Mills in Grover and Walhalla, S.C., and with Burlington Mills in Clarksville, Virginia. He is now with Armtex in Gastonia. He and his wife, Jo Ann Foster, and step-daughter, Jaquitha Huskey, live slightly over into the Gaston County line. He is a member and elder in the Shiloh Presbyterian Church.

Joel Ross Rountree was born in Winston-Salem, N.C. and lived there for about eight months at which time his family moved to the country near Metter, Georgia. In August of that same year, 1950, they moved to Grover where Joe, his wife, Patsy, their daughter, Katy, and son, Josh, still live.

Joe attended the Grover and Shelby Schools, graduating from Shelby High in 1967. He graduated from Davidson College as a Second Lieutenant in 1971. He completed his army duties at Fort Sills, Oklahoma and Fort Bragg, N.C. after which he attended Appalachian State University and received a Masters Degree. Subsequently, he has received two more degrees from Gaston College.

Joe and Patsy, daughter of D.L. and Maude Sellers Smith, of the Tryon Community near Kings Mountain, both teach in the Kings Mountain Schools, Joe at the high school (Social Studies), and Patsy (Special Education) at East Elementary. They are members of Shiloh Presbyterian Church where Joe is an elder.

Charles Glenn Rountree was born early in the evening of Monday, October 11, 1954. He lived until early in the morning of Thursday, October 14, 1954.

Holly Holmes Rountree was born Monday morning, September 16, 1957 at Kings Mountain Hospital. She lived in the house in Grover in which her mother and three uncles had been born. When she was nine months old her family moved to the country to the 'ole home place where her great-great-grandfather had lived.

By the time Holly started to school, Grover and Bethware schools had consolidated with Kings Mountain schools. She finished high school there in 1975. She was a Sub-Deb that same year. That fall she entered Appalachian State University from which she graduated in 1979. She has taught (Library Science) at the Lingerfeldt K-6 in Gaston County Schools.

Holly's home is still at the 'ole home place where she still enjoys the rocks, the woods, the creek, the wildlife and many, many kittycats and one dog; and muses over the lives of the many folks whose home had been at the old home place.

Holly makes a "great" aunt for her three nieces and two nephews. She teaches a kindergarten class at Shiloh Presbyterian Church where she is a member.

Source: personal knowledge.

— Jackie Rountree

DAVID WYETH ROYSTER

962

David Wyeth Royster (born December 26, 1893) was the son of Dr. Stephen Sampson and Olive McBrayer Royster. He was married June 26, 1919 to Margaret Hamrick McMurry, born April 20, 1896. To this union were born David Wyeth Royster, Jr., (born June 22, 1923 and Elizabeth Anne Royster (born January 30, 1927).

David Wyeth Royster was born in Mooresboro, North Carolina but moved to Shelby in 1910. After graduating from Shelby High School, he attended the University of North Carolina, graduating from the New Bedford Textile College in Mass.

He and his father built, and operated the Olive Hosiery Mill for over ten years. After selling the mill he joined his father in the Gulf Oil Distributorship of Cleveland and Rutherford Counties. After his father's death, he was President of Royster Gulf Oil, and the Royster Transport Company.

He donated years of service to state and national trucking associations. He was a director of the American Trucking Assoc. and a director of the National Tank Truck Carriers Associations. He served as director and President of the North Carolina Motor Carriers Association.

He was appointed by Governor Dan Moore to the State gasoline and Oil Inspection Board. He actively supported the North Carolina Traffic Safety Control.

Governors Gardner and Hoey appointed him to the North Carolina Railroad Boards. Five other governors successively appointed him to serve approximately thirty years on the State Mental Board of Controls.

In 1962 a two million dollar hospital and administration building was given his name in honor of his service and time spent in planning the new building.

He also served on the boards of trustees for Cleveland Memorial, and Royster Memorial hospitals.

An active Democrat, David Wyeth served for years as chairman of his local precinct and in 1972 he was honored by his party with a big county meeting at which his Carolina classmate, Senator Sam Ervin, Jr., spoke of the special way he had served the Democrats not only the county, but the state and nation.

Governor Luther Hodges appointed him to the North Carolina Tax Study Commission. Governor Moore appointed him to the Governor's Advisory Committee of the Piedmont Crescent.

His other civic activities in the State included a directorship with the North Carolina Citizens Association and a past presidency of the North Carolina Railroads.

Locally he was a former member of the Shelby School Board for about twenty-five years, Director of Shelby Chamber of Commerce, Director of the First National Bank, Vice President of the Cleveland Savings and Loan Association and former member of the Shelby Parks and Recreation Board. He was a charter member of the Kiwanis Club, a Mason, Shriner, member of Gardner Webb's Advisory Board, Trustee of Furman University and served on the Shelby Board of Alderman.

It would be amiss if one failed to mention his love of sports. In high school he was manager of the baseball club. At Carolina "that place next to Heaven" he became a life long fan of all sports and was a member of the Ram's Club many years.

Although he never ran for any State political office, he was extremely interested in politics, education, and liberal in response to charity. A friend to any and everyone.

He died on December 21, 1973 and is buried in Sunset Cemetery. His wife Margaret survives, as well as his son David Royster, Jr., and wife Annabelle Ziegler Royster, his children Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Burgin, Mr. and Mrs. William S. Porter, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Roach and David Royster, III. His daughter, Anne Royster Taylor, and husband James Brock Taylor, Jr. and their children Elizabeth Anne Taylor, Alice Pender Taylor, James Brock Taylor, III and Margaret Royster Taylor.

David Wyeth Royster

Sources: Raleigh News & Observer, Shelby Daily Star, and family history.

— Mrs. James B. Taylor, Jr.

HORACE RALPH ROYSTER

963

Horace Ralph, or Ralph as he was called, was born August 15, 1895 and died in 1969 in Mooresboro, North Carolina. He was the younger son of Doctor Stephen Sampson Royster and Olive Bruce McBrayer. His family moved to Shelby in 1910 after his father sold his pharmacy in Mooresboro, N.C. to become more involved in his increasing medical practice. They moved to a new and beautiful Greek Revival style home at 413 South Lafayette Street in which Ralph lived until his death January 9, 1969. He was a graduate of Shelby High School and continued his education at North Carolina State University. While there he became involved in many activities which are characterized by the following passage taken from his senior yearbook.

"H.R. Royster, Preacher, Hank Roving"
Textile Major, Sec-Treas. Tompkins Textile Society, Mgr., Baseball Team, Sigma Nu

"Yep. Preacher is from Shelby; and the funny part of it is that he admits it, and even revels in it — but some things are beyond human conception. Preacher is a cotton-mill man from the ground up, and even before he finishes his course here he becomes one of the big dogs in a mill, but we hear him tell of the days he spent sweeping the lint out. We believe him to be the best-natured man on the Hill, for he eternally had a good word for everyone, and thus he has gained a great number of friends here, as we are sure he will out in the great world beyond."

After his graduation in 1918 he served in France during World War I and was with the Army of Occupation in Germany. Following his military service Ralph came back to Shelby to work with his family business. He was Treasurer of Royster Oil Company and Vice-President of Royster Transport Company. Earlier he was with the Belmont and Double Shoals Textile Mills. A firm believer in land as an investment, he was associated with his father and brother Wyeth in many real estate projects. He was a member of the First Baptist Church in Shelby and the American Legion.

His personal interest included a vast knowledge of European history, the American Railroad system, raising peacocks, Legion baseball, and his friends at the Shelby Cafe. It was not unusual for him to rise early and eat breakfast, go to work; then go to the Shelby Cafe and eat another breakfast so he could converse with his friends. An avid believer in the medicial properties of lithia water, I can remember making Sunday afternoon drives in his 1948 Chevrolet to Lithia Springs so we could replenish his stock.

In 1924 he married Kathleen Mattison of Greenwood, S.C. They had two children; Stephen Sampson II and Mary Louise Royster. Stephen Sampson II married Betty Lou Sutton and they have three children; Stephen Sampson III, Susan Sutton, and Michael Ralph Royster. Stephen Sampson III married Victoria Ramsey of Jacksonville, Florida in April of 1972. They have two daughters; Laura Allison born June 27, 1977 and Erin Elizabeth born October 27, 1979. Susan and Michael are not married despite the efforts of all their concerned friends.

Mary Louise Royster married James Sartin Wilkins and of this union there are four children: John Douglas, William Sartin, Stephen Ralph, and Franklin Royster Wilkins. Douglas Wilkins married Julia Bell of Asheville, N.C. in August of 1982.

Ralph Royster is buried in the Sunset Cemetery in Shelby, N.C. and his wife Kathleen Mattison Royster who died February 19, 1982 is buried beside him in the family plot.

Sources: Family members, 1918 Agromeck, obituaries.

— Michael R. Royster

HORACE TUCKER ROYSTER, JR.

964

About 1700 Horace Tucker Royster, Jr's great-grandfather William Royster immigrated from Wales, and settled in Jamestown, Virginia. Later on his father, Horace Tucker Royster Sr. came to Granville County, North Carolina to live.

Horace was born September 25, 1838 and grew up near Oxford, N.C. He married Mary Elizabeth Royster (Born 1843) descended from another line of Roysters and Robards who, as colonists came from Wales and settled in Goochland County, Virginia. Later they too, moved to Granville County, N.C.

Horace Jr. in 1872, after receiving an excellent education, followed his father as a railroad builder. His father was President of the old Raleigh and Gaston Railroads, so in the family's tradition Horace Jr. took the contract to build the Western North Carolina Railroad.

The project started with high promise but the cost of such a job had not been fully anticipated by the backers of the road, and payments came more and more slowly as Mr. Royster pushed the line from Hickory over the difficult terrain to Old Fort, N.C.

Then the finances cracked and Royster, who had financed the work himself, where payments came more and more slowly found his personal fortune swept away.

Horace, ashamed to go home and admit failure, came to Shelby with his family. He and his wife taught school. Later on they opened a private boarding school in Rutherford County. They ran this for some years after which Horace became the first Superintendent of Education of Cleveland County.

One of his jobs as Superintendent was to give certificates to those who wished to teach. In the Centennial Issue of the Shelby Star in 1940, W.E. White wrote an article about how the educational system had changed since 1882. There was no well equipped office and no stenographer in the Courthouse. So all prospective teachers went to Horace Royster's home (near Casar) for test. Mr. White said his father wanted to get his certificate, so he rode up to the Royster home. Upon his arrival he found Superintendent Royster and his son Stephen Sampson sawing timber with a cross-cut saw.

David Wyeth and Margaret McMurry Royster on 50th wedding anniversary

Royster Family Christmas — 1981

Mr. Royster stopped his sawing activities and gave him the examination orally. The prospective teacher was asked to spell "separate," "divided" and other difficult words; and then he was given some other "high light" questions that he was expected to teach. For example "name and define the parts of speech" "how would you divide one fraction by another," "name and give the location, and tell some of the products of the different Continents." After listening to Mr. White's answers Superintendent Royster wrote the date and gave him a First Grade Certificate to teach in Cleveland County Schools. Mr. White said Superintendent Royster was a well educated man and people of his type laid the foundation for our wonderful educational system of the present day.

On June 7, 1880 Mary Elizabeth Royster died leaving Horace with five children Stephen Sampson, Janie Robards, Willie Jones, Katherine Helena, and Thomas Satterwhyte Royster. Thomas was a tiny baby and Horace's sister, Mrs. John Jones took him to live with her. Stephen Sampson was about fourteen and his father left him in Casar to help a friend on his farm.

Some time later Horace and his daughters moved to Georgia, and there he was married again. To this union there were three more children, Norman, Herbert and a daughter named Indiana Royster.

Superintendent Royster died May 17, 1908, and is buried beside his wife Mary Elizabeth in the cemetery at the Methodist Episcopal Church South at Pleasant Grove in Rutherford County.

Sources: Wills, deeds, Shelby Daily Star, Family Bible.

— Mrs. D.W. Royster

MARY ELIZABETH ROYSTER

965

Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Royster, born 1843-1880 daughter of Colonel Stephen Sampson and Jane Robards Royster of Granville County, and wife of Horace Tucker Royster, Jr. died in Cleveland County on June 7, 1880, the thirty-seventh year of her age.

She joined the Episcopal Church when only twelve years old, and lived a consistent Christian life, devoted to the ordinances of that church, the one of her infant baptismal vows, and the one in which worshiped her devoted parents, brothers, and sisters. She remained a true and sincere member of the Episcopal Church up to the summer of 1878 when she united herself to the Methodist Episcopal Church, South at Pleasant Grove in Rutherford County, N.C. under the ministry of Brother George F. Pound.

Mary Elizabeth Royster

This change was made after mature thought and much prayers, unsolicited by anyone. (I speak knowingly because at that time I was enjoying the hospitality of her pleasant home, made doubly so by her sprightly and cheerful disposition).

A protracted meeting was in progress at that time and many souls were happily converted to God, many of whom were several young students and boarders of "The Royster School."

After uniting her destiny with the Methodist people she, at all times entered upon the work of her Master with marked zeal, was a constant attendant at the protracted, quarterly, and camp meetings, which she enjoyed to overflowing.

Mrs. Royster had a superior mind, observed with great exactness, and reasoned soundly. Her taste was elegant, and her opinions were wise and useful. She enjoyed the mirthful and elegant, and had a heart answering to every note of joy; but was ever practically wise and meditative. Wherever she went all could safely go. She was a useful member of the church, quick in work, sound in counsel, advancing in spirit. Her influence was felt in all departments. She was a sound woman in the highest sense, tranquil, modest, lovable and attractive. She accomplished much without seeming exertion. She was fully prepared to die. Her mission on earth was complete and quietly and victoriously she yielded up the ghost and slept in the arms of her Saviour.

Her mind was lucid and undisturbed. She noticed minutely every passing affair; directed domestic matters; spoke of her burial. She requested that white alone should be used, it suggesting to her mind purity. Her last days were crowned with constant joy, her death triumphant "Being Borne" — as she avowed to weeping friends, to a loving and devoted, yet heart broken husband and disconsolated children.

She requested that her minister Brother C.A. Gault, should preach her funeral from Matthew 24:44, omitting the adverb "Be ye also ready: for in such an hour as ye think not, the Son of man cometh." using the beautiful and expressive hymn "There is a fountain filled with blood drawn from Immanuel's veins and sinners plunged beneath that flood lose all their guilty stain."

Her funeral, though the notice was short, was attended by many friends among whom were those who had received instructions from her as students to pay their last respects to one they loved.

Mrs. Royster graduated in Warrenton, N.C. in 1862 at the Female Collegiate Institute taught by Graves and Wilcox, afterward receiving a higher polish at the LaFabe School in Richmond, Virginia.

Mrs. Royster leaves a devoted husband and five children, two boys and three girls, to mourn their loss.

After arranging all her earthly affairs, she requested her husband to keep the children with himself that they would be a check in times of temptation, and being raised together would have the greater affection for each other.

She told her sorrowing husband to "Train these children, my husband for God, and let us form an unbroken circle in Heaven."

This tribute was written and given at Mrs. Horace Tucker Royster, Jr.'s funeral by her brother-in-law John Jones-June 1880.

Sources: John Jones letter.

— Mrs. D.W. Royster

STEPHEN SAMPSON ROYSTER

966

Dr. Royster's great-great-great-grandfather, William Royster immigrated from Wales and settled in Jamestown, Virginia in 1700. On his mother's side, his ancestors were said to be of French descent, but as far as it's been traced the first John Robard, colonist, from Wales settled in Goochland County, Virginia in 1710. Both the Roysters and Robards came to Granville County, North Carolina in the early 1700's.

Granny and Grandpa McBraye. Front row L to R: Martha Blanton McBraye, David W. Royster, Jr., David McBraye. Back row L to R: Ollie McBraye Royster, David Wyeth Royster.

When Dr. was five, his father and mother, Horace Royster and Mary Elizabeth Royster, came to Cleveland County (1872). Horace took the contract to build the Western North Carolina railroad. This project failed and Dr.'s parents set up a private boarding school. Later his father became the first Superintendent of Education in Cleveland County.

Dr. believed the way to make money was to work for it. He recalled his own struggles, following his mother's death in 1880. He took a job plowing for $6.00 a month, also any other job he could get regardless of salary.

He studied at Bell's Military Academy. On his twenty-first birthday he took the Master Masons degree, and at the same time he got his pharmacy degree. Prior to that he had worked in a drug store in Shelby paying all the $11.00 per month for board and lodging. He utilized his gift of penmanship at night by copying legal papers in the office of John R. Wells then Clerk of Court, in this way he managed to buy his clothes.

With borrowed money and with Dr. C.O. Champion as his partner he opened a drug store at Mooresboro, North Carolina in which he held interest in for twenty years. He took leave from the drug store to attend the Tennessee Medical College. After his graduation he went to the New York Post Graduate Medical School. So limited was his money he walked the two miles between hospitals to save carfare. Regardless of hardships in starting he had a flourishing medical practice in conjunction with his drug store. He was also surgeon for the Southern Railway for many years.

On December 21, 1892 he married Olive Bruce McBrayer (born August 25, 1872) (died September 23, 1949) daughter of David and Martha Blanton McBrayer. Two sons David Wyeth Royster (born 1893 — died 1973) and Horace Ralph Royster (born 1895 — died 1969) were born in Mooresboro, North Carolina.

Dr. had a heart attack, and gave up active practice. In 1910 he moved to Shelby then a town of 1500 people to enter business. He built the Royster block on southside of Courthouse and later the Belk-Stevens block, the Olive Hosiery Mill which he and his son operated successfully for ten years. Other real estate investments made him one of the largest property owners in the county.

During the ravishing "flu" epidemic (1917) he "pitched-in" and treated over 500 patients (never losing one, he said). He bought the Gulf Oil Distributorship rights for Cleveland and Rutherford Counties in 1926. That was the family's major business interest thereafter. He was never too busy to look at, or buy a piece of property, or help some youngster get a business started when he felt the fellow was willing to work.

He served the City, as alderman, many years on the Board of County Commissioners, being it's chairman at the time of his death. Prior to that he had been recognized as the oldest active Chamber of Commerce President in the nation.

Stephen Sampson Royster

Home of Dr. S.S. and Olive McBrayer Royster on South Washington Street, Shelby

Dr. Royster was instrumental in establishing the Royster Memorial Hospital (1949) at Gardner-Webb College. Now the building is Royster Dormitory. He was chairman of the original board of the Cleveland Memorial (Shelby) Hospital serving almost twenty-five years. He was of invaluable assistance in the business administration. He was a prophet in his concern that the Doctors keep adequate records of their hospitalized patients. Also in buying adequate land for all foreseeable future expansion. Many people remember him best for the beautiful arm full of his radiant roses he carried to patients every Sunday morning. He joined the Oasis Temple in 1910, and when the Shriners and their Ladies met in Shelby (1946) Holt McPherson wrote the following about Dr.

"Don't let those graying hairs on the fringe of that bald head fool you, for under them is a steel-trap brain packed with a fire and enthusiasm that is the envy of men half his age. If you ask him the secret of his long and active life, he'll attribute it to his non-use of liquor, tobacco, coffee — things which he's convinced shorten life — and the fact he refuses to worry — "worry" says this dean of Cleveland County Shriners and Masonry "kills folks."

He died of a heart attack on August 13, 1948. Mrs. Royster died a year later (September 23, 1949). They are both buried in Sunset Cemetery. David Wyeth and wife, Margaret; Ralph and wife, Kathleen; four grandchildren, David, Jr., Anne, Stephen, III, and Mary Louise Royster survive.

Sources: Family records, Shelby Daily Star.

— Mrs. D.W. Royster

THE WYTE ROYSTER FAMILY 967

On what must have been the hottest day of 1939 June 13, the entire community of Fallston came out to see their first church wedding in the newly remodeled Friendship Methodist Protestant Church when Wyte Deston Royster and Nathalee Lackey were married in a ceremony performed by her grandfather Rev. William Dixon Reed of Greensboro. The village school teacher and the most eligible handsome batchelor were indeed the attractions.

The wedding party was mostly a family affair. Wyte had as his best man his brother-in-law, W.J. Wortman from Morganton; his ushers were Dr. Austin Lackey and Dr. Walter Lackey, uncles of the bride, D. S. Hamrick and Ralph Royster, his cousin. The bride's maid-of-honor was her sister Imogene Lackey; bride's maids were Mrs. Austin Lackey and Mrs. Walter Lackey, her aunts; Mrs. W.J. Wortman, the groom's sister, and Cerelda Lackey, the bride's sister. Junior bridesmaids were cousins, Coy and Ellen Peeler. Train bearers were Dale Lackey and Billy Wortman, cousin and nephew.

Wyte was the only son of George Sylvester (born Dec. 8, 1882 — died July 16, 1958) and Hessie Sweezy Royster, (born Dec. 16, 1888 — died July 10, 1968) who was an excellent seamstress. In fact she made all the dresses, except for the Junior attendants, for the wedding party. His father was a life deacon in Fallston Baptist Church and served several terms on the Fallston School Committee. He was sort of a community advisor as neighbors came for his opinion on their problems.

Nathalee Lackey and Wyte Royster Wedding

The bride's father, John Lackey (born Dec. 27, 1891 Died March 29, 1962) was a farmer whose chief relaxation was coon-hunting. He always kept several good hounds. As a young man with the preacher's daughter Buna Brint Reed (born June 11, 1893 — died March 19, 1929) along with his brother Frank who was in love with the sheriff's daughter, Fuschia Lackey. They worked out a plan for the exchange of love letters under the steps of Friendship Church. Both couples were later married and sadly both brides died before their thirty-fifth birthdays within three months of each other.

John later married Pearl Shrum, (born November 14, 1896 — died June 12, 1952) daughter of Lincoln County Commissioner, J.H. Shrum, who proved to be a wonderful mother to his three daughters: Nathalee, Cerelda, and Imogene. John and Pearl always had the best and earliest garden, which they shared with their neighbors and friends.

Wyte (born June 8, 1912) and Nathalee (born Aug. 15, 1912) had three children: Hesta Brint — born Jan. 14, 1942, was graduated cum laude from Wake Forest University; married Bob Anderson, a RPI (now VCU) graduate and a furniture designer. They have three children; Cynthia Diane — born Nov. 29, 1964, Richard Brent — born Dec. 28, 1966, and Susan Elizabeth — born Sept. 22, 19

Hesta is Director of Christian Education for First Presbyterian Church in Martinsville, Va. where they live.

Willia Caroline born June 29, 1944, also a graduate of Wake Forest University, is married to Charles C. Ervin and is executive vice-president of The Ervin Company of Charlotte where they live.

John Sylvester born, Jan. 1, 1951, was graduated from Western Carolina University, married Lorraine Mattero, a Magna cum laude graduate of WCU. They have two children; Bryan Christopher born July 3, 1974 and Laura Lee born July 4, 1977.

John is a Cleveland County Farm Bureau Insurance Agent and lives in Shelby.

Nathalee Royster retired in 1972 after teaching 34 years. Wyte retired in 1975 after 23 yrs. as insurance salesman.

— Nathalee Royster

ROBERT LEE and NINA CABANISS RUDASILL 968

Robert Lee Rudasill was born to E.A. and Lillian Smith Rudasill on November 24, 1903 in Shelby, North Carolina. Robert attended school in Shelby, North Carolina, finishing high school there. He was an outstanding football player. Robert was better known as Bobby.

Robert L. and Nina Cabaniss were married January 13, 1930. They lived out in the county with Nina's parents, Mr. and Mrs. T.P. Cabaniss. Nina helped her father operate a general merchandise store, and Robert drove into Shelby working at Lily Mills Company. He and his father made display cabinets for thread.

On September 13, 1931 Robert Smith Rudasill was born to Robert and Nina Rudasill. This was the first Rudasill grandson in the E.A. Rudasill family.

Robert Smith Rudasill married Betty Ann Essery of San Antonio, Texas on January 7, 1955. They have two lovely daughters; Audrey Gale Rudasill and Peggy Ann Rudasill. Audrey Gale Rudasill married Paul Jensen of Salt Lake City, Utah, December 30, 1981.

A daughter, Ora Belle Rudasill was born to Robert Lee and Nina Rudasill on December 27, 1932. Ora Belle Rudasill married Glen Trivett September 2, 1956. They have two sons, Victor Glen Trivett, born April 29, 1957. Victor Trivett married Debra Davis and they have two sons, Shawn and Jet Trivett. Bryan Lee Trivett was born May 12, 1959.

Another daughter, Barbara Ann Rudasill was born to Robert L. and Nina Rudasill on September 10, 1934. Barbara Ann Rudasill married Gene Benjamin Blanton on August 7, 1955. They have three children; Reuben Benjamin Blanton, born January 7, 1961, Byron Rudasill Blanton, born December 8, 1962 and Nina Lynn Blanton, born September 10, 1967.

Thomas Michael Rudasill was born September 15, 1938 to Robert Lee and Nina Rudasill and he died January 7, 1939.

Robert Lee Rudasill spent a lot of time helping the alcoholic. He carried them to A.A. meetings in and around Shelby. He also carried numbers of men and women to Hebron Colony and Grace Home, Inc. at Boone, North Carolina, where they were taught Bible, helping them to get their lives straightened out. At Robert Rudasill's death, June 5, 1973 there was a beautiful organ placed in the Chapel at Hebron Colony as a memorial to him. Robert Lee and Nina Cabaniss Rudasill were members of Zion Baptist Church.

Nina Cabaniss Rudasill worked in the Cleveland County Tax Listing Office for twenty years. After Robert's death she went to work at Grace Home in Boone, North Carolina, as a Counselor.

Sources: Family Bible.

— Nina C. Rudasill

THE SCHENCK FAMILY

969

The history of the Schenck family in Cleveland County, N.C., begins with Henry Schenck who resided at Garner's (Gardner's) Ford in upper Cleveland County.

Henry Schenck was a direct descendant of one Michael Schenck whose ancestors were Swiss Mennonites who, due to religious persecution, had settled in the Palatinate section of Germany. The German name "Schenck" which the family pronounces "Shank" is translated in English as "cupbearer": the officer of the royal household who served the wine to the king.

The immigrant Michael Schenck settled in Lancaster County, Pennsylvania, in the early 1700's about ten miles from the Susquehanna River. The grandson of Michael Schenck, also named Michael, was born February 15, 1771, and moved from Lancaster County, Pa., to Lincoln County, N.C., about the year 1790. A merchant and trader, he established the first cotton factory south of the Potomac about 1813, thus beginning a tradition of involvement with textiles by the Schenck family that continues until today. This Michael Schenck married Barbara Warlick, May 11, 1801 and in 1816 became partners in the Schenck-Warlick Mill with her brother, Absalom Warlick.

Michael Schenck died in Lincoln County, N.C., March 6, 1849.

Henry Schenck of Cleveland County, N.C. was the oldest son of Michael Schenck and Barbara Warlick. He was born July 1, 1802. "He married Sarah Ramsour and he resided at Garner's Ford in what was then Rutherford County until his death. He was a very successful merchant and farmer and accumulated a good estate for that locality." He was a devoted member of the Methodist Church. He had but one child, Henry Franklin Schenck.

Henry Franklin Schenck was born at Garner's Ford, November 29, 1835. He attended school at Cokesbury, S.C. and at Shelby, N.C. At the age of eighteen he was a merchant in Catawba County, and in the following year was chosen colonel of a North Carolina militia regiment. This military rank he held when the War of the Secession began and after raising a company in Cleveland County, which became Company F of the Fifty-Sixth North Carolina Regiment, he was commissioned its captain May 16, 1862, was promoted to major July 31 of the same year, and served until illness (tuberculosis) obliged him to retire September 1, 1863.

During the early years of the reconstruction era Major Schenck worked his farm and conducted a small mercantile business in Cleveland County, and later he established a flour mill and cotton gin. The old grist mill site he owned was in No. 9 township of Cleveland County, located on Knob Creek, about half a mile from the junction of that creek with First Broad River. The water power was utilized for the operation of the crude equipment of a cotton mill, which began operation in 1873, and the mill village that grew up around it was for years known as "Cleveland Mills."

In 1888, a new factory was built about two miles south of the older mill on the First Broad River. At the same site, Major Schenck, as he was respectfully known, or more affectionately, "the Major," also established and named the town of Lawndale.

Over an expanding industry Major Schenck maintained his careful supervision until his death. A successful industrialist, he likewise exerted his influence in public affairs. He was elected a member of the State Legislature in 1886. For eight years he was moderator of the Kings Mountain Baptist Association. He was a Mason and belonged to the United Confederate Veterans. He also is credited with building the first summer home in Blowing Rock, N.C., now a resort.

Major Henry Franklin Schenck married Lucretia Lattimore, member of a prominent Cleveland County family. Her great-grandfather, John Lattimore, was one of the earliest settlers of the county and was one of the rugged mountain men who defeated the British and Tories in the battle of Kings Mountain, where he was wounded in the thigh. He carried a British bullet the rest of his life.

Major Schenck died in 1915 having sired the following children: John Franklin, Minnie and Maggie.

Sources: The Living Past of Cleveland County by Lee B. Weathers; Family records; Oral history; Honorable David Schenck, Historical Sketch of the Schenck and Bevens Families, (Greensboro, N.C., 1884), p. 20.

— Sandra S. Dedmon

Remember . . .

Articles
Are Indexed
By
Article Numbers
. . . Not By
Page
Number

JOHN FRANKLIN SCHENCK

970

John Franklin Schenck, son of Major H.F. Schenck and Lucretia Lattimore was born at Lawndale, N.C., April 17, 1865.

From early student days at Bell's preparatory school in Kings Mountain, through attendance in institutions of higher learning, John Schenck displayed exceptional aptitude in literary studies and in oratory. Among his scholastic attainments was the winning of a medal for literary excellence upon graduation from Wake Forest College in 1884, and the award of the Mangum medal for oratory from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill where he graduated two years later with the degree of Bachelor of Philosophy. Passing the state examination in law, he was admitted to the bar, practicing in Shelby and Durham, N.C. for two years.

Mr. Schenck returned to textiles to become associated with his father in 1890 in the management of the Cleveland Cotton Mills, at Lawndale, a corporate name later changed to Cleveland Mill and Power Company. Upon the Major Schenck's death in 1915, John F. Schenck became President of this mill and of another mill, Lily Mills Company, of Shelby, an added family enterprise organized in 1903, and named for his wife, Lily Moore.

Enjoying an exceptionally fine labor-management relationship, a particular contribution on the part of Mr. Schenck and his associates was in supplying high school facilities to the areas of the mills at a time when few of these schools were in operation anywhere in the state.

John Schenck, in association with his father, Major H.F. Schenck, built the narrow gauge railroad known as the Lawndale Dummy which carried Cleveland Mills products, and later, passengers, between Lawndale and Shelby. The railroad was a particular item of affection for Major Schenck and his grandchildren.

John Schenck, a man of strong conviction and inventiveness, is credited with several patents relating to the textile industry. He also organized the Lawndale Telephone Company, the first such service in the county and was Vice President of the First National Bank and the Union Trust Company of Shelby. He found himself antagonistic at most points to the policy and programs of President Roosevelt's "new deal." He was an active member of the Baptist church, a Knight Templar Mason and a Shriner.

On April 30, 1891, John Schenck married Lily Moore, daughter of Sam and Lydia (Crouch) Moore. Sam Moore was a prominent Texas rancher and landowner credited with establishing the town of Moulton, Texas, where he reared his family and conducted his business.

Lydia Crouch Moore was a descendant of the Winters family known in Texas history for their participation in the Battle of San Jacinto, a battle for Texas independence.

Mr. and Mrs. Schenck had four sons: John Franklin, Jr., Hal Emerson, Samuel Moore and Jean Winter.

The following are descendants of these four sons.

John F., Jr. married Evelyn Pyle and their children are: John F., III, born July 20, 1921, married Betsy Roberts, (Children: John F., IV, Susan, Randolph, Evelyn, James).

Newlin Pyle, born August 16, 1927, married Rachel Ann Spangler, October 1, 1949, (children: Hal Emerson, born August 17, 1951; Mark Benjamin, born August 29, 1954; Ann Leslie, born April 9, 1957).

Michael, born April 5, 1933, married Joanne Scott Gaston, September 1961, (children: Michael, born May 12, 1963; Ann Margaret, born August 10, 1964; Catherine Scott, born May 20, 1966).

Samuel Moore married Charlotte Ansley Wilkins, July 2, 1923. Their children are: Ansley Moore, born January 16, 1928, married John Clinton Newton, Jr., December 22, 1947, (children: John Clinton, III, born December 6, 1949; Charlotte Ansley Schenck, born October 11, 1952; Robert Schenck, born October 6, 1957).

Samuel Moore, Jr., born June 22, 1929.

Jean Winter married Corinne Crowell, September 12, 1922. Their child is: Sandra Moore, born June 4, 1946, married Richard Kendrick Dedmon, January 25, 1975, (child: Susannah Schenck, born May 2, 1979).

Hal Emerson married Adele Masterman and died leaving no heirs.

Sources: The Living Past of Cleveland County by Lee B. Weathers; Family records; Oral history; James R. Young, Textile Leaders of the South (Anderson, S.C., 1963), p. 177.

— Sandra S. Dedmon

JEAN WINTER SCHENCK

971

Jean Winter Schenck, youngest child of John Franklin and Lily Moore Schenck, was born in Lawndale, N.C., April 27, 1897.

He was educated at Piedmont School in Lawndale, Georgia Military Academy (now Woodward Academy) and Georgia Institute of Technology, where he was a member of Sigma Nu Fraternity.

Following in the traditions of the Schenck family and at his father's request, Jean Schenck left Georgia Tech. to become Secretary-Treasurer of Lily Mills Company, established in 1905 and named for his mother. He later became President and in 1966, Chairman of the Board of Lily Mills. He remained active in this company all of his life. He was instrumental in organizing thread organizations in Cuba, Dominican Republic and other foreign countries. He also served on the Board of Directors of Continental Manufacturing Corporation in Manila, Philippines.

Jean Winter Schenck

Mr. Schenck was on the Board of Directors of Belding-Hemingway Company and a Director of the Thread Institute of America. He served on the Board of Trustees of Brevard College and on the Board of Directors of the Children's Home Society of North Carolina. He was a Director of First National Bank of Shelby, N.C.

Mr. Schenck was a member and former President of Shelby Rotary Club and Shelby Chamber of Commerce. He was also a member of the Newcomen Society in North America and the American Textile Manufacturing Institute.

During World War I, Mr. Schenck served in the U.S. Navy.

Growing up in Lawndale was a fun filled and exciting experience for the young Jean Schenck and his three older brothers. Some of his fond recollections were of riding the "Lawndale Dummy", the train built by his father and grandfather, visits from Texas relatives and the two-day horse buggy trips to Blowing Rock, N.C., where he often spent his summers.

The John Schenck home was often filled with friends, business associates and relatives. Lily Schenck, with the able assistance of her beloved housekeeper, Miss Lucy Oates, was a gracious hostess.

On September 12, 1922, Jean Schenck married Miss Corinne Crowell of Lincolnton, N.C., the daughter of a prominent surgeon, Dr. Lester A. Crowell and Mary Jane Crowell. Miss Crowell was a graduate of Brenau College.

For a time after their marriage Mr. and Mrs. Schenck boarded with Miss Mattie Blanton in Shelby, N.C., where they joined Central Methodist Church. They later built a home in Cleveland Springs next door to his brother, Dr. Sam Schenck.

As in his father's home, this house was often filled with friends, relatives and business associates. As active members of Central Methodist Church, Mr. and Mrs. Schenck for many years entertained that church's pastors.

The Schencks also had a summer home in Blowing Rock, N.C., and had many happy times there, particularly with their daughter, Sandra Moore Schenck.

Mr. Schenck was a lover of the out-of-doors and enjoyed golf, bird hunting and training his dogs. With his typical good nature and sense of humor he trained the dogs to say a blessing before their meals and to flip a biscuit off their noses.

He also enjoyed horse-back riding and showing with his daughter.

In 1970, Mr. and Mrs. Schenck built a home on what was to become Moss Lake and at the edge of his Fairview Farms where he raised Shorthorn Cattle as a hobby.

Jean Winter Schenck died July 26, 1978 at the age of 81.

At this writing, Mrs. Schenck still resides at Fairview Farms; she has one grandchild, Susannah Schenck Dedmon, daughter of Sandra Schenck and Richard Kendrick Dedmon.

Sources: Family records, Oral history.

— Sandra S. Dedmon

J.V. (JACK) and RUTH R. SCHWEPPE FAMILY

972

John Vogeley Schweppe was born October 8, 1916, Tarentum, Pennsylvania, the only son of Walter and Ethel Vogeley Schweppe. A 1907 graduate of the University of Pittsburgh, Walter Schweppe, was the youngest of eight children born to Dietrick and Bernadine Schweppe, who had immigrated to the United States from Essen, Germany. Upon retirement as Works Manager for Franklin Glass, Walter Schweppe served two terms as Mayor of Butler, Pennsylvania. Ethel Schweppe was the only child of Washington Roebling and Mary Flick Vogeley and was a graduate of a private woman's college near Washington, D.C. Mary Schweppe Hoffman, wife of Paul B. Hoffman, was the second born and only daughter of Walter and Ethel Schweppe.

Jack Schweppe was raised in Butler, Pennsylvania, and in 1936 graduated from Washington and Jefferson College. While in college, he was a scholarship basketball player and a member of Phi Gamma Delta Fraternity. Among various assignments as a Navy Officer during World War II, he served as Commanding Officer of a rocket detachment in Brunswick, Maine and was discharged as a Lieutenant Commander.

In 1946, Jack Schweppe joined PPG Industries (formerly Pittsburgh Plate & Glass Company) as a Foreman in the Creighton Glass Manufacturing Plant. In 1951, with the fiber glass industry then in its infancy, he became the first Production Superintendent of the first PPG Fiber Glass Plant located in Shelbyville, Indiana, and later served as Plant Manager of the Shelbyville Plant. During the years in Indiana from 1952 through 1958, he was active in Church and civic affairs. Significantly, he was a third generation elder in the Presbyterian Church with service to the Lord on the sessions of the three Churches to which he belonged during his adult life.

John V. Schweppe, Jr. Family: Front: Left to Right. David II, John III, Mark Linderman. Back: John Jr. and Stuart.

In 1959, the Schweppe family moved to Shelby, North Carolina, where he held the position as the first Plant Manager of PPG's Shelby Fiber Glass Plant until 1975 when he was promoted to a staff position at corporate headquarters in Pittsburgh. The assignment in Pittsburgh involved international travel with responsibility for site selection for future plants and licensing of PPG fiber glass technology. With six patents in fiber glass manufacturing technology and a career spanning the birth and growth of fiber glass manufacturing, he was widely regarded as a pioneer of the industry.

During his years in Shelby, Jack Schweppe was again active in the church and civic work both on the local and state levels. He was instrumental in forming a Boy's Club of America Chapter in Indiana and once again in Shelby. On the state level, he served as a charter trustee for the North Carolina School of Science and Mathematics; Chairman of the Duke University Medical Center Advisory Board and President of the North Carolina Citizens Association. After an overwhelming struggle waged with the same courage and spirit reflected throughout his life, Jack Schweppe died at Duke University Medical Center on June 8, 1981. His body rests alongside that of his son, David, in the City of Shelby, Sunset Cemetery.

Ruth and Jack Schweppe were married on September 19, 1942, in Butler, Pennsylvania. Ruth Elizabeth Ruby, born April 10, 1921, was the youngest child and third daughter of Willis McClain and Della Weigle Ruby. Willis Ruby, one of twelve children, was the son of Harrison and Abigail Graham Ruby and a descendant of Patrick Graham, a native of Ireland, first settler of Jefferson Township, Butler County, Pennsylvania, and veteran of the American Revolution. Prior to his death in 1955, Willis Ruby was a successful independent oil producer whose oil lease holdings lie under what is now Lake Morrairie. Also born to Willis and Della Ruby were Madeline R. Bixler, Willis Eugene Ruby, and Lois R. Oesterling. Ruth Schweppe, born in Prospect, Pennsylvania, was raised in Butler and attended Beaver College, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.

Four children were born to Ruth and Jack Schweppe. John Vogeley, Jr., was born June 26, 1946, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. A graduate of Washington and Jefferson College and University of North Carolina School of Law, he and Frances Stuart Macomson were married in Shelby on August 17, 1968, and are parents of three sons, David McClain, II, born October 29, 1971; John Vogeley, III, born October 22, 1974; and Mark Lindeman, born November 9, 1977.

David McClain (September 1, 1949 — January 20, 1967), was born in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. An outstanding student, athlete, and musician, he was killed in an automobile accident and the tennis stadium at Shelby High School was built and named in his memory.

Willis Ruby (Bill), born April 20, 1954, in Shelbyville, Indiana. He served with distinction as President of the Shelby High School Student Body during a year of unrest and was graduated from Duke University. He and Martha Moore Rankin were married in Concord, North Carolina, on January 7, 1978.

The fourth child and only daughter, Sara Ruth (Sally) was born in Shelbyville, Indiana, on September 3, 1955. After becoming a state ranked number one junior tennis player, she earned a scholarship to Florida State University, where she graduated with a degree in music therapy. Following her marriage to Charles James DePaolo, III, on September 2, 1978, she became a successful teaching tennis professional.

Source: Family Bible, State and National Magazines.

— John V. Schweppe, Jr.

PERMELIA ANN ESTHER GREEN'S SCRUGGS ANCESTORS

973

Permelia Ann Green's family was Samuel Hawkins; Selena Hawkins married Richard Scruggs; Elizabeth Jane Scruggs married Reuben Hamrick Green. Permelia Ann Esther Green married Andrew Jackson Green. To this union were born six girls and one boy.

Sources: family records.

— Ollie Connie Green

BASIL D. and MARTHA J. MARTIN SELF

974

Basil D. Self (1811-1866) was born in Lincoln County, now Cleveland County, the son of John Self who was born in Va.

His first marriage was to Anna Lackey (1815-1848) a daughter of James Lackey and Jane Winters Lackey. Their children were: Cephas Self (b. about 1839), Zacheus Self (b. about 1842), Effie Self (b. about 1843) and an infant (1848) unnamed. Just a few days later, Anna died also.

Basil's second marriage was to Martha J. Martin (1833-1909) a daughter of Ruben Martin. Their three children were: Solomon Sylvester, Andrew J., and Sarah Elizabeth.

Solomon S. (1861-1919), was born in Lincoln County, now Cleveland. He was a farmer, school teacher, and a grave digger. He was well known for his accuracy in digging graves. On 24 Jan. 1892, he married Lillie Margaret Navy (1872-1924) a daughter of Peter Cornish Navy and LaRue Hamy Chapman.

Solomon and Lillie were members of Kadesh Methodist Church in the Belwood community and both are buried in the church cemetery. They had eleven children: Ruffin J. (1893-1898); Mittie Lee (1895-1975) who married Evans S. Weaver; Nelson Greer (1897-1976) who married Docia May Wright; Sibbie Frances (1898-1945), married Everette G. Alexander; Ollie Mae (1900-1981), married Rufus L. Dedmon; Clarence Madison (1902-1960), married Celia Champion; Sarah Jane (b. 1903) married John Fibra Poston; Claude Daniel (1904-1957), married Kathryn S.; Roy Houser (1905-1966) married Louise Murrell; Hester Etter (b. 1907) married Louie W. Sellers; and Bertha Lou (b. 1910) married Harvey E. Crawley.

Andrew J. Self (b. about 1866) married Louise Wright and they had five children: Clemmie Alonzo (1888-1973), married Annie Elizabeth Beattie; Henry Clayton (b. 1896), married Luzena Willis; Ray (b. 1898) married Mildred Huss; Odus Dixon (b. 1901) married Selma Dellinger. A daughter died as a young child.

Sarah Elizabeth (Lizzie) (1869-1921) married William Warlick (Bill) Dixon (1861-1910) and they had the following children: Henry Warlick Dixon (b. 1885) married Irene Harris; Ruffin Claude Dixon (b. 1886) married Sally Alexander; Martha Adeline Dixon (b. 1888) married Lem Williams; Hattie Susan Dixon (b. 1890) married Lee Boggs; Benjamin Edgar Dixon (b. 1892) married Blanche Philbeck; Thomas Clarence Dixon (b. 1894) married Mattie Blanton; Guy Roscoe Dixon (1895) married Lucy Lutz; George Dewey Dixon (b. 1897) married Creola Self; Clyde Hoyle Dixon (b. 1899) married Velma Houser; Maude Amelia Dixon (1903) married Marcus Simmons Gantt; Marvin Yates Dixon (b. 1905); Paul Dixon (b. 1909 — d. 1909); infants died in 1904, 1908, and 1907. Sarah Elizabeth S. & William Warlick Dixon are buried in Kadesh Methodist church cemetery.

John V. Schweppe Family. Seated left to right: Jack, Ruth, Sara Ruth (Sally), Willis Ruby (Bill). Standing: John Jr. and David McClain.

Sources: Personal knowledge, Cleveland County Cemetery survey.

— Mae Self Cabaniss

NELSON GREER SELF

975

Nelson Greer Self (b. 25 Jan 1785 d. 15 Mar 1976), was born in the northern section of Cleveland County. The third child of Solomon Sylvester Self (b. 1861 — d. 1919) and Lillie Margaret Navy (b. 1872 — d. 1924). Nelson's grandparents were: Basil D. Self (b. 1811 — d. 1866) and Martha J. Martin (b. 1833 — d. 1909). His great-great-grandparents were John Self, born about 1777 in Virginia; and Larue Hamy Chapman Navy and Peter Cornish Navy, both of Burke County, NC. The great-great-grandparents were Joshua Chapman and Sallie Tallent Chapman and James Navy (1791-1849) and Martha Rayfield Thurman (d. 1865).

On December 21, 1916, he married Docia May Wright (b. 22 Jun 1895 — d. 20 Feb. 1943) at the home of her parents; James Berry Wright (b. 1845 — d. 1933) and Eliza Ann Eskridge, (b. 1858 — d. 1948). Her grandparents were James Wright, born in Virginia about 1817 and Elizabeth Newton Wright, born also in Virginia about 1817; and Richard Calvin Eskridge (b. 1827 — d. 1857) and Margaret (Peggy) Hendrick. The great-great-grandparents were: William L. Eskridge and Roxanna Bailey Eskridge; William (Bill) Hendrick who married Charity Love, both of Virginia.

Nelson's second wife was Florence A. Epley. Nelson was a building contractor and farmer. His farm was part of the O. Max Gardner farm four miles east of Shelby, known as the "More Per Acre" farm. The Sterchi building at the corner of Lafayette St. and Marion St. in Shelby and the Shelby Daily Star Office building on E. Warren St. are two of the buildings he helped construct. There are numerous homes throughout the county he built.

Docia's expertise was in sewing and home-making.

When they moved in to the Elizabeth Church community, they joined Elizabeth church and became active members. Both are buried in the church cemetery.

Their six children are: Coleman Franklin, J.B. Buford Lee, Sarah Louise Self Norman, Kathleen Self Wolfe, and Mableen Self Cabaniss.

Coleman, (b. 1917) married Laura Mae Borders (b. 1916), the daughter of Mike L. & Donna Cline Borders. A son, Ronald Coleman, (b. 1942) married Jeanette Vess (divorced) and had two sons: Barry Coleman Self, (b. 1966) and Ronald Coleman Self (b. 1968). Coleman and Laura's daughter was Donna Kay Self (b. 1944) and on 22 May, 1965, she married Richard Darnell Reynolds of Charlotte, NC. Their daughter is Tracey Darnell Reynolds (b. 1967).

J.B., (b. 1918) married Willie C. Willis (b. 1917), the daughter of Clem and Emma Newton Willis. Their first daughter was Marcie Jane (b. 1940) who married Dr. Thomas B. Nolan (d. 1978). The next child was Nancy Eloise (b. 1942) and married John B. Waldrop, Jr., of Greenville, SC. Elizabeth Jane Waldrop

(b. 1964) and William Jason Waldrop (b. 1969) are their children. J.B., Jr. (b. 1951), married Cathy Elaine Bailey (b. 1951) of Greensboro, NC. Their children are: Joseph Bradley Self (b. 1976) and Kelly Elaine Self (b. 1979).

Buford Lee Self, (b. 1920) married Sara Elizabeth Borders (b. 1923) the daughter of Herbert & Laura Falls Borders. Gail Elizabeth (b. 1948) was their first child. She married John Daniel Dove, Jr. (b. 1948). John Daniel (Jay) Dove, III, (b. 1969) was their firstborn and his sister, Laura Kay Dove was born 1972. Buford Lee, Jr. (b. 1950) married Betty Jean Patterson and they have two sons: Buford Lee III, (b. 1978) and Robert Logan (b. 1981). Carolyn Dianne Self (b. 1954) married Robert Boyd Tate and have a son: Jackson Boyd Tate, b. 1981. Wanda Lynn Self, (b. 1957) is single and Kimberly Ann Self (b. 1962) is unmarried also.

Sara Louise Self (b. 1922) married James Alexander Norman (b. 1925) a son of D.B. & Ida May Harrill Norman: Their only son is Michael James Norman (b. 1945) and he married Connie Diane Hunt (b. 1947). Timothy Wayne Norman (b. 1969) and James Richard Norman (b. 1970) are their sons.

Kathleen Self, (b. 1928) married James Oliver Wolfe (b. 1925), a son of J. Lloyd & Jeannette Harmon Wolfe. Three daughters were born to "Kat" & Jim: Deborah Lynn Wolfe, (b. 1951), and she married Jerry Dean Harris (b. 1946) a son of B.J. & Katie Jolly Harris. Debby and Jerry have two children: Jonathon Kirk Harris (b. 1973) and Emily Katharine Harris (b. 1977). Betsy Anne Wolfe (b. 1957) married Joe Darnell (b. 1954) is the son of B.F., Jr., & Mozelle Darnell. Pamela Self Wolfe (b. 1961) is unmarried.

Mableen Self (b. 1928) a twin to Kathleen, married Joe Turner Cabaniss, Jr. (b. 1927), a son of Joe Turner Cabaniss & Gertrude Mae Beam Cabaniss. Mae Kathleen Cabaniss, (b. 1954) married to Richard Graham Merrell (b. 1952) of Hendersonville, N.C. His parents are Graham Franklin & Helen Williams Merrell. They have two children: Emily Kathleen Merrell (b. 1978) and Mark Richard Merrell (b. 1980). Conni Cabaniss (b. 1956) married Dale Edwin Willis (b. 1956) is a son of Edward H. & Margaret Dover Willis. Crystal Cabaniss (b. 1959) is unmarried. Chris Cabaniss (b. 1962) married Linda Faye Garrison (b. 1961) a daughter of Paul David Garrison, Jr., and Nora Frances Thornburg of Lincoln County, N.C.

Sources: Personal knowledge, and family Bible records.

— Mae Self Cabaniss

GEORGE A. and SARAH E. MORROW SELLERS FAMILY

976

George A. Sellers was born March 10, 1833 to Michael and Lydia Sellers, who had nine other children: Nancy Sellers Guyton, Caroline Sellers Blanton, Lydia, Susan, Julia Ann, Mary, Henry, William, and Michael.

They lived in Union County, South Carolina

during the time Henry, William, Michael, and George were in the Confederate Army during the Civil War. Henry and Michael were wounded in 1863 in the Richmond, Virginia area. William was killed near Richmond, and Henry was killed at Petersburg in 1864.

George was in the Confederate Army during the Civil War from 1861-1865. Grandfather George always told that he went through four years of war without a "scratch" because he ran faster than the minie ball. Grandfather, a colorful old fellow, one night while camped near the enemy line, decided to steal the enemy's flag. He was told — "That's impossible." Grandfather came back carrying the enemy's flag.

In another event, grandfather had just a little bit too much "toddy" and an ugly English bulldog had bitten him on the leg. He decided that he would teach the canine a lesson or two in aggression and expediency, so he grabbed the dog up by his ears, and bit him across the nose: I think, the bulldog learned his lessons rather quickly.

On November 1, 1863 he was married to my grandmother, Sarah Elizabeth Morrow, and later moved to the old Dixon School area in Kings Mountain, near the Kings Mountain Battleground. They had six children: Mattie Sellers Wells, Elizabeth Sellers, Susan Sellers Harmon Logan, Lillie Sellers Love, Michael, and William.

Mattie Sellers was born 1869 — died 1941 and was married to John A. Wells in 1889. They had five children born into this union: Vane, Ethel Wells Bookout, George, Michael, and J.K. Wells.

Sarah Elizabeth was born April 1867 and died December 1891.

Lillie Matilda (1879-1956) was married to Lewis Agustus Love.

William Baity (1865-1944), was married to Rosanna Blanton in 1892. Eleven children were born to them: William Ambrose (1898), George Henry (1901), Avalona Sellers Gordon (1893-1970), Lillie Jay McMurry (1894), Agburt (1904), Julia Sellers Smith (1906), Essie Sellers Bennett (1908), Eva Sellers Bolin (1910), Alice Sellers Eubanks (1915), Vera Sellers Bridges (1917), and Jim (1912).

Michael (1872-1917) married Maggie McKenzie (1877-1953) in Austin, Texas. They had eight children: George William (1899-1937), Van Alexander (1900-1964), James Michael (1902-1966), Henry Franklin (1903-1972), Kirk Patrick (1906), Charlie Andrew (1908), Sallie Nettie Sellers Bennett (1910), Logan (1916).

Susan Sellers (1874-1958) was married twice. The first time she married Edward Harmon, and there were three children born into this union: Paul E. Harmon (World War I), Pearl Harmon Love, and Mary Harmon Randall.

She was married in 1904 to John Jackson Logan, my father, and they had five children: Thomas Gaffney (1905), Albert Pinkney (1907), Mattie Logan Ginther (1910), William Bryan (1913-1968), and Lula Logan Hardin (1918).

Mother was a loving, caring person to her family and friends. She was always ready to lend a helping hand to all those in need. Her favorite songs were Amazing Grace and Sweet By and By.

Many members of this family were buried in the Bethlehem; Kings Mountain; Old Shiloh, near Grover; Austin, Texas; and Bethany, York, South Carolina.

Sources: family Bible, personal papers and letters, interviews with family members, and memories.

— Lula Logan Hardin

THE JOHN WESLEY SHEPPARD FAMILY

977

John Wesley Sheppard (1849-1927) was the third son of Samuel and Mary Williams Sheppard and was born in Rockingham County, N.C. His family came to Cleveland County in 1845 via wagon train.

Although his parents were Methodist, he joined Bethlehem Baptist Church when he was a young man and was a charter member of Grover Baptist Church (now First Baptist of Grover).

In 1874 John married Elizabeth Jane Etters (1856-1922), daughter of Henry and Mary Howell Etters. Henry had fought in the Civil War and had lost his right arm at the Battle of Petersburg, Va. He was a farmer and had a large farm east of Grover. Mary Howell was born in the Zion Baptist Church Community north of Shelby and had come to Grover with her family as a child. In addition to Elizabeth, Henry and Mary Etters had two sons; neither of them lived to maturity.

John and Elizabeth got part of Henry Etters' farm and acquired several adjoining tracts as well as his mother's farm on Long Branch. When he married he was working at the gold mines near Kings Mountain. He continued to fire a boiler at the mine for thirty years. He and his family also farmed.

In 1906 they bought a farm from George Hughes. This farm had been previously known as the Westbrook Farm and was located in the Antioch Community in Cherokee County, S.C. They moved there from near Grover in 1907. They continued to live there until their deaths and were buried in Grover Cemetery.

Their children are as follows:

Alsie Ida (1875-1959) married William Frank Randle (1871-1956), son of William and Susan Ross Randle, in 1893. They lived and farmed near the Southern Railway east of Grover. They attended Bethlehem Baptist Church and were buried in the Church Cemetery.

Alex (Sam Henry) (1877-1953) married Maggie Rosana Randle (1873-1950), sister of William Frank Randle (above) in 1896. They farmed in the Grover area and were buried in Grover Cemetery. Alex and Maggie had twelve children.

Charles Henderson (1879-1944) married Leona Roxana Dedmon (1881-1963), daughter of Hezekiah and Roxana Weathers Dedmon, in 1900. They had three children and were buried in Grover Cemetery. "Charlie" and "Rocky" lived between Grover and Kings Mountain where the old Shelby to York road crossed the Southern Railway. He farmed and served as the Constable and Deputy Sheriff of Number Four Township for forty years. After their family grew up they moved to Grover and later to Kings Mountain.

Robert Calvin (1881-1929) never married and was buried in Grover Cemetery.

John Pinkney (1884-1938) married Julia Gertrude Fellers (1882-1980) of Columbia, S.C. John was a conductor for the Southern Railway and died while on duty in Charlotte, N.C. They had no children and were buried in Elmwood Cemetery, Columbia, S.C.

Dock Sigford (1887-1955) married Maggie Leonora Spake (1890-1953), daughter of James S. and Alice Leonora Dedmon Spake of Shelby, in 1912. He was also an employee of the Southern Railway and lived in Greenville, S.C., and Spencer, N.C. After he retired they returned to Shelby to live. They had five children and were buried in Ross Grove Baptist Church Cemetery, Shelby, N.C.

Katie Jane (1889-1961) married John Fulton Stanhope Goforth (1874-1957), son of Preston "Bud" and Mary Elizabeth Anne Ormand Goforth, in 1906. They lived and farmed in York and Cherokee Counties, S.C. until they moved to Grover in the late 1920's. They had twelve children and were buried in Grover Cemetery.

Mattie Sue (b. 1891) married Andrew Jackson Spake (b. 1889), son of William George and Susan Roxanna Irvin Spake of Shelby, on Thanksgiving Day in 1912. They have farmed and reared their family on N.C. Highway 150 northeast of Shelby. Aunt Mattie is the only surviving child of John and Elizabeth Etters Sheppard. They have ten children and have been married for seventy years.

George Carroll (1894-1955) never married. He served in the U.S. Army during World War I. He was a farmer and lived with his nephew Basil Sheppard. He was buried in Grover Cemetery.

Sources: Personal knowledge.

— Charles Edward Sheppard

THE SAMUEL SHEPPARD FAMILY

978

According to my grandfather, Charles Henderson Sheppard, his great-grandfather, William Sheppard of Rockingham County, N.C., immigrated to America from Ireland.

William Sheppard and Sally Oliver were married in Rockingham County on January 17, 1809. Little is known of the family except through census and tax records. The 1820 Federal Census reveals that there were four sons and one daughter at that time. Only two of the sons' are now known: Audie, who went West, and Samuel, who brought his family to Cleveland County. Mrs. A.J. Spake (Mattie Sue Sheppard) told me that her father, John Wesley Sheppard, who was one of Samuel's sons, said that he could remember when his grandfather died, for he was five or six years old. This would mean that William died about 1854.

Samuel Sheppard (1816-1863) and Mary Polly Williams (1823-1883) were married about 1844. While living in Rockingham County, the family grew with the additions of William, James, and the twins, John and Nancy.

Samuel and Mary joined a wagon train heading West in 1854. In southeastern Cleveland County Mary became too ill to continue the trek. They dropped out of the train and camped for some time at the Harmon home, which was near the present location of Claude Harmon's Store between the City of Kings Mountain and Buffalo Creek on US Highway 74.

Family tradition maintains that Samuel and Mary had close relatives who continued with the wagon train and that they had planned to continue their journey the following year. Samuel rented farm land and waited for a year. However, when the appointed time came to travel, they had changed their minds. Mrs. A.J. Spake told me that her father, John related to her that his mother, Mary said, "This is a good place to live. Why not settle here?"

From the time of their arrival until the outbreak of the Civil War, they lived in the El Bethel Community. During these years three more sons were born: Samuel ("Doc"), Cicero, and Thomas.

In 1856 Mary's sister, Elizabeth Williams, came to visit and married a neighbor, B.H. Ware, who was killed while serving in the Confederate Army in 1862.

The eldest son, William, just sixteen years old, joined the Confederate Army and went to war. The family left Cleveland County and moved to York County, S.C. (now Cherokee Co., S.C.) in 1862. They lived on a farm on the south side of Kings Creek which joined the Houser farm and is now a part of the Kings Mountain National Military Park. In January of 1863 Samuel died of brain fever. About ten days later the second son, James, died of the same ailment. Both bodies were returned to El Bethel Methodist Church for burial.

In 1864 Mary bought a farm in Number Four Township on Long Branch and lived there until her death in 1883. Her farm was more recently known as the Kirk Dixon farm and is now a part of Archdale Farms. Mary was buried at El Bethel.

The members of Samuel and Mary Sheppard's family were as follows:

William R. (1845-1902) married Amanda Adeline (Addie) Whisonant (1854-1888), daughter of William and Namina Whisonant, of York County, S.C. He was a member of Co. "G," 4th Reg. N.C. Troops, CSA and was wounded in the War. They had six children. "Addie" and their son Luther were buried in El Bethel Church Cemetery. William was buried at Greenback, N.C. In 1890 he married Dovey June Beam Royster.

James H. (1846-1863) was buried in El Bethel Cemetery.

John Wesley (1849-1927) married Elizabeth Jane Etters (1856-1922), daughter of Henry and Mary Howell Etters of Grover, in 1874. John was a prominent farmer and owned considerable farmland in the Grover area. In 1906 he purchased a farm from George Hughes in Cherokee Co., S.C., and moved there in 1907. They had nine children and were buried in Grover Cemetery.

Nancy Jane (1849-1870) married John Dixon. They were buried in the Sheppard Family plot in El Bethel Cemetery.

Andrew Cicero (1856-1917) married Frances Caroline Etters (1859-1912) in 1881. They lived in Gastonia and were buried there in Hollywood Cemetery. They had eight children.

Samuel G. ("Doc") (1858-1933) married Sarah Roxanna Blackwell (1865-1942). They had four children and were buried in Hollywood Cemetery, Gastonia, N.C.

Thomas O. (1861-1921) married R. Caroline Allen (1853-1918). They had five children and were buried in El Bethel Cemetery.

Sources: Personal knowledge

— Charles Edward Sheppard

THE LESTER WILSON SHORT FAMILY

979

Lester Wilson Short, founder and owner of Short's Boat and Motor Service and Shoco, Inc., came to Shelby, North Carolina, from Hickory, North Carolina, in 1934 to work at Cleveland Cloth Mills. He was born in Burke County, North Carolina, September 19, 1912. His parents were Walter Collie Short and Zepie Clontz Short. His brothers and sisters were Anne (Canipe), Vera Knox, Marshall E., Vernon, Larry, Pauline (Davis), Janelle (Pope), and Billy Joe. Before World War II he was employed by Kester-Groome Furniture Company as a salesman and later manager of their Cherryville store. During the war he served in the Quartermaster Corps as a 1st Sergeant from 1943 to 1945. After the war he traveled as a salesman for Shelby Supply Company before going into business for himself.

He was married November 21, 1936, to Betty Louise Austell (b. May 11, 1918) of Shelby, North Carolina, who was the daughter of Claude Love and Sue Borders Austell. Her brothers and sisters were Gertrude (Crowder), Harry, Max, Claude Love, Jr., James Everett, and Dorothy Bell.

Jerry Allen Short, older son of Lester Wilson Short, was by a former marriage. Jerry was born February 28, 1933. He was married March 30, 1962, to Rose Lambert (b. October 27, 1931) of Nora, Virginia. Their two sons are Taylor Allen Short (b. March 19, 1967) and Gary Franklin Short (b. October 17, 1969). Jerry graduated from Shelby High School, attended Western Carolina College, and graduated from East Carolina University at Greenville, North Carolina. He served in the U.S. Army Air Force during the Korean War. He is employed as a budget and finance coordinator for the U.S. Government at Fort Monroe, Virginia.

Dale Albert Short, son of Lester Wilson Short and Louise Austell Short, was born March 26, 1949. He was a Shelby High School graduate, attended Campbell College, and graduated from Wake Forest University in 1971. He served in the United States Army Reserve from 1971 to 1977. Dale is Vice President and Sales Manager for Shoco, Inc. and Short's Boat and Motor Service. He was married August 14, 1971 to Anne Putnam Trammell (b. June 5, 1948). Anne was the only child of Daniel H. Trammell and Madge Putnam Trammell. Their two children are Adam Dale Short born February 13, 1977 and Stuart Douglas Short, born March 30, 1979.

Lester Wilson Short, Louise Austell Short, Jerry Allen Short, and Dale Albert Short were all originally members of the First Baptist Church of Shelby, North Carolina. Jerry later joined a Methodist Church in Virginia and Dale joined an Episcopalian Church in Shelby, North Carolina.

Photography and Bottle Collecting have been the hobbies of Lester Wilson Short. He is a member of The American Legion, The Elks Club and The Cleveland Country Club.

Louise Austell Short has been active in civic affairs of Shelby. She has served as President of the Shelby Junior Women's Club, The Junior Charity League and the Sustaining Auxiliary of the League. She has also served as a director of the Cleveland County Community Concert Association, The Shelter Home, the Cleveland Country Club, and the Gardner-Webb Bulldog Club. She is treasurer of the Cleveland Guards Chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy and treasurer of the Broad River Genealogy Society. She is a member of the Benjamin Cleveland Chapter of the DAR, the Shelby Woman's Club, and the American Legion Auxiliary. She is also employed in business with her husband as Secretary and Treasurer of Shoco, Inc. In 1955 she received the Business and Professional Women's award for the WOMAN OF THE YEAR. She sang in the First Baptist Church choir a number of years and is a member of the LOVE Class. She attended Asheville Teachers College and graduated from Salisbury Business College.

— Mrs. L.W. Short

GEORGE HAMPTON SIMMONS FAMILY

980

In reporting his death on June 19, 1932, the Cleveland Star referred to George Hampton Simmons as "a gentleman, farmer and ginner of great repute". His father Squire Samuel Sills Simmons, born August 20, 1818, in Rutherford County (Cleveland since 1841) and Elizabeth Ann, daughter of William L. and M. Bailey Eskridge were married on August 18, 1840 by Rev. Drury Dobbins.

Four brothers Lee, Albarnus, Pleasant and Monroe volunteered into the Confederate Army. On June 16, 1861 his father was conscripted into service and was killed on July 1, 1861 at Marvin Hills, Virginia. Lee and Monroe received many honors for valor and distinguished services. Only Monroe returned from service and went to South Carolina. The widowed mother, with three daughters and a son eight, married Chandler London.

Mr. Simmons had three sisters, Eunice Jane (Jennie) married Caleb Andrew Thornburg, of the Dallas section, in Gaston county. They became the first residents of Bessemer City. They celebrated their 75th wedding anniversary there on January 4, 1945, two years after he had been honored as the oldest active Mason in North Carolina at the age of

93. Olive (Ollie) married George Parker of Double Shoals area who died soon after. She married Pink Williams of Lawndale and lived in the area. Mollie married first a Hobbs, then a Hartful from the Blacksburg, South Carolina area who returned to New York after her death.

On February 27, 1876 Mr. Simmons was married to Josephine (Josie) Perlina Martin, daughter of James Martin and wife Martha Mooney (Mauney) by the Rev. A.C. Irvin. The family lived in the Pearl Community (the present W.L. Simmons residence on Highway 226 North, 6 miles northwest of Shelby). Mr. Simmons operated a large farm. The first area post office, "Pearl", was operated from his residence. Mail arrived each Thursday from Blacksburg, South Carolina by horse carriage. He also operated a cotton gin, corn mill and shingle mill. Mrs. Simmons was well known for her good food. They had eight boys and three girls.

George Frank went to Paris, Texas where he married Pearl Hix. He opened and operated a wholesale grocery. They had one son and one daughter.

Mary Elizabeth married G. Pinkney Irvin, son of Rev. A.C. Irvin, a prominent farmer in the area. They had four sons and five daughters.

Burgin Albarnus who died at the age of seven, Pleasant Elijah who died as a child of six weeks and Thomas Leavenworth settled in Rocky Mount, North Carolina after finishing school and opened an insurance agency. He married Roy Lovelace and had one daughter.

Derwood Belmont (Dullie) married Mayme Cabiness, daughter of Esse Cabiness of the Swainsville community. They settled in Spencer where he operated a furniture store. They had three sons and two daughters.

Johney Fred married Rosa Isabelle, daughter of Marcus M. Mauney. They joined brother Frank in Texas, and returned to the Union section of the county in 1919, where he operated a saw mill and farmed. They had two boys and two girls.

James Lawrence lost an arm and was disfigured in a cotton gin accident at the age of ten. He attended Law School at Harvard, then practiced in Rocky Mount, North Carolina. He never married.

Katie Jane married John A. Wells of Mount Paran community near Earl, North Carolina. He was cotton buyer and secretary of the Dover Mill. He was manager of the Dover farms until his death in 1937. The marriage produced one son and two daughters.

Wilbur Lee married Margaret Louise Mauney (sister to Rosa). They farmed and operated a dairy near the home. After Mr. Simmons' death in 1932, they moved in and cared for his mother until her death in 1946 when they sold their home and bought the home place. His wife died in 1957. In 1959 he married Alma Mauney Spangler, sister to his first wife and widow of Chivous Spangler. The first marriage produced two boys and a girl.

Martha Madeline married Daniel Thurman Horn, son of James Alexander Jackson (Cobb) Horn. He was a prominent and successful farmer near Lawndale. The marriage produced two sons.

All Mr. Simmons' children attended grammar school at Zion and the Piedmont Academy operated by Professor William David (Billy) Burns.

Sources: Family Bible, tombstones, newspaper articles and relatives and friends of the family.

— Fred Martin Simmons

ERNERT ERWIN SINGLETON

981

Ernest Erwin "Chick" Singleton was born Feb. 5, 1916 in Morganton, N.C. son of Marcus Gamewell and Mary Ann Gurley Singleton of Burke County, N.C.

After graduation from Morganton High School, he attended Boiling Springs College, in Cleveland County. He joined the Shelby National Guards, entering the army September 1940 with Company K 120 infantry, Fort Jackson, S.C.

Married Cora Ann Austell, born Feb. 29, 1920, daughter of Cora Ann Magness and James Petty Austell, Sr. of Shelby, N.C. They have one son James Marcus (Toby) Singleton born August, 1938. Now lives in Warrensburg, Missouri with wife, Sharon Stutler Singleton, and a son, Adam Neal Singleton, born May 23, 1981.

Erwin Singleton entered military service prior to World War II, serving for over thirty-three years. He did duty in England, Porto Rico, The Azories, Belgium and France. Also he did combat in many other European Countries during World War II, receiving five campaign stars and other decorations. He continued service throughout the Korean War and the Vietnam conflict. Ending his career after seven years assignment in Goose Bay, Labrador, retiring May 1972. He has continued to live in Shelby since retirement.

Sources: Erwin Singleton's military papers.

— Ann Singleton

Rev. and Mrs. Ernest Marvin Smith, Ernest Sherrill and Melba Ferne

THE FAMILY OF ERNEST MARVIN SMITH and FERNE ATCHLEY SMITH

982

Ernest Marvin Smith was born in Stanley County, North Carolina, March 6, 1910, a son of Rev. James Marvin Smith and Nancy Elmira Morton Smith. He was a member of a large family, seven girls and three boys. He graduated from high school at Wingate College where he did two years of his college work. He completed his college work at High Point College graduating with a Bachelor of Arts Degree. He also studied at Wake Forest College and Southwestern Seminary. He met Edna June Ferne Atchley during their college days at Wingate and they were married June 17, 1936. Two children were born to this union: a son, Ernest Sherrill Smith born May 9, 1941; a daughter, Melba Ferne Smith born August 14, 1948. Both are still living.

Ernest Marvin Smith was licensed to preach in June 1930 by the North Albemarle Baptist Church, Albemarle, N.C. and ordained March

Rev. Ernest Marvin and Ferne Atchley Smith, Dover Church Pastor for Twenty-eight years.

28, 1935 by the Wingate Baptist Church, Wingate, N.C. He served numerous churches in North Carolina including churches in Union and Anson Counties, the North Park Baptist Church (now Lexington Avenue) in High Point and the McAdenville Baptist Church in Gaston County. He was called to the Dover Baptist Church, Shelby, N.C. December 2, 1945 and continued to pastor this church until June of 1974. During the time he was pastor of Dover Baptist Church, he led in the renovation and enlargement of the church auditorium, the building of a new Sunday School Annex, and a new parsonage.

In addition to serving as pastor of the Dover Church for more than 28 years, Rev. Smith served as Moderator of the Kings Mountain Association, President of the Kings Mountain Baptist Pastor's Conference, President of the Greater Shelby Ministerial Association and served as a member of General Board of the Baptist State Convention for two terms or a total of seven years. After his retirement, he was elected Pastor Emeritus of the Dover Church and served as supply and interim pastor in churches in this area.

Edna June Ferne Atchley Smith was born in Knoxville, Tennessee June 11, 1914, daughter of William Walker Atchley and Ella Frances Parrott Atchley. They later moved to Erwin, Tennessee where she spent her childhood and finished high school. She came to North Carolina to attend Wingate College. She graduated Cum Laude from High Point College with a Bachelor of Arts Degree and did graduate work at Western Carolina and Appalachian Universities. In addition to being an efficient pastor's wife she was a successful educator. It was under her leadership that the Cleveland County Program for Exceptional Children was established during the administration of Superintendent Horace Grigg. She began in the classroom at the Polkville School in 1960 and was elected Coordinator of the Exceptional Children's Program for the county in 1967 and continued to serve until 1977.

The son, Ernest Sherrill Smith, graduated from Shelby High School and Mars Hill College and attended North Carolina State University where he studied electrical engineering. He is now associated with the International Telegraph and Telephone Communication Systems in Raleigh. He married the former Sandra Mosteller of Shelby. Sandra has a secretarial position with the Brotherhood Department of the Baptist State Convention, Raleigh. They have two sons, Gary Brian Smith, born January 20, 1968 and Kenneth Bradley Smith, born September 25, 1972.

The daughter, Melba Ferne Smith, also graduated from Shelby High School and Mars Hill College where she received the Bachelor's Degree in education from Hunter College in New York. She is employed by the Mecklenburg School System in Charlotte and is married to Dr. Gordon Edwards who is on the staff of the Rehabilitation Hospital of Charlotte.

Rev. Smith's hobbies are reading, walking and maintaining the home at 502 Stroud Road, Shelby, N.C. Mrs. Smith's hobbies are music, arts, and crafts.

Sources: Family Bible, Birth certificates, Marriage certificates, license and ordination certificates.

— Ernest Sherrill Smith and Melba Smith Edwards

MINOR W. SMITH FAMILY

983

Tracing the Smith family from Cleveland County's formation originates with Minor W. Smith. He was a farmer, sawmiller, and mill owner, living on considerable acreage north and east of Sharon Church to the river.

The Revolutionary War Captain, Minor W. Smith, traceable to England was said to have lived in the Wilkes area from which he disappeared after the War, emigrating to the Tugaloo District, S.C. Here his grandson, Minor W. Smith, married Jane Berry Kennedy, whose family reportedly had received a royal land grant. Captain Smith's son, Clater, appears in the 1800 Rutherford County census and his will of 1822 names children Elizabeth, William S., Minor W., Sarah, John, Charles C. and Clater S. (even with the passage of 200 years since their naming, many of these names are in current Smith family usage.)

The August 1841 Cleveland County Court of Pleas and Quarter Sessions lists "that the sum of $15.43 be paid . . . to Minor W. Smith for plank for the Court House in Shelby." Deeds in this session also mention Minor W. Smith. The January 1843 sessions appoints an overseer of the road leading from Smith's Mills to Zoar Meeting House.

Of Minor and Jane's eleven children only four names, Jacob, Mary Ann, Thomas and Richard B. are identifiable with the possibility of a Robert B. and an Ellen as fifth and sixth names. Minor Smith's daughter, Mary Ann, married Coleman Doggett (March 8, 1841 first court at William Weathers house named Coleman Doggett Justice of Peace for the County). The 1850 census lists children of this marriage as Sarah, Frances, Minor M., James R.R. and George. Minor Doggett married Judith Margaret Blanton, 11th child of First Cleveland County Sheriff, Charles Blanton and Judith Hamrick. Their third child George, and Agnes Haliburton being the grandparents of Maude Doggett Arey, grandmother of my wife, Rebecca Carol Arey.

To assist future searchers of family connections (even aiding those who may wish to disapprove kin with some of us) I list the following family groups and dates: Loyd B. Smith (3-11-35-) wife, Rebecca Arey (6-24-38-), children Kimberly C., Loyd Jr., Scott W., Seth A. Robert F. Smith (2-7-33-) wife, Doris Moore (1-15-38-), children Shannon, April, Robert Jr., Laura. John Wylie Smith (12-24-09-) wife, Helen Anthony (12-20-12-), children Robert F. and Loyd B. Charles Robert Smith (1-15-89 — 12-28-53) wife, Laura Jane Jones* (1874 — 10-24-33), children John Wylie, infant daughter unnamed, infant son unnamed, Charles James (6-28-18-). James Avery Smith (12-31-1868 — 4-15-1938) first wife, H. Jane (9-15-1866 — 5-29-1902), children Charles R., Solon, Will, Marion Butler, Wiley E., Essie, Sally. Second wife, Maggie Glascoe (1-14-1871 — 10-13-1921). Third wife, Ancie C. (12-18-1894-). Charles C. Smith (3-7-1833 — 11-30-05) wife, Sarah D. Smith (4-11-1833 — 1-17-1906)

Sources: Federal Records, Waltham, Mass., Cleveland County Court House Records, Rutherford County Court House Records, Cleveland County Cemetery Book, 1830, 1840, 1850 Census, Sharon Church Cemetery. * See March, 1841 Court of Pleas and Sessions appointing Edmund Jones commissioner to run the line between Rutherford and Cleveland. Later naming him Trustee of Public Buildings.

— Loyd B. Smith

The James Avery Smith Family

THE ADAM PHILIP and ELIZABETH SARAH ALLEN SPAKE FAMILY

984

The Spake family of Cleveland County traces its history back to Adam Spake. No records are known at this time that tell who his parents were or whether he moved to Cleveland County from another location. Adam Spake married Elizabeth Sarah Allen, sometimes known as Sally, daughter of William G. and Mary Wilson Allen.

Although no definite information is known about Adam Spake's ancestors, some information has been found about his wife's family. Elizabeth Sarah Allen was born July 18, 1821. Her father, William Allen born August 7, 1788 — died August 3, 1871, was the son of John and Mary Allan, in what was then Rutherford County. (Note that on the census record, William Allen's name was spelled Allen, and in his will, his father's name was spelled Allan. In each case, some one else did the writing, thus the difference in spellings). John Allan was "sick and weak in body but perfect in mind and memory" when his will was written on the 15th of October 1827. He mentioned in that will his "beloved wife Mary Allan," sons and daughters Mary Bradly, John, William, Lemuel, Willis, Nancy Morris, Carter, James, Sally Mayfield, and Mary Brisson. That original handwritten will is located in the North Carolina Archives in Raleigh.

Sally's mother was Mary Wilson Allen born April 17, 1784 — died December 14, 1853, daughter of John Wilson, Sr. and Margaret Wilson. John Wilson, Sr. evidently was a rather successful farmer, for in his will he mentioned "the plantation" and other real properties, as well as horses, cattle, sheep, negroes, farming utensils and implements, as well as the usually-mentioned household and kitchen furniture and beds and bedding. Children mentioned were Elizabeth; Mary, wife of William Allen, to whom he willed one hundred dollars; James, John, Samuel, and Thomas. John Wilson, Sr. also lived in what was then Rutherford County. His will is dated July 3, 1822, probated October Court, 1822.

Sally's great-grandfather was William Wilson, also of Rutherford County. His will mentioned his "well beloved wife Dianna Wilson" to whom he left "one hundred and seventy acres of land with the plantation and dwelling houses on it and as much of the stock and furniture as she pleases." He also left various gifts of land and money, dollars to sons, "shillings sterling" to others to children Moses, Pheby, James, Robert, Mobley (Molley?), John, Salley, Nancy, William, Thomas and Jane. His will was dated December 7, 1806 and was probated in January session of Court, 1807.

The census record of 1850 shows that Adam Spake and Elizabeth Sarah Allen were married within the year and were living in the household of William and Mary Allen. An indenture had been found for seventy and three-fourths acres of land from William G. Allen to Adam Spake and his wife Elizabeth Sarah, dated March 4, 1856. This land is in Cleveland County in what is now the east side of Shelby on Hickory Creek, yet they were still in his home when the 1860 census was taken on July 13. William Allen's wife, Mary, had died December 14, 1853, so they were probably living with him so he would not be alone.

The Adam Spake Home, circa 1897. Front row L to R: Maggie Spake Sheppard, Hezekiah Dedmon holding Mack Spake, Roxanna Weathers Dedmon, Leenie Putnam Wilson, David Wilson, Emily Wilson. Back row L to R: Miller Spake, Philip & Sally Wilson Spake, Fanny Spake Hord, Jimmy and Nora Dedmon Spake, Willie & Elizabeth Spake Wilson. On porch: Starling Wilson.

Then came the War between the States, and as was the case with most men his age, Adam Spake fought in that conflict. He was taken prisoner and, as the story goes, because he was a gunsmith, he was put to work repairing guns for the Union forces and was fed, clothed, and treated better than some prisoners, thus he survived his imprisonment and was released on June 20, 1865. That release describes him as having light complexion, brown hair, hazel eyes, and being five feet, ten inches tall.

Adam returned home to his wife and family and took up farming again. He and his family, including eighty-one-year-old William G. Allen, retired, are listed in the 1870 census in Township #6.

In the Ross Grove Baptist Church, 1881-1956 booklet, A.P. Spake is listed as a charter member, as superintendent of Sunday School 1890-91, and as church clerk 1885-89. He and his wife later moved their membership to Elizabeth Baptist Church and were active there.

Grandchildren of Adam Spake still living today tell stories of how they gathered at the grandparents' home for good times. Dona Spake Hord remembers friends and neighbors bringing picnic lunches and gathering at the spring for a day's outing. The house was located on what is now Crescent Avenue in Shelby, across from the spring, about three-quarters mile from Hickory Creek. It is pictured elsewhere in this book.

Adam Spake died September 16, 1893. His will is also in the North Carolina Archives in Raleigh. His wife, Sally Spake, died October 24, 1896. Bodies of both are buried in the Elizabeth Baptist Church cemetery.

Children of Adam Philip Spake October 27, 1827 — September 16, 1893 and Elizabeth

Sarah Allen Spake, July 18, 1821 — October 24, 1896, were (1) Mary Jane September 14, 1852 — December 4, 1898 who married James William T. Hendrick October 21, 1847 — February 22, 1928; (2) Larkin Monroe Spake (b. 1855) who married Louisa Allen and lived in Atlanta, Georgia. He died there and was buried in Villa Rica; (3) William George December 13, 1857 — March 16, 1935 who married Susan Roxana Irvin January 11, 1861 — September 13, 1940; (4) Sarah Elizabeth b. April 4, 1862 who married William P. Wilson; (5) Adam Philip, Jr. September 29, 1864 — December 28, 1933 who married Sarah Wilson October 7, 1857 — October 1, 1917 and Kate Gold; and (6) James (Jimmy) Samuel January 20, 1868 — December 1, 1919 who married Nora Dedmon October 18, 1872 — September 15, 1929.

Sources: Wills, Tombstones, Census records, Oral tradition, Family Bible

— Mary Ruth Dedmon Hord

THE WILLIAM GEORGE and SUSAN ROXANA IRVIN SPAKE FAMILY

985

William George Spake, third child of Adam Philip and Elizabeth Sarah Allen Spake, was born December 13, 1857. He lived with his family in the home of his grandfather William Allen when he was a very young child. Later his grandfather lived with George's family on Hickory Creek in Cleveland County, where George learned farming from his father.

As a young man George married Susan Roxana Irvin. To keep his son from returning to Georgia where son Monroe lived, Adam Spake told George that if he wanted to farm, he (Adam) would help get things started. So with the help of family and neighbors, they cleared a place, cut logs, and built two log stables and a two-room house with one chimney. This became the first and only home of George and Roxana. They were married on December 22, 1881 and as the years passed and their family grew, so did the house, until it became the large family home remembered by many as being where Bost Bakery is now located.

William George Spake Home located where Bost Bakery now stands. L to R: William George Holding son Lonnie, Susan Roxana, Lillian and Andrew. Man in background unidentified. 1895.

Susan Roxana Irvin was the daughter of Ancil Jackson (October 2, 1815-September 14, 1895) and Elizabeth Beam (March 13, 1817-September 16, 1895) Irvin. She was born January 11, 1861, one of nine children. Her four older brothers fought in the War Between the States. John and Amos died; James and Abraham Christopher returned. A.C. entered the ministry and became a well-known Baptist preacher in Cleveland County. Roxana's sisters were Margret Easter Irvin married Frank Gold, Ellen Irvin married Cicero Wilson, Elisabeth Rachel Irvin, and Claudia Beam Irvin.

Roxana's grandfather was James Irvin. In his will dated 16 March 1845, James Irvin mentions his "dear wife Rebecca Irvin" and his "nine children and one granddaughter (namely) Sarah Workman, Susannah Irvin, Abraham C. Irvin, Rachael Early, Patsy Webb, James W. Irvin, Hannah Hardin, Ancil J. Irvin, Betsy Mason and my granddaughter Margosa Susannah Irvin daughter of John Irvin deceased . . ."

Roxana's mother, Elizabeth Beam Irvin, was the daughter of Christopher August 3, 1784-1849 and Margaret Gordon Beam January 24, 1793-May 7, 1873. Her grandfather was John Teeter Beam 1732-1807, the first Beam to settle in America. His ancestry dates back to Michael Beam b. 1702 of Hamburg, Germany, and Sarah Rudolph, whose family, according to Sketches of the life of J.T. Beam and His Fifteen Children, by A.R. Beam, 1897, traces its ancestry back to about 1300, also in Germany.

At this writing, four of the nine children of George and Roxana Spake are still living. They are ages seventy-seven to almost ninety-three. They have varied memories of the early life they shared with their parents. Andrew Jackson Spake, the oldest son, is now almost ninety-three years old. He tells of going to school at the first Elizabeth School, a one-room wooden building that stood on the same grounds that the present Elizabeth Baptist Church now stands. He walked to school, and in cold weather his mother would tie a veil over his face to help cut the cold winds.

Lonnie tells of his memories of their Uncle Abe (Rev. A.C. Irvin) riding horseback to their house on Saturday, attending church conference, buying groceries, preaching on Sunday, then riding home again. He remembers Uncle Abe's preacher friends also staying at the Spake home.

It seems that the home was open to lots of visitors through the years, including friends of the children, visiting preachers, and even bridge-builders Hawthorne and Abbott, who built the second bridge across Hickory Creek at the foot of the hill.

Daughter Dona has memories of her brother Andrew sitting on the banister of their front porch reading the Bible to her. When asked his age, Andrew answered, "Oh, about six. I was just learning to read." Dona's Uncle Abe's Bible-reading and prayer time with the family during his visits stand out in her memory too.

Margaret, youngest daughter, tells of all the weddings. All five girls and their cousin Lou Irvin, who lived there several years, were married in the parlor. She laughed about picking flowers to decorate the parlor for the wedding of sister Lillian. After courting Willie Wilson for fourteen years, Lillian sprung the news of the wedding on her sisters by telling them that if they wanted to see her get married, to get dressed in an hour. The children hurriedly picked flowers to decorate the parlor, not knowing that before time for the wedding, all the flowers would close. They were poppies whose blooms closed toward evening. Margaret said her wedding to Herbert Long was "very plain . . . just enough present to sign the license . . . because I was the last one, don't you know."

One highlight of their youth was going to parties every week or two at their home or homes of cousins or neighbors. They had a good time playing "wink" and doing such things as popping corn, cooking peanuts, and making molasses candy.

Back home they remember the good food their mother cooked and all the honey they enjoyed from the beehives their father tended. George Spake was a man of medium height, with dark brown hair and brown eyes. Andrew remembers him without a mustache, but all the other children and grandchildren remember a mustache as a trademark. Another characteristic was that he liked to dress up, but never liked to wear a tie.

They all remember their mother's pretty blue eyes. She was always a little heavy and wore her hair in a knot on top of her head, and wore a long dress with a white collar. Her brown hair turned gray and was remembered that way by all her children. Most of all she is remembered for her gentleness and kindness.

After William George died (March 16, 1935), Susan Roxana went to live with Irvin and Mabel and with Margaret and Herbert. She died September 13, 1940. Bodies of both George and Roxana are buried in the cemetery at Elizabeth Church. They were members of Elizabeth for many years.

Sources: Family Genealogy Sheet, Family Bible, Wills, Conversation with Family Members, Tombstones.

— Mary Ruth Dedmon Hord and Dorothy Carol Hord Hawkins

THE WILLIAM GEORGE and SUSAN ROXANA IRVIN SPAKE FAMILY

986

William George and Susan Roxana Irvin Spake had nine children. Thomas Abram died at the age of two. The others grew to adulthood, married and had families.

Josie Ella was born October 20, 1882. She married Durwood Belmont Hughes (January 28, 1876 — November 8, 1959) on August 8, 1908. Her sister Margaret says it was "a grand affair with lots of people present. Uncle Abe married them." Josie had one son, William Sanford. She died September 23, 1958.

Annie Elizabeth (January 8, 1885 — December 26, 1962) married John Ellis Roberts July 14, 1880 — Feb. 6, 1953 in a home wedding on December 24, 1913. The bride in her long white wedding dress posed for a photograph with the groom and all the guests. That photo is still in the possession of the Roberts family. Annie's children are Annie Laura, Emma Irene, Buena Mae (Bonnie), and John Elgin.

Andrew Jackson, oldest son, was born April 29, 1889. He tells of plowing his favorite mule named Jack, and helping his father on the farm. They raised corn, cotton, and potatoes, and he thought that was "the only way to make any money." Andrew married Mattie Sue Sheppard (b. September 25, 1891) on November 28, 1912. He farmed as an adult too. Their children are Everette Lamar, Elizabeth Sue, George Wesley, Mary Ruth, Charles Andrew, Bobby Irvin, Martha Jane, John Ray, and Henry Jackson. One child died in infancy.

Bertha Lillian was born September 30, 1891 — died March 7, 1968. She was known

ABB SYLVESTER SPANGLER FAMILY

987

Abb Sylvester Spangler was born January 25, 1901. He was the son of James Webb and Emma Spangler. They owned a farm across the river from Double Shoals Mill. Abb was living with his parents and helping on the farm at the time of his fathers' death April 22, 1925, and being the oldest of four children still at home he stayed there and managed the farm for his mother.

Abb and Mittie Warlick were married November 17, 1926. They bought the farm in 1928 and his mother lived with them until her death January 7, 1964.

They had four children, three girls and one boy. The oldest child Mary Ruth, born November 10, 1927, married Roy Dedmon, January 1, 1949. They have one son Rodney Kevin, born June 29, 1960.

Lillian Doris was born February 5, 1930. She married Carl Dedmon, April 16, 1950. They have two children. Alice June was born July 16, 1953 and married Edward Yarboro, December 13, 1980. Richard Carlson was born December 11, 1956, and married Marjorie Fesperman October 20, 1979.

Sadie Marilyn was born October 30, 1931 and married Donald Wright, September 2, 1951. They have two children and three grandchildren. Robert Neil was born August 9, 1953. He married Lynn Price, July 15, 1973. They have two children. Wendy Carole born May 10, 1976. Wesley Neil born September 18, 1980. Rhonda Joy was born October 23, 1955. She married David Hamrick, August 17, 1975. They have one son David Ryan, born Jan. 5, 1977.

James Clarence was born December 11, 1934. He married Carolyn Branton, October 16, 1966. They have two sons. Gregory James born June 2, 1971. Grant Carson born August 30, 1974.

Abb was a kind, good-natured man and made lots of friends. He was a member of Double Shoals Baptist Church. He died from a heart attack November 20, 1980, and was buried in the church cemetery where he had attended all of his life.

Sources: Family sources.

— Mrs. A.S. Spangler

ABSALOM (ABNER, AB) B. SPANGLER

988

It is not known the exact date the Spangler family came from Pennsylvania via Virginia to North Carolina, but it was somewhere around the turn of the century — 19th century, that is.

Absalom Spangler, ancestor of all the Cleveland County Spanglers was born c. 1810 or 1811 in North Carolina. His brothers evidently moved to other areas but Absalom married and chose to settle in what would eventually become Cleveland County North Carolina. He married Martha "Sally" or "Patsy" London in the early 1830's and to this union at least nine children were born:

Sarah J. m. James B. Harris (believed to have gone to Texas), Jonathan Spangler married Barbra Hendrick, William Neal Spangler married Elmira Elliott, Mary Ann Spangler married A. Frank Connor, James Webb married Charity Margaret Wilson, Martha Elizabeth Spangler married twice 1 m. Judge G. (J.S.) Haney 2 m. Newton A. Campbell, David S. Spangler — died as a child, Trannia (sp?) — evidently died as a young child, Reuben Alexander Spangler married twice 1 m. Lola Branton 2 m. Minnie Le Weathers.

Absalom was a farmer who lived just north of Shelby on land which now may be partially within the city limits. After his first wife died in the mid 1850's, he married her widowed sister, Lucinda London Glascock (June 9, 1861). There were no children to this union.

In a little more than a year after his second marriage, Absalom, at the age of 50 plus, entered the Civil War (Co. E 12th Regiment, Infantry, CSA) December 1, 1862 serving in the same company with son William and the same army as son Jonathan (Co. F, 56th Infantry). Absalom entered as a substitute for Samuel J. Green.

The Spanglers in Cleveland County are descendants of Absalom's sons — Jonathan, William and R.A. Spangler with most of them being from the Jonathan Spangler family. Webb has some county descendants but none carry the Spangler name.

William Spangler married Elmira Elliott and they moved to Rutherford County. Of their eight children — five boys and three girls, his son Jim was the only one to come back to Cleveland County to live. The others lived in Rutherford County with five of them eventually going to Montana and one to Tennessee.

R.A. Spangler married twice — 1m. Lola Branton (two children), 2m. Minnie Lee Weathers (seven children). Of these nine children, Will and Ernest were the only boys to have offspring carrying the Spangler name to live in Cleveland County. R.A. was a farmer living in the northern part of what is now Shelby on some of the land owned by his father Absalom.

Jonathan Spangler, the second child and first son of Absalom and Martha, married Barbra Hendrick, September 23, 1856. They had four sons and a daughter — John Thomas "Tom", William Schenck, Martha Missouri, James Webb and Abson Dixon "Dick" with Dick being born six months after Jonathan's death.

Absalom left a long list of descendants with some of them now in the seventh, eighth and ninth generation. Absalom lived to be some 70 plus years old, dying September 9, 1872. During his lifetime his country grew from a child to almost time to celebrate its' one hundredth birthday. During this time the United States fought both the Mexican and Civil Wars, the gold rush took place and Cleveland County was formed in 1841 from Rutherford and Lincoln Counties.

— Theresa Lowe

for the amount of news she could write on a postal card. She also never let anyone leave her home after a visit without taking a gift of potatoes, jam, jelly or something else she had made. She married Willie Wilson (November 11, 1891 — Mary 28, 1968) on April 27, 1921. Their children: Sue who died November 8, 1979, Jane, Billy, Jimmy and Beth.

George Alonzo, known to family and friends as "Lonnie" was born August 11, 1894. He was the only son to serve in World War II. He was supply sergeant in France and made friends with a french family who insisted that he stay at their home. He remembers sleeping on that "good feather bed." He married Emma Pratt McGill (January 14, 1899 — September 21, 1962) and from that marriage were born Joe McGill, William Gene, and Rebecca Ann. His second marriage was to Kate Borders Roberts (November 25, 1898 — September 7, 1979), on June 12, 1963. On July 14, 1978 he married Verie Randle Cline (b. July 16, 1906).

Dona Blanche was born August 11, 1897. She remembers as a child the days that "Mama would wash our faces and hands, put clean dresses on us, and we would all walk back to the railroad and up to Cousin Lou's house, Albert Dedmon's in Ross Grove Community. We'd stay all day and visit. Then late in the afternoon, we would walk home. We had such a good time!" Dona married Raymond Dewey Hord on September 15, 1920. Their children: Mary Sue, Elizabeth Elaine (November 7, 1923 — February 14, 1924), Dorothy Carol, Horace Blainey, and a son who died in infancy.

Irvin Monroe was born March 5, 1902. He, like his father and brothers, was a farmer. He married Mabel Whisnant on March 2, 1927. Mabel tells of her wedding to Irvin at the home of Preacher Lowe on what is now Highway 74-A East, near Elizabeth Church. Snow was so deep that they had difficulty getting to the preacher's house. Being unable to go anywhere for a honeymoon, Irvin took his bride back to the home of his parents where they found a big roaring fire in the fireplace of their room — a nice warm welcome to the new couple, who lived there a few years. Mabel says that Grandma Spake was one of the finest persons she has every known. Children of Mabel and Irvin are Robert Irvin and Barbara Ann.

Margaret Susan was born January 18, 1905. She has always been known to remember many details and has been a valuable source of information for those wishing to learn about the family. She is a fun-loving and vivacious person who married Walter Herbert Long (September 24, 1903 — December 25, 1973) on May 20 1925. Children of this marriage are Rachel Louise, Max Eugene, Hugh Brevard, and Edwin Wayne.

Sources: Family Genealogy Sheet, Family Bible, Conversation with Family Members.

— Mary Ruth Dedmon Hord and Dorothy Carol Hord Hawkins

ABSON DIXON "DICK" and NANNIE PATIENCE GREEN SPANGLER

989

Abson Dixon "Dick" Spangler (July 5, 1867 — November 17, 1946) was born six months after his father died from blood poisoning in the wound he received in the Civil War. Dick, the fourth son and fifth child of Jonathan and Barbra Hendrick Spangler, never knew his father except through the memories of his mother. He grew up in the Double Shoals Community of Cleveland County, North Carolina and when he was twenty years old he married Nannie Patience Green on December 1, 1887.

Patience "Patie" (September 3, 1867 — April 20, 1925) was born in Boiling Springs, Cleveland County, North Carolina. After her parents, John and Sarah Green, died, she came to stay with her married brother, J. Mac Green, in the Double Shoals Community. Before long she met Mac's brother-in-law, Dick Spangler. After a courtship of about a year they married.

Dick acquired land just across the river from his homeplace and there he and Patie built a home and raised their twelve children — six boys and six girls — Mary (Mrs. Chesley Hendrick), Amos Phylector "Leck", (Vera Warlick) Arthur Lee "Oss" (Lesta Eskridge), Euna (Mrs. Needham Stockton), Eva (Mrs. R.C. Laughlin), Flossie (Mrs. Clyde Cornwell), Essie (Mrs. Yates Sperling), Yates (m. Daisy Beam), Carl (m. Fannie Lou Kistler), Clemmie (m. Veva C. Yelton), Eubert (m. Edith Beam), and Novella (Mrs. Paul Dixon).

Dick and Patie were charter members of Double Shoals Baptist Church, having gone to Zion before Double Shoals was organized in 1899.

Patie was a dedicated Christian woman. According to obituary she was "one of the county's most thoroughly consecrated Christian mothers whose financial aid and personal work in Double Shoals Church will perpetuate her memory in years to come." She was "a beautiful Christian character who practiced her religion wherever she was and under all circumstances — in adversity and success, in joy and in sorrow, bending knees in silent prayer every night before she retired. The yearning of her heart being that her life would be spared till she could see her dozen children give their hearts to the Savior. This she lived to realize." She loved her children dearly. When son Carl became sick with pneumonia and just about died, she prayed that God would take her life and spare her child. As Carl began to get well, she took pneumonia and died.

Dick was a farmer and land owner. He was highly successful in his farming activities and became one of the largest land owners in upper Cleveland County. He planted various crops but his favorite was cotton. He loved to see that cotton grow and loved to talk about his mules. Dick always had a story to tell and loved to talk when anyone would listen. He could entertain anybody and was always good company to be around. As a passtime he enjoyed foxhunting. Sometimes they would even buy fox and turn them loose.

With the large farm there was always work to be done and more than the boys could do themselves. So Dick had several tennant houses on the place and he hired them to help with the crops. Sharecropping became a way of life for the farmers. They owned the land, provided the tennants with a house, provided the seed, the land, fertilizer, etc. while the tennant provided the labor and when the crop was harvested, the profits were divided between the land owner and the tennant.

When it was time to plant, plough or harvest and the men were in the fields, Patie would cook enough food to fix baskets to carry to the hands in the fields. None were going to go hungry.

Patie died at the age of fifty-seven. Dick lived some twenty-two years longer to the age of seventy-nine. Both are buried in the Double Shoals Baptist Church cemetery.

Sources: Cleveland Star, Fri. April 24, 1925.

— Theresa S. Lowe

THE AMOS PHYLECTOR SPANGLER FAMILY

990

Amos Phylector (Leck) Spangler, Sr. (January 21, 1891 — August 9, 1961) was the oldest son of Abson Dixon (Dick) Spangler and Patience Green. Being one of twelve children and the oldest son, he did not have the opportunity to obtain as much education as did some of his younger brothers and sisters. He remained at home and farmed with his father until he was almost thirty-four years old. On December 23, 1924, he married Vera Falls Warlick, born December 3, 1903, the oldest child of Clarence C. Warlick and Margaret Falls.

Shortly before their marriage, Leck bought a farm just across the river from where he was reared. This was the home place of Jonathan and Barbara Hendricks Spangler (his grandparents). Soon after they were married they moved to the farm into a house that had been built by an Uncle, Mac Green. Although he was plagued with stomach ulcers from early adulthood, he continued to run his farm, rising early and working late.

He was a quiet, easy-going, peaceable man, expressing quite often "It's not worth fussing over". He believed firmly that a man's word was his bond, feeling bound as much by a spoken promise as a written one.

Vera graduated from Piedmont High School and taught school for several years, but soon gave it up to have a family and to help her husband. On the farm, she did whatever the occasion called for, usually hoeing or picking cotton, their main crop. One thing carried over from childhood was her dislike for hoeing corn. She felt so strongly about this that she seldom did it, nor did she force her children to do it.

Another incident from her childhood greatly influenced the rearing of her children. While her mother was giving a younger brother some castor oil, he had a convulsion, became strangled and later that night he died. So her children never had to take castor oil, one of the most common "cure-alls" of that time.

Leck was a life-long member of Double Shoals Baptist Church and Vera joined there shortly after their marriage. It was through the influence of this church and their family life that they instilled in their six children their Christian ideals. Of the six children: Robert E, Boyd E, Margaret, Ray W., Faye and Amos, Jr., only two have joined other churches. The other four are still faithful members of Double Shoals. Margaret joined her husband's home church, Elizabeth; and Ray and his wife joined the Baptist church in Sylva, where they now live.

Robert, born March 31, 1928, married Amy Sparks and they live in Shelby. He is owner of Burns and Spangler, Inc, Highway Contractors. They have two daughters: Kimberly (Mrs. Michael Craig) is a graduate of Meredith College and teaches school while her husband is in medical school at East Carolina. Kathy is a freshman at Mars Hill College.

Boyd, born September 23, 1929, married Joyce Williamson and works with Robert in the construction business. They live near Double Shoals and have three children; Terry married Patricia Willis and they have a daughter Virginia (Ginger). Terry works with Burns and Spangler, Inc. Wanda (Mrs. Kenneth Boggs, Jr.) graduated from Western Carolina University and is a teacher in the Cleveland County School System. Todd lives at home and works in construction work and on the farm.

Margaret, born May 9, 1933, married Billy Wilson and they farm on the homeplace of Bill's father, Willie Wilson near Shelby. They have five children: Sandra (Mrs. Michael Catching) graduated from N.C. State and is a programmer analyst, in Raleigh. Karen (Mrs. Tony Ganey) lives in Savannah, Ga. and works in an office there. Larry married Kathleen (Kathy) Hamrick and they have a daughter, Elizabeth Kathleen (Katie). He graduated from N.C. State and received his masters degree in plant protection and pest management from University of Georgia. He farms with his father. Alan attended Western Carolina, but he decided he was more interested in farming than in books. He lives at home and farms with his father and is beginning a sand business. Ann, a senior at Shelby High, plans to enter N.C. State this fall to study computer science.

Ray, born September 15, 1938, married Vida McSwain. He is a graduate of N.C. State and is Division Engineer for the N.C. State Highway Department, located in Sylva. They have three children: Gary, a high school senior, plans to enter college this fall. Lee, is in high school and Rebecca is three years old.

Faye, born January 31, 1940, married Jerry Towery and they built a house just across the road from her parents. Faye graduated from Kings Business College and is bookkeeper at Carolina Dairy. They have two sons: Ricky, lives with his parents and works at bridge construction with his father. Dixon is a sophomore at Burns High.

Amos, born January 12, 1945, married Margaret Greene, and they also built a home on the farm near his parents. Amos is employed with Burns and Spangler, Inc. Margaret is employed in the office of Shelby Medical Associates. They have two children: Jonathan (named after his great-great grandfather Spangler) is in the first grade at Dover School and April is two years old.

Sources: personal knowledge.

— Mrs. Billy Wilson

ARTHUR LEE and LESTA VESTA ESKRIDGE SPANGLER

991

Arthur Lee Spangler, "Oss", was born August 27, 1893. His father was Abson Dixon, "Dick", Spangler and his mother was Nannie Patience Green. Their home was the present Yates Spangler place. Oss had five brothers and six sisters.

He went to school at Beam's school and then Royster's school but education for his life's work took place at home for he helped farm as a boy.

Arthur Lee Spangler was married to Lesta Vesta Eskridge November 15, 1914. They went in a buggy to be married at the home of A.J. Ervin then pastor of Double Shoals Baptist Church. Selma Eskridge, Ed Spangler, Lillie Spangler and A.P., "Leck", Spangler accompanied them.

Lesta was the daughter of Millie Ida Yelton and Samuel Bailey Eskridge and born June 18, 1896.

After their wedding they returned to the home of Oss's parents and lived there less than a year. They then moved to a fifty-two acre farm on the First Broad River and located near the old Lawndale power plant. Not to be alone when it was time for the first child to be born, Lesta went to the home of her parents (near Double Shoals) to stay. Here Arthur Lee Spangler Jr. was born December 20, 1915. Worth Edwin Spangler was born September 18, 1918 but this time Lesta was able to stay at home. Hershel Eugene Spangler was also born at this place by the river November 16, 1920.

Farming cotton, corn, and wheat paid off for Oss and in 1924 he was able to move his family to a large home he had built. The new house was located between N.C. highway 18 and Double Shoals. It was here that their daughter Betty Sue Spangler was born November 9, 1927. After Betty their youngest son Samuel Dixon Spangler was born May 9, 1930.

Lesta's favorite hobbies were sewing and crocheting but Oss's favorite was hunting. He enjoyed both rabbit and fox hunting. Among those who fox hunted frequently with Oss were Ches Hendrick, Charlie Wallace, Clem Scism and Cicero Scism. There were many others who hunted with him occasionally. The hunters would take their pack to a designated place, meet and turn the dogs loose. The enjoyment then was to "follow" the race either by going to where the dogs were running or by listening as dogs crossed hollows and creeks, woods and fields. The experienced hunter knew from the sound of the pack where they were running, how close to the fox, whether the fox was treed, in a den, or caught.

However on one occasion the experienced hunters of Oss's acquaintance were taken in by a ruse. The perpetrators of this hoax were Oss and his two younger brothers C.D. and Carl. The three brothers were working on the Mac Gillespie house when they decided to play a prank on the local hunters. According to their scheming Oss would "see" a fox on the way home and let everyone know. The boys knew Marvin Peeler had a fox hide and they were going to make their own race. They got the hide and took it to Oss's house and soaked it in warm water to increase the smell. That night Carl and C.D. became the fox by dragging the hide, unknown to their friends who gathered in for the race. Gathering in to turn loose on this "newly spotted prey" were Clete Royster, Clem Royster, Ches Hendrick, Wheeler Costner, and Clem Scism and the one most taken in by the prank was the boys father, Dick Spangler. Hunters love a close race and due to the foot work of C.D. and Carl and the dogs hot on their trail, this was a good race. Dick Spangler walking with Marvin Peeler, who knew what was going on, became very excited by the closeness of the race. Marvin Peeler loved to tell how in a moment of excitement Dick, who had a dog named Drive, turned to him and said, "Aye G — Marvin, Old Drive is gonna catch'em!" Schenck Spangler, also taken in by the prank and excited by the closeness of the race exclaimed "Aye guinea, they're gonna catch it. I can hear it breathe!" The hunters found it was not the breathing kind when thinking their dogs had the fox treed they arrived to find only the skin of a fox hanging in the tree. Ches Hendrick was the only hunter not fooled by the joke but only because he had a dog that was not fooled by a skin. Some of the other hunters were a little angry but none were quite as outdone as Dick Spangler who threatened to whip them all.

Arthur Lee and Lesta Vesta Eskridge Spangler wedding photograph — 1914.

Oss was a fun loving, free hearted man. He was thin and tall with twinkling blue eyes. He died September 11, 1961 and is buried at Double Shoals Baptist Church. Lesta lives today at their home.

Sources: Eva Spangler Laughlin, Lesta Eskridge Spangler, Euna Spangler Stockton, Arthur Lee Spangler Jr.

— Brenda Spangler Cook

THE BAILOUS F. SPANGLER FAMILY

992

Bailous F. Spangler, better known by his nickname "Happy" because of his ready smile and love of people, was the son of John Thomas "Tom" Spangler and Mary Ann Greene Spangler. He was born December 9, 1885 in the Double Shoals Community of Cleveland County, North Carolina and died on September 19, 1976.

While he worked at the Seaboard Airline Railroad, he met Loula Lee Dorsey when she came to Shelby from her home in Lincoln County to work at Fannings Department Store. They were married on April 10, 1913 and went by train on their honeymoon to St. Augustine, Florida, where they drank water from the Fountain Of Youth. Loula Lee Dorsey Spangler was born September 4, 1889 and died March 5, 1980. Both Bailous and Loula lived to be 90 years of age and they were both buried in Sunset Cemetery in Shelby.

To this union was born seven children. They had fourteen grandchildren and thirteen great grandchildren. The names of the children, grandchildren, and great grandchildren are as follows.

BARBRA HENDRICK SPANGLER

993

Barbra Hendrick Spangler, the daughter of William "Bill" Hendrick and Charity Love Hendrick, was born August 17, 1937 in the Double Shoals Community of Cleveland County. She lived there her entire life known in later years to family and friends as "Granny" Spangler or "Aunt Barb".

At the age of 19, Barbra married Jonathan Spangler on September 23, 1856. To this union were born four sons and a daughter — John Thomas Spangler, William Schenck Spangler, Martha Missouri "Zue" Spangler, James Webb "Jim" Spangler and Abson Dixon "Dick" Spangler.

In just a few years after their marriage, Civil War broke out among the states and husband Jonathan, as most other men, was called on to fight for the Confederacy.

Women of the south during the war had a hard life. They found it necessary to sacrifice much at home to give to the men who were fighting for a cause they believed in. Barbra, like other women of the South, received nothing from the government for there was nothing to receive. Necessities had to be grown at home or made from things already in their possession. Women dug in smoke houses for nitre to use in making gun powder. Barbra told one of her grandchildren she would dig up dirt from the smoke house floor, boil it and use the salty water. In addition to the housework, there was also the work in the fields to be done. Another worry for the women was the farmhouse raids made by the Yankees. One such raid on western North Carolina which passed through Cleveland County was made by General George Stoneman. Barbra a brave and courageous woman, often told of using a chevel from the fireplace to drive off the men during the Civil War who went about stealing people's property.

In 1865 the war ended. Jonathan had returned home in December 1864 having lost an arm in battle. In September 1865, Barbra gave birth to her third son, and fourth child, Jim. In 1867 another son Dixon was born. Six months before Dick was born his father died with gangrene in the wound he received in the War. With her husband dead, Barbra was left to raise five children alone — the oldest was ten, the youngest yet to be born.

Barbra, a very religious woman, who believed in God passionately, took all this in her stride and raised her family leaving with them the ever-present message of God as a guide, friend and source of life. Camp meetings were often held on her place and it was at one of these meetings that the very first planning for the organization of Double Shoals Baptist Church took place. The church was organized in 1899 with thirteen of its sixteen charter members being Barbra, her five children, their spouses and two of her grandchildren. (Barbra Spangler, Tom and Maryann Spangler, Schenck and Hulda Spangler, J. Mac Greene and his wife, Missouri, Jim and Emma Spangler, Dick and Patience Spangler and Barbra's grandchildren Lou Green and John Spangler.)

Remember . . .

Articles
Are Indexed
By
Article Numbers
. . . Not By
Page
Number

Not only did the lives of her family have its impact upon Double Shoals Baptist Church but also on the surrounding community as each of the children of Jonathan and Barbra married, settled and raised their family in the Double Shoals community and being farmers each of them instilled in their children the love of the land, the love of people and the love of God.

Barbra lived to see all of her children married and was present at the birth of each of her fifty-eight grandchildren except maybe two or three at which time she was ill herself. However she was rarely sick and never complained and took time to help when anyone needed her. In her old age, cataracts blinded her but she had them removed and regained her eyesight before her death.

She died suddenly of a heart attack, March 4, 1914, at the age of seventy-six and is buried in the Double Shoals Baptist Church cemetery. Her entire life was devoted to helping others, to her family, to her church and to God.

— Theresa Lowe

CARL MAYNARD SPANGLER FAMILY

994

"Train up a child in the way that he should go; and, when he is old, he will not depart from it." This Biblical injunction was bred into the warp and woof of Carl Maynard Spangler's being and bore fruit throughout the entirety of his life. As a young child, an adolescent and a young man he toiled ardously along with his siblings on the farm supervised by his father. His father prospered and became an extensive landowner. Carl's early memories were of never-ending farm work mitigated by the love and guidance of devoted parents. The bare outline of Carl's future years proves that his heritage of hard work and training produced enviable results.

Carl Maynard Spangler born November 13, 1902 was the ninth of twelve children born to Absom Dixon Spangler and Nannie Patience Greene Spangler. Always meticulous, these Spanglers divided their children equally — six boys and six girls. Perhaps they were the fore-runners of the ERA in Cleveland County!

He attended Piedmont High School where one of his schoolmates, Fannie Lou Kistler, attracted him very much. On November 18, 1925, Carl married Fannie Lou Kistler (May 1, John Bettis (J.B.) was born March 31, 1914. He married Maude Katherine Padgett on September 14, 1941. Their three children were Martha Katherine born April 5, 1945. She was married to Wintford Bruce Harless, Jr. on December 22, 1972. They have two children, Amy Allison Harless born May 25, 1975 and Aaron Austin Harless born March 21, 1979. John Bettis Spangler, Jr. was born June 19, 1947. He married Donna Wiffong on April 10, 1976. Their daughter Christina Jean was born August 10, 1981. Phillip Maxwell was born May 21, 1949. He married Maureen Daniels on February 21, 1971. Their son Cameron Rush was born September 25, 1971.

Marjorie Belle was born January 22, 1916. She married Clarence E. Rice in 1936. Their one son Charles Edward was born September 22, 1937, and he was killed with his mother Marjorie in a tragic accident when hit by a car on the sidewalk in Gastonia on October 5, 1938.

Robert Franklin was born March 15, 1918 in Shelby, North Carolina. He married Christine Ariail on August 25, 1941. Their daughter, Marjorie Ann, was born February 24, 1942. She married Hugh O. Porter on August 2, 1964. They had three daughters. Martha Christine, August 27, 1967; Ann Marie, November 2, 1971; and Marjorie Ariail on May 16, 1975.

Roy Frederick was born May 16, 1922 and died in infancy May 16, 1922.

Loula Catherine was born April 8, 1925. She was married to James Philip Porter on January 20, 1951. They had two daughters. Janet Rose Porter who married Alan Douglas Roebuck on June 28, 1975. They have two children — Catherine (Katie) Jeanette Roebuck born May 18, 1977 and James Samuel Roebuck born December 19, 1979. Nancy Carol was born February 16, 1954. She married Edwin Reid Tillman, Jr. on July 1, 1978. Nancy toured Russia with the Good News Singers in 1970. This was a goodwill singing group sponsored by the First Baptist Church of Shelby. James Philip Porter died on November 26, 1979.

William Bailous was born September 9, 1928. He married Janie Sue Pruett on August 25, 1950. They had two sons and two daughters. William Mark was born July 30, 1952. Barbara Jo was born January 23, 1954. She married Charles Leabron Rogers. They have two sons — Charles Leabron born October 10, 1971 and William Earnest (Ernie) born June 2, 1977. Susan Ella was born May 1, 1956. She married Wayne Poston and had a daughter Sasha, born November 10, 1974. Edwin Thomas was born March 11, 1958.

Mary Ann was born September 14, 1931. She married Loy Lee Trice in Texas on May 16, 1952. They had one daughter Darla Ann, July 16, 1953. Two sons — Robert Lee (Butch) was born December 9, 1956 and William Berry born March 27, 1960.

Sources: The Spanglers of Cleveland County, 1975, by Theresa Spangler Lowe, Tombstone inscriptions, family Bibles, and family records.

— John B. Spangler

1905), the daughter of Zimri and Lela Warlick Kistler.

In 1927, having graduated from Piedmont, Carl and one of his brothers, C. D., went to King's Business College in Charlotte. Following graduation from Kings, Carl and his wife came back to Cleveland County to farm. For the next thirty years the Carl Spanglers lived on a farm located six miles North of Shelby. The farm was quite extensive since it comprised the John Smith, Jim Peeler, and Jim Weaver farms along with a plot of land which had formerly been called the Head Place. Never a person to practice idleness, Carl Spangler supervised his farm and worked for Production Credit Association, an organization whose purpose is the lending of money to farmers. During his twenty years with PCA, he also operated a roofing business. The respect and esteem he earned from those who knew him well stood him in good stead twenty years later when he went into general construction and land development.

Not all of Carl Spangler's adult life was devoted to business affairs. His family and church were the most important aspects of his life, and he and Fannie Lou considered themselves infinitely blessed with the birth of each of their five children.

Denice Lou Spangler (born November 1, 1927) is the oldest of these children. On July 19, 1944, Denice married Roger Hornsby McKee (born September 16, 1926), the son of Broadus Lee and Gertie Spencer McKee. To the union was born one son, Roger H. McKee, Jr., on November 9, 1947. In November of 1971, Roger, Jr., married Barbara Jean Baker, the daughter of Onnie R. and Lena Putnam Baker. Two sons were born to Roger, Jr., and Barbara McKee: Bradford David (born October 18, 1973) and Brian Patrick (born July 28, 1978).

The second daughter, Dorothy Ann Spangler was born December 24, 1928, and has always been considered a blessed Christmas gift! She has been a dedicated and influential teacher at Duke University since 1953.

The first son of the family, Carl Maynard Spangler, Jr., was born May 17, 1933. On June 30, 1957, he married Norma Faye Sparks, the daughter of Rufus Edgar and Addie Crotts Sparks. Carl and Faye have four children: Susan Lynn (born August 28, 1959); Carl Maynard, III (born August 15, 1963); Angela Faye (born July 13, 1966); and Michael Sparks (born November 11, 1967). Carl and Faye carried on the tradition of sexual equality by having two boys and two girls!

Austin Donald Spangler was born to Carl and Fannie Lou on October 8, 1937. In August of 1960 he was married to Janice Maxine Gardner, daughter of Harvey Max and Lucy Wright Gardner. A daughter, LuAnn, was born to Donald and Maxine on April 20, 1964.

The baby of the family, Joseph Dale, was born on June 11, 1941. Though the youngest child, Dale soon proved that he was not spoiled! Upon graduation from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, he entered the real estate business with his father. Since his father's death, he continues to work in real estate and to manage the farm for the family.

Obedient child, faithful husband, loving fa-

Carl Maynard Spangler

Fannie Lou Kistler Spangler

ther, successful business man, outstanding citizen and neighbor — these are titles which Carl Spangler earned and deserved. However, these were not the primary goals of his life. The church was a very important part of his life. He was a long-time member of Double Shoals Baptist Church where he served as Superintendent of the Sunday School for forty years. He was also chairman of the Board of Deacons and served in many other areas of leadership in the church.

In addition, Carl was civic-minded. A few of his numerous contributions were: Board of Advisors for the Salvation Army, Board of Advisors for Gardner-Webb College, and Kiwanis Club. Always, he served willingly and tirelessly wherever he was needed.

In 1958 Carl and his wife built a new home on Forest Hill Drive in East Shelby. He lived there until his death in June 14, 1977. He is buried in Double Shoals Baptist Church Cemetery. Surely a fitting epitaph for him would be the accolade which he must have already received: "Well done, thou good and faithful servant."

Sources: personal knowledge

— Denice Spangler McKee

CARLOS REUBEN and ELIZABETH ELLIOTT CABANISS SPANGLER

995

Carlos Reuben Spangler was born in Cleveland County, North Carolina on April 10, 1889 to Mr. and Mrs. Tom Spangler. They lived in the Double Shoals Community. He was from a large family, thirteen boys and four girls.

Reuben attended Piedmont School at Lawn-dale, North Carolina. He helped build the first church building for Double Shoals Baptist Church in 1901. He served as sexton for a number of years.

In 1916, C. Reuben, his brother Mal and John Scism were appointed by their church to be delegates to the Kings Mountain Association which was meeting at Waco, North Carolina. They climbed into their buggy and were on their way. Meanwhile, in Shelby, a delegate from Zion Baptist Church, Elizabeth Cabaniss was boarding the train for Waco, North Carolina to represent her church. This was not the first meeting of C. R. and Elizabeth. It was in this same year, 1916, that a special Children's Day Program was held. Elizabeth was at this meeting also. C. R. baked his first cake for this occasion. It must have been delicious and the thing which caused Elizabeth to say "yes," for on October 11, 1917 they were married by Reverend A. C. Irvin. They had three children.

Thomas Norris Spangler was born on August 25, 1918. He entered the army in March 1943. He died December 10, 1944 while serving with the 6th Division, Army of the United States, in the crossing of the Rhine River in France. He was buried in the Double Shoals Baptist Church cemetery.

Ralph Reuben Spangler was born on May 16, 1920. He married Cleve Whisnant of Polkville, North Carolina, November 11, 1945. They have three children — Margie Spangler born July 8, 1948. She and Ken Sibley were married June 6, 1971. They have a lovely daughter, Beth Ann Sibley, born March 21, 1973.

Their son, Ronald Norris Spangler was born May 29, 1950. Ronald and Virginia Knight from Fallston, North Carolina were married November 23, 1974. They have two children — Joshua Spangler born May 7, 1977 and Katherine Virginia Spangler was born January 29, 1980.

Their other daughter, Mary Ann Spangler, was born December 31, 1957. Mary Ann is teaching math in High School.

Golda Elizabeth Spangler was born November 7, 1926 to C. R. and Elizabeth Spangler. She died October 19, 1941.

C. Reuben Spangler is a very active member of Double Shoals Baptist Church. He served as a deacon for more than thirty-five years. He also served as a Sunday School teacher and as Sunday School Superintendent for several years. In 1949, he, his wife and son Ralph, donated an organ to the church in memory of Thomas Norris Spangler and Golda Elizabeth Spangler.

C. R. and Elizabeth Spangler live on a large farm in the Double Shoals Community. They have a host of friends, nieces and nephews who love to visit them.

C. R. loves to sing and he sings now sometimes in the choir at church. He enjoys having people come to his home to sing.

C. R. and Elizabeth enjoy working with their flowers and garden. They always have something to share with their friends when they come to visit.

Elizabeth finished school at Boiling Springs. She taught school in Cleveland County.

Sources: Family Records

— Nina C. Rudasill

ERASTUS YATES SPANGLER 996

Erastus Yates Spangler, son of Abson Dixon "Dick" Spangler and his wife Nannie Patience Green Spangler, was born May 19, 1901 in the Double Shoals Community of Cleveland County, North Carolina. Yates grew up on the farm helping his father and older brothers farm the land. He attended the local community schools and then went to high school at Boiling Springs Boarding School until George Cornwell persuaded him to drive a bus to the Piedmont Boarding School. The bus, a 1910 Ford was purchased and Yates became the first school bus driver in Cleveland County and perhaps the first one in North Carolina. With this bus a new education horizon was available for those who could attend school but because of distance, money, home chores, etc. could not attend the boarding schools.

A bus like we have today? No! The bus did not have glass windows but only canvas shades to drop down over the windows in inclement weather. The bus made its route from Yates' home through the closest neighborhoods and up the road to Piedmont Boarding School in Lawndale, North Carolina. Most of the riders were a-kin since families seemed to live closer and stick together then. As the bus made its way, picking up each student, it rang with song and laughter as the students sang all the old favorite songs from home to school and school to home. The bus had its problems too. Once, as it was going down a hill, the steering wheel came off. Another time as they were approaching the Double Shoals Bridge, which turned a sharp forty-five degree curve along side a bank, several students thought they were going to wreck and jumped off the bus.

After leaving school Yates became more and more involved in the family farming, acquiring land of his own which naturally became farm land. In November 1925 his mother died from pneumonia. The youngest child, Novella, was fifteen years old and several of the family of twelve children were not married and still at home. As the brothers and sisters married, Yates farmed the land and looked after the homeplace. At one time he and seven others owned the Double Shoals Cotton Gin. Then he and a brother, Leck Spangler, bought the others out, ginning their own crops as well as for the public.

While taking a tennant on his place to the hospital, he met Daisy Mae Beam, a registered nurse. Daisy, born December 20, 1907, was the daughter of Thomas Phillip Beam and his wife Cora Burns Beam of nearby Ellenboro (Rutherford County) North Carolina. Yates and Daisy were married April 12, 1941.

Daisy was a graduate of Ellenboro High School and received her nurses' training at Shelby Hospital, now Cleveland Memorial. She put her nursing career aside soon after her marriage to raise their family — a daughter, Theresa Spangler (Lowe) and a son, E. Y. "Buck" Spangler, Jr. She never returned to her career, but spent her time raising her family and pursuing her favorite hobby of raising beautiful flowers. Her garden bloomed from spring until frost and the blooms and plants were quite often shared with others. Many Sundays you could find floral arrangements in the church from her garden and the work of her hands.

Yates continued to farm, sometimes farming as much as three to four hundred acres of corn, wheat, other grains and the biggest crop being cotton. Meanwhile he began to invest in real estate, acquiring some rental houses and continuing both farming and real estate until retirement from farming in the early 1970's.

Yates has been a lifetime member of Double Shoals Baptist Church and Daisy joined him there after their marriage. He is active in various aspects of the church, serving as a deacon, singing in the choir, and on various committees. His concern has always been for the well-being of the church.

Yates and Daisy live in the Dick Spangler homeplace, have two children — Theresa S. Lowe (Mrs. Bill Lowe) and E. Y. "Buck" Spangler, Jr. (m. Sherry Hord), and three grandchildren — Bradley Lowe, Donna and Paula Spangler.

— Theresa S. Lowe

EUBERT BYNUM SPANGLER 997

Eleventh child of Abson Dickson Spangler and Nannie Patience Greene Spangler, Eubert, known in his younger days as "Cube" (also E.B.) married Edith Vernelle Beam. She is the daughter of Hattie Lela Beam of Lawndale.

Eubert was born and lived most of his life near Double Shoals. He was a cotton farmer until around 1955 when cotton began to fade out because of the boll weevil. He raised cattle and began working as a carpenter with his brothers, Yates and Carl, helping build the Camp LeJeune project at Jacksonville, North Carolina. Later the farm was sold and he and Edith moved to town. They presently live at 1109 Fallston Road.

Edith spent her younger years as mother and housewife. She also worked in the fields. A very versatile woman she could complete any task she set her mind to. After all the children were out of high school, she went to beauty school. She was a beautician for about seven years. She then worked at Cleveland Memorial Hospital for ten years as a receptionist at the visitors desk and a sewing attendant in the laundry room. At seventy-one years of age she is still very active sewing, fixing hair for family and friends and taking care of her aged mother at Beam's Nursing Home.

Edith and Eubert have three daughters and one son: Eloise married Hoyle Hoyt Wright of Fallston. They have a daughter Sheila Ann and a son Jeffrey Hoyt.

Eugene "Gene" Bynum married Mary Elizabeth Elam of Shelby. They presently live in Charlotte. They have two daughters; Sharon Elizabeth, and Kelly and one son Marc.

Shirley Ann married David Phillip Greene of Lattimore. They have one daughter Phillis Ann and two sons, David Phillip, Jr. and Thomas (Tommy) William.

Sara Elizabeth married Albert Reynold Greene of Lattimore (Albert and Phillip are brothers). They have two daughters; Cynthia (Cindy) Louise and Susan Elizabeth and two sons; Scott Albert and Steven Reynold.

Sources: Personal interviews

— Sara Spangler Greene

Piedmont School bus driven by E. Yates Spangler.

FLOSSIE VIOLA SPANGLER 998

Flossie Viola Spangler, sixth child of A. "Dick" and Nannie Patience Greene Spangler, married Clyde William Cornwell, oldest child of William E. and Artie Cline Cornwell on February 13, 1921.

As a wedding gift from Clyde's parents, they were given a 35 acre tract of land near Waco, N.C.

On October 3, 1922 a daughter, Yvonne Faye, was born to them. Soon after her birth there was talk of buying another farm.

It seems when Clyde and Flossie were courting they often went for buggy rides on Sunday afternoons. They usually passed the "Ham" Williams homeplace. Both wished that someday they might live in that house and own that farm.

Now their "dream farm" was for sale. It was located in the Double Shoals community nearer to both their parents. So Clyde and Flossie sold their present farm to Yates and Essie Sperling, who owned the adjoining farm. (Essie and Flossie were sisters).

After the move to the one hundred sixty acre farm — two sons were born — William Dixon (Bill) on August 24, 1924 and Fred Eugene on June 18, 1926.

Clyde and Flossie loved their children, Double Shoals Baptist Church, the farm life, and people in general. Their home always had the welcome mat out for family and friends. Their cool screened front porch with a swing and rocking chairs was always filled with sounds of laughter and friendly conversation.

Yvonne Faye married John Warren Hoyle on December 20, 1945. They have two sons, Clyde Ernest (Ernie) born December 16, 1947 and John Douglas (Doug) born on January 17, 1962. Yvonne and Warren along with Doug live in Shelby, N.C. Ernie and his family live in Wilkesboro, N.C.

William Dixon (Bill) married Ilease Brackett on June 10, 1944. Two boys were born to Bill and Ilease, William Dixon Jr. (Dick) born July 16, 1948 and Stephen Lee born July 5, 1951. Bill and Ilease live in Charlotte, N.C. as do their boys and their families.

Fred Eugene married Betty Jean Boggs on November 30, 1947. They became the parents of a boy and a girl, Fred Eugene Jr. (Gene) was born September 30, 1950 and Ella Christine was born August 24, 1953. Fred and Betty moved to Columbia, S.C. in 1962. They along with Gene still reside there. Christine and her family live in Greensboro, N.C.

Flossie lived to see her first two grandchildren. A victim of Multiple Sclerosis she passed away on October 28, 1949. Clyde William passed on March 3, 1962. They are buried at Double Shoals Baptist Church.

Source: Personal knowledge

— Yvonne C. Hoyle

HATCHER, DAISY HAMRICK, MISSES FLORENCE and MINNIE SPANGLER

999

Hatcher Spangler was born December 26, 1910 to Schenck and Margaret Lankford Spangler. He was the youngest of thirteen children. He attended Spangler School as a young child and was a student of Professor Burns at Piedmont School.

As a boy of ten he received a bicycle which was quite different from the mule he had been accustomed to riding. As a result of learning to acquire his balance he had an accident and broke the corner of a front tooth.

Driving proved to be another experience for a lad of thirteen. He had the fundamentals down pat. It was just getting the old Chevrolet to crank! It was necessary to crank the car by a hand crank, and after giving the car too much spark the crank kicked his right arm causing a broken bone. He was taken to Shelby Hospital where a splint was applied. Hatcher recalls the arm was sore after the accident, but spirits fell when his father gave the old Chevrolet to an older brother.

The death of his father in 1928 required him to assume the responsibility of the farm and his immediate family — two sisters and his mother. Farming proved to be rough during the depression and a hard task for a lad of seventeen.

After several courtships and noted remarks about his bachelor status, he met and fell in love with Daisy Hamrick.

Daisy was born December 15, 1906, the second child of Henry Frank Hamrick and Elsie Humphries Hamrick. She attended Dorland Bell School in Hot Springs, North Carolina and was a graduate of Cliffside High School. Later she attended the school of nursing at Shelby Hospital, where she graduated with honors.

Hatcher and Daisy were married at the home of Mrs. A. P. Weathers by Dr. Zeno Wall in 1942. Their first child, Emily Sue Spangler, was born in 1944. A second child, Margaret Elaine Spangler, was born in 1949. Emily married Larry Steven Hord in 1962 and one son was born from this union — Larry Richard Hord. Elaine married Randy Alvin Shuford in 1970 and one son was born from this union — Christopher Lee Shuford.

After the birth of their children, Hatcher purchased the Schenck Spangler homeplace, where he continued to farm and raise cattle. Daisy combined a career and raising a family by her energetic nature. She was employed by Dr. Ben Gold for fifteen years and worked as a private duty nurse at Shelby Hospital, now Cleveland Memorial, until having spinal surgery in 1955. Daisy was an asset to her community by always providing a helping hand when there was a need.

Hatcher and Daisy both loved their grandchildren and Hatcher was a child at heart in that he always enjoyed attending Ringling Brothers Circus. Hatcher had a joking nature and enjoyed playing practical jokes; however all the patience in the family belonged to his wife.

Hatcher is a member of Double Shoals Baptist Church where his wife Daisy joined in membership after their marriage. He has served on several committees in the church and is serving as a deacon. He loves to praise the Lord through song and in his love of gospel music.

Two sisters made their home with Hatcher and Daisy — Minnie Spangler and Florence Spangler.

Minnie Missouri Spangler was born May 5, 1889, the fourth child of Schenck Spangler and Hulda Crow Spangler. She attended Beams Mill and Royster Schools, one room schoolhouses. In 1917 she and a sister, Lillie, moved to Kannapolis where they worked for Cannon Mills. Minnie became sick when an outbreak of influenza occurred in 1919 and it was necessary for her to return home where she was nursed back to health. Minnie remained with her family where she took an active part in her church as a teacher. She loved the Lord and was continually educating herself by reading from His Holy Word.

Florence Novella Spangler was born January 20, 1904. She was the second child born to Schenck Spangler and Margaret Lankford Spangler. She attended Royster School and Piedmont School as a day student. She recalls riding the first school bus in the state of North Carolina. Many memories linger of the songs, jokes and friendships which were made. Florence is a member of Double Shoals Baptist Church where she served as secretary for eight years.

The Hatcher Spangler family — Hatcher, Daisy, Minnie and Florence — still reside at Route 1, Shelby, North Carolina.

Sources: Family

— Emily Hord

JAMES WEBB "JIM" SPANGLER

1000 A

James Webb "Jim" Spangler (1865-1925) was the fourth child of Jonathan and Barbra Hendrick Spangler. He was born, grew up and lived his life in the Double Shoals Community of Cleveland County, North Carolina.

On February 1, 1888, he married Carrie Emily "Emma" Laughlin daughter of John and Margaret Laughlin.

He and Emma were members of Zion Baptist Church until the organization of Double Shoals in 1899. Jim, Emma and Jim's brothers and sisters and their spouses along with his mother, Barbra, were eleven of the sixteen charter members of Double Shoals. "A faithful worker and generous contributor, he led a noble Christian life.

"Jim was a successful farmer, large land owner, thrifty and industrious person, loyal to his church, family and friends. He and Emma seemed to enjoy life and to enjoy each other. Many times you would pass and they would be sitting on the porch sharing a box of snuff. He didn't worry — just took life easy. If he wanted anything to eat that they didn't have or raise, he went to the store and bought it. His home was just across the river from the factory at Double Shoals and a company store was nearby.

Jim and Emma always welcomed visits from others. They enjoyed the company of others and made them feel appreciated while they were there.

On the day his sister-in-law, Patie Spangler, was buried (Wednesday, April 22, 1925), Jim died of the same illness — pneumonia. Emma continued caring for her family, living a long life remaining in the family homeplace until her death, January 7, 1964 at the age of ninety-three. She was the last of the charter members of Double Shoals Baptist Church as well as the last of the children and in-laws of Barbara and Jonathan Spangler.

Jim and Emma had eleven children, nine of whom grew to adulthood, married and are spread out in Cleveland County and elsewhere! Laura Spangler (Mrs. Clarence Wilson) Theodore Spangler (1m. Lealia Hunt, 2m. Mae Eskridge) Edgar Spangler (m. Selma Eskridge) Clarence D. "Dol" Spangler (1m. Vangie Elliott, 2m. Lula Baird) Abb S. Spangler (m. Mittie Warlick) Vada Spangler (m. Plato Crowder) Lemmie Spangler (m. Pearl Norman) Estelle Spangler (Mrs. Andy Warlick) Veva C. Spangler (1m. Ivey Whisnant, 2m. Cline Falls)

Sources: Cleveland Star

— Theresa S. Lowe

THE JAMES WEBB SPANGLER FAMILY

1000B

Laura Spangler was the first child born to James Webb and Emma Laughlin Spangler on December 30, 1889. She married Clarence Wilson February 19, 1913. They had two children. Clarence Edward born August 18, 1916. He married Evelyn Grayson and they had one son, Samuel. Samuel had two sons Jimmy and David. Laura and Clarence also had a daughter, Faye born May 14, 1918. Laura Spangler Wilson died July 27, 1973 and buried at Zion Baptist Church. She always made everyone feel at home when they visited her. Laura enjoyed life with her family.

Theodore Spangler was born May 9, 1892. He married Leila Hunt on August 6, 1914. They had two children. Dwight married Esta Hastings. They had a son, Michael. Thurman Spangler married Faye Jones and they have three children. Margie married Paul Earwood, Janice married Nelson Proctor and they have two girls, Susie and Terry. J.T. Spangler married Rachel Dalton and they had a son, Jerry. Theodore remarried Mae Eskridge. He died October 20, 1965 and was buried at Double Shoals.

Edgar Spangler was born March 9, 1894. He married Selma Eskridge. He died March 25, 1938.

Clarence D. "Dol" Spangler was born March 29, 1898. He married Evangie April 17, 1919. He later married Lula Baird on November 29, 1934. They had two children, Jimmy, born September 13, 1935. He married Beatrice Smith and had four children — Shirley, Cathy, Janet, and Gayle. Joe was born May 20, 1940. He was married to Janet Fox. They had two children, Rex Garland and Max Edward.

Clarence Spangler died April 25, 1978. He was buried at Banner Elk.

Abb Sylvester Spangler was born 1901. See Abb Sylvester Spangler.

Vada Spangler was born 1903. See Plato Dixon Crowder.

Lemmie Spangler was born June 5, 1905. He married Pearl Norman July 31, 1931. He lives at Double Shoals.

Estelle Spangler was born June 4, 1907. She married Andy Warlick February 3, 1926. They had Gene, born January 28, 1928. He married Helen Gardner and they had two daughters. Jamie Gail married Robin Cook. He was killed in an accident. She married James "Buddy" Willis. They have two children, Brandon and Gena. Lynn married Chris Devine. They have two children David Christopher and Dana Ashley. Helen died April 10, 1961. Gene remarried Doris Connor. Carolyn Warlick was born November 8, 1930. She married David McBrayer and they have three children, Kathy, Kevin, and Kay. Estelle is one of the great cooks in Cleveland County. She is a hard worker and has always opened her home to family and friends.

Veva C. Spangler was the youngest child of Jim and Emma Spangler. She was born July 17, 1910, and married Ivey Whisnant November 23, 1927. They have four children. Charles, born April 5, 1929, married Betty Neason July 31, 1949. They have three children. Donald married Nita Brackett and they have three children, Donald Joseph, Coy Bradley, Jeffrey Clyde. David is the second child of Charles and Betty. He married Ann Hughes. Elaine is their third child. She married Michael Dellinger. They have two children, Karen Michelle and Christopher Matthew. Eddie Whisnant is Veva C.'s second child. He was born July 24, 1934 and married Catherine Howie May 9, 1953. They had four children. Jimmy married Grace Koone and they had a daughter, Heather. Debra married Keith Wilson and they have a daughter, Leslie. Edwina married Jeffrey Kiser. Jake is the fourth child of Eddie and Catherine. Elizabeth is the third child of Veva C. and she was born November 30, 1936. She married Henry Hughes and they have two children, Michael and Alan. Alice Lynn was born October 13, 1950 and married Kenneth Willis and they have a son, Scott. Ivey Whisnant died May 18, 1969. Veva C. married Cline Falls. She, too, is a good cook and loves to have company. Her family is very important to her.

Sources: Family Bible

— Mrs. Douglas Cabiness

JOHN THOMAS "TOM" SPANGLER

1001

John Thomas "Tom" Spangler was the eldest child of Jonathan and Barbra Spangler. He was born August 29, 1857 (died September 11, 1939) in the Double Shoals Community of Cleveland County, North Carolina. About a month before Tom's fifth birthday, his father joined the Confederate Army leaving his mother to take care of him and a brother.

On December 17, 1878, at the age of twenty-one he married Maryann Landrum Green, (December 1, 1862 — January 30, 1953) daughter of John and Sarah McSwain Green. To this union were born seventeen children — 13 boys and four girls, as follows: John D. (m. Maud Sprouse), James William (m. Getanna Putnum), Bell (Mrs. Curtis Weathers), Baylous F. (m. Lula Dorsey), Dicky and Macky (twins) Dicky died age 1, Macky died age 5. C. Reuben (m. Elizabeth Cabaniss), Cleo (Mrs. Henry Royster), Mal (1m. Ethel Blanton 2m. Sue Moore), Lula (Mrs. Tom Cornwell), Nealus — died age sixteen, Summey (m. Marie Allen), Clyde (m. Gladys Yelton), Chivous (m. Alma Mauney), Dather (1m. Gladys Mauney, 2m. Alma Blanton), Everette (1m. Ollie Mae Lutz, 2m. Louise Norris), Effie (Mrs. Paul Kistler).

Maryann was a very happy person. She had a good sense of humor and you never saw her get mad. She had a good voice and loved to sing. Every morning she would get up singing and sing all the way through breakfast. Anytime she had work to do in or around the house you would find her singing as she worked, many times making up words as she went along.

Tom farmed for a living, raising mainly cotton and corn. He liked good mules to work with and always traded when he got a plug. Of course they raised their own cattle, had their own milk and churned their own butter. They always had milk to spare and liked to make homemade ice cream in the summer. A welcome sign to their house was the big open fire they kept in the fireplace to heat the house. You could not sit up close because it was too hot, but it warmed you through and through as you came in out of the cold.

Christmas brought no tree or no commercialism of today's Christmases. Each had a stocking or a box at the chimney and they always got "rusty coat" apples to eat with whatever else could be afforded that year.

After several years of marriage and several children, Tom and Maryann built their own house at Double Shoals moving in before they got the steps up at the front. C. R. Spangler was about two and one-half at the time and he remembers having to crawl up on the porch without the steps. There they lived until sometime after Tom died raising fourteen of their seventeen children to adulthood.

Tom and Maryann and their oldest child, John, were charter members of Double Shoals Baptist Church which was organized in 1899. Tom gave land for the new church which was built soon thereafter.

Sources: Family records

— Theresa S. Lowe

THE JOHN THOMAS "TOM" SPANGLER FAMILY

1002

My grandfather, John Thomas Spangler, was the eldest of five children born to Jonathan and Barbara Hendrick Spangler. (August 29, 1857 — September 11, 1939). Brothers and sister were: William Schenck Spangler, Martha Missouri Spangler, James Webb "Jim" Spangler, and Abson Dixon Spangler.

When he was 21 years old he met and married Mary Ann Green, also of Cleveland County, December 17, 1878. Grandfather was a farmer. Grandfather was a good provider. He loved to have visitors in the home, and had a good sense of humor. He was generous with his time in assisting the neighbors in their times of need. He took much pleasure in serving those delicious watermelons to all who passed by.

Grandmother enjoyed excellent health and was the mother of seventeen children. Even though she was small of stature and light weight she managed to carry on the unending task of housekeeping, including her ability to prepare an abundance of food for the hearty appetites. It was always amazing how much food she could bake in the massive oven of the wood stove. I remember, especially the chicken pies, biscuits, potato pie and fruit pies. In between all these household chores she found time to aid in times of illness at the homes of neighbors. She was faithful to the church and she would place a few cookies or a biscuit in her purse when she went to church to give to a fretful child during the service. Grandmother lived her entire life in Cleveland County (1862-1953).

The seventeen children born to this union were: (1) John D. (1880-1949) married Maude Sprouse of Georgia, (2) James "Jim" William (1881-1947) married Jatanna Putnam, (3) Sara Bell (1883-1951) married Curtis Weathers, (4) Bailous F. (1885-1976) married Lula Dorsey, (5) Dicky Spangler (1887-1888), (6) Macky Spangler (Twin of Dicky) (1887-1893), (7) Carlous Reuben "Rube" (1889) married Elizabeth Cabiness, (8) Flora Cleo (1891) married Henry Cleveland Royster, (9) Mal A. (1892-1963) married Ethel Blanton — Following her death he married Sue Moore, (10) Lula Landum (1894) married Tom M. Cornwell, (11) Cornelia "Nealus" (1895-1910), (12) Summey Emro (1897-1979) married Marie Allen, (13) Clyde Benjamin (1899-1934) married Gladys Yelton, (14) Chivous Eugene (1901-1948) killed in Auto accident in Florida, married Alma Mauney, (15) Dather H. (1902) married Gladys Mauney — Following her death in auto accident in 1948 he married Alma Blanton, (16) Everette Lawrence (1904) married Ollie Mae Lutz — Divorced — Later married Louise Norris, (17) Effie Amelia (1906-1951) married Paul Kistler.

Sources: Family records, tombstones, The Spanglers of Cleveland County book, and the Media Reserch Bureau in Washington D.C.

— John B. Spangler

JONATHAN SPANGLER

1003

Jonathan Spangler, born August 31, 1867 in Cleveland County, North Carolina, was the second child and first son of Absalom Spangler and his wife Martha "Patsy" (or "Sally") London Spangler, daughter of Henry London. Jonathan had at least four brothers and three sisters — Sarah J. Spangler, William N. Spangler, Mary Ann Spangler, James Webb Spangler, Martha Elizabeth Spangler, David S. Spangler, Texanna Spangler, and Reuben Alexander Spangler.

A farmer by occupation, he married Barbara Hendrick, September 23, 1856 (p. 108, Record of Marriages, 1856-57, Cleveland County). They had five children — four boys and one girl — John Thomas, William Schenck, Martha Missouri "Zue," James Webb "Jim" and Abson Dixon "Dick" Spangler. Of the five children, three married into the Green family marrying children of John Green and his wife Sarah McSwain Green. John Thomas Spangler married Maryann Landrum Green, Abson Dixon "Dick" Spangler married Nannie Patience Green and Martha Missouri Spangler married James McSwain "J. Mac" Green. Then James Webb "Jim" Spangler married Carrie Emily "Emma" Laughlin and William Schenck Spangler married twice — first to Hulda Crowe, daughter of Lewis Crow and after Hulda died he married Margaret "Mag" Langford, daughter of Lovi Lankforn.

In a short time after Jonathan and Barbara's marriage the trouble over slavery in the United States grew more tense. North Carolina, being called on by President Lincoln to fight against South Carolina, left the Union on May 20, 1861. In July 1862 Jonathan entered the Confederate Army as Private in Co. F, 56th, N. C. Infantry. At first he entered as a substitute for a brother-in-law, Hosea Gladden, using the money ($700) his brother-in-law paid him for taking his place, to buy a farm for his family. Hosea, a big robust fellow, said he knew he'd get killed if he went to war. Later it became time for Jonathan to take his own place in the war so the brother-in-law had to enter also and was killed in battle a few months later. On May 20, 1864 in a battle in Virginia, Jonathan was wounded and lost an arm. He was relieved from duty December 5, 1864 because of his injury and he returned home to his wife and children.

After Jonathan returned from the war, he was plowing a field one day and there was a tree in the field in the way. He couldn't chop it down with just one arm so he prayed for an answer, and lightning struck the tree.

In 1865 the fourth child was born and then in 1867 the last child was on the way when Jonathan took blood poisoning or gangrene in his old battle wound and died. He died six months before the child was born. His death came February 4, 1867. He was buried in the Zion Baptist Church cemetery (Route 5, Shelby). His grave, being marked with a Government Confederate gravestone, reads as follows:

Jonathan Spangler
Co. F
56 N.C. Inf.
C.S.A.

Aug. 31, 1837
Feb. 14, 1867

Sources: Family Records

— Theresa Lowe

WILLIAM SCHENCK SPANGLER

1004

William Schenck Spangler (September 14, 1859 — July 5, 1928) was the second child of Jonathan and Barbra Spangler and the only child to marry twice.

Schenck had a good sense of humor. He loved to talk, laugh and make people laugh. He made you laugh by the things he said and the way he would say them. He also liked to play little practical jokes when the opportunity arose. He liked to fish and sometimes would use a basket or big net to catch them. Not being able to join the foxhunts because of heart trouble, he often stood out in the yard or field and listen to them. He was very musically talented — could play almost any instrument, violin, banjo, guitar, juce harp, etc., but only played for friends and family. He never sang much but preferred to contribute his part of the music through the various instruments.

He farmed for a living, planting mostly cotton, corn and wheat. There was no fancy machinery like we have today but mules pulled the plows held by man and the grain was hand cut with a reaper.

Schenck's first marriage (September 7, 1882) was to Hulda Crow, daughter of Lewis and Nancy Earls Crow. Hulda was a good cook and Schenck often bragged about her cooking, saying he could eat anything she cooked. When she became sick and died at the age of thirty-eight, she left eight children ranging in age from two to sixteen. Schenck realized shortly after her death that he could not raise these small children alone.

After a brief courtship, he married Margaret "Mag" Dulcina Lankford (May 14, 1876 — August 5, 1954) daughter of Love E. and Lucinda Evans Lankford, on November 2, 1899. To this union there were five children born plus Mag raised the eight children of Schenck and Hulda as her own.

Can you imagine what Christmas was like with a family of thirteen children? A close knit family relationship with the surprise of a little doll about six inches tall (costing ten cents at that time) and a slice of orange apiece. What memories! Today kids cannot tell you from one Christmas to the next what they got.

Schenck died in 1928 (July 5, 1928) and was buried beside his first wife in the Double Shoals Baptist Church cemetery. Mag lived until 1954 and she, too, was laid to rest beside her husband in the Double Shoals Baptist Church cemetery.

The children of Schenck and Hulda Crow Spangler were: William Grover, who married Mary Smithy; Charlie Dixon m. Augustine Poliski; Lillie Emeline, m. Charlie Carpenter; Minnie Missouri; Docia Ellion m. Cleve Grayson; Luna Lee m. Dan Gold; Lonnie Ambros m. Bessie Dawkins and Lucy May who married Earnest Elliott.

Children of Schenck and Margaret (Mag) Lankford Spangler were: George Anderson; Lura Wright; Florence Novella; Verna Victoria m. Odus Falls; Oliver Garland m. Evangeline Falls and Hatcher Haywood married Daisy Hamrick.

— Theresa S. Lowe

WILLIAM THOMAS SPARKS

1005

William Thomas Sparks, son of Elizabeth (Liz) Sparks, was born on his grandfathers farm north of Shelby in Cleveland County, North Carolina. After his grandfather and mother died, the farm was willed to him. He lived and died there with the farm being willed to his family at his death.

William Thomas Sparks, born September 8, 1875, died July 7, 1941. He married Dovie Ellen Lail, daughter of Peter Lail, born May 7, 1877, died February 6, 1935, and buried in the Ross Grove Baptist Church cemetery. Dovie Ellen and William Thomas had ten children.

My father was born to Elizabeth (Liz) Sparks. She was the daughter of William Thomas Sparks and Mary Sparks. She had two sisters named Katherine (Katy) and Roxanne. These three sisters were well known for their talent of fortune telling by the help of a cup of tea. They were very popular with community people who needed their future predicted to them.

The other two sisters were old maids. My grandmother evidently did marry, but her husband was sent off the the Civil War and his name was never known. She had a son and named him after my grandfather. He lived there on the farm with her parents and when both she and her parents died, the farm was willed to their only heir. There had been a brother, but he had left the North Carolina area to settle in Texas. We do not know his name or any information concerning him.

My father, William Thomas Sparks, grew up on the farm and died there. He did many things during his lifetime to make a living for his family which grew to ten children. He was first a farmer, then dairyman. He also ran a country store and had a corn mill. He was a good cabinet maker and carpenter.

He built both homes the family lived in with his skills as a carpenter. The first one was a large home of nine rooms. This home is still standing, although it is about to fall to the ground at this time. The second home my father built was a room larger. The ten room home was just up the road from the nine room house. At this time it has been refurbished and a family is living in the old home place.

My father told me many times of his different carpentry endeavors. I can very much remember him telling me of helping build the Biltmore House in Asheville, North Carolina. He told me of building the old white wood Ross Grove Baptist Church that has recently been torn down. He also helped build the Mull Memorial Baptist Church. I often think that he must have been a superb builder and carpenter to be included in the raising of such fine buildings.

As said before the union of William Thomas Sparks and Dovie Ellen Lail produced ten children. The firstborn was a son named Rufus Edgar, born February 27, 1898, died September 7, 1937. He married Addie Crotts, born November 23, 1900. They were the parents of one son and three daughters: Rufus Gerald married Laura Ann Hunter; Fidelia Ann married William Gaither Edney; Amy Sue married Robert Earl Spangler and Norma Faye married Carl M. Spangler, Jr. The complete family still resides in the Shelby area.

The first daughter, Evelyn Nobelia, was born on May 31, 1899, died October 19, 1960. She was first married to Brodus Weathers who died in World War I. He is buried in Ross Grove Baptist Church cemetery. No children came from this first marriage. Her second marriage was to Clarence McGuirt and two daughters were born: Irene Margaret who married William Ralph Ferguson, and Edna Mae who married Walter Barnette. This family settled in the Concord section of North Carolina.

The third child of Dovie Ellen and William Thomas was a son. They named him William Austin. His birth was January 15, 1901 and he died by electrocution while working on power lines in Shelby, North Carolina. He died on June 19, 1924. He was never married, and is also buried in the Ross Grove Baptist Church cemetery.

The fourth child, a son, was named John Franklin and was born on August 12, 1903 and died April 2, 1964. He married Blanch Ethelda Earney, born January 10, 1909. There are no children from this marriage. John settled in Charlotte, North Carolina.

The fifthborn was another son, Lamar William, born August 28, 1905, died March 24, 1964. He married Nell Jackson Morris, born November 6, 1907, died March 5, 1982. They had two daughters: Nancy Ellen, married to Jack Wright, Jr., who now lives in Charlotte, North Carolina; and Dorothy Ann, married to Albert Eugene Allen. They presently reside in Shelby, North Carolina.

The sixth child was also a son, Landrum Ray, born January 4, 1907. He married Elsie Louise Edwards, born September 5, 1915. They have two daughters and one son; Donnie Caroline married to Tommy Washburn; Freddie Ray married to Martha Ann Kennedy; and Priscilla Lamar married to Dennie Williams. Ray settled in Harrisburg, North Carolina.

The seventh child was finally another daughter. She was named Junie Prue, born November 22, 1910, died March 18, 1982. She married John Logan Stamey and one daughter came from this union. Mary Ellen married Donald Cates. This family now lives in Charlotte, North Carolina.

The eighth born was another son named Everette Glen. He was born April 20, 1915. He married Lois Privette, born October 19, 1921. They have two daughters: Junie Grace married to Silas Bruce Davis and Libby DeEtta who is single. Everette resides in the Derita section of Charlotte, North Carolina.

The ninth child was another daughter named Mary Lou. She was born November 2, 1916 and married to Paul Caldwell Eddins, born February 6, 1913. One daughter, Paula Ann, was born to them. She is married to David Larry Blanton. Mary Lou still lives in Shelby, North Carolina.

The final child was another son who was named Thomas Edison, born November 6, 1922, died in October, 1979. He married Hazel Boon Gaddy, now also deceased. There were no children of this marriage.

Sources: knowledge and family Bible

— Mary Lou Sparks Eddins

THE WILLIAM THOMAS SPARKS FAMILY

1006

William Thomas Sparks, born 1875, died 1941, lived on a 300 acre farm five miles north of Shelby, Cleveland County, North Carolina. The location was on McBrayer Road and the land had been bought from a Weathers family. The surrounding farm owners were J.C. Black, Monroe Dedmon, John Cline and D.Y. Jones. This farmland was in three tracts because the farm had two creeks dividing the land into three separate tracts of land.

My great grandfather, William Thomas Sparks, and great grandmother, Mary, lived on the middle tract of land on which they had two log cabin homes. The first was on a hill near a huge apple tree and walnut tree. Their second home, also a log cabin, was down near the spring.

William and Mary had a family of three daughters and one son: Katherine, Roxanne and Elizabeth. The son or his name was never known to me. He left home to settle in Texas. I never knew anything other than the son settled in Texas and had a family. William and Mary are both buried in a little family cemetery on the farm.

Katherine, Roxanne and Elizabeth were very popular with people who wanted their fortune told. They would tell their fortunes with a cup of tea. Katherine and Roxanne never married. Elizabeth did marry but we never learned his name. He went to the Civil War never to return. Elizabeth had a son that she named after her father William Thomas Sparks.

Katherine, Roxanne and Elizabeth were also buried in the little family cemetery of the farm. I cannot give any dates on births or deaths due to the fire that destroyed their second log cabin home and all family records.

Source: Word of mouth as told to me by friends and relatives.

— Mary Lou Sparks Eddins

THE GEORGE ELZIE SPERLING FAMILY

1007

George Elzie Sperling was born March 13, 1871, died July 13, 1953, the sixth child of John Jefferson and Margaret Eskridge Sperling. He grew up on his father's farm in Cleveland County, Shelby, North Carolina. After attending Teacher Training school he taught for seven years in Cleveland County schools.

After this, he became an outstanding farmer in Cleveland County; along with operating a cotton gin, corn mill, saw mill, blacksmith shop and a general country store. He was one of the founders and directors of Cleveland County Fair.

He married Mary Jane Justice on May 28, 1899. She was born August 21, 1878, died October 26, 1977, the daughter of Harriet Jane Gold and John Jefferson Justice of Shelby,

North Carolina. Nine children were born to this union. She was a devoted housewife and mother, noted for her unusual skills in sewing and cooking for the family. In addition to home duties she assisted in operating the store located close by the house. She possessed a warm and outgoing personality which resulted in many warm friends who regarded her as a kind and helpful neighbor.

First child — Corinne (b. Dec. 3, 1899) married Lawson Holly Ledford (b. June 13, 1894-d. Nov. 18, 1958); home, Shelby, North Carolina. Second child — Margaret Iva (b. Nov. 27, 1902) married Norman Bennett Lee (b. June 10, 1901 — d. Sept. 14, 1976); home, Lattimore, North Carolina. Third child — George Heyward (b. Jan. 25, 1904 — d. June 9, 1970) married Inez Harris (b. Nov. 6, 1914); home, Shelby, North Carolina. Fourth child — Clara Jane (b. Jan. 17, 1906 — d. June 13, 1981) married Kent Kerner Brown (b. March 14, 1905); home, Blowing Rock, North Carolina and Vero Beach, Florida. Their children — Mary Kent (b. Jan. 8, 1936) married Bobby Lee Poteat (b. Jan. 17, 1932 — d. Dec. 29, 1979). They have four sons, Bobby Kent (b. Jan. 31, 1957), Christopher Lee (b. July 13, 1958), Mark Steven (b. May 13, 1960), Noel Patrick (b. Dec. 21, 1962); home, Fernandina Beach, Florida. Clara Jane (b. April 4, 1942) married Newland Heath Bush (b. Nov. 12, 1937); home, Ft. Washington, Maryland. Their children — Nathaniel Heath (b. Oct. 3, 1970), Rebecca Kent (b. Dec. 13, 1972). Fifth child — Madge Roberta (b. Oct. 31, 1909) married Lloyd Ray Little (b. Oct. 20, 1904); home, Shelby, North Carolina. Sixth child — Macie Gold (b. Oct. 30, 1911) married James Franklin Ormand (b. June 15, 1900); home, Gastonia, North Carolina. Their children — Rosemary (b. Oct. 12, 1932) married Dr. Carl Harold Weber, Jr. (b. July 28, 1933); home, San Antonio, Texas. Their children — Dr. Carl Harold III (b. Nov. 3, 1952), Benjamin Ormand (b. Aug. 11, 1962), Robert Buchanan (b. Nov. 14, 1963). Lt. Col. James Franklin, Jr. (b. July 30, 1934) married Alicia Smith (b. Aug. 16, 1937); home, Albuquerque, New Mexico. Children — Susan Ann (b. May 23, 1953) married Scott Cooper (b. Nov. 1, 1949); home, Aiea, Hawaii, James Franklin III (b. April 19, 1960), John Michael (b. April 19, 1960); home, Aiea, Hawaii. Seventh child — Lalage Louisa (b. Aug. 7, 1914) married William Stowe Harrill (b. March 11, 1913); home, Greer, South Carolina. Have three children — Susan Jane (b. May 26, 1946) married Stephen Allen Greer (b. July 23, 1947); home, Athens, Georgia. Their children — Stephen Allen, Jr. (b. Nov. 20, 1971), Jefferson Matthew (b. March 13, 1975), Michael William (b. April 29, 1978). William Stowe, Jr. (b. June 7, 1949) married Pamela Elizabeth Smith (b. Aug. 13, 1950); home, Taylors, South Carolina. Their children — Laura Elizabeth (b. May 17, 1975), Frances Louisa (b. Sept. 20, 1979). Ruth Louisa (b. Jan. 3, 1952) married Dr. Jennings Larry Stroud (b. July 9, 1952); home, Decatur, Georgia. Eighth child — Nancy B. (b. April 4, 1917) married Thomas Collie Tadlock (b. Sept. 9, 1915-d. July 14, 1976); home, Monroe, North Carolina. Their children

George Elzie Sperling, 1871-1953.

Mary Jane Justice Sperling, 1878-1977.

— Thomas Collie, Jr. (b. Dec. 18, 1947) married Patrica Lynn Dawkins (b. March 17, 1949); home, High Point, North Carolina. Two children — Bradley Thomas (b. Aug. 10, 1972), Emily Louise (b. Jan. 28, 1975), Mary Ann (b. Dec. 18, 1950) married Randy Gordon Crawford (b. May 4, 1950); Rocky Mount, North Carolina. One child — Matthew Tadlock (b. March 29, 1981). Ninth child — Charles Coleman (b. Jan. 24, 1920) married Nell Roberts (b. Oct. 16, 1926); home, Shelby, North Carolina. Their children — Charles Coleman, Jr. (b. July 25, 1951), George Roberts (b. Nov. 25, 1953), John Jefferson (b. Dec. 30, 1954).

After Grandmother Sperling's death, Grandfather, who was a Civil War Veteran lived in our home until his death. Also our mother's niece, LaLene Grigg (b. March 15, 1904) lived in the home and seemed like a sister.

As a young man our father would pass a plot of land each time going to town which had many beautiful oak trees growing on it and would often dream of owning it someday as the site where he would build his future home. Early in the 19th Century this dream was realized — after living in the small three room cottage a few years he built a large Victorian house. In 1928 this house was practically torn down and reconstructed into the present brick Colonial home. It is now the home of one of the daughters, Madge, and her husband Lloyd Ray Little.

Many happy occasions were enjoyed by this large and devoted family, such as Christmas, birthdays, Mother's and Father's Days, weddings and wedding receptions. The most memorable being the celebration of our parents' 50th Wedding Anniversary, May 28, 1949.

Our parents were active members of Ross Grove Baptist Church and are buried in the church cemetery. Their nine children were at sometime members, too. As they married, moved into other communities, they became members of the local church. Some of the children are still loyal and faithful members of Ross Grove Church.

We are grateful for our parents and the fine heritage they left us.

Sources — family memories, personal knowledge and family Bible

— Mrs. L.H. Ledford

CLARENCE YATES SPERLING FAMILY

1008

Clarence Yates Sperling the son of William Issac and Amanda Sperling was born April 5, 1900 at the home of his parents in Cleveland County near Waco, N. C. He was educated at the Old Beam School and Waco High School. He worked on the family farm with his father until his marriage.

Yates married Essie Idella Spangler, daughter of Abson Dixon and Patience Greene Spangler on November 26, 1924. The first year following their marriage, Yates and Essie lived at the home of his parents, and then purchased the farm joining his father's farm on Sperling Road near Waco.

It was there that they reared their four children, one son and three daughters. William Glenn Sperling was born September 13, 1926, Mabel Elizabeth Sperling (Mrs. Robert S. Jones) was born August 7, 1928. Patience Faye Sperling (Mrs. Bobby Irvin Spake) was born May 26, 1930. Margaret Ruth Sperling (Mrs. Jimmy Wilson) was born November 12, 1934.

Yates was a dedicated and good farmer with cotton as his major crop. He served on the Cleveland County A.S.C.S. committee, and was a member of the N. C. Crop Improvement Association. He realized the importance of planting foundation seed and began growing grain and cotton for certification.

In 1949 he and his son Glenn started a partnership, Yates Sperling & Son, and their farm operation expanded. They planted, and had contract growers to plant registered cotton seed to be grown for certified seed. Cleveland County was known for the production of cotton, and high germination cotton seed. The Yates Sperling & son Co. had the cotton seed machine delinted and packed in new 100 pound printed burlap bags bearing the Cleveland County emblem. They sold seed through the Carolinas, Georgia, Alabama and exported

Cotton seed to Spain.

Yates had a heart attack in 1957 which slowed his activities down. He began turning the operation over to his son Glenn. He died on September 16, 1965, and was buried at New Prospect Baptist Church where he was a life long member.

Yates was the only son of William Issac Sperlign. Glenn was the only son of Yates. Glenn has two daughters who want to introduce you to their father, the last son of the W. I. Sperlign lineage.

Our father, William Glenn Sperlign, was born at the home of his parents, Essie Spangler Sperlign and Clarence Yates Sperlign, in Waco, on September 13, 1926. He attended Waco School where he graduated in 1944. Following high school, Daddy's immediate future was determined for him due to World War II. He was drafted into the Armed Forces, where he served in the United States Navy for two years. While in the Navy, he spent most of his time aboard the destroyer, USS O'Hare, where he worked as a typist in the ship's offices.

Just before Daddy entered the Navy, he met our mother, the former Ruby Isadore Beam, daughter of Joseph Luther Beam and Addie Mae Barnett of Cleveland County. She had graduated from Number Three High School and had completed business school at the National School of Commerce in Charlotte, N.C. After Daddy's tour of duty with the Navy, they were married September 8, 1946. They made their home on the family land in Waco. Daddy then began working with his father on the farm. Granddaddy Sperlign had farmed all of his life, as had his father, William Issac Sperlign. In those days, the major crop was cotton, and that was what they grew. Our grandfather had quite a love for cotton, which our father certainly inherited.

As one might expect, their favorite part about the cotton season was harvest time. One very memorable aspect was "weighing-up" time. Since cotton was picked by hand, the amount picked had to be weighed at the end of each day. At that time, Daddy and Granddaddy would take old hand scales to the fields, tie up the sheets of cotton, hang them on the scales, and weigh them. Each worker was then paid for what he had picked. Granddaddy would pay them out of money which he carried in an old cigar box. Finally, the cotton would be loaded onto wagons and pulled to the cotton gin.

At the time of our grandfather's death in 1965, many changes were occurring in farming techniques. Mechanical cotton pickers replaced human labor. The machines which could pick two rows simultaneously were filled and dumped onto metal wagons which could hold five bales of cotton. Not only did changes take place in the techniques used, but also in the physical nature and operations on the farm. Daddy increased the acreage of his farm by purchasing the farm adjoining his which had been his Grandfather Sperlign's land. He also began planting soybeans in addition to cotton. The Yates Sperlign & Son company had been selling cotton seed throughout the Carolinas and in Georgia and Alabama. Daddy continued this aspect of his business and added to it by becoming a seed and grain broker.

Although Daddy's work on the farm consumed the majority of his time, he still managed to participate in other activities which include lifelong membership in both the North Carolina Crop Improvement Association and Carolina Cotton Growers, Inc., where he serves on the Board of Directors.

Daddy would be the first to admit he has always had excellent support from our mother. She has always kept the books and records for the business in addition to her job as a mother and homemaker. She has always been active and creative, whether it be making clothes for herself and us, doing hand and needlework, teaching Sunday School or working during the elections at Waco.

Glenn and Ruby have two daughters: Carolyn Jane, born October 25, 1951, and Nancy Ruth, born December 1, 1954. Jane is married to Douglas Bryan Young and they reside in Durham where Bryan is a physician. Nancy is married to Roderick Doyle Parrish and they presently live in Raleigh. Jane graduated from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill with a degree in English Education. Nancy also graduated from UNC with a BS degree in pharmacy. Both daughters are very grateful to have had such wonderful parents and grandparents.

Sources: family records and personal knowledge.

— Jane S. Young
and Nancy S. Parrish

THE ISSAAC SPURLIN (SR.) FAMILY

1009

Isaac Spurlin Sr., son of John and Myally Spurlin, was born about 1770 probably in Chatham/Orange County, North Carolina where he lived with his parents from at least 1770 to 1782. By 1786 the family moved to Richmond County, North Carolina where Isaac eventually set up his own household before settling in Rutherford County, North Carolina, and Cleveland County.

On February 18, 1800 John Spurling deeded to his son Isaac fifty acres in Richmond County adjoining land which Isaac owned "... in consideration of the natural love and affection which I bear to my son Isaac Spurlin ... " In 1801 Isaac sold this property where he lived on the waters of Mountain Creek. Isaac sold the fifty acres to John Billingsly for $150.

In 1803 Isaac purchased from John Roper two parcels of land which adjoined each other and were situated on the waters of Mountain Creek in Richmond County. Isaac paid one hundred pounds for this land which totaled approximately one hundred acres. On January 5, 1812 Isaac sold this land for one hundred pounds to Hugh M. Cole.

After 1812 Isaac Spurlin and his family moved to Rutherford County North Carolina. On January 12, 1815 Isaac bought from Martin Elliott approximately 246 acres in Rutherford County on both sides of Hickory Creek including the plantation where E. Spurlin then lived. Isaac purchased this land for $492. On May 24, 1825 Isaac sold to his brother Matthew Spurlin for $120 fifty acres on the west side of Hickory Creek where Matthew then lived. In July 1829 Isaac and his brother Matthew sold to Peter Mooney of Lincoln County fifty acres of their land also on the waters of Hickory Creek.

Although the identity of Isaac's wife is unknown, she was born about 1774 and died before 1830. Isaac and his wife raised nine children. Isaac's son Matthew Spurlin was born January 18, 1798 probably in Richmond County. He and his family lived most of their lives in Rutherford County where Matthew was a farmer. His wife, Nancy Smith, was born about 1795. They were married about February 18, 1821. Their children were William (born ca. 1828), Wesley (born ca. 1830), and Susannah (born ca. 1837).

On December 12, 1865 Matthew took a second wife, Sarah Lovelace, who was born in North Carolina about 1832. Their children were William W. (born ca. 1862), Sarah Lovelace (born ca. 1862), Judah (born ca. 1863), Matthew M. (born ca. 1874) and Jane (born ca. 1861).

William B. Spurlin was born about 1800 probably in Richmond County. He lived with his father, Isaac Sr., in Cleveland County in 1850. After his father's death about 1854 William lived with his brother John Berry in Cleveland County in 1860, with the Peckmans in Township #6 in 1870 and with his brother Isaac Spurlin Jr. in Township #6 in 1880.

Issac and his wife had four daughters. Drucilla (born ca. 1800-1804), Elizabeth (born ca. 1804-1810), Nancy Spurlin Putman (born ca. 1811) and Rebecca. All of the daughters were probably born in Richmond County except Rebecca who was probably born in Rutherford County.

Johnathan Spurlin was born about 1805 in Richmond County. In 1850 he lived in Cleveland County where he was a shoemaker. He and his wife Rebecca (born ca. 1818) had five children. They were Mary M. (born ca. 1836), Jemima (born ca. 1838), Isaac (born ca. 1844), John (born ca. 1846) and Andrew M. (born ca. 1850).

Isaac Spurlin Jr. was born December 22, 1811. He was the father of the Cleveland County line of Spurlin(g)s.

John Berry Spurlin was born about 1825 in Rutherford County. He lived with his father in 1850 and in 1860 was a farmer in Cleveland County.

In his will of June 20, 1854, Isaac Senior left most of his property to his youngest son, John Berry, including one hundred and fifty acres, a dwelling, all Isaac's stock of hogs, cattle and sheep, bee hives, his mare and colt, farming tools, household and kitchen furniture of every kind and his carryall wagon.

Isaac also left to his daughter Nancy Putman and her heirs about ten acres of land on which Isaac's son Johnathan was then living.

Sources: Will, deed and document information provided by Eleanor B. Spurlin, Matthews, and Ken Spurlin, Silverdale, Was., personal knowledge

— Diana Spurling

ISAAC SPURLIN JR.

1010

Isaac Spurlin Jr. was born December 22, 1811, probably in Richmond County, North Carolina. He moved to Rutherford County with his parents after 1812, and lived with them through 1830. He became a farmer and by 1840, established his household in Rutherford County.

By 1850, Isaac was living in Cleveland County and on January 10, 1855 Isaac bought for One hundred seventy dollars from Samuel Wilson, forty acres on the waters of the First Broad River in Cleveland County. This land adjoined land owned by Isaac's son-in-law, Moses Wilson, Thomas Lovelace and others.

On January 10, 1855, Isaac bought from Moses Wilson ten acres for fifty dollars on the First Broad River in Cleveland County. This property adjoined property owned by Samuel Wilson.

In September 1863, Isaac bought from Milton Gold for Five hundred eighty one dollars approximately thirty six acres situated on the waters of the First Broad River adjoining the land of Milton Gold and the Mc Entires.

On June sixth 1872, Isaac bought from his brother John Berry Spurlin one acre of land lying on Little Hickory Creek and along the Shelby Road adjoining land owned by John Berry. The cost of this land was Four dollars.

On March 13, 1883 Isaac and his wife Matilda sold to James M. Wilson 46 acres for Three hundred fifty two dollars and fifty cents. This land was also in Cleveland County.

The value of his Cleveland County real estate was recorded as $200 in 1850, $300 in 1860 with 1194 acres and $450 in 1870. His personal property was valued at $300 in 1870. In 1870 he and his wife lived in Cleveland County Township #5 Buffalo Paper Mill and Township #6 P.O. Shelby. In 1880 he and his wife and his brother William lived in Township #6 (excluding Shelby Town).

Jane "Jennie" Weaver was Isaac's first wife and the mother of his children. She was born around 1802 in North Carolina. They were married around August 4, 1832. Their children were John Jefferson (born around July 1833), Unity (born around 1836) and Elizabeth (born around 1839). Unity married Moses Wilson on March 14, 1854 at Isaac's home. Jennie Spurlin died March 12, 1876.

Isaac's second wife Matilda M. was born around December 28, 1837. Isaac and Matilda were married after Isaac's first wife died in 1876. Isaac died July 12, 1902 and Matilda died December 11, 1913. Isaac and his two wives are buried at Zion Baptist Church cemetery, Route 5, Shelby, North Carolina.

— Diana Spurling

THE JOHN SPURLIN FAMILY

1011

John Spurlin Sr. was the founder of a large family still prominent in Cleveland County today. He was born by 1735, probably in Virginia. He married his first wife Myally (Miley) by about 1758 and lived in Orange and Chatham Counties, North Carolina from at least 1770-1782.

He supplied sundries and cash to the North Carolina Militia and was repaid in 1782 and 1783 in the Hillsborough District.

He married his second wife Elizabeth before 1785, and by 1786 was in Richmond County. By the 1790's he had accumulated 610 acres of land, and by July 8, 1800 he bought a comparable amount of land on the East side of Buffalo Creek in what was then Lincoln County.

Some of his family had already moved into the Cleveland County area by this time, and by the time of his 1822 will, his family included his wife and twenty-three children. He had horses, cattle, sheep, and hogs on land bordering Buffalo Creek and the land of his sons Andrew and Hugh. The following explains what is known of his children.

His daughter Sarah "Sally" Spurlin was born about 1759 and married James Altum (born December 25, 1752) on September 9, 1779 in Guilford County, North Carolina. He was a Revolutionary War veteran. They lived in the Buffalo Creek area of Lincoln County, and by 1830 moved to Greenville County, South Carolina, where he died April 15, 1833. She died after 1855.

Jeremiah Spurlin (born September 10, 1760; died June 20, 1820) married Drucilla Baldwin (born December 23, 1761; died October 23, 1837, Hinds County, Mississippi) about 1781, and they settled in Mississippi. Some of their heirs settled in Bossier Parish, Louisiana.

John's daughter Nancy was born between 1761 and 1767 and married a man named Rickhardt.

John Spurlin Jr. was born between 1761 and 1767, and was likely the first Spurlin to settle in Lincoln County. On the 1790 census for Lincoln County he is listed with a woman and a female child.

William Spurlin was born January 12, 1769 probably in Orange County, North Carolina, and before 1793 he had married a woman named Sarah (born ca. 1767 in South Carolina). They moved to Pike County, Georgia, where he died April 30, 1835, and she died November 1859. He was a planter with six children, and he and his wife are buried in Old Hebron Cemetery.

James Spurlin was born in 1770 in North Carolina and married Francis "Frankie" Hicks (born ca. 1775, North Carolina). They settled first in Richmond County, but by 1807 owned land in Lincoln County and died after 1850 in Morgan County, Tennessee. He was a farmer and had at least six children.

Elijah (born 1771 probably in Orange County) married a woman named Susannah (born 1773) in Richmond County about 1793. He was a farmer, and they had at least ten children. By the 1800 census they lived in Lincoln County and held land on Beason's Creek, which became part of Cleveland County. He died August 3, 1845, she died three days later, and both are buried in El Bethel Church.

Isaac Spurling was born in 1772 in the Orange/Chatham County area and died in 1854 in Cleveland County. He and his wife lived in Richmond County until about 1812, when they moved to the Hickory Creek area of what was then Rutherford County. They had at least nine children, and they formed the main line of Cleveland County Spurling descendants.

Jesse Spurlin was born in 1776 in the Chatham County area and later moved to Richmond County where he sold land in 1804. On the 1830 Rutherford County census his family had eleven members. His tombstone in the W. M. Spake Cemetery shows that he died April 29, 1838, but his widow Elizabeth was still living in Cleveland County in 1850.

John's daughter Mary was born ca. 1774 and married a man with the surname Ross. John's son Eli was born ca. 1775. Eli was in Smith County, Tennessee in 1820.

Hugh Spurlin was born early in the 1780's, owned property in Richmond County in 1807, and later lived in Lincoln County and Georgia. In August 1814 he was mustered into the Lincoln County Second Regiment.

Rachel Spurlin was born early in the 1780's and married a man named Long. Anna Spurlin was born ca. 1784 in the Chatham County area. Aaron Spurlin was born ca. 1784-85 and may have later gone to Georgia but was in the Beason's Creek area of Lincoln County in September 1801 when he witnessed a land transaction for his brother Elijah.

John's daughter Elizabeth was born ca. 1786-90. Levi Spurlin (born ca. 1786-90) was a farmer who moved to Warren County, Georgia where on December 9, 1815 he married Cynthia Brooks.

Esther Spurlin was born ca. 1786-90 and married a man with the surname Martin.

Stephen Spurlin was born about 1790 and lived along Whiteoak Creek in Lincoln County, 1822.

Andrew Spurlin was born about 1794, later lived in the Buffalo Creek area of Lincoln County, and by 1830 he and Hugh had moved to Habersham County, Georgia.

John's daughters Delilah (born about 1800) and Lavina (born 1801) each inherited $30, bed, furniture, and dresserware in his 1822 will.

Martin Spurlin was born between 1804 and 1810, and on the 1830 Lincoln County census had a wife and one son less than five years old.

Sources: Eleanor B. Spurlin for U. S. Census analysis and other data, Ken Spurling for personal materials, and family records.

— Norman Kent Spurling

THE JOHN JEFFERSON "JEFF" SPURLIN(G) FAMILY

1012

John Jefferson Spurlin, son of Isaac Spurlin (Jr.), was probably born in Rutherford County, North Carolina in July 1833, and died October 26, 1924 in Cleveland County where he lived most of his life. On September 8, 1856 Jefferson and Margaret N. Pagnelia "Peggy" Eskeridge (born January 1835, died December 15, 1911) were married in the home of William L. Eskeridge. In 1860 they were living in Cleveland County, where Jefferson was a farmer and owned real estate valued at $250 and personal property valued at $93.

John Jefferson was in Company F 56th Regiment during the Civil War. In May 1864 at a battle along Weldon Railroad near Petersburg, Virginia and Weldon, North Carolina, Jefferson was hit above the ankle by a minnie ball. His leg was amputated below the knee without any anesthesia. After returning home, with the use of a wooden leg, he continued to live an active life plowing fields and taking cotton to Shelby.

Three children were born before the Civil War and three children were born after the Civil War.

Mary Jane was born ca. 1858 and married Mac Ledford.

Julius J. (John J.?) was born in April 1859 and was a veterinarian and lived near Boiling Springs. He married his first wife Hattie Bryant on December 4, 1879 when she was twenty years old. (d. March 19, 1913). In 1900 Julius J. was living in Cleveland County Township 9, Double Shoals.

Monroe Ellis was born April 10, 1861 and died August 28, 1920. He and his wife Mahalia Catherine Williams (b. September 21, 1855, died October 20, 1928) were married on February 22, 1883. In 1900 they were living in Cleveland County Township 9 Double Shoals where they lived most of their lives. Monroe was a farmer.

William Isaac was born after the Civil War around 1868 and lived near Waco and with his wife, Amanda Yarboro. He lost one eye in a bow and arrow accident when he was a boy, and lost his other eye in his adult life.

Laura Ann was born around 1866 and married Alex L. Hoyle on December 6, 1883 in Cleveland County.

George Elzie was born in March 1871 and married Mary Justice Ledford.

John Jefferson lived past the age of ninety and only took his first medicine at the age of seventy five. He and his wife are buried at Pleasant Grove Baptist Church near Fallston, North Carolina.

— Diana Spurling

THE MONROE ELLIS SPURLING FAMILY

1013

Monroe Ellis Spurling was born April 10, 1861, in Cleveland County, just before his father Jefferson Spurling was called to serve in the Civil War (1861-65). He died August 28, 1920. He was a kind and gentle man and wore a mustache.

Monroe married Mahalia Catherine Williams (born September 21, 1855; died October 20, 1928) on February 22, 1883, at the home of her father Wellmon W. Williams. Catherine was small in stature and a competent homemaker. They are buried in Pleasant Grove Baptist Church Cemetery.

They born and reared seven christian children in Cleveland County: John Gaston Spurling, an ambitious farmer, cotton ginner, and a hardware merchant was born December 2, 1883 and died February 12, 1952. He married Lou Ella Warlick, a school teacher, on November 12, 1918. She was born September 18, 1896 and died April 22, 1979. They are buried in Norman's Grove Baptist Church Cemetery, Belwood, North Carolina. They had seven children: Ellis Decatur born January 28, 1920 and died July 5, 1964; Ralph Clay born May 22, 1922 and died May 14, 1956; Bertie Lee born December 6, 1924; Earl Gaston born May 30, 1928 and died May 2, 1965; Mittie Mildred born August 24, 1932; Fred Donald born April 17, 1935; Roy Edward born October 12, 1937.

John P. Boggs (1874-1960) and wife, Ella Spurling Boggs (1885-1969).

Ella Christina Spurling was born March 3, 1885, and died June 6, 1969. On December 23, 1908 she married John P. Boggs (born March 3, 1874 and Died February 17, 1960), a prominent farmer and cotton ginner. They were good managers and before there was rural electrical utilities, they installed a generator in the creek on their farm to supply water and electricity for their home and that of a neighbors and for the cotton gin. They are buried at Norman's Grove Baptist Church Cemetery. They born five children: Lloyd Ellis Boggs born November 28, 1909; Sara Kathleen born February 5, 1914; Earnest Dwight born May 18, 1916 and died November 11, 1970; John J. Born July 11, 1921; and Betty Jean born March 19, 1928.

William Buford Spurling, a farmer and a jolly person was born September 2, 1886 and died September 15, 1962. He married Clara Teresa Gnatt (born April 21, 1895 and died April 4, 1967) on January 10, 1912. They are buried in Rose Hill Memorial Park, Fallston. They born six children; Julia Lorene, February 26, 1913; Thelma Catherine, November 9, 1914; Margaret Elizabeth, October 17, 1916; W. B. Jr., June 16, 1919; Clara Osteen, September 30, 1925; and Harold Gene, November 13, 1929.

Everette Gordon Spurling, a stock holder with Stamey Stores, Inc, Fallston, North Carolina and a life time secretary and treasurer of same was born August 22, 1888. On June 27, 1922 he married Vera Mae Lattimore, a school teacher, born March 21, 1898. They have given leadership in their Fallston Baptist Church and community. Everette served his town as mayor from 1973 through 1980. They have two sons: Everette Gordon, Jr. born September 5, 1923, and Dr. Carrol Lattimore born November 7, 1925.

Monroe Franklin Spurling was born July 20, 1890 and died May 26, 1977. He married Selvia Lattimore (born December 15, 1892), a substitute rural mail carrier by horse and buggy, on June 5, 1912. Frank and his family moved into the family home on the Lawndale-Belwood Road to care for his mother after his father died in 1920. He was an exceptionally good farmer and a reliable man. After his mother's death in 1928, Frank purchased the family farm which his family still holds. He is buried in New Bethel Baptist Church Cemetery, Lawndale. Their children are: Ruth Azelia born April 10, 1914; Pauline Catherine born July 31, 1916; James Edwin born September 5, 1918; William Robert born December 28, 1821; Warren Franklin born April 4, 1927; Charles Spurgeon born October 28, 1929 and died February 21, 1934; Elizabeth Ann born June 13, 1932; Daniel Lattimore born July 19, 1934; Thomas Grady born March 10, 1938 and died August 29, 1938.

Lee Spurgeon Spurling, an Attorney-at-Law was born April 17, 1895 and died June 13, 1945. On June 28, 1923 he married Kathleen Carter of Virginia, a school teacher. Spurgeon was serving his fifth term as Solicitor of the 16th Judicial District of North Carolina at the time of his death. He was an eloquent speaker, a vigorous prosecutor, but always fair and just to the defendants and their counsel. For twenty-five years he taught the Men's Bible Class at the First Baptist Church in Lenior. Spurgeon and Kathleen lived and are buried in Lenior, North Carolina.

Essie Laura Spurling was born August 3, 1897 and died March 4, 1979 and is buried in the Lattimore Family Cemetery near Polkville. On September 19, 1923 she married Boyd Lee Lattimore (born July 25, 1894), a farmer. He served with US Army in WWI 1918-19. Essie was a saleslady before marriage and was always dressed becomingly. She and her neices were affectionate toward each other. They born three children: Joe Ellis Lattimore, August 20, 1925; Dorcas Catherine Lattimore March 31, 1927; Reverend Boyd Lee Lattimore, Jr. November 11, 1939.

— Ruth Spurling Beam (Mrs. David E.)

CATHERINE WHITENER STACY FAMILY

1014

Catherine Whitener was born in 1792, the daughter of Daniel and Mary Wilfong Whitener. (for her ancestors, see related article "Weidner/Whitener" in this book). She grew up in her native community of what was then Lincoln County which was formed in 1779 from the former lands of Bladen and Anson counties. In 1842, this same land became known as Catawba County.

Along with her four sisters and five brothers, they did household chores, tended the land and livestock, cleared the lands and made clothes for the family. Life was very hard for them, but there were good times also, such as log rollings, barn raisings, quilting parties and dances.

On March 19, 1814, she was married to Zachariah B. Stacy, born in 1786 in Virginia. They were married in Lincoln County, but moved to Burke County, where they settled down to raise their family of eleven children. He was a school teacher and did not make much money so they were also farmers. They had five daughters and six sons: Mary, Lucinda, Emily, Elizabeth Ann, Pauline, Osborne, Daniel, Oliver, James, Vardie and Miles.

Zachariah B. Stacy died March 25, 1857. No record has been found on the death of Catherine Whitener Stacy.

We will continue here tracing the decedents of Miles W. Stacy. He was born in Burke County on August 14, 1819 and grew up to become a farmer.

His first marriage was to Lavina Stacy, born in 1812. They had four children and she died on December 12, 1854. No other information can be found on this marriage. After her death, Miles married again to Jemima Matilda England, born in Burke County on March 10, 1822. No other information has been found on her ancestors. The date of their marriage is not known. Miles W. and Matilda England Stacy had six sons: James Ira 1859-1931; Henry Pinkham 1860-1937; Jasper 1861-1940; Julius Emery 1862-1933; John 1866—; and Barto 1869-1932.

Miles Stacy died in Burke County on March 13, 1872 and is buried at Missionary Ridge Methodist Church in Burke County.

After his death Matilda England Stacy and her children moved to Rutherford County near Poor's Ford Bridge. They lived there as farmers, until one son bought land near Chesnee, South Carolina, and she lived with him until her death on February 18, 1902. She is buried at Cooley Springs Church near Chesnee.

We will continue tracing here the son, Julius Emery Stacy, my grandfather. He was born in Burke County on February 21, 1862, but grew up in South Carolina as a farmer. Nothing is known of where or how he met his future wife, Irena Hesentine Randall, born October 13, 1861 in Cleveland County, North Carolina. She was the only daughter of John Allison Randall (12-31-1833/8-12-1862) and Margaret Ramsey Pinson Randall (7-11-1827/11-7-1908). John Randall died of pneumonia in the Civil War, so Margaret Randall raised Irene alone. They lived in Cleveland County and Rutherford county until Irena married Julius Emery Stacy on December 31, 1888. They continued to live on the farm, handed down through the Randall family. They had four daughters: Camilla (10-1-1889) died at birth; Lela Mae (1891-1962); Lillian (2-11-1893/7-28-1893); Ida Matilda (7-3-1898/12-23-1973), (my mother), married Arthur Brooks. For more information, see article "Arthur Clarence Brooks Family" in this book.

Julius Emery Stacy died March 28, 1933 and Irena Hesentine Randall Stacy died May 1, 1941. Both are buried in the family plot with their two baby daughters, and her mother, Margaret Randall, at Shiloh Baptist Church in Rutherford County, North Carolina.

Sources: Annals of Lincoln County, Historical Records of Catawba County, Marriage Records of Lincoln and Tryon Counties, Word of mouth, Family Bibles

— Eunice Brooks Hart

THE FAMILY OF FRANCIS MARION STOCKTON

1015

Francis Marion "Frank" Stockton, born August 16, 1835, was the son of Thomas Jefferson Stockton and Nancy Pruett Stockton. Thomas Jefferson Stockton was a descendant of Davis Stockton, born in Northern Ireland, 1688, who with his wife, Sarah immigrated to America. Nancy Pruette was the oldest child of John and Eady Pruette. Her father was a Revolutionary War soldier servicing as a private in the Virginia Continental Line and was at the Battle of Guilford Courthouse in North Carolina.

Frank Stockton and Louisa Vandel Cabaniss, who was a school teacher, and daughter of Dr. James William Cabaniss and Elizabeth Elliott Cabaniss, were married at J.G. Williamson's on July 23, 1837. After their marriage Frank and Louisa Stockton moved to their new home on the Rutherford-Cleveland County line near Big Spring Baptist Church.

Mr. Stockton was a farmer and a master craftsman. He built houses and made beautiful furniture of walnut, maple, cherry, and pine.

When there was a death in the community, Mr. Stockton made the coffin, frequently working all night to finish one. The most expensive coffin sold for $5.00. This was made of thoroughly seasoned lumber he kept on hand for such a purpose and was covered on the outside with black velvet, supplied by the buyer. The inside of the coffin and the lid were padded with hand-carded cotton and the slip was of white bleaching. Cheaper coffins were painted on the outside with lampblack. There were no facilities for embalming, therefore, the rush of getting the coffin made.

Frank Stockton enlisted in the Confederate Army and served as a sergeant in the 56th Regiment Company F from North Carolina.

During the war years Mrs. Stockton was left on the farm with one small child and a slave girl. She had a very difficult time. When she desperately needed supplies she would go to Rutherfordton to be told she had to go to Shelby and there was told to go back to Francis Marion Stockton (1835-1902).

Remember . . .

Articles
Are Indexed
By
Article Numbers
. . . Not By
Page
Number

Rutherfordton because they could not determine which county she lived in. When she was afraid she would take her little son, John, and walk a mile or more on a path through the woods and stay with relatives. It was a joyous day when Mr. Stockton came home to stay after four long years of war.

On December 23, 1880, the Stocktons moved to a sixty-nine acre farm on the old Lincoln Road about two miles west of what is now Polkville, North Carolina. This land was part of the Cabaniss Estate. Mr. Stockton had built a house for his family. They liked living there. The land was easy to tend and they also liked being near relatives and friends.

There were eight children: Charles D. Stockton, born November 8, 1858, died October 3, 1859.

John J. Stockton, born October 5, 1860, married Martha Hord on November 8, 1886. They settled in Lawndale on a large tract of land on the east side of the First Broad River. The Stagecoach Road went in front of their home. There were no children.

Esther Elizabeth Stockton, born October 9, 1864, married Julius Gettys on December 29, 1884. They moved to a house on the Gettys property near Hollis. Later, they purchased land about one mile north of New House where the old Johnson Hotel stood. It was the first hotel built in this area and was constructed about 1790. The stagecoach stopped there as it traveled the Old Lincoln Road to Rutherfordton. The Gettys built their home across the road from the location of the Old Inn. Their children were: Chevis, Minnie, Lee, Janie, Lucy, and Yates.

William Worth Stockton, born September 25, 1866, married Della Robbins on January 5, 1889. They lived on the Hollis-Ellenboro Road and later in Ellenboro, North Carolina. There were two children: Preston and Coran.

Jesse F. Stockton, born August 13, 1869 bought land in Polk County, later moved to Virginia and then back to Polk County. Their children were: Dorcas, Dorothy, Charles, Selina, Matt, Lula, Texie and Rosie.

Virginia Ann Stockton, born April 17, 1875, married Oliver Beam Elliott on April 23, 1891. They moved to his brother Thomas Elliott's home. They later bought the John Paxton Elliott homeplace and moved there on December 24, 1895. Their children were: Ophelia, Alpha, Paxton, Frank, Robert, and Mary Gordon.

Mary Jane Stockton, born May 20, 1878, married D.M. Davis on October 26, 1899. They lived on a farm near the Old Lincoln Road. There were three children: Picola, Lake, and L.V.

Nancy Louisa Stockton, born November 14, 1882, married Amos Jones on September 20, 1899. They made their home with the Stockton family. There were four children: Clyde, Mamie Lee, Lottie Lou, and Mary.

Francis Marion Stockton died September 22, 1902. Louise Cabaniss Stockton continued to live at the homeplace. She died November 8, 1924. They are buried at the Elliott Cemetery, Cleveland County, North Carolina.

Sources: F.M. Stockton Bible, Writings of Preston Stockton, Writings of Mrs. Virginia Ann Stockton Elliott.

— Mary Gordon Elliott

GEORGE WASHINGTON STOCKTON

1016

George Washington Stockton, the son of Joseph W. and Sallie Prescillia Stockton, was born on April 21, 1857 in the Number 7 Township on the Lattimore/New House Road. On January 20, 1885 he married Margaret Jane Washburn at her father's home in Washburn Switch, which was known at that time as DePew, and is the present site of the PPG Plant. She was born June 18, 1867, the daughter of Charles Gabriel and Sarah Schenck Crowder Washburn, the granddaughter of Abram and Rebecca Durham Washburn and Allen and Pheobe Grigg Crowder, and the great-granddaughter of Gabriel and Prescillia McSwain Washburn and Charles and Patience Davis Durham.

At the beginning of this union the couple lived in a house about one-half mile from the Joseph W. Stockton home. Somewhere around 1888 they moved to Lattimore, residing in a house that has since been demolished, located north across the street from the Lattimore Fire Department. In 1890 they purchased a farm where they were to build a new house. While this house was under construction in 1893, G. W. and Mag kept house in the Old Durham Academy School building which stood between their house being constructed and the Olin Toms home, now owned by Ricky Toms.

Finally the Stockton home was completed and furnished with much of the same furniture still found in the home now owned by Mrs. Charles J. Stockton. There is the original bed and trunnel bed with which George and Margaret started housekeeping. In addition, there are washpots and stands, oil lamps, clocks, and spinning wheel that belonged to Mag's grandfather, Allen Crowder. All the furnishings are in excellent repair and much of it is still being used. A baby bed in which all of George Washington Stockton's children and grandchildren slept, as well as some of his great-grandchildren.

During the late 1800's the railroad through Lattimore made the town an important stopover for salesman or drummers, as they were called at that time. These salesmen would ride the train into town and rent their hacks, surrys, buggys, or most any other form of transportation needed to ply their trade from Mr. G. W. Stockton the owner and operator for the livery stable. His grandson Joe still has a buggy that was part of the equipment for hire, and also a double case key wound pocket watch that he carried. In addition to the livery stable, Mr. Stockton operated a sawmill and was known for his habit of never wearing his shoes tied.

Margaret Stockton, Mag or "the governor" as she was affectionately called by her children and grandchildren, was famous for her quilting and her cooking. As long as she lived, there were always plenty of pies and cakes in the pie safe which is still in use in the house today.

George and Mag had six children, Toy Carl Stockton, Roy Guy (Tac) Stockton, Sarah Stockton, Clara Ethel Stockton, Georgia Hill Stockton and Charles Joseph Stockton. Two of these, Sarah and Georgia, died as infants. Sarah, born April 6, 1892 died November 5, 1893 from injuries incurred when she fell into the fireplace.

Georgia Hill Stockton, born June 16, 1900 died on July 11, 1904 from what was traditionally claimed to be eating green apples or peaches, but what was probably appendicitis.

On Sunday evening of July 7, 1918, Mr. and Mrs. O. D. Price paid a visit at the home of George and Margaret Stockton. After their departing George went outside to feed the horses at the barn. On his way back, he collapsed in the old orchard with a stroke and died about 8:30 p.m. in the evening. His wife lived until April 28, 1940 and they both were buried at Double Springs Baptist Church.

Obituary:

Mr. George Stockton died Sunday night at 8:30 o'clock following a second stroke of apoplexy which overcame him an hour and a half before his death. About six weeks ago he suffered a slight stroke and was carried to Rutherfordton Hospital for treatment. He responded to the treatment and seemed very much improved. On Sunday his son Roy Stockton who is in training at a South Carolina camp had been at his bedside and had left two hours before for camp, leaving his father in apparent fair health.

Mr. Stockton was 62 years of age. He was married to Miss Maggie Washburn who survives with the following children: Toy C., Roy G., and Charlie Stockton and Mrs. Olin Toms. Deceased was at one time a prominent and successful lumberman. During the last few years he had devoted his time exclusively to farming. He was a man of excellent character, a splendid neighbor and dutiful father and husband and the community which held him in such high esteem will miss him.

The funeral was held yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock by Rev. G. P. Hamrick and the interment was at Double Springs Baptist Church amid a crowd of sorrowing friends.

G.W. Stockton one of the big lumber dealers of Cleveland County is Mr. G.W. Stockton, of Lattimore, who was born in this county, April 21, 1857. He has been engaged in the saw mill business for fifteen years and is acquainted with every detail of his business. Mr. Stockton's mill averages about 1,000,000 feet of lumber every year and he always finds ready sale for all of his lumber. From six to fifteen hands are employed regularly and everything is kept humming around the mill.

Mr. Stockton was happily married about 10 years ago to Miss Maggie Washburn, daughter of the late C.G. Washburn, who was one of the county's most highly respected citizens.

Mr. Stockton has been successful because he has been honest and unceasing in his labors and he has built up a trade that is remunerative in proportion to its volume.

Sources: Records John Preston Stockton, Family Bible, Cemetery & Court Records, Cleveland Star

— Joe Stockton

JOSEPH W. STOCKTON

1017

In 1829 Joseph W. Stockton, the son of Thomas Jefferson and Nancy Pruett Stockton, was born on December 20, 1855. He married Sallie Priscilla Philbeck, the daughter of John Philbeck and Rhoda Washburn Philbeck. She was born on November 28, 1834, and her maternal grandparents were John Washburn and Mary Ann Magness Washburn, and her great-grandparents were Gabriel Washburn and Priscilla McSwain Washburn.

Joseph W. Stockton was a man of versatile talents. He operated a farm, a sawmill, a cotton gin, a general store, and in the 1860 Cleveland County census his occupation was listed as a distiller with a Federal permit. He bought his farm of over 200 acres in 1854 at a public auction for two hundred and fifty dollars. This farm is currently owned by Eddie Harrill and is known locally as the Gaff Lattimore farm.

On November 22, 1861 Joseph W. Stockton joined the 38th Regiment, Company I of the Confederate Army and served in the Civil War under Captain O.P. Gardner. His great-grandson Joe Stockton still has the powder horn his great-grandfather carried during the war. He also has a table that Joseph W. Stockton made and hand carved.

There are several legends perpetuated about this family that originated from Thomas Needham Stockton, one of the older grandsons who lived next door to his grandmother. One of these legends is that around 1867 or 1868, Joseph and Sallie Priscilla decided to move the log farmhouse from down near the spring closer to the road. While the house was being dismantled, moved and reconstructed the family lived in a brush arbor. Another tradition establishes that during the civil war when supplies were hard to come by, Sallie Priscilla took the dirt from the smokehouse floor and boiled it to obtain enough salt to cure the meat.

On January 18, 1886 Joseph W. Stockton died. His wife lived until December 7, 1909. They are buried at Sandy Plains Baptist Church in New House in Cleveland County. They had children which are listed here with their families.

George Washington Stockton married Margaret Dora Jane Washburn and can be found in a section with detailed information under George Washington Stockton.

Pamelia Caldonia Stockton was born in 1859 and married William McCurry of the Sunshine Community in Rutherford County. When her husband died, she moved to the Spartanburg area to work in a cotton mill. Although her death is unverified, it is traditionally believed that she drowned in a flood which destroyed several mills in the early 1900's. She mothered two children, Ed McCurry and Jennie Loretta McCurry. Jennie Loretta never married.

Joseph Franklin Stockton was born on May 28, 1861 and died July 24, 1912. During his life he was considered to be one of the best drivers of a team of horses or mules in this part of the country. He usually drove without lines and he used a whip with a small piece of chain attached to it. Mr. George Whitaker who was raised in the New House area related this story to Joe Stockton of Lattimore. When the Lawndale Mill bought a boiler, they hired Joseph Franklin to transport it from the Shelby railroad station to Lawndale. A special wagon had to be made for this expedition and residents lined the road to watch this extraordinary man drive the ten or twelve miles with his unusual cargo.

On December 24, 1891 Joseph Franklin Stockton married Cora Eskridge who was born on June 15, 1875 and died February 12, 1909. Around 1902 or 1903 they moved to the Steel Creek Community of Mecklenburg County and are buried at the Steel Creek Presbyterian Church cemetery. Their children were as follows: Marion Pelham Stockton, Joseph Everett Stockton, Edith B. Stockton, Coleman Evans Stockton and Carl Hall Stockton.

John Daniel Stockton lived in the Number 7 Township of Cleveland County near Rehobeth Methodist Church, married Florence Paston. Their oldest child was Thomas Needham who was born on October 12, 1892, and was a farmer like his father. He served in World War I and on March 24, 1945 he married Eunice Spangler. In 1979 he died childless. Their only other child is Attie Stockton who was born March 24, 1899 and never married. She died September 3, 1981.

Rhoda A. Stockton was born in 1865, died in 1934 and is buried at Sandy Plains Baptist Church. She married Emmerson A. Wilson. They had two children, Bymun and Zeke.

Marcus Lee Stockton was born on May 18, 1868 and died July 30, 1918. He married Josie E. Briggs who was born on June 1, 1863 and they lived in Hollis and the New House Area. They are buried at Sandy Plains Church. Their three children were: Zonnie Ray who lived in Salem, Ohio; Beard Edward, who was born on March 11, 1898, died December 16, 1966, lived in Shelby and is buried at Sandy Plains Church; and a son Otto.

M. Ella Stockton was born on April 21, 1871 and died March 23, 1940. She married John Hamrick and they had ten children which are listed below: Lida, Lawton, Belva, Nellie, Joe, Pearl, Florence, Elma, Ola and Cliff. They lived in the Patterson Grove Church community near Kings Mountain and are buried at Patterson Grove Church.

Miller A. Stockton was born on June 15, 1873, died on September 15, 1937 and married Macie Price of Duncans Creek, Rutherford County. She was born on October 7, 1882 and died October 12, 1966. Miller was a sawmiller in Garner, Wake County, and he and his wife are buried at New Bethel Baptist Church. They had two children; Sarah Eunice Stockton, who married Sam Powell, and Eulan Foster Stockton, who married Jessmer Stancil.

Nancy Ida Stockton was born on October 18, 1875 and died May 27, 1931. She married Everette McDaniel who was born on May 17, 1876 and died January 14, 1934. They lived in Ellenboro most of their lives, but in later years they moved to Shelby and are buried in the Sunset Cemetery in Shelby. They had no children.

Sarah Ada Stockton was born on April 17, 1883 and married J. Gaff Lattimore. Sarah died October 22, 1949. Children of Gaff and Ada are: Newland D., Robert C., Sallie L., Dorcas J., Virginia C. and Ida. They lived in the Joseph W. Stockton Home in Number Seven Township. Ada was born and died in the same house and the same room. She was buried in the Lattimore Family Cemetery.

Sources: Records John Preston Stockton, Family Bible, Cemetery & Court Records

— Joe Stockton

THOMAS JEFFERSON STOCKTON

1018

Thomas Jefferson Stockton, the eldest son of Davis and Elizabeth Whitesides Stockton, born 1786, received his name from the third president of the United States. Thomas Jefferson Stockton's grandfather and great-grandfather owned adjoining land with President Jefferson in Virginia. This was the beginning of a tradition of naming Stockton children for presidents.

During the War of 1812, Thomas Jefferson served in the First Regiment of Rutherford County under Captain John Oliver.

In 1855 Thomas Jefferson Stockton died. His grandson filed an insurance application in 1890 that stated that his grandfather Thomas Jefferson Stockton was killed by a tree. This accident occurred near the Oak Grove Methodist Church northeast of Polkville, N.C. where he lived.

Thomas Jefferson Stockton and his wife Nancy Pruitt Stockton, daughter of John Pruitt and Eady, were parents of nine children. They were:

Eady Stockton. She was born in 1806 in Rutherford County and lived her entire life in the same area. She died in 1885. Her grave lies in a family cemetery near the home of her great-great-great grandson, Deputy Sheriff Jim W. Norman, on Clover Hill Church Road. Her husband was Henry Clifton Hastings, son of William Hastings. He was born in 1796 in Virginia and died July 13, 1876. Most of the Hastings still reside in Casar and Polkville, Cleveland County, descended from this union. Their children were: Samuel, William, Nancy, Thomas, Peter, Joseph (killed in the civil war); and Frank H. (married Jane Stockton, his first cousin, the daughter of Samuel and Elizabeth Stockton).

Reuben N. Stockton. He was born in 1812 in Rutherford County and died in Macon County, N.C. sometime after 1880. His wife, Lively Ledford Stockton, was born in 1815 in Rutherford County and was also living in 1880 and listed with her husband on the census for that year in Macon County. Many of their descendants can be found in North Georgia and Western North Carolina. Their first four children, Pheba, Susan, A. Richardson and Margaret were born in Rutherford County. The others, James, Robert, Nancy I., Humphrey D., and

TOM NEEDHAM STOCKTON and EUNA FAYE SPANGLER

1019

Euna Faye Spangler was born February 21, 1895, the fourth child and second daughter of Abson Dixon "Dick" Spangler and Nana Patience Green Spangler. Euna was born and grew up in the Double Shoals Community of Cleveland County, North Carolina. She attended the Royster Free School, then Spangler School for two years and in 1915 went to Boiling Springs High School, which at that time was a boarding school.

Euna returned home from boarding school. Her younger sister, Evie, had married that year and many changes were to come in the next few years. Euna's mother died in 1925. For about twenty years thereafter Euna became the lady of the house, as her other sisters married and the brothers found wives and married also. Younger brother Yates, meanwhile, looked after the farm. In 1941 Yates married and brought his wife, Daisy, to live at the homeplace with his father and sister.

In 1945 Euna married Tom Needham Stockton and they went to Needham's homeplace to make their home in the Rehobeth Community of Cleveland County, along with Needham's sister Addie and his mother.

Needham, the only son of J.D. Stockton and Florence Poston Stockton, was born October 11, 1890 in the Rehobeth Community and lived his entire life there. He farmed for a living with cotton being the main crop.

Needham served his country in World War I in the Infantry, Thirty-sixth division. He went through the war fortunate enough to receive no wounds even though he was in seven major battles. In one of the battles only five men, including himself, returned safely. At one time he and two others were chosen to spy on the Germans. One had pliers to cut the twisted bobbed wire and the others crawled through to the Heidenburg line where they heard the German soldiers talking in the trenches. They carried the information back to the commanding officers and were able to attack the Germans before the Germans attacked them.

Needham died August 2, 1979 after a long, productive life and was buried in the Double Springs Church Cemetery where he and Euna were members.

Source: Personal knowledge.

— Theresa Lowe

PETER STROUP'S FAMILY

1020

In 1733 Peter and Maria Straub and their two sons, Peter and Jacob (1732-1804) sailed to Pennsylvania from England on the ship, "Pennsylvania Merchant." They were from the Rineland Province of Palatinate in Germany. As conditions in their home land were poor, they went to England, but finding conditions were little better there, they embarked to America. They landed at Philadelphia and were identified with the early settlers known as "Pennsylvania Dutch." This term came from the word "Deutsch," which means German, and which the settlers changed to "Dutch."

The German spelling of the family name was Straub, but through the years there have been many variations such as Stroop, Stroup, Straup, Strubb, Strupp, Strobe, etc.

In 1765, while living in Germantown, Philadelphia County, Peter Straub became a citizen of his new country. One among many who opposed taking an oath, he simply affirmed it.

Peter took his family from Pennsylvania, through the Shenandoah Valley, into North Carolina and settled in Lincoln County. Jacob and his wife Nancy had a son, Daniel (1778-1828) who married Polly Goodson (1786-1843) on February 19, 1803. Daniel and Polly's son Matthew (1807-1885) married Elizabeth Wilson (1809-1845) on April 21, 1829. After her death he married Barbara Black

Melton Stroup Family: Front row: Twins Alonzo and Marlow. Back row L to R: Melton, Minnie Florence, baby Lonnie, Vance, Charlie, Gus, Henry, Marvin.

— Joe Stockton

(1822-1890) on September 21, 1846.

Matthew Wallace Stroup (1852-1938) was one of 16 children, he married Hesty Warlick, Margaret Summitt and then Ellen Dellinger. Most of these people listed above are buried at Mount Zion Church near Cherryville. Matthew Wallace had three children: Ephriam, Melton Columbus, and Sarah Jane.

Melton Columbus (1875-1958) married Minnie Florence Wright (1877-1940) she was the daughter of Richard Wright and Mary Ann Morrison Wright. Melton was a tall man, and he always wore a mustache. He was a farmer and moved his family to Shelby in 1914, from the Muddy Fork Creek area. They are buried at Pleasant Grove Baptist Church Cemetery near Shelby. They had eight children. Lonnie Pearl, the only daughter, was born in 1913 and died 14 months later. She was buried at Mount Zion Cemetery. Their sons were Matthew Vance, Charlie Franklin, David Augustus, Henry Floyd, Marvin Thomas, Marlow Arthur, Alonza Richard. Of the seven sons, one became a Baptist Preacher and five were Baptist Deacons.

Matthew Vance (1900-1973) was never married. He lived with and cared for his father, who had become an invalid through the loss of a leg. Vance, his father and mother are buried at Pleasant Grove Baptist Church Cemetery.

Charlie Franklin was born on July 31, 1901. He married Pearl May Green. They have three sons, Clyde, Carl, and Clarence. Charlie is a retired textile worker, and resides in Shelby. They have always been actively involved in church life. They are members of Calvary Baptist Church.

David Augustus "Gus" (1903-1944) was married to Maud Augusta Epley. They lived in Shelby and later moved to a farm near Kings Mountain. "Gus" as he was called, was a farmer and a textile worker. He was a strong church and family man, and when he died at the early age of 41, Maud was left with the responsibility of raising the five children. She continued to work the farm and also to work in a textile mill. Maud loved to take trips to the mountains, she enjoyed sewing and working in her flowers. "Gus" and Maud are buried at Pleasant Grove Church Cemetery. Their children are Hughlon Yates (1926-1969) was buried at Mountain Rest Cemetery at King Mountain. Reuben Jerrell, Lehman Darrell, Doris Jane (Mrs. Melvin Clemmer) and Gloria Gay (Mrs. Lewis Jenkins).

Henry Floyd (1904-1967) married Florence Black and they had one daughter Margaret (Mrs. Horace Brown). After Florence's death he married Luella Langford, they had two daughters: Mary Lee (Mrs. Steve Clary Jr.) and Amanda (Mrs. T.A. Wright). They all enjoyed family gatherings and he enjoyed working with his dogs. He was a retired textile worker.

Marvin Thomas (1908-1980) and wife Alda Neal had two sons, Neal and Howard. As did some of the other boys he farmed and worked in the mill. He liked to sing and at one time led singing in his church. Marvin was a Mason.

He is buried at Pleasant Hill Baptist Church Cemetery near Shelby.

Marlow Arthur was born on May 8, 1910.

He married Gladys Callahan. They had four children: Vernell (Mrs. James Foshee) Carolyn (Mrs. Charles Magnet), Dwyre, and Earl. Marlow graduated from the New Orleans Baptist Theological Seminary in 1954, and has pastored churches in Georgia, Mississippi, and North Carolina. He is retired but is currently serving as interm pastor of Christian Freedom Church. One of his hobbies is raising chickens. Marlow and Gladys make their home in Shelby.

Alonza Richard (1910-1981), Marlow's twin, married Inez Beam, and they had two children: Martha (Mrs. Courtney Madden) and Richard. Alonza was a retired textile worker and was active in church life. Hunting and fishing were two of his favorite pastimes. Alonza was buried at Cleveland Memorial Park at Shelby.

Sources: "List of Foreigners Imported in Pennsylvania Oaths of Allegiance," Gravestones, Family Bible, Marriages Records of Lincoln and Tryon Counties, Interviews with family members, and family records.

— Mrs. Martha Stroup Madden and Mrs. Gay Stroup Jenkins

MERLE MURCHISON STUART 1021

Between 1920 and 1930, Shelby and Cleveland County had experienced a tremendous growth in population and industrial expansion. Census figures for that period show that Shelby's population had increased from 3609 in 1920 to 10,789 in 1930 — nearly three times, and the county from 34,270 to 52,305. The Cleveland Cloth Mills had just been built during that time, also, the Dover Mills. Plants in Spindale were, producing large quantities of rayon goods. This almost phenomenal boom intrigued young Merle Murchison Stuart, who at that time was agent for Railway Express Company in Graham, N.C.

In the industrial life of Cleveland County at that time, perhaps nothing played such an important part as getting the finished product to the great distributors and users without waste of time.

Many of the mills had selling offices in New York, where their products were disposed of through commission channels. In the 1930's, the mills here bought large quantities of rayon and celanese, made it up and shipped it back to the distributor or one of the large finishing plants in New Jersey or the eastern markets. Rayon was picked up in Tennessee or Virginia or wherever manufactured, brought to the mills here, made up into goods and shipped by truck to eastern markets in the course of a very short time.

Merle M. Stuart came to Shelby in 1931 to establish the first long-distance motor truck company, K & S Trucking Company. He and Mr. W.C. Kirkpatrick started with one truck, a huge White tractor-trailer outfit, which attracted attention in all the towns along the route from Shelby to New York. In 1935, K & S merged with Barnwell Brothers, later with Associated Transport, making it one of the largest trucking companies in the world. Barnwell had, also, started with one truck.

Stuart and his brother, Oscar, owned and operated the Pee Dee Express Company out of Hartsville, South Carolina. "Mr. M.M." as he was often called, was president of the South Carolina Trucking Association during that time. In 1931, he had helped organize the North Carolina Trucking Association, and was treasurer of that organization, for several terms. He was President of the Board of Governors of the Southern Motor Carriers Rate Conference and a director of the American Trucking Association.

He was active in politics, having been county manager for W. Kerr Scott's gubernatorial candidacy, and was, also, chairman of Gov. Scott's Better Roads and Schools $200,000,00 bond issue. Cleveland County approved both by a majority of two to one. Gov. Scott appointed him to the Railroad Finance Committee. During the war, Stuart was local administrator of the county Committee on War Transportation, which was in charge of rationing tires and gasoline.

Merle Murchison Stuart was born in Alamance County on Dec. 14, 1901, the eldest of six sons of Mary Julia Murchison (Mollie) Stuart and John Richard Stuart. He was reared in the Hawfields Community, where he was a neighbor and fellow-church-member of W. Kerr Scott in the historical Hawfields Presbyterian Church, "The Church in the Fields." His brothers were Egbert Lindley, Kermit Meade, John Hartley, Oscar Dillon and Thomas Lenoir. Oscar is married to the former Elizabeth Spangler and lives in Shelby.

Merle M. Stuart and Mildred Catherine Moore, of Graham, North Carolina were married October 23, 1928, and they moved to Shelby in 1931 to pioneer the trucking industry in this country. In 1932, they bought the home that Mr. W.C. Arey, Sr. had built at 421 South Washington Street in 1907. Both of their children were born there: John Moore Stuart in 1932 and Sylvia Catherine in 1934. They have four grandchildren: Teresa Ann Stuart and David Moore Stuart, of High Point, and John B. Gordon III and Catherine Mason Gordon, of Raleigh. Mrs. Stuart continues to live in the home on South Washington Street.

Stuart was active in the Shelby Presbyterian Church, where he was a deacon. He was a Rotarian and a Shriner. Continuing his love of the soil from the years when he grew up on a farm, he owned farms on Beaver Dam and Hickory Creek. He was interested in growing and hybridizing daylilies. Golf was another of his hobbies, and he and three other Presbyterians, Herb Combs, Brady Dickson and Charles Lever enjoyed a golf foursome for about thirty years.

At the time of his death on March 18, 1963, in a traffic accident, Stuart was sales representative for McLean Trucking Company.

Sources: 1935 Shelby Daily Star Newspaper, Trade Magazine.

— Mildred M. Stuart

THE FRANK RICKERT SUMMERS FAMILY

1022

Born July 7, 1893, in Iredell County near

Statesville, he was the son of Mr. and Mrs. T.W. Summers, and served as a lieutenant in the Medical Corps in the United States Army in World War I. He then operated a group of fruit packing houses in Tampa and Lakeland, Florida. In 1928, he moved to Kings Mountain and operated the Summers Drug Company until the mid-thirties. He was a director of the First National Bank, Kings Mountain, and became its president in 1942.

Mr. Summers married Bonnie E. Mauney in 1925 in Kings Mountain. Their children are: Virginia (Mrs. L.E. Hinnant), born 1927 and a graduate of Salem College and the University of North Carolina; Frances Margaret, born 1928, a graduate of Salem College and the University of Texas, now residing in Charlotte; and Frank Andrew, born 1931 (married Claire Randolph of Atlanta, Georgia). Frank is a graduate of Georgia Tech and received his M.A. from that school. He and his wife have two children: Frank Randolph and Virginia Claire. They are now living in Marietta, Georgia, where he is in the commercial real estate business.

Mrs. Summers (Bonnie Mauney) was born January 26, 1897, in Kings Mountain, the daughter of W.A. and Candace Miller Mauney. She was high school principal and school superintendent in Kings Mountain and later was cashier of the First National Bank. She graduated from Elizabeth College, Charlotte, and did graduate work at the University of North Carolina. She was active in civic work, vice-chairman of the county Democratic Committee, a trustee of the Cleveland County Historical Society, and a member of the county Bi-Centennial Commission. In 1974, she was appointed honorary chairman of the Centennial Celebration of Kings Mountain. She is the author of "Kings Mountain: Her Background and Beginning, 1780-1920" and compiled two genealogies: "Three Mauney Families" and "The Colonel Frederick Hambright Family." She held many offices in the Daughters of the American Revolution, both at the local and state levels. She was a charter member and president of the House and Garden Club.

Mr. Summers was a member of the Kiwanis Club and the American Legion. Both Mr. and Mrs. Summers were active in the work of St. Matthew's Lutheran Church. During World War II, Mr. Summers was chairman of the Kings Mountain selective service board.

Mr. Summers died May 12, 1958, and Mrs. Summers died September 8, 1976. They were buried at Mountain Rest Cemetery, Kings Mountain.

— Mrs. L.E. Hinnant

ALBERT BENJAMIN and MARY LOU MILLER SUTTLE

1023

Cleveland County Sheriff Ab Suttle (term 1896-1908) was born August 20, 1853 on the farm of his parents, Elder Joseph and Elvira Blanton Suttle. A year later they moved to Sharon community, to their home now called "Twin Chimneys."

The four Suttle children, Bate, Sarah, Ab

and Esther were first taught at home by a private teacher. Ab later attended a neighborhood school. When he was only eight years old his young minister-father died and Ab lived on the family farm with his mother Elvira until he was grown.

In 1877 he was listed as a merchant "on the square" in Shelby. Printed advertisements described a wide selection of dry goods and clothing for the entire family at Suttle's Store.

On May 5, 1880 Albert Suttle married Mary Lou Miller, the curly-haired girl who wore a long white dress with a wide red sash when he met her at a Limestone College party in Gaffney, South Carolina. Her Revolutionary War ancestor, David Miller, also fell in love — he married the girl whose family cared for him after he was wounded at Orangeburg. Lou's father, Confederate soldier Alex Miller, died from illness started at Point Lookout prison, when she was three years old. She was born May 5, 1861 at the family farm between Waco and Shelby.

Not long after their marriage, Suttle was involved in a financial loss when he joined a group of Shelby men in the sale of Babington Foundry sewing machines in Virginia. They were the first manufactured in the South and highly welcomed, but a depression came on and customers failed in payments.

Economic and political situations in Cleveland County were in a bad state, also. Split parties caused staunch Democrats to push Ab Suttle for Sheriff in 1896, which position included tax collection. When elected, he followed the good, honest examples of his grandfather Charles Blanton, first sheriff (1841-'51) and Uncle Dobbins Suttle (1880-'86) in promoting better government.

In good weather and bad, Sheriff drove his horse to meet the folks, receive their tax money and discuss their problems at designated places around the country. He loved people! He spent the night with friends when the roads were bad — they, in turn, stayed with the Suttles when in Shelby to attend court or to shop. Miss Lou was loved as a gracious hostess who could serve a delicious meal, even on short notice!

The crushing burden on Sheriff Suttle's heart was the state law requiring each county to conduct "legal hangings" for its convicted criminals. Two such situations required his signal for the prisoner's death on the gallows. He was slightly wounded by the bullet of the murderer who shot and killed police chief Jones in Shelby. Thousands of persons overflowed the town, roofs and tree-tops to witness "the hangings." (The state set up the electric chair for executions in 1918).

In 1908 Mr. Suttle retired from office and lived on West Warren Street, where Mrs. Suttle died (September 14, 1914). He and sons Jap and Ben were in the feed and flour brokerage until his death. He was stricken (April 6, 1918) with a fatal heart attack in a pullman car on the way to Greenville to visit his daughter, Leila.

Albert Benjamin and Mary Lou Miller Suttle, married May 5, 1880.

Lt. Governor Max Gardner was on the train to Raleigh with Mr. Suttle, and he arranged for his body to be returned to Shelby for burial in Sunset Cemetery. The three local papers quoted tributes about the esteem in which he was held:

"A big man and big-hearted, who treated every person with kind consideration — Master Mason, and devout Baptist — faithful in the duties of sheriff that often required severe measures — was loved for his generosity to all."

The children of Ab and Lou Suttle were: Jasper (b. March 3, 1881 — d. September 1, 1955) m. Eloise Allen (b. July 31, 1887 — d. March 16, 1976); Leila (b. September 9, 1883 — d. February 29, 1964) m. Charles Samuel Forbes (b. December 7, 1887 — d. October 21, 1943); Nora Belle (b. April 15, 1886 — d. May 7, 1886); Albert Benjamin, Jr. (b. June 17, 1887 — d. February 20, 1948) m. Beatrice Nye (b. November 2, 1902).

Sources: Cleveland Star; Weekly Highlander; Shelby News.

— Bea Suttle Morris

DESCENDANTS OF ALBERT BENJAMIN and LOU MILLER SUTTLE

1024

Jasper (Jap) Suttle, the oldest child of Ab and Lou Miller Suttle, was born (Mar. 5, 1881) in Shelby where he attended the local school. During his father's twelve-year term as sheriff Jap served as his assistant. He was considered quite popular among the young ladies, for he drove one of his father's best horses and rubber-tired buggy when he took them out riding or to Mr. Rudisill's skating rink and Shelby's first "picture-show" on South LaFayette Street.

Then he met a girl from Texas who was visiting her aunt, Mrs. John Schenck, in nearby Lawndale. She was Eloise Allen (b. July 31, 1887), daughter of Lula Moore and Raymond Allen of Hallettsville, Texas, where she married Jap October 28, 1908. They lived with his parents on West Warren Street, and he engaged in feed and flour brokerage with his father and brother Ben for a number of years.

Later Jap and Eloise moved to Cleveland Springs, where she lived after his death (September 1, 1955). She was active as circle and class leader in the Baptist Church, member of two book clubs, Country Club, Garden Club and Daughters of the American Revolution. She died (March 16, 1976) and was buried in Sunset Cemetery.

The two children of Jasper and Eloise Suttle were Lula Moore Suttle and Allen Suttle. (1) Lula Moore Suttle (b. August 1, 1909) attended Shelby High School and Queen's College. She taught briefly near Shelby before marriage to Daniel Newton Farnell, Jr., on October 26, 1929). Their home was in Greensboro, where he died in October, 1975. Lula Moore Farnell continues active in the Presbyterian Church, Daughters of the American Revolution, Historical Book Club and other cultural affairs.

Gloria Farnell, only child of Lula Moore Suttle and Newton Farnell, was married to John C. Cowan III. Their children are Farnell, Elizabeth, John IV and Newton Cowan.

Allen Suttle (b. March 27, 1913), second child of Jap and Eloise Suttle, attended Shelby High, Mars Hill College and Wake Forest University. He married Elizabeth Froneberger on June 6, 1939 in Gastonia and they lived in Shelby several years.

For over thirty years Allen was employed at the J.P. Stevens Plant in Great Falls, South Carolina. He retired as personnel director there. He was an Elder in the Presbyterian Church, member of the Masonic Lodge, Lions and Elks Clubs and director of Republic Federal Credit Union when he died (December 26, 1980). He was buried in Sunset Cemetery, Shelby.

The children of Allen and Elizabeth Suttle are William Allen Suttle, Shirley Suttle and Nancy Suttle Abercrombie. Their grandchildren are Mark, Sam, Allen Suttle and Rhett Abercrombie III.

Leila Suttle (b. September 9, 1883 — d. February 29, 1964), only daughter of Sheriff and Mrs. Ab Suttle, graduated at Shelby High School and Meredith College, then taught school at Greenville, where she lived after her marriage to Charles Samuel Forbes (January 3, 1906). She was influential in cultural activities and a trustee of East Carolina University for a number of years. She is buried in Greenville.

The children of Leila Suttle and Charles Forbes are Mary Forbes (b. Mar. 12, 1907) and Charles Suttle Forbes (b. Jan. 5 1913). He married Allene Farrior and their two children are Charles Suttle Forbes, Jr. and Catherine Forbes. Kimberley and Mark Forbes are children of Charles Forbes, Jr. and Edna Kelly Forbes.

Albert Benjamin Suttle (Ben), younger son of Sheriff and Mrs. Ab Suttle, was born June 17, 1887, attended school in Shelby and North Carolina State University. He was a Baptist and charter member of the Kiwanis Club, organized in 1922.

On December 29, 1923 he married Beatrice Nye, a teacher in Shelby, and a graduate of Meredith College. Her father was F.C. Nye, Superintendent of Kings Mountain Schools, and her mother was Bessie McCauley. Bea was born November 2, 1902 at Winterville, N.C.

Ben's hobby was raising chickens, turkeys, guineas, and canaries — at different times! And when in town he followed a custom of his father's — going uptown to the drug store for a short while in the evening to join the group on the benches to hear the latest political, or "extra" news. Radio and daily papers "broke the ring!"

Bea Suttle died (February 20, 1948) and was buried in Sunset Cemetery. The two children of Ben and Beatrice Suttle are: (1) Ben Suttle, Jr. (ret. Army Lieut. Col.) (b. March. 31, 1925) who engaged in sports and was student body president at Shelby High, graduated at West Point, Masters in Aero. Eng. at Mass. Institute of Technology, lives at Boone, a merchant. Claire Tisdale and he were married (October 19, 1952) at Auburn, Alabama. Their children are Barbara Suttle (m. David Joyce), Elizabeth, and Ben Suttle III.

Robert Bruce Suttle, second child of Ben and Beatrice Suttle (b. April 27, 1928), attended school in Shelby and at Blue Ridge School in Hendersonville. He has been employed by Howell-Shelby Motor Lines for over thirty years.

Beatrice Nye Suttle, widow of Ben Suttle, was married to Roy Wilson Morris July 6, 1955. (See Roy W. Morris)

Sources: Family records.

— Bea N. Suttle Morris

CHARLES BEATTIE SUTTLE 1025

Charles Beattie "Bate" Suttle was born December 22, 1846 in Rutherford County, the first child of pioneer Baptist minister, Elder Joseph Pinkney Suttle. His mother was Elvira Elizabeth Blanton, daughter of Charles and Judith Hamrick Blanton. He was baptized by his father at age nine.

A happy childhood followed in 1854 when Bate moved with his parents, sister Sarah and brother "Ab" to a large house and farm on First Broad River in the Sharon Community. A hundred years later it was named "Twin Chimneys" and August 6, 1980 entered on The National Register of Historic Places. Here his sister, Esther Jane and brother, Joseph Pinkney, Jr. were born. A private teacher taught the children in an upstairs schoolroom.

Things changed in 1861. The Civil War began in April and father Joseph succumbed to pneumonia May 26th. At age fourteen Bate inherited responsibilities of the farm with his mother.

In May 1864 he joined Captain Jim Well's Company C, 71st Regiment of seventeen-year-old volunteers who ended the last year in skirmishes near Greensboro, North Carolina. After news of General Lee's surrender at Appomattox, Virginia, Sergeant Suttle and the other boys walked the 180 miles home — barefooted, ragged and weak from hunger.

One of the first to welcome was Esther Jane Wray from an adjoining farm "just a hill and a hollow away." On August 8, 1869 they were married at the home of her parents, James Alexander Linton and Margaret Blanton Wray.

The Suttles bought a farm in the Union Church community where sons Joe and John were born. Four years later (1873) they bought land on Sharon Road and stayed with Bate's mother at the Joseph Suttle house while their house was being built. A daughter, Mary Irene, was born here. After their move into the new house, Julius and Dovie were born. A one-room schoolhouse was built where their own and neighborhood children were taught.

In 1882 Bate sold the farm (later called the Joe Wesson Place) and moved his family to Shelby where Ola was born this same year. Louise Ray was born in 1887. They lived in three different places on West Marion Street, the first was across the street from George and Sarah Suttle Wray. The seven young Suttles joined their seven Wray double-first cousins on this street. All were not only related by blood ties but in devotion to their home town and became prominent leaders in the religious, business and social life of Shelby.

Charles Beattie Suttle Family: Front row L to R: John, C.B., Esther Jane, Joe. Back row L to R: Irene, Ray, Julius, Ola and Dovie.

Mr. Wray and Mr. Suttle became engaged in the livery stable and horse-selling business, transporting guests to hotels and the famous nearby mineral springs and accommodating "drummers" or salesmen.

Around 1895 C.B. Suttle and Marion Putnam operated a grocery store and dealt in selling cattle.

The August 1905 Star announced "a long-awaited event," the building of the first ice house. C.B. Suttle, his son, Joe Suttle and Marion Putnam were stockholders of Shelby Ice and Fuel Company. The business was located by the Southern Railroad tracks between West Marion and West Warren Streets so that ice and coal could be brought by train. Everybody lined up for blocks of ice cream, iced tea and to get ice cold watermelons from the cooler.

Enjoying his new vocation for over twenty years, Bate died suddenly March 30, 1927 after a long span as civic leader and in service to First Baptist Church where he served as deacon and teacher. He is buried in Sunset Cemetery.

The Cleveland Star stated "Funeral of C.B. Suttle, Shelby's Model Man Held." He had been an inspiration to his community for eighty years. Rising at four A.M. daily, he was known as "The hardest-working man in town."

The seven children of C.B. and Esther Suttle married the following people who helped in many areas of service to the community:

Joseph Linton (b. July-13-1870 d. Sept.-14-1943) m. (June-11-1903) Mary Elizabeth Walker (Jan.-26-1877 d. Sept.-29-1916).

John William (b. Apr.-7-1872 d. July-27-1963) m. (Mar.-29-1893) Leila Bertie Lee Pierson (b. Nov.-1-1877 d. July-12-1976).

Mary Irene (b. July-12-1874 d. Mar.-2-1962) m. (Feb.-7-1901) Simeon Andrew McMurry (b. Feb.-19-1870 d. Sept.-6-1958).

Julius Albert (b. June-27-1877 d. Oct.-7-1852) m. (Dec.-27-1902) Ethel Morrison Lineberger (b. Mar.-14-1884 d. Dec.-1-1973).

Dovie Elizabeth (b. Mar.-14-1880 d. Jan.-9-1965) m. (Nov.-12-1902) Lander Fullenwinder McBrayer (b. Nov.-8-1878 d. Jan.-24-1955).

Margaret Ola (b. Aug.-29-1882 d. July-22-1966) m. (June-8-1903) Lawrence Pegram Holland (b. Oct.-23-1875 d. June-11-1954).

Louise Ray (b. June-25-1887 d. Sept.-17-1957) m. (Oct.-29-1908) Lewis Josiah Baley (b. May-23-1878 d. Apr.-4-1936).

Sources: Canaan in Carolina by Dr. Wyan Washburn, family records and news clippings.

— Bea Suttle Morris and Sara McFarland Suttle

MRS. CHARLES BEATTIE SUTTLE

1026

Esther Jane Wray was born March 16, 1851 at the home of her parents James Alexander Linton and Margaret Blanton Wray four miles west of Shelby.

She was married to Charles Beattie Suttle at eighteen years of age. On Sunday morning August 8, 1869, they were married at the home of her parents by the Reverend George Webb and after the ceremony rode horseback to attend services at Double Springs Baptist Church.

After living for thirteen years in the country the Suttles joined their Wray and Suttle kin on West Marion Street in Shelby. They later moved in with and cared for her aging parents, Mr. and Mrs. "Alec" Wray, in their large and comfortable home which they had built in 1874.

For nearly fifty years Esther Wray Suttle was a devoted member of the First Baptist Church and her home reflected the strong Christian principles of tireless love and care for her large family and friends. Her energy matched that of her husband, "Mr. Bate," who was said to have started his day at four A.M.

The Suttle family was involved in a number of "firsts" in new enterprises. In 1875 The "Carolina" sewing machine, made by the Babington Foundry on North LaFayette Street, was the first sewing machine made in the South. According to her reminiscences, Mrs. Suttle told of owning the first one in Shelby. Women all around were so excited about it that they came and asked to do her housework if she would do the main stitching on their men's suits and coats. After the Civil War ready-made clothes were scarce and very expensive and she said that she nearly had a "break-down" trying to help friends and neighbors.

On an August Sunday morning in 1926 Bate and Esther Suttle were joined by a large number of family and friends at Double Springs Baptist Church to celebrate their fifty-seventh anniversary. This time the happy bride rode in a late model car instead of a side-saddle by horseback.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Suttle lived to be eighty-one years old. At the time of her death on November 27, 1932 it was noted that Esther Jane Wray Suttle shared her home with four generations. She is buried in Sunset Cemetery beside her husband.

Sources: Canaan in Carolina, family records.

— Bea Suttle Morris and Sara McFarland Suttle

ETHEL LINEBERGER SUTTLE

1027

Ethel Morrison Lineberger Suttle, born March 14, 1884, Shelby, N.C. died December 1, 1973 and was buried in Sunset Cemetery. She was the daughter of John Dixon and Bettie Munday Lineberger. William Munday and John Dixon Lineberger, Jr. were her brothers. A sister Marie died in infancy, 1895.

December 27, 1906 she was married to Julius Albert Suttle by the Reverend J.D. Herman. The wedding took place at the home of the bride's parents. To this union was born three children, Ester Elizabeth, wife of Furman Gordon McLarty. Nancy Lineberger, wife of William Gerald Pendleton and Julius Albert Suttle, Jr., husband of Mary Lucille Henderson.

At the time of her death she was the oldest member of Aldersgate United Methodist Church, member of the Woman's Society of Christian Science, a member of the Twentieth Century Book Club, the United Daughters of the Confederacy and a graduate of Greensboro Woman's College.

— Mrs. Betty McLarty

JAMES VANCE SUTTLE and GINA CROWDER SUTTLE

1028

James Vance Suttle was born July 2, 1946 and is the third child of Joseph Linton and Sarah McFarland Suttle, Jr. His ancestral lineage is one of Cleveland County's most notable with each generation leaving its mark in local history. Charles Beattie and Esther Jane Wray Suttle were his great-grandparents and they propagated some of the area's most industrious and prominent citizens.

Since March 1972 Vance has been associated with his father at Cleveland Federal Savings and Loan Association where he is currently executive vice president and chief operations officer and director. He began his career with the Association as assistant to the president before being advanced to vice president and to his present office.

A 1964 graduate of Shelby High School where he participated in band and tennis. He also attained the rank of Eagle Scout. He was further educated at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill from which he graduated in 1968 with a B.S. Degree in Business Administration. At UNC he was a member of Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity.

He joined the U.S. Army in 1968 and was graduated as a Distinguished Graduate from the Army Officer's Candidate School at Ft. Belvoir, Va. where he was commissioned a second lieutenant. He served four years in the Army and after attending Vietnamese Language School at Fort Bragg he served as a military advisor to the Vietnamese in the Phu Yen Province in Vietnam. He was discharged February 9, 1972 with the rank of captain.

Vance served as chairman of a fund raising drive to raise $12,000 for operating expenses for the Cleveland County Historical Association and has served as a director of the Greater Shelby Chamber of Commerce.

He and his father and brother-in-law, Jack Arey, raise Poll Hereford cattle at the Suttle farm house, Twin Chimneys.

On June 10, 1972 Vance was married to Regina Lou Crowder, daughter of Plato Dixon Crowder, Jr. and Betty Lou Hedrick Crowder. Known as Gina, she was born September 2, 1949, graduated from Shelby High School in 1967 after which she made her debut at the Shelby Junior Charity League Debutante Ball.

Gina was graduated from Centenary College for Women in Hackettstown, N.J. in 1969 and attended Katherine Gibbs School in New York and Duke University where she was a member of Alpha Delta Pi sorority. In 1972 she was graduated with a B.S. Degree in psychology and social studies from Limestone College.

She has been interested for several years in growing potted and decorative plants and in greenhouse sales. She opened her own shop, called "Gina's," at 201 N. Morgan St. in Shelby on September 1, 1981 where she enjoys selling plants and various gift items.

Both Vance and Gina are members of First Baptist Church of Shelby. They reside at 1300 Hammock Avenue, Shelby.

— Grace R. Hamrick

JOHN WILLIAM SUTTLE

1029

John William Suttle, son of Charles Beattie and Esther Jane Suttle, was born April 7, 1872 on a farm near Union Church. He moved to Shelby in 1882.

When he was nine years old, he joined the Beaver Dam Baptist Church. He attended a cabin school built by his father on the farm. Later he attended a military school in Shelby operated by Captain W.T.R. Bell. When he felt he was called to preach he attended "Southern Baptist Seminary" in Louisville, Kentucky. The first time he went into a pulpit to preach was at Ross Grove at the age of sixteen, where he supplied for Elder Tom Dixon. His sermon was "The wages of sin is death but the gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord."

Rev. John W. Suttle — 1893.

Leila Pierson Suttle — 1893.

He was ordained to preach on Sunday, May 16, 1891 at the First Baptist Church of Shelby. He was immediately called to Blacksburg, South Carolina. For nearly a year John lived in Shelby and drove to Blacksburg for the worship services and business meetings.

During that year he met his wife, Leila Pierson, who had just moved there from Atlanta, Georgia, where she was born November 1, 1877. They were married March 29, 1893. They had four children, Bertie Lee, Charles Batie, Esther Barbara and Mary Elizabeth.

After two years in Blacksburg they went to Albemarle, then Smithfield where he developed malaria fever. His weight dropped from over a hundred to eighth-five, so when the offer came to go to Marshall in the mountains of Madison County he accepted. During that fall and winter he was able to recuperate a great deal of the strength he had lost.

In 1908 they returned to Shelby where he helped organize the "Second Baptist Church" and was pastor for six and a half years, when he resigned to take over the country churches. Small of stature, never weighing much over one hundred pounds, he was known as "The Little Preacher, Dean of rural pastors."

During the period of his ministry in Cleveland County he baptized over 5,000 people and married over 2,000 couples. Churches involved in this particular period were New Bethel, Lawndale, Double Springs, Double Shoals, Sandy Run, Waco, Patterson Grove, Beaver Dam, Zoar and New Hope.

He had great joy in those who had gone out from his churches to be missionaries or Christian leaders in all parts of the world.

One of the "Little Minister's" special interest was keeping Boiling Springs now Gardner Webb College open. He was on the Board for over thirty years. On two occasions motions were made to close the school. In an unusual all night meeting of the Board of Trustees, "The Little Minister" kept the question open for discussion until four A.M. They finally voted to keep the school open for another year.

He was moderator of Kings Mountain Association for forty years and elected President of North Carolina Baptist Convention in 1948.

Upon completion of his sixty-five years in the ministry when he entered retirement in 1954, "John Suttle Day" was observed at the Cleveland County Fair where 10,000 persons crowded into the grandstand to pay tribute to this minister. His response to that of the well wishers was "what I have done, I have done simply for my Lord and master, Jesus."

Quote from Smithfield Herald — "The Reverend John W. Suttle truly one of the grand old men of the Baptist denomination died in a hospital at Boiling Springs, July 27, 1963. His funeral was held at Beaver Dam Church and he was buried in Sunset Cemetery at Shelby."

Sources: Family Bible and Dr. Wyan Washburn's book "Canaan in Carolina."

— Bertie Lee Cabaniss

MRS. JOHN WILLIAM SUTTLE 1030

Mrs. John William Suttle (Leila Pierson Suttle) and their four children joined the church nearest their home, The First Baptist Church of Shelby. A group known as "Wives of Ministers" was organized at her home.

She was always interested in civic affairs and kept scrapbooks of important and interesting things. It was not unusual for students to go to her for information on various subjects. In addition to being interested in church work she was also interested in other organizations emphasizing family culture and art. She was a member of the D.A.R. — U.D.C. — Colonial Dame of the 17th Century — Daughters of the Patriots of America, also a member of "Archives Collectors Association of the Carolinas."

Two years before the Reverend Suttle retired, she moved her church membership to

"Beaver Dam" where she discovered there was no library at the church so she set her heart and energies to the establishment of one. During the first two years she accumulated over 500 volumes.

Mrs. Leila Pierson Suttle died July 12, 1976 and was buried in Sunset Cemetery at Shelby.

Sources: Family records.

— Bertie Lee Cabaniss

DESCENDANTS OF JOHN and LEILA SUTTLE

1031

Bertie Lee Cabaniss was born December 31, 1893 in Shelby, graduated from Shelby High School, and was president of her class. The class of twelve was the first to have a yearbook and an elaborate commencement exercise. The highlight of this occasion was the address by North Carolina Governor William Walton Kitchen. The class of twelve graduates was the largest up to that date.

Bertie Lee attended Oxford College and New York School of Music and Arts. She taught primary grades for one term at Shanghai then for several years at South Shelby School and also taught voice and piano. She was the first organist at South Shelby Baptist Church and was later organist and choir director of the First Baptist Church of Shelby. She was first President of Ishpeming Club and also first Secretary of Cecilia Music Club. She is a member of the D.A.R. — Colonial Dames of XVII Century, and Daughters of Patriots of America.

June 28, 1919, Bertie Lee married Dr. Joseph Turner Cabaniss of Hartford, Connecticut, who was born in Cleveland County. He attended Shelby High School, graduated from Wake Forest College with B.A., M.A. and B.S. degrees. He also graduated from Columbia University of Physicians and Surgeons.

After Dr. Cabaniss retired they returned to Cleveland County and bought some land near Lattimore and restored the old house. This property was a grant by King Charles of England to Samuel Magness.

Mrs. Cabaniss had studied art while living in Connecticut so continued painting after returning to Cleveland County. She painted mostly portraits and seascapes.

Dr. Cabaniss belonged to the First Baptist Church, the Rotary Club and Cleveland County Club.

They had one son, Joseph Turner Cabaniss III; two grandsons, Joseph Turner Cabaniss IV and Gray Ashton Cabaniss.

Dr. Cabaniss died July 30, 1976. The funeral was held in First Baptist Church and he was buried in the Sunset Cemetery in Shelby.

Charles Batie Suttle, the only son, was born July 25, 1895 while the family was in Albemarle. He grew up in Shelby and attended school there. He entered service for World War I on August 4, 1918. He was Private First Class of a medical detachment at the base hospital at Camp Wadsworth, South Carolina. He is a businessman in Charlotte and member of Grace Baptist Church. He married Mildred Hamrick of Shelby, March 24, 1918. He later married Ruby DeYoung of Spartanburg, South Carolina, November 9, 1940. Charles Batie and Ruby have two children, a daughter, Diane Brown, born August 8, 1943 and a son, Michael Batie Suttle, born September 14, 1945.

Esther Barbara Suttle Sibley was born in Smithfield, North Carolina June 10, 1898. She graduated from Shelby High School and Coker College in Hartsville, S.C. where she specialized in Home Economics. She did outstanding work with the Red Cross during the world wide epidemic of influenza 1918.

She married Dudley Richardson of Providence, Rhode Island, who at this time was living in Hartford, Connecticut where he was Vice President of the Aetna Life and Casualty Insurance Company.

When Mr. Sibley died Mrs. Sibley came back to Shelby to live. She is a member of the First Baptist Church, Twentieth Century Club and Country Club, D.A.R. and Colonial Dames of the 17th Century.

Mary Elizabeth Suttle Erwin was born in Smithfield, North Carolina, February 6, 1902. She graduated from Shelby High School as Poetess of her class. She majored in music at Coker College, Hartsville, S.C. and was always active in First Baptist Church. She was a charter member and Vice President of Contemporary Book Club, member of United Daughters of Confederacy, Daughters of the American Revolution and The Colonial Dames of the XVII Century.

She also did extensive Red Cross work during World War I.

Elizabeth married William James Erwin of Pineville, North Carolina, January 19, 1930. He had come to Shelby in 1927 as manager of Ella Mill. Later he was made President of Dan River Mills so they lived in Danville, Virginia. Mr. Erwin died August 20, 1977. Mrs. Erwin died November 20, 1980.

Both are buried in Sunset Cemetery in Shelby, North Carolina. They are survived by one son, William James Erwin II, born August 23, 1932; one grandson, William James Erwin III.

Sources: Family Bible and Dr. Wyan Washburn's book "Canaan in Carolina."

— Bertie Lee Cabaniss

JOSEPH LINTON SUTTLE

1032

When Joseph Linton Suttle died on September 14, 1943 at age 73, he left an enviable record of service to his community, not only in the business field but as a public servant, a church man, civic leader and devoted family man.

Born July 13, 1870 to Charles Beattie and Esther Jane Wray Suttle, he was the eldest of their seven children, all of whom grew to prominence in their community and contributed to the rich heritage of their forebears.

Know to all as "Joe," he was born on a farm

Rev. John W. Suttle, about 1955.

(known now as the McEntire farm) in the Union Church community which his parents bought shortly after their marriage on August 8, 1869. They later moved to a farm on Sharon Road (known as the Joe Wesson place) where they lived till 1882 when they sold that property and moved to West Marion Street in Shelby.

His first schooling was in a cabin built by his father on the Sharon Road farm. After moving to Shelby he attended Captain W.T.R. Bell's Military School and later studied at a business school in Knoxville, Tenn., after which he got his first business experience in a short stint as a clerk in Asheville. He returned to Shelby and joined his father and Marion Putnam at C.B. Suttle & Son. In the Cleveland Star in October 1897, it reads: "One of the most popular grocery houses in Shelby is that of C.B. Suttle and Son. They keep everything in the heavy grocery and fancy grocery lines and are progressive merchants. The handsome junior member of the firm, Mr. Joe L. Suttle, is the leading bicycle agent here and has sold a large number of high grade bicycles."

He later opened a general store which was purchased by the Efid Co. on March 30, 1920.

Mr. Joe joined First Baptist Church at age 13 and was a dedicated church member for 60 years, serving as a deacon and for over 20 years as church treasurer.

He was elected mayor of Shelby in 1905 (the city's 13th) and served for four years during which time the first paved sidewalks were laid; $35,000 in bonds voted in 1907 for a school building; $115,000 in bonds issued in 1908 for a water plant, the city's first; and a courthouse built in 1907 at a cost of $75,000. According to historian Mayme Jones' article in The Star, "At that time the mayor held court, passed judgement on offenders arrested for minor infractions of the laws of the town, usually sentenced them to work on city streets or fined them, money going into the treasury." He also served as alderman from 1909 until 1915.

Mr. Joe was one of the founders of and served on the board of directors of Cleveland Bank and Trust Company, forerunner of Union Trust Company, of which he was vice president. He was one of the founders of Cleveland Building and Loan Association in 1922 which he served as secretary-treasurer and director for 20 years. He was also one of the original stockholders of Carolina Ice and Fuel Co.; and was a member of Shelby Kiwanis Club.

The Suttle-Wall Memorial Tower at Gardner-Webb College honors the memory of Mr. Joe and Dr. Zeno Wall, long-time pastor of First Baptist Church. The dedication program reads: "The Suttle-Wall Memorial Tower will become symbolic of the aspirations and hard work of this college and its efforts in the field of Christian Higher Education. Its Trinity symbol through three sides and the 'praying hands' reaching toward Heaven are fitting tributes to these great men, and to the college which they loved."

Mr. Joe was married on June 11, 1903 in Mansfield, La. to Miss Mary Elizabeth Walker, graduate of Mansfield College and Cincinnati Conservatory of Music, who had come to Shelby as a music teacher. She had accompanied her long-time friends, Mrs. R.F. Tredway and the Rev. Tredway, when he was called as pastor of First Baptist Church.

Joseph Linton Suttle

Mary Walker Suttle

Known as "Miss Mae," she was born January 26, 1877, the 10th child of Dr. Samuel Freeman and Mary Jane Hooker Walker of Mansfield, Louisiana. She resided at the Old College Inn on the site of the present City Hall and it is said that Joe Suttle fell deeply in love with her soon after their first meeting. Both shared a love for music while her other love was for horses and she had proven herself an excellent equestrienne. In fact, her love for horses was so great that for a wedding present she requested a very fine English saddle instead of a ring.

Mrs. Suttle first belonged to the Chicora Club after which she organized the Cecilia Music club at her home in October 1913 by placing an advertisement in the newspaper inviting all music lovers to join. She was a Methodist but joined First Baptist with her husband and served that congregation as church organist.

Mr. and Mrs. Suttle lived at the College Inn, while building their first home, several blocks from the square. Their two daughters, Marjorie and Mary, were born here but they later built another house just two blocks from the square, next door to Joe's mother and father, where their only son, Joseph Linton Suttle, Jr., was born.

Mrs. Suttle continued to teach music until a short time before her death on September 29, 1916 at age 39. The Highlander read: "One of womanhoods loveliest flowers fell asleep Friday afternoon at 1:10 o'clock." Mr. Joe moved with his three young children into his parents' home next door where the house was shared by his sister, Irene, and husband S.A. McMurry.

Joe and Mae Suttle's children were Marjorie Elizabeth, born August 19, 1905 and who was a promising musician before her death March 4, 1923; Mary Josephine, (April 30, 1909 — August 12, 1978) who married Lloyd Luther Lutz (October 9, 1909 — July 30, 1980) (see Lloyd Luther Lutz) on December 25, 1932; and Joseph Linton Suttle, Jr., born March 29, 1911, who married Sara Almira McFarland (December 5, 1916) of Rutherfordton. (See Joseph Linton Suttle, Jr. and Mrs. Joseph Linton Suttle, Jr.)

Sources: Cleveland Star, family records.

— Grace R. Hamrick

JOSEPH LINTON SUTTLE, JR. 1033

Joseph Linton Suttle, Jr., known as J.L., has continued in the tradition of his prominent ancestors by contributing to the business and cultural growth of his native Shelby, by his involvement in civic activities and his promotion of sports interests. There is scarcely a segment of society he has not touched or enriched.

Born March 29, 1911, he was the only son of Joseph Linton Suttle and Mary Elizabeth (Mae) Walker Suttle; and the grandson of Charles Beattie and Esther Jane Wray Suttle. He grew up in Shelby, attended Shelby public schools and graduated from Shelby High School, after which he attended The Citadel. He was graduated from Mars Hill Junior College, studied at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and School for Executives at Bloomington, Indiana.

During the depression he worked in a gas station before his first business venture in 1932 with Pilot Life Insurance Co. He joined the insurance department at Union Trust Company in 1934 and later became manager. At the same time he was associated with Cleveland Building and Loan Association which operated in the same building and was named to its board of directors in 1940. In 1942 the Building and Loan moved to new quarters at 110 West Marion Street and the insurance department of Union Trust also moved to share the same building. He became assistant secretary of the Building and Loan in 1941, succeeded his father as secretary-treasurer in 1943, was named executive vice-president-secretary in 1949 and president in 1962.

On September 30, 1945 J.L. announced he would terminate his connection as manager of Union Trust Insurance Department and on October 1 would begin operation of his own agency to be known as J.L. Suttle, Jr. Insurance with offices in the Cleveland Building and Loan Association. On July 1, 1947, A.W. "Buck" Archer became associated with the insurance agency and three years later the agency was incorporated by J.L., Mrs. Suttle and Archer. J.L. served as president of J.L. Suttle, Jr. and Co., Inc. until 1981 when he became chairman of the board and Archer was named president.

Cleveland Building and Loan became Cleveland Savings and Loan and in 1980 Cleveland Federal Savings and Loan. It has occupied since June 1963, quarters in a modern new building which is a blend of stone, metal and glass, at the corner of N. LaFayette and Sumter Streets. The building also houses the insurance company.

Suttle has served as president of the North Carolina Savings and Loan League; director of the U.S. Savings and Loan League; and member of the legislative committee of the National Savings and Loan League.

On the insurance side of his career, he is a key graduate of the Aetna Casualty & Surety Co. of Hartford, Conn.; former director of the N.C. Association of Insurance Agents, Inc.; president of Shelby Independent Agents, Inc.; director of American Mortgage Insurance Co. and Business Development Corporation of N.C.

He is past president of the Shelby Lions Club, Cleveland County Executives Club, Shelby Merchants Association and twice as president of the Shelby Chamber of Commerce, in 1943 and 1963. He was named "Man of the Year" in 1964. He served as chairman of the board of trustees of Cleveland Lodge 202 AF & FM; trustee of Cleveland Memorial Hospital and Gardner-Webb College; director of Union Trust Co., Young Life, Cleveland County United Fund, Salvation Army and Boys Club. He served on the Shelby School Board from 1946 to 1954. He is a member of First Baptist Church where he has served as Sunday School class president, usher and chairman of the board of trustees. He presently serves on the board of the Economic Development Corporation and as director of Uptown Shelby Association.

J.L. has been an avid tennis fan and player all his adult life and has won many tournament honors, having ranked number one in the state in the Southern Association, in Men's 70 singles in 1981. In 1979 he gave money to build four new tennis courts at Gardner-Webb College beside the old courts he and his wife had built in 1960. He and Mrs. Suttle also gave money to build courts at Shelby Junior High in 1979 on the site of the old Shelby Graded School which the Shelby Board of Education named the J.L. Suttle Tennis Center.

In 1943 J.L. bought the house in the Sharon community which had belonged to his great-grandfather, Rev. Joseph Suttle, who had purchased the house in 1854 with borrowed gold. It is said to be built of materials hauled from Charleston by mule and wagon. The Suttles restored the three-story federal style farmhouse in 1952, sanded its pine walls and floors to their original form, and gave it its name "Twin Chimneys" for the two towering white chimneys which stand side by side on the western end of the house. Today they spend their summers and early fall at the residence where they have added a swimming pool and other modern comforts and where they keep their riding horses and raised Polled Hereford Cattle.

The house was nominated for the National Register of Historic Places in June 1978 and was entered on the National Register on August 6, 1980.

Suttle was married February 18, 1941 to Sara Almira McFarland (see Mrs. J.L. Suttle, Jr.) of Rutherfordton and they have three children and five grandchildren: Joseph Linton Suttle, III, born February 11, 1942, who was married June 3, 1967 to Minna Gaston (Gay) Combs (October 22, 1944) and whose three children are Joseph Linton IV (August 24, 1970), Tyler Combs (August 7, 1973) and Marjorie Greer (October 4, 1976); Sarah Carole Suttle (November 4, 1943) who was married on February 7, 1965 to William Jackson Arey, (Sept. 7, 1942) and whose children are William Jackson, Jr. (December 30, 1966) and Mildred Carole (January 11, 1969); and James Vance Suttle (July 2, 1946) who was married June 10, 1972 to Regina Lou Crowder (September 2, 1949).

— Grace R. Hamrick

MRS. JOSEPH LINTON SUTTLE, JR.

1034

Mrs. J.L. Suttle, Jr., nee Sara Almira McFarland of Rutherfordton, has played many roles since coming to Shelby as a bride in 1941 but she is probably best known as the first woman to break the all-male Shelby City School Board, an elected position, and as a promoter of beautification in the city.

At the insistence of friends who knew her interest in education and her background as a teacher, she filed for the at-large position on the city school board, was elected on May 2, 1961 and served until 1975. During that time she also served on the educational committee of the Shelby Chamber of Commerce and took an active part in promotion of the building of Malcolm Brown Auditorium.

In 1961 she was named chairman of the Chamber of Commerce Beautification Committee and has worked continuously with various programs in the city to promote beauty and cleanliness. As co-chairman of the Courthouse Square Committee in the early 1960s, the grounds were planted with blooming plants and shrubs, dogwood trees and perennials. Also, an addition to the wellhouse was constructed to house garden tools and the grounds were cleaned of detracting signs.

She is a charter member of the Shelby Appearance Commission and has been active in all phases of the commission's program. Her lovely home and grounds at 602 W. Marion Street and country home "Twin Chimneys" attest to her love and efforts for beauty and she has been gracious through the years to open both residences to the public on special occasions and for all to enjoy.

In 1979 Sarah and J.L. gave a private gift for construction of a tennis center at Shelby Junior High School which is named "The J.L. Suttle Tennis Center" in honor of J.L. and Sara Suttle whose donation will cover the majority of construction costs." Sara is an avid tennis fan and J.L. has been state and nationally ranked as a player for many years.

Sara is a graduate of Asheville Teachers College and taught school in Kannapolis prior to her marriage on February 18, 1941.

She is a member of First Baptist Church, having joined in 1943 from Rutherford Presbyterian Church. She worked with the Nursery Department at the church and later taught Sunday School in the Junior Department.

She is a member of the Renaissance Study Club, North Lake Club of which she has served as director, and is a former member of the Shelby Junior Charity League.

Born December 5, 1916, she is the daughter of the late Charles Lee and Emma Vickery McFarland of Rutherfordton. Three children born to Sara and J.L. include Joseph Linton, III (b. February 11, 1942) who was married on June 3, 1967 to Minna Gaston "Gay" Combs (b. October 22, 1944); Sarah Carole (b. November 5, 1943) who was married on February 7, 1965 to William Jackson Arey (b. September 7, 1942); and James Vance (b. July 2, 1946) who was married on June 10, 1972 to Regina Lou Crowder (b. September 2, 1949). Five grandchildren include three children of Linton and Gay: Joseph Linton, IV (b. August 24, 1970), Tyler Combs (b. August 7, 1973) and Marjorie Greer (b. October 4, 1976); and two children of Carole and Jack: William Jackson, Jr. (b. December 30, 1966) and Mildred Carole (b. January 11, 1969).

— Grace R. Hamrick

JOSEPH LINTON SUTTLE, III FAMILY

1035

Joseph Linton Suttle III of Shelby was born February 11, 1942 and is the son of Joseph Linton Suttle, Jr. and Sara McFarland Suttle. His forebears were among the pioneer families of this area.

Linton was graduated from Shelby High School and from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill with the class of 1964. At UNC he was a member of Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity. He was associated with the J.L. Suttle, Jr. and Company Inc., an insurance firm founded by his father, from 1965 until 1971.

He and Fred Mills established the Mills-Suttle Construction Company in 1969 and he left the insurance field to become a full time partner in 1971. They were developers of many sub-divisions and homes, also two apartment complexes in Cleveland County and were award recipients for national recognition for design in a housing project in Boiling Springs.

In 1978 he formed his own construction company, Linton Suttle, Inc., in which he continues today.

Linton is past president of the Great Shelby Chamber of Commerce and helped organize the Homebuilders Association of Cleveland County, having served twice as president of the latter. He has served as a member of the Planning and Zoning Board of Shelby and currently serves on the Cleveland County Planning and Zoning Board.

He is a deacon and Sunday School superintendent of First Baptist Church of Shelby and is an officer and director of Cleveland County Club. He was also instrumental in establishment of the Malcolm Brown auditorium and the Cleveland County Boys Club facilities.

Linton and Minna Gaston "Gay" Combs, daughter of Herbert Cranford and Minna LeGrand Combs, were married June 3, 1967. They are parents of three children: Joseph Linton Suttle, IV (Joe), born August 24, 1970; Tyler Combs Suttle, born August 7, 1973; and Marjorie Greer Suttle, born October 4, 1976.

Gay is also a graduate of Shelby High School and was further educated at Peace College in Raleigh, North Carolina, from which she was graduated, and the University of South Carolina in Columbia, South Carolina. She is a past president of the Cleveland Memorial Hospital Auxiliary and helped initiate the present Auxiliary Health Careers Scholarship program for students. She is the buyer for the hospital's gift shop. She is also an active member of the Shelby Junior Charity League.

Linton and Gay and their children reside at 1306 Montrose Drive in Shelby.

— Gay Combs Suttle

THE JOSEPH PINKNEY SUTTLE FAMILY

1036

One of newly-organized Cleveland County's most active young citizens was Joseph Suttle, who came in the late 1840s, from his home in Rutherford County to become one of this area's most influential ministers.

The Suttle family name was originally Southill (Suthil) in Yorkshire, England about 1500, and descendants of Sir Henry Suthil were called Suttle when Francis came to old Rappahannock County, Virginia in 1656, and for five later generations until George Suttle came with his father Joseph, brothers Bushrod, and Isaac and others to Rutherford County in 1782. George served in the Revolutionary War in Virginia.

Nancy Byars, daughter of William and Sarah Doggett Byars, married George Suttle February 8, 1787. They reared nine children on a six hundred & fourteen acre plantation in High Shoals township, where around fifty workers cleared land for a fruit tree nursery and other things.

The three-story Suttle home had eighteen-inch thick walls made of homemade brick and was a landmark on the stagecoach road to Spartanburg.

Joseph Suttle was born in his grandparents' house April 25, 1827, the fourth of fifteen children born to Benjamin Franklin and Sarah Baxter Suttle, who inherited this homeplace.

In 1846, at age nineteen, Joseph was baptized at Concord Baptist Church. Later the same year on February 25th, he married Elvira

Joseph Pinkney Suttle

Elizabeth Blanton, daughter of Charles and Judith Hamrick Blanton of Cleveland County.

Church records tell that Joe Suttle assisted Elders Thomas Dixon and Drury Dobbins in "protracted meetings" under brush arbors around Cleveland County prior to 1850 when he was ordained as a Baptist minister at Zion Baptist Church where Elvira Blanton's family were members.

Young Elder Suttle's first pastorages began in 1851 at Double Springs and Wood's Meeting House (Boiling Springs Baptist Church). Early pastors received no salaries, only token gifts. Minutes of one church listed "a pair of boots and five dollars" as the year's pay to one of their first.

Men felt "called to the ministry," and served their churches on weekends, while providing for their families on their farms or in other occupations. Joseph Suttle farmed.

The 1849-1850 census and tax records of the first Suttle property in this county record: "Joseph Suttle, Baptist clergyman — wife and two children in House number 1435 — four hundred acres of land". This was between Boiling Springs and Second Broad River. A third child, Ab, was born here in August 20, 1853 before the family moved to Sharon community.

They bought the 532 acre farm and Minor Smith house built about 1817, which was for sale by his grandson for a cash gold settlement. Elder Suttle rode horseback to Chester, South Carolina to borrow the gold from a friend. When Ben Suttle, his father, learned that it had to be repaid in five, ten and twenty gold pieces he told Joseph to return the gold and he would borrow it for him elsewhere.

Small Bate, Sarah, and Ab Suttle moved with their parents to the new home where Esther was born in 1859 and Joseph Pinkney in 1861.

There is no record of how many workers lived on the plantation but Indian corn was planted and other food was raised.

In 1851 Elder Suttle helped organize the Kings Mountain Baptist Administration and was a leader for ten years. His well-written, deeply spiritual messages to the churches reflected the private home education and intensive Bible study. Two vital concerns of his ministry were missions and temperance.

He served at Sandy Run, Zoar, Pleasant Grove and New Bethel. In early 1861 he was called to Old Buffalo Church, but before he began work young Joseph Suttle was stricken with pneumonia and died May 26, 1861. He was buried in the cemetery at his homeplace, now known as "Twin Chimneys Farm."

Children of Joseph and Elvira Suttle: Charles Beattie (b. Dec.-22-1846 d. Mar.-30-1927) m. (Aug.-8-1869) Esther Jane Wray (b. Mar.-16-1851 d. Nov.-27-1932); Sarah Judith (b. Aug.-16-1848 d. Nov.-13-1918) m. (Mar.-24-1863) George Washington Wray (b. May-13-1846 d. Dec.-2-1916); Albert Benjamin (b. Aug.-20-1853 d. Apr.-6-1918) m. (May-5-1880) Mary Lou Miller (b. May-5-1861 d. Sept.-18-1914); Esther Jane (b. Sept.-16-1859 d. Aug.-20-1932) m. (Apr.-28-1880) Dr. Victor McBrayer (b. Sept.-25-1853 d. Sept.-9-1897); Joseph Pinkney, Jr. (b. Sept.-20-1861 d. July-15-1863).

Sources: Settle-Suttle History by Colonel Emmett Reece, Kings Mountain Baptist Association History 1851-1951, Cleveland County deeds, tax, and census records, Zion Church History, Old Buffalo Church records.

— Bea Suttle Morris and Sara McFarland Suttle

MRS. JOSEPH PINKNEY SUTTLE

1037

When eighteen year-old Elvira Blanton married young minister Joe Suttle on February 25, 1846, she little dreamed that in the not-far-off future she would follow in her father's footsteps as a pace-setter in the responsibilities of business and service to the community. She was the fourth of twelve children of first Sheriff Charles and Judith Hamrick Blanton, born January 1, 1828 at their home on Hickory Creek, north west of Shelby. This capable young girl, wife and mother spent the first six years of married life near Boiling Springs. Three children, Charles Beattie, Sarah Jane and Albert Benjamin were born before young Elder Suttle moved his family in 1854 to their home on First Broad River in the Sharon Community. Esther Jane was born in 1859. Mrs. Suttle was eager for her children to have the best available cultural and educational advantages, so she had a schoolroom set up upstairs in the home and employed a teacher for her own and several neighbor children.

A big event happened each spring and fall when word was passed around that the new stock of clothes had arrived at the stores in the small town of Shelby. Mother took her buggy, forded the river and soon returned to delight her family with "store-bought" hats, shoes and other things. Handmade clothing kept people busy much of the time, along with all the other farm duties of a housewife. While Elder Suttle helped establish pioneer churches she directed the farm workers.

The closely-knit Suttle-Blanton families enjoyed happy visits, weddings and the annual summer "Big Meetings" at their scattered churches. Elders shared news and strengthened family ties while their young fell in love and Remember . . .

Articles
Are Indexed
By
Article Numbers
. . . Not By
Page
Number

planned later dates — weather and bad roads permitting.

Suddenly this whole way of life ended when the Civil War began in April 1861 for the South and for everyone happily married young Elvira Suttle knew and loved. On May 26, her thirty-four year old preacher-husband died, leaving her with four children under age fifteen. Joseph Pinkney Suttle, Junior was born three months later and lived only two years.

Two of the faithful servants had promised her husband on his deathbed to stay and help her, which they did for several years, until the war ended. Life was dangerous for women, and children alone in the country at this time, and Elvira became a leader in courage and ability to cope with her business affairs and to inspire others.

Daughter Sarah married George Wray on the next farm, and son Bate volunteered in a company of seventeen-year old boys the last year of the war. Her brothers were in the heavy fighting — two killed, one wounded in Virginia and her mother, Mrs. Blanton, died from grief.

Bate returned to help his brother, Ab, build up the farm and remained sometime after his marriage to Esther Wray.

Mrs. Suttle divided land and made other transactions of property in Rutherford County before moving to Shelby in 1878, where she bought eleven acres between West Marion and Sumter Streets on Cora Street.

Her son-in-law, George Wray, who lived on the west corner of the same block had a pretty cottage built for her, and several of her family lived with her there at different times. Elvira sold the country home to J.F. Ledbetter in 1833. She bought property on North Morgan Street where some farming was done. After selling her home on West Marion, Mrs. Suttle lived with her daughter, Mrs. Victor McBrayer and Dr. McBrayer at the Shelby Hotel, corner of LaFayette and Marion Streets, for several years while their home was being built on North Morgan. She lived with them until her death January 30, 1911 and was buried in Sunset cemetery beside her son, Ab Suttle.

She had been a devoted member of the First Baptist Church, and her business ability and cultural interests made her respected and greatly loved.

Sources: Cleveland County deeds, tax and census records.

— Bea Suttle Morris
and Sara McFarland Suttle

JULIUS ALBERT SUTTLE

1038

Julius Albert Suttle was born June 27, 1877 five miles west of Shelby. He was the fourth child of Charles Beattie and Esther Jane Wray Suttle. He died October 7, 1952 and was buried in Sunset Cemetery. His brothers were Joseph Linton, husband of Mary E. Walker and John William, husband of Leila Pierson, sisters, Mary Irene, wife of S.A. McMurry, Dovie Elizabeth, wife of L.F. McBrayer, Margaret Ola, wife of L.P. Holland, Louise Ray, wife of L.J. Baley.

After attending Shelby public school and Oak Ridge Institute, he entered the University of North Carolina where he graduated in 1897 with the first Pharmacy class.

December 27, 1906 he married Ethel Morrison Lineberger, daughter of John Dixon and Bettie Munday Lineberger. To this union was born three children, Esther Elizabeth, wife of Furman Gordon McLarty. Nancy Lineberger, wife of William Gerald Pendleton. Julius Albert, Jr., husband of Mary Lucille Henderson.

He bought Lincoln Drug and lived in Lincoln for fifteen years, then came back to Shelby in 1922. His first pharmacy in Shelby was bought from Dr. E.B. Lattimore. A year later he moved into the Lineberger Suttle building on Lafayette Street and there continued to operate the store until his death.

On March 29, 1905 he received The Mortar and Pestle award, and was named Druggist of the Year, a coveted honor among North Carolina Druggists.

He was a member of The First Baptist Church, where at one time he was a deacon, and a charter member of the Kiwanis Club, which he was instrumental in organizing. He served as a director in the Union Trust Company, The Cleveland Building and Loan Association, Shelby Creamery and The Kendall Medicine Company. He was a Mason and a Shriner.

At the time of his death he was the oldest active Pharmacist between Asheville and Charlotte.

— Mrs. Betty McLarty

FREDERICK JAMES and CHARLOTTE TEDDER SWIFT

1039

Frederick J. Swift and Charlotte Tedder were married in Nashville, Tennessee, October 7, 1944, in the chapel of the Baptist Sunday School Board. They had met in the First Baptist Church of that city at a Young People's Fellowship Hour. Charlotte was from Shelby, North Carolina, but was working at the Sunday School Board at that time. Fred was a native of Highland, New York. He was in the Army Air Force on maneuvers and stationed at Lebanon, Tennessee. Following their marriage they lived in Shreveport, Louisiana, until Fred completed 52 months in service and was discharged at Barksdale Field, November 10, 1945, after World War II ended.

In December, 1945, they came to Charlotte's home town to live. Their son James A. Swift was born September 3, 1946. In the fall of 1949 the family moved to Hendersonville and lived there six years. While there Fred was manager of Sterchi's Jewelry Department. Charlotte taught at Rosa Edwards School and worked with the Carolina Baptist Association. They were members of the First Baptist Church. Fred was on the Board of Deacons and taught a class of boys. A son Charles Frederick Swift was born January 7, 1952, and a daughter Susan McQueen August 21, 1953.

The family returned to Shelby in September, 1955. Fred worked twenty-three years with the North Carolina Employment Security Commission, most of the time as a Claim Deputy. He retired June 30, 1980. Charlotte served nineteen years with the Shelby City Schools, first as a teacher and later as a school librarian. Years before she had graduated from Meredith College with an A.B. degree; while teaching she attended Appalachian State Teachers College summers and on Saturdays and in August, 1964, received an M.A. degree. She later received scholarships and attended Institutes for Librarians at the University of Denver, summer of 1967, and East Carolina University, summer of 1968. Over a period of more than thirteen years she wrote an article once a month for a publication of the Baptist Sunday School Board. Fred and Charlotte are members of the Shelby First Baptist Church and Fred has taught a Sunday school class there of nine and ten year old boys for over thirty years.

Fred was born in Highland, New York, April 22, 1918, and spent his childhood there. He and a half brother Henry who married Elsa Bishop and a sister Ethel who married Clifford Dwight Beller, an Army Chaplain who served in World War II and the Korean Incident. Henry and Elsa had one daughter Frances and she married Richard Miller. They have three children. Fred's mother, Ethel Violet Horne Swift, was active in P.T.A., the local Methodist Church, and served as State Treasurer of the W.C.T.U. His father, James Richard Swift, was chief engineer of the Hudson Valley Pure

Elvira Elizabeth Blanton

Frederick James and Charlotte Tedder Swift Family

Food Company, a member of the Highland Methodist Church, belonged to the Lloyd Rod and Gun Club, and was a commissioner of the Highland Fire Company. Fred ice skated, rode his sled, fished, camped and hiked with the Boy Scouts and sometimes worked on a farm in the summer. His father made two inventions for the company for whom he worked and he and Fred invented a diving helmet for use in the local lakes and a telephone system to connect Fred's room at home with his friend's room next door. Fred was youth representative on the official board of his church. After high school graduation in Highland he attended Tusculum College in Tennessee from which he graduated with an A.B. degree in 1941, just prior to going into service.

As to the children of Fred and Charlotte Swift: James A. graduated from high school in Shelby in 1964 and from North Carolina State University in 1968. He was a member of the high school band, played high school football his senior year and was an Eagle Scout. He works for General Electric Company, his office now being in Portland, Oregon. He is married to the former Drew Fewell and they have two children, Mark Christopher and Ashley Drew. Charles Frederick graduated in pharmacy from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill in 1976 and received a Master's degree in Business from the University in Greensboro in 1980. He married Susan Simms and they live in Greensboro where he works for a pharmaceutical company and she is an operating room nurse. Susan McQueen graduated in 1975 from Meredith College and received a Master's degree in Child and Family Services from the University of Tennessee. She is now director of two childcare centers in Gastonia and lives in Charlotte. All three of the children swam with the Shelby Swim Team; all three were state winners in Baptist Junior Bible Memory work. Charlie was an Eagle Scout and also received the God and Country Award; was an Explorer Scout and a member of the Order of the Arrow. While in high school Susan went to Russia with a music group.

Charlotte's ancestors have been mentioned in two articles: one on Daniel Allen Tedder and one on Marjory McQueen Tedder. With reference to Fred's forebears, it should be said that William Swyft came to America from Bocking County Essex, England, or from nearby with the great "Boston Immigration 1630-31." He probably settled in Watertown, Massachusetts, as he was there in 1634. He sold his land there in the spring of 1637 and probably moved to Sandwich, Massachusetts as he died there in January 1642 or 1644. The land he bought in Sandwich was still in the Swift family in January, 1887, owned and occupied by a Swift descendant, Shadrach Freeman Swift. William Swyft's wife was Joane. In the ninth generation of this family in America was James Deuel Swift, Fred's grandfather, born March 20, 1842 in Dutchess County, New York. His grandmother was Emma Carson Swift, born in New York City July 12, 1853. Fred's father, James Richard Swift, was born in Brooklyn, N.Y., November 11, 1881; died in Kingston, N.Y., November 15, 1969. On May 29, 1913, in Richmond, Long Island, he had married Ethel Violet Horne, born in Brooklyn, December 30, 1888; died in Newburgh, April 13, 1949. Her father was Henry Bower Horne, born in Brooklyn December 30, 1841. Her mother was Theresa Eleanor Abbott, born in Birmingham, England, August 15, 1858, and died in Brooklyn April 23, 1945. Theresa's father was Thomas Henry Abbott, born in Birmingham, England, died in Brooklyn July 8, 1866. Her mother was Mary Alicia Percival born in London in 1830; died July 30, 1866. This great grandmother of Fred's was the daughter of Lord Percival, a descendant of the John Percival who was one of William the Conqueror's four generals and who fought at the battle of Hastings in 1066. He had married William's daughter. Fred's grandmother, Theresa E. Abbott, daughter of Henry A. and Mary A. Percival Abbott came to America when 7 or 8. She had attended kindergarten with Queen Victoria's children. Once she sang for Queen Victoria.

Sources: Family Bibles; family memories; William Swyft of Sandwich and Some of His Descendants. 1637-1899; Genealogical History of the House of Yvery.

— Charlotte Tedder Swift

THE CHARLIE HOWARD and ESTRIDGE BRIDGES SWOFFORD FAMILY

1040

Charlie Howard Swofford was born on November 17, 1884 in Gastonia, North Carolina. His wife, Estridge Bridges Swofford, was born on March 27, 1896, in Rutherford County, North Carolina.

Mr. and Mrs. Swofford moved to Shelby in 1925 and opened a business by the name of Swofford Grocery Company which was located on East Main Street across from Campbell's Department Store.

Mr. Swofford's earliest ancestors in this area were pioneer Pieter Hoyle (Heyl), who came to North Carolina by way of York County, Pennsylvania and then Frederick, Maryland, Capt. Benjamin Newton who came with his father-in-law, Capt. John McCall from Shrewsbury Township, York County, Pennsylvania; Lewis Bumgardner of Casar (father of the Rev. John); John Prewitt (Pruitt) who came from Virginia; Nicholas Schramm; and David Stockton. He also had Chapman, Brooks, Norman, Arrowood, and Tallant lines. Capt. Benjamin Newton may have been a first cousin to President James Buchanan.

Mr. Swofford was the son of Joseph Martin Swofford and Dovie Frances Bumgardner Swofford. (See this family history for his brothers and sisters).

Estridge Bridges Swofford's earliest ancestors were George and Nancy Hamrick, George Blanton, and James and Rebecca Hamrick Bridges. These families came to the Shelby area in the late seventeen hundreds, probably around 1775.

Mr. Swofford was educated at Rutherford College. He was in the Medical Corps of the U.S. Army in the First World War, serving in many of the major battles in France.

The Swofford family belonged to Central Methodist Church. Mr. Swofford was a member of the Hoey Bible Class.

Mr. and Mrs. Swofford were married at the home of the bride's parents on January 18, 1920 in Rutherford County.

Mr. and Mrs. Swofford have one child, Margaret Elizabeth (Beth), born October 27, 1927 in Shelby. Beth entered school in Shelby and was selected to serve as mascot at the graduation of the Shelby High School Class of 1933. Beth was graduated from Duke University in 1946 and received her Master's Degree from Converse College in 1963. She is married to the Rev. Gilbert F. Cofer, a member of the Virginia Conference of the United Methodist Church. Beth has been a chemistry teacher in the public schools of Virginia for many years.

Gilbert and Beth Cofer have three children: Mary Cofer Dix, born June 19, 1948 in Petersburg, Virginia. She married C. Thomas Dix II on April 14, 1973 in Fairfax County, Virginia. Their second child is Charles Gilbert Cofer, born June 27, 1952 in Radford, Virginia. He married Emily Anne Terry on June 1, 1974 at Bolling Air Force Base in Maryland. Their third child is John Lewis Cofer, born June 29, 1953 in Arlington, Virginia. Mary is a teacher, Charles is an attorney, and John is a graduate student.

The Swofford family moved from Shelby in December, 1933 and opened a mercantile business in Rutherford County. Mr. Swofford died August 12, 1939 in Lake City, Florida, and is buried in Sunset Cemetery, Shelby, North Carolina. Mrs. Swofford is living in Rutherford County.

Sources: File 5244, York County Historical Society, York, Pennsylvania. This states that Capt. Benjamin Newton was the son of Ebenezer and Elizabeth Buchanan Newton. A reference credited to the Magna Carta Dames states that Elizabeth was the daughter of John and Elizabeth Russell Buchanan. If so, she was the sister of James, Father of President Buchanan. This appears unlikely, as Elizabeth was born ca 1730 and James was born in 1760. She may have been a sister of this John Buchanan rather than his daughter. A letter in this file states that she "was proven as the sister of John Buchanan, also William, who died in 1764, George, of Pa. was a Revolutionary War soldier, born 1725 in Ireland . . ."

— Elizabeth S. Cofer

JOHN SWOFFORD

1041

John Kirbin Swofford was born in Cleveland County, North Carolina on February 6, 1899. He was the son of Joseph Martin Swofford and Donie Frances Bumgardner Swofford. He married Sadie Caroline Harris daughter of John Baxter Harris and Sarah Simpson Price Harris. He worked at the Cliffside Mill at age 11 as a half hand for 35¢ per day and on a farm from 1917 to 1939. He then went back to public work where he and his family made rugs for Lily Mill Company of Shelby from 1941 to 1951. He then returned to farming and retired. He trained bird dogs for the public from 1951 to 1972 having at times as many as 50 dogs. John and Sadie had six children: Edna, Ruby, Vera, Inez, John Jr. and Dwight Swofford.

Edna Frances Swofford was born in 1921. She married Emmett Blanton. Edna and Emmett lived in Cleveland County for 30 years where he was employed by Dover Mill Company of Shelby. He died of cancer in 1967. They had two children: Carolyn Frances and Robert Graham. Carolyn married Joseph Ponder in 1964. He is a commander in the United States Navy. They have two children: Tamara Lynn and Angela Katherine. They were both born in Cleveland County. Robert married Mary Hoyle. They later divorced and Robert married Joan Davis. She had three children and he and Joan had one child, John Benjamin. Robert and Carolyn Blanton both graduated from Shelby High.

Sara Vera Swofford was born in 1922. She married James Dewitt Gettys. She made draperies for the public at her home in Cleveland County. Dewitt works at the school bus garage as a mechanic. They have one daughter: Oleta Kay. She married Hubert Triplett, Jr. in 1963. She works with her mother sewing drapes. Hubert works at Trane Company where he installs air conditioners and heat systems. They have two sons: Christopher Todd and Timothy Dale who are both in high school.

Ruby Irene Swofford was born in 1924. She married Robert Forrest Price in 1944. Robert served in World War II. He worked for Shelby Supply Company of Shelby, North Carolina from 1946 to 1961. He then served as Executive Vice-President and director of United States Distributors from 1961 to 1963. He now owns and is president of Dixie Industrial Auto Supply Company of Shelby. They have one son: Michael Robert Price. He is a 1972 graduate of Shelby High School. He attended North Carolina State from 1972 to 1974 and then attended University North Carolina Chapel Hill from 1974 to 1976. He is now employed at Dixie Industrial with his father.

Alice Inez Swofford married Ernest Aston Cummins in 1946. She makes draperies and is an interior decorator. They have two children: Barbara Alice and James Patrick. Barbara married Bernie Courtney and they have two children: James Patrick and Alisa Caroline Courtney. Bernie and Barbara are now divorced. James Patrick Cummins married Susan Hayslip. They have one daughter: Kristen Michelle. James got killed in a car accident in 1978. Ernest Cummins worked for Hamrick Brothers in Boiling Springs, Cleveland County.

John Kirbin Swofford, Jr. was born in 1932. He is a twin. He married Mavin Hoyle. He served in the Korean Conflict. He then came to Cleveland County and worked at Goforth Brothers for 23 years. He now is employed at Cleveland Technical College. He built a poultry farm in Polkville, North Carolina. They had two children: Patricia Ann and Floyd Eric. They both graduated from Crest High School. Mavin works at Shelby Convalescence Center as a LPN. Patricia married Dennis Franklin Flynn in June, 1973. They have one daughter Beverly Suzanne Flynn. Dennis is a salesman at Cleveland Lumber Company where he has been there for 12 years. Floyd Swofford married Barbara Hoyle in 1978. They have a son James William and they are expecting a baby in August.

Dwight Colin Swofford was born in 1932. He is the twin of John Swofford, Jr. He married Ruth Tate. They had one daughter Janice Lynn born in 1963. Dwight and Ruth are now divorced. He is now married to Gail Ann Jeanfreau. They have one son Dwight Colin Augustus Swofford. Gail had three children by previous marriages: William Anthony, Bridgett Ann and Joseph Eugene (died in infancy). Dwight works in Cleveland County at Hamrick Brothers in Boiling Springs, North Carolina.

— Patricia Flynn

THE JOSEPH MARTIN and DOVIE FRANCES BUMGARDNER SWOFFORD FAMILY

1042

Joseph Swofford was born November 4, 1865 near Casar, North Carolina. Dovie Bumgardner Swofford was born March 1, 1868 near Casar. Joseph was a grandson to William Swofford, born 1776, who was married October 2, 1800 in Rutherford County to Elizabeth Hoyle. Elizabeth was the daughter of Martin and Margaret Schramm Hoyle and granddaughter of Jacob Hoyle, oldest son of pioneer Pieter Hoyle (Heyl).

The father of Joseph was the Rev. William Swofford, born January 15, 1819, in Cleveland County. William was married to Naomi Chapman in 1846 in Cleveland County. Naomi was the daughter of Robert Chapman.

Dovie Frances was the daughter of William and Susan Newton Bumgardner. She was the granddaughter of the Rev. John and Jemima Pruitt Bumgardner. She was descended from John McCall and Capt. Benjamin Newton on her maternal side.

Joseph Martin Swofford and Dovie Frances Bumgardner were married January 6, 1884 near Casar. They had the following children:

Leroy Swofford, born June 27, 1885, died May 23, 1890 near Casar.

Andrew Carlo Swofford, born June 27, 1886, died February 22, 1959, buried at Clover Hill Methodist Church. He married Susan Newton, born 1888, on September 6, 1905. Carlo was a minister in the Western North Carolina Conference of the Methodist Church.

Dora Roselia Swofford, born March 3, 1888 near Casar. Dora married December 21, 1911 to Spurgeon Hollifield Philbeck. She died at Mooresboro, North Carolina July 3, 1965.

Robert Swofford, born March 13, 1890 near Clover Hill Methodist Church. Robert married Mary Ethel Green, born October 19, 1887, on May 14, 1911. Robert died at Kings Mountain on December 24, 1962.

Joseph Cullen Swofford, born September 22, 1892, Cleveland County, died July 10, 1894.

Charlie Howard Swofford, born November 17, 1894, Gastonia, North Carolina. He married Beulah Estridge Bridges, born March 25, 1896, on January 18, 1920. Charlie died August 12, 1939 in Lake City, Florida.

Bertha Frances Swofford, born July 26, 1896, Gastonia, North Carolina. She married Lawson Crowe on February 29, 1920. She died July, 1966 in Rutherford County.

John Kirbin Swofford, born February 6, 1899, Cleveland County. He married Sadie Harris on September 21, 1919 and lives in Rutherford County.

Katie Emma Swofford, born April 11, 1901 in the Belwood Community, Cleveland County. She married Robert F. Philbeck on September 10, 1922. Emma died October 17, 1981 in Eustis, Florida.

Thomas Hoyle Swofford, born October 6, 1903 on the Henry Hoyle Farm, Cleveland County. He married Ida McCurry on February 9, 1924. Thomas Hoyle is a minister of the Western North Carolina Conference of the United Methodist Church, is now living in Forest City, North Carolina.

Ada Susannah Swofford, born September 22, 1905 at Hollis, North Carolina, died August 31, 1908.

Amanda Naomi Swofford, born April 30, 1907 at Hollis, North Carolina, died August 31, 1908.

William Durham Swofford, born April 30, 1909 at Bessemer City, North Carolina. He married Lallage Dover in Shelby on July 3, 1932. They live in Forest City, North Carolina.

Dovie Geneva Swofford, born January 4, 1913 at Cliffside, North Carolina. She married Herbert F. Galloway on April 10, 1938 in Mecklenburg County. She died September 22, 1979 in Rutherford County.

Joseph Martin Swofford was a farmer for most of his life. He was of medium height and stocky build. He is remembered for his sense of humor, love of family, community, and church. Joseph died January 21, 1934 and is buried at Hollis United Methodist Church Cemetery in Rutherford County. His wife, Dovie Frances, died September 5, 1950 and is also buried at Hollis.

Sources: Family records.

— Elizabeth S. Cofer

WILLIAM SWOFFORD

1043

William Swofford was born in 1776, probably in North Carolina. He is thought to be a son of James and his wife Sarah. He married Elizabeth Hoyle, born ca 1782, who was a great granddaughter of pioneer Pieter Hoyle (Heyl). They were married on October 2, 1800 in Rutherford County, North Carolina.

He is believed to have died in 1855 and is buried in the old Clover Hill Methodist Church Cemetery near Casar. His will is recorded in Will Book No. 1, page 230, Cleveland County, North Carolina. William and Elizabeth had the following children: David, born February 23, 1802, who married Millie Willis, born 1808.

Sarah, born 1806.

Hannah, born 1808, who married Reuben Willis.

Katherine, born 1809, who married John Oliver Newton, born 1809.

John Hoyle, born May 5, 1814, married Eady Pruitt, born January 12, 1819, died December 23, 1876; second marriage to Margaret

James P., born April 14, 1816, married Jane Chapman, born May 25, 1819, died May 12, 1898.

William, born January 15, 1819, died 1881; married Naomi Chapman, born September 18, 1824, died 1910. William was a Methodist Minister, served in the War Between the States. William and Naomi are buried in the old Snow Hill Methodist Church Cemetery northeast of Casar.

Joseph W., born November 2, 1820, married on March 1, 1839 to Susannah Pruitt, sister to Eady and daughter of Spencer and Sarah Stockton Pruitt.

Nancy, born 1822, married Joseph Johnson.

Elizabeth, born May 15, 1823, died February 22, 1911, married Robert Chapman, born 1826.

Martin, born September 3, 1805, died December 1, 1884.

— Elizabeth S. Cofer

REV. WILLIAM SWOFFORD

1044

The Rev. William Swofford was born January 15, 1819 in upper Cleveland County, North Carolina. He was married in 1846 to Naomi Chapman, born September 18, 1824. Mr. Swofford was a circuit rider in the Methodist Church. He served in the Army of the Confederate States. They were the parents of the following children:

Robert Swofford, born September 16, 1844, Cleveland County, North Carolina. He was wounded in July, 1863 in the Battle of Gettysburg.

Elizabeth Swofford, born February 16, 1846. She married David Buff, born 1840. They had eight children.

Margaret Swofford, born December 12, 1848. She married Wheeler Buff, born 1855. They had six children. Margaret died in California.

Caleb Swofford, born November 5, 1849. He married Betty Hull.

Naomi Swofford, born May 4, 1852.

Eliza Jane Swofford, born September 5, 1854. She married John Hoyle.

Louise Swofford, born December 15, 1856. She married Frank Gales. She died in Lincoln County in 1910.

Nancy Susan Swofford, born May 10, 1859. She married Peter Buff, born 1859. She is buried at Zoar Baptist Church near Casar.

Dora Catherine Swofford, born April 6, 1861. She married Thomas Blackwood. She is buried at Snow Hill Methodist Church Cemetery northeast of Casar.

William Albert Swofford, born April 6, 1863.

Joseph Martin Swofford, born November 4, 1865. He married Dovie Frances Bumgardner (born March 1, 1868) on January 6, 1884 near Casar. He died January 21, 1934 in Rutherford County, North Carolina.

The Swofford homeplace was located at the foot of the hill below the old Snow Hill Methodist Church.

— Elizabeth S. Cofer

FAMILY OF ROLAND CLIFTON TATE

1045

Roland Clifton Tate was born January 15, 1891 in Cherokee County to Annie Bridges Tate and Mannasseh Masshaw Tate. My father died February 25, 1968. Dad had two sisters, Evie Tate Webster and Katie Tate Webster. Both sisters married brothers, Walter and Frank Webster.

My grandfather Mannasseh was born November 19, 1843 and died April 14, 1904 and is buried in the Antioch Cemetery and has an interesting inscription on his tombstone: M.M. Tate A member of the Fifth South Carolina Volunteers. His colonel said of him, "If General Lee should call on me for my bravest man I would unhesitatingly send M.M. Tate."

My grandmother Annie was born May 31, 1865 and died April 23, 1921. After grandfather died she and Dad moved to Grover, North Carolina. They bought some land in Grover and had a house built. This was the house where my mother and dad raised their three children — Genevieve, Sherwood and Ellis. I can remember many happy times in this home.

Evie and Katie had already married before my Dad and his Mother moved to North Carolina. Aunt Evie settled in Cherokee County near Gaffney, South Carolina and had a very happy married life with Uncle Walter Webster and their eight children.

Katie and Frank Webster spent a happy married life near Kings Mountain, North Carolina. To this union seven children were born.

After my Grandmother Annie moved to Grover she married Logan Crocker April 15, 1906.

Roland Clifton Tate, my father, operated People's Drug Store in Grover between 1919-1952, the favorite meeting place of the young and old during its day. The drug store burned in 1952. He was the toast of the town with his wit and advice, not much information was sought that he couldn't scratch his head and come up with the answers. He would laugh and say that those were the "dollar" days when most every prescription was a dollar . . . except asafoetida, which was five cents until a mountaineer came in with a twenty dollar bill during the depression and was willing to pay fifteen cents.

My Dad was married in 1921 to Fannie Ellis, a direct descendant of Ben J. Ellis who came to America from Ireland around the turn of the century to settle in lower Cleveland County.

Dad was a veteran of World War I. His tombstone reads, Roland Clifton Tate, North Carolina — Pvt. Co. B. 322 Infantry World War I. He liked to reminisce about his days in France.

I was Roland and Fannie's only daughter. I was born May 20, 1923 and married R. Jolley Duncan June 19, 1949. We have three adopted children. Ronnie Eugene born July 9, 1956. Ronnie married Wendy Haire February 28, 1978 and their daughter is Christina Duncan born September 15, 1979. Carol Anne was born November 18, 1956. Janice Elaine was born November 7, 1958. She married Jerry Sipes June 19, 1977. They have one daughter Tina Sipes, born November 23, 1978.

I am afraid I disappointed my Dad. He was very anxious for me to be a nurse. My dream was to be a teacher, and I was one for several years. I graduated from Western Carolina Teachers College — now Western Carolina University.

Sherwood Clifton Tate was born February 13, 1929 and married Dollie Poston on July 3, 1954. Dollie was born February 8, 1929. They have two children. Sherwood Clifton Tate, Jr.

Roland Clifton Tate, owner of Peoples Drug Store, Grover, N. C.

L to R: Ellis, Sherwood and Roland Clifton Tate — 1964.

was born December 24, 1959 and Suzanne Elizabeth Tate born May 7, 1961. Clif is a senior at Clemson University and Suzanne is a junior at University of North Carolina at Charlotte.

Roland Ellis Tate was born January 2, 1934 and married Elizabeth Ann Mitchell on August 16, 1958. Libby was born on May 20, 1937. They have two children. Sandra Elaine born May 11, 1963 and Steven Ellis Tate born January 5, 1967. Sandra is a student at Cleveland Technical College and Steven is a student at Shelby Junior High.

My Dad was a very happy man when my brother, Sherwood became a registered pharmacist. Then when my younger brother, Ellis became a registered pharmacist he really was happy. That was a dream come true since he had ambitiously hoped both my brothers would follow in his foot steps. Sherwood and Ellis say they are very happy in their profession and they do not know of anything they had rather be doing.

Sherwood and Ellis are both working for Revco Drug Company on Highway 74 East. Sherwood graduated from Southern College of Pharmacy in Atlanta in 1958. Ellis graduated from the University of South Carolina in 1962.

Sherwood and Ellis are well known to Shelbians where their pleasing personality is enjoyed by customers at Revco.

Mrs. Franklin Harry, Jr., a former neighbor, said of the Roland Tate family, "They were more than friends, they were family."

Sources: Family Records, Cleveland Times, Interviews with family members and friends.

— Genevieve Tate Duncan

JAMES BROCK TAYLOR, JR. 1046

James Brock Taylor, Jr. was born April 6, 1920 in Asheville, North Carolina. He is the son of Mrs. Edwin Yates Webb of Shelby, and the late James Brock Taylor, of Asheville who died when "Jim" was two years old.

Benjamin Taylor, his ancestor, came to this country from England, entered America at Hampton Roads about 1710, and settled in Princess Ann County, Va. His descendants moved, with a migration from Virginia, to Davie County, N. C., in 1780.

His Great Grandfather, Dr. Moses Brock Taylor was born in Mocksville 1820, and practiced in Charlotte and Greenville, Tennessee. He married Miss Eliza Baxter Springs. Her Springs ancestors had come to this country from Holland in 1650. They were among the first settlers in Brooklyn, N. Y., receiving a land grant from the Dutch Crown. Later they moved to Delaware and then to North Carolina.

Jim has the lovely portrait of Mrs. Eli Springs (1798-1855 Tirzah Ball Craig) painted by Garl Browne. Richard Springs was married twice. His first wife was Jean Baxter (1760-1804). His second wife was Mrs. Mary McBride Craig. She had a daughter, Tirzah Ball Craig, by her first husband. Mary McBride Craig was a Miss Ball, a relative of Mary Ball Washington, George Washington's mother. This Tirzah Ball Craig and Richard's son, Eli Springs (1792), by his first wife Jean Baxter, were married and are our ancestors.

Eli Springs and Tirzah Ball Springs' daughter Eliza Baxter Springs (1827-1878) married Dr. Moses Brock Taylor (1820-1892). Their son, William Baxter Taylor (1859-1932) married Jennie Galgrath (1861-1918). Their son, James Brock Taylor (1888-1922), married Alice Thurston Pender (Born 1894) their son James Brock Taylor, Jr. married Anne Royster, Shelby.

James Brock Taylor, Jr. was seven years old when his mother married the late Judge Edwin Yates Webb and moved to Shelby from Tarboro. He went to Shelby Public schools and Shelby High. He attended the Darlington School for Boys in Rome, Ga. and went to N. C. State College where he was a member of the Student Council and a member of the Kappa Alpha Fraternity.

Next in Jim's life came World War II. In 1942, he enlisted in the Army and, as a Technical Sergeant, served in the Intelligence Section of the 83rd Infantry Division Head quarters where he had the opportunity of watching and

DANIEL ALLEN TEDDER

1047

Daniel Allen Tedder with his wife, the former Marjory McQueen (Madge) and children moved to Shelby from Washington, D.C., in the spring of 1920. The children were: Frances Harden, born June 14, 1904, in Morven, N.C.; William McQueen, born February 1, 1907, Morven; Charlotte Susan, born September 10, 1908, Charlotte; Mary McQueens, born November 16, 1913, Timmonsville, S.C.; and Margaret Elizabeth born September 12, 1919, Washington, D.C. (William died April 1, 1928, and Mary died April 4, 1974).

Mr. Tedder had worked with the Interstate Commerce Commission and the Railway Utilities Commission in Washington. Prior to going to Washington during World War I he had served as pastor of several churches in South Carolina. He came to Shelby to work with the United States Department of Justice as secretary and legal assistant to Federal Judge E.Y. Webb, and also worked with the Hon. O.M. Mull. This position he held for over thirty years.

D. Allen Tedder was born in Wilmington, N.C., April 7, 1878. His father, Daniel Miles Tedder (1847-1919), was an engineer for the Seaboard Airline Railroad which operated from Wilmington West. He had served in the Confederate Army in Company C of the First Regiment South Carolina Infantry (Regulars). He was a sharp shooter for his unit. D. Allen's mother was Leary Frances Sessoms (1851-1930). His brothers and sisters were: Lula Dell (1868-1945), married R.E.L. Correll; John Fondville (1870-1962), married twice; second wife was Mary Estelle Miesen (Maymie), (1878-1960), whom he married December 7, 1901; Frances Elizabeth (Belle), (1872-1946), married James T. Fields; Marion Eveline (1875-1948), married Joseph A. Harrill; Edward Steadman (1880-1951), married in 1903 Myrtle Hoffman (1883-1970); Mary Nettles (1882-died very young); Ruth Alderman

(1887-1963), married Dr. Marcus B. Wilkes. Daniel Allen was the fifth child.

At an early age Daniel Allen Tedder moved to Laurinburg. In and around the small town Allen enjoyed nature to the fullest. Much of his many experiences with snakes he recorded later in his book Snake Tales. He appreciated all forms of nature. He had a special love for birds and included a number of poems about them in his book Pike and Minnow and Other Poems. He swam and fished in the cypress black waters and hunted in the surrounding forests.

Some of his high school age years he attended a private school, Quakenbush's, in Laurinburg, where he developed a love of the classics, and an interest in oratory, music, and knowledge in general. His family moved to Charlotte and he graduated from high school there in 1895. He wore his first long pants for the occasion. He was the recipient of a scholarship; that fall he entered Wake Forest College, graduating there in three years with two degrees, A.B., and L.L.B. Being only twenty he had to wait over a year to take the Bar Examination. The next year he reviewed law for three months at Chapel Hill, but in the meantime he had worked in the law office of Charles W. Tillett of Charlotte and also studied shorthand and typing, becoming so proficient that he was often called on to do court reporting. He was the only court reporter in this section for some time. He practiced law in Charlotte and later served under Civil Service in Atlanta, working on the side at that time to secure Child Labor Laws in Georgia, so badly needed in those years.

Allen had married in 1903 Marjory Mcfarlan McQueen in a home ceremony in Morven. They met on the train when she was going to college in Statesville (now Mitchell College) and he was returning from Monroe after attending Court there.

At heart D. Allen Tedder was really a preacher, but he had studied law, since his parents had set their hearts on his being a listening to General George Patton map strategy. He saw service in France, Belgium and Luxembourg. He was wounded in Luxembourg and spent 13 months in Army hospitals.

James Brock Taylor

After being discharged from the Army he continued his education at the University of North Carolina.

In 1947 he started his business career with J.P. Stevens Co. in Stanley; returning to Shelby with the Dover Mill in 1950. In 1956 he became associated with the Royster Transportation Company.

Jim is a member of the Shelby Presbyterian Church. He served as teacher, Sunday School Superintendent, Deacon and Ruling Elder. He is also a Mason and Shriner, former member of the Parks and Recreation Commission and former President of the Rotary Club. He is Past President of the following: Cleveland County Cancer Society, Cleveland Co. Mental Health Association, Cleveland County Boy's Club and served on Piedmont Boy Scout Council. He served as Director and President of the Shelby Chamber of Commerce and was a member of the delegation to Portland Oregon when Shelby was named "All America City". He was named "Citizen of the Year" in 1972.

He is a member of North Lake Club (Past President and Director) and Cleveland Country Club (Director).

Currently Jim is serving his sixteenth year as Chairman of Shelby Planning and Zoning Board. He is on the board of Trustees Cleveland Memorial Hospital; Board of Trustees, Lee's McRae College; and President of the Cleveland Historical Association. He is a Vice-President of Royster Transport Company in Shelby.

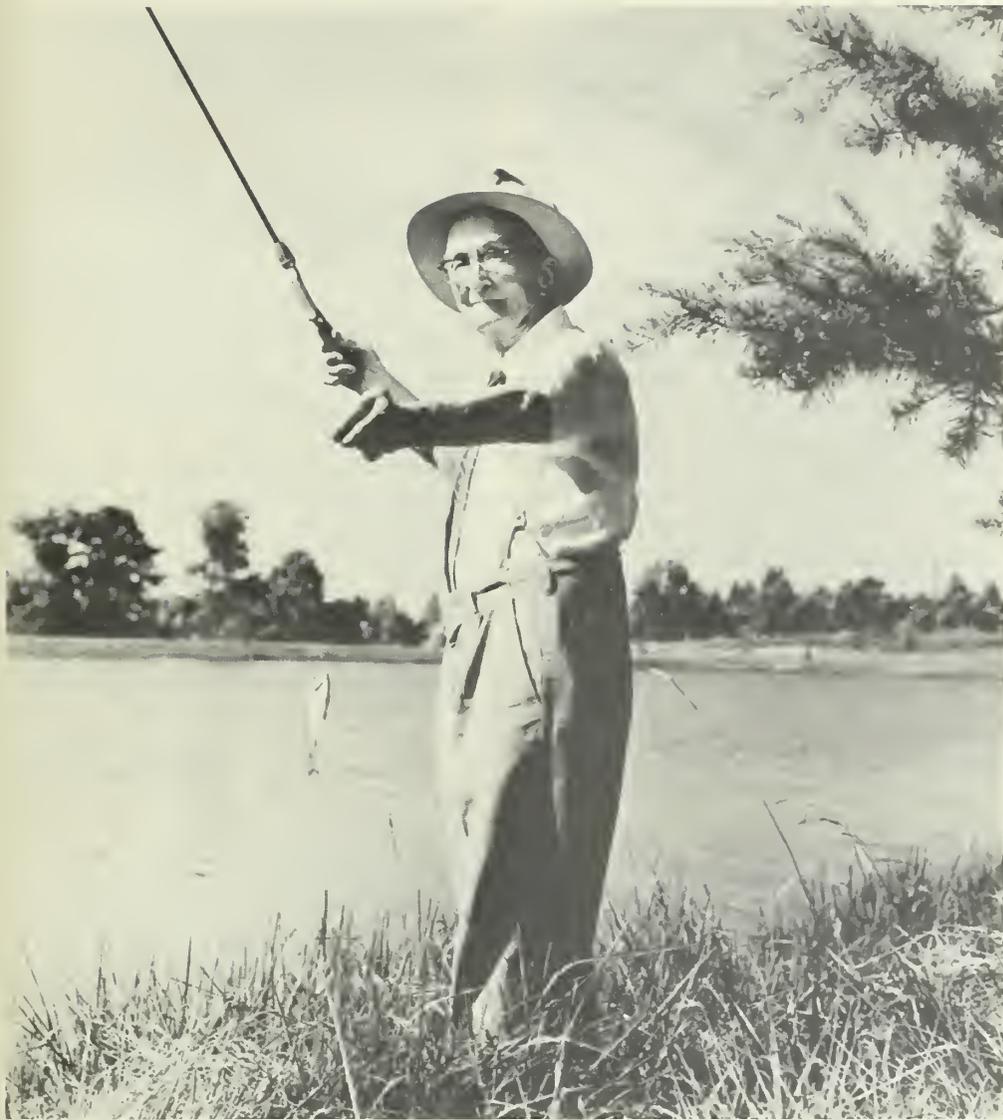

On May 3, 1952, he married Anne Royster and they have four children; Elizabeth Anne (b. Sept. 1953 graduate of Winthrop College), Alice Pender (b. Sept. 1955 graduate of Appalachian State College), James Brock Taylor III (b. May 1957) graduate of Lee's McRae College and Gardner-Webb College), and Margaret Royster (b. May 1961 graduate of St. Mary's College, in Raleigh and now a junior at U.N.C. Chapel Hill).

Sources: Family Records of: Miss Helen Taylor, Family Bible.

— Mrs. Anne Royster Taylor

James Taylor Family: Front row: James and Anne; Back row: Betsy, Alice, Brock and Margaret.

Daniel Allen Tedder

in Shelby. She and her husband Fred J. Swift, formerly of Highland, New York, have three children.

Sources: Family memories; Family Bible of Leary F. and Dani Miles Tedder

— Charlotte Tedder Swift

MRS. MARJORY McQUEEN TEDDER and HER ANCESTRY 1048

My mother, Marjory Mcfarlan McQueen (Madge) was born at the Old McQueen Plantation in Chesterfield County, South Carolina, six miles west of Cheraw. She was the daughter of William Flagg McQueen (1853-1932) and Susan Roberta Harden McQueen (1860-1943). Her father was a gentleman farmer. He had attended Bingham Military Academy and the University of Virginia. While slavery no longer existed many farmers lived and worked on the plantation and were to a great degree still dependent on the land owner. Supplies were bought in quantities and Marjory's mother had much of the responsibility to see that these families received a portion each week. A servant was hired to help with the growing family. The children were taught by a tutor who lived a month at their house and the next at an aunt's; the children of both families being taught by her. The oldest boy rode horseback to school in Cheraw.

When my mother was about twelve years old the family moved to a Scotch settlement, Morven, North Carolina. There were two reasons for moving: The village boasted a good academy where the McQueen children could prepare for college and also Madge's mother's parents lived there and needed care as they grew older.

After finishing school in Morven, Madge attended Flora McDonald College one year and taught briefly at Ruby, S.C. She later went to Statesville College, now Mitchell, to prepare herself to be a kindergarten teacher, but stopped to marry. She met my father, Daniel Allen Tedder, when she got on the train in Wadesboro to go to Statesville. A friend of the family, lawyer, and he used his law in many situations. From time to time the urge to preach was so strong he would give up other work to become pastor of one or more churches. For a while he studied at the Biblical Seminary in New York City. He was a mission pastor of the Roanoke Island Baptist Church and while there was instrumental in the formation of another church.

Daniel Miles Tedder

In Shelby he was a member of the Cleveland County Bar Association and active in the First Baptist Church where he taught a Sunday school class and occasionally supplied a pulpit. He was a good Bible scholar and often taught the Sunday school lesson over the radio. He was always interested in helping black ministers and furnished them books and other sermon materials.

He was sensitive to the needs of people, often being so generous he himself had to sacrifice. Once during the depression years he set out for a day of fishing at Lake Lure. He passed a family hitchhiking, stopped, backed up, and soon had them in his car. When he learned they were going to Hendersonville he did not stop at Lake Lure, but took them all the way. When he got back to Lake Lure ready to fish he found his fishing tackle box had disappeared. Recently a Sunday school pupil of his daughter asked permission to say something during the teaching of a lesson on the Sermon on the Mount. The lady said she had been told that someone saw Mr. Tedder remove a new coat he was wearing and give it to someone who had none.

D. Allen Tedder was a man of great energy. He was a sickly child, but learned to take care of his health, eating properly, getting needed exercise, and observing health rules. He had several gardens — instead of one — never having learned the meaning of moderation. Instead of having a few chickens, he would often have a drove of chickens and ducks. He would rise early to work in his gardens or do something else, then go to his office. He loved to hunt and fish. His interest in fish led him to contact the government fisheries and obtain small fish to stock many ponds in Cleveland County. He personally brought minnows from eastern Carolina and introduced them to this section.

Mr. Tedder enjoyed playing golf in his later years and twice made a "hole in one" at the Cleveland Country Club golf course. One of the times he was playing with Dr. Zeno Wall, Judge E.Y. Webb, and Mr. McDiarmid, the Presbyterian minister.

Daniel Allen Tedder died March 9, 1962, and is buried in Sunset Cemetery, Shelby. Only one of his children, Charlotte, now lives who also knew my father, introduced them. Later when she was traveling through Charlotte, Daddy met her with a hired carriage and took her for a ride over the city. Once, when he had not heard from her, he telephoned. The connection was poor; so the operator had to relay messages. When my father said, "Tell her to write to me". the operator replied, "She says she will."

Allen and Madge were married at her home in Morven August 18, 1903. She wore a grey silk dress and her flowers were asters. They went to live in Charlotte where my father was a young lawyer. They had five children: Frances, William, Charlotte, Mary, and Margaret.

Mama was a musician and, when my father pastored churches, she was usually asked to play the pump organ. It always fell my lot to take care of my baby sister. One Sunday evening Baby Mary and I both went to sleep and fell off the church bench. My mother was greatly loved by the members of the church. Sometimes she taught a Sunday school class and led the women in the missionary society. I remember once when she was to speak at a women's meeting she had a new dress and hat, the dress had a floral pattern, and she looked lovely in the outfit. In Shelby, my mother was a member of the First Baptist Church. She also belonged to the United Daughters of the Confederacy.

My mother worked hard at home. Without modern conveniences housework took much time. When I was in college she would write regularly and occasionally send me goodies. When we lived at 604 Suttle Street, ours was the only phone in the immediate vicinity and many people wanted to use it or have my mother call for them. Often she had to make many calls for people wanting a doctor. She cooked delicacies for sick neighbors. She was possibly responsible for saving the life of one person who, critically ill, would have died unless she had surgical attention within twenty-four hours, but she lived to enjoy some of my mother's chicken soup. There is in Shelby today a man whose lip is improved because my mother was able to get a club to agree to pay for surgery on his hare lip.

Mrs. E.Y. Webb recently told me she remembered my mother and she was beautiful; that none of her daughters was as pretty as she. Also she had such a sweet disposition. Not strong physically, she was at home most of the time. I recall how happy it made me to approach the house and realize my mother would be there to greet me. I remember one time, as a high school girl, running through the back gate to get home the more quickly to see her. I recall, too, in later years, as our car turned into the driveway I realized mama would not be home — we had that day taken her to the hospital — and possibly she would never again be there for any length of time. She died May 3, 1937, at the age of fifty five.

Of my mother's ancestry, much could be said. Her mother's parents, to whose home the family moved, were Esperan Catherine Harmon Harden (1824-1910) and Daniel Clapp Harden (1815-1902). The couple met at commencement at Chapel Hill. She was from Pittsboro; he from Orange County. She attended

Salem Academy. The Hardens had come to America prior to Revolutionary times, and an ancestor John Harden was appointed Captain of Tryon County Troops, and led his company at the Battle of Ramseur's Mill. He also served in the Colonial Provincial Congress which met in August, 1775.

Mama's father's mother was Marjory Mcfarlan (1824-1895), daughter of Janet Taylor Mcfarlan and Robert Mcfarlan. Born in Scotland she came to America in 1849 with her widowed mother and two sisters. Two Macfarlan boys were already in America. The mother's brother had asked his sister if she would permit her son, John, to come and live with him and be his heir. She agreed, but when the boat had left Scotland it was found the younger brother Allan had stowed away. When the uncle asked Allan what he could do for him, since he had already promised his estate, Allan said he would like the best education he could get. His uncle sent him to Princeton.

My mother's grandfather McQueen was named Alexander. His father, Dr. Alexander McQueen (1771-1828), was the first of the family to come to America. He was born in the Parish of Snizort at Glentellin, in Scotland. He had attended Mariscal College of Aberdeen University (1784-1786) and the University of Edinborough (1788-89). He settled in or near Fayetteville in 1792 and practiced medicine about four years before moving to Cheraw, S.C., to a plantation six miles west, the place where my mother was born. He married Mary Ellerbe (1783-1803). They had nine children; one son became a doctor. The eighth child was Alexander (1819-1903) who was my mother's grandfather. He was a farmer, member of the Governor's staff, and the State Legislature. He married Marjory Macfarlan mentioned above. Their son was my mother's father, William McQueen. He was a farmer, merchant, teacher, and worked at the post office. Madge's mother, Susan Roberta Harden, was strong in body and character. Every week she wrote to each of her eight children. My mother could count on hearing each Saturday when my father came to lunch and brought the mail.

Sources: Family memories, and Remembrance by Sue Harden MacPherson Tillinghast.

— Charlotte Tedder Swift

Marjory McQueen Tedder, age 15

THE NICHOLAS TESSENER FAMILY

1049

Nicholas Tesseneer and two brothers came on a ship from Germany in the late 1700's to America. Nicholas settled in the Piney Mountain section, Duncan Creek Township, of Rutherford County, North Carolina. The other two brothers went to Buncombe County in the area of Asheville, North Carolina. This information was given to me by James Gordon Tesseneer, great grandson of Nicholas, as it had been handed down to him by word of mouth.

Rutherford County Census of 1850 listed Nicholas as 65 years old. There are deeds in Rutherford County Courthouse made to Nicholas, September 29, 1808 and October 28, 1821.

Nicholas had ten children, named in a will made in 1859 and recorded in Rutherford County Courthouse, Rutherfordton, North Carolina. They were: William Thomas, George, David, Joel, Jackson, Sarah Lovelace, Nancy Green, Delia Williams, Malinda Prichard, and Unicy Philbeck. It also named his second wife, Lucy Lawson, that he married January 26, 1825. I found no record of his first marriage.

William Thomas, b. 1814, married Rhoda Green, b. 1820 on October 7, 1834. (Information from Rutherford County Marriages). No record of death or burial is found.

Their son Joseph Cephus 1844-1933 later moved to Union Community, Cleveland County, North Carolina. He married Elizabeth Prichard, 1854-1933, daughter of Joel and Malinda Tesseneer Prichard, April 1871. Both are buried in Union Baptist Church Cemetery.

They had eight children, Rhoda m. Joe Wishon; Emma m. Roland Smart; Margaret m. Pink Tesseneer; Anna m. Vard Baker; Melvin m. Lela Dixon; Norrie m. Matilda Dellinger; William Thomas m. Nancy Jones; and Samuel.

William Thomas, 1881-1960, married Nancy Jones 1881-1957, daughter of Martin A. and Ruthie Tesseneer Jones, December 1, 1896. (Recorded in family Bible in my possession). They are buried in Cleveland Memorial Park, near Boiling Springs, North Carolina.

William Thomas and Nancy Jones Tesseneer had sixteen children: Three infants, Grady, Julius, Palmer, Robert, Aaron, Mary and Martha (twins), and Elizabeth, (all of these died young). Willie Fred (1900-1977) m. Mamie Lee Lewis (1906-1957), daughter of Charles and Mary Keeter Lewis. On November 3, 1921 he married Maebel Devon (1917-1981). Fred and both wives are buried in Cleveland Memorial Park.

Adam Martin (b. 1919) married Rosemary Lavinsky, native of Traverse City, Michigan. William Harrison (b. 1922) m. Pauline Melton. William and Adam both served in the Army during World War II. Both now reside at Blacksburg, South Carolina. Lela 1906-1951 m. Carl Lattimore.

Fred and Mamie Lewis Tesseneer had two children: James Howard Tesseneer (b. 1924) m. Nancy Ann Bridges (b. 1926), daughter of Edgar and Bertha Green Bridges. Lois Jeanette

(b. 1932) m. Charles William Lassiter (b. 1932), native of Black Oak, Arkansas.

Howard and Nancy Bridges Tesseneer had three children all born in Cleveland County. Carol Ann (b. 1943) m. Roger Dale Tate, Sr. (b. 1946), native of Greenville, South Carolina and son of Clarence and Ruth Barnes Tate. Their children are: Linda Jo (b. 1969) and Roger Dale Tate, Jr. (b. 1977); both born in Greenville, South Carolina. They reside in Greenville, South Carolina.

James Lynn Tesseneer (b. 1947) m. Elizabeth Jean Threatt (b. 1950), daughter of Miles Ervin, Jr. and Lois Smith Threatt. Their children are Sharon Elizabeth (b. 1972) and Kimberly Lynn (b. 1975). All are born in Cleveland County, North Carolina. They reside in Boger City, North Carolina.

Rodney Raymond (b. 1949) m. Lynn Dickey (b. 1948), daughter of Byron and Viola Neff Dickey of Midland, Michigan. They have one daughter, Willow (b. 1977), born in Louisville, Kentucky. They reside in Louisville, Kentucky.

James Howard Tesseneer and Charles William Lassiter served in the Navy during World War II. James Lynn Tesseneer and Roger Dale Tate, Sr. served in the Army during the Vietnam War.

Charles and Lois Lassiter had four children: Linda Diane b. 1957; Charles Michael b. 1958; Jerry Alan b. 1960; and Brian Richard b. 1969. They reside in Huntsville, Alabama.

The early Tesseneer ancestors were farmers. Now they are in various fields such as mechanics, automobile assembly, textiles, nursing, teaching, electronics, construction, industrial design, aeronautics, and secretarial.

We are of the Baptist Faith. James Howard Tesseneer, James Lynn Tesseneer and Roger Dale Tate, Sr. are all ordained deacons.

I found various spellings of the name. As many as three different spellings concerning the same man were on some of the early records. The spellings are: Tesaneer, Tesenair, Tesener, Teseneer, Teseneer, Tesineer, Tesnar, Tesnaer, Tesner, Tesneer, Tesnear, Tesinier, Tessaneer, Tessaniar, Tesseneer, Tesseneer, Tessineir, Tessener, Tessiner, Tessnear, Tessner, Tessneer, Testnear, Tesyneer.

— J. Howard Tesseneer

JAMES GORDON (JIM) and NANCY MABEL BARNETT TESSENER

1050

My father, James Gordon (Jim) Tessneer, was born June 11, 1909, in Cleveland County, North Carolina. He was the eighth child of William Riley and Anna Short Tessneer.

I remember his word-for-word account of the first Tessneer on American soil, "they tell me Nicholas Tessneer and two brothers came across the ocean in a goods box on a float ship. Nicholas, my great-grandpa settled in the Piney Mountain Section, Duncan Creek Township of Rutherford County. Nicholas' two brothers went on to the Asheville area and settled there." We have no account of Nicholas' first marriage, but he took his second wife, Lucy Lawson, on January 26, 1825. Nicholas was the father of ten children: William Thomas, George, David, Joel, Jackson, Sarah, Nancy, Delia, Malinda and Unicy. My family descended from Nicholas' son George.

Daddy went to school in a one-room school house in the Zion Community. By today's standards, he was not highly educated, but he was one of the most learned men I've ever known.

Daddy was a friend to all he met, he never turned any man away. When he planted a garden, he planted not only for his family, but for friends, neighbors—the community. Daddy was from "the old school." When he thought something needed to be done, he did it. I remember about two years ago he became very concerned about the condition of a gravel road around the cemetery at our church, Poplar Springs Baptist. Realizing that he too would lie there one day, he began a campaign in the community to raise money for a paved road. Many did not believe in his ability to achieve the task. With the help of a few others in the community, he did raise the funds necessary to pave the road.

Daddy believed "If a man does not keep pace with his companions, perhaps it is because he hears a different drummer. Let him step to the music he hears, however measured or far away". As a person Daddy was unique, different, understanding and compassionate. He had a firm belief in his set of values. He compromised those values for no man. Daddy was a "Prince of a Man", "a Christian man", "a family man", as he was eulogized at his funeral. He truly was all of those and more. He was strong, yet gentle.

Daddy spent his life as a farmer. He was a tenant farmer for 15 years. But, he wanted more. Daddy worked for many of those 15 years for Mr. Jeff and Les Hamrick and Mr. James Cornwell of Lattimore. The Hamricks and Cornwells, knowing the kind of people Daddy and Mother were, helped them to get a farm in the Sharon Community of Cleveland County. They spent 35 years there rearing their children. They gave us love, a Christian home and taught us to work. Daddy and mother came from poverty to achieve much during their 51 years of marriage.

James Gordon (Jim) and Nancy Mabel Barnett Tessneer.

Daddy was a handsome man looking far younger than his 72 years. His trademark was his hat. He had a hat that to him was appropriate for any setting.

Daddy was a legend. He has fallen (October 27, 1981) but will live in our hearts forever.

Mother, Nancy Mabel Barnett Tessneer, was born August 29, 1909. She is the daughter of William Monroe and Bessie Ann Jones Barnett of the Cleveland County area.

"Mama", as I call her, worked a few years in the hoisery mill and at the Lily Mill in Shelby. She married Daddy December 14, 1929. She devoted her life to make him happy. During her younger years she helped Daddy in the field and with the milking. Later she became the person who cooked for those of us hoeing or picking cotton or milking the cows. Mama is a wonderful cook. I remember how proud Daddy was of her cooking. It was always a joy for them to have people in their home and eat at their table.

Mama is also very talented in handwork. I remember many dresses (some from feed and flour sacks) she fashioned for herself and me. She enjoys quilting and has made many beautiful quilts for her children and grandchildren.

The Lord as called Daddy Home, but we still have our "Mama."

Jim and Mabel had two children: William Dwight, born April 10, 1933; and Carolyn Ann, born February 5, 1946. Dwight married Joanne Morgan. They have four children: Roger Glenn, born February 20, 1953. Roger married Billie Ann Kendrick and have one son, William Adam, born March 2, 1977. Dwight and Joanne's other children are William Alan, born February 19, 1959; Nancy Susan, born June 6, 1964; and Betsy Jo, born June 7, 1971.

Carolyn married Floyd Abel Queen, Jr. They have three sons: Robert Paul, born October 11, 1967; Jeffrey Brett, born May 31, 1970; and James Floyd (Jimmy), born November 3, 1971.

Sources: Nancy and Howard Tessneer, personal knowledge and family memories.

— Carolyn Ann Tessneer Queen

THE FAMILY OF JOSEPH RUSH and MABEL BARNES THOMPSON

1051

Joseph Rush (Joe) Thompson and his twin brother, Lyle, were born at 610 West Warren Street in Shelby, North Carolina on November 1, 1911, to Zolliecoffer Jenks (Zoll) Thompson and Alice Claudia Hoke. Joe's brothers were: Loy, Heyward, Julian, Claude, Lyle, and Bill.

Joe finished Shelby High School and attended Appalachian State University at Boone, North Carolina State University at Raleigh. He worked for a while at the Cleveland Cloth Mill in Shelby, but later went to work for his father at the Z.J. Thompson Lumber Company. He later owned an interest in the Lumber Company. He is a member of the American Legion, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, and Elks Club. He served several years in the Army during World War II, and while in service spent several months in the Phillipine Islands. He was a 15 year member of the Shelby Lions Club before taking an interest in Boy Scout work, and is still active in Boys Scouts. He was Scout Master for one year and has held several District Offices in the Boy Scouts. He is a member of Central United Methodist Church and has been a member of the Hoey Bible Class for 51 years serving as Secretary of the Class for the past two years.

Joe married Mabel Barnes, daughter of Walter Cleveland Barnes of Wayne County and Rena Hooks of Wilson County, North Carolina, on March 27, 1940. They were married at the First Baptist Church in Raleigh, North Carolina. Mabel attended Miss Hardbarger's Secretarial School in Raleigh and worked for several years as a legal secretary. Mabel was President of the Junior Women's Club in 1942, is a member of the Hoe and Hope Garden Club, Thirteen Bridge Club Junior Charity League, and Tea and Topics Book Club. She joined Shelby Central United Methodist Church in 1940, and has been active in the Horace Grigg Bible Class. At present she is Secretary Treasurer of the class. Her main hobbies are gardening and crocheting.

They have three children: Claudia Irene, Sue Barnes, and Joseph Rush Thompson, Jr.

Claudia was born March 27, 1943, and married Rolla David Rose on May 7, 1967. David is the son of Marion and Myrtle Rose of Shelby. Claudia graduated from the Women's College at Greensboro, North Carolina. They have three daughters: Jennifer LeMaster, born April 19, 1970; Claudia Rebecca, born March 3, 1973; and, Susan Elizabeth, born February 14, 1977. All three girls were born at the Cleveland County Memorial Hospital. They live in Shelby and David is a salesman for a furniture company out of St. Louis, Mo. Claudia attended Shelby Public Schools and was presented at the Shelby Debutante Ball in 1961.

Sue Thompson was born October 13, 1945, and married Dexter Lee Stuckey, Jr., on July 17, 1965. They are divorced. They had two sons, Dexter Lee, III, born December 7, 1968, and Clayton Thomas, born October 21, 1970. Both sons were born in Charlotte and at present live with Sue in Shelby, North Carolina. She attended Kings Business College in Charlotte in 1964. Sue attended Shelby Public Schools and was presented at the Shelby Debutante Ball.

Rush Thompson, Jr., was born February 25, 1947, and married Doris Austin daughter of Louis and Louise Austin of Kannapolis, North Carolina, on August 23, 1970. Doris and Rush graduated from State College at Raleigh, North Carolina. They have three sons: Truett Ramsey, born April 12, 1974, in Maryland; Luke Thompson, born April 20, 1976, in New Jersey; and Drew Elliott, born January 22, 1978, in New Jersey. Rush and Doris now live in Orlando, Florida, where Rush works with Martin Marietta Company as a Computer Expert.

— Joe and Mabel Thompson

Mr. and Mrs. Orville Cicero Thompson

MR. and MRS. ORVILLE CICERO THOMPSON

1052

Orville Cicero Thompson was born March 17, 1855, in Lincoln County. He was the son of William Albert Thompson, born June 17, 1830, died March 24, 1907, and Sara Jenks Thompson, born May 26, 1832, died March 26, 1897. Both are buried at Kadesh Methodist Church cemetery.

He had five brothers: William Horace, Oscar Franklin, Samuel Plato, Joseph Ferdinand and Beverly Boanerges; and three sisters: Margaret Hull, Amelia Dixon and Eva Elizabeth Styers.

He and Martha Susan (Matt) Cline, of Belwood, were married on October 9, 1879. They lived at Belwood near "Belwood Academy" in a large two story farm house. The house and school have both gone by the way since.

They were the parents of seven children: Bertha C., born September 23, 1880; Benjamin Oscar, born in 1882; John, born Mary 10, 1884; Fredrick C., born March 26, 1886; George, born September 14, 1887; Mabel Evans, born August 20, 1892; and Mary Maude Evans, born March 27, 1896.

He was in the lumber and sawmill business in upper Cleveland County until he moved his family to Shelby in the late 1890's and lived at 808 North Washington Street. He was a surveyor and under the company of Thompson & Thompson, in partnership with one of his great nephews, published a plat of Cleveland County in 1921 showing the names of families who owned land in rural Cleveland County.

He played the fiddle and was a good story teller, regaling his grandchildren with tales of his youth and tales he had heard his elders tell of their youth. He was a lifelong Methodist having been a member of Kadesh Methodist church at Belwood and transferring his membership to Central Methodist Church, Shelby, on moving there.

His father was a doctor in Lincoln County and upper Cleveland County who enlisted in North Carolina troops of the Confederate Army, Twenty-third Regiment Company B as a private on May 23, 1861 and he was commissioned a Second Lieutenant on May 10, 1862, and resigned on November 23, 1864, his resignation accepted by the President, the orders having been signed by General Robert E. Lee.

He was a grandson of Samuel Thompson and Amelia Bland Thompson who lived in Cleveland County, and William Jenks and Ruth Buffam Jenks who migrated to Lincoln County from Massachusetts. Samuel Thompson and his wife are buried in a private cemetery on Ralph Spangler's farm in the Double Shoals Community of Cleveland County.

Martha Susan Cline Thompson was born February 9, 1856, in Cleveland County, daughter of John Cline II and Katherine Elizabeth (Kate) Hoyle, and grand-daughter of John Klein (Cline) and Katherine Muehl, originally from Germany.

O.C. died June 27, 1928; his wife died March 31, 1943, and both are buried in the family plot at Sunset Cemetery.

Grandchildren of the above are Benjamin (died in childhood), William Lander and Jack Thompson; Mary Sue Thompson, Jean Moore Thompson Barber, Sarah Reid Thompson Montoya, George Thompson, Jr., Ruth Cline Thompson Roark and James Robert Thompson; and Guthrie Thompson Evans.

Sources: Family records, Grave Stones, The Genealogy of Peter Heyl and His Descendants — Rucker

— Mrs. G. Rhea Barber

DR. SAMUEL PLATO THOMPSON

1053

Dr. Samuel P. Thompson was born October 10, 1865 and died October 2, 1906. He was married to Jeannette Poole in 1888. She was born October 12, 1870 and died April 10, 1904.

Samuel P. Thompson's parents were Dr. William Albert Thompson, born June 17, 1830 and died March 24, 1907. His wife Sarah Jenks was born in Massachusetts May 26, 1832 and died March 26, 1897. Albert and Sarah were married in 1850. They are buried at Kadesh Church, Cleveland County.

Jeannette's mother was Susan Bess, born 1843, daughter of Peter Bess IV, born about 1812. Jeannette's father was William S. Poole, born December 14, 1844 and died January 16, 1926. They are buried at Bess Chapel Methodist Church, Lincoln County.

Dr. W.A. Thompson was married a second time, Hattie Beam Jenkins was his second wife. They lived in a large house on North LaFayette Street in Shelby, which is now owned by George Blanton, Jr.

Samuel's paternal grandparents were Samuel Thompson and Amelia Bland who came to North Carolina from Lithia Springs, Lee County, Virginia about 1819 and settled in Rutherford County (now Cleveland County), near what is now Double Shoals. Their graves are on what is now the Ralph Spangler farm about one mile from Double Shoals. Samuel Thompson died April 28, 1847 in his eightieth year, and his wife, Amelia Bland, died August 28, 1850 in her fifty-seventh year. In this plot are the graves of two children, Sarah Amelia who died May 17, 1848, age 14 years and Mary Frances who died August 24, 1848.

Samuel's maternal grandparents were William and Ruth Buffan Jenks who came to North Carolina from Massachusetts to install machinery in the Double Shoals Cotton Mill. William Jenks was born about 1799 and died October 26, 1872 at the age of 73. He was married to Ruth Buffan who died March 5, 1874 at the age of 66. They are buried at Kadesh Church in Cleveland County.

William and Ruth Jenks had six children. Orville Jenks was born in Rhode Island August 10, 1830 and died April 3, 1889. Sarah Jenks was born in Massachusetts May 26, 1832 and died March 26, 1897. Harriet Jenks was born April 8, 1834 and died October 9, 1895. Amanda Jenks, Joe Jenks and George Jenks were the other children. George was killed in the battle of Fredericksburg. When William and Ruth Buffan Jenks first came south they left Orville and Sarah in school in Philadelphia.

Dr. Samuel Thompson had five brothers; William Horace, Orville Cicero, Oscar Franklin, Joseph Ferdinand, Beverly Boanerges and three sisters: Margaret, Amelia, and Eva Elizabeth.

Dr. Thompson attended Wake Forest College and graduated from the St. Louis College of Physicians and Surgeons on March 10, 1890.

He opened an office in Belwood for a few years. It was in Belwood that his first child, Ralph Thompson, was born March 4, 1891. In J.V. Ivey's book, My Memoirs, 1940, Piedmont Press, Greensboro, North Carolina, he tells about Dr. Thompson using as anesthetic to pull a tooth for Mr. Ivey. This was the first time a doctor had used an anesthetic to pull a tooth for him. Mr. Ivey worked in the Belwood store with Captain L.J. Hoyle.

Dr. Thompson moved to Flay in Lincoln County near Bess Chapel Church. His second child, Novella was born there June 5, 1895. Three other daughters followed. Vivian was born August 11, 1897; Edna was born February 17, 1902; and Neva was born January 16, 1900.

Life for the country doctor was difficult in those days with the use of horse and buggy for house calls.

Samuel's wife died in 1904 and he died in 1906. The four girls went to the Baptist Orphanage at Thomasville, North Carolina to live in August 1907.

Sources: Grave stone, personal papers, Genealogy of Peiter Heyl and His Descendants by Elizabeth Hoyle Rucker.

— Jack T. Hoyle

THE FAMILY OF WILLIAM HORACE THOMPSON

1054

William Horace Thompson was born December 9, 1852 and died May 22, 1925. He was born at Rockdale, Cleveland County, North Carolina, and was the son of Dr. William Albert Thompson and Sara Jenks. He married Frances Osborne Hoyle who was born December 1, 1851, and died January 15, 1933. They were married on September 23, 1874. She was the daughter of Noah Hoyle, born February 19, 1804, and married September 24, 1829, to Elizabeth Shuford. She was born January 11, 1813. Noah Hoyle was made chairman of the Board of Trustees and helped build the Kadesh United Methodist Church at Belwood, North Carolina, in 1833. This building stood 100 years and the present Kadesh

Church was built in 1933.

The book, The Genealogy of Peiter Heyl and His Descendants, by Elizabeth Hoyle Rucker, 1100-1936, was dedicated to Frances Osborne Hoyle Thompson.

Horace Thompson operated a mica mine in and around Belwood, North Carolina, for a number of years. He moved his lumber business to Shelby, in 1902. Their children were: Leola Eulalia (Ola), Chivis A. (Chiv), Zula Elizabeth (Zula), Carl Schurz (Carl), Emmett Tyre (Emmett), Rush Clarence (Rush), and Frances Madge (Madge).

Ola Thompson was born June 26, 1875, died December 5, 1953, married June 12, 1900, to Augustus Dobb Durham. They lived in Bellingham, Washington. Their children are: Frances, Fay, Marion, Tom, and June. Doris June Durham is retired and makes her home in Shelby.

Zoll Thompson was born March 27, 1878, and died November 5, 1953. He was born at Rockdale (Belwood), Cleveland County, and married Alice Claudia Hoke on March 27, 1902. They had seven sons: Loy (deceased), Heyward (deceased), Julian, Claude, Joe, Lyle (deceased), and Bill.

Dr. Chivis Thompson, born March 27, 1878, married Constance Greer. They had two children; Frances and Ruth.

Zula Thompson, born February 29, 1880, married Julius Austin. They had two children; Horace and Hoyle.

Carl Thompson, born May 5, 1882, married Elva Wray on September 27, 1882. They had three daughters; Sarah, Elva, and Frances.

Emmett Tyre Thompson, born April 20, 1884. He never married.

Rush Thompson, born March 17, 1886, married Fay Wyatte. They had three daughters; Ruth, Elizabeth and Margaret.

Madge Thompson, born May 14, 1893, married Dwight Carver. They had two daughters; Frances and Elizabeth.

— Joe and Mabel Thompson

THE ZOLLIECOFFER JENKS THOMPSON FAMILY

1055

Zolliecoffer Jenks (Zoll) Thompson was born at Rockdale (Belwood), Cleveland County, North Carolina on March 27, 1878, to William Horace Thompson and Frances Osborne Hoyle. He was a brother to Ola, Chiv (his twin), Zula, Carl, Emmett, Rush and Madge.

He was educated at Belwood Institute and Converse Commercial College, at Spartanburg, South Carolina. He joined Kadesh Methodist Church at an early age. He went into the lumber business with his father at Belwood. In 1902 the lumber business was moved to Shelby. Several years later Zoll formed the Z.J. Thompson Lumber Company. He built his first home at 612 W. Warren Street (The Mundy House) about 1905.

Zoll married March 27, 1902, Alice Claudia Hoke, born September 19, 1882, daughter of Rev. Franklin Joseph Hoke and Alice Hull. They were active members of Central Methodist Church where Claudia taught primary classes and later an adult class. She was a charter member of the Shelby Womans Club and served as its first president. She held various state offices of the Garden Club. She helped start the Shelby Junior Womans Club. The Thompson Garden on West Sumter Street was named in her honor on April 21, 1974.

Zoll was a member of the Shelby Board of Aldermen for several years. In February, 1932, he helped block the sale of the Shelby Light Plant to Duke Power Company for $1,100,000. Zoll was a member of Central United Methodist Church and was on the building committee when the present church was built in 1923. He was a member of the Shelby Kiwanis Club. He liked baseball in the early 1920's and 1930. He played golf and had a small interest in the Cleveland Springs Hotel. He played bridge in later years. He was one of the original stockholders of the Cleveland County Fair. Zoll died November 5, 1953, and Claudia died October 15, 1972. Both are buried in Sunset Cemetery in Shelby, North Carolina.

Their children are Loy Franklin (Loy), born June 23, 1903, and died September 1, 1943; Heyward Chivis (Heward) born November 5, 1904, died June 27, 1967; Zollicoffer Julian (Julian), born February 3, 1907; Claude/Hoke born March 27, 1909; Joseph Rush (Joe), born November 1, 1911, and his twin, Colon Lyle (Lyle) born November 1, 1911, died April 23, 1972; and William Albert (Bill), born August 9, 1914.

March 27 is an important day in the Thompson family. Events occurring on that date are: Wedding anniversary of Zoll Thompson and Claudia Hoke; birthday of Zoll and Chiv Thompson; birthday of Claudia's and Zoll's son, Claude; wedding anniversary of their son, Joe to Mabel Barnes; and birthday of Joe's and Mabel's daughter, Claudia.

— Joe and Mabel Thompson

GOERGE TOWRY FAMILY

1056

George Towry married Lide Ledford in Guilford County. He died in November 1794. They had two children, Adam, and Edward.

Edward Towry married Jemima. He died in 1818. They had four children: James, John Jr., Lydia Jr., and George Stitler.

George Stitler Towry was born on April 28, 1812 in Randolph County. He married Mary M. Huffstetler. She was born on January 4, 1804. The log cabin that was their home still stands today on the Newton property near Casar. They were buried on their own property, near the Old Tabor Methodist Church, where they were members. They had two children, John H. and Edward.

John Huffstetler Towry was born on April 17, 1834. He married Mariah Elvina Davis on August 29, 1865. He was a farmer, blacksmith, gunsmith and ran a post office in his home. It was called "Point Post Office" and was established on August 3, 1881. It was discontinued on December 31, 1905. They lived at the foot of "No Business Mountain". His homestead is still standing near Casar. It is a clapboard two story house with four downstairs bedrooms and the upstairs accessible by an outside door and stairway. There is an old outhouse nearby and a log-built barn. It lies in a clearing surrounded by woods and not visible anymore from the nearby roads.

John Huffstetler Towery, 1834-1917

John H. served in the 12th North Carolina Infantry, Company E of the Confederate States Army. John died on April 13, 1917. He was buried at New Home Methodist Church Cemetery, near Casar. Mariah died on June 12, 1902, and was buried at Mount Pleasant Methodist Church. Their children were Everett Rush, Ralph Edward, Victor Lane, Mary Floss, and Pearl Elizabeth.

Everett Rush was born in May 1866. He married Sarah Rebeckie Deviney and their children were George Wesley, Herman Oscar (died when he was 7 years old) Ada Elise (she also died in childhood at the age of 12 years), and John Grason.

Ralph Edward Towry was born on December 30, 1869. He married Amanda Hoyle, who was born on August 12, 1875. Their Old homestead is still standing and in use near Casar. He was a farmer. Ralph died on January 20, 1906. Amanda died on June 16, 1942. They are buried at New Home Methodist Church. Their children were Gertie who married Mack White; Clyde married Mary Willis; Lark Leonard married Eva Luella Bracket; Ledus Densel married Bessie Odem; Tennis (girl) married Jessie Hudson.

Victor Lane was born on April 29, 1872 and died January 14, 1938. He is buried at New Home Methodist Church. Lane was never married.

Mary Floss Towry was born on July 21, 1876. She married Elam Spurgeon Epley on December 11, 1900. They made their home on what is now known as the Newton property near Casar. Their children are Maud Augusta, who married David Augustus Stroup and Florence Arene, who married Nelson Self.

Pearl Elizabeth Towry was born on February 4, 1889. She now lives at Valdese, North Carolina. She had one daughter, Roseland, who married Fred Wenzel, and after his death, she married John Lovett.

Lark Towry the son of Ralph Towery was born on June 27, 1900. He married Eva Brackett. They lived in Shelby for many years. Lark died on August 3, 1970 and was buried at Sunset Cemetery in Shelby. Their children are: D.W. Towry who married Ebba Marie Blanton; Forney Lane married Louise Himple; Marie married Donald Royster; Anther married Ellis Spurling; Daphine married Howard Hambrick; Robert married Hilda Ward; and Tate Brackett Towry is a bachelor.

Sources: Interviews with family members, North Carolina Troops 1861-65 Volume 5, National Archives, Towry/Towery Family Association, and correspondence with Rev. Dan Towery of Williamsport, Pennsylvania

— Mrs. Gay Stroup Jenkins

COLUMBUS and VICTORIA BEATTY TUCKER

1057

Columbus Alexander Tucker was born to John M. Tucker and Dorcas Nolan, on April 26, 1853; died July 11, 1927. His father was one of the county's leading citizens, being county magistrate and a member of the Court of Pleas. He was one of forty magistrates when the county was organized in 1841. It was said that this court had more power than Recorder's court. Mr. Tucker's father was a bridge builder by trade, and it was from his father that he learned, and mastered, many building and farming skills. He was a merchant in Waco, North Carolina. Both he and his wife were born and reared in Cleveland County and remained as life long residents.

Columbus, better known as "Lum", was married December 19, 1880 to Victoria Augusta Beatty, the daughter of Harriett Roberts and John T. Beatty. Victoria, who was called "Vick", was born February 9, 1856 and lived a rich, full life until her death at ninety years of age, on March 23, 1946. Quoting from her obituary as found in the local newspaper:

"Mrs. Tucker recalled living through the Civil War and Reconstruction days, the goings and comings of battered, ragged, rebel soldiers and the hardships that followed the Appomattox surrender. She liked to refer to the period when the courthouse was surrounded by a high board fence. She recalled that great excitement was afforded Shelby villagers when a run away horse crashed into the fence. At that time four grocery stores were sentinels of the four corners of the square". Both she and her husband are buried in Sunset cemetery in Shelby, North Carolina.

To this union four children were born: John McClurd, Maude Pearl, Thomas Whitcliff, and Katherine Myrtle.

John M. was born February 6, 1882; died January 31, 1938. He was married to Tinnie Allen on February 22, 1905, and they had three children: Selma (Mrs. Bailey Mauney); Ralph; and Katherine (Mrs. Robert Lee). They are buried at Elizabeth Baptist Church, Shelby, North Carolina.

Maude was born October 1, 1883; died April 18, 1957. She was married to Thomas J. Wilson on April 18, 1907 and they had four children: Howard F., Aileen (Mrs. Jerry Runyans), Mae (Mrs. Ralph Greene), and Jossie (Mrs. Floyd Greene). Both Mr. and Mrs. Wilson are buried in the Elizabeth Baptist church cemetery, Shelby, North Carolina.

Columbus Tucker Family: Front row: Kate; Middle row, L to R: Victoria, Tom, Columbus; Back row: L to R: John and Maude.

Thomas, born January 3, 1891; died March 10, 1961. He married Dorcas Weathers. They had three children: Elaine (Mrs. Everette Meek), Lummie (Mrs. Lewis Baker), and Tommie (Mrs. James King). Thomas is buried in the Elizabeth Baptist church cemetery of Shelby, North Carolina. His wife, Dorcas survives and lives in Gastonia with her daughter, Mrs. Elaine Meek.

Katherine, "Kate", was born April 18, 1892; died May 1, 1969. She was married to V. Otha Cline on April 20, 1916, and from this union five children were born, four sons: Buford, Joe, Benjamin, V. Otha, Jr. and one daughter, Helen (Mrs. Robert W. Borders). Mr. and Mrs. Cline are buried in the Elizabeth Baptist church cemetery, Shelby, North Carolina.

Sources: The Tucker Family Bible, personal papers that belonged to Kate Tucker Cline, interviews with family members and quoted sources in the article.

— Helen Cline Borders and Buford Cline

ABSCILLA ALBANIA BUNCH TURNER

1058

Born in Pequimans County to Ephriam Judson Bunch and Sarah Margaret Hobbs Bunch. The family moved several years later to Edenton where she attended Edenton School and graduated. Abscilla graduated from Meredith College and entered the teaching profession.

Miss Bunch met and married Walter Bryant Turner while teaching at Grover School. After the marriage, the bride and groom went to Kansas City, Missouri where Mr. Turner attended a school on battery building and repair, which was a new field in this area.

While in Kansas City a son, Walter Bunch, was born March 27, 1921. The family returned to Grover where Mrs. Turner returned to teach in the Grover school for several sessions. Abscilla was the assistant in the Grove High School for her last session and in spite of failing health did an efficient year's work.

Abscilla united with the Edenton Baptist Church in early childhood and upon her marriage moved her membership to the Grover Baptist Church where she was faithful and helpful. At the time of her death, she was the President of the Women's Missionary Society of her church.

Mrs. Turner was laid to rest early Monday morning in the Grover Cemetery following the funeral at the home. The many beautiful floral offerings attested to the esteem of the community for Mrs. Turner.

The son, Walter Bunch, was raised by Abscilla's parents in Edenton where he graduated from Edenton High School in 1939. He served in the Navy during World War II.

Walter Bunch Turner married Miriam Eliza Cogburn of Rock Hill, S.C., April 19, 1944 in Rock Hill. Miriam is the daughter of the Rev. Richard Furman Cogburn and Cornelia Sanders Cogburn.

There were two sons. Walter, Jr. was born in Rock Hill, June 1, 1945 and Judson Cogburn was born in Spartanburg, S.C., May 29, 1946. The family moved to Shelby where Mr. Turner was radio engineer at WOHS, Cleveland County's first radio station.

The Turners moved several times while Mr. Turner served as chief radio engineer at several South Carolina radio stations. He later accepted a position with the Federal Aviation Administration at Charlotte and the family moved back to the home place in Shelby.

Both sons graduated from Shelby High School and were members of the National Honor Society. Walter B., Jr. graduated from N.C. State University.

Judson graduated from Furman University and married Edna Morrow of Lowndesville, S.C. March 15, 1970 in Due West, S.C. They were married prior to Judson's serving as a Lieutenant in the U.S. Army Signal Corps including a tour in Korea. The family moved to Mauldin, S.C. and have two children, Kevin Bryant Turner born March 2, 1978 and Melanie Brook Turner born January 22, 1982. Both children were born in Greenville, S.C.

— Walter B. Turner

MARY KANSAIDA WHITE TURNER

1059

Mary was the daughter of Stephen White and Elvina Hullender White. Mary was raised in the Grover community where she met and married Logan Jackson Turner, the son of Mastin Turner and Mary Wood Martin Turner. There were four children; Louvinie (Mrs. Frank Goforth), Walter Bryant, Levi, and Boyd.

Mary was preceded to the great beyond by her husband by about ten years. Mrs. Turner was laid to rest in the family burying ground at Antioch Baptist Church near Grover.

Mary was a noble Christian woman, beloved by a wide circle of friends. She maintained a home for her family, but at the time of her death only Boyd and Levi were home. Walter Bryant was living in Grover and held a position at Eskridge's garage, the Ford dealer in Shelby.

— Walter B. Turner

MITHAS TURNER and DESCENDANTS

1060

Mithas Turner was born in 1766, and died in 1850. He and his wife Mary were the parents of Nelson Turner who was born in 1816 and died in 1871. Nelson was married to Elizabeth Matheny. Elizabeth was born in 1810. She died in 1887. Nelson and Elizabeth were the parents of William Henry Turner. William H. Turner was born December 13, 1838 and died January 1, 1922. William H. Turner was married to Louisa Jane on October 4, 1866. She was born on February 3, 1846 and died October 4, 1869. Louisa and William were the parents of Ida Turner. Ida was born March 8, 1868 and died May 11, 1900. Her husband was William Putman. William H. Turner married Charlotte Parrelee Turner September 29, 1870. Parrelee was born May 5, 1846. She died November 20, 1922.

Ross B. Turner and Miriah McBrayer were Parrlee's parents. Ross was born on March 30, 1815 and died September 1867. Miriah Turner was born on April 8. She died May 6, 1870. Elizabeth Turner and Edith Sarrate were Ross B. Turner's parents. Elizabeth was born 1772 and died in August 1859. Edith was born in 1778 and died on December 1844.

Brothers and sisters of Charlotte Parelle were: Parasade, Pasley, Parrott W., Brem, Barrett, Sam Minerva, and Elijah. Brothers and sisters of William Henry Turner were: Richard C., Eli, Eliza, Sally.

Ralph Breomon Turner married Sarah Jane Bright on July 5, 1911. R.B. was born on April 26, 1879. He died March 30, 1972. Sarah was born on March 8, 1886 and died February 21, 1963. She lived in Shelby.

Festus Turner married Millie Roden. He was born on July 5, 1881 and died in 1964.

Orren Turner married Effie Clarey March 3, 1920. He was born July 22, 1883 and died February 25, 1965. Effie was born October 31, 1884 and died August 1970. She lived in Shelby.

Mildred Eva Turner married John C. Preddy on June 7, 1916. She was born December 23, 1887. He was a railroad man. Their home was Sanford, N.C.

Children of Ralph B. Turner and Sarah Jane were: Ralph B. Turner Jr., born October 29, 1912, married Mary Alma Hoyle; Alma was born June 1914; Charlotte Louise Turner married to Ralph Augustine McLeod on June 20, 1942; Louise was born May 16, 1914; Ralph (Mac) was born March 2, 1906 and died September 20, 1962; Helen Bright Turner married to William F. Yorbrough. Helen was born March 3, 1918.

Mr. Ralph Turner sprung a complete surprise on his many friends Wednesday night when he was married to Miss Sallie Bright, a charming young woman who was making her home with Mr. & Mrs. L.C. Bost. Only a few intimate friends were present when the ceremony was performed at 8:30 by the Rev. J.W. Suttle at the home of Mr. Bost Wednesday night. The bride is a native of McDowell county, living near Marion. She is a trained nurse and some time ago came to nurse Mr. A.R. Eskridge. During her stay here, she made friends and much interest was manifested on the streets yesterday morning when friends learned of her marriage.

Mr. Turner was one of the most popular young business men of Shelby. He was a partner with Mr. James Austell in the barber shop on S. Lafayette Street. Mr. & Mrs. Turner live there. They had the best wishes of their friends.

Children of Ralph "Mac" and Louise McLeod: Michael Arden McLeod married Elizabeth Jean Noe, December 20, 1965, Denver, Colorado. He was born on November 21, 1946, in Shelby hospital. Charlotte Louise McLeod married James Howard Strand on September 1, 1969, Las Vegas, Nevada. She was born in Lancaster, South Carolina, January 4, 1951. G.H. Strand was an air controller in the United States Navy.

Children of Michael and Elizabeth "Betty" McLeod: Matthew Seven McLeod born October 1966; Katherine Elizabeth McLeod born September 21, 1967, died September 23, 1967.

Children of Charlotte and James Strand: James Strand Jr., born April 10, 1971, Kellavik, Iceland. Trisha Michelle Strand, born August 2, 1974, San Diego, California.

Louise T. McLeod married James Otto Tolbort, June 14, 1970. James Tolbert was born June 12, 1906 in Rowan County.

Sources: family Bible records, original birth certificates, and grave markers.

— Louise T. McLeod Tolbort

W. BARRETT TURNER

1061

W. Barrett Turner was born to Ross B. and Moriah McBrayer Turner August 16, 1853 and died July 30, 1925.

He and his wife acquired property, on which Fiber Industries and No. #3 Township School of Earl, N.C. is now located and Blanton's Toy House, Shelby, N.C. and other property and the emerald mine located near Stice Shoals Creek off Highway #18 South and this was very valuable property and yielded many gems. The mining company gave all the W. Barrett Turner children an emerald; the location of only two rings in known, those belonging to Mrs. C.C. McMurry Jr. and Mrs. Hazeline T. Allen. Mrs. Allen's ring will go to her daughter, Mary Jeannine Allen.

W. Barrett Turner and his wife had the following children: Willie, Fred, Hazel, Mattie, Grady and Sunie.

Willie was single. He was born August 6, 1879 and died November 28, 1901.

Fred, deceased, was married to Maggie Jackson, and to this union was born three daughters: Margaret Irene (Gordon) Lowery, (she had three daughters, Patsy, Mary Frances and Nancy). Lucile (Clarence) Mayo and to this union one son, Jerry Thomas Mayo; Dorothy (Lackey) Peeler and to this union five children, Vickie, Jackie, Jane, Laura Ann and Lackey Boggs Jr.

Hazel, deceased, was married to Birdie Hamrick and to this union was born two daughters, Mary Lou Collins/(Alfred) and to this union two sons Larry Alfred and Gary Thomas Collins. Larry has two daughters Autumn Nell and Rhonda; and Gary has two children Jeffrey and Sarah; Hazeline T. Allen

Remember . . .

Articles
Are Indexed
By
Article Numbers
. . . Not By
Page
Number

(Louie) and to this union two children, Thomas Richard Allen and Mary Jeannine Allen.

Mattie, deceased, was married to Sam Ellis, and to this union were born two children, J.B. Ellis and he has one daughter Alice Boggs (Charles) and to this union two children were born, Wendy and Michelle.

Grady, deceased, was married to Laura P., and to this union one daughter was born, Mae Love Sanders (Frank) and they had two children, William Sanders and Brenda Sanders (Edward)

Sunie, now deceased, was married to Coford Moss, and to this union one son was born, W. Brooks Moss. Priscilla Moss Evans is W. Brooks' daughter and she has two children, Connie Evans and John Evans. Susan is Brooks' daughter and she has one child.

Sources: Quoted source in an article, grave stones, family records and personal contact.

— Mrs. Louie T. Allen

David Sylvanus Van Dyke

THE DAVID SYLVANUS VAN DYKE FAMILY

1062

Our daddy, David S. Van Dyke was born in Gaston County, July 25, 1894, to the late John Lewis and Sarah Jane Eaker Van Dyke. They were born in Gaston County; married January, 1882. Farming was their occupation. They raised six children — four sons and two daughters. The oldest was Barbara Jane; next being James Peter, John Alexander, Mary Francis, Robert Richard and David S. Van Dyke, the youngest.

Daddy was in his early teens when his parents sold the farm in Gaston County in 1914. He bought another farm in Kings Mountain, North Carolina, in Cleveland County area. This farm included several acres of land to be cleared for farming.

Daddy enlisted in the army at the age of twenty-four, on July 22, 1918. After basic training, he was sent to France in combat duty from November 10, 1918 until June 20, 1919. On June 21, 1921, he received an honorable discharge along with several medals.

Returning home, he lived on the farm with his family. In 1922, he married Lula Mae Lockridge, which in turn they lived with the family. With a lot of love and understanding, Daddy and Mother raised six children — two sons and four daughters. The oldest being Mary Elizabeth; married to George W. Melton — they have four children; James Robert; married to Inez Whetstone — they have five children; Lucy Mae; married to Mack Crawford — they have two children, Della Belle married to Willie Griffin — no children; Johnny Alexander — died at the age of five; and Lois Katherine married to Henry Moss — they have one daughter. Henry died March 12, 1978.

In 1925, his brother, James Peter, built his home near by on the Van Dyke property and later moved out. In 1927, his parents bought a farm near the Kings Mountain Battleground, leaving the old homeplace to Daddy and Mother.

His parents lived near the Battleground for a number of years. Later they came back to the Van Dyke property and lived the rest of their lives at what was called the Smarr place. Grandma Van Dyke died September 20, 1940. Grandpa Van Dyke died December 5, 1945. They were buried in Concord Cemetery near Cherryville, N.C.

Daddy and Mama continued the farm life, working hard and long hours to support their family. We did not have electricity in those days. Our light at night came from kerosene lamps, cooking was done on a wood burning stove, and the irons for pressing clothes were heated on the wood stove. We carried our water from a spring, water for drinking and water to put in tin tubs for taking a bath. The tubs filled with water were put out in the sun during the day for baths at night. During the wintertime, the water was heated on the stove. Daddy fixed a building to cover the spring and put a spring box in, which the cool water ran through to keep the milk and butter from spoiling.

David Sylvanus and Lula Mae Van Dyke

In later years, we had an ice box and ice was delivered to our home which was a great improvement from the spring box. Washing clothes was done in tin tubs and a big black boiling pot, and it was cold in winter; washing and hanging them on the line to freeze stiff. Floors were cleaned with soap and water with brooms made from broom sage gathered from the fields in late fall. It was hard work but we didn't mind because that was the only way of life we knew.

Daddy grew most of the food we ate. Enough of sweet potatoes were grown and put in dirt hills to last from one year to the next; you could see dirt hills everywhere. Vegetables of all kinds, Mama would can all summer for winter eating. Daddy planted peanuts. When harvest time came they were pulled out of the ground and put in piles in the field; of course we kids were old enough to help. We took chairs or stools to the field to pick the peanuts from the vines, to be washed then put in sacks to be placed on top of the tin roof house to be dried.

He raised cattle for milk and beef, two or three hogs were prepared and cured for the coming year. There were always chickens to eat and eggs enough for the family. Mama made her butter in a wooden churn so there was little meat and dairy products to be bought. Daddy had a peach orchard, also apple trees and others. During harvest time the fruits and vegetables were canned, dried and any other way they could be preserved for winter. Mama had a closet in the house. By the end of summer, it would be filled to the top with all kinds of canned fruits, berries, pickles, jams and jellies.

Daddy and his oldest brother, James Peter, did a lot of farming together, planting corn. When it was gathered in the fall, we hauled it to the barn in a two horse wagon. We shucked the corn and put it in the corn bins at night by lantern light. This supplied food for the stock and corn meal for bread. They grew acres of wheat. When gathered, the threshing machine came, which was a big treat for us kids as we watched the wheat being separated from the straw. Mama and Aunt Letha would prepare food for the workers, which we also enjoyed.

They raised sugar cane for making molasses. Daddy and Uncle James owned their own mill, so when the cane was ready the families got together to grind the cane, put the juice in the boiler and the molasses was on the way out. Boy, it was finger-licking good.

There were times when money was low and daddy would cut wood on the farm to be sold for extra money for the things we needed. Later, Daddy and Mama went to work in textile mills for a number of years. Daddy would do small farm jobs while he worked in the mill. After retiring from the textile mill, he continued doing small farm jobs until he became totally disabled, about three years before his death on October 14, 1981, at the age of 87. Mama was sick for a long time and was disabled for three or four years before her death, on December 16, 1977, at the age of 74. They were buried in Mountain Rest Cemetery, Kings Mountain, North Carolina.

They were married, lived and worked together for fifty-five years. They had twelve grandchildren and fifteen great-grandchildren. Daddy's and Mama's life was not an easy one. Their love and their caring shone above all the hard times. They worked very hard and would not have had it any other way. We miss and love them very much.

We, the family of David S. Van Dyke received a certificate of recognition of Daddy from the President of the United States, Ronald Reagan.

"The United States of America honors the memory of David S. Van Dyke. This certificate is awarded by a grateful nation in recognition of devoted and selfless consecration to the service of our country in the armed forces of the United States."

We, the children of David S. Van Dyke are grateful for this certificate of recognition for our Daddy.

Sources: family Bible, personal memories

— James Robert Van Dyke

THOMAS ALLEN VAUGHN

1063

Thomas Allen Vaughn was born Feb. 11, 1972 in Cleveland County and has a very large number of Cleveland County ancestors some of whom came from Scotland on his father's side and others who came to America in the 1700's from Germany for religious reasons as on his mothers side of the family.

He is educated in the Shelby School System being in the talented and gifted classes. He has music lessons from Mrs. Ada Elliott who has taught almost one thousand music students and made the comment that Allen surpassed any child she has ever taught in his natural music ability. He apparently inherited this trait from his father.

Allen's father is Wade Allen Vaughn, Jr. born March 26, 1947 in Shelby North Carolina. He was educated also at Shelby and was the class president of his senior Class in 1965. He attended Gardner Webb College and served in the U.S. Army in the Viet Nam War as a turbine engine specialist. He was a member and ordained deacon, of Polkville Baptist Church. He had a puppet ministry for the children of the church for many years, a little purple hand puppet called Clarence that taught short Bible lessons during the regular worship service. He played the guitar "by ear" and was so talented musically that he took lessons and participated in a recital and was unable to read the notes! He could reproduce any music exactly as he heard it by sound only. He is a registered member of the great Scottish Clan McDonald and has a tartan with permission from Scotland authorities to wear it officially as a sect of Clan McDaniel.

His father is Wade Allen Vaughn Sr. born Feb. 13, 1917 Pilot Mountain in Surry County. He served in the Army in WW II and was a mechanic for the Cleveland County School System for over thirty years. He was a State champion softball pitcher and loved to hunt and fish.

His father was Jessie Franklin Vaughn born in Stokes County. His wife was Mary Jane (Mammie) Vaughn. She was born in 1889 in York S.C. Her family was McDaniels. Wade Allen Sr.'s wife is Virginia Lee Pounders born Nov. 30, 1917 and her father was John Jackson Pounders. Most of their family were from Alabama. Virginia was noted for her musical ability and especially loved to play organ music.

Thomas Allen Vaughn's mother is Jo Ann Shields a registered nurse. She was born Oct. 9 1946 in Cleveland County to Thomas James and Adeline Reinhardt Shields.

Thomas James Shields, Allen's grandfather was well known for his gardening and had a large house which still stands at 416 S. Washington St. that drew the attention of neighbors and passers-by for its hundreds of azaleas. He has a large collection of antique cut glass and took special pride in his home with other antique collections. Thomas James served in the U.S. Army in WW II in Europe during the "Battle of the Bulge." He sold Bibles many years door to door, of which he is very proud. His father was Perry Belton Shields born April 27, 1882 in Spartanburg County S.C. Their family attended Cooley Springs Baptist Church. Perry's wife was Martha (Mattie) Penola Philbeck Shields born in 1883. Her outstanding characteristic was that she was very deeply religious and often knelt to pray about matters during the day.

Source: Recent loving memory

— Jo Ann Shields Vaughn

ADDIE MAGNESS WALKER

1064

Addie Magness Walker was born September 16, 1884 in Lattimore, North Carolina. Her parents were Rufus Magness and Hester Crowder Magness.

On March 7, 1912, she married Charles Cleatus Walker at the Magness homeplace. She wore a white hat and dress with a blue ribbon sash. After the wedding, the happy couple traveled by horse and carriage to the home of the grooms father, Doctor Joe Suttle Walker, where they spent their early married days. Later they moved to New House section of Cleveland County, and after a few years they moved to a log house on the Walker plantation.

The first child, a daughter, died at birth; however five other children were born to this union: Aubrey Alvin who married Glenn Washburn of Shelby; Frances Elizabeth Married Charles D. Forney, Jr. of Lawndale; Joe Magness married Norma Tipping of England; Margaret Helen married James B. Cain of Cramerton, then Robert Williams of Statesville; Claud Champion married Frances Spencer of Hickory.

"Miss Addie", as she was known to friends and neighbors, was a kind, compassionate woman whose chief interests were her church, home, and family. She was a wonderful homemaker, and her activities outside the home were: Home Demonstration Club and Woman's Missionary Union of Sandy Plains Baptist Church.

She loved cooking, sewing and quilting and found time to tend flower and vegetable gardens. She instilled in her five children a love of nature, a deep religious commitment, and a love for their fellowman.

Addie Magness Walker died April 2, 1969 and was buried in the Sandy Plains Baptist Church Cemetery.

She was a descendant of Perry Green Magness, who came from Lancashire County, England in 1747. He settled on Indian Creek, which is now part of Lincoln County, North Carolina. He signed his name "Perygren Mackness" on the Tryon Declaration August 14, 1775.

He married Sally Hamrick and they had ten sons and one daughter. The second son Benjamin, born 1755, married Elizabeth Mauney. To this union seven children were born. After her death, he married Nancy Walker and they had four children: Joseph, Samuel, Robert and Sally.

Descendents of Perry Green Magness and his son, Benjamin, are eligible to join the D.A.R. as father and son participated in the Revolution and are on record as being Captains.

Ernest Magness Jr. of Charlotte, grandson of Rufus Magness, has Benjamin Magness's cavalry sword. It is said that Benjamin carried a minie ball in his shoulder from the Battle of Cowpens until his death in 1828.

The story has been handed down in the Magness family that Perygren Mackness's father held a title in England, but as Perygren was not the eldest son and would not inherit the title, he chose to emigrate to America. He became a large landholder, slaveholder and patriot. The name Perry Green Magness appears in all branches of his descendants, but the spelling was changed from the original old English name, Peregrine.

Some records show that Perry Green Magness died in Warren County, Kentucky. His burial place near Buffalo Creek, Cleveland County, has always been known to his descendants in Cleveland and Rutherford Counties: though his monument and that of his wife have crumbled away. The only plausible explanation for the Warren County, Kentucky story is that Perry Green Magness may have gone there to visit his son, George, who had moved to that state, that he died while there and his body was returned to North Carolina for burial.

The monument of William Magness, son of Perry Green Magness, who died in 1816 is in a good state of preservation and can be easily read. Father and son were buried in a private cemetery, which came to be known as the Roberts Cemetery and is east of the town of Shelby, North Carolina. Vandals have disturbed the graves of father and son, perhaps seeking some of the gold, which William was sent to England to get for his father.

Samuel, son of Benjamin, married Nancy Grigg and they settled near Lattimore, North Carolina. Their son, Rufus, married Hester Crowder and to this union nine children were born: Beulah never married; William married Hattie Beaty and their children are: Jack, Howard, Virginia, William, Jr., Johnnie; Mattie married Coleman Blanton; Addie married Charles Cleatus Walker their children are: Aubrey, Frances, Joe, Margaret and Claude; Carrie died in childhood; Talmadge unmarried; Ernest married Selma Butler their children are: Ernest Jr. and Martha; Robert married Alta Randall and they had one daughter, Ruby. After Alta's death, he married Lenith Randall they had one daughter, Nancy; Carl married Dorcas Green and three daughters were born to them; Donnis, Jocelyn and Hillary.

Rufus Magness died in 1923 and Hester Crowder Magness died in 1929. They are buried in Oak Grove Methodist Church Cemetery in Rutherford County.

Sources: Lincoln County Records; Magness Family, A Family Tree, J.L. Marshall

— Frances Walker Forney

CHARLES CLEATUS WALKER FAMILY

1065

Charles Cleatus Walker was born September 15, 1885 in Cleveland County, North Carolina. He is the son of Doctor Joe Suttle Walker and Roxanna McKinney Walker.

The Walkers came to America from England and settled in New Hampshire. They later moved to the Dan River section of Virginia. John Walker was born there in 1748. He migrated to North Carolina by way of Guilford County, where he and Urcilla Covington bought a marriage bond on February 3, 1773. He was 26 years old when he and Urcilla came to Tryon County, North Carolina, and settled on the middle fork of Sandy Run Creek. The land grant of 640 acres at 6¼ cents an acre, was by King George of England.

To John and Urcilla Walker 12 children were born. The seventh son, Joel, married Angeline Wall. Their seventh son, Doctor Joe Suttle Walker, married Frances Roxanna McKinney.

John and Urcilla are buried in the family cemetery on their plantation, in the New House section of Rutherford County, North Carolina.

The McKinneys came from Scotland to New York in 1738. They later moved to Sussex County, Virginia.

The spelling of the name was changed from McInnish to McKinney. Daniel McKinney married Sarah Weathers. They migrated from Virginia to Eastern North Carolina. Daniel is listed in the 1800 Rutherford County census.

William, oldest child of Daniel and Sarah McKinney was born May 6, 1766 in Sussex County, Virginia. He was a Private in the Revolutionary War, and married Amy Willis. In 1815 he received State Grant no. 262 to purchase 200 acres of land at 50 shillings per 100 acres.

William and Amy had a family of five girls and three boys. The seventh child, William Henry McKinney, married Betsy Dugger August 12, 1817. Their oldest child, James, was born in 1818 and served in the Confederate Army.

James McKinney married Elizabeth Horn. To this union, 10 children were born; Frances Roxanna being the ninth child. She married Doctor Joe Suttle Walker and six children were born to them: Braxton, Lillie, Charles Cleatus, Ola, Fredrick Guy and Dovie.

Doctor Joe Suttle Walker and wife, Frances Roxanna, are buried in the Sandy Plains Baptist Church cemetery.

Charles Cleatus Walker grew up in the New House section of Cleveland County and remained there for the eighty-nine years of his life. He was a farmer, merchant and blacksmith. A very energetic person, who worked from dawn to dusk; but when time permitted, he enjoyed fishing and horse-back riding. He loved planting and watching crops grow, and he kept cattle, beagle hunting dogs and three or four thoroughbred saddle horses on the farm. He was a Deacon and Sunday School Teacher in Sandy Plains Baptist Church.

On March 7, 1912 he was married to Addie Alma Magness at the Magness home in Lattimore, North Carolina. They moved to New House, Cleveland County. A tragic turn of events, one year later, when their first child died at birth saddened their early marriage.

The second child, Aubrey Alvin, born April 3, 1914 married Glenn Washburn. They have two daughters: Mary Ann married Sidney Hensley and they have three children: Stephanie, Brandon and Ivey, and live in Asheboro. Jane married Steven Wall and they have two children: Amy and Matthew and live in Winston-Salem.

Frances Elizabeth, third child, born July 28, 1916 married Charles D. Forney, Jr., They have three children: Charles D. Forney III married Betty Jo White of Burlington. Their children are: Jason, Elizabeth and Anna and they live in Greensboro. Michael Walker married Sharon Goodyear of Canada and they have two daughters: Meagan and Shannon. They live in Shelby. Frances Carol Married George Murray Temple of Virginia. They have three sons: George, Jr., Charles Benjamin and Robert, and live in Virginia Beach, Virginia.

Joe Magness, the fourth child, born February 23, 1917: served in the United States Air Force for 31 years. Since his retirement, he has lived in Coca Beach, Florida. He married Norma Tipping of England and they have one son, Paul.

Margaret Helen, the fifth child, born December 2, 1919 married James B. Cain. They have a daughter, Mary Joyce. Margaret taught school and later married Robert Williams. They live in Statesville.

Claude Champion, Youngest child, born October 11, 1921 married Frances Spencer of Hickory. They have a daughter, Cathy and live in Charlotte, North Carolina.

Addie Magness Walker died April 2, 1969 and Charles Cleatus Walker died July 23, 1974. Both are buried in Sandy Plains Church Cemetery amid friends and relatives they loved so dearly.

Sources: Albermarle Parish Register; Bridges To The Past, by Roy Brooks; Bible records.

— Frances Walker Forney

ZENO WALL

1066

Zeno Wall was born on August 20, 1882 near Mooresboro, NC, the oldest of eleven children and the son of Mr. & Mrs. S.F. Wall.

He was educated in the Rutherford County Schools, Mars Hill College, and Southern Baptist Theological Seminary and received Honorary Doctor of Divinity degree from Mississippi College, Clinton, in 1917.

In May, 1911 he married Ada Kate Ramsey, Marchall, NC. Five children were born to this union: Zeno, Jr., Mrs. Ollie Harris (Abbie Jane), Yates, Woodrow, and Mrs. Walter Fanning (Ada Ramsey). His wife preceded him in death by eight years; March 11, 1959.

Zeno preached his first sermon at Mount Pleasant Baptist Church near Boiling Springs in 1906. He was ordained at Cliffside Baptist Church in 1908.

He held pastorates in Marshall, NC; Clinton, Columbia and Mount Olive in Mississippi; Goldsboro and Shelby, NC. He served the First Baptist Church in Shelby from 1925 to 1948 and the Elizabeth Baptist Church, Shelby, from 1952-1957.

Dr. Wall was a former President of Boiling Springs Junior College, now Gardner-Webb College; former State Missions Secretary for Mississippi Baptist Convention; Chaplain, United States Army in World War I with rank of Major; President North Carolina Baptist State Convention for four terms, 1933-1936; President Board of Trustees, North Carolina Baptist Children's Homes, and Superintendent Baptist Children's Home, Thomasville, NC.

He died September 12, 1967 and was buried in Elizabeth Baptist Church cemetery, Shelby, NC.

Dr. Wall authored three books: Heartening Messages, A Day for God-Called Men, and Verities of the Gospel. He was elected to "Who's Who in America" in 1948-49.

— Woodrow Wall

THE MOFFATT ALEXANDER WARE FAMILY

1067

Moffatt Alexander Ware was born in Kings Mountain, N.C. on March 18, 1892, the son of William Alexander Ware and Leonora Ellen Falls. Moffatt Ware's mother died when he was one year old, and he was raised by his grandmother, until his father married again several years later. Moffatt's sisters were: Minnie Rebecca (Campbell) and Vivian Janet (Fulton); his half-sisters were: Mary Regina (Stroupe), Ava Juanita, and Lena Bernice (McGill); his half-brothers were: Garrison Abraham and Samuel Freno. Moffatt Ware was the great-great-grandson of John Weer, who was a captain in the Revolutionary War, and who was born in Ireland in 1743. John Weer emigrated to America and lived on Buffalo Creek at Weer's bridge, in Cleveland County.

Moffatt attended public school in Kings Mountain, and then attended Horner Military School in Oxford, N.C. He later attended Erskine College in Due West, S.C. After leaving Erskine, he went to work with Southern Railway in Charlotte, N.C. While working in Charlotte he met and later married Johnsie Rebecca

Moffatt Alexander Ware

Pettus, daughter of John Dillard and Carrie Ross Pettus of Charlotte. They were married on August 18, 1916 in Charlotte, and continued to live there for about a year. Mrs. Johnsie Pettus Ware had four sisters: Mary Allena (Michael), Addie Bell (Blowers), Catherine Dillard (Monty) and Willie Marion (Loesch); and four brothers: Harry, Parks and Earl, who died in infancy, and Joe, who died in early childhood.

About a year after Moffatt and Johnsie Ware were married, Mr. Ware's father asked him to come to Kings Mountain and help operate a grist mill and cotton gin, which had been started in the late nineteenth century by Moffatt's grandfather. The business was operated as W.A. Ware & Sons. In 1930 the firm added a wholesale grocery line, and in 1940 built a 50,000 bushel capacity grain elevator, which proved to be a great aid to the farmers in the area. Mr. W.A. Ware continued to be active in the business until his death in 1949, at which time the business was taken over by Moffatt Ware, and his brother-in-law, Sage Fulton. The business continued operation until 1973, when it was closed, and later the equipment, building and land were sold. Three generations of Wares had operated the business for a total of 91 years.

Moffatt A. Ware was always active in civic and worthwhile affairs in Kings Mountain, and he served as a city commissioner for several years. He was active in the Boyce Memorial ARP Church, where he served as Sunday School Superintendent, Deacon, and Elder; and also served as chairman of many church committees. He was a member of Fairview Lodge 339 AF & AM and was a Shriner. He was also a member of the Kings Mountain Kiwanis Club, and the Kings Mountain Country Club.

Mrs. Johnsie Pettus Ware was raised in Charlotte where she attended public schools, and later attended Mars Hill College, where she majored in drama, voice, music and piano. When she married Moffatt Ware and moved to Kings Mountain, she became a charter member of the Kings Mountain Little Theater. In 1952 Mrs. Ware was asked to cast and direct "The Sword of Gideon", an outdoor drama staged at the Kings Mountain National Park. This play was written by Florette Henri of New York City and commemorated the Battle of Kings Mountain during the Revolutionary War. For Mrs. Ware's part in directing "The Sword of Gideon" she was featured as "Clevelander At Work" in the Shelby Daily Star on Oct. 9, 1952. Between Mr. and Mrs. Ware they had four ancestors who fought in the Battle of Kings Mountain: Preston Goforth, Capt. John Weer, Samuel Knox and Samuel Wilson.

Mrs. Ware was an active member of the Boyce Memorial ARP Church, where she served as church historian, author of the history of the church, assistant choir director, and a member of the Ladies Missionary Society. She was also historian for the Kings Mountain Bicentennial celebration, a charter member of the Kings Mountain Garden Club, member of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, the State Garden Club, and was an accredited judge for floral shows in North Carolina.

Johnsie Ware was an avid genealogist and spent many hours working up the genealogies of her maternal and paternal ancestors, as well as the Weir, Weer and Ware families that were related to her husband. Her interest in genealogy started when she was a child in Charlotte and found an old weather-beaten suit-case in the attic of her home, which contained an interesting document: a copy of her great, great grandfather's (Francis Rofs) affidavit, appointing his son, James Rofs, administrator of his estate. This finding, somewhat akin to the Alice in Wonderland story, opened up an ancestral wonderland for Mrs. Ware. After moving to Kings Mountain and raising two children, she was able to spend more time on her genealogy work, and spent many hours and days visiting county courthouses, Register of Deeds offices, Probate Judges offices, cemeteries, and reading Equity files, old newspaper clippings, Census reports, Church records, and old letters and records. She made several trips to the National Archives and the D.A.R. Building in Washington, D.C., researching for various genealogies. The family lines she traced — and as near perfect as possible from records available — were: Ross (Rofs), Clark, Robinson, Montgomery, Pickens, Wilson, and the Pettus line which dates back to 1491 in England. She corresponded with people in all fifty states, working on her own genealogies, or assisting other people with their records. Mrs. Ware once stated that in all her years of research, she had never come across a "Will Maker" who complained about his lack of earthly possessions. She said they were always so thankful for the blessings the Lord had provided, and were anxious to clear their name with their debtors by willing their debts be paid, and that they be given a decent burial. Joe DePriest wrote an article about Mrs. Ware and her work in genealogy, under the heading "Genealogies Interest Her" in the July 2, 1971 issue of the Shelby Daily Star.

Johnsie Rebecca Pettus Ware

Moffatt and Johnsie Ware were the parents of two children: Jean Rebecca, who married Richard T. LeGrand, Jr. of Shelby, North Carolina; and Moffatt Alexander, Jr., who married Ann Clark Mayes of Kings Mountain. The LeGrands are parents of three children: Richard Ware, Sandra Jean (Tilt) and John William. The Moffatt Ware, Jr.s. are parents of five children: Moffatt A. Ware, III, Carl Scott, Sabrina Ann, Clark Mayes, and Ashley Todd. The LeGrands live in Shelby, N.C., and the Moffatt Ware Jr.s. live in Concord, N.C.

Moffatt A. Ware died on March 31, 1966, and Mrs. Johnsie Pettus Ware died on Oct. 9, 1977. Both are buried in the Kings Mountain Cemetery.

Sources: Family records, Family Bible, genealogies.

— Mrs. Jean Ware LeGrand

WILLIAM ALEXANDER WARE

1068

One hundred years ago the family of William Alexander Ware moved to Kings Mountain, and established the first industry in the community, a grist and saw mill operated by steam. The mill was known as the Merchant Mills and was operated by his father, William Oates Ware, and his son, William Alexander Ware. The mill burned in 1895 and was rebuilt in 1898 with a cotton gin added. The cotton gin was burned in 1923, and rebuilt the following year.

When electricity came to the area, the Ware Mills were the first to be operated by electricity.

William Alexander Ware became the active head of the business in 1898, and his son, Moffatt joined him at the close of World War I in 1918.

In 1930 the firm entered the wholesale grocery business and in 1940 built a 50,000 bushel capacity grain elevator which proved to be a great aid to the farmers of this area.

The business at this time was owned and operated by William Alexander Ware and son, Moffatt, and son-in-law, W.S. Fulton, making the third generation of Wares to continually operate this business.

Ware and Sons business was closed and sold in 1973, after 91 years, Ware and Sons Roller Mill was razed, removing one of the city's oldest landmarks.

William Alexander Ware was the great-great-grandson of Captain John Ware of Revolutionary War fame. Captain Ware purchased the first grist and saw mill in the county which was built by Thomas Preston McGill. It was located on Persimmons Creek about six miles from town.

William Alexander Ware was b. January 6, 1867. He d. 1949. When he moved to Kings Mountain, he was 20 years old. He had one sister, Mary Regina Ware, m. William Plonk.

Mr. Ware was known as "Alex Ware" by relatives and friends.

He m. Leonora Falls 1885. To this union three children were born. Minnie b. 1886, m. to Campbell Phifer d. 1970, their children are: Wendell b. 1915, m. Jeanette Crawford, their children are: Wendell, Jr., and Robert: — Marriott, b. 1921 m. Bess Hambright, their children are: Rita, Doyt, Connie and M.D.: — Menzell b. 1925, m. Pauline Ware, their children are Paulette, Jean and Don. The daughter Doris b. 1927 m. R.P. Anthony, their daughter Rebecca.

William Alexander Ware

when he came to town to help his father in the grist and saw mill, he continued to operate the business until his retirement.

Today citizens will more likely remember him for his love for and activity in his church. He was a charter member of Boyce Memorial A.R. Presbyterian Church. He was a great believer in prayer and always had family worship.

Through his life Mr. Alex, kept an abiding interest in the people of the community, this interest never ceased even after declining health placed him in a wheel chair.

He was a man of good humor, patience, and kindness, who made important contributions to the civic, religious and commercial life of Kings Mountain.

— Lena Ware McGill

CLARENCE C. WARLICK and FAMILY

1069

Clarence C. Warlick was born on September 23, 1870, in upper Cleveland County, the only son of Henry and Susan Ann Hoyle Warlick. Clarence was descended from two German families who immigrated five generations earlier from the Palatinate of Germany to the wilderness of western North Carolina.

Clarence's paternal great-great-grandfather, Daniel Warlick, arrived in Pennsylvania in 1729 on the ship Mortonhouse. In 1750 and 1751, Daniel Warlick registered land grants from King George II of England for a total of 5100 acres in western North Carolina.

His maternal great-great-grandfather, Pieter Hoyle also immigrated to Pennsylvania, arriving aboard the ship Robert and Alice in 1738. He and his family came to Western North Carolina via the Shenandoah Valley, and settled in what was then Bladen County in 1744. Clarence's great-great-grandfather, John Hoyle, served in the Revolutionary War as a lieutenant with Col. Frederick Hambright, being present at the Battle of Kings Mountain on October 7, 1780.

Born and raised on land that had been part of his family's original land grants, Clarence became a prosperous farmer who contributed greatly to the lives of people in No. 8 township of Cleveland County. He served on the highway commission when state-maintained roads were brought to Cleveland County. He was also a force behind the introduction of electricity in No. 8 township. He served as a church steward at Clover Hill Methodist Church where he was a life-long member.

On December 31, 1902, Clarence married Margaret "Maggie" Belzora Falls, daughter of John Zimri Falls Jr. and Sarah Catherine Cline. Before Maggie, a staunch Baptist, consented to marry him, she received a promise from Clarence that she would be allowed to attend a Baptist church after their marriage. This was no slight request for Clover Hill Methodist Church was less than two miles from their home, and the closest Baptist church was five miles away over dirt roads. Clarence kept his promise for Maggie faithfully attended Casar Baptist Church until the formation of Polkville

Vivian Ware b. 1889 m. William Sage Fulton d. 1974. To this union, Lenora Fulton b. 1917 and William Sage, Jr. b. 1919, m. Ruth Green, their children, William Sage, II, Carl, James.

Moffatt Alexander Ware b. 1892, m. John-sie Pettus, d. 1966. To that union: Jean b. 1917 m. to Richard LeGrande, Jr. Their children: Richard, Sandra, John. Moffatt Alexander, Jr. b. 1934 m. Ann Mayes. Their children: Moffatt, III, Carl, Sabrina, Clark, Ashley.

Two years later, after death of first wife, he m. Caroline Anthony, 1895 who was from Catawba County. A cousin of Mr. Ware went to Catawba county to teach school and boarded in the Anthony home, she wrote to Alex and said, "There are three eligible young ladies living in this household that I want you to meet. So Alex dressed in proper attire, traveled in a two horse drawn surrey to Catawba County, for a very good purpose, looking the situation over, after only making several return trips, he brough Caroline to Kings Mountain as his bride. The next morning the bride helped cook breakfast for a new family of seven, husband, Ware grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W.O. Ware and three step-children, two, four, and six years of age. The step children in later years testified, "That through all these years their devotion to each other was beautiful". To this union were b. Mary 1896 m. to Lawrence Stroupe 1924: their children are Lawrence Jr. b. 1925, m. Katie Philips, their children are Teresa, Lawrence, III, Lisa. Dale b. 1929 m. Dorothy White, their child is Jana. Jerry b. 1937 m. Lyneer Beck, their child is Jerry Ware.

Garrison Ware b. 1898, d. 1957

Freno Ware b. 1900, m. Louise Wrenn 1938 d. 1968.

Ava Ware b. 1903 who lives in the Ware homeplace on W. Gold Street.

Lena Ware b. 1905, m. John L. McGill who lives on W. Gold Street.

Mr. Ware was one of Kings Mountain's pioneer citizens and his contributions to the community as industrialist, churchman and citizen, were many. He was mayor of Kings Mountain 1920-21, during the time a Circus came to town and asked permission of the Mayor to show on Sunday, and his reply was, "No Way!".

K.M. was little more than a crossroads

Baptist Church where she became a charter member.

The family of Clarence and Maggie Warlick consisted of nine children: Vera Falls, born on December 3, 1903, who married Amos Phylector Spangler, Sr. on December 23, 1924; Mittie Hoyle, born on March 18, 1905, who married A.S. Spangler on November 17, 1926; Andy Yates, born on February 3, 1907, who married Estelle Spangler on February 3, 1930, and died on July 10, 1975; Lester Tilden, born on January 20, 1909, who married Kathleen Sara Boggs on October 3, 1935, and died on October 28, 1981; Charlotte Faye, born on April 20, 1911, who married L. Dewey Whisnant; Carl, born on April 20, 1911, a twin, who died on May 19, 1911; Hugh Lee, born on September 2, 1913, who married Mildred Mauney on January 21, 1937; Sue Kathryn, born on April 27, 1915, who married Thomas Gold DePriest on November 14, 1939; and Warren Cicero, born on August 23, 1918, who married (1) Ruby Ellen Taylor on April 3, 1943, and (2) Betty Rollins on May 30, 1979.

On March 25, 1937, Clarence and Maggie were seriously injured in an automobile accident. Clarence died two days later of internal injuries. He was buried at Clover Hill Methodist Church. Although Maggie's injuries were thought to be more serious than her husband's she overcame them and the doctors' prediction that she would never walk again. She lived for 38 years after Clarence's death, dying in her ninetieth year on January 9, 1975. She was buried beside her husband at Clover Hill Methodist Church.

Sources: Interview with Sue Kathryn Warlick DePriest; Personal remembrances of Margaret B. Falls Warlick; Daniel Warlick of Lincoln County, North Carolina and His Descendants by Alfred Caldwell Warlick, Sr., Gastonia, North Carolina; Genealogy of Peiter Heyl and His Descendants by Elizabeth HoyleRucker, Tuttle Publishing Company, Rutland, Vermont, 1938.

— Patricia DePriest King

Clarence C. Warlick Family

JOHANN DANIEL WARLICK

1070

The date of birth for Pioneer Daniel Warlick has not been established, but the date of his death was probably in April, 1772. He married Maria Barbara Schindler and came to Pennsylvania from the Palatinate in Germany on the ship Mortonhouse. He took the oath of allegiance August 19, 1729. Later he came to North Carolina and was issued land grants as recorded in the Court Records bearing dates September 27, 1750 and March 28, 1751 for a total of 5,100 acres in what is now Lincoln County. This section of the state was a wilderness for the most part; being very sparsely settled and with Cherokee Indians roving about in small bands hunting and fishing, and with very little cultivated crops of corn.

According to State Records Volume 23, Page 769-70, the House of Commons passed a bill creating Tryon County by making the Catawba River the eastern boundary, and east of the Catawba River was to remain Mecklenberg County. This bill was passed to take effect April 10, 1769. Daniel Warlick was appointed to serve as one of the first County Commissioners. When the House of Commons met in 1770, an act was passed naming the commissioners to survey the county lines. The western line crossed Tryon Mountain in what is now Polk County. A part of this territory was claimed by the Cherokee Indians, and a well organized militia was maintained and was frequently called into service to drive out the Indians and repulse attacks. In one of these engagements a son of Pioneer Daniel, Daniel, Jr., was killed by the Indians.

Daniel and Maria Barbara Schindler had nine children: Daniel II, Nicholas, Phillip, Valentine, Mary, Eve Catherine, Elizabeth, Barbara, and Lewis. Daniel II was born 1738 and married Maria Margareta Mosteller. Their children were:

Daniel III, John, David, Barbara, and Absalom. Daniel III was born 1773 and married

Mary Whisonant. Their children were: Valentine, John, Daniel IV, Mary, Phillip, Sara, Matilda, Barbara and Abram.

Abram (1816-1889) married Rosa Boggs, and their children were: Samuel, Gaither, William, John Francis, and Abram Decatur.

Abram Decatur (1859-1947) married Mittie Lou Falls, and their children were: Alfred Caldwell, Walter Theodore, Zula, Vangie, Lou Ella, Zeb Zimri, Franklin Decatur, Boyd Thurman, and Glenard Lee.

Sources: Daniel Warlick Publication by: Alfred Warlick, Sr.

— Robert Warlick

THE JOHN THOMAS WARLICK FAMILY

1071

John Thomas Warlick, known as "John T.," was born June 2, 1876, and died on December 3, 1965. He was married to Lily Amanda Hull, known by her friends and customers as "Miss Lily." She was born near Cherryville on March 4, 1884, and died December 1, 1975. Both are buried in the Pleasant Hill Methodist Church cemetery near Belwood. They not only donated land to the church cemetery, but, together with their daughters, Mary Beth Warlick Brackett and Mabel Warlick Kroll, gave eleven acres to the Loy White Methodist Camp near the church property.

John T. Warlick's great, great, great grandfather, Pioneer Daniel Warlick and his wife Marie Schindler Warlick, came to America from the Palatinate in Germany on the ship Mortanhouse. They landed in Philadelphia and made an oath of allegiance on August 19, 1729. Pioneer Daniel's son, Daniel II was John T. Warlick's great, great grandfather. He was born in Lancaster County, Pennsylvania, in 1738. He moved with his parents to the Daniels Church section of Lincoln County where the family settled on 5100 acres of land. The land grants are dated September 27, 1750, and March 28, 1751.

Next came Daniel III who was the son of Daniel II and the first to migrate to Cleveland County. He was born in Lincoln County in 1773 and was the great grandfather of John T. He went into business with his brothers and brother-in-law, Michael Schenck, and built the first cotton mill south of the Potomac River. This mill was located east of Lincolnton and is marked by a North Carolina Historical marker. After selling his interest in the mill to Michael Schenck, he moved to the Belwood section. He settled on land that had been granted by George III. He died in 1841 and is buried in the Warlick Cemetery which is on part of the original land grant.

The first John Thomas Warlick was John T.'s grandfather. He was born in 1802 and died in 1862. He married Jane Boggs and they are buried at Knob Creek Methodist Church. Their son, Noah Boggs Warlick, was John Thomas' father. He served in the Army of Confederacy with the North Carolina 55th Regiment. He was wounded at Chancellorsville, Virginia, in 1863 and lost a leg due to his

John Thomas Warlick

Lily Hull Warlick

71st North Carolina Infantry in the Army of the Confederate States of America. John Hartman died in February, 1925, and Nancy Pool Hartman died February 26, 1905. Both are buried in the cemetery of Knob Creek United Methodist Church in Belwood.

Myrtle Hartman's paternal great-grandparents were Wiley Hartman, born December 12, 1803, and Perthene Hartman, born June 24, 1816. Wiley Hartman died May 25, 1890, and Perthene Hartman died August 19, 1894; both are buried in the cemetery of Friendship United Methodist Church in Fallston, North Carolina.

Myrtle Hartman's maternal grandparents were Joseph P. Johnson, born May 18, 1852, and Pheby Bass Johnson, born December 13, 1853. Joseph P. Johnson died January 26, 1937, and Pheby Bass Johnson died August 23, 1911. Myrtle Hartman's maternal great-grandparents were David Johnson, born October 26, 1826, and Susanah Johnson, born August 25, 1832. David Johnson died July 6, 1863 from wounds suffered in the Battle of Gettysburg, Pennsylvania, and was buried in Richmond, Virginia. Susanah Johnson died July 10, 1894 and was buried in the cemetery of Knob Creek United Methodist Church in Belwood.

Myrtle Mary Hartman attended the Belwood School in Belwood and the Piedmont School in Lawndale. She was married to Raymond Aubrey Warlick, son of Abram Clarence Warlick and Minnie Ann Carpenter Warlick, on March 26, 1921. At the time of their marriage, Raymond Warlick was General Freight Agent for the Lawndale Railway and Industrial Company of Lawndale. Several years after they were married, Myrtle Hartman Warlick became a clerk in the railroad freight office and gave much general assistance in the daily operation of the railroad.

Myrtle Hartman Warlick was the charter treasurer of the Lawndale Woman's Club, which was organized in 1941. She served as club president from 1945-1947. She was also a charter member of the Piedmont Home Demonstration Club in Lawndale and of its predecessor club sponsored by Cleveland Mill and Power Company. Myrtle and Raymond Warlick lived in Lawndale from 1921 to 1936, where their three sons, R.A., Jr., Bobby B., and Teddy D. were born. In 1936, they built a home located about one mile west of Lawndale, at Palmtree United Methodist Church, where they became lifelong members. Mrs. Warlick was given a Life Membership Pin by the Woman's Society of Christian Service in the Palmtree Church.

— R.A. Warlick, Jr.

THE OCTAVIA NEWTON WARLICK FAMILY — DESCENDANTS OF CAPTAIN BENJAMIN NEWTON

1073

According to the "Captain Benjamin Newton — William Downs and Other Lineage History" compiled and written by Rev. Posey Downs in wound. When the war was over, he returned to Cleveland County and married Sara Ann Falls, the daughter of Thomas Dixon Falls of the Double Shoals community.

John T., the eldest son of Noah, the Civil War veteran with one leg, had to assume the operation of the family farm at an early age. He married a young enterprising Lincoln County teacher, Lily Amanda Hull, who was the daughter of Tillman and Mary Wehunt Hull. She was an ambitious woman who wanted the best for her family — a college degree and graduate school for each child. This she accomplished. She and her husband opened their first general mercantile store in 1921. The second store was opened in 1936 with their son, John T. Warlick, Jr., The Warlick Company in Casar. By November 1938, Warlick's Department Store was opened in Clover, South Carolina, by John T. Warlick, Jr., Pauline Mace Warlick, and Mabel Warlick Kroll.

Although the stores and farms in upper Cleveland and York, South Carolina, had become successful ventures. Lily Warlick did not retire until she was 79 years old. Although they no longer traveled extensively as they had in earlier years, she learned to drive, and they drove to Florida for the winters.

The children of John T. and Lily Warlick are: Selma Warlick who married Harry W. Warner and lives in Setauket, Long Island, New York. They have one son, David Warlick Warner of Geneva, Switzerland. He married June Longfellow of Davenport, Iowa, and they have three children — Cynthia, Daniel, and Derek Warner.

A son, Fred Hull Warlick died in infancy. Mary Beth Warlick married Ralph Miller Brackett who is deceased. Formerly of Charlotte, she now resides in upper Cleveland on part of the Old Warlick Homestead. Her son, Robin Brackett married Nancy Lancaster of Burlington and they have two children, Noah Warlick and Christine Brackett.

John T. Warlick, Jr., married Pauline Mace and they live in York, South Carolina. They have three sons. Dr. John Thomas Warlick III of Gastonia married Barbara MacCackin. Their children are John Thomas Warlick IV and Catherine Warlick. Frank Mace Warlick lives in Charlotte and married Janie Stethens of Charleston, West Virginia. They have three children — Ashley, Cameron, and Piper Warlick. The third son, Hal Jerome Warlick lives in Pickens, South Carolina. He married Mary Stowe and they have two children, Wendy and Ginger Warlick.

The youngest daughter, Mabel Warlick married Robert Edwin Kroll of Sturgis, Michigan. They formerly lived in Miami, Florida, but have recently retired and moved to Boone. Their son, Robert Edwin Kroll II married Patricia Guido Miller and they reside in Miami, Florida.

Sources: A Genealogy of the Warlick Family, Alfred C. Warlick, Sr., Gastonia, N.C.; North Carolina Department of Archives and History, Raleigh, N.C.; D.A.R. Genealogical Library, Washington, D.C.; The Family Bible of the late John Thomas Warlick.

— Mabel Kroll

MYRTLE MARY HARTMAN WARLICK

1072

Myrtle Mary Hartman, born February 9, 1903, is the daughter of Quincy Hartman and Sarah Elizabeth Johnson Hartman. Quincy Hartman, born December 12, 1878, was married on August 28, 1898 to Sarah Elizabeth Johnson, born December 23, 1879. They lived in Belwood, North Carolina, where all of their twelve children were born. Quincy Hartman, lifelong farmer and carpenter, died November 3, 1961, and Sarah Elizabeth Johnson Hartman died June 5, 1968; both are buried in the cemetery of Knob Creek United Methodist Church in Belwood.

Myrtle Hartman's paternal grandparents were John H. Hartman, born April 23, 1846, and Nancy Pool Hartman, born September 1, 1833. Their license to be married was issued by the Cleveland County Court of Pleas and Quarter Sessions on May 30, 1867. John H. Hartman was a member of Company C of the Needlework of Hartman Coat-of-Arms made by Mrs. Raymond Aubrey Warlick when she was seventy years of age.

1953, all the Newtons who ever lived in the general Casar (Upper Cleveland) area were and are the descendants of Captain Benjamin Newton.

It is also stated by Rev. Downs that the ancestors of the Newtons crossed over the English Channel in 1066 with William The Conqueror from the Normandy area of France. Six centuries later the name Newton could be found among the early settlers.

According to the Veterans Administration, Washington, D.C., Benjamin Newton was born in York County, Pennsylvania on February 3, 1748. He came to North Carolina and settled in Tryon County — this was later divided by the Legislature to form Lincoln and Rutherford Counties. He entered the army during the American Revolution, achieving the rank of captain.

On January 24, 1775, he married Nancy McCall, daughter of John McCall of Orange County, N.C., and in 1802 moved to Rutherford County — that part which is now Cleveland County. They had twelve children: June, Elizabeth, Ebenezer, Patsy or Patience, Mary (Polly), John McCall, Margaret (Peggy), Benjamin, Jr. George, Nancy, Cynthia, & Calvin. Capt. Newton died Feb. 20, 1835 at the age of 87. His wife died May 12, 1835 at the age of 85. They are buried in the Old Clover Hill Methodist Church Cemetery.

My great-great-grandfather was John McCall Newton, the sixth child of Captain Benjamin Newton. According to records in the Rutherfordton Courthouse, he was married to Jenny or Jane Erwood (Earwood, Wood, or Arrowood — the writing is not legible.) Nine children were born to them: John A. ("One-Legged John"), B.B. (Captain Ben), Sarah, Jane, Fannie, Susan, Catherine, Ruth, and Nancy.

One of these children, B.B. ("Captain Ben") Newton, was my great-grandfather. He served with Company F, 34th N.C. Infantry Regiment of the Confederate States of America. He married Millie Norman and they had seven children: Thomas, Susan, Robert, B. Frank, John A., Sarah, and Mary. (The name "Captain Ben" could have been given to him to distinguish him from the many Ben or Benjamin Newtons of his day.)

Of these children, John A. Newton was my grandfather. He married Ellen Canipe, Daughter of John and Rhody Newton Canipe. They were the parents of nine children: Ausney T., Octavia, D. Clarence, Essie Matilda, Alexander, Lula, Hattie, J. Cline, and Frank M. Octavia Newton was my mother. She married Andrew Carlo Warlick, son of John and Catherine Eaker Warlick. Five children were born to them: Lula (1902-), Minnie (1904-1973), Frank (1906-1941), Ora (1905-1981), and Ruby (1909-1951).

Minnie Warlick married James William Osborne, son of Dr. Ruffin and Texie Lattimore Osborne. Minnie taught school for approximately 49 years at what was once known as the South Shelby School, where she was loved and admired by her many students and friends. She was a member of Central Methodist Church in Shelby and was active in both civic and religious work.

Ora Warlick married John Stowe of Kings Mountain. She worked for many years at the old "State Theater. She was a member of the First Baptist Church in Shelby where she met and maintained many friends who stood by her during her illness.

Ruby Warlick married Guy Carlan of Shelby. They had one surviving son, Philip, who now lives in Chicago.

Frank Warlick was unmarried and died at the age of 35. During the late 1920's and early 1930's he played banjo with local groups which would now be known as "country music". He was nicknamed "Bus".

I, Lula Warlick, married Lawson C. Walker, son of Jim (James) and Nancy Jenkins Walker in 1918. We bought a farm in the 1920's and somehow survived the Great Depression of the 1930's. We had five children listed below according to date of birth: Mazel Walker married N. Joseph Wright, son of Albert and Dillie Willis Wright of Fallston. Mazel is presently employed as Guidance Counselor at Burns High School in Lawndale, N.C. Joe is self-employed. They have one son, Joseph Walker Wright, who practices veterinary medicine at the Cottonwood Veterinary Clinic. He is married to Linnie Brooks Wright who teaches at Graham School in Shelby.

Geraldine Walker married William Christopher and is employed by the City of Shelby. She has one son, Stephen Christopher who is presently employed by Pneumafil Corporation of Charlotte, N.C.

James Walker married Doris McMurry, daughter of Laverne and Delphia Byers McMurry. James is a teacher at Crest Hill School, while Doris works for Arr-Bee Enterprises. They have two sons: Gary Walker, who is married to Kathy Hamrick. They live in Charlotte and are employed as teachers with the Charlotte School System. Philip Walker, the youngest son, married Suzanne Whisnant of Polkville. Philip is employed by PPG Industries of Shelby.

Donald Walker married Pauline ("Polly") Eckard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Perry Eckard of Conover, N.C. Donald is employed by the City of Shelby — Polly by Fasco Industries. They have one daughter, Brenda who married Julian Parker III of Fayetteville, N.C. Brenda is employed by the Charleston, S.C. Medical School as a researcher while her husband "Jay" is employed by the College of Charleston Chemistry Department. They have one daughter, Elizabeth.

Raymond Walker married Rosetta London, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Everett London of Polkville. Raymond is a teacher at Burns High School in Lawndale, N.C.; Rosetta teaches at Fallston Elementary School in Fallston. They have two sons, David and Kenneth Walker who attend school at Burns Jr. High School

— Mrs. Lula Walker

OSCAR VANCE WARLICK

1074

Oscar Vance Warlick was born to Samuel Monroe Warlick Sept. 22, 1849 d. Dec. 23, 1938 and Frances Wood Warlick b. Dec. 5, 1853 d. Feb. 4, 1918. Lela Warlick, the eldest, married Zimri Kistler. Hattie Warlick, married Rev. N. Graham Bethea who was a methodist minister for many years. Oscar Vance, was born Dec. 5, 1877, died May 6, 1968 and lived at the Samuel homeplace all his life.

After Frances died, Samuel married Lizzie Towery. Their children were twins, Christine and Samuel Eugene Warlick b. May 16, 1924. Eugene married Naomi Stone b. May 26, 1925, and is a State Farm Insurance salesman in Shelby. Christine married Willie Costner b. May 20, 1927 who operates a chain of furniture stores.

Oscar married Laura Alice Dixon (b. Aug. 6, 1879 d. May 3, 1951), the daughter of "Little Tom" Dixon and Mary Catherine Allen Dixon.

Samuel owned and operated the first cotton gin in upper Cleveland County on his farm. Oscar farmed and helped operate the gin. He was witty and had a tale for every occasion. He took great pride in his July fox dogs, and with his friends spent many hours on the hillsides fox hunting. Oscar and Laura were active in the church and believed in education. They furnished transportation for the children to attend Piedmont School at Lawndale (four miles south). To Oscar and Laura were born the following: Ruby Estelle b. Feb. 6, 1908, graduated from High Point College with a B.S. Degree in Home Economics. She taught Home Economics At Piedmont and Casar schools until 1941. In 1948 she opened a kindergarten in her home until 1974. On March 18, 1938 she married Taft S. Putnam b. Oct. 17, 1908. A Graduate of U.N.C. Chapel Hill, he taught English at Piedmont High School from 1935 to 1943 when he was appointed Postmaster in Lawndale. He retired in 1973. Their Children are Rebecca Warlick Putnam b. April 13, 1941 married David Conrad Beam B. March 1, 1938. Rebecca graduated from Appalachian State University with an A.B. degree Cum Laude. She taught fourth grade at Marion in Shelby. Their children: Susan Rebecca Beam b. July 1, 1966. Barbara Ann Beam b. May 23, 1969, and Jonathan David b. Dec. 8, 1970. Their second child, Laura Kathryn Putnam b. Sept. 16, 1942 graduated from Appalachian State University with an A.B. degree. She married Lonnie Dale Martin b. June 1, 1941. She teaches second grade at South in Gastonia. Their children are Laura Ellen Martin b. April 20, 1967, Beth Michelle Martin b. Feb. 20, 1969, and Matthew Dale Martin b. April 23, 1970.

Robert Dixon Putnam b. Dec. 30, 1946 graduated from Appalachian State University with an A.B. degree in P.E. and Health. He has taught in Cleveland County Schools since graduation and is now teaching P.E. and Health in Burns Jr. High School and coaches football and Golf. He is married to Marilyn Dycus and they have two children: Robert Dixon Putnam, Jr. b. Nov. 3, 1973 and Deniece Tanya Putnam, b. July 15, 1975.

Harvey Sam Warlick b. Mar. 28, 1909 married Pearl Gold Cornwell b. Feb. 6, 1909. He graduated from High Point College with an A.B. Degree. After teaching school and coaching several years he moved to Raeford where he operates a store and mill. He is an avid golfer and belongs to the Senior Golfers Assn. Their Children are Barbara Cornwell b. May 2, 1938, (graduated from Wake Forest University and taught English in High School); Barbara married Richard Alton Johnston b. July 15, 1934. Their children are Laura Elizabeth Johnston, b. May 30, 1963, and Catherine Ann Johnston, b. June 23, 1964. Elizabeth is a student at Meredith College.

Laura Judith Warlick, b. Oct. 13, 1941, married Charles Samuel Byers, b. July 19, 1940. She graduated from High Point College. Their children are Warlick Laine Byers b. Apr. 12, 1965, Julie Dawn Byers b. Oct. 6, 1966, Sam Russell Byers b. Mar. 21, 1969, and Charles Brandon Byers, b. Nov. 2, 1970.

Samuel Dixon Warlick, b. May 1, 1945 was active in all sports in Raeford High School. He was selected to play in the North-South Shrine Bowl game. He attended N.C. State University. While there he volunteered for the U.S. Marine Corp. He was killed in action on Nov. 30, 1967. His body rests in Raeford.

James (Jim) Graham Warlick b. Feb. 11, 1912 married Evelyn Fowler b. May 19, 1913. Jim graduated from High Point College. After teaching and coaching for several years, he operated an FCX store and mill, The Washam and Warlick FCX Firm in Whiteville, N.C. until he retired in 1978. He enjoys fishing and golf. Their children are: James Graham Warlick II b. Jan. 30, 1940. He married Harriett Heywood. After graduating from Wake Forest and earning his M.A. degree from East Carolina University he has been teaching in Whiteville. He and Harriet play organ and piano in Whiteville Baptist Church. Their children are Elizabeth, b. Dec. 20, 1971 and James Graham Warlick III b. July 24, 1975.

Flora Frances Warlick, b. July 23, 1941, graduated from Whiteville High School. She works in the Children's Dept. in Whiteville Bapt. Church.

Carol Anne Warlick, b. Mar. 8, 1944, married Colin Thorn from England. She graduated from Agnes Scott College and received an M.A. degree at U.N.C. Chapel Hill. Their children are Stephen Reginald Thorn b. Mar. 6, 1976 and Jeffrey Graham Thorn, b. Feb. 24, 1978. Colin came to the U.S. and earned a P.H.D. in Geomorphology from U.N.C. Chapel Hill. He teaches at the University of Illinois.

Mary Frances Warlick b. June 28, 1916 married Thomas Alexander Lattimore b. Aug. 28, 1914. She graduated from High Point College with a B.S. degree in music. She is Music director and organist for Lattimore Baptist Church. She teaches music in the Lattimore School. Her husband owns and operates a farm in Lattimore. Their children are:

John Broadus II b. Feb. 6, 1942, married Joan Cline. Their son, John Edley, b. May 19, 1970. His second wife, Mildred Fray Lattimore, b. Sept. 4, 1944. Their children are Alexander Yancey, b. June 24, 1977 and William Lee Lattimore, b. Oct. 22, 1979. John graduated from Gardner Webb College. He farms and raises beef cattle.

Martha Warlick Lattimore, b. Feb. 6, 1945 graduated from Westminster Choir College in Princeton, N.J. She received a scholarship from the Metropolitan Opera in New York City to study. She also received a Fulbright Scholarship to study in Vienna.

Thomas Alexander Lattimore Jr. b. Dec. 2, 1950 graduated from Furman University majoring in voice. He also studied in California for two summers with the opera singer, Singer. He studied voice in Philadelphia with Wayne Conners.

— Mrs. T.S. Putnam

RAYMOND AUBRY WARLICK

1075

Raymond Aubrey Warlick, son of Abram Clarence and Minnie Carpenter Warlick, b. March 11, 1900, near the present location of Pleasant Hill United Methodist Church in northern Cleveland County, was a seventh generation Warlick in the county. His ancestry is traced through his grandfather John Francis Warlick to his great-great-great-great-great grandfather Martin Warlick, who lived and died in Germany. Johann Daniel Warlick, son of Martin Warlick, came to America on the ship Morehouse and landed at Philadelphia, Pa. in August, 1729. Daniel Warlick lived in Lancaster County, Pa. for some years before he moved to Lincoln County, N.C. in the late 1750's.

Raymond Aubrey Warlick attended Piedmont School at Lawndale in Cleveland County. When he had completed the business administration course of study he was named passenger agent of the Lawndale Railway and Industrial Company in July, 1920. After passenger service was terminated, he became General Freight Agent for the railroad and continued in that capacity until 1959. In the latter year he became president of the Lawndale Railway and Industrial Company and continued in that responsibility until his retirement in 1965.

Mr. Warlick was married to Myrtle Mary Hartman, daughter of Quincy and Elizabeth Johnson Hartman of Belwood in northern Cleveland County on March 26, 1921. Their children were: Raymond A., Jr. b. February 25, 1924; Bobby Bryan, b. November 26, 1931; and Teddy Delano, b. October 14, 1933.

Mr. Warlick's church life was found in the Pleasant Hill United Methodist Church, organized in the 1880's on Warlick ancestral land in Needlework of Warlick Coat-of-Arms made by Mrs. Raymond Aubrey Warlick when she was seventy years of age.

northern Cleveland County, and later, when he moved his residence to Lawndale, in the Lawndale Union Church and finally in the Palmtree United Methodist Church.

He was a charter member of the Lawndale Lions Club and served as its secretary for a number of years. He also was the Lions district secretary under District-Governor M.I. Clark.

Mr. Warlick died on August 25, 1980, in Cleveland Memorial Hospital, Shelby, N.C.

— Bobby Warlick

WALTER THEODORE WARLICK 1076

Walter Theodore Warlick, b. August 27, 1890, d. December 20, 1973. Theodore attended Piedmont High School. He married Lessie Lawrence Downs, b. May 11, 1900, d. January 19, 1975, the daughter of Robert Kelley Downs and Rena Hull Downs of Casar. After his marriage he entered the service of World War I on August 6, 1916. He was sent overseas as a member of Company C, a pioneer infantry outfit, which was engaged in the Argonne sector when the war closed.

Back in Cleveland County, he became a well-known farmer of the Belwood Community. He was very active in all the affairs of the community. His beloved church, Norman's Grove, was rebuilt under his leadership. It has been said that was a monument of his dedication to his church. Their children are:

Robert Decatur, b. July 9, 1920; graduated from Belwood High School 1938 and N.C. State June, 1942 with a BS Degree in Agricultural Education. He married Blanche Elizabeth Peeler, daughter of Summy Alfred and Mattie Stamey Peeler; graduate of Belwood High School and Asheville Teachers College with a BS Degree in Education. Robert taught in Union County for two years and served in the US Navy 1944-1946. He then returned to Cleveland County in 1946 and taught thirty two years in the Cleveland County School system before retiring in 1978. He is active in county and community affairs and became the first mayor of Belwood (1978). Their children are: Sheila Lynn, b. June 20, 1949, graduate of Appalachian State University with a Masters from Georgia State in Atlanta; married Nelson Lee London; children are Seth and Rob. Roberta Ann, b. August 9, 1951, graduate of Appalachian State University; married Ralph Dixon, Jr. Their children are Christopher and Heather. Susan Elizabeth, b. July 7, 1956, graduate of Appalachian State University; married Mark Jolley.

Mary Lou, b. March 14, 1923, graduate of Belwood High School and attended Meredith College. She was a sales person for ready-to-wear clothing before establishing her own seamstress business. She married Fred DeLane Davis, son of Lawrence and Lula Rose Davis, a graduate from Watch Makers School in Winston Salem. He operates a jewelry store in Shelby. He served in the US Navy in the South Pacific during World War II. DeLane has served many years as Fire Chief with the Cleveland County Department and County Fire Marshall. Their children are: Fred DeLane Jr., b. April 28, 1952; graduate of Nashville Diesel School, married to Debra Hambright. Cynthis Ann, b. December 12, 1955, graduate of UNC at Greensboro.

Walter Theodore, Jr., b. August 12, 1925, graduated from Belwood High School, enlisted in the US Navy for three years during World War II. He attended Lenoir Rhyne College, Hickory, North Carolina, and later joined his father in a farming operation. He and his brother, Ray, own and operate a three-hundred acre dairy farm. He married Willa Mull, graduate of Belwood High School and Carolina Business School, Charlotte; the daughter of Sanford and Mary Tallent Mull. Their children are: Jane Rebecca, b. December 29, 1952, graduate of Limestone College; married Van Steen Moss, one daughter, Carrie. Lois Ruth, b. January 26, 1955, graduate of Piedmont Community College; married Donnie Sain, one son, Will. Gail Elaine, b. May 5, 1960, graduate of Wingate College. Beth Amanda, b. January 20, 1963, attending Western Carolina University.

Ella Cecelia, b. November 22, 1928, graduated from Belwood High School and Appalachian State University with a degree in Physical Education. She taught five years in the Lenoir City Schools. She married Perkin Douglas Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Sidney Miller of Lenoir. He was a partner in the Miller Concrete Company of Lenoir until retirement. Their children are: John Warlick, b. September 17, 1956, graduate of NC State University. Nancy, b. August 31, 1959, graduate of NC State University.

Ray Lawrence, b. February 3, 1931, graduated from Belwood High School, and was called into service in the Army August 1954. He served eighteen months in the Hawaiian Islands. He and his brother, Walter, operate a large dairy farm. He married Marilyn Martin, daughter of Grier and Eloise Royster Martin of Fallston, North Carolina. Their children are: Ray Lawrence, Jr., b. July 7, 1954, married Cynthia Hoyle. Terry Lane, b. August 8, 1957, graduate of Catawba Valley Technical Institute; married Sherry Bolick.

Troy Franklin, b. January 29, 1933, graduated from Belwood High School and played professional baseball in Lincoln, North Carolina for two years. He served in the US Army for twenty-one months in Germany. He married Ella Ann Pruett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Noah Pruett of Casar. Ann took nurses training in the Shelby Hospital School of Nurses. Troy worked for P.P.G. Industries, and is now self-employed with his welding shop. Their children are: Kathy Lynn, b. June 8, 1954; married Buddy Oliver, and their children are Ernest and Jared. Miriam Frances, b. March 13, 1957. Mary Jeanne, b. March 13, 1959, graduate of Western Carolina University; married Keith Shufford.

Margaret Ann, b. December 19, 1935, graduated from Belwood High School and Appalachian State University with a Masters Degree in Physical Education. She earned her Ph D from the University of Mississippi. She is Associate Professor and head of Women's Athletics at East Texas State University of Commerce, Texas. She has been elected to the National Executive Committee of the National Association of InterCollegiate Athletics. She married Jack Waters and they had one son, Jack, Jr. She is now married to Paul Harbison.

Phyllis Jane, b. December 15, 1938, graduated from Belwood High School. She married Robert Edward Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Banks Miller of Fallston, North Carolina. He is a supervisor with Western Electric in Charlotte, North Carolina. Their children are: Patricia Jane, b. December 8, 1956, graduate of UNCC of Charlotte; married Mike Mayberry. Vickie, b. July 15, 1959.

Sources: The book of Daniel Warlick

— Robert D. Warlick

CHARLES GABRIEL WASHBURN

1077

Charles Gabriel Washburn was the son of Abram Washburn and Rebecca Durham. Abram was born May 23, 1798 and died on September 14, 1874. Rebecca was born February 7, 1803 and died on July 7, 1873. Charles Gabriel was the grandson of Gabriel Washburn and Pricilla McSwain Washburn and Charles Durham and Patience Davis Durham of Sandy Run.

Charles Gabriel Washburn was born on June 18, 1826 on the farm now owned by G.A. Adams. He was first married to Earsley Walker. She lived only one year.

Charles Gabriel Washburn and Sarah Schenck Crowder were united in Holy Matrimony at the home of Allen Crowder on the 5th day of October in the year of our Lord 1854. Sarah Schenck Crowder was the daughter of Allen Crowder and Phobie Grigg of Polkville.

Charles Gabriel Washburn's home was where the present PPG Plant is located. At that time Washburn Switch was called DePew. He served in the Civil War as a prison guard at Salisbury, N.C. and was a very successful farmer. They were the parents of sixteen children. Their children were:

1. Willard Winslow — born July 2, 1855, married Eliza Harrill;
2. Rebecca Hessentine born August 20, 1856, married Cleophus Hamrick;
3. Phoebe Adeline — born January 14, 1858, married George Washington Hamrick;
4. Abram Chauncey — born February 22, 1859, married first to Roseline Harrill and second to A. Estella Hamrick;
5. Seaton Allen — born May 27, 1860, married Mintie M. Ham-

Front: Ray, Jr., and Kathy Warlick; Back: Lessie and Theodore Warlick.

6. John Thomas — born May 10, 1862, died March 25, 1866;
7. Chivus Avanosé — born November 11, 1863, married Hessentine Irvin;
8. Charles Beatty — born June 20, 1866, died August 31, 1867;
9. Margaret Jane — born June 18, 1867, married George Washington Stockton;
10. Doctor William — born May 8, 1869, married Catherine Briscoe;
11. Patience Priscilla — born October 21, 1870, first married Joseph Cabiness, second to Sidney Hill Hamrick;
12. H.I. (Hone) — born March 27, 1872, married Hannah McMurry;
13. Dennis Gordon — born April 16, 1874, married Ella Hamrick;
14. Cora Schenck — born June 7, 1877, married Coleman Doggett;
15. Minnie Victoria — born August 19, 1878, died June 21, 1880;
16. James Broudis — born March 23, 1880, died April 15, 1901.

Most of Charles Gabriel Washburn's children lived in the Washburn Switch, Lattimore, Shelby area. His son Abram Chauncey moved to Macon Georgia about 1912 and was a very successful lumberman. His descendants still live there. Doctor William (Dock) lived in Newport News, Virginia.

Charles Gabriel Washburn died March 23, 1896. His wife died April 6, 1905. They are buried at Double Springs Church.

Sources: Family Bible, census and cemetery records, and Joe C. Washburn records.

— Joe Stockton

GABRIEL WASHBURN

1078

In what is now Cleveland County, near Beaver Dam Creek, in a family graveyard surrounded by pipe fence lie the remains of Gabriel Washburn and his wife Priscilla.

Gabriel was born October 12, 1752 and died January 8, 1826. Other records are in his Bible which is here in Cleveland County. Much of the ink has faded dates, but by foresight some have been preserved by use of a copying machine years ago. The family Bible came down through Susanna Washburn Harrill, a daughter. One of her great-granddaughters married a great-grandson of Abram Washburn, so it is still in Washburn hands. Susanna and Abram were two of Gabriel's seventeen children, fourteen of which are named in his will. The other three children died in infancy. A great number of descendants can trace back to Gabriel through at least three of his children: Martha, Susanna, and Abram. Many of the descendants are eighth generations. As far as we know, research has not yet revealed the birthplace of Gabriel.

Charles Gabriel and Sarah Crowder Washburn — 1896.

The following is a copy of the will of Gabriel Washburn, September 12, 1822, on file in Rutherford County Courthouse:

"In the name of God. Amen.

"I Gabriel Washburn of Rutherford County No. Carolina being of sound and perfect mind and memory (blessed be God) do this twelfth day of September in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and twenty two make and publish this my last will and testament in manner following that is to say.

"First: I give and bequeath to my daughter Mary Davis five dollars to be paid by my executors in twelve months after my decease. "Secondly: I give and bequeath to my daughter Elizabeth Morris five dollars to be paid as aforesaid.

"Thirdly: I give and bequeath to Thomas Martin Junr. and the four children he had by my daughter Rhoda his wife who is since dead five dollars to be paid as aforesaid.

"Fourthly: I give and bequeath to my daughter Martha Harrill five dollars to be paid as aforesaid.

"Fifthly: I give and bequeath to my son Josiah Washburn one horse bridle and saddle two cows and calves one featherbed and furniture to be delivered when needed.

"Sixthly: I give and bequeath to my beloved wife Priscilla Washburn all my estate real and personal during her life or widowhood otherwise to have a childs part also to have the privilege to sell 'swap or convey any part of my property whatever except my lands and two negro girls Polly and Rachel with their increase.

"Seventhly: At the death of my wife or marriage I give and bequeath to my son Abraham Washburn three hundred acres of land by estimation to be run off the No. Est. side of my land above Dills branch joining lands of Martin Elliott, Richard Covington and Charles Durham and my line, also the aforesaid negro girl Polly with her increase if any.

"Eightly: At the death or marriage of my wife I give and bequeath to my son Josiah before mentioned all the ballance of my real estate, also the aforesaid negro girl Rachel and her increase if any a still and vessels belonging thereto with my tight casks, also a pair of chain traces and harness, one pole axe and mattox two ploughs one weeding hoe and all my farming carpenter tools.

"Ninthly: At the death of my wife I give and bequeath all my personal estate to my following children Is. to John Washburn, Thomas Washburn, Sarah Laws, Reuben Washburn, Margaret Laws, Gabriel Washburn, Lewraner McSwain, Susannah Harrill, Abram Washburn and Josiah Washburn to be equally divided among them, and I hereby make and ordain my beloved wife Priscilla Washburn and my sons Abraham and Josiah Washburn my executrix and executors of this my last will and testament.

"In witness thereof I Gabriel Washburn have to this my last will and testament set my hand and seal the day and year above written,

"Signed sealed and declared by the sd. Gabriel Washburn (Gabriel's mark) seal.

"Testator as his last will and testament in the presence of us who were present at the signing and sealing thereof"

Archilles Durham Jun (Jurat)
Farmer Moore (Jurat)
John Moore

Gabriel's descendatns, like the Israelites of old, are as the "sands of the sea."

— Mrs. Mary Wilson

JESSE HEYWOOD WASHBURN 1079

Born July 27, 1900 in Lattimore, N.C., Jesse Washburn was the only son of Hannah Elizabeth McMurry and Hone Illiff Washburn. Orphaned at an early age, he was reared by his grandfather, Jesse Jenkins McMurry and step-grandmother Mrs. Hessie Gardner McMurry. His only sister, Mrs. Hannah Robinson was reared by an uncle and aunt, Mr. & Mrs. Debro Wilkins of Shelby. After attending Shelby public schools, he attended Georgia Military Academy and North Carolina State University.

He returned to Shelby after two years in the lumber business in Macon, Georgia and became a cotton broker, in business with his grandfather and two uncles.

On June 14, 1928, he was married to Edna Earle Jordan of Hartsville, S.C. In July, 1929, they moved to High Point, N.C. where he and J.J. McMurry, also from Shelby were partners as Gulf Oil distributors. The Washburn Oil Company was organized.

The Washburns three children are, Margaret Jordan — born October 2, 1929; Jesse Heywood Washburn, Jr. — born January 26, 1931; Albert Jordan Washburn — born July 2, 1936. They were all born in High Point, N.C.

Margaret who is married to James Maynard Randle, lives in High Point, N.C. Their children are Margaret Wells, Julie Jordan and James Maynard, Jr.

Jesse Heywood, Jr. married Sue Thomas and they live in Tupelo, Mississippi. Their children are Murphy Thomas, Jesse Heywood, III (deceased) and Emily Ann.

Albert Jordan married Wilma Lou Snipes of Menola, N.C. Their children are Lou Wilson, and twins; Albert Jordan, Jr. and Jesse Heywood, II. They live in High Point, N.C.

The Washburns, both Baptist, were affiliated with First Baptist soon after moving to High Point. Mr. Washburn became active in church, political and community affairs. He served as Director of the Board, Member of the American Business Club, Member of the Chamber of Commerce, Co-chairman of the United Appeal, Co-chairman of Financial Drive to raise $350,000 for a new YWCA, a member of Rotary Club, received the Paul Harris Fellowship Award. He was active in the Cancer Society in High Point and the State. He served as Crusade Chairman; he was a member of BPOE Shrine Ancient Free and Accepted Masor. He was a charter member of the American Legion Post in Shelby, a veteran of World War I having served in the Navy, a member of the Navy League. He was a charter member of Emerywood Baptist which was constituted May 20, 1956. A group of 41 members from First Baptist saw the need for a residential church. He served as a trustee and was active in both Sunday School and church.

He was a very loyal democrat, reared in Shelby and influenced by such prominent Democrats as Governor Max Gardner and Clyde Hoey. This interest continued after moving to High Point.

He served four years on the High Point City Council and four years as Mayor from 1958-1962. He declined the offer of his party to seek another term.

His administration was far sighted and some outstanding progress was made in these years. The city annexed 26 square miles bringing into the city 20,000 residents. By this expansion, the city was able to provide services for many new industries that they were not able to offer before. The most important aspect of this acquisition was to create and insure an adequate water supply for generations to come.

A very beautiful recreational park was developed including a golf course, a tennis complex, camping and picnic facilities. The lake provides boating, fishing and annually the national boat races are held here. The large dam that contains this lake is named "The Jesse Heywood Washburn Dam."

One way streets, a much needed change, was enacted into law. Also a retirement plan for city employees was begun in his administration.

After retirement, the Washburns sold their 113 Brantley Circle home and bought an apartment at the Presbyterian Home in High Point, N.C.

Mr. Washburn died March 10, 1978 in the North Carolina Baptist Hospital in Winston-Salem. He is interred at Floral Garden Cemetery in High Point.

— Edna Jordan Washburn

Jesse Heywood Washburn

JOE CHAUNCEY WASHBURN 1080

Joe Chauncey Washburn had little formal education, but he made good use of that he did have. Born on November 6, 1880 and married to Estilla (Tillie) McSwain on March 21, 1906, he became the father of 14 children, 33 grandchildren, and 27 great grandchildren during their married life of over 67 years. Eleven of the children reached adulthood and are living as of this writing. He and his wife were regular students of the Bible and studied with their children, encouraging them to take advantage of their educational opportunities. He especially stressed the use of the dictionary for studying school and Sunday School lessons.

Hard work, self-reliance, honesty, concern for others, and cooperation were constant examples before the children and community in which he lived. He devoted his life to his family, his church, the school, the community, and Gardner-Webb College.

"Mr. Joe," as he was affectionately called, lived a disciplined life and early became a tither. Some weeks before his 21st birthday as he placed his usual penny in the offering plate on Sunday morning, the picture of a nickel flashed in his mind, the nickel he had recently been spending to buy a pack of cigarettes each week. From that point on he resolved that as of his 21st birthday he would never smoke again, and that if he could afford a nickel a week for that which did him no good, he could surely afford to double that amount for the Lord each week. For the rest of his life he faithfully gave the tithe and more and gave up smoking.

He was often referred to as the man with "nine" lives due to several accidents that occurred in which he miraculously escaped or survived:

He was run over by a wagon.

A chimney fell on him.

During the repair of a bridge he was literally buried alive.

Poison used in a house for treating sweet potatoes rendered him unconscious.

His car stalled on a railroad track with a train coming.

Mr. Joe was a planner, a man of action. Fortunately or unfortunately, he was born with a speech impediment, but he compensated for this in so many ways. He developed and improved land that was eroded and full of gullies into productive and cultivatable land, being the first man in Cleveland County to produce over 245 bushels of corn per acre. He installed the first generator to provide electricity in his community. He pioneered in the development of pure bred Jersey cattle and purchased one of the first milking machines in the area. Unlike many farmers in the community who majored on one crop, cotton, he diversified his crops, terracing, planting legume and cover crops to improve the soil and increase yield. When there was disagreement or strife among his neighbors, he was often called upon by them to render his opinion and they usually followed his judgment. He felt most things could be settled out of court.

Although he was a sawmill man, a dairyman and farmer, he was engaged in many activities. He found time to serve on the Lattimore School Board, the Federal Land Bank, Mooresboro Creamery, Lattimore Telephone service (before Southern Bell), Eagle Roller Mill Company, taught a Sunday School Class, served on the jury many times, served as a deacon, assisted in locating and digging graves, served on the Building and Grounds Committee of his church, setting out trees, shrubs, and landscaping to beautify the grounds.

His research and keen interest in his family tree led many people to his door for assistance, information and facts about their families. He spent a great deal of time in searching court house records, libraries, and cemeteries in order to collect and present to Gardner-Webb College pictures and data on all the trustees of the original board from the Kings Mountain and Sandy Run Baptist Associations and to Double Springs Baptist Church all of her pastors since its organization in 1844. He served on the Board of Trustees of Gardner-Webb College from 1933 to 1946.

Several years before his death, he expressed a desire to "go" when the crepe myrtles were in bloom, "but not this year," he said. His wish was granted in 1973. He died on August 7 and the crepe myrtles, which he had set out along the roadway leading to the church, were in bloom.

— Mrs. Dorothy W. Edwards

W. WYAN WASHBURN, M.D. 1081

Born June 22, 1912, in Cleveland County, North Carolina in the Double Springs-Washburn Switch Community near Lattimore, North Carolina, he was the fourth child of fourteen born to Joe C. and Estilla McSwain Washburn.

His intensive schooling began at Double Springs Elementary School and he was graduated from Lattimore High School in 1929. He received the B.S. degree from Wake Forest University in 1934.

From 1939 to 1941 he was a student in the Wake Forest Medical School and went from there to Jefferson Medical College in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, where he was granted the M.D. degree in 1943. He served an internship at North Carolina Baptist Hospital, Winston-Salem, in 1943. Post graduate study was done at both Duke and Cornell Universities.

Wyan was in the United States Army Medical Corps from December of 1943 until August of 1946, serving as physician to the 214th Field Artillery in Germany and as Group Surgeon at the dispensary at Fort Bragg, North Carolina. Following army service he came back to his native county of Cleveland where his professional life has been long and varied.

He served as attending physician for Gardner-Webb College, Boiling Springs, North Carolina 1946-1980 and helped to found and operate the Gardner-Webb College Community Health Center in 1946.

In 1949 he helped to found Royster Memorial Hospital in Boiling Springs and served for many years as its administrator. In 1977 it moved to a new building and became Crawley Memorial Hospital. He took an active part in this project.

For a while Wyan was chief of staff for Cleveland Memorial Hospital in Shelby, North Carolina. His specialities have been General Practice and Family Medicine. He has delivered about 3,000 babies.

He is a member and former chairman of the Cleveland County Medical Society, the North Carolina Medical Society, the Southern Medical Association, and the American Medical Association; at one time serving this group as Chairman of the Rural Health Committee. He is also a member of the American Academy of General Practice.

After this varied service he retired from medical practice December 31, 1980.

His talents and dedication have found many other outlets. He was a Boy Scout, an Eagle Scout, a Scoutmaster, and served on the Scout Troup Committee for more than 50 years.

He was a reporter, Sports Editor, and News Editor for the Shelby Daily Star, Shelby, North Carolina, from 1934 to 1939. He served as Medical Editor for The Progressive Farmer for ten years, and is the author of Canaan in Carolina, a biography of the late Reverend John W. Suttle, a pioneer Baptist minister in Cleveland County, and in retirement is writing a history of the Kings Mountain Baptist Association.

Religion has been a large part of his life, having served Boiling Springs Baptist Church as a deacon, Sunday School teacher, and member of the building committee. For years he has been Historian for the Kings Mountain Baptist Association.

For ten years he served as a trustee of Gardner-Webb College, on the Advisory Board, and is a former trustee of the North Carolina Homes for the Aging.

His civic responsibilities have included membership and presidency of the Boiling Springs Rotary Club. He helped to begin the Cleveland County Historical Museum and is a past president of the Cleveland County Historical Association.

He has been a member of the Town Council and the School Board of the town of Boiling Springs, also serving on the Planning Committee for Cleveland County Schools. He was a member of the Regional Planning Council for Cleveland, Gaston and Lincoln Counties.

In 1958-59 he and his wife took a year's leave to visit twenty countries in Africa, Asia and Europe. They worked three months as a physician-nurse team in a hospital in Ogbomoso, Nigeria under the auspices of the Southern Baptist Foreign Mission Board.

In 1966 he was a volunteer to Vietnam in Project Vietnam sponsored by the American Medical Association and the People to People Foundation. There he worked in a civilian hospital treating civilian war casualties.

September 10, 1944, Wyan married Emily Davis, R.N. of Earl, North Carolina and they have three sons.

David Bruce Washburn, Ph.D. in Nuclear Engineering, is teaching nuclear medicine at the University of North Carolina Medical School in Chapel Hill.

Paul Victor Washburn, Ph.D. in Psychology, is teaching psychology at the University of California, Los Angeles.

Phillip L. Washburn, B.A. from Wake Forest University, is now in the Graduate School of Philosophy at Columbia University, New York, New York.

Wyan's life, varied and busy, has been and continues to be a blessing to people in all walks of life in his native Cleveland County, and its influence has spread to many other areas around the world.

Sources: Family Bible.

— C.O. Greene

WILLARD WINSLOW WASHBURN

1082

Willard Winslow Washburn of the Double Springs community in Number 7 Township, was a man for all seasons, and in a full and productive lifetime became a strong family man, a good farmer, a devout churchman, a pioneer in education, and was known far and wide for his skill in folk medicine.

Winslow, or "Uncle Wins", as he was generally called, was born on July 2, 1855 and was reared in the near-poverty days of the Civil War and the Reconstruction period which followed the war. He was the son of Charles Gabriel Washburn, grandson of Abram Washburn and great-grandson of Gabriel Washburn, the first known Washburn to settle in western North Carolina.

Physically, he was a small to average size man of about five feet seven inches in height and weighed about 150 pounds. However, he was quite muscular, and his reputation for doing hard physical work was legendary in the community.

Winslow walked erect with a quick, firm step and could keep up the pace for hours. Following the custom for men in his day, he usually wore a mustache and a pointed well trimmed Vandyke type beard.

His temperament was mild and restrained, and he was not given to swearing or using foul language. His strongest expressions were "shucks" or "pshaw", but he often advised his children and grandchildren that "even a good man must at times express righteous indignation", if it becomes necessary to uphold a principle.

For many years he was a deacon, teacher and sexton of the Double Springs Baptist Church, and took a delight in improving the grounds, shrubbery, buildings and cemetery at that church.

At age 21 he married Eliza Jane Harrill and their eight children were Joe C., Coran, Maynard, A.V., Fred R., D. Purvis, Alma and Annie Lee, all now deceased.

In the fall of 1905 when the Kings Mountain Baptist Association met at Zoar church near Shelby, Winslow was a messenger who made the motion to establish a Christian school at Boiling Springs. That school is now Gardner Webb College.

Winslow was on the board of trustees of the high school for many years and made many contributions of time and money to it. He lived to see it become a prominent high school and college preparatory institution and helped it become a Junior College in 1928. Most of his children and scores of his descendants attended what is now Gardner Webb.

As a farmer, he was the first in his community to produce more than two bales of cotton per acre. Other "firsts" for him include: carbide (acetylene) lights, dutch flue for kitchen, cultivation of Himalaya blackberries, cultivation of celery, asparagus and grass nuts and

Remember . . .

Articles
Are Indexed
By
Article Numbers
. . . Not By
Page
Number

use of commercial fertilizer for garden and farm crops.

In the late twenties Winslow was elected to the Board of County Commissioners and part of his duties was the care and repair of roads, culverts and bridges of Townships No. 1, No. 2 and No. 7 on the west side of the county. He either did the work himself or contracted such repair or maintenance as was necessary.

Winslow's formal education stopped at about a third grade level, but he became a self-taught, self-educated man who read books, magazines, farm and religious journals and newspapers to an extent that he often passed for a college trained person. His interests encompassed religion, philosophy and history, as well as the natural sciences which came along with the advances in the agriculture of his day.

In his Bible study Winslow assigned himself the task of memorizing a verse of Scripture from some part of the Bible every day for more than 25 years. He had a very private "praying place" about 50 yards from his home and often spent an hour of prayer in seclusion.

During the influenza epidemics in 1917, 1918 and during any illness of his family or neighbors, Wins Washburn was soon there with home remedies such as hot turpentine stupes, liniment, hot teas, poultices, and a prayer. He had no drugs but he knew the value of pennyroyal, lion's tongue, and the boiled infusion of willow or birch bark for fever, or the use of certain clay or mud packs for ulcers and skin infections.

He set numerous simple fractures of bones and applied splints or slings as a doctor would do. There were no doctors in the community at that time.

Two mottoes ring in the ear of all who knew him: "Be above the average" and "Learn something new every day."

He died in August, 1933 and is buried at Double Springs church cemetery.

— Dr. Wyan Washburn

ALBERT G. WEATHERS

1083

Albert G. Weathers, son of William (Billy) Weathers and Cecelia Padgett (born Jan. 21, 1822, died Jan. 10, 1902), married Polly London (born Jan. 3, 1820, died Oct. 3, 1897). Both are buried in the Zion Baptist Church community, near Shelby in Cleveland County.

A. G. and Polly Weathers had a large family of nine children, all of whom were married, and the descendants of these children are prominent Cleveland County families and names today.

Harriett Weathers, b. 25 Jan. 1843, d. 8 Apr. 1878, married Rev. A. C. Irvin, b. 4 Feb. 1843, d. 8 Jan. 1926, buried Zion Baptist Church, Cleveland County.

Manda Etta Weathers, b. 14 Dec. 1850, d. 2 Dec. 1916, married Lawson B. Sweezy, b. 23 Aug. 1853, d. 31 Jan. 1891, buried New Bethel Baptist Church, Cleveland County.

Davaney Summie Weathers, b. 25 Sept. 1853, d. 4 Feb. 1933, married Josephine Sweezy, b. 20 Jun. 1858, d. 19 Mar. 1917, buried Mission Burial San Antonia, Texas.

Garmalla (Gorrah) Weathers, b. 15 Apr. 1855, d. 21 May 1904, married J. Matt Hord, b. 24 Jun. 1856, d. 23 Dec. 1921, buried Zion Baptist Church, Cleveland County.

William Yancy Weathers, b. 10 Mar. 1857, d. 23 Mar. 1927, married Amelia Eskridge, b. 15 Jun. 1855, d. 14 Oct. 1928, buried Zion Baptist Church, Cleveland County.

Albert Pinkney Weathers, b. 28 Mar. 1860, d. 22 Mar. 1933, married Amelia Octavia Nolan, b. 22 Sep. 1861, d. 18 Apr. 1942, buried Sunset Cemetery Shelby.

Josephine Weathers, b. , d. 1 Dec. 1931, married A. Sabe Hord, b. 4 Jan. 1844, d. 4 Aug. 1901.

Maggie Weathers, b. , d. , married John T. Poston, b. 5 Feb. 1850, d. 15 Feb. 1909, buried Zion Baptist Church, Cleveland County.

Emeline Weathers, b. , d. , married James A. Wesson, b. 6 Dec. 1836, d. 5 Jul. 1909, buried Zion Baptist Church, Cleveland County.

In his obituary from The Cleveland Star, of Jan. 15, 1902, it related he was a deacon for about 30 years at Zion Baptist Church. He was a gallant Confederate soldier and left a large family. The funeral was conducted by Rev. Tom Dixon and Rev. A. C. Irvin.

— Henry L. Weathers, Sr.

ALBERT PINKNEY WEATHERS

1084

Albert Pinkney Weathers (born March 28, 1860, died March 22, 1933), former mayor of Shelby and for years one of the city's leading citizens and builders, died in the Shelby hospital. His death was attributed to hardening of the arteries.

Mr. Weathers married Amelia Octavia Nolan (born Sept. 22, 1861, died Apr. 18, 1942). They had three children — J. Flay Weathers, prominent Forest City business man; Lee B. Weathers, publisher and editor of The Cleveland Star (later Shelby Daily Star); and Pearl, wife of H. Dixon Smith of Columbus, Ga.

He was the son of Albert G. Weathers and the grandson of William Weathers at whose home the first court in Cleveland County was held after the county was formed. Born in the Zion community of Cleveland County, he moved to Shelby at the time the Seaboard Railroad was being constructed. For a time, he operated a lumber and mill work plant, manufacturing chairs, tables and fencing. He was also a contractor and built many residences and business buildings in the city, furnishing the millwork for the Shelby cotton mills and supervising the erection of the Shelby hospital of which he was a trustee, helped build the First National Bank and other structures. For years he was associated with C. T. Hord in the hardware business, and was one of the organizers of the Farmers Hardware company here and at Forest City. He served as alderman in Shelby for 16 years and was elected mayor in 1925. While he was mayor, the modern city pump station was erected. He put down the city's first paved sidewalks, installed the first plate glass show windows and electric elevators.

In his business career, he was associated with numerous other Shelby enterprises. He served as president of the Ideal Ice and Fuel Company and was a director of the Cleveland Building and Loan Association. At all times, he was a public spirited citizen during the growth of the city from a small town into an important industrial and trading center.

— Henry L. Weathers, Sr.

HENRY LEE WEATHERS, SR.

1085

Henry Lee Weathers Sr. was born April 12, 1913 in Shelby, N. C., the sixth generation of direct descent to live in Cleveland County. His parents were Lee B. and Williewee Wiseman Weathers. His mother was from Danville, Va. and taught school for two years at Fallston, N. C. His father was publisher and editor of The Shelby Daily Star for 47 years.

Weathers attended Shelby High School and Duke University (1931-1935), where he was a member of Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity. He began working for The Shelby Daily Star in the fall of 1935 in the advertising department and was one of the original carrier boys when The Star started the carrier system. He later became circulation director and then business manager. After the death of his father in 1958, he became president and publisher of the Star Publishing Company.

Weathers was president of the Shelby Lions Club (1952-53); past president of the Cleveland County United Fund; secretary-treasurer of the Shelby Industrial Development Inc.; and a member of the Shelby Downtown Improvement committee (1972-76). He is a member of the Cleveland Country Club and North Lake Club.

He was president of the Printing Industries of the Carolinas in 1950-51. He is an elder in the Shelby Presbyterian Church and a director of the First National Bank of Shelby. He was president of the Associated Dailies of North Carolina in 1961.

In 1977-78 he was president of the Greater Shelby Chamber of Commerce, served 4 years as trustee of Cleveland Memorial Hospital and two years as president of the Cleveland County Historical Museum. He was district chairman of the Boy Scouts of America in 1971 and 1972 and has served on the Executive Council of the Piedmont Council Boy Scouts from 1973 to date. In 1974 he received the Silver Beaver Award, an outstanding Scout award. He has served 2 times on the Board of Advisors of Gardner-Webb College and at present is a member of that board. In 1965 Gov. Dan Moore appointed him to a six-year term on the North Carolina State Ports Authority.

Weathers served for three years in the U. S. Navy Reserve in World War II and was discharged a Lieutenant. In 1981-82 he served as president of the North Carolina Press Association.

On Jun. 6, 1939, Henry Lee Weathers Sr. married Lillie Taylor (b. Oct. 19, 1918 in Tarboro, N. C.). She is the daughter of James Brock Taylor, Asheville, N. C. (b. Jun. 16, 1888; d. Dec. 25, 1922) and Alice Thurston Pender of Tarboro (b. Jan. 19, 1894, --), who later married Judge Edwin Yates Webb on Oct. 29, 1928.

Henry Lee and Lillie have two children, Henry Lee Weathers Jr. (b. Feb. 19, 1945) and James Yates Weathers (b. Oct. 21, 1948). Henry Jr. married Jacqueline Greene and they have two children: Henry Lee Weathers III (Tripp) (b. Jan. 30, 1970), and Jacqueline Anne (Annie), b. Feb. 11, 1977. Henry Jr. is advertising director of The Shelby Daily Star.

James Yates was a reporter for five years for The Star and is now a freelance writer living in Charleston, S. C. Both sons attended the University of North Carolina.

During Henry Weather Sr.'s years as publisher of The Star, the newspaper moved into a new building, added all new machinery, and converted to offset printing. Under his leadership, the paper supported all school and hospital bond issues. He believes in the promotion of local news.

He and his wife live at 920 Elizabeth Road, Shelby.

— Henry Lee Weathers, Sr.

LEE BEAM WEATHERS

1086

Lee Beam Weathers (born Sept. 15, 1886; died Jan. 11, 1958) was born in the Metcalf section of Cleveland County, the son of A. P. and Octavia Nolan Weathers. He was editor and publisher of The Shelby Daily Star (formerly The Cleveland Star) for 47 years. He died suddenly of a heart attack while vacationing in Florida.

Mr. Weathers was first married to Miss Williewee Wiseman (born Aug. 5, 1886; died Aug. 22, 1937) of Danville, Va. There were three children born to this marriage; Henry Lee Weathers (born April 12, 1913); Mary Wiseman Weathers (born Aug. 1917, died Nov. 1920); and Pearl Amelia Weathers (born May 22, 1922).

Two years after the death of his first wife, his second marriage was to Mrs. Breta Noell Clary, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Noell of Roxboro, N. C.

His son, Henry Lee Weathers, succeeded his father as publisher of The Shelby Daily Star, and his daughter Pearl, at the time of his death was associate news director for the Presbyterian Church in the U. S., based in Atlanta, Ga.

Lee B. Weathers, Author. Publisher Shelby Daily Star.

Mr. Weathers attended the Shelby public schools and was graduated 1908 at Wake Forest College where he was editor of the year-book. After 18 months of newspapering on two Charlotte newspapers, Charlotte Observer & Charlotte News, he bought stock from Clyde R. Hoey and became editor and publisher of "The Star," then a semi-weekly paper. He joined the Star on Jan. 1, 1911.

In his long career as newspaper publisher, Mr. Weathers headed various drives in Cleveland County, his most notable being for public school buildings. He also supported bond issues for hospitals and backed the movement for a county-wide system of dial telephones.

One of the paper's editorial campaigns of which he was the proudest was the successful effort to bring a municipally owned natural gas system to Shelby. He dedicated his newspaper to civic, social and religious progress and achievement for Shelby and Cleveland County. Among the projects supported by the Star during his years at its helm were: Opposition to the sale of the city's water and light plant in the 1920's; promotion of Red Cross and United Fund; the promotion of the Cleveland County Fair. He strongly supported the establishment of a new water plant, the establishment of a city and county health unit. He promoted agriculture, better rural roads and the textile industry. He actively supported the building of rural churches and the advancement of religious activities in the county. He strongly supported Gardner-Webb College editorially and was a trustee of the college.

Mr. Weathers was president of the N.C. Press Association in 1928-29, served four consecutive terms as state senator from the 27th district (1943-1951); was president in 1937 of the Shelby Kiwanis Club of which he was a charter member when it was founded in 1914.

Gov. O. Max Gardner appointed him to the State Board of Conservation & Development in 1932 and Gov. J. Melvin Broughton reappointed him in 1942. Under Gov. Clyde R. Hoey, he served as secretary of the N.C. Railroad Commission.

In 1941, Gov. Broughton appointed him a member of the State School Board, which supervised the entire state school system. In 1948 he received the Lions Club's "Man of the Year" award for outstanding civic service.

In 1957 Mr. Weathers wrote and published the first history of Cleveland County in a book entitled The Living Past of Cleveland County.

He was director of the First National Bank of Shelby, vice president of Cleveland Savings and Loan Assoc., 16 years a deacon of the First Baptist Church and chairman of its building committee. He was also a Mason. He is buried in Sunset Cemetery beside his first wife and parents.

— Henry L. Weathers, Sr.

WILLIAM THOMAS WEATHERS HIS ANCESTORS and DESCENDANTS

1087

Little is known of John Weathers, the great-great grandfather of William T. (Will) Weathers. He came from Danwiddie County, Virginia some time prior to the Revolutionary War and settled in what is now Gaston County. The fourth born of the thirteen children of John and his second wife, Rosa Stanberry, was Willis, born in Sussex County, Virginia in 1759 and the first Weathers to settle in what is now known as the Zion Church Community of Cleveland County. The first child of Willis and his wife, Polly Terry, was William (Billy), born in 1796, died in 1867. Squire William Weathers gave the site for the Zion Baptist Church built in 1816, and he and his wife, Cecelia Padgett are buried in the Zion Church Cemetery.

The parents of Will Weathers (March 15, 1874 — June 14, 1956) were Rufus Y. Weathers (April 7, 1830 — July 28, 1898) son of Billy Weathers, and Pantha Wilkins (1826-1892). He was their twelfth child. On January 8, 1896, he married Ossie Connor (January 15, 1876 — October 6, 1963), daughter of A.F. Connor, a Civil War Veteran, and Mary Ann Spangler. The Will Weathers farm and home were in the Union (sometimes referred to as Camp Call) section of the county. Will and Ossie are buried in the Union Baptist Church Cemetery.

To this marriage were born the following children:

Ethel (1896-1981) attended Boiling Springs High School and married J. Arthur Greene on August 21, 1917. Their home was Fort Mill, S.C., where they owned and operated the Ford automobile agency for many years.

Wilbur (1898-1970) attended Boiling Springs High School. He was owner and operator of a restaurant in Chicago for many years. Following World War II, he returned to Cleveland County and married Beuna Green Philbeck. They made Charlotte their home, where Beuna still lives.

Lawrence (1902-1904)

Mozelle (b. February 19, 1906) attended Cleveland County Public Schools and married George W. Lee, a veteran of the U.S. Marine Corps, on February 19, 1931. Mozelle has been active in the Eastern Star, serving at one time as Worthy Matron. Their first child, Robert, was born in 1937 and died at the age of

WILLIS WEATHERS

1088

John Weathers (or Withers), father of Willis Weathers, was among the first settlers who arrived in the Cleveland and Rutherford counties section of North Carolina before the Revolutionary War.

Little is known of John Weathers, or his descendants, for the next two generations. This is the first Weathers on which there is some record, in this line of the Weathers family. The following is all that has been obtained on this line to date.

John Weathers came from Danwiddie County, Virginia, and settled a few hundred yards east of where Long Creek Baptist Church now stands in what is now Gaston County. He was twice married, first to a Miss Foreman, and second to a Miss Rosa Stanberry. It was by his second wife that he reared a large family. Willis Weathers was one of 13 children by John Weathers and Rosa Stanberry.

Willis Weathers married Polly Terry and was the first Weathers to settle in what is now known as the Zion Church Community, Cleveland County, North Carolina. He lived some 200 or 300 feet north of the William (Billy) Weathers "old home" near Zion Baptist Church. It is said that the mother-in-law (Mrs. Terry) of Willis Weathers lived with him and died there and was the first person buried in the Weathers Graveyard, now known as the Wellmon Graveyard, near the Billy Weathers "old home place".

Willis Weathers, his mother-in-law (Mrs. Terry), his wife and his daughter all are buried in the Wellmon Graveyard. A government headstone now marks the grave of Willis Weathers.

The only date known about Willis Weathers and Polly Terry is that Willis was born March 29, 1759.

Willis and Polly Weathers had five children as follows:

William (Billy) Weathers, (born 1796, died 1867), married Cecelia Padgett, (born 8 Aug. 1801, died 26 Feb. 1896). Both are buried in the Zion Baptist Church graveyard, Cleveland County. Very little is known about the other children, who are Willis Weathers, Jr.; Rebecca Weathers, who married William Wellmon; Isham Weathers; a daughter whose name is unknown and another daughter who died young.

— Henry L. Weathers, Sr.

CARL RAY WEBB

1089

Carl Ray was b. November 3, 1908. In his family it is remembered as the day Taft was elected President. His heritage goes back to Cleveland County's beginning and before.

His paternal great grandfather David Christopher Webb m. Eliza Jane Alexander, the first child born in Cleveland County. (see Eliza Jane Alexander history). His great great grandparents, James Franklin Wray and his wife Elizabeth, emigrated from England, (see John Stanhope Wray history).

Charles Manly Webb, the oldest child of two. Linda is married to Hazel Zealy, III, and they have one child, Susie. Georgeanne is married to Dean Weaver, and they have a daughter, Kelly. Tommy married Kay Wellmon; they have two sons, Todd and Eric.

Nellie (b. May 20, 1907) graduated from Lattimore High School and from Western Carolina University, with honors. She taught school in the Cleveland County School system until her retirement.

Paris (b. May 24, 1908) married Mattie Lou Johnson (see James Albert Johnson family history).

Ray (b. July 23, 1910) graduated from Lattimore High School and the University of North Carolina, where he was a member of Phi Beta Kappa Honor Society, and received a Masters Degree in mathematics from Duke University. In July of 1947, he married Dorothy Thompson Andrews of Durham. Their daughter Kay is married to Curtis Shaw and they have a daughter, Julie.

Virgil (b. April 13, 1913) graduated from Lattimore High School and the University of North Carolina, where he and Ray roomed together for three years. Virgil was president of his senior class and also served as president of the Student body. He was an all-conference basketball player, played baseball and was awarded the Patterson medal, given annually to the outstanding student athlete in the senior class. On March 30, 1982, he was inducted into the Greater Shelby Sports Hall of Fame. Virgil and Elizabeth Hewitt of Lattimore were married September 7, 1937, and they have two daughters. Robbie married David A. Irvin of Winston-Salem, N.C. and they have two children, Alex and Elizabeth. Jane married Richard Addis of Shelby and they have a son, Rick. (See the Robert R. Hewitt family history.)

Inez (1915)

Many members of the Weathers clan have served their country, state, or county in times of peace and war. Willis Weathers saw service during the Revolutionary War. In the year 1841, the home of William (Billy) Weathers was used in setting up the organization for government of the new county and for holding Superior Court terms until the county seat was located. Rufus Weathers served as a second lieutenant during the War between the States. Paris, Ray, and Virgil Weathers all served in the U.S. Navy during World War II. Paris was stationed in the Pacific at Pearl Harbor. Ray was a fighter director officer on the aircraft carriers Enterprise and Bon Homme Richard and was honorably discharged as a lieutenant commander. Virgil was a Beachmaster in the landings of Normandy and Okinawa and was honorably discharged as a lieutenant, senior grade.

Interesting facts in the family history must include a note about A.F. Connor, father of Ossie Connor Weathers. When he married Mary Ann Spangler in 1866, he followed the customs of the times and, as the groom, arranged a bond guaranteeing that he would not leave the bride waiting at the altar. The bond was signed by J.J. McMurry of Shelby, who was the father of former mayor, S.S. McMurry and Avery W. McMurry. A.F. Connor, one of the survivors of the Civil War, was born November 27, 1846, and died at the age of ninety-three.

Surviving Will and Ossie Weathers are three sons, two daughters, ten grandchildren, and twelve great-grandchildren. One granddaughter lives in California, two granddaughters and two great-granddaughters live in Texas, but the great majority are in North Carolina. To all, home is Cleveland County.

Sources: Family records, Newspaper articles, County records.

— Virgil S. Weathers

Center: Will T. and Ossie C. Weathers; Others, L to R: Ray, Paris, Mozelle, Ethel, Wilbur, Virgil, Nellie.

David and Eliza, was b. July 11, 1860 d. April 24, 1951 m. Sarah Agnes Oates b. January 1, 1861 d. October 25, 1926. "Paw Paw" to his grandchildren, Mr. Charlie, as he was generally known, was a merchant and had a store on the "Courtsquare" on LaFayette Street. Charlie and Agnes had four children: Carl Rush b. September 8, 1884 d. September 22, 1963; Birdie b. September 31, 1889 d. June 1, 1960; D.C. b. June 9, 1894 d. July 31, 1894; Mary Agnes b. July 3, 1899 d. May 29, 1979. This family is buried in the Wray-Austin plot in Sunset Cemetery.

Carl Rush Webb and Mary Ella (Mayme) Wray, b. January 28, 1887 d. July 29, 1979, m. September 24, 1906 in a ceremony at the home of her parents. Carl Ray was their only child. During their marriage, Carl Rush was General Agent for Atlantic Life Insurance Company of Richmond, Virginia. Later, he was General Agent of Western North Carolina for Pilot Life Insurance Company.

After his parents divorced, February 5, 1924, Carl Ray lived with his maternal grandparents. It was his loved "Ma" and "Pa" who formed his character and instilled in him the values he was to keep all his life. He graduated from Shelby High School and attended Bailey Military Institute in Greenwood, South Carolina and North Carolina State in Raleigh.

In 1930 Carl Ray joined Pilot Life Insurance Company and was a field representative for forty-three years. He had a business reputation of honesty and integrity. An unpretentious man he had friends in all walks of life and was beloved "Papa" to his five grandchildren.

As were his grandfathers Charles Webb and John Wray, Carl Ray was a Mason. He was a member of Cleveland Lodge 202 AF and AM, a York Rite Mason, member of LaFayette Chapter No. 27, Shelby Commandery No. 36, a Shriner and a member of Oasis Temple.

He was a veteran of World War II, a member of Warren Hoyle American Legion Post, a charter member of Shelby BPOE 1709 and North Lake Club and a Rotarian.

After a three week illness Carl Ray died of acute leukemia on June 30, 1973. Masonic rites were administered at graveside services on July 3.

On July 31, 1932 Carl Ray m. Virginia Hoyle, a daughter of Martin Luther and Idona Hendricks of Lincolnton, North Carolina. She is a direct descendant of pioneer Peiter Heyl b. May 17, 1710 d. November 1, 1776 m. April 10, 1714 in Spandau, a suburb of Berlin, Germany, Catherine Dales b. April 7, 1730 d. June 7, 1787.

Peiter and Catherine sailed from Rotterdam, Netherlands on the ship "Robert and Alice" landing at Philadelphia, Pennsylvania on September 11, 1738. Jurgen Heyl the great, great grandfather of Peiter m. Gertrant Buschler September 21, 1597 in Nikolai Kirche, a Lutheran Church, in Spandau.

Virginia a graduate of St. Mary's College in Raleigh, is a sustaining member and past president of the Junior Charity League. She served as president of Graham School Parent Teaching Association and the Shelby Council of Parent Teacher Associations.

She is a charter member of the Cleveland

Historical Association, has served two terms on the executive board of United Way, is a member of Reviewers Book Club, Triple Deck Bridge Club and North Lake Club. She continues to live in the family home on Woodside Drive.

Carl Ray and Virginia had two sons: Carl Ray Jr. and Walter Hoyle.

Source: Family Records, Peiter Heyl Genealogy

— Virginia Hoyle Webb
and Lynne Ray Webb

CARL RAY, JR. and WALTER HOYLE WEBB

1090

Commodore Carl Ray Webb, Jr. is the first native of Cleveland County to attain flag rank. He is also the first supply officer to be selected commodore since World War II, and was the first supply officer to serve on the USS Nimitz, the largest combatant vessel ever constructed, when she was commissioned in May, 1975.

He is currently assigned to Naval Supply Systems Command in Washington, D.C. Before this assignment he was commanding officer of the Fleet Material Support Office in Mechanicsburg, Pennsylvania.

Commodore Webb attended the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill as a midshipman in the Naval Reserve Officers Training Corps. He graduated in 1955 with an AB degree and entered the supply corps. He also received an MA degree in logistics management from the Air Force Institute of Technology.

His awards include the Legion of Merit, Meritorious Service Medal, Meritorious Unit Commendation, Navy "E" Ribbon, National Defense Service Medal and the Armed Forces Expeditionary Medal.

Always an achiever, he was an Eagle Scout, and in high school a marshal, a member of the National Honor Society, Latin Club and Forensic Club. He won several state awards for declamation. Our home echoed to the sound of Poe's "Quoth the Raven-Nevermore."

Commodore Webb was b. July 17, 1933 in Shelby Hospital to Carl Ray and Virginia Webb. He m. Elizabeth Nina (Peg) Pearce, September 7, 1963, in a ceremony at the home of her parents, Lawrence and Louise Pearce, in Ponte Vedra, Florida. Peg was b. January 8, 1941.

Their children; (1) Louise Kendall Webb, b. August 21, 1966, in the Navy Hospital Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. (2) Kevin Wray b.

Judge Edwin Yates Webb

September 30, 1967 in Childrens Hospital, Philadelphia. (3) Lawrence Keith Webb b. February 25, 1971 in the Navy Hospital, Subic Bay, Phillipine Islands.

Walter Hoyle Webb is a man of strong character. A quadriplegic for over ten years, he has met multiple tragedies and challenges and faced them with a courage and determination which has earned the pride and admiration of his family and friends from all over the United States.

His very promising career came to an abrupt halt on November 13, 1971 when he was in an automobile accident in Stonington, Connecticut resulting in paralysis and loss of feeling from the neck down.

Walter, the second son of Carl Ray and Virginia was b. February 25, 1936 in Shelby Hospital. He graduated from Shelby High School in 1954 and immediately joined the Army. He was assigned to Evans Signal Laboratory at Ft. Monmouth, New Jersey where he was a cryptography specialist.

After separation from the army he entered North Carolina State University, graduating in 1960 with a BS degree in engineering mathematics. That same year, he accepted a position with VITRO Laboratories in Silver Springs, Maryland where he began work in the Fleet Ballistic Missile program.

Walter joined Control Data in June 1964 and was assigned to Fleet Ballistic Missile Submarine Training Center at the Charleston Navy Base, as a field engineer installing Polaris-Poseidon training equipment.

During the years of this assignment Walter and family lived on Sullivan's Island and in Hobcaw, east of the Cooper River. Here, he indulged his love of fishing, and often joined his father for happy days of angling at Santee-Cooper. In June 1971, he was transferred by Control Data to the training center at the New London, Connecticut Navy Base.

Walter has a Plato terminal, installed by Control Data, in his home in Shelby. It has a special keyboard which he operates, by touch, with one finger of his right hand. It affords him great pleasure and allows him communication with the home office in Minneapolis and with other disabled employees throughout the nation.

On March 2, 1957 Walter m. Margie Helen Elmore, daughter of Ralph and Cordelia Elmore. She was b. January 24, 1939 in Rutherford County. Margie d. January 17, 1976 of cancer.

They had two children: (1) Walter Hoyle Webb, Jr. b. September 22, 1959 in Shelby Hospital; (2) Lynne Ray Webb b. April 16, 1962 in Providence Hospital in Washington, D.C. Lynne Ray was the first daughter born in the Webb family in 63 years.

Source: Personal family history.

— Virginia Hoyle Webb

JUDGE EDWIN YATES WEBB

1091

Judge Edwin Yates Webb was born in Shelby, N.C., May 23, 1872. He was a grandson of James Milton Webb (born Oct. 7, 1802, died

Judge Edwin Yates Webb, 1872-1955

April 24, 1854), and Nancy Hamilton. James Milton Webb founded and was the first pastor of the First Baptist Church in Shelby.

The parents of Edwin Yates Webb were George M. Webb, (born 1831, died 1917) and Priscilla Jane Blanton (born 1833, died 1901). His father also was a Baptist minister and to this union were born 6 children; George Milton Webb, Jr.; Ralph Lamar; Charles S.; James Lamar; Edna (Mrs. Darwin) and Edwin Yates.

After graduation from the public schools, he attended Wake Forest College (1889-1893). He received the Doctor of Laws degree from the University of North Carolina in 1894, an honorary Doctor of Law degree from Davidson College (1918) and Wake Forest College in 1920. He was chairman of the board of trustees of Wake Forest College and served a number of years as trustee.

On Nov. 15, 1894, he married Willie Frank Simmons (born May 8, 1873) of Wake Forest. They had 4 children; Elizabeth Yates (1903-1981); Edwin Yates Jr. (1904-1978); Priscilla Jane (1907-1908); and William Yates (1910-). His wife, Willie Simmons, was a member of the United Daughters of the Confederacy; a charter member of the Cecelia Music Club; founder of the Benjamin Cleveland Chapter Daughters of the American Revolution. She died of cancer November 17, 1923.

Judge Webb was elected to the State Senate in 1900 and to the United States House of Representatives in 1902 where he served for 17 years (1903-1919). He co-sponsored the 18th Amendment, The Webb-Kenyon Bill, and the Webb-Pomerene Act which permitted domestic exporters to combine in marketing activities abroad to compete more efficiently with foreign cartels without violating the anti-trust pact.

Other bills in Congress for which he was responsible were the bill providing $30,000 for the construction of the monument at the Kings Mountain Battleground; chartered the Boy Scouts of America; required patented medicines to indicate the narcotic and alcoholic content on the label and protected certain rights in the Soldiers and Sailors Civil Relief Act of 1918.

During 1914-1918 Congressman Webb was chairman of the powerful House Judiciary Committee. President Woodrow Wilson gave him major responsibility for pushing the legislation necessary to recognize certain departments and to eliminate the red tape that was hampering the war efforts. Impressed by his loyalty, integrity and ability, President Wilson appointed Congressman Webb, his close friend and advisor, Judge of the Western District Court of North Carolina, and he took office Nov. 11, 1919.

On Oct. 28, 1928, Judge Webb married Mrs. Alice Thurston Pender Taylor (b. Jan. 29, 1894) of Tarboro, widow of Captain James Brock Taylor (1888-1922) of Asheville. She was educated at Peace College, Raleigh, N.C., and at Gunston Hall, Washington, D.C., where she was a member of Kappa Delta Sorority.

Mrs. Webb was on the original planning committee for the new Shelby Presbyterian Church in 1949. In 1956 a group of ladies interested in forming a hospital auxiliary met with the hospital administrator, Mr. George Laycock, at the home of Mrs. Webb and plans were formulated for the present Shelby Memorial Hospital Auxiliary.

Mrs. Webb continues her husband's interest and support of the Boy Scouts, is active in her church, several social clubs and the 20th Century Book Club. She resides at her home, 331 S. Washington St., Shelby.

Judge Webb had 3 grandchildren, Edwin Yates III and William Eugene by Edwin Yates Jr. and Ruth Pearce Webb. Also, Shirley Jane (Mrs. Moses McCall) by William Y. and Laura Mae Webb. The widow of Edwin Webb, Joan Haygood Webb, now lives in Gastonia. He also had 2 stepchildren, James Brock Taylor Jr. (1920-) who married Anne Royster (1927-), (see James Brock Taylor Jr.) and Annie Lillian Taylor (1918-) who married Henry Lee Weathers (1913-), (see Henry Lee Weathers Sr.), both of whom live in Shelby, N.C.

He was a member of the First Baptist Church of Shelby and was especially interested in Boiling Springs Junior College where he served as a trustee 1936-1945, and 1951-1955. He was chairman of the board of trustees in June 1942 when the college changed its name to Gardner-Webb College in honor of these two outstanding Cleveland County families.

Judge Webb liked people, jokes, bridge, golf, red ties, & red roses.

Portraits of Judge Webb were presented by the District Bar Association to the District Court of Appeal in Charlotte (Jan. 8, 1940); by the Cleveland County Bar Association to the Federal Court in Shelby (March 17, 1948); and to Gardner-Webb College at a testimonial banquet honoring him on his 80th birthday, May 23, 1952. He was elected to the Cleveland County Hall of Fame in 1976.

Edwin Yates Webb died from heart failure on Feb. 7, 1955 while visiting in Wilmington, N.C. He is buried in the family's plot in Shelby's Sunset Cemetery. He was survived by his children, Elizabeth Yates; Edwin Yates, Jr.; and William Yates; by three grandchildren, Edwin Yates III, William Eugene, and Shirley Jane Webb McCall; and by his widow, Mrs. Alice Pender Taylor Webb and his two stepchildren, 6 step grand children, and 2 step great grandchildren.

Sources: Asheville Citizen Times; Biographical Directories of the American Congress — 1774-1971; Bryson City Times; Charlotte Observer; Cleveland Star/Shelby Daily Star; Cleveland Times; Lengthened Shadows a history of Gardner-Webb College, by Francis B. Dedmond; News and Observer; Congressional Directory 1904, 1919; The Living Past of Cleveland County, by Lee B. Weathers.

— William Y. Webb
and Mrs. Edwin Yates Webb

EDWIN YATES WEBB, JR. and PRISCILLA WEBB

1092

Edwin, the elder of the two sons of Judge Edwin Yates Webb, Senior, and Willie Simmons Webb, was born in Wake Forest, North Carolina, on October 13, 1904. After graduation from Shelby High School (1922) and North Carolina State College in Raleigh (1926), he took postgraduate work in electrical engineering at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Edwin was employed by the American Telephone and Telegraph Company (1928-1944) as a communications engineer in Atlanta, Georgia. Employment elsewhere as section chiefs of communications and electronics included the War Production Board (1944-1945); the Office of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, Washington, District of Columbia (1945-1946); the Department of Commerce (1946-1948); the Technical Industrial Intelligence Committee, with much travel in Germany (1947); and the Federal Civil Defense Administration (1948) until he retired.

Edwin built the first wireless in Cleveland County. He was the author of the The Origin of Harmonic Frequencies in Vacuum Tube Circuits (1945), and The Origin of the Universe and the Secret of Light and Magnetism (1951). He received several patents on voice communications, the most important of which is known as "scramblers."

He was a member of Tau Beta Pi. After graduation from college, he married Ruth Pearce of Rocky Mount, North Carolina in 1926. They had two children, Edwin Yates III and William Eugene. Several years later he and Ruth were divorced.

Edwin III married and had three children: Eileen, Michael and Stephen. They live in California.

William Eugene married Donna Ann Schelkin in 1965 and then lived in California, childless. He also was an electrical engineer. He died in 1973 and is buried in Sunset Cemetery.

Edwin Yates Webb, Junior, married Joan Rucker, of Gastonia, in February 1966, and moved there. He died of cirrhosis of the liver on April 3, 1978. He is buried in Sunset Cemetery.

Priscilla, the younger daughter of Judge Edwin Yates Webb and Willie Simmons Webb, was born in Shelby in 1907. She died in 1908, and is buried in Sunset Cemetery.

Sources: The Georgetown (Washington, D.C., Nov. 30 — Dec. 6, 1981), page 1: "Miss Elizabeth Webb." Personal knowledge, and interviews with her husband, Roy Veatch.

Sources: International Blue Book of World Notables; The Gaston Independent (Gastonia, N.C., March 13, 1969), p. 1: "Webb's Universe."; The Cleveland Times (Shelby, N.C. Aug. 1, 1967), p. 1: "Webb's Legacy; Former Shelblian Has Lived Full Life."; Personal knowledge and interviews with his wife, Joan.

— William Y. Webb

ELIZABETH YATES WEBB

1093

Elizabeth Yates Webb, the oldest of the four children of Judge Edwin Yates Webb, Senior, and Willie Simmons Webb, was born in Wake Forest, North Carolina, on February 9, 1903. After graduation from Shelby High School, she attended and was graduated from Brenau College, Gainesville, Georgia (1925), where she majored in history. She took postgraduate work at the University of California at Los Angeles.

Elizabeth was deeply interested in improving race relations, especially in the South. While attending an inter-racial conference at Duke University in 1927 she met Roy Veatch, from Eugene, Oregon. They had similar interests, and were married in August 1927. Both received their Doctor of Philosophy Degrees from the Robert Brookings Graduate School for Government and Economics (now the Brookings Institution) in Washington, District of Columbia, in 1929.

For several years Elizabeth worked with the Young Women's Christian Association, and other organizations, in efforts to improve race relations. Then she accepted an offer from Vassar College, in Poughkeepsie, New York, to teach American and European history.

"Shelby Dynasty": L to R: Governor O. Max Gardner, Judge James L. Webb, Judge Edwin Yates Webb, Senator Clyde R. Hoey.

In 1947 Elizabeth began the operation of The Early American Shop, which was, and is, one of the best antique stores in the Washington Metropolitan area.

Her husband, Roy Veatch — she retained her maiden name — worked for several years as an economist in the State Department; taught political science at Princeton University; became interested in real estate; and now operates Period Houses in Washington. It specializes in large American and foreign estates.

Elizabeth and her husband had no children. She died from influenza and heart complications on October 22, 1981, and is buried in Sunset Cemetery.

Sources: The Georgetown (Washington, D.C., November 30 — Dec. 6, 1981); "Miss Elizabeth Webb."; Personal knowledge, and interviews with her husband, Roy Veatch.

— William Y. Webb

ELIZA JANE ALEXANDER WEBB, CLEVELAND COUNTY'S FIRST BORN

1094

Eliza Jane Alexander, the first child born in Cleveland County, was born in Sandy Run, December 4, 1841; the year the county was created.

She was the daughter of Gabriel Alexander, born August 8, 1807, and Sarah Elizabeth Hambright, born July 18, 1818 who were married December 10, 1840. The grandfather of Eliza, Colonel Frederick Hambright, fought in The Battle of Kings Mountain.

Eliza Jane married David Christopher Webb, a leading merchant and farmer, born January 16, 1831 at Beaver Dam. The marriage took place in Shelby May 24, 1859 at the home of Reverend Thomas Dixon. To this union were born eleven children: Charles Manly (1860-1951), Sarah Martha (1862-1888), Louisa Adaline (1864-1865), Mary Elizabeth (1866-1942), Fannie Laura (1868-1935), Alexander Hatcher (1870-1941), Lawrence Cleveland (1872-1917), Thomas Paul (1874-1945), Catharine Rebecca (1877-1940), Peggy Corene (1879-1922), Selma Caroline (1883-1959).

David Webb died May 7, 1893. Eliza lived forty one years longer. She was a faithful member of The First Baptist Church and the senior member of a family in which five generations were living. Members of her family were always active in the religious, civic, social and business life of the community.

She died August 14, 1934 at the age of 92 in the home built by her husband, and where all her children were born. This house is presently The Lutz Austell Funeral Home on West Marion Street.

A maternity ward at The Shelby Hospital was donated by her son, Hatcher Webb, in her memory.

Sources: Shelby newspapers, Cleveland County Court House records

— Estelle C. Webb
and Anne W. Duncan

Eula Jane Cline and Emlius Lee Webb. Wedding day, January 26, 1905, at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Franklin Cline.

EMLIUS LEE WEBB FAMILY 1095

Emlius Lee Webb was born April 9, 1875 in Cleveland County, North Carolina. He was a descendant of Henry Webb who was born May 15, 1350 in Warsickshire, England.

Henry's great grandson William Webb was Lord of London under Henry VIII. His great, great grandson John Alexander Webb was born January 16, 1472, and became known as Sir John. His daughter Mary Webb and her husband John Shakespeare were the parents of William Shakespeare the famous English dramatist.

In 1629 Alexander Webb came to America. His sons Richard, Christopher, William and Henry came with him. Two children Elizabeth and John remained in England. The son William was called the Merchant of Norfolk, Virginia. William Webb's grandson, also named William, was born May 1, 1745. He moved from Virginia to Rutherford County, North Carolina.

William Webb's great, great grandson John McWebb (father of Emlius Lee Webb) was born in 1877 and died October 26, 1909. He was married to Amanda Elvira Weathers. She was born November 9, 1848 and died September 19, 1918. They had four sons: George, Emlius Lee, John Thomas and David Christopher. Two daughters: Theodocia (Mrs. Cicero Lutz) and Margaret (Mrs. Hoyle Alexander). The first Cleveland County Court was held in their house in 1841.

Emlius Lee Webb married Eula Jane Cline, who was born December 25, 1878 in Cleveland County, North Carolina. Her parents were John Franklin Cline and Mary Elizabeth Hoyle Cline. She is now 103 years old.

Three of their children live in Hickory, North Carolina. They are Mrs. Philip Graham Menzies (Grace), Mrs. Charles William Burns (Mary Ruth), Emlius Lee Webb, Jr. (Married Dorothy Beam). Another son, John Cline Webb lives in Shelby, North Carolina. He is married to Elizabeth Lamar Gidney.

Emlius Lee Webb was a good, kind and honest man. He was a member of the First Baptist Church of Shelby, North Carolina, and a member of Cleveland Masonic Lodge. He was in the hardware business in Cherryville, North Carolina. For a short time he farmed at Fort Lauderdale, Florida. He was Cleveland County's first tax collector, retiring from this office in 1945 after fourteen years. He was vice-president and agent for Mutual Fire Insurance Association of Cleveland County.

He died July 23, 1968 at the age of 93 and is buried in Sunset Cemetery, Shelby, North Carolina.

Sources: Research by Cleveland County Historian Robert S. Gidney, Sr.

— Elizabeth Gidney Webb

LORANZO DOW WEBB FAMILY 1096

Loranzo Dow Webb (b. 1807) married Martha "Patsy" Irvin, daughter of the Revolutionary soldier, James Irvin and wife Rebecca Hardin Irvin.

Loranzo Dow owned a large farm near Beaver Dam, Cleveland County. His old log house stood for many years on the land that is now occupied by the Union Carbide Plant. The log house had four rooms down stairs with sleeping quarters upstairs. Two large chimneys stood at each end of the house. The basement or "cellar" as they called it was underneath the building. The kitchen was separate from the house.

During the Civil War the Webb family heard that a large number of soldiers were camping near Shelby. The family worked hard and fast to hide all their valuables so that they would not be stolen by the "Yankee" soldiers. The valuables were all stored in the cellar. The steps leading into the cellar were covered with planks and straw and a pen enclosed the covered area. Here they put their young geese. This was called the "goslin pen". Their valuables were never found by the soldiers since they did not wish to bother the geese, however, they went all through the house destroying everything in their path. The chest of drawers that was battered by the soldiers is owned by a great granddaughter.

Loranzo Dow and "Patsy" Martha were the parents of twelve children, seven boys and six girls. Each of the six girls had "line" to their names. Aleline married Bill Pruett; Emaline married Elijah Hamrick; Caroline married Hosea H. Harrill; Roseline married Joe Quinn; Louise Eveline and her sister Eliza Aveline never married. They always talked about how their "sweethearts" were killed in the Civil War.

The six boys were John G., David C., James I., Ansel J., Loranzo D., and Franklin W.

The two sisters, that never married, remained at the home place. Life was not easy for them. The water was carried from a spring some distance away from the house. They would help cut and haul wood to burn in the large fireplaces. The kitchen had a large fireplace where they cooked in iron pots and pans which hung over the fire. The little cast iron stove that stood in the corner of the kitchen was seldom used. The great grandchildren enjoyed visiting their great aunts. The ovens on the hearth were most always steaming with cornbread, sweet potatoes and chicken pie.

The two sisters would walk two miles to Beaver Dam Church. In the summer they were dressed in long black skirts, white blouses, poke bonnet hats and carried large palm leaf fans. In the winter, for warmth, they wore their homemade wool petticoats.

Their favorite story was about a young lady from the north who came to visit them. The lady was a "society gal that talked proper." She said to their father, Loranzo Dow, "Well, Mr. Webb, I presume that you are anticipating a nice time at the revival tonight." Their father had no idea what those big words, "presume" and "anticipating" meant so he just said the biggest word that he knew, "constantinople be god mam".

Loranzo Dow and his wife "Patsy" Irvin Webb are buried in the Beaver Dam Baptist Church Cemetery.

— Mrs. John S. Blanton

ROBERT WEBB FAMILY 1097

Robert Webb born CA 1750-60 VA d. 30 October 1843, Rutherford County North Carolina, m. 1776 (first wife thought to have been Milly Clirton but not proven). m. second 30 April 1824 Rutherford County, Margaret (Peggy) Roach.

Issue — 1st wife: Clinton Webb, b. 1778 N.C. d. 1862 Milton County, Fulton, Georgia, m. 1802 Rutherford County, NC, Christina Robinson. Elisha Webb, b. 1780 N.C. d. CA 1845 Dallas County, Alabama, m. Malinda Sorrell, daughter of John Sorrell; Robert Webb, b. 1784, m. Nancy Sorrell daughter of John Sorrell; Edith Webb b. 1784 N.C. d. 9 November 1855 Rutherford County, m. 2 August 1800, Rutherford County, NC, Jacob Magness, son of Benjamin Magness. Both buried Concord Baptist Church Cemetery; Temperance (Tempy) Webb, b. 1785 NC, d. after 1860 Spartanburg County, SC, m. Charles Hill; Delila Webb, b. 1787 Rutherford County, d. 1 July 1867 Cleveland County, NC, m. 1801 David McBrayer. Both buried McBrayer Cemetery, Cleveland County; Helty Webb, b. 1790 Rutherford County, d. 1857 Ashville, St. Clair County, Alabama, m. 19 September 1808 Rutherford County to Richard Goode, son of Edward Goode and Mary (Polly) Turpin; Jeremiah, b. 15 Sept. 1791 Rutherford County, d. 19 December 1869 White County, Tenn., m. 19 January 1809 Rutherford County to Sarah Copeland. Both buried Mt. Pisgah Church Cemetery, White County. Jeremiah was a Methodist minister; Druscilla, b. Rutherford County, m. 24 August 1819 Rutherford County to Samuel Aspey (Espey); Didima, b. 1797 Rutherford County, d. 1865 Ningold, Georgia, m. Joseph Weir; Alfred b. 1 February 1800, Rutherford County, d. 7 October 1883 Dawson County, Georgia, m. Arabelle Hill. Alfred was a Baptist minister in Rutherford County and moved to Georgia CA 1843; James Milton, b. 2 October 1802 Rutherford County, d. 24 April 1854 Rutherford County, m. (1) Katherine White, (2) Nancy Hampton 3 May 1849, Rutherford County. James Milton was a Baptist minister in Rutherford County, his son George Webb was a Baptist minister in Cleveland County; Sarah (Sally) b. 1803 in Rutherford County, m. 28 November 1822, Rutherford County to Robert Kincaid; Jesse J. b. 11 January 1825 Rutherford County, d. 25 November 1855 Rutherford County, m. Mary Burge; Malinda, b. 1827 Rutherford County, m. (1) Rodney Toms, m.

(2) 22 July 1845 Rutherford County to Jacob Shuford.

The children of Delila Webb (6th child of Robert and Milly Clinton Webb) and David McBrayer are as follows: Edith, b. April 19, 1816, North Carolina, d. November 13, 1876 buried McBrayer Cemetery, Cleveland County, m. W.B. Stroud son of Thomas Stroud; David b. 6 February 1820, North Carolina, moved west; Reuben Hill, b. February 11, 1824, d. January 6, 1896, m. Elizabeth Stroud; Martha, m. August 12, 1931 Rutherford County to Noah Weeds; Milly McBrayer; William b. 7 January 1805 Rutherford County, m. 24 June 1831 to Druscilla McIntier, moved to Georgia; Loicy, b. October 1, 1801, d. February 3, 1890 Rutherford County. Buried Concord Church Cemetery, m. September 19, 1820 Rutherford County to Housan Harrill b. April 19, 1798, d. November 10, 1887; Narcissia McBrayer; Robert, b. 1803, d. June 30, 1884 buried McBrayer Cemetery, Cleveland County, m. Francis Harrill, b. June 6, 1815, d. January 23, 1911, 10 March 1831 Rutherford County; Elisha, b. 17 July 1818 North Carolina, m. Juliette Stroud; Margaret, b. 1809 North Carolina, m. August 4, 1829 Rutherford County to Reuben Hill; James, m. Susannah Harrill.

Reuben Hill b. 1764 York County, South Carolina, d. July 25, 1858 Damson County, Georgia, m. Margaret McBrayer (11th child of Delila Webb and David McBrayer). Issue — Asaph b. 15 March 1804, d. before 1860, m. January 7, 1830 to Martha Hudlow; David McBrayer, b. May 1, 1795, d. June 10, 1895 Damson County, Georgia; William, d. 1871 Etawah County, Alabama; Arabella, b. January 1, 1798, d. June 3, 1879 Damson County, m. Rev. Alfred Webb; Martha, m. Lewis J. Ledbetter; Abel, m. August 30, 1925 to Druscilla Mooney; Lillian Delila, m. Thomas Jefferson Evans, moved to Texas; Bellreal, m. John Webb; Reuben Nathaniel, moved to Texas.

William McBrayer (6th child of Delila Webb and David McBrayer) and Druscilla McIntier were living in 1843 in Haheshem County, Georgia. Their daughter Leah m. Sameul Harrill, Jr., daughter Mary Louise Harrill m. John Audley Martin, daughter Cara Marin m. Henry Grady Withrow.

James Madison Toms was the son Malinda Webb (15th child of Robert and Milly Clinton Webb) and Rodney Toms. Rodney died 1844, Rutherford County. Malinda m. Jacob Shuford in 1845. James Madison was reared by his Uncle Charles French Toms. James m. (1) Barbara Chesey, (2) Miss Wray from Cleveland County, (3) Missiuri Carpenter, daughter of James Hine Carpenter. James Madison lived in Burcombe County, North Carolina, on the old Asheville Highway. His children were: Mary, Herbert, Batu, James, Blanche m. C.B. Justice, Eila m. J.R. Dover, founder of the Dover Textile Mills, Shelby, Cleveland County, North Carolina.

James Milton (12th child of Robert and Milly Clinton Webb) m. (1) Katherine White, d. 3 September 1848, age 39, m. (2) Nancy Hampton. Children by first wife Katherine White were: George, m. April 16, 1851, Rutherford County, Pruscilla J. Blanton; Sherod, b. 1834, m. 9 February 1854 Rutherford County, m.

THOMAS PAUL and ALMA McBRAYER WEBB

1099

Alma McBrayer Webb was born August 15, 1881 in Shelby, North Carolina, first daughter of Dr. Victor McBrayer and Esther Jane Suttle McBrayer.

She attended Shelby schools and graduated from Converse College in Spartanburg, South Carolina.

Following her graduation she taught school for one year, and married Thomas Paul Webb, June 27, 1901. She was the mother of one son, Thomas Paul Webb, Jr.; and grandmother of Mrs. Hugh M. (Anne Taylor) Duncan, Charlotte, North Carolina, and Thomas Paul Webb III, Louisville, Tennessee. Mrs. Webb was also proud to be the great grandmother of six great-grandsons: Hugh Monroe Duncan, Jr., Thomas Taylor Duncan, David McBrayer Webb, John Cralle Webb, Thomas Purnell Webb and Patrick Clark Webb.

She was a member of The Daughters of The American Revolution, The First Baptist Church, and The Chicora Literary Club, but "Miss Alma" was best known as proprietor of The Old Homestead Antique Shop.

The shop was started as a hobby, and grew into one of the finest and most famous stocks of antiques in the South.

When old opaque glass was at its height in popularity, her unusually fine collection was featured on the cover of Hobbies Magazine, July, 1943. It was one of the largest milk glass collections ever assembled.

Some very interesting letters she received during World War II were from soldiers asking for help with their collections of glass, old letters, canes, bells, maps and prints.

Quoting from The State Magazine, May 9, 1936: "Among Mrs. Webb's relics are some interesting historical pieces. There is an Eli Terry clock that was in the first courthouse in Cleveland County."

She had a brass tea caddy and teapot swung over a little alcohol burner that Judge A.C. Avery took on the stage coach between Asheville and Salisbury to make his morning coffee.

The Williamsburg Foundation bought from her a country piece for The Wythe House.

After operating the shop for more than thirty years, it was sold in 1955. From an interview, Erma Drum wrote in The Shelby Daily Star, March 11, 1955:

"She loved her shop, and the contacts it brought her with interesting people who shared her enthusiasm for beautiful old things. She loved the antiques which passed through her hands. "When I sold a really fine piece," she says, "it was like placing a child. I wanted to place it in the right home where it would look its best, and be loved and appreciated."

In the month before she sold The Old Homestead it was visited by four New York buyers. One was Israel Sack, recognized as the "biggest antique dealer in America". Another was O'Reilly of the prestigious Plaza Art and Auction Galleries. A buyer for the DuPont Estate, Winterthur, at Wilmington, Delaware, contacted Mrs. Webb after she had sold out.

and David Christopher Webb. His early schooling was in Shelby schools and Bell's Military Academy.

In 1898 he graduated in The University of North Carolina's first pharmacy class. Paul began his business career in the employ of McBrayer and Wilson Drug Company of Shelby, one of the oldest drug stores in the area. The store was founded by Victor McBrayer, M.D., who received his pharmacy license from The North Carolina Board February 19, 1891. In 1901 Paul Webb married Dr. McBrayer's daughter, Alma Gray, and in 1902 purchased the store.

They had one child, Thomas Paul Webb, Jr., born June 8, 1902. Paul Jr. entered into partnership with his father in 1924 and the business was operated as Paul Webb and Son. The younger Mr. Webb was a graduate of The University of North Carolina, and prior to his professional training he received his education in Shelby, and at Virginia Military Institute. He married Anne Estelle Clark of Hertford County in June 1926. They were the parents of a daughter, Mrs. Hugh Monroe (Anne Taylor) Duncan, and a son, Thomas Paul Webb III.

Paul Sr. built up one of the largest and most extensive drug businesses in this section of the state. The store carried a large and complete stock of drugs, paint, oils, and field and garden seeds. It was said that no one ever left his store without the medicine prescribed or needed, money or no money, and that he went out of his way to alleviate suffering.

Holt McPherson, former managing editor of The Shelby Daily Star, labeled him "golden-hearted Paul, a spreader of happiness, a dispeller of gloom; no one was a stranger to him." Dr. Zeno Wall called Webb "the friendliest man I ever knew." He was known as "Whistlin' Paul" because he always whistled in his walks around the square, and greeted people with "Hi roota-toot" or "raggity". He was a one man Chamber of Commerce. His cheery greeting to everybody, regardless of class or standing, was one of the hallmarks of the city.

He served as mayor of Shelby during World War I. Among other contributions, he was Vice-president of The Shelby Creamery, Director of The First National Bank, Deacon of The First Baptist Church, a Vice-President of the North Carolina Pharmaceutical Association, President of The Kiwanis Club, and because of his genuine interest in people, served as a member of Governor Clyde R. Hoey's Hospitality Committee.

He died January 5, 1945 in Shelby. After the death of his son, Paul Webb Jr., January 7, 1960, a very appropriate tribute was written by Edward Kemper in the Kiwanis Bulletin:

"Paul Webb Sr. and Paul Webb, Jr. — they go together in my memory. Like the water in a river, it is the same water loud and fast in the rapids and slow and quiet in the deep places. Paul Sr. never met a stranger — always with a smile, a whistle, and a greeting to everyone on the street, an ambassador of good will and a fond memory to those who knew him. Paul Jr., quiet and reserved, yet a wonderful person. Long association sitting beside him for years at Kiwanis will always be a pleasant memory to me."

Sources: Family records, Shelby newspapers

— Estelle C. Webb
and Anne W. Duncan

Druscilla Haney; Toliner Davis, b. 1835; A. D. b. 1837; Charlotte, b. 1838; Elizabeth, b. 1840; D. Lewis, b. 1843; Wade, b. 1845; Jason, b. 1846; James Pinkney, b. 1831, m. 22 November 1849 Rutherford County to Malinda H. Whitesides.

By second wife, Nancy Hampton, children were: Julius, b. 1849; Catherine b. 1850. All of the above were born in North Carolina.

James Milton Webb was a Baptist minister at Mountain Creek Baptist Church. His brother Alfred was also a minister (1824-1837) at the same church. James Milton was editor of the Rutherford Intelligence 1842-43. He was elected to the General Assembly when 26 years of age and represented Rutherford County in the House for the terms of 1828-30-31. He served as clerk of the Superior Court (data from "History of Mountain Creek Baptist Church" and "History of Rutherford County").

George Milton Webb (1st child of James Milton and Katherine White Webb) m. Priscilla J. Blanton. Their children were: James L., b. November 12, 1853, d. October 1, 1930, m. 1878 K.L. (Kansas) Andrews; Edwin Yates, m. Willie Simmons; George, m. Ida Cox; Dara, m. Sammey Alexander; Edna, m. John Darwin.

James L. Webb, son of George Milton and Priscilla Blanton Webb, was born November 12, 1853, d. October 1, 1930, m. 1878 Kansas, to Lane Andrews, daughter of Dr. W.P. Andrews, Shelby, North Carolina. One of their children was Faye Lamar, b. September 7, 1885, d. 1968, m. 6 November 1907 to O. Max Gardner and their children were: Margaret Love, m. N.E. Bugess; James Webb; Ralph Webb; O. Max, Jr.; Madge, m. Riley.

Sources: Estate records, census books, family data & Bible, cemetery — church records.

— Ms. Velvo Chaney

Thomas Paul Webb, Sr.

THE THOMAS PAUL and ALMA McBRAYER WEBB

1098

Named for two apostles, Thomas Paul Webb was born August 30, 1874 in Shelby, North Carolina; son of Eliza Jane Alexander

The Old Homestead Antique Shop, Alma McBrayer Webb, Proprietor.

One of Mrs. Webb's intangible dividends from the years spent in The Old Homestead, is a choice assortment of little stories about the antiques she has bought and sold.

A woman in one of the mountain counties wrote to tell Mrs. Webb she had a drop-leaf table to sell. After some time, "Miss Alma" got around to making the trip and when she went into the house, saw in the hall two beautiful inlaid half-circle tables that were the banquet ends to the drop-leaf. She knew instantly she had stumbled upon something choice.

The drop-leaf proper was being used in the kitchen. The woman of the house was a bit miffed because Mrs. Webb had delayed coming to see the table, and announced she had changed her mind about wanting to sell. Mrs. Webb was an old hand at this cat-and-mouse game of buying and selling. She spent the day at the farm house, and before she left that afternoon the beautiful table and banquet ends were hers. She did what she liked best about her business . . . placed them in a home where they would look their best, be loved, and appreciated."

"Miss Alma" led a full active life and cherished the many, many friends and contacts made over thirty years in business; some who kept in touch until her death December 26, 1973 at the age of 93.

Sources: State Magazine, Shelby newspapers, Mrs. Webb's personal papers

— Estelle C. Webb
and Anne W. Duncan

WILLIAM YATES WEBB

1100

William, youngest child of the late Judge Edwin Yates Webb, Senior, and Willie Simmons Webb, was born in Shelby (October 12, 1910), and baptized in the First Baptist Church (1923). He played clarinet in the High School Band and Orchestra. Graduating from Shelby High (1928), he attended Wake Forest College (1928-1929), and Columbia University, receiving the degrees of Bachelor of Arts, with Honors in Economics (1932), and Master of Arts (1933). He held graduate economics fellowships at Duke University, New York University, and The Brookings Institution.

During 32 years of federal employment (1937-1969), William worked for the Bituminous Coal Consumers' Counsel (1937-1939) on freight rates, realization, and minimum prices. He co-authored "Price Fixing in the Bituminous Coal Industry." In the Census Bureau (1940-1942) he supervised the collection of primary data on crude petroleum, natural gas and natural gasoline.

In the Office of Procurement and Material (1942), William, a Navy lieutenant, represented the Navy Department in the Army-Navy Munitions Board in obtaining controlled materials for Navy use during World War II. As Materials Division civilian (1946-1951) he became Chairman, Munitions Board Interdepartmental Non-metallic Minerals Committee, and Vice-chairman, Munitions Board Interdepartmental Non-ferrous Metals Committee. In the Munitions Board Conservation Division he prepared conservation directives and authored "Materials Availability and Conservation." (1951-1953).

William, in the Office of the Assistant Secretary of Defense (Supply and Logistics) — 1953-1955, identified strategic materials and facilities for inclusion in the Joint Chief of Staff's Key Facilities List required for continental defense. He prepared reports on various materials, three of which were for the Congressional Joint Committee on Defense Production.

Primarily in the office of the Assistant Secretary of Defense (1955-1969), William had the responsibility for assembling and organizing data on military installations and personnel for computer input-output studies of theoretical nuclear attacks upon military facilities and contractors. He represented that office at the National Damage Assessment Center.

For outstanding service William received a Navy Department citation, and letters of commendation from the Industrial College of the Armed Forces; the Army Department, Joint Chiefs of Staff; Office of Civil Defense; and the Office of Emergency Planning.

William and Laura Mae Brown of Centralia, Missouri, were married in Washington, District of Columbia (October 12, 1941). Their one child, Shirley Jane, attended Wake Forest College (1961-1965). She and Moses Nathaniel McCall III, an alumnus from Acworth, Georgia, were married in Washington (July 17, 1965). They and Moses Nathaniel McCall IV live in Lithia Springs, Georgia.

With the federal government 30 years, Laura Mae Webb developed specifications for textiles and apparel items priced for inclusion in the Consumers Price Index, and contributed several articles in the Bureau of Labor Statistics Monthly Labor Review regarding measurements and changes in these prices, and problems in evaluating their effect.

Laura Mae had the responsibility in the Budget Bureau for the coordination of federal statistical programs measuring changes for consumer goods, and for the collection of textile and clothing production statistics. Her work in the Agriculture Department dealt with developing statistics on expenditures of rural families for family living, and on materials for family financial management.

She served as consultant to the United Fruit Company, evaluating the techniques used to measure differences in living costs on banana plantations and in urban areas. These differences were used by governments in establishing wage differentials between the two areas. She also served as consultant to the Brazilian Ministry of Labor in revising its consumer price index.

William is the Palisades Community Orchestra's alto clarinetist. He is a member of Kappa Alpha Order, Pi Gamma Mu, American Economic Association, American Legion, National Economists Club, Reserve Officers Association, and a Special Advisor in the American Security Council's United States Congressional Advisory Committee.

William's Tar Heel roots remain deep. He contributes books to the Cleveland County Historical Museum and Gardner-Webb College. He is a "Keeper of the Light," a democrat, a member of the Roanoke Island Historical Association, and the North Carolina Society of Washington's historian. Laura Mae and he are Life Members, Cleveland County Historical Association.

William and Laura Mae have traveled in 40 countries, where he took many color slides. Their final trip, someday, will be to Sunset Cemetery.

Sources: The Cleveland Times; Community Leaders and Noteworthy Americans; "Personal History Statement" of William Y. Webb. The Pentagon Building, Washington, D.C. Webb, William Y.: "Materials Availability and Conservation." Commercial and Financial Chronicle, Vol. 175, Nr. 5118 (May 22, 1952). New York, N.Y. 1952. Webb, William Y.: "Materials Availability and Conservation." Seventh Annual Technical Session, Society of the Plastic Industry, Inc. Chicago, Ill. (April 19-21, 1952). Section 7. Webb, William Y.: Review, in the American Economic Review, Vol 33, Nr. 1 (March 1943), of Ralph Hillis Baker's The National Bituminous Coal Commission, Administration of the Bituminous Coal Act, 1937-1941. Johns Hopkins Press. 1941. Who's Who in the South and

William Y. and Laura Mae Webb, Past President of the North Carolina Society of Washington, D.C., at the Society's coronation banquet and ball honoring the North Carolina Cherry Blossom Princess, Miss Nancy Dail Fountain, March 26, 1977.

Southwest, 1971-1972. 12th Edition. Marquis Who's Who, Inc. Chicago, Ill. 60611. Page 651. 718 pages. Gordon, Ellery B., and Webb, William Y.: "Price Fixing in the Bituminous Coal Industry," Temporary National Economic Committee Monograph No. 32. Economic Standards of Government Price Control, Part III. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 1941. Personal knowledge of the people named in the article.

— William Yates Webb

RALPH FURMAN WEBBER

1101

Ralph Furman Webber was born November 30, 1903, the second child of John Joseph and Minnie Lee Ellis Webber.

His brothers and sisters were: Emily Obie, who later married Jeff D. Guinn; Everette Logan, who married Ophelia Bridges; James Raeford, who married Pauline Bowen; Charles Howard, who married Gladys Rich; Janie Pauline, who married Miles Sams, Jr.

Born and raised on a farm in Blacksburg, South Carolina, Ralph and his brothers took over the farming business when his father died December 14, 1920.

Ralph was married December 17, 1927 to Willie Belle Jones and the children from this marriage were: Furman Lee Webber, Johnny Edwin Webber, Elsie Mae Webber Glenn, Billy Joe Webber and Rachel Aniece Webber Crowe.

When the depression came in the thirties, he began making cedar furniture in his spare time. The cedar was grown on the farm, dried in a homemade kiln and turned on a homemade lathe. This furniture was sold to supplement the family income along with a part time job at the John Randall handle factory.

In 1938, he started to work with the D. L. McMurry Construction Company. At the start of World War II in 1941, Ralph worked on military housing projects in Savannah, Georgia. In 1944 he came back to Shelby and worked in the carpenter shop at Lily Mill until he started his own construction company in 1945.

In the late 1940's, Webber and Sons Construction Company built and remodeled numerous homes for residents of Boiling Springs, North Carolina. They also built the parsonage and educational building of Boiling Springs Baptist Church and the Boiling Springs Sandwich Shop. In 1949 they completed the first part of the Gardner-Webb Clinic, later adding two more sections.

In addition to building many homes in and around Shelby, North Carolina, Ralph Webber Construction Company was privileged to build Zoar Baptist Church and parsonage, Macedonia Baptist Church in Kings Mountain, Bethel Baptist Church in Ellenboro, Campfield Memorial in Ellenboro, Concord Baptist Church in Rutherford County, Mt. Vernon Baptist Church in Rutherford County, Mt. Harmony Baptist Church in Rutherford County, and Calvary Baptist Church in Gastonia.

At his retirement in 1966, Ralph Webber went back to his hobby of woodworking. He died in May of 1972 at the age of sixty-eight.

— Mrs. Donna Webber

WEIDNER/WHITENER

1102

On October 17, 1741, a small group of immigrants from Saxony, Germany landed in the Port of Philadelphia on the ship "Molly". Among this group was a tall, blond blue-eyed, Saxon named Johann Henrich Weidner, then twenty four years old, having been born on October 9, 1717.

The name "Weidner" has undergone many spelling changes during the years. We now know it as "Whitener". Johann Henrich Weidner became known as Henry Whitener and therefore, we will call him by that name.

After working as a trader in Pennsylvania for about four years, he became restless and decided to head south, following in the footsteps of other German and Dutch settlers who had gone on before him.

In the year of 1745, he packed his horse with a bedroll, his long barrelled rifle, and with his dogs headed south for the Carolinas.

After several months, he arrived in that part of North Carolina, now known as Catawba County, being the first white man to explore the unknown wilderness west of the Catawba River. He discovered another fork of the river which was named the Henry River in his honor. Another fork was discovered and named the Jacob River in memory of Henry's brother who had moved south in 1749.

After hunting and trapping a few years, with frequent trips back to Philadelphia to sell his furs, he returned to North Carolina in 1749 with a young girl, Maria Katrina Muehl, as his wife. She was born May 24, 1733 and was only sixteen years old at the time of their marriage. The spelling of her name also has changed through the years and is now known as Mary Catherine Mull Whitener.

They built their home near the Henry River, on land they acquired through a land grant from the King of England, dated 1750. It was here that they made friends with some of the Indian tribes who taught them how to survive and helped them through several of the Indian uprisings.

Through the years, they became the parents of three sons and five daughters; Daniel (1750-1833), Henry Jr. (1752-1811), Abram (1759-1780), Barbara, Molliana, Mary Ann (1755-1839), Catherine (1756), and Elizabeth. (Some birth and death dates were not found).

Henry Whitener died July 13, 1792 and his wife Catherine died August 20, 1804. Both are buried in the family cemetery near their original home place with their headstones being inscribed in German.

We shall now trace the life and decedents of the eldest son, Daniel, who was my great, great, great, grandfather.

Daniel Whitener was born October 14, 1750. He was married in 1784, to Mary Wilfong born March 11, 1765 as the daughter of George and Mary Poffh Wilfong, Daniel served in the Revolutionary War and fought in the Battle of Kings Mountain.

After their marriage, Daniel and Mary Wilfong Whitener lived near his father and raised five sons and five daughters; Daniel, John, Henry, George, David, Sally, Rachel, Mary, Betsy, and Catherine.

Daniel Whitener died on January 8, 1833 and Mary Wilfong Whitener died on October 22, 1827. Both are buried in the Whitener family cemetery in Catawba County, North Carolina.

For more information on decedents refer to article under "Catherine Whitener Stacy Family" in this book.

Sources: Historical Records of Catawba County, The Annals of Lincoln County, The Mormon Library, Provo, Utah

— Eunice Brooks Hart

THE WEIR FAMILY OF CLEVELAND COUNTY

1103

In going back in history we find that in 1743 Captain John Weer was born in Ireland. While still a young man he married Elizabeth McKelvy.

The family came over to the new world and settled on a farm near what is now Buffalo bridge between Kings Mountain and Shelby. There was no bridge at that time. The wagons had to go down into the swift water and cross. Later a wooden bridge was built. It was called Weer Bridge. Captain John had four sons. John Jr., Alexander, William and Thomas.

Captain John Weer was thirty-seven years old when he heard that General Ferguson was headed for Kings Mountain, so, he gathered a company of his neighbors as quickly as he could and went immediately to the Kings Mountain area. He was too late to help whip the foe, but he was not too late to render great assistance to our forces as they needed so much help to care for the wounded and the dying. They helped carry water for the thirsty men and water from nearby springs to wash the wounds of the injured. He and his men had nothing in which to carry water so they took off their boots and used them to carry water to the suffering men. He had the true American spirit but was not quick enough to see the greatest fight the sun ever shone upon. Yet he rendered a great service to his fellow man.

Captain John and his family rode in a wagon about twelve miles to church at the original Pisgah Church (back of what is now PPG Truck Traffic Division just off I-85 on highway 74 between Kings Mountain and Gastonia). This church was a log church from 1797 to 1855. It was then moved several miles east. Captain John died September 4, 1819 and is buried in the old church graveyard along with other members of his family.

Captain John's son John, Jr. had four sons: Alexander, born 1809, William, born 1811, John, and Thomas Ceaton, born 1814.

William had two sons and two daughters; James W. born 1841, Alexander Franklin born 1838, Mary and Susanna. Also, by his second wife a son William Boyce born 1848.

Somewhere along the line they began spelling their name Weir. Then later some spelled their name Ware. For instance Charles P. Weir (James' son) had sons who all spell their name Ware. At Long Creek Church Graveyard there is a grave marked Ware. Beside that grave is a marker for Jane C. Wife of T.C. Weir. So, some spell it Ware and some Weir. At one time most of them spelled it Weir but pronounced it Ware.

Alexander Franklin Weir, born December 25, 1838, died April 23, 1898, married Martha Regina Falls. Their children were William Rush, Samuel Sylvester, Mattie, Lee, Louisa Elizabeth, James Franklin, Boyce McLean, and Mamie. Also, Deleightal by second wife (Dovie Wilson). Alexander lived in a two story house with a porch all the way across the front. It was located in the exact spot where Macedonia Church is now located on Grover Road. In fact, the Weir family donated the spot where the first church was located. This is now the parking lot in front of the church.

Samuel Sylvester Weir, born April 23, 1867, died September 23, 1955, married Sarah (Sallie) Wells, born October 5, 1870, died January 9, 1960. Their children were Alexander Franklin, born November 22, 1889, died May 21, 1975; Pearl Veatress, born May 17, 1891, Lee Curtis born March 14, 1893, died September 7, 1960; Sallie Mable, born January 23, 1895, died January 15, 1980; Dewey Fredrick, born January 18, 1898, died July 30, 1944; William Theadore (Ted), born September 1, 1901, died December 15, 1978; Samuel Sylvester Jr. born October 15, 1914.

Alexander Franklin married Ethel Hord. Children Jess W. Cook and A.F. Jr.; L. Curtis married Elizabeth McKenna. Children Monica, Robert Lee, James S. and Betty W. Bertetto. S. Mable married Thomas A. Hambright. Children Louise H. Roberts, Aileen H. Cantrell, Bess H. Phifer, Lucy H. Kinard. S. Anderson Hambright, J. Lawrence Hambright, Sue H. Drye and Thomas A. Hambright, Jr. Dewey F. married Mae Gantt. Children Lillian W. Ives, Jean W. Smith and D. Fredrick, Jr. William T. married Josephine Ellerbe. P. Veatress unmarried. Samuel S. Jr. married Mary Ervin. Children Derice W. Falls and Marlene W. Allen.

Samuel S. Weir Sr. and family moved to a farm house at 919 Grover Road in early 1902. They farmed and sold some milk. People would bring a jar to the farm and his family would fill the jar with milk. At that time there were no milk deliveries and no milk sold in stores.

When World War I started there was a need for wagon teams and drivers. So S.S. and Ted took wagon teams to Fort Bragg and helped to build Fort Bragg near Fayetteville. They also helped build Camp Green near Charlotte. They became head of wagon crews.

While they were at Fort Bragg they saw farmers delivering milk house to house in wagons. So after the war they came back home and started the first home delivery of milk by wagon in Kings Mountain. Later they bought a horse drawn hearse and converted it to an enclosed milk wagon.

S.S. became postmaster in the late 20's and early 30's. He served in that office for many years. He was superintendent of Sunday School and deacon in the First Baptist Church. He and other leaders of Kings Mountain and Gastonia organized Lake Montonia Club and helped build the lake. Back during the depression days, the early 30's, he had plenty of milk but people had no money so he kept delivering milk knowing that the people could not pay. When things began to get better he set aside the old bills and let the people pay a few cents at a time on the old accounts.

William (Ted) Theadore was postmaster for some time. He as a deacon and leader in the Baptist Church for many years. He was owner and manager of Weir's Store & Coal Yard for many years. He also bought Crawford's Market (where B&B Food Store is now) from the Crawford Brothers during World War II and sold it back to them when they came back from serving their country during the war. He was an active Kiwanian and Mason. He served his community very well during his lifetime.

In the 1930's, or there about, a geologist was passing Kings Mountain and stopped. He went from store to store showing a rock sample to whomever he saw asking them if they had seen such a rock. No one had seen a rock like that before. Ted happened to go in the store where the geologist was and saw the rock. He said that he had seen rocks like that. He told him that one of his milk cows had not come to the barn at feeding time so he had gone to look for her. He found that she had caught her foot in a stump hole. Around that stump hole there were rocks like that one. Ted took the man to the place where the cow had caught her foot. There were rocks with green crystals of spodumene that contained lithium. The man sent The Solvay Processing Co. into Kings Mountain and they surveyed this section and found there was the greatest amount of lithium here than in other section of the country. This led the way for Foote Mineral to come to Cleveland County and also for Lithium Co. to come to Gaston County. There were also samples of mica in these rocks that led several Mica Mines to come to Cleveland County.

— Samuel Sylvester Weir, Jr.

SAMUEL S. WEIR, JR.

1104

Samuel S. Weir Jr. married Mary Ervin in 1936.

He moved his Baptist membership to First Presbyterian in Kings Mountain in 1938. He was elected Deacon in 1947. He was elected Elder in 1949, and served in that office for many years. He is now Elder Emeritus. He was Supt. of the Sunday School for a number of years.

He was Manager and Partner of S.&T. Grocery at Mauney Mill for seventeen years.

He was an Agent with Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. for seventeen. He won Honor Club

Remember . . .

Articles
Are Indexed
By
Article Numbers
. . . Not By
Page
Number

Billie's son William Pressley was born June 4, 1949 in Pahoia, Hawaii. W.P.'s son Sage Anderson was born October 26, 1978.

Sources: Information over a period of years, mostly from kinfolk. I have visited graveyards all over this part of the country. I read and reread Rev. C.J. Blacks History of The First Baptist Church written in 1926.

— Samuel Sylvester Weir, Jr.

ALEXANDER VESCO (DAN) WELLS FAMILY

1105

Alexander Vesco (Dan) Wells was a descendant of John, Isaac, and Robert H. Wells. (See related articles in this volume).

Because of our interest in the Cleveland County Heritage book, we have met and come to know more people in our family than ten funerals or homecoming picnics would have done, including this family, which is my grandmother's family.

The Wells family cemetery has been on my grandmother Florence Wells Hughes' land all my life. It is now owned by her grandson, John Lewis Hughes. I never learned until about two or three weeks ago that the John, Isaac, and Robert H. Wells that are buried there are my first three grandfathers on that side of our family.

Alexander Vesco (Dan) Wells (Dec. 1, 1838 — Dec. 1, 1896), was married on Feb. 1, 1859 to Lucy Ann Blalock (Feb. 7, 1840 — June 11, 1925). She was a daughter of Jeremiah Blalock and Hannah H _____ (maiden name unknown.)

Alexander and Lucy Blalock Wells were farmers. We were told how Grandpa would pan for gold on the farm. They had nine children. They were (1) Lawson C. (Uncle Bud), b. April 6, 1860 — d. Dec. 31, 1934. He married Nannie Crawford. (2) Mary Hannah Lucinda (Dec. 14, 1863 — Dec. 18, 1951) married Beatty Barber. (3) Elizabeth (Lizzie) Jane (Sept. 5, 1865 — Jan. 29, 1950) married George Fredrick Hambricht. (4) M.L. Isabelle (Jan. 22, 1868 — Oct. 25, 1868). (5) Sallie A. (Oct. 5, 1870 — Jan. 9, 1960) married Silvester Weir. (6) Rossie Lee (Nov. 7, 1873 — Dec. 29, 1960) married Andy McCarter. (7) Robert Lee (July 8, 1875 — Aug. 18, 1941) married Letha Anna Lucus.

"Uncle Bob" was the one that everybody would go to if they needed help, day or night. If you could get to his house he would find the answer to many problems. He was a farmer and the community carpenter. He had a cut-off saw pulled by tractor, or jack up a wheel on a Model T or Model A truck, put on the belt, drop it in gear and saw wood! He ground corn into meal with a tractor and mill stones. He took toll for grinding, not money. He ran a cotton gin in the fall of the year. Family reunions were held at their house. Aunt Anna could cook and bake anything. Her blueberry bread — I believe I can still smell it when I pass where they lived.

status for 3 years. He was honored as leading salesman for the district in 1968.

He was an active member of the Lions Club for many years. He was Lion of the year for District 3I-C.

1964-65, he was honored by District Governor 1965-66 as the most outstanding Lion. He is now retired.

They have two daughters and four grandchildren. Derice, who is married to Rev. Fred Falls. They live in Gastonia where Fred is one of the Ministers of First United Methodist Church.

Marlene, who is married to Arthur Allen Jr. They live in Charlotte where he is sales manager for Dogwood Fabricks of Charlotte.

Kinfolk from all over carry the Weir name into the future.

Dr. A. Frank Weir Jr. was born June 7, 1928 in Spartenburg, S. C. His sons are David Frank, born April 19, 1951, Richard Mark born December 26, 1955 and Paul Daniel born April 2, 1959. David's sons are David Jr. and Chris.

The late L. Curtis of Long Beach Calif. was born March 14, 1893, & died September 7, 1960. Son, James S. was born August 22, 1921. James' sons Kenneth J. was born January 2, 1943, and Robert Lee II was born July 19, 1955.

The late Dewey Fredrick of Hampstead, N. C. was born January 18, 1898, died July 30, 1944. D.F. Jr. of Raleigh was born October 21, 1939. D.F. Jr's son David F. was born September 21, 1963.

The late William Rush was born February 3, 1865, died March 26, 1950. His sons are Lee Sullervan, who was born August 29, 1902, James Oscar was born October 7, 1907, and William David was born July 14, 1925. James O. Lives in Morganton. Son Jack Cooper. J.C.'s son Jonathan. Lee S. Lives in Bostic, N.C. His sons Johnny William and Dermus Lee. William D. lives in Maryland. His sons are David Joseph and John Francis.

The late Boyce Mclean, was born December 30, 1877, died October 27, 1965. Son Marshal, was born January 5, 1919 died February 12, 1966. His son Boyce F. was born February 5, 1942, in Belmont. B.F., son Eric Marshal was born October 23, 1977.

William Boyce, was born October 1, 1848, died August 4, 1934. (his home was where the Home S.&L. now stands.) Son William Orr, was born October 5, 1885 & died June 8, 1916. W.O. son William O. Jr. (Billie) was born September 18, 1915 in Jacksonville Fla.

Alexander Vesco (Dan) Wells

(8) Elvie Florence (Sept. 17, 1877 — April 16, 1969), was the writer's grandmother. She married William Gordon Hughes (see Hugheses, this volume). What can anyone say about these Saints that would give them half of what they deserve? She was loved and she loved. We felt that their home was as safe as the City of Refuge in the Bible. She thought no evil and saw no evil in her grandchildren . . . mischievous, maybe, but not bad. She always had something good to eat hidden for us. A pat on the head or a hug was always waiting at Grandma's house. She lived a long and happy 92 years. With family and children (all twelve of them) and many grandchildren — no one can come close to filling the place left by our Grandmother.

(9) Etta Ann (Apr. 22, 1881 — d. 1935): married Ben Logan.

Sources: family records and family Bible

— Jack Hughes

THE CHARLES HUDSON WELLS FAMILY

1106

I am Charles Hudson Wells IV and I was born on May 23, 1979 in Shelby, North Carolina, and I have one brother, Jonathan David who was born March 10, 1981.

My father, Charles III, an only child, was born March 14, 1949 in Shelby. He graduated from Shelby High School, showed an early interest in music and played clarinet in the band, studied piano and organ and is an accomplished musician. His military service was four years Navy, 1969 to 1973. My mother, Sandra Perry Wells, was from Milton, Florida. My maternal grandparents are Sanford Earl and Roberta Ann Pfeiffer Perry, natives of Milton, Florida.

My grandfather, Charles H. Wells, Jr. who is compiling this record for me, was born April 16, 1915 in Shelby, North Carolina and my grandmother, Sue Ellen Propst Wells was born in Catawba County, North Carolina, February 3, 1915. My maternal great-grandparents were James O. and Cary Bumgardner Propst, natives of Cleveland County. Sue Propst Wells attended school in Shelby and graduated from Appalachian State University and taught in Shelby schools until her retirement in 1976. Charles Wells, Jr. attended school in Shelby and served four and a half years in the Army during World War II, serving in the United States, England, France and Germany.

Charles H. Wells, Sr. was born November 7, 1881 in Shelby, North Carolina, attended Shelby Schools and Rutherford College, and had a varied career of teacher, salesman, farmer, merchant and United States Postal Service where he retired at age seventy. He married Tonce Walker December 25, 1912 in Shelby. Their children were Rachel (Hobbs), born November 9, 1913; Charles H., Jr., born April 16, 1915; Mary (Wray), born February 18, 1918; Helen (Toole) born December 1, 1919; Judge Hugh A. Wells, born June 8, 1922; W. Lucille (Turner) born January 19, 1924.

Tonce Walker was a daughter of Joseph

Lucy Ann Blalock Wells

Morgan and Eliza Ann (Williamson) Walker of Rutherford County.

Charles Wells, Sr. was a son of John Kendall Wells, Jr., born October 1, 1844 and Rachel Ware Wells, and their children were: Robert Mason, born August 9, 1872; Dr. Thomas Marvin, born June 5, 1874 (married Lucy Hoyle); John K. III, born May 7, 1876; May (Connor) born November 13, 1877; Charles H. born November 17, 1881; Guy born December 18, 1884; Ruth (Christopher) born August 23, 1888. All the children of John K. graduated from high school and attended college.

John K., Jr. was the son of John K. Sr., born April 10, 1805 and Mary Y. Carson Wells, born November 25, 1806. This couple married December 18, 1832. Their children were William Carson, born November 14, 1833; Robert Gidney, born February 21, 1835; Thomas Price, born October 26, 1836; Mary E.C., born September 6, 1938; Lewis McCurry, born June 12, 1840; Cynthia J.G., born February 26, 1842; John K., Jr., born October 1, 1844; James Hughey, born December 20, 1847. Lewis J., John K., Jr., and James H. served in the Civil War for C.S.A. Lewis M. was killed in battle at Chancellorsville, Virginia, May 2, 1963.

John K. Wells, Sr. was the son of Robert, born April 22, 1773 and Jemima Price Wells, born June 10, 1775. This couple married April 10, 1800. Their children were: Thomas Price, born February 3, 1801; Erixana Caroline, born December 22, 1802; John K., born April 10, 1805; Cynthia Sharp, born September 1, 1807, Rachel Hambright, born January 22, 1810, Isabella Price, born June 10, 1812; Jemima Levina, born October 24, 1814; Mary Hollaway, born May 15, 1816.

Robert Wells was the son of John Wells and Britter Hollaway Wells. Their children were: John, born 1760's; James born 1760's; Robert, born April 22, 1773; Isaac, born 1782; Aaron, Sally (Whisonant); Rachell (Hambright); Priscilla (Whisonant); Nancy (Collins).

John Wells claims to have been born in Pennsylvania about 1741. He was probably the son of Joseph Wells and grandson of Thomas Wells who came from England about 1635.

Joseph Wells migrated with a group of Quakers to what was then Granville Precinct of North Carolina (later Orange County) and died there between 1765-1768.

Joseph's sons, John and James migrated to what was then part of the former Tryon County (later Lincoln County and now Cleveland County) between 1769-1772, when John appears in records and obtained several land grants in the area about two miles northwest of the site of the Battle of Kings Mountain of the Revolutionary War, in which John, a loyal Patriot fought along with his friend and neighbor Colonel Fred Hambright. John's name appears as a signer of the Tryon County Declaration of Rights and Independence August 14, 1775.

Sources: Family Bibles, Research on Old John by Ruby Wells Cartledge of Goldsboro, N.C.

— Charles H. Wells, Jr.

THE JOHN WELLS FAMILY 1107

John Wells claims to have been born in Pennsylvania about 1740. He was probably the son of Joseph Wells Sr. and probably the grandson of Thomas Wells who came from England about 1635.

This Joseph Wells Sr. was a Quaker and probably migrated with a colony of English Quakers who came from Mass., Penn. and Va. (Fairfax or Loudon Co) to what was then the Granville Precinct of North Carolina (Later Orange Co), sometime shortly before 1750 and settled on Bloody and Caine Creeks. Deeds place him there, having already acquired land by 1752.

Joseph Wells had a son Joseph Jr. (d. 1804) and probably, Robert, John, James, Isaac, (d. 1792) and William. John Wells may have been a younger son.

Joseph Wells probably died between 1765-68.

John Wells, along with his brother James, migrated to the area of what was then part of the former Tryon Co. (later Lincoln, now Cleveland) between 1769 and 1772, when John appears in records and obtained several land grants in the area south of the town of Kings Mtn. (formerly White Plains) very near the South Carolina line and about two miles N.W. of the site of the Battle of Kings Mtn. of the Revolutionary War, in which John, a loyal patriot fought along with his friend and neighbor, Col. Fred Hambright.

John's name appears as a signer of the Tryon County Declaration of Rights and Independence, August 14, 1775, at the site of the old Tryon Co. Court House, which was located five miles north of Bessemer City.

An old log house built by John in 1780, while the Revolutionary War was still raging, still stands today, a silent memento of this hardy pioneer, settler, soldier who survived hardships and perilous times of our early days as a colony and later as a young nation.

Amongst the stories told of "Old John" is one in which he "killed a big black bear" that was literally "knocking at the door".

The name Wells has held a prominent place in the history of Cleveland Co. since the arrival of these first two patriarchs, John and James Wells.

James Wells apparently settled near John and may have moved to Rutherford Co. and predeceased John.

The name of John's wife is an enigma. Orange Co. records gives her name as "Sarah", but John gives her name as "Britty" on his will. A possibility of two wives or a nickname. Some believe she was a daughter of Robert Holloway of Orange Co.

John Wells had nine children; John Wells Jr., Robert H., Isaac, Aaron, James, Rachel (Hambright), Priscilla (Whisonant), Nancy (Collins) and Sarah Amanda (Whisonant). There was probably another son Joseph, who predeceased John.

John Jr., Aaron, James, Rachel and Nancy moved west to Tennessee, Kentucky, Missouri and Mississippi. The others remained in the nearby areas of Lincoln, Cleveland and York Co, S.C.

John Wells died March 4, 1819 and is buried, together with his son Isaac, grandson Robert H. and other descendants in a family cemetery located in the Dixon School section, south of the town of Kings Mtn. and very near his old homestead.

Isaac Wells, born 1782, died September 1, 1857, son of John Wells, was born in the old house built by John. Isaac was a blacksmith, hatter and a maker and dyer of horse blankets. He married Ann Gladden, (b. 1785 — d. 1857), a daughter of Joseph Gladden Sr. They had nine children; Jane (Randal), Eason, John, Mary M. (Hambright), Robert H., Rachel Editha (Falls), James Simpson, Sarah (Patterson) and Jemima (Berry). Descendants of most of these can be found in the area as records seem to indicate that most remained in that area. Eason predeceased Isaac, leaving issue.

Isaac and Ann Wells died in a flu epidemic in 1857, three days apart. They are buried in the old family cemetery with Isaac's father.

Isaac's son, Robert H. Wells (b. 1810 — d. 1879) married his first cousin Lucinda Gladden, daughter of Joseph Gladden Jr. Robert H. moved just south of the state line into York Co. S.C., Clark's District about 1851, when he received land grants. Robert H. was a farmer and ran a grist mill.

Some think the H. in his name was Hambright, while others think it may have been Holloway. The close association of his father, Isaac with the Hambright family tends to suggest that his name was really Robert Hambright Wells.

Robert H. and Lucinda Wells had thirteen children: Francis Marion, William M., Sarah R. (Farris), Alexander Vesco, Robertson, Aruther Hambright, Emily Ann, David Zacheriah, Margaret Caroline (Sansing), Mary Jane (Sansing), Robert Sumpter, Edward E. and Isabella Elizabeth (Gordon).

A list of the children giving birth, death and marriages were included in a Bible that belonged to his son David Z. who joined the "mormon" Church and moved to Utah in 1880. Another list is contained in an 1885 partition brought by Robert Sumpter and Alexander V. against their mother Lucinda. Ten children are named and the three children of deceased daughter Mrs. Thomas Farris (Sarah R.).

Robert H. is buried in the Wells family cemetery in Cleveland Co. N.C. No tombstone has ever been found for Lucinda, but her obituary which appeared in the Yorkville Enquirer, states that her funeral was held at Bethany A.R.P. Church, near Clover, S.C. very near the site of Robert H. old homestead. Her age was given as 98 years.

Sources: New York & Cleveland Co. Census Records, Tax Lists, Morman records.

— Ruby Wells Cartledge

THE JOHN WELLS FAMILY 1108

John Wells, who was born in 1741 and died March 4, 1819, moved with his wife Britter, to what is now Dixon Community, near Kings Mountain about 1770. Here he built his first cabin and began farming. Being successful at this, John tried his hand at land speculation. With this also a success he built another, larger cabin in 1780 for his growing family. This house is still occupied and is recorded as the oldest standing house in Cleveland County. By the time of his death, John was considered a wealthy and respected man. At one point he was appointed constable of what was then Tryon County, and he was also a signer of the Tryon Declaration of Rights and Independence in August of 1775.

There were nine children born to John and Britter Wells: John Jr., James, Issac, Aaron, Robert, Sally, Rachell, Priscilla, and Nancy.

Two sons, Robert and Issac eventually divided the family properties, giving cash and slaves as estate settlements after John's death. Robert took the properties near Shelby and expanded them into a large plantation. His decedents remain mostly in the Shelby area today.

Issac remained on the Dixon Community properties and developed it into a profitable plantation. Residing at his father's old home, he and his wife Ann Gladden Wells reared a family of nine children: Jane, John, Easome, Mary M., Robert H., Rachel C., James Simpson, Sarah, and Jemima C. Carrying on the family tradition of honor, Issac became Justice of the Peace at one time.

Issac died September 1, 1857 three days before his wife during a flu epidemic. He left his son James Simpson with the main plantation, his daughter Sarah and her husband James W. Patterson with a neighboring plantation in his possession, and the remaining children with cash, household items, and slaves as their inheritance.

James Simpson Wells, who was born September 8, 1821, remained on the old John Wells plantation he inherited from his father. He and his wife Dulcinia reared seven children: Saphia J., John A., Marcus R., Morris Gaines, Pinkney, Aaron Lee, and Mary E.

Struggling through the War Between the States, financial loss of his work force of slaves, and Reconstruction, James managed to keep the plantation intact. His staunch faith in God must have helped carry him through the troubled times. James was very active in the family church, Antioch Baptist Church, and the Baptist Association. It is even inscribed on his tombstone that "He was a member of the Baptist Church."

Two of James Simpson's sons, Gaines and Aaron Lee, inherited the plantation and divided into two separate tracts. Gaines sold his share which included John Sr.'s old homeplace to John Stewart. Mr. Stewart's son George resides there presently with his wife Letha and their daughter Elizabeth.

Aaron Lee Wells, who was born January 6, 1863 built a home on his share of his father's property. There with his wife Pamela Jane McCarter Wells they reared nine children: Whitney, Earl, Wayne, Hunter, Quinn, Britie Maldena, Harley, Daily, and Bonnie Mae.

Aaron Lee followed in the tradition of his ancestors as a respected leader of the community. He served many years as head of the school board at Dixon School. At times when they were without a teacher, he filled in as an excellent schoolmaster. Aaron Lee died of a heart attack on January 3, 1931 at the home of a neighbor, Bently Blalock.

Four of Aaron Lee's children are living at the present: Wayne, residing with his wife Leona, son Richard, and his family in Dixon Community, Hunter, residing in Kings Mountain with his wife Lydle; Harley, residing at the veteran's hospital in Washington, D.C., and Britie W. Frances, residing in Blacksburg, South Carolina.

Sources: County records, Family Bibles and records, Family and church cemeteries — Wayne Wells and his grandson

Robert D. Wells

TONCE WALKER WELLS

1109

If service and citizenship ever resided in a more unselfish and dedicated individual in this area, then they have escaped my notice.

Tonce Walker, the seventh of ten children, was born in Rutherford County near the Cleveland County line, in what is known as the New House Community. Her parents, both from pioneer families, were Joseph Morgan and Eliza Ann (Williamson) Walker. At an early age Tonce moved with her family to a farm near Landrum, South Carolina because her father knew of a good school that the children might attend. Learning was an exciting experience for Tonce for her entire ninety-six years. They stayed in Landrum for three or four years and returned to their home in Rutherfordton.

In her early teens Tonce went to Belwood, North Carolina to stay with a sister, Mrs. Frank L. (Aunt Mamie) Hoyle, attended school in Belwood and helped care for the Hoyle children. Later, when the Hoyles moved to Shelby, she came back to live with them and to work as a clerk in department stores and help her sister. There were twelve Hoyle children. It was while working in Shelby that Tonce met and later married Charles Hudson Wells. They were married December 25, 1912. To this union was born six children: Rachel (Mrs. Junius Hobbs); Charles, Jr. (married Sue Propst); Mary (Mrs. Charles Wray); Helen (Mrs. James Toole); Hugh (married Virginia DeFabio and later Ann Cloninger); Lucille (Mrs. Max Turner).

Besides caring for her own children she at various times wet nursed three other babies at a time of crisis in their young lives; all lived. She was a devoted member of Central Methodist Church, she saw that the children also learned to love the church.

Tonce was a charter member of the American Legion Auxiliary in Shelby, for over fifty years a member of Shelby Woman's Club, a member of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, a member of the Daughters of the American Revolution, and held top offices, at times, in everything she belonged to. A tireless worker in anything she felt would make for a better community in which to live. She loved people and had an infallible memory for the older families of this area. I'm sorry that I didn't record more of Shelby's history while she still lived.

Our branch of the Walker family starts with John and Urcilla (Covington) Walker before the American Revolution. This couple had twelve children. One was my great, great grandfather Jessie Walker. Jessie and Minimie (Whitaker) Walker had fourteen children, twelve girls and two boys, one my grandfather Joseph Morgan Walker. Joseph and Eliza Ann (Williamson) Walker had ten children which brings us down to Tonce Walker Wells, my mother.

My brief sketch can only bring you a tiny ray of the light that shone brightly for all those who knew and loved her.

Source: Family records and personal knowledge

— Charles H. Wells, Jr.

JOSEPH CARPENTER WHISNANT

1110

Joseph Carpenter Whisnant was born August 24, 1901 in Henrietta, Rutherford County, North Carolina. He is the son of Dr. James Fletcher Whisnant and Sophia Jane Willis Whisnant.

Dr. Whisnant, a dentist, was born in 1865 and died in 1936, and he is buried in the public cemetery of Henrietta, North Carolina. Sophia Jane Willis was born in 1870 and died in 1905, and is buried in the Mt. Harmony Methodist Church cemetery.

After the death of his mother, Joe, as a young child and young man lived with his father and step-mother and various family members, and of necessity became self-sufficient at an early age. He attended Brevard Institute and graduated from Duke University (formerly Trinity College), with a A.B. degree in 1925 and from Duke University Law School in 1929.

During the intervening year between college and law school, Joe Whisnant taught history at Shelby High School. During his years in college and law school, in addition to being completely self-supporting, he was both an outstanding student, and while small of physical stature, was an outstanding athlete. He was inducted into the Order of Coif, which is the highest honor attainable by a law student and was also Manager and Editor of the student paper, The Chronicle. Joe was North Carolina intercollegiate tennis champion in 1927, Manager of the college book store and snack shop and member of Lambda Chi Alpha Fraternity.

He was licensed to practice law in 1928, the year before he graduated from law school. With a background of industriousness and talent, it is only natural that upon his return to Shelby in 1928 he would enter into the practice of law with Robert L. Ryburn and Clyde R. Hoey. At that time the attorneys' offices were located on the West side of LaFayette Street, directly across the street from the Courthouse.

Joe practiced law in that location continuously until he moved his practice to the Shelby Savings and Loan building on East Warren Street in Shelby. A leading member of the Cleveland County Bar, Joe was recognized by all for his integrity, intelligence, and the quality of his work.

From the beginning of his law practice, Joe Whisnant gave freely of his professional and personal time and efforts. He served as a Cleveland County-Shelby area Chairman for Duke University's Annual Loyalty Fund Drive for 35 years. A member of Rotary for 35 years and former President of the Club, he was designated a Paul Harris Fellow for 1980, which is the highest honor bestowed by Rotary International.

He served as both attorney for and Director of the First National Bank, was on the Park Board and the Cleveland Country Club Board of Directors for many years, where he also served as Chairman at one time. While serving on the Board of Cleveland Memorial Hospital, he prepared a Corporate Charter for that organization. He also served as attorney for both the City of Shelby and Cleveland County, and also as School Board attorney for both Cleveland County and the Shelby City School Systems. Joe served the public and individual clients without regard to personal compensation. Long before the existence of government legal services for the poor, Joe made himself available to provide legal services for the underprivileged.

At age 41, Joe Whisnant volunteered for the Military and served as a Navy officer during World War II. After his discharge as a Lt. Commander, he returned to the practice of law with Governor Clyde R. Hoey, in March of 1946.

During his career, Joe Whisnant became recognized as an expert in the areas of real estate and probate law. His reputation went far beyond Cleveland County, as evidenced by the fact that he was retained by many national corporations which located plants in the Cleveland County area. Joe Whisnant served the Lord as a member of the Central Methodist Church in Shelby. A Sunday School teacher, he taught the Hoey Bible Class for 50 years and was Chairman of the Administrative Board and was Finance Chairman, responsible for the Fund Raising Campaign for the Educational Building.

As a lifelong bachelor, Joe Whisnant and Lou Alice Hamrick were married September 19, 1959. The daughter of William Franklin Hamrick and Emma Jane Cline Hamrick, Lou Alice Hamrick was born and raised in Cleveland County. She graduated from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. One of four children, and the only daughter, her brothers are D.S. Hamrick, now deceased, Alvin H. Hamrick and W. Dixon Hamrick.

Joseph C. Whisnant, Jr. was born September 24, 1960. The only child born to Lou Alice and Joe Whisnant, Joe, Jr., an outstanding student, has the distinction of scoring 800 on the Scholastic Aptitude Test for mathematics, which placed him in the upper one percent of all students tested. He attends Furman Univer-city and will graduate in June, 1982.

— John Schweppe

DAVID PHILLIPS and MARIAN KIRKPATRICK WHITE

1111

David Phillips White, son of Matthew Elder and Lula Dale White, was born November 28, 1911 in Chester, S.C. He graduated from Erskine College, Due West, S.C. and moved to Shelby January 1, 1935. He became associated with his brother, Harvey S. White, in the life insurance business with the Equitable Life Assurance Society of New York. He continued with the Equitable and is now on a semi-retired basis. His motto has been, "When you think of me, do not think of insurance but when you think of insurance, think of me".

David has been very active in the civic, social and religious affairs in Shelby.

He joined the Shelby Presbyterian Church in 1935. He has served as Sunday School teacher, Deacon and Elder. He also served on many committees in the local church as well as in the Presbytery.

He became a member of the Shelby Lions Club on March 10, 1936. He served as president in 1947-1948 and as treasurer for seven years and on the board of directors for several years. He also served as Zone Chairman and Deputy District Governor of district 31-C. He has been very active in many of the projects to raise money for many charities. He has had 45 years perfect attendance up to 1982.

David has been active in the Boy Scouts. He became scout master in 1936 of Troop #1 at the Shelby Presbyterian Church and served for nine years in this capacity. He also served on committees on the local troop, County and Piedmont Council level. He received the Silver Beaver Award in 1959, which is the highest award available to adult leaders in Boy Scout work on the Council level.

He was a member of the Shelby Life Underwriters for 20 years. He served as president and was active on many committees. He received the National Quality Award for 20 years.

He has been active in the United Fund and served as solicitor each year since its beginning.

He was married to Marian DeArmond Kirkpatrick, Charlotte, N.C., on June 30, 1939. They have two children, Jane Dale and David Phillips, Jr.

Marian, daughter of Hugh DeArmond and Jennie Galloway Kirkpatrick, was born October 4, 1912 in Charlotte, N.C. She graduated from Erskine College. She taught school in the Charlotte City schools for four years. She married David Phillips White and moved to Shelby in 1939. She has been active in the Civic and Religious affairs in Shelby. She is an active member of the Shelby Presbyterian Church, where she has served as president of the Women of the Church, Sunday School teacher and Circle chairman. She has been an active member of the Junior Charity League for many years. She taught in the Shelby City Schools for 13 years.

Jane Dale White was born in Shelby February 14, 1942 and graduated from Duke University. She is married to Dr. Edward Boyd Stokes, a Methodist minister, and they live in Taylorsville, N.C. They have one son, Edward Boyd Stokes, Jr. She teaches at West Alexander Junior High School.

David Phillips White, Jr. was born in Shelby February 10, 1944. He is married to Marsha Jean Reid and they live in Clover, S.C. He received his Masters Degree from U.N.C. at Charlotte and is Assistant Principal in the Gaston County School System. They have one son, David Phillips White, III.

The David P. Whites agree with the slogan, "Shelby is the City of Pleasant Living".

Source: Family Record, Shelby Daily Star

— David Phillips
and Marion Kirkpatrick White

ELLA WHITE FAMILY

1112

Ella Warlick married Edward (Ed) White. Ella was the daughter of Noah Warlick and Ann Falls. Ed was killed in a Saw Mill boiler explosion near Cockran, Georgia, October 13, 1922. He was buried at Pleasant Hill, NC. Ella died April 20, 1971. Their children are Ethel, Ed, Jim, and Kay.

Ed is a Mail Carrier and owns a furniture and appliance store in Casar.

Jim is a Car Dealer and Real Estate Dealer in Shelby.

Ethel married Eugene Hubbard in 1943. Eugene's parents were Noah Hubbard and Dorris Peeler, her parents were Ambrose Peeler and Rossie Boggs.

Ethel and Eugene's Children are Edward, John, Gail, and Donald. Donald was killed in a car wreck on September 1970. John was electrocuted while working for Rutherford Electric Membership Corporation on June 26th, 1975. Both are buried at Kadesh. Edward married Grace Marshall. They have two children, Pam and Jennifer.

John married Judy Willis, and their children are Donald and Johnette.

Gail married Frank McSwain who was the son of Bill McSwain and Betty Dedmon, grandson of Cleo Dedmon and Corney Wellmon. Gail and Frank's children are Tommy and Carry.

Donald was never married.

Eugene's first wife was Vernice Mae Morrison. Their children are Elizabeth, Reba, Kenneth, and Mary Lou.

Elizabeth married Frank Glenn, son of Lee Glenn and Myrtle Queen. Elizabeth's and Frank's children are Patricia, Mary, Franklin, John, Carolyn, and David.

Reba married Clemmie Tallent and their children are Clemmie (Ricky), Bobby, Revonda, and Renee.

Kenneth married Patty Hartsook. Their children are Lara and Barney.

Mary Lou married Dewey Lail. Their child is Stanley.

Ed White married Louise Hawkins. Their children are Eddie, Patsy, and Scottie.

Jim White married Olkey Chapman. Their children are Jimmy, Barbara, and Loy. Loy was killed in a car wreck on June 15, 1961. Loy

White Camp was built in Memorial of him. He was buried at Pleasant Hill. Kay married Pete Chems. Their children are Richard, Patsy, and Bobby.

Sources: Family

— Ethel White Hubbard

JAMES WILSON WHITE & OKLEY CHAPMAN WHITE

1113

James Wilson (Jim) White was born on May 2, 1918 in Cochran, Georgia. He was the third child of Edward Whitney and Ella Warlick White.

Jim began his career as a merchant in Casar, North Carolina. He was the first independent used car dealer in Cleveland County. It was Jim and Robert Hause Used Cars in Shelby. He was among the first land developers to sub-divide land in Cleveland County. Along with this interest he engaged in the construction business. In 1955 he purchased the Shelby Auto Auction which continues to operate a weekly car sale.

His main interests in life, outside his family, are Pleasant Hill Methodist Church and Camp Loy White, both of which are located in the upper area of Cleveland County.

Oakley Chapman White was born October 12, 1922 in Burke County. She was the fourth child born to William Tyree and Zula Botts Chapman. She attended school in Burke County and graduated from Morganton High School. Jim and Okley were married on October 22, 1939 and had three children: James Wilson, Jr., b. September 10, 1940. He graduated from U.N.C. and currently resides in Myrtle Beach, South Carolina. He is in the construction business and has three children: Susan Elizabeth, b. April 21, 1967; Margaret Chapman b. September 23, 1969; James Wilson, III, b. February 24, 1972. Barbara Ann was born July 6, 1942 and married Archibald Gordon McLarty December 10, 1966. They have two daughters: Melinda Ann b. December 31, 1968. Mary Angela b. December 29, 1969. Lon Edward was born December 26, 1945 and died June 15, 1961. Loy was a very outstanding athlete and scholar at Shelby High School. He was killed in an automobile accident in the summer after his sophomore year in high school. Camp Loy White, which is a Gastonia District Methodist Church camp, is named in memory of this youth.

Okley and Jim worked together in business over the years and have developed their interests. They are charter members of Aldersgate United Methodist Church in Shelby as well as Pleasant Hill Methodist Church near Belwood, North Carolina.

Sources: Family records

— Barbara White McLarty

STEPHEN WHITE

1114

From Italy came one Stephen White and a Garibaldi: Mr. Garibaldi stopped in Charlotte and established the jewelry firm of Garibaldi & Burns: Mr. White came further west on through the Carolinas and finally settled in Grover.

With his hand-organ he would grind music while the dressed-up monkey danced and solicited pennies or dimes from on-lookers. This was the beginnings of a fortune amassed in later years.

It was customary in those days for travelers to stop at a home and ask for hostelry for the night or longer. Mr. White stopped at a Mr. Hullender's home near Grover and was accorded hospitality.

He became enamoured with the daughter of the home, Elvina. As he prepared to resume his trek with the organ and monkey, he proposed to her, with the promise "I'll be back in a year and a day to marry you."

"In a year and a day" he returned for his bride.

Together they built their "nest for two" just across the Southern Railway near John White's lovely home, now occupied by Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Hambright, a grandson.

The old home burned a few years ago, but it was interesting to note that White sawed lumber by hand and carried it on his back three miles to build the house.

He made a plough-stock of sourwood, which he pulled for his wife to plough as they harvested their first crop. Mrs. White picked the seed from the cotton, spun and made clothes.

He was thrifty and seems to have the "Midas touch" in turning his ideas and undertakings into gold. He became a very wealthy man.

He had a little treasure chest 12x12x18 inches (now in possession of a grandson, E.A. Hambright) for the gold that he accumulated — $4,000 in gold.

Just before the death of Mrs. White she asked that he divide up the gold among the children.

"Well, see here now 'by blamee,' I go gettee gold and divide with children to ease her mind before she die."

He always wore a derby, and when the weather was cold he wore a fascinator around his head and ears, but always the derby was on top.

He kept abreast of inventions and progress. When his son John carried the mail, he saw that he had a foot-warmer for the mail wagon. The foot-warmer is a long box with a convex top covered in carpeting. It has an inside drawer that pulled out. The hot brick was placed inside and then fastened. And the box was placed in the foot of the wagon.

Also, White was interested in Grover's first Victrola, owned by his son.

He was a very quaint old fellow and always used mixed phrases of broken English and Italian. Many of his sayings were humorous. He rode a mule to the mill, and it was hard to balance the sack of meal on the donkey's back. He said, "See here, now by blamee, she pick-ee up before and raree up behind, and I can't get the sack to stay putee."

Embalming was a new process for burial at the time of Mrs. White's death, and some of the old folks thought "she was pickled." His second wife was Mary Carter.

White was a far-sighted man — always looking forward to "a year and a day." He held investments in cotton mills — the Bonnie Mill and the Old Mauney Mill — and other interests.

Stephen White was born June 15, 1835 and died May 9, 1923. He was buried in Antioch Cemetery.

On the wife's side of the marker is the inscription "Jane E. — wife of Stephen White — 'Weep not she is not dead but sleepeth.'" (Jane Elvina Hullender White — May 27, 1835 — April 18, 1907).

There were four children: Eliza (Mrs. John Hambright); Kansaida (Mrs. Logan Turner); Ellie (Mrs. Fielding Bell); and John G. White.

There were nine grandchildren — five still living: Ernest Hambright of Grover; Walter Turner of Grover; Mrs. Frank Goforth (Louvenia Turner) of Grover; Mrs. Charlie Turner (Sophia Bell) of Grover; and Boyd B. Turner, San Antonio, Texas.

Representative of the large number of great-grandchildren is Stephen Goforth of Kings Mountain, the only name sake in the family. He is the proud owner of his ancestor's ring and picture willed to him by Stephen White as the first name sake.

Source: A 1960 article in the Cleveland Times written by Mrs. B.A. Harry of Grover.

— Walter B. Turner

GEORGE WILLIAMSON and DESCENDANTS

1115

George Williamson, a private in the Revolutionary War, enlisted in the Massachusetts Regiment while living in Middlesbough, Massachusetts. Wounded during the battle of White Plains, he was discharged early. He later lived in Woodstock, Vermont and died June, 1822 in Bangor, Maine.

Little is known about the southward migration of the Williamsons or the date of their arrival in North Carolina. George Williamson, the son, a resident of Halifax County, North Carolina, on April 28, 1786 purchased from Patrick Martin "land on both sides of First Little Broad River" amounting to 640 acres for £100 proclamation money. George Williamson never saw his purchase of wilderness country, dying in Halifax County in 1801, but many of his descendants harvested many seasons on his dream acreage.

Anderson Williamson, son of George and Mourning Williamson came to the Rutherford-Cleveland area in the late 1790's to settle and till his father's purchase. Anderson married Elizabeth Hart of Virginia, died young, and is buried near Lawndale, North Carolina. Upon his death June 4, 1803, Anderson left behind two sons Eli, and James Archibald (born April 13, 1794).

Elizabeth Hart Williamson soon remarried, and when Archibald reached the age of fourteen went to live with John Teeter Beam to learn the hatter's trade. No court record has been found showing an official apprenticeship existed.

Archibald Williamson, or "Baldy," as he was known, became a "licensed hatter" upon completion of his apprenticeship at age eighteen, according to family tradition. "Baldy" married Nancy Crowder of Virginia (born 1795) on August 24, 1817 in Rutherford County. Nancy was the daughter of Anderson Crowder and granddaughter of William "Billy" Crowder, Revolutionary War parriot and early settler of Cleveland County.

To the union of "Baldy" and Nancy Williamson were born Mary N. Williamson (died March 5, 1844, six years ten months old), Anderson Crowder Williamson (born August 9, 1818), Eli S. Williamson, Milton L. Williamson, Mary Elizabeth "Betty" Williamson, and James Williamson.

Nancy Crowder Williamson died August 19, 1853 and is buried in a private cemetery located four miles south of Polkville, one quarter mile west of Highway 226. She was buried beside her young daughter Mary.

After his wife's death "Baldy" went to live with his son James and wife Ducina. The 1860 census lists James as a merchant and "Baldy" as a hatter.

Archibald "Baldy" Williamson died August 15, 1875 and is buried beside his wife, his grave is marked only with a large field stone.

Anderson Crowder Williamson (born August 9, 1818 in Rutherford County) married Priscilla Mauney Washburn (born June 10, 1818) on July 7, 1842. Priscilla was the daughter of John Washburn and Mary Ann Magness. Anderson was a well known hatter of his day, learning the trade from his father. He is said to have made hats for the Confederate Army. This fact, plus his age, prevented his being drafted until near the end of the war. During his term in the Confederate Army he served as a guard for Union prisoners at Salisbury, North Carolina.

Nine children were born to the union of Anderson and Priscilla Williamson: Perry Decatur (born February 20, 1845), Eliza Ann (born May 29, 1848 — died November 23, 1938, married to Joseph M. Walker), Cicero Lafayette "Phate" (born March 7, 1850), Malcolm Pierce (born November 19, 1852), James F. (born August 19, 1854), Clifton Breckenridge (born January 3, 1857), Philetus R. "Phite" (born December 23, 1858), Joseph Everet (born March 12, 1861), and Mary Jaline (born January 30, 1865).

Priscilla died February 4, 1888 and Anderson died January 21, 1895. They are buried at Rehobeth Methodist Church near Lattimore, North Carolina.

Perry Decatur married Martha Elliott (born October 12, 1845), daughter of Adam and Varselia Green Elliott. They were the parents of four children: Charles Decater (born October 2, 1867), Erastus (born November 3, 1870), "Hattie," and "Nonie."

Perry "Decater" died September 1, 1927, and Martha died December 29, 1926. They are both buried at Rehobeth Methodist Church.

On January 11, 1894 Charles Decater Williamson married Hester Leona McMurry (born November 9, 1872). "Hessie" was the daughter of Bartlett Yancy and Many N. Haynes McMurry. To this marriage eight children grew to adulthood. Van Hoyle (born September 3, 1895 married Inez Hightower), James Fontz (born September 24, 1898 married Bloomie Poston), Fairie Leona (born April 7, 1901 married John Hoyt Cline), John Harmon (born July 15, 1903 married Lucy Falls), Pierce (born July 23, 1905 married Rae Jones), Mary Martha (born October 31, 1908 married John W. Bell), Clifton (born February 1, 1911 married Darcus Lattimore), and Ruth (born August 1, 1914 married James Clay).

"Charlie" and "Hessie" were successful farmers, owning quite a large parcel of land near Polkville.

"Charlie" died April 9, 1928 and "Hessie" died June 13, 1961. They are both buried at Rehobeth Methodist Church. Their heirs continue to well populate the Cleveland County area.

Sources: Family Documents

— Joyce Davis Bell

EDNY and MARY WRIGHT WILLIS

1116

My father, Edny Willis (1877-1955) was the son of Joseph G. Willis (1827-1892) and Mary Wilson Willis (1838-1919).

My mother, Mary Elizabeth Wright Willis (1880-1929) was the daughter of Noah J. Wright (1844-1932) and Nancy Bingham Wright (1844-1910). She had five sisters; namely, Ellen S. (1867-1950) who married R.A. Lackey. The second sister, Laura A. (1871-1955) married Rev. J. D. Morris. The third sister, Ida D. (1874-1966) married D. L. Martin. The fourth sister Lily J. (1877-1903) married Andy Wilson. The youngest sister Bertha (1884-1973) married R. W. Wilson.

My parents were graduates of Fallston High School and Rutherford College in Burke County.

Father and Mother were married in the home of N.J. Wright February 23, 1910, by Rev. W. D. Reed. Mother was a member of Friendship Methodist Protestant Church in Fallston. Shortly after their marriage they moved to a farm in No. 10 Township (Cleveland County) and became members of St. Peters Methodist Episcopal Church South.

As time went by seven children were born to our family; namely, Robert Lee, Carl Jackson, Edward Dickson, Joseph Wilson, and Paul. The two youngest children were girls, Mary Agnes and Lillie Mae. We grew up on the farm and knew what it was to work from daylight to dark and sometimes longer during the busy seasons. All of us got a high school education. Three of us finished four years of college, and one went on to get a Master's Degree. Another one went to college for one year and then decided to get married.

I recall my own experience in getting an education. I attended a small two-teacher school at St. Peter's. The school was on land adjoining St. Peter's Church from which it got its name. The school term was six months. After going through the seventh grade, I found that I was required to have a minimum of eight months schooling in the seventh grade before I could get a certificate to enter high school. The next year I repeated the seventh grade to get the minimum eight months requirements.

The nearest high school was at Fallston. Arrangements were made for me to board at my uncle Rob Wilson's home and attend Fallston school with my cousins during the week and go home on the week ends. My first year at Fallston (1924-25) I attended at the old Fallston High School building, while they were building the new building in the yard nearby. The next year I attended school in the new school building. Professor W.R. Gary was the new principal where he remained some thirty years before he retired. After one year in the new school building at Fallston, the new Belwood consolidated high school was opened and I transferred back to Belwood. This school was formed from the consolidation of some eight or ten former one and two-teacher schools. We now had an eight month school term with six to eight weeks out of school in the fall for cotton picking time. I graduated from Belwood in 1928 in the second class to graduate from the new high school.

The following marriages took place in our family: Veda Houser and Carl Willis were married September 22, 1936; Hilda Kille and Lee Willis were married August 13, 1939; Fern Whisnant and Wilson Willis were married January 15, 1939; Lillie Mae Willis and Thad Lee were married June 22, 1940; Dorothy London and Paul Willis were married October 11, 1940; Freda Evans and Dickson Willis were married March 3, 1946, and Mary Agnes Willis and John L. Lattimore were married January 24, 1948.

Two members of our family served overseas during World War II. Johnnie Lattimore joined the army in September, 1942. He took his basic training at Fort Bragg in North Carolina. After going overseas he was a member of the 92nd Army Field Artillery Battery, or the "Hell on Wheels Outfit." Most of his service was with this unit in Africa. He was discharged and returned home in August, 1945.

Dickson was drafted into the army in January, 1944, and took his basic training in Fort Blanding in Florida. After serving in several places in the States, he boarded the "Q.E. II" (Queen Elizabeth 2) which was taken over as a troop transport during the war. They landed in England the first part of June. He and his group hit Omaha Beach two weeks after D Day, where he was in the infantry for a short time. Then he was transferred to the Quartermaster Corp where he was a truck driver for the "Red Ball Express," hauling ammunition and supplies for General George Patton's tank corp. He served in this area until the end of the European conflict. Shortly after V.E. Day he was discharged and returned home.

The following deaths have occurred in our immediate family. Hilda Kille Willis (1907-1977), Carl Jackson Willis (1912-1977), Thad B. Lee (1920-1978).

Sources: Family Bible Records, the 1860 Cleveland County Census, cemetery markers, Cleveland County Marriage Records, and personal knowledge.

— Lee Willis

THE JACOB WILLIS FAMILY

1117

The Jacob Willis family lived in what is now called Cedar Park, along the First Broad River in upper Cleveland County. Very little is known of the family other than a will that was found at the Rutherford County Court House which was probated in 1828.

Jacob Willis was married to Lydia Black Willis. Their children were: Sarah Willis, William Willis, James Black Willis, Johnson Willis, Agnes Willis (1812-1907), Ann Willis (1814-1913) was buried at Clover Hill, John Willis, Polly Willis, Jacob Craven (1820), Rachel (1822-1911), Jesse Richard (1825-1889), my grandfather, Joseph Gallashaw Willis (1827-1892). Agnes, Rachel, Jesse and Joseph are all buried at Mt. Harmony United Methodist Church in upper Cleveland County.

Older members of the family have told this story: Several wagons stopped near the spring at Cedar Park to spend the night. My great grandfather Jacob Willis, heard them talking and thought they were the voices of his brothers. He went to the spring to talk with them and it really was his brothers. They had been living in Pennsylvania and had decided to move West. They visited a few days and then moved on West.

Daughters of Noah J. Wright: L to R: Ellen, Ida, Mary, Bertha and Lillie.

— Mary Elizabeth Willis

THE JOSEPH GALLASHAW WILLIS FAMILY

1118

Joseph Gallashaw Willis (1827-1892) was born at Cedar Park in upper Cleveland County near First Broad River. He fought in the Civil War. After the War he married Mary Wilson (1838-1919). Her home was near Fallston. They were married by Rev. Joseph Wilamson in 1867. Their home was about five miles North of Polkville, N. C. on Highway No. 226. They were buried at Mt. Harmony United Church in upper Cleveland County. Their children were: Oznie Willis (1868-1886); Sophie Willis (1870-1905) married Dr. Fletcher Whisnant and lived at Henrietta, North Carolina. Their children were: Ostine Whisnant, Mattie Miller Whisnant married Dr. Claude Lovelace and live at Henrietta, North Carolina; Attorney Joseph Carpenter Whisnant married Lou Alice Hamrick and they live in Shelby, North Carolina.

Lydia R. Willis Elliott (1872-1956) married Andrew Jackson Elliott. Their home was near Joseph Willis' home on the east side of First Broad River. They were buried at Elliott Church Cemetery near Polkville, North Carolina. Their children were: Mary Elliott (1893-1966) buried at Elliott's Cemetery, Christy Elliott (1895-1978) buried at Polkville Methodist Church, Joseph Gallashaw Elliott (Joe) (1896-1977) buried at Elliott Church Cemetery, Lee Roy Elliott (1898-1978) buried at Mt. Harmony; Sarah Bell Elliott (1899); Ivey Elliott (1900-1980) buried at Elliott Church; Lenna Elliott Jolly (1903); Sophie Elliott Hawkins (1906) and Dixie Elliott (1908).

Thomas Jacob Willis (1874-1955) lived at Joseph Willis' homeplace, about five miles north of Polkville on Highway No. 226. He married Addie Alexander whose home before her marriage was near Fallston (1887-1960). They had one daughter, Mary Jo Willis. She married Harold Eugene Pruet and live at the homeplace. Thomas Willis attended Rutherford College in Burke County (High School), George Peabody College in Nashville, Tennessee, and A. & M. in Raleigh, North Carolina (now North Carolina State). They were buried at Mt. Harmony.

Edney Willis (1876-1955) married Mary Wright. (See Edney Willis Family)

Ivey Willis (1878-1962) married Daisy Lillian Hunt (1881-1949). They are buried at Mt. Harmony. (See J. J. Hunt Family). They had one daughter Mary Elizabeth Willis (1912). Ivey attended Rutherford College in Burke County (High School) and University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, North Carolina, graduating in the Class of 1909. Ivey's family lived at Lattimore, North Carolina, where he and his wife taught school. His wife Daisy attended Piedmont in Lawndale, North Carolina. He was mayor of Lattimore several terms and served on the Cleveland County Board of Education several terms.

Sara Elizabeth (Sally) Willis (1881-1939) attended Rutherford College. She was buried at Mt. Harmony United Methodist Church.

— Mary Elizabeth Willis

A HISTORY OF THE WILSON-BURCHETTE CLAN

1119

The earliest known ancestor of the Wilson-Burchette Clan was Matilda Calhoun. Matilda was a slave who landed in Virginia with her family and was eventually sold into North Carolina at Boiling Springs. As was the custom, the members of Matilda's family took the names of their owners so that the family became Jennings, Wilson, Homesly, and Hamrick.

One of Matilda's direct descendants was Henry Burchett whose wife was Mary. Henry and Mary Burchett were the parents of George, Berry, Jackson, Sarah, and Joanna Burchett. Joanna Burchett never married and was very thrifty with her money. In her later years, she was able to purchase a home on Carolina Avenue in Shelby, North Carolina.

"Aunt Joanna", as she was called by the generation of her family who were born during the early twentieth century, was quite an uncommon individual. She worked in Shelby for the family of A.V. Wray, founder of the department store by that name, and helped to raise his six sons. She also worked for the R.T. LeGrand family, founders of a textile empire, and other well-to-do families of her time.

What Aunt Joanna's nieces and nephews remember about her most was her custom of always bringing something for the children whenever she came to spend the day at the home of relatives. She tended to have a fondness for presenting each child with a tea cake which she produced from the bodice of her dress. The problem with this was that Aunt Joanna also had a great fondness for perfumed talcum powder which she lavished on herself. The young ones found it extremely difficult not to accept the gifts offered by Aunt Joanna. However, that was no sign that they were going to eat them. After that first bite of what they thought were light delicious tea cakes covered with "confectioners sugar", they were on the alert to make the tea cakes "disappear" until Aunt Joanna was out of the house. Then, they would laugh for hours about her unusual treats.

To this day, the mention of the name of Aunt Joanna Burchett brings a ripple of laughter through a family gathering of the Wilson-Burchett Clan.

Sources: Ezra Bridges personal knowledge.

— Anita Wilson Maxwell and Ezra A. Bridges

HACKETT CALDWELL WILSON 1120

Hackett Caldwell Wilson, son of James Andrew and Amanda Dover Wilson, was born in Shelby on September 17, 1901. After graduation from Shelby High School he attended Fruitland Institute and N.C. State College. In 1924 he went to Kent, Ohio, to the Davey Tree Expert Company Institute and then worked for Davey Tree Expert Company for twenty three years. In Kent he met and married Alice Dixon. They settled in Cleveland County in 1926 and in 1949 Hackett founded Wilson Tree Company. He remained president until his retirement in 1966.

Hackett was an active member of First Baptist Church, Masonic Lodge No. 202, Oasis Shrine, and Eastern Star. As president of the Chamber of Commerce in 1955, he worked diligently to bring new industry to the county. He was a charter member of the Cleveland County Historical Society. As a member of the Beautification Committee in 1975, he supervised the planting of the beautiful oak trees lining the streets around the courthouse.

Hackett and Alice had two daughters, Carolyn (Mrs. Mason Gaston) and Marjorie (Mrs. Charles Senn) and five grandchildren, John, Julia, and Jim Gaston and Caroline and Catherine Senn. Hackett died in 1979 and is buried in Elizabeth Baptist Church Cemetery.

— Mrs. Carolyn W. Gaston

JAMES ANDREWS and AMANDA DOVER WILSON

1121

James Andrews Wilson was born October 24, 1865 to Samuel and Almira Whitesides Blanton Wilson at home on the plantation of his grandfather Thomas Wilson who was the original owner of the 2400 acres of land, known as Wilson Springs and now Cleveland Springs Estates. The Wilson home was on the site of the present Ralph Gardner Home in Cleveland Springs Estates, Shelby, also a part of the late Hackett Wilson's Farm where the Wilson children grew up.

James Andrew's father had three children from a previous marriage to Hettie Warlick and after her death in 1863 he married Almira who from her previous marriage to Bate Blanton had three sons, Hackett, Johnnie and George. Samuel and Almira had two children James Andrews and Julia Evelyn. Thus the results: my children — your children — our children. Samuel Wilson was a private in the Civil War and Almira had all the responsibilities of the plantation while he was away.

Julia Wilson married James D. Anders of McAdenville, N.C. and they had three children while living in Norfolk, Virginia. Dr. James Clarence Anders of San Diego, California, the late Lucille Whipple, and Beverly (Mrs. Joseph Batchelor) of Farmville, N.C.

Julia Wilson and Amanda Dover were very close friends before their weddings which were only days apart. Amanda led the singing and Julia played the piano at Elizabeth Baptist Church for several years, in fact, until the

Hackett Caldwell Wilson, 1901-1979

Her well worn Bible was her constant companion.

Papa Wilson and Mama Wilson as they became known, after the first grandchild was born, lived on Cleveland Springs Road the remainder of their lives. Papa died in January 1934 and Mama Wilson (as she was affectionally known by everyone) went to her heavenly home July 2, 1962.

Mrs. Annie Weathers and Della Bachmann are still living in Shelby.

Source: Family Bible, memories, personal knowledge and tombstones.

— Sara L. Hamrick

JOSEPH PHILLIP WILSON

1122

Joseph Phillip "Joe", first child of Robert Lee "Bob" and Vashti Walker Wilson, was born September 20, 1905 in the two-story house built in the 1860s by his grandfather, Phillip Dobbins Wilson.

Joe remembers moving from there to a house a mile north when he was four years old. He had a scare before his father caught the sewing machine that was rolling toward him in the back of the wagon. His sister, Mildred Walker, born December 28, 1908, was probably riding in her mother's arms that moving day.

Younger brother James Robert, born July 31, 1911, recalls Mildred carrying him to a neighbors on the day Claxter Neil, the James Andrews and Amanda Dover Wilson on their wedding day, June 15, 1893.

The Wilson home on Cleveland Springs Road — 1910.

Sunday before Julia's wedding, June 1, 1893.

Julia Wilson Anders died March 15, 1945 at the home of her daughter in Farmville, and is buried at Elizabeth Baptist Church, near Shelby, North Carolina. Elizabeth Baptist Church is named for James Andrews and Julia's grandmother Elizabeth Love Wilson who gave the land for the church.

James Andrews (Jim) attended Wake Forest University with the idea of studying medicine but had to forego that dream. He taught school at the Little Buffalo School near Filbert, South Carolina. His wife Amanda Dover was one of his students.

They were married on June 15, 1893 at the home of her parents, David Thomas and Mary Ellen Biggers Dover near Filbert. The couple left for a wedding trip to Bluefield, West Virginia where they made their home for two years. Young Amanda became so homesick they returned to Wilson Springs, N.C. to make their home at the site of the late Hackett Wilson Farm.

James Andrews was a farmer, astronomer and weather prophet. He was also a man with a remarkable memory and an interesting conversationalist. He predicted that before the year 2000 America would send a man to the moon, a prediction we witnessed in 1967.

The young couple had eight children, Samuel Dover (who died at the age of nine months and is buried in Bluefield, W.Va.), Alma (Mrs. Jarvis Hamrick/Clarence Newman) Isabelle (Mrs. McBryde Poston), Annie (Mrs. Maurice Weathers), Hackett C. (Alice Dixon), and Della (Mrs. Minor McSwain/Frank Bachmann). James A. Jr., and Evelyn died in infancy and are buried at Elizabeth Baptist Church Cemetery. Isabelle Poston died in childbirth in November 1921 and is buried with her baby at Elizabeth.

After the family moved to a new home on the present site of the Coca Cola Company on Cleveland Springs Road in Shelby, Amanda was so well known for her good southern hospitality that she was asked to keep the overflow of guests from the Wilson Springs Hotel during the summers. While the 1918 flu epidemic raged Amanda Wilson was a constant source of strength for the town, going from house to house ministering to the ill and dying people with the dreaded disease. God was with her and she never had the terrible disease. She became a christian at a very young age and faithfully and lovingly attended all church functions as long as she was able.

youngest child was born, August 14, 1914.

The Wilson family lived there until Vashti's death, May 29, 1916. Bob moved then, with his four children, back to his parents farm.

Chores for Joe there were cutting stovewood for Granny Jane and milking the cows. There were hogs on the farm, also, and Bob Wilson's cured hams were reputed to be exceptional. When the children grew tired of farm raised meat and they cut a slab from one of the smokehouse hams to trade in Shelby for weiners, a treat for them, the grocer was well satisfied with the bargain.

Joe and Addis Ruth Moore were married September 17, 1929. Addis, born August 23, 1909 in South Carolina, moved here with her parents, John Irvin and Elanora Moore, sisters and brother soon after she graduated from Grover High School.

Their first home was built with timber cut from the Wilson land. Joe and Irvin Moore, a fine mason, fashioned fieldstones into foundation, chimneys and walks. Joe and Addis moved into the new house when Phyllis Ann, born August 11, 1930, was two years old. Barbara Mildred was born there September 25, 1938.

Joe was in the earthmoving business in Shelby for many years, first as Stone and Wilson, later as Peterson and Wilson. He learned to operate a bulldozer in the forties and still at age seventy-six enjoys doing a little "dozer" work.

Addis is a nurse and has worked at Cleveland Memorial Hospital and as a private duty nurse.

When the city began to expand, Joe and Addis moved to a country place north of town. They lived there for twenty-five years except for the time they spent in Hialeah, Florida. They enjoyed their stay there, Joe working on the construction of "Alligator Alley" and the Cape Florida State Park. Addis worked at Miami Baptist Hospital and at the, then new, Palm Springs Hospital.

Bob Wilson, Joe's father, died December 8, 1937 and he and Vashti, Joe's mother, are buried at Elizabeth Baptist Church, which was named in memory of Elizabeth Love Wilson, Joe's great-grandmother.

Joe's sister, Mildred, managed the Shelby Bus Station until her retirement in 1973. She enjoyed the years she worked there except for the World War II years when families saying goodbye to their sons brought tears to Mildred's eyes. Mildred has two children, six grandchildren and three great-granddaughters.

Younger brother, Robert, joined the Shelby Fire Department after his return from the war and at the time of his retirement in 1976 was Assistant Chief. He stays busy with his garden and fishing. He has a daughter, a step-son and two granddaughters.

Neil, the youngest brother, today lives just across the highway from his birthplace, he lived there fifty-one years. In 1979, Neil retired from the Caroline Dairy in Shelby, he began as a milk salesman in 1941 and was General Manager at the time of his retirement. He has three sons and six grand-children who enjoy camping trips with Neil.

Joe and Addis have six grand-children and one great-grandson.

At the present, Joe and Addis are living within a half mile of Joe's great-grandfather's Wilson Springs homesite, now Cleveland Springs. Each of their daughters live only blocks from the house on Peach Street where they grew up. Joe's grand children play in the same woods and fish the same streams that four generations of Wilson children have enjoyed.

— Barbara Wilson Dover

PHILLIP DOBBINS WILSON 1123

Wilson Springs, now known as Cleveland Springs, was home for Phillip's family before the year 1820. In that year, John Wilson, Phillip's grandfather, conveyed by deed a section of land to Phillip's father, Thomas, born December 1, 1795. Thomas came to this area as a young man from Virginia after sailing to America in the late 1700s.

Thomas' property totaled about 2,000 acres including the Springs, well known for its mineral water. He built a hotel there that became a popular gathering place.

On January 18, 1818, Thomas married Elizabeth Love. They made their home and raised their family at the Springs.

Elizabeth, born March 14, 1800, daughter of Charles and Fereby Love, gave a gift of land, more than five acres, that became the site for Elizabeth Baptist Church. She received handwritten receipts from her children for payment she made to them for that land. It would have been part of their inheritance. Elizabeth died April 23, 1889, and is buried at that church, named in her memory.

Thomas is buried in a private cemetery off Peach Street. He died May 23, 1861.

According to their Bible, Thomas and Elizabeth had four daughters: Barbara, Sarah, Elizabeth Margaret and Mary Love, and nine sons: C. Jackson, Christopher Osburn, John Thomas, Samuel Alexander, James Franklin, William Maxwell, Moses, Drury Ramsour and Phillip Dobbins, the youngest son, born December 23, 1839, at Wilson Springs.

Phillip was a young man, as a family story relates, when a Rutherford County man, Lindsey Melton, driving cattle to Charleston, South Carolina, stayed overnight at the hotel. Returning by the same route Melton asked Phillip to accompany him home. There Phillip met his wife-to-be, Jane D. Melton, born August 4, 1842.

South of the Springs on a knoll between two creeks, near present-day Montrose and Windsor Drives, Phillip built a two-story house, getting the roof on before going to war. He served with the 55th Regiment, Company C, Infantry. Returning, he finished the house he and Jane were to live in the rest of their lives.

Phillip operated a sawmill below his house on the knoll. Upstream was a dam used in winter for making ice. Packed in sawdust, the ice was stored in pits dug deep in the earth and kept until summer when it was sold or used at the hotel.

Below the dam and east of present day Robinwood Drive was his brickyard. Dug from between the creek and the haul road, the clay was processed by harnessing oxen to a center pole by a horizontal arm. Circling, they trampled the wet clay. Placed into brickforms, the clay was allowed to dry in the sun. Phillip's smokehouse was floored with these eight-by-eight inch bricks.

Phillip and Jane raised three sons: Thomas Maxwell, Robert Lee and James Osborn. Photographs made about the time the boys attended school at Wake Forest show slender, clean-shaven young men dressed in dark suits. Across his chest Robert is wearing a watch and chain, probably given to him by his mother on his twenty-first birthday.

Phillip died November 2, 1921, and Jane died September 27, 1928. They are buried at Elizabeth Church Cemetery, about a mile east of their homesite. Their sons are also buried there.

Thomas Maxwell "Max", first son of Phillip and Jane, was born April 21, 1869. He and Laura Roberts were married April 24, 1894. His death occurred April 6, 1951.

James Osborn "Jim," the youngest son, born October 15, 1877, graduated from medical school but died February 4, 1909, at age twenty-one.

Robert Lee "Bob," born December 18, 1870, brought his bride, Vashti home to Phillip's house on the knoll after they were married on February 24, 1904. A clipping from the Star describes the occasion as joyous. Vashti, born May 11, 1879, was the daughter of Joseph Morgan and Elizabeth Williams Walker of Rutherford County.

Bob and Vashti had four children: Joseph Phillip, Mildred Walker, James Robert and Claxter Neil. All four are at the present living within a mile of the Wilson Springs homesite of their great-grandfather, Thomas, on land that was once Phillip's estate.

— Barbara W. Dover

THE SAMUEL BRIGHT WILSON FAMILY

1124

Samuel Bright Wilson, born May 17, 1898, was the youngest child of William Putnam and Sarah Elizabeth Wilson. He attended Shelby High School. Because of his typing skill, he was recommended for after-school work at the First National Bank of Shelby. He was employed there for forty-seven years and was present when the bank building collapsed in 1928. Moments before this happened he had walked to the rear of the building to pick up a bundle of checks for posting. Upon noticing the falling plaster, he ran through the rear door avoiding injury. On June 4, 1923 he married our mother, Georgie Cleo Mauney who was born August 21, 1901. As a wedding gift he gave her a new Model T Ford Coupe, purchased from Charles L. Eskridge, the Ford dealer in Shelby. After much deliberation, our parents decided to drive the Ford Coupe to Littleton, North Carolina to visit Uncle David and his family. The trip of 300 miles took 15 hours.

Sam B. Wilson Family, 1982: Front row: Jeffery and Elizabeth; Middle row: Carol, Cleo, Emily; Back row: Lamar (Buzz) and Sam, Jr.

Considerable road construction necessitated many detours, and at one point the car was stalled on a railroad track. On Dad's instructions Mother sat in the car while he walked to a nearby train station to see when the next train was due to pass. On May 18, 1927 they purchased a new Buick four door sedan for $1,517.50 from the J. Lawrence Lackey Company of Shelby. This automobile is still in the family.

Our Dad's hobby was woodworking; and he especially liked making cedar chests, which he always signed and dated. He served as a deacon and treasurer of Elizabeth Baptist Church as well as treasurer of the Cleveland County Chapter of the Red Cross. He died July 9, 1977 and is buried at Elizabeth Church. Our mother has been active in church work for most of her life, is known in the community both as an excellent cook and for her needle crafts, and has enjoyed participating in activities of the Shelby Woman's Club.

Samuel Bright Wilson, Jr. was born on May 19, 1931 and graduated from the University of South Carolina. Interested in music and antique automobiles, he is active in the music of Covenant Presbyterian Church of Charlotte where he is an elder and is restoring his father's 1927 Buick. He is Data Base Coordinator of the City of Charlotte. His wife, Emily Elizabeth Riddle formally of Seneca, South Carolina, is a curriculum coordinator in the Charlotte-Mecklenburg school system. They have a daughter, Emily Elizabeth, born November 23, 1973.

Lamar (Buzz) Mauney Wilson, born November 29, 1933, attended Blue Ridge School for Boys in Hendersonville and Ringling School of Art in Sarasota, Florida. His interests include woodworking and eighteenth century history. He and his wife, the former Carol Lee Heaven of Charlotte, are members of the North Carolina Historical Re-enactment Society. Buzz is Curator of the Cleveland County Historical Museum and Carol is Assistant Director of the Cleveland County Memorial Library. Their son Jeffery Ian was born November 6, 1974.

William Mark Wilson, U.S. Airforce, 1981.

William Mark Wilson was born July 28, 1961 and is Lamar's son by a previous marriage. Mark graduated from Charlotte's South Mecklenburg High School where he played clarinet in the band. He shares a considerable skill at woodworking with three previous generations. Mark is currently serving in the U.S. Air Force.

Sources: grave stones, personal knowledge and interviews with family members.

— Sam B. Wilson Jr.
and Lamar M. Wilson

THE WILLIAM PUTNAM WILSON FAMILY

1125

Our great-grandparents were Samuel Clarence Wilson, born February 1, 1833 and Violet Salenia Putnam, born August 7, 1833. Married on January 18, 1853, they lived on a farm one mile from the present site of Zion Baptist Church near Shelby, North Carolina. This land is still in the hands of direct descendants. Samuel died of typhoid fever August 1, 1859 leaving his widow with a farm to be worked and three small children to be raised. At times during the Civil War, she discouraged Union soldiers from entering the house by throwing boiling water at them. Salenia was remembered as an independent and self-sufficient woman. She died July 29, 1914 and is buried next to her husband at Zoar Baptist Church in Shelby.

William Putnam Wilson who was born November 24, 1853 was the eldest son of Samuel and Salenia. He attended Rutherford College near Morganton, North Carolina where he was an "A" student. Afterwards he moved to Shelby to teach school and to help build houses some of which stood on Sumter Street between Lafayette and Morgan. On December 22, 1882 he married one of his students, Sarah Elizabeth Spake who was born April 4, 1864. They lived at the corner of Morgan and Lee Streets where two children, David Lee and Emily Violet, were born. In 1897 they built a new home at what is now 926 East Marion Street in Shelby. Here, their youngest child, Samuel Bright was born. Grandpa Wilson spent the balance of his life farming. Grandmama grew most of the food for the family in her vegetable garden. Both of them were devout and quiet people by nature. Grandpapa, who was a skilled woodworker, once stayed home from church and worked most of a Sunday to build a wooden coffin for a small child whose parents could not afford to buy one. He died April 22, 1934 and Grandmama died on March 23, 1930. They are buried at Elizabeth Baptist Church where he was a deacon.

David Lee Wilson was born February 1, 1888. As a young man he worked in Florida. He met Margaret Ione Bowers of Littleton, North Carolina who was attending Shelby High School. They were married October 27, 1915. In 1917 they moved from Shelby to Littleton where they raised five children: William Bowers, Maude Elizabeth, David Lee, Joseph Paul and Samuel Ray. Uncle David died February 14, 1980 and is buried next to his wife at Bear Swamp Baptist Church near Littleton. For twenty years Uncle David and his family visited in our home for several days each August and each Christmas. These visits are some of our most pleasant memories.

Emily Violet Wilson was born April 22, 1893. She attended Boiling Springs High School (later Boiling Springs College) where she studied piano and afterwards moved back to her parents home in Shelby. During her life she was employed at the A.V. Wray, Harry Cohen, and Hudson department stores. She enjoyed working in her flower garden and was talented at making mints and other candies. She died April 7, 1955 and is buried at Elizabeth Baptist Church. Aunt Emily is remembered as a generous, pleasant, and loving person.

Sources: The Wilson Family Bible, grave stones, personal knowledge and interviews with family members.

— Sam B. Wilson Jr.
and Lamar M. Wilson

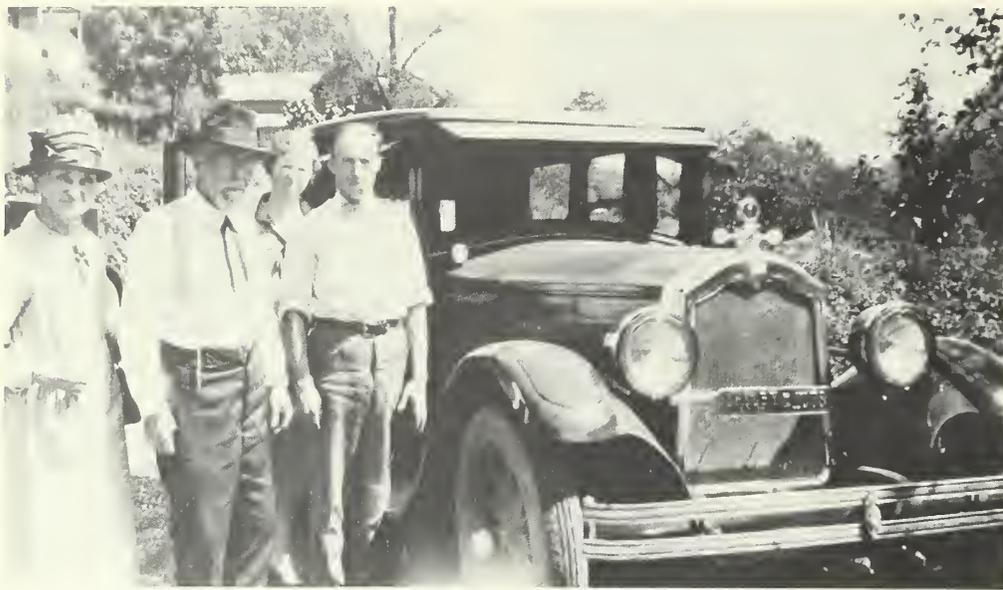

THE WILLIE WILSON FAMILY

1126

Willie Wilson (November 11, 1891 — May 28, 1968) was the oldest son of William Walker and Alice Cornwell Wilson. On April 27, 1921, he married Bertha Lillian Spake (September 30, 1891 — March 7, 1968) the fifth child of William George and Roxanne Irvin Spake.

They were both life-long members of Elizabeth Baptist Church. Willie's great-grandmother, Elizabeth Love Wilson, gave the land for Elizabeth Church and it was named in her honor.

Willie had only one brother, Charles W., and they both reared their families on the land inherited from their father. This land, located east of Shelby, along Highway 150, has been in the Wilson family since John Wilson got it in a land grant from the King of England. It has passed from father to son for six generations: John, to Thomas, to Osburn, to William Walker, to Willie, to Billy. Now, Billy and his two sons, Larry James and Billy Alan are farming the land, with Larry and Alan being seventh generation Wilsons.

William Putnam Wilson Family: L to R: Elizabeth, William, Cleo and Samuel, 1927.

Willie Wilson was owner and operator of the Wilson cotton gin, later known as Morgan & Co., located at the intersection of Highway 150 and 180 east of Shelby. The gin was originally located on the present site of the Elks Club. Willie moved it and built the electric power lines up Highway 150 to the gin. He sold electricity to the individual houses along the route until it was taken over by Duke Power. Since he didn't like for anyone to know about his business, he didn't tell them; nor did he pry into their business. He was a man of few words, but when he spoke, you could depend on it. He believed in paying his debts and collecting from his debtors! His stern manner gave the appearance of being almost harsh, but beneath was really a tender heart.

Lillian Spake Wilson was a mild-mannered, easy-going person. She graduated from Shelby High School and taught school for several years before she was married on April 27, 1921. In preparation for the marriage, Willie had already built a large two-story frame house on his farm, and after the wedding, Lillian never spent a night away from that house until about a year before her death, when she was admitted to the hospital for several days. She devoted her life to her family, but is remembered by many for the small, thoughtful things she did for others, such as writing cards and letters to those away from home and giving birthday presents to the children of tenant families that lived on the farm. She also liked to share things from the garden with others.

Willie and Lillian had five children: Sue, Jane, Billy, Jimmy, and Beth. None of them were given a middle name, because their father thought one name was sufficient.

Sue, born February 2, 1922, graduated from Shelby High School and Kings Business College in Charlotte. She married Ward Rummage and they had three daughters: Linda (Mrs. James Clark), Delores (Mrs. Ronnie Pittman), and Nancy (Mrs. James Curtis), and four grandsons. Sue died November 8, 1979, but all of her family still live in the Raleigh area.

Jane, born January 20, 1924, also graduated from Shelby High School and Kings Business College. She married William H. Taylor, Jr. from New Jersey and they have four daughters: Patricia (Mrs. Lawrence Levy), Susan (Mrs. John Robert Skross, Jr.), Carol (Mrs. Vito R. Vespe, Jr.), and June (Mrs. Jeffrey Estock), and five grandchildren. They all live in the Wilmington, Delaware area.

Billy, born September 26, 1926, attended Shelby schools until his last two years of high school, when he changed to Waco, so he could help his father in the fall of the year at the cotton gin. He married Margaret Spangler and they have five children: Sandra (Mrs. Michael Catching) graduated from N.C. State and is a programmer analyst living in Raleigh. Karen (Mrs. Tony Ganey) lives in Savannah, Georgia, and works in an office there. Larry is a graduate of N.C. State and received his Masters Degree in Plant Protection and Pest Management at the University of Georgia. He married Kathleen (Kathy) Hamrick and they have a daughter, Elizabeth Kathleen (Katie). Larry farms with his father. Alan attended Western Carolina University, but dropped out to farm with his father. He is also starting a sand business. Ann is planning to enter N.C. State University this fall to study computer science.

Jimmy, born July 25, 1931, graduated from Shelby High School and Clemson University and is manager of Southridge Tractor Company. He married Ruth Sperling, who is Director of Special Services for Shelby City Schools. They have one son, James Sperling Wilson, a student at U.N.C. Chapel Hill studying to become an orthodontist.

Beth, born February 14, 1934, graduated from Shelby High School and Presbyterian Hospital School of Nursing. She married William D. McKee and they have four children: Teresa (Mrs. Michael Joyner), a graduate of U.N.C. Greensboro, teaches school; Bruce and David are both in college at Western Carolina, and Dale is in high school. Beth and all of her family live near Charlotte.

Sources: personal knowledge.

— Mrs. Billy Wilson

THE WITHERSPOON FAMILY 1127

The Witherspoon Family who settled in South Carolina in 1734 can be traced back to Alexander Wetherspun who lived in Glasgow, Scotland from 1400 to 1451. They claim among their ancestors Robert Bruce and John Knox. An extensive HISTORY OF GENEALOGY OF THE WITHERSPOON FAMILY (1400-1972) by Joseph Bailey Witherspoon traces the Witherspoon family for nearly 600 years. Gerald Wayne Witherspoon of Shelby and Philip Warren Witherspoon of Kings Mountain are descendants of this Witherspoon family who lived along the strip south of Hadrian's Wall, that series of forts stretching from Glasgow to Edinburgh.

John Witherspoon was born near Glasgow, Scotland in 1670 and in 1693 he married his first cousin Janet Witherspoon. The famous Reverend John Witherspoon, D.D., of Princeton, a signer of the Declaration of Independence, was a nephew of Janet.

John and Janet Witherspoon left Scotland for County Down, Ireland, where they remained for 39 years and reared a family. When the royal authority laid off townships in the low county of South Carolina, one of these, 29 miles square, was granted to John and his family, with full guaranty of religious liberty. They called the land "Williamsburg" in honor of their king.

John Witherspoon, his family, and a few friends set out in the ship "Good Intent" on September 14, 1734. Of the seven children born to John and Janet the oldest was David. A second son, James, built the now restored home in Williamsburgh County, South Carolina, called "Thorntree". David married Ann Presley. Their son, David, Jr., married Janet Blakely. Eight children were born of this union. The first son, David, III, was a captain under General Francis Marion in the Revolutionary War. "Captain David" lived at Salem, South Carolina and married two wives there. The census of 1810 for Sumter County indicates that David was the owner of one hundred slaves.

The family continued to increase and to spread. One son of David, III was John Story Witherspoon who lived in Darlington County, South Carolina. Their younger son, Jefferson William, was born in 1835. He married Frances Mancill but was a casualty of the Battle of St. Petersburg in the Civil War. He left three children, the youngest being Jefferson H.H., born in 1864. Jefferson married Margaret Parnell and lived at Lamar, South Carolina. Their third son, Thomas Franklin, was born August 23, 1893. On June 25, 1918 he married Willie Alice Haywood, daughter of James Martin and Nancy Covington Haywood of Richmond County, North Carolina.

Thomas Franklin and Willie Alice moved to a farm in Richmond County, North Carolina in 1922. They reared and educated six children. Two of these are present-day residents of Cleveland County.

Philip Warren Witherspoon, born July 18, 1936, attended Rockingham public schools and Wingate College. He served in the Army from 1958-1960. After completing his military duty, he came to Cleveland County, married Patricia Goforth Ware, later adopting her two sons, Charles Edmond and Patrick Alan. Their daughter, Wanda Lynn, was born February 13, 1964. Charles is now married to Lynn Watson and they reside in Charlotte.

Philip has been very active in Cleveland County activities. He is presently Captain of Kings Mountain Police Reserve, Director of Kings Mountain Sertoma Club, Kings Mountain Booster Club, and Treasurer of Improved Order of Redmen.

Gerald Wayne Witherspoon was born on December 26, 1937. He married Mary Yvonne Chappell of Rockingham and they moved to Cleveland County in 1976. Their two sons are now married. Gerald Wayne Witherspoon, Jr. married Cynthia Hord from Mooresboro and they are living in Maxton, North Carolina. David Brian married Regina Scholl from Rockingham, North Carolina and they are making their home in Rockingham.

Gerald has been very active in Cleveland County activities. He is presently Chairman of the Administrative Board of Lafayette Street United Methodist Church, President of Piedmont Shrine Club, Past President of Shelby Optimist Club, and Director of Resident Lenders of North Carolina. He has officiated high school football for a number of years. He is a Charter Member of Cleveland Horse Association and was Show Chairman of the first two shows put on in the new facilities that he helped build at the fairgrounds. He is also a Committee Member of Scout Troop 105.

Sources: Abstract of Wills of S.C. (1757-1760); An Early Manuscript Copy of The Witherspoon Family Chronicle and Later Notes on Related Families; The State Printing Company, Columbia, South Carolina 1967; Boddie, William; History of Williamsburg, 1923; Seale, W. "Thorn-tree of Williamsburgh Township" Sandlapper; Vol. 25, December 1971, pp. 41-45; U.S. Census. 1810, 1850, 1860; Witherspoon, Joseph B., The History and Genealogy of the Witherspoon Family (1400-1972) Miran Publishers, Fort Worth, Texas 1973.

— Jean Witherspoon Hawkins (Mrs. Leo F.)

THE JOHN CALVIN WITHROW FAMILY

1128

John Calvin Withrow, son of Albert Withrow and Jane Houser Withrow, was born in Rutherford County. He lived near Hollis, North Carolina until 1920 when he moved to Cleveland County where he lived in Mooresboro. Shortly thereafter he moved to Cliffside. In 1924 John moved to Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania where he lived and worked as a coal miner until his death in 1931.

John was married twice, first to Caroline Elliott, daughter of Daniel Elliott and Eliza Wells Elliott, and then to Ollie Watkins Poston.

The John Withrow-Caroline Elliott union produced thirteen children, three boys and ten girls:

The boys were: Clarence who died in West Virginia, Theodore (Dock) who died in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, and Samuel Daniel (Dan) who died in New York.

The girls were: Ola who married Joe Roberts and Jim Hamrick; she is buried in Boiling Springs, North Carolina in the Green Bethel Baptist Church cemetery, Erie who married Tom Wilson; died in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, Margaret (Mag) who married Dock Poston and Willie Hopper; died in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, Mandaline who married Jives Davis and Fred Burgess, Charlie Clarene (Clara) who married Summie Brooks, son of Alonzo Brooks and Sally Goode Brooks, Jewell who married John Frank Barner (see related article "The John Frank Barner Family"), Mae Sue who married Everett Brooks, son of Chancey Brooks and Callie Brooks, Evelyn Ruth (1916-1978) who married John Aster Peeler is buried in Buffalo, New York, Gertrude Caroline (Gert) died in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, a daughter (name not known) died at birth.

Source: Interviews with family members

— Linda A. Barner

THE SHERMAN WITHROW FAMILY

1129

Sherman Miller Withrow, the son of Zan Withrow and Catherine Wells Withrow married Amanda Virginia Houser, daughter of John and Minnie Gidney Houser. After they were married Sherman served a tour of duty with the U.S. Army in France during World War I. Henry Miller, their oldest son, was born while his father was in France. Nine more children were born after Sherman was discharged from service. They were in order of birth Frances Mae, Camilla, Van Edward, Minnie Salome, Zan Calvin, Clarence Samuel, Carl Lee, Helen Dorcas and Glenn Melvin.

Henry married Rossie Harshaw and their children are Donald, Henrietta and Franklin. Frances married Eugene Coleman and she had one son, Clarence Sherman. Camilla and her husband Woodrow (Jake) Sinkler had Glen Calvin and Roslyn. Van married Henrietta Kee Flack. Minnie and Rupert Bell were blessed with six children. They are Thomas, Millicent, Ruperta, the twins Reginald and Regina, and Felicia Jeanine. Zan's marriage to Emily Montgomery produced Eric Zan and Lorna Clarice. Clarence married Bettye Jamerson and their children are Sharon, Karen Gaye and Raven Guest. Carl Lee married Bernice McGuire Newlon. Helen's marriage to Carl Timothy Love produced three children. They are Cassandra (Sandy), Carl Timothy, Jr. (Timmy) and Angela (Angie). Glenn married Vernelle Scott and they reared a set of twin boys, Arlos and Carlos and the girls, Aleta and Gloria.

In 1949 Sherman bought a farm near Shelby and moved his family from the Weathers Grove Community to the farm. His untimely death in April of the same year left Amanda a widow with five minor children to rear. Those at home continued to farm until the youngest child was a senior in high school. The other children were mostly married and gone from home.

Remember . . .

Articles
Are Indexed
By
Article Numbers
. . . Not By
Page
Number

Amanda sold the farm and bought a house in the Washington Heights development. She later bought a trailer with her sister, Mamie Houser Elliott Flack, and moved to her father's farm. She has been very ill and is now living with her daughter, Camilla.

Sources: Family Bible, Courthouse records

— Emily Withrow

JACOB WOLFE and DESCENDANTS

1130

Jacob Wolfe and wife, Nancy, lived in Rutherford County until Cleveland County was organized. He died November, 1865. His wife Nancy died January 1865. Jacob was fifty-four years old and Nancy was forty-eight when the first Cleveland County, North Carolina census was taken in 1850.

The known children were: Casey, Jarousy, and Nellie who married Robert Ledford and lived to be one-hundred and three years old.

Sanford Robert moved to Kentucky. William Cathey born December 4, 1833, died May 9, 1917. On September 20, 1855, William Cathey Wolfe married Phebe Lee, born June 9, 1837, died August 4, 1915. He purchased a house and farm on Buffalo Creek which had been built around 1707 and is still standing which has some beautiful hand carvings.

Cathey served the full span of the Civil War in Company I, 56th Regiment and was wounded in the shoulder. After the war Cathey continued his work as a farmer, he also owned a gristmill on Persimon Creek near his house a waterwheel was used for power for grinding corn and wheat into flour and meal for the community.

The children of William Cathey and Phebe Lee were: Mary Ellen Wolfe Grigg; Sarah Jane Wolfe Jenkins; Mary Wolfe Blanton; Asena Era Wolfe (single); Jefferson Beauregard married Emma McGill; William Ivey married Mary Wesson; George Franklin married Pearl Goode; Sanford Robert married Julia Sellers.

My father, Lawrence Marshall born 1878, died May 5, 1966, married Mary Etta Lackey born 1879, died April 1, 1958. They were married October 7, 1903. To this union were born three children: John Cathey Wolfe married Margaret Wiston. They live in Sault Ste. Marie, Michigan, They have five children, twelve grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Mary Pearl Wolfe, Cleveland County, Marshall Wolfe married Frances Beam, Cleveland County. They have three children: William Ivey and Era were both stricken with crippling arthritis in their early teens. William Ivey assisted by his sister, Era, served as postmaster of Fancy Post Office, Cleveland County, for a number of years. The post office was in one room of the house until the rural routes were established. After the post office closed, William taught in public schools and also taught public school music, both vocal and instrumental, in the communities of Cleveland County.

My grandparents are buried in the Beulah Methodist Cemetery. Cathey died of a heart attack on the Cleveland County Courthouse lawn which is now the Cleveland County Historical Museum.

Sources: Wolfe Family Bible & letters, 1850 Census, Family members

— Mary Pearl Wolfe

LAWRENCE MARSHALL WOLFE

1131

Lawrence Marshall Wolfe, my father, was always interested in Beulah Methodist Church, located in Cleveland County, North Carolina. He was reared and attended this church during his entire life. He is also buried in the cemetery of the church.

He served the church many years as Sunday School superintendent. He was also Lay Leader for the Cherryville circuit, which included four churches.

During the year of 1929-1930, the members decided to remodel their little frame church and build a brick veneer. It was a big undertaking for fifty members, but with determination they decided to continue with their plans.

They employed an architect to draw up the plans. The plans were submitted for a loan to Mr. King and the Board of Education, which was in Louisville, Kentucky. It seemed there was little satisfaction from the Board in obtaining the loan. After several attempts, the pastor, Reverend Paul Townesend, Mr. George Goforth, and Dad decided to go to visit Mr. King in person.

The pastor was to drive his car, which was a Ford roadster with a rumble seat and very bad tires. His wife was going as far as Tennessee with them. Dad and Mr. Goforth were going to ride in the rumble seat as that was their only choice.

Leaving home at 6:30 a.m., they stopped in Shelby to have four new tires installed. Having this done and ready to be on their journey, my dad started to get into the rumble seat and failed to make it, when suddenly the preacher stepped on the gas and was on his way. The minister and his wife were in Fallston, ten miles away, when Mrs. Townsend discovered they didn't have their passengers. She said, "Paul, they aren't back there," meaning Mr. Wolfe and Mr. Goforth.

The minister quickly turned around and they were back in Shelby on record time. Other than that they had a very successful trip.

The beautiful, little church was completed and furnished on schedule.

We would like to have you come and worship with us.

Dad attended a one-room school in which they used the "Blue Back Speller." Slates were used for figures in arithmetic and writing.

After the one-room school closed, he attended school in Belwood, Cleveland County.

Lawrence loved his land and cattle.

His outstanding hobby was racing his black horse, named Maude, which he had raised from a colt.

When we purchased our first radio, my mother would always have dinner scheduled so she would not miss the soap series, "Betty and Bob."

In our childhood days, we had the misfortune of having sore throat very often. My mother's favorite remedy was blowing sulfur, in a rolled up paper, down our throat. Once she attempted to blow the sulfur down my brother John's throat. He took the first blow, and the sulfur reversed and almost strangled my mother.

Sources: Memories

— Mary Pearl Wolfe

LAWRENCE MARSHALL, JR. and FRANCES BEAM WOLFE

1132

Lawrence Marshall Wolfe, Jr. was born on June 14, 1919 in Cleveland County to Lawrence M., Sr. and Mary Etta Lackey Wolfe, one of three children born of this union.

On December 23, 1939, Marshall married Frances Beam, daughter of Marcus and Willie Hoyle Beam. Frances was born on August 20, 1920 in Cleveland County. Three children were born to this union: Glenda Ann, on May 13, 1948; Mary Alice, on November 25, 1952 who married Mark Dunn Mitchell on July 4, 1976; and Dale Alan, on April 7, 1956.

We have had some happy times in our lives. At first when we married, we were dependent on the soil for our living, but times changed and Marshall went to textiles.

A highlight in our togetherness has been traveling in the United States. We have been on several long vacations and seen some of the scenic wonders in our great country.

Glenda is an accountant in Charlotte, North Carolina, Alice a teacher in Greenville, Tennessee, and Dale is a pilot in the United States Air Force.

Sources: Family knowledge

— Frances B. Wolfe

NELLIE WOLFE

1133

Nellie Wolfe was born January 1, 1822 to Jacob and Nancy McIntyre Wolfe. She had several brothers and sisters. Nellie, married Robert Ledford and they had eight children (maybe nine) Acie, Emmalize, Lizzie, Jane, Mary, Ella, Pinkney, and Vollie, which was my grandmother.

Nellie lived to be 103 years, 1 month, and 6 days. She was still active, but at the age of 95, she broke her hip, then had to get around with the aid of a cane.

My great grandmother (Nellie) was loved by all that knew her.

Grandmother was firm with her grandchildren. If you didn't obey her, you might get a tap with her cane, quoted one of her great-granddaughters.

Vollie, my grandmother was born (1870 — d. 1912) was married to John W. Mode (Tom). They reared ten children Essie, Addie, Era, Macie, Lelan, Luna, Ola, Corbett, Cathy, and Walter.

Vollie died 1912 at the age of 42.

Ola, Vollie's daughter and my mother was born 1895 and died 1957 at the age of 62. She was married to Marcus H. Bridges born 1892, died 1962.

To this union was born seventeen children. Lawrence, Laura, Elbridge, H.E., Lillian, Colton, Hubert Buen, Paul, Nelson, Marcus Jr., Melba, Connie, Helen, Corbett, Mary Ola, and Betty. The last son was a still born.

Melba was the daughter of Ola Mode Bridges born July 27, 1929. She is married to Lee Ray Willis, the son of Charlie Dennis Willis.

Melba and Ray have three sons, Ronald Lee born September 14, 1949. Ray Hillard born June 13, 1952, and Stuart Gantt Willis born December 31, 1963.

Ronald Lee, married Teresa Jane Anthony in 1970. They have two sons Jason born April 15, 1971. Justin Lee born April 26, 1976. Ray Hillard married Teresa Dawn Neal in 1971 and was divorced in 1978 (No Children). Then Hillard married Teresa Mae Kiser (Note all Tera) on December 14, 1980. Born to Hill and Tessie on January 25, 1982 a daughter, Jaime Michelle. To my knowledge this is the youngest member of the clan. Jaime is the great-great-great granddaughter of Nellie Wolfe Ledford. Stuart Cantt 18 years old (still single).

Nellie Wolfe Ledford and Robert Ledford are buried in the Ledford family cemetery in Polkville.

It is believed that Nellie came to Cleveland County from South Carolina.

We have kin in Kentucky and eastern parts of North Carolina.

Sources: Tombstones, Census Records, and Family Bible

— Melba Bridges Willis

HENRY SMITH WOOD

1134

Henry Smith Wood (May 29, 1816 — November 28, 1864) Eldest son of William (Billy) Wood and Mary Magdalena Ruppe married Susan Watkins (January 24, 1819 — October 3, 1891) the daughter of William Watkins. Henry and Susan were farmers and of the Baptist Faith. William deeded Henry one hundred and forty-six acres of land on Suck Creek that reached to a branch head that emptied into Ashworth Creek. This was a part of three hundred acres granted to Patrick Sullivan in 1796.

From this union which took place April 12,

1837 were born the following children: William Smith, who married Mary Jane Lipscomb from Gaffney, South Carolina; Joseph T., who married Leco Goforth; Thomas J., who married Anna Liza Byers, and Louisa who married R.M. (Dick) Jolley. Joseph T. and Thomas J. were twins and the only twins in the Wood family located thus far in my research.

Henry Smith served in the Civil War. He was a guard at the Prisoner of War camp in Salisbury, North Carolina and was killed by a prisoner in an escape from the camp. His body was brought back home and buried in the family cemetery which later became Prospect Baptist Church Cemetery.

His wife Susan with the help of her children and some hired help kept the farm going and cleared additional acres for farming. She carried on the work for ten years after the death of her husband. She then married her brother-in-law, Thomas Harris, after his wife died.

This tract of land is still owned and farmed and is still in the Wood family.

— John W. Wood

HENRY SMITH (BUD) WOOD 1135

Henry Smith (Bud) Wood (July 21, 1864 — July 27, 1919), son of William Smith and Mary Jane Lipscomb Wood married Charlotte Ida McIntyre (July 5, 1866 — February 20, 1905). Ida's father Mr. McIntyre, whose given name I do not know, married Pheobe Wright, a sister of Joe, John and Tom Wright, who came from the Ellenboro, Mooresboro, area of Cleveland and Rutherford counties. Mr. McIntyre and his wife Pheobe moved to Mississippi where Ida was born. Mr. McIntyre died and was buried in Mississippi. R.M. (Dick) Jolley who married Louisa, daughter of Henry Smith Wood and wife Susan went to Mississippi and brought Pheobe and her daughter and belongings back to Cleveland County. Pheobe married Steve Humphries the second marriage and they raised Ida.

From the union of Henry Smith and Ida were born the following children: Manie (February 20, 1890 — February 10, 1911), who married J. Bundy Ruppe (April 17, 1885 — October 2, 1960). Their children were Louise, Viola, and Ralph. After the death of Manie, J. Bundy married Elizabeth Ellis and there were several children by this second marriage. Wonnie (November 5, 1894 — June 21, 1976) married Robert B. McBee (December 19, 1894 — January 10, 1970). Their children were Mae, Gladys and Gregg. Talmadge Pinckney October 1, 1899 — November 10, 1961), married Marybelle Potter (August 30, 1902) daughter of John W. Potter and Harriett Miami Ellis Potter. Their children were John W., Ruth Elaine and Mary Margaret. Lane (July 10, 1903 — July 1, 1938), married Ruth Parks from White Plains, N.C. the first marriage and they had no children. He married Kate Brown from Mt. Airy, N.C. the second marriage and they had one daughter, Mildred.

Henry Smith (Bud) married Roxana Hill (September 1, 1880 — February 2, 1967), his second marriage. From this union were born the following children: William Henry (October 10, 1908) who married Vada Martin daughter of Acker and Ofie Martin. Their children were Mary Frances and Gene. George Thomas (May 13, 1909), married Cenie Martin (September 1, 1906 — July 25, 1948) daughter of Acker and Ofie Martin and they had one daughter, Betty Osteen. George Thomas married Ruby Ferree Matheney (March 11, 1913) after his first wife died. They have no children. There is a step-son, Gene Matheney son of his second wife. Osteen (April 29, 1913 — May 7, 1980), married J. Kenneth McMahan from Cliffside, N.C. Their two children were Mary Kay and Jo Ann.

Henry Smith and his two wives were of the Baptist Faith and Farmers. and they reared a rather large family of Baptists and farmers.

I never knew my grandmother Ida. I stayed with my step-grandmother, Roxana quite a bit as a child. She was quite a disciplinarian and a very devout christian, eager to teach and help in any way she could. Even though the day of the hand loom was past she would show me how to take cotton and card it with hand cards into a batt. She would then take the old spinning wheel and spin the batts into thread, allowing me to wind the thread into a ball. I will always cherish her memory.

— John W. Wood

DOCTOR JOHN W. WOOD 1136

Dr. John W. Wood (September 28, 1861 — January 15, 1938) wife, Ollie T. Irvin (May 4, 1868 — February 28, 1935). Dr. Wood was the eldest son of William Smith and Mary Jane Lipscomb Wood a farm family of note in no. one township, Cleveland County.

Dr. Wood graduated from Louisville Medical College, Louisville, Kentucky in 1892 with a Doctor of Medicine Degree. This was the twenty-third class to graduate from that school and the graduation ceremonies were held in the McCauley Theater. Immediately after graduation he set up his practice in Boiling Springs, North Carolina with an office and drug store. It was from this location that he served the community until his death.

In the earlier years of his practice, house calls were made in a horse and buggy. The story is told that returning from one of his house calls south of broad river, the Doctor fell asleep. His horse, whose name was Henry, pulled into a house which had a watering trough for a drink of water, since the Doctor had stopped at this same house on other occasions to water his horse. The occupants of the house let Henry drink, then led him back to the main road, pointed him toward Boiling Springs. Henry returned home and the Doctor had slept through the whole ordeal.

Dr. Wood was a Baptist and a pillar in the community serving as deacon of Boiling Springs Baptist Church, president of Boiling Springs Knitting Mill and serving on the board of directors of several other manufacturing industries of Cleveland County.

He and his wife had no children of their own but they raised two boys, Astor and Jennings Hunt. Astor died early in life. Jennings married Jesse Henderson a next door neighbor and they still live in Boiling Springs.

I can attest to the prowess of his medical ability. At the age of six, while packing hay for my father, I became overbalanced and fell to the ground receiving a compound, complex fracture of my right forearm. Dr. Wood set my arm, bringing both protruding bones back into alignment by feel and traction and without the aid of x-ray. Sixteen years later while receiving my physical examination for a commission in world war two, the examining doctors didn't believe the arm had been broken and set so perfectly. They x-rayed the arm which confirmed the break and remarked what a wonderful piece of bone-work.

I doubt all the doctors can give him the glowing report that I have for no two people see a doctor in the same light. He did however render a great service to the town of Boiling Springs and the surrounding community during his lifetime.

I might note in conclusion, that Dr. W. Wyan Washburn opened his medical practice in Boiling Springs in the same office building and drug store that served Dr. Wood for so many years.

— John W. Wood

JOHN W. WOOD 1137

John W. (October 5, 1922) son of Talmadge Pinckney and MaryBelle Potter Wood. I was reared on the farm in No. One Township, Cleveland County and graduated from Boiling Springs High School, Boiling Springs, N.C. in May of 1940. During the last two years in high school I took a course in business at Boiling Springs Junior College.

Jobs were hard to find in 1940 and not being financially able to continue college, I enlisted in the army in July of 1940. I was sent to the Quartermaster Corps in shipping and receiving at Fort Bragg. N.C. I transferred from the Quartermaster Corps to the Fifteenth Ordnance Company in the grade of corporal and was sent to advanced Depot and Supply School in Aberdeen, Maryland. When I returned to my company after completing school, I was promoted to Buck Sargeant in company supply.

I left the Fifteenth Ordnance Company with a staff sergeant's rating to help form two new ordnance companies, the Two Sixty-First and Two Seventy-Second. After these two companies were formed, trained and shipped out I went to Ordnance Officers Candidate School in Aberdeen, Maryland where after schooling was commissioned a second lieutenant. Following my commission I had advanced training in bomb disposal, joined the Seven Twenty-Eighth Ordnance Company and shipped overseas in the European theater of war.

When I returned to the States I took a civil service job in Jacksonville, Florida for awhile. I returned to North Carolina where I worked in billing and shipping with Cone Mills, Cliffside, N.C.

In October of 1948 I took a job with Duke Power Company at Cliffside Steam Station, Cliffside, N.C. where I have been working for the past thirty-four years in the areas of Administration, Laboratory Analysis, Testing and at the present time in Records and Performance.

I am presently looking forward to retirement in a couple of years when I will have the time to pursue by hobby of plant breeding. I grow and hybridize many species of hybrid irises, hemerocallis and hostas.

I have been a member of Prospect Baptist Church for Forty-Eight years and presently serve as music director, member of associational board and member of finance committee.

The years have been good to me and I feel I have had a good and meaningful life. During this period of time I have seen the arrival of plush automobiles, tape recorders, sophisticated radio, television, man into space, man walking on the moon, and the age of the computers. If there is as much change in the next sixty years as the past sixty we would not recognize this as the earth we know today.

— John W. Wood

TALMADGE PINCKNEY WOOD 1138

Talmadge Pinckney (October 1, 1899 — November 10, 1961) married MaryBelle Potter (August 30, 1902), daughter of John W. Potter and Harriett Miami Ellis Potter. They were wed on December 24, 1921 and were of the baptist faith and farmers.

The farm was maintained throughout the years by the family and a tenant farmer, as my father's occupation was quite diversified. He served as a constable as well as a magistrate in no. one township. He also served on the school committee and road committee. He worked in the capacity of guard at the state prison camp in Shelby, N.C. for several years. When World War Two was declared he took a job as carpenter, building barracks at Camp Croft in Spartanburg, S.C. When the job was finished there, he took a job with Duke Power Company at Cliffside Steam Station, Cliffside, N.C. where he worked until he retired on disability.

From this union were born three children. John W. (October 5, 1922) who married Frances Woodruff of Mount Airy, N.C. Now divorced.

Ruth Elaine (June 5, 1927) who married Glenn W. Crawford from Statesville, N.C. and they have two sons. The eldest, James Woodrow is married to Rebecca Bugg. James and Rebecca live in Durham, N.C. and they have two daughters, Laura Gordon and Rebecca Jane. James is employed by the telephone company there, and Rebecca teaches first grade. Daniel Glenn married Lucinda Bailey, a first generation american. Lucinda's mother is from Poland and married Lucinda's father during World War Two. Daniel works with the North Carolina State Bureau of Investigation and Lucinda is a home economics teacher. They have no children and live in Waynesville, N.C. Glenn is a watchmaker, jeweler in Newton, N.C. and his wife Ruth is employed by Sears in Hickory, N.C. They live in Newton, N.C.

Mary Margaret (November 6, 1942), married Thomas D. McBrayer, son of R.B. and John W. Wood, son of Talmadge Pinckney Wood and Mary Belle Potter Wood, wife of Talmadge Pinckney.

Marie Huntley McBrayer, Forest City, N.C. They have three children: Thomas D. Jr., Sallie Lynn and John Edgar. Thomas D. works with McBrayer & Sons Furniture in Forest City, N.C. and Margaret is assistant librarian at Chase High School. They are both licensed real estate dealers and live in Weatherstone Heights, Forest City, N.C.

The depression years were difficult for this family. Cotton was selling for five cents a pound when there was a market for it. We were fortunate however to be living on the farm as we grew all of our food with the exception of sugar, salt and coffee. We were milking several cows and peddled milk and butter in Cliffside, N.C. to supplement the family income. We were poor but happy and really didn't know the difference as everyone else mostly was in the same boat. Those who had money lost it when the banks failed, so everyone just did the best they could.

My Mother still keeps the home place and still uses her home comfort stove that burns wood for cooking. She spends a lot of her time with me especially at night, but when daylight comes she makes her way to her home. I am truly thankful for my father and mother and I think all of the family can say we have had and are having a good life.

— John W. Wood

WILLIAM (BILLY) WOOD 1139

William (Billy) Wood according to 1850 Census was born in South Carolina. No specific date of birth or death has been located at this writing. Records show that he served with the S.C. Milita in the grade of Corporal in the 1812 War and that he applied for a pension in 1871 at which time he was seventy-eight years old. This would indicate he was born in 1793.

William married Mary Magdalena Ruppe (March 1801 — November 1875) who was the daughter of Martin Ruppe and Mary Barbara Mattais, first generation Americans. Martin Ruppe's father was George Ruppe, a Frenchman who eloped with the daughter of an Australian Count to Holland. From Holland they sailed aboard one of William Penn's ships, arriving in Pennsylvania in 1720. Martin and Mary Barbara came from Pennsylvania to Virginia, to Hot Springs, North Carolina in Surrey County, south to Howells Ferry in York County, South Carolina, Godneysville, South Carolina and back to North Carolina. Martin Ruppe was a blacksmith by trade which could account for all his moving about.

The Ruppe History indicated that when Martin and Mary Barbara came by Thickety Mountain on their way back to North Carolina they were joined at this point by William (Billy) Wood who came with them to North Carolina and later married their daughter Mary Magdalena.

From this union were born the following children: Henry Smith (May 29, 1816 — November 28, 1864) who married Susan Watkins (January 24, 1819 — October 3, 1895) the daughter of William Watkins; Thomas M. (January 31, 1818 — January 25, 1892) who married Jane McCraw (July 28, 1825 — July 14, 1887) the daughter of Cabard McCraw of Spartanburg County. Thomas M. was married a second time after his first wife died to Babe McCraw who married Wrans Scruggs after Thomas died. William J. married the daughter of Barnery Huskey. James D. married Susan Hamrick daughter of Moore Hamrick. Cynthia married Robert McCraw. Mary married Richard White and Louisa married Aaron Hamrick.

William (Billy) and his wife and family were of the Baptist faith and farmers. He built a two-story home on Broad River on what is now 221A, south of Cliffside, N.C. in Rutherford County. He owned several hundred acres of land extending from 221A east and beyond Ashworth Creek which is now Cleveland County, formerly Rutherford, until Cleveland was formed from parts of Rutherford and Lincoln Counties.

Church records indicate he joined the State Line Baptist Church located just inside South Carolina in 1846 and in the year 1849 he was elected a deacon. His term as a deacon was rather short lived in that he was unchurched in 1851. The church records do not indicate why he was unchurched but I am sure it would be interesting to know why. We do know that it was not uncommon in that period of history to be unchurched for frivolous as well as serious matters.

(Point in Case) A man who played the fiddle and his wife were brought up in church by a good brother who wanted them unchurched for attending square dances and playing the fiddle for same. The man and his wife made their amends but this did not seem to satisfy the good brother. He wanted the church to have the man sell his fiddle. The preacher arose and said: "Hold on good brother you seem to be like the indian's tree, so straight, that you seem to be leaning a little". enough said.

William (Billy) and his wife Mary Magdalena are buried in State Line Baptist Church Cemetery. Their lives and family have had a great impact on this community and many relatives still live in the area.

— John W. Wood

WILLIAM SMITH WOOD

1140

William Smith (March 8, 1839 — March 6, 1908) eldest son of Henry Smith and Susan Wood, married Mary Jane Lipscomb (January 3, 1837 — December 22, 1927) from Gaffney, South Carolina. William and Mary Jane were farmers and of the Baptist faith and lived in the Camp's Creek Community in No. One Township on a farm formerly owned by Billy Davidson. He served as a deacon in Camp's Creek Baptist Church. He fell dead on the road to Gaffney, S.C. at the age of sixty-nine and was buried in Camp's Creek Church Cemetery.

There were six children born from this union. They were: Henry Smith (Bud) who married Ida McIntyre, the first marriage, and after her death married Roxana Hill. John W. who married Ollie Irvin was a Medical Doctor in Boiling Springs, N.C. They had no children of their own. Gifton G. (April 3, 1872 — August 25, 1904) was an ordained baptist minister and served in the Spanish American War. He was never married. Lelia B. (June 1, 1866 — June 20, 1905) married John McCraw (February 9, 1867 — April 9, 1900). John was the son of Alvin McCraw who was a teacher at Cobb School in the upper end of No. one Township. There were four children born to this couple: Voyd, Clarence, Bufie and Uzelia. Their father died at the age of thirty-three, and their mother at the age of thirty-nine. William Smith their grandfather raised them. Susan C. (1868-1934) married Eli J. Bailey (1865-1920). Children from this union were Herbert, Broughton, Howard and Ola. Mollie married Henry Gallimore from Kings Mountain, North Carolina. From this union were born two sons, Smith and Yates.

William Smith did not serve in the Civil War. He was however detailed to apprehend any deserters who came into the area. After his death, Mary Jane lived with her son Doctor John Wood in Boiling Springs, North Carolina until her death in 1927.

I was five years old when Mary Jane (Granny) died. Her by-word was "Goshus" and she moved about with a cane which she used to quiten down the kids if they became too rowdy. She also used the cane by tapping it on the floor when she was dining to summon someone to attend her plate of when she was sitting in her rocker and needed something done for her.

The offspring from this union are many and they are scattered throughout the southeast.

— John W. Wood

ALBERT VICTOR WRAY FAMILY

1141

Prepared 3-1982 by Stough A. Wray, Jr., with the guidance of Stough A. Wray.

In Lynchburg, VA, A.V. Wray married Oct. 12, 1905 Margaret Lee Jones. They were a loving and devoted couple. This union produced the following siblings all of whom worked periods of time at A.V. Wray & 6 Sons as early as nine years of age excepting Marjorie Mays.

A.V. Wray

Margaret Lee Jones Wray

1. Albert Victor, Jr. (b. Aug. 19, 1906 Lynchburg, Va., d. March 31, 1942, buried Shelby's Sunset). Cowboy, sportsman and merchant married Jan. 29, 1929 lone Nolan (b. May 11, 1906 Cleveland Co., N.C.), a teacher, presently residing in Shelby. This marriage produced Sara Kathleen, Dorothy Jean, Barbara Nolan and Martha Sue.

2. George Washington (b. Dec. 18, 1907 Lynchburg, Va., d. April 18, 1951), buried Shelby's Sunset. Politically active merchant and insurance agent married Dec. 27, 1939 Nancy Elizabeth Bunn (b. Nov. 15, 1915 Raleigh, NC), a Shelby teacher, adopting George Washington, Jr. and Julian Bunn.

3. Robert Lee (b. March 16, 1909 Lynchburg, Va., d. June 10, 1948 Live Oak, Fla., buried Shelby's Sunset). Cabinet maker, machinist, and merchant married Oct. 24, 1927 Mary Kate Grigg (b. Aug. 17, 1908 Cleveland Co., NC). Their child is Robert Lee, Jr.

4. Sarah Ellen (b. May 14, 1912 Shelby, NC, d. Oct. 17, 1966), married March 14, 1930 Robert Roland "Buck" Rabon (b. Dec. 27, 1903 Columbia, S.C., d. Dec. 24, 1969), who served A.V. Wray & 6 Sons, Inc., as General Manager during WW II, as Footwear Merchandise Manager til death. Both buried Shelby's Sunset. This union produced Margaret Marie, Robert Roland, Jr., Sarah Wray (deceased), Thomas Victor (deceased) and Mary Ellen.

5. Harvey Linton (b. Oct. 26, 1914 Shelby, NC) WW II Army Medical Corps, General Manager and President A.V. Wray & 6 Sons, Inc., til his 1978 retirement, married March 18, 1934 Evelyn Rebecca Jones (b. Oct 7, 1913 Gaston Co., NC, d. April 16, 1981), buried Shelby's Sunset. This marriage produced Harvey Linton, Jr. (deceased), Michael Harvey and Edmund Jones.

6. Charles William (b. Jan. 31, 1917 Shelby, NC, d. July 25, 1967, buried Shelby's Sunset). WW II Army Combat Engineers, Asst., Manager and Vice-President A.V. Wray & 6 Sons, Inc., til death, married April 3, 1938 Mary Palmer Wells (b. Feb. 18, 1918 Shelby, NC). This marriage produced Charles William, Jr., and Albert Victor, III.

7. Stough Alexander (b. Aug. 10, 1919 Shelby, NC) WW II Air Corps Radio/Radar

Technician presently serving A.V. Wray & 6 Sons, Inc., as President and Board Chairman, married May 22, 1937 Janie Tayloe Cline (b. Oct. 21, 1921 Lawndale, NC). This marriage produced Stough Alexander, Jr., Janie Cline, Angela (deceased) and another infant daughter (deceased).

8. Marjorie Mays (b. March 10, 1923 Shelby, NC, d. Jan. 29, 1926, buried Shelby's Sunset).

Freely provided, the following gens is documented in the research of Cheves Linton's son, George Williamson Wray of Charlotte, NC.

James Franklin Wray (b. Feb. 18, 1767, d. Feb. 19, 1851) married Elizabeth Linton (b. March 27, 1777, d. Aug 4, 1843). Both buried old Zion Baptist Church 6 mi. N. Shelby, NC, per tombstone and recent improvements provided by A.V. Wray & 6 Sons, Inc. Their tenth and last child was James Alexander Linton Wray (b. Dec. 24, 1823, d. Dec. 30, 1902) marrying Jan. 19, 1844 Margaret Louise Blanton (b. Feb. 12, 1825, d. Oct. 31, 1896). Both buried Sunset Cemetery Shelby per tombstone. Their fourth child George Washington Wray — C.S.A. (b. May 13, 1845 or 1846, d. Dec. 2, 1916) marrying March 26, 1868 Sarah Judith (Jane) Suttle (b. Aug. 15, 1848, d. Nov. 13, 1918). Both buried in Shelby's Sunset per tombstone. Their siblings were:

1. Cheves Linton (b. Dec. 25, 1868 Cleveland Co. NC, d. Jan. 25, 1855) farmer and merchant owner of Chas. P. Wray Co., Ridgeway, SC, married Aug. 1, 1900 Sarah George Williamson, both buried Sumter, SC, produced four sons.

2. Carrie Elizabeth (b. June 20, 1871 Cleveland Co., NC d. Aug. 3, 1907, buried Shelby's Sunset) a Cleveland County and Haw River, NC, school teacher, never married.

3. Joseph Suttle (b. June 23, 1874 Shelby, NC, d. Dec. 18, 1931) UNC graduate, teacher, Principal and first Superintendent of Gastonia, NC, public school system 1900 to 1921. He married Nov. 3, 1909 Oeland Lamar Barnett (b. 1879 Shelby, NC, d. 1962) a Latin and English teacher. Both buried Gastonia, NC, had one daughter and two sons.

4. Franklin Stough (b. Dec. 2, 1877 Shelby, NC, d. 1939 buried Shelby's Sunset) salesman/A.V. Wray Co., Cleveland County Justice of the Peace and bookkeeper/Thompson Lumber Co.

5. Albert Victor (b. June 7, 1879 Shelby, NC, d. April 23, 1943, buried Shelby's Sunset) was Margaret Lee Jones husband, merchant, home developer, hotel owner and operator, and founded the present A.V. Wray & 6 Sons, Inc., in 1911.

6. Annie Bailey (b. June 28, 1883 Shelby, NC, d. Dec. 30, 1902, buried Shelby's Sunset) a twin who never married.

7. James Bailey (b. June 28, 1883 Shelby, NC, d. July 15, 1883, buried Shelby's Sunset) a twin.

8. Margaret Elvira "Elva" (b. Sept. 27, 1888 Shelby, NC, d. Sept. 20, 1973) married Nov. 5, 1913 Carl S. Thompson, Thompson Lumber Co. owner, financier and real estate developer. Both buried Shelby's Sunset, produced three girls.

The following genealogy is taken from a lineage chart of Carrie Mary Jones Gibson's daughter, Annie Lucile and husband Ernest D. Stevens of Garrett Park, Maryland.

William Jones, Buckingham County, VA, of Welsh descent and his wife unknown. Their son, Beverly, Amherst County, VA, married Elizabeth Turner, a daughter of Lewis Turner, Nelson County, VA whose wife is unknown. Their son, Wm. Lewis Jones — Co. G., 19th VA. Inf., C.S.A. (b. Dec. 5, 1842, Amherst Co. VA, d. 1922) married Feb. 18, 1868 Mary Elizabeth Mays (b. May 7, 1851, d. April 12, 1884) producing the following siblings:

1. Stephen Clarence (b. April 27, 1870, d. March 4, 1950) married Lottie Parker, Spotylvania County, VA, had three girls.

2. Carrie Mary (b. Dec. 20, 1872 Amherst Co, VA, d. Dec. 2 1947) married Dec. 28, 1898 Walter Ballard Gibson (b. March 29, 1870 Albemarle Co., VA, d. March 1, 1908) whose grandfather was UVa. Chaplain Ballard Ezekiel Gibson (b. 1812 Amherst Co., VA, d. 1845). Both died Charlottesville, VA., buried Hardware Baptist Church, had two girls and two sons.

3. William Clinton (b. Nov. 14, 1874, d. 1946) married Sally Sue Thacker, had one girl & three boys.

4. Annie Elizabeth (b. 1876) married Wm. Henry Stevens, Nelson Co., VA, had three girls & one boy.

5. James Beverly (b. August 25, 1878, died, Shelby, NC) married May Richards of England. Both buried Shelby's Sunset, had four girls and two boys.

6. Sarah Ellen (b. August 29, 1880, d. 1921, buried Fort Hill, Lynchburg, VA).

7. Margaret Lee (b. June 1, 1882 Nelson Co., VA., d. July 4, 1966, buried in Shelby's Sunset) married A.V. Wray, producing eight children.

Wm. Lewis Jones later married his sister-in-law Ellen Richard Mays (b. June 12, 1848, d. May 1921, buried Fort Hill, Lynchburg, VA) producing George Ithama "Jack" Jones (b. 1885, d. Lynchburg, VA) marrying Nov. 5, 1912 Hazel Jester, Lynchburg, VA, producing one girl and one boy.

The Mays family ancestors came from Holland. The Virginia family was founded by Willie

A.V. and Margaret Jones Wray — 1941

Mease, Minister, who came to Jamestown in 1611 and performed the marriage ceremony of John Rolfe and Pocohontas in 1612. Amherst County, VA, was established in 1761 by Bissel and Benjamin Mays.

Jordan Mays (Nelson Co., VA) married Catherine Harvey, a daughter of Thomas Harvey and Betsy Wood. Thomas Harvey's brother, William married Pauline Bryant producing Mary Harvey (b. Jan. 12, 1825, d. Feb. 10, 1859) who married Sept. 2, 1847 James Winston Mays (b. July 26, 1823) producing seven siblings including Mary Elizabeth and Ellen Richard. On Nov. 13, 1860 James Winston Mays took Catherine Moore (b. March 6, 1833) as his second wife producing six siblings.

Sources: in article.

— Stough A. Wray, Jr.

ARIE M. WRAY

1142

I, Arie Wray, was born July 16, 1901 that is what I have seen written in the Bible, written nice and neat. When I knew myself I was with my mother's youngest sister Alice and George Stonall and they had the landlady write all of our birth dates in the Bible. We lived on their land and whenever a baby was born my Aunt Alice would take the Bible to Miss Mattie McCree to let her write the name and date. My aunt could not read nor write but my Uncle George could read some but he never did write. We were all born on their place. I had one more sister and two brothers. Sister Leydia was the oldest then brother Usner and brother Frank. I was the youngest.

I can't remember my mother. They told me she passed when I was two years old. But no one said anything about my father and at the time he lived about ten miles from us. When I got old enough to go to school I learned from other children older than me who my father was and learned who my other sisters and brothers were. My daddy was much older than my mother. They say I have neices and nephews older than I am. His first wife's children, when they would see me would always give me a present or come and tell me I was their sister. I loved them but I never did hear my Aunt Alice call my daddy's name until I was about 12 years old. I went to church with them and my daddy saw me and asked my aunt for me and that upset her. They called me to them and asked me did I want to live with him and I said I didn't but in my heart I did. I wanted a daddy. When I got home she told me he had never done anything for me and they had cared for me since I was two years old.

I loved my daddy's wife and my sister and brother but I don't know how I felt about my daddy but I know he loved me. My aunt had children of her own. Her oldest was a girl. She and I were the same size — some people thought we were sisters. I and my cousin grew up together. Her name was Sarah and we started to school the same time.

I stayed with my aunt 'till I was 18 years old. She had strict rules. There was no place to go but to church and the church that was closest to our home was Mount Olive Baptist Church and that is where I went to school, to Sunday School and Church. When I was about 12 years old, we asked to go to Sunday School and they said we could. We wanted to go to get away from home.

When I got 16 years old I joined the church. I had an experience with God and oh how my life was changed. I can't tell you how I felt but I didn't feel alone anymore. It's just something you can't explain and I wish I could tell you what the Lord has done for me. I joined Mount Olive Baptist Church in August and was baptized in September 1917. All that feeling of alone was taken away and I had joy that no words can explain. I joined the church in August, in October I was elected secretary of the church and served there until I was married.

The home where I was raised, there wasn't anything to read but school books or Bible so I always read the Bible. Didn't understand much about it but I loved to read and study the Bible history or piece quilts or play with dolls.

Cousin Sarah was a tomboy type. She loved outside, she loved cows, horses, mules. She could ride a horse fast as they could go. We had mules, cows, horses but I didn't like to work with them. Sarah was their oldest so she liked to do a boy's job. She learned to plow. She hated to piece a quilt or cook, that was my job — to wash dishes and churn the milk every morning while my aunt cooked breakfast. Sarah would help her daddy milk the cows. My job was to help feed the hogs. I was kindly afraid of mules and cows. We all had to work in the field picking and hoeing cotton. I did hate it. I didn't mind hoeing but picking, I did hate.

We all got to go to town once or twice a year. There were some little stores close but the big town where they sold cotton and bought winter shoes and clothes was about 20 miles and that was Madison, Georgia. In the fall, about the last of October the big coversns would come to town. It was something like the fair. That was a big day with all the children. You could see all your friends, eat what you wanted and see the parades and they would find everybody and get ready for home. They would tell us when the parade was over to come to the wagon. After Sarah and I got older we hated that but we didn't say anything. We never did get to go in a show. Lots of girls and boys had to leave when we did and a lot of them could stay so Sarah and I talked it over that we were tired of that way. We decided to get married so I stayed with my Aunt Alice until I was 18 years old. I had met Eddie Wray and was dating him at church. He came to our home a few times. He would write me often and people would tell me he was a nice young man and my brothers and sisters on my daddy's side wanted me to get away from there. I could not go to see them, but they would see me at church. My brother would come to the house with us from church. On July 16, 1919, I was 18 years old, on August 10, 1919 we ran off and got married. I was born and raised in Green County. Eddie lived in Occonee County. I don't know why we ran off. It was the most foolish thing I ever did but lots of girls and boys did it. We went to the preacher's house to get married but he wasn't home so we went to the justice of the peace in Occonee. Mr. Sconctoen knew the Wray family. People had to travel with horses and buggies. A few people had cars. It hurt my aunt for me to run off, but she didn't say much about it. I was 18 years old, Eddie was 22. I was going to church and Sunday School every Sunday. Eddie wasn't a member of the church.

He was the second child in the family of 12 children.

Our oldest son was born August 5, 1920. We named him Curtis. Our second son was born August 22, 1922. We named him Robert and seems to me he was the prettiest child I ever had. He passed in March 1923. We buried our baby and sold our cows and pigs and came to North Carolina. Mr. John E. Hoyle had sent for us. He wanted a renter. The Wray's family was already here living with Blow Hick, Eddie's daddy. We came to North Carolina March 1923 with one child, Curtis Wray. That was a sad time with me. I felt I had left my baby. We buried Robert at Summer Hill Baptist Church in Occonee County, Georgia.

I told you how God was so real to me and the experiences I had with Him and now it seemed like He had left me. I tried to pray for my baby to get well. I never let Eddie hear me pray. He wasn't a member of the church. Here we were in a strange land, no church to go to for a year. There were lots of people here from Georgia but we didn't know where they were. Mr. John E. Hoyle, his sister Ellen and their mother, Mrs. Hoyle were so kind to us. On December 17, 1923 my third son was born. We named him Edgar. In March 1924 we started to organize a church. Eddie bought us a new car, 1923 Ford, so we could go to church. The car didn't cost but $83.65.

I have nine children living now, five boys and four girls: Curtis, Lawndale; Edgar, Lawndale; Thomas, Ambrous, Shelby; Thelma Antion, Lawndale; Nathaniel, Springfield, Maryland; Shirley Lackey; Briddie Weber, Shelby; Bernice Hector, Lawndale.

I have 38 grandchildren, two great-grandchildren and one great-great-grandchild. I could write more. I am stopping now with this thought in mind which I learned a long time ago: "The lives of great men all remind us we can make our lives sublime and in parting leave behind us our footprints on the sands of time."

Sources: Family remembrances

— Arie M. Wray

CHEVES LINTON WRAY

1143

Cheves Linton Wray was the first child and oldest son of George Washington Wray, and Sarah (Jane) Judith Suttle. Upon completing High School, he continued his education in bookkeeping and accounting through a Business College in Nashville, Tennessee. He felt that girls' education in the past had been neglected.

Cheves then bought a half-interest in a General Store in Ridgeway, South Carolina, and his uncle, Charles P. Wray, bought the other half. The store was successful from the beginning and it enabled him to assist in sending his sister Carrie to Salem College, and his youngest sister Annie to Converse College while his father wrestled with sending the other four sons to college. Carrie returned to Shelby and taught in the Cleveland County School System that consisted of a principal and nine teachers.

The store was located on a corner with two warehouses at the railroad riding to the rear of the block and a barn and livestock lot in between.

Their business grew by leaps and bounds as "cotton was king". In five years they had bought the adjacent store building that doubled their main floor space and in addition they installed a mezzanine across the back area of both buildings, part of it used for offices. The business continued to be successful. Cheves bought a 300-acre farm, and a 600-acre farm and operated them with overseers. He also bought his Uncle Charlie's half-interest in the store.

On August 1, 1900, he married Sarah (Georgie) George Williamson of Providence, South Carolina. She was the daughter of Sara Ada Rembert and Charles Lucius Williamson, a member of the South Carolina House of Representatives, and a roommate of Richard I. Manning, later to become South Carolina's Governor. Georgie was graduated at Sumter High School and continued her education at Jones Seminary (later Linwood College) at All Healing Springs, North Carolina as valedictorian in 1899.

They had four children — all boys, Cheves Linton, George Williamson, Charles Williamson, and Alva Suttle Wray. These boys enjoyed the pleasures of affluent children; such as two goats, harness wagon, simple and double with two seats, then bicycles, donkeys with wagon, then pony and cart, two saddle horses, an Indian motorcycle, a race horse with two-wheels rubber tired. He and Georgie were enjoying trips to Waynesville, Hendersonville, and Shelby during the summers with automobiles in order E-M-F (every man's favorite), then a Buick, Mitchell, 7-seat Chandler.

Front row L to R: Curtis, Arie Wray, Bernice; Second row L to R: Briddie, Shirley, Edgar; Third row L to R: Ambrus, Thelma, Thomas; Back row: Nathaniel.

Cheves Linton Wray, December 25, 1868 — January 25, 1955.

The flood of 1916 destroyed farmers rich lowland crops, horses, mules, cows, hogs, and sheep, and many homes, barns and corn cribs. This left Cheves with considerable debt but with the business and considerable property. In four years he was able to pay all obligations. He had continuing faith in God, and often told the four sons that the Lord knew what it would take to make "Men" of his four sons.

In 1917 Cheves had the courage to move his family to Sumter, South Carolina for better children education and military training with regulation Springfield rifles. He saw that each son had the opportunity of a College education and three of them graduated — one with honors.

Cheves Linton Wray is a direct descendant of the following families:

Sir Christopher Wray KN. Lord Chief Justice of England. 1523-1592 — Judge of Queens Bench and presided in Great State Trials;

Samuel Linton — A Tanner, near Mt. Sterling Scotland landed in Philadelphia in 1750;

David Blanton, Grandfather of George Blanton

born 1743 and came to North Carolina in 1769;

William Baxter and Sarah Berryhill of Mecklenburg, died prior to 1812 born 1758 — Charleston, South Carolina 1784;

Hosen Harrill born in Virginia, served in Rev. war, moved to North Carolina 1780 then Suttles and George Blanton II and Priscilla Harrill;

John (Settle) Suttle born ca 1499 died 6-1572;

Toms-Dover — Love Families;

Joseph Suttle and Elvira Elizabeth Blanton.

Sources: 1. The History of the Wrays of Glentworth, Vol. I — 1880; Vol. II — 1881 by Charles Dalton, London; Fellow Royal Genealogical Society and Fellow Royal Historical Society. 2. Family Bible of Julius A. Wray, Asheville — owned by Mrs. L.L. Blake extract from letter dated 6-5-1894 to cousin J.A. Wray from Dr. J.S. Linton. 3. D.A. R. lineage of Pallen McGrayner Mull — copy in hands of G.W. Wray and record of Beatrice B. Rainey. 4. From a copy of old records of J.A. Baxter, Nashville, Tn. — G.W. Wray has copy. The Settle-Suttle Family — by Wm. E. Reese — copy in hands of G.W. Wray. 5. History of Old Tryon & Rutherford Counties by Clarence Griffin. 6. The Settle-Suttle Family — same as above for #4. 7. Priscilla E. Wray who married James M. Toms. Same as item two above plus records of James F. Love III. 8. General — Manuscript of "OUR WRAY FAMILY OF ENGLAND, IRELAND, AND UNITED STATES OF AMERICA — 1982" by Colonel G.W. Wray.

— Geo. W. Wray.

John Stanhope Wray died on May 12, 1927. Excerpts from The Shelby Daily Star read: "Mr. Wray was born January 20, 1847, and on February 3, 1867 married Miss Ella Borders. For many years they lived on a large Wray plantation at Stony Point. Mr. Wray joined the church at old Capernaum in that community.

"After moving to Shelby he brought his membership to First Baptist Church where he was a most faithful and consecrated member, being a deacon of the church for fifty years and at the time of his death one of its trustees.

"Mr. Wray was an influential power in public affairs in his younger life and was regarded as a man of many fine parts, honest, true and upright. At the age of fifteen years he joined First Cavalry Company I, Cleveland guards, Barringer's brigade, Wade Hampton's division.

"He played an important part in civic affairs in the reconstruction days and was honored not only as county treasurer, but was the honored president of the Farmers Mutual Fire Insurance Company since its organization.

"Mr. Wray was the oldest member of Cleveland Lodge No. 202, Ancient Free and accepted Masons. As a tribute to his useful life and his devotion to the cause of Masonry, the funeral was with Masonic honors, six of his companion brothers bearing his remains to its resting place."

John was captured April 3, 1865 by Union Forces at Amelia Courthouse, Virginia. On his release he walked, rode with others when possible, to his home. His long beard, unkempt hair and tattered clothes changed his appearance so much his mother did not recognize him. She asked him to inquire of those he met about her son. What a moving moment it must have been when he said: "Mother, I am John!"

He was the son of William b. January 7, 1805 d. December 2, 1864 and his wife Sophia Harris b. June 8, 1812 d. June 24, 1886. William and his first wife Sally Warlick are buried at Zion Church. William was the fourth of ten children of James and Elizabeth.

James Franklin Wray, b. February 18, 1767 d. February 19, 1851 and his wife Elizabeth Linton b. March 27, 1777 d. August 4, 1843 were pioneers to America and the progenitors of all the Wray families. They emigrated from England and are buried at Zion Church.

Ella J. Borders b. January 15, 1849 d. January 1, 1927 was the ninth child of Major Hugh Borders (1804-1888) and Luvicy Sepaugh (1809-1883). Hugh's parents Michael and Sally Quinn located on lands near Patterson Springs known as "The Granny Quinn Place." Ella's forebears are interred at Antioch Church.

Ella was sixteen when she married John Wray. She was a devoted wife and kind, loving mother. The Wray home at 301 DeKalb Street was known for its hospitality. She and John are buried in Sunset Cemetery.

They had ten children; Laura m. Charles R. Doggett, (see Charles R. Doggett history). Fannie b. 1870 m. Thomas Hilary Hudson Jr. Three sons: Hilary; Harry Lee and John Randolph. Margaret (Maggie) b. 1873, m. Will H. Gardner. Two children: William and Margaret.

Sarah George (Georgie) Williamson Wray, April 12, 1881 — June 22, 1967.

Lily b. 1870 m. G. Barnett Cabaniss. One child; Martha. John (daughter) b. 1878 m. Lawson Blanton. One child; Janie Ella. Pearl b. 1880 m. Charles C. McBrayer 1874-1940. One child: Frances. Infant daughter b. 1883 lived one day. William Hugh b. 1884 m. Kathleen McBrayer. Childless.

Mary Ella (Mayme) 1887-1979 m. Carl Rush Webb. They had one child, Carl Ray (see Carl Ray Webb history). Mayme was a charter member of Twentieth Century Book Club, a member of United Daughters of the Confederacy, a Real Daughter and a member of First Baptist Church. After divorce she worked in New York City and Charlotte. She returned to Shelby in 1928, and built a home in Cleveland Springs Estates where she lived until her death at ninety two.

Gladys b. 1890 m. Zebulon C. Mauney. Two children; Zeb Jr. and Hugh Wray. She is a member of First Baptist Church, United Daughters of Confederacy, and a Real Daughter. Gladys is the only living child of John and Ella. All the children and their spouses are buried in Sunset Cemetery except Lily, who is buried in Charlotte and Maggie in Greenville, South Carolina.

Sources: Family Bible Book on Borders Family

— Virginia Hoyle Webb
and Lynne Ray Webb

JAMES and ELIZABETH NEWTON WRIGHT

1145

When James Wright (b. 1815) and his wife, Elizabeth (Betsy) Newton Wright (b. 1819-d. 1904) left Chase City, Va., in the late 1850's to come to N.C., they did so in a covered wagon. It took them two weeks to reach the Pleasant Grove community north of Shelby where James's father, John (Jack) Wright lived.

With them were their six children ranging from about 15 to five years old, all born in Virginia. Nancy Wright, died young; William, died in Richmond, Va., during the Civil War; Frances, who married Andrew (Andy) Wright; Alma; James Berry Wright, who married Eliza A. Eskridge; and Martha Caroline Wright. The only child born after they came to NC was Cynthia Alice Wright.

Still in the possession of a great grandson are two pieces of furniture they brought with them in the covered wagon. One is a cupboard in which they kept their food on the trip; the other, a blanket chest.

James was the oldest child of John (Jack) Wright and Peggy Boswell Wright, both born in Virginia. Jack & Peggy had twelve other children: Lucinda, Polly (Mary), Nancy, infant twins, George W., Job, Jr., William Matison, Sally (Sarah), John B., Drewery Dobbins and Margaret Elizabeth.

James' grandfather was Job Wright, who came to Rutherford County, now Cleveland, from Mecklenburg County, Va., in the late 1800's. There is a monument in the Pleasant Grove church cemetery erected in his honor inscribed as follows: "Job Wright 1757-1838. Soldier in the Revolutionary War. Early Planter of what is now Cleveland County. Leader of men. Father of large, influential and useful family. Set good example of Christian Living."

Job's other children were: "Polly", Newton and George.

The Job Wright cemetery, where Job and his second wife, Polly Sparks and several other family members are buried, is located in #6 township about two miles north of Shelby, near the old McBrayer Mineral Springs.

James Wright is buried in the cemetery at Double Shoals Baptist Church and Elizabeth Newton Wright is buried in Zion Church cemetery.

James Berry Wright married Eliza Ann Eskridge in 1878. They lived and farmed in the Pleasant Grove Church community, north of Shelby. Their eight children were: Amelia J. Wright, (1879-1942); Martha Alice Wright (1883-1969), married Oliver Philector Turner; John A. Wright (1883-1969) was married first to Ava Wright and second to Matilda Wallace; Charles Lee Wright (1884-1977), married Maggie Lee Weathers; Louise (Lou) Wright (1886-1952), married Joseph Pinkney Hord; Frank William Wright (1893-1969) was unmarried; Margaret Neely (Dub) Wright, (1889-1966), unmarried; and Docia May Wright (1895-1943), married Nelson Greer Self.

Sources: Personal knowledge and Bible records.

— Mae S. Cabaniss

JOB WRIGHT

1146

Job Wright was born about 1757. He was married to Sarah Newton and they had four children: Newton, George, John "Jack," and Mary "Molly."

Newton Wright was born on April 21, 1792 (see his family history).

George Wright was born in Mecklenburg County, Virginia and came with his father to North Carolina. He went to Georgia when a young man, married and reared a family there. He came back to North Carolina one time and that was in 1838 when the estate of his father was settled. He had a number of children, of who was named Job Wright.

John "Jack" Wright was born in Mecklenburg County, Virginia and married Peggy Boswell on February 13, 1822. The ceremony was performed by minister of Pleasant Gold and surety was John T. Sizemore. They came to Rutherford (now Cleveland) County with his father Job and settled at the Newman Alexander place on Vaughn Creek between home-steads of Newton Wright and William Gardner in Number 9 Township. They had eight children: Nancy Wright (single). Sallie Wright (single). Elizabeth Wright who was struck and killed by lightning while standing in the yard during the Civil War. Job Wright, Jr. who married Cintha Hendrick, daughter of George Hendrick. Issue:

Amos Wright (m. Jane Williams), Margaret Wright (m. Richard Felment and after Richard died Margaret married Levi Grigg), Loucinda Wright (m. George Washington McSwain), William Wright (m. Miss Newton of Virginia), John Wright, Jr. (was in the Civil War and did not return home — never married), Drury Wright (was in the Civil War and married a lady from Hickory Grove, South Carolina.)

John "Jack" Wright was kicked by a horse one afternoon and died that night. He was buried in the Wright Family graveyard at McBrayer Mineral Springs. Perry Wright (twin son of Newton Wright) said this was during the Civil War as he (Perry) was at home on a furlough and visited the home and attended the funeral.

Mary (Polly) Wright was born in Mecklenburg County, Virginia, and married a Mr. Jackson. She settled there and died there.

Job Wright was a patriot of the Revolutionary War as on September 27, 1781, he gave 340 pounds of beef to feed the soldiers. Any of his male descendants can join the S.A.R. — Sons of American Revolution — and any of his female descendants can join the D.A.R. — Daughters of American Revolution, (D.A.R. number 605137 for one of his descendants — Hazel Arlene Wright Myers).

On July 16, 1811, Job Wright (about 54 years of age) and Polly Thompson were married in Mecklenburg County, Virginia, by the minister David McCargo. Surety was Samuel Thompson.

Job was a farmer in Virginia and in 1812 sold his farm there and moved to Rutherford County (now Cleveland County) and bought land from a Mr. McEntire at McBrayer Mineral Springs north of Shelby.

Job had no children by Polly and he died February 3, 1838 and was buried in the Wright Family graveyard located in Number 6 Township on lands later owned by Dr. T.E. McBrayer, William A. Cabiness, and Mills Cline, and about two miles north of Shelby on a high knoll between Hezekiah Dedmon's old home place and McBrayer Mineral Springs Hotel, on north side of the road overlooking the mineral springs. A memorial marker was erected by Attorney Joe Wright and John Lawson Wright (descendants of Job) in the Pleasant Grove Baptist Church cemetery located on highway 18 north of Shelby.

In taking a look at the records of marriage and the abstract of Job's will, the names of Samuel and Rebecca Thompson were noticed in both and it is assumed that they were the parents of Job's second wife, Polly, who lived several years after the death of her husband and was buried by his side.

It is known that Job had a sister named Salley who married a Mr. Griffin and they lived in Georgia. On April 4, 1813 she wrote Job the following letter. It was addressed to him in Macklingburgh County (sic) Virginia. It was delivered by W. Flowmoy.

April 4, 1813

Dear Brother you are here presented with an account of our health, of which we thro mercy enjoy a reasonable share. We hope that him the author of our good is also mindful of you and yours. We are glad to write to you but should be much more gratified to have a personal interview with you. I talk to you of eternal things. I inquire whether you have ever seeking him of whom Moses and the Prophets did write, for we learn from the word of God that there is no greater name given under heaven whereby we can be saved from your loneliness. I have indulged a fond hope that you would come and see us but have hitherto been disappointed and should we be denied the happiness of seeing each other in time, let us endeavor to walk the sod of holiness which leads to happiness and God and where parting is no more. We both wish to be remembered to all the friend and connection.

Sally Griffin
Sources Marriage Records 1811-1853 Mecklenburg County, Virginia, p. 192 Rutherford County, North Carolina, Abstracts of Wills, 1823-1868. Wright Family History written by Judge Lee Wright of Salisbury, libraries, and cemeteries.

— Mrs. Arlene Wright Myers

JOHN LAWSON WRIGHT

1147

John Lawson Wright, son of Lawson Alexander (1847-1925) and Margaret Howell Wright (1847-1920) was born on October 1, 1883. He married Nora Addline Grigg, daughter of Rufus and Alice Clay Grigg (see family history William S. Clay), on December 25, 1901. She was born on June 16, 1886 in Cleveland County.

John L. was a prominent farmer and was a large landowner as he owned several farms in and around Cleveland County. Later in life, he turned to business and was a very successful businessman. He was owner of Farmers' Supply Company on highway 18 north of Shelby. John L. and Nora had 15 children.

Shufford Sylvester Wright was born on November 1, and died December 15, 1902.

Infant Wright died during birth on February 5, 1904.

Elsie Virgulee Wright, born on January 13, 1906, married William Edgar Hoyle, son of Joseph Peter Hoyle and Susan Etta Bumgardner Hoyle on February 11, 1928. They had two children: Dorothy Sue and Edgar Norris.

Dora Verda Lee Wright was born on December 5, 1907, and never married.

Willie Mae Connie V. Wright, born on February 7, 1910, married John Merle Yarborough, son of Charlie Andrew Yarboro and Dora Blanton Yarboro, on October 29, 1933. Merle was born on November 1, 1911, and died July 10, 1960, due to gangrene of the gallbladder and was buried at Zion Baptist Church cemetery. They had one son, Charles Robert "Bobby" Yarborough.

John Lawson and Nora Wright, wedding day, 1901.

Onley Seth Wright, born on January 28, 1912, married Lucy Mae Costner, daughter of Pressley and Florence Hamrick Costner on May 4, 1930. Lucy was born on August 23, 1911. They have two children: Charles Samuel Wright and Janie Sue Wright.

Marion Fitzhugh Wright was born on March 24, 1914, and died February 7, 1916 with pneumonia.

Talmage Stough Wright was born on January 5, 1916 (see Family History).

J.S. Wright (complete name of initials only), born on March 31, 1918, married Eula Louise Williams, daughter of Johnny Morris Williams and Vernie Barnett Williams on May 26, 1940. Louise was born on March 6, 1922. They have two children: Buddy Dean Wright and Carolyn Jane Wright.

Eula Izene Wright, born September 19, 1919, married A.V. Lail, son of Calvin Wini-field Lail and Julia N. Smith Lail. They have one son, Truman LaMorris Lail.

Velma Mozella Wright, born July 20, 1921, married James M. McSwain, son of Richard and Maude Turner McSwain. They have two children: Mildred McSwain and Sybil McSwain.

Mary Etta Wright, born June 8, 1923, married Charles Ray Mellon, son of Juluis R. and Maudie Mellon, on March 19, 1939. Ray was born on October 31, 1921. They have five children: Edward Gene Mellon, Alice Ponise Mellon, Charles Dean Mellon, Wayne Mellon, and Charles Ray Mellon, Jr.

Wright Grigg "W.G." Wright, born on July 7, 1925, married Josephine Wright, daughter of Dobbie and Daisy Hoyle Wright. They had two children: Martha Ann Wright and Brenda Wright.

Leah Lucille Wright, born April 19, 1927, married Cecil Fortenberry, son of W.C. Fortenberry. They had two children: Ginger Kay Fortenberry and Randal Fortenberry.

Recca Hazeline Wright, born December 26, 1929, married Robert William Grigg on December 24, 1948. He was born on March 17, 1928, and died April 14, 1977. He was buried at Pleasant Grove Baptist Church cemetery. They had three children; Wanda Jane Grigg, Phyllis Aileen Grigg, and David Lawson "D.L." Grigg.

As of March 1, 1982, the 12 children who reached adulthood are still living. When John L. and Nora's first grandchild, Dorothy Sue Hoyle, was born on December 22, 1928, he said he was not old enough to be called Grandpa, Granddaddy, or Grandpappy so the grandchildren could call them Daddy Wright and Mama Wright. This held through all his grandchildren and has now been carried to most of his sons who are also called Daddy Wright by their own grandchildren. Can you imagine going to a family reunion and the children playing and calling to their own Daddy Wright and the brothers turning to see who was calling them.

John Lawson and Nora Wright, 50th Wedding Anniversary, 1951.

John L. and Nora were always very close and where you saw John you usually saw Nora. Their children were all reared with a strict and loving hand. John L. was in declining health for nine months and on July 31, 1953 at 9:15 pm he died of a heart attack while sitting in a rocking chair on the side porch.

Nora had a heart attack five minutes after his sudden death and never recovered. She died on August 8, 1953, and was buried beside her husband at Pleasant Grove Baptist Church cemetery. After Rose Hill Memorial Park was established at Fallston, they were re-interred at the perpetual care site.

Sources: Interviews, family Bibles, birth and death records, and Wright Family History.

— Mrs. Arlene Wright Myers.

LAWSON ALEXANDER WRIGHT 1148

Lawson Alexander Wright, son of Richard (1822-1890) and Nancy Alexander Wright, was born on July 12, 1847, in Cleveland County. The records show that Lawson served during the Civil War in the same outfit with his father Richard Wright — Company F, Regiment 34. He married Margaret Howell, daughter of Joshua Howell. Margaret was born on October 25, 1847.

Lawson was a large landowner and was a very successful farmer. Also, he was a Baptist preacher. Part of his land holdings was his old homeplace east of Beams Mill. He tended to his aunt Mary (Polly) Vaughn in her later years and acquired the Vaughn homeplace which is located one mile south of Pleasant Grove Church and just off highway 18.

Lawson A. and Nancy Wright had 10 children: Joshua Richard, Julia Jane, Catherine, Millissa, Minnie, Monroe, Lehui Pinkney, Susan "Suddie", John Lawson, Furman Sylvester.

Joshua Richard Wright was born August 8, 1880 and died April 27, 1952. He was married two times. First time, he married Clara Hamrick, daughter of Thompson Hamrick. They had six children: Cletus (married first Bessie Jones Wellmon, issue: Ruth and W.T.; married second time to Grace Borders); Lawrence P. (married Orilla Gardner, daughter of Furman and Julia Hamrick Gardner, issue: Jewell, Donald, and Clara Sue); Lura (married George Spangler, son of Schenck Spangler, issue: Lounez Spangler and Lillian Spangler); Louella (married C. Doyle Hendrick, son of Chessley and Vada Gardner Hendrick, issue: Billy Hendrick, C.D. Hendrick, Mary Alice Hendrick, and Marsha Hendrick); Joshua Thompson "J.T." (married a girl from England); and Clarine (married Harold A. Elliott, issue: Linda Elliott and Michael Elliott).

Julia Jane Wright married Luther M. Sellers, son of Eli and Martha Lackey Sellers. He died May 27, 1969, and was survived by his second wife Lindy Clark. Julia and Luther had four children: Pearl Sellers (married Eugene Crosley); Della Sellers (married first to Harold Mills and second time to Charlie Hayes); Furman Sellers (married Stella Wright from Fallston); Gertha Sellers (married Carl McSwain, grandson of Monroe McSwain and Jane Wright McSwain).

Catherine Wright married John Black and they did not have any children.

Melissa Wright married Doras C. Sellers and they had no children.

Minnie Wright married George Champion the first time and they had one son, Charlie Champion. She married Jack Humphries the second time.

Monroe Wright was married two times. He first married Nancy McSwain, daughter of Monroe McSwain and first wife. They had five children: Cleophus (married Ethel Hamrick), James (married Pearl Hamrick), Floyd (married Mary Huffstaller), Bertha (married Alexander Gladden), Alonzo (married Ollie Dover)

Monroe married the second time to Eliza Johnson. They had six children: Dathia A. (married Bertha Costner), Julia (married Erastus Z. Whitworth), Margaret Leone (married Alonzo A. Whitworth), Henry (married Edna White), Eva (married "Boss" McSwain), and Allen (married Alice Elliott).

Lehui Pinkney Wright was married three times. First, he married Margaret Sellers and they had eight children: Bell (single), Grier (single), Vada (married Carl C. Falls), Clem (married Wilma Sellers), Gaither (married Bessie Yarboro), Ervin (married Nettie Warlick), Wilbur (married Virgie Beatty), and Herschel (married Mabel Yarboro). Second time Pinkney married Minnie Webb and they did not have any children. The last time he married Eva Wood and they had four children: James, Arvil, Bobby Wayne, and Lorene.

Susan "Suddie" Wright was never married.

John Lawson Wright was born October 1, 1883 and died July 30, 1953 — see Family History.

Furman Sylvester Wright married Bessie Lou Turner, daughter of John W. Turner, and they had eight children: Leonard Wesley (married Novella Wright, daughter of John W. and Cora Chapman Wright), Everett Lawson (married Eulalia Hoyle), Newell (married Mattie Lee Martin), Earl (married Mildred Harmon), Maggie Lou (married Reece White), Wray (married Frances Bridges), Vernie Mae (married Grady Stringfellow, and Ada (married Dwight Hord).

Nancy Wright preceded her husband in death. She died on June 23, 1920. In Lawson's first years, he was afflicted with creeping paralysis and for his final two years was an invalid and was cared for mostly by his youngest son, Furman, who received part of the former Vaughn homeplace when Lawson Alexander Wright died on September 1, 1925, at the age of 78.

Sources: Church cemeteries, library, and the Wright Family history.

— Mrs. Arlene Wright Myers

NEWTON WRIGHT

1149

Newton Wright, son of Job Wright (1757-1838, and Sarah Newton Wright, was born on April 21, 1792 in Mecklenburg County, Virginia. On July 15, 1813, he volunteered to fight in the War of 1812, Poole's Company, 6th Regiment of the Virginia Militia, commanded by Lieutenant Colonel G. Green and Colonel Sharp. He was discharged at Norfolk on October 17, 1813 in consequence of his being unable to perform military duty due to sickness.

On November 30, 1819, Newton married Sarah "Sally" Farmer, who was born on March 10, 1802, and daughter of James Farmer of Mecklenburg County, Virginia. The marriage ceremony was performed by Baptist Minister Pleasant Gold, and the surety was John T. Sizemore. Newton and Sarah moved to his father's home in Rutherford (now Cleveland) County at McBrayer's Mineral Springs just north of Shelby. They had 13 children: John Henry, Richard, Mary "Polly", Drury, Newton Jr., Sarah, Rebecca, James, George W., William H., Berry (twin), Perry (twin), and Francis.

John Henry Wright was born on September 20, 1820. He first married Ester Lackey and had two children by her; Catherine Wright, married Pink Petty; and Sidney Wright, married Margaret Ford who was the daughter of Andy Ford. Sidney settled in Missouri and died there.

John Henry Wright was married a second time to Sallie Cline, sister of David and Henry Cline. They had no children. They separated and John Henry went to Illinois and married a third time to Martha Pollard. They had two girls, name of one was Mary Wright. Martha Pollare Wright died in Illinois and John Henry then moved to Missouri near his son Sidney. There he married the fourth time to a widow, and they had no children. John Henry died in Missouri. He served in the Civil War with the Calvary. Perry Wright, his brother, said that John Henry Wright said he was not going to wear his feet out walking when he could ride a horse in the Calvary.

Lawson Alexander Wright and wife, Margaret.

Richard Wright was born May 12, 1822 (see his family history).

Mary "Polly" Wright was born on May 3, 1824, and married Jackson Vaughn. He served in Company F, Regiment 34 along with seven of Polly's brothers. He died of smallpox in the Civil War at Gennis' Station. They had no children. Polly's nephew Lawson A. Wright moved his family to her home and cared for her until her death on July 4, 1901.

Drury Wright was born on May 14, 1827.

Newton Wright, Jr. was born June 1, 1829 and served in the Civil War in Company F, Regiment 34, and after the war he went to Tennessee and married a Miss Hamer. On returning to North Carolina, he resided for a while in the Pleasant Grove community and then finally settled in number 11 township, and died there. He was known as the community preacher.

Sarah Wright was born on August 12, 1831, and died May 26, 1860. She never married and was buried in the Newton Wright cemetery.

Rebecca Wright was born on June 25, 1833.

James Wright was born on July 6, 1936.

George W. Wright was born on July 19, 1838, married Martha Willis, daughter of Square Jessie Willis on December 18, 1862 by the Justice of Peace John L. Gladden, and died April 19, 1921 in Cleveland County.

William H. Wright was born on July 25, 1840 and died April 30, 1922. He served in the Civil War with Company F, Regiment 34. He married Effie Lackey on November 21, 1865, and settled at his father's old homestead and reared eight children: 1. Tommie (m. Laura Early), 2. Callie (m. James Yancey Elliott), 3. Dovie (single), 4. Rainie (m. William H. Glascoe), 5. Minnie (m. Kim Williams), 6. Essie, twin to Bessie (m. first to Abraham Peeler and second time to John J. Wilkins), 7. Bessie, twin to Essie, (m. Andrew Elliott), 8. Dobbie (m. Daisy Hoyle).

Berry Wright (twin to Perry) was born July 25, 1843. He served in the Civil War with Company F, Regiment 34, North Carolina Infantry, Confederate States of America. He entered on May 17, 1862, and served under Captain Abraham G. Waters and was killed in battle at Gales Mill, Virginia. Captain Waters was also killed in the same battle. Berry never married.

Perry Wright (twin to Berry) was born July 25, 1843. He served in the Civil War with Company F, Regiment 34. He was married two times. The first time he married Sarah Costner, daughter of Daniel Costner, and a sister of Jacob Costner. Sarah A. Wright was born on October 23, 1841, and died on July 31, 1896. She was buried at Pleasant Grove Baptist Church cemetery. They had six children:

1. James Andres Jackson Wright (m. Ella Lackey, daughter of Dave Lackey)
2. Gamewell Feandus Wright (m. Leana Whitworth, daughter of Mark Whitworth),
3. Delia, born March 22, 1870, died January 5, 1887, and was buried at Pleasant Grove Baptist Church cemetery (single),
4. Suddie died single at the age of 58,
5. Amanda died at the age of seven.
6. Carlos Elester Wright (m. Zoa Spencer, daughter of Frank Spencer of Gaston County).

Perry Wright married a second time to Annie Matildia Clemmer, daughter of Lewis Clemmer of Gaston County. They had no children. He died in 1937 and was buried at Pleasant Grove Baptist Church cemetery.

Francis Wright was born on October 20, 1845. On December 20, 1863, he married Mary Howell, daughter of Joshua Howell, and they had the following children: Julius, Amzi, Berry, Augustus, David V., Enoch, Dock J., Leilla (m. Mr. Smith), Dora (m. Mr. Lambert).

Eight of Newton Wright's sons served in the Civil War. Seven were in Company F, Regiment 34, and one was in the Calvary. Berry was the only one killed.

Newton died January 15, 1849, and Sarah died February 8, 1882. They were both buried in the Newton Wright Family cemetery located about 500 yards northwest of the homeplace of Clem F. Hendrick, and one-half mile west of the home of the late Kim Williams in number 9 township on the west side of state highway 18 seven miles north of Shelby on the old plantation of Newton Wright, now (1982) owned by Newton's great, great, grandson J.S. Wright.

Sources: Marriage Records 1811-1853 Mecklenburg County, Virginia, p. 192, Pension Records from the National Archives — Widow's Civil War Pension application, Wright Family History, libraries, cemeteries, land deeds, Civil War Records.

— Mrs. Arlene Wright Myers

RICHARD WRIGHT

1150

Richard Wright, son of Newton Wright, Sr. (1792-1849) and Sarah Farmer Wright (1802-1882), was born May 12, 1822 in Rutherford (now Cleveland County). He served as a private in North Carolina Company E, Regiment 2, North Carolina Infantry Confederate States Army.

Richard was married three times. First, on March 3, 1848, he married Nancy Alexander, daughter of Newman Alexander who lived on Vaughn Creek between homesteads of Newton Wright, Sr. and William Gardner. Richard Wright first settled on Beaver Dam Creek in Gaston County, and later owned a farm east of Beams Mill in Cleveland County. They had six children: Noah J., Lawson Alexander, Katherine, Jane, Susan, and Phillip.

Noah J. Wright served in the Civil War and was first married to a Miss Craft of Gaston County. He married a second time to Nancy Bingham on April 12, 1866 by Minister E.D. Elliott. Children: Will Wright, Ernest Wright, and Etta Wright.

Lawson Alexander Wright was born on July 12, 1847 (see family history).

Katherine Wright married first to Hill Revels and they moved to Illinois. She married a second time to a Mr. Skidmore. Her children: Marion Revels and George Skidmore.

Jane Wright married Monroe McSwain and they had the following children: Amzi McSwain, Andrew McSwain, Charlie Q. McSwain (m. Bessie Lankford), Laura McSwain (m. first John Wallace and second time to Lee Ross), Richard McSwain (m. Maude Turner), Martha McSwain (m. John Eskridge), John Lawson McSwain (m. Ida Black), Bessie McSwain (m. Frank Turner), Abraham McSwain (m. Amanda Barrett).

Susan Wright married Pink Howell, son of Joshua Howell and brother to Mrs. Lawson A. Wright. They had six children: Mary Howell (m. first time to Pink Whitesides and the second time to Pink Leonhardt), Hulda Howell (m. a Mr. Anthony), Maggie Howell (m. a Mr. Hull), Laura Howell (m. a Mr. Hull), Minnie Howell (m. a Mr. Moore, and Ida Howell (m. a Mr. Wise).

Phillip Wright was born on October 29, 1850 and married Jane Hamrick on January 14, 1868. She was the daughter of Allen and Susan Hamrick and was born on June 30, 1845, and died June 1, 1878. They had four children: David Pinkney, Thompson, Ellen, and Susanna. Jane was buried at Pleasant Grove Baptist Church Cemetery and her grave is the oldest marked grave there.

Phillip married a second time to Loucinda

Grigg, daughter of William Grigg and sister to Rufus M. Grigg. They had three children: William, Buford, and Joshua.

Richard Wright was married a second time to a Miss Blakely of Gaston County and they had two children. Elphus (m. Narcissus Howell, daughter of Joshua Howell and a sister of Lawson A. Wright's wife). They had four children: Johnnie, Vordie V. Bunnie (m. Mack McGee Adams), and Arcie (m. first time to Avery Smith and a second time to Jack Humphries).

Then he married a third time to a Miss Morrison of Cherryville and they had three children: David "Dave", Frank, and Florence (m. Mr. Stroupe).

Richard Wright died on July 31, 1890, and was buried at Pleasant Grove Baptist Church cemetery located in Number 9 Township, Cleveland County, eight miles north of Shelby on highway 18, leading from Shelby to Morganton on the east side of the road, and three miles south of Fallston, and is known as Beams Mill Community.

Sources: Church cemetery, library, Wright Family History.

— Mrs. Arlene Wright Myers

TALMAGE STOUGH WRIGHT 1151

Talmage Stough Wright, son of John Lawson Wright (1883-1953) and Nora Grigg Wright (1886-1953), was born on January 5, 1916. He married Erma Jane Leonhardt on January 8, 1933 in Gaffney, South Carolina. She was born on August 9, 1914 and was the daughter of Robert Lee Leonhardt and Lillie Bingham Leonhardt of Fallston.

They farmed near Fallston and had two sons — Ottis Sylvester Wright and Farrin Scott Wright. Ottis was four and Scott was two when their mother, Erma, had surgery at Cleveland Memorial Hospital and died due to a blood clot on December 23, 1938. She was buried at Pleasant Grove Baptist Church cemetery and later she was re-interred at Rose Hill Memorial Park.

In Gaffney, South Carolina, on January 4, 1941, Stough married Cassie Victoria Bryant, daughter of James Pleasant Bryant and Margaret Olevia Issacs Bryant of Surry County, North Carolina. She was born November 15, 1916. They had one daughter, Hazel Arlene Wright.

They reared their children with love and discipline and they set before them an example of honesty, humbleness, hard work and fear of God. The children were taught to be patriotic, to respect their elders, and to treat others the way they would like to be treated. Because of this, the children have done well.

Ottis Sylvester Wright was born on July 15, 1934, and married Gertrude Louise Jenkins, daughter of Ernest Lee Jenkins and Gertrude Mason Jenkins of Kings Mountain, on January 1, 1954. Gertie was born on January 25, 1935. Ottis attended North Carolina State College at Raleigh and is successful in his own trucking business. They had four children: Talmage Lee Wright, John Sylvester Wright, Patricia Louise Wright, and Barry Ottis Wright.

1. Talmage Lee Wright was born on January 5, 1955, and married Patsy Dinah Clark on March 3, 1974 at Bethany Baptist Church in Grover. She was born on October 7, 1956, and is the daughter of William Greene Clark and Dorcas Mae Head Clark of Grover.

2. John Sylvester Wright was born on March 5, 1956 and married Cathy Gaddy on September 21, 1975 in York, South Carolina. She was born September 19, 1956 and is the daughter of Thurman Gaddy of Kings Mountain. Johnny and Cathy have one daughter, Wendy Ann Wright, who was born on August 13, 1977.

3. Patricia Louise Wright was born on June 21, 1959, and on April 1, 1979, she married Timothy Harold Ware of Kings Mountain. He is the son of Curtis Ware and was born on February 15, 1959. They have one daughter, Patricia Renee Ware, who was born on February 11, 1981.

4. Barry Ottis Wright was born on June 21, 1963. He joined the U.S. Marines on February 16, 1982.

Farrin Scott Wright (second son of T. Stough Wright) was born on December 3, 1936, and married Joyce Ann Ross of Grover on July 4, 1957, at the home of her parents Grady Lee Ross and Elsie Louise Putnam Ross. Joyce was born on April 9, 1938.

Scott graduated from Clemson University with a masters degree in Agriculture Engineering and received his doctoral degree from N.C. State University at Raleigh. He has contributed articles to science journals and a few of his honors include: National Cotton Council Fellow — 1959-60; Sigma Xi; Gamma Sigma Delta; Phi Kappa Phi; Tau Beta Phi; and is listed in the 1978 edition of Community Leaders and Noteworthy Americans. He is presently employed with the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Scott and Joyce have three daughters who are all outstanding students — Susan Rene Wright (born May 5, 1960), Rachel Ann Wright (born August 14, 1963), and Anita Joyce Wright (born July 25, 1969).

Hazel Arlene Wright (daughter of T. Stough Wright) was born on July 14, 1942 and married William Judson Myers on December 31, 1972 in Gaffney, South Carolina. The ceremony was performed by W.R. Douglas, Justice of Peace. Bill was born on April 21, 1921, and was the son of Gaston Jarvis Myers and Femea Beatrice (Atrey) Johnson Myers of Yadkin County, North Carolina.

Arlene became a member of the Daughters of American Revolution, John Knox Chapter, after she proved her ancestor Job Wright had been a patriot during the American Revolution. Her D.A.R. number is 605137. She attended the University of North Carolina at Greensboro and graduated from Kings College in Charlotte and was a member of the Alpha Elta Sorority. She is currently employed by Appalachian State University, BIABH Study Center.

Bill attended the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and after he retired as a dairy farmer, they moved to Glen Alpine where he became the first Town Manager for the Town of Glen Alpine.

Stough and Cassie farmed until 1961 growing cotton and grains. For 18 years, they grew chickens and for nine years operated Wrights' Wholesale Distributors which was the distributor of Minneapolis-Moline tractors and equipment (now called White) over three states — North Carolina, South Carolina, and Virginia.

For the past 20 years, Stough has been a U.S. Department of Agriculture farmer-elected committee member serving the local A.S.C. office. He served on the Grover School Board from 1954 to 1961 when the school consolidated with the Kings Mountain City Schools. Also he was awarded the Honorary Charter Farmer award by the Grover School F.F.A. Department.

Stough and Cassie have been successful in about everything they have undertaken and they now enjoy hobbies together and going to their place in the mountains.

Sources: Interviews, family records.

— Mrs. Arlene Wright Myers

Stough and Cassie Wright

Remember . . .

Articles
Are Indexed
By
Article Numbers
. . . Not By
Page
Number

THE WILLIAM FRANCIS YELTON FAMILY

1152

The surname Yelton appears to be locational in origin and is associated with the English.

William Francis Yelton was born June 5, 1868. He died at the age of 91, on December 24, 1959. He was born in Rutherford County, the son of John Washington Yelton and Nancy McCurry Yelton who moved to Cleveland County when William Francis was a small boy.

William Francis was the oldest son and had five brothers and five sisters. The sisters were Moriah, who married John Towery; Ida, who married Sam Eskridge; Belle, who married Lee Eskridge (the two Eskridge men were brothers); Mary, who married Frank Grigg; and Esther, who married R.E. Campbell.

The brothers were Charles J., who married Jennie White; Benjamin, who married Hessie Holden; Oliver, who married Beuna Strider (the only one living in 1982); Horace, who married Georgia Price; and Ambrose, who never married.

William Francis Yelton married Rachel Merinda White on December 21, 1893. She was a sister to Charles J. Yelton's wife. To this union were born nine children — four boys and five girls.

The oldest child was Vernie Mae Yelton, who married Elbridge Lee Weathers. Their five children were as follows:

Frances Miriam Weathers, who married John Hoyt McCurry. They had two daughters, Frances Miriam and Jane Ellen. Miriam married John Hallman Hutto, III, and their children are Laura Hallman and Anna Nichole Hutto. Jane married David Eugene DePriest and they have two sons, Joseph Nicholas and Christopher David DePriest.

Robert Lee, who married Catherine Swinson. To this union were born Robert Lee, Jr., and Merinda Swinson Weathers.

Thomas Jennings Weathers, who never married.

Ruth Florence Weathers, who married Richard Lee Sobera. Their children are Mary Catherine and Richard Lee Sobera, Jr.

Gerald Gene Weathers, who married Ella Foy Suttle. Their children are Martha Foy and Pamela Jean Weathers.

The second child of William F. and Rachel Merinda Yelton was Macie Fay, who married Richard Grady Mauney. Their three children are as follows:

Richard Grady Mauney, Jr., who married Mary Steadman. Their children are Richard Steadman, Mary Emily and Charles Stuart Mauney.

Charles William Mauney, who never married.

Martha Ann Mauney, who married John Edwin Johns. Their children are John Edwin, Jr., Steven Maxwell and Marcus Mauney Johns.

The third Yelton child was Paris Leland Yelton, who married Donnis Gold. Their children are Robert (Bob) William and Don Leland. Don married Emily Karen Bryant and they have two children, Todd Leland and Leigh Allison Yelton.

The fourth Yelton child was Gladys Lillian Yelton, who married Clyde Benjamin Spangler. Their children were Harold Benjamin and Rachel Ann. Harold married Gertrude Poletz, and their children are Beth Gay, David Benjamin, Jane Yelton, Mary Ann and Timothy Spangler. Rachel married Newlin Pyle Schenck. They have three children, Hal Emerson, Mark Benjamin and Leslie Ann Schenck.

The fifth Yelton child was Veva C. Yelton, who married Clemmie Dixon Spangler. Their two children were as follows:

Clemmie Dixon, Jr., who married Meredith Jane Riggs. They have two daughters, Anna Wildy and Abigail Riggs Spangler.

Barbara Jane Spangler, who married William Bion Barnett. They had two daughters, Barbara Randle and Carson Spangler Barnett. Barbara Spangler Barnett later married William B. Garrison and their only child was Melissa Jane Garrison.

The sixth Yelton child was Lucy Mae Frances Yelton, who married Clyde Carson Daves. Their only child, Clyde Carson Daves, Jr., married Cindaree Jo Winterrowd, and they have one child, (Cary) Clyde Carson Daves, III.

The seventh Yelton child was Charles Wilburn Yelton, who died at ten months of age.

The eighth Yelton child was William Francis Yelton, Jr., who married Ella Margaret (Billie) Tomlinson. Their four children are as follows:

Margaret Lynn, who married John Robbins Wester. They have two children, McNeill Yelton and Forrest Tomlinson Wester.

William Francis Yelton, III, who married Gail Brookshire Gear. They have one son, Bain Yelton.

Leigh Ann and Larry Eugene Yelton, who are the only twins in the Yelton family.

The ninth Yelton child was John Lesley Yelton, who married Evelyn Frances Moore. Their only child is Adona Sue Yelton.

Sources: Family Bible and personal interviews.

— Donnis Gold Yelton

CARLOS LOWERY YOUNG

1153

Carlos L. Young was born September 13, 1915, in Shelby. His parents were H. Fields Young and Nina Lowery Young. His brothers and sisters are Kathleen, deceased, Fields, Jr., Lamar and Eloise.

Carlos graduated from Davidson College in 1936.

As the owner and on borrowed capital, he opened Young Brothers Clothing Store on March 13, 1938. Other family members joined him as partners. Later the business expanded to a large furniture store and a real estate business. Carlos was president of Young Brothers, Inc. until February 15, 1980, when he and his brother separated their business interests. Today Carlos is President of Young Rentals, Inc. and a partner with his wife in Young Rentals.

Carlos was inducted into the Army on February 22, 1941, as a private, promoted to the rank of major, awarded the Bronze Star Medal, four battle stars in the Pacific and discharged on February 24, 1946.

Constance Alice Champion was born November 16, 1923, to Clifton Ormond and Edna Blanton Champion in Mooresboro. Carlos and Constance were married April 30, 1949, in Shelby. They have four children.

Carlos Lowery Young, Jr. was born September 6, 1950, in Shelby. He graduated from Georgia State University, Magna Cum Laude. He is presently working for his master's degree while employed as a computer programmer in Atlanta, Georgia.

Edna Anne Young was born April 11, 1952, in Shelby. She graduated from Meredith College, 1974 — K-3 Education Major. She married William Moore Beam, the son of Francis Martin and Mary Winn Beam of Kinston, on June 15, 1974. He graduated from North Carolina State University with a degree in engineering. They live in Wilmington, where she is a teacher of handicapped children. Bill is a sales representative for Signode Corporation.

Kathleen Alice Young (Kay) was born June 1, 1954, in Shelby. She graduated from the University of North Carolina in Chapel Hill, majoring in Mathematics and Recreation. She married James Frank Chitty, III, son of J.F. and Marie Chitty of Ahoskie, on June 27, 1976. He graduated from the University of North Carolina with a Business Administration Degree. They live in Shelby. Kay teaches math at Kings Mountain High School. Their daughter, Haley Young Chitty, was born January 23, 1981.

Stephen Lewis Young was born May 30, 1957, in Shelby. He graduated from Davidson College, Cum Laude. He is a student at Bowman Gray School of Medicine.

Carlos has been active in civic and religious activities.

He, Malcolm Brown, and Dr. Z.P. Mitchell were instrumental in establishing the Cleveland County Mental Health Center.

He and Malcolm Brown persuaded Gov. Dan Moore to support a Home Bound Program for sick children and today this is a part of the entire public school system in North Carolina.

He worked with a small influential committee and lobbied the legislature for public supported kindergartens. They became an important part of the public school system in North Carolina.

Some of his honors are: Shelby Jaycee Young Man of the Year, 1950; Shelby Lion's Club Man of the Year, 1970; Shelby Civitan Citizen of the Year, 1981, and Western North Carolina Citizen, 1981; North Carolina Mental Health Association Volunteer of the Year, 1969; North Carolina Citizen's Volunteer of the Year Award at the Governor's Mansion, April 30, 1976; Davidson College outstanding Alumni Award, 1976; President of the North Carolina Mental Health Association; First President of Board of Advisors of Gardner Webb College; Board of Advisors of Mars Hill College; Moderator of Kings Mountain Baptist Association for two years. He was a Trustee of Gardner Webb College, of South Eastern Baptist Theological Seminary, of Baptist Children's Homes of North Carolina, and Director of National Association for Mental Health.

Some present duties are lifetime director of the North Carolina Mental Health Association and the Cleveland County Association, Director of First Citizen's Bank, Trustee of the North Carolina Baptist Hospital and member of the Board of Directors of the Medical Center, Bowman Gray School of Medicine, Wake Forest University.

Connie is presently teaching first grade at Boiling Springs Elementary School. Carlos and Connie live at 922 West Sumter Street, in Shelby.

Sources: Newspaper clippings, Carlos Young's records
— Constance C. Young

H. FIELDS YOUNG

1154

The Young Family was prominent in the British Empire and the United States. Members have played important roles in both war and peace. They lived in England, Northern Ireland and Scotland. Ninety-eight percent of the Youngs who came to America and were church members were of the Protestant faith.

H. Fields Young was born on May 23, 1881, on South Lafayette Street, Shelby, North Carolina. He was the son of George Washington Young (1840-1923) and Margaret McArthur Young (1853-1944).

George W. Young was in Company K, 18th Regiment, South Carolina Volunteers during the Civil War. He was a twin of Andrew J. Young who was killed at age 25 in the Civil War. Brother Pinckney Young was killed at Petersburg, Virginia at age 19, and Lt. Daniel John Young was killed at Manassas, at age 31.

George's parents were John and Elizabeth Quinn from Blacksburg, South Carolina. They had thirteen children. Two sets of twins were George and Andrew J., and Margaret and Martha. The other children were Joseph Pinckney, Daniel John, Julia A., Nancy E., Polly, Sally, Mary Jane, James and John.

George and his wife Margaret had seven children: Luna (Orlando Elam) 1871-1938; Fan (Ed Smith) 1874-1964; Eunice (Jim Williams) 1875-; Johnny Georgia (Hudson King) 1876-; H. Fields Young, 1881-1947; Fay Aileen (Logan McBrayer, Robert Sing) 1890-1968; Willa Mayne (William Goodman) 1894-1972; Hershel (Ida Hogan).

Fields was educated in the public schools, Cleveland County, North Carolina. Because of family responsibilities, he did not enter World War I. His three sons were active in the military during World War II. Lamar was based in European theatre; Fields, Jr., a Colonel in the Air Force in Europe, and Carlos a Major in the South Pacific.

Fields was active in the First Baptist Church. He was a deacon and president of the O. Max Gardner Class; also a Trustee of Mars Hill College.

Fields married Nina Eloise Lowery, daughter of Thomas H. and Rebecca Hogue Lowery on August 11, 1910, in Patterson Springs, North Carolina. Fields and Nina were introduced by Mrs. Charles (Tonce) Wells, Sr.. Fields and Nina had five (5) children: Kathleen, Fields, Jr., Carlos, Lamar and Eloise; and nineteen grandchildren.

Fields and Nina lived on South Lafayette

Home of Fields Young, 1916

Street. They later bought a home on 508 West Warren Street. This elegant house was a showplace on four acres. It was erected by Mr. James Samuel Martin who came from England. At his death in 1916, Mrs. Martin sold the house to Fields.

Fields and Nina enjoyed entertaining and sharing their home. Fields would invite soldiers, during World War II, to his home, setting up trestle tables in the yard and serving watermelon and home-made ice cream.

Fields was a shoe salesman for Craddock-Terrier Company and then a salesman for twenty-five years for Star Brand Shoes. In 1938 Carlos opened a clothing store on West Marion Street. The store was then moved to East Warren Street. Carlos included Lamar, Eloise and his mother and father in this venture. They opened another clothing store on South Washington Street. Dr. Willis had an antique store next door. Fields Young with a flair for real Cleveland County "horse trading" swapped "Doc" a suit of clothes and Fifty Dollars for his antiques business.

In 1943 Young Brothers Furniture Company was moved across the street to its present location. In 1948, after serving in World War II, the brothers built an addition to the store and expanded the business by adding new furniture.

It was a special treat to go with Fields to buy antiques and furniture in Philadelphia and the surrounding Dutch country. He always carried his derby hat and Chesterfield coat to wear among his friends there.

Fields was a strong Christian and "church-goer". During the Second World War, he would pick up soldiers and take them to the First Baptist Church. He was very instrumental in the growth of Shelby by his purchase and development of land of Suttle Street, Sumter Street and the area around Bethel Baptist Church off DeKalb Street. He was a good family man and enjoyed life to the fullest. He loved a good joke and he loved people.

He died January 23, 1947, at the age of 64. He is buried at Sunset Cemetery in Shelby, North Carolina.

Sources: Family Bible; Buffalo Baptist Church Cemetery, near Blacksburg, South Carolina; YOUNG FAMILY HISTORY, J.M. Seaver; Mrs. Louise McArthur Smith; York County (South Carolina) Census.

— Ruth B. Young

H. FIELDS YOUNG, JR.

1155

Fields Jr. is the oldest son of Fields and Nina Young, who had five children. He was born in February, 1914 on South Lafayette Street, Shelby, North Carolina.

Graduating from McCallie School, Chattanooga, Tennessee, and Davidson College, Davidson, North Carolina; Fields worked in Shelby and Knoxville, Tennessee.

Fields Jr. married Ruth Ella Buckles from Bristol, Tennessee in 1940. Ruth graduated from Virginia Interment College, Bristol, Virginia. Since coming to live in Shelby, North Carolina in 1948, she has been very active in church, school, civic and social organizations. She served on the following boards: Cleveland County Memorial Library, sixteen years, Shelter Home of Cleveland County, Mental Health, and Baptist Children's Homes of North Carolina. Ruth has held offices in the Benjamin Cleveland Chapter DAR, Shelby Junior Charity League, Junior Women's Club, WMU at the First Baptist Church and taught Sunday School.

Attaining the rank of Colonel in the Air Force during World War II, Fields served in England.

Upon his return to Shelby after the war, Fields and a close friend he met during the war, John J. Augustin, set up finance companies and motor companies in several North Carolina towns. They built Park Sumter Terrace apartments. This partnership was dissolved in the early 1960's.

Fields saw the need for apartment housing and became a developer of luxury apartments. Some of the apartments are: Park Sumter Terrace, Colonial Hills, Kingswood North, Idlewild Terrace, Queen Ann, Lake Street and Carousel in Shelby. In Kings Mountain, North Carolina, he built Georgetown, Summerfield West and Gold Street Apartments.

Being a highly motivated individual, Fields also developed the Shelby Plaza Shopping Center. This center was the first location for Eckerds Drug in Shelby.

Fields Jr. is very active in community service and has been President of the North Carolina American Cancer Society. He has financed the building of a church in Colorado, he is on the Board of Trustees at Wingate College, an mason and a Shriner, and is presently involved in Prison Ministry, just to name a few of his activities. He and Ruth are members of the First Baptist Church.

Living in Shelby, Fields has one sister, Eloise (Mrs. Pat Spangler) and two brothers — Carlos and Lamar. One sister, Kathleen (Mrs. John Fay) is deceased.

Fields and Ruth have three children, Sally,

Fields III, and Harriet. Sally is married to John T. Barker of John Barker Realty, Inc. which is a regional industrial brokerage firm. John has contributed greatly to North Carolina and particularly Cleveland and Gaston Counties by helping locate such firms as Union Carbide, Eaton, Acme-Cleveland, Sulzer, Freightliner, Zunn, Reliance Electric and Copeland in this area.

Sally graduated from UNC-G with a B.A. in education. She has been a member of the Shelby Board of Education since 1975. She and John have three children — Leah, John Jr. and Patrick.

Fields III is married to Jeannie Myers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gene H. Myers of Shelby, North Carolina. They have four children — Tracy Lynn, Christopher Todd, Michael and Heather Jo. Fields graduated from Mars Hill College with a B.S. degree and a Masters of Divinity from Southwestern Seminary in Fort Worth, Texas. He is President of Fields Young, Inc. and is a major developer of mini warehouses in the Piedmont Section. He is on the Board of Advisors of Mars Hill College and has been very active in Jaycee work in Cleveland County.

Harriet is married to Thomas Wey Wenzel of Traverse City, Michigan. They live in Snowmass, Colorado where Tom manages Gene Taylor's, a sporting goods/clothing store. Harriet graduated from the University of Georgia with a degree in Speech Pathology and Radiology. She is a Director of a day care center.

Fields Jr. is a good husband, father and grandfather and a successful business man.

Sources: Family Bible, Scrapbooks

— Mrs. Ruth B. Young

JOHN YOUNG

1156

John Young, a son of Samuel Young and Elizabeth Kuykendall, married Mary Sides on January 1, 1799 in old Rutherford County. That same year, John and Mary purchased land on Buffalo Creek in nearby Lincoln County where they reared a large family. John died August 30, 1841 and was buried beside his parents at Knobb Creek Methodist Church. After John's death, Mary Young raised several of her Shittle grandchildren. Their mother Katharine Young Shittle had died prior to 1841. Mary Sides Young died September 4, 1854, age 76 years.

On July 25, 1841, John Young wrote his will which is recorded in Cleveland County Will Book 1, No. 3. In this will, he named his nine children as follows: Samuel, no information; Henry, born 1805 married Lavinia Martin on December 29, 1831; David, born about 1807 moved after 1840 elsewhere; Peter, born 1809 married Mary Carpenter on January 3, 1834; John Jr., deceased, had married Sarah Boggs on October 2, 1834; Solomon, born August 28, 1816, married Susannah Hoyle; Elizabeth, born 1799, married Robert Willis on July 27, 1816; Katharine, deceased, had married Henry Shittle on January 15, 1829; and, Fanny, deceased, had married David Boyles on January 9, 1832 with no information on her children.

Peter Young had married a daughter of Joseph Carpenter who had land in Catawba County. Peter lived on Buffalo Creek until 1854, when he sold the Buffalo land and purchased several large tracts on Camp Creek in Catawba County. On some of this land is now located Providence Baptist Church near the old Shelby road. Children of Peter and Mary Young were Martha Ann, Mary Ann, John, Solomon, Fanny and Josephas.

Henry Young moved to Catawba County one year after Peter and reared a large family near the Burke County line. The children of Henry and Lavinia Young were Joseph, Peter, Henry, Samuel, John, Eliza, and Susanna. All five sons had died during the time of the Civil War.

John Young Jr. died September 10, 1840, age 26 years, leaving daughters; Mary C., Sarah M., Rebecca Elizabeth and only one son, Solomon who died from the Civil War. John Jr. is buried at Knobb Creek Church and several children are buried at Laurel Hill Methodist Church with their mother Sarah Boggs Young.

Solomon Young and Susannah Hoyle had only one child, Mary C. Solomon died at age 28 on August 28, 1844. He was buried in the old Carpenter Cemetery near Fallston. His widow later married Caleb Carpenter.

Elizabeth Willis had the following children: Solomon, Joseph, John Y., Robert H., and Elizabeth A. who married Robert Norman.

Katharine Young Shittle's children were raised by their grandmother Mary. No information is available on Katharine's husband, Henry Shittle. Perhaps he remarried. Henry and Katharine Shittle's children were Frances Elizabeth, John, Henry, and Susannah.

Children of Fanny and David Boyles are not known. Also, nothing is known about the family of Samuel and David Young. David Young was in Lincoln County in 1840 but he apparently moved elsewhere by 1850.

— Terry R. Young

PETER YOUNG and MARY CARPENTER

1157

Peter Young, born 1809, was a son of John Young and Mary Sides of Buffalo Creek. On January 3, 1834, Peter Young married Mary Carpenter, a daughter of Joseph Carpenter and Elizabeth Carpenter. Elizabeth was a daughter of "Fallston" Jacob Carpenter and Susannah Finger.

Peter and Mary Young first settled on Buffalo Creek on land purchased from his father in 1832. On this farm in old Lincoln County, all of their children were born. In December of 1854, shortly after the death of his mother, Peter sold his Buffalo Creek farm and moved to Camp Creek in Catawba County. He had also lived on Clark's Creek, Catawba County around 1850 on land received from his father-in-law. In November of 1854, he purchased several large tracts of land on Camp Creek from A.A. Lutz near the Burke County line. On some of this land is the present Providence Baptist Church. Several of his children are buried in the church cemetery.

Children of Peter and Mary are as follows: Martha Ann, born September 4, 1834, married Alfred Monroe Propst on August 24, 1853; Mary Ann, born 1836 and died before 1860; John, born February 2, 1837, married Nancy Rebecca Johnson about 1859; Solomon, born 1841 and died before 1860; Fanny, born 1845 and died before 1860; and, Josephas, born December 8, 1847, married Naomi Aikens on February 6, 1865.

Martha Ann Propst lived near Maiden and had children as follows: Jacob Young Propst, who moved to Anniston, Alabama; Mary Ann, married Marcus Sidney Carpenter; David Franklin, married Bessie Genetta Parker, Julius Alexander, single; Edward Lee, lived in Charlotte; Alice Agness, married Perry E. Fry; Ada Florence, married Clarence Bost; and, Elias Monroe, married Vertna Mauney. Most of her family lives around St. James Church near Newton, North Carolina.

Children of John Young and Nancy Rebecca Johnson were as follows: Richard Cephas, born 1860, married Mary Elizabeth Johnson; Peter Luther, born 1862, married Rosie Annie Burns; Martha Ann, born 1864, married W.D. Wilkie; John Frank, July 10, 1869, married Belzora Hudson; Ulysess Grant, born 1871 and died age 13; Jacob Monroe, born 1874, married Sallie Lowman; Samuel Henry, born 1875, married Mary Jane Lail; and George Pinkney Young, born 1878, married Julia Ann Lynn. Nancy Rebecca died in 1891 and she is buried at Providence Baptist Church. John married a second time to Margaret Seagle. She lived only a few years and he married Jane Lynn Johnson on September 19, 1904. They had one child, Roland Hampton Young, who married Martha Jane Weaver.

Children of Josephas Young and Naomi Aikens are as follows: Lewis, born 1867, married Candice Lowman; David, born 1868, married Julia Ann Herman; and Adolphus, born 1869, married Minnie Abernathy.

J. Frank Young, son of John and Nancy Rebecca, had married Zora Hudson, a daughter of John Hudson and Elizabeth Stillwell of Burke County. Frank and Zora purchased land near George Hildenbran School and reared a family of seventeen children as follows: James Brantley married Pearl Hildebran; Addie married Felix Stilwell; Bertha married Millis Pruet; Emma married Cullen Propst; Bradie married Gordan Hoyle; Lula married Allston Damons; Sarah married Clyde Mull; Alex married Vergie Rhoney; George Lee married Madge Peeler; Wade, single; Zena married Garland Johnson; Noah married Cora Huffman; Agnes married Charlie Pons; John married Pansy Keller; Melissa married Ray Page; and Mckinley Young married Ollie Lindsay.

George Lee Young, son of J. Frank, had married Madge Peeler, a daughter of Uless Peeler and Jane Rudisill. George died 1930, age 28, of pneumonia. His unexpected death left Grandma Young with six small children as follows: Ralph Zollie married Annie Florence Wyant; Forest Leroy married Edna Mae Stephens; Guy Noah married Helen Sue Leatherman; Margaret Marie married James Marshall Sigmon; Preston Lee married Eva Sue Cline; and, George Lee Young Jr. married Ruby Herman and Lonnie Mae Thompson.

Children of Ralph Z. and Annie Wyant Young are Terry Ray and Danny Lee. Terry married Martha Mays and they have one child, Christopher Scott Young. Danny married Anna Martha Rudisill and they have two children, Monica Leigh and Courtney Tyson Young.
— Terry R. Young

SAMUEL YOUNG

1158

Samuel Young, earliest known ancestor of Youngs of Cleveland, Catawba, Lincoln, and Burke Counties, owned land on Knobb Creek in Rutherford County prior to the Revolution. Samuel Young was a Tory but married Elizabeth Kuykendall of the Patriotic Kuykendall family. Old Tryon County court minutes for January, 1783 summoned Samuel to show cause why his property should not be confiscated. Records for July, 1783, gave possession of estate confiscated to Elizabeth Young, wife of Samuel Young.

Elizabeth Young was a daughter of Peter Kuykendall and wife, Mary Elizabeth is mentioned in Peter's will, dated 1783, in Green County, Tennessee.

Samuel Young purchased land from state patents and the Carpenter family in the Knobb Creek section of what is now Cleveland County. At this Belwood location, Samuel and Elizabeth attended the Union Associate Reformed Church (now Knobb Creek Methodist) and reared a small family. They and several family members are buried in the church cemetery.

Children of Samuel Young were a son, John Young, and a daughter, Catharine Young. John Young married Mary Sides on January 1, 1799 in old Rutherford County. He purchased land on Buffalo Creek in Lincoln County the same year. On July 25, 1841, John Young wrote his will recorded in Cleveland County and named all of his children. John died August 30, 1841 and was buried beside his father and mother at Knobb Creek Methodist Church, Belwood. Catharine Young married Coonrod Hildenbran II of Burke County where she has many descendants. Another son or a near relative is Solomon Young and wife Meliny A. who are buried along side Samuel, Elizabeth and their son John. In 1829, the three heirs of Samuel Young sold his land to Solomon. Solomon, born 1798, was most likely a son of Samuel and Elizabeth. Solomon accumulated one of the largest group of slaves in Cleveland County. He died in 1878 without any children.

Sources: Family Resources

— Terry R. Young

CHARLES ABNER (CHARLIE) and LOUISE FRANCES CALLAHAN GREEN

1159

Editor's Note: In the last minute rush to arrange the manuscript of this section, the following family history sketch was misfiled. At the time of discovery, the book had already been paged.

Charles Abner Green was born on May 14, 1915 on a farm in upper Rutherford County, N.C., near the Sunshine Community. The old log house he was born in was near the intersection of Duncan Creek and Golden Valley roads, known as the Cooper Springs. The name Green, but now, sometimes spelled Greene, came from a long line of Greens, dating back before the American Revolution.

Charles Abner Green is the son of the late Charley Abner and Margaret Louise Virginia Harton Green of Rutherford County. He was married on June 29, 1941 to Louise Frances Callahan of Henrietta, N.C., also of Rutherford County.

His wife Louise Frances Callahan Green, born Dec. 3, 1922, is the daughter of the late John Wesley Callahan, (Aug. 6, 1895, died Jan. 14, 1957) and Sarah Elizabeth Reavis Callahan, born Jan. 27, 1898 of Henrietta, N.C., also of Rutherford County. John Wesley Callahan is buried in Rutherford County Memorial Park.

Louise Frances Callahan Green has three sisters living, and one brother, deceased: 1. Margaret Ann Callahan Norman, born Dec. 21, 1926, husband Raymon Norman. 2. Dorothy Nell Callahan, Lowery, Green, born March 21, 1930, husband, Noah Green. 3. Betty Jane Callahan Jones, born Feb. 21, 1933, husband Paul Jones. 4. Jack Callahan, (Dec. 26, 1924 — Sept. 10, 1965). Widow, Dorthy Lavender Callahan. Jack Callahan is buried in Rutherford County Memorial Park.

Louise Green's paternal grandparents are James Logue Callahan, (May 24, 1864 — Mar. 26, 1936) and Jane Hawkins Callahan, (June 18, 1867 — May 9, 1948). Her maternal grandparents are Richard Reavis born 1869, and Sarah Honeycutt Reavis, born 1872. Her maternal great-grandparents are Samuel and Mary Jane Dixon Reavis, (married in 1857).

Charles Abner Green attended Sunshine High School, in Rutherford County, N.C., and graduated in 1932. In 1931 he won a gold medal for the best speaker in a declamation contest. He and his brother William Woodrow, and three sisters, Agnes, Annie Sue, and Lois had twenty five years perfect attendance in Rutherford County Schools, receiving gold medals for five years perfect attendance.

Having grown up on a farm, until 1945, he worked at National Carbon Co. in Morganton, N.C. for one year, moved to Asheville, N.C. and worked as a silversmith for three years, and moved to Forest City, N.C. Dec. 1949, and went to work with Home Security Life Ins. Co., of Durham, N.C., as an agent in Forest City. In 1952 he was promoted to sales manager and transferred to Shelby, N.C. He won many awards during his insurance career, qualifying for most of the company conventions and awards for agent and sales manager of the year. Having worked for Home Security Life for thirty years, twenty five of these years as sales manager, he retired in June of 1979. Since retiring, he works part time as representative of Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Durham, N.C., and serves his community as city councilman from Ward Three in Shelby, N.C.

The Green family have been members of Zoar Baptist Church, Shelby, N.C., since 1952. During these years Charles Abner has served as deacon, Sunday School teacher, Brotherhood president, and trustee, an office he now holds. He has been a member of Shelby Amateur Radio Club for the past twenty years, with amateur radio call letters WA4BFB. He is a member of Cleveland Masonic Lodge 202, former commander of Shelby Commandry and Oasis Shrine, and a former member of Shelby Kiwanis Club. He also has served as president and secretary and treasurer of Shelby Life Underwriters Association. In 1968 he was instrumental in establishing a Good Will store in Shelby, and served as chairman of the Good Will Industries board of directors.

In 1966, Charles Abner Green ran for county commissioner of Cleveland County. In a hard fought battle in the second primary, running against three other strong opponents, he won by a large majority. He served four years on the board, two of these years as vice-chairman. He was known throughout Cleveland County for his conservative stand on most issues. Due to illness in his family he did not seek reelection.

He also served several years on the Shelby board of adjustment. In 1979 he ran for the office of city councilman from Ward Three in Shelby, N.C. After much campaigning throughout the city, he won this election, and is now serving on the City Council in Shelby, N.C.

To the Green union were born three children, David Marion Green, born March 31, 1944, died May 30, 1971; Mary Frances Green Mode, born Dec. 21, 1953; John Charles Green, born July 20, 1956.

Sources: Personal knowledge, family records.

— Charles Abner Green

This is the 1910 Shelby High School Football Team. Pictured are: Standing — R. T. Howerton, coach; Alger Hamrick, George Moore, Frank Shull, Archie Archer, and Nelson Lattimore, manager. Kneeling are: Louis Gardner, Robert Doggett, Hilary Hudson, Ben Roberts, Harry Hudson, and Crawley Hughes. This photo is in the archives of the Cleveland County Historical Museum.

This is the earliest known photo of the Confederate monument on the Courthouse Square, Shelby. The monument was erected in 1906 while the old courthouse was torn down in the 1906-07 period to be replaced with a new building. Note the Lithia Fountain enclosure in the background on the left. This picture was taken from a rare post card mailed on May 22, 1907.

In 1907 this group of Shelby and Cleveland County people went camping at Cleveland Springs after the hotels there burned. During the early 1900's-1920's, cotton was King in the county and county citizens enjoy many economic benefits.

Section III ~ PICTORIAL HISTORY

A collection of photographs and remembrances which recall the memory of, and honors individuals, family groups, and organizations of the county. Not indexed.

From The Scrapbook Of The 20th Century Book Club of Shelby

At The Governor's Mansion, Raleigh, 1929

A 1929 Raleigh visit — The club members were overnight guests of Mrs. O. Max Gardner, a charter member of the club and wife of Gov. Gardner, in the Governor's Mansion in Raleigh, in 1929. In 1940, the members were guests of Mrs. Clyde R. Hoey, also a charter member of the club and wife of Gov. Hoey.

Shown in the photograph made in 1929 at the Governor's Mansion are, front row: Mrs. Lee B. Weathers, Gov. O. Max Gardner, Mrs. A.W. McMurry, Mrs. O. Max Gardner; second row: Mrs. Julius Suttle, Mrs. P.L.

Hannessa, Mrs. J.D. Lineberger, Mrs. E.Y. Webb, Mrs. I.C. Griffin; third row: Mrs. S.S. Royster, Mrs. William Lineberger, Mrs. B.L. Smith, Mrs. Will Roberts, Mrs. George Hoyle; back row: Mr. Lee B. Weathers, Mrs. Henry Kendall, Mrs. S.A. Andrews, unknown, Mrs. L.M. Hull, Mrs. T.W. Hamrick, Mrs. Clyde R. Hoey, Mr. O.M. Mull, Mrs. R.T. LeGrand, Mrs. Fred Morgan, Mr. J.D. Lineberger. Members not present were Mrs. Carl Thompson and Mrs. John Schenck.

The Baker Family of Kings Mountain

Selena Ellen Patterson Baker
Mar. 19, 1850 — Feb. 5, 1912 mother of Dr. Luther Philip Baker

Philip Sylvanus Baker
Mar. 14, 1848 — Sept. 12, 1907
father of Dr. Luther Philip Baker

Mary Tipton Poleyette Baker

Dr. Luther Philip and Mary Tipton Poleyette
Baker

A Loving Memorial To The D.H. Cline Family by the Heirs of Vivian Arline Odom Cline

Pictured in the early 1930's in their 715 E. Marion Street home is the Cline family: l to r: Mildred, Mary Annie, D. "Huss", Marshall, Lillian, D H. Jr., Vivian and Janie.

May this couple's love and generosity be fondly remembered

D. "Huss" Cline, 1966

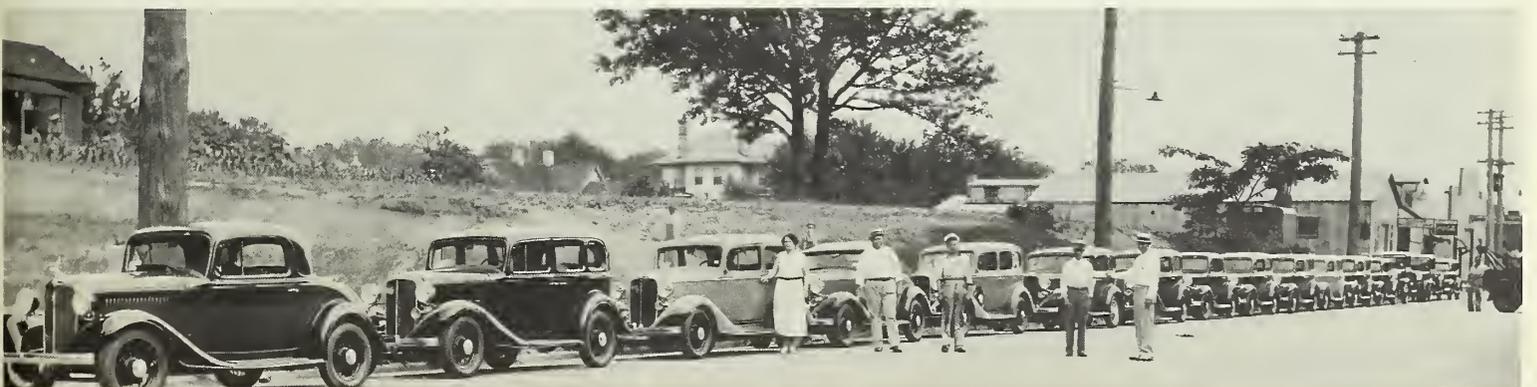

Vivian Cline, 1966

Miss Shelby of January, 1937:
Janie Tayloe Cline

The first train shipment of Chevrolets ordered by D. "Huss" Cline to allow customers to select from actual models instead of purchasing from pictures. Taken early 1930's at the S. Morgan Street Shelby train station, this successful promotion was backed up by the by-line painted on his wrecker, "Don't cuss, call Huss."

Tributes to Herman Alexander Beam

A Quiet Leader With Strength, Compassion

The Charlotte Observer
March 10, 1978
by Kays Gary

Except for Herman Beam, my family might never have had a home.

He died last week at 83, and all I could do was go back to Fallston, stop by that now-empty home three generations of Garys enjoyed, and then go to the funeral in the Baptist church.

The past came in a gentle floodn a warm and smiling whisper, as decades-old faces and common memories came to easy recognition.

In that sanctuary and its flag-draped casket lay a taproot of whatever dignity we had known, whatever humility we had learned, whatever truths of St. Matthew's scripture had been infused into the life of a village.

Herman Beam was the quietest man in town. Soft, simple, direct, liberal, conservative. The eyes said, "Friend." He never imposed his will. If you had to ask his opinion you got it. Few ever had to ask. He was known that well.

He came home from W.W.I to become first branch manager for a bank and stayed at it 37 years. He also operated the Security Insurance and Service Corporation.

Herman was the antithesis of a busy-body, yet his office was headquarters for people in trouble. He was given more confidences than banks or ministers. He didn't practice law but, for people unable to afford lawyers, he was a counselor if sought. With Herman's personal interest in the people, problems were solved without acrimony.

About our house. For almost 20 years, most in the Depression, my dad had rented. Home ownership in those days seemed beyond discussion. But Mr. Beam decided to build a street and suggested a home to my father. "You, of all people, KNOW my situation," my father said.

"I know what you mean to the community," Mr. Beam replied. "To stay, you need a home." To counter-arguments he said, "Move in. You will be able to afford payments. This is a private thing." The price of the "private thing" was embarrassingly low.

Then, just around the corner, a retired minister moved in a new Beam-built home. No one ever knew, I suspect, this was another of his specials.

Who brought the village its federally funded water system? It's three small industries? From the up-front happenings, most people would have to guess. But the guess would be correct.

Herman Beam was SO quiet. A man with offices in the village Lions Club, the county's Executive Club, a trustee of Gardner-Webb College and Cleveland Memorial Hospital, a Mason, a Shriner, would seem trapped by limelight. He wasn't. Perhaps that is why he was so effective.

For more years than I have lived, his attractive home was next door to the Baptist church for which he gave the land. He was buried in the church cemetery. His office at the crossroads was barely 500 yards distant. On the walls of that office hang pictures of my father and mother, principal and teacher, no kin to him. They are there simply because he loved them.

Small world, this, but with ripples of his influence constant — moving outward in countless lives begun in a village and now contributing in places like Los Angeles, Detroit, Washington, Atlanta, Chicago, points in between.

Walking those few minutes from sanctuary to cemetery, to the home he shared with his wife and twin-type, Ellen, I wondered if we, the sons of the village and others there now, could ever grasp the depth of the quiet man's life and its importance to us all. Will villages disappear because their Herman Beams, one way or another, opt for the metro?

We, at least, were privileged to learn from Herman Beam that power can exist without coercion and intimidation. That there is strength in compassion and limitless dignity in service without the sound of trumpets.

I wonder if there is someone, somewhere of whom he ever asked a personal favor? I never heard of it.

But now, surely, the trumpets sound.

Memoriam To Herman A. Beam
Constitution and By-laws
Adopted 1978

Fallston Baptist Church

That others might experience the love and follow the will of our Father, Herman Beam unselfishly devoted his life to this church, this community — these, God's people. Time will pass, others may lead, but may God grant us the wisdom and love to hold dear the memory of this man. He walked in the light, carrying high the banner of Christendom. By so doing, he strengthened our will and purpose to follow his example — "Laborers together for Christ."

Rev. Bruce Rabon, Pastor
Sybil Dixon, Sunday School Teacher

Excerpts from the Herman A. Beam
Memorial Service

"Herman Beam was a busy man and a giver, a giver of himself, his talents, and his means. Many times, I suspect, he gave more to the cause of our church than all the rest of us put together."

Rev. J.C. Gore,
Pastor, Fallston Baptist Church for ten years

"In the Old Testament, King David proclaimed, at the death of Abner, 'Know ye not that there is a prince and a great man fallen this day in Israel.'

"I stand to proclaim this day to you; what you already know, that Herman Beam was a prince and a great man.

"A prince and a great man is one who does not have to be seen or noticed. This statement of fact characterized the life of Herman. He avoided the spotlight and applause of man as much as possible.

"A prince and a great man is one who never talks about his accomplishments. He doesn't need to; for people can easily see the results of his work. Not once in all the times I was with Herman whether at the beach, on the banks of his pond, in his home, in his office, at church, or during a meal which he always paid for, or just riding around have I ever heard him say, 'I did this,' or 'I did that.'

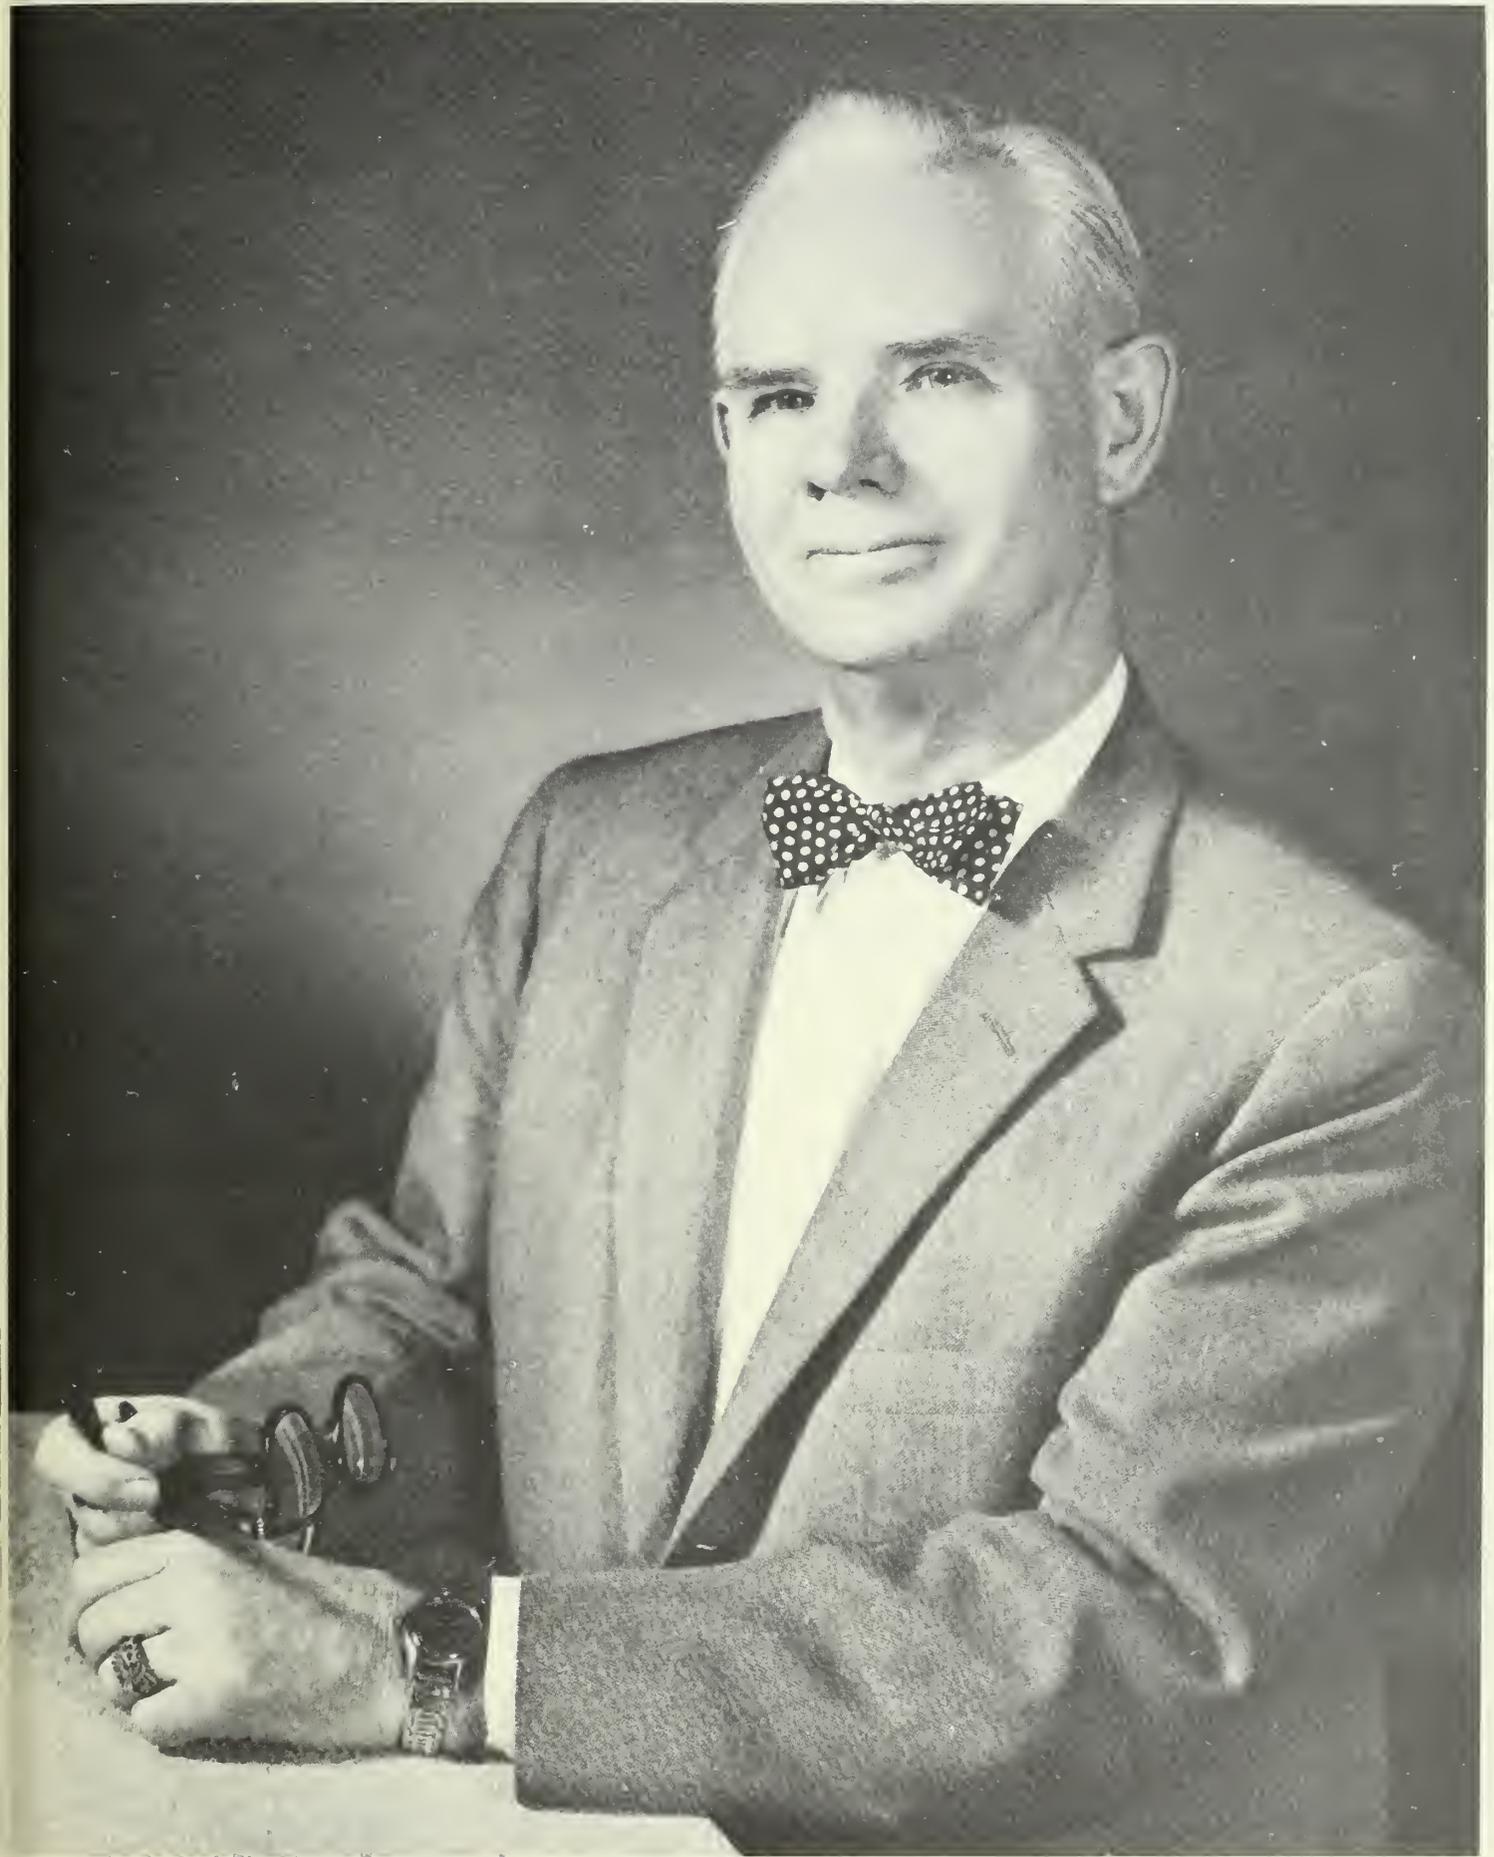

"As a young pastor at Plains View Baptist Church I was single and would have made a lot of mistakes if I had not very wisely followed the advice of a wise deacon who said to me, 'There is a fine Christian man in Fallston who is a member of the Fallston Baptist Church. You need to get to know Mr. Herman A. Beam for he can help you a lot.' I found that to be very good advice. Many times when I was faced with a decision I went to his office and shared with him and he with me. He helped me so many times.

"Truly Herman Beam was a prince and great man. But he would be quick to give God the honor and glory for all he accomplished during his long and productive life. As I read the account of his life in the newspaper, I said to my wife, Nancy, 'That is good but it doesn't even begin to tell the story of all that Herman Beam did for his fellowmen.'

"You have honored me by asking me to have a part in the memorial service of a prince and great man."

Rev. Charles "Buddy" Freeman
Chaplain, Gardner Webb College
Boiling Springs, N.C.

In Loving Memory Of Herman Alexander Beam

The William Albert Crowder Family Photograph made in 1918

Front row, L to R: John, Aileen, Ruth (inset); second row, L to R: Maude, Daisy, Hattie, Forrest; back row, L to R: Lottie, Plato, Will, Fannie, Forrest

Descendants Of William Albert Crowder

William Albert Crowder (1873-1932) married

Mary Etta Boggs (1872-1911) on April 5, 1896
and

Sara Frances Jones (1882-1952) on July 12, 1912

Children of Will and Mary (known as Molly) were:

Lottie Mae (1897-1982) married Albert Dent Harris (1894-1969)
Forrest Sylvester (1898-1960) married Nellie Hastings (1901-)
Biddie Leila (1900-) married Malcom Wilson (1900-1965)
Plato Dixon (1901-1971) married Vada Spangler (1903-)
Hattie Tulula (1903-) married Aubrey L. Calton (1900-1975)
Maude Elizabeth (1905-1977) married Curtis P. Cannaday (1907-)
Daisy Lee (1906-) married Ivy Shuford (1900-1968)

Children of Will and Sara Frances (known as Fannie) were:

Nell Frances (1914-1914)
Hettie Aileen (1916-) married J.S. McKinney (1913-)
John Jones (1917-) married Cecilia Crosland (1917-)
Mary Willie (1920-1920)
Ruth Walker (1925-) married Clyde Z. McSwain, Jr. (1921-)

As of March 1982, there were 28 grandchildren living and 3 deceased, 57 great grandchildren, and 14 great great grandchildren. As of March 1982, of the 105 living descendants, 47 reside in Cleveland County.

William and Molly Crowder in 1896

Robert Sarratt Gidney

Resolution In Memory Of
Robert S. Gidney

Unanimously Adopted By
The Board Of Commissioners For
The County Of Cleveland, North Carolina
On March 1, 1982

WHEREAS, Robert S. Gidney was born and reared in the City of Shelby, North Carolina, the son of Dr. Robert Maney and Hattie Sarratt Gidney; and,

WHEREAS, Robert S. Gidney was a devoted husband to his wife, Nettie Rayle Gidney, and a loving father to two sons, Robert S. Gidney, Jr. and Dr. Charles W. Gidney, and a daughter, Mrs. Larry (Rachel) Briggs; and,

WHEREAS, Robert S. Gidney was County Historian for Cleveland County and was a tireless student of his native land's history; and,

WHEREAS, Robert S. Gidney in 1945 became Cleveland County Tax Collector and was elevated from 1964 to 1966 to Tax Collector and Assistant Tax Supervisor. He became Tax Supervisor of Cleveland County in 1966 and served in this position until his retirement in 1973;

WHEREAS, Robert S. Gidney served faithfully the citizens of Cleveland County and was known to be an outstanding authority on taxes in North Carolina, and during the tenure of his employment was responsible for developing tax records in Cleveland County which were held up as an example for the other counties to follow;

WHEREAS, the untimely death of Robert S. Gidney on the 27th day of February, 1982, deprived Cleveland County of one of its most dedicated and respected public servants;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED by the Board of Commissioners for the County of Cleveland, North Carolina, that it hereby expresses, in behalf of all of the citizens of Cleveland County, its sincere appreciation for the years of dedicated and unselfish service given to the people of Cleveland County by Robert S. Gidney; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, by the Board of Commissioners for the County of Cleveland, North Carolina, that it hereby expresses its sincere sympathy to the family of the said Robert S. Gidney in the loss of such an outstanding and dedicated public servant; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that this Resolution be spread upon the minutes of the Board of Commissioners of Cleveland County, North Carolina, and that copies of said Resolution be delivered to the members of the family of the said Robert S. Gidney.

ADOPTED unanimously by the Board of Commissioners of Cleveland County, North Carolina, assembled in regular session, on this the 1st day of March, 1982.

Robert Sarratt Gidney
November 2, 1910 — February 27, 1982

David M. Stamey
David M. Stamey, Commissioner

Jack Palmer, Jr.
Jack Palmer, Jr., Chairman
Board of Commissioners of Cleveland County, North Carolina

Coleman W. Goforth
Coleman W. Goforth, Commissioner

Hugh Dover
Hugh Dover, Commissioner

L. E. Hinnant
L. E. Hinnant, Commissioner

Catherine Cochran
Catherine Cochran, Clerk
Board of Commissioners of
Cleveland County, North Carolina

Photographs from the Green Family Scrapbook

Margaret Virginia Harton Green mother of Charles Abner Green

Charly A. Green
father of Charles Abner Green

John and Elizabeth Reavis Callahan father and mother of Louise C. Green

Louise Callahan Green wife of Charles Abner Green

Charles Abner Green

David Marion Green
son of Charles Abner and Louise C. Green

Robert C. and Mary Green Mode daughter and son-in-law of Charles
Abner and Louise C. Green

Amy Lea and Christopher Mode grandchildren of Charles Abner and Louise C. Green

Susan Bailey and John Charles Green son and daughter-in-law of Charles
Abner and Louise C. Green

In Memory Of
Mr. and Mrs. O.P. Hamrick

Oliver Paul Hamrick and wife, Jessie Teresa Pangle Hamrick, as they appeared in 1960 when "Fessor" Hamrick retired after more than half a century's association with schools in Boiling Springs, first with the Baptist school, now Gardner-Webb College, where he was both a student and later principal. He retired as superintendent of the Boiling Springs public schools. He was a native of Boiling Springs while Mrs. Hamrick was reared in Jefferson City, Tennessee.

Raymond Dewey and Dona Spake Hord Family on Their 60th Wedding Anniversary.

Children standing: Jonathan and Elizabeth Pacheco. Front row: Ralph Pacheco, Mrs. Ralph Pacheco and Nathan, Mrs. Dorothy Hawkins, L.W. Knight, Sr., Mrs. L.W. Knight, Mrs. Raymond D. Hord, Raymond D. Hord, Mrs. Horace B. Hord, Horace B. Hord, Charlotte Hord. Back row: Mrs. Ciro Picarilla, Ciro Picarilla, Mrs. L.W. Knight, Jr., L.W. Knight, Jr., Emily Hord and Deborah Hord. Those of the family not present were Glen Hawkins and his two sons, Charles and Joe; Barry and Jack Hawkins, and Melanie Hord.

L.R. Harrill
(1897-1978)
"Mr. 4-H"

An estimated three million North Carolina boys and girls have been members of 4-H or the Boys' Corn Club or Girls' Tomato Club, which preceded 4-H Clubs. Only one person, however, earned the title, "Mr. 4-H".

The person was L.R. Harrill who devoted 41 years to 4-H work. His 37 years tenure as state 4-H leader was from 1922-1963. During this time, North Carolina developed the largest 4-H program in the Nation. Membership in 4-H reached 168,000 annually during the mid 1950's. Thousands of these youth became acquainted with North Carolina State University for the first time because of L.R. Harrill and his 4-H leadership.

His philosophy was reflected in a statement he made often to extension agents and 4-H leaders: "It is a great thing to produce a grand champion 4-H animal. But unless you do something at the same time to produce a grand champion boy or girl you have failed in your greatest responsibility".

L.R. Harrill was one of the ten children of Robert Lee Harrill and Julia Jane McSwain Harrill, Lattimore, North Carolina. He earned Bachelor of Science and Master of Science degrees from North Carolina State College.

He was North Carolina's first full-time county extension agent to conduct 4-H work. In 1922, I.O. Schaub, Dean of North Carolina Extension Service assigned him to this position in Bumcombe county.

A few examples of the innovations L.R. Harrill brought to 4-H included expanded 4-H to every county, introduced new projects, organized 4-H Honor Club, helped start International Farm Youth Exchange, and saw North Carolina boys and girls garner scores of National honors.

He secured the first camp for 4-H'ers at Swannanoa in 1929 and at his retirement in 1963 he had five other camps in operation. He helped launch the 4-H Development Fund. In 20 years, nearly $2 million was raised through the fund for a multitude of projects, including camping.

North Carolina State University awarded L.R. Harrill its highest honor, the Watauga Medal in 1978. Gardner-Webb College Alumni Citation in recognition of outstanding achievement and service for youth training through 4-H Clubs was conferred in 1959. The Youth Center at North Carolina State Fairgrounds was designated L.R. Harrill Center. The State magazine named him "North Carolina Man of the Year" in 1950 and Progressive Farmer Magazine named him "Man of the Year in North Carolina Agriculture", in 1957.

L.R. Harrill was a president of Raleigh Rotary Club, District Governor of Rotary, and a chairman of Board of Deacons, First Baptist Church, Raleigh, North Carolina. He served on Board of Trustees for Gardner-Webb College, Boiling Springs, North Carolina.

He authored two books — Images of 4-H and Memories of 4-H, which are copyrighted by the North Carolina 4-H Development Fund.

L.R. Harrill married Laura Weatherspoon of Raleigh. Their children are Julia Ann Harrill Hooper of Atlanta, Georgia and James Weatherspoon Harrill of Westford, Massachusetts.

Mrs. L.R. Harrill established a L.R. Harrill Scholarship Fund which has provided two scholarships annually to 4-H members since 1963. This scholarship in his honor was announced at North Carolina 4-H Congress in 1963, the year of his retirement. Mr. Harrill endowed a scholarship at Gardner-Webb College.

Honoring The Cleveland County Historical Museum
 Shelby, North Carolina

Receiving
 A Time Capsule
 On May 8, 1976, To Be Opened In the Year 2041. It contains a Representation of County Interest. Receiving the Capsule is W. Wyan Washburn, M.D., Museum
 President, on the left.

*This Page Presented By Bessie Howard Harry, 1891-
 A Charter Member And Still A Member Of The Museum Board of Directors*

Keep On . . . Keeping On

1916

1982

In Memory Of Brice Holmes Harry, Jr.

Brice Holmes Harry, Jr. — "Our Number One Fan"

Marker at Brice Harry Memorial Ball Park.
Dedicated 1957.

In Memory Of Robert Lee Hunt D.D.S., 1910

Robert Lee Hunt was born on the family farm in upper Cleveland County near Hollis, October 25, 1885, son of John Jackson and Elizabeth Ellen Peeler Hunt. (See related history). He attended Piedmont High School and Atlanta Dental College (now Emory University), graduating from the latter in 1910.

Following graduation he set up his dental office on the second floor of the Verner Oil Company building in Lattimore, reached by a long flight of iron steps and hand railing on the east side wall. It is said that many young ladies sought his attention, but he fell in love with and married Alma Harrill, daughter of Robert Lee and Julia McSwain Harrill, the postal clerk in the nearby post office. (See related article.) They were married within the year by the Reverend D.G. Washburn.

He established a successful dental practice, but soon, also, became interested in farming and trading. He bought the Asbury Jones farm (formerly owned by Hone Washburn) with a large ten room, two-story house and an enormous barn. The spacious hallway with double stairway and balcony, the long porches, and huge barn were a favorite playground for children who came to visit. Also, the self-player piano, one of the first in the neighborhood, bought a few years later, was a source of entertainment. In this house we, also, soon acquired electric lights and running water, generating our own power. He was always generous in providing his family with new conveniences and more than just necessities.

During these years Dr. Hunt would go into Tennessee and buy railroad car loads of mules and horses, to Georgia for pigs, and have them shipped to Lattimore to sell to farmers. He was very successful in this endeavor as well as with his farming and dentistry.

Two short-termed business ventures in Shelby were a cafe on East Marion Street and the Cleveland Tractor Company, selling Caterpillar tractors, on West Warren Street where Sears now stands. The latter business was shared with W.A. Crowder, a local farmer. These were the years when cotton was king in Cleveland County.

Soon he bought interest in the general merchandise store located in the building below his dental office. This was operated as Hunt and Hewitt. To this, he also added the sale of hay and fertilizer which grew into an extensive and profitable business.

About 1923 he sold his farm to W.A. Crowder and bought another from D.A.F. Hamrick. He continued to expand his farming activities buying a farm near Rehobeth Church. With the destructiveness of the cotton boll weevil in Georgia many farm families moved North and settled in Lattimore. It was not difficult finding help to tend the land. He had practically discontinued his dental practice because of these many other interests. The twenties were good years until the stock market crash of 1929.

A few years later, he bought a store building and stock from T.C. Stockton and the Hunt and Hewitt business moved to this location (now John Bell's). Across the street he built a filling station which accommodated also Wyatt Martin's first barbershop. This building was later moved, renovated, and became his dental office. This cleared the lot which he sold to L.O. Hamrick for construction of his home on Main Street.

In 1929 the Great Depression came and farmers were unable to pay their hay, fertilizer, livestock, and grocery bills as well as general merchandise accounts. A few years later the store dissolved partnership and he undertook the tremendous tasks of settling the demands of his creditors. Of his customers (even though he carried mortgages on their land, livestock, and other possessions) he would never accept enough to deprive them of necessities. He was very compassionate, tenderhearted, and remembered by hundreds of families as a generous benefactor "crossing accounts off the books" when they could not pay. With banks failing and business firms collapsing, he was determined to meet his financial obligations and not file for bankruptcy as many friends advised. He had too much pride. Needless to say, he suffered tremendous losses at this time from which he never fully financially recovered.

In the 1940's during the war he felt he could best serve his country and fellowman by again opening his dental office since dentists were badly needed. He renewed his license, renovated a small building on the premises and began his practice anew. This was most rewarding and enjoyable until he was stricken with cancer in 1952. During the next five years, confined more to his home and nearby farm, he found satisfaction in raising beef cattle. It was in this endeavor, on the way to a livestock salebarn, that he suffered an apparent heart attack on Highway 74.

Dr. Hunt was buried in the Lattimore Baptist Church cemetery on December 20, 1957. "A Prince has fallen this day in Israel" was the text read by Rev. C.C. Crowe. And a prince he was in every way.

In Memory of Sunie Jones and John Broadus Lattimore

Mr. and Mrs. Lattimore on their sixtieth wedding anniversary
They were married January 2, 1906

The family of Mr. and Mrs. John Broadus Lattimore on their sixtieth wedding anniversary. Standing: Thomas Lattimore, Margaret, Virginia and Mary Agnes Lattimore. Seated: Mrs. Sunie Lattimore, Mr. Broadus Lattimore and daughter-in-law, and Mrs. Mary Frances Warlick (Mrs. Thomas) Lattimore.

The McDowell Family of Cleveland County, North Carolina

John Lewis McDowell

Harriette McDowell Holton

Docia Bowers McDowell

H. Mac McIntyre

Susan and John McIntyre

Eleanor Holton McIntyre

In Memory and Honor of the Charles Eugene Neisler Family

The Neisler Family:

Seated, L to R: Ida Pauline Neisler (Brewer), Ida Pauline Mauney Neisler, Hugh Neisler, Charles Eugene Neisler and Margaret Sue Neisler (Hunnicut).
 Standing, L to R: Hunter Ramseur Neisler, Paul Mauney Neisler, Laura Grace Neisler (Page), Joseph Andrew Neisler and Charles Eugene Neisler, Jr.

The J.S. Mauney Family of Kings Mountain

Seated: Mr. and Mrs. J.S. Mauney Standing, L to R: Will, Dorus, John, Vera, Lawrence and Gus

The J.S. Mauney Home

Left: 107 N. Piedmont Avenue, Kings Mountain, N.C. Built late 1800's

The Mauney Family

Below: Seated on ground, front row: Billy, Jack, Jacob Cooper, Joe, Jacob Philow, William Lawrence, Laura. Standing behind children seated on ground: Mary Vera, Elizabeth, George, Marshall, Margaret, Martha Lue. Seated L to R: Sarah, Bessie, Vera, Mr. and Mrs. J.S. Mauney, Anna, Grace, Sadie. Standing L to R: Will, Dorothy, John, Luther, Edgar in arms of Dr. Ed Cooper, Juanita, Carl, Julia Catherine, Aubrey, Gus, Frances, Lawrence, Winnie Vera, Dorus, Margaret Louise.

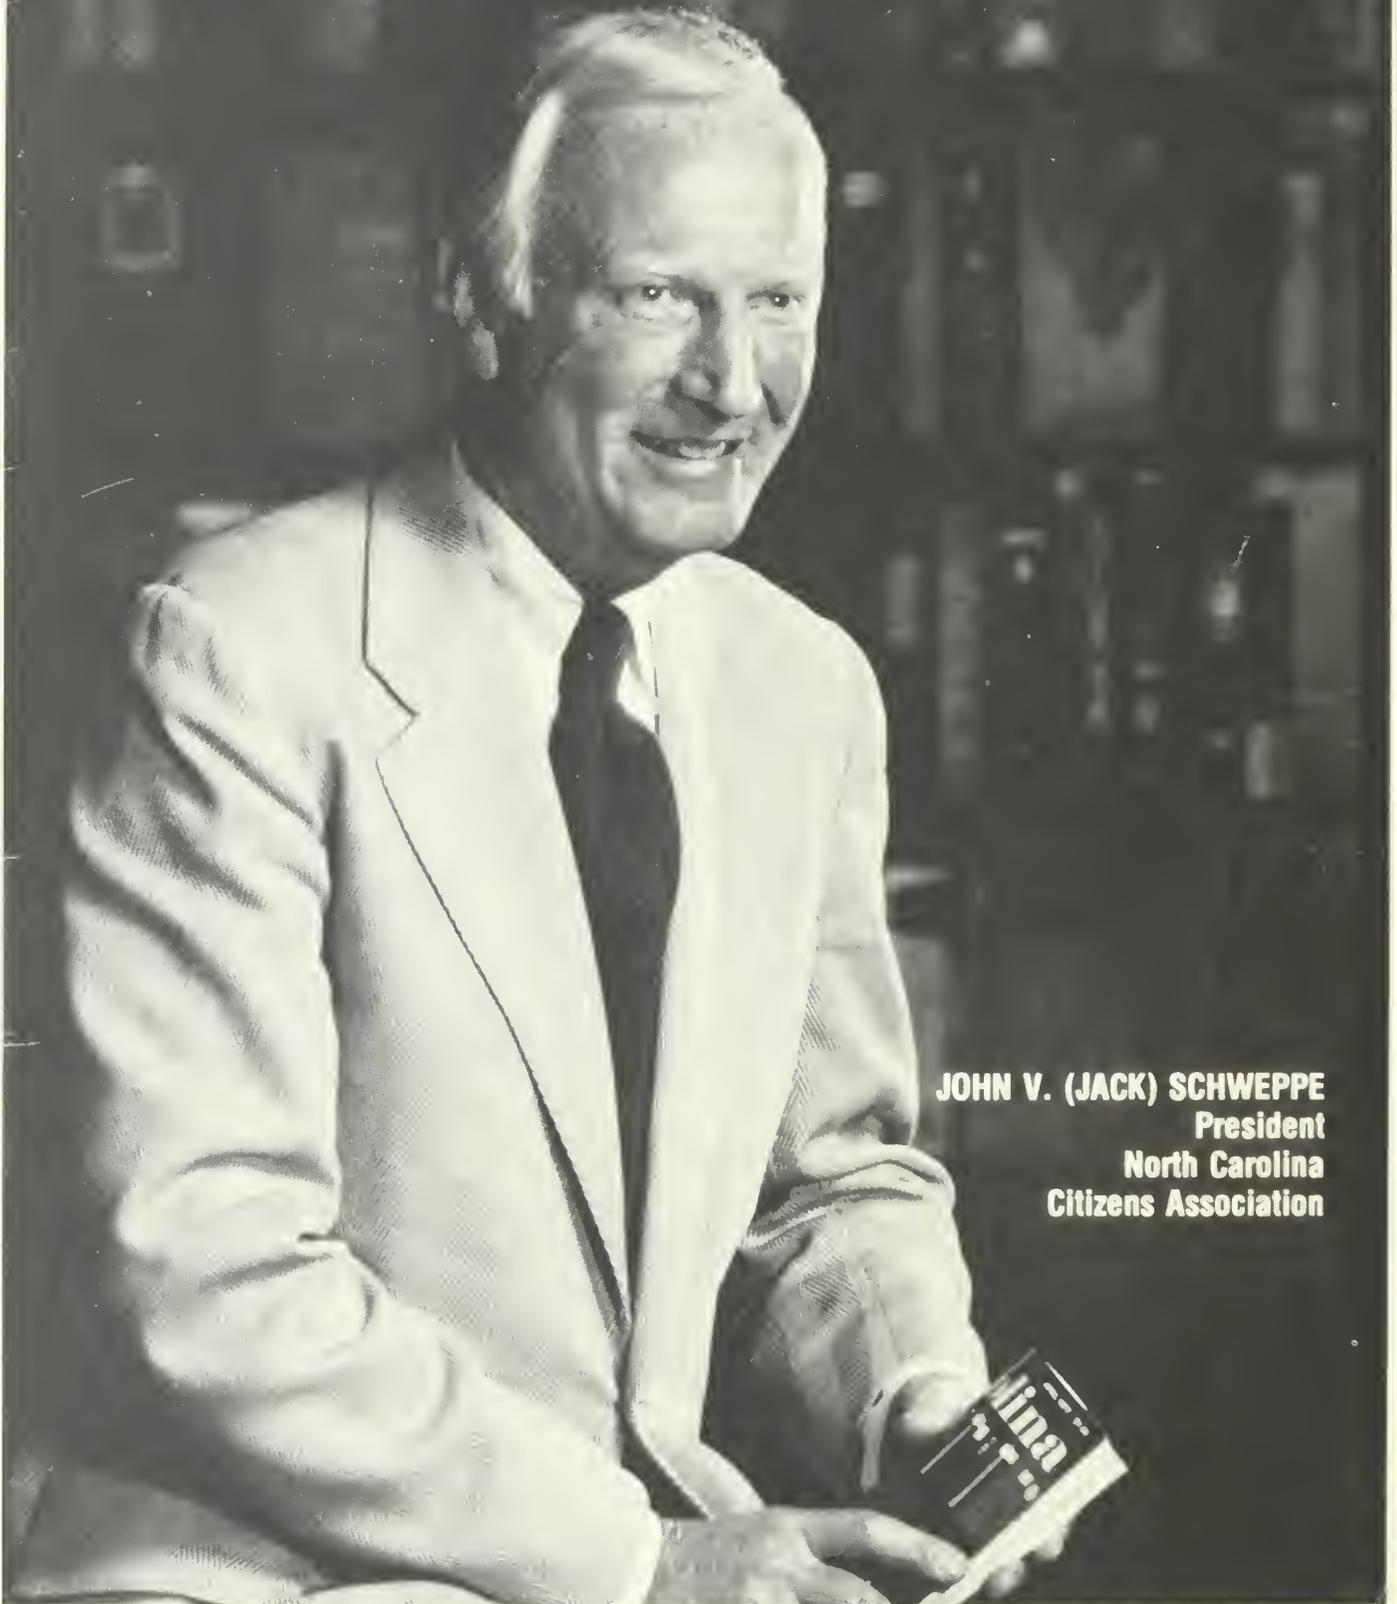

In Memory of
Guy Houston Roberts
1902 — 1964

We the people of

APRIL 1978 $1.00

North Carolina

JOHN V. (JACK) SCHWEPPE
President
North Carolina
Citizens Association

In Memoriam
John V. (Jack) Schweppe
President, North Carolina Citizens Association, 1978.

In Memoriam To Our Friend: David Schweppe

On January 20, 1967, Shelby High School lost one of its most promising students when David Schweppe was killed in an automobile accident. David, with his carefree laugh, his pleasant disposition, and his optimistic outlook added much to the personality of Shelby High. Respected by the people in his school and community, and loved by his family and friends, David was an integral part of the world in which he lived.

David began taking piano while living in Shelbyville, Indiana, before moving here in 1958. In 1959, he was a student of Mrs. Velta Langins and continued as her student until 1962. Then, in the fall of 1962, he began taking lessons from Mr. Joseph E. Lammers at Queens College in Charlotte. Also while a student of Mr. Lammers he took organ from Mrs. Hubert Plaster at Gardner-Webb College.

David was proud of his ability at the piano and he enjoyed playing for his family and friends. Oftentime one could find him sitting before a piano making it sing with chords of joy and laughter. Other times, more seriously, David would sit and play selections from his favorite noted composers. On current beat, David could play all the popular songs by ear, giving his friends fun and laughs.

David Schweppe, an outstanding and versatile athlete, was under consideration by three colleges for football and track scholarships at the time of his death.

His first year at high school he played Junior-Varsity football. He was positioned at offensive half-back and sometimes defensive half-back. Following this he entered into his most honorable and recognized years with his unforgettable contributions to the Shelby High Golden Lions. He played end and half-back and was recognized as one of the team's most valuable players. At the close of the 1966 season, he received the Coaches Athletic Award which was given for the first time this year. Also he was selected to play in the annual Lions Bowl in Forest City. In this game he scored one touchdown.

In track Dave took part in the hurdle and dash events and because of his speed was able to letter in this sport as well as in football.

David's death is not only a loss to the present — the loss of his companionship to his loved ones and the loss of his leadership to his peers — but also a loss to the future. His ability to get along with people insured bright years ahead. David possessed the personality, the talents, and the intelligence that would have made him successful.

In fond memory of David Schweppe, we of the Outlook staff dedicate this issue to him. To say that we'll miss him is inadequate, for we have learned to value his friendship.

David resting on field.

Number 25 hauling in a pass on the gridiron.

By: His mother, Ruth; brothers, John and Bill; and sister, Sally.

Photographic Memories of the George Elzie Sperling Family

George and Mary Justice Sperling at their 50th Wedding Anniversary, May 28, 1949

George and Mary Sperling at their 50th Wedding Anniversary with their nine children, their spouses and grandchildren on May 28, 1949

Photographic Memories of the George Elzie Sperling Family

The children of George Elzie and Mary Justice Sperling. First row, L to R: Iva, Daddy, Madge, Mother, Corinne, second row, L to R: Lalage, Nancy, Charles, Heyward, Macie, Clara.

The George Elzie Sperling Family Homeplace.

George W. Stockton of Lattimore

George W. and Margaret Jane Washburn Stockton on Wedding Day, January 20, 1885

A TRIBUTE published in the pages of:
The Shelby Daily Star, Shelby, N.C.
The Cleveland Times, Shelby, N.C.
The Foothills View, Boiling Springs, N.C.

Memorial Obituary

C.J. Stockton, Died June 26, 1980

LATTIMORE — Charles Joseph (Charlie) Stockton, 74, of Lattimore, died Thursday at 1:30 p.m. at his home, where he was born and lived his lifetime.

A native of Cleveland County, he was a retired clerk of the Shelby Post Office, a member of Lattimore Baptist Church, American Postal Workers Union, American Association of Retired Persons, W.O.W., and a former member of Lattimore Lions Club.

He was the son of the late George Washington and Margaret Washburn Stockton.

Surviving are his wife, Inez Bridges Stockton; a son, Charles Joseph "Joe" Stockton, Jr. of Lattimore, and five grandchildren.

Services will be conducted at Lattimore Baptist Church Saturday at 2:30 p.m. by the Rev. Hugh Borders and Rev. James P. Wall. The body will be 1906 — L to R: Toy, George, Margaret (holding Charlie), Ethel, and Roy (Tac).

George W. Stockton family

George W. Stockton Home

Now owned by Mrs. Charles J. Stockton. The house was built in 1893. This photograph made in August, 1981.

placed in the church at 2 p.m. Burial will be in Cleveland Memorial Park.

The body will be taken home at 4:30 where the family will receive friends.

Musical renditions will be "At The Cross", his favorite hymn, by choir, solo, "Sunrise Tomorrow" by Tommy Lattimore and "How Great Thou Art" by the choir.

Pallbearers will be Austin Jones, Riley McCord, Howard Haskell, Jap Ledbetter, Rufus Weathers and N.R. Jones. Honorary pallbearers will be Wilbur Baber, Russell Laughridge, Carlo Self, Louis McDowell, Lofton Crawley, Joe B. Howell and Forrest A. Wolfe.

Memorials may be made to Shriners Crippled Childrens Hospital in Greenville, S.C. in care of the Oasis Temple, South Tryon St., Charlotte.

Lutz-Austell Funeral Home in Shelby is in charge of the arrangements.

1883 photograph of house, L to R: Elvira Blanton Suttle and son, Charles Beattie Suttle. House, now known as "Twin Chimneys," is owned by J.L. Suttle, Jr.

The Joseph Suttle House

Known now as "Twin Chimneys" is owned by J.L. Suttle, Jr.

State of North Carolina
 Department of Cultural Resources
 Division of Archives and History

This is to certify that

JOSEPH SUTTLE HOUSE has been entered on

THE NATIONAL REGISTER OF HISTORIC PLACES

by the

United States Department of the Interior upon nomination by the State Historic Preservation Officer under provisions of the National Historic Preservation Act of 1966 (P.L. 89-665).

The National Register is a list of properties "significant in American history, architecture, archeology, and culture — a comprehensive index of the significant physical evidences of our national patrimony." Properties listed thereon deserve to be preserved by their owners as a part of the cultural heritage of our nation.

F. M. E. M.
 Director, Division of Archives and History
 and
 State Historic Preservation Officer

August 6, 1980

The Joseph Suttle house was built by Minor Smith prior to 1820. In 1854 it was purchased by Reverend Joseph Pinkney Suttle from Thomas F. Elliott. In 1883 it was sold by his widow, Elvira Elizabeth Suttle, to J.F. Ledbetter and was out of the Suttle family until 1943 when Joseph Linton Suttle, Jr., great-grandson of Joseph Suttle, bought it from Joe Wesson. The house was restored in 1952 and named "Twin Chimneys." It is located five miles southwest of Shelby in the Sharon Church Community near the Shelby Airport. In 1980 it was listed in The National Register Of Historical Places.

"Twin Chimneys" restored 1954.

Joseph Linton Suttle, Jr., Family

William Jackson Arey Family

L to R: Mildred Carole, Carole Suttle Arey, William Jackson Arey, William Jackson, Jr.

Joseph Linton, Jr. and Sara McFarland Suttle

Joseph Linton Suttle III Family

L to R: Joseph Linton IV, Tyler Combs, Minna Gaston Combs Suttle, Marjorie Greer, Joseph Linton Suttle III.

James Vance and Regina Lou Crowder Suttle

To the Memory of Charles G. and Sarah Crowder Washburn

The late Charles Gabriel Washburn of No 7 Township and his wife, Sarah Schenck Crowder Washburn, had 14 children. The 8 sons, above, are dressed for a family gathering about 80 years ago. They are, back row, left to right: Willard Winslow, Abram Chancy, Hone I., Chivous Avero, James Broadus; front row, Seaton Allen, Doctor William, and Rev. Dennis Gordon Washburn.

The daughters included: Margaret Jane (George Washington) Stockton, Phoebe Adeline (George Washington) Hamrick, Rebecca Hessentine (Cleophuls Amos) Hamrick; Patience Priscilla (Joe Turner Cabaniss; second husband, Sidney Hill Hamrick) Hamrick; Cora Schenck (Coleman A.) Doggett, and Minnie Victoria Washburn, never married.

In 1905 Winslow made the motion in the annual meeting of the Kings Mtn. Baptist Association to establish a Baptist school at Boiling Springs. Chance sawmilled in Georgia and Chivous sawmilled in Alabama; Hone was a merchant in Lattimore and Shelby. James was a farmer but died at 21 of pneumonia. Seaton established Cleveland Hardware in Shelby. D.W. was postmaster in Cape Henry, Va. Gordon was a pioneer Baptist minister for more than 50 years in Cleveland and Rutherford counties.

Many descendants of this pioneer family live in the county now.

Eight sons of Charles Gabriel Washburn and Sarah Schenck Crowder: front row L to R: Seaton Allen Washburn, Doctor William Washburn, Rev. D.G. Washburn; back row L to R: Willard Winslow Washburn, Abram Chancy Washburn, Hone I. Washburn, Chivous Avero Washburn, James Broadus Washburn.

The Joe C. Washburn Family

Above are Joe C. Washburn and wife, Estilla McSwain Washburn, Rt. 4, Shelby, N.C., and their children as they appeared in 1966. The elder Washburns were married in March, 1906, and are in the center, front row. Others are Mrs. H. Dufaye (Ruby) Bridges; D.R. Washburn, W. Wyan Washburn, M.D.; Mrs. Talmadge I. (Dorothy) Edwards; back row, Seth L. and Dietz B. Washburn; Mrs. Herschel B. (Mary Leigh) Wilson, Mrs. W.G. (Raye) Scism; Gaines B., Joe Dan and H.G. Washburn, M.D. Seth lives in Louisburg, Dan in Raleigh and D.R. in New Mexico; the others reside in Cleveland County. A feature of this photograph is that at the time of the original setting Dr. Wyan Washburn was in Vietnam on medical duty. On his return the photographer was able to take his picture at the same house on the same bench — then dub him into the family group photograph.

The Carl Ray Webb Family

Virginia Hoyle Webb

Carl Ray Webb

Peg Pearce Webb

Commodore Carl Ray Webb, Jr.

Walter Hoyle Webb

Margie Elmore Webb

Kendall, Keith, Kevin

Walter Hoyle, Jr.

Lynne Ray

The Family of Judge Edwin Yates Webb, Sr. and Willie Simmons Webb

Judge Edwin Yates Webb, his portrait, and his three children at a Gardner-Webb College banquet in his honor on May 23, 1952, his 80th birthday anniversary. Left to right: Edwin Yates Webb, Judge Webb, Elizabeth Yates Webb, and William Yates Webb.

Dedicated to Albert Victor Wray and Margaret Lee Jones

Above: This photo taken in the 312 West Marion Street, Shelby, home of A.V. Wray's parents, George Washington and Sarah Judith Suttle. Occupying the present Shelby Junior High School site, this home was only two blocks west of the railroad track home of his grandparents, James Alexander Linton and Margaret Louise Blanton, who owned a farm on the west side of First Broad River and started the livery business operated by A.V.'s father. Beginning clockwise with George Washington's first grandchild, pictured are: the infant Cheves Linton, Jr. (b. 5-16-1900 Ridgeway, SC), grandfather George Washington, father Cheves Linton and great-grandfather James Alexander Linton.

Top Right: This photo taken approximately 1938 in the parlor of A.V. and Margaret Wray's 700 N. Morgan Street, Shelby, home after a lunch for direct family members. Beginning left to right seated are "Margaret" Lee Jones, Albert Victor (A.V.), "Sarah" Ellen, and "Charles" William. Standing left to right are Robert "Lee", "Stough" Alexander, "Harvey" Linton, Albert Victor (Vick), Jr., and "George" Washington.

Above: Photo shows large train shipment of "Star Brand" mens, ladies and childrens shoes just received for fall selling in early 1920's. Located at No. 4 South LaFayette Street across from the Court Square of Uptown Shelby, the original 1911 store was 2,250 square feet on street level plus full selling basement. Employees left to right are Folsom Moses, "A.V." Wray and Franklin "Stough" Wray.

Left: A.V. Wray & 6 Sons, Inc. billed as Wray's, was founded 1911 by the late A.V. Wray partially occupying the center section of the present uptown Shelby store now called 102 South LaFayette Street. After opening Shelby's Eastway Branch, expansion outside the community began with the 1971 Tri-City Mall, Forest City, and 1976 Akers Center, Gastonia, locations operating as complete family clothing/footwear stores totaling 60,000 sq. ft. with 125 employees.

...

The following Ruskin poem hanging under his portrait in the Uptown Shelby store is a framed 1938 Christmas present given by A.V. Wray to each of his children.

Therefore, when we build, let us build forever and let us think as we lay stone on stone, that a time is to come when these stones will be held sacred because our hands have touched them, and that men will say as they look upon the labor and — wrought substance of them. "See! This our fathers did for us."

Four Generations — Wray Family

L. to R. Elvira Suttle, Great G.M.; Cheves Linton Wray, F.; Cheves Linton Wray, son; Esther Judithe Suttle, Grandmother.

L. to R. George Washington Wray, G.F.; Cheves Linton Wray, F.; Cheves Linton Wray, Jr., son; James Alexander Linton Wray, Great Grandfather.

Cheves Linton Wray as a young man.

Sarah (Georgie) George Williamson as a young lady.

Standing, L. to R.: Cheves Linton Wray, Jr. and George Williamson Wray. Seated, L. to R.: Charles Williamson Wray and Alva Suttle Wray, brothers.

L. to R.: George Williamson Wray and Cheves Linton Wray Jr., at Grandfather George Washington Wray's Home, 312 W. Marion St., Shelby, North Carolina.

In Memory Of Mr. and Mrs. Carme Elam

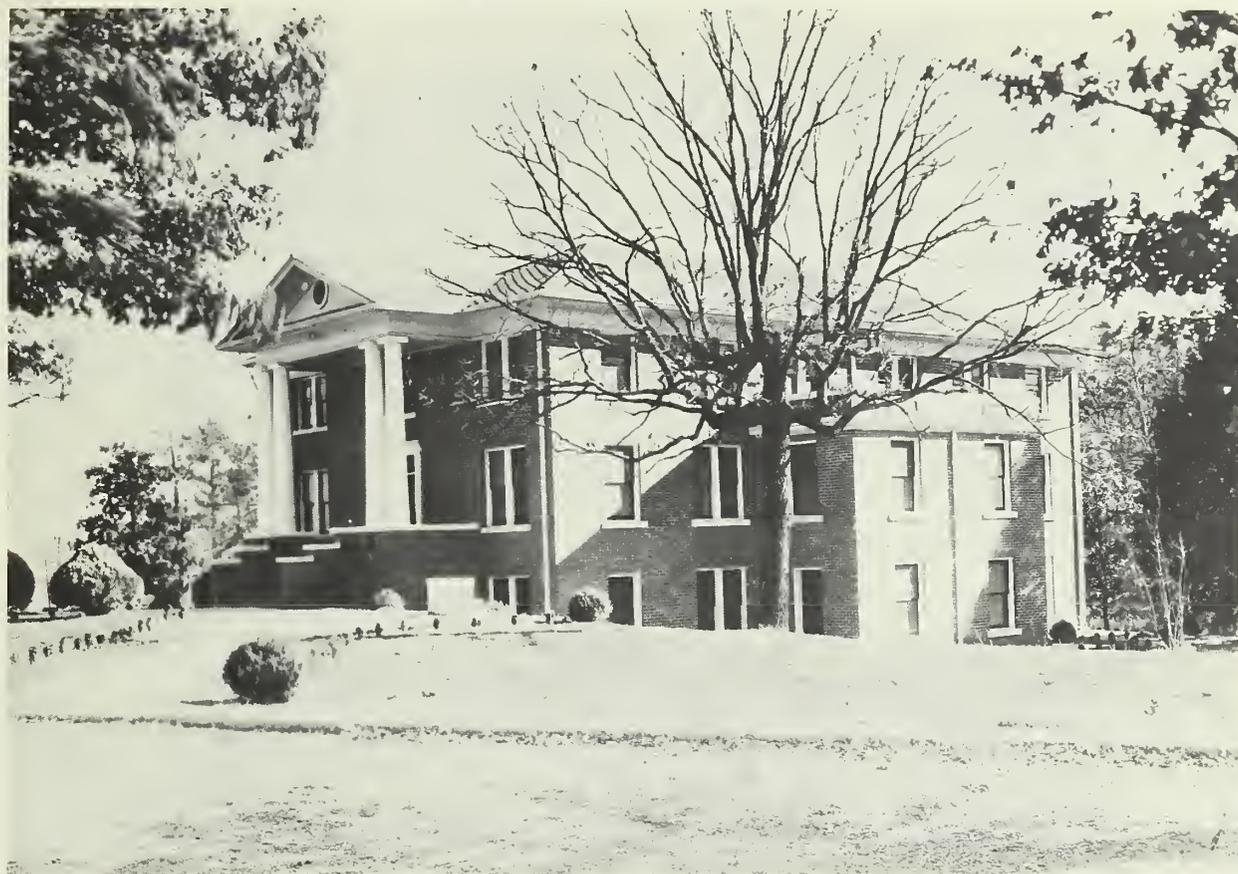

Below, Left: Mr. and Mrs. Carme Elam with Forney boys in an early 1900 Buick.

Below, Right: Elam Homeplace which burned about 1940.

John Stanhope Wray Family — 1905
Standing, L to R: Laura, Fan, Hugh, John, Maggie, Lil. Seated, L to R: John (daughter), Mayme, Ella, Gladys, Pearl.

Dedicated To Double Springs Baptist Church

Above is pictured Double Springs Baptist church as it was erected in 1920, the first modern, rural brick church plant in Cleveland County, designed for a wide range of church activities, including teaching, training, child care and recreation. In 1920 this was religious "pioneering."

Above are the deacons and the pastor of the Double Springs Baptist Church, three rows north of Lattimore, approximately 60 years ago. They are, L to R, front row: Raymond Jones, C.B. Greene, Rev. J.W. Suttle, John L. McSwain, D.R. Washburn, A.L. Calton, and Fred E. Greene. Middle row: Malcolm Wilson, Joe C. Washburn, Sam Greene, Lowell McSwain, H.D. Bridges, Forrest Growder. Back row: Fred R. Washburn, Lawrence Hawkins, W.B. Glascoe, O.O. Toms and B.B. Moore. Jones, D.R. Washburn, McSwain, Bridges, Hawkins and Glascoe are still living.

First Baptist Church, Grover, North Carolina

Rev. Bobby D. Gantt, Pastor

March 21, 1982

Lynn Rowland
Pianist

Ronda Gantt
Music Director

Ruth Byers
Organist

1878 — Centennial Pageant — 1978

1878 To The Present, An Overview: First Baptist Church, Grover, N.C. was constituted in 1880, growing out of a 1878 beginning. The first meeting house was located by the railroad just inside the North Carolina line. Among others responsible for the establishment of a church in this location were the people of Antioch Baptist Church.

State Line Baptist Church under the auspices of Broad River Association was organized Nov. 23, 1878. Officiating in the organization were ministers from the Kings Mountain and Broad River Associations; G.P. Hamrick, L.H. McSwain and T.H. Mullinax with 62 charter members.

The Town was then Whitaker, S.C., later named Grover, N.C.

In 1907 a more church central location was deemed advisable. A new structure was erected on the corner of Bob Vance Street and Shelby Highway (now Cleveland Avenue and Linden Street). It was a beautiful building of creme brick. In the pretty steeple hung a vibrant bell that tolled the "Call to Worship".

Soft colored stain glass windows in Gothic style reflected from three sides. Three windows in the rear of the choir loft made a beautiful background for weddings. The glass enclosed Baptistry was just beneath the choir loft and behind the pulpit stand.

The lighting effect from a central inverted dome was a thing of beauty as well as a refuge for the birds, bees, and wasps. The seating arrangement was circular with two aisles — one from each vestibule to the rounded pulpit 1½ feet high.

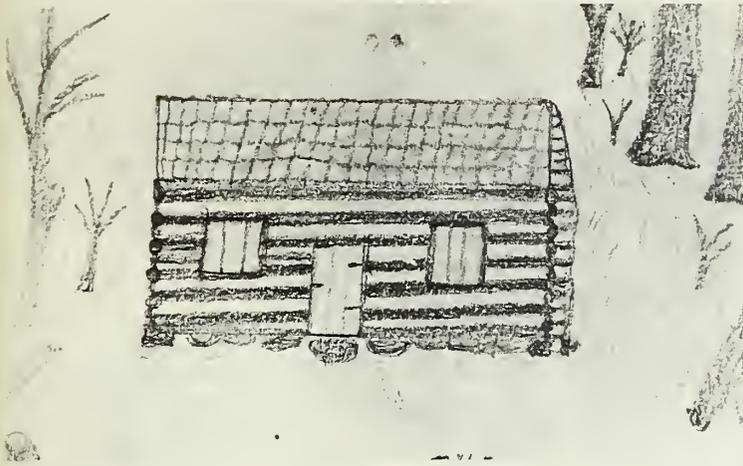

T.H. Mullinax — 1898
"The Marrying Parson"

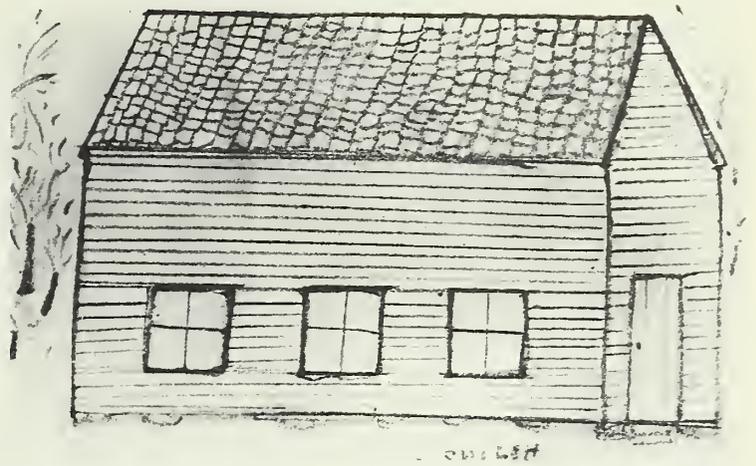

Windows of early church with members of Friendly Bible Sunday School Class before the church.

Shiloh Presbyterian Church

Grover, North Carolina

The First Church, 1780

The Second Church

Little Church in the Pines

Fourth Church in 1981

Rev. Harold Hutchinson at Camp Greir

Elder Paul Roberts Hambright, 1920-1981

A photograph made at the church's Bi-Centennial Celebration in 1980.

The Bank Building In 1895

A Brief History Of The First National Bank Of Shelby Shelby, North Carolina Founded 1874

To say that the First National Bank of Shelby, with 108 years service to Shelby and Cleveland County, has withstood every sort of problem and come out stronger every time is not to brag. Starting out of Jesse Jenkins' hip pocket in 1874, what was to become First National Bank in 1903 has come intact through frequent changes of ownership in those first years: a fire, the collapse of the building, the Depression and, in recent times, competition.

Indeed, when the present Blanton family control began, B. Blanton and Co. could tell stockholders in 1896 that it made only $18.89 profit in its first six months of operation. The bank could brag in 1916 that it has resources of $1.5 million, compared to approximately $86 million it now has.

Through it all, First National's business philosophy has been expressed in virtually the same way as it was in 1903 when it changed to a National bank:

"We solicit the accounts of corporations, merchants, administrators, executors, guardians, farmers and all the people in Cleveland and adjoining counties. We especially solicit the farmers' business. Deposit your money with us. You can get it or any part of it any time you want it."

Or, as it said in a 1916 advertisement:

"Helping to build industries, institutions and communities; helping people to own their own homes; helping farmers to own their own farms . . . are but different phases of the helpfulness to customers, and the service this institution has rendered to its depositors in the past and will continue to render in the future. Our watchwords are safety and service."

Or, as a Raleigh News and Observer reporter wrote in 1903:

"In a word, the bank management is at once courteous and accommodating and fully capacitated to take care of all the business interests of this section and is continually broadening out and getting in more business."

If First National began in 1874 as the hip pocket bank by Jesse Jenkins and H.D. Lee, its business soon grew too large for anyone's hip pocket: The $100,000 capitalization of First National in 1903 was double that of the year before when it was B. Blanton and Co. It was also said in that infamous 1896 account of the $18.89 profit that the bank had loans of $5,706.76, but in 1903, a scant seven years later, its loans were said to be $257,790.75, nearly quintupled.

J. Jenkins and Co., Bankers, went out of existence because his $7,500 expenditure to build the now familiar Blanton home on North Lafayette Street, Shelby, was "said to have broken him". The home was sold at the Courthouse door for $1,500 to H.D. Lee, who had been in business with Jenkins, and Jenkins moved to Texas. The home, incidentally, has always been the home for the president of the First National Bank, remaining so from the time it was built for Jenkins to the present, when George Blanton, Jr. occupies the Gothic structure.

Various accounts of the bank's passing from J. Jenkins and Co. confuse the exact circumstances. But it is known that the successor was H.D. Lee & Co. to which Burwell Blanton and S.J. Green were added about 1879. The lineage to the present First National, however, came through H.D. Lee & Co. to B. Blanton & Co., Bankers, on July 10, 1895. It was that new company which reported $18.89 in net earnings and undivided profits on business of $5,687.85 on January 10, 1896. The firm's first dividend was paid on January 9, 1897.

Burwell Blanton's two sons, Charles C., who had been a banker in Meridian, Texas, for 11 years, and George, who had been selling sewing machines in Virginia, joined him in the business.

That Shelby and Cleveland County were able to support a federally-chartered bank, much less to quintuple its business in seven years, may be questionable today, but at the turn of the century, Shelby was the thriving center of an economically booming county.

According to one Cleveland Star report in 1903, there were "in the city seven general stores, three hardware stores, 12 grocery stores, three millinery stores, one wholesale grocer, one commission merchant, three stove and tinware stores, two furniture dealers, a harness manufacturer, a tailor, two jewelers, two opticians, three drug stores, one piano-organ store, a marble yard and two undertakers. And that doesn't include the four hotels in addition to the 185-person Cleveland Springs Hotel, two cotton mills, a cotton seed oil mill, three cotton gins, a grist mill, a foundry and machine works, two lumber plants, a brick plant, two sash and blind firms, a steam laundry and four blacksmiths.

Indeed, in 1903 the county itself grew 15,000 bales of cotton, worked 275,000 acres of crops and had 13 cotton factories, 44 flour mills, 60 cotton gins, 33 lumber plants and "a host of small industries." The Cleveland Star story suggested, however, the industrial atmosphere could be expanded and improved for the city was "an ideal place for the establishment of a furniture factory and a mill for the manufacture of hosiery yarns, hosiery, shirts."

And not so incidentally in the context of why First National Bank's business took off like a rocket, the Raleigh News and Observer was reporting that Thomas Dixon's father was saying as how author Tom had already cleared $35,000 on his book, Leopard's Spots, and had turned down an offer of $20,000 for his next book. It was a boom time in Shelby and Cleveland County, and, as the late Lee B. Weathers said in his book, The Living Past of Cleveland County, prior to the banking industry's foundation here, "... the people of Cleveland County had been greatly handicapped in their financial dealings."

So it was the First National Bank became the successor to B. Blanton & Co., Bankers, on June 4, 1903. Extolling the virtues of the bank's "triple time lock safe," the Cleveland Star said that Charles C. Blanton was the first president. Other officers were Maj. H.F. Schenck, vice-president; George Blanton, cashier; and Forrest Eskridge, assistant cashier. The Board of Directors was composed of Burwell Blanton, George Blanton, Charles Blanton, Maj. H.F. Schenck, O.E. Ford, A.C. Miller and John D. Lineberger.

While it might be improper to suggest that nothing happened in the next 25 years, it was on August 28, 1928, on the eve of the Depression and perhaps a harbinger of things to come, that the Central Hotel building in which First National was located caught on fire, killing three persons and forcing the bank to a new location. The hotel was located on the present site of First National, at the corner of Lafayette and Warren streets, and First National had a corner of the building. The bank, from the time of B. Blanton & Co., Bankers, has been located in that vicinity almost without interruption.

Scarcely six months later, in its temporary location on West Warren Street, First National caved in, not to the Depression, but to the excavation of an adjacent building. Six persons, including three employees of the bank and three customers, were killed, although the two younger Blantons escaped despite being at their desks at the time.

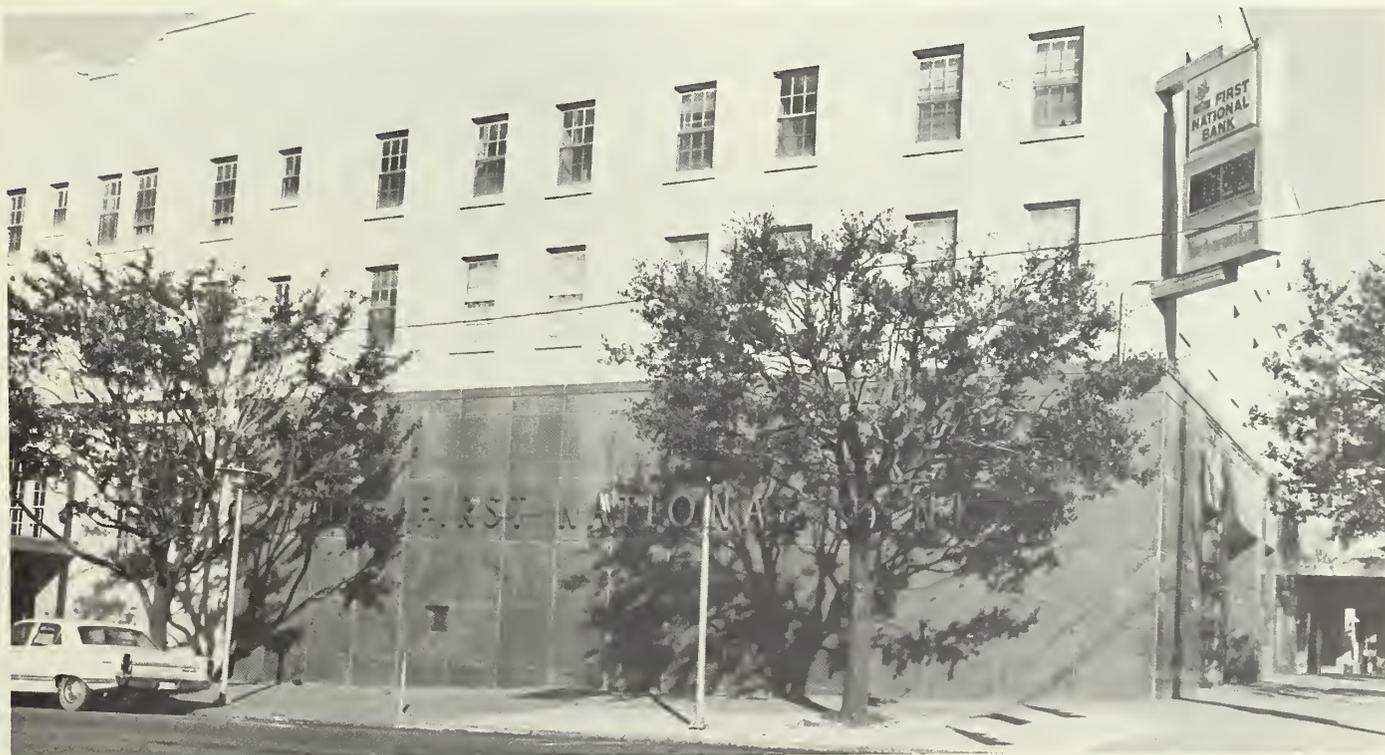

Finally relocated once again at its familiar location, where before the turn of the century a bar room had stood, First National then faced what was probably its biggest hurdle — the bank holiday of 1933. When First National emerged from the bank moratorium of 1933, the Blantons, using personal resources, mortgages and loans, were determined to keep Clevelanders fully protected, although depositors, at best, could recover only 80 per cent of their deposits. Subsequently, Charles C. Blanton, from his personal funds, paid $100,000 to depositors in order that none would lose any money in his bank. It is a matter of record that no depositor in First National Bank ever lost a dime as a result of this plan although banks all around were failing. Indeed, the Blanton family also risked their personal assets to keep another bank afloat in order to prevent any run on money.

Until the late 1930's, the active management of the bank was headed by Charles C. Blanton, President, who became Chairman of the Board in 1937, at which time George Blanton was named President and retained that office until 1947 when he was elected Chairman.

In 1947, George Blanton, Jr. became President at the age 32, said to be the youngest president of a national bank in the United States at that time. And upon his election to Chairman of the Board and Chief Executive Officer in 1979, he was succeeded as President by Edgar Blanton Hamilton, the fourth Blanton generation to hold that position.

Since 1903, the following individuals have served as Cashier in the order named: George Blanton, Forrest Eskridge, Clarence S. Mull, O. Paxton Elliott, Ralph R. Roberts, William E. Pearce, and Adelaide Austell Craver.

In the forefront of those families who have contributed heavily to the development of the Shelby-Cleveland County community, its industries, and its institutions are: Alexander, Bost, Carpenter, Carter, Cornwell, Dover, Eskridge, Ford, Forney, Gardner, Gettys, Hamrick, Hoey, LeGrand, Lineberger, Miller, Mull, Pearce, Roberts, Royster, Schenck, Spangler, Vincent, Weathers, Webb, and Whisnant. From these families have also come the leaders who have guided the bank's development by service as member of First National's Board of Directors.

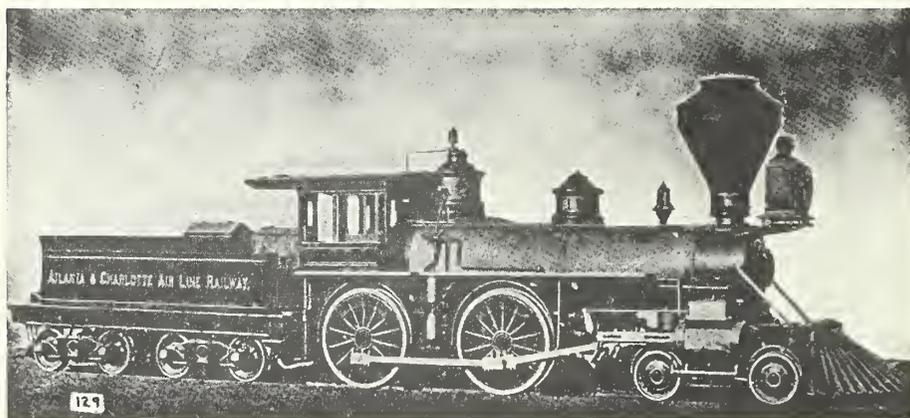

The Bank Building In 1982

The Town of Grover, North Carolina

The Mayors of Grover Over the Years

Whitaker, S.C. — 1885 — Grover, N.C.
"Where the Carolinas Begin"

In 1885 the terminal of the Atlanta-Charlotte Airline Railway, now the Southern Railway, was on State Line. A wood burning engine was turned on a turntable.

☆☆☆

Whitaker, South Carolina, became Grover, North Carolina. President Grover Cleveland appointed James F. Williams to be the first postmaster.

Magnolia Tree: This beautiful magnolia tree has stood as a sentinel to the exchange of Whitaker, S.C., to Grover, N.C.

Train Engine Number 740 in Grover

Main Street, Grover, in the long ago

Minette Mills, Grover, North Carolina

A view of Minette Mills

Day Operators, Weaving Department. Front row, L. to R. E. O. Becknell, Roy Houser, Bertha Wilson Davis, Maggie Hensley Becknell, Vangie Norman Westmoreland, Grathel Allen Lail, Nina Roark Falls, Ester Clark Bell, Julia Bell Byers, W.E. Kiser, Ennis Dixon, Oliver Black. Back row, L to R: Lee Roark, Vance Kiser, Glenn Conner, Floyd Montgomery, Delbert Byers, Jessie Peterson, Boyd Becknell, John Adams, Ben Wells, Jonathon Byers, W.E. Davis, Charlie Turner.

Night Operators, Front row, L to R: C. F. Harry, Jr., Bruce Roark, Lizzie Mae Black, Bertha Camp, Mary Houser, Elsie Becknell, Herb Becknell, Clyde Camp, Blease Goforth and Hall Bell. Second row, L to R: Grover Bright, Frank Goforth, Rick Green, Jessie Westmoreland, Alton Bell, Palmer Westmoreland, Windy Hullender, David Harry, Sr. Third row: J.Q. Hope.

The Shelby Presbyterian Church

Original Shelby Presbyterian Church, built between 1871-1875.

The Presbyterian Church, enlarged and remodeled in 1893.

The Church as remodeled in 1916.

The new Shelby Presbyterian Church built in 1954. All church buildings were built at the same site, 226 East Graham Street, Shelby.

The North Carolina Society of Washington, D.C.
Presents Tarheels

Tarheel Leaders in Washington, D.C., 1966.
Among the Tarheels at a banquet and ball given by the North Carolina Society of Washington, D.C., in honor of the governor were, left to right, U.S. Senators B. Everett Jordan and Sam J. Ervin, Jr., North Carolina Governor Dan K. Moore, and Society president William Y. Webb, a native of Cleveland County. This gala social event was held at the Washington Sheraton Park Hotel on January 29, 1966.

Section IV ~ INDEX

An index of all surnames plus selected topical subjects from the local history section. Index is by article numbers, not page numbers.

- A —
- Abbot, 402, 1039
 Abernathy, 53, 62, 64, 289,
 319, 433, 457, 514, 584,
 726, 1157
 Adair, 205
 Adams, 70, 76, 201, 250, 281,
 289, 395, 409, 412, 432,
 577, 700, 764, 856, 921,
 940, 1077, 1150
 Addis, 590, 1087
 Addington, 903
 Addison, 903
 Aderholdt, 12, 22
 Addy, 758, 759
 Adkins, 637
 Aerewood, 515
 Agnew, 584
 Agricultural Crops, 1
 Agricultural Trading Patterns, 1
 Aikens, 1157
 Aldridge, 5
 Alexander, 76, 83, 89, 99,
 202, 203, 204, 228, 376,
 377, 384, 467, 597, 631,
 638, 639, 645, 819, 915,
 916, 924, 974, 1003, 1067,
 1089, 1094, 1097, 1098,
 1118, 1150
 Allen, 22, 33, 46, 72, 104,
 205, 206, 207, 208, 209,
 250, 263, 280, 283, 291,
 324, 325, 326, 340, 364,
 385, 388, 405, 406, 443,
 458, 535, 558, 563, 577,
 624, 647, 675, 683, 684,
 704, 708, 724, 738, 758,
 792, 813, 878, 879, 901,
 940, 956, 978, 984, 985,
 1001, 1002, 1005, 1024,
 1057, 1061, 1103, 1104
 Alley, 764
 Allison, 12, 88, 100, 206, 616,
 644, 718, 719, 720, 938
 Allred, 726
 Almond, 460
 Alsop, 561
 Alston, 677
 Altum, 1011
 Ambroso, 383
 Anders, 1121
 Anderson, 45, 53, 66, 250,
 333, 343, 344, 396, 405,
 419, 618, 956, 967, 1121
 Andres, 204
 Andrews, 81, 537, 904, 910,
 911, 950, 1087, 1097
 Angle, 60
 Anthony, 10, 25, 81, 85, 95,
 210, 211, 212, 242, 262,
 297, 300, 324, 325, 359,
 385, 414, 466, 548, 550,
 608, 618, 623, 635, 670,
 708, 726, 779, 809, 813,
 879, 954, 955-A, 956, 983,
 1068, 1133, 1150
 Antion, 1142
 Arant, 431
 Archer, 1033
 Arey, 80, 213, 214, 215, 216,
 217, 218, 219, 220, 343,
 524, 525, 789, 878, 937,
 945, 983, 1021, 1028,
 1033, 1034
 Ariail, 992
 Arledge, 344
 Armour, 343, 953
 Armstrong, 956
 Arnett, 680
 Arnette, 89, 102
 Arnie, 662
 Arnold, 669, 922, 925, 926
 Aronson, 287
 Arrington, 12
 Arrowood, 24, 77, 79, 327,
 483, 640, 789, 1040, 1073
 Arthur, 102, 278
 Asbury, 48, 59
 Ashby, 235
 Aschbrenner, 430
 Ashe, 483
 Ashton, 439
 Askins, 431
 Aspey, 1097
 Atchley, 646, 982
 Atkins, 348, 636, 676
 Atkinson, 100, 205, 504, 902,
 907
 Atwood, 647, 704
 Audacian Club, 99
 Augustin, 1155
 Austell, 11, 62, 221, 222, 223,
 224, 225, 226, 227, 228,
 229, 230, 252, 286, 314,
 334, 350, 358, 364, 435,
 438, 477, 486, 517, 557,
 657, 668, 729, 771, 858,
 942, 945, 946, 979, 981,
 1060
 Austin, 54, 70, 328, 422,
 1051, 1054, 1089
 Avant, 423
 Avants, 70
 Avent, 839
 Avery, 1099
 Avett, 45, 50
 Aycock, 322
 Aydlotte, 11, 62
 Ayerdis, 301
 Ayers, 75, 437, 758, 760
- B —
- Baber, 24, 342, 343, 382, 455
 Babington, 231, 687
 Bachmann, 1121
 Backhaus, 350
 Backman, 367
 Badenhamer, 209
 Bagwell, 644, 925, 926
 Bailey, 234, 403, 439, 440,
 509, 644, 747, 781, 975,
 1138, 1140
 Baily, 228, 471, 492
 Bailey, 890
 Baird, 41, 897, 1000-B
 Baisden, 758, 760
 Baker, 22, 35, 68, 72, 83, 85,
 88, 89, 91, 232, 237, 244,
 245, 319, 330, 443, 517,
 646, 815, 835, 952, 994,
 1049, 1057
 Baldwin, 302, 586, 1011
 Balentine, 433
 Baley, 233, 692, 694, 757,
 1025, 1038
 Balfer, 35
 Balfour, 7, 915
 Ball, 437, 439, 872, 873
 Ballads Of Cleveland County, 2
 Ballard, 44, 82, 740, 810
 Ballenger, 292
 Ballew, 102
 Bangle, 74
 Bankhead, 432, 733
 Banning, 675
 Barber, 45, 64, 70, 235, 413,
 639, 719, 1052, 1105
 Barberree, 343
 Barber, 858
 Barbers, 70
 Barbour, 717
 Baring, 45
 Barker, 1155
 Barkley, 93
 Barnaby, 390
 Barner, 236, 427, 1128
 Barnes, 12, 22, 436, 608, 625,
 783, 949, 1049, 1051, 1055
 Barnett, 65, 243, 269, 373,
 561, 638, 669, 694, 909,
 1141, 1147, 1152
 Barnette, 86, 430, 516, 1005,
 1008, 1050
 Barnhardt, 920
 Baron, 248
 Barr, 256, 274, 732
 Barret, 443
 Barrett, 250, 624, 634, 758,
 760, 812, 1150
 Barrier, 571
 Barringer, 74
 Barron, 22
- Barrow, 99
 Barry, 606, 800
 Bartlett, 626, 627, 630
 Bass, 56, 465, 579, 1072
 Bast, 284
 Batchelor, 1121
 Bateman, 71
 Bates, 409, 622
 Battle, 630
 Baugham, 82
 Baumgarner, 22
 Baxter, 237, 447, 900, 1036,
 1046, 1143
 Baysinger, 228, 557
 Beach, 567
 Beal, 252, 387
 Beall, 597
 Beam, 1, 6, 22, 37, 43, 53,
 54, 55, 57, 61, 68, 99, 104,
 237, 238, 239, 240, 241,
 242, 243, 244, 245, 246,
 252, 269, 280, 283, 286,
 308, 316, 318, 319, 321,
 322, 326, 337, 340, 341,
 342, 346, 347, 356, 363,
 388, 389, 418, 420, 421,
 422, 428, 440, 454, 458,
 466, 484, 498, 562, 565,
 609, 644, 651, 657, 687,
 698, 701, 730, 732, 745,
 747, 773, 774, 794, 853,
 856, 875, 905, 917, 944,
 956, 985, 989, 996, 997,
 1008, 1013, 1020, 1074,
 1095, 1130, 1132, 1153
 Beasley, 451
 Beason, 247, 248, 299, 670
 Beaton, 590
 Beattie, 30, 43, 687, 711, 790,
 898, 974
 Beatties, 446
 Beatty, 29, 300, 317, 348,
 512, 587, 1057, 1148
 Beaty, 228, 233, 1064
 Beauchamp, 949
 Beaudry, 387
 Beaver, 89, 527, 690, 699,
 947
 Beck, 1068
 Bedford, 245, 251, 421, 475,
 839, 840
 Beiber, 690
 Belcher, 694
 Bell, 1, 12, 22, 24, 26, 48, 72,
 208, 210, 249, 324, 325,
 326, 355, 422, 509, 577,
 665, 678, 752, 808, 848,
 956, 963, 1029, 1114, 1115
 Belle, 356
 Beller, 1039
 Belvin, 251

Belwood, 1, 4, 5, 6
 Bennett, 68, 91, 96, 238, 250,
 284, 331-A, 578, 635, 976
 Benson, 461
 Benton, 54
 Bergner, 457
 Berry, 19, 206, 284, 1107
 Berryhill, 22, 900, 1143
 Berryman, 663
 Bess, 1053
 Best, 251
 Bethea, 278
 Bethlehem Fire Department, 77
 Bettis, 13, 252, 348, 356, 369,
 455, 532, 668, 723
 "Bible Belt" Of Area 1
 Bickle, 22
 Biddix, 639
 Biehm, 238
 Biggers, 31, 74, 253, 819,
 1121
 Biggerstaff, 44, 63, 75, 359,
 418, 464, 914
 Bigham, 447, 448
 Bikle, 72
 Biles, 73
 Billings, 60, 582
 Billingsly, 1009
 Bingham, 6, 49, 73, 237, 254,
 420, 423, 632, 655, 656,
 711, 1116, 1150
 Binkley, 861
 Birchett, 277
 Bird, 587, 589, 935
 Bishop, 65, 575, 947, 1039
 Bivens, 420, 585
 Bivin, 709
 Black, 35, 51, 70, 86, 343,
 557, 585, 639, 721, 787,
 821, 909, 922, 935, 1020,
 1148, 1150
 Blackburn, 255, 298
 Blackwelder, 654, 790
 Blackwell, 416, 676, 978
 Blackwood, 1044
 Blackwoods, 446
 Blair, 553
 Blakely, 102, 1127
 Blalock, 76, 77, 326, 586,
 587, 719, 1105, 1108
 Bland, 356, 498, 1052, 1053
 Blanton, 1, 23, 24, 35, 43, 51,
 56, 60, 62, 63, 64, 69, 70,
 81, 89, 102, 214, 226, 228,
 230, 238, 247, 250, 251,
 252, 256, 257, 258, 259,
 260, 261, 262, 263, 264,
 265, 266, 267, 268, 269,
 270, 271, 272, 273, 274,
 275, 276, 277, 278, 281,
 283, 296, 299, 306, 309,
 310, 311, 316, 317, 331,
 334, 344, 346, 347, 355,
 356, 379, 380, 385, 392,
 393, 394, 424, 431, 435,
 438, 451, 461, 464, 475,
 481, 487, 498, 506, 511,
 513, 518, 523, 524, 534,
 545, 548, 558, 560, 580,
 586, 588, 591, 607, 640,
 644, 645, 647, 649, 654,
 663, 669, 670, 675, 687,
 720, 722, 732, 733, 739,
 740, 756, 758, 762, 766,
 774, 782, 795, 812, 846,
 858, 897, 906, 912, 955-B,
 966, 968, 971, 974, 976,
 983, 1001, 1002, 1005,
 1023, 1025, 1036, 1037,
 1040, 1041, 1053, 1056,
 1064, 1091, 1096, 1097,
 1121, 1130, 1141, 1143,
 1144, 1147, 1153
 Blaylock, 624
 Bleynot, 73
 Blowers, 1067
 Bly, 523
 Blythe, 339, 780
 Bobbitt, 60, 210
 Bobo, 776
 Bodenhamer, 104, 208
 Bodley, 328
 Boggs, 6, 33, 55, 63, 73, 237,
 345, 363, 365, 430, 564,
 726, 764, 856, 974, 990,
 998, 1013, 1061, 1069,
 1070, 1071, 1112, 1156
 Bogue, 547
 Boheler, 208, 956
 Boiling Springs, 1, 16
 Boland, 68
 Bolick, 95, 342, 1076
 Bolin, 62, 976
 Bolt, 80
 Bolton, 64
 Bomar, 343, 721
 Bond, 618, 706
 Bonebrake, 572
 Bonner, 60
 Bonum, 440
 Booker, 308
 Bookout, 588, 620, 624,
 955-A, 955-B, 956, 957
 Boone, 399, 634, 646, 667,
 789, 872, 873
 Booth, 354
 Borden, 423
 Borders, 57, 61, 62, 63, 86,
 99, 205, 224, 228, 229,
 252, 279, 280, 281, 282,
 283, 308, 317, 340, 348,
 350, 368, 394, 448, 506,
 509, 557, 584, 608, 616,
 622, 625, 687, 798, 878,
 905, 923, 931, 934, 936,
 944, 945, 975, 979, 1057,
 1144, 1148
 Boring, 50
 Bost, 78, 284, 441, 457, 689,
 1060, 1157
 Bost Bakery, 78
 Bostian, 340
 Bostic, 1, 86, 285, 286, 302,
 503, 554, 556, 641, 667,
 702, 758, 764, 765, 948
 Bostick, 202, 229, 287, 432,
 900
 Boswell, 334, 762, 1145, 1146
 Botts, 317, 322, 380, 624,
 1113
 Bottoms, 45
 Bowen, 324, 326, 433, 792,
 812, 813, 1020, 1101
 Bowens, 37
 Bowers, 246, 257, 302, 419,
 638, 639, 645, 742, 1125
 Bowling, 906
 Bowman, 53, 217, 288
 Boyce, 25, 41, 55
 Boyce Memorial Assoc.
 Reform Presbyterian
 Church, 41
 Boyd, 266, 455, 533, 633,
 662, 665
 Boyles, 6, 73, 346, 608, 657,
 859, 1156
 Bracket, 1056
 Brackett, 6, 245, 252, 254,
 289, 386, 388, 418, 443,
 486, 668, 792, 856, 998,
 1000-B, 1071
 Braddy, 403
 Bradley, 52, 348
 Bradley, 616
 Brady, 355, 522, 605, 714,
 800
 Bradshaw, 300, 448, 481,
 597, 599
 Bradsher, 733
 Bragg, 325
 Brandy, 5
 Branham, 409
 Branton, 95, 268, 376, 377,
 388, 506, 552, 683, 800,
 948, 987, 988
 Brashears, 450
 Bray, 363, 492
 Breadlove, 59
 Breeman, 24
 Brendel, 254
 Brendle, 74, 389
 Brennan, 937
 Brevard, 698
 Brewer, 290, 814
 Brewster, 260
 Brezeale, 800
 Brice, 791
 Bridges, 1, 24, 36, 51, 54, 57,
 60, 62, 64, 65, 67, 69, 80,
 88, 91, 95, 103, 104, 207,
 208, 214, 238, 252, 255,
 257, 259, 263, 264, 272,
 274, 276, 277, 291, 292,
 293, 294, 295, 296, 297,
 298, 299, 300, 309, 325,
 326, 328, 334, 342, 345,
 352, 369, 370, 371, 403,
 404, 431, 432, 456, 475,
 479, 481, 482, 483, 484,
 496, 497, 498, 499, 501,
 505, 507, 517, 519, 529,
 538, 545, 547, 550, 552,
 556, 560, 607, 608, 624,
 630, 634, 638, 644, 647,
 663, 669, 694, 704, 705,
 745, 746, 758, 766, 773,
 796, 805, 808, 860, 867,
 875, 901, 902, 905, 907,
 931, 935, 950, 954, 976,
 1017, 1040, 1042, 1045,
 1049, 1101, 1133
 Briggs, 1, 250, 366, 470, 944
 Bright, 62, 64, 917, 1060
 Briscoe, 1077
 Brison, 984
 Britt, 619, 840
 Britter, 1108
 Bryan 503
 Bryant, 381, 634
 Broadriver Academy, 7
 Broadus, 415
 Broadway, 514
 Broadwell, 786
 Brock, 393, 1085
 Broaderick, 420
 Brogden, 251
 Brooks, 23, 62, 79, 86, 301,
 302, 303, 321, 361, 484,
 499, 509, 516, 537, 542,
 808, 905, 936, 1011, 1014,
 1040, 1128
 Brookshire, 1152
 Broom, 364
 Broome, 717
 Brother, 56
 Brothers, 70
 Broughton, 348, 858, 1086
 Broward, 87
 Brown, 29, 53, 67, 71, 77, 82,
 98, 100, 240, 256, 272,
 273, 283, 304, 305, 306,
 307, 308, 309, 310, 388,
 409, 424, 430, 451, 475,
 534, 542, 591, 598, 619,
 647, 672, 780, 830, 839,
 840, 853, 861, 893, 903,
 908, 939, 1007, 1046,
 1100, 1135, 1153
 Browne, 279, 282
 Browning, 58
 Bruce, 249
 Brumley, 334
 Bryan, 287, 286
 Bryant, 300, 370, 507, 570,
 1012, 1059, 1141, 1151,
 1152
 Brydges, 311, 534, 583
 Bryson, 903
 Buchanan, 461, 476, 483,
 511, 747, 822, 824, 825,
 1040
 Buckles, 1155
 Buhler, 856
 Burdick, 420
 Buff, 63, 312, 313, 388, 896,
 1044
 Buffam, 1052, 1053
 Bugg, 1138
 Buice, 843
 Bull, 859
 Bullard, 699
 Bulloch, 578
 Bumgardner, 36, 54, 250,
 312, 313, 376, 620, 875,
 883, 886, 892, 893, 895,
 1040, 1041, 1042, 1044,
 1106, 1147
 Bunch, 621, 1058
 Bundy, 231
 Bunker, 273
 Bunn, 1141
 Bunyan, 534
 Burchett, 936, 1119
 Burchette, 1119
 Burge, 257, 497, 1097
 Burger, 623
 Burgess, 250, 407, 1097,
 1128
 Burgin, 962
 Burks, 578
 Burnette, 699
 Burracker, 561
 Burris, 56, 888
 Burn, 956
 Burns, 28, 245, 398, 699,
 808, 990, 996, 1095, 1157
 Burr, 29
 Burr Town, 13
 Burrus, 70, 662
 Burton, 314, 643, 719, 729,
 771, 818
 Busby, 474
 Buschler, 1089
 Bush, 53, 779, 1007
 Bussy, 407
 Butler, 9, 465, 561, 586, 983,
 1064
 Butt, 839
 Byars, 326, 1036
 Byram, 359
 Byrd, 79, 100, 224, 348, 586
 Byers, 70, 228, 229, 251, 257,
 262, 269, 557, 564, 565,
 662, 671, 924, 936, 1074,
 1134
 — C —
 Cabaness, 699
 Cabaniss, 37, 234, 272, 315,
 316, 317, 318, 319, 320,
 321, 322, 435, 624, 629,
 657, 938, 968, 975, 1001,
 1015, 1018, 1144
 Cabe, 943
 Cabiness, 95, 275, 321, 322,
 344, 363, 370, 388, 421,
 423, 424, 509, 545, 559,
 701, 879, 941, 995, 1002,
 1031, 1077
 Cabiniss, 1
 Cade, 483
 Cain, 449, 1064, 1065
 Calahan, 53
 Caldwell, 29, 251, 414, 418,
 491, 624, 639, 950
 Calhoun, 1119
 Callahan, 360, 462, 483, 485,
 492, 506, 622, 669, 746,
 747, 793, 1020, 1159
 Calton, 24, 705
 Camby, 955-A
 Cameron, 83, 323
 Camp, 29, 44, 62, 211, 238,
 243, 262, 300, 324, 325,
 326, 327, 549, 585, 634,
 684, 687, 708, 758, 812,
 813, 858, 924, 952, 954,
 956
 Campbell, 3, 4, 25, 35, 57, 65,
 70, 76, 82, 86, 102, 319,
 328, 350, 355, 393, 535,
 646, 726, 750, 898, 988,
 1067, 1152
 Camps Creek Baptist Church,
 42
 Canady, 407
 Cancellor, 75
 Candler, 3, 736
 Canipe, 45, 50, 60, 246, 300,
 313, 461, 462, 634, 826,
 979, 1073
 Cannon, 361, 362, 872
 Cansler, 382, 728
 Cantrell, 57, 65, 86, 247, 901,
 1103
 Capernaum Baptist Church, 43
 Cappel, 443
 Capps, 82
 Carden, 542
 Carlan, 1073
 Carler, 1114
 Carlier, 12
 Carlson, 212
 Carman, 319
 Carner, 808
 Carnes, 329, 385
 Carpenler, 343
 Carpenter, 6, 22, 43, 44, 45,
 51, 72, 88, 104, 223, 227,
 235, 237, 300, 331, 331-A,
 337, 373, 376, 381, 435,
 438, 551, 589, 624, 634,
 644, 649, 666, 690, 726,
 727, 778, 805, 809, 821,
 827, 834, 853, 870, 933,
 942, 945, 946, 954, 1004,
 1072, 1097, 1156, 1157
 Carr, 764
 Carrick, 466
 Carriker, 262
 Carringer, 425
 Carroll, 29, 86, 91, 286, 334,
 388, 460, 491, 549, 586,
 587, 646, 829, 832, 933
 Carson, 203, 421, 425, 695,
 699, 701, 1039, 1106

Carter, 477, 586, 644, 663, 666, 719, 808, 1013
Cartledge, 1107
Carver, 70, 937, 1054
Carwile, 22
Casar, 1
Casar Baptist Church, 44
Casar Methodist Church, 45
Casar School, 8
Casey, 273, 304, 305, 306, 307, 309, 310, 325, 451, 591
Cash, 1, 77, 93, 294, 462
Cashwell, 61, 93
Casslos, 897
Cassthran, 930
Castillo, 783
Castner, 86
Castor, 68
Catching, 990, 1126
Cates, 644, 1005
Cattingham, 477
Caudill, 268, 332, 506
Caulk, 262
Causby, 462, 534, 733, 803
Caveniss, 618
Caveny, 280, 333
Cavney, 283
Central United Methodist Church Of Kings Mountain, 46
Chaffin, 53, 76
Chamberlain, 399
Chambers, 407, 637, 956
Champion, 7, 10, 222, 257, 274, 334, 335, 340, 386, 519, 530, 537, 556, 563, 605, 607, 609, 614, 616, 644, 729, 758, 762, 765, 769, 792, 882, 901, 915, 974, 1148, 1153
Chandler, 323, 694
Chaney, 1097
Chang, 336
Channell, 202
Chapman, 65, 226, 228, 313, 695, 738, 748, 832, 883, 893, 896, 974, 975, 1040, 1042, 1043, 1044, 1112, 1113
Chappell, 581, 1127
Chase, 358
Chastain, 953
Chavis, 250
Chems, 1112
Cherry, 683, 687
Chesey, 1097
Cheshire, 89, 91
Chesser, 638
Childers, 360, 639
Childress, 302
Childrez, 647
Chisholm, 396
Chitty, 1153
Chitwood, 37, 251, 263, 468, 668, 699
Christensen, 651
Christman, 378
Christmas, 478
Christopher, 510, 985, 1073
Chronicle, 3
Chumbley, 624
Church, 670
Churches Of Cleveland County, Early History & Customs, 1
Churchill, 425, 597
Cicerano, 360
Civil War, 1
Clagett, 868
Clanton, 497, 500
Clarey, 1060
Clark, 59, 210, 246, 455, 561, 604, 740, 856, 919, 1067, 1098, 1126, 1148, 1151
Clarke, 76, 332, 432
Clary, 60, 67, 607, 856, 1020, 1086
Classen, 396
Clay, 53, 214, 215, 217, 311, 337, 573, 624, 941, 1115, 1147
Clayton, 334, 338, 339, 446, 458, 655, 772, 858
Claywell, 463
Cleg, 5
Clegg, 45, 48, 50, 53
Clements, 802
Clemmer, 656, 1020, 1149
Clemons, 936

Clerkin, 521
Cleveland, 1, 3, 18, 21, 866
Cleveland County Courthouses, 1, 1-A
Cleveland County Historical Museum, 1-A
Cleveland County History (Brief), 1
Cleveland County Poor House (1842), 1-B
Cleveland Courthouses, 1, 1-A Cleveland Drug Store, 9
"Cleveland Dynasty", 1
Cleveland Lumber Company, 79
Cleveland Memorial Hospital Auxiliary, 80
Clifton, 334, 622
Cline, 6, 28, 58, 61, 67, 73, 79, 88, 216, 220, 226, 228, 239, 272, 280, 282, 283, 308, 322, 333, 340, 341, 342, 343, 344, 345, 346, 347, 348, 349, 350, 355, 365, 388, 389, 401, 433, 443, 445, 447, 448, 461, 476, 504, 511, 613, 651, 690, 696, 726, 786, 839, 854, 856, 878, 881, 986, 998, 1052, 1057, 1074, 1095, 1115, 1141, 1149
Clinton, 1097
Clodfelter, 358
Cloniger, 449
Cloninger, 924, 1109
Clontz, 979
Cloyd, 414
Clyde, 70
Cobb, 250, 325, 447, 461
Coble, 428, 556, 726
Cobrin, 512
Coburn, 494
Cochran, 392
Cofer, 313, 1040, 1042, 1043, 1044
Coffey, 44, 337
Cogburn, 1058
Cogdell, 403
Coggins, 54, 638
Cohen, 325
Cohn, 352
Coker, 231
Colbert, 337
Cole, 204, 475, 1009
Coleman, 56, 638, 803, 915, 916, 1129
Collier, 908
Colliers, 903
Collins, 48, 248, 293, 392, 638, 888, 915, 921, 1061, 1107
Coman, 53
Combs, 351, 436, 706, 1021, 1033, 1034, 1035
Conder, 648
Conley, 415
Connell, 621
Connely, 462
Conner, 43, 300, 312, 313, 325, 326, 486, 644, 776, 954, 956, 988
Connolly, 456
Connor, 95, 327, 623, 624, 906, 1087, 1106
Conquoror, 587
Conrad, 68
Cony, 741
Conway, 228, 557
Cook, 50, 481, 518, 523, 530, 534, 546, 585, 832, 883, 896, 1000-B, 1103
Cooke, 649
Cool, 505, 637, 642
Cooper, 89, 350, 352, 353, 443, 504, 557, 608, 609, 867, 1007
Cooperstein, 619
Copeland, 439, 440, 1097
Coppage, 517
Cordell, 45, 50
Corn, 354, 363, 653, 671
Cornwall, 355
Cornwallis, 3
Cornwell, 51, 69, 101, 344, 355, 356, 357, 386, 388, 422, 433, 474, 509, 521, 629, 657, 989, 996, 1001, 1002, 1050, 1074, 1126
Corpening, 457

Correll, 1047
Cose, 325
Costa, 953
Costner, 73, 243, 250, 283, 439, 448, 461, 584, 704, 890, 907, 930, 936, 991, 1074, 1147, 1148, 1149
Cotthran, 618, 623
Cotton, 1
Cotton Mills Of 1873, 1
Council, 931
Courtney, 1041
Covington, 28, 37, 302, 382, 507, 581, 885, 1065, 1078
Cowan, 1024
Cowhart, 758
Cox, 663, 921, 1097
Craft, 218, 618, 623, 1150
Craig, 51, 402, 665, 990, 1046
Crane, 319
Cranford, 5, 384
Craven, 5
Craver, 60, 223, 227, 331, 358, 435, 933, 942, 946
Crawford, 54, 62, 66, 67, 93, 102, 210, 235, 302, 359, 405, 415, 855, 923, 924, 925, 926, 948, 1007, 1062, 1068, 1105, 1138
Crawley, 91, 272, 511, 974
Cree, 719
Credmore, 250
Crenshaw, 318, 428, 548, 585
Creswell, 255
Crews, 458
Cribb, 715
Crichfield, 961
Crocker, 29, 77, 454, 455, 586, 587, 704, 938, 1045
Crockett, 768
Croker, 360
Crook, 935
Crosby, 204
Crosley, 1148
Crossman, 866
Crotts, 312, 313, 331-A, 475, 823, 893, 994, 1005
Crouch, 93, 970
Crouse, 85, 330, 345, 691, 693
Crow, 22, 29, 60, 62, 67, 361, 362, 696, 811, 999, 1004
Crowder, 37, 70, 82, 224, 226, 228, 283, 363, 364, 365, 423, 445, 448, 499, 506, 532, 540, 564, 565, 652, 653, 655, 657, 747, 772, 822, 824, 831, 840, 853, 952, 955-B, 979, 1000-B, 1016, 1028, 1033, 1034, 1064, 1077, 1115
Crowe, 57, 761, 890, 1004, 1042, 1101
Crowell, 970, 971
Crumbley, 706
Crump, 486
Cudd, 858, 919
Culbrith, 206
Cullen, 1042
Culler, 381
Cullinan, 60
Culp, 52
Cummings, 618, 774, 789
Cummins, 1041
Cunningham, 595, 805
Curr, 228
Currie, 745
Curry, 324, 350, 446, 577, 625
Curtis, 16, 316, 534, 1126
Curtiss, 447
Curton, 48
Cuthbertson, 33
Czajkowski, 425

— D —

Dale, 1111
Dales, 785
Daliva, 561
Dalton, 35, 366, 373, 376, 377, 1000-B
Dameron, 279, 282, 388, 936
Damon, 1157
Damron, 367, 368
Daniel, 68, 359, 392, 876
Daniels, 364, 521, 689, 992
Danielson, 207
Darnell, 975
Darracott, 47, 102

Darwin, 81, 1091, 1097
Dauer, 384
Daughters Of The American Revolution, Benjamin Cleveland Chapter, 81
Davenport, 657
Daves, 70, 263, 1152
David, 250
Davidson, 35, 624, 913
Davies, 25
Davis, 4, 12, 23, 25, 26, 28, 33, 45, 50, 59, 65, 70, 71, 86, 88, 261, 300, 318, 355, 369, 370, 371, 382, 487, 498, 552, 558, 601, 615, 616, 634, 638, 639, 640, 644, 645, 647, 657, 670, 675, 747, 763, 789, 798, 827, 840, 841, 859, 860, 864, 906, 921, 929, 950, 968, 979, 1005, 1015, 1041, 1056, 1076, 1081, 1128
Davidson, 907
Dawkins, 302, 352, 1004, 1007
Dawn, 803
Dawnum, 5
Dawson, 401, 585, 663, 905
Dayberry, 36, 372, 418, 669
Deadmond, 61
Deanes, 343
Dearman, 510
Deaton, 284, 1018
De Baun, 537
Debenidetus, 903
De Berry, 885
Debrew, 901
Decker, 715
De Costa, 803
Dedmon, 69, 241, 272, 373, 374, 375, 376, 377, 378, 379, 380, 381, 558, 559, 625, 629, 685, 687, 807, 895, 901, 914, 969, 971, 974, 977, 984, 986, 987
Dedmond, 429
Deese, 818
De Fabio, 1109
De Ferney, 457
Dellahay, 584
Dellinger, 29, 33, 226, 246, 308, 311, 345, 364, 433, 465, 584, 590, 657, 701, 805, 854, 974, 1000-B, 1020, 1049
Dellingham, 558
Dellingher, 585
De Mille, 297
Denkler, 362
Dennis, 53, 56, 262
Denny, 409
De Paola, 972
De Perczel, 856
Deppen, 330
Depriest, 382
De Priest, 29, 321, 340, 341, 342, 343, 349, 448, 509, 881, 1069, 1152
Derrick, 72
Deuse, 609
Devaney, 879
Deveney, 207
Devenney, 61, 62
De Venney, 68
Devenny, 28, 479, 481, 482
Devine, 356, 1000-B
Deviney, 893, 1056
Devinney, 44, 63, 792
De Vinney, 509
Devon, 1049
De Young, 1031
Dicas, 383
Dickens, 952
Dickey, 41, 93, 292, 449, 551, 743, 874, 1049
Dickinson, 937
Dicks, 266, 267, 526
Dickson, 3, 71, 340, 341, 386, 431, 447, 459, 631, 687, 804, 842, 935, 939, 1021
Dicksons, 446
Diehl, 316
Diggs, 587
Digh, 403, 406
Dilig, 371
Dill, 515
Dilling, 1, 22, 25, 41, 88, 89, 101, 102

Dillingham, 31, 205, 935
 Dimeo, 661
 Dishman, 830
 Dix, 1040
 Dixon, 1, 4, 5, 6, 7, 29, 35,
 48, 52, 53, 54, 57, 61, 62,
 65, 75, 77, 86, 102, 208,
 289, 329, 340, 345, 348,
 349, 372, 384, 385, 386,
 387, 388, 389, 390, 392,
 402, 412, 433, 443, 461,
 464, 465, 506, 509, 534,
 555, 565, 616, 620, 624,
 629, 631, 651, 652, 692,
 714, 719, 743, 829, 840,
 856, 887, 888, 908, 915,
 933, 941, 956, 974, 978,
 989, 998, 1008, 1029,
 1049, 1052, 1074, 1076,
 1094, 1120, 1121, 1159
 Dixon Presbyterian Church, 47
 Dobbins, 1, 43, 49, 75, 76,
 341, 403, 529, 563, 650,
 669, 674, 747, 770, 904,
 980
 Dobes, 689
 Dobyne, 956
 Dockery, 99, 391, 584
 Dodd, 35, 65, 70, 277, 278,
 392, 393, 669
 Doggett, 281
 Dogget, 76
 Doggett, 216, 239, 259, 260,
 280, 392, 394, 395, 420,
 421, 423, 435, 700, 940,
 983, 1077, 1144
 Doll Study Club, 82
 Dollar, 719
 Donoho, 420, 421, 422, 423,
 424
 Dorsett, 302
 Dorsey, 389, 396, 937, 992,
 1001, 1002
 Dorton, 1, 217, 563, 700
 Doster, 224, 416, 486
 Dotson, 498
 Double Shoals Textile Mill, 10
 Doughty, 404
 Douglas, 344, 726
 Dove, 1, 28, 975
 Dover, 35, 205, 288, 373,
 397, 398, 399, 400, 407,
 432, 459, 512, 517, 586,
 624, 630, 684, 719, 722,
 732, 733, 767, 910, 1042,
 1097, 1120, 1121, 1123,
 1143, 1148
 Downing, 735
 Downs, 44, 809, 821, 823,
 827, 1076
 Dozier, 266
 Draft Dodgers, 2
 Drake, 207, 614
 Draper, 549
 Drinkard, 443
 Drum, 401, 665, 757, 1099
 Dry, 553, 558, 863
 Dye, 1103
 Du Bose, 54
 Dudley, 402
 Duffel, 663
 Dugger, 747, 1065
 Duke, 21, 53, 319, 385, 616
 Dula, 251
 Dulin, 743
 Duncan, 581, 717, 776, 917,
 1045, 1099
 Dunlap, 639, 646
 Dunn, 251, 549
 Dupont, 860
 Durborrow, 943
 Durham, 46, 286, 311, 355,
 415, 435, 487, 562, 638,
 644, 747, 1016, 1054,
 1077, 1078
 Duval, 237
 Dwayne, 807
 Dwelle, 89
 Dwin, 391
 Dyars, 580
 Dycus, 403, 404, 405, 406,
 505, 905
 Dye, 296
 Dykehouse, 383
 — E —
 Eades, 82
 Eaels, 853
 Eaker, 211, 235, 283, 300,
 448, 563, 634, 790, 813,
 1062
 Earl, 21, 407, 408, 409
 Earle, 410, 411, 412, 928, 929
 Earles, 951
 Earls, 62, 257, 658, 903
 Earl School, 11
 Earl Station, 1
 Early, 24, 204, 244, 250, 563,
 812, 1149
 Earney, 1005
 Earnhardt, 53, 956
 Earwood 1000-B, 1073
 Easley, 72
 Easom, 86, 425
 Eaton, 22, 619
 Ebletoft, 737
 Ebonites Woman's Club
 (Today's), 100
 Eckard, 1073
 Eddins, 937, 942, 946, 1005,
 1006
 Eddy, 70
 Edens, 54
 Edgar, 947
 Edinburgh, 238
 Edison, 252
 Edmonson, 205
 Edney, 1005
 Edward, 920
 Edwards, 4, 6, 16, 41, 53, 57,
 73, 95, 254, 276, 283, 301,
 360, 383, 433, 437, 445,
 448, 461, 477, 607, 630,
 660, 802, 948, 982, 1005
 Efrid, 631
 Egnor, 612
 Eite, 639
 Elam, 6, 28, 33, 43, 60, 61,
 64, 212, 413, 414, 415,
 416, 417, 418, 419, 450,
 454, 456, 457, 607, 667,
 938, 997, 1154
 El Bethel United Methodist
 Church, 48
 Elbolt, 59
 Elder, 38
 Electrical Services, 6
 Elgin, 250
 Ellenberg, 947
 Ellerbe, 1048, 1103
 Ellet, 423
 Elliott, 16, 37, 43, 50, 67, 73,
 86, 92, 236, 238, 239, 240,
 259, 263, 315, 317, 318,
 321, 354, 355, 356, 373,
 420, 421, 422, 423, 424,
 425, 426, 427, 428, 447,
 489, 509, 510, 527, 572,
 583, 647, 649, 671, 673,
 699, 725, 731, 770, 839,
 840, 841, 893, 906, 936,
 988, 995, 1004, 1009,
 1015, 1063, 1078, 1115,
 1118, 1128, 1129, 1148,
 1149
 Elliott's Church, 49
 Elliott's Methodist Church, 50
 Ellis, 13, 29, 60, 208, 288,
 324, 327, 388, 396, 398,
 429, 430, 431, 432, 442,
 455, 527, 586, 601, 644,
 724, 755, 764, 835, 884,
 900, 903, 906, 916, 921,
 923, 1045, 1061, 1101,
 1135
 Ellis Ferry, 13
 Elmire, 302
 Elmore, 6, 45, 349, 356, 433,
 476, 509, 511, 647, 726,
 764, 765, 792, 882, 921,
 922, 1090
 Ely, 443
 Emerald Mine, 14
 Emory, 234
 Eng, 250
 England, 1014, 1141
 English, 416
 Enid, 578
 Enloe, 98
 Epely, 434
 Epley, 975, 1020, 1056
 Epps, 851
 Erlich, 202
 Erp, 634
 Ervin, 56, 70, 71, 991, 1103,
 1104
 Erwin, 1, 51, 911, 1031
 Erwood, 822, 824, 1073
 Eskridge, 28, 37, 81, 95, 96,
 227, 283, 331, 351, 378,
 402, 435, 436, 437, 438,
 439, 440, 441, 442, 448,
 470, 511, 629, 638, 706,
 739, 904, 933, 942, 946,
 975, 980, 989, 991,
 1000-B, 1007, 1017, 1060,
 1083, 1124, 1145, 1150,
 1152
 Espey, 3
 Espy, 834
 Essa, 751
 Essery, 968
 Establishment Of Cleveland
 County (1841), Legislative Act, 1
 Estabrooks, 420
 Estock, 1126
 Estridge, 250, 1042
 Ethers, 412, 761, 977, 978
 Ettling, 420
 Eubanks, 976
 Evans, 229, 231, 326, 364,
 509, 841, 868, 1004, 1052,
 1061, 1097, 1116
 Evins, 669
 Ezell, 65, 75
 — F — Facey, 557
 Faegan, 274
 Fagon, 508
 Fain, 707
 Fairbanks, 483
 Faison, 96
 Fambough, 58
 Fanning, 1066
 Falls, 1, 6, 11, 22, 23, 26, 35,
 41, 48, 89, 102, 229, 235,
 280, 283, 284, 325, 340,
 341, 342, 345, 360, 433,
 441, 442, 443, 444, 445,
 446, 447, 448, 449, 450,
 532, 552, 586, 635, 694,
 790, 792, 808, 956, 990,
 1000-B, 1004, 1067, 1068,
 1069, 1070, 1071, 1103,
 1104, 1107, 1112, 1115,
 1148
 Fallston, 1
 Fargason, 309, 451
 Faries, 859
 Farish, 429, 884
 Farley, 717
 Farmer, 250, 316, 1149, 1150
 Farnell, 1024
 Farney, 664, 806
 Farrar, 62
 Farrell, 953
 Farrington, 754
 Farrior, 1024
 Farris, 36, 452, 1107
 Farrow, 937
 Farthing, 466
 Farward, 754
 Faucette, 952
 Faulkner, 773, 801
 Faunce, 750, 751, 786
 Faunteroy, 618
 Faussoux, 421
 Fayssoux, 422, 424
 Felbach, 859, 860
 Fellers, 977
 Fellows, 22
 Felment, 1146
 Felmet, 62
 Felton, 351
 Fenimore, 352, 867
 Fenney, 370
 Ferguson, 3, 235, 289, 301,
 313, 446, 683, 808, 842,
 1005, 1103
 Fernandez, 391
 Ferrell, 28, 638
 Fesperman, 987
 Fetzler, 461
 Fewell, 1039
 Fielder, 905
 Fields, 1047
 File, 4
 Filmore, 573
 Finch, 318, 420, 421, 423,
 428, 808
 Fincher, 279, 308
 Finger, 85, 87, 89, 101, 102,
 1157
 Fink, 52
 First Baptist Church Of Kings
 Mountain, 51
 First Federal Savings & Loan
 Assoc. Of Kings Mountain,
 88
 First National Bank of Kings
 Mountain To First Union
 National Bank, 83
 First Union National Bank, 83
 Fisher, 68, 72, 86, 300, 561,
 777, 783
 Fisk, 835
 Fite, 776
 Fitts, 61, 75
 Fitzgerald, 53, 73, 387
 Flack, 640, 714, 1129
 Flemming, 19
 Floyd, 44, 320, 789, 936
 Fluke, 542
 Flynn, 305, 309, 1041
 Fogleman, 67
 Foley, 472
 Folklore Of Cleveland County,
 2, 42, 53
 Forbes, 1, 1-A, 453, 747, 1023
 Forbis, 70, 74, 453
 Ford, 4, 15, 29, 37, 79, 250,
 316, 390, 399, 413, 454,
 455, 552, 582, 584, 613,
 631, 689, 773, 910, 958,
 1149
 Fordham, 228
 Foreman, 1088
 Forlines, 456
 Forney, 28, 456, 457, 512,
 657, 944, 1064, 1065
 Forrest, 868
 Fortenberry, 45, 205, 244,
 246, 458, 729, 827, 918,
 1147
 Fortune, 356, 505
 Foshee, 1020
 Fosler, 800
 Foster, 250, 542, 758, 760,
 961
 Fouch, 638
 Foust, 94, 871, 872
 Fowler, 309, 388, 461, 475,
 1074
 Fox, 343, 399, 722, 1000-B
 Foy, 1155
 Frances, 667, 1108
 Francis, 344, 364, 406, 408,
 410, 644, 723
 Frank, 313
 Franklen, 54
 Franklin, 294, 297, 346, 901
 Franks, 88
 Frantz, 590, 780
 Fraser, 60
 Fray, 1074
 Frazer, 667
 Frazier, 95, 695, 701
 Freedberg, 267
 Freedman, 957
 Freeman, 54, 56, 64, 79, 709,
 795, 853, 934
 Freeze, 580
 French, 578, 647
 Frick, 460
 Frith, 860
 Fritz, 68
 Froneberger, 624, 834, 1024
 Fruam, 760
 Frum, 758
 Fryer, 25, 87, 589, 821
 Fulbright, 64
 Fullenwider, 734, 735, 736,
 737, 789, 791, 945
 Fulford, 232
 Fullenwider, 940, 1025
 Fuller, 102, 417
 Fulton, 88, 89, 91, 101, 295,
 408, 459, 586, 620, 621,
 643, 743, 874, 1067, 1068
 Furry, 290
 Futch, 542
 — G —
 Gable, 704
 Gabriel, 457
 Gaddy, 239, 240, 420, 1114,
 1151
 Gaffney, 20, 460, 646, 679
 Gaitner, 930
 Gale, 71
 Gales, 387, 704, 1044
 Galgrath, 1046
 Gallimore, 283, 879, 1140
 Galloway, 53, 210, 1042

Gamble, 82, 85, 650, 874, 937
Gambles, 446
Gandy, 665
Ganey, 990, 1126
Gant, 212, 773
Gantt, 4, 6, 15, 29, 33, 41, 53,
67, 93, 102, 329, 385, 386,
390, 414, 461, 462, 463,
464, 465, 631, 726, 774,
792, 823, 974, 1013, 1103
Gantt Harness Co., 15
Garbrick, 561
Gardner, 1, 9, 16, 29, 36, 43,
81, 86, 89, 96, 99, 206,
212, 238, 241, 274, 284,
319, 376, 413, 423, 425,
447, 449, 453, 466, 467,
503, 530, 537, 540, 586,
593, 594, 596, 624, 627,
630, 638, 647, 747, 753,
773, 774, 794, 853, 934,
943, 969, 975, 994,
1000-B, 1023, 1086, 1097,
1144, 1148
Gardner-Webb College, 16
Garibaldi, 1114
Garmon, 952
Garner, 413
Garret, 12
Garrett, 46, 310
Garris, 704
Garrison, 41, 292, 319, 407,
975, 1152
Garvin, 345
Gary, 237, 1116
Gasket, 608
Gasque, 50
Gaston, 13, 62, 970, 1120
Gates, 211, 813
Gaughn, 203
Gault, 53, 88, 93, 250
Gaunt, 465
Gedney, 469
Gee, 32, 745
Genoble, 462
Gentry, 507
George, 54, 297
Gerberding, 72
Gerhing, 232
Gettis, 715
Gettys, 29, 318, 321, 356,
365, 408, 420, 425, 468,
483, 509, 564, 1015, 1041
Gibbons, 410
Gibbs, 45, 56, 99, 248
Gibson, 44, 45, 60, 98, 475,
561, 907, 1141
Gidney, 31, 81, 203, 298, 436,
437, 470, 471, 594, 1095
Gilbert, 673
Gilchrist, 264
Giles, 70
Gillispie, 355
Gill, 45, 930
Gillespie, 60, 65, 356, 638,
654, 991
Gillliatt, 472, 473, 829
Gilliland, 300
Gillis, 950
Gillispie, 64
Gilman, 680
Gilmore, 921
Ginther, 719, 976
Girl Scouts In Cleveland
County, 84
Gladden, 29, 269, 475, 580,
634, 635, 638, 670, 874,
914, 915, 1003, 1107,
1108, 1148, 1149
Glasco, 65, 288, 584, 813
Glascock, 988
Glascoe, 337, 983, 1149
Glass, 429, 884
Gleaves, 98
Glenn, 24, 28, 335, 337, 474,
475, 549, 616, 643, 812,
1112
Glover, 92, 661
Goare, 54
Godbey, 699
Godfrey, 66, 485
Godley, 851
Godwin, 561
Goforth, 48, 53, 56, 62, 64,
101, 228, 350, 433, 459,
464, 476, 499, 511, 549,
638, 842, 858, 868, 977,
1059, 1067, 1114, 1134
Goins, 10, 325, 822

Gold, 28, 36, 37, 44, 51, 63,
66, 263, 268, 272, 294,
298, 302, 315, 316, 317,
321, 342, 349, 350, 356,
357, 363, 388, 402, 413,
420, 422, 431, 504, 505,
506, 507, 508, 509, 542,
565, 573, 577, 585, 605,
631, 637, 639, 642, 643,
644, 646, 649, 657, 697,
773, 774, 839, 840, 888,
890, 904, 984, 985, 999,
1004, 1007
Goldman, 501
Gold Mining, 1
Goldsmith, 311
Goldstein, 872
Goldwater, 485
Goode, 37, 39, 45, 49, 60,
229, 308, 423, 476, 510,
511, 644, 715, 1097, 1128,
1130
Goodman, 302, 690, 1154
Goodron, 43
Goodrum, 606
Goodson, 43, 1020
Goodyear, 456, 1065
Gordon, 37, 58, 238, 359,
421, 550, 587, 597, 639,
665, 842, 976, 1021, 1107
Gore, 458
Goss, 859
Gough, 286
Gould, 507, 747
Govan, 392
Gower, 62
Graben, 202, 203, 204
Grace United Methodist
Church, 52
Grady, 425, 578, 759
Gragg, 320
Graham, 3, 11, 77, 477, 553,
586, 587, 588, 638, 735,
764, 789
Grambs, 287
Grant, 86, 93, 743
Grantham, 616
Gray, 63, 1098
Grayson, 93, 311, 654,
1000-B, 1004
Great Wagon Road, 1
Green, 1, 2, 17, 19, 24, 29,
37, 38, 42, 66, 73, 238,
247, 248, 277, 292, 316,
317, 343, 364, 366, 370,
388, 403, 404, 440, 478,
479, 480, 481, 482, 483,
485, 487, 488, 489, 490,
492, 493, 494, 495, 496,
497, 498, 500, 501, 518,
520, 530, 531, 536, 537,
580, 583, 585, 616, 630,
634, 745, 747, 758, 759,
761, 762, 766, 770, 793,
796, 860, 914, 917, 952,
973, 988, 989, 990, 991,
1001, 1002, 1003, 1019,
1020, 1042, 1049, 1064,
1068, 1115, 1149, 1159
Greene, 52, 53, 61, 63, 86,
244, 292, 321, 338, 355,
406, 423, 431, 461, 484,
486, 491, 499, 507, 508,
527, 543, 585, 663, 739,
769, 775, 776, 835, 882,
940, 990, 992, 994, 997,
998, 1057, 1081, 1085,
1087
Greenhill, 254, 413
Greer, 557, 1054
Gregory, 332, 502, 952
Gressette, 504
Grice, 523, 524, 530, 533
Grier, 22, 41, 650
Griffin, 46, 102, 219, 246,
345, 407, 504, 505, 509,
537, 597, 605, 650, 763,
863, 1062, 1146
Grigg, 12, 22, 28, 35, 37, 59,
69, 209, 228, 233, 234,
237, 239, 276, 283, 337,
342, 349, 364, 366, 418,
423, 433, 448, 462, 475,
503, 509, 522, 564, 584,
630, 641, 644, 649, 651,
670, 771, 832, 858, 952,
1064, 1077, 1130, 1141,
1146, 1147, 1150, 1152
Grill, 356

Grimes, 856
Grist, 206
Grondal, 472
Grose, 483
Grover, 1, 646
Grover, Town Of, 18
Guest, 568
Guffey, 350
Guin, 283
Gunn, 429
Gunthorpe, 925
Gurley, 981
Guyton, 976

— H —
Haden, 378
Hagler, 458, 833
Haines, 224
Hair, 956
Haire, 1045
Hairston, 98
Haliburton, 983
Hall, 22, 65, 414, 605, 661,
918
Hallman, 5, 63, 73, 202, 286
Hambrecht, 512
Hambright, 3, 22, 47, 229,
235, 326, 381, 512, 541,
549, 566, 842, 1068, 1076,
1094, 1103, 1105, 1107,
1114
Hamer, 251, 1149
Hamilton, 29, 56, 513, 549,
739, 1091
Hamm, 72, 324
Hammer, 517
Hammock, 647
Hampton, 451, 822, 1097
Hamrick, 1, 10, 17, 19, 24,
29, 31, 35, 36, 38, 60, 62,
64, 65, 67, 70, 80, 81, 86,
96, 97, 104, 204, 205, 206,
207, 208, 218, 228, 229,
237, 244, 245, 247, 248,
252, 253, 257, 261, 263,
264, 267, 276, 277, 279,
282, 286, 292, 293, 294,
295, 296, 299, 311, 324,
325, 326, 334, 345, 346,
348, 350, 356, 357, 365,
373, 380, 393, 396, 399,
400, 418, 423, 432, 437,
443, 450, 453, 461, 467,
474, 479, 481, 482, 484,
488, 490, 491, 493, 496,
497, 499, 500, 501, 503,
508, 509, 514, 515, 516,
517, 518, 519, 520, 521,
522, 523, 524, 525, 526,
527, 528, 529, 530, 531,
532, 533, 534, 535, 536,
537, 538, 539, 540, 541,
542, 543, 544, 545, 546,
547, 548, 554, 556, 560,
563, 583, 585, 597, 607,
613, 615, 627, 630, 638,
645, 649, 650, 658, 669,
675, 684, 694, 695, 696,
705, 717, 724, 727, 739,
744, 752, 753, 754, 757,
758, 759, 761, 762, 767,
768, 770, 771, 787, 797,
798, 803, 813, 820, 878,
888, 894, 899, 900, 904,
914, 952, 955-A, 962, 967,
973, 983, 987, 990, 999,
1004, 1017, 1025, 1028,
1031, 1033, 1034, 1040,
1050, 1056, 1061, 1064,
1073, 1077, 1096, 1110,
1118, 1119, 1121, 1126,
1128, 1139, 1147, 1148,
1150
Hamrick, J.Y., Sr. (first
Cleveland Co. State Representative), 19
Hancock, 406, 767
Hand, 670
Handcock, 313
Haney, 343, 585, 689, 988,
1097
Hanks, 2
Hanna, 409
Happy Time Kindergarten, 20
Harbison, 887, 1076
Harden, 1048
Hardin, 64, 69, 281, 309, 364,
392, 412, 423, 509, 512,
520, 523, 529, 531, 534,

536, 549, 550, 558, 609,
627, 637, 658, 719, 744,
804, 823, 842, 843, 845,
865, 904, 906, 915, 918,
935, 951, 955-A, 955-B,
976, 1096
Harding, 311, 626
Hardins, 31
Hares, 264
Hargess, 62
Harkey, 45
Harkin, 700
Harless, 992
Harmon, 22, 46, 48, 91, 210,
241, 244, 449, 511, 551,
552, 624, 635, 719, 804,
874, 898, 955-A, 976, 1048
Harney, 634
Harper, 94, 451, 507, 665,
872
Harrell, 1, 52, 76, 369, 536
Harrelson, 1, 36, 48, 325,
366, 584, 805
Harrill, 1, 22, 23, 24, 35, 44,
57, 60, 62, 64, 65, 75, 226,
228, 257, 268, 272, 273,
274, 277, 278, 286, 292,
296, 315, 317, 320, 371,
373, 379, 432, 445, 499,
506, 519, 529, 538, 545,
553, 554, 555, 556, 557,
558, 559, 560, 561, 562,
563, 629, 630, 651, 652,
654, 655, 656, 669, 674,
696, 699, 731, 732, 739,
762, 766, 795, 840, 858,
900, 912, 914, 915, 917,
975, 1007, 1047, 1077,
1078, 1082, 1096, 1097,
1143
Harrills, 7
Harringtons, 31
Harris, 29, 32, 54, 257, 268,
276, 292, 355, 564, 565,
566, 584, 608, 616, 618,
623, 644, 670, 710, 762,
834, 901, 905, 914, 932,
974, 988, 1007, 1041,
1042, 1066, 1134, 1144
Harrison, 45, 597, 1049
Harriston, 624
Harry, 18, 80, 201, 208, 311,
505, 567, 568, 569, 570,
571, 572, 573, 574, 575,
576, 577, 578, 678, 716,
726, 741, 804, 958, 959,
960, 1045
Hart, 301, 953, 1102, 1115
Hartful, 980
Hartgrove, 546
Hartigan, 433
Hartis, 953
Hartley, 726
Hartman, 55, 579, 725, 1072,
1075
Hartness, 402
Harton, 483, 1159
Hartsell, 53, 70
Hartssock, 1112
Hartzog, 714
Harshaw, 1129
Harvey, 1141
Haskell, 396
Hastings, 44, 350, 832, 853,
1000-B, 1018
Hasty, 269
Hatchette, 733
Hause, 1113
Hauser, 511, 786
Haus, 70, 803
Haven, 70
Hawkins, 23, 60, 64, 65, 66,
207, 243, 258, 261, 276,
292, 317, 322, 327, 333,
370, 479, 499, 516, 518,
562, 563, 580, 607, 624,
625, 638, 641, 644, 676,
714, 973, 985, 986, 1112,
1159
Hawley, 692
Hay, 102, 355
Hayes, 250, 289, 704, 719,
1148
Haynes, 56, 231, 398, 407,
1115
Hays, 41, 407
Hayslip, 1041
Haywood, 581, 1127
Heaven, 1124

Heavner, 242, 319, 701
 Heatherly, 60, 582
 Hecton, 1142
 Hedrick, 636, 818
 Hedden, 12, 91
 Heffner, 410, 564, 926
 Hefner, 848
 Hege, 584
 Hehn, 89
 Heidi, 443
 Height, 755
 Heintlein, 547
 Heine, 89, 91
 Heisler, 441, 442
 Helm, 204
 Helms, 660
 Helton, 901
 Henderson, 702, 805, 1027, 1038, 1136
 Hendrick, 311, 340, 341, 342, 345, 350, 363, 440, 583, 584, 585, 675, 712, 975, 984, 988, 989, 991, 993, 1000-A, 1002, 1003, 1028, 1146, 1148, 1149
 Hendricks, 12, 274, 925, 926, 990, 1089
 Hendrix, 206, 935
 Henkel, 598, 600, 837
 Hennings, 803
 Henry, 559
 Hensley, 1065
 Henson, 507, 830
 Herbert, 280, 462
 Herman, 387, 605, 1027, 1157
 Herndon, 25, 29, 51, 85, 87, 88, 102, 330, 459, 586, 587, 588, 589, 717, 718, 719, 721, 784, 808, 841, 878
 Herron, 300, 325, 954
 Hester, 35, 66, 79, 425, 758, 901
 Hewitt, 24, 275, 590, 1087
 Heyl, 785, 1040, 1042, 1089
 Heyward, 567
 Heywood, 1074
 Hiatt, 623
 Hicks, 6, 64, 239, 289, 298, 420, 461, 571, 638, 650, 671, 683, 763, 764, 765, 768, 886, 905, 956, 1011
 High, 309, 591
 Higgins, 6
 Hildebran, 1158
 Hill, 3, 43, 44, 53, 62, 278, 463, 499, 501, 538, 633, 731, 835, 856, 898, 941, 1097, 1135, 1140
 Hillard, 813
 Hillman, 903
 Himple, 1056
 Hinnant, 72, 83, 87, 592, 784, 790, 1022
 Hinshaw, 461, 787
 Hinson, 70
 Hitt, 948
 Hix, 980
 Hoard, 687
 Hobbs, 654, 713, 1058, 1106, 1109
 Hocutt, 591
 Hodge, 676
 Hodges, 29, 385, 390, 442, 524, 542
 Hoey, 1, 9, 81, 273, 328, 352, 466, 470, 545, 593, 594, 595, 596, 597, 598, 599, 600, 601, 602, 603, 604, 724, 778, 796, 837, 1086, 1098
 Hoffman, 785, 786, 888, 956, 972, 1047
 Hogan, 1154
 Hogue, 76, 228, 550, 721, 845, 847, 878, 881, 916, 1154
 Hoke, 1, 51, 330, 1051, 1054, 1055
 Holcomb, 813
 Holcombe, 437
 Holden, 893, 1152
 Holder, 346
 Holderness, 71
 Holdway, 229
 Hollifield, 31
 Holland, 65, 69, 301, 302, 303, 435, 605, 606, 607, 614, 644, 669, 705, 796, 797, 798, 894, 914, 952, 1025, 1038
 Hollander, 302
 Hollands, 610
 Hollifield, 44, 57, 61, 498, 531, 808, 860, 1042
 Holling, 345
 Hollingsworth, 719
 Holloway, 286, 1106, 1107
 Hollowell, 514, 515, 544
 Holmes, 70, 347, 366, 408, 571, 572, 637, 647, 704, 717, 738, 808
 Holmsly, 37
 Holobaugh, 916
 Holond, 505
 Holt, 922
 Holton, 212, 742
 Home Arts Club of Kings Mountain, 85
 Homesley, 460, 609, 610, 611, 612
 Homesly, 1119
 Homsely, 813
 Homsley, 10, 100
 Honeycut, 522
 Honeycutt, 346, 425, 454, 455, 613, 934, 943, 1159
 Hood, 101, 547
 Hooker, 1032
 Hooks, 1051
 Hoopaugh, 924
 Hooper, 901
 Hoover, 5, 233, 356, 838
 Hopkins, 44
 Hopper, 7, 11, 62, 99, 242, 252, 277, 311, 431, 475, 534, 550, 614, 615, 616, 617, 626, 627, 628, 630, 698, 724, 765, 801, 915, 922, 923, 924, 925, 926, 956, 1128
 Hopson, 510
 Hord, 22, 25, 43, 51, 54, 61, 63, 83, 85, 91, 93, 207, 232, 235, 281, 299, 308, 318, 320, 345, 350, 373, 378, 388, 405, 423, 449, 465, 467, 468, 581, 586, 616, 618, 619, 620, 621, 622, 623, 624, 625, 677, 683, 684, 686, 704, 745, 747, 878, 934, 955-A, 956, 957, 984, 985, 986, 996, 999, 1015, 1083, 1103, 1127, 1145
 Horde, 618
 Hordt, 618
 Horn, 315, 320, 348, 356, 379, 380, 509, 559, 615, 616, 617, 626, 627, 628, 629, 630, 746, 747, 792, 794, 882, 937, 980, 1018, 1065
 Horne, 24, 236, 309, 902, 907, 1039
 Horner, 408
 Horton, 29, 228, 251, 523, 640, 644, 679, 896
 Hoss, 616
 Hotels (Early resort), 1
 Hotel Fires, 1
 Hourd, 618
 House, 932
 Houser, 25, 89, 204, 207, 210, 235, 261, 280, 413, 427, 548, 624, 631, 713, 726, 727, 777, 805, 806, 905, 955-A, 974, 1116, 1128, 1129
 Housman, 311
 Houston, 22
 Houts, 53
 Hovis, 252, 289, 503, 812
 Howard, 35, 77, 433, 567, 647, 699, 704, 716, 717, 813, 1042
 Howe, 104, 208
 Howell, 7, 43, 70, 77, 79, 99, 289, 337, 345, 412, 443, 461, 559, 584, 915, 931, 944, 956, 977, 1147, 1148, 1149, 1150
 Howerton, 71
 Howie, 862, 863, 1000-B
 Howington, 247
 Howser, 410
 Hoyden, 98
 Hoyle, 1, 4, 6, 15, 33, 45, 50, 53, 70, 73, 79, 100, 235, 244, 254, 294, 312, 313, 340, 341, 343, 344, 366, 385, 389, 422, 428, 437, 441, 453, 463, 465, 467, 509, 585, 624, 631, 632, 634, 689, 704, 725, 773, 774, 821, 832, 839, 856, 896, 901, 947, 956, 998, 1012, 1040, 1041, 1042, 1043, 1044, 1052, 1053, 1054, 1055, 1056, 1060, 1069, 1076, 1089, 1090, 1095, 1106, 1109, 1132, 1142, 1147, 1149, 1156, 1157
 Hubbard, 6, 53, 1112
 Hubert, 735
 Hudlow, 1097
 Hudson, 53, 70, 313, 332, 367, 405, 633, 682, 724, 811, 886, 889, 895, 1056, 1144, 1157
 Hueys, 601
 Huffman, 72, 280, 356, 1157
 Huffstetler, 52, 235, 250, 1056, 1148
 Huffstickler, 300, 325, 360, 449, 634, 635, 934, 954
 Huggins, 16, 53, 86, 636
 Hughes, 1, 60, 95, 232, 251, 257, 261, 263, 406, 505, 571, 578, 580, 607, 637, 638, 639, 640, 641, 642, 643, 644, 645, 646, 647, 704, 844, 846, 870, 901, 948, 977, 1000-B, 1105
 Huie, 717
 Hulick, 36
 Hull, 44, 96, 319, 356, 423, 448, 509, 510, 710, 1044, 1052, 1055, 1071, 1150
 Hullander, 406
 Hullender, 54, 77, 312, 608, 704, 1059, 1114
 Hullett, 66
 Humphres, 858
 Humphrey, 503
 Humphries, 23, 66, 208, 292, 303, 516, 639, 644, 647, 663, 897, 999, 1135, 1148, 1150
 Hunnicut, 22
 Hunnicutt, 53, 648, 670, 814
 Hunt, 23, 24, 33, 59, 60, 73, 339, 354, 363, 365, 477, 558, 649, 650, 651, 652, 653, 654, 655, 656, 762, 766, 775, 856, 905, 948, 958, 975, 1000-B, 1118
 Hunter, 219, 366, 606, 938, 1005
 Huntley, 66, 866
 Huntsinger, 82, 527
 Hurd, 618
 Huskey, 937, 961, 1139
 Huss, 430, 461, 974
 Hustickler, 608
 Hutchens, 630, 649
 Hutchings, 477
 Hutchins, 709, 860, 919
 Hutchinson, 575
 Hutchison, 350
 Hutto, 206, 1152
 Hyde, 901
 Hyder, 284, 392
 — I —
 Ilgenfritz, 615, 627
 Indian Campground, 13
 Indians of Cleveland County, 1
 Industry of 19th Century, 1
 Industrial Renewal of 1955, 1
 Ingle, 45, 50, 56, 228, 350, 905, 939
 Ingram, 583
 Irvin, 12, 22, 23, 24, 37, 57, 64, 65, 75, 226, 228, 238, 259, 315, 321, 322, 334, 355, 421, 440, 456, 519, 558, 559, 560, 590, 625, 657, 658, 683, 694, 696, 701, 721, 732, 770, 808, 906, 921, 977, 980, 984, 985, 986, 995, 1077, 1083, 1087, 1096, 1136, 1140
 Irvine, 76
 Isely, 463
 Isenhower, 783
 Isler, 909, 928
 Isley, 659
 Isrel, 359
 Issacson, 334
 Iverson, 463
 Ives, 463, 649, 1103
 Ivester, 250, 660, 832
 Ivey, 1, 4, 29, 70, 463, 1053
 Ivie, 281
 Izzi, 661
 — J —
 Jackson, 10, 26, 87, 474, 685, 719, 720, 839, 1061, 1146
 Jamerson, 100, 1129
 James, 44, 462, 551, 842, 958
 Jamison, 44
 Jay, 510, 954
 Jeanette, 661
 Jeanfreau, 1041
 Jeffers, 832
 Jefferson, 787
 Jeffries, 98
 Jenkins, 56, 60, 62, 235, 250, 349, 372, 388, 430, 434, 504, 505, 560, 561, 573, 627, 630, 647, 662, 668, 669, 678, 753, 756, 785, 899, 935, 942, 955-A, 1020, 1053, 1130, 1151
 Jenks, 33, 1051, 1102, 1053, 1054
 Jennings, 81, 930, 1119
 Jensen, 355, 968
 Jester, 875, 1141
 Jetton, 769
 Jewell, 402
 Jewett, 659
 Jaggatts, 941
 Johns, 1152
 Johnson, 3, 52, 56, 58, 60, 64, 66, 79, 82, 215, 272, 279, 282, 284, 296, 316, 359, 429, 472, 509, 570, 579, 601, 606, 640, 649, 662, 663, 664, 665, 808, 890, 901, 1043, 1072, 1087, 1148, 1157
 Johnston, 71, 328, 367, 401, 460, 554, 658, 665, 872, 939, 1074
 Jolley, 51, 66, 251, 462, 497, 535, 537, 561, 638, 644, 666, 667, 674, 695, 739, 798, 856, 1076, 1118, 1134, 1135
 Jolly, 60, 76, 99, 250, 634, 667, 906
 Jones, 12, 52, 60, 65, 67, 70, 81, 99, 204, 206, 235, 244, 250, 261, 277, 292, 318, 319, 323, 345, 354, 363, 365, 392, 393, 424, 428, 454, 463, 482, 505, 510, 516, 557, 561, 582, 605, 607, 626, 630, 638, 647, 650, 653, 663, 668, 669, 670, 671, 672, 673, 674, 675, 695, 696, 710, 745, 747, 750, 759, 764, 768, 798, 934, 956, 964, 983, 1000-B, 1008, 1032, 1049, 1050, 1101, 1141
 Jordan, 1079
 Jordon, 430, 464
 Joseph, 701
 Joy, 300, 325
 Joyce, 393
 Joyner, 433
 Juff, 22
 Julean, 747
 Justice, 509, 638, 640, 645, 705, 770, 1007
 Justus, 262, 641
 Jwyman, 466
 — K —
 Kadesh Methodist Church, 53
 Kale, 82, 934
 Kappelman, 292
 Keaton, 676
 Kee, 704
 Keegan, 891
 Keeley, 802, 803
 Keer, 624
 Keesler, 464
 Keeter, 54, 87, 621, 677, 678, 717, 1049
 Keever, 70, 306, 465

Keith, 210
 Keller, 624, 1157
 Kelly, 572, 783, 934
 Kemper, 80, 1098
 Kendall, 1, 392, 393, 460, 679, 680, 953
 Kendrick, 29, 39, 43, 51, 231, 283, 322, 326, 373, 376, 381, 408, 605, 624, 669, 681, 682, 683, 684, 685, 686, 687, 898, 902, 907, 970, 1050
 Kennedy, 35, 45, 80, 100, 300, 307, 634, 635, 647, 717, 720, 749, 779, 954, 983, 1005
 Kerns, 93
 Kerr, 85, 547, 680, 764, 789, 878
 Keslich, 956
 Kester, 688, 886
 Key, 407, 866
 Kilge, 70
 Kille, 1116
 Killian, 644
 Kilpatric, 462
 Kimble, 511
 Kimmel, 938
 Kinard, 1103
 Kincaid, 93, 248, 393, 1097
 Kindrick, 43, 683
 King, 22, 32, 44, 73, 280, 283, 382, 407, 447, 448, 534, 612, 616, 879, 880, 1057, 1069, 1154
 Kings Mountain Baptist Association, 86
 Kings Mountain Baptist Church, 54
 Kings Mountain, Battle of, 3
 Kings Mountain Garden Club, 87
 Kings Mountain Lions Club, 90
 Kings Mountain Savings & Loan Association, 88
 Kings Mountain Schools, 12, 22
 Kings Mountain, Town of, 1, 22, 26
 Kings Mountain Woman's Club, 89
 Kiple, 210
 Kirby, 62, 241, 584, 894
 Kirk, 561
 Kirkendall, 670
 Kirkman, 759
 Kirkpatrick, 657, 1021, 1111
 Kiser, 22, 94, 232, 250, 289, 330, 344, 454, 689, 777, 834, 869, 871, 1000-B, 1133
 Kishman, 758
 Kistler, 989, 994, 1001, 1002, 1074
 Kitchin, 810
 Klarman, 290
 Klein, 340, 341, 342, 690, 1052
 Klutz, 344
 Knight, 624, 625, 995
 Knob Creek Methodist Church, 55
 Knox, 235, 1067
 Kobar, 901
 Koch, 70
 Kogee, 618
 Kohl, 420
 Kohler, 363, 653
 Kolb, 649
 Koone, 1000-B
 Koutsky, 901
 Kowsky, 649
 Kozmor, 953
 Kraus, 461
 Kroll, 1071
 Kruegar, 305
 Ku Klux Klan, 13
 Kuykendall, 549, 1156, 1158
 Kyles, 676

— L —

Lackey, 53, 88, 233, 340, 343, 345, 355, 388, 402, 447, 671, 676, 691, 692, 693, 694, 718, 757, 834, 967, 974, 1116, 1130, 1132, 1142, 1149
 Lacky, 29
 Lacy, 3

Laidlaw, 84
 Lafayette Street United Methodist Church, 56
 Lail, 385, 461, 585, 708, 1005, 1112, 1147, 1157
 Lambert, 308, 686, 979, 1149
 Lamette, 70
 Lancaster, 77, 1071
 Land, 542
 Lander, 737
 Landrum, 209, 534, 1003
 Lane, 67, 419, 897
 Lanear, 250
 Laney, 399
 Langford, 1003, 1020
 Langston, 22, 281
 Langum, 495
 Lanier, 48, 633
 Lankford, 723, 999, 1004, 1150
 Larsen, 547
 Laskey, 204
 Lassiter, 1049
 Latham, 31, 302, 818
 Lattimore, 1, 21, 24, 28, 29, 37, 44, 59, 61, 62, 65, 242, 283, 315, 317, 320, 340, 341, 342, 343, 344, 345, 350, 380, 388, 394, 413, 421, 424, 428, 443, 448, 466, 471, 473, 504, 505, 517, 555, 559, 597, 629, 650, 651, 657, 674, 695, 696, 697, 698, 699, 700, 701, 705, 795, 801, 829, 832, 835, 840, 931, 969, 970, 1013, 1017, 1038, 1049, 1074, 1115, 1116
 Lattimore Baptist Church, 57
 Lattimore Basketball Team, 23
 Lattimore, Town of, 24
 Law Enforcement Center, 1-A
 Lawndale, 1
 Lawndale First Baptist Church, 58
 Laughlin, 363, 458, 585, 702, 989, 1000-A, 1000-B, 1003
 Lautz, 837
 Lavander, 252, 1159
 Lavendar, 773
 Lavender, 80
 Lawing, 325, 608
 Lawrence, 703, 825, 850, 887
 Laws, 1078
 Lawson, 280, 1049, 1050
 Laughridge, 606, 808
 Laughter, 44
 Lautz, 595, 598
 Lavinsky, 1049
 Laycock, 1091
 Laymon, 901
 Layton, 390
 League, 285, 286
 Leak, 231
 Lear (Leer), 383
 Leatherman, 832, 1157
 Leatherwood, 545
 Ledbetter, 35, 60, 61, 65, 77, 95, 258, 261, 262, 269, 276, 320, 343, 381, 607, 638, 864, 1097
 Ledford, 5, 6, 50, 69, 250, 269, 281, 312, 313, 324, 325, 331-A, 372, 459, 463, 506, 620, 624, 634, 647, 704, 725, 733, 762, 789, 832, 853, 887, 888, 889, 890, 891, 907, 913, 955-A, 955-B, 956, 957, 1007, 1012, 1018, 1130, 1133
 Ledgin, 241
 Lee, 23, 24, 29, 36, 95, 248, 257, 261, 264, 266, 269, 272, 273, 274, 276, 288, 305, 342, 356, 364, 367, 368, 383, 415, 445, 457, 477, 503, 526, 542, 622, 629, 644, 676, 705, 735, 939, 948, 1007, 1057, 1087, 1116, 1130
 LeGrand, 96, 302, 351, 436, 522, 706, 707, 789, 1035, 1067
 LeGrande, 1068
 Leigh, 324, 534, 708
 Lemmons, 709
 Lemons, 81, 277, 324, 462, 669, 858
 Lennon, 83

Lentz, 248, 631
 Lentze, 15
 Leonard, 346, 584, 878
 Leonhardt, 630, 649, 774, 1150, 1151
 Leonhart, 585
 Lester, 486
 Lever, 1021
 Leverette, 903
 Levy, 618, 1126
 Lewis, 53, 88, 93, 94, 274, 408, 608, 638, 659, 670, 822, 847, 872, 897, 901, 920, 1049
 Liddell, 392
 Lide, 394
 Ligon, 443, 673, 710, 750, 751, 755
 Lillenthal, 431
 Limerick, 30, 43, 711, 790
 Limrick, 75
 Lincoln, 2, 257
 Lindholm, 395
 Lindsay, 683, 712, 1157
 Lindsey, 43, 412, 458, 542, 842, 918, 943
 Lineberger, 253, 594, 713, 714, 724, 729, 758, 760, 835, 1025, 1027, 1038
 Lingerfelt, 331-A, 886, 889
 Lingle, 352
 Linnens, 715
 Linton, 1025, 1141, 1144
 Lion, 378
 Lippard, 352
 Lipscomb, 252, 474, 1134, 1135, 1136, 1140
 Lithia Springs, 1
 Little, 256, 274, 409, 410, 586, 598, 719, 1007
 Littlejohn, 51, 405, 564, 663, 794
 Livingston, 460, 716
 Locke, 378
 Locklee, 82
 Lockridge, 1062
 Loesch, 1067
 Loftin, 352, 867
 Logan, 12, 43, 60, 62, 64, 76, 81, 86, 102, 228, 236, 326, 340, 457, 549, 550, 586, 588, 657, 699, 717, 718, 719, 720, 721, 739, 764, 804, 854, 932, 945, 976, 1105
 Lohr, 783
 Lollar, 420, 425
 Lolley, 86
 London, 33, 37, 61, 98, 100, 244, 311, 355, 356, 440, 614, 823, 853, 856, 879, 907, 952, 980, 988, 1003, 1073, 1076, 1083, 1116
 Long, 43, 255, 330, 349, 357, 537, 608, 704, 855, 985, 986, 1011
 Longfellow, 1071
 Lookadoo, 475, 859
 Lopez, 345
 Lopez-Mena, 700
 Lorentz, 475
 Love, 1, 1-A, 22, 41, 64, 71, 76, 202, 203, 224, 311, 334, 399, 437, 440, 460, 583, 637, 694, 721, 722, 804, 878, 904, 906, 911, 975, 976, 979, 1121, 1122, 1123, 1129, 1143
 Loveday, 307
 Lovelace, 88, 261, 292, 299, 315, 324, 370, 556, 580, 630, 638, 732, 739, 770, 894, 952, 956, 1009, 1049, 1118
 Lovell, 101
 Lovett, 1056
 Loudermilk, 62
 Low, 60
 Lowe, 65, 245, 443, 447, 702, 986, 989, 996
 Lowery, 31, 71, 205, 226, 228, 243, 252, 281, 409, 476, 511, 685, 723, 832, 845, 907, 916, 1061, 1153, 1154
 Lowman, 724, 956, 1157
 Lowrance, 571, 572, 793
 Lowry, 71, 332, 922
 Loy, 789

Loyal, 893
 Luckadoo, 821, 827
 Lucas, 58, 239, 256, 274, 637, 840, 1105
 Ludlum, 67
 Lunsford, 66
 Lutts, 764, 921, 922, 923
 Lutz, 6, 29, 53, 63, 75, 96, 221, 223, 225, 226, 228, 314, 343, 372, 433, 461, 462, 464, 548, 570, 704, 714, 725, 726, 727, 728, 729, 730, 757, 771, 811, 817, 832, 934, 974, 1001, 1002, 1032, 1157
 Lyerly, 358, 371
 Lynch, 25, 89, 98, 250, 368
 Lynn, 70, 250, 552, 1157
 Lyon, 441, 442
 — Mc —
 McAbee, 405, 461, 946
 McAfee, 331, 367, 368, 487, 490, 549, 937, 942, 945
 McAllister, 72, 919
 McAlpin, 407
 McArthur, 577, 616, 661, 678, 1154
 McArver, 551, 874
 McBee, 1135
 McBrayer, 33, 95, 221, 222, 224, 225, 256, 259, 274, 322, 334, 420, 435, 599, 624, 638, 694, 721, 731, 732, 733, 734, 735, 736, 737, 738, 739, 740, 831, 962, 963, 966, 1000-B, 1025, 1036, 1037, 1038, 1060, 1061, 1097, 1098, 1099, 1138, 1144, 1154
 MacBrair, 731
 McBride, 678
 MacCackin, 1071
 McCall, 365, 371, 413, 418, 419, 660, 822, 824, 825, 826, 1040, 1042, 1073, 1091, 1100
 McCalle, 835
 McCaslin, 830
 McCannon, 274
 McCarter, 89, 235, 326, 568, 657, 741, 1105, 1108
 McCarver, 431
 McCauley, 231, 392, 1024
 McClain, 41
 McClean, 903
 McCluney, 860
 McClurd, 854
 McClure, 280, 283
 McCollum, 414
 McCombs, 402, 423, 467
 McCord, 635
 McCorkle, 71
 McCormick, 507
 McCorquodale, 70
 McCoy, 35, 396, 514, 702
 McCracken, 511
 McCrackin, 502
 McCraney, 444
 McCraw, 29, 83, 251, 647, 1139, 1140
 McCree, 1142
 McCulley, 56
 McCune, 619
 McCurdy, 93
 McCurry, 61, 62, 423, 527, 675, 901, 931, 1017, 1042, 1152
 McDaniel, 48, 51, 54, 76, 77, 286, 638, 639, 747, 771, 804, 924, 930, 936, 1017, 1063
 McDiarmid, 71, 1047
 McDonald, 289, 344, 419, 433, 581
 McDowell, 3, 99, 378, 512, 742
 McElroy, 22
 McElwee, 94, 871, 972
 McEntire, 335, 342, 343, 375, 378, 393, 453, 479, 482, 494, 559, 641, 644, 695, 880, 1032
 McFalls, 498
 McFarland, 29, 202, 203, 204, 220, 470, 471, 491, 1032, 1033, 1034, 1035, 1048
 McGee, 48, 813
 McGill, 22, 41, 85, 87, 88, 91,

102, 275, 449, 459, 551,
743, 874, 986, 1067, 1068,
1130
McGinnis, 35, 60, 68, 88, 102,
407, 409, 537, 584, 638,
906, 1018
McGlavery, 822, 824
McGowan, 570
McGuirt, 1005
McInnis, 251
McInnish, 1065
McIntier, 1097
McIntire, 334, 495, 731
McIntosh, 347
McIntyre, 37, 67, 76, 491,
742, 744, 846, 926, 1133,
1135, 1140
McKay, 101, 903
McKeaney, 61
McKee, 53, 263, 937, 994,
1126
McKeithan, 608
McKelvy, 1103
McKenna, 1103
McKenzie, 976
McKinney, 70, 303, 403, 453,
467, 489, 626, 663, 669,
674, 743, 745, 746, 747,
776, 859, 879, 905, 1065
McLain, 425
McLarty, 713, 748, 749, 1027,
1038, 1113
McLaughen, 101
McLean, 512, 722, 808
MacLedford, 1012
McLeod, 1060
McLove, 930
McMahan, 1135
McManaway, 51
McManus, 319
McMillan, 393, 572
McMurray, 370, 386, 387,
403, 405, 406, 516, 644,
670, 750, 920
McMurray's, 881
McMurry, 6, 10, 249, 328,
392, 402, 430, 454, 466,
645, 671, 673, 710, 750,
751, 752, 753, 754, 755,
756, 757, 789, 792, 976,
1025, 1032, 1038, 1061,
1073, 1077, 1079, 1115
McNaron, 644
McNeely, 461, 462, 956
McNeill, 534, 662
McNeilly, 893
McNichols, 829
MacPherson, 1048
McPherson, 1098
McQuarters, 790
McQueen, 1039, 1047, 1048
McRae, 12, 409
McRee, 297
McShane, 231
McSwain, 1, 7, 29, 35, 36, 60,
62, 64, 65, 67, 69, 81, 205,
231, 263, 299, 316, 323,
324, 355, 363, 370, 371,
384, 386, 440, 474, 479,
481, 482, 487, 489, 493,
500, 506, 518, 529, 531,
536, 553, 556, 558, 559,
560, 586, 605, 607, 638,
655, 717, 758, 759, 760,
761, 762, 763, 764, 765,
766, 767, 768, 769, 770,
796, 798, 833, 914, 921,
925, 935, 938, 939, 948,
990, 1001, 1003, 1017,
1078, 1080, 1081, 1112,
1121, 1146, 1147, 1148,
1150
McWebb, 1095
McWhirter, 953
McWhirter, 440

— M —
Mabry, 92, 250, 706, 878, 934
Mace, 1071
Mack, 547
Macklin, 664, 806, 807
Macomson, 972
Macon, 542
Madden, 1020
Maddox, 99, 562, 616
Madison, 677
Maclick, 346
Magness, 44, 221, 223, 225,
293, 296, 338, 365, 393,
423, 510, 671, 699, 729,
745, 746, 771, 772, 775,
776, 839, 879, 940, 945,
981, 1017, 1064, 1065,
1097, 1115
Magnet, 1020
Magnolia Garden Club of Kings
Mountain, 91
Mahaffy, 616
Makowka, 292
Mallett, 939
Mancill, 1127
Maner, 102
Maney, 594
Maniaul, 462
Manley, 808
Mann, 47, 358, 693, 948
Manning, 486
Manor, 443
Mansfield, 593, 594
Many, 471
Marable, 100
Marchmon, 339
Marcoux, 319
Marks, 546
Marney, 715
Maroney, 401
Marshall, 409, 561, 917,
1112, 1132
Martin, 2, 3, 6, 24, 60, 80, 82,
99, 211, 235, 238, 246,
250, 327, 334, 364, 392,
395, 423, 440, 460, 463,
465, 475, 478, 505, 509,
510, 513, 586, 587, 638,
646, 650, 667, 772, 773,
774, 775, 776, 808, 813,
825, 901, 905, 919, 921,
922, 923, 925, 926, 950,
974, 975, 980, 1049, 1059,
1074, 1076, 1078, 1097,
1115, 1116, 1135, 1153,
1154, 1156
Martins, 391
Marvin, 864
Marzec, 441
Marziale, 293
Mason, 24, 66, 213, 302, 658
Masterman, 970
Masters, 228
Matheney, 44, 51, 644, 1135
Matheny, 584, 1060
Mathis, 252, 582
Mathny, 758
Mattais, 1139
Mattero, 967
Mattison, 963
Mattocks, 3
Mauldin, 649
Mauney, 1, 6, 22, 25, 30, 52,
68, 72, 73, 83, 87, 88, 89,
91, 101, 102, 205, 235,
242, 290, 300, 330, 352,
353, 477, 489, 507, 557,
565, 572, 589, 618, 648,
688, 689, 691, 719, 763,
767, 771, 774, 777, 783,
779, 780, 781, 782, 783,
784, 785, 786, 787, 790,
814, 815, 818, 821, 838,
879, 880, 898, 923, 924,
925, 926, 931, 944, 980,
1001, 1002, 1022, 1057,
1069, 1115, 1124, 1144,
1152, 1157
Mauney Memorial Library, 25
Maxwell, 466
May, 937
Mayberry, 1076
Mayes, 87, 324, 406, 592,
1067, 1068
Mayfield, 250, 984
Mayhew, 324
Mayo, 1061
Mays, 1141
Meacham, 740, 788, 810
Meade, 774
Meadors, 462
Mealer, 587
Means, 559, 794
Meares, 572
Mease, 1141
Medlin, 53
Meek, 1057
Meerman, 418
Mellon, 1147
Melton, 44, 278, 370, 443,
475, 498, 546, 609, 762,
820, 1049, 1062, 1123
Menzies, 1095
Mercer, 542
Merchant, 561
Mercier, 431
Merick, 305
Merklein, 395
Merrell, 319, 975
Methodist Lincoln Circuit, 49
Methodist Polkville Circuit, 49
Meyer, 395
Meyers, 314
Michael, 345, 1067
Michelis, 542
Michem, 68
Miesen, 1047
Milarch, 395
Milgate, 262
Miller, 1, 43, 64, 70, 81, 89,
100, 102, 213, 281, 335,
346, 356, 443, 619, 620,
765, 784, 789, 790, 791,
792, 818, 833, 898, 905,
917, 934, 936, 1023, 1036,
1039, 1071, 1076
Mills, 98, 319, 433, 511, 608,
1035, 1148
Milton, 461
Mincy, 237
Mining in Cleveland County, 1
Minnix, 359
Minter, 71
Minton, 319
Mintz, 66, 321, 325, 497, 616
Mitcham, 68, 631
Mitchell, 81, 349, 407, 433,
489, 597, 663, 1045, 1132,
1153
Mitchem, 73, 254, 632, 704
Miura, 304, 309
Moble, 409
Mock, 202
Mode, 244, 464, 483, 499,
585, 758, 760, 793, 885,
1133
Modlin, 50
Moe, 45
Mole, 547
Moll, 809
Monday, 610
Monroe, 76, 453, 549, 1098
Montgomery, 422, 454, 717,
794, 1067, 1129
Montoya, 1052
Montpetit, 458
Monty, 1067
Moody, 442, 921
Moon, 419
Mooney, 504, 764, 773, 980,
1009, 1097
Moor, 275
Moore, 10, 29, 36, 59, 60, 62,
65, 68, 80, 96, 206, 245,
258, 276, 286, 288, 321,
327, 442, 464, 475, 477,
482, 487, 509, 513, 525,
530, 531, 533, 547, 563,
605, 606, 616, 618, 638,
657, 663, 678, 684, 685,
735, 747, 750, 753, 758,
764, 768, 795, 796, 797,
798, 800, 808, 813, 833,
858, 907, 936, 970, 971,
983, 1001, 1002, 1021,
1078, 1122, 1150, 1152,
1153
Moorehead, 580
Moores, 921
Mooreboro, 1
More, 43
Moreau, 838
Morehead, 35, 65, 96, 102,
243, 258, 277, 388, 509,
607, 723, 795
Moreland, 561, 921
Morgan, 10, 53, 73, 381, 418,
460, 738, 800, 905, 917,
935, 1050
Morley, 228
Morrill, 901
Morris, 36, 67, 77, 242, 352,
484, 609, 614, 633, 698,
768, 801, 867, 874, 984,
1005, 1023, 1024, 1037,
1078, 1116
Morrisett, 534, 547, 802, 803
Morrison, 51, 311, 443, 466,
624, 649, 821, 876, 955-A,
955-B, 1020, 1025, 1112,
1150
Morrow, 99, 498, 577, 649,
804, 923, 976, 1058
Morton, 982
Moseley, 647
Moser, 53, 694
Moses, 633
Mosley, 423
Moss, 43, 60, 75, 82, 92, 101,
102, 229, 253, 276, 376,
377, 395, 577, 584, 618,
620, 621, 623, 634, 639,
642, 680, 683, 758, 805,
806, 807, 808, 819, 833,
906, 923, 1061, 1062, 1076
Mossteller, 389
Mosteller, 809, 982, 1070
Moulton, 304
Mount Harmony United Methodist Church, 59
Mt. Sinai Baptist Church, 60
Mowery, 938
Muehl, 341, 1052
Muel, 1102
Mufford, 58
Muhl, 809
Mulder, 927, 929
Mull, 1, 9, 81, 250, 341, 356,
557, 740, 788, 809, 810,
811, 878, 1047, 1076,
1102, 1157
Mullen, 612
Mullens, 383
Mullinax, 60, 300, 343, 586,
616, 634, 639
Mullins, 60
Mullis, 598
Munday, 713
Mundy, 714, 784
Murchinson, 1021
Murphrey, 262
Murphy, 210, 634, 704, 717,
747
Murray, 37, 388, 456, 483,
509, 667, 860
Murrell, 67, 696, 974
Murry, 44, 71
Musgroves, 370
Mushinski, 293
Myatt, 941
Myers, 102, 502, 542, 608,
803, 1146, 1147, 1149,
1150, 1151, 1155
Myrick, 352, 542

— N —
Names, 21
Names in Cleveland County, 21,
29, 31
Nance, 858, 916
Nanney, 12, 268, 630
Nanny, 322
Nash, 250
Natheny, 860
Navey, 312
Navy, 313, 773, 974, 975
Naylor, 326
Neal, 29, 35, 41, 48, 85, 89,
104, 210, 211, 321, 327,
352, 547, 572, 637, 685,
812, 813, 1020, 1133
Neason, 1000-B
Nebekker, 443
Nebel, 898
Needham, 45, 50
Neelham, 70
Neil, 509, 624
Neill, 83, 91
Neinow, 561
Neisler, 12, 22, 25, 83, 87,
89, 101, 290, 648, 730,
784, 814, 815, 816, 817,
818, 819, 858, 872, 873
Nelson, 50, 70, 540, 700, 719,
976
Nemo (Nimmo), 383
Nesmith, 409
New, 557
New Bethel Baptist Church, 61
Newcomb, 356
New Hope Baptist Church, 62
Newland, 352
Newlon, 1129
Newman, 453, 612, 820, 1121
Newton, 28, 44, 62, 63, 289,
311, 312, 313, 328, 349,
433, 460, 483, 584, 638,
644, 645, 805, 821, 822,
823, 824, 825, 826, 827,
892, 893, 895, 903, 970,

1040, 1042, 1043, 1145,
1146, 1149
Nichols, 204, 230, 399, 443,
668, 808, 828
Nicholson, 2, 29, 45, 56, 511
Niten, 378
Nitsche, 895
Niven, 624
Nix, 443, 454, 472, 473, 701,
829
Nixon, 719
Nobles, 228
Noblett, 507
Noblitt, 830, 860, 919
Noell, 1086
Noggle, 418
Nolan, 80, 96, 221, 223, 225,
397, 399, 771, 831, 881,
934, 975, 1057, 1083,
1084, 1086, 1141
Nolen, 247
Nolin, 423
Noller, 420
Noe, 466
Norman, 54, 63, 235, 313,
433, 622, 824, 832, 975,
1000-B, 1018, 1040, 1156,
1159
Normans Grove Baptist
Church, 63
Norris, 1001, 1002
North, 70, 328
Norton, 517
North Carolina General
Assembly, 1, 1-A, 19
Norvell, 307
Norwood, 605, 758
Nowlin, 49, 421, 880, 955-B
Number One Township
Schools, 27
Nunn, 234
Nye, 12, 22, 1023, 1024

— O —

Oakes, 425
Oates, 29, 206, 232, 324, 435,
446, 449, 693, 767, 833,
834, 869, 971, 1089
Oats, 447
O'Brien, 832
O'Dell, 882
Odem, 1056
Odom, 284, 343
O'Farrell, 101
Okumura, 205
Old Field School, 30
Oliver, 639, 978, 1076
O'Neal, 798
Open Gate Garden Club of Kings Mountain, 93
O'Rear, 542
O'Reilly, 457, 1099
Ormand, 46, 330, 792, 977,
1007
Ormond, 274
Orr, 22
Osborn, 29, 724
Osborne, 381, 486, 835, 1073
O'Shields, 12
Osteen, 1135
O'Toole, 486
Otte, 663
Overholser, 503
Overton, 202, 730
Owen, 259, 342, 740
Owens, 2, 54, 81, 207, 228,
240, 250, 389, 403, 443,
435, 505, 529, 764, 776,
832, 935, 938
Owensby, 70, 201, 205

— P —

Pacheco, 625
Pack, 243, 292, 669
Packard, 349, 392, 393, 422,
501, 504, 508, 509, 697
Padgett, 758
Padgett, 24, 57, 60, 62, 65,
87, 224, 257, 331, 374,
464, 478, 484, 507, 561,
562, 763, 766, 768, 770,
772, 808, 837, 894, 914,
992, 1083, 1087, 1088
Padgett, 76
Page, 91, 334, 352, 370, 812,
814, 838, 858, 902, 1157
Paige, 941
Painter, 462, 902
Pair, 952

Paletz, 1152
Palley, 611
Palmer, 44, 50, 80, 284, 433,
505, 565, 760, 839, 840,
918, 953
Pangle, 530, 543
Pannel, 263, 298, 487, 511
Panther, 639, 681, 682, 850,
887
Parham, 246
Park, 937
Parker, 43, 44, 45, 59, 70, 81,
210, 244, 262, 289, 326,
418, 419, 424, 475, 586,
588, 647, 704, 841, 854,
855, 857, 916, 980, 1073,
1141, 1157
Parks, 63, 872, 1135
Parnell, 1127
Parreelee, 1060
Parris, 388, 470
Parrish, 100, 433, 669, 674,
958, 1008
Parrott, 982
Passmore, 67, 349, 433
Pate, 409
Patrick, 35, 47, 95, 101, 644
Patterson, 21, 22, 31, 32, 48,
64, 67, 82, 88, 89, 95, 101,
102, 208, 226, 228, 232,
355, 408, 450, 453, 549,
621, 622, 638, 659, 730,
842, 843, 844, 845, 846,
847, 848, 864, 866, 867,
870, 875, 876, 879, 938,
952, 955-A, 956, 975,
1107, 1108
Patterson Grove Baptist
Church, 64
Patterson Springs, 1, 31
Patton, 624, 883, 940
Paugh, 355
Paul, 593
Pauley's, 55
Paulson, 371
Paxton, 243
Payne, 395, 719
Payseur, 52, 61, 102, 246
Paysour, 689
Pearce, 484, 542, 678, 1090,
1092
Pearson, 62, 204, 251, 277,
400, 497, 571, 879, 903
Peckmans, 1009
Peebles, 289
Peeler, 6, 29, 44, 45, 87, 252,
386, 387, 418, 431, 433,
463, 532, 540, 650, 651,
654, 669, 692, 694, 808,
835, 850, 851, 852, 853,
854, 855, 856, 857, 858,
896, 967, 991, 994, 1061,
1076, 1112, 1128, 1149,
1157
Peeller, 809
Peller, 855
Pemberton, 701
Pemington, 517
Pender, 1046, 1085, 1091
Pendleton, 33, 53, 769, 1027,
1038
Penney, 717
Pennington, 310, 924
Pense, 662
Perkins, 56, 457
Pernell, 934
Perrell, 319
Perry, 251, 769, 1106
Persall, 407
Persee, 601
Peters, 276, 462
Peterson, 22, 1122
Petrosino, 360
Pett, 311
Pettus, 707, 1067, 1068
Petty, 44, 222, 224, 239, 304,
334, 584, 1149
Pfeiffer, 1106
Pharr, 901
Pheagin, 462
Phelps, 288, 293
Phifer, 48, 83, 85, 91, 93,
1068, 1103
Philbeck, 37, 210, 326, 343,
350, 404, 423, 462, 509,
516, 830, 840, 859, 860,
919, 974, 1017, 1018,
1042, 1049, 1063, 1087
Phillips, 1068

Phillips, 99, 299, 330, 383,
443, 461, 630, 663, 717,
931, 948, 956, 1111
Piccirillo, 625
Pickins, 483, 1067
Piedmont High School, 28
Pierce, 461, 530, 535, 537,
572, 1115
Piercy, 315, 320, 421, 629
Pierson, 1025, 1029, 1030,
1038
Pinckney, 1135
Pinken, 658
Pinson, 519, 560
Pipes, 461
Pipkin, 537
Pittman, 832, 1126
Plaster, 861, 862, 863
Pleasant, 505
Plemmons, 283
Plessants, 605
Plonk, 22, 68, 83, 85, 91, 93,
94, 101, 352, 353, 345,
551, 635, 639, 659, 730,
743, 817, 848, 864, 865,
866, 867, 868, 869, 870,
871, 872, 873, 874, 875,
876, 877, 898
Plonk Brothers Department
Store, 94
Plyer, 64, 70
Poe, 633
Poffh, 1102
Poleyette, 232
Poliski, 1004
Politis, 877
Polk, 1, 21, 897
Polkville, 1
Pollack, 352, 867
Pollard, 943, 1149
Pollock, 864
Pomfret, 587
Pond, 319
Ponder, 3, 669, 1041
Pons, 1157
Pool, 403, 704, 1072
Poole, 252, 565, 579, 669,
670, 674, 832, 1053
Pope, 53, 70, 75, 612, 690,
979
Poplar Springs Baptist Church,
65
Porter, 4, 6, 15, 62, 71, 221,
223, 436, 437, 476, 511,
647, 763, 771, 891, 962,
992
Porter Brothers of Shelby, 15
Portner, 301
Portor, 225
Postell, 48
Post Office, Belwood, 6
Post Offices in Cleveland
County (early), 29
Poston, 16, 32, 36, 37, 61,
69, 86, 95, 100, 209, 284,
323, 342, 346, 350, 356,
405, 586, 687, 745, 746,
794, 878, 879, 880, 881,
900, 904, 906, 907, 938,
940, 974, 992, 1019, 1045,
1083, 1115, 1121, 1128
Poston Log House, 32
Poteat, 51, 1007
Poterfield, 585
Potter, 66, 102, 1135, 1138
Potts, 251
Pounders, 1063
Powell, 37, 335, 343, 356,
433, 758, 760, 808, 882,
917, 1017
Powers, 50, 657
Poythress, 294, 295
Prater, 343, 425
Pratt, 882, 936
Prayer, 619
Preddy, 1060
Prescillia, 1016
Presley, 1127
Pressley, 87, 574, 879
Pressly, 41, 93, 102
Prewitt, 24, 883, 1040
Price, 24, 45, 50, 56, 263,
361, 429, 430, 431, 509,
542, 555, 556, 650, 669,
745, 746, 842, 884, 885,
919, 934, 987, 1017, 1041,
1106, 1152
Prichard, 1049
Pride, 943

Prichett, 897
Prince, 204, 636
Pringle, 420
Privett, 832
Privette, 1005
Proctor, 312, 313, 704, 715,
823, 826, 827, 913, 938,
955-A, 1000-B
Propst, 6, 33, 95, 202, 203,
204, 312, 313, 331-A, 386,
639, 688, 850, 886, 887,
888, 889, 890, 891, 955-B,
1106, 1109, 1157
Prospect Baptist Church, 66
Pruett, 853, 1157
Pruett, 44, 59, 238, 312,
331-A, 392, 638, 649, 821,
822, 823, 892, 893, 894,
895, 896, 903, 992, 1015,
1017, 1076, 1096, 1118
Pruitt, 65, 313, 744, 1018,
1040, 1042, 1043
Public Hangings, 1
Public Schools, 1
Puckett, 73, 250
Pullen, 99
Purcell, 70, 274, 521, 897
Putman, 280, 506, 509, 765,
937, 1009, 1060
Putnam, 43, 60, 65, 67, 69,
76, 202, 240, 258, 300,
308, 311, 326, 337, 350,
355, 370, 388, 418, 431,
432, 440, 540, 542, 545,
580, 622, 638, 641, 644,
667, 681, 682, 683, 684,
723, 744, 790, 795, 805,
818, 875, 879, 880, 898,
899, 900, 901, 902, 903,
904, 905, 906, 907, 925,
926, 953, 956, 994, 1001,
1002, 1018, 1032, 1074,
1125
Putnam Memorial Baptist
Church, 67
Pyle, 970

— Q —

Qualis, 386, 908
Queen, 4, 35, 36, 258, 361,
504, 634, 669, 822, 824,
832, 853, 909, 1050, 1112
Query, 71
Quinn, 11, 81, 244, 399, 455,
609, 636, 764, 805, 910,
911, 940, 943, 1096, 1101,
1144, 1154
Quinns, 446
Quinn's Ferry, 13

— R —

Rabb, 77
Rabon, 104, 1141
Rachelle, 616
Raffield, 470
Ragan, 700
Railroads, 1
Raimey, 407, 411, 412
Rainey, 409, 720, 721
Rains, 917
Raiston, 307
Ramey, 257, 263, 529, 554,
556, 705, 912
Ramsaur, 1, 86, 456, 457
Ramseur, 87, 101, 392, 413,
417, 784
Ramsey, 22, 39, 62, 204, 250,
259, 312, 313, 345, 392,
408, 504, 566, 626, 758,
760, 770, 955-A, 963, 1066
Ramsour, 422, 690, 969
Randal, 1107
Randall, 7, 60, 70, 301, 308,
324, 325, 326, 449, 459,
491, 563, 699, 763, 765,
913, 914, 915, 916, 938,
956, 976, 1014, 1064
Randel, 764, 914
Randle, 586, 977, 1079
Randolph, 319, 720
Raney, 272, 764
Rankin, 71, 972
Ranyolds, 239
Raper, 56
Ratteree, 586
Rawlings, 726
Ray, 323, 935, 939, 952
Rayburn, 23, 291, 917, 919
Rayle, 70, 74, 470

Read, 439, 440
 Reams, 646
 Reaves, 47
 Reavis, 66, 1159
 Redfern, 782
 Redford, 510
 Reed, 93, 967, 1116
 Reep, 346
 Reese, 56, 348
 Reeves, 229
 Reformer, The, 17
 Reichard, 839
 Reid, 386, 408, 657, 936, 958, 961, 1111
 Reilly, 460
 Rein, 235
 Reinhardt, 457, 920, 1063
 Rembert, 1143
 Remembrances of Other Days, 2, 9, 11, 12, 13, 19, 26, 32, 33, 36, 37, 38, 40, 42, 53, 57, 81, 101
 Renfro, 937
 Rennick, 73
 Resurrection Lutheran Church, 68
 Reuben, 1043
 Revels, 1150
 Revis, 639
 Reynar, 507
 Reynolds, 435, 439, 440, 554, 640, 699, 975
 Rhea, 22, 235, 812
 Rhinehardt, 53
 Rhoads, 465
 Rhodes, 22, 235, 319, 866
 Rholetter, 24
 Rhom, 31
 Rhoney, 1157
 Rhymer, 908
 Rhyne, 85, 101, 229, 235, 283, 308, 346, 679, 777
 Rice, 642, 941, 992
 Rich, 1101
 Richard, 45, 55, 252, 632, 918, 1141
 Richards, 44, 343
 Richardson, 48, 69, 229, 388
 Richie, 41
 Richardt, 1011
 Riddle, 709, 1124
 Riddley, 616
 Ridenhour, 22, 88, 101, 284, 784
 Ridings, 585, 616, 830, 860, 917, 919
 Riggins, 763, 765
 Riggs, 1152
 Rikard, 250
 Riley, 81, 561, 1097
 Ring, 514
 Ringdall, 595
 Rippy, 62, 98, 210, 211, 326, 574, 685, 744, 763, 764, 765, 767, 808, 833, 921, 922, 923, 924, 925, 926, 928, 953
 Ritch, 530
 Riviere, 69
 Rizzo, 771
 Roach, 962, 1097
 Roark, 18, 202, 471, 596, 601, 637, 703, 927, 928, 929, 1052
 Robards, 964, 965
 Robbins, 56, 318, 1015
 Roberson, 483, 561, 953
 Robert, 462
 Roberts, 18, 29, 31, 43, 44, 54, 60, 64, 67, 86, 204, 205, 210, 213, 214, 217, 223, 280, 283, 322, 326, 331, 346, 356, 376, 381, 393, 398, 399, 414, 416, 417, 435, 438, 464, 466, 477, 522, 548, 550, 559, 577, 588, 608, 609, 610, 613, 620, 622, 624, 629, 633, 644, 645, 672, 684, 699, 720, 847, 888, 900, 904, 906, 915, 921, 930, 931, 932, 933, 934, 935, 936, 937, 938, 939, 940, 941, 942, 943, 944, 945, 946, 970, 986, 1007, 1057, 1103, 1123, 1128
 Robertson, 212, 458, 466, 644, 758
 Robinson, 43, 408, 432, 534, 753, 901, 1067, 1097
 Roche, 872
 Rockdale (history), 33
 Rockmore, 616
 Roden, 1060
 Rodney, 380
 Roebuck, 284, 800, 992
 Rofs, 1067
 Rogers, 5, 343, 381, 633, 856, 861, 903, 936, 947, 992
 Rohm, 833
 Rojas, 305
 Rolfe, 1141
 Rollins, 7, 19, 60, 536, 792, 839, 915, 948, 1069
 Roosevelt, 578, 882
 Roper, 52, 832, 1009
 Rose, 342, 597, 808, 949, 951, 1051
 Roseberry, 953
 Roseman, 358
 Ross, 64, 69, 81, 85, 210, 324, 325, 326, 337, 343, 461, 562, 712, 767, 913, 950, 951, 952, 953, 954, 955-A, 955-B, 956, 957, 961, 1011, 1067, 1150, 1151
 Ross Grove Baptist Church, 69
 Rothrock, 350
 Rountree, 570, 571, 572, 573, 716, 958, 959, 960, 961
 Rousseau, 239
 Rowe, 590
 Royster, 24, 79, 81, 86, 206, 311, 413, 506, 509, 584, 585, 732, 752, 753, 754, 756, 757, 773, 774, 962, 963, 964, 965, 966, 967, 978, 1001, 1002, 1046, 1056, 1091
 Ruby, 972
 Rucker, 79, 288, 359, 402, 822, 824, 1054, 1092
 Rudasill, 321, 509, 968
 Rudicil, 434
 Rudisill, 12, 22, 56, 289, 330, 352, 353, 778, 782, 783, 785, 853, 1024, 1157
 Rudolph, 238, 239, 421, 687, 985
 Rudsill, 869
 Ruebush, 57
 Rumpfelt, 937, 956
 Rummage, 1126
 Rumble, 743
 Runderson, 391
 Runyan, 1, 408, 765, 926
 Runyans, 763, 925, 1057
 Rupp, 237
 Ruppe, 60, 66, 1135, 1139
 Ruse, 951
 Rush, 511
 Rusher, 826
 Ruslikas, 371
 Russ, 204, 903, 951
 Russell, 1, 93, 247, 250, 501, 559, 719, 825
 Ruth, 818
 Rutherford, 825, 951, 955-B
 Rutledge, 523, 524, 525, 528, 597
 Ryburn, 720
 Ryland, 371
 Rzythta, 568
 — S —
 Sack, 1099
 Sailers, 860
 Sain, 6, 73, 364, 385, 414, 465, 758, 895, 896, 1076
 St. Matthew's Lutheran Church, 72
 St. Peters Methodist Church, 73
 Saintsing, 767
 Sakran, 859
 Salmon, 897
 Sam, 832
 Sampson, 965
 Sams, 233, 669, 719, 1101
 Sanders, 58, 324, 325, 326, 608, 827
 Sandy Run Baptist Church (1772), 1
 Sane, 29
 Sanford, 524, 986
 Sansing, 1107
 Sarazen, 80, 363, 653
 Sarratt, 333, 436, 470, 506, 616, 765, 915, 916, 1060
 Sarratts, 7
 Sasser, 735
 Satterfield, 212
 Satterwhite, 51
 Saunders, 930
 Savage, 903
 Sawyer, 743
 Saye, 665
 Sayler, 70
 Scarboro, 647, 704
 Schaeffer, 72
 Scharf, 89
 Scheaver, 937
 Schelkin, 1092
 Schenck, 1, 10, 21, 28, 29, 294, 342, 373, 456, 597, 835, 839, 840, 887, 969, 970, 971, 1003, 1024, 1152
 Schindler, 1070, 1071
 Schluntz, 228
 Schofield, 563
 Scholl, 581, 1127
 School Consolidation, 34, 35
 Schools of Yesterday, 5, 7, 8, 11, 22, 24, 27, 28, 30, 31, 34, 35, 48
 Schramm, 1040, 1042
 Schronce, 773
 Schweppe, 692, 972, 1110
 Schinham, 719
 Scism, 64, 95, 102, 348, 489, 639, 773, 991, 995
 Scoggins, 510
 Sconetoen, 1142
 Scott, 45, 53, 70, 434, 525, 560, 616, 758, 1021, 1129
 Scruggs, 12, 60, 66, 464, 479, 482, 496, 497, 518, 607, 905, 973, 1139
 Seaford, 861
 Seagle, 1157
 Seal, 48
 Sealey, 451
 Sealy, 491
 Sedford, 404
 Seely, 922, 923
 Selby, 301
 Self, 73, 279, 282, 283, 305, 319, 332, 344, 366, 388, 389, 434, 464, 561, 616, 631, 651, 938, 956, 957, 974, 975, 1056, 1145
 Sellars, 974
 Selleck, 937
 Sellers, 262, 360, 362, 689, 804, 961, 976, 1130, 1148
 Senn, 1120
 Sepaugh, 62, 252, 257, 410, 412, 549, 616, 763, 765, 923
 Sessions, 659
 Settlers, (Early) of Cleveland County, 1
 Settlers Life-style, 1
 Setzer, 259, 664
 Sevier, 3
 Sewell, 903
 Seymour, 715
 Shakespeare, 1095
 Shalhand, 210
 Shanker, 205
 Sharon United Methodist Church, 70
 Sharp, 549, 1149
 Sharpe, 486
 Shartzler, 872
 Shaw, 102, 344, 1087
 Shelby, 1, 3
 Shelby Chamber of Commerce, 1
 Shelby Community Lions Club, 95
 Shelby Garden Club, 96
 Shelby Junior Charity League, 97
 Shelby Negro Woman's Club, 98
 Shelby Presbyterian Church, 71
 Shelby, Town of (1842 founding), 1
 Shellum, 342
 Shelton, 486
 Shenk, 89, 783
 Sheppard, 358, 977, 978
 Sherman, 247, 534, 856
 Sherrill, 1, 401, 416, 613, 699
 Shields, 388, 1063
 Shillinglaw, 568
 Shiloh Presbyterian Church, 1
 Shittle, 712, 918, 1156
 Shive, 377
 Shoemaker, 409
 Short, 80, 222, 224, 370, 542, 979, 1050
 Shotwell, 71
 Shrum, 773, 967
 Shuford, 1, 35, 81, 93, 205, 206, 207, 284, 302, 364, 367, 368, 441, 622, 638, 953, 999, 1076, 1097
 Shull, 461, 726
 Shultz, 897
 Shumaker, 311
 Shuman, 666
 Shurer, 639
 Shytte, 35, 67, 276, 440, 584, 647, 649, 704
 Sibley, 995, 1031
 Sides, 204, 1156, 1157, 1158
 Siegal, 267
 Sigmon, 856, 1157
 Sikes, 274
 Siler, 71
 Silver, 902
 Simmons, 23, 29, 204, 226, 309, 407, 440, 461, 629, 650, 657, 906, 980, 1091, 1092, 1093, 1097, 1100
 Simms, 1039
 Simon, 597
 Simons, 666
 Simoton, 563
 Simpson, 56, 635, 786
 Simri, 352
 Sims, 64, 65, 235, 445, 876
 Sincox, 87
 Sing, 1154
 Singing School, 57
 Singleton, 223, 225, 771, 981
 Sinkler, 1129
 Sipe, 376
 Sipes, 639, 1045
 Siple, 210
 Sisk, 449, 830
 Sizemore, 584, 1149
 Skeen, 252
 Skidmore, 514, 1150
 Skinner, 289, 384, 385, 386, 387, 542, 887
 Skipper, 758, 769
 Skorman, 932
 Skross, 1126
 Slater, 10
 Slaves in Cleveland County, 37
 Sloan, 868, 937
 Smallwood, 928
 Smarr, 1062
 Smart, 829, 953, 1049
 Smiley, 56, 239, 420
 Smith, 31, 35, 51, 67, 70, 72, 77, 88, 96, 226, 258, 259, 262, 274, 277, 311, 334, 342, 343, 346, 347, 359, 363, 369, 378, 381, 383, 394, 407, 409, 423, 424, 460, 474, 503, 542, 554, 557, 565, 580, 584, 624, 634, 635, 639, 640, 644, 648, 669, 699, 700, 712, 717, 756, 758, 760, 763, 773, 776, 810, 879, 883, 892, 896, 918, 934, 939, 940, 961, 968, 976, 982, 983, 994, 1000-B, 1004, 1007, 1009, 1049, 1084, 1103, 1135, 1147, 1149, 1150, 1154
 Smoot, 830
 Smyre, 68
 Sneed, 614
 Snipes, 1079
 Snoddy, 255
 Snow, 53
 Snyder, 717, 937
 Sobera, 1152
 Solansky, 408
 Solesbee, 808
 Solis, 663
 Solomon, 203
 Sorrell, 1097
 Sorrells, 405
 Southerland, 856
 Southern, 663
 Spake, 66, 69, 77, 620, 621,

624, 625, 743, 977, 984,
985, 986, 1008, 1125, 1126
Spangler, 1, 95, 96, 104, 208,
245, 246, 253, 321, 380,
439, 457, 458, 461, 489,
506, 509, 559, 585, 630,
652, 702, 745, 774, 856,
970, 980, 987, 988, 989,
990, 991, 992, 993, 994,
995, 996, 997, 998, 999,
1000-A, 1000-B, 1001,
1002, 1003, 1004, 1005,
1008, 1017, 1019, 1021,
1052, 1069, 1087, 1126,
1148, 1152
Sparks, 325, 440, 608, 832,
864, 990, 994, 1005, 1006
Spaugh, 861
Spearman, 77
Spears, 95
Spence, 453
Spencer, 41, 67, 419, 462,
548, 580, 771, 994, 1064,
1065, 1149
Sperling, 69, 243, 557, 705,
989, 1007, 1008, 1126
Spivey, 302, 830
Spragins, 502
Spratt, 403, 679
Springs, 1046
Sprouse, 786, 1001, 1002
Spurlin, 463, 1009, 1010,
1011, 1012
Spurling, 60, 210, 239, 240,
254, 299, 331-A, 388, 420,
440, 509, 792, 887, 889,
892, 894, 901, 944, 955-A,
955-B, 1010, 1011, 1013
Spurrier, 387
Spyers-Duran, 307
Stabler, 56
Stacey, 53, 70
Stacy, 301, 858, 1014, 1102
Stafford, 644, 939
Stalder, 420
Stalling, 93
Stallings, 66, 901
Stamback, 396
Stamey, 6, 53, 62, 340, 341,
342, 345, 355, 356, 509,
856, 1005
Stanback, 414
Stanberry, 1087, 1088
Stancil, 1017
Standridge, 901
Stanhope, 203
Stanley, 534
Starnes, 511, 813
Starns, 686
Staten, 794
Staton, 833
Steadman, 1152
Steele, 373
Steelman, 95
Steep, 859
Stein, 954
Stell, 53
Stender, 72
Stephens, 82, 647, 704, 1157
Stephenson, 699
Stepp, 901
Stevens, 471, 884, 1141
Stevenson, 41, 808
Steward, 901
Stewart, 47, 207, 250, 477,
719, 928, 952, 1108
Stikeleather, 745
Still, 782
Stillwell, 1157
Stimson, 827
Stinson, 443
Stirewalt, 912
Stockton, 24, 35, 318, 340,
341, 345, 422, 424, 507,
695, 883, 989, 1015, 1016,
1017, 1018, 1019, 1040,
1077
Stoddard, 228
Stokes, 726, 1111
Stoll, 54
Stonall, 1142
Stone, 48, 302, 503, 899,
1074
Stoneman, 993
Story, 387
Stovall, 861
Stover, 286, 287
Stowe, 1071, 1073
Strachan, 872, 873

Strader, 56
Stradley, 939
Strain, 319
Strait, 274
Strand, 739, 1060
Straup, 1020
Street, 443, 534, 554, 562,
669, 744
Strickland, 66, 67, 331-A,
443, 585, 733, 829
Strickling, 561
Strider, 45, 50, 1152
Stringer, 414
Stringfellow, 250
Strong, 936
Stroop, 1020
Stroub, 1020
Stroud, 251, 259, 557, 731,
736, 740, 879, 1007, 1097
Stroup, 43, 96, 308, 346, 376,
388, 434, 691, 1020, 1056
Stroupe, 210, 511, 743, 909,
956, 1020, 1067, 1068,
1150
Strubb, 1020
Strupp, 1020
Stuard, 559
Stuart, 96, 229, 654, 1021
Stubbs, 29, 769
Stubs, 624
Stuckey, 949, 1051
Sturdivant, 396
Stuttler, 981
Styers, 69, 449, 1052
Styres, 75, 624
Sugg, 22, 46
Sullivan, 231, 328, 638, 1134
Sulphur Springs, 1
Sulphur Springs Methodist
Church, 74
Summers, 22, 83, 409, 592,
784, 1022
Summey, 81, 940
Summitt, 232, 1020
Sumpter, 495, 1107
Surratt, 363, 638, 647, 733
Surratte, 53
Sutherland, 228
Suttle, 1, 36, 37, 61, 62, 64,
65, 76, 80, 86, 220, 229,
233, 234, 259, 285, 287,
343, 344, 351, 363, 399,
452, 484, 517, 559, 565,
606, 625, 633, 706, 727,
734, 735, 736, 740, 749,
757, 801, 899, 900, 1023,
1024, 1025, 1026, 1027,
1028, 1029, 1030, 1031,
1032, 1033, 1034, 1035,
1036, 1037, 1038, 1060,
1081
Sutton, 35, 874, 963
Swafford, 45, 1043
Swain, 53, 908
Swango, 502
Sweatt, 366
Sweet, 231
Sweezy, 388, 1083
Swift, 1039, 1047, 1048
Swingle, 279, 308
Swink, 67, 464, 896
Swinson, 1152
Switzer, 36
Swofford, 312, 313, 860, 883,
919, 1040, 1041, 1042,
1043, 1044
Swope, 62

— T —

Tabisz, 262
Tadlock, 1007
Talbert, 62
Talbot, 1060
Talbot, 557
Tallant, 1040
Tallent, 355, 811, 956, 975,
1112
Talley, 561
Tally, 48
Tarlton, 75
Tate, 5, 53, 54, 65, 77, 93,
228, 257, 292, 350, 457,
549, 644, 975, 1041, 1045,
1049
Taylor, 302, 326, 328, 343,
347, 441, 464, 542, 684,
704, 897, 910, 962, 1046,
1048, 1069, 1085, 1091,
1098, 1099, 1126

Teague, 24, 44, 64, 779
Tedder, 1039, 1047, 1048
Tucker, 348
Teele, 584
Teer, 402
Teeter, 428
Telephones, 38
Telmet, 64, 721
Temple, 456, 1065
Templeton, 364
Tenery, 76
Terry, 815, 1040, 1087, 1088
Tessener, 292
Tessner, 403, 1049, 1050
Tessner, 901
Textile Mills, 1, 10, 22, 29
Thacker, 86, 388, 1141
Thackerson, 901
Thacketon, 704
Thayer, 265, 342
Theodore, 1103
Thomas, 58, 71, 96, 98, 251,
460, 507, 679, 680, 727,
758, 760, 903, 921, 922,
923, 924, 1079
Thomason, 48, 874
Thomasson, 22, 102, 250
Thompson, 510
Thompson, 4, 13, 33, 56, 70,
79, 96, 230, 248, 265, 289,
343, 366, 423, 440, 468,
487, 578, 596, 597, 622,
624, 631, 632, 724, 796,
818, 937, 949, 1018, 1051,
1052, 1053, 1054, 1055,
1087, 1141
Thorburn, 102
Thorman, 393
Thorn, 1074
Thornburg, 64, 325, 450, 552,
975, 980
Thorne, 46
Thornton, 286, 287, 293, 872
Thrasher, 475
Threat, 23, 67, 292, 1049
Thrift, 228, 300, 325, 326,
350, 542, 952
Throckmorton, 319
Thurman, 547, 702, 975
Thursday Afternoon Book Club,
101
Thurston, 1085
Tice, 206
Tillett, 1047
Tillinghast, 1048
Tillman, 4, 6, 73, 254, 381,
465, 631, 775, 992
Tilt, 706, 707, 1067
Tilton, 952
Timberlake, 818
Timms, 709
Tindall, 54
Tinnin, 585
Tipping, 1064, 1065
Tipton, 22
Tisdale, 28, 1024
Tisinger, 557
Todd, 856, 912
Tolleson, 95, 338
Tomlinson, 883, 1152
Toms, 397, 399, 400, 507,
722, 839, 936, 1097, 1143
Toney, 66, 361, 362, 443,
483, 670
Tonski, 872
Toole, 1106, 1109
Torbet, 1018
Towery, 4, 23, 252, 507, 668,
990, 1074, 1152
Town & Country Garden Club,
102
Towry, 434, 1056
Tracey, 29
Tracy, 46, 48
Trade Routes in 1800's, 13
Trainor, 92
Trammell, 979
Trawick, 1
Traywick, 75
Tredway, 1032
Treece, 537
Trent, 767
Tria, 77
Tribble, 810
Trice, 992
Trimble, 301
Triplett, 1041
Tritt, 846
Trivett, 968

Trott, 388
True, 710
Truelove, 763
Tubbs, 700
Tucker, 1-B, 35, 206, 238,
282, 340, 348, 461, 507,
781, 966, 1057
Turner, 4, 14, 35, 56, 204,
224, 235, 247, 257, 275,
306, 423, 429, 430, 477,
509, 512, 542, 571, 607,
616, 622, 630, 638, 644,
678, 685, 704, 744, 786,
808, 827, 858, 872, 922,
1058, 1059, 1060, 1061,
1106, 1109, 1114, 1141,
1145, 1147, 1150
Turpin, 510, 1097
Tuthill, 729
Twitty, 789, 790, 791
Tyson, 41

— U —

Umberger, 868
Umstead, 689
Underwood, 577
Union School Consolidation,
34
United Daughters of the Confederacy, William
Wilson Allen Chapter, 104
Upchurch, 534
Upton, 33, 53, 483, 893
Uzzell, 571, 572

— V —

Valenli, 928
Vance, 12, 86, 417, 598
Vanderford, 92
Vanderploeg, 228
Vanderploegh, 226
Vanderpool, 301
Van Dyke, 758, 760, 1062
Vann, 937
Van Sleen, 647
Vassey, 299, 830
Vaughn, 220, 1063, 1148,
1149
Vaulx, 440
Veatch, 81, 1091, 1093
Venning, 750, 755
Vespe, 1126
Vess, 393, 937, 975
Vestal, 507
Vick, 586, 587
Vickery, 1034
Victor, 324
Vincent, 80, 400
Vinesett, 647
Vinsant, 423
Vinson, 414
Vipperman, 64
Vogele, 972
Von Bahler, 856
Voseckey, 662

— W —

Wacaster, 86
Waco, 1, 39
Waddell, 278
Wade, 560, 561
Walden, 612
Waldrop, 975
Walker, 10, 24, 35, 44, 66,
252, 269, 299, 300, 318,
364, 369, 383, 404, 423,
453, 456, 461, 512, 561,
564, 647, 650, 717, 746,
771, 775, 776, 840, 857,
893, 894, 907, 912, 939,
956, 1025, 1032, 1033,
1038, 1064, 1065, 1073,
1077, 1106, 1109, 1122,
1123
Wall, 1, 54, 57, 76, 86, 99,
204, 510, 566, 606, 681,
682, 827, 902, 948, 999,
1032, 1047, 1065, 1066,
1098
Wallace, 35, 65, 349, 358,
433, 458, 470, 669, 713,
956, 991, 1145, 1150
Waller, 587
Walraven, 876
Walters, 70, 517
Waits, 70
Ward, 216, 217, 219, 755,
1056
Ware, 5, 29, 41, 48, 77, 87.

94, 102, 104, 208, 444,
 489, 551, 581, 586, 635,
 646, 675, 706, 707, 726,
 804, 812, 813, 865, 869,
 871, 872, 874, 898, 930,
 952, 956, 978, 1067, 1068,
 1103, 1106, 1127, 1151
 Warlick, 33, 35, 37, 44, 63,
 283, 331-A, 340, 341, 345,
 356, 388, 423, 433, 448,
 509, 510, 629, 631, 696,
 717, 720, 774, 821, 835,
 856, 905, 937, 969, 974,
 987, 989, 990, 994,
 1000-B, 1013, 1020, 1069,
 1070, 1071, 1072, 1073,
 1074, 1075, 1076, 1112,
 1113, 1121, 1144, 1148
 Warner, 1071
 Warr, 534, 802
 Warren, 590, 596
 Wartz, 760
 Washam, 262
 Washburn, 2, 21, 24, 29, 44,
 57, 75, 76, 86, 247, 248,
 252, 296, 317, 361, 362,
 364, 388, 435, 440, 481,
 487, 505, 507, 521, 532,
 540, 545, 554, 556, 558,
 562, 564, 624, 657, 662,
 744, 753, 754, 756, 757,
 758, 770, 933, 1005, 1016,
 1017, 1064, 1065, 1077,
 1078, 1079, 1080, 1081,
 1082, 1115
 Washington, 421, 437, 440,
 1046
 Wass, 696
 Waters, 28, 45, 434, 901,
 1076, 1149
 Watkins, 53, 257, 616, 782,
 1134, 1139
 Watson, 388, 441, 509, 510,
 542, 581, 662, 1127
 Watterson, 85, 638, 689, 804,
 813, 937, 956
 Watts, 53, 73, 308, 343, 421,
 423, 687
 Waynesville, 857
 Wease, 276
 Weast, 830
 Weathers, 1, 9, 32, 37, 64,
 69, 75, 206, 207, 259, 361,
 374, 376, 380, 428, 461,
 565, 590, 609, 624, 657,
 663, 696, 726, 729, 745,
 747, 758, 878, 879, 955-A,
 969, 970, 977, 988, 999,
 1001, 1002, 1005, 1057,
 1065, 1083, 1084, 1085,
 1086, 1087, 1088, 1091,
 1121, 1145, 1152
 Weatherford, 413, 415, 418
 Weatherspoon, 558
 Weaver, 7, 29, 60, 65, 94, 95,
 423, 605, 607, 743, 872,
 905, 915, 948, 974, 994,
 1010, 1087, 1157
 Webb, 1, 16, 43, 59, 62, 64,
 71, 81, 98, 102, 202, 206,
 234, 259, 274, 308, 330,
 344, 369, 403, 411, 435,
 437, 442, 462, 466, 467,
 470, 510, 556, 558, 560,
 608, 616, 633, 649, 658,
 684, 717, 720, 722, 726,
 727, 731, 739, 740, 756,
 762, 778, 922, 923, 1046,
 1047, 1048, 1085, 1089,
 1090, 1091, 1092, 1093,
 1094, 1095, 1096, 1097,
 1098, 1099, 1100, 1144,
 1148
 Webber, 66, 67, 99, 393, 475,
 916, 930, 1101
 Weber, 443, 463, 1007, 1142
 Webster, 278, 414, 870, 1045
 Weeds, 1097
 Weeks, 68, 441
 Weer, 1067, 1103
 Wehunt, 386
 Weidner, 1102
 Weir, 41, 54, 89, 102, 618,
 620, 856, 898, 1097, 1103,
 1104, 1105
 Welborn, 351
 Welch, 250, 302, 702
 Welhausen, 318
 Wellman, 44, 340, 730, 1112
 Wellmon, 63, 374, 376, 522,
 904, 1087, 1088, 1148
 Wells, 29, 40, 334, 427, 469,
 470, 471, 476, 510, 549,
 550, 637, 639, 646, 719,
 723, 765, 804, 826, 886,
 915, 939, 947, 980, 1103,
 1105, 1106, 1107, 1108,
 1109, 1128, 1129, 1141,
 1154
 Wells Homeplace (1780), 40
 Welsh, 898
 Wenzel, 1056, 1155
 Wentz, 773
 Werle, 443
 Werner, 89
 Wesleys, 59
 Wesson, 37, 392, 393, 537,
 556, 629, 654, 669, 859,
 1032, 1083, 1130
 West, 437
 Westbrook, 572, 637
 Westbrooks, 719
 Wester, 1156
 Westmoreland, 418
 Wharton, 678
 Wheeler, 509, 936
 Whetstine, 644, 1062
 Whigby, 409
 Whipple, 1121
 Whisenant, 247, 549, 978
 Whisnant, 51, 56, 59, 205,
 225, 241, 345, 423, 424,
 428, 452, 503, 534, 608,
 637, 649, 650, 660, 661,
 692, 771, 804, 840, 907,
 920, 937, 986, 995,
 1000-B, 1069, 1073, 1110,
 1116, 1118
 Whisonant, 924, 1070, 1107
 Whitaker, 70, 86, 88, 230,
 319, 406, 527, 530, 550,
 585, 745, 1109
 White, 3, 41, 50, 54, 61, 91,
 231, 247, 248, 252, 274,
 313, 323, 324, 345, 404,
 446, 456, 477, 500, 506,
 623, 624, 649, 662, 704,
 709, 748, 758, 760, 769,
 833, 878, 888, 892, 895,
 918, 955-A, 964, 1056,
 1059, 1065, 1068, 1097,
 1111, 1112, 1113, 1114,
 1139, 1148, 1152
 Whitelock, 862, 863
 Whitely, 428, 948
 White Plains Academy, 48
 Whitener, 68, 301, 457, 1014,
 1102
 Whites, 446
 Whitesides, 41, 204, 250,
 366, 370, 450, 773, 789,
 842, 865, 874, 1018, 1097,
 1121, 1150
 Whitley, 621
 Whitmire, 335
 Whitner, 47, 345, 886
 Whittier, 952
 Whitworth, 67, 69, 308, 449,
 624, 625, 1148, 1149
 Wier, 635
 Wiggins, 300, 491, 626, 746
 Wiffong, 992
 Wilcox, 719
 Wilder, 54, 93, 504
 Wiley, 201, 257, 264, 689,
 763
 Wilfong, 1102
 Wilkerson, 903
 Wilkes, 1047
 Wilkie, 95, 739, 914, 937,
 1157
 Wilkins, 81, 208, 209, 316,
 440, 466, 517, 605, 756,
 854, 858, 963, 970, 1087,
 1149
 Wilkinson, 914
 Willard, 345
 Willeford, 46
 Williams, 3, 16, 18, 45, 53,
 56, 59, 70, 207, 208, 212,
 229, 246, 308, 319, 331,
 337, 352, 359, 384, 414,
 460, 510, 585, 609, 647,
 688, 689, 692, 704, 711,
 724, 910, 918, 942, 947,
 956, 974, 977, 978, 980,
 998, 1005, 1012, 1013,
 1049, 1064, 1065, 1123,
 1146, 1147, 1149
 Williamson, 37, 99, 249, 342,
 355, 423, 445, 447, 509,
 547, 839, 840, 990, 1015,
 1106, 1109, 1115, 1141,
 1143
 Willingham, 44
 Willis, 4, 6, 24, 29, 53, 59,
 63, 73, 89, 95, 246, 247,
 254, 319, 346, 388, 422,
 466, 638, 651, 660, 704,
 750, 751, 754, 757, 835,
 889, 913, 974, 975, 990,
 1000-B, 1043, 1056, 1065,
 1110, 1112, 1116, 1117,
 1118, 1133, 1149, 1154,
 1156
 Wilson, 4, 24, 28, 31, 47, 64,
 66, 69, 70, 71, 75, 82, 208,
 210, 237, 245, 252, 256,
 274, 280, 282, 292, 311,
 350, 352, 355, 378, 386,
 395, 422, 423, 446, 447,
 453, 461, 506, 509, 522,
 532, 538, 550, 564, 585,
 597, 600, 614, 616, 620,
 650, 663, 665, 714, 745,
 746, 808, 820, 846, 853,
 878, 879, 881, 903, 906,
 916, 925, 926, 928, 933,
 934, 937, 948, 952, 955-A,
 955-B, 984, 985, 986, 988,
 990, 1000-B, 1008, 1010,
 1017, 1020, 1057, 1067,
 1103, 1116, 1118, 1119,
 1120, 1121, 1122, 1123,
 1124, 1125, 1126, 1128
 Wimberly, 794
 Wilmon, 43
 Winget, 778, 787
 Winn, 251, 257, 277
 Winslow, 751
 Winstead, 733
 Winston, 534
 Winterrowd, 1152
 Winters, 26, 694
 Wise, 70, 250, 345, 534, 1150
 Wiseman, 680, 1085, 1086
 Wishon, 1049
 Wiston, 1130
 Witber, 48
 Withers, 12, 1088
 Witherspoon, 307, 309, 581,
 1127
 Withrow, 99, 236, 370, 414,
 418, 422, 428, 794, 1097,
 1128, 1129
 Witt, 252
 Wix, 292
 WKMT (Radio Station), 103
 Wolf, 783
 Wolfe, 29, 74, 244, 253, 276,
 551, 608, 691, 743, 874,
 975, 1018, 1130, 1131,
 1132, 1133
 Wolfer, 396
 Womack, 370
 Wombles, 70
 Wood, 27, 28, 29, 47, 66, 84,
 265, 266, 288, 338, 339,
 409, 561, 564, 565, 657,
 726, 872, 1073, 1134,
 1135, 1136, 1137, 1138,
 1139, 1140, 1141, 1148
 Woodall, 316
 Woodruff, 1138
 Woods, 568, 616, 935
 Woodson, 724
 Woody, 567, 743
 Woolman, 465
 Woosley, 45, 53
 Workman, 658
 Worrell, 279, 282
 Worth, 871
 Worthman, 312, 313, 649,
 821, 967
 Wortz, 758
 Wotherspoon, 238
 Wotring, 624
 Wratten, 339
 Wray, 1, 43, 58, 60, 99, 233,
 250, 343, 367, 368, 394,
 395, 399, 414, 418, 466,
 557, 633, 645, 667, 670,
 722, 732, 734, 736, 757,
 829, 917, 934, 940, 1025,
 1026, 1028, 1032, 1033,
 1036, 1037, 1089, 1097,
 1106, 1109, 1141, 1142,
 1143, 1144
 Wrenn, 1068
 Wright, 19, 44, 64, 82, 93,
 250, 255, 288, 299, 300,
 313, 316, 324, 337, 349,
 359, 403, 405, 407, 433,
 440, 448, 459, 460, 499,
 501, 523, 536, 558, 585,
 616, 630, 634, 689, 762,
 766, 773, 774, 830, 832,
 859, 860, 896, 974, 975,
 987, 997, 1004, 1005,
 1020, 1073, 1116, 1118,
 1135, 1145, 1146, 1147,
 1148, 1149, 1150, 1151
 Wyant, 1157
 Wyatt, 350
 Wyatt, 1054
 Wylie, 60, 323, 616, 765, 915
 Wynn, 395
 — Y — Yancey, 1115
 Yandle, 348
 Yanoudehagen, 813
 Yarboro, 77, 95, 511, 987,
 1012, 1148
 Yarborough, 75, 467, 1147
 Yarbrow, 586
 Yarbrough, 43, 704
 Yarbrough, 1060
 Yates, 250, 647, 947
 Yeago, 624
 Yearly, 919
 Yelton, 66, 261, 440, 439,
 507, 989, 991, 1001, 1002,
 1152
 Yoder, 22, 733, 955-A
 Yokley, 53, 55
 Yongue, 935
 Yoos, 531
 York, 70, 419
 Young, 41, 60, 73, 81, 99,
 325, 334, 359, 396, 409,
 457, 466, 507, 534, 593,
 694, 712, 794, 800, 853,
 1008, 1153, 1154, 1155,
 1156, 1157, 1158
 Youngblood, 570
 — Z — Zachmann, 692
 Zealy, 1087
 Ziegler, 462, 962
 Zimmerman, 694
 Zion Baptist Church, 75
 Zoar Baptist Church, 76

FAMILY HISTORY NOTES

FAMILY HISTORY NOTES

FAMILY HISTORY NOTES

FAMILY HISTORY NOTES

FAMILY HISTORY NOTES

