

North Carolina And Its Counties: 1760-1912

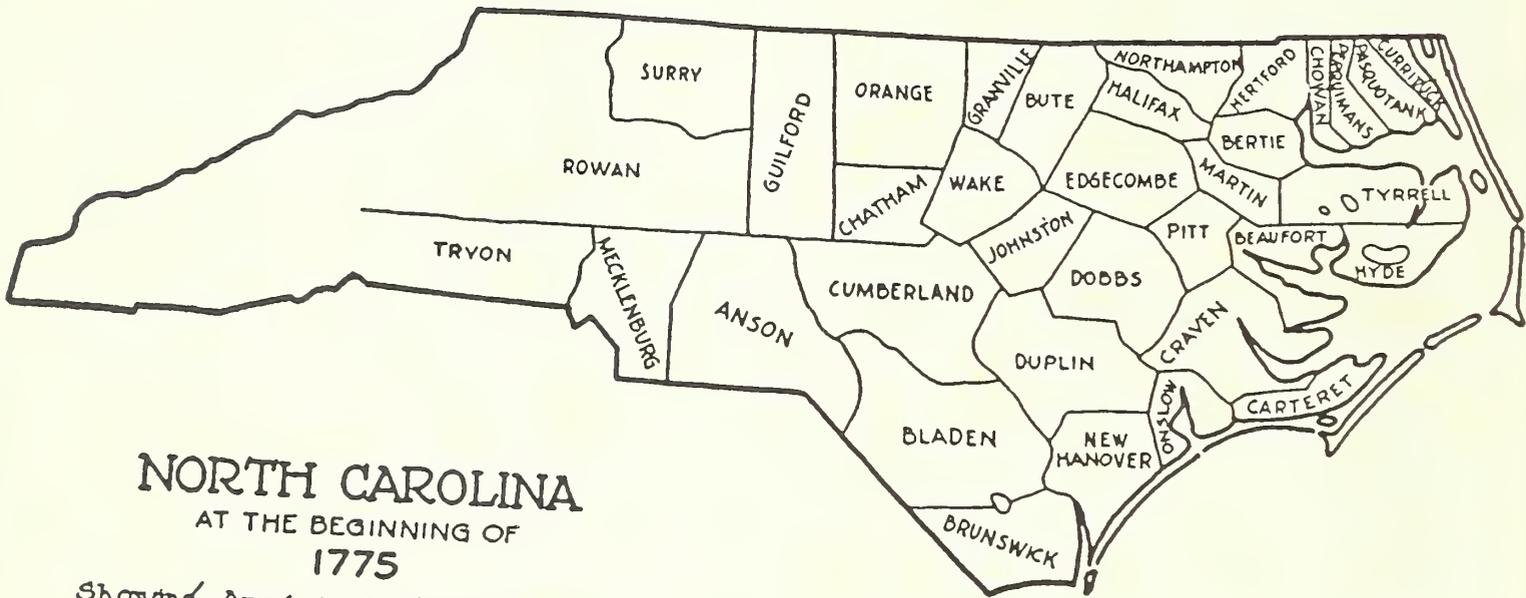

These selected maps show approximate county divisions within present state boundaries. From D.L. Corbitt's Formation of North Carolina Counties, 1663-1933. Maps drawn by L. Polk Denmark, from Division of Archives and History, N.C. State Government, Raleigh.

NORTH CAROLINA
AT THE BEGINNING OF 1760

Showing Approximate County Divisions
within Present State Boundaries.

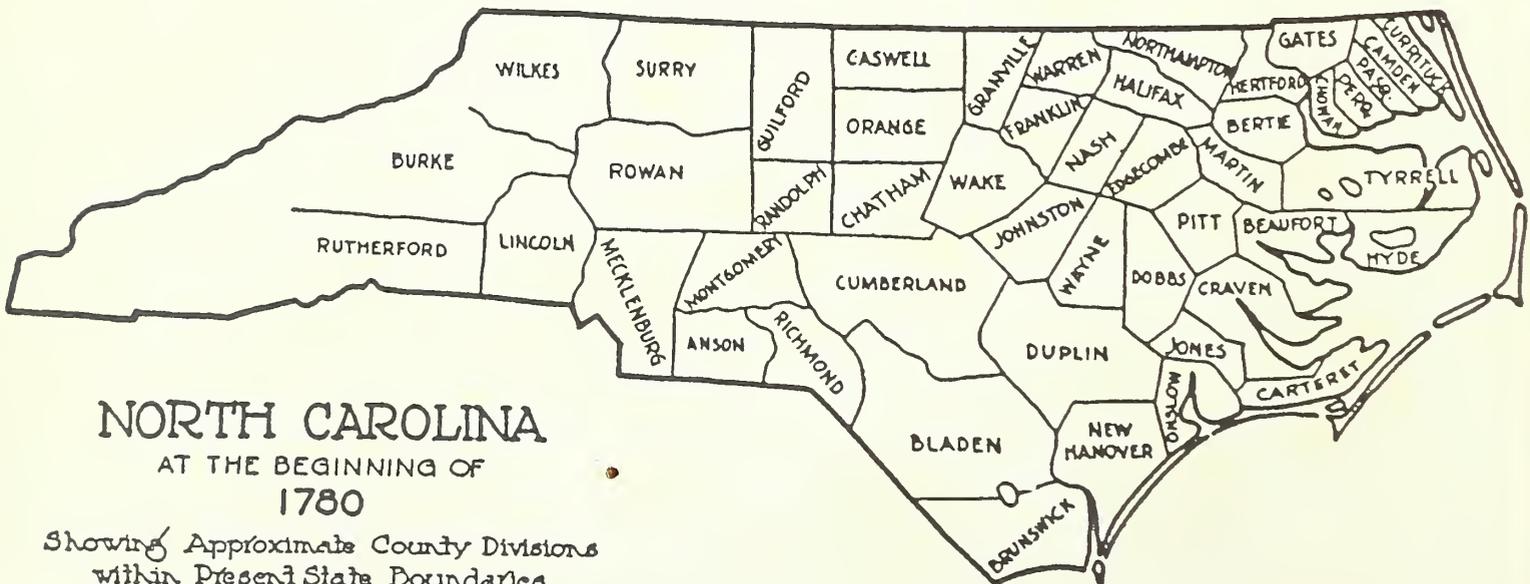

Map by
L. Polk Denmark

NORTH CAROLINA
AT THE BEGINNING OF
1775

Showing Approximate County Divisions
within Present State Boundaries

Map by
L. Polk Denmark

NORTH CAROLINA
AT THE BEGINNING OF
1780

Showing Approximate County Divisions
within Present State Boundaries.

Map by
L. Polk Denmark

Digitized by the Internet Archive in 2016 with funding from North Carolina Digital Heritage Center

<https://archive.org/details/heritageofclevel01clev>

THE HERITAGE OF CLEVELAND COUNTY VOLUME I — 1982

Heritage Book Committee
James D. Marler, Coordinator
Dr. Wyan Washburn Tyree Greene
Joe DePriest Rosalynd Gilliatt

Published By
The Cleveland County Historical Association
in cooperation with Hunter Publishing Company
Winston-Salem, North Carolina, 27103

©Copyright 1982
The Cleveland County Historical Association
Shelby, North Carolina 28150
All rights reserved

Printed in the United States of America by Hunter Publishing Company, Winston-Salem, North Carolina 27103

ISBN 0-89459-183-5

Address All Inquiries To:
Heritage of Cleveland County
P.O. Box 1335
Shelby, North Carolina 28150
1-704-482-8186

An early postcard showing an aerial view of Kings Mountain looking north on Battleground Avenue. Note the Kings Mountain High School (now the Jr. High School), St. Matthews Lutheran Church, the old A.R.P. Church, Dr. Hord's house (now the Mauney Memorial Library), the old First National Bank building and the early bridge on King Street (now U.S. 74). From the collection of the Mauney Memorial Library.

CONTENTS

Preface, Acknowledgements, and Staff	IV
A statement as to the “why” and “how” behind this book, the staff, and acknowledgements.
Section I — Local History	1
A collection of articles reflecting a portion of the history, origins, organizations, schools, churches, and communities of Cleveland County. Indexed by article number, not page number.
Section II — Family Histories	73
Almost 1000 sketches of Cleveland County families as written by family mem or their representatives. Indexed by article number, not page number.
Section III — Pictorial History	627
A collection of photographs and remembrances which recognizes individuals, family groups, and organizations of the county. Not indexed.
Section IV — Index	666
A complete surname index by article number, not page number, and a topical index of the local history section.

An early postcard showing an aerial view of Kings Mountain looking southeast from Mountain Street and Battleground Avenue. Note the Plunk Store, the old Southern Railroad Depot, the early Bonnie Mill plant, First Baptist Church, the Ware Home, the old Mountain View Hotel and Kings Mountain pinnacle in background. From the collection of the Mauney Memorial Library.

PREFACE

The Heritage of Cleveland County was undertaken by the Cleveland County Historical Association and Museum as a special county-wide project to collect, record, and preserve the histories of our families and institutions which might be lost with the passing of older citizens. The sponsors also hoped this project would enhance the interest of our citizens in genealogy and in local historical preservation. All citizens of the county as well as organizations including churches, schools, civic clubs, etc., were invited to submit material from colonial times to the present.

For reasons best known only to themselves, some family groups and organizations failed to respond or failed to meet publication deadlines.

The sponsoring committee in extending the invitation to share in this venture, urged each writer to document their history. In many cases, this is indicated in the last paragraph of the article. Court records, newspaper articles, gravestones, U.S. Census records, family Bibles, and interviews with family members are among the most common form of documentation.

In striving for accuracy each article was edited several times in an effort to catch possible grammatical and spelling errors. In some cases, the material was printed just as submitted in order to retain the local flavor and language. In no way were any historical dates, names, places, etc., changed. However, it must be noted that the spelling of some surnames have changed over the years. Thus, the Historical Association/Museum and Book Committee can take no responsibility for the authenticity of any of the articles or possible errors.

The readers of this book will find a rich diverseness. This reflects a small portion of the varied life-styles, education, background, attitudes, heritage, economic circumstances, etc., found among the hundreds of persons who contributed to the book and shared in its preparation.

We believe that a thoughtful reading of each section will present a mosaic of remembrances. These, we believe, tell a portion of our story.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

The Historical Association, the Book Committee, and the Cleveland County Historical Museum staff gratefully acknowledge with sincere appreciation the assistance and support of countless numbers of persons county-wide; from Grover to Belwood, from Mooresboro to Kings Mountain, and to many now living beyond the bounds of the county whose assistance made possible the publication of this book. Together we have experienced a growing and deeper understanding of our heritage and our special place in American and North Carolina history.

It is impossible to name each individually. However, the following are worthy of special acknowledgement:

This is an old photo of the Patterson Springs Hotel, made in the late 1890's or early 1900's. This old hotel attracted visitors from a wide area.

To the members and friends of the Cleveland County Historical Association/Museum who helped spread the story of this book county-wide, inviting families and groups to submit materials and then, in prompting the sale of the book.

To Rosalynd Gilliatt, who, as chairman of the family history section, put life not only into the book but also in those who helped. In person and by telephone she kept the lifeblood of enthusiasm pulsing. Her untiring leadership helped the staff and committee to "push on" through to completion.

To the Editing Committee whose "upstairs angels" worked unceasingly for weeks reading and re-reading manuscripts, preparing the indexing, arranging the manuscript in the proper order, and in preparing the page log, story by story, picture by picture, for the printer.

To Doris Lloyd, museum secretary, who, in addition to her regular duties, did much of the vital day-to-day work behind the scenes.

To the typing classes at Cleveland Technical College whose students retyped many of the articles.

To radio stations and newspapers of the area for their generous support.

To William S. Reasonover, Historical Division, Hunter Publishing Company, Winston-Salem, North Carolina, for his advice, encouragement, frequent telephone calls, and personal visits.

The Book Committee

THE CLEVELAND COUNTY HISTORICAL ASSOCIATION

The Cleveland County Historical Association was formed in 1965. In its early days, it was an informal group of like-minds, all interested in local history and family genealogy. With time the organization grew in prominence to one of the county's foremost cultural organizations. In 1976, under the leadership of Dr. Wyan Washburn, the association started a county historical museum in the old courthouse on the square which was vacated by the county for offices in the new Courthouse-Law Enforcement Center.

With the creation of the historical museum, which was started by volunteers from the county-wide area, the association activities expanded and were brought under the umbrella of the museum. Originally, the museum exhibit areas were divided into various sections showing the different aspects of county heritage. The initial interest was immense and the membership was approximately four hundred members. However, this declined to a point where even people working across the street from the museum did not know there was a county museum. At this time a full-time professional curator/director was hired.

James D. Marler was employed as the museum's first curator and director. Under his guidance within three years the Cleveland County Historical Museum won First Place in a statewide contest for small museums sponsored by the Museum Associates of the State Historical Museum. This happened because of upgraded exhibits, new county-wide programs and activities, and an awareness of the citizens of Cleveland County of their museum.

To date the museum has started four annual activities which pull students and adults to the museum and court square, and has started several organizations and is associated with seven more.

The association and the historical museum is looking toward the future and trying to find new ways to serve the citizens of Cleveland County, while trying to live up to its motto — "History is made by those who dare and recorded by those who care".

CLEVELAND COUNTY HISTORICAL ASSOCIATION OFFICERS AND BOARD OF DIRECTORS 1981-82

Executive Committee:

James B. Taylor, President
Mrs. Charles (Mary) Neisler, Secretary
Edwin Ford, Vice President
Ed Hamilton, Treasurer
Mrs. C. Rush Hamrick, Jr.

Directors (County):

Hoyt Q. Bailey
David E. Beam
Mrs. Zan (Emily) Withrow
Taft S. Putnam
Mrs. J.B. (Ola Mae) Crow
Robert Warlick
Mrs. Yancey (Rebekah) Ellis
Coleman W. Goforth
Miss Burnette Hunt
Sam Jenkins
Mrs. B.A. (Bessie) Harry
Dr. Craven E. Williams
Rev. C.O. Greene

Kings Mountain

W.K. Mauney, Jr.
Mrs. John O. (Pat) Plonk, Jr.

Shelby

R. Hubbard Hamrick
Joe S. DePriest, Jr.
J.L. Suttle
Mrs. Wm. P. (Elva) Gheen

Staff

Heritage of Cleveland County

James D. Marler, Coordinator
 Doris Lloyd, Asst. Co-ordinator and project Treasurer

Editing Committee

Rosalynd Gilliatt, Chairman.
 Ruby Baker
 Maryanne Bridges
 Frances Greene
 Louise Hamrick
 Vera Hardin
 Clara Hughes
 Burnette Hunt
 Dot Moore
 Bea Ramey
 Mary Sue Thompson
 Elizabeth Weathers
 Ruth Young

□ □ □ □

Area Promoters

Frances Beam	Burnette Hunt
Ruth Beam	Beth Lattimore
Joe DePriest	Joyce Lutz
Maryanne Bridges	Dot Moore
Mary Gleaves	Mrs. Clyde Palmer
Rosalynd Gilliatt	Pat Plonk
C.O. Greene	Taft Putnam
Frances Greene	Bea Ramey
Tyree Greene	Ann Taylor
Vera Hardin	Mary Sue Thompson
Bessie Harry	Dr. Wyan Washburn
Hubbard Hamrick	Elizabeth Weathers
Louise Hamrick	Ruth Young
Clara Hughes

□ □ □ □

This is not a complete list because many persons throughout Cleveland County helped promote the "Book" without giving us their names or wanting credit.

□ □ □ □

Below — The "Upstairs Angels" (Heritage Book Editing Committee): L to R: Ruby Baker, Dot Moore, Frances Greene, Elizabeth Weathers, Rosalynd Gilliatt, Mary Sue Thompson, Louise Hamrick, Burnette Hunt, Clara Hughes, Bea Ramey. Not shown: Ruth Young, Vera Hardin, Maryanne Bridges.

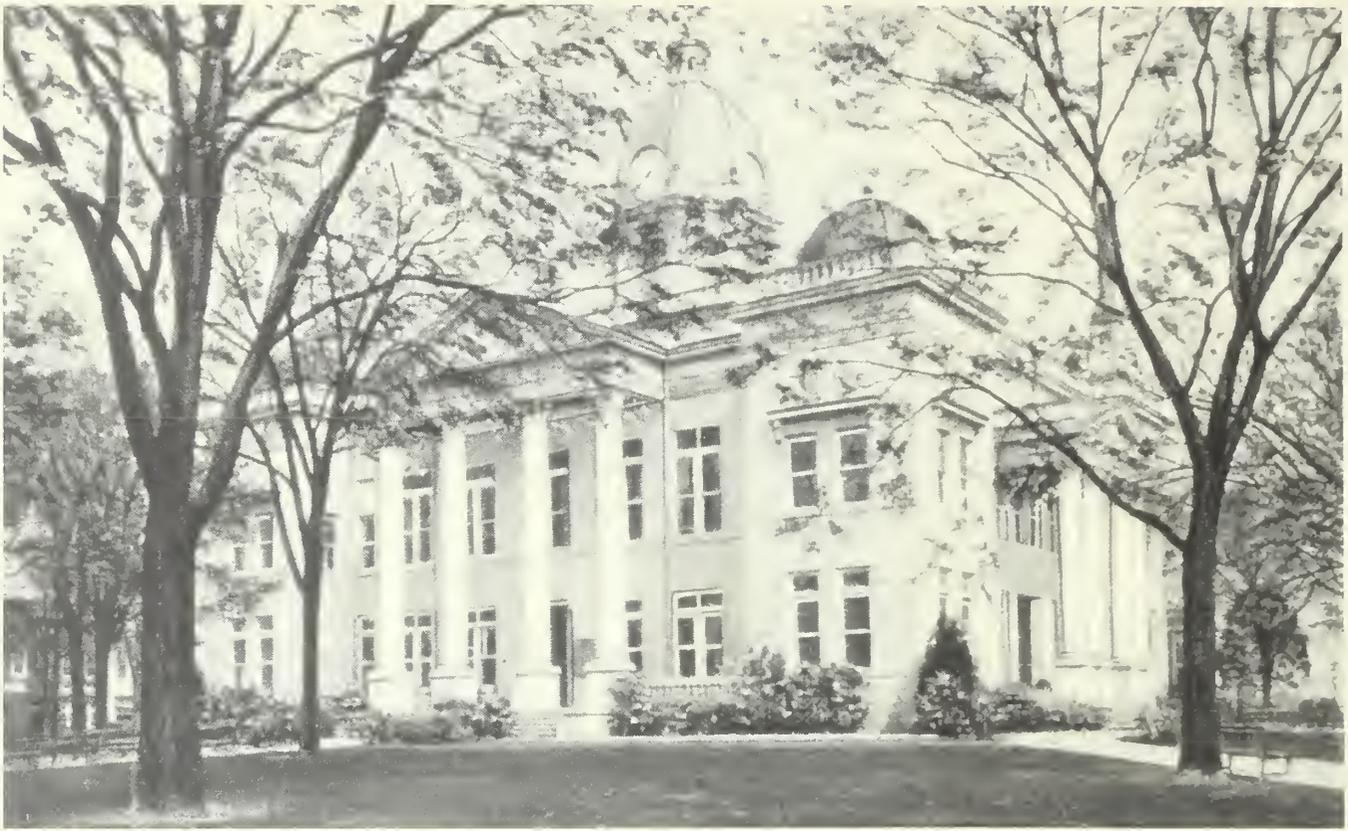

The Heritage Book Committee. Seated: Mrs. Rosalynd Gilliatt. L. to R., standing: Henry Lee Weathers, James B. Taylor, James D. Marler, Tyree Greene, Dr. Wyan Washburn. Not shown: Joe DePriest.

Historical Museum staff, L to R: Lamar Wilson, Curator of Exhibits, James Marler, Director, Doris Lloyd, Secretary.

Cleveland County Courthouse, 1907-1975, now the Cleveland County Historical Museum. The building and grounds are on the National Register of Historic Places. (From an old postcard.)

This Heritage Book is dedicated to the people of Cleveland County, old and new,
Who have made Cleveland County what it is today . . .
Especially those sons and daughters who sacrificed their lives in wars at home and abroad that we might remain free . . .

James D. Marler
Heritage Book Coordinator

Section I ~ LOCAL HISTORIES

A collection of articles written by county citizens devoted to the origins, early days, schools, churches, organizations, and communities of Cleveland County. Indexed by article number.

A BRIEF HISTORY OF CLEVELAND COUNTY

1

In the long ago, the area that was to become Cleveland County was a wild, unsettled wilderness not governed by any laws. The first white settlers came from Europe during the 1740's and 1750's and took up their abode along the rivers and streams. They found it inhabited by the Cherokee and Catawba Indians, a semi-nomadic people, who resisted the early white settlers.

Coming from England, Scotland, Germany, Ireland and France, the settlers' main port of entry to America was Philadelphia. Then they came south over the Great Philadelphia Wagon Road (also known as the Great Wagon Road or Post Road). Some others landed at Charleston, South Carolina, moving up the Broad River to Cleveland County.

These earliest white settlers intermarried and their descendants helped build Cleveland County and make it what it is today. History records that among the earliest settlers were families with the names of Hamrick, Hoyle, Beam, Spangler, Bridges, Cabiniss, Green, Harrill, McSwain, Falls and Blanton among others.

The usual colonial crops were raised — tobacco, grain, and flax. Flax was turned into clothing by thrifty housewives. The first cotton was planted in 1815, and Samuel Hamrick built the first wooden roller cotton gin in the county.

County Is Established

As early as 1836, the population in this territory had increased to the point that a demand arose for the formation of a new county. The people wanted a county seat to be centrally established so that residents would have easier access to a trading post and center of government. Dr. W.J.T. Miller of Rutherford County introduced a bill in the North Carolina General Assembly on January 11, 1841 to form the new county out of parts of Rutherford and Lincoln counties. He was assisted in its passage by Michael Hoke and John Runyan of Lincoln County.

The territory embraced by the new county had, since 1729, been part of eight distinct counties: Clarendon, 1729; New Hanover from Clarendon 1729; Bladen from New Hanover, 1734; Anson from Bladen, 1749; Mecklenburg from Anson, 1762; Tryon from Mecklenburg, 1768; Rutherford and Lincoln from Tryon, 1779; and Cleveland from Rutherford and Lincoln, 1841.

The legislative act creating Cleveland County provided that a county seat be located "not more than four miles from Wilson's mineral springs," now Cleveland Springs. The spring site was one of the best known points in this area and was considered to be in the middle of the new county, located near the Post Road which had been the dividing line between Lincoln and Rutherford counties.

The location of the county seat proved something of a controversy. Settlers living east of Wilson's Springs in the former Lincoln county territory wanted the town in their section, while those in the western territory wanted it near them. A court-appointed committee studied the matter and recommended a compromise location at what is now Elizabeth Church. The westerners still objected.

A period of bickering followed until James Love, who owned land on both sides of present Highway 18 from Zoar Church to north of present-day Shelby, offered to settle the matter by giving 147 acres for a county seat. William Forbes gave another 50 acres adjoining the Love tract on the western boundary.

The Joshua Beam Home on Buffalo Creek in 1841.

Shelby Chartered

The new town of Shelby was chartered by an act of the General Assembly in 1843, though it was established in 1842. Land not needed for county buildings was sold at auction to pay for county buildings. The first courthouse, finished in 1845, cost $12,938. It was decided to name the streets after Revolutionary War heroes who had a part in winning our independence from the mother country: so, the main streets were given the names of Washington, LaFayette, Marion, Warren, DeKalb, Sumter, Morgan and Graham.

The town of Shelby was named after Col. Isaac Shelby of Kings Mountain Battle fame, while the county was named after Benjamin Cleveland, also a leader in that battle. Other existing towns of Cleveland County are Kings Mountain (named for the Revolutionary War battle), Earl Station, Grover (named for President Grover Cleveland), Patterson Springs, Waco (named for Waco, Texas), Polkville (named for President James Polk), Casar, Fallston, Lawndale, Belwood, Boiling Springs, Lattimore, and Mooresboro.

Raleigh: A 13 Day Trip

Thirteen days were required for the first elected representative, James Y. Hamrick, to ride horseback from Cleveland County to the state capitol in Raleigh in 1844. Mr. Hamrick, who lived in Boiling Springs section, stopped overnight at taverns and farm houses so he and his beast could eat and rest after a day's journey over the primitive cartways. He served a second term in 1848 but died in office, no doubt because of the strenuous journeys and exposure. After the War Between the States, Mr. J.Y. Hamrick (grandson of James Y. Hamrick) served one term in the House and one in the Senate, and became Commissioner of Labor under the Republican administration of Governor Dan Russell and was the first Clevelander to hold a state office.

Early settlers in this section not only came from Europe to escape persecution and debt but to have religious freedom and economic opportunity in a new world. Soon after their arrival they set about building houses of worship, crude as they were. Today, Cleveland County is truly the heart of the Bible Belt of the South with more than 125 churches of various denominations.

History records that the first organized church within what is now Cleveland County is Shiloh Presbyterian Church at Grover, N.C. It was organized before the Battle of Kings Mountain October 7-8, 1780, but the exact date of organization is unknown. (Records of the Sandy Run Baptist Church at Mooresboro state the church was started in 1772 as the Baptist Church of Christ at Sandy Run, and the name was later changed to Sandy Run Baptist Church). The original denomination preference in Cleveland County was Presbyterian and Methodist. Baptists gained strength during the 19th century and eventually predominated.

Matters pertaining to temperance, gambling, dancing and morals as well as church doctrines and creeds were burning and disturbing issues among churches and individuals of a century ago. Law enforcement was lax, so the churches felt they must discipline members for misconduct.

Church Seating Arrangements

Before the turn of the century it was a common practice for the female members to be seated on the right-hand side of the center aisle of the sanctuary and the male members on the left, thus dividing the families as to their seating. Young children, both male and female, were seated with their mothers, perhaps for disciplinary reasons, while older boys went with their fathers to the left-hand side.

Lack of Sunday school literature in many instances led the teachers to use Webster's, Blue Back Speller as well as the Bible. Illiteracy was prevalent among old and young, and the churches realized the need for everybody to learn to read, write and figure as well as learn the moral laws as taught in the Bible.

Cleveland County produced many important ministers. Men like Drury Dobbins, who helped organize the Baptist Churches throughout the county; Thomas Dixon, Sr., the Rev. John Suttle, Dr. Zeno Wall. Missionaries to China were the Bostics, G.P., Wade and Attie.

Gold, Springs, and Hotels

There is, and always has been, considerable mineral wealth around Kings Mountain. A gold rush started long before the town was chartered. One of the largest land owners was Ben Briggs, who was engaged in iron ore mining. Mrs. Briggs dipped a bucket of water from a spring near her home and discovered tiny gold nuggets. Her discovery and the analysis of the ore, showing it to be of the finest grade, started a gold rush. Between 1834 and 1890, the mine, three miles from Kings Mountain on the York-Clover Road, changed ownership many times but the operation was almost continuous. The original Briggs' mine yielded a million dollars in gold but became unprofitable due to the crude methods used in those days.

Before Cleveland County was formed in 1841, a sulphur spring was discovered at what is now known as Cleveland Springs east of Shelby. Other Sulphur and Lithia springs were discovered in the newly formed county and the waters were said to have medicinal properties. As a consequence several hotels were built which attracted guests from far and near.

Lithia water was considered to have such health-giving properties it was piped in from a spring several miles north of Shelby by a group of early citizens and sold from a fountain on the northeast corner of the court square. The privilege to erect a fountain and dispense the water was granted to the owners by the County Commissioners. A few of the hotels thrived for many years and then later were abandoned and left to decay for lack of sufficient guests. The first hotel built on the Cleveland Springs property burned, but was replaced in 1866. It burned again in 1907 and a new hotel was erected . . . it burned in 1928, making the third hotel fire. The Lithia springs located a few miles north of Shelby on the Lithia Springs Road is still in service, and people travel for many miles to get a supply of this water.

Early $3.00 Hats

Before the Civil War, the women made nearly all the cloth for clothing the family. The men made the shoes and the hats. There was a pioneer hat factory in the Sharon settlement. The hatters took the hides of muskrats, otters

This is a postcard view of Shelby, made around 1910, and printed in Germany in full color. It was given to the Cleveland County Historical Museum by Lloyd Hamrick.

This photograph, made in the 1890's, pictures a couple out for a buggy ride. In the background is the old Cleveland Courthouse. To the far right is the old Central Methodist Church, now torn down. Picture was given to the Cleveland County Historical Museum by Tommy P. Bridges.

and beavers, fastened them to a flat table, ten feet from which was fastened a large bow and string. The string was caught in the middle, pulled back arm's length and let fly, thereby cutting the fur from the hide. The hide was then boiled and cut into circles large enough for hats. The circular piece was put into the shape of a hat and then a string tied around it. Such hats would last for several years, and usually sold for $3.00 each.

Prior to the coming of railroads (in the 1870's) the people in Cleveland County were isolated from the rest of the country. Their trading was done largely in York, Columbia and Charleston, South Carolina. They drove wagons over muddy and sometimes impassable roads, necessitating an absence from home of days and even weeks. Even during the Civil War (1861-65) the soldiers left on foot to enlist. If they were fortunate enough to return, the nearest railroad station was at Lincolnton, North Carolina, from which point they walked to their desolate homes.

Late 19th Century Industry

For many years, Cleveland had been almost completely dependent upon its crops (cotton, corn, wheat, oats, tobacco, etc.). A few scattered industries were organized, including a paper mill, and factories to make sewing machines and to process tobacco. Plug tobacco, smoking tobacco, and cigars were manufactured in Mooresboro and Shelby. Coming of the railroad stimulated development. Shelby declined to vote bonds to bring the railway through that town, and instead it went by way of Kings Mountain and Grover in 1873. It now is the Southern Railway.

The first railway (the Seaboard) entered Shelby two years later. Modern industry showed up. Pioneer plants included the Double Shoals Mill and the Cleveland Mill above Lawndale in 1871. Both were operated by waterpower from the Broad River.

In 1873, Major H.F. Schenck, scion of the Lincoln textile pioneers, built a cotton mill on the site of an old grist mill on Knob Creek. It was known as the Schenck-Ramsaur. Both Shelby and Kings Mountain got their first factories in the same year, 1887. Captain Freno Dilling and the Mauney Brothers established the Kings Mountain Manufacturing Company, and in Shelby, steam powered the Belmont Cotton Mill. Other enterprises, most of them textile factories, came in a steady stream.

The Early Schools

The foundation for today's public school system came from early private schools and academies. Prior to the Civil War in 1844 the first school districts were established. However, home tutoring and small church school classes remained the basic means of education in the county.

In 1876, Capt. W.T.R. Bell opened the Kings Mountain Military Academy, regarded as the beginning of the Kings Mountain school system. That same year, the Rev. T.S. Trawick opened Shelby Seminary. The Piedmont Academy in Lawndale was started in 1897 by W. Banks Dove and later headed by W.D. Burns. In 1907 Boiling Springs High School, later to become Gardner Webb College, was established by the Baptists of the Kings Mountain and Sandy Run Associations.

Public hangings, when they were legal before the turn of the century, always drew a bigger crowd than a circus in Shelby. There have been in this county seven legal hangings, and one negro lynched unlawfully by a mob. Public hangings were abolished in 1918, and all executions since that time have been at the State Prison in Raleigh by gas or electricity.

Before the coming of electricity, the streets of Shelby were lighted by oil lamps mounted on wooden posts. They were placed at intervals along the main streets in the business section and it was the duty of the Chief of Police to refuel with kerosene and light the lamps each evening.

1928 Hotel Fire

One of Shelby's major disasters occurred on February 28, 1928, when the Central Hotel, located in the courtsquare block on LaFayette Street between the present First National Bank and A.V. Wray & Six Sons store, burned. Three persons lost their lives in the fire and a fourth person died later from shock and injuries. The fire forced the First National Bank to occupy temporary quarters in the McKnight Building on West Warren Street. The basement of this building was being excavated to remodel the adjoining building. On August 28, 1928, the foundation gave way and the building crashed, taking six lives.

The "Cleveland Dynasty"

Cleveland County presented to the state one of the most successful political groups in North Carolina's history. It was called the "Cleveland Dynasty" by some, the "Shelby Ring" by others. James L. Webb, Solicitor and Judge, and his brother, Congressman (later Judge) E.Y. Webb, joined with Clyde R. Hoey, O, Max Gardner and Odus M. Mull. Hoey, Gardner and the Webbs were brothers-in-law. All of these leaders were successful men, attractive speakers and all loved public life. All went high in politics.

Gardner served as Governor (1929-1933). Hoey served as Governor (1937-1941) and U.S. Senator (1946-1955). Gardner had been appointed ambassador to Great Britain just before he died in 1947. James Webb was a Superior Court Judge. His brother Yates went to the Federal bench after serving in Congress for 26 years. Otis M. Mull was a legislative leader, a talented campaigner, and a prominent and influential Baptist leader. Not since reconstruction, perhaps, has one small close-knit group like this so long wielded so much power in North Carolina affairs.

Other Notables

Cleveland has been the home of many notables. One group supplied political leadership, but there were others:

Thomas Dixon, author of The Leopard's Spot, The Clansman, and other historical novels, was a native of Shelby. He was a lawyer, preacher, actor, playwright, novelist and movie producer. Before he was 21 he won a seat in the legislature. "The Birth of a Nation," filmed from The Clansman, was the first million dollar movie and is said to have grossed $18 million in receipts.

Hatcher Hughes, was a playwright and Pulitzer Prize winner (1924).

W.J. Cash, was the Author of the widely acclaimed The Mind of the South.

Among other Clevelanders were Forrest Shuford, late commissioner of labor, born near Lawndale; Col. John W. Harrelson, late chancellor of State College; Henry E. Kendall, chairman of the N.C. Employment Security Commission; L.R. Harrell, State 4-H Club organizer; Dr. J.S. Dorton, late State Fair secretary; J.B. Ivey, Charlotte merchant prince; Frank Sherrill, founder of the S.&W. Cafeterias; and Clyde A. Erwin, late N.C. Superintendent of Public Instruction.

During the Revolutionary and Civil Wars, no battles were fought in the land that would one day become Cleveland County. Two major Revolutionary War battles took place in nearby South Carolina, at Kings Mountain and Cowpens. British and Patriot forces regularly operated in Cleveland County, however.

Cleveland County furnished over 2,000 troops to the Confederacy, more in proportion to the voting population than from any part of the state.

Recent Changes

In the early 1950's, two major changes occurred in the county: Since the 1870's, cotton had been the county's main income producing crop. But acreage began declining. There were many reasons: the boll weevil and other insects along with federal farm programs and cotton controls. In 1955, an industrial revolution began as a reaction to the dethroning of King Cotton in the area.

Under the direction of the Shelby Chamber of Commerce, many new industries have come to Cleveland County in the 1955-1982 period. The population of Cleveland County as of the 1980 census, was 83,435.

Sources: information from The Living Past of Cleveland County by Lee B. Weathers, data from the Shelby Chamber of Commerce.

A HISTORY OF CLEVELAND COUNTY COURTHOUSES

1-A

When Cleveland County was formed by Act of the Legislature of 1841, the first official local meeting was the Pleas and Quarter Sessions Court at the William Weathers house in the Zion Community March 8, 1841. After James Love and William Forbes donated land in 1841 for the county seat a commission and surveyor was appointed to lay off the lots in Shelby and to offer the lots for sale, the proceeds from which were to go to the County Trustee (as the Treasurer was then called).

The site chosen for the courtsquare was a corn patch and other lots in the new county seat were pasture and woodlands. Provision was made for a whipping post and stocks on the public square which were later moved to jail. Previous courts held at the house of William Weathers ordered that meetings in the future be held "at the Courthouse" in Shelby but no record has been made where the first court was located. Certainly it was only a temporary court that was used until the first courthouse built for that purpose was completed in 1845, even though funds were paid for upkeep and maintenance.

A committee was appointed in 1844 to draft plans for a formal courthouse. These plans were rejected and a new committee appointed. This committee's plans were accepted and they were authorized to advertise "the letting of the building." The building contract of $6,409 was given to George Smith who posted a bond of $12,938 for the "faithful performance" of constructing a red brick courthouse.

The red brick 1845 courthouse, the second official and third actual courthouse in the county, was replaced in 1907 at a cost of $75,000 with the present limestone structure on the courtsquare that is now referred to as the "Old Courthouse" or the "County Museum." This structure underwent numerous renovations and many proposals were made to expand the courthouse.

In 1971 plans were approved for a Law Enforcement Center which was to include a Sulphur and Lithia springs played an important part in the economic and social life of the county through the development of hotel resorts and the sale of the spring water. Pictured here in the "fountain house" on the left is a Lithia fountain on the courtsquare which was piped into Shelby some several miles. The Central Methodist Church is to the right (now torn down). This photograph was made around 1900 and was included in a booklet on the county published by the Seaboard Railroad.

Around 1879 public school teachers from all over Cleveland County gathered for a meeting at the Courthouse. J. A. Anthony was Superintendent of Public Schools. Picture is in the archives of the Cleveland County Historical Museum.

new jail and criminal justice complex. In the original plans the Shelby Police Department was to occupy offices in the building — when they declined — the county administrative offices were moved to the Law Enforcement Center in 1974. In 1975 the name was officially changed to Cleveland County Courthouse, Law Enforcement Center.

The limestone structure or the “Old Courthouse” on the courtsquare then became the Cleveland County Historical Museum and opened in 1976. It has subsequently been placed on the National Register of Historic Sites.

Sources: Materials, books in the Cleveland County Historical Museum.

1842: THE FIRST CLEVELAND COUNTY POOR HOUSE

1-B

Wardens of the poor were elected on April 12, 1841. They were given the responsibility of selecting a suitable site for the location of the County Poor House. In May of 1842 they reported they had found a site composed of 200 acres which could be purchased for $1.50 per acre. This report was not acted upon and a new Commission was appointed to purchase land and build suitable buildings. In August 1877, the purchase of 200 acres for $170 was approved.

The land was “situate on Post Road leading from Spartanburg via Ellis Ferry bridge to Lincolnton one the Machine branch on Buffalo Creek.”

The Commission also stated that it had contracted with John M. Tucker, subject to the approval of the court “for the creation of a framed double cabin 18 feet square” nine feet high and two foot pillars and “roofed with rafters and covered with good heart shingles” — “each cabin with good weather boarding plank.”

“Floors to be layed above and below — extending to the entry.” “The lower floor to be good quartered 1-3/4 inch and layed down square jointed with 10 penneys.” “The loft to be convenient height layed on joists 3 inches by 7.” “2 windows in each cabin with 12 lights in each, with sash, and glass, and bottom shutters.” “A good brick chimney in each end of cabin.”

The double cabin, partially described, was to be built for $216.

The Court approved the contract with the stipulation that John M. Tucker be allowed $5.00 extra if he completed the job by February 1848. It was completed by then and Mr. Tucker got his extra $5.00.

Sources: Data in the Cleveland County Historical Museum.

BALLADS and FOLK LORE OF CLEVELAND COUNTY

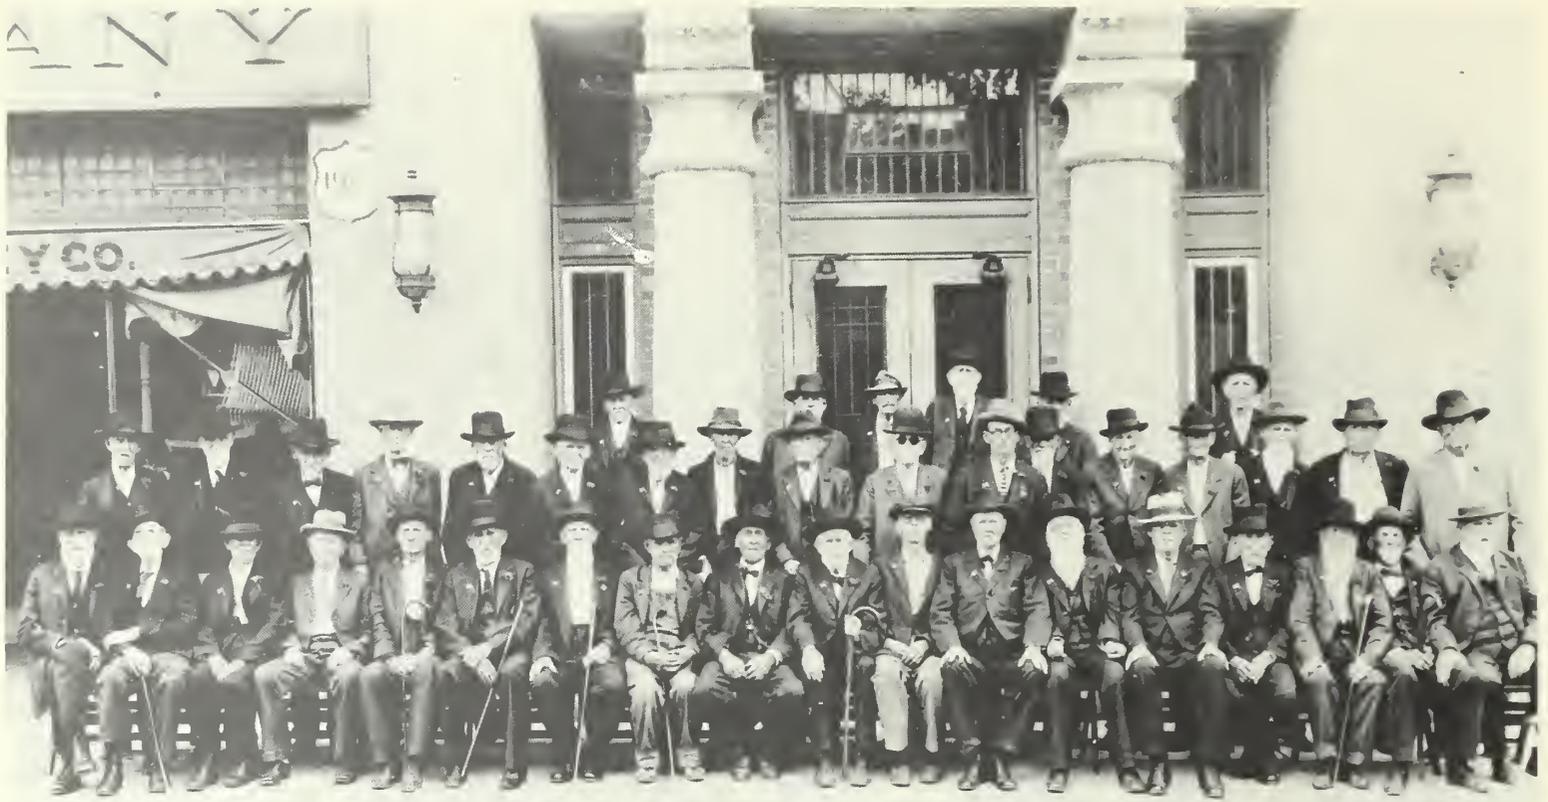

2

Ballads, legends, folk tales, family yarns, and many times the simple truth, have excited and entertained Clevelanders for many generations.

The lore of history in this area has been told around the fireside, at family gatherings, around the stove at the country store, at corn shuckings, log-raising, quilting bees, and at any time when families or friends got together.

Some of these tales are believable, some are not. For some only part can be swallowed, and then with only the proverbial grain of salt.

One of the most recently spawned upper

In 1927, Confederate Veterans of the county held a Reunion in Shelby and were photographed before the Masonic Building.

Cleveland legends has to do with "Mr. Big-Foot." This super-duper human-animal creature is reported to have been seen in the Belwood-Casar-Dirty Ankle areas in the northern part of the county, and even over in Burke County. Only glimpses of the creature itself have been seen, but a number of reliable persons, including sheriff's deputies, say the footprints are at least two to four times as large as prints of an average man.

"Brown Mountain Lights"

Upper Clevelanders have also seen the mysterious "Brown Mountain Lights," most visible on dark nights in the northwest. Brown Mountain is a spur of the South Mountain chain, a great portion of which is in Burke County.

These luminous, moving apparitions have been ascribed to distant train lights reflected on clouds or the stratosphere; or to a phosphorescent gas growing out of the ground at uncertain times. One legend has an Indian brave carrying a torch seeking his betrothed, a princess who mysteriously disappeared. Whatever the cause, the lights have been seen by many reliable persons.

Abraham Lincoln's birth and early years have been reported in Lincoln, Cleveland, Rutherford, and Jackson counties in North Carolina, as well as in Kentucky.

The Nancy Hanks Legend

One of the better known legends of this area links Nancy Hanks, Lincoln's mother, with the Polly Walker Inn. This old inn, only torn down in the last decade, was on the Cleveland-Rutherford line, beside the Lincoln-Rutherfordton coach road. Remnants of this road remain about a mile north of New House.

By legend Nancy Hanks was a serving maid at the inn, and had an affair with one Richard Martin, a tall, dark-haired, roughly handsome woodcutter, who went with her to cornshuckins and square dances, but when he learned she was pregnant, disappeared. Many Martins in Cleveland and Rutherford counties are tall, dark and boldly handsome, but this is not to say they are related to the tall, dark brilliant former President Abraham Lincoln.

Also, my grandfather, the late W.W. Washburn, said his great-aunt Elizabeth (Ibbie) Martin, who lived to be over 90 years of age, told him that as a young girl of about 15 years, she held Nancy Hanks baby boy on her lap. Nancy later married Joseph Lincoln when they both joined a wagon train to Kentucky.

Other legends common to this area tell of the horned hoop snake which could roll into a hoop and chase a man. A fireside tale has my great-grandfather McSwain fleeing such a rolling hoopsnake, then hiding behind a big poplar tree into which the snake plunged his horn. The tree died in 30 minutes.

River Tales

Main Broad River has its share of legends and tall tales. By fact, it was a hideout for deserters and dodgers of both the Revolutionary and Civil Wars, the unwilling citizens hiding in the caves and deep forests along the river.

Not only a haven but a highway, the river was the most direct route to the port of Charleston and thereby to England and continental Europe, the best market for the new country's grain, cotton or meat. Much cattle, sheep and hogs were shipped live after being driven overland to the port.

A "Revenooer"

A valuable export was whiskey and brandy,

This is an old photograph of Confederate Veterans living in upper Cleveland county. Date of the photo is unknown. Veterans identified in the picture, left to right are: 3. Bert Whisonant, 4. Barkley McMurry, 6. George DePriest, 7. Samuel Talent?, 9. Henry Willis, 10. Devanney Parker, 13. J.R. Willis, 16. Abrian Hamrick, 18. Monroe Williams, 19. John P. Philbeck, 20. Noah Warlick, 21. Francis Gardner (or) Willis Martin, 22. Melvin (Corn Crecker) White, 23. Fulton, 26. O.P. Price, 27. Wade McClurd, 28. Jessie Talent, 29. Joe Kistler, 30. Rev. A. C. Frvin (or) Rev. A. G. Gont, 31. Phillip Wilson, 33. Pete Mull, 34. Elphus Hamrick, 35. Solmon Hoyle, and, 36. Capt. Ed. Dixon.

made from corn, grain and fruit. One river tale involved one John Nicholson, great-grandfather of Hal B. Green of Boiling Springs who lived near the river, and who one fall was on his way to Charleston with a wagon load of three grades of whiskey.

On the way he met a government man, a "revenooer" and suddenly remembered he had forgotten to renew his privilege license. He managed to divert the officer from his wagon by cooking him a bountiful supper, then plying him with repeated drams of his best whiskey. When the revenooer went to sleep Mr. Nicholson and his whiskey wagon rolled on.

Amos Owens of Cherry Mountain was both a real and legendary character. On the first Sunday in June his ancient cherry trees were loaded with luscious black cherries, good to eat raw or cooked, and from which Owens made his famous "cherry bounce." This was a fermented drink which he dispensed freely at his mountain-top home. When he would not pay the required federal tax, US revenue agents took him to Atlanta or Richmond for at least three confinements. Finally, he was beaten, but not bowed.

Ballads and folk songs have added to Cleveland lore over the years. Our people have sung about Barbara Allen, Tom Dooley, Casey Jones and such local tragedies as the bank-crash or hotel fire in Shelby in the late twenties, or the narrow gauge railroad from Lawndale, almost lovingly known as "Schenck's Dummy."

— Dr. Wyan Washburn

BATTLE OF KINGS MOUNTAIN

3

Here is an interesting aspect of the famed Battle of Kings Mountain:

Aroused by Colonel Ferguson's threat to come over the mountain and hang every man that did not lay down his arms and submit to the King of England, the people organized and assembled under the leadership of Colonels Campbell, Sevier, Shelby, Cleveland, McDowell, Williams, Lacy, and Hill.

These, with Colonels Graham and Hambricht and Major William Candler, and about one thousand handpicked men, formed a circle around Kings Mountain, where Colonel Ferguson, with an equal number of men, had entrenched himself, declaring that "God Almighty and the rebels out of hell could not drive him from it."

Colonel William Graham was first in command of the Lincoln men. Colonel Hambricht was second. Colonel Graham received a message from his home that his wife was desperately ill. Major Chronicle was placed in command, at the suggestion of Colonel Hambricht, because he was a younger and more active man.

Colonel Hambricht's observation was quick and his eyes were clear-sighted. Within a mile of the summit a youth of seventeen years, named John Ponder, was arrested by Colonel Hambricht, who knew that the boy had a brother in Ferguson's camp. On searching him, a fresh dispatch from Ferguson was found. This dispatch was to Cornwallis and it showed the anxiety of his situation and asked that assistance be sent to him at once. Colonel Hambricht questioned John Ponder as to Colonel Ferguson's appearance.

He was told that while Colonel Ferguson was the best dressed officer on the mountain, they could not identify him by his military dress, as he wore a checked shirt and duster over it. Colonel Hambright then said to his men in his broken Pennsylvania-German accent: "Vell, boys, when you see dot man mit a pit shirt on his clothes, you may know who he is, and mark him mit your rifles." If John Ponder had delivered Ferguson's message to Cornwallis, the results of Kings Mountain might have been quite different.

In the circle of fire which ringed the mountain, the Lincoln men, or "South Fork boys" were at the northeast end. The little band of sixty men hurried up the steep mountain with Major Chronicle at their head. As they reached the base of the ridge, Major Chronicle, who marched ten paces in advance of the troop, waved his military cap and cried out, "Face to the hill!"

The words were not out of his lips before a bullet struck the courageous leader and he fell fatally wounded. The command was now placed on "the elder soldier," the man of 53 years, Colonel Hambright, who followed by his men, pressed steadily on to the mountain top. He was aided by a remarkable body of officers: Major Joseph Dickson and Captains Mattocks, Johnson, White, Espey, and Martin.

This revolutionary battle has provided Cleveland County people with much to think and talk about.

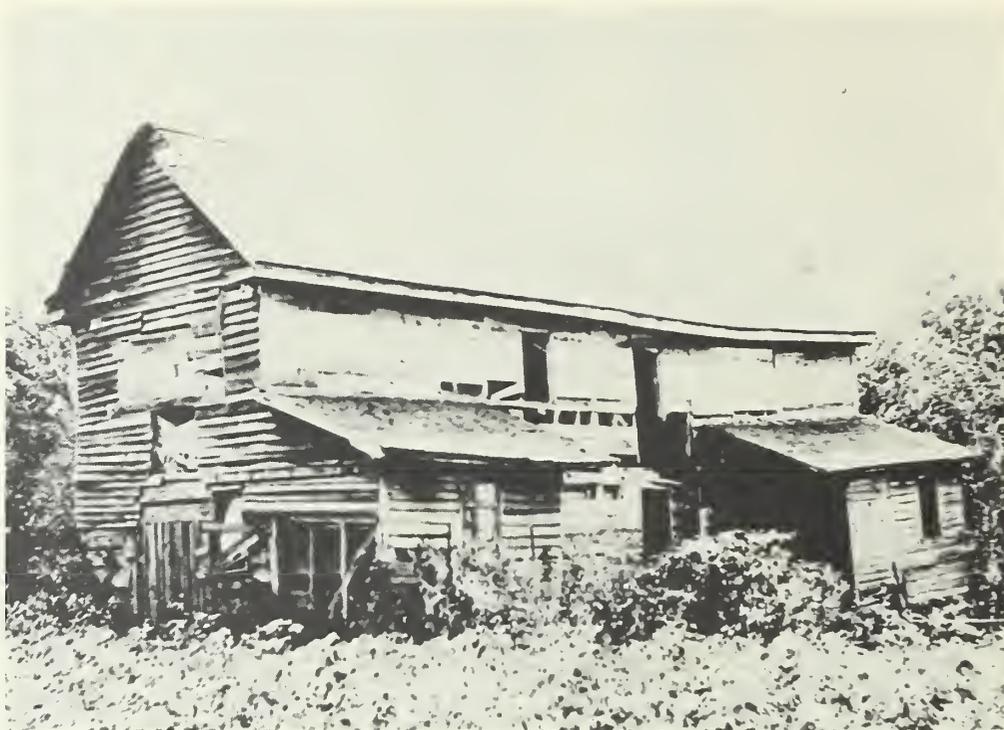

EARLY BUSINESSMEN OF BELWOOD

4

W.H. THOMPSON LUMBER COMPANY: In 1890, W.H. Thompson opened a business in Belwood. He owned a sash and blind shop, blacksmith shop, shoe shop, sawmill, shingle mill, and a cotton gin. The lumber shop was erected north of what is now B.C. Turner, Jr.'s home. The cotton gin was destroyed by fire three times but was rebuilt on the same site each time.

C.A. Thompson and brothers, with other associates, operated the cotton gin. Bynum Towery and John Queen ran the blacksmith shop. Jim File was the shoemaker. The shoe shop was sold to the Best Brothers. Mr. Thompson had a successful business for several years, but in 1900 he decided to sell his interest and move to Shelby. The Thompson Lumber Company in Shelby was known far and wide.

M.P. GANTT COMPANY: During the 80's and later, M.P. Gantt owned and operated a tannery, a harness shop, and a collar and saddle shop. The tannery was located across the road from the present location of Reed Wilson's barn, the harness shop was on the west side of the branch on the right of the road, the collar and saddle shop was almost directly in front of the harness shop on the left of the road. Mrs. Colon Edwards owned the property. There was a commissary at this site for the employees, however, it was open to the public. The Junior O.U.A.M. of Belwood Council No. 84 held meetings in the hall over the harness shop. After Mr. Gantt's death, O.E. Ford bought this property.

The William Weathers Home, site of the first Cleveland County Pleas and Quarter Sessions Court, March 8, 1841. In early times, the Quarter Sessions Court was in effect the county government.

BELWOOD COLLAR COMPANY: In 1919, Hugh Hoyle opened a business on the same site as M.P. Gantt's harness shop, or there about, and he operated it successfully until 1950.

CAMPBELL'S SHOE SHOP: F.W. Campbell had a shoe shop in Belwood. It was where the little white house now stands that is near the Belwood Store site. The brand of shoes he made was thought to have been called "Belwood Shoes." After several years of business he moved his shop to Rutherford College.

FIRST STORES IN BELWOOD: Captain Lemuel J. Hoyle owned and operated the first store in Belwood. It is located close to where the old brick store building now stands.

J.B. Ivey began his career as a merchant by working in the store of Captain Hoyle. Sometime later they became partners. After a time he bought Mr. Hoyle's interest in the store. Finally, Mr. Ivey discontinued his business and moved to Henrietta where he was manager of the store owned by the mill of the town.

In 1900 the Iveys moved to Charlotte where Mr. Ivey founded the J.B. Ivey Company, one of the largest and most progressive department stores in the south.

Will Porter owned and operated the store that Ivey and Hoyle once owned. Mr. Porter sold the store and its contents to Atlas Tillman. Later, the store was destroyed by fire. The brick store that now stands on this site was erected and was last operated by Warren Davis.

Frank Dixon owned and operated a store on what is now the Bynum and Mae Willis farm.

— Frances Beam

Constitution, By-laws and Minutes of an Educational Association in Cleveland County, organized about 1860 according to dates in some of the Minutes. Meetings of this association were held at Kadesh School House on December 22, 1860 and January 19, 1861.

The above date leads us to believe that a school was established at Belwood before the Civil War as Kadesh School. It was a two-room frame building below Kadesh Church. Colonel Thomas Dixon, a grandfather of W.C. Dixon, gave the land on which the building was erected. When school was discontinued the land went back to the heirs.

Professor Brandy and Professor Ware taught at this school for several years. Sometime after school was discontinued there, the building was torn down and transported to Shelby. A house was erected from the material.

Belwood Institute was established in the late 80's or early 90's by the Methodists. It was attended by many students from the northern part of the county. Many of today's professional men and women received their early training there. It was located where Hugh Hoyle's home now stands. When the building was destroyed by fire in 1925, the children attended school at Fallston until another building could be erected.

Some of the teachers were: J.P. Rogers, Rev. Tate, H.B. Craven, Fred Aldridge, J.M. Downum, Miss Mittie Cranford, Marcus and Charlie Cleg.

The school which we now attend was erected in 1926 by J.H. Brackett with C.A. Ledford as principal. The land was donated by George Martin. The present principal is E.C. Hoover who has been administrator for thirteen years.

— Frances Beam

SCHOOLS OF BELWOOD

5

Mr. John A. Hallman has a copy of the

The second official Courthouse of Cleveland County and the first one built for that purpose was completed in 1845 on the Courtsquare in Shelby. It was torn down in the 1906-07 period.

The third Cleveland County Courthouse was completed in 1907. It was "quite advanced" for its day and has since become the Cleveland County Historical Museum. This structure is listed in the National Register of Historic Sites.

THE HISTORY OF BELWOOD

6

Belwood means "Beautiful Woods." It got its name in 1882 from the fact that a lot of beautiful woods were in this section at that time. Instead of calling it "Beautiful Woods," they clipped around the edges of the word and called it "Belwood" for short. It was also known as "Black Rock."

On January 8, 1925 a meeting was held to make plans to erect a power line from Lawndale to Belwood. Frank Elam was elected president and Ed Dixon (Justice of the Peace) was elected secretary and treasurer. He helped build the line and was repairman until he moved to Shelby. After Mr. Dixon moved to Shelby, Randolph Peeler served as secretary and treasurer and Frank Stamey was repairman.

The following were at the first meeting: W.C. Edwards, D. Elmore, S.A. Peeler, J.G. Lutz, J.A. Peeler, H.D. Hoyle, A.C. Lutz, W.C. Dixon, M.L. Lutz, A.W. Brackett, Noah Hubbard, J.W. Brackett, Sr., A.G. Higgins, J.D.S. Carpenter, J.A. Tillman, Lee McMurry, M.S. Gantt and G.R. Dixon.

There were many others who got lights in addition to those mentioned above. They were: W.R. Porter, C.K. McMurry, D.F. Beam, Jane Cline, George Martin, J.P. Boggs, Belwood Council 84, P.L. Peeler, C.C. Falls, Thomas C. Propst, J.P. Bingham, J.D. Hicks, F.D. Edwards, J.L. Sain, L.E. Boyles, H. Sain, Curtis Ledford, Edny Willis, P.M. Mauney, Kadesh, Knob Creek and Normans Grove Churches.

Each person who got lights bought ten shares and paid $100. The churches paid $50. It is estimated that Duke Power took over the line in the early or middle 30's.

There was to be a show at Belwood School and the transformer didn't arrive on time. Mr. Ed Dixon took his transformer down; brought it to the school building and installed it. The show was a success. The next day Mr. Dixon took his transformer home.

W.H. Thompson was the first person in Belwood to own a telephone. The exact date is not known. Belwood had telephone services from Lawndale for thirty or forty years. Later, Southern Bell took over.

The present population of Belwood is estimated to be approximately one hundred.

The post office at Belwood was established as Black Rock on April 1, 1873 with George W. Blanton as postmaster. It was located on what is now the Moten Glenn farm, a teacher in the Casar School. This farm is just beyond the Mrs. Rob Wilson's farm.

In December 1875 the post office was moved to Captain Lemuel J. Hoyle's on what is now the Noah Hubbard farm. It wasn't there long until Captain Hoyle bought some land near the home of Barney Peeler, Sr. and built a store. He wrote the Postmaster General that he wanted to move the post office into his new store and change the name to Belwood. It's name was changed to Belwood on June 12, 1882.

Some of the postmasters who served at this office and dates of their appointments were:

Edward D. Dickson	Dec. 16, 1878
Melvin P. Gantt	Nov. 9, 1882
Joseph B. Ivey	Jun. 28, 1888
Lemuel J. Hoyle	May 25, 1893
Barney A. Baber	Dec. 17, 1897
Sidney C. Hendricks	Oct. 25, 1905
Clayton P. Peeler	Dec. 3, 1907
Than C. Ford	Feb. 21, 1910
Julius W. Brackett	Mar. 22, 1918
Mrs. Annie M.L. Elkins	1932
Mrs. Florence Peeler	Mar. 12, 1934

The post office was discontinued April 16, 1954. It was then known as Belwood Rural Station, Lawndale, North Carolina. Mrs. Peeler was postmistress until it closed.

— Frances Beam

BROAD RIVER ACADEMY

7

Old Broad River Academy's frame siding and flint rock chimneys claim no kin to the brick, glass and steel structures which house today's school children. The rural youngsters who learned the three R's at the school on Mt. Sinai Church Road before the turn of the century would have stood in awe at today's well-stocked libraries and gleaming steel lunchrooms. But old Broad River is not so far removed from today's education.

Its students, too, learned the multiplication tables, sailed the unknown seas with Columbus and Cortez, sat through Shakespeare, learned the products of Peru.

In the late 1800's Cleveland Springs was a popular resort. Over the years three hotels were built but each burned.

Broad River Academy was a fine building when it was built in the 1870's on land given by Mrs. Silas D. Randall. Great stone fireplaces stood at each end of the long classroom to take the nip from frosty mornings during the six-month school term. Its walls were plastered and the floor was made from good wide planks.

The building still stands today on the 125-acre farm of W.A. (Bill) and Dick Randall, descendants of the woman who gave the land when Cleveland County was still spelled "Cleaveland." Its students departed after 1900 to bigger consolidated schools.

The Randalls still keep an old roll book covering a period from 1888 until 1896 in the history of the District 10 school. It contains the names of the Randall children who attended; L.Y., B.O., J.A. and Lily and the other students who came from all over the area to learn.

The names — Sarratts, Harrills, Hoppers, McSwains, Champions, are still prominent today in the Earl-Blacksburg areas and all over the county.

$30 Monthly Salary

The students ranged in age from seven to twenty-one and were taught by one teacher, whose salary varied from $30 a month in 1889 to $37.50 in 1896. In a spidery script, one teacher recorded that in December, 1888, average daily attendance was 39 3-5 pupils.

The books they studied, precious because they were too hard to come by, were Swinton's and Webster's Spellers, Sanford's Arithmetic, Reede's & Kellogg's Grammar, Maury's Geography, Moore's Histories, Holmes' Reader, Lockwood's Rhetoric and Steele's Sciences.

Teachers listed in the roll book include C.F. Hopper in 1888, V.G. Rollins in 1889 and 1890, Robert L. Howell from 1891 to 1893. But the most well-remembered one isn't listed. He was R.J. Balfour, a Harvard man who probably taught in the late 1870's. A Scottish-Irish man who talked with a Yankee accent, Balfour instituted quite a few "modern" ideas in education at the school.

One of them was a rigid program of physical education. He rigged up chinning poles, a high one and a low one, for the boys in his class and had them doing gymnastics during recess. Some parents in the community objected to strenuous exercise, but Balfour stood his ground. He also introduced the sport of boxing to the community and trained several boys.

The man knew his students and they knew him so well he rarely had to use strict disciplinary measures.

Balfour was a talented artist and when he drew a picture of a baptising performed by Tom Dixon, every figure was recognizable. Pupils were divided by grades within the confines of the big room. They sat on slab benches and four desks for writing stood in the front of the room.

The Spelling Bees

Spelling bees were big events. Hattie Surratt was a good speller, and little Jocie Champion "stood there until the last one was knocked down" by an unfamiliar word. Lunches were brought to school in syrup tins — sweet potatoes, roastin' ears, biscuits and country ham. Water came from the nearby spring.

In addition to the six-month winter term, supported by taxes, there was a six-week subscription summer school and the students came barefooted. During the winter months, a fire burned almost continuously in the big fireplaces. The coals were banked at night and two big boys added the "back logs" in the morning to keep the room warm all day.

William Hopper, a music teacher in his later years, remembered that commencement exercises at the end of school were highlights of the year. Oratory, debates, and recitations were the order of the day and "The boy stood on the burning deck . . ." rang from the rafters.

Y.V. Weaver, Shelby barber who also attended the school in its later years, remembers the older boys often helped the Randalls around the home. At the end of the year, they were all called together and given apples and other treats for their help.

The building is used for storage now, but the Randalls plan to let the old structure stand as long as it will, a monument to yesterday's education and "alma mater" to scores of Cleveland countians.

Sources: as quoted, community history.

— Pat Poston

CASAR ELEMENTARY SCHOOL

8

Prior to 1925, the four-teacher Casar School held classes in a frame building a short distance northwest of the present Casar Post Office. In 1925, the first part of the Casar School building was built, consolidating Newton Grove, McNeilly, White and Casar School. A few years later Philbeck, another one-teacher school, was closed with students assigned to Casar School.

In 1924, Zion and Whisnant Schools in Cleveland County, Rose Hill and Union in Rutherford County were merged to become Moriah School. Moriah was discontinued in 1962 with students being assigned to Casar.

Beginning the 1960-1961 term, the Casar students in grades ten through twelve attended Burns School at Polkville. This plan was in effect until 1966 when the present Burns High School was opened.

In the year 1966-1967 Casar School was an elementary school with grades one through eight. In the 1969-1970 term grades seven and eight were assigned to junior high at Central Cleveland, leaving Casar an elementary school with grades one through six.

In the spring of 1970 a new primary building was started at Casar. Just before the Christmas holidays the primary department, consisting of three first, two second and two third grades was moved into the new building. Also in this building are the media center, the lunchroom, and administrative offices. This school is still in use at the present time.

— Mrs. J.C. Palmer

The fourth Cleveland County Courthouse was completed in 1974. It is known as the Courthouse and Law Enforcement Center and houses the county jail on the 4th floor in Shelby. It is located two blocks east of the County Historical Museum. (old Courthouse).

This is a rare photograph of the old Cleveland County Poor House as authorized in 1877. Note the cotton growing in the field around the building.

CLEVELAND DRUG STORE

9

When Dixie Discount Stores bought out the Cleveland Drug Store (Hoey's) in 1967 "a way of life ended in Shelby." The oldest citizens can remember the menfolk of Shelby, often-times in summer accompanied by their little boys, gathered after supper to sit on or stand about the rows of benches in front of the drug store. Talk ranged from general news, gossip and the latest jokes to politics, always politics.

As the nights grew chilly in the fall, the shirt-sleeved group casually moved inside the drug store. Anyone walking or driving past the courthouse usually pulled to the curb and stopped in to get the latest news. Humped over the counter, half-propped on the stools, Shelby citizens followed the lead of Mr. Clyde Hoey in sipping a glass of Coca Cola as news was gathered and discussed. Jokes were swapped, business trends anticipated, prices of farm products deplored — tidbits of gossip whispered.

With local newspapers not yet daily, radio not yet a common household article, the TV undreamed of, Shelby's Drug Store Cowboys corraled the news from all the happenings and provided a clearing house for information and opinions. Even after radio came to homes in the 40's the fellows gathered in front of the drug store to hear the results of the World Series and other major national events.

Bridge and Canasta became the popular social entertainment. Ladies had their afternoon parties and family events talked about at the bridge club and the supper table drifted over into the conversation of the husbands who "ran upstreet" for a little session with the sidewalk boys at Cleveland Drug.

A Changing Scene

As the older citizens became unable to get out every evening and the younger men filled the sidewalk seats, the old Shelby families were still well represented. In the late 1950's the First National Bank enlarged its space and the 60's found the Cleveland Drug Store, that had long had it's sign above the Blanton building sidewalk, moved around the corner and across the street on the first block on Warren Street.

Frank Hoey was still the genial host to the drugstore after supper gang, the sidewalk benches were moved, too, but somehow the crowd grew smaller. With the local daily newspaper and any number of the same to completely bring the news of the area, plus radio and TV coverage of all major events of local to international importance several times a day, there just wasn't the need to get to the drug store to see what had happened or was in the makings of events to come.

The Shelby political dynasty of the 20's and 30's had declined after the terms of Gardner and Hoey administrations ended, the Mull and Weathers terms in the North Carolina legislature, the terms of the two Webb judges. The solid Shelby Democracy was being cracked by republican political new blood. The Yankees were coming down to easy-going Shelby with new industries.

Again the drug store situation changed. When his health failed Frank Hoey sold to the Butlers. They merged as Dixie Discount Store and the whole thing moved from right around the corner square, leaving the historic sidewalk benches and store front soda fountain as part of Shelby's past.

One lone, longtime seat warmer was seen unfolding his own personal aluminum chair on a hot night of 1968 summertime in front of Butler's new Dixie Discount Drug and the "Everything Else Store" in its new site next to the First Baptist Church. He said that he didn't think that sidewalk loafers were very welcome up there. The hot sun had been beating on the concrete all afternoon — like sitting on a hot stove. Then, too, if a fellow wanted the favorite drink of refreshment it required side stepping thru the crowded store aisles up the mezzanine department to get even a glass of ice water.

A hundred years of sidewalk gathering after supper had ended in 1968 — ever since the company of Yankee soldiers stationed here after the War sat around their fires on the courthouse and burned the boards of the fence which surrounded the first little red courthouse — the fence that kept the stray village livestock from rooting up and trampling the ground that was the heart of hometown Shelby. The sociable gatherings on the beloved courthouse and evening loafing in front of the drug store had passed into yesteryear.

Sources: personal knowledge, memories.
— Mrs. Leon Sloan Bradshaw

DOUBLE SHOALS TEXTILE MILL

10

The oldest mill in Cleveland County is at Double Shoals, about eight and one half miles north of Shelby, North Carolina. It is situated on the first Broad River.

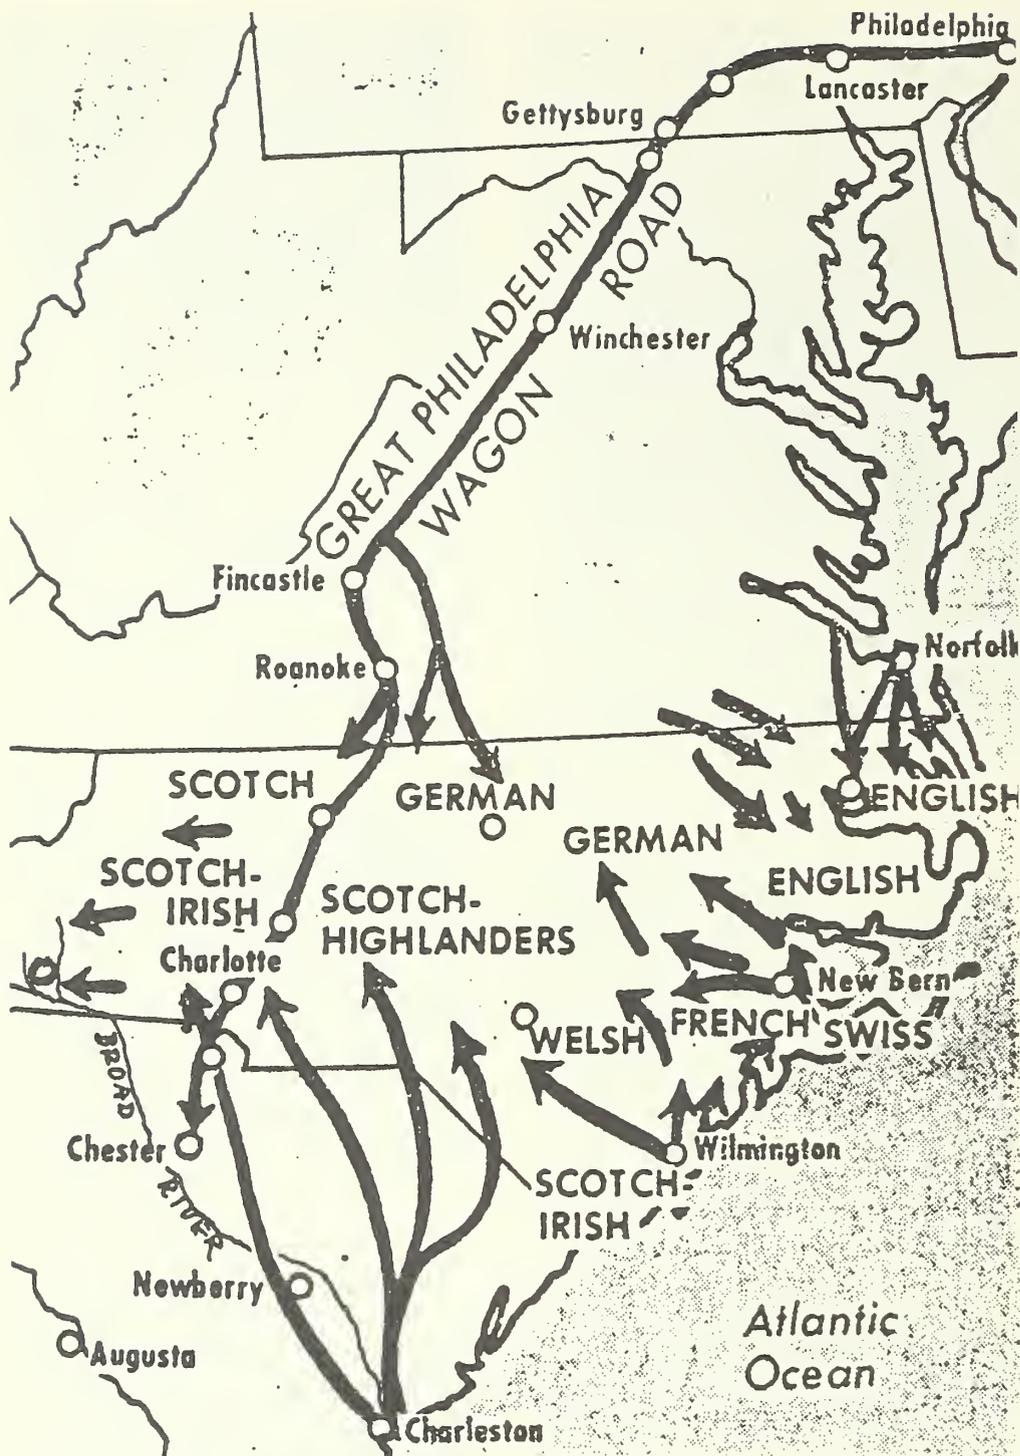

The exact date of the mill's origin is not certain. One resident, the late Mr. Plato Champion who worked for the mill sixty years, sets the date at 1855. In 1845, Thomas R. Jackson deeded 268 acres of land to Albert A. Homsley, a prominent business man. It is presumed the mill was on part of this land. In addition to the cotton factory, Mr. Homsley ran a grist mill and a sawmill.

It is said by a Confederate Veteran that Homsley made the statement, "I owe the Yankees for some goods, but am not going to pay them because they took away my slaves." August 8, 1867, Homsley sold the mill. The first plant was in a wooden building. The equipment was secondhand and was powered by an old fashioned "overshot" waterwheel.

In 1871, Mr. A.A. Jackson became the owner but sold the mill in 1874 to Mr. E. A. Morgan who, with his son Fred, "updated" the mill. Mr. Morgan sold one-fourth interest to Walter Cochran and J.F. Gaffney. The mill was then known as The Double Shoals Mill Company. The wooden building was replaced by a larger building of handmade brick from clay nearby.

Remember . . .

- Articles
- Are Indexed
- By
- Article Numbers
- . . . Not By
- Page
- Number

The settlement pattern of earliest Piedmont residents including Cleveland County settlers, shows the significance of the north-south waterways and valleys. Even though the coastal area was settled a hundred years before the Piedmont, little migration took place across the state from east to west because there are no natural avenues to ease travel. Most Cleveland County settlers came down the great wagon road (see map) while a few came up the Broad River valley from Charleston.

To better understand the settlement patterns, the following data will help: On April 26 in the year 1587, 91 men, 17 women, and 9 children sailed from England in three ships; crossed 3,000 miles of Atlantic Ocean; and landed on Roanoke Island. In a few years this settlement faded into the legend of the Lost Colony.

In 1607, English settlers landed at Jamestown in Virginia. Within a generation people from this settlement started moving down the Chowan River toward Albemarle Sound. They crossed the Pamlico River by the 1690's. French Huguenots joined them on Pamlico Sound in the early 1700's. And Swiss and Germans came to the mouth of the Neuse a few years later. This Coastal tide of settlers gradually spread up the Neuse, Trent and Roanoke rivers for thirty miles inland. Scotch Highlanders were coming up the Cape Fear River by the 1730's.

Moravians, Lutherans, and Scotch-Irish landing at Philadelphia and Charleston (settled 1673) were finding their way into the Piedmont Plateau.

Around 30,000 people lived along the Coastal Plain by 1730. Some 265,000 people spread across the Piedmont to the Blue Ridge by 1775, and to the western limits of the state in the years following the American Revolution. Nearly half a million people lived in North Carolina by 1800; nearly a million by 1850 (Cleveland formed in 1841); nearly two millions by 1900; four millions by 1950.

Later the mill was enlarged with contemporary brick.

Soon after the mill began operation, a company store was built for the mill employees. The employees bought their food and supplies from the store and had the price withheld from their work pay at the mill. A picture of the company store is included. Note the hand-made brick and decorations. Later the glass windows were replaced with modern brick. From 1874-1919 the Morgans ran the mill.

From 1919 the mill was constantly changing ownership. The Morgans sold the mill to Lester Hamrick and A.W. McMurry. In 1932 there was a foreclosure. The Shelby First National Bank closed the mill.

In 1933 the mill was re-opened by Tom Moore and Loyd Anthony. The name of the mill was changed to The Double Shoals Company, Inc.

From 1948-1954 it became the property of the Lawndale Schenks, owners of the Cleveland Mills Company. During this period the homes for the employees, owned by the mill company, were sold to them (1950). When the Schenks sold the homes the occupants were given first choice. Most families bought their homes. It was 10% down and so much per week until all was paid from the employees wages.

Important dates are as follows:

1954 — The Schenks sold the mill to Al Slater.

1955 — Slater leased it to the Kings Mountain Neisler Company. The name of the mill was changed to The Lucky Strike Yarn Mill.

1973 — There was a fire which destroyed some of the mill. The lease was up, and the Neislars sold the machinery for Slater. The mill was closed for several years.

1978-1980 — Mr. Raymond A. Goins and son bought the old plant and planned re-opening part of the mill, but with government regulations regarding cotton dust, decided it was not feasible.

1980-1981 — Mr. M.H. Walker bought the property and opened a part of the old plant making rugs and car seat covering material. At present eleven people are employed, and plans for the employment of forty workers soon. The name of the mill is now "Lera," named for his wife.

This sketch covers over a hundred years of The Double Shoals Mill and its history.

Source: Cleveland County Registry of Deeds; Rutherford County Registry of Deeds; The Cleveland Historian Newspaper, May 13, 1976; material from J.C. Elliott, a Confederate Veteran; various textile mills in Cleveland County; Cleveland Memorial Library; Our Heritage — Shelby Daily Star; The Living Past of Cleveland County by Lee B. Weathers; Interviews with various people; and materials in the Cleveland County Historical Museum.

— Charlotte S. Beam

A HISTORY OF EARL SCHOOL

11

Early teachers' records gives a history of the Earl School from 1850 through the Civil War years on up to 1890. Also, Mrs. Kate Austell Aydlotte, a lifetime county resident, who lived to be 104 years old, told where the old school house stood before her day, as told by her father.

The earliest school building anyone remembers hearing about "stood on a slight hill near a spring" just south of the present W. G. Graham home place Mrs. Aydlotte recalls. This building burned down. The next stood near the present New Hope Church building in the early 1800's and "was an almost square, one room log house, having only one small glass window, that couldn't open . . . It was near the teacher's stand . . . all other windows and doors were of the shutter type."

A large fireplace at the front end burned wooden logs to heat the building which was

Dr. M.W. Grigg, pioneer Cleveland County dentist, is pictured at the turn of the century with his foot pedal powered dental drill at work on a patient. Note the dental instruments and the grasp of the man's hand on the chair. This photograph is from the archives of the Cleveland County Historical Museum.

"too hot near the fireplace and too cold in the back." The wall had cracks that let in wind and some snow on cold days. The benches were one wide plank for the seat, with no back as remembered by Mrs. Adylotte who was a pupil in this log building when she was a child.

The next Earl School building was a plank, one-room house. Later another classroom and cloak room were added. A "Long-John" wood stove was used for heating this building which stood south of the previous ones and was moved near the present Mrs. Tom Moss home. The Hon. J.H. Quinn and B.T. Falls, Sr. of Shelby taught in this building.

The 1850 Committee

Records show the parents of Earl school children in early years to be mostly farmers. Interestingly, the School District Committee members included for one period in the 1850's a farmer, a planter, a teacher, a manufacturer of iron, a stone mason, a manufacturer of brandy and whisky, and a dealer in horses, mules and Negroes. One parent operated a mint up in Rutherford County.

The teacher's school register had a column for general remarks. This column recorded instances when parents visited the school "to hear the chaps spell." It recorded the weather, told of deaths, marriages, murders, and outcome of court trials in Shelby, the county seat, as they affected members of the School Community. Halley's Comet was to be seen, and how bright it was and where to look for it. It also showed the small attendance was due to crop planting or harvesting, all gone to a camp meeting or what ever the cause might be.

The teacher's opinion on political issues were duly recorded here. It notes that school dismissed for two days "to attend a barbecue and mass meeting of the Breckenridge and Lane Party at Shelby to hear the oratory of the day" before the presidential election. The teacher warned of "the awful fate of this great nation if Old Abe Lincoln should be elected president."

The Civil War Period

There were serious notes about seeing the men off to the Civil War. In the column for parent's occupation, the number of widows increased during the Civil War years. A sad Christmas was mentioned. Among parents occupations at this time were "agents" and "guards."

In 1903 records show the New Hope Church Trustees deeded the Cleveland County Board of Education a lot 80' X 100' for a new Earl school building very near the present church building. This building had three class rooms, a small porch over each door and small cloak rooms. Many of the oldest adults now living in the Earl Community attended school in this building which served until 1923.

More land was bought in 1923 by the County School Board since schools had become tax supported, by then a brick structure with six classrooms, a stage and auditorium was built south of where the early log one had stood. This new Earl School was a "union school" housing both elementary and high school.

During the next few years Cedar Grove, McBrayer, and Broad River Elementary Schools along with Patterson Springs High School consolidated with Earl School and pupils were transported by buses.

A 1931 Graduation

The first high school graduation was a standard state high school was held in the spring of 1931. A class of ten seniors held their "Class Night Exercises" on the Earl School stage which was decorated as a beautiful outdoor scene on a moonlit night. A huge golden paper moon hung in the back and the class sang the then new and popular "Carolina Moon."

This new standard state high school at Earl was named No. Three Consolidated High School: The high school section was moved to a new building about one mile north of Earl which was about the center of No. 3 Township for the 1931-32 term. Earl School became an elementary school with high standards. Two more class rooms, more rest rooms, a lunch room, an enlarged library, and a gymnasium were all added as the school grew and improved.

Earl School lacked only a minor point being a state accredited school when in 1967 the County consolidated Patterson Springs Elementary, the black Camp Elementary with the Earl Elementary schools to form the No. 3 Elementary School. This school was moved into the now improved and enlarged former No. 3 High School building in the center of No. 3 Township. This is the sixth known building for Earl School.

On February 6, 1968 New Hope Church bought the Earl School property from the Cleveland County Board of Education for the sum of $10,400.00, the building to use in the church program.

In 1982 Earl School, as such, is no more. The brick building is being town down. The movements of consolidation and desegregation brought about these changes in the name of progress.

Sources: Personal research and community remembrances.

— Mrs. Gladys Horn Hopper

EDUCATION IN KINGS MOUNTAIN

12

In 1874 education in Kings Mountain really began. Two schools were used during the early period. A one-room building located on Gaston Street, just south of the present home of Paul Neisler, Jr., was built by the Garrett family with Miss Lucy Arrington as the first teacher. The other school, a two-room building on the corner of King Street and Piedmont Avenue, now the location of Mauney Memorial Library, had Mr. Alex Aderholdt as the first teacher, followed by Mr. Gaff Logan.

Captain William T. Reilley Bell opened a school in 1876 with an enrollment of eighteen.

The same year the citizens of the town erected a two-story frame building on the present site of Central School. When the school began to grow, a wing was added to the building. In 1878 a military feature was added and another addition to the building became necessary.

Also in 1878 the school was changed from the Kings Mountain Military School to the public school of the town of Kings Mountain. Captain Bell was the principal.

Lessons From Memory

There were no textbooks. Instead, students were required to recite lessons from memory. On Fridays, spelling matches were held. Failure to learn lessons resulted in students staying after school.

From 1887 to 1905, the school was financed on the tuition basis. Students were not required to attend. Reference books were not provided, and any available books were privately owned. Students bought their books for about ten dollars a year.

School was in operation for only three months, and the daily schedule was from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Teachers were few, and the number of courses limited. Pupils were not divided into grades but gathered in one large group for instruction.

In 1905 the school was changed to a graded school. Professor S. W. Carlier was the first superintendent. Each room was heated by a crude, wood-burning heater. Double desks added fun for the pupils but brought disciplinary problems to the teachers. At the front of the room were long benches for recitation. Slates were used for writing lessons.

The 1910 Building

In 1910 the trustees erected a two-story red brick building trimmed in gray granite. This building contained a music room, office, and eight classrooms on the first floor and four classrooms and auditorium on the second floor. This building later burned on November 14, 1932.

Just prior to and during the First World War, the school was organized into nine grades with eight teachers. The school term had been extended to eight months. There were no extracurricular activities. Emphasis was on knowledge of the lesson rather than on outside activities.

In 1919 the trustees purchased a lot on South Watterson Street and West Mountain Street and erected a one-story brick building containing an auditorium and seven classrooms. This building was named West End School.

Under the leadership of Superintendent F. C. Nye (1920-23) and Supt. J. Y. Irvin (1923-27), progress was made. The high school was accredited by the North Carolina State Department of Education in 1920. The following year the eleventh grade was added, and the attic was finished to serve as a homeroom for seniors. This room was heated by a coal stove while the rest of the school was heated by a steam plant.

In 1924 the auditorium was converted into four classrooms, and the attic was used for storage. Also, the Rudisill property was purchased for the erection of an auditorium and eight classrooms that later became a primary department.

Trustees purchased property on North Watterson Street and Parker Street in 1925 for a one-story brick building later named Davidson School. This school, formerly used by the Blacks, is now the Administration Building for the Kings Mountain District.

Early Superintendents

Mr. Claud Grigg was named superintendent of Kings Mountain Schools in 1927, and Mr. B. N. Barnes became the first high school principal. Mr. Barnes succeeded Mr. Grigg as superintendent and held that position until 1967 at which time Mr. Donald D. Jones was employed and served until 1977. Mr. William F. Davis was employed as superintendent in 1977.

East End School property on Cleveland Avenue was purchased in 1929. A one-story brick building with auditorium and ten classrooms was erected on this site.

When a part of Central School burned in 1932, high school students used East School one-half of the day and elementary students used it the other half. The new Central School building was completed in 1933.

During the next few years the school curriculum became more varied with the addition of band, home economics, physical education, and other courses. Athletics featuring basketball, football, and baseball were part of school life, although at first they were financed by "passing the hat."

The 30's brought more changes. A gymnasium was built at Central PTA and later funded by the WPA lunch room program. The high school band was organized in 1935 under the direction of Paul E. Hendricks.

Following the Reconstruction period, a great celebration occurred in Cleveland County upon the return of the Yankee captured Cleveland Guard Flag, now in the North Carolina Historical Museum. Among those pictured are R. L. Ryburn, Capt. L.J. Hoyle, J.L. Webb (later a judge), Capt. J.W. Gidney, A.C. Miller, and Pink Dellinger.

Progress was steady throughout the next few decades. One big addition was the twelfth grade in 1942. North Elementary School was built in 1956. Lower grades were moved away from Central School, and gradually this building housed the upper grades only.

The 1961 Consolidation

Consolidation of Kings Mountain Schools with Grover, Park Grace, Compact, and Bethware Schools took place in 1961. Six years later, the school system was completely desegregated. There was one big high school, Kings Mountain High, operating in a new building on Phifer Road. This building was ready for use in 1965 and accommodated grades 9 through 12.

The voters approved a 2.5 million dollar bond issue in 1972, giving the system a new Junior High on Phifer Road, Barnes Auditorium adjacent to Kings Mountain High, additions to West and East Schools, and many other renovations and repairs to building in this district.

In 1981 all Kings Mountain Schools are accredited by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools and by the State Department of Public Instruction. There are eight schools in the Kings Mountain System. They are:

Bethware Elementary — Mr. Ronald E. Nanney, Principal.

Central Elementary — Mrs. Glenda E. O'Shields, Principal.

East Elementary — Mrs. Cozell L. Vance, Principal.

Grover Elementary — Mr. James C. Scruggs, Principal.

North Elementary — Mr. C. A. Allison, Principal.

West Elementary — Mr. Joe C. Hedden, Principal.

Kings Mountain Junior High — Mr. J. Fred Withers, Principal.

Kings Mountain Senior High — Mr. Robert R. McRae, Jr., Principal.

ELLIS FERRY — TRADE ROUTE IN 1800'S

13

About the year 1800, an effort was made to establish a town on Main Broad River in the section of Cleveland County which is now known as the Mt. Sinai Community. The advantage of such a town would have been to afford an outlet for the agricultural products of this section.

The promoters of the project hoped to establish a large port for shipping the products of the farms of this section to markets at Charleston and Columbia, S.C. A port for receiving produce and shipping it in the flat-bottomed scows and batteau which floated up and down Broad River as late as 1840 would have meant a great deal commercially to this section.

This was strictly an agricultural community, and there was no market for the products because of inadequate transportation facilities. Since there was no way of disposing of surplus farm products, the people had little money. Most of the trading was done by barter with Columbia and Charleston. The roads were poor, and it took months to get to Charleston and back.

This is an oil painting of Ellis Ferry, formerly Quinn's Ferry, located on the Post Road leading from Lincolnton to Spartanburg as the road crossed the Broad River south of Shelby. In the painting by Barbara Brock are "Doft" Thomas, left, who pulled the cable; Ambros Hopper, a Black preacher, and Oz Randall in the front buggy. This painting was given to the Cleveland County Historical Museum by Mrs. Yancy Ellis.

River transportation was much quicker; therefore, Charles and Rick Ellis, seeing the need for progress in travel and convenience, purchased seventy or eighty slaves and supervised the construction of a large wooden bridge across Big Board River to furnish a trade route between Gaffney, S.C. and Shelby. Commerce began and before long there was brisk business between the two towns. Things went smoothly for a time, but tragedy came — rain fell in torrents that year.

The Big Flood

Big Broad became a river twice its normal size, and the Ellis bridge which the slaves had built was washed asunder. It was about this time that President Abraham Lincoln issued his Emancipation Proclamation and freed the slaves. There was no labor to rebuild the bridge. A street in Gaffney, S.C. today is named Ellis Ferry Road as a result of this trade route from Shelby to Gaffney.

A substitute for the bridge was found — a ferryboat. The ferry was operated by Charles Ellis, a son of Ben Ellis; therefore, trade went on. A black man named Adolphus Thompson operated the ferry and charged 25 cents for wagons, carriages, etc.; 10 cents for a horseback rider; and 5 cents for those choosing to walk. "Set me across," people would yell to the black man on the other side of the river. Old persons in this community used to tell seeing great caravans of wagons at the ferry landing — some filled with apples, others with cabbage and produce. Largest crowds at the ferry could be seen on first Monday, which was trade day in Shelby.

At times travelers would be detained by the high waters and were compelled to camp at the ferry, sometimes for days. The camping grounds were near the traditional Indian campgrounds of Mt. Sinai where even up to several years ago arrow points, an occasional tomahawk, and other relics were found. Many believe several Indians were buried on the south side of the river near the landing.

Flat Boats Remembered

Before his death, Sam Ellis of Shelby told of how the slaves poled the flat boats up the river from Columbia hauling sugar, coffee, and other scarce articles to the settlers. This area which was called Burr Town at that time. He recalled how the boats unloaded in the cellar of Charles Ellis' home and refilled with chickens, eggs, rabbits, and other wild game captured by the people living around the settlement.

Sam told of the laborious task of poling up river and the ease of the return trip because of the water current. He remembered the tales of his father such as the way molasses was hauled from Columbia to Burr Town. The Southern Colony built hugh barrels and attached shafts to the ends. Mules were harnessed to the shafts and a slave guided the animal. Thus the molasses was rolled to the river people.

During the Civil War, Charles' grandson (name unknown) hid the family's mules beside the river where they escaped the eyes of Northern troops. In the Reconstruction Days, members of the Ku Klux Klan who were being sought after by the carpetbaggers found refuge there.

Years passed and modern transportation developed; the little trading center was declined, and the dreams of Charles Ellis for a metropolis on the banks of Broad River were shattered. Years later the sign "Burr Town" hung beside the home of Sam Ellis (a great nephew of Charles Ellis). Bare fields now exist in the area of Ellis Ferry and Burr Town.

Sources: Information gathered from Ellis Family History and by word of mouth from my mother, Mae Ellis Gaston, and my Uncle Sam Ellis.

— Mrs. Fannie Mae Bettis

THE CLEVELAND COUNTY EMERALD MINE

14

Emeralds are as precious as diamonds and the birthstone for May. It signifies love and success. The first emerald was found in Cleveland County in the year 1897, one and one-half miles east of Stice Dam East of Highway 18 on the property known as the W. Barrett Turner farm.

One day a colored boy was plowing corn and found a most unusual rock which puzzled him, so he showed it to the landlord W. Barrett Turner. Mr. Turner carried it to a mineralogist who in turn had the stone evaluated in Washington, D.C.

The gems were very dark green and the largest of the emeralds was one inch by three-fourths of an inch in length. From one piece 20 cut stones were obtained. The largest weighed three carats. At six feet down several emeralds were found at ten feet a pocket full of emeralds was found.

W. Barrett Turner owned a number of parcels of land including acreage where Fiber Industries is now located, No. 3 Township School, Blanton's Toy house in Shelby, and other property. He sold the five acre mine tract for a nice sum of money to the firm of Lovette Frazier Mining Co. of New York. William Starkey of New Hampshire and others who were in charge of mining boarded with Mr. & Mrs. Hazel Turner, son of W. Barrett Turner.

From the mine an emerald necklace valued at $15,000 was crafted and presented as a gift to the Governor of the State for his daughter. By 1913 some 3,000 carats of rough emeralds had been mined.

— Hazeline T. Allen

THE GANTT HARNESS COMPANY

15

Melvin P. Gantt established and operated a successful business known as Gantt Harness Company in Belwood. It consisted of a large tannery, tanning the leather that he used in manufacturing harnesses and horse collars. He began this operation in 1880 and operated the business for twenty years. In 1904, Melvin was killed in a train wreck in Tennessee.

Shortly after Mr. Gantt's death, Mr. O. E. Ford purchased the Gantt Harness Company. Mr. Ford owned and operated a farm supply store in Shelby. In 1918, Mr. Thad C. Ford, who was managing a general store in Belwood, left his business and went to Shelby to assume the management of his father's store and the Gantt Harness Company.

The Ford's operated the Harness Company very successfully until 1919, when Hugh D. Hoyle purchased the Gantt Harness Company and operated it until 1950. Mr. Hoyle sold this business to a Mr. Lentz who moved it to Stanly County.

Mr. W. R. Porter drove a large covered wagon and delivered the harnesses to a large area in the Carolinas. W. R. Porter was the father of the Porter Brothers of Shelby, North Carolina. Mr. Thad C. Ford and Robert M. Gantt, the son of Melvin P. & Georgiana J. Gantt, were good friends and had a friendship that could only be compared to that of David and Jonathan, that we read about in the Bible, I Samuel 18:1. Mr. Thad C. Ford died in 1948.

His son, Edwin Ford, operates the O. E. Ford Company today. This is a very successful business dealing in hardware and building supplies. Edwin and his good wife, Esther, are great lay people in the Western North Carolina United Methodist Conference. They have served on various boards throughout the confederation.

Sources: Information from: Edwin Ford, Jack Hoyle, and Hoyle Book.

— John Tyra Gantt

A SKETCH OF GARDNER-WEBB COLLEGE

16

Since shortly after the Civil War, the Baptists of west-central North Carolina have shown an unusual interest in education. Gardner-Webb College is a product of that interest. As early as 1903, the idea of establishing a high school "where the young ... could have the best possible educational advantages under a distinctive Christian influence" was firmly fixed in the minds of the people of the Kings Mountain Baptist Association.

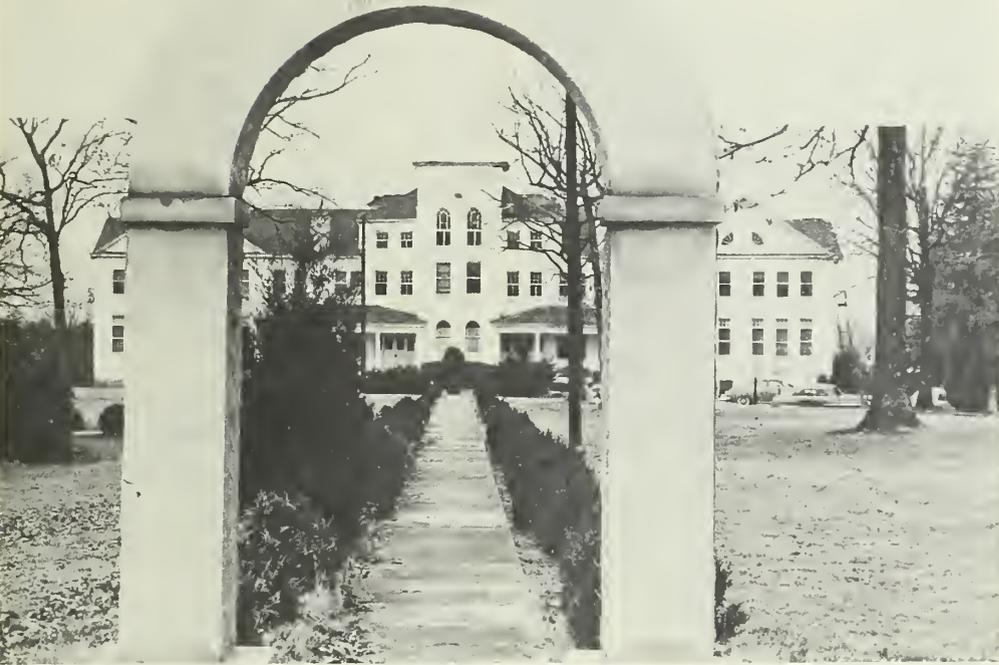

By 1905, Boiling Springs was selected as the location for such a school, and the Sandy Run Association had joined enthusiastically with the Kings Mountain group in their determination to build it. Trustees from the two associations held the first joint meeting on October 27, 1905. The school was chartered on December 2, 1905, as The Boiling Springs High School, Incorporated.

In 1907, construction work on the main building (Huggins-Curtis Hall) was started, and the school opened its doors for the first time in October, 1907, with five faculty members greeting 135 students. Carl Edwards was the first to enroll. The regular course of study required six years to complete. Students needed two years to complete the intermediate course before advancing to the four-year high school program.

Workers associated with the celebrated Emerald Mine in Cleveland County are pictured in this old photograph made around 1898.

GARDNER-WEBB COLLEGE
1905 1943

The Huggins-Curtis Building was for many years the major landmark of Boiling Springs High School, Gardner-Webb Junior College and Gardner-Webb College. It stood in the center of the campus at the site of the present Charles I. Dover Student Center. The archway has traditionally been part of every graduation procession and is still prominently situated on the campus.

1920: 335 Students Enrolled

Enrollment flourished and by 1920, the student body totaled 335. However, competition from the tax-supported state high school system became evident as admissions figures began a downhill slide with an enrollment of only 184 in 1926. Determined to keep the institution alive, the board of trustees recommended that the school become a junior college by the beginning of the 1927-28 academic term.

Boiling Springs Junior College opened September 3, 1928, with 78 college students and 124 academic and special students. There were seven departments in the college — English, mathematics, natural science, foreign language, social science, Bible and education.

1942: A Change in Name

On June 15, 1942, it was suggested that the college's name be changed to Gardner-Webb in honor of the families of O. Max Gardner and his wife, Faye Webb Gardner.

Another significant event occurred in July 1943, when Philip Lovin Elliott became president. Elliott brought to Gardner-Webb a community-service concept of education. Through this approach, Elliott shaped the college's programs to meet the vocational, civic and religious needs of the community. Behind Elliott's leadership, the institution began to prosper.

Two major steps were taken in 1948. First, the school was unconditionally approved as a member of the Baptist family of colleges by the North Carolina Baptist State Convention. Secondly, during the 1948-49 year, Gardner-Webb was able to meet the standards of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools and was declared a fully-accredited member institution.

Between President Elliott's announced retirement and his death on April 14, 1961, the trustees elected Dr. E. Eugene Poston as president. In 1961, Dr. Poston announced the Decade of Advance, 1961-1971, which was designed to make Gardner-Webb a fully-equipped senior college with an enrollment of 1,000 by 1971. During this period, over $5 million was raised, campus acreage doubled and a dozen new major facilities were completed or underway. Plans to become a senior-college were developed.

1967: Move To Four Year Plan

On September 11, 1967, the college's trustees gave its approval for Gardner-Webb to become a four-year college. The following year, the Baptist State Convention gave its approval and officially changed the name from Gardner-Webb Junior College to Gardner-Webb College.

In May, 1971, 243 bachelor's degrees were conferred. In December, 1971, the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools granted full senior college accreditation to Gardner-Webb.

With Gardner-Webb firmly established as a senior institution, Dr. Poston resigned February 27, 1976.

Dr. Craven E. Williams became the ninth president of the college, August 1976, and immediately launched the Bold Dimensions in Higher Education Program. To date, this has resulted in an enrollment growth of 13 percent library growth of 102%, new campus construction and renovation exceeding $4 million, and development of the Deaf Program, the Evening College, the Journalism Program and the Graduate Program.

With an ever increasing number of adult learners, a Greater Opportunities for Adult Learners (GOAL) program was started. In the Fall 1981, nine off-campus centers had been established.

As the strain of decreasing enrollment swept across the country during the 1980's, Gardner-Webb continues, yet adhering to its policy of neither seeking or accepting direct government funds.

— Dr. Craven Williams

SEATON GREEN and THE REFORMER

17

A newspaper named The Reformer was published in Boiling Springs in the late 1890's and early part of the 20th century. Seaton Green was the editor who wrote the news and editorials at home, then took the copy to Shelby for printing. After which he brought it back to Boiling Springs for mailing to his subscribers.

In the adjacent photograph, Mr. Green is the tallest man on the back row. Others are Tommy Green, his brother, and his sister, Mrs. Nannie Hamrick, Ms. Judith Green and Mrs. Blanche Hamrick. All worked on the newspaper.

— Stanley Green

TOWN OF GROVER

18

In the early 1800's, John B. Harry, a State Senator from Lincoln County, moved to what is now the Grover area. In 1847 a post office was established in Whitaker, South Carolina, just across the state line from what is now Grover, N.C.

However, as the town grew, it moved north across the state line into North Carolina and it was necessary to move the post office to a more central location. When application was made for a post office in North Carolina, there was already a Whitaker in North Carolina so the town was renamed Grover, after President Grover Cleveland.

James F. Williams was appointed postmaster in 1885. Miss Dicey Roark, a postal clerk under Hugh K. Roberts in Whitaker, South Carolina, helped with the moving to Grover.

The growth of the town was largely caused by the railroad. Some of the early industries were clay mines for making brick, Minette Mills, and Harry Woodwork. There was also a hattery, cotton gin, blacksmith shop, general stores, grist mills, dry goods stores, drug store, grocery stores, livery stables, hotels, a bank and funeral supplies.

Churches are the Shiloh Presbyterian Church, organized in 1780; State Line First Baptist Church, organized in 1878. Other churches are St. Peter Baptist, Shiloh AME Zion, and Bethany Baptist.

This is an early 1900 photo, perhaps made in 1907, of Boiling Spring High School, which appeared on a postcard. The post card writer declared "... I like the school very well ... are you picking cotton these days (Sept. 1908)? ... write soon and give me all the news." Construction on the building pictured here began in 1907.

Seaton Green, Editor, and the staff of THE REFORMER, printed in Boiling Springs.

J. Y. HAMRICK, SR., FIRST CLEVELAND REPRESENTATIVE

19

The first representative in the legislature from Cleveland County was J. Y. Hamrick, Sr. of Boiling Springs. He rode horseback to Raleigh more than once and was there in December, 1848 when he wrote the following letter to his family.

The letter, just as he wrote it, follows:

Northcarolina,
Wake County,

December 3 day 1848.

Dear Sir,

Suppose you have heard that sins I left my native home for this citty that I have bin uncommonly sick, I was so unwell that I lay by a day and half as I came to this place my company left me, however I made a shift to git here on Monday the 20 and was qualified and voted 2 for Speaker. On Monday night I was taken very ill I had a sever cough a pain struck me in my breast so I had to set up in bead, part of my time I could not lie down. Next moring I sent for Doc Miller he came and said I must loose a large quantity of blood, he took 3 pints or half gallon from me. I taken medison and a plaster of musterd seed put to my breast, by this time the citty was in a uproor. My room was crowdw with doing all they could for me, I got sum better. This was no place for a sick man, politicks is so high, the sinate is tied, the house would of bin tied if Samuel Flemming had not resind.

The whigs was contrary, we offerd at the out set to take one speaker and give one, they refused. We set to work and by the nominees giving scattering votes the 59 dem prevented the 60 whigs from getting a majority for 3 days. I told my friends that I had a loving wife and 8 children that I loved dearly. I also loved my country and was sent here by the people of Cleveland as there agent and without my vote every thing was lost. I felt resolved on this occasion to sacrifice my life for my country.

My friends had a horse and a bugga at the dore and hope me in and carried me to the dore of the capitol and the loss of apatite, the loss of so much blood, the loss of so much sleep the sevear pain in my breast the tremendous sick fits that I had to under go all so much against my feble sistom that it was all I could do with help, to git in the capitol. I was then conducted to a choice seat. My pale complexion and weak and feble appearance and my punctuality in voting almost alarmd the hole house three days.

I was carried to the capitol to vote on imporant questions for 3 days I then cep myself in my room for 3 or 4 days still taken medison, still mending at this time. I enjoy tolerable good health. I have a good apitite to eat I look well and thank God I feel well one time more. I room in sight of a large grave yard and after I got so I could begin to walk over my room words came to me more than 20 times.

Amasing grace how sweet the sound that saved a reach like me. Mr. Green I want you to take this letter out of the office and you and your wife to go to my house and read the hole of it to my famaly and if you pleas right me a letter for my wife. I am anxious to hear from home, direct your letter to Wake County Raleigh P. Office. Dear wife I rote you a letter a week ago and directed it to Birchells Villa. I dont nou whether you will get it or not and if you do, I dont nou whether any of you can read it or not. I am anxious to hear from you, if you have not writen to me Mr. Green will right for you. Dear wife I don't nou whether W W Wright alarmd you or not, I was very sick when he left here. I told him not to alarm you but thank God at this time I am well, except my strength, loosing so much blood cept me week and I am as well satisfied as I expected to be it is true.

My wife and childring my home is the last thing of a night and the first thing of a morning that I think of. You must excuse my weakness but in hesitating on the subject of home, the Springs start out of my head and runs down my cheeks, perhaps while you are a sleep but you now that I never take more to hurt than I can kick of at my heels. li is very unceriting when the legislator will brak. There is a grate many questions of importance before us and the parties is so near tied that we git along slow. We expect a member from Yancy County in a few days that will tie both houses. Capt. Berry election is contested in the senate and a demacrat has contested the election of a whig in the house. The result is verry uncertain but I think that I will be at home by the 15 or 20 of January.

Dear wife be composed and try to take care of the family and the stock. Send the childring to school. If brother Right has not got that bundle of notes into possessions, do take good cear of them and cear of everything. Charles you are a good boy for to work, be attentive, git up the sheep attend to the horse, cattle and hogs, is you hant got salt enough, Druery Rollins oos me and he will let you have salt or you must borrow, keep the stock off the wheat, have shoos made and mended as the nature of the case requires, hall leaves and put in the stables, keep plenty of wood, keep the potatoe banks civered, in warm weather open a hole in the banks, if there is any young pigs attend them.

Take the shoos of the mare if you hant. Load that little bottom in wheat, you had better do it, yet you had better not go to school very much your self but send the rest of the childring, if the new school is made up send evryday. Dear wife I must come to a close and if anything should happen either with me or you, so that we never are permitted to see each other again in this world, I earnestly hope that we will neet each other in that uper and better world where we shall meet to part no more, where sickness, sorrow, pain and death are felt and feard no more. Where congregations never break up and Sabbaths never never never ends.

I remain your affectionate husband and friend.

James Y. Hamrick

Mr. Green I have news of importance enoug to right out a small book but you see I am compled to come to a close. I hope these lines will find you and your famaly well. Tell my friends that I have got nearly well, read this letter to my famaly, write to me and you will oblige yours,

J Y Hamrick

The orginial copy of the above letter is in the possession of the submitter of this article who lives in Boiling Springs.

— J. O. Hamrick

HAPPY TIME KINDERGARDEN

20

The Happy Time Kindergarden was organized by Mrs. Earl L. Gaffney (Elizabeth) in 1950 with twelve pupils. Each year the class grew and soon there were twenty-five.

I emphasized pre-school preparation for reading and also music, singing, dancing, rhythm band, and good manners.

We truly lived up to our name, learning in a happy environment and sharing and caring for each other. The school closed in 1959.

— Mrs. Elizabeth L. Gaffney

HOW THE NAMES BEGAN

21

Names of cities, towns, streams, roads and landmarks in Cleveland County have derived mostly from famous people in the past.

For instance, the county itself was named for doughty 400 pound Col. Benjamin Cleveland of Wilkes County. The county seat was named for the brilliant soldier — politician Col. Isaac Shelby, both of whom fought with the victorious rebels when they routed the British redcoats at the Battle of Kings Mountain.

All the major streets of Shelby were named for heroes of the American Revolution or the Civil War, namely: Washington, LaFayette, Morgan and DeKalb running north and south, with Lee, Marion, Warren and Graham running east and west.

By townships some of the names with their namesakes are: Duke Village for James B. Duke; Boiling Springs for a bold spring; Earl for Abel Earl; Patterson Springs for pioneer William George Patterson; Kings Mountain for the rocky peak and battleground, which had been named for an early settler named King (not for the King of England); Grover for the martyred President Grover Cleveland; and Waco for Waco, Texas, where county natives had migrated and wrote letters with that post-mark.

In addition to Shelby there are Lithia Springs so called for the lithium mineral in the water, and Brushy Creek for the luxuriant growth of alders and willows on the banks; Lattimore for A.M. Lattimore, a descendant of Big John Lattimore, a surviving hero of Kings Mountain fame; Double Springs from two large springs at the head of a tributary to Brushy Creek; and Polkville, for President James K. Polk, a native Tar Heel. Also, Camp Call (now Union), for a drill ground where county Home Guards were drilled before going off to the Civil War; Lawn-dale, from the spacious and beautiful lawn of Major H.F. Schenck; Double Shoals from two Remember . . .

Articles
Are Indexed
By
Article Numbers
. . . Not By Page
Number

rocky shoals in First Broad River; Fallston for Pioneer Zimri Falls; and Beam's Mill for a large water-driven mill on Buffalo Creek, east of the village; Belwood for the beautiful woods surrounding the early settlement and school.

Casar, meant to be for Roman Emporer Julius Caesar, but a postal clerk in Washington, D.C. misspelled the name on the town's charter and it became Casar; (still is) and Ben's Knob, for a strong mountain man who climbed it more than a century ago, and whose last name has been lost in the dusty archives of the county's history.

— Dr. Wyan Washburn

AN EARLY SKETCH OF THE TOWN OF KINGS MOUNTAIN

22

In May, 1872 Capt. Freno Dilling moved his saw mill from Cherryville to the site of the Kings Mountain Manufacturing Company.

In the fall of that same year the first railroad track was laid by this place and Capt. Dilling furnished the Railroad Company water from his well for the engines.

Late in the same year A.V. Falls, Esq. and myself bought two acres of land each from Robert Falls, who once owned all the land where the principal part of the town now stands. A.V. Falls' two acres was the land on which the A.R.P. Church stands and Dr. Hord's residence and two houses between him and the railroad. My two acres is where my house and J.S. Mauney's residence stands.

On Easter Monday J.S. Mauney and myself came to Kings Mountain to go into business, when we came Crow and Beam had a Bar room where W.K. Mauney's garage stands and Crow and Beam were starting to build a store house. J.S. Mauney and myself built a store on my lot, next to where I live; in May we had goods in it and kept our store there until the early part of 1874.

At that time we built a wooden store building on the lot now occupied by the Town Office. The same year Carpenter & Bro. built a small store where their present store stands; about the same time Baker-McGinnis built a store on the corner of the lot next to Luther Harmon's residence.

In a year or so the Garrett Bros. and R.S. Sugg came here from Edgecome County and built store buildings where the Mountain View Motel now stands, one a drug store and the other a general merchandise store, which was afterwards converted into a hotel.

Very soon after the Town started Mauney Bros. built a cheap hotel where the Furniture Store now stands, and it was rolled into the back lot and is now occupied by Mr. Ramsey as a residence.

In the latter part of the seventies R.C.G. Love moved here and built a Roller mill where the present one now stands and sold it to W.O. Ware and is still operated by the Wares.

Very soon after the Town started Capt. W.T.R. Bell came here and the citizens and town built a school building where the present high school building now stands, and he ran a very successful Military and high school for a number of years.

The First Cotton Mill

In 1888, Mauney Bros., Capt. Dilling, and others got up a little money and borrowed some and built the first cotton mill, The Kings Mountain Manufacturing Co., which has been enlarged several times. In 1892 Erskine Falls, W.O. Ware and others built the Enterprise mill, now the Mason mill.

In 1893 and 1894 Capt. Dilling and others built the Dilling Mill.

In 1900 Dr. O.G. Falls, F. Dilling and others built the Cora Mill also in the same year P.S. Baker and others built the Lula mill, now the Phoenix. Also in 1900 Mauney Bros., Dr. J.G. Hord and others built the Bonnie Cotton Mills. A few years later Junius Rhodes and others built the Park Yarn mill.

In the latter part of the 1890's C.E. Neisler and S.A. Mauney started up the Indian Creek Manufacturing Co. in Lincoln County, and in a few years sold out. Mr. C.E. Neisler soon after this started a weave shop where the Pauline Mills are and soon after put in spinning and more weaving. A few years later he built the Margrace and Patricia Mills south of town. In 1920 D.C. Mauney and Brothers, L.A. Kiser and others built the Sadie mill.

About 20 years ago Dr. Hord, Mauney Bros., and others started up the Cotton Seed Oil Mill and since G.D. Hambright and others have added an ice plant.

Early in 1900 Charles Peterson and his son moved here from Tirzah, S.C., and set up a small wood working plant in rear of the Herald office. In 1907 Henry Peterson and others formed a company and built a large plant which was run several years and sold. A few years ago Jonah Thomasson and others established the Elmer Lumber Co. which is a great help in building up the town.

The Factories

James W. Cornwell & sons had a Buggy factory and Ben Juff and Mauney Bros. ran a wagon factory for a while. The Guthries ran a shoe factory several years. Carpenter Bros. and others ran a brick yard and T.P. McGill and M.M. Carpenter still make a good brick. Neisler Bros. and Rhea are running a large shirt factory in the old Opera house.

I was proprietor of the first newspaper here, The Herald, which was printed by the Southern Newspaper Union in Charlotte. Later I bought a press and put in a plant, and my daughter,

Shelby Courtsquare At The Turn of Century

AUTOMOBILE FOR HIRE -- A scene of early Shelby is pictured above from a collection of the Times' old photographs. This picture shows one of the first automobiles in Shelby, a Reo, which belonged to the late J.D. Lineberger, pictured under the steering wheel, and Dr. Ben Palmer. The auto was for hire and carried passengers on short rides for a fee. In the front seat with Lineberger is the late Jake Rusasill of Shelby and some other passengers who could not be identified. The auto was parked in front of the Shelby Hotel and was used for the purpose of a Ladies Men's Shop. In the background is the courthouse which was at the time under construction and the tool shed is seen at the right. This photo was taken around 1907 before Shelby boasted any paved streets.

A scene of early Cleveland County shows one of the first automobiles in Shelby, a Reo, which belonged to the late J.D. Lineberger, pictured under the steering wheel, and Dr. Ben Palmer. The auto was for hire and carried passengers on short rides for a fee. In the front seat with Lineberger is the late Jake Rusasill of Shelby and in the center in the back seat is the late Laura Graham Robertson. The other two ladies could not be identified. The porch shown at left was on the old Shelby Hotel and was located on the present site of Loy's Men's Shop. In the background is the courthouse which was at the time under construction and the tool shed is seen at the right. This photo was taken around 1907 before Shelby boasted any paved streets.

Laura, set the first type ever set up in Kings Mountain. Later I sold the paper to Tipton.

Histories of Schools

In the year 1874 or 1875 the first school of Kings Mountain was opened with Mr. Alex Aderholdt as teacher. His first enrollment was twelve to sixteen. This school was held in a little two-room building on the south-west corner of Mountain St. and Piedmont Ave., where Mrs. J.G. Hord's beautiful home is now located.

About this time, there was another school functioning in Kings Mountain. It was conducted by Miss Lucy Eaton in a little one-room building on the G.T. King lot on Gaston Street.

In January 1876, Captain W.T.R. Bell opened school in the same building with eighteen pupils. The citizens of the town, which at that time was a very small village, began at once the erection of a two-story frame building on this sight and had it ready for the opening of the next school term.

The school began to grow; and very soon there was a wing added to the building. A military feature was added in 1878, and within a short time another wing had to be added.

Although North and South Carolina furnished the larger part of the patronage, the school had students from every southern state, and many prominent men of today, got the greater part of their education in Kings Mountain High School.

From the fall 1887 to 1905, the school financed on the tuition basis and was in charge of Professors E.W. Hall and C.T. Eaton, Rev. J.M. Grier, Professors McElroy Langston, Rev. L.A. Bickle, D.D., Professors Barron and Carwile.

First Graded School

In 1905, the school was changed into a graded school, with Prof. S.W. Carwile as our first superintendent. Up to this time indicated the following persons had served as superintendents: Prof. Fellows 1907 to November, 1907; Prof. S.J. Hunnicutt, November 1907-1908 — 1908-1909; Miss Bryte Baker 1909-1910; Professors J.Y. Irvin, and E.A. Harrill, 1911-1912 — 1912-1913; E.Y. Yoder, 1913-1914 — 1915-1916; Frand Orr 1916-1917 to November 1917; Miss Bonnie Mauney, now Mrs. F.R. Summers November 1917-1918; Rev. Berryhill 1918-1919; Theron Allen 1919-1920; Prof. Nye 1920-1921; J.Y. Irvin 1922-1927; Prof. Claud Grigg 1927-34 — the present time, with Prof. B.N. Barnes as principal of the High School.

In 1910, the trustees erected on this present sight a two-story red brick building trimmed in gray granite. This contained music room, office and eight class rooms on the first floor. There were four class rooms and auditorium on the second floor. This building was burned November 14, 1932. The trustees of 1910 were W.L. Plonk, F.C. Baumgardner, C.E.

Neisler, C.B. Falls, G.D. Hambright, and C.C. Dilling.

In 1918, the trustees purchased the lot on N. West corner of Mountain and Watterson streets and erected the present one-story brick building containing auditorium and seven class rooms, known as West End School. At that time, the trustees were W.L. Plonk, W.A. Ridenhour and Mrs. A.H. Patterson.

In 1920, the auditorium in Central School was converted into four class rooms. In 1924, the trustees purchased the Rudisill property just back of this sight and erected the annex to our Central School building. This annex consisted of an auditorium and eight class rooms. In 1925, the trustees purchased the present sight and erected the colored graded school. It is a one-story brick building with auditorium and five class rooms.

In 1926, they purchased the strip of land from Central School property east to Gaston Street for drive and parking space. The trustees were C.E. Neisler, W.L. Plonk and D.C. Mauney.

Beautification Work

In 1927, with the aid of the Woman's Club, the school was able to considerably beautify the grounds at Central Building by planting grass, trees, and shrubbery.

During the year 1929, the Kings Mountain School District and East Kings Mountain School District were consolidated, and during the same year, a one-story brick building with auditorium and ten class rooms was erected and is known as East End School. The trustees were then; E.E. Neisler, A.H. Patterson, D.C. Mauney, Dr. O.G. Falls, and H.H. Houston.

In the year 1933, the trustees erected this beautiful three-story building consisting of main offices, library and study, expression room, music room, and twenty-five class rooms and laboratories. At the same time four new rooms were added to the colored school. The trustees were D.C. Mauney, A.H. Patterson, Dr. L.P. Baker, H.H. Houston, and J.L. Mauney.

(Note: This article was prepared around 1934).

— Hon. W.A. Mauney

LATTIMORE HIGH STATE CHAMPIONSHIP BASKETBALL TEAM of 1934

23

Lattimore High School soon became a strong contender in sports when schools were consolidated in Cleveland County. Basketball was in its infancy at this time, around 1924, but interest kindled and grew, and rivalry became very intense between the high schools.

It all began on the early outdoor courts. Tilden Falls was the first coach at Lattimore High School and it has been said that he almost took the player in his arms and showed them what a basketball was like and how to handle it. To Prof. Lawton Blanton, principal, goes a lot of credit by encouraging his team to play clean and hard.

The spark was there, fans became interested, "tin cans" were built for indoor play and the flame erupted into "basketball fever." School competition was intense and the gymnasiums became "packed" with enthusiastic fans.

In about 10 years Lattimore had become a strong competitor. B.E. (Pop) Simmons, former Wake Forest College athlete, was coach of the 1934 basketball team which won its way into the State's ninth annual invitational basketball tournament held at North Carolina State University, Raleigh, N.C.

In the Class B division, which was for rural schools, 32 teams had earned their way to the State Tournament. The following information on the tournament play is quoted from the Raleigh News and Observer:

Lattimore Wins First

Lattimore's blue-jerseyed quint from Cleveland County was the first B team to advance to the second round, defeating Woodland 32 to 13. Glenn "Red" Towery, with 12 points was Lattimore's star. Robert Hunt worked a nice game at guard for the winners. The Lattimore opening line-up was Towery, Brooks, Davis, Hunt and Blanton. Substitutions were Irvin, Threatt, Humphries and Harrill.

Lattimore Ousts Dover

In the second round play, beginning at 2:00 P.M. a nip and tuck game in which neither team held an advantage of more than three points, Lattimore defeated Dover 18-15.

Robert Hunt, smooth working Lattimore guard, broke up a 15-all tie a minute before the final whistle to give Lattimore the game. To make the game more secure, Davis, center, dropped in a free shot.

Hunt was the star of the game with Glen Towery, redheaded Lattimore forward running him a close race.

Lattimore Beats Mingo

In the evening session beginning at 7:30 P.M., Lattimore continued to set a fast pace for Class B teams with a quarter finals 33-19 win over Mingo. The score was 19-10 at the half in favor of Lattimore. They took the lead soon after the game got underway and was never hard pushed.

Glenn (Red) Towery, forward with eight points and Irvin, another forward with ten led Lattimore. Robert Hunt ranked next to Irvin as a scorer, sinking nine. Substitutions were Threatt, Brooks, Humphries and Harrill.

Lattimore Ousts Candor

The semi-finals game was played the following morning at 10:00 A.M. A 10-point lead gained in first half play enabled Lattimore to defeat Candor 21-17, the final Class B. semi-final game. The score at the half was 15-5.

Lattimore was just too hot during the first half, holding Candor to two field goals and an extra point while it was bucketing seven action shots and one gratis throw.

Candor came back in the second half with new life and began working the ball nicely to get in scoring range. With two minutes left to play, Candor was only two points behind at 19-17. But a one-handed shot from the corner of the court by Robert Hunt, guard, put the game on ice for Lattimore.

Tourney Finals

At 7:30 P.M. Lattimore met Garner in State Championship finals. In turning back Garner for the Class B title, the Lattimore quint displayed great defensive play, allowing only one field goal in the first half.

Hugh Irvin, forward, and Glenn (Red) Towery who played forward and center led Lattimore. Each made 10 points, Irvin getting all his tallies from action. The score was 35-21.

Being recognized as N.C. State Champions

Lattimore High School State Championship Basketball Team in 1934: Front row, L to R: Haskell Harrill, Bill Davis, Glenn "Red" Towery, Robert Hunt, Hugh Lee Irvin, B. E. "Pop" Simmons, Coach. Second row, L to R: J.C. Humphries, Gordon Blanton, M.E. Threatt and Dorsey Brooks.

was a commendable honor to bring to our school. It provided incentive for further recognition in basketball, so interest and enthusiasm continued to grow. The gyms were filled with spectators enjoying, being supportive and getting emotionally involved in the games.

"Griz" Hawkins, according to "Tip" Rayburn in an article from the Shelby Daily Star, "Could be depended on to be present regardless of the weather, arguing with and razzing the other teams. Among the good fans now there is Norman Lee, Bate Blanton and Doc Hunt."

Sources: Raleigh News and Observer and the Shelby Daily Star.

— Burnette Hunt

TOWN OF LATTIMORE

24

After the Civil War many confederate soldiers returning home began to think about settling down and establishing homes. The part of Cleveland County around what is now Lattimore was originally mostly farm and forest land.

Having been born and living on a farm on Hinton Creek between Hollis and Polkville near Big Springs Baptist Church, Audley Martin Lattimore, who served his country in the Civil War as a confederate soldier, came home and soon married. He had a big family and bought land, built a house and moved here around the 1880's. He was one of the first settlers here and soon thereafter the railroads came and others began to settle here. Jim Lattimore, a brother of Audley Lattimore, also lived here for some time.

A.M. Lattimore was the first Seaboard Depot Agent. The mail was carried to his home where it was sorted for delivery, which made him a postmaster. This was the only post office they had until one was established in the Calton Building some years later.

Settlers came until it became a small community needing a name. The name Lattimore was chosen since A.M. Lattimore was the Seaboard Railway Depot Agent, and a first settler. His brother was also a land owner and a confederate soldier.

When the town was incorporated, he was chosen first Mayor (1899-1903). In 1891 a church was formed called Lattimore Baptist Church. Reverend A.C. Irvin, a veteran of the Confederate Army ordained to the ministry after his return home, was elected the first pastor. The church was formed by about forty-eight Baptist from Beaver Dam, Sandy Plains, Double Springs and Sandy Run.

By the turn of the century (1900), several merchandise businesses were established in Lattimore: Oliver D. Price, another Civil War soldier, owned a general merchandise store; Farmer's Mercantile Company, owned by George Depriest first and later by Hamrick Brothers and by Spergeon Walker in later years; a store of H.I. Washburn and Company; George Stockton owned a Livery Stable. Horse and buggy and wagons and mules were the ways of transportation during this period.

Since much timber was available, William T. Calton Lumber Company was established as manufacturers and dealers in lumber and shingles — they were also machinery dealers. I am told they had a handmade brick yard in Lattimore at one time.

The Railroad Important

The coming of the railroads meant much to these manufacturing companies as a shipping center for many places in the county. In fact, the coming of the railroads had much to do with the progress of the town of Lattimore. Passenger trains traffic demanded a hotel, a post office, eating places, etc. Thus the town began to grow rapidly by 1903-1906. A school, cotton gins, a jute mill, telephone company, a bank and drug store were built. By 1915 the town was real progressive.

Then came the First World War and many citizens were called away. There were two railroads by now: Seaboard and Southern. The first Southern Depot Agent was S.G. Price who later became a rural mail carrier. His son, Ed Price, was in World War I and died while in service overseas.

Dr. S.S. Royster was president of Lattimore Telephone Company. The drug store was operated by Dr. L.V. Lee, the town physician. A dental office was operated by Dr. Robert Lee Hunt. A Masonic Lodge was formed with a hall as meeting place upstairs in the present Martin Milling and store building.

The Lattimore School Academy was begun in 1903. Professor John Y. Irvin was principal with Miss Lucy Baker of Belwood as teacher-assistant.

John Broadus Lattimore (son of A.M. Lattimore, first mayor) was second mayor of Lattimore with the following aldermen: W.D.F. Green; W.R. Green and R.P. Early. J. Pink Lattimore was marshal. Mrs. Julia P. Early was post mistress with R.P. Early as assistant. Mrs. John S. Blanton was a later assistant post mistress.

Mayors of the Town of Lattimore during this period were: A.M. Lattimore, 1899-1903; J.B.

Lattimore, 1903-1907; William Beam, 1907-1911; W.T.D. Green, 1911-1913; A.M. Lattimore, 1913-1915; Ivey Willis, 1915 unexpired term; A.B. Jones, completed Willis term to 1921; Ivey Willis, 1921-1923; D.C. Bridges, 1923-1929.

The Lattimore Academy

The Lattimore Academy building was erected in the early 1900's and used by Professor John Y. Irvin, principal, and Miss Lucy Baber, assistant, to teach "common school work" and prepare boys and girls for college from 1900 to 1903. From 1904 to 1910 Capt. W.R.R. Bell served as principal. Other principals were Professor Bert H. Bridges and his daughter Miss Florence Bridges; Professor Teague; Professor Ivey Willis; Miss Bess Bree-man and Professor Bunyan Harrill, a former Chancellor of Western Carolina College.

In 1922 a new three-story brick building was built and in 1924 Professor Lawton Blanton was elected principal. Pupils from all parts of the county and some from Rutherford county came to attend this high school. It became an accredited school and consolidated to include Number Seven township. The attendance was very large by now, and each grade had a teacher. Several teachers taught the high school subjects. Other principals were Professor Glenn, Professor Arrowood, and Professor C.C. Padgett.

Finally, another new brick building was built at a location nearby because more room was needed. By 1961 the high school students were sent to Crest High School in Boiling Springs. The former school building currently houses Lattimore Elementary School. School buses were now present as a means of transportation. Consolidation and increases in the number of students caused movement for building a new building for Crest to be located in the county. Children from Lattimore, Mooresboro, Boiling Springs, and other communities in the county now attend this large high school. Lattimore still has an elementary school.

The Main street, Town of Lattimore, around 1900. Seaboard rail depot and town well are in background. J.B. Lattimore, second mayor and depot agent, in foreground.

Mauney Memorial Library, Kings Mountain, North Carolina.

By 1925 several of the earlier businesses in Lattimore no longer existed. Others came to take their place. Hunt and Hewitt opened a general merchandise store, D.C. Bridges, a grocery store, and T.C. Stockton a general store.

A "Rolling Store"

By 1942 John W. Bell came to town with his rolling store (on wheels) and operated a general merchandise store a number of years, about 1964 he changed his store to an antique establishment to deal only with antiques. His son continues this business.

Dr. D.T. Bridges was the town's doctor for many years, joining in 1928 a practice started in the late 1890's by the late Dr. L.V. Lee. The Lattimore Telephone Company, which began with Dr. S.S. Royster as president, was operated for thirty-six years by the family of the late J.S. Blanton. When Southern Bell came, it took over the telephone system.

Many other changes came about in recent years. Our cotton gins were gone; the railway depots are gone; farming has decreased as a way of making a living; and cotton is no longer the main crop. Soybeans, hay, corn, etc., have become the leading crops. Raising cattle is now very common.

New industries in the county have attracted many people away from farming. The population has increased and many new homes have been built. At present J. Wyatt Martin has a store and corn mill; Jack Horne has a grocery store; Bell's antique store still exists. We now have a fire department which adds much to our little town. We have a new brick Baptist Church.

The mayors from 1929 to present are: R.L. Hunt, 1929-1935; R.R. Hewitt, 1935-1949; R.L. Hunt, 1949-1955; Willard Mason, 1955-1959; D.B. Washburn 1959-1982; Ben Wilson

1982-present. Aldermen are: Jerry Prewitt, J.W. Martin and Terry Rholetter.

Sources: Our Heritage, A History of Cleveland County.

— Mary Agnes Lattimore

THE J.S. MAUNEY MEMORIAL LIBRARY

25

In 1936 the Kings Mountain Library opened its doors. Meager were its beginnings. First it operated from a room donated by Dr. J.E. Anthony, over Keeter's Store. Mr. J.R. Davis, well-known attorney, gave the first book, "The Life of Will Rogers."

The library next occupied a room about eight feet square in the old Town Hall building on Cherokee Street. Miss Ida Mae Davies served as librarian.

When the new City Hall on Piedmont Avenue was completed, the library moved into two rooms in the basement. Approximately 500 books, many of them donated by citizens, filled the shelves. Mrs. Bertie Hughes Campbell served as librarian.

The constant drive for a quality library was led by Mrs. Hunter Neisler, the Reverend W.M. Boyce, Mayor J.E. Herndon and Haywood E. Lynch. Mr. Lynch, editor and publisher of THE HERALD at that time, was untiring in his efforts through the paper to get a library for Kings Mountain.

In 1947, a permanent house for the Kings Mountain Library was found through the donation of the Dr. J.G. Hord mansion on the southwest corner of Piedmont and King. This was given in memory of Mr. and Mrs. J.S. Mauney, who had been among the founders of the town, by their sons and daughter.

The building was renovated under the direction of Mrs. George Houser, Secretary-Treasury of the Library Board, Mrs. Charles Dilling, Librarian, and a representative from the N.C. State Library in Raleigh. The upstairs was also renovated to become a Teacherage. Subsequently the Teacherage became apartments in the upstairs area and one in the back downstairs.

After 22 years as librarian, in early 1973, Mrs. Willie Dilling retired and Mrs. Hazel Herndon Fryer was appointed.

During the next years many changes and additions were made. The apartments were phased out because of new city fire regulations. Two more rooms were opened up to become JUNIOR ROOMS, in memory of Jan Marion Fryer; later a third room was renovated to become the CAROLINA ROOM. This gave a place for family and local histories to be kept for purposes of research.

As of 1981, there are more than 21,000 volumes on the shelves and many programs are being offered the youth and the adults of the area.

— Hazel H. Fryer

MEMORIES OF KINGS MOUNTAIN

26

Robert Falls, my great-grandfather, and his family, the Parker family and one other family whose name I do not remember, were the first families settled in what is now the City of Kings Mountain.

My great-grandfather's home was located where McGinnis Furniture is today.

Over a hundred years ago the railroad tried to get a right of way through Shelby, but was turned down. Next they came to this area. My great-grandfather held title to the land where they wanted a right of way. At first he rejected their proposal. And it wasn't until after an old friend of his, I think his name was Oliver Davis, from Gastonia came to talk to him did he relent and sell the railroad a right of way.

Afterwards Falls sold 25 acres for a dollar an acre for the building site of what was to become the town of Kings Mountain. About the same time he donated an acre of land for a cemetery, reserving a plot for himself and members of his family, and for a Methodist minister and his wife.

On the south side of E. King St. Falls also donated land for the A.R.P. Church, the first church built in Kings Mountain.

There were some trees and a spring behind the church site and it was told to me that a man named Winters hanged himself from the branch of one of those trees. After that the spring was known as Winters' Spring.

Today, R.D. Goforth lives in the old A.R.P. manse and the Fred Owens home is near the site of the first church building.

I imagine the community's first school was at the south end of Cherokee St. That's where my grandmother (Fall's daughter) Jane Falls went to school. When I was nine grandma took me to the site of the school. Of course the building was gone and the area was wooded. She wanted to see if the old spring was still there.

Uncle Williams Falls, father of the late Boyce Falls, and his family had a home on the curve going to The Margrace, near where Spangler Cement is today. The area has been cleared and there are a number of homes here today.

When the goldmine was in operation this area was like the wild and woolly west. There was a barroom on York Rd., near the York and Lake Montonia Rds. fork.

It was told to me there was a man murdered in that barroom and his body dumped in the well nearby. As far as I know, if the story was true, no one was ever arrested or punished for the crime. Later the well was partially filled in.

I do remember, as a little girl, watching some men trying to get a horse out of the well. The horse belonged to a farmer and had fallen into the well while plowing the field. They couldn't get the animal out, so they killed it and finished filling in the well.

I heard my grandmother talk about the old academy that used to be here. I believe it was located on the site where Mauney Memorial Library is today. Capt. Bell ran the academy and he lived on the corner of E. Mountain and S. Gaston Sts.

Today the Carl Wisener, Hunter Allen and the late Hunter Patterson homes are located on the site where Capt. Bell's home stood.

There were many things told to me about this area and its people when I was a very young girl. I had no interest in the talk then and when I grew up and developed an interest it was too late to recall the events because most of the older people who originally told me of the events were deceased.

— Janie Jackson

NUMBER ONE TOWNSHIP SCHOOLS

27

The nostalgia of an era beckons but one can only return through memories of those vivid events of the one teacher one room school. As far as I can determine the first school in Number One Township was Cobb School, located in the upper end of the township. Very little is known about this school. We do know however that there was a progression from this school to the two room, two teacher schools.

I refer to the three grammar schools located in the township. Namely, they were Palmer, located in the lower end of the township, Holly Springs, located in the middle of the township and Prospect, located in the upper end of the township. The scant history of these schools indicate they were in operation about the turn of the century.

At the time I attended Prospect the school consisted of two rooms which were referred to as the big room and the little room. The little room consisted of grades one through four and the big room grades five through seven. Each room contained a pot bellied stove for heat and a shelf containing a water bucket filled with spring water and a dipper. The desks at first accommodated two students but later were replaced with one student desks.

One Room, Many Grades

Being in a room where more than one grade was taught was a learning experience if one applied himself. While studying or working on some project while another grade was being taught it was natural to listen in to what was being taught in the other grade. The three R's were strongly stressed in the schools and even though the school term was only six months of the year one studied and worked while in school or else the teacher would apply a little hickory tea or a paddle.

Recess and the lunch hour were of course the highlights of the day. Where there were several children from one family in school they would bring a lunch basket filled to accommodate all the children in the family. I well remember when the weather was cold enough we would bring a jar filled about three fourths full of milk to which sugar and flavoring had been added. This was set in the shade in back of the school building and by lunch time it was frozen and a good substitute for ice cream.

Many were the games participated in during recess or the lunch hour; baseball, basketball, dodge ball, round cat, tap, peg, hopscotch, jumprope, marbles, jack stones, back-outs, and a game called fox or rabbit.

A forest in back of the school provided cover for the one designated the fox or rabbit. The one designated was given a five minute start. Those who did the chasing were the dogs. When the person who was the rabbit or fox was found and caught another pursuit was organized.

The Game of "Peg"

Peg was a game where a green wooden peg about ten inches long was laid across a stick on the ground. The pointed end of the peg was tapped with a stick causing the peg to rise into the air. The peg was hit, driving as far as possible. The one hitting the peg would estimate how many steps he would give to reach the peg. The other players would try to reach the peg in that many steps or less. If successful they would get points equal to the estimated steps. If not, the points went to the one who hit the peg. The player with the most points won the game in the specified time frame.

These three schools were consolidated in 1936. A new brick structure known as No. One School was constructed in the center of the township and the first bussing of grammar school children was underway. This ushered in the first one grade, one teacher school.

No. One School served the township through the year 1963 at which time the school was closed and the grammar school pupils were bussed to Boiling Springs Grammar School at the beginning of the school term of 1964.

The old school building was sold and at this writing houses a rug manufacturing operation.

— John W. Wood

PIEDMONT HIGH SCHOOL — A REMARKABLE PLACE

28

Piedmont High School was founded at Cleveland Mills about 1896 by Professor W.B. Dove. The school building was a large two-story wooden structure. Mr. & Mrs. Hugh Covington and Mrs. C.D. Forney, Sr., have photographs of the building. The first school also had a dormitory, formerly the brick residence of the Schenck family. The name "Piedmont," it is said, was given by Professor Dove, its founder and first principal. It is not known how many years the school operated at Cleveland Mill but probably until about 1900.

Professor Dove was the school's principal for only one or two years. He was replaced by William David Burns, a fairly recent graduate of Wake Forest College, and a native of Onslow County, North Carolina. Professor Burns continued as principal during the entire remaining period of the school's existence as a private high school.

About 1900, the school was moved to a new site on a high hill near Lawndale. This site was secured from D.A. Cline. On it was constructed a large wooden school building described in an early catalogue as, "one hundred and thirty-two feet in length by thirty-two feet in width, two stories high, with verandas."

In 1900, a joint-stock company was organized, a charter obtained from the state legislature, and an annex was built "thirty-two feet wide and forty feet long, two stories high." Apparently, all previous building funds have been secured from voluntary contributions. Some of the stock certificates issued at that time are still in existence.

The First Directors

The first board of directors was composed of H.F. (Major Schenck), president, D.A. Cline, Vice president, Carme Elam, secretary-treasurer, John F. Schenck and T.J. Ramsaur. The faculty for 1902-1903 was W.D. Burns, principal; Rev. J.V. Devenny; Thomas J. Gold; Mrs. John Eskridge; Miss Fannie B. Wood; Miss Lula F. Tisdale and Mrs. W.D. Burns. Fortunately, the school catalogues for the early years listed the names of the entire student bodies. These catalogues also show photographs of the school buildings and grounds.

The catalogue for 1902-1903 states that student board was obtained through the club plan, with an average monthly cost of $4.87. Students who went home and returned Monday mornings paid on an average of $3.00 per month. Tuition charges were from $1.00 to $3.00 per month in the literary department. There were extra charges for Elocution, Music and Business Education. Room rent during the early years was thirty-five cents per month for furnished rooms, twenty-five cents for unfurnished rooms.

At the site Piedmont began to grow rapidly. Professor Burns utilized his Eastern Carolina connections to induce parents to send their children to the "School on the Hill where there is no malaria." The sulphur-lithia spring was highly acclaimed for its health-giving water. The response was overwhelming and the size of the student body grew rapidly. The catalogue for several succeeding years usually included the statement, "At the beginning of the last session it was found that we did not have enough room to accommodate our fast-growing patronage." Additional buildings were provided.

David Hall, a boys' dormitory was soon

Remember . . .

Articles
Are Indexed
By
Article Numbers
. . . Not By Page
Number

built, followed in 1910 by Elam Hall and Newton Hall. Elam Hall had boys' dormitory rooms on the first floor and the boys' debating societies on the second. Total enrollment in the year 1907-1908 was 309. These came from four states other than North Carolina and from fourteen counties in North Carolina other than Cleveland County.

The 1910 Fire

On the seventh day of March 1910, the forward march of progress was suddenly halted. While most of the students were in the dining hall for the evening meal a fire started in the girls' dormitory and could not be contained until the main building containing recitation rooms, dining hall, auditorium, girls' dormitory, and one dormitory for boys was destroyed. Only two dormitories for boys and the society hall remained. There was little if any fire insurance. Piedmont indeed faced a crisis. School had to be suspended for the remainder of the term. Would it ever reopen?

Major Schenck, president of the board of trustees, called a public meeting to discuss the school's future. At this meeting it was determined to rebuild and rebuild they did. Out of the ashes of the old was born a bigger and better Piedmont.

Three new buildings were ready for occupancy when opened for the next term. The main building, named Schenck Hall, had four recitation rooms, a large dining hall, kitchen, an office and rooms for the principal and his family, and the whole top story for a girls' dormitory. Another building contained a large auditorium, and quarters for the music, business, and elementary departments. The Waters Library building (only one of these buildings still standing) was built by Miss Sallie Waters in memory of her brother, a hero of the War between the States.

Such a large building program, of necessity, called for considerable money. On May 7, 1911, after a masterful address by Governor W.T. Bickett, Mayor Schenck presented the financial need of Piedmont to the commencement audience. He asked for five thousand dollars to pay off the existing indebtedness, to paint the buildings, and install waterworks. A wave of enthusiasm swept over the audience and more than six thousand dollars was raised.

During 1913 there were two events of importance for the school. On February 15 when most of the boys were attending church in Lawndale, fire destroyed Newton Hall. There was some insurance and the dormitory was promptly rebuilt. In this same year a steam heating plant was installed for use in Schenck Hall, the girls' dormitory.

A Time of Influence

From the date of the great rebuilding program in 1910, until about the mid-twenties, Piedmont reached the peak of its student enrollment and general influence. Students from far and wide filled the dormitories, while the local or "day" students came in ever-increasing numbers. During this period Piedmont came to be favorably recognized by higher institutions of learning in this and other states.

The Piedmont catalogues of this period carry commendatory letters from Wake Forest, University of North Carolina, Trinity (now Duke), Meredith and others. The first three of these offered scholarships to Piedmont graduates. Professor Burns, in his chapel talks, was often pleased to quote congratulatory letters from prominent ministers, lawyers, educators, editors and other well-known personalities.

By 1920, student expenses had increased considerably but were still considered low enough to appeal to most ambitious young people. The catalogue for 1920-1921 notes that board averaged $13.17 per month; room rent seventy-five cents per month for girls, sixty cents to $1.00 for boys, with electric lights where available, fifteen cents per month. The following statement appears in this catalogue, "This $44.18 pays for board, fuel, rent, electric light, contingency, incidental and library fees for the first period of the fall term (10 weeks)."

The Literary Societies

An important place in Piedmont's success must be awarded to the three literary societies; the Peerian, Misigmarhonian, and Emersonian. (The last was for girls only). Membership in a society was required. Great emphasis was placed on public speaking.

Sometimes progress has a way of trampling upon and destroying the very agents of progress. Progress, in the middle twenties, began slowly but surely to toll the knell of parting day for Piedmont, the private school. As public high schools sprang up all over North Carolina and neighboring states, the "boarding school" began to decrease in enrollment and in importance in the educational picture. Fewer and fewer came to Piedmont from other states, other counties in North Carolina, and even from other parts of Cleveland County. Change was inevitable.

Prior to 1920-1921, Piedmont was a private preparatory school. Professor Burns often claimed that it was the largest, or next to the largest of the non-denominational schools in the state. During the next three years Piedmont was a private preparatory school aided by the state. Beginning with the opening session of the 1924-1925 term, Piedmont became an entirely state high school. Board and dormitory facilities were still privately operated and controlled. Professor Burns was retained as principal of the Piedmont High School (public) until his retirement in 1930.

In 1925 the Piedmont Corporation deeded the Cleveland County Board of Education a lot on top of the hill just east of the Waters Building. The county board immediately constructed a large brick school building containing classrooms and an auditorium. This building still is an important part of the present Piedmont public school. An interesting comment in the 1924-1925 catalogue is, "Toilets and shower baths are being put in for the girls." For the boys, still Chic Sale.

Sources: material, memories and interviews with Mrs. C. D. Forney, Sr., Mrs. Mary Lattimore, Mrs. Ada Turner Nevins, Mr. Charles H. Long, Mr. R. E. Price, Mr. J. H. Grigg, Mr. Hugh Covington, Mr. J. R. Davis and Mr. Charles D. Forney.

EARLY POST OFFICES OF CLEVELAND COUNTY

29

The first Post Office in Cleveland County must have been Burrtown, a settlement on the Broad River in the vicinity of Quinn's (Later Ellis') Ferry. Streets were laid off, lots were sold in anticipation of establishing a town at the head of navigation on Broad River. We do not have dates of the establishment, or demise of Burrtown. It must have been of short duration: Burrtown was named in honor of Aaron Burr who de-famed himself in 1804 when he shot Alexander Hamilton in a duel. Hamilton died the next day after the duel.

The people of Burrtown felt that it would not be complementary to their town to bear the name of Burr; consequently the name was changed to Erwinville. Charles Ellis was one of the postmasters of Erwinville (1848). In 1894 this post office underwent another change of name, John P. Dellinger assumed postmastership, and the name of the office was changed to 'Dellinger.'

Another Post Office in Number One Township was Byarsville. The year of establishment is not available, but this office is shown on Kyzer's Map of Cleveland County, 1886. This office was discontinued in 1888 and mail was sent to Gaffney, South Carolina

W. R. Harris was postmaster of Folger, N. C. in 1890. The year 1901 saw this office transferred to Cherokee County, S. C.

In 1902 Joseph A. McCraw was in charge of McCraw Post Office in Number one Township. With the closing of this office the patrons were placed on Rural Free Delivery from Gaffney.

Main Broad post office was maintained by Barron P. Caldwell. With the discontinuance of this office mail was sent to Cliffside in 1917.

The year 1854 saw John A. Nicholson operating a Post Office by the name of Nicholsonville on north side of Broad River in Number Two Township.

Joel F. Wood was postmaster of Waverly in Number Two Township. This office was changed to Rutherford County after 1886.

In 1894 Elijah B. Hamrick was postmaster of Metal, which later became Boiling Springs. Timmons G. Lee was a postmaster of Boiling Springs at one time. This office has survived to present.

Lord Cornwallis' Letter

There could have been a post office in Number Three Township on Buffalo at the time of the Revolution: Lord Charles Cornwallis penned a letter to his officer friend Lord Francis Rowdin dating it: Buffalo Creek, North Carolina on January 21, 1781. The Archives lists Buffalo post office with John Roberts as Postmaster. Buffalo Paper Mill Post Office in Number Five Township never had a postmaster by that name.

Swangtown was established on 26 February 1841. Later usage dropped the 'Town' and it was known as Swang for a season. In 1892 this name was changed to Patterson Springs because of the renown of the mineral springs nearby. A Mr. Rufus Roberts was Postmaster. This office was closed in the 1960's.

Stice Shoals, on Broad River, was established in 1847, the name was changed to 'Stice' 1894. With changes in centers of population and coming of Rural Free Delivery, Stice was discontinued and patrons served from Shelby.

In the Pleasant Hill community, Durbro thrived under the postmastership of Martin W.D. Roberts during the 1880's. This office was discontinued in 1900, and patrons served by a Rural Route from Shelby.

On March 26, 1889 Earl Station Post Office was established on Southern Railroad south of Patterson Springs. In 1895 the name was changed to Earl. This office is still in existence.

During the 1890's John L. Crocker operated the Crocker Post Office in the Elbethel Community. Robert B. Dixon was postmaster of Crocker when it was discontinued and mail sent to Kings Mountain.

With shift in population Whitaker, South Carolina became Grover, North Carolina in 1885 honoring Grover Cleveland, who was president of the United States.

George Herndon kept the Post Office at White Plains in 1848. When the Main Line of Southern Railway was laid through that section in 1872, Mrs. James W. Tracey suggested the name Kings Mountain, commemorating the Battle, which was the turning-point of the Revolution. In 1889 James Brown was Postmaster.

Muddy Fork: On Main Post Road

Muddy Fork, North Carolina, must have been the oldest Post Office in Number Five Township. Muddy Fork was established on the Main Post Road running from Philadelphia to New Orleans. Muddy Fork was located in Lincoln County at that time. The Post Office was established on 20 February 1838, and changed to Cleveland County in 1841. It was closed by order of Federal Government just after the War between the States, on Dec. 11, 1866, and reestablished on Dec. 18, 1867. Muddy Fork Post Office was closed, Dec. 8, 1880.

About three years after the closing of the Muddy Fork Post Office, another post office was opened about two miles away, across Muddy Fork Creek: Fancy, established on June 7, 1883. Only two names are mentioned as postmasters of Fancy: Mr. F.M.A. Oates, and Miss Era Wolfe. It was closed in 1902.

On the 27th of October 1853 a post office was established at Buffalo Paper Mill, on Buffalo Creek near the present Dover Yarn Mill, at the head of John Henry Moss Lake. Mr. Lewis Gardner was first postmaster, he was one of the first commissioners of Cleveland County. This post office was discontinued from 1860 to 1868, and was closed in 1890. Mail was sent to Stubbs.

The Stubbs Post Office was established on June 12, 1888, when Colonel Seth Stubbs purchased the Spargo interests in the paper mill. Stubbs Post Office was discontinued February 28, 1911, and mail was sent to Shelby.

From Texas to Cleveland

An interesting circumstance is this: In the very nick of time George Washington Kendrick of the Capernaum Church community returned to his native Cleveland County from the Brazos River section of Texas. A railroad had been extended from Lincolnton to Buffalo Paper Mill, and people who lived in the Capernaum area were endeavoring to apply for a post office. Ramsey Crossing was highly considered as a proper name for the office, since a Mr. Ramsey owned much land along the track at this point. Kendrick had been enthralled with the beauty of the country along the Brazos and the thriving city of Waco. He suggested the name to the people. They liked it. Postal authorities in Washington accepted it.

On March 16, 1880 George Washington Kendrick was duly sworn in as Postmaster of Waco, North Carolina. Since Kendrick, fifteen others have served Waco Post Office during its one hundred two years.

The Shelby post office was established in 1856 with Joseph Carroll as postmaster. The City received its Charter of Incorporation 1875, the same year that the first passenger train came to Shelby.

The Sharon Community, in the vicinity of Shelby Air Port, had a Post Office in 1874. With the closing of this post office the people received their mail from Shelby and Boiling Springs.

On present day highway 226, George H. Simmons kept the Pearl Post Office in his home. And about the same time Wesley Beatty maintained the Beattyville office in the vicinity of Ora Mill.

On the two railroads west of Shelby, A.M. Lattimore named a post office for himself in the late 1880's. This office still exists. So does "Mooresborough" (later changed to Mooresboro). However Mooresboro is much older than Lattimore, dating back to 1819, and received its name in honor of one of the early settlers, Lemuel Moore.

Rehobeth Community, of Number Seven township, enjoyed the benefits of Autro Post Office under the management of Mr. Charles E. Washburn. While James L. Green presided over Depew (named for that famous senator of New York) in the Washburn Switch vicinity. And about the same time as the two foregoing post offices existed, William B. McSwain kept an office in his home, in Beaver Dam Church Community, which he named for his small daughter, Darfer.

Duncan's Creek

Number Eight Township's Duncan Creek gloried in the benefit of a post office from 1829. With establishing of Cleveland-Rutherford County line, Duncan's Creek was found to be in Rutherford County. James McFarland was an early postmaster.

Other Post Offices of Number Eight Township: Camp Call dating back to pre-Cleveland County days — 1840. William Green, Postmaster.

Between Polkville and Casar we find the name Delight attached to an office of brief existence. Polkville was named for the President of the United States, James Knox Polk, with Joseph C. Lattimore, postmaster 1847. In 1866 this office underwent a name change, Andrew Johnson was then President. Later Polkville was resumed as a name, and this office closed in 1905 to reopen in 1939 under the administration of Mrs. Madge W. Lutz. Since that date Polkville has remained on the list of post offices. Going northwestward from Polkville we find Ola and a few miles further on same road New House under the dominion of Thomas B. DePriest.

Number Nine Township has enjoyed a birth of post offices: Beams Mill was about six miles north of Shelby on County Line Road — the dividing line between Lincoln and Rutherford Counties. A few miles on up, County Line Road intersected with the Lincoln-Rutherford Stage Coach Road. Here on 9 Feb. 1886 Webb Post Office was established with William Lacky in charge. Forty days later the Webb post office was changed to Fallston, on March 21, 1886.

Continuing northward on County Line Road (N.C. 18) Black Rock was established in 1875, Postmaster Edward Dixon. On June 12, 1882 this office had a change of name to Belwood. J.B. Ivey and Thad Ford are listed among the postmasters of Belwood. On March 3, 1954 Belwood closed. Just after the turn of the century Fredrick Weaver, and later Summie Gantt acted as postmasters of Rockdale, east of Belwood, on Buffalo Creek, near a rock quarry on a hillside overlooking the dam which supplied the power to operate the corn and wheat mill which was housed in a vine-covered two-story frame building.

Gardner's Ford: 1833

On the western side of Number Nine Township was the First Broad River, with Post Offices at Cleveland Mill — later to become Lawndale. John F. Schenck became first postmaster of Lawndale, 1903. Gardner's Ford established on Broad River on 2 February 1933, Postmaster Henry Schenck. It is believed that Gardner's Ford later became Double Shoals (established 1854 — discontinued 1900).

Continuing north, on County Line Road we come to Toluca, established 1887, and transferred to Lincoln County a few years later.

Just west of County Line Road, in this area: Knob Creek, a thriving post office for many years, established 1856 and administered by James E. Osborn. Knob Creek was in Number Ten Township along with Pasco, 1897 Postmaster Winehart Sane — later Hugh Peeler. Thomas F. Horton held the position of Postmaster of Shade. This office closed in 1900 and mail was sent to Knob Creek.

In the northwest corner of Kyzer's 1886 Map of Cleveland County the Post Office Point was center for mail during the 1880's. Lark, and Holly Bush (changed to Hollybush), Hodge, and two or three other Post Offices were located in Number 11 Township; all short-lived, and with their discontinuance the mail was sent to Casar.

In 1890 a post office was established in Number 11 Township known as "Race Path." This name was changed four years later to Casar.

National Archives List

The National Archives list a number of post offices whose location is not immediately available: Birchettsville 1840, Postmaster Drury Burchett; Pierceville 1854 (Franklin Pierce was President of U. S. at that time) John L. Gladden Postmaster; Clingman, 10 October 1853, Postmaster Thomas Ware; Neal; Humid, 17 November 1903, John T. Wells postmaster; Willis 1904 — discontinued 1905, David Willis postmaster; Milligan, postmaster Joseph A. Camp; Bead, postmaster Peter S. Gettys; Love, Joy; Cabot, postmaster Carmie Hodges; Kossie, postmaster Martha E. Brown; Crocker; Petersburg; Zite (Short for Monazite, a mineral mixed exclusively and extensively in Cleveland County just after the turn of the century) Jesse C. Crow was postmaster of Zite in 1902.

Of the more than seventy-five post offices mentioned only eleven have survived. With rural deliveries from most of these post offices the people of Cleveland County are served far better just now than at any time in history.

Sources: National Archives, Personal research.

— George M. Murray

OLD FIELD SCHOOL

30

Old Field School, located at Capernaum near Waco in Cleveland County, is probably the oldest school in this section.

William Andrew Mauney attended the school. He was born December 18, 1841. The Capernaum Church was organized in 1842.

Sources: Three Mauney families, Cleveland County Library.

— Barabara Miller Limerick Beattie

TOWN OF PATTERSON SPRINGS

31

People traveling south from Shelby in the 1800's looking for the healing waters of Epps Springs, would get off the train at Swangs, North Carolina. There, a horse drawn buggy would transport them 1½ miles to a large boarding house and hotel named Epps Springs

Patterson Springs Town Hall & Councilmen: L to R: Donald Rhom-Mayor, James Hollifield, Randolph Biggers, J. Paul Hamrick, Cleopatra Latham. Picture taken 1980.

Resort. Later these springs and facilities were purchased by Mr. W. G. Patterson.

The Southern Railroad was responsible for the renaming of Swangs, North Carolina to Patterson Springs, North Carolina, due to the confusion in those days of people not being able to associate Swangs with Patterson Springs. So Southern Railroad petitioned the Post Office Department in Washington, D.C. to change the name of the post office from Swangs to Patterson Springs, and federal officials agreed. The town Patterson Springs was born.

Earlier the area had been settled by the Roberts, Lowery, Hardins, Harringtons and Pattersons. W. G. Patterson first settled in the area of what is now Zoar Church Community, he later purchased the land and mineral springs with the hope that the mineral waters would help one of his sons named Billy, who was sickly.

Epps Springs Purchased

Epps Springs, as it was known, was purchased by Patterson about the time of the Civil War. News of the supposed healing powers of the waters at Patterson Springs soon spread throughout the territory and W. G. Patterson, taking advantage of an opportunity, erected a large thirty to forty room boarding house to serve travelers from North and South Carolina and Georgia. This offered bowling as an outdoor recreational facility of the day. But most people came for the main attraction, the sulphur water. The Patterson family sold the resort around the turn of the century, and it was later used for a children's home.

Very little information can be found concerning the early history of Patterson Springs. There is evidence of Indians living there at one time due to the numerous arrowheads that have been found. People probably started settling the area before 1830.

Cotton: The Money Crop

Cotton was the money crop of the area as it was of other areas of the county with cotton gins located near the railroad tracks that ran nearby. There is very little farming now, most of the farm land is taken up by private dwellings. Replacing the farming are small industries including a weaving mill which weaves horse blankets and an auto supply wholesale company. The oldest store that remained until 1980 (Lowery's Grocery) was replaced by a modern convenience store. Also included is a firm that manufactures portable, temporary facilities for the banking industry and a machine shop.

In the 1900's, Ruff Roberts owned the biggest part of Patterson Springs, and donated the land where Patterson Springs Baptist Church now stands. As was other churches in the area, it was originally built as a brush arbor and was first called Little Mission Church. This was replaced by a brick structure in the 1920's and rebuilt to its present size in the 1960's. Another church that served the people of the area in the 1800's as well as today is Sulphur Springs Methodist Church, located a few hundred yards from the site of the original sulphur springs and hotel.

A private school was operated a number of years in Patterson Springs, prior to the turn of the century, by Robert Gidney. The private one-teacher school was a subscription school with parents paying tuition for their children to attend several months of the year.

First Public School

Patterson Springs School, the first public school in the area, was built in 1924 through the efforts of a district bond election. The school first housed eleven grades, with maybe only five or six students in the upper grades. Later, Number Three High School was built a short distance from Patterson Springs and the Patterson Springs School was reduced to six grades. The schools remained this way until county consolidation of schools. At that time Patterson Springs was closed and sold at public auction. This building is now the location of Fox Mountain Weavers.

In 1974 an election was held in Patterson Springs. This election was to determine if Patterson Springs should be incorporated into a town. The measure passed, and along with Patterson Springs becoming a town, five town councilmen were elected and the boundaries of the town were set at a one-half mile radius from the intersection of Highway 226 and 180. The population at that time was 630, the population in 1981 had grown to 740 due to annexations and new buildings.

Edwin A. Patterson was selected by the first town council, he became Patterson Springs first Mayor, Donald F. Rhom was named Mayor Protem, Clarence Smith the Town Clerk, Hugh Dillingham the Treasurer, and Paul Hamrick as the other councilman.

During the first four years of the town, street lights were installed, a garbage service was started, land was purchased and a townhall was erected. The first meetings of the town council were held in a room of Edwin Patterson's utility building before the townhall was built. Later a picnic area and grills were constructed on the townhall grounds.

Subsequent election changed the makeup of the town council, electing Ms. Cleopatra Latham, James Holifield and Randolph Biggers. At the July 1981 meeting Randolph Biggers resigned due to health reasons and Edwin Patterson was appointed to the council by the other members to fulfill Biggers unexpired term.

Sources: Records & personal knowledge.

— Donald F. Rhom
Mayor of Patterson Springs

weather-boarding. In this case the clapboard, added as an improvement, served to preserve the structure. Old timers and authorities on such were amazed that rafters, sills, and logs were in such good condition.

This old house conforms to the prevailing custom and style of architecture for its time. It is typical in that it has four rooms, two separated by a partition of clear heart-wood forest pine with planks measuring seventeen to twenty-three inches in width.

The loft above is reached by a very narrow stairway forming a near ninety degree angle at midpoint where all but the smallest visitor must duck to avoid rapping his head. Underneath the stairway is a small closet. The present kitchen is located in the shed-like room added to the back by early residents.

During renovation doors were repaired but the original blacksmith forged hinges remain. The "cat-hole" was retained. A protective coating was applied to both outside and inside logs and walls, and floors of forest pine boards were refinished. A porch was added across the front. The building was wired for electric heat, modern appliances and plumbing was added, and mortar was used to replace the mud between the logs.

At the time of restoration the loft housed an antique hand-operated loom. Weaving patterns drawn by Robert Poston in 1848 show that the loom is more than one hundred thirty years old. His signed designs include "Flower of America", "Pine Bur", "Snowball", and others. Handmade quilts with home-spun linings, and coverlets woven on the instrument are treasured by descendants, and give evidence of the industry of Poston occupants. They are a tribute to the precision of the designer and to the weaver. The loom has been donated to Cleveland County Historical Museum, fully restored, and used for occasional demonstrations by artisans today.

Records, many tattered with age, salvaged from the old house include family letters, love letters, State Grants, wills, deeds, tax receipts as early as 1763, and birth and death records of many of the children born in this house. There are birth records of children of a Jonathan and Mary Poston. He must have been the grandson of Jonathan Poston, emigrant from England to America in 1703.

The first known generation to live here was Samuel and Rachel King Poston (Samuel, son of above named Jonathan and Mary). To this union was born six children, one of which, John born 1797 died 1863 inherited, by destination of his fathers will, the homeplace. He married Mable Patterson who was left a widow right in the middle of the War Between the States. Her loyalty to the Confederate cause is evidenced by the original Confederate Bonds among her papers.

John and Mable had nine children. One son, Daniel born 1822 married Margaret Ann Weathers, grand-daughter of William Weathers in whose home was held the first session of Cleveland County Court, 1841. Both Mrs. Mildred Gee, who has done extensive Poston research, and Mrs. Madge Harris, present owner of the Poston log house, are descendants of Daniel and Margaret Ann Weathers Poston.

The Poston Family Cemetery is close by the old log house, and unmarked graves indicate that Postons were buried there before the earliest dated tombstones. There are no graves marked for them, but it is believed that Samuel and Rachel King Poston are buried there since dated markers pay tribute to their son John, and wife Mable and their descendants. Daniel, son of John and Mable was among the last Postons buried there. A Poston descendants project has been to preserve the cemetery by pouring a slab of cement over the entire area.

Samuel's great-great grand-daughter shows the old log house by appointment, and the unique structure stands as a monument to the ingenuity of pioneers of our great county, Cleveland.

Sources: Original Poston papers and documents, Deed, Probate, Census, Birth, Marriage and Death records.

— Madge Harris

THE POSTON LOG HOUSE

32

The hand-hewn log house on Highway 226, North, Shelby has been in the Poston family for many generations, and is older than Cleveland County itself. The present owner, a Poston descendant became interested in restoring the building when a summer storm necessitated repairing the roof. In order to provide greater accessibility, Beam House Movers from Cherryville, North Carolina was employed to move the building some one hundred yards from its original site.

As work progressed, it developed into restoring certain areas and renovating others. The exterior clapboard, and some interior, was removed exposing carefully notched hand-hewn logs measuring twenty-six feet and fitting firmly into place. Wooden pegs held the rafters in place and clay filled the cracks.

Historians indicate that as status improved early settlers often camouflaged log houses by Patterson Spring Depot in the late 1920's when Uncle Bill Wilson was the Station Master.

Poston Log House

THE HISTORY OF ROCKDALE 33

We could scarcely write anything about the history of Rockdale without giving credit and space to Noah Hoyle (1804-1875) since he was its beginning. He purchased a large body of land and built a large and fine home on it. It was the first structure ever built in this community that he named Buffalo Shoals, but when a post office was put there the name was changed to Needmore. The post office closed after Rural Free Delivery was established, then the name was changed to Rockdale.

The home that Noah Hoyle built and moved his family into in 1832 stood some 300 yards east of Buffalo Shoals. He raised a large and prominent family of children.

Mr. Hoyle was never involved in the industry that thrived here at one time, but he had vast holdings of farmland that he eventually parcelled out to his children. From this plantation came the Horace Thompson farm now owned by Lottie Gantt; the Lem London farm now owned by the Orvil Davis heirs; the thriving mica mine; the John C. Gantt farm now owned by the children of Connie Gantt Dellinger; the North Gantt farm now owned by Fay Gantt Propst; the W. B. Hoyle farm (Uncle Billy) now owned by the Theodore Warlick heirs; the Lemuel Hoyle farm now owned by Lloyd Boggs; the John London land now owned by Iva London Cuthbertson and her husband Leslie, plus all the land comprising Rockdale.

40 Slaves Freed

Noah Hoyle inherited 40 slaves and gave them their freedom in 1847, some fifteen years before the great struggle between the North and the South over the question of slavery.

Noah Hoyle was the great grandson of Peter (Heil) Hoyle who came to America in 1738. He bought land and settled near Dallas, North Carolina.

The Rockdale spring was one of the most famous springs in this country. It furnished the water for all the immediate families and the various industries there. The publicity of the spring was known far and wide.

Back in the early days one of the main thoroughfares from regions of Newton and Hickory to Shelby passed through Rockdale. Many travelers would stop here to refresh himself with the clear cool water and water his stock at shoals. The scene of the spring could have been called a small park where many family reunions and picnics were held. The nearby millpond was the community swimming pool.

This section of the county known as "The Rockdale Community" throughout this century is located in the northeastern section of Cleveland County near Buffalo Creek was once a thriving community consisting of a couple stores, post office, school, gristmill, harness shop, tan yard, bark house, rock quarry, concrete plant, mica mine and others. Plenty of work was available throughout the year for anyone looking for a job.

The first store was operated by Summie Gantt in the early 1900's, later operated by Hoover Pendleton. The gristmill was built by Billy Hoyle, son of Noan Hoyle the first settler known here. He built a large home in 1831-32. Owned 40 slaves and freed them in 1855.

Owners and operators of the water-ground corn mill has changed hands a number of times. For a number of years John M. London and T. P. Jenks owned and operated this mill before their deaths. They installed a hammer mill, also a flour mill.

The water supply down Buffalo Creek was not sufficient to furnish enough power so large motors were bought to supply the needed power. People came from all over Cleveland and surrounding counties to have water-ground corn meal, a treat for the table is sad to say we don't have today.

The Harness and Collar shop was built and operated by Lem Hoyle, shoes were also made there. The rock quarry was operated by Rom, Joe and Bill Upton. Several stone chimney and the large dam across Buffalo Creek still stand as a memorial to the beautiful but hard work these people did.

The one-room school house where school was held from 1914 to 1923. Teachers who taught there were Annie Laura McBrayer, Mildred Allen, Addie Elam and Annie Mae Hunt. M. N. Gantt and John M. London were the school committeemen and the teachers boarded in their homes. In 1924 the school was closed. Everyone had to walk approximately 3½ miles to the old Belwood School. In 1926-27 the new school house known as Belwood High was moved into. Along with the new school, buses were available for the children to ride.

The tan yard is not visible now but is still located just at the back of the mill. Beef hides were brought there to later be made into harness, collars, shoes, etc. From 1934 to 1948 the John M. London family owned and operated a grocery store and service station. Mica Mining also provided lots of people with jobs for a number of years.

John M. London and M. N. Gantt operated a concrete plant 12 months out of the year. This also gave jobs to lots of people. They made 24" tile that was used for wells. 16" tile were sold to the state for water lines where new roads were built. Lots of concrete block building remain standing today made by these men. The concrete was mixed by hand and work this hard would not be done by people today because of modern machinery, but plenty of willing workers were available whenever you needed them.

It's sad to say this once thriving community is all in the past but the few of us who remain have precious memories of what a wonderful place it has been to live where neighbors are neighbors, and friends are friends.

Sources: Research and personal knowledge.

— Iva London Cuthbertson

CONSOLIDATION OF THE UNION SCHOOL (1920)

34

The consolidation of rural schools began in the State of Massachusetts almost a half century ago. A good illustration is a consolidated school in Cleveland County about ten miles northwest of Shelby. The consolidated school in this section served the educational purposes that were formerly served by four country schools of the old type.

The schools consolidated in 1920 were Union, Grassy Branch, Round Hill and Rehobeth. As for merely organized, Union was the only school among the four which was legally entitled to the services of more than one teacher and this school, while a large one of old district type could not be handled by three teachers in such a way as to give each pupil and class the proper amount of attention. Conditions were even worse in the other three schools where one teacher was expected to instruct the pupils in seven different grades.

The old rural educational system became unsatisfactory to a number of the progressive patrons of these schools. The teachers, while conscientious in the performances of their duties, could not cope with existing conditions that were unfavorable to both pupil and teacher. The daily schedules of the teachers were so over-crowded with hearing so many classes recite that it was absolutely impossible for any teacher to do thorough work or for the pupils, either individually or collectively.

It was decided to retain the Union school and consolidate the other three schools with it. Additional class rooms were provided for incoming pupils and trucks were bought to furnish transportation for those whose homes were some distance from the school. In addition to these arrangements, the school authorities were permitted to use the Masonic Hall over the school building for a class room; and ample space was provided for all the pupils in a make-shift way which was to be only temporary. Two school trucks were purchased for transportation purposes, and an experiment with a consolidated school was begun which promised to revolutionize rural education in upper Cleveland.

The advocates of consolidation had faith that their plan would prove practicable, and that it would serve the two-fold purpose of improving both social and educational conditions.

Some 263 Students

In summary, the following occurred: The average daily attendance was increased and interest stimulated in the children to attend school. The enrollment was large considering the fact that there were three standard high schools within ten miles of Union. Despite the proximity of Piedmont, Shelby and Boiling Springs high schools and of an epidemic of influenza and scarlet fever, there was an enrollment in 1920 of 263 out of a possible 325 which was excellent for the existing conditions.

Transportation by trucks prevented loitering and caused pupils to form habits of punctuality by meeting the trucks on schedule time at the appointed "stops". Tardiness was largely eliminated and the percentages of absences was also reduced.

Another advantage of the new system of transportation was that the general health of the pupils was better when transported in trucks. Before, the students were exposed to all kinds of bad weather while going to and coming from school. During the winter season they often walked through mud and sometimes were drenched with rain and frequently faced the biting cold of mid-winter. Now they had less risk of taking colds, or contracting pneumonia and arrived at the school building dry and warm each day.

The care and attention the pupils received in the trucks is also important. When pupils were by themselves quarreling and fighting and the use of bad language often occurred. When transported in trucks they were in the care of the driver who prevented such things from happening. Transportation by trucks in the winter also required good roads which increased the value of real estate. This helped to break up the isolation that exists in the rural communities.

School Brought People

The consolidated school brought a better class of tenants to the community. Ambitious tenants who wanted their children to enjoy the very best educational opportunities possible, were attracted to the community by the superior advantages found in the consolidated school with its strong faculty, higher curriculum and excellent transportation facilities.

Consolidation made school administration more efficient. There was less friction in a large, well organized school than in a one-teacher school and better grading and classification of pupils was made possible. The classes were large enough to stimulate enthusiasm and pupils could be placed where they could work to the best possible advantage.

The number of grades each teacher must handle was decidedly fewer than was customary under the old district system. Nine grades were taught in the Union consolidated school and a faculty of eight teachers was employed which gave almost every grade a separate teacher. This enabled people in the rural community to give their children the same educational advantages enjoyed by town children.

Since consolidation was affected, the curriculum had been raised. Only seven grades were taught at Union before consolidation, but two grades were added since that time. Now it is possible to introduce classes on agriculture, domestic science, and manual training.

"Grasshopper" Teachers

More efficient teachers and more thorough instruction was another advantage made possible by consolidation. Union school had a faculty of eight first-class teachers. Consolidation largely eliminated the so called "grasshopper" teacher of the past who migrated from one district to another each succeeding winter. So instead of passing the teacher from one small school to another so she could be retained, the pupils are passed from grade to grade.

Clubs were organized at Union school and a community fair was held each fall. Products exhibited at these fairs have won premiums at Gaston County fairs and at the state fair in Raleigh. Large numbers of pupils permits the organization of group games. Athletics is a part of school life and a "winning team" is the pride of every school. This is not possible in the little district schools.

Rural consolidation of schools eliminated a number of school officials and from sixty-five to eighty percent of the rural trustees of schools were not needed. The only disadvantages resulted from consolidation at Union was the cost of transportation and the necessity of pupils being ready early in the morning to board the truck when it arrived to take them to school. The two trucks used for transportation cost $3,110 plus some expense attached to running them daily. However, these slight disadvantages do not offset the numerous benefits of consolidation and would not justify the patrons of the Union school in abandoning the plan that has been conceived and executed for rural advancement.

Sources: Personal research and knowledge.

— Wm. White

A HISTORY OF SHARON SCHOOL

35

In the early 1800's some people in Sharon community felt the need for a school, so they established the Sharon School. The first school that some people remember was built about halfway between the L.L. Smith old homeplace where the old dirt road crossed Meadow Branch at what is now Highway 150W. It was a one room school with a pot bellied stove for heat. One student remembers she started school there about 1895.

One teacher, Mr. Balfer, was described as being hump-shouldered, but he was a real artist. He could make any animal, even an elephant, seem to come alive on the board. Mr. Eure Smith was his assistant. John Hamrick, another teacher, had a student take some rags and hold a hot stovepipe as punishment for having misbehaved. I don't know how many grades were taught.

Other teachers, named at random, were Doc McSwain, Francis Shufford, Docia Falls, Mae Warlick, and a Mr. Black who wore a frock tail coat. One Christmas Mr. Black told the students he was not going to "treat". The students threatened to baptize him if he failed to treat. It ended by Mr. Black being chased to Meadow Branch where he fell into the water.

Some of the families whose children attended this first school were the Smiths, Moreheads, Hesters, Turners, Ledbetters, Harrills, Blantons, Dodds and I'm sure many others.

A Second School

A second school was built behind Sharon Methodist Church soon after 1900. One former student said it was already built in 1906 when he started school. This was a two room, wooden building with an upstairs where the Masons, Odd Fellows and Red Men held their secret meeting. These organizations may have helped to build the school. Years later when the Sharon Home Demonstration Club was organized, it also met upstairs. Mrs. Wallace and Miss Sutton were two of the Club's early leaders.

Some of the teachers at this new location were Minnie Blanton, Lawton Blanton, Peyton McSwain, Willie Packard, Gladys Howard, Kate Tucker and Ed Shuford. Those who had to board in the community stayed at the D. D. Dodd's or C. M. Ledbetter's. Other deceased teachers were A. Hamrick, E. Dalton, M.

The Sharon School in 1925.

McCoy, S. Baker, Rev. and Mrs. J. Walker, M. Neal, M. Kennedy, H. Dover, L. Davidson and J. Sue Campbell. Some teachers still living are V. Dixon, L. Hamrick, M. Shytle, I. Stockton, L. Patrick, F. McGinnis, A. Hamrick and J. Queen and Horace Grigg.

Grades one to seven were taught in this two room school. Grades 1-3 met in the "little room" and grades 4-7 met in the "big room". The teacher of the upper grades was usually the principal. Double desks were used, thus two students sat together.

In the "big room" was a stage, 10 inches high, on which was a recitation bench where a class would sit to recite their lessons.

Students Are Janitors

There was no janitor, so the students took turns sweeping, dusting, washing boards, bringing in wood for fire, bringing water from a nearby spring for drinking and washing hands. Since there was no indoor plumbing facilities, the students had to use outdoor toilets.

The favorite part of the day for students was recess, when they played baseball using a plank for a bat and a homemade thread ball. They also enjoyed tag, stink base, seesaws, jump rope, red rover, drop the handkerchief and Farmer in the Dell.

Sharon community was a farming community, so school was held about 4½ months in the winter and 6 to 8 weeks in the summer.

Drastic changes came in 1936 when Sharon, Shanghai and Beaver Dam schools consolidated to become Shanghai School. The old Sharon school building was torn down soon after consolidation.

Sources: Former students Josie Morehead, Sam Smith, J. F. Dodd, and Jap Ledbetter, from a student Doris Padgett who wrote a paper on Sharon School, and my own knowledge.

— Johnnie M. Queen

A SALE OF SLAVES IN CLEVELAND BEFORE CIVIL WAR DAYS

37

The charm and flavor of the Old South as it existed in the days before the War Between the States was manifest recently by Mrs. Margaret Irvin Gold, of the Zion community, when she produced (some years ago) a battered yellow paper that held an original record of the sale of negro slaves. The old "sale papers" reeks with the humor and quaintness of a century ago, and symbolizes the past of pioneers and colorful traditions of which Cleveland county is definitely a part.

Written with the flourish of an old-fashioned pen, this caption heads the list of "items" on the record of sales: "A List of the Property Sold by the Administrators of Christopher Beam, deceased, September the 6 day, 1849."

In the days of the looms, spinning wheels, hogsheads, sixpences, and shillings the negro slaves was evidently the farmers' most valuable property, for the negro sales at the Beam place were termed as follows:

1 negro boy named Jo — $673.00, bought by John S. Ford.

1 negro boy named Jess — $736.00 bought by William Wesson.

1 negro boy named Henry — $208.00 bought by M. E. Goode.

1 negro boy named Jack — $600.00 bought by A. R. Holmsly.

1 negro woman named Sarah — $205.00 bought by Lemuel Murray.

1 negro woman named Feby — $546.00 bought by the widow.

1 negro woman named Rose — $1.00 bought by the widow.

Mrs. Gold explained that "Rose" was to be a gift to the widow, but law prohibited Mrs. Beam receiving the negro without a legal purchase — thus the one dollar price.

The Christopher Beam homestead was located on Harris Creek, about two miles northwest of Zion Church. The property is now owned by Elijah Bowens. Mrs. Gold, who has possession of the sale paper is the granddaughter of the late Christopher Beam and widow of the late Frank P. Gold.

Some of the customers and their striking purchases listed among the sales were:

A. G. Weathers, 1 cow (white), 5.87 1-2.

Francis Lattimore, res cow, 4.00.

Price McIntyre, red heifer, 4.50.

A. M. Cabaniss, 3 sheep at 62 1-2¢ each.

James Philbeck, 1 sorrell filly, 30.25.

M. L. Williamson, 1 sorrell mare, 16.05.

Simon H. Eskridge, 3 hogs, 1.80¢, each.

Channeller London, 1 plow, 5¢.

Channeller London, 3 hoes and mattock, 5¢.

William Poston, hames and collarx, 25¢.

A. Jackson Elliott, 2 beef hides, 2.00.

Peter Beam, cotton gin, 11.00.

William Covington, saddle, 31 1-2.

Gilbert Green, 1 gun, .50.

Joseph Suttle, 1 table .85.

David Beam, lot of sundries, 10¢

L. J. Grigg, 1 set of blacksmith tools, 21.50.

Martin H. Green, 1 hoghead, .38.

William Chitwood, 1 table .70.

Nelson Crowder, Flaxwheel, 1.50.

Widow, 1 reel, .25.

Widow, 1 spinning wheel, 30.

Henry Powell, 1 cask, .50.

P. Warlick, Steelyards, 1.50.

Widow, 6 chairs, 12 1-2¢ each.

Martin H. Green, tar bucket, .15.

Many individuals were not able to pay for their articles immediately as was indicated by the work "note"-or "paid" by their names. The late Ancil J. Irvin was administrator of the Beam property.

Although Mr. Beam died before her birth, Mrs. Gold vividly recalls her visits to her grandfather's homeplace. The two-story house she said, was constructed of logs, and the partition downstairs afforded two rooms. This building was traditionally known as the "Big House" and the kitchen, in which the family ate, was built separately.

A "Good Dark Cellar"

Mrs. Gold remembered most clearly the "good dark cellar" in which was stored an abundance of honey, dried fruit, peanuts, apples, meat, lard, and barrels of sour kraut. Asked if the cellar contained any strong spirited drink, Mrs. Gold smilingly replied, "I don't know about that; they didn't show it to us children."

The older residents of the county, Mrs. Gold pointed out, will recall hearing of "Christy" Beam and his negro slaves threshing wheat for the community with a primitive groundhog thresher.

Mrs. Gold added that the negro slaves took the surnames of their masters, regardless of the times they were transferred.

According to Mrs. Gold, Christopher Beam reared ten children, five sons and five daughters.

The 1929 Shelby High School State Championship Baseball Team: Front row, L to R: Frank Harrelson, Doane Hulick, Jr., Palmer McSwain, Carl Queen, Guy Bridges. Second row, L to R: Thurston Bumgardner, Hal Farris, Marchall "Lefty" Moore, Milton Gold, Sherrill Hamrick, Clay "Mud" Poston, Cline Owen Lee. Third row, L to R: Allen Suttle, Charles Switzer, (unidentified), Sam Dayberry, (unidentified), Manager Ralph Gardner, Coach Casey Morris.

ters. He was married to Margaret Gordon, member of another pioneer Cleveland family.

After conversing a while concerning the sale paper and its origin, Mrs. Gold remarked that she was ten years old at the outbreak of the Civil War. She saw four brothers, James, John, Amos, and "Abe", enter Confederate service. Only James and "Abe" returned. "The Yankees never plundered our home," Mrs. Gold said, "but my father became so alarmed that he hid his horses in the woods back of the G. P. Irvin place. He also hid our best feather bedding and bed linen in the shuck pen."

Mrs. Gold, in spite of her 86 years possesses a remarkable memory and recalls with amazing accuracy dates and events that she has either experienced or heard related. She evidences a thrill at reviewing the past, not with sentiment or bitterness, but with a keen eye to progress.

— Lucille Gold, and Mary Gordon Elliott

TELEPHONES IN CLEVELAND COUNTY and BOILING SPRINGS

38

According to history records, the first telephone came to Cleveland county around 1890.

A group of farmers organized the county's first telephone exchange at Delight, north of Polkville. This was followed by other exchanges at Lawndale, Toluca, Fallston and Polkville.

People just couldn't believe their ears and they would gather to see those new-fangled things work. They were amazed when they heard a voice on the other end of the line, ten miles away. Soon telephones were in many homes in the county.

According to records, the first phones in Cleveland County were installed only twelve years after the first telephone exchange in the world was set up in New Haven, Connecticut. This was on New Year's Day in 1878.

Just after the turn of the century mutually owned cooperative exchanges were established at Lattimore, Boiling Springs, and some other neighboring towns. A small fee was charged for connecting on to the system. This money was used to pay the operators who operated the switchboard in their homes. The early telephones hung on the wall and were activated by a quick turn of the crank.

These phones contained zinc batteries inside the phone box. When the batteries gave out completely, you had to have new ones put in. Some of the phones had two big zinc batteries and some had three batteries.

The first phones were installed in Boiling Springs in 1902 or 1903. The first switchboard was put into the home of R. H. Green Sr. on North Main Street. His daughter Hannah was the first switchboard operator in Boiling Springs.

The Party Line Plan

When the first phones came around they had party lines; some lines had six families on them, and each phone had a different ring. When the phone rang everyone on that line could listen if they wanted to. If you called someone that wasn't on your line, you had to call the operator and let her call for you. If you wanted to call anyone in Shelby, you had to call the operator at Boiling Springs and she had to call Sharon and the Sharon operator had to call Shelby for you.

Hannah kept the switchboard as long as she was able. Her neice Mrs. Addie Mae Green widow of Plato Green, was the next switchboard operator. The switchboard was moved to her home on North Main Street, not far from Miss Hannah's home. Mrs. Green was operator for thirteen years. Then the switchboard closed in 1932. After the switchboard closed a few of the business firms and the doctors kept their lines from Lattimore.

The Southern Bell Telephone Company bought the Piedmont Telephone Company on January 1, 1927.

Early in the 1950's Southern Bell put in its new Lattimore exchange dial service. When Boiling Springs got telephones, Cleveland County became North Carolina's best telephone county. Congressman Woodrow Jones made it an occasion to call for re-dedication to the American system of free enterprise, which he said developed the nation's great communication system. With addition of the new exchange, Southern Bell connections in Cleveland County crossed the 10,000 mark.

The Boiling Springs progressive club sponsored the program in appreciation to Southern Bell and others who helped arrange that civic improvement which was termed one of the greatest advances of rural Cleveland.

Mr. Ladd W. Hamrick acted as toastmaster for this affair. Several people made short talks. The Shelby High School Band furnished music. After the program the progressive club had a barbecue in the old Gardner-Webb College Rock gymnasium. Everybody was invited.

After the Bell Telephone Company cut in its new Lattimore exchange, the first hour witnessed 3,518 calls completed, and 1,733 just couldn't be handled by the equipment. The second hour found 4,023 getting connections while 1,792 were rejected by automatic equipment that could handle no more until connections were cleared.

The most significant improvement of late is the direct dialing system which enables telephone users to dial a station to station long distance without having to go through the operator.

Sources: personal experience and memory.

— Ollie Connie Green

A BRIEF HISTORY OF WACO

39

The railroad came to this section just after the war between the states. Trains turned at Buffalo Paper Mill, near the present Dover Yarn Mill on Buffalo Creek, for several years before reaching Shelby in 1875. This railroad stop was originally known as "Ramsey Crossing" after a Joe Ramsey who owned much of Remember . . .

Articles
Are Indexed
By
Article Numbers
. . . Not By Page
Number

the land south of the railroad in this area.

In 1879 a movement was started to establish a post office. While the movement was at its height, a young man in his twenties who was born and reared in this section — George Washington Kendrick — returned from a few years in the Brazos River area of Texas. He suggested the name "Waco" after the city of the same name on the Brazos in Texas.

(Waco, Texas got its name from the civilized Indian tribe, the Huacos, who had a fortified village at the site of Waco, Texas. These Indians all died of an epidemic in the 1820's — just before Anglo-Saxon settlement of the area.)

The people liked the sound of the name "Waco" and accepted it as the name of the town. In 1880 Kendrick was sworn in as the first Postmaster of Waco.

Solicitation was made for funds in 1883 to build a local school. The first school building was erected just about where the present school is located. Over the years the school has run its gamut: two teachers, three teachers, high school with fourteen teachers, and dwindling back to elementary school.

A motion was made at Capernaum Baptist Church, located a couple miles south on the old Post Road between Statesville and Spartanburg, that "We move our church to Waco." The original lot was purchased from Dr. N.A. Goode. Religious services were moved to Waco Academy in 1886. It is not known exactly when the building was occupied on the present site of Waco Baptist Church.

The Presbyterian church was erected in 1890 and services were held for nearly 30 years, but the Presbyterian movement did not meet the expectation of the Synod. In 1919 the membership was urged to transfer to Cherryville and the church property was sold.

The town of Waco was "Incorporated" in 1907 with a Mayor and Aldermen. A town Calaboose (jail) was erected — the only building the town has ever owned. Although it has required repair once, it is still standing behind the present Town Hall towards the Post Office. (If trouble is found identifying it for lack of bars on the windows — there are no windows, it is the unpainted wooden structure).

In her hey-day Waco boasted of five or six stores. Farmers came as far as from twenty miles away to sell their products and purchase fertilizer, furniture, clothing, and food items which could not be produced at home. Doctors, lawyers, ministers, missionaries, teachers, nurses, business men in all walks of life have been produced in Waco.

— George M. Murray

JOHN WELLS HOME, BUILT 1780

40

The home of John Wells, pioneer, and Revolutionary soldier, now covered with boarding, was built of hand-hewn logs in 1780. His marker in the Wells cemetery located nearby bears the following inscription:

"In memory of John Wells who departed this life
March the 4, 1819
aged 78 years."

The home and cemetery are located about four miles south of Kings Mountain in the Dixon community in the southeast section of Cleveland County. From the house, the site of the Battle of Kings Mountain can be seen.

— Cecil Foy Wells

Home of John Wells, pioneer & Revolutionary soldier. This is the oldest occupied house in Cleveland County, built in 1780 of logs.

BOYCE MEMORIAL ASSOCIATE REFORMED PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH OF KINGS MOUNTAIN

41

Boyce Memorial Associate Reformed Presbyterian Church is the oldest church in Kings Mountain. The church and the town were both organized in 1876. However, the history of the local church goes back to the 1800's, during which time they worshipped at the Pisgah A. R. P. Church.

At that time it was located between Kings Mountain and Crowders Mountain, a short distance east of the I-85/74 bridge. The Pisgah congregation wanted to build a new church where the present church is now located, but the Kings Mountain A.R.P.'s didn't favor this because of the distance. Presbytery gave permission for the separation of the two groups and Mt. Nebo A. R. P. Church was formed in 1856 about two miles northwest of Kings Mountain on the east side of Waco Road, about 150 yards north of Nebo Creek.

There is a cemetery with markers showing the following graves: James M. Dickey, Thomas A. Dickey, Louis A. Falls, J. Gantt, Jonathan J. Hays, I. D. Falls, Martha J. Dickey.

The sessional records show that the congregation had 69 members in 1856. They worshipped there until 1876, when the group was split again and one part formed Bethel Church five miles north of Kings Mountain. The remaining members built a frame structure at a cost of $700.00 in the town in the Gaston Street area. Rev. J. M. McClain was pastor.

This first building was replaced by a modern brick stucco church at a cost of $4,000.00 and was located on the corner of Piedmont and King Street. It was dedicated on October 30, 1898 as Boyce Memorial in honor of the first pastor, the Rev. E. E. Boyce. The first elders were: W. O. Ware, I. B. Falls, W. B. Weir, J. T. McGill, W. W. White and Capt. Freno Dilling. A large and comfortable parsonage was also built at this time, costing $1,500.00. In 1925 a brick Sabbath School building was added to the back of the church.

The congregation worshipped at this location until early 1961 when the property was sold to the Catholics and an educational building and fellowship hall was built on Edgemont Drive. The ground breaking was on October 1, 1961 and dedication was June, 1962. Worship was held in the fellowship hall until the present sanctuary was built. The ground breaking for present sanctuary was May, 1974 and the dedication was in October, 1974.

The support of missions was the first and primary goal of the Ladies Missionary Society when it was formed at the Boyce Memorial Church in 1888 by the pastor, The Rev. J. M. Grier. Throughout its history the Woman's Society had held fast to this objective, although its membership, which has risen to 73 in recent years, has contributed much to the overall work of the church. Besides supporting missions in Mexico and Pakistan, a church library was started in 1963 and named in honor of Helen Galloway Neal, first librarian.

In 1893 a prize quilt was embroidered with names of members and friends and is still in possession of the church. It is displayed on special occasions.

During the celebration of the 50th anniversary of the church in 1948, three Society charter members — Mrs. Lona McGill, Mrs. Elmer Spencer and Mrs. Lizzie Whitesides — were honored with orchids.

Boyce Memorial has grown to a membership of 339 members, 14 elders, and 16 deacons, according to statistics compiled in January, 1982.

The pastors who have served are:

Rev. E. E. Boyce, 1856-1875.

Rev. J. M. McClain, 1877-1881.

Rev. W. Y. Love, 1882-1885.

Rev. R. M. Stevenson, 1886-(1 year).

Rev. J. M. Grier, 1888-1891.

Rev. J. M. Garrison, 1892-1908.

Rev. R. A. Young, 1908-1913.

Rev. G. L. Grier, 1913-1922.

Rev. J. M. Garrison, came back 1922 until retirement in 1934.

Rev. W. M. Boyce, 1934-1940.

Rev. R. N. Baird, 1940-1945.

Rev. W. M. Pressly, 1946-1964.

Rev. Thomas Richie, 1965-1969.

Rev. C. E. Edwards, 1969-1979

At the present time, Rev. W. H. Tyson is serving as pastor, having started his ministry here in 1980. 1982 is the Bi-Centennial year of the Associate Reformed Presbyterian denomination and Boyce Memorial is participating in the celebration. As the past is reviewed, there is a challenge for the future!

Sources: Church records, personal knowledge.

— Elizabeth McGill Gamble

CAMPS CREEK BAPTIST CHURCH

42

I heard my parents say when they were young that there was a man who read and studied his Bible very much! He was a member of Camps Creek Baptist Church and he could predict the future. One Sunday morning he made a talk in the church and said that the time will come when man will ride in muleless carriages. He also said the time will come when man will fly in the air like birds. Because he said that, some of the members got up and said anyone that would get up in church and tell such lies as that is not fit to be a member of our church. So they turned him out.

I suppose if he had said the time will come when man will fly to the moon and walk on it that they would have hanged him.

What happened to Camps Creek Baptist church in that day of time could easily have happened to any other Baptist church.

In fact, Camps Creek Baptist Church deserves much credit for the many good deeds it has done. It is the mother church of Boiling Springs Baptist Church which is responsible for Boiling Springs Baptist High School which later became Gardner-Webb College.

Thus Camps Creek Baptist Church should be honored for the foundation she laid for the church that began the foundation for Gardner-Webb College. Camps Creek helped to organize other churches also.

Sources: passed down through family.

— Ollie Connie Green

CAPERNAUM BAPTIST CHURCH

43

Capernaum Church is situated in the north-eastern part of Cleveland County, North Carolina, about twelve miles northeasterly from Shelby, a short distance west of the main Post Road leading from Lincolnton to Spartanburg, South Carolina, and three miles southwesterly from Cherryville on the Carolina Central Railroad.

Capernaum Cemetery is now located at this site. An annual memorial service is held there the first Sunday in August.

This church was constituted by a presbytery on the 9th. day of July 1842. Elders D. Dobbins and R. P. Logan and deacons from surrounding churches composed the presbytery for this purpose; and William Roberts, Lewis Gardner and William Kendrick were the first deacons, and Lewis Gardner was appointed Clerk. Elder D. Dobbins was chosen pastor and continued until 1845. Elder W. Hill was then chosen and he continued in the pastorate until 1851.

In that year the Kings Mountain Baptist Association was organized, and Capernaum although within its boundary, preferred to remain a member of the northern body; and did remain so, until the session of 1871, when she was dismissed and joined Kings Mountain at her session of the same year. Elder W. Hill was pastor in '72. Elder P. R. Elam in '73, W. Hill again in '74 and '75, Elder G. M. Webb from '75 till '82.

The church at the time of constitution had a membership of thirty-five persons. Male members: Thomas Kendrick, Larkin W. Kindrick, William Kindrick, Lewis Gardner, William Putnam, William Conner, William Goodson, James Elliott, Christopher Stroup, William Roberts, William Goodron, Bailas More, Wilkins Wilmon, Thomas Howell, John Kindrick, Benjamine Putnam, Thomas Kindrick, Joshua Robinson, John Miller, (my great-great-grandfather) Michael Carpenter, William Yarbrough, Jesse Hord, William Carpenter, David Blanton, Adam Beam, Robert Kindrick, Newton Long, Thomas Parker, David Wray.

She has at the present time (1882) one hundred and seventy members, and a flourishing Sunday School of fifty-six scholars superintended by J. C. Parker.

Her annual contributions to pastor, missions, etc. are $122.65. Her present corps of deacons are Thomas Kindrick, Martin Moss, W. G. Lindsey and F. M. Miller. A. S. Kindrick, church clerk, Waco, North Carolina, Thomas Kindrick, church treasurer.

When this church was constituted it was "The Baptist Church of Christ".

Sources: Historical sketches of churches, Minutes of church on micro-film (both in Cleveland County Library).

— Barbara Miller Limerick Beattie

CASAR BAPTIST CHURCH — A HISTORY

44

This history was prepared Dec. 1, 1974 for the church:

Casar Baptist Church has enjoyed an interesting history for the Lord has been gracious to her for which we are indeed grateful. We wish to share some of the information that we have been able to glean. The earliest minutes were not available but we were able to observe minutes beginning about 1901.

According to membership records Casar Baptist Church must have been constituted on the date December 7, 1894 with the following charter members: D. S. Downs, J. H. Magness, Ellen Newton, J. A. Newton. Rev. Abram P. Hollifield was believed to have been the pastor of this group.

The church began worshipping in the Joe Parker store building and built its first house of worship in 1896. This structure was frame about 40 feet by 60 feet and was built on site given by J. S. Richards. Additional land was purchased from W. P. Wellman.

The present brick veneer structure was built in 1934 in the height of the Great Depression. It has been said that the pews purchased at a later date cost about as much as the structure did in 1934. It is the opinion that the service of dedication for this structure was made in May, 1935.

In 1955 the Fellowship Building was built. The pastorium was built in 1958. In 1962 the interior of the church was redecorated and in 1965 a new front and spire were added. In 1969 a baptistry was installed and the auditorium was again redecorated plus a complete renovation of the educational area and also installed a new heating and air conditioning facilities.

In 1970 Mrs. Alfred Willingham donated the organ to the church in memory of her husband, Rev. Elford Willingham, who was serving as pastor at his death. In 1972 began a Girls in Action mission program. In January 1974 the church purchased six acres of land in front of the church. In 1974 the church revived Brotherhood Breakfast meetings, a monthly church fellowship, began a deacon led church visitation program, began Crusader R. A. chapter, and began a Girls in Action group.

The Lord has added many to the fellowship through these eighty years. We call special attention to the ministerial sons from the Casar Baptist Church. Brother Posey E. Downs (deceased) ordained July 13, 1917, with Rev. D. G. Washburn preaching the ordination message. Again May 26, 1946, the church ordained Brother Talmage G. Downs to the ministry with Rev. W. P. Biggerstaff preaching the ordination message.

Casar Baptist Church was accepted into the Kings Mountain Baptist Association in 1903. The church hosted the annual sessions of the Association in 1922, 1948 and the night sessions in 1971 and has cooperated with the group responsibilities in this regard as used at this date.

The church began in 1950 to have the three year tenure of rotation for deacons of the church. The following men have served as deacons through the eighty years. (It may be possible that someone's name is not available who served.) The list follows:

O. C. Downs, H. E. Peeler, W. L. Walker, Sr., M. N. Pruett, O. T. Carpenter, Sr., Cecil Warlick, A. A. Pruett, Romie Melton, Emerson Pruett, James Petty, Jim Palmer.

Also A. A. Richards, Griffin Murray, D. S. Downs, A. M. Pruett, J. F. Clippard, C. D. Stroup, Elmer Downs, O. T. Carpenter, Jr., Donald Melton, N. Joe Wright, and C. Guy Warlick, Honorary Deacon.

Present Deacon Board: Harold Floyd, Chairman, Bill Hastings, Fay Melton, Herman Melton, Gene Parker, Jessie King, and Donald Pruett.

The following ministers have served as pastors:

Prior to 1901 Rev. P. Hollifield, Rev. Matheney, Rev. W. J. Hopkins. 1901-1903 — Rev. D. G. Washburn, 1903-1905 — Rev. J.V. Devinney, 1905-1906 — Rev. Julius Pruett, 1906-1907 — Rev. W. F. Hull, 1907-1911 — Rev. I.D. Harrill, 1911-1914 — Rev. W.M. Gold, 1914-1916 — Rev. I.D. Harrill, 1916-1917 — Rev. J.M. Ballard, 1917-1928 — Rev. W. Martin Gold.

1928-1938 — Rev. W. G. Camp. 1938-1944 — Rev. Lawrence Roberts, 1944 — Rev. Lee A. James, 1944-1950 — Rev. Ralph Carpenter, 1950-1954 — Rev. M.E. Gibson, 1954-1956 — Rev. G. F. Teague, 1956-1958 — Rev. Frank Lattimore, 1958-1964 — Rev. M. H. Jamison, 1964-1970 — Rev. E. C. Willingham, Jr., 1971-1974 — Rev. Jerry Laughter, 1974-1976 — Rev. Dean Coffey, and 1978-1981 — Walter Hill.

Our present Sunday School Superintendent, — Mr. Herman Melton; W.M.U. Director, — Mrs. Joe Wright; and Brotherhood Director — Mr. Bill Hastings.

Sources: Church records.

— Mrs. J. C. Palmer

CASAR METHODIST CHURCH

45

At the Shelby Methodist District Conference, held at Mount Holly in the late spring of 1899, a resolution was passed creating a Mission Charge to be "South Mountain Mission". Rev. C.P. Goode, a young preacher, was sent to serve the charge until the next annual conference. He established more points at Big Hill, Snow Hill, near the three county corners, and near what is now Corinth Baptist Church and at Casar.

On the first Sunday in July 1899, Rev. Mr. Goode held his first service at Casar in the old school house. He used as his subject, "What Would Jesus Do?" It was the second time Mr.

Goode had preached. A revival meeting was started the last Sunday in September of that year in the abandoned store building of Joe Parker. The Rev. J. W. Clegg preached the first sermon and then during the week following, Rev. J. E. Woosley and Rev. R. Y. Hoyle alternated in the preaching.

The meeting closed the first Sunday in October, 1899, with the formation of the Casar Church with some twenty members, the great part of whom came from Clover Hill Church. D. P. Fortenbury, H. T. Hoyle and George W. Peeler were appointed trustees. They bought a building lot from J. S. Richard for $22.25 in November, 1899.

At the Annual Methodist Conference of 1899, Casar was placed on the Polkville Charge, and R. L. Gibson was appointed pastor. The plans for the church building were rushed and soon material was on the ground for the church. During the summer of 1900 a box church was built with measurements of 40 by 60 feet. The cost was $660.00.

The Methodists in Shelby and the Clover Hill congregation assisted in the raising of funds. Two Clover Hill members served on the building committee: Mr. Decauter Elmore and Mr. George W. Peeler. Other members of this committee were: H. T. Hoyle, D. P. Fortenbury, and R. L. Carpenter. This church served the congregation for thirty-five years.

In the year 1935 the present church was started. It was during the pastorate of the Rev. J. S. Gibbs. The church building cost $4,500. It had five classrooms in addition to the auditorium. Five hundred dollars was given to the church by the Board of Church Extension.

In 1955 the congregation realized that the existing building was becoming inadequate, so plans were made and in 1956 the new educational building was started and the sanctuary was remodeled and enlarged. The project was completed in 1957 at a total cost of $18,000. Two thousand of this was donated by the Board of Missions and Church Extension $2,800 was donated by the Duke Endowment. By united effort and sacrifice of the congregation this educational building can be dedicated to the Lord without indebtedness.

The following ministers have served the Casar Church:

1899, J. A. Cook; 1902, J. W. Clegg; 1905, J. W. Ingle; 1907, D. P. Waters; 1910, W. M. Baring; 1912, J. W. Strider; 1914, J. P. Davis; 1917, N. M. Moe; 1918, C. R. Canipe; 1919, F. H. Price; 1920, L. T. Cordell; 1922, E. M. Avett; 1925, S. M. Needham; 1928, G. W. Williams; 1929, J. M. Barber; 1933, Sam Gill; 1935, Van Harrison; 1939, Hoyle Swafford; 1942, W. L. Scott; 1947, R. H. Nicholson; 1951, A. C. Kennedy, Jr.; 1953, W. L. Harkey; 1954, Floyd Bottoms; 1958, W. C. Anderson.

— Mrs. J. C. Palmer

CENTRAL UNITED METHODIST CHURCH OF KINGS MOUNTAIN

46

The North Carolina Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church was organized in

An early photograph of Central United Methodist Church, Kings Mountain.

1736. As the people called Methodist journeyed in all directions as part of the early pioneer settlers movement, a Methodist church in the community of Kings Mountain was an immediate desire for Methodist settlers.

Being of the Methodist faith, Dr. and Mrs. James W. Tracy, I. Walton Garrett and wife, Richard Garrett and wife, Mrs. R. S. Sugg and Bennett Willeford, new-comers from Edgecomb County, effected an organization for a Methodist Church in the immediate locality in 1874.

Others were soon added to the group, and services were held in the small frame school house located at the corner of Piedmont Avenue and Kings Street. In 1876, this small band of devout Methodists, working against great obstacles, completed their first spiritual home, a one-room frame building west of the present sanctuary.

The women of the church, sensing the need for greater mission work, met in 1888 and organized the Woman's Missionary Society. Mrs. James W. Tracy was the first president. Monthly dues, in those early years, were ten cents.

By 1923, the membership had increased so much that the group was divided into circles. After 1940 the society became known as the Woman's Society of Christian Service. In 1972, the organization was renamed the United Methodist Women.

The Ladies Aid Society was organized in the early years of the church and functioned as a parsonage support group.

About 1903, the young people of the church organized a group called the Light Bearers. This was absorbed by the Epworth League in 1919, then the Methodist Youth Fellowship, (MYF) and in 1968 it became known as the United Methodist Youth.

In the early history of Central Church there is evidence the members enjoyed their religion to the fullest. Sometimes when the preacher became overly zealous in the pulpit, some of the flock would sound forth their loud "Amen's."

A beautiful lot opposite the first church belonging to Mrs. Allison Falls was purchased in 1904. The following year the second church building, a stately Gothic structure, was erected there. The Reverend Plato Durham, DD, a former member and Oxford scholar preached the dedicatory sermon in 1914.

Sunday School, having been an integral part of the church life of Central throughout its history, was organized into departments and graded levels in 1959.

On May 17, 1959, Bishop Nolan Harmon preached the dedicational sermon for the newly completed educational building.

The Methodist Men's Club was organized in a charter service January 13, 1961.

Central Church had long cherished the dream of a new sanctuary. The climatic hour came when Mrs. Lizzie Thorne who, with a heart of steadfast devotion, left a sizable gift to Central Church. Christmas 1959 proved to be a focal point in crystalizing the people's determination for a new sanctuary.

The hour was nigh. A temporary sanctuary was set up in the fellowship hall and the old structure was dismantled. There was a note of sadness on the faces of on-lookers. But as the new edifice took shape, the nostalgia was succeeded by a feeling of pride and determination to build for the future upon the firm foundation of the past.

Central United Methodist Church, Kings Mountain.

The new sanctuary was completed on June 9, 1967. People had sacrificed so unselfishly that it seemed the only appropriate comment would be:

"Here is the house of God mortared together with the great cement of the Holy Spirit and the love and devotion of man."

On February 11, 1979, the dedicational service for the sanctuary was preached by Bishop Scott Allen.

Our Church-related activities have often been interspersed with a bit of humor. A Maundy Thursday incident involved "Miss Lil" (Mrs. B. M. Ormand), a faithful member of our church. The veil on her hat caught fire from a lighted candle as she was partaking of the elements at the communion rail. She exclaimed in a subdued tone, "Lordy Preacher, you've set me on fire!" After Wilson Griffin had extinguished the blaze and the minister had the situation under control, Miss Lil took her accustomed place without missing either the bread or wine.

A former pastor remarked, "I tried for seven years to warm her up, and now a new pastor set her on fire!"

No statements can be given to tell in full the accomplishments and far-reaching influence of this church during its one hundred eighty-year history. The record can be found only in the "Archives on High." The thousands of people, Methodist Christians, through the years have had hearts burning with a passion for advancing God's Kingdom and have asked no greater reward than souls won for Christ.

— Janet Falls

DIXON PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

47

Dixon Presbyterian church is located in Cleveland County at the base of the mountain on which the famous battle of Kings Mountain of the Revolutionary War was fought. It is indeed appropriate that a Presbyterian Church should be planted there as every General but one on the American side in this great battle was an elder in the Presbyterian Church. The battle is so closely wrought in the community that it is impossible to write anything about it without referring to the battle, and most of the families in the community are direct descendants of the heroes of the battle.

A Sunday School was organized in January 1938 by Rev. H.L. Reaves, Pastor of Shiloh Presbyterian Church, and met in the Dixon Public School building. In 1939, Rev. P.D. Patrick, pastor of Kings Mountain Presbyterian Church, and members of that church, were asked to take the Sunday School as a mission point of the Kings Mountain Presbyterian Church. Sunday School and Worship Services were held each Sunday afternoon and daily Vacation Bible Schools each summer.

The church was organized in February of 1944 and two elders, Mr. J. G. Darracott and Mr. John Stewart, were elected. Soon, due to a growth in membership, another elder was added, Mr. Dan Wells. Rev. P. D. Patrick remained as pastor of the church. By 1948 there were 52 members of the church and 88 in the Sunday School.

The need of a House of God to worship in was keenly felt, but the war emergencies made building apparently impossible. But, by help of friends, the building became a reality. Being paid for as it was being built, it took about a year to complete. The gifts to the church were inspirational, large and small, from the members, from members of the mother church, from interested friends, and from the Home Missions Committee of the Presbyterian Church.

The first gift of fifty cents was given by Mrs. P. Q. Hambright for the training of her family. The lot on which the church stands was given by Mr. and Mrs. Edward Stewart. Other members donated the building materials. The Dixon Presbyterian Church was dedicated on June 26, 1946.

Since the dedication of the building, the church has been a driving force in Dixon Community. Remaining a small rural church, it has lost none of its charm, love, and concern for those around it.

Five pastors have served the church since its organization: Rev. P. D. Patrick, Rev. James Mann, Rev. Robert Wilson, Rev. Olin Whitner, and the present pastor, Rev. Graham Wood.

Source: Church archives.

— Mrs. P. Q. Hambright and Mr. Robert D. Wells

EL BETHEL UNITED METHODIST CHURCH, KINGS MOUNTAIN

48

The name of the church literally means God, the House of God. It is often called the House of God. Methodism began in Cleveland County during the missionary trips of Frances Asbury. The church of El Bethel, according to oral tradition, was established in 1812. The first organized church however was not built until the 1830's. The church was located in the White Plains community which pre-dates the city of Kings Mountain.

The White Plains Academy was located in front of El Bethel Church. The Beth School was located beside the present educational building and behind the present parsonage. This school was taught by some of the past pastors and Mrs. Ella Mae Harrelson, who is still living.

The first preachers at El Bethel came from South Carolina. El Bethel was most likely part of the Lincoln County Circuit. This circuit was formed in 1789 by John McGee and Jesse Richardson, who came in 1790. This circuit embraced Lincoln, Rutherfordton, and Burke County, with portions of Mecklenburg and Cabarrus counties. It also had the name of Union Circuit at one time.

The first preacher is thought to have been Rev. N. Tally and later Rev. Benjamin Bell. These men preached at the houses of Mr. David and Samuel Collins. Mr. Samuel Collins gave the first land for a church and the cemetery. The first building was begun in 1832. This church was of logs with crude benches. The circuit preacher, after the church was built, was Rev. David McDaniel.

Other preachers were Rev. Richardson (1834), Rev. Bentley Thomason (1835), Rev. William Witber (1837), Rev. David Seal (1838), and Rev. Benjamin Curton (the same year). Rev. J.H. Postell, in 1859, was the first teacher at White Plains Academy. El Bethel has been blessed with fine preachers throughout its history to the present day.

Dixon Presbyterian Church, Kings Mountain.

Some of the early members of El Bethel who were prominent in the community were Dr. and Mrs. J. W. Tracy and Benjamin Franklin Dixon. Prominent family names were Harmon, Ware, Goforth, Phifer, Patterson, Falls, and others.

Dr. J. W. Tracy arranged for the purchase of more land for the El Bethel church. He also served as a surgeon in the Confederate Army. Mrs. Tracy (Regina Minerva Stone Tracy) was the first Postmaster of the White Plains Community. She gave the city of Kings Mountain its name. Kings Mountain sprang up around the railroad line which came two miles east of White Plains. Dr. and Mrs. Tracy later helped found Central United Methodist Church in Kings Mountain. They are buried in the El Bethel cemetery.

Benjamin Franklin Dixon was a doctor, minister, Superintendent of the Oxford Orphanage, President of Greensboro Female College and State Auditor of N.C. He preached many times at El Bethel and considered it home.

El Bethel later built a frame church on the land that Dr. Tracy had arranged to buy. This frame church was built about 1850. The frame building was located at the front of the cemetery directly behind the present building, which was built in 1912. There is still lumber surviving from this frame building. A minister in Gastonia is using it to build his house. The present building was built in 1912 under the pastorate of Rev. Clegg. The Sunday School unit was added in 1931 and an educational building in 1960. The main sanctuary was renovated in 1979.

The women organized into a group in 1914 and gave one of the Bibles for the pulpit. El Bethel is presently part of the El Bethel-Hoey Memorial Charge. The church has been blessed by many hard working people who contributed to the success of this church by giving of their time and talent for the work of God.

Sources: Church minutes and records, personal knowledge.

— Mrs. Geneva Neal and Rev. Sidney Lanier

HISTORY of ELLIOTT'S CHURCH

49

When John Crenshaw Elliott purchased his thirteen hundred acres on Hinton's creek, in 1806, he incidentally bought himself a Methodist meeting place. There was no church, and no preacher; but a clustered number of cabins in which the widely scattered settlers camped with their families when they gathered for meeting one another and meeting God, to worship Him. It is thought that Bishop Francis Asbury preached here on his missionary journeys.

The Meeting Place may have already fallen into disuse; anyway no more camp meetings were held there; for Elliott was a Presbyterian, and he built a 'Presbyterian Church' at the Meeting Place. But as there were no other Presbyterians in the region, and he was only a new-comer, he failed to get either a local following or a regular Presbyterian minister.

The pioneer Baptist, Rev. Drury Dobbins, came to the rescue; and even after the church was included in the Methodist Lincoln circuit and attached to the Upper South Carolina conference he was still welcomed there. On different sabbaths, Methodist preaching alternated with Baptist preaching.

Old timers born after 1840 have told of hearing him preach long sermons and pray long prayers at the Meeting Place, for though the church was officially listed as Elliott's, it was locally the Meeting Place.

The pioneers of that day had no time for hair splitting differences; religion was christian; preaching was preaching. Sunday school used to take up an hour earlier on second Sundays so all who wished, could go to the preaching service at Big Springs Baptist church.

Among the leaders of this early church was Mrs. Sarah Elliott Goode, a sister of John C. Elliott. She was a class leader and a crusader for temperance, and she taught perhaps the first Sunday School in this region. She saw to it that the children memorized their commandments, Lord's Prayer, and other scriptural passages.

Of the early preachers we have no record, but one of them, Rev. Nelson Nowlin, who married Susan Elliott, a daughter of John Crenshaw Elliott, and his son Edward Donoho Elliott also preached here. Edward's passion for the democratic principle led him into the camp of the Methodist Protestants.

No parsonages were furnished the preachers in those times and both these ministers established residence on the Elliott estate, going long distances to their charges, at incredible hardship.

John Crenshaw Elliott died first and his wife Mary Donoho Elliott, in dividing the property, deeded one and one-fourth acres for the church and two acres for the school, as long as needed for those purposes. When no longer used for a church and school, the land was to revert to her descendants.

The church was transferred to the Western North Carolina Conference and the Polkville Circuit. A new church was built in 1871.

Around the turn of the century, enterprising citizens about the Polkville Post Office, a mile and a half down the road, began to envision a town about the cross roads there. But to have a town, there must be houses. A church being a house would help some. So as a beginning, a Methodist Church was built. As most of the initial members were from the Elliott church, this weakened the mother church and preachers later became impatient with the little congregation. All the arguments in favor of mergers and consolidation were brought to bear.

So when the Polkville church burned about 1920, and the congregation returned to worship with the mother church till their church could be rebuilt, the two congregations decided to re-unite at Polkville in 1927.

And as the land legally reverted to Mary Donoho Elliott's descendants, they keep it as a memorial and a meeting place for the clan and their friends to have their annual reunion. The church was built of the finest forest pine and is remarkably well preserved.

The Elliott Reunion in 1909 at Elliott's Church.

Written in 1948 by Mrs. Leona Elliott Bingham.

Source: Church records.

— Mary Gordon Elliott

ELLIOTT'S METHODIST CHURCH

50

Elliott's Methodist Church is located (building still standing) in No. 8 Township, Cleveland County, N.C., about one and one-half miles west of Polkville, probably three hundred yards southeast of the road leading from Polkville to New House. It was formerly situated on the old Rutherford and Lincoln Stage Road. It is about fifteen miles north of Shelby. Before disbanding, the church was on the Polkville Circuit and a member of the Gastonia District of the Western North Carolina Methodist Conference. The church has been a regular M. E. Church South from the beginning.

It appears that there was a Camp Meeting held here at stated seasons prior to the organization of the church. Moreover, it is recalled that the Rev. Drury Dobbins, one of the founders of the Baptist Cause in Cleveland County, preached here on certain occasions.

It would seem that there was some sort of church here in 1806, for it is said that there was a group of log cabins here at that time when John Crenshaw Elliott settled in this part of the county. John Crenshaw Elliott is credited with the building of a log church here on these grounds. Of course, this took place sometime after he settled here in 1806. John Crenshaw Elliott was a large land owner, having at that time about thirteen hundred acres of land, some of which is still held by his descendants.

It would appear, therefore, that from this time on there has been a continuous history of the Elliott's Methodist Church up to its disbanding in 1927. We were unable to learn who the first pastor was. However, some of the lay-founders of the church were: A. Jackson Elliott, Dr. V. J. Palmer, and Bobbie Ledford. The Elliott's Cemetery is located about one mile northwest of Elliott's Church. It is the family cemetery of John Crenshaw Elliott and Mary Donoho Elliott and is located a few yards north of where their house stood. This cemetery is well kept and has many markers, showing a commendable pride in the Elliott family.

It is of the opinion that there have been at least three church houses on or near the present site. The first, of course, was a log church. The second appears to have been a log church, also. This second structure stood about twenty yards west of the present building. It was probably erected about the time the deed was drawn in 1854. All we could learn about this second building was that it had a balcony for slaves.

This leads us to the present building, a one room structure painted white with plain glass windows and green blinds. It is about 40' x 50' and will seat about four hundred people. It was heated with a stove and lighted with lamps. There is no bell nor tower.

The designer and builder was Lewis Powers who constructed the building so there were no inside supports. This was a new technique in that day. Oliver B. Elliott also helped with the building of the church.

Of unusual interest is the fact that this building has been retained for an annual Elliott family reunion held on the Saturday before the fourth Sunday in August. This reunion of Elliott family has been conducted since 1906 or 1907. In 1942 the trustees of this church property were Plato J. Elliott, Hewitt Palmer, and John P. Elliott.

While the Rev. Sam Needham was pastor this church, it was merged into the Polkville Methodist Church with few exceptions. This happened, according to Plato Elliott, about 1927. At the time the church disbanded, it had about thirty members.

The following pastors have served the church, though we cannot be certain as to the order of service:

Rev. W.A. Nelson, S.S. Gasque, J.A. Cook

(born in Tenn.), R.M. Hoyle, M.B. Clegg, J.W. Ingle, W.M. Boring, J.W. Strider, J.P. Davis, Clarence Canipe, Fred Price, L.T. Cordell, N.M. Modlin, E.M. Avett, and S.M. Needham, last pastor. We regret that we are unable to give a complete list of pastors.

At the time of disbanding in 1927, the following were stewards of Elliott's Methodist Church: L. C. Palmer, Andrew J. Elliott, John P. Elliott, and Plato J. Elliott.

M. L. White, popularly known as "Corn Cracker" White, was the last superintendent of the Sunday School. White was locally a well known writer and not without impressive gifts. Moreover, by profession, he was a school teacher of the old school.

An effort to combine this church with the Polkville Methodist had been going on for probably twenty years. It appears that the idea of merging with the Polkville Church was more or less unfavorable to some of the older Elliotts and one of the members of the Elliott family remarked that it was not accomplished until after their death.

Martin Elliott, a Revolutionary soldier, settled in Cleveland County and is buried about one mile west of Shelby out in a field near the Dover Mill. John Crenshaw Elliott, his son, settled in this immediate neighborhood in 1806. He was a Presbyterian, but was sympathetic toward other denominations, and is said to have built the first church here. The present Elliott family is direct descendants of these pioneer settlers, Martin Elliott having come from Virginia to North Carolina. (By: Anson G. Melton, Research Editor, Historical Records Survey, January 12, 1942).

Mary Donoho Elliott, wife of John Crenshaw Elliott, deeded one and one fourth acres of land on June 15, 1854 to be used for Elliott's Church. Another adjoining two acres were deeded for a school, February 2, 1860. This site has been used by the Elliott Clan for reunions since 1906. This information was taken from the original deeds of Mary Elliott. This the 22nd day of August 1964. Mary Gordon Elliott, Secretary, Elliott Reunion.

The present Trustees are: Val Elliott, Hoyle Gold, Thomas F. Elliott, David Beam, and O. Paxton Elliott. (1982)

Sources: As quoted, various records of the West. N.C. United Methodist Conference, private records.

— Mary Gordon Elliott

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH of KINGS MOUNTAIN

51

Kings Mountain's first citizens were not Baptists; most of them were either Lutherans or Associate Reformed Presbyterians. For several years after the town began, not a single Baptist lived there, so the beginning of a Baptist Church did not come until 1890.

Two ladies, Mrs. Frances Lou Smith and Mrs. J. T. Kendrick, were instrumental in starting a Baptist Church in the city. Mrs. Comwell was the first Baptist to move into the area, and she worked hard to establish a church. Soon she was joined by Mrs. J. T. Kendrick, and together they saw their dream come true. According to Reverend C. J. Black, a First Baptist pastor and author of a history of the church, "They not only saw a church organized, but witnessed it become one of the first rank."

Records of organization were lost, but 1890 is considered to be the year the church began. Either Rev. J. E. McManaway or Rev. M. E. Matheny was the first pastor, but neither minister served a long term. Colonel P. P. Hoke is known to have been the first church clerk. He drafted the Articles of Faith and also wrote the Church Covenant. First deacons were Gaston Littlejohn, J. Morrison, and Henry Poteat.

The church started without a home. John H. Craig of Gastonia donated a lot on the south corner of Mountain and Piedmont streets measuring fifty by one hundred feet. A building constructed on this site served as a meeting house until it was torn down on July 4, 1913, with D. F. Hord, Sr. pulling the first plank off the building. A new church house was started, and the congregation met in it for the first time on April 12, 1914, for a baptismal service, with everyone standing because new pews had not been purchased. A parsonage had been built in 1907 at a cost of $1,250.00. The church continued to furnish housing for the pastor until 1972. After that date, a housing allowance was given.

Mrs. Callie Carpenter helped start a Woman's Missionary Society in 1904, and became its first president. A Miss Gold, who had been trained as a missionary, helped in this organization. A Sunbeam Band was started in 1904, with Lula Carpenter Herndon and Jessie Erwin the first leaders. Will D. McDaniel was president of the Baptist Young People's Union begun in 1904. Royal Ambassadors were started in 1916 and a Girl's Auxiliary in 1925. The Sunday School began using graded literature in 1925 and received Standard recognition in 1926.

With each year there came new challenges and opportunities for the ministry of the First Baptist Church. Each new pastor brought ideas and inspiration to the work. In 1949 Bob Patterson was licensed to preach, and, in 1950, Demauth Blanton received his license to preach. Both young men had grown up as members of First Baptist Church.

At various times, adjoining property was purchased by the church, and new buildings were constructed to minister to the needs of a growing congregation. In 1953 the church adopted a foreign missionary, and, for several years, paid the salary of Dr. John Satterwhite, a medical missionary to Japan.

Mrs. R. G. Whisnant and Mrs. J. C. Bridges were given authorization to start a Christian kindergarten with this ministry beginning in 1957. A kindergarten was carried on in the church until 1975.

In 1957 fifty members of the church purchased a lot on West King and Sims Streets, giving the deed to the congregation with the provision that a new building be constructed there within five years. The gift was accepted and work on the relocation of the church began. On July 3, 1960, the congregation held a "ribbon-cutting", and the first worship service was held in the new building at the present site of First Baptist Church.

Construction began in 1973 on a fellowship and activities building and open house was held for the building on Sunday, October 7, 1973. This structure fills a great need for the congregation and also serves the community. The Red Cross Bloodmobile comes several times a year. The church uses it for plays, musicals, choir rehearsals, and many other things.

Through the years, the ministry of First Baptist Church has touched many lives. Present church membership stands at 682. The church is organized and staffed to meet the spiritual needs of the congregation and community, ministering also to the physical needs, recognizing that the total person is important.

Sources: Church records and a recorded church history.

— R. Allen Jolley

GRACE UNITED METHODIST CHURCH

52

According to incomplete records, Grace Church is more than one hundred twenty-five years old. In the early 1800's, the first congregation worshipped in a one room log building known as Kelly's Chapel. It was given to a negro congregation for their worship services when, after many years, the church moved to Linwood Road in East Kings Mountain under the leadership of F.W. Bradley. This congregation built a larger and better building called Bradley's Chapel.

In the early 1900's the church was destroyed by a windstorm, and the congregation moved to Church Street where a larger and more modern building was constructed on the lot where Grace Church presently stands. This building was named "Grace" after Reverend A.L. Johnson's first sweetheart. During this time, the church was first in the Gastonia Circuit, then the Greensboro, and later Statesville Districts of the Blue Ridge Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

Reverend B.A. Culp, a resourceful and gifted leader, was pastor when the church was wrecked by a storm. A larger church with a full basement and several Sunday School rooms was then erected. During the eleven years Reverend Culp was pastor, two parsonages were built, a much larger congregation was formed, and all debts were paid. On February 17, 1946, this church was gutted and destroyed by fire.

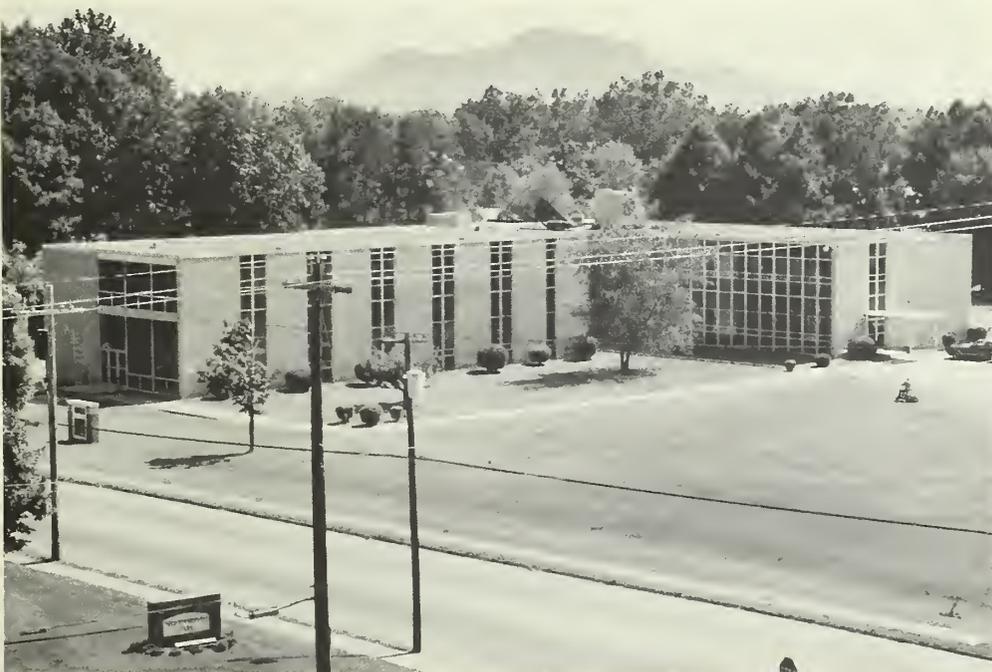

Even before the ruined building had ceased smoldering, plans were begun for a new building under the leadership of Pastor Jones. In October of that same year, with only five thousand dollars of insurance money and thirteen thousand dollars raised by the congregation, a building committee composed of Frank Greene (chairman), Forest Huffstetler, Frank Roper, D.C. Payseur, T.E. and Beulah Mauney undertook the heavy task of rebuilding.

Reverend G.W. Fink, known as a church builder, became pastor during this time. He encouraged the disheartened congregation by telling them that God would help them to build the kind of building his cause required. The building was erected by both free and hired labor with Mr. Kelly Dixon as foreman.

With fifteen hundred dollars from the Church Extension Board, generous help from friends in other churches, the untiring efforts of this giving and faithful congregation, and by God's grace and mercy, the present building was erected and furnished at a total cost of fifty-three thousand six hundred sixty-four dollars. The building was paid for within a year of the beginning of construction. The new church was dedicated by Bishop Harrell on November 21, 1948.

In 1956, a Youth Fellowship Building was added to the church site and has served as a place of fellowship and worship for the entire congregation.

This local church has changed with time as has its denomination, which was Methodist Episcopal until 1939, Methodist until 1968, and United Methodist since 1968. The congregation of Grace Church, both past and present, illustrates the idea that the Church of Christ is a people, not a place; believers, not buildings. This is the church over which death and destruction shall not prevail.

First Baptist Church, Kings Mountain.

Sources: Church records.

— Kristen Hagen

KADESH METHODIST CHURCH 53

The founding of this historic church is thought to have been the result of the first great religious revival which swept across America. This period has been recorded as "The Great Awakening."

Kadesh Methodist Church is not only one of the oldest churches in Belwood, but one of the oldest in the county. It was constituted April 11, 1833. The land was purchased from Gilbert Dixon for five shillings. The Trustees were: Noah Hubbard, Gilbert Dixon, David Williams, James Lackey, James Lewis and William Willis. Noah Hubbard was named chairman. It has been rebuilt three times; in 1871, 1891 and 1935 with W.L. Scott as pastor. The first circuit preacher was Elisha Galloway with G.T. Huggins as junior preacher.

According to Mr. Hoyle Lutz, at Fallston July 1952, the following ministers have served Kadesh Church:

John Watts, 1866-68; J.J. Prather, 1869; J.W. Abernathy, 1870-71; T.H. Edwards, 1872-73; G.H. Anderson, 1874-75; W.S. Chaffin, 1876-77; J.C. Hartsell, 1878; J.W. Calahan, 1879; G.A. Gault, 1880-82; R.M. Hoyle, 1883-85; D.L. Earnhardt, 1886.

D.A. Watkins, 1887; M.T. Stell, 1888; H.T. Hudson, 1889-91; D.P. Tate, 1892-93; James Clegg, 1894-95; A.R. Surratte, 1896-97; D.H. Coman, 1898; J.E. Woolsey, 1899-02; W.P. McKee, 1903-05; L.E. Stacey, 1906-09; W.V. Hunnicutt, 1910-13; J.F. Moser, 1914-17.

D.W. Brown, 1918-21; D.H. Rhinehardt, 1922-23; John H. Greene, 1924-26; J.W. Fitzgerald, 1927-30; E.E. Snow, 1931-32; W.L. Scott, 1933-36; R.T. Houts, 1937; R.C. Goforth, 1938-39; G.W. Clay, 1940.

J.M. Morgan, 1941-45; J.T. Bowman, 1946-49; W.H. Yokley, 1950-55; J.C. Swain, 1956; Fred A. Hill, 1956-62; Carl Dennis, 1962-64; N.C. Bush, 1964-1970; Cleatus Pope, 1970-1973; G.A. Upton, 1973-76; Charles Medlin, 1976-80; Keys Pendleton, 1980-

Ten ministers have gone out from Kadesh: M.H. Hoyle, A.G. Gantt, H.G. Stame, E.W. Dixon, J.W. Hoyle, Robert Stamey, Ben Stamey, John Gantt, B.T. Gantt, and Joe McMurry. The first person buried in Kadesh Cemetery was Jacob S. Hoyle.

The church bell was given to the church in the early 1900's by Mr. J.B. Duke, founder of Duke University, Duke Hospital and Duke Power Company.

One hot summer day in Shelby there was a watermelon feast on the courtsquare. The watermelons were donated by Mr. Ed Dixon and some of the neighboring farmers. Mr. Duke was so impressed that he asked if there was anything he could do for their church to show his appreciation. Mr. Ed Dixon said "we need a church bell." Mr. Duke said, "Go to Campbell's Department store and order the largest bell they can get." He did and we are very grateful to Mr. Ed Dixon and especially Mr. J.B. Duke.

The bell measures 44 inches and is still in use today.

— Mrs. Frances Beam

KINGS MOUNTAIN BAPTIST CHURCH 54

Kings Mountain Baptist Church, situated on the Southwest Corner of West Mountain Street and South Piedmont Avenue, formerly owned and occupied by the First Baptist Church of Kings Mountain, was organized on December 8, 1958 with 221 charter members.

Rev. William Bumgardner of Kings Mountain and Dr. Zeno Wall of Shelby served as supply pastors until Rev. Marion D. DuBose, Jr. came in June of 1959 as the church's first pastor.

In less than a year the membership increased to 259. There were eight baptisms. Ninety-three enrolled in the first Vacation Bible School. The Training Union enrollment was 132, and the W.M.U. had 128 members. Sunday School enrollment was 293 with an average attendance of 189.

Between December 8, 1958 and October, 1959 the sanctuary was air conditioned and repainted; new lights and a new heating plant installed, and other improvements made, requiring an output of $17,281.63 paid for from gifts. In the meantime gifts totaling $2,739.87 were given to missions.

Since then the Education Building has been air conditioned and repainted and renovations made to the area under the sanctuary, new concrete steps were built at the entrance to the sanctuary and a large and lovely parsonage erected at 407 Hawthorne Road.

The first deacons of the church, elected in 1959, were Atwood McDaniel, Jr., J.C. Bridges, Gene Austin, J.B. Keeter, Harold Crawford, Sr., Odell Benton, Ollie Harris, Thomas Tindall, Sr., W.T. Weir, Bryan Hord and E.R. Roberts. Other officers of the church at this time were E.R. Roberts, Sunday School Superintendent; J.C. Bridges, Training Union Director; D.E. Tate, Brotherhood President; Mrs. Harold Coggins, W.M.U. President; Mrs. Max Norman, Church Secretary.

Estimated value of the church property, exclusive of the parsonage, was $200,000.00 in 1962.

Seating capacity of the sanctuary is 375. The Sunday School rooms are adequately furnished. So is the Library — and one peek into the Nursery makes you want to be a child again.

On June 16, 1959 the deacons recommended that Gene Austin be elected to serve as youth counselor, and that a youth council, consisting of a chairman, vice-chairman, secretary and treasurer, also be elected. The motion was made by D.F. Hord and seconded by F.D. McDaniel, Sr., and was unanimously carried.

On September 8, 1959 the chairman of the Constitution Committee, Eugene Roberts, made a report and read the articles which had been approved by this committee. These were approved by the church, and have been of great value through the years.

On October 13, 1959, a significant action was taken upon the recommendation of the missions committee. At that time the church assumed the responsibility of providing leadership for a Sunday School class at the Kings Mountain Hospital each Sunday morning. This service has been continuous through the years, and is still a vital part of the hospital ministry.

In a conference of February 20, 1963, Mrs. Mary Norman was elected as a youth director, in addition to her duties as church secretary.

Upon the recommendation of the deacons, it was unanimously agreed in a September 20, 1964 business meeting that the church establish a music ministry. In this same meeting the following were appointed to serve as a pulpit supply committee: Tom Tate, G.A. Bridges and Jack White.

Kings Mountain Baptist Church, organized Dec. 8, 1958.

The church's first pastor, Rev. Marion DuBose, Jr., offered his resignation in July of 1965 which was accepted.

In the August 15th meeting of that same month, Rev. James Wilder was called as interim pastor. He was later called as regular pastor on December 19, 1965.

Ollie Harris, chairman of the Restoration Committee, presented a report on April 20, 1969 that the church approve plans (in principle) as proposed. This was approved.

On May 4 of this same year (1969), Miss Camellia George was employed to serve as a summer youth worker, upon the recommendation of the pastor and Dr. D.F. Hord.

In the May business meeting of 1970, the church voted to prepare a church directory.

In a called meeting of the church on September 2, 1973, Rev. Wilder read his letter of resignation, to be effective September 30, 1973, which was accepted. Rev. Miller Freeman was called as interim pastor a few weeks later.

Rev. J.C. Goare, the present pastor, was unanimously called on March 30, 1975, and began his ministry on April 14.

"The Midweek Visitor," weekly newsletter of the church, was begun on the first week of September, 1975. Sometime later, in 1976, a 16-passenger van was purchased. Later on, in this same year, a group of six was elected to serve as a sanctuary renovation committee, including Mrs. Harold Coggins, Mrs. Jack White, Mrs. Eugene Roberts, Alex Owens, J.C. Bridges and Robert Hullender. Mrs. Virginia Crawford and Mrs. Bob Herndon were later added.

One significant decision in 1977, especially in regards to world missions, was the church sponsoring, in cooperation with the Foreign Mission Board, Miss Phyllis Thomas, Missionary to Chile.

Sometime after Mr. Ted Weir's death in 1978, his wife offered to the church $20,000.00 for an elevator in his memory. The gift was accepted, and an elevator was later installed at a cost of $30,000.00, the church and others paying the balance of the cost. This helpful addition to the church was dedicated in April of 1980.

Two other improvements of the church facilities during this same period were (1) the purchase of adjoining lot and paving it for parking, and (2) putting storm windows over the stained glass windows at a cost of $10,000.00.

In the August 17, 1980 business meeting, it was announced that work on the outside beautification project in memory of Dr. D.F. Hord would begin soon. Sometime later the church agreed to an extensive renovation project of the sanctuary, as recommended by a special committee.

Jeff Jones was unanimously called as full-time minister of youth, music and activities on November 9, 1980.

Work was begun in January of 1981 to renovate the sanctuary and was completed in June. A dedication service was held on September 13, 1981.

Many of the improvements on the church building, including the renovation of the sanctuary, were made possible by a gift of $148,500.00 in 1980 from Mrs. Harold Coggins, who bequeathed this amount to the church.

The preparation of this history has been greatly aided by the clerks of the church who have kept careful records through the years. These include Mrs. Joe Ann McDaniel, Mrs. Max Norman, Miss Naomi Edens (acting clerk), Mrs. Violet Dixon, Mrs. Jake Hord, Mrs. Jo Kelly, Mrs. Bryan Hord, Mrs. Phyllis Roberts, Mrs. Sylvia Franklin and Mrs. Billie Stoll.

KNOB CREEK METHODIST CHURCH

55

Knob Creek Methodist Church, we are told, was named for a creek that flowed nearby. It was organized by the Seceders. Worship services were probably held at this church site before 1800. The first pastor was Rev. Boyce. In 1892 the Seceders gave possession of this site to the Methodist. Some of the Boggs' gave the land to the church as long as there were groups conducting worship there. A.M. Boggs of Fallston and J.P. Boggs of Belwood are two of the heirs.

The first members were Elizabeth Richard, Nancy A. Hartman, A Noah Boggs and A.E. Boggs. It is not known who was the first person buried but James S. Pauley's marker is the oldest in the cemetery. It is dated July, 1809.

There have been four churches on this site. The first one was built out of logs. The second one was built out of material that was bought from the people of Kadesh but torn down to make way for a new building. The third was a white frame building constructed in 1915. The present building, which was started in 1950 and completed in 1951, is made of stone. Rev. W.H. Yokley was pastor at that time.

Sources: Church records.

— Mrs. Frances Beam

LAFAYETTE STREET UNITED METHODIST CHURCH

56

In 1908, Reverend Roy Thompson, Associate Pastor of Central United Methodist Church, South, Shelby began conducting worship services in a little one room Methodist Chapel on South Morgan Street near the Shelby Mill. In 1909, The Methodist Chapel, was officially made a part of the Shelby Circuit. The Rev. T.E. Smiley was appointed to serve this pastorate but he failed to serve; The Rev. W.A. Rudisill served instead. That same year the congregation built a new church on South Lafayette Street and was known as Lafayette Street Methodist Episcopal Church, South.

The Rev. Clyde Brother, Rev. N.C. Williams and Rev. Jack Burriss served the pastorate until 1919 when Rev. W.M. Robbins was appointed and served one year. In 1920 Rev. E.P. Stabler served until 1922 during which time a parsonage, also on South Lafayette Street, was Remember . . .

Articles
Are Indexed
By
Article Numbers
. . . Not By Page
Number

purchased from Mr. Ralph Turner. Rev. J.W. Ingle was appointed by the Conference in 1922 and was very instrumental in having the church renovated and additional Sunday School rooms constructed.

Rev. A.S. Raper served from 1924 to 1926. During this time pews and pulpit furniture were purchased from Central Methodist Church. Rev. T.B. Johnson served from 1928 to 1929; Rev. W.R. Jenkins from 1929 to 1933; Rev. Fred H. Price from 1933 to 1939 and Rev. R.C. Goforth from 1939 to 1941.

In 1940, property was purchased on the south side of the church and the house was remodeled for a recreation center and a Sunday School Department. This building was officially named "The Fellowship Hall." In 1941 to 1945 Rev. J.S. Gibbs served as pastor. Rev. R.L. Bass served from 1945 to 1951. During his pastorate, a Hammond Organ was installed and new carpet was laid in the sanctuary. Additional Sunday School rooms were built in 1950. Rev. Malcolm C. Reese served from 1951 to 1953, Rev. R.H. Nicholson from 1953 to 1954.

Rev. James H. Coleman from 1954 to 1959. In 1955 the parsonage was torn down and the present parsonage was built on the same property. Rev. R.W. McCulley served from 1959 to 1963, Rev. D.A. Hamilton from 1963-1967; Rev. Doyle Freeman was appointed by the Western North Carolina Conference to serve as pastor and, during his ministry, land was purchased in 1968 from Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Whisnant on South Lafayette Street Extension.

The Methodist men built a Fellowship Hut on the new property to be used by the Girl and Boy Scouts. Ground breaking for the present building located at 1509 Old Farm Road, was held by Rev. Freeman, Charlie Haynes and Marvin Blanton, Jr. In 1969, Rev. Harold Strader was appointed as pastor, and the building was completed for a triumphal entry on Palm Sunday, 1970. Rev. Harold Simpson served from 1970 to 1974. The United Methodist Women made Chrismons for a tree at Christmas time. Rev. Paul Dennis served from 1974 to 1977 and Rev. Merrill Perkins from 1977 to the present time.

There is much to be said about the faithful laity of the church who have served in different capacities.

Sources: Bleaka Kerr Blanton, Church Historian; Bulletin of formal opening of new church on April 19, 1970; and interview with Miss Annie Hughes, a life member.

— Helen McIntyre Ervin

LaFayette Street United Methodist Church.

LATTIMORE BAPTIST CHURCH 57

In 1891, a small group of Baptist brethren of the town of Lattimore and the surrounding community met for the purpose of consulting and considering the propriety of constituting a Baptist Church in Lattimore. At that first meeting, they selected a site for their church, got the land for this site donated, subscribed a certain amount of money by those present and appointed a committee to raise the balance of the funds needed to build a "church house."

A week later, the committee reported that they had contracted for a house built according to specifications for six hundred ($600) dollars. At that meeting, they elected a pastor, Reverend A.C. Irvin, and sent an invitation to Elder Thomas Dixon to serve as moderator of the organizing presbytery.

Reverend A.C. Irvin, the newly elected pastor, had served in the Confederate Army and had been ordained at Zion Church in Cleveland County on July 4, 1874. He had served as pastor in many of the County's churches over the years and was, perhaps, one of the most genuinely loved ministers in the County. Elder Thomas Dixon, who was to serve as moderator of the organizing presbytery, was the father of one of North Carolina's most famous families. He had built more churches and had probably served in more pulpits than any other local leader.

On December 4, 1891, a presbytery met for the purpose of organizing a Baptist Church. After an introductory sermon by Elder Thomas Dixon, the Presbytery elected him moderator and proceeded to organize a church. After the churches of the Presbytery and their representatives were recognized, the moderator gave an invitation for people wishing to become members of the new church and forty-five persons responded.

The first church house that the Lattimore Church was to occupy, like the one-room schoolhouse of its day, seems to have been a rather simple structure which, apparently, was regarded by its progenitors as more of a shelter for those who wished to worship the Lord than as an expression of their faith. It consisted of only one room — there were no Sunday School rooms — which was heated in cold weather by a wood stove and cooled in hot weather by open windows. Since there was no electricity, there were no electric lights nor any plumbing. It stood in a little grove of trees just about where the present church stands. There were, according to the custom of the day, two doors — one for the women and one for the men. Inside there was a center aisle.

The women and children sat on the right side of the aisle and the men and larger boys sat on the left side of it. It is not clear from the Clerk's minutes when this first church house was ready for occupancy, but it must have been sometime in the early part of the summer of 1892 for a dedication service was held on the first Sunday in August, 1892.

A series of meetings were held following the Dedicatory Service and three new members united with the church. The Lattimore Church was now a going concern. At one of its earliest meetings, it voted to unite with the Kings Mountain Baptist Association and in 1896 it was host for the 46th annual session of that body. Another of the first items of business attended to by the new church was to designate the regular meeting time as the first Sunday in the month and the Saturday preceding it. This regular Conference, which took place on Saturday, was a unique feature of the Baptist churches of that day.

Not the least of these business matters was the enforcement of church rules. Each church had its set of rules and regulations which set up a guide for the conduct of church members. It was a system which became increasingly unpopular. A search of the clerk's minutes reveal that there were many cases of church discipline before 1910. After that, they occurred with less and less frequency until, by 1920, they disappeared entirely.

Reverend Irvin served as pastor of the Lattimore Baptist Church for four years. He was followed by Reverend A.P. Hollifield, who also served for four years. After his resignation, Reverend Irvin served another four years. In 1906, he again resigned and Reverend Gordon Washburn, a graduate of Wake Forest College, was elected to preach.

In 1912, the names of twenty new members were added to the church roll after the August Revival and in 1914, there were thirty-three professions of faith after the Revival. They were baptized in the creek behind the church on what was then the Beam property. When it became the time to extend the hand of fellowship to the new members, there were so many of them that the little church would not hold them and they were lined up outside to be welcomed into the church family.

In October or November of 1914, the little church that had been built for the incredulous sum of $600 burned.

A new church was soon built and dedicated sometime in 1916. This, the second church built by the Lattimore Baptists, was a white frame structure of a type once very typical of the rural landscape of North Carolina, but which has almost disappeared today. The little white church, with its bell and belfry, its two doors that enter the sanctuary on either side of the pulpit, its well and pump, its two little austere restrooms out back and its graveyard close by, all nestled in a grove of trees, has become almost a picture postcard rarity.

The church continued to grow. In 1927, it agreed to finance a singing school to be taught for two weeks during the summer. It was taught by a Professor Ruebush of Shenandoah College in Virginia and was such a success that it was continued at the same time every year for a number of years. Reverend R.C. Campbell became pastor in 1917. After three years, he asked to be relieved of his duties in order that he might further his education and Reverend I.D. Harrill succeeded him. When Reverend Rush Padgett, who succeeded Reverend Harrill, was forced to resign because of poor health, he was succeeded by Reverend C.C. Crow.

During Reverend Crow's tenure, the Lattimore Baptist Church built its third church building, the old one having been inadequate for some time. It was dedicated July 29, 1951 and the programs for that event proudly carried the comment: "the entire church indebtedness paid when completed."

With this, its third church home, the church building philosophy of the Lattimore Baptists had come full circle. If the first church house had been hardly more than a shelter, and if their second church house, with its token concessions to comfort, was typical of a rural South, this, their third church building was an architect's expression in brick and mortar and slender spire, of the religious faith of a people. It was, primarily, the sacrifice of a people who labored to bring it to fruition and who offered it in a spirit of thanksgiving for the worship of God and to the service of man.

To Reverend C.C. Crowe, who was pastor from 1941 to 1948, must go the credit for sowing the seed that was to grow into the present church building. He gave the idea its original impetus and helped provide the climate that nourished it to maturity. He was followed by Reverend J.R. Cantrell. Mr. Cantrell had a knack for nudging along the proceedings of a church conference when they seemed in danger of bogging down, and he helped ease the mechanics of building a church over many a rough spot. It was toward the end of his tenure that the Lattimore Church built a modern parsonage.

Reverend Hugh L. Borders assumed the pastorate in 1961. He brought a youthful enthusiasm and vitality to the church which helped to instigate, among other things, the completion of a south wing addition which not only greatly added to the esthetic symmetry of the building's outward appearance, but also added much needed Sunday School room, a home for the Church Library, and an adequate pastor's study. In 1968, Hugh Borders resigned to accept a call to the First Baptist Church in Spruce Pine, North Carolina.

Reverend James Wall assumed the pastorate in May of 1969. Reverend Wall served as pastor until October, 1980. His tenure as pastor was distinguished by his emphasis on the young people of the church. The Carrie Beam property, which she had willed to the church, began to be developed as a recreation area for young people, and he coached basketball teams sponsored by the church.

After his resignation in 1980, Reverend Joe Edwards, who had been Director of Missions for the South Mountain Association, was chosen as pastor. Under his leadership, the Youth Recreation Project goes on. A baseball field has been built and tennis courts are being prepared. He and his wife, Louise, have developed a warm, caring relationship with the entire congregation.

Sources: Church records.

— Mary An Bridges

LAWNDALE FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

58

The Lawndale First Baptist Church has had many great church leaders from its establishment of the church in March 1924 to the present. The Reverend Henderson Mitchell was the first pastor.

The founder was Brother Benny Wray who was the first and only deacon for one year, then Bro. Herbert Wray, Bro. Albert Thomas, Bro. Rufus Elder, Bro. George Browning were added in 1925, also Bro. Thomas Fambough. In 1927 Bro. Eddie Wray, Bro. Jerry Gordon, Bro. John Mufford were added. The first church was an old house they rented from Mr. Huss Cline at $4.00 a month. We had meetings there for one year.

A few months later we were able to buy a little land and built a church in the year 1925. This was done with free labor, only one man got pay, Mr. Parries Sanders, and he was not a member. They rebuilt this church in 1948 under the leadership of W.L. Johnson.

In the year 1978, under the leadership of R.D. Lucus, we bought new windows and lots of improvements were added.

We are very thankful for our church and the old people who worked hard, and who saw in their hearts a need for the people to have a place to praise God and be buried.

In Matthew 18:20 Jesus said, "Where two or three are gathered together in my name, there am I in the midst of them." Jesus was in the midst of a few members of the Lawndale First Baptist Church as they gathered together to worship and give thanks to God in 1924. We were in a strange land and no church near. We just have a few living that started in March, 1924. Their names are as follows: Lula M. Wray, Lillie B. Elder (living in Washington, D.C.) and myself.

Sources: Church records.

— Mrs. Arie M. Wray

First meeting place, 1924, of Lawndale First Baptist Church.

MOUNT HARMONY UNITED METHODIST CHURCH

59

The Mount Harmony United Methodist Church located in Number 8 Township of Cleveland County is the oldest Methodist Church west of the Catawba River, dating back to 1791. According to Methodism in Western North Carolina by Elmer T. Clark (page 28) there is a marker at Rev. Daniel Asburys grave in the Rehobeth churchyard near Terrell with this inscription:

"Rev. Daniel Asbury,
The Pioneer Preacher of Methodism in Western North Carolina, was born February 18, 1762, died May 5, 1825.

He organized here the first Methodist Church in the state, west of the Catawba River. The first church building was erected in 1791. The first camp meeting was held here in 1794."

But in the footnote for Chapter II (page 38) Dr. Clark states, "Although this inscription indicates that Rehobeth was the first Methodist Church in North Carolina west of the Catawba River, the date of November 29, 1792 on this deed, registered at the Lincoln County Court House, is later than the date of June 25, 1791 which appears on the deed of the Mount Harmony Methodist Church property located in northwest Cleveland County. Although the Mount Harmony deed was recorded in the Rutherford County Court House on January 4, 1794, it was executed nearly three years earlier.

The deed was executed by John Latimore and his wife, Jamima, in favor of George Moore, Charles Breadlove, William Williams, Joseph Williams, Hezekiah Davis and Joseph Moore of Rutherford County and Daniel Asbury of Lincoln County. The date on the deed indicates that Daniel Asbury was instrumental in acquiring the property for the Mount Harmony Methodist Church prior to the date on which he helped acquire the property for the Rehobeth Methodist Church. The deeds are very similar in form and language."

At the Register of Deeds office in Rutherford County Court House, Book J-L, page 132, no. 1125, the deed, dated January 9th, 1794 states, "... that for and in consideration of the sum of five shillings current money of North Carolina to the said John Latimore in hand ... doth grant bargain and sell alien convey and confirm unto the said George Moore, Chalres Breadlove and trustees as above and to their heirs and assigns forever all that lately erected house and tenement with yard and graveyard thereunto adjoining, including two acres and a half more or less."

The boundaries of the track are given, and the location of the track is referred to as "... situate near said John Latimore Dwelling house on the waters of First broad river in the County of Rutherford." The deed is specific as to the purpose of the building "... and shall permit those preachers known by the name of Methodist and appointed and approved by the yearly conference of the said Methodist Episcopal Church and no other persons to have and enjoy the free use and benefit of the said premises that they may preach and expound God's Holy word, ..." and "... provided that the said persons preach no other doctrine then is contained in the Reverend John Wesley's notes on the New Testament and four volums of the surmonds ..."

In a December 28, 1827 deed, with very similar wording, John Parker and Margaret, his wife, sold "for the sum of three dollars current money one acre and 31 rods adjoining their tract of land that the former Trustees bought of John Lattimore." (Note the difference in spelling Lattimore).

The markings of property must have been lost because on November 28th 1916 Andrew J. Elbolt, Justice of the Peace, signed a statement:

"Whereas Albert Whisnant, T.J. Willis and Ivy Willis as Trustees for Mt. Harmony Church are desirous of having the church land surveyed and the boundaries marked off but being unable to locate definitely any of the corners of Said land containing 3 5/8 acres and whereas J.J. Hunt owning the land all around Said land and all parties agreeing to lay off certain boundaries herein after set forth as the Said Mt. Harmony Church's property and that the said trustees, agree to receive said boundaries as the church property from now henceforth and forever regardless of the Old deeds to the church and that they will never set up any claims for any land, outside the boundaires hereafter set forth."

On April 7, 1924, this was signed by Geo. P. Webb, Clerk of Superior Court.

On the 1st day of May 1967, Emma Lou and Albert Grigg and Betty G. and James Lee Hunt, for the sum of one ($1.00) Dollar sold a one-half acre tract to the Trustees of Mount Harmony Methodist Church.

We have been told that the first services held at Mt. Harmony were held in a brush arbor which may have been prior to the "lately erected house and tenement with yard and graveyard thereunto adjoining" mentioned in the 1791 deed.

We do not know what happened to the first Church or the second one which was a log structure with a balcony. We understand that slaves attended services there and sat in the balcony, and that part of the graves on the west side of our cemetery are slave graves.

The third church, built in 1923, was a weatherboard building painted white on the outside but unpainted on the inside. It burned Easter Sunday, 1942. The fourth building on this site was erected in 1942 and stands to this date. As far as we can determine, there have been continuous services at this church since 1791.

The small congregation at Mt. Harmony seems to feel that as long as there is someone willing to serve as minister, and a District Superintendent willing to send them there, the oldest Methodist Church west of the Catawba River will remain open for services.

Sources: quoted sources, church records.

— Mary Jo Willis Pruett

MT. SINAI BAPTIST CHURCH

60

Mt. Sinai Baptist Church was organized May 20, 1848 by Elder Louis McSwain and deacons from Buffalo Baptist Church and several surrounding churches. There were thirty charter members. It was organized in Broad River School one fourth mile south at the present site. Elder Louis McSwain was first pastor, Thomas McSwain, John Randall, John McSwain were the first deacons. John Randall the first clerk.

The first land was given by Frances Young in 1850. Since that time other land has been given by McHoyt Fraser and his wife, Nell Ellis Fraser, Yates Putnam and C.S. Bridges. Land has been purchased from the Moss estate and from Mr. Joe Craver.

The first building was a small log, one room structure. The second building was erected in 1870, a frame structure of one room. In 1928 this one room structure was remodeled, veneering it with brick; adding seven separate Sunday School rooms. The auditorium seated about 400 people. This was used for services from 1928-1954, after that it was used for classes and a recreation center until 1973 when it was destroyed by fire. In 1954 a new structure was erected. In 1973 a church annex was erected. In 1964 a parsonage was erected.

This church was in the beginning a member of the Broad River Baptist Association as was her parent church Buffalo. In 1851 she withdrew from this association to be one of the twelve other churches to form the Kings Mountain Association. In 1861 she withdrew along with Boiling Springs, Mt. Pleasant, Mt. Paran and others to form a separate association with anti-temperance proclivities, this group called themselves "The Constitutional Kings Mountain Association." In 1886 the group became reconciled and again became a member of the Kings Mountain Association.

The following ministers have been sent out by the church: In 1882 P.S. Mullins. In 1924 R. Herbert Weaver. In 1955 Ector Hamrick was issued a license to preach the gospel.

In 1851 Mt. Sinai had forty-seven members with a mission contribution of 98 3/4 cents.

In 1901 there was a membership of 91 with a total mission contribution of $13.50.

In 1950 there were 191 members with a mission contribution of $1,168.00

The following men have served as deacons: Thomas McSwain, John Randall, Samuel Wylie, W.R. Hamrick, C.B. Blanton, Starling Weaver, Frank Moore, O.P. Gibson, W.K. McSwain, W.L. Harrill, J.F. Blanton, H.M. Angle, L.R. Putnam, Thomas McSwain, J.M. Putnam, J.H. Hawkins, L.C. Putnam, Foy B. Putnam, Sr., C.Y. Harrill, L.Y. Putnam, R.O. Ellis, D.B. Rollins, Andrew Hunt, John Martin, Hythe Putnam, W.H. Putnam, V.L. Hamrick, C.S. Bridges, W.E. Clary, Jesse Harrill, Earnest McGinnis, Thomas Jolly, Carl Bridges, Ezra L. Putnam, Jack Putnam, Shaftee Putnam, Herman Hamrick, Lee Bridges, Gene Wray, Bill Ellis, James Putnam, J.D. Rollins, Jerry Ledbetter, Frank Ellis, Lee Ledbetter, Sam Hamrick, Gordon Putnam, Wayne Rollins, James Spurling, Clyde Ledbetter, Carl Ray Bridges, Bill Billings.

The following men have served as pastors: L.H. McSwain 1848-1853; B. Bonner 1854-1855; L.H. McSwain 1850-1858; William McSwain 1859; J.J. Jones 1860 (no record 1861-1862); L.H. McSwain 1863; D. Scruggs 1864-1865; L.H. McSwain 1866-1870; T.H. Mullinax 1871-1872; L.H. McSwain 1873-1876; T.H. Mullinax 1877-1883; P.R. Elam 1884; R.M. Hawkins 1885-1886; T.H. Mullinax 1887-1889; E.J. Bridges 1890-1891; R.N. Hawkins 1892-1899; J.M. Goode 1900-1912; B.M. Bridges 1913-1919; W.G. Moore 1920-1921; J.C. Gillespie 1922-1925; Rush Padgett 1926-1929; J.L. Jenkins 1930-1936; Lawrence Roberts 1937-1940; C.B. Bobbitt 1941-1942; L.M. Canipe 1942-1943; C.C. Crow 1944-1945; A.C. Hughes 1951-1958; H.H. Ruppe 1959-1964; J.R. Johnson 1964-1967; Robert Low 1968-1970; Broadus Heatherly 1972, until now.

At this time the church staff includes, in addition to Broadus Heatherly, Pastor, Dr. Alice Cullinan, minister of music, Mrs. Lee Bridges, organist, Mrs. Raymond Hamrick, pianist, Mr. Bill Ellis, custodian and Mrs. Bill Ellis, secretary.

In 1981 the total intake was $76,945.00 with $16,605.00 going to mission expenses. The property is valued at $500,000.00 with 295 resident members.

For 134 years this church has extended the love of the Lord to many people; those who were hungry, grief stricken, lonely, unsaved, in prison and afraid. Only eternity will reveal the true worth of this instrument of our Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ.

Sources: Church records and J.R. Logan's Sketches, Historical and Biographical, of the Broad River and Kings Mountain Association, From 1800 to 1882.

— Jane P. Jolly

NEW BETHEL BAPTIST CHURCH

61

In 1847, several persons of the Baptist faith, living in what is now the New Bethel Church community, requested that Zion Baptist Church extend an arm to this place, receiving and baptizing members. This request granted, several ministers participated in a meeting here that year; among them were J. Suttle and T. Dixon. The outcome was a presbytery for organization into a church of the Baptist faith and order. Consisting of representatives from Zion, Capernaum, Zoar, and Double Springs, the presbytery convened on Friday before the fourth Lord's Day in July, 1848. Twenty-five persons were organized into the New Bethel Baptist Church.

The church soon joined the Broad River Association and was a member until 1851. At that time she united with several area churches to form the Kings Mountain Association, of which she is still a member.

New Bethel Baptist had grown; Immediately following the formation of the church, a several days' meeting (presumably under the leadership of T. Dixon) was held, receiving forty-eight additional members.

Mt. Sinai Baptist Church as photographed in 1975.

New Bethel Baptist Church — 1879.

New Bethel Baptist Church — 1925

New Bethel Baptist Church — 1953

During the first eighty years of the church's life, some one thousand and fifty persons held membership. At sundry times the church has contributed significantly to the membership of neighboring churches: New Prospect in 1854, Pleasant Grove in 1878, Carpenters Grove in 1887, Lawndale in 1899, Fallston in 1902, and Norman's Grove in 1912.

Certain family names have been associated with the church continuously since its inception. These names and first roll members are: Beam (John Beam), Cline (David Cline), Dixon (Rev. T. Dixon), Elam (A.S. Elam), Hord (Richard T. Hord), and Lattimore (Lucinda Lattimore). Their record of vital service to New Bethel is cherished by both church and families.

It was, in fact, a Lattimore, Francis, who deeded to the church the land for its first building, July 12, 1851. The log structure on that four and one half acres was replaced in 1855 by a frame building. During the pastorate of Rev. J.A. White, a contract was let in November, 1879, for a $280 building which was used for worship until November of 1924. Its timbers were then employed in the framework of the brick structure which provided for a fully departmentalized Sunday School organization. Under the pastorate of Rev. J.W. Suttle, the church moved into this eleven-room educational building in the fall of 1925.

The present building was erected in 1953 under the leadership of Rev. C.O. Greene; the cornerstone was laid on the fourth Sunday in May, 1954. The copper box in the granite stone contains a roll of the church membership and the names of the building committee in addition to one copy each of: the 1948 Church History, 1953 Associational minutes, Biblical Recorder, Shelby Daily Star, "The Commission Magazine," "Brotherhood Journal," "Royal Service," and "Tomorrow."

For these buildings and the welfare of the church, New Bethel has received many generous gifts. An outstanding example is the legacy of J. Matt London. Born in 1850, Mr. London was a loyal lifelong member of New Bethel; he was vitally interested in the work of the Lord and was concerned about the education of men and women both. His 1920 will left his entire farm to the deacons of New Bethel. Property income was devoted to the care of Mrs. London until her death in 1922. In accordance with Mr. London's wishes, the income has since been administered for the purpose of educating Cleveland County boys and girls, with preference to those with Christian callings. Since the first grant (Oct. 31, 1923), many students have received aid totaling more than $35,000.

The membership of New Bethel has also been fortunate in the strong leadership provided by its sixteen pastors:

Rev. T. Dixon, 1848-1856, 1864-July 1866, 1870-1878, 1883-1890; Rev. Joseph Suttle, 1857-May 1860; Rev. Phillip R. Elam, 1860-1861; Rev. L. McCurry, 1862-1863; Rev. R. Poston, 1866-1869; Rev. J.A. White, 1879 & 1882; Rev. A.P. Hollifield, 1891-1897; Rev. C.S. Cashwell, 1898-1900.

Rev. J.V. Devenney, Nov. 1900-Oct. 1905; Rev. C.W. Payseur, Nov. 1905 — Dec. 1912;

Rev. John W. Suttle, 1913-1949; Rev. C.O. Greene, Jan. 1949 — Nov. 1959; Rev. J. Russell Fitts, 1960 — Oct. 1962; Rev. Cline W. Borders, Apr. 1963 — July 1967; Rev. W.C. McKinney, Jr., July 1967 — Aug. 1976; Rev. Don Ledbetter, Apr. 1977 — present.

Sources: Church records.

— Haley Dedmond

NEW HOPE BAPTIST CHURCH

62

New Hope was formally organized August 1874. Records show Earl School asked the Rev. Thomas Dixon, Wm. D. Gaston, John S. Hopper and Robert C. Porter of Buffalo Church, five miles south in South Carolina, to help with the organization after a week's brush arbor revival conducted by Rev. Dixon on the ground now occupied by the present church building. There were fifty converts from this revival and others from nearby churches brought their letters making a total of 161 charter members. The name New Hope was chosen because it represented the feelings of the band of new converts.

Able Earl gave five acres of land for the first church and J.W. Gibbons gave a rod, to include a spring of water on the grounds. The first building was a one-room frame structure about 40 by 50 feet. It had four doors, two in front and one on each side about half-way back of its length. There were two aisles with long benches in the center and shorter ones on each side. Women entered the church building at the right hand door and sat on that side with men going in sitting on the other side. Up front on right side of the audience was a corner with short benches for a choir. On the opposite was the same but was called the Amen Corner. Only men sat in this section. During summer services all four doors were kept open to make it cooler.

The first pastor was Rev. Thomas Dixon, first deacons were Able Earl, James McSwain, and J.H. Austell. The first clerk was L.M. Logan. New Hope joined the Kings Mountain Association after finishing its building in 1874. New Hope has been host to the annual Kings Mountain Association in 1875, 1897, 1915, 1942, and 1963, and since as co-host with the Grover group.

During its first year, six new members were added. In 1881 a Sabbath School was organized with 40 members enrolled. Robert E. Harrill was the first superintendent.

The church made efforts to discipline its members for immoral living, drunkenness and failure to pay some each year to the support of the church according to its covenant, etc. It excluded a member from membership for not paying a dollar during one whole year who was later forgiven and taken back into full fellowship because she was a widow and had no means of earning money.

The second church house was erected in 1913-14. It was a wooden structure with a sanctuary 40 by 50 feet with wings on both sides 20 by 30 feet. This spacious sanctuary was furnished with long curving oak pews with pulpit furniture to match. It would seat about 500 people. This building was dedicated January 13, 1917 and served for 41 years. The sanctuary was heated with two large space heaters with long stove pipes overhead held up by wires tacked to the ceiling. Feet would get rather cold during a long service in cold weather but in summertime with all the large windows raised and the six big double doors open to let air through, along with all kinds of night insects, etc., it was fine.

The summer revival or "Big Meeting Week" was always held during the second week in August after crops were laid by. This week was planned for and looked forward to as one of the greatest activities of the church and community.

In 1923 a two-story addition was built on to the back of the sanctuary allowing eight new Sunday School rooms. A baptismal pool was built under the pulpit so the floor could be opened back for baptizing. Before this, a pool in a nearby stream was used. In August 1923 a B.Y.P.U. was organized with an enrollment of 35 members. Herbert Camp was the first President.

As of 1974 New Hope had ordained four young men for the ministry which were: Charles Evans Crawford and W. Lawrence McSwain, both in the 1920's; Joe J. Bridges in 1950, and Michael J. Sepaugh in 1967. In 1973 Miss Betty Crow served as a missionary. In 1950 the church voted to employ a fulltime pastor and erected a brick pastor's home.

The third church building is a brick structure built across the railroad east of the old frame building and is 128 by 76 feet. It contains 35 classrooms, a pastor's study, church offices, library and restrooms. The sanctuary is 80 by 45 feet, seating 400 people. The plate glass "cry room" along with the basement and nursery department is equipped with sound speakers. The building and contents were valued at $250,000 in 1974. It is air-conditioned on all floors and is heated with a forced hot water system. The library contains almost 1,100 carefully selected volumes catalogued and filed using the Dewey system.

This building was occupied August 1, 1954. Rev. C. A. Kirby, Jr. was pastor. He also served as chairman of the Building Committee with B. Austell, Clyde McSwain, Jackson Sepaugh, and C. T. Tolbert. B. H. Hopper served as chairman of the Finance Committee. The church building was paid for and dedicated to the Lord on November 2, 1958.

A Minister of Music was called in 1958 — Joe Blanton of Shelby, followed by Stanley Webb, Mike Ramsey, Desmond Hargess, Martha Lattimore, Kenneth Bolin, and presently Yates Pearson of Shelby, N.C. is directing adult, youth, and children's choirs.

On February 6, 1968 New Hope Church bought the Earl School building, gymnasium, lunchroom and about 5½ acres of land adjoining the church yard and grounds. The lunchroom and kitchen were remodeled and enlarged and is used for a Church Fellowship and dining hall.

In the 1960's the church secured the services of a part-time church secretary. First was Miss Peggy Earl, next Mrs. Joel P. Jenkins, followed by Mrs. Don McCurry who serves at the present time.

Mrs. Judy Stamey, a senior at Gardner-Webb College was called as a part-time Minister of Youth for the church in 1973. After her graduation she was followed by Rev. Louis Crawford. He entered the Seminary this summer and at present Rev. Joe Brooks is Minister of Youth.

At its one-hundredth anniversary New Hope had 455 members, a staff consisting of Pastor, Music Director, Minister of Youth, Church Secretary, Building Custodian and Grounds Caretaker.

Sources: Church records.

— Mrs. Gladys Hopper

NORMANS GROVE BAPTIST CHURCH

63

Normans Grove Baptist Church is located in No. 10 Township, Cleveland County, N.C., about one-half mile west of Highway No. 18 and near Belwood school building about sixteen miles north of Shelby. The location is level. The new building extends out into a dense oak forest with oaks and pines in the front yard. The church is a member of the Kings Mountain Baptist Association and has had no other affiliations.

The earliest minute book shows that the church held conferences as early as 1911. However, there is no specific date mentioned in these minutes concerning the organization. In the associational minutes we find the date of constitution given as 1913. It is the writer's opinion that there must have existed some sort of organization before 1913, but we have no way of establishing this fact. Moreover, there is a difference of opinion as to who the first pastor was.

It is agreed that Rev. Frank Newton organized the church. It is clear that he conducted brush arbor meetings prior to the organization of the church. One of the members says that the Rev. J. Crowell Blanton was the first pastor. Another member says that the Rev. Frank Newton was the first pastor. Therefore we actually do not know — when there is a difference of opinion. It appears that the church was organized in a brush arbor.

Mrs. J.P. Boggs says that J.M. Norman, C.P. Wellmon, and Robert Norman were the first deacons. Audley Hord was probably the first superintendent of the Sunday School. From memory Mrs. J.P. Boggs says that the following persons were charter members: J.M. Norman, Myra Norman, D. M. Norman, Ida Norman, Mrs. Ella Boggs, Robert Norman, Mr. & Mrs. P.M. Wellmon, Mrs. Louise Warlick, Mrs. Mittie Willis, Mrs. Bertha Lutz, Mr. & Mrs. Lawson Biggerstaff, Mrs. Hattie Norman, and Andy Hord.

Rev. Frank Newton, as before mentioned, organized the church. It is a fact that Rev. J. Crowell Blanton was called pastor of the church and served about one year. The other pastors are as follow: Revs. J.V. Devinney, M.M. Gold, who served the church about twenty-two years, then Berry Preston Parks.

present pastor, since January 1933 up to now 1941 —

It is said that D.M. & J.M. Norman gave the original site for the church — probably about two acres. Then the church bought a small space from J.M. Norman for the parking of cars.

The first building was erected in 1913 and was a one-room frame structure using curtains to separate the Sunday School classes. It seated about five hundred people and was painted white. The building was removed in 1940 to give place to the building now almost finished.

A second structure is now in process of building. In fact, the congregation is using the auditorium for worship now. However, the last floor has not yet been laid, nor have the windowlights or sash been installed. The windows are circle-top and I understand are to be memorial windows with colored glass. It is a brick-veneer building with an auditorium about 30 x 42 feet.

There is a Sunday School department at the rear about 18 x 46 and two story high. There is a front porch about 8 x 24 feet. The church is using the old crude seats from the first building. I could not tell how many separate Sunday School rooms the church would have when finished; but it appeared there would be a dozen or more. Mr. W.T. Warlick is the chairman of the building committee in charge of this new structure. I understand that the old building was razed and the new one begun in 1940.

Present board of deacons: J.R. Buff and Robert Norman. Other officers of the church are: Rev. Berry Preston Parks, present pastor; Loyd E. Boggs, clerk; Loyd E. Boggs, treasurer; W.T. Warlick, superintendent Sunday School; Mrs. Loyd E. Boggs, director B.T.U.

According to the associational minutes Normans Grove has a membership of 130 persons and one hundred and two enrolled in the Sunday School.

This sketch was written in the spring of 1941 and does not complete the information at the present. The church now appears about finished (Dec. 23, 1941).

— Mrs. Frances Beam

PATTERSON GROVE BAPTIST CHURCH

64

The history of Patterson Grove Baptist Church of Kings Mountain began as was recorded in the first minutes: "Enrolled as follows November 15, 1884; Bethlehem, John Barber; State Line, E. B. McSwain, Elder G. P. Hambrick; Antioch, E. Hardin; Rosses Grove, R. Y. Wethers; Shelby, Elder G. M. Webb.

"On motion, Elder G. M. Webb was elected chairman and L.M. Logan Secretary. The letters were presented from Bethlehem, 62 names; Capernaum 6; Pleasant Hill, 4; Aggrigate 72. On motion the church was constituted on the principles of the Holy Bible with name Patterson Grove.

"On motion the church received R. U. Patterson as deacon on his former ordination.

"The church presented brothers Noah W.

Patterson Grove Baptist Church, 1981.

Ross, A. H. Bridges and B. Goforth as other deacons. Rev. G. P. Hamrick asked questions and the Presbytery say 'Amen'. Elder G. M. Webb led the ordination prayer and laid upon them his hands and set them apart as deacons of this church. Appropriate remarks were then made by G. P. Hamrick on the work of deacons. And G. M. Webb on discipline and the office of deacon and liberality. The Presbytery adjourned.

"On Sunday morning (November 16, 1884) a very large audience assembled in a Sunday School mass meeting conducted by E. Hardin. Several took part and made it very interesting. At 11 o'clock we took a collection amounting to $56.75 to go towards finishing to pay for the house. After prayer by G. P. Hamrick, G. M. Webb preached the dedicatory sermon from 2 Chron. 2:18, 'And he (Solomon) . . . set the people a work.' In his earnest manner he impressed indelibly upon the minds of all present the well selected truths."

Tradition has it that during the summer of 1884 a revival meeting was held in a brush arbor near where the present church building now stands and those who were baptized from this meeting into the membership of Bethlehem Baptist Church were the ones, along with other Bethlehem members, who decided that a church was needed in the area where the first building for Patterson Grove was built.

On November 1, 1954, the church voted to go "full-time", meaning that there would be preaching services held every Sunday. By 1955, 357 were enrolled in Sunday School with an average attendance of 197. On August 28 of that year the church broke ground for a new educational building for a cost of $56,000.

In 1959 a parsonage was built and the debt for this was retired in 1961 and the debt on the educational building was retired in February of 1963.

On March 27, 1966, ground was broken for a new sanctuary. When completed on March 19, 1967, the congregation dedicated a house of worship costing more than $260,000. On November 120, 1974, this debt was retired with the taking of the largest single offering ever received by the church: $11,110.25. All church property is now valued at almost one million dollars. In 1974 the membership was 304 and an average attendance in Sunday school of 144.

In 1976 the congregation began supporting Ronald and Janice Wilson as their missionaries to the Dominican Republic. This support continues. In 1975, the total gifts to missions for that year was just over $5,000. From 1976 through March, 1982, total gifts to all mission causes reached almost $150,000.

In 1978, the present educational building was renovated at a cost of $20,000 and in 1982, the parsonage was renovated at a cost of $19,000.

Since 1965, the church has ordained four men to the ministry: Rev. Charles William "Buddy" Freeman on January 10, 1965; Rev. H. Leon "Buddy" Wright, Jr., on June 28, 1970; Rev. Toy Steven Bolton on April 1, 1979 and Rev. John Franklin Bridges on April 5, 1981. In 1980, the church ordained their first woman deacon, Mrs. Ann Bridges Scism. In 1981 her husband, Haskel H. Scism, was ordained a deacon and they are both serving three year terms as active members of the Fellowship of Deacons.

During the church year 1981 (Oct. 1980 — Sept. 1981) the church had 264 resident members with 232 persons enrolled in Sunday school and an average weekly Sunday school attendance of 150. Church Training, organized in 1949, had an enrollment of 82 with 60 in weekly attendance. For the first time in the history of the church total receipts for the year went over $100,000 for a total of $104,514. Bethlehem Baptist Church is six miles south of Patterson Grove.

It is not known exactly when the first building was completed, but it was well before 1889.

On January 3, 1885, P.R. Elam began his work as the first pastor of the new church and his first sermon was taken from Psalms 116:12, "What shall I render unto the Lord for all his benefits toward me?"

During 1885, Rufus and Sarah Patterson and G. J. and Eli B. Patterson deeded 4.167 acres of land to the deacons of Patterson Grove Baptist Church. That same year on September 24, the church was received as a member of the Kings Mountain Baptist Association. W. A. J. Carpenter and R. U. Patterson were sent as messengers to the annual meeting. At this time the membership of the church was 68 and the salary for the pastor that year was $50.00.

In 1886 the records show that for the year two dollars was given to N.C. state missions and two dollars was given to home missions.

By 1900, the church had 110 members and the contributions for the year totaled $83.00. Church property was valued at $600. The Sunday school had 74 enrolled with average attendance of 38. By 1909, church membership had risen to 151, but the average Sunday school attendance stayed at 38.

In 1924, the original church building was razed off the ground and a ground floor for educational class rooms was constructed. The sanctuary was on the upper floor. The church was remodeled and the outside bricked. This structure remained in use until 1966 when it was torn down to make way for a new sanctuary.

During the great depression year, 1929, total contributions came to $1,565.64 and the pastor's salary was set at $500. The church now had 190 members and 177 enrolled in Sunday School.

In 1943 total gifts were $1,817.71 with $905.56 of this amount going to missions.

For 63 years the church had preaching services once a month, but in 1948 voted to have preaching services on the first and third Sundays of each month. By now the membership was 237; 282 enrolled in Sunday school with an average attendance of 145. In 1948 the total contributions were $3,339.86.

The church has had 25 pastors. Three, P.R. Elam; J.C. Blanton and I.D. Harrill served as pastors on two different occasions. Those who have served as pastor are P. R. Elam (1885-1887); C. F. Felmet (1888-1891); T. Bright (1892); P.G. Hoffner (1893; P.R. Elam (1894-1897); J.C. Blanton (1898-1900); A. H. Sims (1901-1902); J.C. Gillispie (1902-1904); R. N. Hawkins (1905-1906); J.C. Blanton (1907-1910); I.D. Harrill (1911-1913); D. E. Viperman (1914-1915); J.P. Miller (1915-1916); I.D. Harrill (1916-1919); A. C. Irvin (1920-1921); J. O. Fulbright (1921-1924); W. O. Johnson (1924-1925); J. Hoyle Love (1925-1928); G. P. Abernathy (1929-1931); John W. Suttle (1931-1945); W. A. Roberts (1945-1947); Grove C. Teague (1948-1951); John J. Thornburg (1951-1958); Fred F. Hicks (1959-1962) and Richard Ervin Plyler (1963 — present.) Mr. Plyler began his 20th year on March 28, 1982.

On November 15, 1984, Patterson Grove will celebrate their 100th Anniversary. On this day the congregation will remember that a church is not buildings but people. People joined together because they are responding to the call of God through Jesus Christ.

Sources: Church records.

— Norman Webster

Poplar Springs Baptist Church, 1898.

POPLAR SPRINGS BAPTIST CHURCH

65

In the section of Cleveland County that we now know as Poplar Springs Community, some Baptist brethren felt the need for a local church. These men requested that deacons and pastors from a number of churches meet with them at Shanghai School for the purpose of organizing a church. The Reverend Tom Dixon presided over the meeting.

On Wednesday, September 21, 1898, at 11:00 a.m., the church formally organized. The following persons dismissed from the following churches, becoming the forty-five Charter Members:

From Boiling Springs, Jefferson Davis Pruitt, Martha Etta Pruitt, General Marion Moore, Marshall Morris Moore, John Matterson Moore, Elijah L. Holland, Rev. Ranson Newton Hawkins, Julia Ann Hawkins, Margaret Jane Moore, Mollie Moore, and Jane Morehead.

From Mount Sinai, Joseph S. Hawkins, Cynthia Tate, William Thomas Ledbetter, Margaret Hesentine Ledbetter, Furman Monroe Ledbetter, William T. Hawkins, and Nancy Hawkins.

From Shelby, Malland Dovus Moore.

From Beaver Dam, Thomas Jefferson Holland, Edward Stanhope Glasco, Charlie Wallace, Jonathan P. Barnett, John Calhoun Hamrick, William McSwain, Martha Jane Glasco, Minnie Ollie Glasco, Charlotte Madora Hamrick, Salida Miller McSwain, and Mary Jane Glasco.

From Zoar, Elizabeth Jane Dodd, David Crockett Dodd, Alice Estelle Dodd, John Ross Harrill, Martha Elizabeth (Mattie) Harrill, Alonzo Marion Hamrick, Elnora Elizabeth Hamrick, Governor Vance Hawkins, Lizzie Lee Lattimore, Sarah Casandra Lattimore, William Aaron Lattimore, Cansas C. Morehead, and J.M. Weaver.

From Gastonia, Sidney Boyd Jones and Cora Bertha Jones.

Land for a building and cemetery plot was given by Paxton Davis and heirs. Robert Hamrick and wife gave the church additional land. The name Poplar Springs was chosen because of the large poplar trees around the spring at the foot of the hill where the church was to be constructed.

Rev. Landrum Ezell, a native of Spartanburg, South Carolina, was elected the first Pastor of Poplar Springs Church. Other pastors who have served the church are: Landrum C. Ezell, 1898-1902; James C. Gillespie, 1902-1905; A.C. Irvin, 1905-1907; B. Monroe Bridges, 1908-1909; John W. Suttle, 1909-1910; R.C. Campbell, 1910-1911; James C. Gillespie, 1911-1914; Allen Harold Sims, 1914-1917; R.C. Campbell, 1917-1918; Willis Edward Lowe, 1918-1919; W.G. Moore, 1919-1921; James C. Gillespie, 1921-1926; D. Frank Putnam, 1926-1931; Rush Padgett, 1931-1940; J.R. Cantrell, 1941-1951; Dr. R.C. Campbell, 1951-1954; W.P. Hall, Jr., 1954-1961; J. Edgar Bishop, 1962-1973; Dr. Clyde D. Chapman, 1973 — present.

The church has constructed a number of buildings since its organization. A wooden structure in 1899, a brick structure in 1929, a sexton's home in 1947, an educational plant in 1954, a parsonage in 1956, and a new sanctuary and recreation facilities, pastor's study, office and classrooms were completed in 1970. We have also purchased additional land through the years.

The church's growth has been steady through the years. We became a "fulltime" church in March, 1954. Today, with a resident membership of approximately 600, we continue the tradition of self-reliance under God which characterized our rural forefathers.

Our members are active in the planning and execution of all church ministries and programs. Our programs continued to be grounded in principles of Christian discipleship, and in the ever changing needs of the people of our community and the world.

Sources: various Church records.

— Mrs. Dolores Hamrick

Prospect Baptist Church, Mooresboro, N.C.

PROSPECT BAPTIST CHURCH 66

Prospect Baptist Church located in No. One Township, Road 1209, in the Southwestern part of Cleveland County, was established with the help of Mt. Pleasant Cleveland and Camp's Creek Baptist Churches in North Carolina and Grassy Pond, Cherokee Creek and State Line Baptist Churches in South Carolina on August 22, 1899. Twenty-three presented themselves by letter. The first church conference was held on the evening of September 22, 1899 at which time R.Z. Reavis was elected church clerk. L. B. Scruggs and C. S. Humphries were elected as messengers to the Sandy Run Association.

The first Pastor was B. P. Green and we have been served by the following to the present time, November, 1981: R. N. Hawkins, W. M. Gold, M. M. Huntley, T. M. Hester, B. M. Strickland, Guy Johnson, Gordon Wilson, F. A. Lunsford, Frank Johnson, M. W. Stallings, Emory K. Anderson, Sam Mintz, Harold Mason and Glenn Walker.

The first church building was started in the winter of 1899 with L. B. Scruggs, C. S. Humphries, W. D. Spake, A. F. Ellis and R. Z. Reavis serving on the building committee. Work went slowly but the building was entered into the first day of July, 1900. This building served until February 14, 1931, when services were held for the first time in the present Sanctuary. The bricks for the new church were hauled from a railroad siding at Chesnee, S. C., by mule and wagon teams. Additional Sunday school rooms were added during the years of 1931-39. The Church added it's first parsonage in the years of 1943-44. Growth was continuous and at one time we used the parsonage basement for additional rooms.

On Sept. 6, 1959 the Church voted to build a new educational plant and ground was broken for this building on October 25, 1959. Committee for this construction consisted of John Wood, Edward Yelton, Walter Toney, Henry Crawford and John Godfrey. Construction was done by Ralph Webber and Sons of Shelby, N.C. at a cost of Thirty-Six Thousand dollars and the building was dedicated on May 1, 1960.

On April 7, 1968 the church voted to construct a new parsonage and the remodel the Sanctuary. Committee for this construction consisted of Jim Godfrey, Kate Hullett, R.D. Jolley, Hamon Jolley and John Wood. O.C. Blackwood of Gaffney, S. C. did the construction at a cost of Fifty Thousand Dollars. These structures are serving the Prospect Community at this writing, November 1981. However with continued growth there will no doubt be other changes down the road.

From organization in 1899 to the present November 1981 three ministers and one home missionary have gone out from the church. Namely: Fletcher Ruppe, Gene Potter, John Godfrey and Alma Jolley.

Prospect Baptist Church has had a great impact in the community through the years.

Sources: church minutes, records.

— John W. Wood

PUTNAM MEMORIAL BAPTIST CHURCH 67

In June of 1949, the Kings Mountain Baptist Association, under the leadership of Missionary Lewis E. Ludlum, established a mission near the Shelby Sales Barn. A tent was placed in the grove of trees on the Roland Gantt property located on Highway 226 South.

A revival meeting was held with the Reverend T. W. Fogleman bringing the messages. Following the meeting a Vacation Bible School was held and soon a Sunday School was established.

This tent became the first church home when on October 16, 1949, a Baptist Church was organized with nineteen charter members. For the next six months those joining the church were counted charter members bringing the total to twenty-nine. Those charter members were:

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Lane, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Strickland, Marvin Strickland, James Strickland, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard McSwain, Carolyn McSwain, Mr. and Mrs. James R. Webber, Janis Webber, James B. Webber, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Passmore, Mrs. V. B. Crawford, Robert Brown, Mrs. Fennel Patterson, Roscoe Patterson, Faye Patterson, Mr. Claude A. Jones, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Calude A. Jones, Jr., Mary Catherine Jones, Garland Clary, Helen Swink, Mr. and Mrs. Colon Hamrick, and Pink Shyyles.

The church was named Putnam Memorial in memory of the Reverend D. F. Putnam, a missionary pastor with a divine call to start new churches.

Soon the drafty tent was inadequate. A warm meeting place was needed. A lot on the County Home Road was purchased from Roland Gantt for a building site. This lot was situated behind the grove of trees where the tent was located. It was covered with cotton "white unto harvest"; This became the title of the church history book compiled twenty-four years later by Betty McIntyre. The cotton was picked and construction began.

On November 24, 1949, the Reverend Lawrence Roberts was called to serve as the first pastor.

The temporary church building, the second church home, was completed within a month. On December 18, 1945, the first services were held. This was one large room with a wooden floor on the south end for the pulpit and piano. The rest of the floor was dirt covered with sand. A pot belly stove was used to furnish heat. Later, four Sunday School rooms were added to the north back side.

Putnam Memorial Baptist Church, June — Nov. 1949.

Temporary Putnam Memorial Baptist Church, 1949-1952.

Putnam Memorial Baptist Church — 1982.

The first officers of the church were: Leonard McSwain, Sunday School Superintendent; Mrs. James R. Webber, Training Union Director; Mary Catherine Jones, song leader; Carolyn McSwain, pianist; Mrs. Virginia Jones, Woman's Missionary Union president; and Colon Hamrick, Brotherhood president.

The first four deacons ordained in November of 1950 were: Calude A. Jones, Sr., Chairman, Howard Strickland, Leonard McSwain and S. T. Putnam.

A new educational building was begun behind the temporary building. The first service was held June 27, 1952, in the new building, the beginning of the third and present church home.

As the membership grew, more space was needed so the south end of the educational building was added in January of 1958.

A pastorium was built above the church on a lot donated by Mr. and Mrs. Z. V. Cline and open house was held September 13, 1964.

On October 18, 1970, ground breaking ceremonies for a new sanctuary, to be added to the middle front of the educational plant, were held and soon construction began.

One of the most significant events in the life of Putnam Memorial Baptist Church was the Dedication Service held in the new sanctuary on March 4, 1973. It was at this time that the members saw their most cherished dreams become a reality.

The following have served the church as pastor: Lawrence Roberts, Joe T. Whitworth, Richard N. Spencer, George W. Dowd, Harold L. Threatt, and Johnny M. Bridges.

Interim pastors were: Lewis E. Ludlum, William P. Shytle, Donald D. Moore, E. S. Elliott, M. Vann Murrell, C. C. Crow, and Scot Smith.

The church has ordained two young men for the Baptist ministry, William P. Shytle and Eugene Passmore.

Our present pastor, the reverend Larry M. Morris, has been with us since September 27, 1981. The church membership has reached three hundred and seventy-two, and as the Lord blesses we will continue to grow.

Sources: Church records, Kings Mountain Baptist Associational Minutes, History book, and oral tradition.

— Betty Patterson McIntyre

RESURRECTION LUTHERAN CHURCH, KINGS MOUNTAIN

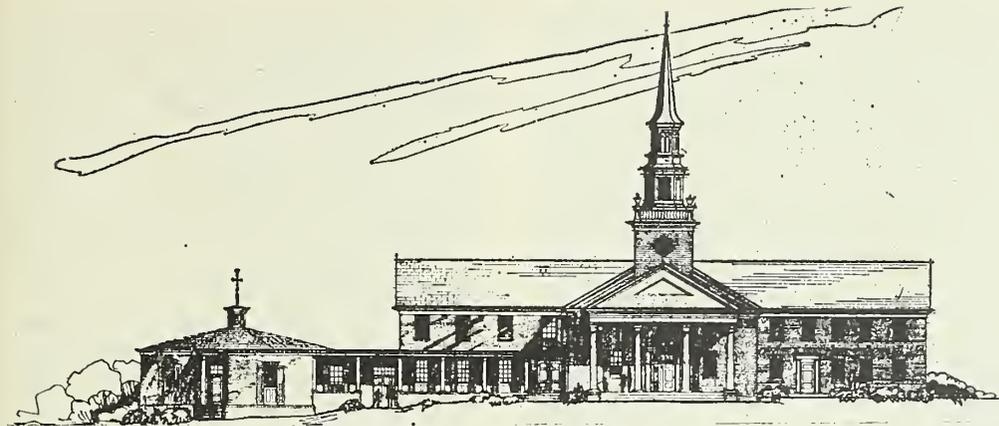

68

A dream to establish a mission of the Lutheran Church in Kings Mountain had its beginning October 10, 1950 when ten men met to discuss this possibility. They were Hubert McGinnis, Stowe Devenney, Clyde Bennett, Dorus Bennett, Paul Smyre, Herbert Mitcham, Paul McGinnis, Fred Plonk, E. K. Whitener and Philip Baker, all from the immediate area. Taking their concern for a mission to Rev. F. L. Conrad, DD, President of the Synod, the proposal was received with enthusiasm.

Rev. Conrad proceeded with preliminary arrangements then came to Kings Mountain on October 23, 1950 to the home of Fred Plonk. Here he discussed the future steps needed with twenty-six interested people. Paul McGinnis immediately secured the names of fifty people interested in organizing a mission and the preliminary information was forwarded to Dr. Conrad. On November 14, 1950 Mr. H. E. Isenhour presented the information to the Board of American Missions and received the approval for establishing the mission in Kings Mountain.

The Reverend Vance Daniel accepted the call to serve as mission developer on February 1, 1951. On February 4, 1951 the first worship service was held at West School auditorium with about seventy five people attending.

Land was donated and the ground breaking service was held prior to the official organization on February 25, 1951 with a gathering of over three hundred persons attending. The official organization date was on Palm Sunday March 18, 1951. At this time eighty one members were received as charter members and the congregation voted to leave charter membership open until May 13, 1951. Twelve more members were added and the charter membership was ninety three.

Resurrection Lutheran Church, Kings Mountain, N.C.

The membership supplied excellent support and the first service was held in the incomplete building on December 2, 1951. Pastor Daniel served the congregation until October 1, 1953.

The Reverend R. Douglas Fritz was the second Pastor. The congregation continued to grow and while reducing the current debt a parsonage was completed in 1955 and the interior of the church completed in 1956. Pastor Fritz's musical talents were quite an inspiration and programs he directed are well remembered.

The third Pastor was The Reverend George T. Moore who began his service on February 18, 1959. During his ministry the church accepted full benevolent responsibility and also accepted partial support of the Reverend Carl Fisher, missionary to Malaysia. In April of 1961 a beautiful colonial steeple was added to the edifice through a gift from the Aubrey Mauney family. The Reverend Moore served through July 1, 1965.

The fourth Pastor was the Reverend David L. Castor who began his ministry on December 1, 1965. Plans to build an educational wing emerged and received congregational approval in November 1966. In the spring of 1967 the final payment on the original church building was made. The ground breaking for the new addition took place on December 3, 1967. James L. Beam of Gastonia designed the new addition and Dorus Bennett was awarded the contract to build when his work crews were free. This was slow and as time passed prices rose steadily. Pastor Castor terminated his service on December 29, 1969.

On January 17, 1971, The Reverend Arthur Glenn Boland became the fifth Pastor. When he arrived building had completely stopped on the new wing. During his service additional mortgages were assumed and through sacrificial giving the new wing was occupied late that same year. In 1973 a building maintenance project was undertaken to repair the older church property. The congregation continued generous support of the Lutheran Homes and exceeded its quota to the "Out-reach Appeal" of the Lutheran Theological Southern Seminary. During this period of time the congregation accepted sponsorship of a Vietnam widow and her child. Pastor Boland served until December 31, 1977.

The current and sixth Pastor is The Reverend W. Gerald Weeks who assumed his duties on July 16, 1978. The congregation continues to reduce its debt and meet its benevolent goal. New families have been added to its membership. During this current year 1981 a special project of support to Lutheran camping facility "Agape" is underway in addition to community projects. A balanced budget is a dream realized.

Resurrection Lutheran Church has been blessed with two congregational "Sons" being ordained into the ministry. They are William "Bill" Mitchem in 1964 and Gary Steven Plonk in 1980.

Resurrection Lutheran Church has active women's, men's and youth groups. It has three active church choirs. Its members participate in church group competitive sports.

In its majestic location on Crescent Hill in Kings Mountain, Resurrection Lutheran Church is an inspiring reminder that God lives and its congregation serves.

Sources: church records, personal knowledge.

— Alma P. Plonk

ROSS GROVE BAPTIST CHURCH

69

In August 1878, a revival meeting was held in a brush arbor near where the present building now stands. This meeting was conducted by J. P. Styers. Several conversions resulted and the new converts went to nearby churches for baptism and membership.

The Brush Arbor meeting resulted in the organization of a Sunday School in the Spring of 1879 which met in a log barn.

The Ross Grove School was a one room building equipped with benches made of split logs and a long writing table. The Sunday School scholars had no quarterlies but memorized scripture from cards.

In 1880 the Sunday School was still being well attended and promoters began discussing a Sunday School house. Able Hardin and wife, Lettie Hardin, offered to donate a site of 15 acres. The offer was accepted and the grove now called Ross Grove was named for Lettie Ross Hardin. A building committee was appointed composed of R. Y. Weathers, Daniel Poston, Hezekiah Dedmon, David W. Blanton, W. S. Weathers, John Hopper and Jack Cornwell. They met and decided to build a one room building 26 x 36. The Sunday School building was completed in the Spring of 1881.

By request of the brethren of Ross Grove a meeting was held September 30, 1881, at the new building for the purpose of organizing a church. A sermon was preached by Rev. Robin Poston, pastor at Zion Baptist Church.

Reverend Poston was elected moderator pro tem and A. A. McSwain, Clerk pro tem. The temporary organization was made permanent and the following were charter members:

R.Y. Weathers, deacon, Mrs. R.Y. Weathers, J. J. Cornwell, Hezekiah Dedmon, deacon, Mrs. Hezekiah Dedmon, William Dedmon, A.P. Spake, Thomas McSwain, Rebecca McSwain, David W. Blanton, deacon, Mrs. David W. Blanton, Mrs. J. J. Cornwell. Also, Moses Ross, Mary Ross, David Blanton, G. B. Bridges, Abel Hardin, Mrs. Abel Hardin, Sophy Bridges, R. J. Putnam, W. P. Wilson, deacon, Mrs. Lena Wilson, M.A. Whitworth, and S. L. Whitworth. Two names were not recorded.

On March 4, 1904 the church in conference instructed Joe E. Blanton, Sr., to begin taking subscriptions for a new church building, and the first service held in it was Sunday School, August 11, 1905. The first preaching service was held August 16, 1905, on Friday. The formal dedication of the building came May 27, 1908. The Church bell was bought in 1912 and Sunday School rooms were added in 1935. Roy Wilson, Paul Weathers, and George Sperling composed the committee which built the stoop on the front of the church in 1942. Cement walks were poured that same year.

The church was completely remodeled in 1943, with new pews with matching paneling and pulpit furniture, a baptistry, two Sunday School rooms on the third floor, and stained glass windows. This remodeling was headed by L. H. Ledford and at a cost of $8,000.00.

In 1946 a Hammond organ was purchased. Rest rooms were added in 1947 and church grounds landscaped in 1949. The Fellowship building was built in 1952 and the Parsonage was completed in December 1956.

In 1926, Mrs. L. H. Ledford and Miss Violet Richardson were the first leaders of what was then called B.Y.P.U. Miss LaLene Grigg served for ten years as Director.

The Baptist Brotherhood was organized on April 19, 1956. The organization's activities have included visitation, evangelism and Remember . . .

- Articles
- Are Indexed
- By
- Article Numbers
- . . . Not By
- Page
- Number

Ross Grove Baptist Church, 1908.

Architect's drawing of future Ross Grove Baptist Church, 1982.

sponsoring the Royal Ambassadors. Woodrow Blanton served as President.

The church library was begun in 1942 with Mrs. Max Putnam and Miss LaLene Grigg as librarians.

The Kings Mountain Baptist Association met at Ross Grove in 1920 and 1947.

A building committee was elected and the church voted July 16, 1961 to begin plans for a new church building. Architects Holland and Riviere were secured. Estimated costs for Educational Building (not furnished) plus architects fees totaled $125,000.00.

Ross Grove Baptist Church has now been moved from its original site, in the grove to Highway 18, North. The present facility was completed in 1969.

— Lelene Grigg

SHARON UNITED METHODIST CHURCH

70

Sharon Church came into being in 1851, with consolidation of two methodist churches in the community under the direction of the Reverend Joseph Holmes. Lee's church stood near the Billie Blanton place on Burke Road. The other was Poplar Springs, situated near the Wins Jones place on the old Shelby-Boiling Springs Road. Sharon was named by Landruns Smith.

The first church was just above the spring near Highway 150. It was a flat rectangular building, chimney-fire place in one end with wooden window shutters. A shed was built to one side, separated from the main church by planks, with space between them for the slaves to worship with the other families. Reverend Martin Eddy was the pastor in 1851.

After twenty-one years Sharon Campground was built, added strength to the spiritual service of the church. The second church, built in 1884, was located across Highway 150 from the present church. Reverend M. D. Giles, was pastor. It was a long building with two front doors and glass windows.

Sharon's present membership books begin in 1895 during the ministry of Reverend R. L. Owensby. The first name shown was Alma Blanton (Mrs. C. P. Morehead). The third church was built during the pastorate of Reverend C. H. Clyde. A modern frame structure, situated in grove where the present building is located. It was dedicated in 1917 by Bishop John C. Kilgo.

The present church was started in 1939 under the leadership of Reverend J. L. Rayle and finished in 1940. Brother Rayle conducted the first service on the third Sunday in January, 1940. The Reverend R.M. Hauss came to Sharon, October, 1940. There was a debt of $10,200. This was cleared March 31, 1942. Bishop Clara Purcell of Charlotte dedicated the church and Honorable Clyde R. Hoey gave the memorial address.

Sharon parsonage was erected in 1948 and the J.M. Barbers were the first occupants. The church was made a station in 1948. Sharon hut was built in 1950 and dedicated in 1953.

Seventy-five years after the Watch Night Service was held at the turn of the century, another Watch Night service was held December 31, 1975. Writings of that previous year-end service was read by Howard M. Blanton. All present participated in a worship hour, followed by midnight supper.

Canrollonic bells, given by Mrs. W. M. Whitaker were put in honor of her husband W. M. Whitaker in 1949. The organ was purchased in 1955. The cemetery was grassed in 1955. The brass cross and candle holders were given to the church at Christmas in 1962 by the Methodist young people. The present Communion ware was given to the church in 1974 in memory of Mrs. J.D. Elliott (Johnnye Packard). Two generations of the Packard Family served as Communion Stewards.

A memorial book stand honors Glenn Blanton. Memorial book honors Mrs. W. M. Whitaker. Sharon Memorial Fund was started in 1956.

Sharon United Methodist Church celebrated her 125th Anniversary in May, 1976. Ladies wore long dresses and bonnets. Howard A. Hamrick drove a 1927, T. Model Ford, horses and a surrey were there and all enjoyed them, especially by those that rode in it.

Two sons have gone out from Sharon to make methodist preachers. Robert V. Dodd and Gustan C. Koch.

In 1968 the Methodist Church and the Evangelical United Church united to become the United Methodist Church.

It has been said that materials out of the first church were used in the second church. Materials from the second were used in the third church and materials from the third church was used in the construction of the fourth church. Whether this is actually true in case of materials or not, it is vitally true in case of the spiritual sense. After one hundred and thirty years of continuous endeavor in the Kingdom of God, Sharon still passes some of the rock faith and simple confidence in God, that links her to the past and ties her unconditionally to the never ending future.

The present pastor and wife is Reverend Edmund R. Lynn and Betty. Former Pastors of Sharon United Methodist Church: Martin Eddy, C. O. Lamette, D. D. Byers, J. W. Miller, J. T. Kilge, E. W. Thompson, William S. Black, Allen McCorquodale, J. S. Nelson, W. G. Ivey, John Watts, A. P. Avants, J. S. Ervin, B. E. Dixon, J. W. North. Also H. T. Hudson, J. C. Hartsell, A. R. Raven, T. S. Campbell, M. D. Giles, S. M. Daves, E. Plyler, H. T. Hudson, A. J. Gantt, R. L. Owenby, T. T. Sayler, W. F. Womble, D. F. Carver, B. A. York, B. Wilson, E. N. Crowder, C. H. Clyde, O. I. Hinson. Also L. E. Stacey, L. F. Brothers, A. J. Burrus, N. C. Williams, J. C. Keever, D. P. Waters, R. L. Forbis, J.N. Randall, J.N. Wise, J.L. Rayle, R. M. Hause, J. M. Barber. Also W. L. Scott, Baxter Davis, Geroge Neelham, Harold Austin, R. W. Walters, Brown McKinney, Richard Howell, Wayne Smith, Dixon Adams, Cletes Pope, John E. Jones, and B. Joe Parker.

Source: Church Records and my own knowledge.

— Ila Morehead Bivins

THE SHELBY PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

71

On September 19, 1858 nine people of Presbyterian faith, under the leadership of Rev. Jesse Rankin, met and organized the present church.

In 1871 the first church building was begun and completed in 1875, at the cost of $1800. The lot for the church was one of four bequeathed to the Town of Shelby for church purposes by James Love in 1843. The first deed for a lot on West Marion Street was received November 4, 1872. Later this lot was sold and the present location on the corner of East Graham and South DeKalb Streets was purchased.

The second church was an enlarged and remodeled one of the first and completed in 1893. This structure was remodeled again in 1916. The present church complex is the culmination of a long-range plan which would result in entirely new facilities for worship, fellowship, and Christian education. In 1951 a building campaign was begun to erect the new church which was completed nearly 27 years later.

First the old church was razed and the congregation held services in the State Theater while the Fellowship Hall was built. This was completed in December 1953 and the Sanctuary was completed in April 1954. These were the two buildings of phase one.

The Date Stone was installed in the foundation of the new Sanctuary near the main entrance on East Graham Street. Data placed in the metal box included deeds, lists of officers and members, histories, reports, pictures, and building plans.

The second phase of building began in 1956 when funds were raised to erect the Christian Education and Chapel facilities which were completed in 1963. The last phase of the building program was to raze the obsolete Sunday School Building and replace it with a three-story structure which would house a Ladies' Lounge and rooms for conferences, music and scout activities, and a Youth Lounge. The last phase was completed on June 4, 1979. The entire property was evaluated at $750,000 in 1981.

In 1958 festivities to observe the Centennial began on September 7th, and climaxed at the Sunday worship service September 14, 1958. Mr. Phillip Howerton of Charlotte, moderator of the Presbyterian Church, U.S., and several former ministers took part in the celebration which included the dedication of the Sanctuary and the burning of the mortgage.

Shelby Presbyterian Church has been instrumental in establishing two Presbyterian churches. In 1952 work began with a Sunday School and worship services being conducted in a rented house in West Shelby. In July 1955 the first service was held in the newly constructed John Knox Presbyterian Church on Charles Road.

Through the generosity of Miss Frances Lowery, a former member of the Shelby Church, funds were bequeathed to be used to establish a church for blacks. Several years later in July 1974 this wish was fulfilled when the Ryburn Memorial United Church was dedicated.

Today with a membership of 626 the Shelby Presbyterian Church maintains a strong structured program including Sunday worship services, Sunday School classes for all ages, Wednesday night supper and worship services, three vocal choirs, two bell choirs, scout activities, study groups, and annual retreats at Montreat for officers and members.

The church shares in sponsoring the Life Enrichment Center at John Knox as well as maintaining the Preschool Enrichment Center at the Shelby Church. In collaboration with John Knox, church members have sponsored two Laotian families in 1981-1982 under the Refugee Family Resettlement Program.

For the past five years the church facilities have met the needs of the following civic and community groups: Alcoholics Anonymous, Al-Anon, Welcome Wagon, Men of Service (interdenominational), White Cross, Senior Citizens, Parents Without Partners, Lamaze Childbirth Classes, Preschool Hearing Impaired Classes.

Pastors of the Shelby Presbyterian Church include: Jesse Rankin, 1858 — ?, A. A. Porter, D.D., 1864 — ?, Nathan Shotwell, 1866-1871, J. W. Query, 1874-1875, R. Z. Johnston, 1875-1883, E. P. Davis, 1883-1887, E. E. Ervin, 1888-1889, Jesse W. Siler, 1890-1891, W. P. McCorkle, 1891-1894. Also T. M. Lowry, D.D., 1896-1900, W. R. Minter, 1900-1905, James Thomas, 1905-1912, T. D. Bateman, 1912-1918, W. A. Murry, 1918-1925, H. N. McDiarmid, 1925-1942, J. Walter Dickson, Jr., 1942-1944, Walter L. Brown, 1944-1952, Dr. John S. Brown, 1953-1958, George M. Webb, 1958-1975, Victor Otis Wilson, Jr. (Assistant Minister), 1971-1975, James B. Holderness, D. Min., 1976, and Herbert F. Gale, Jr., D.Min. (Associate Pastor), 1978-1982.

Sources: Church records.

— Helen C. Morris

ST. MATTHEW'S LUTHERAN CHURCH, KINGS MOUNTAIN

72

Although services had been held in Kings Mountain for several years, the congregation was formally organized 1876. Charter members were: P.S. Baker, M.M. Carpenter, A. C. Carpenter, W. A. Mauney and wife Mary Susan, Mrs. M. S. Mauney, J.S. Mauney and wife M. Julletta, L.A. McAllister and wife Catherine, and Mrs. Mag S. Mauney. By the end of 1879 the congregation had completed and dedicated a church building at its present site, 201 North Piedmont Avenue.

Sharon United Methodist Church, 1982.

The Reverend J.L. Peterson was first pastor, assisting in the organization of the church. Other major pastorates following included that of Dr. L.A. Bikle who came to the church in 1884 and served twenty years; Dr. C. K. Bell who was pastor for more than thirteen years beginning in 1905; Dr. H.B. Schaeffer who began his duties in June 1919. During Dr. Schaeffer's pastorate of four years, an intensive evangelistic effort was made, particularly directed to adult education and enrollment in Sunday School and church membership.

Other pastors who have served the congregation were A. M. Huffman, C. K. Derrick, L. Boyd Hamm, H. G. Fisher, W. H. Stender, Dr. William P. Gerberding, Charles W. Easley, Robert E. Allen, and the present pastor Harwood T. Smith.

During Dr. Gerberding's years at St. Matthew's, a new church building was erected, a small gothic-style cathedral, with richly symbolic windows, altar, and facade. A new parsonage was also completed. The new church building was dedicated in 1954.

Each of its pastors has served St. Matthew's congregation effectively and contributed to the religious life of the community as well. Throughout its history, the congregation has experienced a steady growth and demonstrated a most benevolent spirit.

Sources: Church records.

— Mrs. L.E. Hinnant

ST. PETERS METHODIST CHURCH

73

In 1982, St. Peters Methodist Church is celebrating the centennial anniversary of its founding. Due to the lack of historical records, the early history is very incomplete, however, we know that for the last 100 years it has been a stronghold of Christian endeavor.

The original deed for the land upon which the first building was erected has been carefully preserved. It is dated July 14, 1843, and although nearly 100 years old, the excellent penmanship is very legible. The deed was made by Solomon Young to Charles and John Biles, Nol Hoyle, Robert and Randall Willis. Four and one-fourth acres of land was purchased and the whole cost was $4.25.

The first church was a small log house and as far as we know had no means of heat. It was used for about 35 years when a new frame building was erected. Among the early members of the church were John and Charles Biles, Joseph, Robert and Randall Willis, Lemuel S. Self, Christopher Bingham and William Hunt.

The second building was a one-room frame structure about 30 x 40 feet with plain glass windows, a steeple on the front and a bell. It was situated near what is now the northeast corner of the cemetery. Then in the spring of 1904, the third church building was begun.

This was another frame structure about 40 x 60 feet. When it was almost completed, except for windows and doors, during an electrical storm it was blown off its pillar and left leaning to one side. A great deal of work was required to straighten and finish it. When finished, it had double Gothic windows with colored glass in the upper part and the building was painted white. About this time, according to an old deed, James R. Willis gave the church a small tract of land containing about 2-5/8 acres. This land joined the former tract.

In 1923, the Church School had grown until the different classes meeting in the same room, although separated by curtains, caused noise and confusion. During this year a two-story Church School annex was added at the rear. The Rev. John Green was pastor at this time and Edny Willis was the Church School Superintendent.

A few years later, after the public school had been moved to Belwood, the school site, a tract of 2 acres was bought by the following persons: J.P. Boggs, J.P. Bingham, J.H. Costner, J.A. Hallman, J.L. Sain, F. D. Edwards and Edny Willis. Later, this was added to the church land making 9 acres in all.

Time passed, and on the morning of June 15, 1941 the work of remodeling this third building was begun. The outside was veneered with a 16 inch gray granite rock wall. The stone was given by Dr. F. D. Edwards, and the stone mason was Albert Bleynot of Valdese, North Carolina. The windows were changed from Gothic to Roman memorial windows. The walls were plastered, a hardwood floor was laid, oak furniture and a heating plant were installed.

Though not a complete list, the following are some of the pastors who have served through the years: The Rev. Miles Puckett was the pastor in 1845, and he was followed by A. R. Rennick, J.M. Cline, then John Watts in 1866 (see list under Kadash Church) and J.M. Morgan the present pastor (1941-45).

In 1874, the Rev. A. T. Edwards, a former Captain in the Confederate Army, who was pastor at that time tried to introduce Sunday School literature and met with some opposition. The following are some who have served as superintendants of the Sunday School: James R. Willis, who was also the choir leader: J.D. Boyles, Edny Willis, J.T. Barber, Lee Willis, Floyd Hallman, Wilson Willis and Flay Willis.

In 1927, during the pastorate of J.W. Fitzgerald, a Womans' Missionary Society was organized. The late Mrs. Edny Willis was the first president and Mrs. W. H. Young was the secretary and treasurer. The following were the charter members: Mrs. J.P. Bingham, Mrs. J.D. Boyles, Mrs. C. G. Boyles, Mrs. F. D. Edwards, Mrs. W. H. Mitchem, Mrs. Dennis Sain, Mrs. Pert Sain, Mrs. W. H. Young, and the late Mrs. Edny Willis and the late Mrs. E. G. Self. At present the Woman's Division of Christian Service enrolls 27 members.

The church has a membership of 220 and the Church School enrollment is 148. The present trustees are: Edny Willis, J.P. Bingham, P.M. Mauney, A. B. Boyles, J.F. Willis and Mrs. R. F. Tillman. The stewards are:

Edny Willis, J.P. Boggs, J.P. Bingham, J.H. Costner, Dennis Sain, Jacob Hoyle, Wilson Willis, J.W. King, John D. Sain, Marvin Elliott and C. G. Boyles is recording steward.

Through the years St. Peters Church has received many blessings, and has been a guiding influence in the community which it has served.

In 1866, St. Peters and Kadash were on the South Fork Circuit in the Shelby District. This District then covered the upper part of South Carolina and all of North Carolina. In 1890, North Carolina was divided into two conferences; North Carolina Conference, and our own Western North Carolina Conference. The Shelby District was changed to the Gastonia District about 1917. South Carolina was cut loose from North Carolina in or about 1870 or 1871.

— Mrs. Frances Beam

SULPHUR SPRINGS METHODIST CHURCH

74

A "Camp Meeting" or "Brush Arbor" marks the beginning of Sulphur Springs United Methodist Church which dates back to the early 1800's. Many people walked to the campsite, others used buggies, wagons and horseback. Families came in the summer and stayed for extended evangelistic services. Cabins were often built or tents pitched to house the families during their stay.

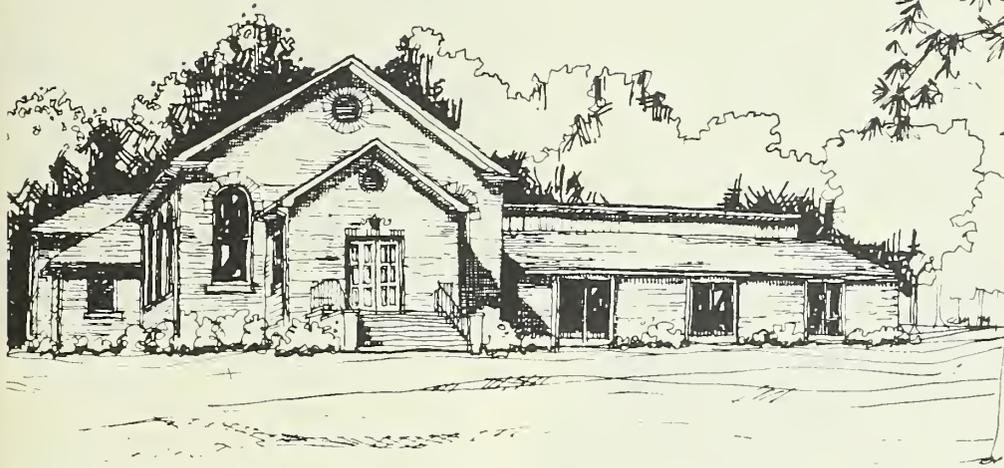

The first church building was built in 1840. It was called Epps Springs Methodist Church. This wood frame building, a large one room auditorium with its three rows of pews and two aisles, was used until the present facility was built in 1928. The cornerstone read Sulphur Springs Methodist Episcopal Church South. The Reverend R.L. Forbis was the last preacher to serve at Sulphur Springs in the frame building. He was our pastor from 1927 to 1930.

Reverend Forbis in 1928 traveled to Lincoln County and obtained the plans for our present church. The cost of $12,000.00 and the depression of '29 combined to test the members of our church. Interest payments were slow in coming and the loan was refinanced twice; however, the hard work of Rev. Forbis and the church families had the church debt paid by the late 1930's.

During the thirties we along with Sharon, Pine Grove and Salem made up a circuit with preaching held only twice a month. Our revival was always in August, during the time that schools were operating on a cotton schedule. Because of our revival, schools were dismissed at 11 A.M. providing time to attend the services.

Sulphur Springs Church celebrated our 100th year of existence and the Church's Dedication in 1940. The Rev. J.L. Rayle was our pastor. Friends and members of Sulphur Springs Methodist Church took part in the Centennial Celebration and Dedication. The Rev. R.L. Forbis, who had worked so hard to see the church built, was the featured speaker.

The Sharon Methodist Circuit was dissolved and a new circuit was formed in 1947. The Sulphur Springs Methodist Circuit, as it was called, was made up of Sulphur Springs, Salem and Pine Grove Methodist Churches.

Sulphur Springs United Methodist Church.

On December the 16th, 1947, the parsonage owned by Sharon Circuit was sold to the new Sulphur Springs Circuit for $7,500.00. After many meetings, it was agreed that the new circuit would pay Sharon Church $3,500.00 for their percentage of ownership. Sharon Church accepted this payment for their part of our parsonage.

The Church Hut was built between 1951 and 1955. The Rev. I.M. Brendle was pastor. It took all the church's members working together to build and pay for the hut. The church had "feeds" to raise the money for the building of the hut.

In 1953 Sulphur Springs became a station church. The parsonage owned by Sulphur Springs Methodist Circuit on Washington Street was sold and a new one was erected on land given by Mrs. Lochie Biggers. Located ¼ mile from the church on Hamrick Road, the land was given in 1955. The parsonage was built and dedicated in 1957. The minister at this time was Rev. F.W. Dowd Bangle.

Sulphur Springs United Methodist Church, the oldest church in its community, completed its renovation in 1959. On August 28, 1959, the church renovation was dedicated. The total cost of this project was $8,500.00. The church added a vestibule to the front of the sanctuary. The interior of the church was completely remodeled with wall to wall carpet throughout the church. At this time we had 223 members. The Reverend Grady Barringer was pastor.

Our church decided to redo the entire cemetery in the late 1950's. This was a great undertaking which included such things as taking up all coping, leveling graves, sowing grass and straightening markers and the members of our church worked diligently until our cemetery looked beautiful.

On September 10, 1972, a church conference approved the construction of a new educational building. Remodeling of the old educational building was also approved. New heating and air conditioning units for both buildings were installed. Ground Breaking Ceremonies were held on June 24, 1973. The building was completed and first used on Easter Sunday, April 14, 1974. On November 9, 1975, the new church building and the remodeled building was dedicated. The Rev. I.M. Brendle was pastor.

The latest addition to our church came in the form of a project the Methodist Men wanted to sponsor. It was their idea to build a barbecue pit for our church to hold annual barbecues. We have had two successful barbecues (1978 and 1979) and look forward to many more. This has proved to be a true asset to our church. It brings families and friends together while building for the future of our church.

Sources: Church records.

— Mrs. Mary Wolfe

ZION BAPTIST CHURCH

75

Zion Church, the oldest in the Kings Mountain Baptist Association, is located on the Zion Church Road, five miles North of Shelby, about half a mile east of Highway 226. It is across a stream to the west of the old William Weathers homestead which served as the first courthouse of Cleveland County. Located nearby was the old Weathers Mill, known later as the old Lutz Mill. Zion boasts five churches in 164 years of worship progress. The 150th Anniversary was observed in 1966.

It's brick and mortar,
but it's spiritual growth too.
It's Pastor, music, members, memories that view.
It's progress in a framework of tradition true.
It's a world of change she passes through.
It's Zion.

Zion's cradle years began in a brush arbor with the Reverend Drewery Dobbins serving.

There were thirty charter members.

The first church, a log house, was built in 1846. The Reverend Dobbins became pastor and served Zion thirty-one years.

Zion's second church, a framed unceiled building, was constructed in 1858. The Reverend Robert Poston, a Cleveland native, served fifteen years.

The Reverend A.C. Irvin, a Cleveland native, was pastor of the third framed ceiled house in 1883 and served twenty-five years.

The fourth house, a brick structure, was erected in 1927-1928. The Reverend D.G. Washburn, a Cleveland native, served Zion nineteen years. A baptistry was built in 1941.

Zion's fifth and modern structure is used currently. The Reverend W.V. Tarlton came to Zion in 1950, held the first service in the fifth church in 1953, and continued to serve thirteen years. The Reverend B.J. Traywick served four years in the fifth church. The Reverend W.H. Pope served five years in the fifth church. The Reverend Russell Fitts began serving in the fifth church in 1978.

Zion Church Pastors, 1816-1980, included Drewery Dobbins, 1816-1847; Tom Dixon, 1847, 1887-1890; Robert Poston, 1854-1855; 1867-1870, 1875; A.J. Cancellor, 1856; J.H. Yarborough, 1866; L.C. Ezell, 1871-1872; A.C. Irvin, 1876-1879; J.P. Styres, 1880-1881; T.J. Moss, 1891-1894.

R.L. Limrick, 1900-1901; Z.D. Harrill, 1902-1905; D.G. Washburn, 1917-1935; J.L. Jenkins, 1936-1945; W.A. Ayers, 1946; W.P. Biggerstaff, 1947-1950; W.V. Tarlton, 1950-1966; B.J. Traywick, 1967-1971; W.H. Pope, 1972-1978; Russell Fitts, 1978.

From walking and horseback to the automobile, paying monthly to missions in 1800 to a supported missionary in 1956, the old organ in 1893, to piano, now electric organ, the tiring but refreshing trips to the spring replaced by the well in 1919, now electric pump, kerosene lamps in 1921 to electricity (indirect lighting in the sanctuary), local free help to full time sexton on 1954, preaching on the first Sunday and Saturday before channeled to full time minister in 1956, the pastor staying with members to a parsonage, baptismal service from streams to the baptistry, the old singing school to full time directors, and the hand propelled fans to air conditioning in 1966.

Zion's Sunday School was organized in 1865. Zion's Training Union began in 1921. Mrs. Monroe (Pauline) Poston organized Zion's W.M.U. in 1928. Mrs. J.F. (Zoe) Lutz organized the Sunbeam Band. J.F. Lutz was the first R.A. leader. Josie Wilson was the first G.A. leader. The Reverend W.P. Biggerstaff organized a Vacation Bible School in 1948. Reverend Biggerstaff also began a Brotherhood. Zion's parsonage was built in 1947. The caretaker's house was built in 1958. The fellowship building was added in 1968.

Zion's progress is ever onward.
Zion is truly marching to Zion

Source: History of Zion Church, 1816-1955

— Mrs. D.W. Kiser

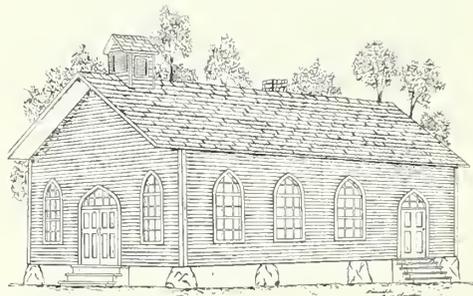

Zion Baptist Church, 1816-1982.

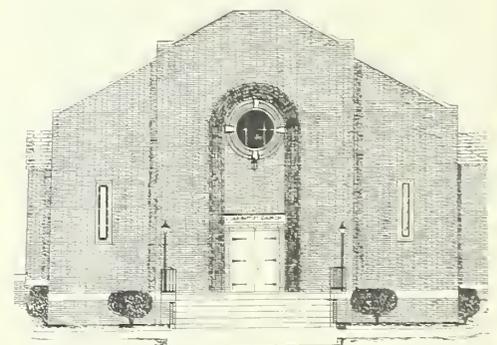

Zoar Baptist Church, 1837.

Zoar Baptist Church, early 1900's.

Zoar Baptist Church, 1949.

Zoar Baptist Church, 1955.

ZOAR BAPTIST CHURCH

76

Zoar Baptist Church was organized September 7, 1837. It is located three miles south of Shelby on Highway 18 South.

The name Zoar means "place of rest, or refuge," or "little." The reason Zoar was chosen as the church name could have been due to a small number of twenty-five charter members who made up the organization.

On September 7, 1837 the following people made up the presbytery that was constituted a regular baptist church to be known as Zoar Baptist Church: Drury Dobbins, E.M. Chaffin, Susan Chaffin, James Love, Susan Love, Elis Putnam, Nancy Putnam, Ursula Putnam, Barnette Putnam, J.L. Logan, Francis Adams, Cynthia Adams, Jane Hogue, R.L. Dogget, Ester Irvine, William McIntyre, Jemima McIntyre, Elizabeth Alexander, Roberts Putnam, Willis Putnam, and Elizabeth Putnam.

E.M. Chaffin was chosen as the pastor; and James Love, J.R. Logan, and Roberts Putnam were ordained as Zoar's first deacons.

Since Zoar's organization, four houses of worship have been erected. The first was a one-room wooden building. The second building was a larger wooden building built across the street, 150 Hwy., and was later veneered with red brick. The present beige brick church building was constructed during the latter part of 1954. It was ready for use on April 3, 1955. (One of the former houses of worship was sold to the county school board and was used as Zoar School until 1910. Zoar School was the birthplace of Boiling Springs High School which was a Christian school. Later, Boiling Springs High School's name was changed to Gardner-Webb College after handsome gifts were made by the Webbs and Gardners to help make the school a junior college).

During Zoar's existence several young men and women from Zoar have gone out to be pastors and missionaries.

During the last 12 years, Zoar's parsonage was remodeled; the sanctuary, the vestibule, and the educational building of the church were renovated; a new fellowship hall was constructed; and a breezeway was added to the church.

Zoar presently has a church staff consisting of the pastor, the minister of music, the custodian, the secretary, and the youth director.

The pastors that have served during the past 100 years consist of: Rev. J.D. Harrell (1893-1902); Rev. D.G. Washburn (1903-1912); Dr. R.C. Campbell (1913-1914); Rev. J.W. Suttle (1916-1932); Rev. Rush Padgette (1932-1940); Rev. Jessie Blalock (1940-1948); Rev. Hoyle Alexander (1948-1950); Rev. Franklin Monroe (1950-1952); Rev. L.M. Tenery (1954-1969); Rev. Dan H. Jolly (1969-1980); Rev. Paul W. Wall (1981-).

We were also blessed by some fine interim pastors during those years. (Due to a fire, some of the church records were burned and a complete list of pastors prior to Rev. Harrell was not available).

After 144 years of service, Zoar Baptist Church continues to make progress. Zoar has increased in its membership and its support to missions. The ministry to the community and the surrounding area has increased through the ministry of puppets (The MOP Squad, which was started in 1977), backyard bible clubs, youth musicals, a radio ministry on WOHS, and various other activities of the church. The church also voted to help financially sponsor a missionary couple, Donald and Karen (Ellis) Clarke, in 1980.

The Lord has richly blessed Zoar during the past 144 years and may the Lord continue to bless the church and the one who ministers to it.

Sources: Zoar Baptist Church History.

— (Miss) Donna Lynn McDaniel

BETHLEHEM FIRE DEPARTMENT — THE BIG "B"

77

The Bethlehem Volunteer Fire Department or as it is referred to, The Big "B", was organized in 1964 on December 11. The first board of directors was made up of community leaders who took a vital interest in the department. Charter directors as follows: Bill Babb, Charles Blalock, Herman Blalock, Andrew Brown, Jake Crocker, Marion Dixon, Sidney Dixon, Boyd

Bethlehem Volunteer Fire Department, "The Big B"

Howell, Paul Lancaster, Dwight Ledbetter, Floyd McDaniel, Hal Morris, Jerry Morris, David Smith, James Spake, Charles Spearman, Fred Tate, John Tria, Jim Yarbro, and David Ware.

An amendment to the by-laws in 1971 changed the board of directors from the 20 member to the present 7 member status. There have been five chiefs to serve the Big "B" they are: (1) Charles E. Blalock (1964-1966). (2) Fred Tate (1966-1969). (3) Ralph Arrowood (1970-1972). Donald R. Graham (1973-1981). (5) Larry McDaniel (1982-). Each man has been an outstanding leader of the department.

The first truck bought was a 1933 America La France from the city of Kings Mountain in 1964 for $1.00. The truck was in service for 7 years and then sold to an antique dealer for $750.00. The second truck bought was a 1951 military duce & a half tanker. The first brush truck was a 1952 Dodge power wagon with 3/4 ton, normally called a military weapons carrier which we still have. In 1972 we purchased a 1971 Ward La France pumper from the Burgess Fire Company, later that same year a 1972 howe tanker from Slagle Fire Company was purchased. They also added a new 1972 brush truck bought from Dixon Chevrolet of Kings Mountain and finished with a tank built by Goforth Brothers of Shelby.

In 1978 a light truck was added that was bought from Nation Chevrolet of Kings Mountain. The work on the truck inside and out was completed by the members. It is equipped with a 20 KW generator, enough power to light up a football field. The newest truck owned by the department is a 1981 Chevrolet 1 ton duellie, 4 wheel drive, with a 300 gallon slagle slide unit.

All trucks were bought from the proceeds of fund drives and barbe-que chicken suppers. The first bar-be-que chicken supper was held on the Bethlehem softball field with approximately 850 plates sold. The fund drives are no longer done as action of the county commissioners in 1979 levied a tax district. The chicken suppers are still held as a means to raise money for the maintenance, repairs and new purchases.

The Big "B" started with 2 bays and a split level office, personal quarters and storage area. The addition of another bay and kitchen along the back of the building was completed in 1977.

In February 1980 the Bethlehem Fire Department was the first department in Cleveland County to vote in women. Elaine Hullender Dixon was the first women to join the Big "B."

In 1965 firemens' wives and interested ladies of the community started a ladies auxiliary. The present auxiliary is made up of 12 active members. These warm and giving ladies always help to meet the fund raising goals of the big "B" by holding fund raising of their own such as: holding yard sales and bake sales, selling knives and cards, compiling and selling cookbooks.

In the 18 years of service the department has had very few losses. John Howard who died from natural causes, Ken Cash with an injured knee, and Bob Hullender an injured ankle. Bob continues to serve the department. The department has been serving the Big "B" district and other communities as well. They will continue to do this as long as the people care enough to support the cause.

The Big "B" consists of the following members as of April 1, 1982:

Larry McDaniel — chief; Brent Leigh — 1st assistant chief; Jeff Dixon — 2nd assistant chief; Tim Echols — captain; Ken Bridges — captain; Robert Hullender — lieutenant; Paul Farris — lieutenant; David McDaniel — lieutenant; and Warren Falls — lieutenant.

Also Edward Raines; Clyde McDaniel, John Masters, Ralph Arrowood, Donnie Pearson, Jim Yarbro, William Ware, Paul Williams, Bill Lowery, and Don Sellers Sr.

Also Elaine Dixon, Harold Farris, Grady Lail, Lyn Valentine, Ralph Towery, Bill Scism, Sidney Lanier, Don Sellers Jr., George Sellers Jr., and Charles Hannah.

Junior fireman: David Moore, Toney Hope, Trent Hullender, Leslie Yarbro, Robert Appling, Norman Hope, Kevin Roberts, and Jeff Whisnant.

— Elaine Dixon

THE BOST BAKERY STORY

78

The story of Bost Bakery Inc., is as American as apple pie and the fourth of July. The company was founded in 1909 by Lon C. Bost. Bost was born in an Iredell County farmhouse where his mother spent Saturdays baking great pones of bread for her family's Sunday dinner. This background surely had its effect on young Bost in later years. Ironic is the fact that today's Bost ovens turn out more bread in a few hours than Mrs. Bost would have baked in a lifetime.

In 1909, Bost purchased a cafe in Shelby. Since bakeries did not exist at this time, he had to bake the bread used in his cafe. Many of his customers were so impressed with the flavor of the bread served with their meals that they soon started coming in to the Bost cafe just to purchase the bread. From this modest beginning, Bost Bakery got its start.

Having a dream of someday operating a bakery, Bost hired a helper and then started baking bread to sell from house to house. Bread was not wrapped then and there was quite a bit of doubt among the prospective customers as to its cleanliness and freshness. As the months passed, sales became a little easier as the quality improved and his reputation grew. Stories over the past have quoted the founder as saying he "simply added a man as he needed one." This was an era when transportation was mostly accomplished with horsedrawn wagons and it was not unusual for these vehicles to get "stuck" in front of the Bost establishment.

The first motorized vehicle was purchased by Bost in 1911 and was a sport model Ford, one of the two cars in Shelby. A box was mounted on the back of this vehicle which held the bread for deliveries. At this point, Bost closed his cafe and moved to a location in South Shelby and began to buy any kind of motor vehicle he could build a box on. At the start of World War I, he was operating ten vehicles with various type bodies and by the end of the war was distributing the Bost products approximately twenty to twenty-five miles in directions outside of Shelby.

It was about this time when he purchased the government's baking equipment from decommissioned Camp Green in Charlotte and moved his operations to a new site at the corner of North Morgan and West Marion Streets. A little ironic, is the fact that the huge Bost offices and distribution terminal for the company's Charlotte operation are located within a stone's throw of the Old Camp Green Bakery.

Several expansions took place at the North Morgan — West Marion Street location until by 1940 almost a fourth of a city block was occupied by the operation both downstairs and upstairs. During this period of time, the Bost household was blessed with seven children — three daughters and four sons. All four sons became active in the bakery operations. They are Bennett, the eldest; twins, Lloyd and Floyd; and Ned. Between 1940 and the end of World War II, the four sons were literally scattered over the entire world between college work and duties in the Armed Forces. Upon returning home, all four sons became driving forces in the future expansions and day to day operations of the organization.

In 1950, it was moving time again — this time to 1007 East Marion Street, the present location of the Shelby plant. Prior to 1950, a 100X120 foot section had been constructed at this Marion Street location and was being used as a cake plant after this part of the operation had been crowded out of the uptown plant. This part is now a part of our shipping department. The 1950 move was to an addition containing 54,000 square feet designed especially for modern bakery operations. This added to the temporary cake plant an area 160 X 115 feet, two stories high. The new plant was then, and still is, one of the most modern and well-built structures of its type. Among its many features was design and construction to obtain and maintain the most sanitary conditions for food processing.

In 1960 the company completed a 15,000 square foot addition of floor space to the Shelby plant. This included shipping facilities, and an addition to the main plant to house new production facilities. Several major pieces of machinery were installed to further modernized production. One of the pieces of equipment was a 75-foot single-lap, 58 tray continuous traveling oven, which is one of the largest automatic oven installations in the Southeast. It has an output of approximately 9,000 loaves of bread per hour and is used exclusively for bread.

The additions to the production facilities also meant other departments expanded accordingly. One phase of the operation is the general office and the mountainous loads of paper work that accompany such an operation. The guiding hand inside the administrative end is that of Lloyd C. Bost. Lloyd C. Bost is a graduate of the University of North Carolina and holds a Bachelor Degree in Commerce. Although he worked with his Dad as a youngster, his full-time work as a career started in 1943. His duties are more executive in nature but he also finds time to assist in other phases of the operation. He is active in the church and civic affairs of Shelby and was named Citizen of the Year in 1959-60.

Lloyd's twin brother, Floyd, is a man who is well accustomed to the burden of leadership and direction. Floyd is Director of Sales of the far-flung route operation which covers the better part of the western halves of North and South Carolina. Floyd actively joined the company in 1946 after a tour of duty with the Navy where he served as Commander of a sub-chaser during World War II. He, too, is a graduate of the University of North Carolina with a Bachelor Degree in Social Science.

Ned Bost is Production Manager of the organization. Ned started off in the bakery, not a son of the boss, but as pan-greaser and sweep-boy, with a story that closely parallels the popular concept of man's rise in industry. He served during World War II as a sergeant in Marine Corps. Upon returning home, he attended the Bakery Institute of America in Chicago and crammed four years of Cereal Chemistry into less than twelve months, graduating tops in his class.

The oldest of the four sons, Bennett, moved to Asheville in 1941 to establish the first key market expansion of Bost Bakery and stayed on as manager until he was transferred back to the home office during the key expansions in the early 60's. Bennett serves as our Director of Transportation and Safety and also handles other duties of an executive nature within the operation. His World War II service career included the European Theater as a non-com in a Reconnaissance unit of a tank division. He received five battle stars and three ribbons for his activities.

The next major expansion was the construction of a gigantic modern roll plant in Thomasville, North Carolina which was formally dedicated in May of 1963. The construction of this new plant was necessitated by the years of route expansions into the central part of North Carolina. Even with the additions to the Shelby plant, space became a premium and the better move from an overall marketing standpoint called for a plant in the central part of the state.

Huge tractor-trailer rigs shuttle daily between the two plants exchanging loaves and cakes from the Shelby facility for rolls of all types from the Thomasville plant. This type of arrangement would not have been considered feasible several years ago, but the construction of the new interstate highways made this a workable arrangement. Too, this assures customers of fresher products.

The next major expansion took place in 1968-69 at the Shelby plant and was an approximate 42,000 square foot addition. This addition gave the Shelby facility much needed production room, shipping, warehousing and office facilities. Part of this program included the completion of a modern garage which is a facility within itself on the Shelby plant grounds. With 200 plus vehicles, this became a necessity.

In 1972, our Thomasville plant was the site of a major expansion, as we started work on an addition that would give the company approximately twice the space of our original Thomasville bakery. The Thomasville roll plant is one of the most modern automated bakeries in the Southeast and still maintains that distinction. Also, several new warehouses and sales offices have been constructed and leased to the company in our various markets in the western half of the two Carolinas.

Decades ago, the founder, Lon C. Bost, established this organization on quality and service and simply added an employee as he needed one. To this date, we have not found a better way to improve upon his philosophy of operating this type of business that is so closely related to the everyday lives of its employees and customers, and therefore, will continue to strive to uphold these high ideals and simple philosophy of doing business.

Although our beloved founder is no longer with us, he left us a legacy of doing business that shall remain as the guiding light of this company.

Lon Cleveland Bost, center, is flanked by his four sons. L to R: Floyd P., Ned W., Bennett W. and Lloyd C.

Sources: Company records and interviews.

— Max P. Butler

Lon C. Bost, founder of Bost Bakery, receiving a 50-year silver & gold Service Pin from son, Lloyd C., at Employee's Party, December 1960.

CLEVELAND LUMBER COMPANY

79

Cleveland Lumber Company is a culmination of the dreams of individuals who lived and worked in the early tumultuous days of our free enterprise system. This local lumber business was formed in the early 1920's by Mr. L.U. Arrowood and Mr. J.W. Howell. Approximately a year after the beginning of the business, Mr. Arrowood bought Mr. Howell out, and from that point, Arrowood Lumber Company went on to prosper during the twenties.

With the coming of the late 1930's and the early depression years, many businesses in this area succumbed to the financial pressures of the times. Such was the case with the Arrowood Lumber Company.

In 1934, Mr. M.G. Johnson, Sr., owner of Champion Lumber Company in Spindale, North Carolina was approached by Dr. S.S. Royster of Shelby, and he encouraged Mr. Johnson to purchase Arrowood Lumber Company from the Union Trust Bank. It was at this time that Cleveland Lumber Company was formed.

The early years of Cleveland Lumber Company were typical of all fledging, struggling businesses during those depression years. The first staff of this new company consisted of Mr. Adolf Hester, Manager; his son, Roscoe Hester, Shop Foreman; and George Byrd, Plant Superintendent.

The original facilities included a small office with a large pot belly stove, limited warehouse space, and one big shed with a dirt floor. It was in this shed that the machinery was located, and the power system for this plant was provided by one main shaft connected to the machinery by large belts. The power supply was provided by an electric motor.

It was with this basic facility, and these three men, that Cleveland Lumber Company made its start. The first years were difficult and the depression seemed to worsen. Also, major competitors, Z.J. Thompson Lumber Company, O.E. Ford Lumber Company, and Carl Thompson Lumber Company, had a well established base. During these difficult years, this new business depended more than ever on the strength, determination, and direction provided by Mr. M.G. Johnson, Sr.

Pressures of the depression and the difficulties of the times attributed to a turnover in the management of Cleveland Lumber Company. After approximately one year, Mr. Hester left, and Mr. Johnson hired a Mr. Cline who had for many years owned the Gilkey Lumber Company in Gilkey, North Carolina. Mr. Cline resigned in early 1935 because of poor health.

In late 1935, Mr. Johnson hired Mr. R.J. Rucker from Rutherford County as manager, who later acquired some stock in the business. This marked the beginning of the modern day Cleveland Lumber Company.

With the leadership of Mr. Johnson and Mr. Rucker, Cleveland Lumber Company began to grow and mature as a strong and viable competitor in the Shelby area. Some of the new expansion included new sheds, a dry kiln, new machinery, and a large boiler. The boiler was installed along with a steam engine to provide the power plant.

Growth and expansion continued and new employees were hired. Among these employees were Wayne Hoyle, Office Manager; Jennings Brooks, Plant Superintendent; and Boyce Freeman, Planer Mill Foreman, who has retired in the last few years. Mr. Hoyle and Mr. Brooks are still with the company, and have been a major factor in its growth and success. Mr. Hoyle indicated that when he first came to work in 1939, the lumber company was making outhouses to the specifications of the W.P.A. Also, the average work week was forty-nine and a half hours at an average pay of $7.42 per week.

In 1955, Mr. Johnson's son, M. Garland Johnson, Jr., joined Cleveland Lumber Company. Mr. Johnson has been in a management role since that time. On October 25, 1964, Mr. M.G. Johnson, Sr. died in a drowning incident at his farm in South Carolina. Mr. Johnson's son then assumed further management responsibilities of Cleveland Lumber Company, and became Vice President and General Manager upon the retirement of R.J. Rucker on December 31, 1971.

Many changes have been made in the forty-eight years of Cleveland Lumber Company to keep it up with the times. More land has been acquired through the years from three and a half acres to some twelve and a half acres. A new office building was added in 1948; lumber deparator and a general building supply building in 1957; addition of a showroom in 1964; a lumber shed in 1968; a new finished lumber shed in 1969; a window and door assembly division in 1970, and a moulding warehouse in 1974. In 1980, the billing department was put onto a computer system.

Thus, Cleveland Lumber Company has evolved into a strong building supply business in Shelby. It was the strength provided by the dreams, courage, and the ultimate faith in the free enterprise system by its founders that enabled Cleveland Lumber Company to survive these difficult depression years. It was this same strength and direction that provided a foundation for the prosperous years to come. It was with this foundation that the young men recruited by Mr. Johnson went on to carry out his dream. This company, which began with three employees, currently employs forty-five or so people.

Sources: Interviews with George Byrd, Wayne Hoyle, Jennings Brooks, M. Garland Johnson, Jr.

— Mrs. M. Garland Johnson, Jr.

Cleveland Lumber Company (picture taken in 1949).

CLEVELAND MEMORIAL HOSPITAL AUXILIARY

80

For the past twenty-six years, the hospital Auxiliary has been providing care, comfort, and conveniences for the patients of Cleveland Memorial Hospital. The Auxiliary was organized in April — 1956, under the name of The Women's Auxiliary of Shelby Hospital.

Though the Auxiliary's name has changed and its expanded membership is open to men, its purpose remains "to render service to Cleveland Memorial Hospital and its patients and to assist Cleveland Memorial Hospital in promoting health and welfare of the community."

The charter auxiliarians had four major areas of interest. They delivered flowers, mail and magazines to the patients. Linen was repaired and grounds landscaped by these volunteers. The hospital's nurses also benefited from the activities of these ladies, social functions were organized and sponsored by the auxiliary for the nursing staff.

The present Auxiliary members have discontinued some of these activities, such as linen repair, but have reached out into other areas. A gift shop is operated and staffed by Auxiliary members. A hospitality cart that carries gift shop items to patients room is manned by volunteers. The Auxiliary awards scholarships to men and women, who wish to further their education in the field of medical training. This Health Careers Scholarship program has awarded $10,000.00 in scholarships to 30 students in the past six years.

For the past sixteen years, the Auxiliary has sponsored a benefit ball. The proceeds have amounted to almost $200,000.00 and has helped the hospital to provide some of the following equipment: the Linear Accelerator, a Surgical Intensive Care Unit, a portable D.C. Pulse Defibrillator-Cardioscope, an Electroencephalograph Machine, fetal monitoring equipment, a Closed Circuit Television System for patient information, a three-channel Electrocardiograph Machine and a four-unit Telemetry System.

The Auxiliary boasts 250 active members with 50 Junior Volunteers. The Junior Volunteers are High School students who spend their afternoons and weekends volunteering in nursing units and in departments, such as medical records, emergency room, central supply and pharmacy.

Previous past Presidents have been: Bess Lavender, Elizabeth Moore, Elizabeth Nolan, Grace Hamrick, Jo Sarazen, Louise Martin, Sara Vincent, Rose Hamrick, Julia Palmer, Maxine Kennedy, Gay Suttle, Jo Bolt, Roseanne Harry, Peggy Bridges, Margaret Hamrick, Anne Short, and President-Elect is Candy Arey. The Auxiliary's first President was Martha Kemper.

Sources: Minutes of organizations.

— Gay Combs Suttle

BENJAMIN CLEVELAND CHAPTER DAUGHTERS of the AMERICAN REVOLUTION

81

The Benjamin Cleveland Chapter, National Society, Daughters of the American Revolution, was chartered by the National Society in Washington, D.C., on January 25, 1924.

In November 1923, Mrs. Willie Simmons Webb wanted to organize a D.A.R. chapter in Shelby, North Carolina. She worked hard and by her enthusiasm and perseverance, succeeded in getting thirty-six members for the first D.A.R. chapter in Shelby.

These charter members were: Mrs. Emma Hamrick Andrews (S.O.), Mrs. Ollie Gardner Anthony (J.A.), Mrs. Mattie Shuford Blanton (Ceph), Mrs. Della Hamrick Blanton (W.H.), Mrs. Edna Webb Darwin (J.A.), Mrs. Leila Porter Eskridge (C.L.), Mrs. Emily Roberts Eskridge (Herman), Mrs. Fay Webb Gardner (O. Max), Mrs. Ellen Thompson Gidney (Lamar), Mrs. Sallie Anthony Hamrick (G.P.), Miss Ollie Hamrick, Mrs. Bessie Gardner Hoey (C.R.).

Also, Mrs. Delle Wilson Hoey (Frank), Mrs. Dora Hamrick Jennings (W.H.), Miss Mamie Jones, Mrs. Beulah Logan McSwain (Yates), Mrs. Lula Herndon Logan (Hugh), Mrs. Anna Bell Griffin Lemons (Rev. R.L.), Mrs. Elizabeth McBrayer Owens (Penny), Miss Annie F. Miller, Miss Madeline Miller, Mrs. Bertie Brise Mitchell (Dr. W.F.), Mrs. Pallen McBrayer Mull (O.M.), Mrs. Beulah Herndon Parker (J.L.).

Also, Mrs. Pauline Borders Quinn (J.H.), Mrs. Madge Webb Riley (S.R.), Mrs. Ray Putnam Ross (Marion), Mrs. Ollie McBrayer Royster (Dr. S.S.), Miss Rosa Mae Shuford, Miss Kate Summey, Mrs. Elizabeth Webb Veatch (Roy), Mrs. Willie Simmons Webb (E.Y.), Mrs. Kansas Andrews Webb (J.L.), Mrs. Alma McBrayer Webb (Paul), Mrs. Bonnie Lear Wilkins (Moe).

Mrs. Webb invited these ladies to luncheon. Her cook was Ayfield Hoskins. When they arrived, they were invited into lunch by Ayfield, and told that Mrs. Webb and all the family had to leave. Mrs. Webb was ill and died December 23, 1923, and never returned to her home.

Mrs. Fay Gardner, not to be defeated by the death of a dear friend, invited these ladies to her house. She invited Mrs. C.W. Tillet, North Carolina State D.A.R. Regent. Mrs. Tillet appointed Mrs. Gardner Regent of this new chapter and Mrs. W.H. Blanton, Vice-Regent.

They wanted to name the chapter for a hero in the Battle of Kings Mountain. They chose Colonel Isaac Shelby. When this name was sent to Washington, they were told that there was a Colonel Isaac Shelby Chapter D.A.R. in Tennessee. They decided to name the chapter after Colonel Benjamin Cleveland.

Colonel Cleveland was a colorful character, weighing over two hundred fifty pounds. He was a fearless, rough frontier man who loved hunting, good jokes, lively music and a good time. He organized his mountain men and was outstanding in the defeat of the British at Kings Mountain.

Award of a memorial sword was ordered on January 27, 1781, but was not struck until April 3, 1939. The Cleveland County Historical Museum is now the custodian of this sword.

The Benjamin Cleveland Chapter N.S.D.A.R. is one of the outstanding chapters of the one hundred four chapters in North Carolina.

The National Society, Daughters of the American Revolution was chartered in 1895. One of the first chapters in North Carolina was the Mecklenburg chapter in Charlotte, North Carolina. Among the charter members was Mrs. Stonewall Jackson.

Twenty nine years after the National Society was chartered, the Benjamin Cleveland Chapter was an active chapter.

Sources: Interviews in 1971 with Mrs. J.T. Gardner, Miss Ollie Hamrick, Mrs. Yates McSwain, Mrs. Penny Owen, Mrs. Paul Webb, Mrs. C.L. Eskridge (deceased), Mrs. Ceph Blanton, Mrs. Roy Veatch, Mrs. R.L. Lemons; various D.A.R. Yearbooks.

— Ruth B. Young

DOLL STUDY CLUB OF SHELBY

82

Doll collectors are beginning to outnumber those who collect stamps and coins.

A doll collector is one who loves and appreciates the world of dolls and there are a number of Shelbians who fall in this category. In fact, there is a Doll Study Club of Shelby, organized April 1975, sponsored by the Shelby City Park and Recreation Department, with 17 avid members.

The charter reads as follows:

United Federation of Dolls Clubs, Inc. Doll Study Club of Shelby, North Carolina having agreed to be bound by the By-Laws which agreement is evidenced by the acceptance of this charter no. 343, has been duly elected to membership and is entitled to all rights and privileges of membership subject to the terms and provisions of the By-Laws of United Federation of Doll Clubs, Inc. Dated August 16, 1975.

The charter members are: Mrs. Lacy Ballard, Mrs. Tom Baugham, Mrs. O.S. Brown, Mrs. William Campbell, Mrs. Richard Capps, Mrs. Forrest Crowder, Mrs. John Eades, Mrs. Walter H. Gamble, Mrs. J.T. Huntsinger, Mrs. Garland Johnson, Jr., Miss Joan Kale, Mrs. Clancy Locklee, Mrs. J.R. Martin, Mrs. M.L.

Remember . . .

Articles
Are Indexed
By
Article Numbers
. . . Not By Page
Number

Thomas Moss, Mrs. Oscar Patterson, Mrs. Walter Stephens, Mrs. Gene Wilson.

The concept of a doll club in Shelby began with Mrs. Walter H. Gamble.

The first officers were: Mrs. Richard Capps, President; Mrs. John Eades, Vice-President; Mrs. Walter H. Gamble, Recording Secretary; Mrs. Tom Baugham, Corresponding Secretary; and Mrs. Garland Johnson, Jr., Treasurer.

During the first year the group planned a continual program to promote educational and philanthropic endeavors through dolls. They helped the City Park and Recreation with its annual doll show and dressed dolls for the Salvation Army at Christmas.

The club meets at 10 a.m., the first Monday in each month, at the City Park.

When the doll bug bites you may have trouble finding time for even your normal activities, such as eating and sleeping, and even when you get to sleep your dreams may be about dolls and more dolls . . .

Your first symptoms may come to light when you happen to see one of your childhood dolls that needs a new dress, a new wig, or some new elastic to hold it together. Any one of many needs may pull at your heart strings just enough to set you off.

Source: Club Minutes and Scrapbook.

— Mrs. Randolph Wright

FIRST NATIONAL BANK OF KINGS MOUNTAIN TO FIRST UNION NATIONAL BANK

83

Satisfied customers is one reason First Union National Bank of North Carolina is the oldest bank in Cleveland County. Many of these satisfied customers began their banking relationship with the First National Bank of Kings Mountain.

Today, First National is a vital part of First Union National Bank, one of the top 50 banks in the country. But, when it began in January of 1900, First National served a few families in a little farming town.

Fortunately, the town of Kings Mountain, chartered in 1874, welcomed the bank as a business citizen. Situated at the foot of Crowders Mountain and Kings Mountain, the town and bank began to grow together.

This growth in business was due to the hard work and pride of bank officers in their work and their community. Community leaders were a large part of the bank's officers and stockholders.

The Kings Mountain bank's first officers were: W.A. Mauney, president; J.S. Mauney, vice-president; and R.L. Mauney, cashier. And, the first stock-holders included: W.A. Mauney, J.S. Mauney, Dr. J.G. Hord, R.S. Plonk, D.M. Baker and C.E. Neisler.

Each of these men actively sought Kings Mountain's growth in the corresponding areas of banking and civic pride. This hard-working attitude was epitomized by the late W.A. Mauney. Mauney, one of the first organizers of the Kings Mountain bank and its first president, was an active town and community leader. A native of Cleveland County, Mauney served as the first mayor, postmaster and editor of the Kings Mountain newspaper. He was also one of the organizers of the first cotton mill.

His successor, D.M. Baker, became president in 1928. Born and raised in Lincoln County, Baker spent the greater part of his life in Cleveland County where he was a leading merchant and successful businessman. Under his direction, the bank continued its growth and expansion in the progress of the territory.

With Baker's guidance through the depression and the difficult years that followed, the Cleveland County bank maintained continuous operation. As did the parent bank that is now First Union, First National Bank opened its doors with no restrictions at the end of the bank holiday.

But, in 1942, Frank R. Summers succeeded Baker. Summers, like Baker, worked to ensure a strong and safe financial institution, as well as the physical expansion of the bank. Under his leadership, the bank's total resources more than tripled by 1950.

Up until this time, only two different buildings had housed the bank. But, due to expanding business, the second building had to be completely modernized and renovated in 1945 and 1950 to better serve the bank's customers.

After Mr. Summers' death, the late B.S. Neill, formerly executive vice president, became First National's president. During the latter part of his term, the First National Bank of Kings Mountain approved a merger with the Charlotte-based First Union.

On Tuesday, March 8, 1960, the directors of First National Bank and First Union Bank of North Carolina approved plans for merging the two banks. In June of 1960, the merger was complete and the consolidated bank became the First Union National Bank of North Carolina.

A year later, in 1961, R.S. Lennon, a member of the First National of Kings Mountain bank's team since December of 1954, succeeded the late Mr. Neill as the chief executive officer. In 1966, after Lennon's transfer to the Charlotte office, Elmore Alexander, who joined First Union in July of 1965, became city executive at the Kings Mountain branch.

Soon afterwards in September of 1966, C.C. Cameron succeeded Carl McCraw Jr., as chief executive officer of First Union National Bank of North Carolina. McCraw served for a year following the retirement of his father, Carl McCraw, Sr., a Kings Mountain native. As chief executive of First Union National Bank, Cameron was present when the new First Union National Bank of Kings Mountain's office opened January 17, 1967. A two-story structure with 6,900 square feet of floor space, the new office was opened with a unique ribbon cutting ceremony of $100 bills.

Later that year, in April 1967, L.E. Hinnant took over as Kings Mountain's executive officer. Today, Hinnant is still head of that branch which has continued to be a vital link in First Union's more than 200 branches in North Carolina.

Customer satisfaction is the key ingredient that enabled the First National Bank to survive turbulent times. It was that same commitment to serve the local community well which made First Union National Bank what it is today — a multi-billion dollar financial services institution which has never forgotten its roots in towns such as Kings Mountain, and it never will.

Sources: Bank records.

— Mrs. Polly Phifer

GIRL SCOUTS IN CLEVELAND COUNTY

84

Girl Scouts started in Shelby just as World War II was coming to an end. Mrs. Draper Wood, having been local chairman of the United Service Organizations in the war, was in a natural position to get things going. She had worked a lot with church leaders who took girls to Camp Croft in Spartanburg to entertain troops who came up for USO parties there. Her job was to go out and start troops in the community.

Mrs. R.E. Laidlaw said she would take the first troop in 1944. She was a popular teacher at Shelby Junior High and the girls went to her and asked her to be their leader. There were eight girls in the troop at first. They ordered the materials from headquarters and followed the handbook. Neither Mrs. Wood nor Mrs. Laidlaw had daughters but both loved girls. Mrs. Wood gave eighteen years service to girl scouts and Mrs. Laidlaw gave ten to fifteen years.

The first troop, known as the Lone Troop, was first sponsored by the Shelby Kiwanis Club but soon churches became interested and the troop was taken over by Central United Methodist Church. A regular meeting place was needed so Mrs. Wood asked Ralph Gardner to let the girls use a cabin he owned on Horseshoe Bend off Kings Road. The hut was leased for $1.00 a year and it became known as Camp Merrywood.

The girl scout program grew fast. In 1946 there were three troops in the county with fifty-one girls and in only a year the number of troops grew to twenty with three hundred sixty-nine members.

Mrs. Wood organized a County Board to help with the business part of running the troops. They had a banker, a lawyer, a preacher and two businessmen on the Board. The Board asked the Roysters to give them a piece of land at the City Park to build a new scout hut with community donations. The girls would have regular day camps in the Park.

Eventually the National Headquarters made Cleveland County join with Gaston, Lincoln and Rutherford to form the Pioneer Council. Mrs. Wood is quoted as saying, "we did not want to do it. Things were going too good in Cleveland County". Mrs. Wood said that she liked it as it was in the beginning because it had the personal touch. "The girls were so responsive. To have them to love you is the greatest thing. They gave me more than I gave them."

From these early days we have grown from strength to strength and in the spring of 1981 there are fifty-four troops with six hundred fifty-eight girls.

Sources: personal knowledge.

— Eileen Yates

HOME ARTS CLUB OF KINGS MOUNTAIN

85

The Home Arts Club of Kings Mountain was organized in 1917 as "The Wide Awake Housekeepers Club", and has continued to meet monthly since that time.

Early in February 1917, a group of ladies was invited to Mrs. P.D. Herndon's home to discuss the idea of forming a club for young housewives. On the sixteenth day of this same month, these ladies met again in the home of Mrs. M.E. Herndon and organized the club which they called "The Wide Awake Housekeepers Club."

The charter members were Mrs. J.E. Anthony, Mrs. L.P. Baker, Mrs. S.A. Crouse, Mrs. F.E. Finger, Mrs. M.E. Herndon, Mrs. P.D. Herndon, Mrs. G.L. Kerr, Mrs. T.P. McGill, Mrs. E. W. Neal, Mrs. Campbell Phifer, Mrs. J.O. Plonk, Mrs. J.O. Ross and Mrs. Grady Watterson.

The time set for the meeting was the last Wednesday afternoon of the month which has been changed to the first Tuesday. Dues were to be five cents a month. Later they were twenty-five cents a year, and at the present time a nominal fee of $1.00 is collected.

From its earliest conception, the club's goal was to help members to become better wives and mothers, and more efficient in the art of housekeeping. Secondary to this goal was to provide a social hour. The club supported civic projects whenever possible.

A wide variety of programs indicate the effort made to carry out the goals. These included piano and vocal solos, poems, and readings. Some of the subjects used were: Grounds about the House, Gardens, Flowers, Color in the Home, Lamp and Lampshades, Table Service, Party Favors, Reading and Music in the Home, Parental Authority and Discipline, Understanding Children, Marriage and Divorce, How to Hold Husbands, and the Management of Husbands.

The subject of bread was used at one meeting. Each member was asked to bring a sample of bread she had baked, and a prize was offered for the best bread. It was won by Mrs. Dane Rhyne, and a bag of flour donated by the Kings Mountain Roller Mills, was presented to her.

In 1927, a debate was given for the meeting namely "Homemaking is More Important than Housekeeping."

During World War I, the first Friday of each month was given to working in the Red Cross Room. Mrs. E.W. Neal, Mrs. M.E. Herndon, and Mrs. P.D. Herndon received certificates for completing the required work.

In 1923, the club entered a float in the Kings Mountain October Seventh Celebration, and won the second prize of $10.00 which was given to the Central High School for the purchase of a bell. The next year at the same celebration, they won the coveted first prize of $15.00 which they donated to the Central High School to beautify the grounds.

On one occasion, the club joined with the D.A.R. and the American Legion Auxiliary in planting trees along the highway.

At the present time, the Home Arts Club supports the Mauney Memorial Library by donating memorial books.

In the early history of the Club, the members were urged to bring sewing to the meeting.

By 1930, books were added. They were bought by individual members, voted on by the club, and circulated on a schedule which gave each member two weeks to keep the book. At the present time, a member purchases a book and has a program the same year. On alternate years, she entertains. The membership is limited to twenty-four.

By this same year of 1930, the constitution stated that the name of the club "shall be The Home Arts Club, and that the aim shall be to beautify the home, to promote child training and stimulate the growth of the finer things of life."

Mrs. D.F. Hord is the President of the club.

Many lovely ladies have left indelible marks of beauty and charm on Kings Mountain through the Home Arts Club.

Sources: Club records.

— Elizabeth Gamble

KINGS MOUNTAIN BAPTIST ASSOCIATION

86

After 130 years of history the Kings Mountain Baptist Association has 70 churches and nearly 30,000 members. Its leaders have been leaders in North Carolina and Southern Baptist Convention affairs.

In summary, follow some of the churches and a representative list of state and southwide leaders they have furnished:

Boiling Springs: Dr. John Roberts, editor of the BAPTIST COURIER, organ of the South Carolina Baptist state convention of which he was also president; Dr. P.L. Elliott, Gardner-Webb president; Dr. Ben C. Fisher, public relations specialist and advisor to the Sunday School Board and a number of Southern colleges, now at Chowan and Campbell University in this state; Dr. R.C. Campbell, vice president of the Southern Baptist Convention and powerful preacher in large churches in Texas, and North and South Carolina; Mrs. Katie Ruth (Hubert) Dixon, leader in women's work and on the Board of Trustees of the Biblical Recorder, official organ of the Baptist State Convention of North Carolina.

Shelby First, J.R. Logan, author, historian, surveyor, who wrote the history of the Broad River Association, mother of the Kings Mountain body; Dr. Zeno Wall, pastor of Shelby First Church and president of the Baptist State Convention for four years, a record never equaled in modern times; Horace Eason, music leader and organizer of many groups of churchmen; Thomas Dixon, Jr., author and playwright of national fame; Dr. A.C. Dixon, minister and lecturer of international note; Dr. Delia Dixon Carroll, first woman physician of North Carolina and attending physician to Meredith College; Addie Dixon Thacker, prominent author.

New Prospect, home church of the Elder Thomas Dixon, Sr., preacher-genius and father of the above named Dixons, and who was moderator when the Association was constituted at Double Springs in 1851.

Beaver Dan, home church of Rev. John W. Suttle, where he was baptised; also of Dr. E.W. Hamrick, Wake Forest University professor of Bible History and who is also an archeologist becoming famous for his "digs" in present day Palestine.

Double Shoals, Dr. Leland Royster, specialist in church music and Rev. J.W. Costner, minister to smaller rural churches of western North Carolina and specialist in associational programs in Piedmont Carolina.

Elizabeth, Rev. Cline Borders, present director of Missions in the Kings Mountain Association and consultant and presiding officer for an organization of Baptist Associations covering the Southern Baptist Convention of some 30,000 churches.

Kings Mountain, Dr. C.J. Black, author and organizer of excursions by rail for Baptist leaders to institutions they supported such as colleges and orphanages. Also Mrs. Mary Elizabeth (Zeb) Vance, Professor of languages at Mercer University. Now retired and living at Enola, North Carolina.

Waco, Mrs. John Wacaster, pioneer in work and organization of the Woman's Missionary Society.

Sandy Plains, Dr. Bruce Whitaker, president of Chowan College at Murfreesboro, North Carolina.

Dover, Dr. Eugene Poston, former president of Gardner-Webb College at Boiling Springs, North Carolina.

Double Springs, Dr. J.N. Barnette, Dr. A.V. Washburn and Dr. D.P. Brooks, all associated with the educational and editorial department of the Baptist Sunday School Board in Nashville, Tennessee; Dr. Nolan Howington, professor of Preaching at Southern Seminary in Louisville, Kentucky; Dr. Yulan Washburn, Professor of Romance Languages of the University of Tennessee at Knoxville; Rev. C.O. Greene, retired and former minister and pioneer leader in associational work in this part of the south.

Milestones and Landmarks include the following:

1851 — Founded at Double Springs: Thomas Dixon, Sr., Moderator

1860 — Association divided over beverage alcohol. Two associations, Regular and Constitutional

1882 — Founded Shelby Female College with 95 students

1885 — "Evergreen Sunday School" (met every Sunday, not just in summer or on "Preaching days")

1887 — Woman's Missionary Society formed at New Bethel; Mrs. T.J. Ramsauer, President

1889 — G.P. Bostic, First missionary to China; Association paid him $70.63 that year

1890 — Twelve (12) churches withdrew to form Sandy Run Association

1904-07 — Labor pains for Baptist school.

School opened at Boilings Springs on October 1, 1907, with James Dwyre Huggins, Sr., Principal

1909 — Thomas Dixon, Sr. died

1909-18 — Growth

1919 — Baptist Young Peoples Union (BYPU) formed; O.P. Hamrick first president

1920 — J.N. Barnette presented 6-Point Program for Sunday School

1925 — Kings Mountain led all associations in the Southern Baptist Convention in teaching and training program

1928 — High School became Boiling Springs Junior College

1930-36 — The Depression — Growth limited

1937 — All gifts passed $100,000 mark

1942 — Dr. P.L. Elliott and Gov. O. Max Gardner on the scene at Gardner-Webb College

1946 — Gardner-Webb admitted to Baptist family of colleges

1948 — Gardner-Webb accredited by Southern Association of Colleges and Schools

1950 — Pageant at Double Springs portrayed a century of progress

1952 — End of J.W. Suttle era — Moderator 1913-52

1955 — Started Region Camp for recreation and assembly

1956 — Eleven (11) young men examined and ordained to ministry — a record to that date

1957 — A year of building — 25 major projects in 66 churches

1959 — C.O. Greene became Associational Missionary

1960 — Microfilmed records of the Association and all its churches

1961-70 — Decade of progress second only to "impressive twenties"

1966 — Sponsored Seminary Extension and Radio Programs Total gifts over $2,000,000

1967 — Dr. Zeno Wall and Rev. J.R. Cantrell died. Many churches put in air-conditioning and audio equipment

1968 — Gardner-Webb College began 7th decade in Christian Education

1969 — Ministers Wives Auxiliary active in church and parsonage beautification

1970 — New industry and "three shifts" challenged churches

1971 — Kings Mountain First carpeted sanctuary; began pioneer work with youth

1972 — Gardner-Webb College accredited as a senior institution by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools

1973 — End of C.O. Greene era — Cline Borders era began

1974 — Lawndale and Double Shoals celebrated 75th anniversaries

1975 — Honored three women: Mrs. Doris Borders, Mrs. Randall Lolley, Mrs. Marian Grant

1976 — Projected Department Christian Social Ministry

1977 — Ordained twelve (12) ministers; passed $3,500,000 in gifts

1978 — Rev. Bob Davis appointed Director of Department Christian Social Ministry Purchased land for Baptist Center

1980 — Interracial meet with the Ebenezer (Black) Association

1981 — Ross Grove celebrated 100th anniversary and Pleasant Hill 130th anniversary. Open house reception for new $310,000 Baptist Center on Wyke Road, Shelby. Ended 130 years service with 72 churches and nearly 30,000 members; met in magnificent new facilities of Bethel in Shelby.

Sources: Associational records.

— Dr. Wyan Washburn

KINGS MOUNTAIN GARDEN CLUB

87

Founded in 1949, the charter members of this club were: Mrs. John Cheshire, Mrs. Dan Finger, Mrs. Milton Fryer, Mrs. J.E. Herndon, Mrs. Howard Jackson, Mrs. Byron Keeter, Mrs. Carl Mauney, Mrs. H. Carl Mayes, Mrs. George, H. Mauney, Mrs. John L. McGill, Mrs. Hunter Neisler, Mrs. Joseph Neisler, Mrs. P.G. Padgett, Mrs. Drace Peeler, Mrs. William Pressley, Mrs. W.L. Ramseur, Mrs. Moffatt Ware, and Mrs. Clark Broward. Mrs. Broward, originally from Charlotte, was the advisor as to organization of the group and was made an honorary life member. Other life members are Mrs. J.E. Herndon and Mrs. Carl Mauney. Mrs. J.E. Herndon is a nationally accredited Master Judge.

Present officers (1982) are Mrs. L.E. Hinnant, president; Mrs. J.E. Hemdon, vice president; and Mrs. F.J. Sincox, secretary-treasurer.

The club was federated in 1950, and has been enthusiastic in the learning of garden club work and in contributing to the civic beautification of this area. It has won several state and national awards for outstanding service and has assisted in the organization of three other garden clubs and one junior garden club. The club has consistently been on the State Garden Club Honor Roll.

Sources: Club minutes, records.

— Mrs. L.E. Hinnant

FROM KINGS MOUNTAIN SAVINGS and LOAN to FIRST FEDERAL SAVINGS and LOAN ASSOCIATION

88

Kings Mountain Savings and Loan Association, now First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Kings Mountain, was incorporated on January 31, 1907 and had a humble beginning conducting its affairs in a cubby-hole of the F.L. Carpenter drug store. Quoting the late editor of the Kings Mountain Herald, Martin Harmon, "the Association has enjoyed the fair winds of prosperity, the ill winds of war and depression and has come through in greater strength in service to Kings Mountain area citizens."

The first president was J.M. Patterson, one-time Kings Mountain grocer and also associated with Kings Mountain Cotton Oil Company.

(The Patterson family now lives on the corner of West Mountain and Cansler Streets, directly across from the present location of First Federal Savings and Loan.)

Other officers were W.A. Ridenhour, vice-president, C.A. Dilling, second vice-president and the aforementioned F.L. Carpenter, secretary-treasurer. F.L. Carpenter was succeeded by M. Elmer Herndon as secretary-treasurer and Wiley H. McGinnis, one-time mayor of Kings Mountain succeeded Elmer Herndon.

In 1937, J.C. Lackey was elected secretary-treasurer of the association and served until 1953 when he was succeeded by Ben H. Bridges, son of a former director. Ben H. Bridges served until his death in 1966 and was succeeded by Joseph R. Smith, a native of Florida and formerly associated with Security Life and Trust Company of Winston-Salem.

In 1974 Ruby H. Baker became secretary-treasurer succeeding Joseph R. Smith. A native of Kings Mountain, Mrs. Baker had begun work as a teller in 1953 after having worked part-time beginning in 1949 with the detailed task of transferring the accounts from old-fashioned installment shares to the more modern direct reduction system. Mrs. Baker was among twelve women in North Carolina employed by savings and loan associations in key management roles.

In 1978 Gary H. Whitaker of Earl, formerly a loan officer with Cleveland Savings and Loan of Shelby, succeeded Ruby H. Baker and is currently serving as managing officer of the association.

The association has had only five presidents: J.M. Patterson 1907-1914; A.E. Cline 1914-1939; W.K. Mauney 1939-1961; J.R. Davis 1961-1971; Dr. John C. McGill, elected in 1971, now completing his 10th. year as president. Other officers of the association are Gary H. Whitaker, Executive Vice President and Managing Officer; Boyce H. Gault, Vice President; Glee E. Bridges, Vice President; Ronald Franks, Treasurer; Brenda N. Lovelace, Secretary-Treasurer; Kathy B. Butler, Assistant Treasurer.

Numerous citizens have served as directors of the association. Currently serving and directing the affairs of the association are Dr. John C. McGill, physician; C.A. Allison, school principal; Dr. R.N. Baker, dentist; Ruby H. Baker, retired officer; W.S. Fulton, Jr., department store owner; Boyce H. Gault, retired grocer; George E. Lewis, retired dairyman; Carl F. Mauney, textile executive; Glee E. Bridges, hardware store owner and Gary H. Whitaker, managing officer.

In 1954, forty-seven years after its founding, Kings Mountain Savings and Loan Association topped its first million in assets. Two years later, in 1956, it passed the two-million mark. Assets now are $22,977,700.

First Federal Savings and Loan Association has operated in five different locations, beginning with the Carpenter drug store, followed by sharing space with People's Loan and Trust Company, then with First National Bank, subsequently to the building acquired in 1930, now occupied by Cloninger and Neisler, Attorneys at Law, located at 115 West Mountain

First Federal Savings & Loan Association of Kings Mountain.

Street. Finally, in 1970 the association moved to its present location on the corner of West Mountain and Cansler Streets, a modern up-to-date facility constructed under the management of Joseph R. Smith. The site on which the building stands was formerly the location of the homes of E.L. Campbell, attorney of Kings Mountain, and his son, Charles Campbell.

Many changes have taken place in the savings and loan industry and in First Federal Savings and Loan since it was chartered in 1907 but the aim of the association is the same as then, to offer better and more efficient service to the people of Kings Mountain and its surrounding area.

Sources: Records of the Association, Kings Mountain Herald — Feb. 14, 1957.

— Ruby Hughes Baker

THE KINGS MOUNTAIN WOMAN'S CLUB

89

The Kings Mountain Woman's Club, organized in 1905, is only two years younger than the North Carolina Federation of Women's Clubs!

According to an ancient historical account, some of the ladies of the town, concerned because the cemetery received only an annual cleaning, formed a committee to rectify the situation. They beautified with plantings. "The Cemetery Committee realized that other civic items needed attention, and this organization was made into a Civic League" in 1905. Mrs. Mattie Neal was an untiring leader in the cemetery project.

In the meantime the town of York had been putting on flower shows that so impressed the ladies of Kings Mountain that the Ladies' Aid Societies of the various churches took over the responsibility of presenting their own Show.

Civic League members followed their example and have been celebrating each fall season since then with an annual Flower Show, now called Community Festival. The income from the Festival, including that from the booklet of advertisements as well as that from the two meals and the bazaar, has been the major source of income for the Club.

During the presidency of Mrs. E.W. Neal in 1923, the Civic League joined the N.C. Federation and became a Woman's Club. Mrs. Neal recalls that Mrs. O.G. Falls invited two Shelby ladies (one, we think, was Mrs. O. Max Gardner) to a club meeting in Kings Mountain. They were so persuasive about the benefits of membership in the State Federation of Clubs that the Civic League members voted thereupon to join.

At that time meetings were held in the Pythian Hall (over Griffin's Drug Store), usually with a good attendance. Monthly dues of five cents were increased to ten cents. If one person voted against accepting a new member, she was blackballed! Even in those days the women were feeding members of a business men's club.

The Floral Fair in those days was held in various places; some years in the Pythian Hall, sometimes in Caveny's Ice Cream Shop, once in a barn where the Chevrolet building still stands on Railroad Avenue.

More and more the need was felt for a permanent home for the Woman's Club. Before his death, Mr. C.E. Neisler had promised the women a lot on which to build. In 1931 the financial struggle began to erect the building. Aid was secured through the Kings Mountain Building and Loan. Many individuals contributed as well as the Mauney and Neisler Mills. Mrs. C.E. Neisler made the final payment. In January 1932 the first meeting was held in the new club building. Since that time the building has been extended and repaired intermittently.

From 1923 to 1982 these women have served as president of the Kings Mountain Club: Mesdames E.W. Neal, H.C. Dwelle, W.S. Dilling, D.C. Mauney, M.E. Herndon, E.W. Griffin, A.H. Patterson, F.E. Finger, Aubrey Mauney, H.E. Lynch, J.K. Willis, E.A. Shenk, Otto Hehn, Jacob Mauney, I.G. Patterson, George Houser, Jacob Cooper, John Cheshire, D.W. Blanton, W.T. Weir, Jack Arnette, L.P. Baker, Jr., and Edward Heine. The club is now under the able leadership of Mrs. W.D. Werner. The present trustees are Mrs. Grady Patterson, chairman; Mesdames J.A. Cheshire, W.S. Fulton, G.H. Houser and Aubrey Mauney. The club was incorporated in 1950.

In the late '40s a very beautiful and appropriate candlelight installation service was used, written by Mrs. Luther Cansler. Nine living charter members of the original Civic League were honored at this time.

Mrs. Fred Finger, Sr., during her presidency in 1937, organized a Junior Woman's Club which was a very active organization for several years.

Through the years Women's Clubs have carried on a program of work set up by the State and General Federations. The present departments of work are Conservation, Education, Home Life, International Affairs, Public Affairs, The Arts. The Community Improvement Project, handled by Sears Roebuck, has spurred clubs on for several years now to the task of helping to better their towns in some specific way. The Kings Mountain Club has worked with youth programs, recycling, crime watch, etc.

The club has annually entered a worthy High School Senior in competition for the Sally Southall Cotten Scholarship which pays $2,000 a year for four years on college tuition at a N.C. University.

Probably the most enjoyable aspect of our club life is the Senior Citizens' program, under the wing of the club and handled most effectively and untiringly for the past twenty years by Mrs. Paul Hendricks and Mrs. Paul Mauney.

On the District Four Level these women have served: Mrs. O.C. Falls, Ms. H.E. Lynch and Mrs. Aubrey Mauney as President; Mrs. Jacob Cooper (now Mrs. George Scharf), Secretary; and currently Mrs. W.D. Werner as Vice President. Many awards, too numerous to mention, have been won in the District. Kings Mountain Woman's Club has entertained the District at its fall meeting several times and will do so again in 1982.

On the state level, Mrs. Aubrey Mauney served as North Carolina Federation President, 1956-58; then General Federation Editor of International News Bulletin, 1958-60. During 1956-58 these local women served as Pages at the North Carolina Convention and General Federation Convention in Asheville: Mrs. Helen (Don W.) Blanton, Mrs. Ruby (Charles) Alexander, Mrs. Margaret (Eugene) McCarter, Mrs. Peggy (Winston) Miller, and Mrs. Peggy Mauney Beaver.

The Club was very proud when Mrs. E.W. Griffin, during the '50s, won a First Place national award for her work in Safety. Other awards on the state level were First Place for our Press Book, 1958; First Place for a musical setting of "The Collect for Club Women" by Mrs. Aubrey Mauney, 1956. In the annual N.C. Fine Arts Contest a First Place in Photography was won recently by Heather Crowley, High School Senior.

Kings Mountain Woman's Club over the years has contributed to various worthy causes in the thousands of dollars. The building has been a central meeting place in the community for groups of all ages. Two men's clubs have met there weekly for meals. We look forward to a life of continued service!

Sources: Club minutes and records.

— Mrs. Aubrey Mauney and Mrs. Don W. Blanton

KINGS MOUNTAIN LIONS CLUB

90

On Tuesday, June 11, 1938 the nineteen charter members of the Kings Mountain Lions Club met with sponsoring members of the Shelby Lions Club for the presentation of their new charter. The club grew in strength and activities and in time sponsored the Grover Lions Club.

The Kings Mountain Lions Club is a unit of Lions International, the world's largest civic organization and is the oldest internationally chartered organization in the city of Kings Mountain. The primary work of the Lions is sight conservation but in the past Lions have cooperated with virtually every community-wide civic effort of worth. The record of service by the Kings Mountain Lions has honored well the Program of Liberty, Intelligence, Our Nation's Safety and the local slogan: "We work for the blind and the up-building of our community."

The Kings Mountain Lions Club meet on the second and fourth Tuesdays at 7:00 p.m. at the Holiday Inn, Kings Mountain. Good food, good fellowship, good programs and good service projects make Lionism come alive in Kings Mountain.

— R. Howard Bryant

MAGNOLIA GARDEN CLUB OF KINGS MOUNTAIN

91

The Magnolia Garden Club was organized by the Kings Mountain Garden Club in 1952 as a club for young women.

The first president was Mrs. W.S. Fulton, Jr. and the Charter Members were as follows: Mrs. Martin Harmon, Mrs. Walter D. Harmon, Mrs. Joe C. Hedden, Mrs. D.F. Hord, Mrs. John C. McGill, Mrs. Jean W. Neill, Mrs. Robert Neill, Mrs. William Page, Mrs. M.D. Phifer, Mrs. John B. Plonk and Mrs. Jack H. White.

Two of these ladies are currently members of the Club, Mrs. D. F. Hord and Mrs. John C. McGill.

The Club had always met monthly except during the summer months and the month of December. The projects have included landscaping along the railroad in downtown Kings Mountain as well as contributing toward the beautification of the city. Our Club cooperates with the Woman's Club each year by helping with their Fall Festival.

As a money making project for many years our Club decorated for the annual Ladies' Night of the various civic organizations. One of our current projects is making stuffed animals for the Kings Mountain Hospital to give to the children who are patients.

The officers for 1981-1982 are as follows: Mrs. Richard V. Crowley — President, Mrs. Robert N. Baker — Vice-President, Mrs. John C. McGill — Secretary and Mrs. D.F. Hord — Treasurer.

The present membership includes: Mrs. Thomas P. Baker, Mrs. Dorus Bennett, Mrs. William D. Bridges, Mrs. James E. Carroll, Mrs. Edward L. Heine, Mrs. W.L. Mauney and Mrs. George W. Plonk.

The purpose of our Club is to ask Almighty God, the Maker of this world of beauty, to breathe His creative spirit into our wills, that treating with gentleness and love all growing things of the earth we may become co-laborers with Him in opening the eyes of the children of His creation.

M.L. Thomas Moss, O.D.

92

Marcus Lee Thomas Moss, O.D., P.A., opened his practice of optometry on October 1, 1954 in Shelby after graduating from the Southern College of Optometry in Memphis, Tennessee. He first located in the Lineberger Building on North Lafayette Street in a small office and later moving into larger quarters in the same building.

He incorporated the practice in 1975 and the same year moved to 108 West Marion Street into the Old Shelby Printing Company Building which he purchased from the Mabry family and renovated.

Mary Louise Moss was her husband's first receptionist. Later receptionists were Mildred (Mrs. John) Elliott, Thelma (Mrs. Wilbur) Glover, Carolyn (Mrs. Jack) Vanderford, Sandie (Mrs. William) Trainor and then Mrs. Glover again.

Source: Personal knowledge.

— Mrs. M.L. Thomas Moss

The family of Dr. M.L. Thomas Moss — L. to R.: M.L. Thomas, Mary Louise, Carol Louise, and Thomas Macklin.

OPEN GATE GARDEN CLUB of KINGS MOUNTAIN

93

There was an organizational meeting of the Open Gate Garden Club in April, 1951 at the home of Mrs. C.J. Gault, Jr. with Mrs. W.L. Pressly installing the new officers and presenting rules and regulations for a federated garden club. Mrs. Clyde Kerns, now of Salisbury, served as the first president; Mrs. C.J. Gault, Jr. was vice president, and Mrs. D.E. Tate was secretary-treasurer. Time of the meeting was set for the second Wednesday of the month, September through May at 3:30 p.m.

The charter members of the club were: Mrs. Clyde Kerns, Mrs. C.J. Gault, Jr., Mrs. D.E. Tate, Mrs. A.W. Kincaid, Mrs. W.M. Gantt, Mrs. Baxter Wright, Mrs. Pete Barkley, Mrs. T.L. Cashwell, Mrs. E.H. Crouch, Mrs. T.W. Grayson, Mrs. Tim Hord, Mrs. F.R. McCurdy, Mrs. Wendell Phifer, Mrs. Nathan Reed, Mrs. Tolly Shuford, Mrs. Sam Stallings and Mrs. Charles Cash.

The Open Gate Garden Club of Kings Mountain can take pride in the organization's accomplishments.

All Garden Clubs cooperate with the Woman's Club in having a Standard Flower Show each year in October.

In October, 1974 the Open Gate Garden Club had an Open House Tour at the home of Mrs. D.E. Tate.

In March, 1976 a tour of Homes was sponsored by the Garden Council. Our club decorated the lovely home of Mr. and Mrs. John O. Plonk.

Another interesting and beautiful show was held at Dellinger's Jewelry Store on May 3, 1977. Tables were decorated in various periods of history with appropriate settings and centerpieces. Theme of the show was "Welcome Sweet Springtime."

The Open Gate Club had a Standard Flower Show at the home of Mrs. James Dickey on April 19, 1967. "Panorama of Spring" was the theme.

The Kings Mountain and Open Gate Garden Clubs were invited to participate in a Standard Flower Show in Shelby, sponsored by the Three Season's Garden Club of Shelby on April 18-19, 1970. The Open Gate won a blue and red ribbon in the Artistic Division — Class 86 — "Happiness Is An Early Spring Shower." The club arrangement was done by Mrs. C.J. Gault, Jr. and Mrs. Wilson Crawford. In the same class, Mrs. Crawford entered an arrangement which won a red ribbon. Mrs. W.M. Gantt, another member of our club, entered the Judges Class and was also a ribbon winner.

In 1979 the Garden Clubs of Kings Mountain purchased and planted forty-two Fosteria Holly Trees in the downtown area. They were planted on Mountain, Railroad and Gold Streets. Plans are to plant more trees in the fall.

Junior Garden Clubs have been sponsored in the Elementary Schools. Materials, time, programs and talent were shared with the students.

Among interesting programs we have had:

A tour of the lovely garden of Mrs. Bob Lewis in 1977; "The Restoration of Crowders Mountain" — Mrs. W.A. Russell; "The Leopold and Rudolph Blaschka Glass Collection of Flowers at the Botanical Museum at Harvard University." by Mrs. James Wilder.

Paul's Scarlet Climber roses were planted along the railroad through town to help beautify the area.

A tree is planted on Arbor Day at one of the Elementary Schools.

Specimen are brought to each meeting to be judged. The hostess also does an arrangement to be judged.

"Now is the Time Tips" are given at each meeting.

Therapy projects or workshops to make arrangements and work with hospital and nursing home patients is an annual event.

Over the years, the club has contributed to the Daniel Boone, Elizabethan and Fragrance Gardens.

In April, 1969 the Club was delighted to have a Life Membership given by Mrs. Nan Jean Grant, in honor of Mrs. W.M. Gantt, her mother.

Garden therapy projects, litter control, horticulture and beautification projects are proof of our "Service Today Endowing a Better Tomorrow."

Memories of Garden Club work are mostly one of joy and fulfillment. Though there are trials and frustrations and some days, nervous exhaustion — this is what leads to success.

Sources: club records.

PLONK BROTHERS DEPARTMENT STORE

94

Plonk Brothers Department Store has been in continuous operation for 82 years. It is the oldest retail establishment in Kings Mountain and at least among the oldest in Cleveland County.

John Oates Plonk, Sr. in partnership with the Larkin Kiser family in 1899 established Plonk-Kiser Department Store, with an interest also owned by two of John Plonk's uncles, W.A. Ware and Rufus S. Plonk. In 1902 the Kiser interest was bought by William Lafayette Plonk and in 1907 the interest of Rufus S. Plonk was purchased by William Lafayette and John O. Plonk.

In this purchase W.L. Plonk, who was never active in the operation of the business itself, and John Plonk assumed ownership along with the W.A. Ware family of the building and lot which included all the property fronting on Railroad Avenue in that block with the exception of the Mountain View Hotel property. At that time the three one third share owners were W.L. Plonk, J.O. Plonk and W.A. Ware, with J.O. Plonk in charge of the store's operation.

Upon the death of William Lafayette Plonk in 1924 his children "shared and shared alike" in his one third interest in the business. In 1946 John O. Plonk and his brother, William Luther Plonk, who had joined the firm about the time of his father's death, purchased the W.A. Ware interest in the store. As a matter of interest we quote from the Kings Mountain Herald of December 12, 1947 which stated: "As an indication of the increase in values during the period from 1907 to 1947, the one third Ware interest brought several times the amount for which the entire business was offered in 1907."

The business remained the property of J.O. Plonk, Sr., the largest minority owner, along with the other heirs of the late W.L. Plonk until J.O. Plonk's death in 1951. John O. Plonk was a merchant who believed whole heartedly in the free enterprise system of business. His business was conducted to reflect his belief that a "man's word is his bond," and he was in all things scrupulously honest.

Plonk-Kiser & Company Department Store, early 1900's. Presently it operates as Plonk Brothers Department Store.

The bills for Plonk Brothers were consistently paid during the "discount period." This continues to be the policy of Plonk Brothers operation. In his work, as in all of his life, he was a kind and compassionate neighbor. The hard times during the depression days he shared with his neighbors and customers, but he also shared what he had and gave credit at the store to those in great need, bearing the brunt of that himself.

In 1957 the store and properties were purchased by the five children of J.O. Plonk: Mrs. Mary Foust Plonk Weaver, Mrs. Douglas Plonk McElwee, Mrs. Dorothy Plonk Lewis, Mrs. Maude Plonk Harper and John O. Plonk, Jr. The business has been solely owned and operated by them since 1957. In 1957 John O. Plonk, Jr. purchased the building and properties and maintains that ownership to the present day.

The Store Speaks

To some of you I'm known as Plonk Brothers,
But perhaps to a good many more
Over the years (and there's been quite a few)
I've simple been known as The Store.
As I look back over my life
Idly letting my thoughts range,
I must affirm the adage we've heard
That nothing is surer than change.
For instance, my neighbors —
Across Gold Street was the Ware's cotton gin
Directly in front, the depot —
Up on the corner was the Mountain View Hotel
And once the warehouse was a picture show.

You may recall there were two sides to me —
One for groceries, one for dry goods, too.
Just about anything you could need in town
Plonk Bros. could supply to you.
There were wagons and buggies and nails
And candy — some soft and some hard —
There were overalls, harnesses, buttons, and hats,
And piece goods sold by the yard.
You could find birdseye diapers and high top shoes
And jewelry and octagon soap;
And as styles in dress changed through the years,
We managed to keep up I hope.

How well I recall that at hog killing time
My ice boxes were loaded down
With Mr. Clarence's sausage and Mr. Rufe's liver mush
And of course always the best beef in town.
You were welcome to warm at our coal burning stoves
Or to weigh on our fertilizer scale.
We'd deliver your groceries by horse drawn wagon,
And we opened by seven without fail.
So — if I seem a bit old fashioned
It should be no mystery;
For, after all, I've been a part
Of a whole lot of history.

And thinking of history — Do you remember that in 1898 our Battleship Maine was torpedoed in the harbor of Havana, and the Spanish American War ensued? It was the very next year — 1899 — that my doors were first opened.
My very first year they celebrated
In a really novel way —
The country went on the gold standard.
(We know now they didn't stay.)
That same year, I saw across the railroad tracks
With great interest, to be very frank,
Another business opening up.
It was the Kings Mountain National Bank.
I was just four years old when those brothers
Wilbur and Orville Wright
Flew their plane at Kitty Hawk.
Oh, what a marvelous flight!

Our lawmakers were busy in Washington,
Their schedules full to the hilt.
The biggest question before them then:
Should the Panama Canal be built?
Now here's a fact you youngsters
May not have realized —
I was already a teenager
(And you'll probably be surprised)
When New Mexico and Arizona
Each became a state.
Yessir — they were number forty seven
And number forty eight.
And I was fourteen when they amended the Constitution
(I think I know the facts)

So we could have the privilege of Paying federal income tax.
In those same years, times were hard —
A time I've never forgotten.
In place of money to pay their bills,
Many customers paid in cotton.
Eleven cents a pound was the credit we gave
And couldn't sell it for eight.
I had cotton in warehouses all around.
Then the government gave no rebate.

Soon World War 1 was under way, and Pres. Wilson tried his best
To keep us out of that conflict,
But — well, you know the rest.
I remember watching
As the trainloads of soldiers passed by'
For the old depot was right there
Under my watchful eye.
I was twenty eight years old
When the whole world was elated.
Lindy, the Lone Eagle, landed in Paris —
News we had all awaited.
Another depression, the great one,
That started in 29 —
Some of your recollections
Would be just as painful as mine.
You see my customers were hurting.
It was a terrible time.

Cotton was down to five cents a pound.
A lot of folks had not a dime.
A sixth of the population
Was living on relief.
We all just hoped for survival
It was a time of grief
Then came FDR with his New Deal
And programs like NRA.
Most folks give him the credit
For bringing in a new day.
There are so many things I could recall
Like when Hoover came to town.
Ah! that was a big occasion—
Folks came from all around.

The year that I turned forty eight
I was remodeled — changed throughout —
About that same time Truman beat Dewey
In a surprising political bout.
But that's enough of history —
I've brought you to '48.
And you are all familiar with moon landings
And Camp David and Watergate.
I now notice that gas and inflation
Are going beyond most of our means.
Maybe I should go back to another day
And sell peanuts and jelly beans.
I would like to add one thing —
I've had many good friends
In my long life here.
Just now, I want to mention one —
He stayed with me for 52 years.
I'm speaking of Mr. John.
Through the years our friendship
Was surely first rate.
He would always come early.
He always stayed late.
He gave me his time and his skill, also;
And, I expect but for him, I'd have closed long ago.
He lived by the creed that a Man's word is his bond.
He'd meet you halfway
And then on beyond.
If you had problems
Then they were his, too,
For as a friend
He was surely true blue.
— by Dorothy Plonk Lewis

Sources: Kings Mountain Herald, Personal Papers, Family Memories
— Douglas Plonk McElwee

SHELBY COMMUNITY LIONS CLUB

95

Shelby Community Lions Club was organized on August 27, 1964. The Shelby Lions Club sponsored the Club under the direction of Lions International and District 31 C. Norman Trueblood was International Secretary of North Carolina at that time.

Our Charter Night was held on November

2nd, 1964 at the Moose Lodge. Our charter members were: Larry D. Anthony, Tom Bolick, Douglas Cabiness, L.B. Connor, Thomas B. Branton, Alston Bridges, Don L. Bridges, J. Kent Bridges, Sam J. Edwards, William H. Eskridge, James H. Frazier, Dan R. Hughes, Jap Ledbetter, Elvis B. Lee, E. Frederick McBrayer, William L. Patterson, Norman Patrick, C.G. Poston, R. Earl Propst, O. Max Scism, J. Edwin Spangler, James B. Spears, George B. Steelman, D.B. Tolleson, William (Bill) Weaver, J.L. Wilkie, Edward H. Willis and Louis Gene Yarboro.

Our first officers were, James B. Spears — President, J.L. Wilkie — Secretary, and Edward H. Willis — Treasurer.

The club was organized to be a small club in Shelby to aid the other clubs with the blind in the county. We have had a number of money raising projects during the years, especially the Dump the Lion project at the Cleveland County Fair. We have broom sales, light bulb sales, blind-made products sale and a white elephant sale to raise money for the White Cane Project for which we have met our quota each year. We have special drives for eye wills every year and have averaged over fifty eye wills per year.

In December of each year, we have a Christmas party for the blind in and around Shelby and give them a Christmas present. Our club helps support Camp Dogwood on Lake Norman. This camp is used for the blind for their vacations and general recreation.

Our meetings have been held at the Amvets, Governor's Inn, Hotel Charles, Holiday Inn and at the present time at Jackson's Cafeteria on the second and fourth Monday nights.

The following charter members are still present members, Jap Ledbetter, Louis Gene Yarboro, Kent Bridges and R. Earl Propst. Our current president is Dan Greer. Our motto: We Serve Sources: Club records and personal knowledge.

— Jap Ledbetter
and R. Earl Propst

THE SHELBY GARDEN CLUB

96

Organized in 1953, the Shelby Garden Club is one of the oldest, active garden clubs in Cleveland County, North Carolina. Throughout the years, the club has undertaken many projects and activities to achieve its original objectives of promoting the love of gardening among amateurs, protecting and promoting the growth of the native trees, flowers, and birds and encouraging civic planting and civic beauty.

On March 17, 1953, a group of local women met at the Shelby Community Center to organize the Shelby Garden Club. Present at the meeting were ten of the club's charter members: Mrs. Charles Eskridge, Mrs. Oren Hamrick, Mrs. Colin Hull, Mrs. R.T. LeGrand, Sr., Mrs. Roscoe Lutz, Mrs. Mal Spangler, Jr., Mrs. Rush Stroup, Mrs. M.M. Stuart, Mrs. Z.J. Thompson, and Mrs. E.J. Bennett, who presided at the meeting. Charter members not present at this meeting were Mrs. John Faison, Mrs. Earl Hamrick, Mrs. George Moore, Mrs. Fred Morehead, and Mrs. Dixon Smith.

Mrs. J.R. Thomas of Orangeburg, South Carolina, secretary of the South Carolina State's Federation of Garden Clubs, advised the group on the organization of the club. At the first regular meeting in April, 1953, the members elected Mrs. E.S. Bennett as the club president.

The newly formed club met the requirements of the North Carolina Federation of Garden Clubs and became a federated club in April of 1953. The Shelby Garden Club continues to be an active member of the Federation, and has received a certificate of honor for outstanding service to The Garden Clubs of North Carolina each year of its existence, and has made the Horticulture Honor Roll every year. The club is also a member of the National Council of Garden Clubs, Inc.

In the mid-fifties, this club began to organize a series of neighborhood garden clubs in Shelby. The members of the Shelby Garden Club directed the organization procedure for the following clubs, many of which still exist today: The Dogwood Garden Club, The Cleveland Springs Garden Club, Phil Acres Garden Club, Hillside Garden Club, Hoe'n' Hope Garden Club, and the Three Seasons Garden Club. On occasions, the Shelby Garden Club has joined with one or more of these clubs in projects to promote better gardening in Shelby and Cleveland County.

Two major projects have earned the Shelby Garden Club statewide recognition. In 1958, the club sponsored a state project in Shelby and received a state award for its contribution. This project, "Save the Bluebird", was an attempt in North Carolina to prevent the blue bird from becoming extinct in the state. Mrs. Elizabeth Dudley Nolan, Club Chairman for the project, carried out a very successful campaign to educate people in Cleveland County concerning the blue bird and to encourage residents to build or buy blue bird boxes. The award was the Kepler Bird Bowl, a silver bowl awarded by the North Carolina Garden Club "to the federated member club judged to have done the most outstanding work of any club in North Carolina on conservation of the blue bird."

The second project for which the club received a state award resulted from its continuing support of the gardens sponsored by the North Carolina Garden Club. In 1962, the federation awarded the Shelby Club a silver bowl for outstanding service to the Daniel Boone Botanical Garden at Boone, North Carolina. Club members undertook to support and promote the Botanical Garden, donating money and plants for the garden, sponsoring a Botanical Garden booth at the Cleveland County Fair in 1961, and visiting the gardens in the spring of 1962.

The Shelby Garden Club has sponsored many activities to encourage civic planting and to enhance the beauty of Shelby. The club has planted many trees on public property throughout Shelby, and currently, the members are aiding in the promotion of a local dogwood festival. The club also maintains two beautification areas in Shelby. The Shelby Garden Club has always taken a special interest in the Cleveland County Library; contributing memorial books, providing Christmas decorations, planting camellia bushes on the grounds, and supervising the planting and maintenance of a flower garden located near the library.

Presently, the club has twenty-four active and four associate members. These members are dedicated to carrying out the club's original objectives and to continuing its twenty-nine years of service to Shelby and Cleveland County.

Sources: Shelby Garden Club Scrapbook, Mrs. E.S. Bennett.

— Mrs. John Gardner

SHELBY JUNIOR CHARITY LEAGUE

97

The Shelby Junior Charity League is probably the most active woman's organization in Cleveland County with its unparalleled record of service in charity and civic activities.

Celebrating its 48th year of existence, the League grew out of the Music and Arts division of the Shelby Woman's Club, when some fifty energetic women banded together in the spring of 1934 to support a program of charity for their needy neighbors during depression years. That program has expanded through the years and today supports a budget of more than $35,000 annually to aid the indigent and underprivileged, as well as charitable contributions to civic programs.

Nearly every facet of community life has been touched through the years. To name a few of these would be provisions of food, clothing, fuel, medicine, equipment, transportation and other support for the needy; direct aid for equipment and furnishings at Cleveland Memorial Hospital; aid to crippled children and adults through its own administered fund.

Also aid to unwed mothers and wayward children; contributions to the exceptional children's and handicapped children's programs; provision of clothing for hundreds of needy school children through its own clothing room; an initial gift of $8,000 and other substantial gifts to the Cleveland County Shelter Home where abandoned, neglected or displaced children are cared for until permanently placed; to the Boys' Club, Salvation Army, City Park, Historical Association, Cleveland Memorial Library, United Fund and other civic endeavors; aid to the Red Cross Bloodmobile; Friendly Contact which keeps in touch with older citizens; and other programs.

Since its first "Sub-Debutante" ball on June 7, 1946, the League has sponsored a Debutante Ball annually, a project which has grown into one of Western North Carolina's most prestigious social events. The elegant ball is held at Malcolm E. Brown auditorium and deb's wear all-white gowns and carry the traditional red roses.

Their fathers are their chief marshals and the annual event is marked with many exciting parties and social functions. Invitations to the ball are extended to many towns and cities to a select group of young women who are members of high school senior classes. The number of debutantes to the 1982 ball reached 129, attesting to the popularity and acceptance of the social event.

Funds for the varied programs of charity have come from projects such as the Debutante Ball that have required many working hours and efforts on the part of each member. Other projects have ranged from the Follies to fashion shows, Christmas workshops and sales, rummage sales, a thrift shop, benefit bridges, the Barter Theatre.

Also, two cookbooks have been published and sold and there have been card sales, a Decorator House, Christmas Homes Tours, Antique shows, flea markets and a number of lesser efforts ... all necessary to provide funds for a growing budget.

It takes the entire membership of the League to plan and execute each project and it remains a remarkable fact that each member is always ready to give of her energies to maintain a reputation of charitable giving and unselfish service to the community.

Sources: club records.

— Grace R. Hamrick

Shelby Negro Woman's Club, 1951.

Shelby Negro Woman's Club, 1960.

Shelby Negro Woman's Club, 1970.

THE SHELBY NEGRO WOMAN'S CLUB

98

The club was organized on March 27, 1927 at the Cleveland Training School auditorium by the late Miss Mary Lynch of Salisbury, North Carolina. The purpose of the club was to raise funds to help support the Efland Home for delinquent girls, located at Efland, North Carolina.

Miss Violet Thomas and Mrs. Annie Hairston called interested women of Shelby together for a meeting with Mrs. Lynch. The organization included twenty-four women. Leaders and other key facts:

President: Mrs. Evan Hayden, Vice President: Miss Violet Thomas, Secretary: Mrs. Jennie Enloe, Treasurer: Mrs. Mertha Mills, Club Colors are pink and green, State Motto is Lifting as We Climb, Slogan is Serving Where Called, Day of Meetings are first and third Thursdays, Time of Meetings is three O'clock, and Place of Meetings at Homes (taken alphabetically).

The club, though newly organized, lost no time in going to the rescue of needy families with food, clothing, fuel, and any other commodities.

Dr. Charlotte Hawkins Brown, State President, was guest speaker at the first Club anniversary held in the Cleveland County Courthouse. In succeeding years, other prominent negro women were invited to speak. These occasions were opened to the public and were largely attended. Other club anniversaries are celebrated by worshipping together in a local church.

The following contributions are made yearly: to the United Fund; Heart Fund, Cancer Fund, Boy's Club, Muscular Dystrophy, March of Dimes, Easter Seals, Operation Santa Claus, UNICEF, and the Department of Social Services. Donations made to other funds: Cleveland County Memorial Library Fund, Shoe Fund, Red Cross Disaster, Vietnam Project, United Negro College Fund, Miss Black Cleveland County, Miss Shelby Pageant, Exchange Students to Foreign Countries, Elizabeth Peeler Fund, Dale Good Robinson Fund, Adopt a Parent, Girl Scout and Boy Scout, and Douglas Byers Fund.

In the specific area of Shelby, contributions were made to the following: equipped the kitchen at Holly Oak Park Clubhouse, furnished the teacher lounge at Cleveland School, donated to the Carver Library; sponsored a Day Care Center, and gave the first furniture and curtains for the waiting room at Shelby Hospital.

A major project was the purchase of a clubhouse. The club expends much energy and time providing wholesome recreation for its members and friends by sponsoring events in which the general public can share. These include picnics, plays, and trips to shows.

In the year 1975, the club sponsored a tour to Disney World in Orlando, Florida. In 1976 another tour was sponsored to Washington, D.C. and other points of interest. A first in 1976 a Bicentennial Pageant depicting accomplishments of black women was presented by the club.

From 1954 to 1971 the club sponsored Debutant Balls annually, to raise funds for scholarships for high school girls in Cleveland County schools. Fifty-two scholarships have been given up to this time, totaling more than eight thousand dollars. At present scholarships are given annually to Burns, Crest and Shelby High School graduates.

Twenty-three local "Women of the Year" have received the Cora Rippy Memorial Cup, which was donated to the club by Albert Bailey, in honor of his late mother, Mrs. Cora Rippy, who was a charter member of the club.

The first Negro Girl Scout Troop was sponsored by this club, also the first organized Black Girls Club was sponsored by the Shelby Negro Woman's Club. Through the efforts of the club the first black social worker was secured for Cleveland County. During a period when the community was in need of another physician, the club was instrumental in securing the services of a black physician, the Doctor Jasper Jeffries, and supporting him in the establishment of his resident office.

The Shelby Negro Woman's Club holds a Life Membership in the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Contributions made to the North Carolina Federation of Negro Women's Clubs for representation purposes are: Negro Braille Magazine; Dobbs Chapel Fund, Boy's Home at Hoffman, North Carolina and State Scholarship Fund.

The first Junior Club State organizer for girls was Lillie Gibson, a member of the Shelby Negro Woman's Club and a member of the State Executive Board. Jennie Enloe was also a member of the State Executive Board of the Federation of Negro Women's Club. Martha London served as Western District President, State Treasurer and a member of the Executive Board.

The club continues to be active in the Western District and State Federation of Negro Women's Clubs, Incorporated. From 1927 to 1982, the Shelby Negro Woman's Club has given fifty-five years of "Serving Where Called" and "Lifting As We Climb."

Source: Club Records.

— Mary Gleaves and Elizabeth Webb

THE AUDACIAN CLUB

99

The Audacian Club is a social-civic club which originated in Cleveland County in 1965. The name Audacian means, "Daring Deed". This comes from the word audacious which means, bold, daring, adventurous or brave.

The club was organized by 13 young women who had a desire to share wholesome recreation and to promote good fellowship. The charter members were: Rebecca Alexander, Yvonne Beam, Chloe Dockery, Betty Gibbs, Lucille Howell, Ovella Jones, Patsy Martin, Carolyn Pullen, Pearl Webber, Betty Williams, Beatrice Williamson, Madge Wray and Glenell Young.

The club's first president in 1965 was Patsy Martin. The club presently has 17 members of which 5 are charter members and are: *Rebecca Alexander, Helen Barrow, *Yvonne Beam, Bennie Border, *Chloe Dockery, Edith Hopper, Paulette Gardner, Marion Jolly, Chineta Maddox, Pegge McDowell, Portia Morrow, Brenda Phillips, *Carolyn Pullen, Clara Wall, Daisy Withrow, Emily Withrow, *Madge Wray. (*Denotes charter members).

The objectives of the club are threefold: To carry out projects of civic-social improvement; to promote good fellowship among members; to provide wholesome entertainment.

The club contributes yearly to several charitable organizations such as: American Cancer Society; United Way; Operation Santa Claus; United Negro College Fund; Needy Children Shoe Fund.

The club holds a life membership with the NAACP. The club presents scholarships to three deserving seniors in each of the three high schools, Crest, Shelby and Burns High. The purpose of these scholarships is to assist these seniors in furthering their education.

Each year the Audacian Club honors its scholarship recipients and their parents at the Scholarship Tea which has been held at the Cleveland County Memorial Library.

The club sponsored several projects through the years for the purpose of raising funds for the scholarships such as: The Little Miss Audacian Contest; The Elizabeth Graham Peeler Concert; The Ebony Group and Company.

Source: Club records.

— Bennie Borders

TODAY'S EBONITES WOMAN'S CLUB

100

Mrs. John (Margaret) Hoyle, a former president of the Shelby Negro Woman's Club, saw the need for a young black woman's club in the surrounding community. Since her club was comprised of a less active group of women, she felt it would be beneficial to the community to have a civic group of young women between the ages of 18-35 working for the betterment of our society.

Mrs. Hoyle contacted Ms. Dorethia Miller and Mrs. Anganette Homsley and discussed her idea with them. After long deliberation, Remember . . .

Articles
Are Indexed
By
Article Numbers
. . . Not By Page
Number

these two young women began to contact other interested young women. Letters were sent to several women who held their first meeting at the home of Ms. Miller in July, 1972. Mrs. Homsley was elected to serve as temporary chairman and Mrs. Linda Byrd as secretary. Thus was the beginning of the Today's Ebonites Junior Woman's Club with thirteen members.

The first officers of the club were: Mrs. Portia Morrow, president; Mrs. Anganette Homsley, vice-president; Mrs. Linda Byrd, recording secretary; Ms. Sonda Kennedy, corresponding secretary; Ms. Dorethia Miller, treasurer; and Mrs. Lulena London, parliamentarian.

Other club members were Ms. Cheryl Atkinson, Mrs. Gala Brown, Ms. Rita Allison, Mrs. Brenda Marable, Mrs. Laura Jamerson, Mrs. Karen Poston, and Mrs. Jessie Parrish.

The club's purpose is to serve the community through non-profit activities. Their goals consist of the promotion of character building and better citizenship, unbiased feelings toward fellow men and the uplifting of womanhood. Their motto is "Euthenics becomes our necessity in today's existing society."

Today's Ebonites was the first black junior woman's club organized in the Shelby area to receive a charter from the North Carolina Federation of Women's Clubs in 1973.

The club solely operates on donations and contributions from individuals, businesses, churches, and/or other civic groups. All monies are returned to the community in some charitable and purposeful way.

During the past ten years, the club has donated the following: paraphemelia to the Homebound girls at the First Baptist Church; serving utensils to the Mt. Sinai Day Car Center; aid to needy families in the time of death, fire, and cold; contribution to the now defunct Shelby Day Care Center to purchase a dishwasher, color TV and fence; a four-year scholarship to two (2) needy students from Cleveland County; annual contributions to the American Cancer Society, the United Fund, the United Negro College Fund, the National Kidney Foundation, the NAACP, the Cleveland County Needy Shoe Fund, and Operation Santa Claus. The club served as co-sponsors of the Shelby Day Care Center, they donated a piano to the Holly Oak Park Center. Interest from the club proved to be a major factor in the preserving and fencing of the fishing pond at the Holly Oak Park.

Since 1977, the club has crowned five (5)

The 1981 Scholarship Recipients from the Audacian Club. L to R: Veronica Borders, Keith Edwardo Haynes and Sevara Victoria Guest.

Debutante Queens and honored ten (10) runners-up. All these high school seniors have been recipients of scholarships to the school of their choice. The Debutante Ball is the social hi-lite and the most profitable project for the club.

It was decided in 1981 to drop the "junior" from the club's name; therefore, the club is now known as Today's Ebonites Woman's Club.

Source: club records.

— Sonda S. Kennedy

THURSDAY AFTERNOON BOOK CLUB

101

The Thursday Afternoon Book Club was organized September 1913 at the home of Mrs. C.Q. Rhyne on Mountain Street. Mrs. C.Q. Rhyne and Mrs. D.C. Mauney were instrumental in the organization of the club. They felt the need for Kings Mountain ladies getting together to share their cultural interests and the club is still recognized as such.

Twenty-two members were asked to join the group at the time. The following were the Charter Members: Mrs. Clarence Cornwell, W.S. Dilling, C.A. Dilling, H.T. Fulton, Fred Finger, Sr., I.B. Goforth, J. Sidney Hood, George F. Lovell, H.N. Moss, D.C. Mauney, R.L. Mauney, Ed McLaughen, J.L. McKay, C.E. Neisler, O.C. O'Farrell, J.C. Patrick, J.M. Patterson, J.O. Plonk, W.A. Ridenhour, Fleming Ramseur and Mrs. C.Q. Rhyne.

At that time two meetings were held each month. The hostess arranged her own program and it would consist of literary work, music, humorous or spiritual reading or contests. Books were exchanged at each meeting. The owner of the book had her name at the end of the list, therefore, she received her book at the end of the year.

The hostess would spend weeks cleaning her house for the forthcoming meeting. Members wore their Sunday best clothes with hats and gloves. Refreshments were quite elaborate. Since there was limited transportation at this early date, members attended the meetings on foot. When the meeting would be held at the home of Mrs. D.C. Mauney, students at Central School would peep out the windows to see the ladies arrive and hope maybe one or two would arrive in a touring car. Meetings are still held once each month with an informative program and a luncheon is always held at the Christmas season.

Members constituting the Thursday Afternoon Book Club are: Mrs. Jim Anthony, J.H. Arthur, Don W. Blanton, Miss Janet Falls, Mrs. Edith Goforth, Mrs. Claude Hambright, Mrs. Tom Harper, Mrs. Lewis Hovis, Mrs. Frank Hoyle, Mrs. Lawrence Logan, Mrs. Paul McGinnis, Mrs. W.M. Moorhead, Mrs. E.W. Neal, Mrs. P.G. Padgett, Miss Eva Plonk, Miss Annie Roberts, Mrs. George Thomasson, Mrs. Tom Trott, Mrs. Harry Warren and Mrs. Robert Wilson.

Sources: Club records and memories.

— Mrs. Fred E. Finger

TOWN and COUNTRY GARDEN CLUB

102

The Town and Country Garden Club of Kings Mountain, North Carolina, was organized on December 11, 1952 at the home of Mrs. J.G. Darracott with Mrs. W.M. Moorhead acting as temporary president. Committees were appointed to form a constitution with by-laws and to nominate officers.

The first officers to be elected were Mrs. Jacob Mauney, president; Mrs. W.T. Weir, vice-president; Mrs. Robert Miller, secretary; and Mrs. Charles G. Dilling, treasurer.

The charter members were Mrs. J.H. Arthur, Mrs. W.E. Blakely, Mrs. W.D. Blanton, Mrs. H.L. Campbell, Mrs. J.G. Darracott, Mrs. Fred E. Finger, Sr., Mrs. Manley Fuller, Mrs. E.W. Griffin, Sr., Miss Helen Hay, Mrs. N.F. McGill, Sr., Mrs. Jacob Mauney, Mrs. Robert Miller, Mrs. W.M. Moorhead, Mrs. O.W. Myers, Mrs. Baxter Payseur, Mrs. Charles Thomasson, Mrs. Bruce Thorburn, Mrs. S.S. Weir, Jr., and Mrs. W.T. Weir.

Mrs. Charles G. Dilling joined the club in February, 1953, bringing the membership to twenty. In October, 1953, Mrs. I. Grady Patterson became a member when Mrs. Manley Fuller moved away. The name of the club was suggested by Mrs. O.W. Myers, and annual dues were $2.00.

Members of other garden clubs of the town aided in starting the organization. Mrs. Halbert Webb of the House and Garden Club was guest speaker at the organizational meeting and flower arrangements were furnished by her club. Mrs. W.L. Pressly helped the club to become federated with the Garden Club of North Carolina in May 1953.

From its beginning, the Town and Country Garden Club has been an active organization. It has worked to fulfill objectives set forth in its constitution: "To increase our knowledge of and our love for growing beautiful and useful things, and to aid in the protection of native trees, plants, and birds." Members have learned much from the excellent programs so planned as to present a balance between horticulture and conservation. Flower arranging has also been studied and emphasized. All members share in the responsibility of presenting programs and making arrangements. Another learning feature at each meeting is "What to Do in the Garden Now."

It has been the privilege of the club to have had many excellent programs given by members and also by guest speakers, each an expert in her field. Some of the outstanding local guest speakers were Mrs. W.M. Gantt, Mrs. W.L. Pressly, Mrs. Moffatt Ware, and Mrs. J.E. Herndon.

The club has proved itself to have a good spirit for competition. In the scrapbook, which has been kept since the club began, are many awards. There are blue and red ribbons for flower arrangements, table settings, and horticulture specimens. On two different occasions our yearbook won an award from the district. Honor certificates from state headquarters show the many years the club attained honorary status, both as a club and also in horticulture.

It is stated in the constitution of the club that a major objective is to participate in civic beautification. Accordingly, various projects have been undertaken and, whenever possible, the work has been done by the members themselves.

Many areas have been improved by carefully selected plantings of trees, shrubs, flowering plants, and bulbs. These areas include highway medians near the city limits; Girl Scout Camp Rotary in Gaston County; downtown parking lots; and the grounds of the Kings Mountain Hospital, the Kings Mountain Convalescent Center, the Kings Mountain Governmental Services Facility Center, as well as several of the local public schools. Recently the club has enjoyed having a part in the planting of holly trees along the sidewalks in the downtown areas.

Projects to finance beautification have been varied and challenging. On two occasions the club sponsored a garden party at the home of Mrs. E.W. Griffin. Plant and bake sales have been held, and two benefit bridge parties were given at the present city hall. Members have sold items for the club including stationery, bird feeders, and garden supplies.

Contributions to state projects include the North Carolina Zoo, the Daniel Boone Native Gardens, and the Elizabethan Gardens.

Although the membership has changed through the years, there has always existed a close bond of friendship among the members. At one time, birthday remembrances of flowers, plants, seeds, and bulbs were given. Another plan was for secret pals to exchange gifts. Flowers are sent in case of illness, and memorials are given when a death occurs.

It has become a tradition for the December meeting to be devoted to the making of tray favors for the patients of the local hospital. Using homegrown greenery, members make approximately seventy-five favors. For many years the club placed a decorated Christmas tree in the lobby of the hospital. Decorations were made by the members from natural materials.

Through the efforts of Mrs. E.W. Griffin, the club learned of the work of the Patients' Garden Club at the leprosarium at Carville, Louisiana. A Christmas gift of money is always sent to this club.

The club has accepted the opportunity to be involved in activities of the town. Participation in the Woman's Club Fall Festival has always been a priority. Members furnish flower arrangements and table settings that are outstanding. The club has also been a contributing member of the Town Council of Garden Clubs.

The installation of new officers each year is observed both as an ordination ceremony and also as a time for a social occasion.

The club has lost four members by death. They are: Mrs. H.L. Campbell, Mrs. J. E. Blakely, Mrs. Robert Miller, and Miss Elizabeth Anthony. Honorary members are Mrs. E.W. Griffin, Mrs. F.E. Finger, and Mrs. N.F. McGill, Sr.

Officers at this time are Mrs. George Moss, president; Mrs. Harold Crawford, Vice president; Mrs. Harold Crawford, Jr., secretary; Mrs. W.C. Ballew, treasurer.

The present membership is as follows: Mrs. J.C. Arnette; Mrs. J.H. Arthur; Mrs. W.C. Ballew; Mrs. D.W. Blanton; Mrs. Harold Crawford, Sr.; Mrs. Harold Crawford, Jr.; Mrs. Jacob Dixon; Mrs. Mabel Dixon; Mrs. Craig Falls; Mrs. B.D. Herndon; Mrs. W. Lawrence Logan; Mrs. B.F. Maner; Mrs. George W. Moss; Mrs. Richard McGinnis; Mrs. Grady Patterson; Mrs. James T. Potter, Jr.; Mrs. Charles P. Scism; Mrs. Mary Shaw; Mrs. S.S. Weir, Jr.; and Mrs. W.T. Weir.

Source: Club records.

— Mrs. George W. Moss

RADIO STATION WKMT

103

WKMT Radio is the first and only radio station in Kings Mountain and was the second for Cleveland County. Jonas R. Bridges, a native of the county signed WKMT on the air at 6:00 a.m. March 12, 1953 and has operated the station since that time.

WKMT operates on 1220 kilocycles with a power of 1,000 watts covering a population of almost a million people in a seven county area along the N.C.-S.C. border. With nine employees, WKMT programs to the needs of the area with Kings Mountain and Cleveland County its primary target. As example: In the 1960's, Kings Mountain had a baseball team to earn its way to the national finals at Hershey, Pennsylvania and WKMT Radio sent a team to broadcast the final games back to the hometown area.

Several of WKMT's personnel have gone on to major radio and television markets praising the station for the experience gained in order to prepare them for great positions in the broadcasting field.

Source: personal knowledge

— Jonas R. Bridges

WILLIAM WILSON ALLEN CHAPTER, UNITED DAUGHTERS OF THE CONFEDERACY

104

The William Wilson Allen Chapter, No 2377, U.D.C. was chartered May 10, 1972 and was named in memory of William Wilson Allen, Confederate veteran. The eleven charter members are his lineal descendants. Margaret A. Bodenhamer organized the chapter and was its first president.

Other charter members are: Libby Allen, Esther A. Beam, Jennie A. Bridges, Pansy Poston Carpenter, Ruth P. Hamrick, Dorothy B. Hamrick, Ruth A. Howe, Melba H. Neal, Jo Lena B. Rabon, Eva A. Ware.

Mrs. Edward Spangler is current president with eighteen members.

Source: club records.

— Mrs. Lee Bodenhamer

This is an old photograph of the Hotel Cleveland, South Washington and East Graham Streets, Shelby. This structure was once the Shelby Women's Seminary and then a hospital. The City Hall is now located on this corner.

Section II ~ FAMILY HISTORIES

Almost 1000 histories of Cleveland County families as written by family members or their representatives. Surnames indexed by article numbers.

JOHN ADAMS

201

John Adams was born in 1797. His wife Margreat was born in 1796. Their children were: Martin, Susan, Emelman. Martin Adams (1828-1863) Married Rhodie Wiley (1830-1924) They were married in 1848. They had five children, which were Anthony Adams (1849-1930) John M. Adams and Mary M. Adams (twins) (1851); Cynthia Adams (1853), Nancy Jane Adams (1855-1883).

Martin Adams was a farmer in what is now the Grover Community. He enlisted October 1st 1861 in Company "H", 34th Regiment, the Confederate Army; under the command of Capt. Samuel Hoey and Capt. John Roberts. In 1863 he was listed as lost in Winchester, Va. We don't know whether he was captured or died, but he never returned home.

His youngest child, Nancy Jane was the first wife of David F.C. Harry. They had three children which were: Plato Durham Harry, Sophie Harry, and Mary Edith Cathrine Harry.

Sources: Family records and interviews, John W. Moore's Roster of North Carolina Troops, and the 1850 and 1860 Federal Census of Cleveland County.

— Lamar Owensby

PETER M. and ELIZABETH LOVE ALEXANDER

202

Peter M. Alexander was born March 30, 1824, to David and Katherine Mock Alexander. He had a brother who was named Gabriel.

Peter married Elizabeth (Betsy) Love who was born February 11, 1820, to James Love (1796-1878) and Susan Putnam. Betsy and Peter had three children: W. Summey, who married Dora Webb; Jim, who married Sallie Roark; and Thomas Pinkney, who married Sarah McFarland.

Peter died August 12, 1843, at the age of 29 years, five months and 13 days of unknown causes. He is buried at Zoar Cemetery in Cleveland County.

After Peter's death, his wife Betsy married Hosea Hallman. They had five children: Lizzie, who married Jim Erlich; Addie, who married Joe Bostick; Nora; Daniel Shuford (who is buried in Sunset Cemetery in Shelby); and John. John married and lived in Georgia. He had several children: Blanche and Edna married Channell brothers; Maude married Earl Overton.

Betsy (or Sarah Elizabeth Hallman, according to records) died on October 15, 1861, and is buried in Zoar Cemetery.

Sources: family records, grave stones.

— Susan P. Graben and Ethel A. Propst

THOMAS PINKNEY and SARAH McFARLAND ALEXANDER

203

The son of Peter M. and Elizabeth Love Alexander was born May 2, 1843. T.P. (or "Pink" as he was called) was three months old when his father died.

T.P. and his brother, Summey (August 29, 1839 — January 6, 1923), served in the Confederate Army — T.P. in Co. G, 49th Regiment, NC State Troops and Summey in Co. M5, SC Infantry. Upon their return from the war, their grandfather James Love, deeded land in Shelby to each of them.

Pink attended Davidson College and on April 20, 1870, married Sarah Isabella McFarland, daughter of William Samuel and Elizabeth Watson Carson McFarland. Sarah was born April 20, 1847 in upper Cleveland County.

Pink worked as a paint contractor. In all of his pictures, he is seen wearing dark glasses (blue tinted) due to eye problems. He and Sarah had ten children.

Elizabeth Love, (1871-1897), known as Bessie, died unmarried at age 26. The last 11 years of her life were spent "in an invalid's chair" (wheelchair). Bessie sold magazine and book subscriptions (such as the Ladies Home Journal) and enjoyed needlework, particularly tatting.

William Pinkney (1872-1947) — written up separately.

James Clinton (1873-1928) was also a paint contractor. He never married and lived in Orange, Texas. A veteran of the Spanish-American War, Clint is buried in Sunset Cemetery.

Tilden (1874-1877) died as a young child. The bill for his "child's coffin and cushion" from Bynum & Miller Dry Goods, dated September 20, 1877, was for $3.50.

Wriston Charles (1878-1969) made a career of the army, retiring as a captain. He married Ann Gaughn of Omaha, Nebraska. They did not have any children and lived in Daytona Beach, Florida. He is buried in Sunset.

Upton Samuel (1880-1944) also joined the Army and attained the rank of sergeant. He and Wriston often passed as twins, and, as young men, had the job of lighting the kerosene street lamps in Shelby. Upton married Christine Soloman and lived in Baltimore with their twelve children.

A newspaper clipping found in a family Bible told that U.S. Alexander had sent his wife a tomato can "pierced by a Hun's bullet" which supposedly saved his life.

Mary Elora (died 1971) was a good seamstress with some literary ability. She enjoyed composing letters and had a large newspaper clipping collection.

Senora Isabella or Nora Belle (died 1965) attended nursing school and worked as a private nurse for many Shelby families. She often helped at the Bloodmobile and for several years, helped run the Beldo Tea Room with her sisters, Elora and Edwena. During the fifties, she regularly helped at the Lutz-Austell first aid tent at the Cleveland County Fair.

Patricia LaRue (died 1976) attended Boiling Springs College as a young woman before moving to Charlotte. There, she was a hosiery and lingere buyer at J.B. Ivey Co. department store.

Edwena Davis (died 1965) was an excellent cook with a vivid memory for dates from the past. Like her three older sisters, she never married and all lived together in the family homeplace at 422 W. Warren St. in Shelby. She and Elora also worked as salesladies in various stores in town.

Obituary notices from that period were written very differently from those of today. The person's virtues and characteristics were elaborately described. Such items were carefully clipped and saved for posterity. An excerpt from the death notice of Bessie reads:

"Tuesday night at 11 o'clock the sainted spirit of Miss Bessie Alexander took its leave of this world of suffering and sorrow and joined the host of travelers to eternity's untrodden shore and is now dwelling in sweet repose with Heaven's glorified throng . . . A bright mind, willing hands and a fixed purpose enabled her to do much despite her affliction."

Pink Alexander died February 9, 1920 and was buried in Sunset Cemetery. His wife, Sarah, lived until December 25, 1925. Her obituary mentions her many, good qualities:

"She was noted for her tenderness and sympathy in the sick room. During her long life, when health would permit, she braved all sorts of weather and midnight darkness to help her neighbors and friends in time of sickness or trouble.

"She was a sister of the late W.W. McFarland, Mrs. John Bynum Lattimore (Dorcas) and Mrs. J.W. Gidney (Mary).

"She was a cultured, refined character who radiated sweetness and joy in her pathway."

Sources: family records, personal knowledge and memories, newspaper clippings and account ledgers.

— Susan P. Graben
and Ethel A. Propst

W.P. ALEXANDER FAMILY 204

Born to Sarah Isabella McFarland and Thomas Pinkney Alexander on October 6, 1872, Will Alexander was a paint contractor like his father. He lived in Rutherford County most of his life. As a young man, Will was known as an excellent ball player. Tall and good-looking, he sported a distinguished handlebar moustache in his youth; in later years, he became bald.

Will (or W.P.) first married Ethel Simmons, daughter of Moses W. and Myra Jane Thorne Simmons of Rutherford County on June 11, 1902. They had five children. Robert William (1904-1937) married Pearl Nichols and lived in Columbia, S.C. They had a daughter, Betty Ruth, who died at age 44 with four children.

Taylor Thorne (1905-1974) married Cora Lee Crosby and lived at Lyman, S.C. Their children were William Edward ("Bill Ed," died 1976) and Pattie Lee (Mrs. Billy Miley of Orlando, Florida).

Jack Simmons married Lamerle Prince (died 1976). He has no children and lives in Cliffside, N.C.

Charles Wriston married Agnes Helm. They live in Vancouver, Washington and have three children: David Charles, Wriston Robert and Ann Lynn (Mrs. Jim Laskey).

Ethel Mae was first named Sarah Elizabeth, but her name was changed after her mother's death when she was five days old. Ethel Simmons is buried in the Thorne family cemetery. Ethel married Robert Earl Propst; they have one daughter, Susan Earle (Mrs. Dave Graben of Decatur, Alabama).

W.P.'s second marriage was to Lillie Mae Whitesides, daughter of Elbert and Sarah Dimsdale Whitesides, on November 17, 1918. They had six children.

Sarah Frances married James Hamrick. They live at Cliffside, N.C. and have two children: Sarah Frances (Mrs. Troy Houser) and James Eugene.

Arnold Upton married Frances Cole and had a daughter, Mary Frances (Mrs. Donald Wall of Georgia). His second marriage was to Virginia Sides of Asheboro, N.C.

Elbert Ray married Virginia Turner. They live in Rutherford County and have five children: Barbara (Mrs. Roy Ramsey), Forrest, Jackie, Kenneth, and Ann (Mrs. Marvin Russ).

Betty Love married Frank Jones. She now lives in Baltimore, Maryland and had three children: Michael (killed in Vietnam), Sharon (Mrs. Jim Roberts) and Kirk.

Max Grayson married Betty Early. He has one daughter, Lisa, and lives in Rutherford County.

Carrie Belle married Baxter Pearson, Jr. and lives in Forest City, N.C. They have five children: Catherine, Hansel (died at age 9), Michele (Mrs. Karl Andres), Camille and Marc.

W.P. died September 24, 1947, and is buried in the Thorne family cemetery in Rutherford County.

Sources: Personal knowledge and interview with family members.

— Susan P. Graben
and Ethel A. Propst

FOUR GENERATIONS OF ALLENS

205

Elbert Allen (1822-1886) was married to Nancy Allen (1823-1875). His second marriage was in the late 1870's.

Elbert Allen was the son of David Allen. His brothers were: Perry (Ped) Allen and Champion (Champ) Allen. Perry and Champ moved to Tallapoosa, Georgia after they became upset over North Carolina passing of a stock law which made everyone keep his animals fenced in, tied or in a building. Their plans were to go to Texas, but the railroad line ran out at Tallapoosa in Georgia where they settled.

Elbert's sons were Pinkney Shuford Allen (1857-1936), Frank (Shat) Allen, James (Jim) Allen, David Allen, Larkin Allen, Andrew Allen, Summie Allen, and another son who died at an early age. Andrew Allen moved to Wheeler, Mississippi, where he reared his family; and Summie Allen moved to San Marcos and near San Antonio, Texas, where he reared his family, and where his offspring married into the Adair family.

Elbert's second marriage produced two more sons. Pinkney Suford Allen (1857-1936).

The first marriage of Pinkney Shuford Allen (1857-1936) was to Elizabeth Allen (Allen) and it produced four children, Plato Allen, Vinnie Allen (Mrs. David Lee) Owensby, Wylie Allen and Benjamin Franklin Allen (1884-1957).

The first marriage of Sallie E. Whisnant to Hugh Dillingham produced four children, Ernest Dillingham, Hugh Dillingham, Nora Dillingham (Mrs. Clifford) Lowery, Lela Dillingham (Mrs. Fuller) Borders.

The second marriage of Pinkney Shuford Allen (1857-1936) was to Sallie Whisnant Dillingham (1865-19). This marriage produced four children, Andrell Dover Allen (1899), Baster Lee Allen (1902), Hershall Hall Allen (1904), and Iva Lou Ella Allen (Mrs. Oliver) Atkinson (1907-1965).

Benjamin Franklin Allen (1884-1957) was the fourth child born to Pinkney Shuford Allen (1857-1936) and Elizabeth Allen Allen. The other three children were Plato Allen, Vinnie Allen (Mrs. David Lee) Owensby and Wylie Allen.

Ben was born in York County, South Carolina on February 14, 1884. The family moved to Cleveland County, North Carolina soon thereafter. He died on October 5, 1957 in Shelby, North Carolina.

Ben was married to Martha Ellen (Mattie) McSwain, (1895-1949), on December 21, 1912. They had seven children: five boys and two girls. Mattie died on July 16, 1949, in Shelby, North Carolina.

The children were: Claude Evans Allen, (1913-1951), (Major, U.S. Army, battalion commander killed in the Korean War), Carson Shuford Allen (1916-1936), Blanche Elizabeth Allen, (Mrs. Donald Edmonson), (1921), J.D. Allen (1924), Irene Mae Allen (Mrs. William Fortenberry), (1927), and Eugene Flay Allen, (1927).

Claude Allen married Gertrude Roberts and they had three children, Marjorie Ann Allen, (Mrs. Kenneth) Vaugh (1936-1969), Sonnie Allen (Mrs. Mark) Shanker, and Betty Jo Allen (Mrs. Berry) Mauney.

Blanche Allen married Donald Edmonson and they had three children: Donald Edmonson, Rodney Edmonson and Evans Edmonson.

J.D. married Chieko Okumura of Japan. They had two children: Claude and James. Residence: San Antonio, Texas.

Irene Allen married William Fortenberry and they had two children: Nancy Ellen Fortenberry and Billy Fortenberry.

Eugene Allen married Loretta Hamrick and they had one son, John Edgar, who was deceased at birth, and two daughters by adoption: Susan Marie Allen, and Sharon Kay Allen.

Sources: family records, personal knowledge.

— Eugene F. Allen

THE GEORGE JONES and JESSIE SHUFORD ALLEN FAMILY

206

George Jones Allen was the first child of Daniel C. Allen and Sara Jones. He was born in Henderson County, North Carolina on Feb. 20, 1862. His grandfather was also named George Allen.

The grandfather, George Allen, settled in Henderson County, North Carolina and was one of the men who selected the town site for Hendersonville, North Carolina. He gave two and one half acres of his land to establish the Ebenezer Baptist Church, which is still in the same location and in whose cemetery he and his sixth child, Daniel C. Allen, father of George Jones Allen is buried. Their tombstones are easily read.

George Jones Allen grew up in Henderson County and attended the public schools there. He studied at Judson College for two years and later taught school. He married Jessie Rhyne Shuford in Dec., 1881 in Rutherfordton, North Carolina. Born on Feb. 6, 1866, she was the daughter of Jacob Shuford and Malinda Webb, one of the leading families of that town. George was described as a quiet, honest, industrious man and also an efficient farmer.

Around the year 1892, George and his family moved to Cleveland County. They bought a farm east of Hickory Creek near Shelby. Later, he traded for a farm in the Sharon Community, located in the vicinity where Crest High School now stands.

The Highlander, the Shelby newspaper, dated May 11, 1912 presented a biographical sketch and a picture of George Jones Allen as a candidate for Sheriff of Cleveland County. He had served as a Deputy Sheriff under Durbro D. Wilkins for two years and had made a splendid record as an officer, as stated by the newspaper. However, he was defeated. This experience is note worthy, as he was to have two sons, three grandsons and a great-grandson who were to pursue law enforcement in the years to come in Cleveland County.

George Jones Allen and Jessie Shuford Allen were the parents of thirteen children. They lost an infant, Thomas Daniel Allen, who died in 1884. The other children were:

Tinnie Myra Allen (1882-1959) married John M. Tucker. She was associated with her husband in Cleveland County institutions for many years. Their children, Ralph, Selma and Katherine contributed much to their communities. Ralph Tucker served as Register of Deeds for Cleveland County from 1964 to 1976. Tinnie and her husband are buried at Elizabeth Baptist Church Cemetery near Shelby, North Carolina.

Sallie Allen (1885-1957) married Clemmie Sylvester Royster on Mar. 11, 1906. In early life, she was a school teacher. There were three children, Forrest, Ruth and Wyndolyn. She and her husband are buried in Forest City, North Carolina.

Irvin Marion Allen (1888-1966) married Maude S. Weathers of Shelby. He was a County Commissioner from 1938 to 1940 and served as Sheriff of Cleveland County from 1929 to 1933. They were the parents of eleven children. (See Family of Irvin Marion Allen and Maude Weathers Allen)

The George Jones Allen Family. 1st row L to R: Robert, Jessie Shuford (Mother), George Jones (Father), Louise Hamrick, Essie Culbreth. 2nd row L to R: Dora Hamrick, Ed, Sally Royster, George, Tinnie Tucker, Will, Johnie Gardner, Nancy Berry.

George William (1890-) married Ocie Ethel Moore in 1913. She died in 1938. They were the parents of seven children, including twins. George was Chief of Police in Kings Mountain, Cleveland County and owned an antique shop. He later was married to Olive Lynch Grist of York, South Carolina. He now resides in Palm Harbor, Florida.

Dora Blanche Allen (1892-) married Guthrie Hamrick. Three of their five children, Frank, Fred and Sara are residents of Cleveland County. Dora resides in Kings Mountain and Ormand Beach, Florida with daughter Mary. A son George lives in Camden, South Carolina.

Nancy Elizabeth Allen (1894-1974) married Robert Saye Berry. They are buried in Laurelwood Cemetery, Rock Hill, South Carolina. Nancy was employed by Winthrop College as a Dormitory Hostess. They had three children, Robert, William and Dorothy.

Hester Malinda Allen (Essie) (1897-) married Fred Culbreth. They were parents of four children, Doris, Betty, Fred, Jr. and Joe. She now resides at Hawthorne Nursing Center, Charlotte, North Carolina.

Johnie James Allen (1899-1974) married Virgil G. Gardner. They are buried in Elizabeth Church Cemetery, Cleveland County. They had two sons, Harry and Charles Gardner. Johnie had later marriages.

William Tillman Allen (1901-) married Margaret Susan Allison of York County, South Carolina. Before he retired, he was in retail furniture business and antiques. They now reside in Rock Hill, South Carolina. Their one daughter is Margaret Ann Tice, who has compiled so much family history, and incorporated it into "The George Allen Family 1786-1980".

James Edwin Allen (1904-1980) is buried at Forest Hills Cemetery Rock Hill, South Carolina. He married Laura Graham Oates in 1925, who survives. Their one daughter is Edwina Oates Allen Hutto. Ed served twenty-four years in York County government as County Supervisor.

Robert Clyde Allen (1906-1970) was a barber and lived in Shelby, North Carolina. He married Meridith Carpenter. They were parents of twins, Robert Harold and Meredith Carol. He was later married to Cleo Hendrix. He is buried at Elizabeth Baptist Church Cemetery.

Katherine Louise Allen (1908-1975) married D.J. Hamrick in 1930. They had one son, Joseph E. Hamrick, who is a retired Colonel after twenty-seven years of service in the U.S. Air Force. Louise worked as a computer operator for the city of Charlotte, North Carolina. She is buried in Sharon Memorial Park, Charlotte, North Carolina.

It is interesting to note that this family had a keen interest for politics and county government, where ever they lived.

George Jones Allen died September 24, 1924.

Jessie Shuford Allen died December 24, 1924.

They are buried at Elizabeth Church Cemetery, Shelby, North Carolina.

Sources: Old newspapers, conversations with relatives, old family Bible.

— Majel Stewart Allen

IRVIN MARION and MAUDE WEATHERS ALLEN FAMILY

207

Irvin Marion Allen, the fourth child of George Jones Allen and Jessie Shuford Allen, was born in Henderson County, Jan. 12, 1888. He died June 17, 1966.

On Dec. 30, 1912, he married Maude Weathers, an operator at the Boiling Springs telephone exchange. She was born Feb. 10, 1894, daughter of John Francis Weathers and Annie Wall. She died July 17, 1973.

For the key years of his life, Irvin was directly in the center of Cleveland political and governmental life. Spending seven years as chief of police in Kings Mountain, four years as Sheriff of Cleveland County (1929-1933) and one term as a Cleveland County Commissioner (1939-1940), there were probably few people who did not know him by sight.

The Irvin Marion Allen Family. 1st row L to R: Adelaide Hamrick, Maude Weathers (Mother), Irvin Marion (Father), Haywood. 2nd row L to R: Barbara Bridges, Virginia Drake, Betty DeVenny, Nancy Danielson, Freida Hawkins, Wiley, Aaron, George, Irvin, Jr.

He always clowning during political seasons but those who jostled with him in both victory and defeat would attest that he was never a clown. He was a personable man who is remembered as a good law enforcement officer.

Irvin and Maude raised eleven children. All were born in Cleveland County except one:

Adelaide Marion Allen was born May 17, 1914. She married Samuel Elphus Hamrick on Dec. 25, 1938. He died Jan. 20, 1980. Adelaide is a buyer and supervisor in the Shoe Department for A.V. Wrays in Shelby.

John Haywood Allen was born April 23, 1916, in Rutherford County. Haywood was born and bred into a life of law enforcement. At age 23, he went to work with the Kings Mountain Police force. He didn't know much law, but every chance he would study the General Statutes to educate himself. He built a reputation quickly and earned his share of respect as an officer.

In 1950, at age 34 he ran for Sheriff. In this election he defeated the man who had defeated his father 18 years before. He was then re-elected for eight consecutive, four-year terms, two of which he had no opposition.

In 1960 he served as President of the North Carolina Sheriff's Association. He served on the Board of Directors for 21 years. He received national recognition for his investigative skills. In Dec., 1969 he was named National Police Officer of the month. His tenure of service was the longest in the history of Cleveland County from April, 1951 to December, 1980, with two prior years as a Deputy Sheriff (1947-49).

Haywood and his wife Majel Stewart Allen have three children, Kathryn Jonanna and Haywood, Jr., a third generation of the Allen family joining the ranks of the Cleveland County Sheriff's Department, Feb. 1981, as a Deputy Sheriff.

George Houston Allen, born April 10, 1918 followed his brother in police work in Kings Mountain and as Chief Deputy in the Sheriff's Department, where he served 24 years. He was killed in a wreck when transporting a prisoner on Sept. 4, 1974. He was married to Beatrice Williams. They had one daughter, Joyce.

Jessie Virginia Allen was born May 21, 1919. She and her husband Stanley Joseph Drake have three daughters, Alice and twins, Janet and Jane. Virginia taught at the Fort Lauderdale University where her husband was president. They were recognized for three consecutive years for their outstanding achievements in education in the city of Fort Lauderdale.

Irvin Marion Allen, Jr. was born Jan. 19, 1921. He is self-employed in excavating work and resides with his wife, Shirley Houser Allen in Kings Mountain, N.C.

Irvin, Jr. entered service in 1942 and was assigned to the 8th Air Force based in England. He was a radio operator and bombardier on

J. Haywood Allen

B-24 Liberators and B-17 Fortresses. He was the recipient of two Oak Leaf Clusters to the Distinguished Flying Cross, One Air Medal and Two Presidential Citations. After flying 62 missions over Europe, he was discharged in 1945.

Aaron Marcus Allen, born Oct. 18, 1922 is owner of Allen Automotive Chemicals and Warren Auto Parts in Warrenton, North Carolina. Aaron was the third son who was a policeman in Kings Mountain. In 1945, he served in the pacific theater with the Navy Seabees, 25th Naval Construction Battalion attached to the 5th Brigade of the 3rd Marine Division. He was discharged July, 1946.

He married Harriett Juanita Owens. They have three sons, Irvin Marion, Aaron Marcus and Cecil Craig Allen.

Betty Wall Allen was born Dec. 24, 1924. She married John Clarence Deveney. Their children are Gary Neal, Charles Allen and Constance Elizabeth Deveney. They reside in Fort Lauderdale, Florida.

Wiley Herndon Allen, born March 6, 1928, married Sue Deveney in Oct., 1947. Wiley is a Vocational Instructor at Shelby High School. Their children are Linda Ann, Phyllis Jean and Joseph Wiley Allen.

Nancy Malinda Allen, born April 1, 1930, was married to William Miles Hord. They had a daughter, Marion. Nancy worked for Southern Bell Telephone Company for many years. Her second marriage was to Harry Felix Danielson. They live in Orlando, Florida.

Barbara Ann Allen, born Dec. 7, 1933 is married to Bobby Charles Bridges. They are parents of three children, Eddie, Dianne and Kevin and grandparents of twin girls.

Frieda Maude Allen, the eleventh child was born July 27, 1935. She married Robert Keith Hawkins in June, 1957. Frieda was employed with Fiber Industries, Inc. as a Programmer Analyst for 17 years. They have two sons, Brian Keith and Gregory Alan Hawkins.

Irvin Marion Allen and Maude Weathers were members of First Baptist Church in Shelby. They are buried at Elizabeth Baptist Church Cemetery, Shelby, North Carolina.

Source: Family records, conversations with relatives.

— Majel Stewart Allen

JOHN LANDRUM and EVALENA ALLEN

208

My father, John Landrum Allen, was born Oct. 8, 1863, on a 240 acre farm four miles east of Shelby in the Elizabeth community. He was the youngest son of William Wilson Allen and Catherine Wilkins Allen. At the time of his father's death he was a year old. He grew up during the trying days of the reconstruction period. At an early age he was doing his share of the chores on the farm to help his mother support the family.

After the war, schools were few and far between, Dad was determine to take advantage of all the education available. I remember his telling me the miles he walked to school to complete his education. After he graduated, he taught in a local school. How many years I do not know. His main occupation was farming.

Dad was such a patient teacher and so much help to all us children when we brought home our lesson assignments. He only helped when we had a problem that we couldn't solve. I remember so well how he would show me how easily my arithmetic problems could be solved. Thereafter, throughout my school days, mathematics was my easiest subject.

My father, his brother "B" and wife Margaret, lived with grandmother Catherine Allen in the old homeplace until her death in 1893. His portion of his father's farm was forty acres on Post Road — twenty acres of which is now part of Cleveland Technical College Campus.

He continued to live in the old homplace with Uncle "B" and Aunt Mag while he was building a house on his farm. Before he had finished building his home, he first saw my mother Evalena Allen at Elizabeth Baptist Church. He told his brother "B" that he had seen the girl he was going to marry. Uncle "B" was shocked; Dad had been courting Carrie Hamrick whom everyone thought would be his wife and the house he was building was for her.

My mother Evalena Allen was born Nov. 28, 1872 on a farm near Grover N.C. She was the daughter of David Jackson Allen and Elizabeth Ellis. She was eleven years old when her mother died with dysentery at age 35. Her father's second wife was Elizabeth Harry Bell, a widow with two children; added to his six children the family overran the house. As soon as my mother was of age, she went to live and work for Philip and Jane Wilson for ten cents a day. They were members of Elizabeth Church. It was one Sunday at church, with them, when dad saw her.

Dad was thirty and mother twenty-one when they met. Their courtship was rather short. When Dad proposed to Mother, because she had known him for such a short time, she was hesitant in giving him an answer. The following week he wrote her a letter — one of two letters — pressing her for an early answer. Sept. 13, 1894 they were married by Rev. Thomas Dixon. They moved in the house he had built and lived there until their deaths. Dad died Feb. 22, 1942; Mother March 3, 1942.

Their first child, a boy, died in six days with yellow jaundice. Other children were: Mildred Edith married John Thomas Humphries, Jennie Dean married Carver Spurgon Bridges; Lucy Cora married Miles Garrett Williams; Eva Kate married J.D. Ware; Ruth married Clyde Fulton Howe; Margaret Leana married Lee Ray Bodenhamer; Landrum Jackson married Violet Louise Boheler; Lizzie Lena (Libby) married J.Y. Patterson; Addie Ophelia married Edward Hugh Spangler.

Having eight girls and only one boy made it hard for dad to do farming. Mother understood farming better than Dad; with her advice and the help of the children, he managed to make above average income off the farm. I remember one year after all debts were paid; bought enough cotton seeds and fertilizer for the next year, he had one thousand dollars left. This was good for a one horse farm. Fifteen cents bought a lunch in those days.

One dream my dad had was for all his children to have a good education; especially for his eight daughters to be school teachers. Only three were teachers; four chose to be housewives and one chose nursing.

Lucy, Margaret, Ruth and Libby retired from work in other states. All the children are now living in Cleveland County, except Mildred who died Feb. 2, 1964.

Source: family records and memories.

— Margaret Bodenhamer

WILLIAM WILSON ALLEN and CATHERINE WILKINS

209

My grandfather, William Wilson Allen, son of William C. Allen was born May 2, 1826, died Oct. 7, 1864. He married Catherine Wilkins, born Dec. 13, 1827, died July 22, 1893. They made their home on a 240 acre farm in Cleveland County located east of Shelby on Post Road.

Their children were Sebastian Ezel, died June 27, 1852 age two years; Mary Magdeline and James Anna, twin girls; Sarah Elizabeth, William Thomas, Ingram Beauergard, and John Landrum.

Grandfather William W. Allen, a farmer enlisted in the Confederate Army by Captain B.F. Grigg at Wilmington, N.C. March 2, 1863, for three years. He left a wife with six small children to manage the farm, without anyone to do the plowing. In spite of all her hardships she managed to provide for her children.

In a letter to his wife dated March 27, 1863, he wrote about his having a cold and a cough like the children, but was thankful that he could keep up. He was unhappy about not getting as many letters as the other men were receiving. He asked her to write once a week about herself and the children. The food they were getting in the army was a few crackers and a little meat. It didn't bother him; he had not been hungry and hoped he would never be. His advice to her about the crops was to do the best she could, to make all the corn she could, because it would be greatly needed. He told the children to mind their mother and to love one another. He sent a message to his aunt Sally for her to pray for him, that he would not fear them that could kill the body, but fear them that could kill body and soul. Also he sent his respects to James Poston family and all the neighbors. He closed his letter with, "I will remain your loving husband till death" from W.W. Allen to Catherine Allen.

During his service in the Confederate Army he contracted typhoid fever. He was on furlough at home recuperating. At a picnic, with more food than he had seen for a long time, he ate too much. Later he hemorrhaged, a complication of the fever and died Oct. 7, 1864.

The reconstruction period was a difficult time for my grandmother Catherine, with six small children, three girls and three boys. All too young to work the farm. With very little money, she was forced to trade potatoes for corn and other farm produce to have a variety of food. I remember my dad telling about his mother frying a chicken for a traveling salesman in exchange for apples.

Grandmother lived twenty nine years after her husband died. Long enough to see all her children marry except the youngest John Landrum, my father. Her grave is in the Elizabeth Church Cemetery. Her husbands is in the Wilson family grave yard on Peach Street.

Sources: Family Bible, letters, and memories.

— Mrs. Lee Bodenhamer

ARTHUR AUSTIN and ADDIE RIPPY ANTHONY

210

Arthur Austin Anthony (b. Oct. 16, 1878 d. Jan. 12, 1966) was the son of Watts Pinkney and Harriett Lenore Roberts Anthony and the grandson of Stanhope and Margaret Anthony and Martin Hugh Roberts, Postmaster at Pleasant Hill.

He had three sisters: Delia Anthony Parker; Mary Elizabeth Anthony Houser; and Sallie L. Anthony, who married Kee Harmon.

He married Addie Rippy (b. May 26, 1882 — d. Nov. 26, 1932) daughter of Can Rippy the first time. They had the following children:

The John Landrum Allen Family

1. Dewitt Anthony (b. Oct. 16, 1901 d. Sept. 14, 1970) m. Alma Bell.

2. Arthur Pinkney Anthony (b. May 24, 1903 d. May 1958) m. Katie Neal.

3. Faye Anthony (b. May 30, 1904) m. Kipley.

4. Jack Anthony (b. Jan. 13, 1906) m. Lela Harmon m. Margaret Murphy.

5. Geneva Anthony (b. July 31, 1907) m. Vils Bobbitt.

6. Howard Anthony (b. Feb. 14, 1909) m. Elvia Stroupe m. Belle Crawford.

7. Doc Anthony (b. Oct. 24, 1911 d.) m. Agnes Wilson.

8. Aster Anthony (b. Aug. 22, 1915) m. James C. Keith.

9. Toise Anthony (b. May 4, 1917 d. Feb. 2, 1966) m. Arlie Siple.

10. Virgil Anthony (b. May 21, 1919) m. Harry Galloway.

11. Delmar Anthony (b. Mar. 8, 1920) m. Thelma Clark.

12. Melita Anthony (b. April 4, 1922) m. W.B. Shalhand.

Addie died early and Arthur remarried a widow, Mrs. Philbeck. They were the parents of twin girls:

13. Betty Jeanette Anthony (b. Dec. 13, 1936) m. Garvis Joe Ross

14. Mattie Jeanelle Anthony (b. Dec. 13, 1936) m. Hugh Spurling

Mr. Anthony lived a long life. His second wife preceeded him in death. I remember he always went to Cleveland County Fair to visit with his friends and he would love to sit around and talk. He will long be remembered as a Southern Gentleman of the old school. He was buried at Pleasant Hill Baptist Church near Shelby, N.C.

Sources: family records, personal knowledge.

— Elizabeth Camp Anthony

ARTHUR PINKNEY and KATIE NEAL ANTHONY

211

Arthur Pinkney Anthony (b. May 24, 1903 d. 1958) was the son of Arthur A. Anthony and Addie Rippy Anthony. He was born in Cleveland County, one of fourteen children (see other article). He married Katie Naomi Neal, daughter of Monseieur and Dovie Bowen Neal. (see additional article.) Katie was born June 7, 1911 and died July 21, 1965. Both are buried at El Bethel Methodist Church.

They attended El Bethel Methodist Church where Pink served as Secretary-Treasurer for many years. After his death, Katie served in this office until her death. One rule of this household was that as long as their children lived in their house, they would attend church regularly.

Pink Anthony is remembered as devoted to his family. He played with his children, teased and worked with them on their farm. They had pigs and cows. He worked at Margrace Mill for twenty-seven years, until his early death in 1958 of a heart attack.

Katie was a very reserved person, devoted to her family and church. After her husband's early death she learned to drive. She worked at Bethware School in the lunchroom the last few years of her life. She too died at an early age in 1965 of heart failure. Their life was short, but meaningful.

Arthur Pinkney and Katie Neal Anthony

Their children are:

1. Marjorie married Kenneth Gates and live in Maryland.

Children: Vonnie and Jerome Gates.

2. Cornelia "Neely" married Jack Eaker — Kings Mountain, N.C.

3. William Pinkney Anthony married Elizabeth Camp — Kings Mountain, N.C.

Child: Neal Ross Anthony.

4. Robert Neal Anthony married Joann-lives in Texas — retired from Air Force.

Children: Scott, Wade, and Terry Anthony.

5. Tony Reid Anthony married Charlotte Martin in Air Force stationed Okinawa

Children: Bobbie Jo; Katie; twins — Tonia and Tonie.

Sources: personal knowledge.

— Elizabeth Camp Anthony

OLIVER STANHOPE ANTHONY FAMILY

212

Oliver Stanhope Anthony was born January 13, 1894 in Shelby, N.C. He was the second of six children born to John A. Anthony (1854-1927) and Ollie Gardner Anthony (1869-1930).

Oliver grew up in Shelby, attended public schools and later graduated from N.C. A & M College now known as N.C. State University. While in college he was a member of the football team and graduated with the class of 1916.

In 1917 he joined the U.S. Marines and was commissioned a 2nd Lt. in the 1st Marine Airwing.

On January 1, 1919 Oliver returned to Shelby and joined his father in the real estate business. He has always been interested in community affairs, having been a charter member of the Shelby Kiwanis Club and one of the founders of the local United Fund Organization. He helped organize and was the first president of the local Real Estate Board. He also is a charter director of the Cleveland Federal Savings & Loan Association and at this date (1982) is still active. He is also a former Board Chairman at Central United Methodist Church where he has held membership since 1906.

On November 10, 1923 he married Harriett Holton (1899-1978) of Winston Salem. Harriett was a very energetic and resourceful person who first came to Shelby as the Home Economics teacher. She was active in club and church work.

Oliver and Harriett built their home at 805 Hawthorne Ave. in Shelby where they reared three children, two boys and one girl.

Oliver Jr. (1925-) lives in Shelby and works in the family real estate business, Anthony & Anthony. He graduated from UNC in 1948 and in 1950 married Nancy Elam of Belwood. They have two children, Elizabeth Elam (Beth) married to James O. Gant III (Jim) and lives in Charlotte with their two daughters, Laura and Hope. Oliver Stanhope Anthony, III (Stan) lives in Atlanta, Georgia where he is an architect.

Gene Holton Anthony (1927-) , lives in Knightdale, N.C. with his wife Doris Robertson. Gene graduated from N.C. State University in 1950 and worked in the State Special Education Department for thirty years. Gene and Doris have three daughters. The oldest, Susan, is married to Mark Williams of Raleigh and they have three children Marty, Tracy and Erik. Mary Beth is married to Eddie Satterfield also of Raleigh and they have two children, Catherine and Mandy. Kathy lives in Knightdale with the family.

Harriett Holton (1931-), a devoted wife and mother lives in Greensboro, N.C. with her husband Robert F. Carlson and they have two children Fredrick (Freddy) and Betsy.

At this writing (1982) Oliver Stanhope Anthony is confined to a nursing home in Cherryville, N.C. but still retains a strong interest in his family, friends and community.

Sources: personal knowledge, family records.

— Oliver S. Anthony Jr.

RICHARD EVERETT AREY

213

Richard Everett Arey, son of William Griffin Arey and Catherine Roberts Arey, was born June 4, 1927 in Shelby, North Carolina. He received his education at Shelby Public Schools, Davidson College and United States Merchant Marine Academy, Kings Point, Long Island, New York.

After serving in the Merchant Marines during World War II, he returned to Shelby and he and Dick Palmer opened and operated Shelby's first diaper service. Later he owned and operated the Royal Dry Cleaners.

In 1949 he went to work at the Robert E. Lee Hotel in Winston Salem, North Carolina, as Management Trainee. From 1949 to 1958 he held department head positions in all departments at the Hotel, including four years of food preparation, purchasing and control.

On September 2, 1950, he married Anice Graham Miller, daughter of Rev. & Mrs. Andrew C. Miller, Jr., of Shelby, North Carolina.

In 1958 Mr. Arey was appointed general manager of the Washington-Duke Hotel in Durham, North Carolina, and from 1960 to 1970 held the position of vice-president and general manager of the Jack Tar Hotel & Motor Lodge in Durham. On April 1, 1970, he was appointed general manager of the Plaza Inn, Kansas City, Missouri, and on January 15, 1974, was appointed vice-president and general manager of both the Hilton Plaza Inn and the Hilton Airport Plaza Inn.

During Mr. Arey's hotel career he served as president of N.C. Hotel and Motel Assoc., N.C. Restaurant Assoc., and Durham Merchants Assoc., Southern Innkeepers Assoc., Hotel & Motel Assoc., of Greater Kansas City, and the Kansas City chapter of Missouri Restaurant Assoc., and secretary and treasurer of N.C. Travel Council.

Mr. Arey also served on the Board of the American Hotel and Motel Assoc. for 10 years. He is a member of the Board of Directors of the Missouri Restaurant Assoc., and the Arkansas, Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma Hotel Assoc. and the Country Club Plaza Assoc. He also serves as commissioner of the Planned Industrial Expansive Authority, Kansas City, Missouri.

Mr. Arey has always been very active in civic and social organizations and is a member of numerous civic and social clubs.

Mr. Arey was the recipient of the 13th Annual Rocamora Award as North Carolina's Outstanding Restaurateur of the Year, and recipient of the Annual Salut Au Restaurateur Award from Florida State University.

Mr. & Mrs. Arey have one daughter, Ann Rochelle Arey Mason of Richmond, Virginia, born October 23, 1952 in Winston Salem, North Carolina.

Mr. & Mrs. Arey live in Kansas City, Missouri.

Sources: Personal records.

Lorraine Clay Arey

ROBERT JACKSON AREY

214

Robert Jackson Arey, son of William Griffin Arey and Catherine Roberts Arey, was born April 14, 1921 in Shelby, N.C. He graduated from Shelby High School and Oak Ridge Military Academy. He joined the Army in August of 1942 and served 3 years. Twenty-seven months were spent in the South Pacific, New Guinea, Biak and Australia. After the war he joined his father in business as office manager of Arey Oil Company.

On March 5, 1948, he married Kathleen Lorraine Clay, daughter of Rev. & Mrs. George Willis Clay Sr. They have two children. Robert Jackson Arey, Jr. born April 7, 1952 and Katherine Kimberly Arey Bridges, born May 22, 1957.

When Mr. Arey's father, W.G. Arey retired in 1956, he purchased all of Arey Oil Company's stock, and became President of the company. On the night of August 24, 1959, fire caused extensive damage to the company, but they continued operating the next morning from a near-by building.

In 1960 Mr. Arey changed from a Commission Agent to a Jobbership and under his direction the company realized a very rapid growth. Expanding into Rutherford, Polk and Lincoln counties and South Carolina. During this period, 32 pieces of property were purchased and more delivery trucks, transports and employees were added to the company.

In 1966, Mr. Arey and F. Gene Blanton formed Blanton's Oil Co. and bought an Atlantic-Richfield Jobbership in Gastonia, N.C. Mr. Blanton served as President and Mr. Arey as Vice-President.

In 1973 his son, Robert J. Arey, Jr. joined him in business and in 1975 they bought Stone Oil Company, and formed Robert Arey Oil Co., an Exxon Jobbership. In 1977 they bought the Mustang Oil Co., building and warehouse on Hwy. 74 by-pass and moved all operations to these new facilities.

Since a young man, Mr. Arey has been actively involved in church and civic affairs. In the past he has served as Vice-President and on the board of directors of the Jaycees, Chairman of the Jaycees fund-raising drive which purchased and presented to the Health Dept., Cleveland County's first Mobile X-Ray Unit, Chairman of Cleveland County T.B. Assoc., Director of Downtown Improvement Corp, Chairman of Shelby Parks & Recreation Commission, President of Shelby Swim Club, Director of United Fund, served on the Board of the Boy Scouts and also served as Scoutmaster. Director of Cleveland Country Club, President of North Lake Country Club, Director of N.C. Oil Jobbers Assoc., President of Cleveland County Oil Jobbers Assoc. and director of the Lions Club.

Presently Mr. Arey serves as President of Arey Oil Co. and Arey Realty, Inc. He is on the Board of Directors of Shelby Federal Savings & Loan Assoc., and a member of the Executive Committee, he is on the board of Advisors of Branch Bank & Trust Company, Director of Cleveland County Fair Assoc., and Director & Vice-President of Clay-Barnette Funeral Home.

A charter member of Aldersgate United Methodist Church, he has served as Chairman of the Administrative Board and was church Treasurer for 17 years. He is presently serving on the Board of Managers of the Methodist Home and Wesley Nursing Center in Charlotte, N.C.

Mr. & Mrs. Arey live at 316 Country Club Acres, Shelby, N.C.

Sources: personal records.

Lorraine Clay Arey

ROBERT JACKSON AREY, JUNIOR

215

Robert Jackson Arey, Jr., son of Robert J. Arey and Lorraine Clay Arey, was born April 7, 1952 in Shelby, N.C. He received his education at Shelby public schools; Miami Military Academy, Miami, Florida; Woodward Academy, Atlanta, Georgia; and Lenoir Rhyne College, Hickory, N.C.

He joined the U.S. Army Reserves in 1972 and after basic training was sent to Fort Benjamin Harrison, Indianapolis, Indiana, to the U.S. Army Information and Public Relations Journalist School. He served as editor and photographer of the Reserve newspaper until his discharge in 1978.

In 1973, he joined his father in the oil business, thus becoming the only fourth generation Oil Jobber in North Carolina.

In December of 1973, he married Nancy Candance Johnson, daughter of Lt. Col. and Mrs. L.H. Johnson, Jr. of Raleigh, N.C.

In October, 1980, he formed One Stop Stores, a chain of convenience stores and has six in operation to date.

Like great-grandfather, grandfather and father, he has taken an active part in business, church and civic affairs. In business, he is president of Robert Arey Oil Co.; Exxon Jobber; president and treasurer of One Stop Stores, Inc.; vice-president of Arey Oil Co.; Amoco Jobber; vice-president of Arey Realty, Inc., Assoc.; on the board of the N.C. Oil Jobbers Association; and chairman of the first N.C. Oil Jobbers Trade Show to be held in Charlotte, N.C. this summer.

Mr. Arey is a member of Aldersgate United Methodist Church where he serves on the Administrative Board. He is chairman of the finance committee, and was chairman of the 1981 financial commitment campaign and was Educational Counselor for the United Methodist Youth Fellowship.

Active in civic affairs, he is a board member and allocations and special liaison chairman of Cleveland County United Way, chairman of Shelby's Boy Scouts of America Special Campaign, a member of Greater Shelby Chamber of Commerce, and serves on Public Relations and Free Enterprise education committees. He is a member of the Board of Advisors of Gardner-Webb College and a sustaining member of their P.H.d. Club. He is a Director of Woodbridge Social, Swim and Racket Club, and vice-president of Buffalo Ski Bee's. He is a member of Cleveland Country Club and Shelby Rotary Club.

He and wife live at Woodbridge on John Moss Lake and have two sons, Robert Jackson Arey, III, born February 7, 1979; and Matthew Johnson Arey, born March 2, 1981.

Sources: personal records.

— Lorraine Clay Arey

WARD HUNTER AREY

216

Ward Hunter Arey was born in Bridgewater, Virginia, October 16, 1891. He moved to Shelby with his parents, William Jackson and Lula Ward Arey, when he was seventeen years old.

During his early years, Ward was associated with his brother, Will, and his father in the wholesale and general mercantile business. Later the Areys held several automobile dealerships including Chevrolet, Monroe, Dodge, Crow and Chalmers having a large territory in both Carolinas. They also sold Texas oils, gasoline and other products and operated a big tank wagon for local and distant deliveries. He and his brother, Will, operated Arey Oil Company for twenty years. Poor health caused Mr. Arey to retire at an early age.

He was a member of the Masonic Lodge and was a charter member of the Shelby Kiwanis Club. He was an active member of Central Methodist Church where he served as a steward and treasurer for several years. He also served as a director of the Shelby Savings and Loan Association and was on the original board of directors of the Cleveland Savings and Loan Association.

On December 27, 1910, Mr. Arey was married to Maude Adelaide Doggett (b. July 17, 1891). They had two children:

Lula Agnes Arey, born December 4, 1911. She attended Shelby City Schools and Queens College in Charlotte, North Carolina. She married Sidney Graham Chappell October 3, 1930. They have one son, Jerry Hunter Chappell, born June 17, 1943. They live in Wilson, North Carolina.

Ward Hunter Arey, Jr., born February 11, 1914. He attended Shelby City Schools and Christ School in Arden, North Carolina. He was in the oil and automobile business until his death on February 5, 1960. He was married to the former Mildred Rebecca Cline on June 14, 1935. They had three children: Rebecca Carol Arey, born June 24, 1938; an infant daughter died at birth January 9, 1941; William Jackson Arey, born September 7, 1942. This marriage ended in divorce and Ward Hunter Arey, Jr. later remarried and moved to Charlotte, North Carolina.

Ward Hunter Arey died April 12, 1962 following a long illness. Mrs. Arey died February 19, 1976. They are buried at Sunset Cemetery in Shelby.

Sources: Family records, Grave stones, Newspaper articles.

— Carole Suttle Arey

WILLIAM GRIFFIN AREY

217

William Griffin Arey, son of William Jackson Arey and Lula Alice Ward Arey, was born November 27, 1893 in Bridgewater, Virginia. He moved to Shelby, N.C. from Front Royal, Va. when he was 14 years old. After finishing school in Shelby, Mr. Arey joined his father, W.J. Arey in operating a feed and general merchandise store. In 1908 they established the first automobile agency in this section.

On December 25, 1917, he married Catherine Roberts, daughter of Mr. & Mrs. William Joshua Roberts of Shelby N.C. They had four children. William Griffin Arey, Jr. born Feb. 18, 1918, Robert Jackson Arey, born April 14, 1921, Richard Everett Arey, born June 4, 1927, and Mary Alice Arey Dorton, born March 17, 1932.

In 1916, Mr. Arey, his father W.J. Arey, and his brother Ward H. Arey, built a large brick garage on South Washington St. Known as Arey Brothers, they sold cars and became the first oil distributors in Cleveland County, selling Texaco products. Later Mr. Arey left Arey Brothers and formed Arey Motor Service at the corner of Washington and Marion Streets, selling Hudsons, Packards, LaSalles, and Terraplanes.

In 1932 Mr. Arey took over the Nat Bowman agency for American Oil Company products, and in June 1936 formed Arey Oil Company. Ten modern retail stations were built and all former Shell stations in Shelby were taken over by Mr. Arey for the American Oil Co.

products. A complete line of gasoline and lubricating products were handled.

Throughout his business career he was actively interested and identified with progressive civic enterprises. He was a member of Central Methodist Church where he served as Trustee for many years. At the time of his death, Mr. Arey was owner and operator of Arey Realty Exchange, President of Shelby Savings and Loan Association, a member of N.C. Association of Real Estate Boards, Inc., a member of Cleveland Masonic Lodge 202, BPOE Lodge 1709, Shelby Chamber of Commerce, Retail Merchants Association, and the Cleveland and North Lake Country Clubs.

Mr. Arey died April 17, 1958. He is buried at Sunset Cemetery, Shelby, N.C.

Sources: personal knowledge and newspaper.

— Loraine Clay Arey

WILLIAM GRIFFIN AREY, JR.

218

The eldest child, William Griffin Arey, Jr. was born on February 18, 1918, in Shelby where he attended public schools, graduating from Shelby High School in 1935, (recipient of the Boys' Citizenship Award). For the next four years he attended the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and earned a Bachelor of Arts degree in Journalism in 1939.

After working two years on the Shelby Daily Star, Will Arey, Jr., joined with Rush Hamrick, Jr., to organize the Cleveland Times Publishing Company and become co-founder and co-publisher of The Cleveland Times which in its first year was awarded a North Carolina Press Association trophy for excellence. As a businessman in Shelby, he was active in civic affairs, served as President of the Rotary Club, and was presented the Junior Chamber of Commerce "Young Man of the Year" award.

On March 7, 1942, he was married to Louise Turner Craft of Anderson, South Carolina, and Blowing Rock. A native of Hartwell, Georgia, and graduate of Gunston Hall, Washington, D.C., and the University of Georgia where she was a member of Phi Mu Sorority, Louise Craft was the Western North Carolina representative for the 1939 Debutante Ball at Raleigh. They made their home in Shelby until 1948 and were members of Central Methodist Church.

Louise and Will Arey have two sons. William Griffin Arey, III, born at Walterboro, South Carolina, April 28, 1945, graduated from Oglethorpe College, Atlanta, Georgia. In 1980 he was appointed Manager of Public Affairs for the Greater Los Angeles (California) Visitors and Convention Bureau. John Gordon Craft Arey was born at Bogota, Colombia, June 16, 1950. He graduated from Rollins College, Orlando, Florida, and in 1981 was appointed Manager of Training and Development, Walt Disney World.

During World War II, Will Arey served in the U.S. Army Air Corps. Inducted as a private, he was discharged from military service as a First Lieutenant.

In 1948 Will Arey joined the U.S. Government Foreign Service and the Areys moved to Bogota, Colombia, where he served as Public Affairs Officer at the United States Embassy. In April, 1951, he was reassigned to the United States Embassy at Panama, Republic of Panama, where he earned a commendation from the Department of State for making an outstanding contribution to the nation's foreign policy in that country. He resigned from the Foreign Service in January, 1954, to accept an appointment as Assistant to the President of the Panama Canal Company and the Governor of the Canal Zone as Assistant for Public Affairs.

The Areys were active in the community life of the Isthmus of Panama. Mr. Arey founded and served as President of the Public Relations Society of Panama and served as Vice President of the Panama Rotary Club. In 1956, he was presented with the Eloy Alfaro International Foundation Bar for "personal contribution to the promotion of inter-American solidarity."

The Areys returned to the United States, making their home in Washington, D.C., when he was invited by the U.S. Department of Commerce to become Media Services Director for the United States Travel Service, a new government agency established to promote business and pleasure travel to this country from other countries of the world. Over the next 13 years, he served successively as the Service's Travel Promotion Director, Deputy Director, and then Executive Director.

In 1974, the Department of Commerce awarded its Silver Medal to him for "distinguished performance and achievement in the promotion of travel to the United States and for internationally-recognized professional leadership." He became an internationally-recognized spokesman on tourism, a distinction recognized by his election as Vice President of the International Union of Official Travel Organizations, and a member of the Board of Directors of the Pacific Area Travel Association.

Will Arey resigned from his Department of Commerce position in 1975 to become Assistant Executive Vice President of the National Trust for Historic Preservation, a private organization chartered by Congress in 1949 to lead the private sector in preserving the buildings, districts, sites, and objects that are significant in the nation's history and culture.

The Areys are members of Foundry Methodist Church in Washington, D.C. He is a member of the National Press Club and the Cosmos Club.

Sources: personal knowledge and records.

— William Griffin Arey, Jr.

WILLIAM JACKSON AREY

219

William Jackson Arey was born October 2, 1862 in Milnesville, Virginia. He was the son of William Sylvester Arey and Elizabeth Ann Hunter Arey. At the age of six he was left with one brother, Ves, to support himself and his mother when his father Lieutenant Arey was killed in the Civil War at Fisher's Hill, Virginia. He was able to attend school only a short time first automobile agency in this section. He bought a lot from Orlando C. Bostic on South Washington Street and built a house in 1908. A most valuable citizen, he had much to do with the growth of Shelby, and while the Commercial Club existed, took an active part in its management especially in the things pertaining to the city's growth and development.

WILLIAM JACKSON AREY

220

William Jackson Arey, Oct. 2, 1862 — Oct. 19, 1939

He was on the board of directors of the Shelby National Bank, and the Shelby and Cleveland County Building and Loan Association; and on the original board of directors of the Cleveland Building and Loan Association formed in 1922. All three institutions having much to do with the development of the town and country.

Ward and Will, his sons, were associated with him in business. For a while they ran a feed and general merchandise store. In 1908 Mr. Arey started selling Ford automobiles. (Model T Touring Car $780.00 — Model T. Roadster $680.00) In 1916 he sold his store to McKnight and built a large brick garage on South Washington Street. Mr. Arey and Sons then devoted their time exclusively to the sale of cars and oil products. They sold Chevrolet, Monroe, Dodge, Crow and Chalmers automobiles, having a large territory in both Carolinas. They also sold Texaco gasoline, kerosene and oil, and the fuel was shipped here in barrels. A big tank wagon was used for local and distant deliveries.

Mr. Arey was a member of Central Methodist Church, and for many years a faithful and popular Sunday School Teacher. He died in his home at 615 East Marion Street of a heart attack on October 19, 1939. Lula Ward Arey died June 9, 1957. Both are buried in Sunset Cemetery.

The street beside Mr. Arey's business was named in his honor.

Sources: personal records & newspaper articles.

— Loraine Clay Arey

William Jackson Arey was born in Shelby on September 7, 1942. He was the only son of Ward Hunter Arey, Jr. and Mildred Cline Arey. His parents named him after his great grandfather, William Jackson Arey, who came to Shelby in 1907. His mother and father were divorced when he was a young boy and Jack, as he was called, was raised by his mother and stepfather, Paul L. Vaughn.

William Jackson, a 1960 graduate of Shelby High School, graduated from Gardner-Webb College in 1962, and received his Bachelor of Science Degree in Business Administration from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill in 1964.

After graduation, he was associated with Fiber Industries, Incorporated of Shelby, as Purchasing Agent. In 1968, he joined Metropolitan Life Insurance Company and is a senior sales representative for Metropolitan. Mr. Arey achieved the Chartered Life Underwriter designation of the American College of Life Underwriters in 1974. He is a graduate of the Life Underwriting Training Council and was an instructor for the local Life Underwriting courses. He has served as president and director of the Shelby Chapter of the National Association of Life Underwriters and is a Qualifying and Life Member of the Million Dollar Round Table.

In the community, Mr. Arey has served as secretary and director of the Cleveland County United-Fund and is a former member of the Junior Chamber of Commerce. He served as director of the Cleveland Country Club and is a member of the Shelby Rotary Club. He also raises Polled Hereford Cattle with his brother-in-law, Vance Suttle and father-in-law, J.L. Suttle, Jr. at Twin Chimneys Farm.

Mr. Arey and his family are members of Central United Methodist Church. He is a charter member and past president of the Saints and Sinners Sunday School Class, and has served on the Administrative Board and the Finance Committee. He served on the Building Committee of the church which was involved in the 1981-82 restoration program.

On February 7, 1965, William Jackson Arey married Sarah Carole Suttle, daughter of Joseph Linton Suttle, Jr. and Sara McFarland Suttle. She was born November 5, 1943. Carole graduated from Shelby High School in 1962 and attended Brenau College in Gainesville, Georgia and the University of North Carolina at Charlotte. Carole is a licensed real estate broker, a member of Shelby Junior Charity League and the Shelby Garden Club. She is a charter member of the Saints and Sinners Sunday School Class at the Central Methodist Church and a member of the Inspirational Books Study Group.

Mr. and Mrs. Arey have two children: William Jackson Arey, Jr., born December 30, 1966 and Mildred Carole Arey, born January 11, 1969. All of the Arey family enjoy horseback riding, skiing and tennis.

Sources: newspaper articles, personal records.

— Carole Suttle Arey

during his life, but successfully gained an education for himself through reading and studying at home. Several years of his younger life were spent in Florida where he was a contractor when that state entered its' initial building stage.

He later returned to Bridgewater, Virginia and on September 24, 1890 married Lulu Alice Ward. They had two sons, Ward Hunter Arey, born October 16, 1891 and William Griffin Arey, born November 27, 1893. Mr. Arey moved to Front Royal, Virginia and operated a store there until he moved his family to Shelby, N.C. in 1907.

Mr. Arey brought the third automobile for Shelby with him, and in 1908 established the

Arey Bros Auto Accessories. L to R: Catherine R., Ward Hunter, William G. and W.J. Arey

AMELIA JANE McBRAYER CHAMPION AUSTELL

221

I shall always remember my paternal grandmother, Amelia Jane McBrayer Austell. In her quiet, but interesting manner, she told us stories and read to us. Once I asked her how she had met my Grandfather, Amos Petty Austell. She said, "at a reception-dance at McBrayer Springs Hotel." I have in my possession the silk fan she used. Grandfather saw her in dignity, fanning calmly, as she shyly looked over the fan. He thought she was timid. She later smiled and said, "Oh timid, why I was flirting!"

She lived near Stice Shoals, and yearly held a family picnic in the yard under the two large oak trees. She told us a story about Sherman's men, on their way to Charleston, S.C., who came by that old road. The ladies hid under a bed, and one servant took a lady to a ditch in the field back yard. The meats, corn and horses were stolen.

In later years my father, James Petty Austell, built them a small four room house behind our home on 301 West Warren Street where she expected and wanted visitors, and would serve tea cookies or gingerbread, also lemonade or hot chocolate. We were happy to see the pink china chocolate set she brought out from the cupboard.

We often sat around the long table to hear stories of old, or hear poems read that Grandmother had cut out and pasted over printed pages in books. Once she mispronounced a word and Grandfather kindly corrected her, and she proudly said, "your Grandfather has had a good education in Tennessee." (I have letters to prove this.)

Grandmother Austell was afraid of storms, could readily predict one coming, and would rush up to "Jim's big house", gather all the children around her in a back downstairs bedroom on a feather-bed, and tell us stories or read to us. So to me "storm time" was "fun time." My mother, Cora Ann Magness Austell, (Mrs. James Petty Austell) would assure us that lightning, if not too close, was beautiful. However, my oldest sister, Mary Jane Austell (Mrs. Roscoe Lutz) always held Grandmother's storm fear.

My sister, Sarah Magness Austell (Mrs. Lee Nolan) and I loved to spend the weekend with our grandparents, but on Fridays we had to wash our hair in rain water, to make it "soft and shining," then we were taught to roll our hair in clean white rags to make it curly.

Nightly, Grandmother wore a fancy, tatted edged night cap to bed and insisted I wear dainty night clothes, tatted cuffed sleeves and embroidered yoke she had made. She said, "you are supposed to dress as pretty at night time as day time." "Always feel like a lady." However, my brother, Charles B. Austell, thought I shouldn't dress up in tatted for horse or pony back riding. When I had a stage recitation, a lovely teacher, Mrs. Laura Cornwell, admired a smocked dress, which my grandmother had made.

One night, after a session of reading, Grandmother looked up to Grandfather and said, "I wouldn't want to live three months after you are gone," and Grandfather said, "I wouldn't want to live three days." She died a month and four days after he was deceased. The dates on the tombstone at Zoar Baptist Church reads:

AUSTELL
A. P. AUSTELL
December 14, 1833
September 16, 1919
JANE McBRAYER CHAMPION his wife
December 21, 1833
October 20, 1919

Because Grandmother read to me, I enjoyed teaching expression in the Shelby City Schools, and in Pennsylvania to the twenty or more clubs to which I belong. I encourage children's programs, and their participation.

I am grateful my Grandmother read to me.

Sources: personal interviews, church & cemetery records.

— Elizabeth Austell Porter

THE AMOS PETTY AUSTELL FAMILY

222

Amos Petty Austell was born December 14, 1833 in Cherokee County, S.C. His father was Captain William Austell and his Mother was Jane Petty. Amos was first married to Mary Clanton Petty and after her death he was married to Jane McBrayer Champion. Children by his first marriage were John Ellis b. April 1, 1858, Mary Jane and Martha (twins born December 16, 1859) and William A. Austell b. June 18, 1862.

His children by Jane McBrayer Champion were Charles E. Austell b. 1866, Samuel Austell b. 1869, Belle Austell b. 1873, James Petty Austell b. September 29, 1874 and Claude Love Austell b. October 15, 1877. His two step-children were Mattie Champion and Clifton Champion.

Mr. Austell spent a number of his early years in Tennessee where he served valiantly with the Tennessee troops in the Western Army of the Confederacy. He served as a first Sargeant with Companies K and F of the 32nd Regiment of the Tennessee Regiment. It is said that his "recollections of what happened in those trying days were very clear in his mind" to the time of his death.

Mr. Austell was a man of strong personality, strong body and mind until his death September 16, 1919. He owned a home and land in the Sticey Shoal area of Cleveland County where he farmed. During his retirement years he rang the bell at the courthouse to announce the opening of court sessions.

Amos Petty Austell and Jane McBrayer Austell were both buried in the Zoar Baptist Church Cemetery in Shelby, N.C.

Amos died September 16, 1919. Jane died one month later on October 20, 1919.

Sources: personal knowledge.

— Mrs. L.W. Short

CHARLES BENJAMIN AUSTELL

223

Charles Benjamin Austell was born April 17, 1904, the son of Cora Magness and James Petty Austell. He was a native of Shelby and was named for his uncle, Dr. Charles E. Austell, who died in 1892 at the age of twenty-five, after contracting Typhoid Fever from a patient, and also for his great grandfather, Captain Benjamin Magness, a Revolutionary War hero.

He was brought up as a member of a big family in a rambling house on West Warren Street in sight of the court square. He had one brother, James Petty Austell, Jr., and four sisters, Mary Austell Lutz, Sarah Austell Nolan, Elizabeth Austell Porter and Ann Austell Singleton.

He graduated from Shelby High School and attended North Carolina State University in Raleigh. An editorial written at the time of his death says that his contemporaries remember him as a young, star athlete. He played four years of varsity football, and baseball at Shelby High and as quarterback for Shelby High, where he won a reputation that followed him to State. As a freshman, he won honors as "right end," and remained a "right end" stalwart for four years on the varsity team. The writer adds that for his family and friends, it was a thrill in those mid-twenty days to make the long trip to Raleigh to watch a native son win glory on the football field.

He and his brother-in-law, Roscoe Lutz, founded Lutz-Austell Funeral Home in 1932, and the business continues today, being owned by their children.

He married Mary Adelaide Roberts in 1933 and they had one daughter, Mary Adelaide, born July 1, 1942. They made their home in Shelby on West Marion Street. Their daughter and her family are living today in the house he and his wife built in 1954 at 522 West Marion Street.

Mary Adelaide is married to Richard Davidson Craver, born in Shelby, August 19, 1942, and has two children, Joseph Newton Craver, II; born January 12, 1975, and Adelaide Austell Craver, born July 16, 1976. Both Mary Adelaide and Richard Craver are lawyers, having received their professional degrees from the School of Law of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. She is also a graduate of Duke University and he of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. He is practicing law in Shelby and Charlotte and she is Vice President and Cashier of the First National Bank of Shelby.

Charles Benjamin Austell

1920 Shelby High School Football Team: Front row L to R: Miner McSwain, Ivy Morvan, Edwin Webb, Fred Logan, Harry Grigg, Ray Lutz, Bobby Rudisell. 2nd row L to R: Brevard Lattimore, Esly Pendleton, Alton Hopper, Julian Hord, Charles Austell, Hubbard Hamrick. Back row: J. Horace Grigg, Bill Osborne.

Charles was a member of the Rotary Club for 34 years, serving it as secretary for 19 of those years. He was long active as a Mason, a member of Cleveland Lodge 202. He was also a Shriner, a member of the Oasis Temple and the Piedmont Shrine Club.

He served on the Board of Directors of the North Carolina Funeral Directors Association, and on the Agriculture Committee of the Shelby Chamber of Commerce. He participated in community affairs, and as someone wrote, influenced the shape of the future of the country he loved, most of whose residents he knew on a first-name basis.

He belonged to the First Baptist Church and was a faithful member of the Morgan Bible Class — his church and civic interests being keystones in his life.

He was a devoted family man, taking pride in his wife's talents, and in his daughter, who at the time of his death was soon to become the first woman lawyer in Cleveland County.

He was an outdoors man, loving flowers and the land. His hobbies were hunting and bird dogs, and the rolling hills of Cleveland County were a constant source of pride and pleasure to him.

His wife and daughter have presented annually a Sportsmanship Trophy to a Shelby High School athlete selected for his sportsmanship and his team play before self-performance. This is known as the "Charles B. Austell Trophy", and was first presented in 1967.

In 1974, the "Charles Benjamin Austell Memorial" gates at Sunset Cemetery were presented to the City of Shelby in his memory by his wife and daughter. He died January 27, 1967, and is buried at Sunset Cemetery.

Sources: Family Bible, newspaper clippings, and personal knowledge.

— Minnie Eddins Roberts Carpenter

THE FAMILY OF CLAUDE LOVE AUSTELL

224

Claude Love Austell (b. October 15, 1877), son of Amos Petty Austell and Amelia Jane McBrayer, was married to Susan Elizabeth Borders (b. April 26, 1885), daughter of Clarence Augustus Borders and Mary Elizabeth Cabaniss on December 26, 1900. The bride and groom, as well as their parents, were natives of Cleveland County in the High Shoals area.

Two of their children, Gertrude Elizabeth (Mrs. William E. Crowder) and Harry Love were born in Cleveland County. The Austells moved to Charlotte, North Carolina and five other children were born there: Max Borders, Claude Love, Jr., James Everette, Betty Louise (Mrs. L.W. Short), and Dorothy Bell.

Mr. Austell owned and operated a successful 21 chair barber shop in Charlotte located at 201½ Trade Street until his death on March 1, 1922, at the age of 45. Mrs. Austell moved back to Shelby in 1934, where she lived until her death, March 30, 1970.

Mrs. Austell was a professional seamstress. She taught the T.E.L. class at the First Baptist Church in Shelby for a number of years and was active in other phases of church life.

Gertrude Elizabeth (b. September 20, 1901) married William Evans Crowder. She was the owner and operator of Crowder's Restaurant for a number of years.

Harry Love (b. September 2, 1904) died July 30, 1906.

Max Borders was born August 28, 1910. He moved to Washington, D.C. in 1935 where he was first married to Regina Haines and then to Irene Byrd.

Claude Love, Jr. was born October 20, 1913. His first wife was Croweline Doster and Elizabeth Padgett was his second wife.

C.L. Austell II was by his first marriage. James Everette was born May 26, 1916, and was married to Rae Turner of Gaffney, S.C.

Betty Louise (b. May 11, 1918) was married to Lester Wilson Short, formerly of Hickory, N.C. Their children were Dale Albert and Jerry Allen (by Mr. Short's first wife).

Dorothy Bell was born November 17, 1920.

Sources: personal knowledge.

— Mrs. L.W. Short

JAMES PETTY AUSTELL SR. FAMILY

225

James Petty Austell Sr. born 21 September 1874 died 21 April 1955, was the son of Amos Petty Austell, who came from Tennessee, (14 December 1833 — 16 September 1919), and Amelia Jane McBrayer Austell (21 December 1833 — 20 October 1919). Both parents are buried at Zoar Church Cemetery, Cleveland County.

James Petty Austell, proprietor of the largest (nine chairs) Barber Shop in Shelby, N.C. and Cleveland County, at an early age (26) was a barber first at the Commercial Hotel. And continued to own and operate a successful business for more than forty-six years. During these years of barbering, his shop was facing the south side of the Court House, now the County Museum.

James Petty Austell

From the early barbers who worked for him, many opened their own shops. Quite advanced for the times, his shop was equipped with running hot water and four bath shower stalls for the public use, and electric fans hanging from the ceiling was something in its day. Some of the family have large mirrors that once hung on the walls of the shop. In the early days, regular customers had individual shaving mugs left in the barber shop for each day's shave. All this made it convenient and modern in early 1900.

He married 4 October 1899 Cora Ann Magness (24 September 1879, 18 June 1945), daughter of Robert Magness (22 August 1817, 5 October 1894), and Mary Whisnant Magness (20 January 1838, 22 January 1907). Mr. and Mrs. Austell's children — Mary Jane (Roscoe) Lutz, Charles Benjamin Austell, Sarah Magness (Lee) Nolan, Elizabeth Bright (John) Poritor, James Petty Austell Jr., Cora Ann (Erwin) Singleton, were all born in Shelby, N.C.

Mr. Austell was elected to the Board of Alderman July 1933 and served as Mayor Pro Tem. He was a member of the First Baptist Church, Cleveland Masonic Lodge 202, and a member of the Woodman of the World.

He and his wife are buried at Sunset Cemetery, Shelby, N.C.

Sources: personal knowledge and newspaper clipping.

— Ann Austell Singleton

JESSE LOWERY AUSTELL

226

J. Lowery Austell, born July 4, 1905, was the third child in a family of ten born to Oscar Forrest and Mamie Lowery Austell. His brothers and sisters were Aileen A. Harrill, Agnes A. Patterson, Samuel Heyward Austell, William Arey Austell, Rebecca A. Lutz, Mary Sue Blanton, Joseph Forrest Austell, Violet A. Cline, and Thomas Maynard "Bud" Austell.

At the Austell homeplace in Earl, North Carolina, Lowery's father, being a time merchant and farmer, gave Lowery plenty of work at an early age. At the age of 11, he was doing man-size farming.

After attending grade school in Earl, Lowery graduated from Boarding School at Boiling Springs (now Gardner-Webb College) where he was very active in athletics.

His first job (outside the farm and family store) was at First National Bank as a book-keeper for $50.00 a month. During his years at the bank, 1925-1933, Lowery experienced the well-known Central Hotel fire and later the famous bank crash of 1928.

In 1929 Lowery married Madge Josephine Irvin, daughter of Elizabeth Simmons and G. Pink Irvin. From this union a daughter, Gailya Elizabeth Logan and a son, Ronald Lowery Austell were born, giving Lowery five grandchildren; namely, Sandra Logan Vanderploegh, Laura Logan Chapman, Teresa A. Smith, Todd Lowery Austell, and Tracy Judith Austell. Mrs. Madge Austell died in 1967.

In 1933 Lowery joined the Federal Land Bank in Columbia, South Carolina as an appraiser, leaving in 1936 to return to Shelby where he began working as Secretary-

Treasurer at Shelby Federal Savings and Loan Association, then known as the Shelby Building and Loan Association with assets of $800,000. Lowery was elected President and Managing Officer in 1956, a title he has held since that time. In 1972 he received the "Boss of the Year" award.

Lowery was past director of the N.C. Savings and Loan League, past director of the U.S. League Southeastern Conference, Director of the Council of Mutual Associations, member of Board of Directors of First Mortgage Insurance Corporation and many others too numerous to mention.

Lowery became interested in Lionism in 1936 and joined the Shelby Lions Club where he has served as the Club's Secretary for 35 years. He was past president of the Lions Club and has had 100% attendance in the Club for 45 years. In 1979, he received the Melvin Jones Fellowship Award, which is the highest award given by the Lions International for dedicated humanitarian service. Always interested in civic affairs, Lowery has served as Chairman of Shelby's First Zoning Committee, President and Treasurer of the United Fund of Cleveland County and President of the Chamber of Commerce.

Always active in church work, Lowery was Superintendent of the Sunday School at New Hope Baptist Church in Earl at age 17. Later, the First Baptist Church in Shelby became his home church where he served on the Board of Deacons, was President of the Brotherhood, President of his Sunday School class, and Chairman of the Finance Committee.

In 1970, Lowery married Mary Dellinger Crowder, better known as "Pinki", daughter of Gresham Otto and Nellie Summer Dellinger. Mrs. Austell has one son, William Evans Crowder, III and two grandchildren, William Evans Crowder, IV and Michael Gresham Crowder.

Coming from a close-knit family, proud of their heritage, Lowery Austell is a very family oriented man. A man of conspicuous simple taste, Lowery displays high principals in his social, business and religious life. His work, his church, his community, his family — these are the joys in Lowery's life.

Sources: family records, personal knowledge.

— Mrs. Lowery Austell

MARY ADELAIDE ROBERTS AUSTELL

227

Mary Adelaide Roberts Austell was the daughter of Frances Eskridge and William Joshua Roberts, Jr. She was born August 16, 1905, in Shelby and lived her life here. She was named for her grandmother, Mary Judith Blanton Eskridge, and her great-grandmother, Adelaide Alice Williams Eddins McAfee. She had one sister, Minnie Eddins Roberts Carpenter. She was born in the home of her grandparents, Mary Judith Blanton and Richard Eskridge, on West Marion Street, living most of her life on the same street, as her parents' home was built just across the street from her birthplace. After her marriage she lived one block west, then returned to the same spot where she was born when she and her husband built their home which is presently occupied by their daughter.

Mary Adelaide Roberts Austell

She attended Shelby schools and graduated from Shelby High School in 1922. She was a graduate of the class of 1926 of Converse College in Spartanburg, South Carolina with a Bachelor of Music Degree and was a talented pianist and vocalist. She was one of fifteen charter members of the Converse College chapter of Pi Kappa Lambda, national honorary music fraternity. In college she composed piano selections and later wrote the Shelby High School song.

After graduation, she taught music in the Shelby Public Schools for fifteen years, giving private voice and piano lessons. On July 26, 1933 she married Charles Benjamin Austell. One daughter was born to this couple, Mary Adelaide Austell on July 1, 1942. In 1972 she married Richard Davidson Craver of Shelby, born August 19, 1942, and has children, Joseph Newton Craver II, born January 12, 1975 and Adelaide Austell Craver, born July 16, 1976.

She was listed in "Who's Who of America Women" and took an active part in the cultural, civic and musical activities of the community. One of her interests was the history and heritage of Cleveland County. She worked with William Powell, librarian at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, in compiling a history of Cleveland County which she presented as a program to various clubs and to Cleveland County school children.

She was a member of First Baptist Church where she was a choir member and pianist for Sunday School and Woman's Missionary Union. She was an active member of the North Carolina Music Society, Contemporary Book Club, Twentieth Century Club, Cecilia Music Club, the American Assoc. of University Women, the NC Society for the Preservation of Antiquities, and a charter member of the Shelby Junior Charity League.

She died on November 24, 1975, and is buried in Sunset Cemetery. Her daughter, Mary Adelaide Austell Craver, first woman lawyer in Cleveland County and Vice President of First National Bank, presented the bells, which ring out from the First Baptist Church steeple each day, to the church in memory of her mother, Mary Adelaide Roberts Austell.

Mary Adelaide Roberts Austell and Daughter Adelaide in 1946

Sources: personal knowledge, newspaper clippings and family Bible.

— Minnie Eddins Roberts Carpenter

THE OSCAR FORREST AUSTELL FAMILY

228

Oscar Forrest Austell (September 20, 1872 — September 9, 1941) was a native of Earl, North Carolina. He was the sixth child of Joseph Hopson Austell and Mary Jane Borders Austell. Forrest was a member of New Hope Baptist Church. He attended Boiling Springs Boarding School. He supported his family by being a farmer, cotton buyer and an owner and operator of a general store. He was a strong supporter in his community, as he proved by working for better highways and schools. He served on the County Board of Education for four years, two of those as chairman.

Forrest Austell chose Mamie Lowery Austell (February 18, 1882 — April 28, 1965) to be his wife. She was the daughter of Thomas Hill Lowery and Rebecca Hogue Lowery. They were wed December 5, 1900 in Patterson Springs, North Carolina. The family began. To this union would be born ten children.

A. Aileen Austell (November 3, 1901 — November 27, 1979) was their first child. She married Lawson Herbert Harrill December 26, 1921. He died April 24, 1948. They were blessed with three children: (1.) Sarah Aileen Harrill (August 19, 1925) married Curtis David Baysinger on December 17, 1955. They have three children: Curtis David, Jr. (November 18, 1957); Karen Leigh (November 30, 1959) and Bruce Malcolm (September 21, 1961). (2.) Robert Austell Harrill (October 8, 1927) married Mary Anne Byers February 28, 1954.

(3.) Thomas Lawson Harrill (May 24, 1939) married Olivia Anne Conway on February 20, 1966. They have three children: Thomas Lawson, Jr. (April 18, 1969); Paula Anne (December 7, 1972) and Joshua Austell (April 19, 1980).

B. Agnes Austell (November 18, 1903) was their second daughter. She married William Hayne Patterson, Jr. on August 4, 1924. They had four children: (1.) Jeraldine Austell Patterson (July 16, 1925 — August 28, 1925), (2.) Mary Agnes Patterson (October 20, 1926 — October 25, 1926), (3.) William Hayne Patterson, III (November 25, 1927), (4.) Betty Lewis Patterson (December 17, 1933) married Bennett John Masters on September 30, 1956. They have three children: Bennett John, Jr. (March 15, 1959); Robin Lewis (December 31, 1963); and Mary Lee Ann (August 15, 1972).

C. Jesse Lowery Austell (July 4, 1905) was their first-born son. He married Madge Josephine Irvin on August 5, 1929. Madge died September 17, 1967. To this union were born two children, Gailya Elizabeth and Ronald Lowery. Jesse Lowery Austell married Mary Crowder on January 18, 1970. (1.) Gaila Elizabeth Austell (March 11, 1931) married J. Robert Logan, Jr. on April 15, 1952. They have two daughters: Sandra Gail (July 31, 1953) who married Rodney Dirk Vanderploeg on August 22, 1981 and Laura Lynn (March 19, 1957) who married Gregory Chapman on August 23, 1980. (2.) Ronald Lowery Austell (March 22, 1936) married Juanita Horton on August 25, 1957. They have three children: Teresa Jean (July 18, 1959) who married Charles Smith on August 30, 1981; Todd Lowery, (September 21, 1963) and Traci (August 4, 1966).

D. Samuel Heyward Austell (July 13, 1907 — January 30, 1973) was their fourth child. He married Ruth Roberson Tate on June 8, 1935. Five children were born. (1.) Samuel Heyward, Jr. (May 16, 1936) married Pat Curr in October, 1960. Their two sons are Steven Austell and Chris Austell. (2.) Ruth Justine Austell (November 6, 1937) married Captain Frank R. Schluntz on May 22, 1959. They have three children: Jason, Jeromy, and Jessie. (3.) Daryall Emogene Austell (March 7, 1939 — October, 1973). She was married to Bill Fordham on February 6, 1961. They had two children, Randi and Scott. (4.) Rebecca Sue Austell (June 23, 1940) married Joe Stoddard. They had one child, Eunice Stoddard (born 1963). "Becky" and Joe separated. Becky married Richard Sutherland in 1970. They had a child, Pam, (born 1973). They now reside in Spendor, Texas. (5.) Mamie Elizabeth Austell (born 1942).

E. William Arey Austell (September 25, 1909 — May 14, 1911).

F. Rebecca Jane Austell (October 31, 1911) married Earl Hubert Lutz on December 19, 1943. They were blessed with two children: (1.) Mary Alice Lutz (December 30, 1944) married Hubert Carlton Nobles on November 10, 1973. Their two children are Jason Kyle (August 12, 1975) and Caron Rebecca (April 24, 1977). (2.) Earl Hubert Lutz, Jr. (January 14, 1949) married Mary Bea Alexander on August 25, 1973. They have two daughters, Courtney Leigh (September 10, 1975) and Kendalyn Paige (June 27, 1978).

G. Mary Sue Austell (September 30, 1914) married Albert Batie Blanton on October 23, 1940. Albert Blanton, called A.B., died December 8, 1972. They had two children. (1.) Their first child was a girl who died at birth on July 24, 1942. (2.) Albert Batie Blanton, II (April 27, 1944) married Debra Ann Beaty on June 4, 1966. They have three daughters: Hunter Lynn (June 16, 1973); Mary Louise (June 18, 1976) and Amanda Leigh (October 2, 1979).

Oscar Forrest Austell

H. Joseph Forrest Austell (October 19, 1916) married Katherine Louise Baily on June 30, 1950. They have three daughters. (1.) Kathy Ann Austell (September 22, 1952) married Jimmy Grigg on January 20, 1977. (2.) Mary Jo Austell (December 12, 1954). (3.) Madge Baily Austell (October 4, 1961).

I. Violet Austell (March 28, 1922 — October 3, 1970) married John Dixon Cline on January 11, 1942. To this union were born four daughters. (1.) Linda Austell Cline (December 5, 1943) married Toby Lee Thrift on August 16, 1964. They have two daughters, Raquel Lee (May 30, 1968) and Amanda Cline (May 15, 1973). (2.) Peggy Lou Cline (January 19, 1949) married Dennis Goode Goforth on September 14, 1968. Their two children are Jessica Denise (June 19, 1973) and Dennis Goode, Jr. (December 31, 1974). (3.) Martha Sue Cline (July 12, 1952) married J.L. Hamrick on October 28, 1973. They have two sons, John Edmond (March 9, 1977) and Lindsay Lamar (February 24, 1979). (4.) Johnnie Dixon Cline (December 28, 1955) married Doug Ingle on September 11, 1976. They have a daughter, Lacey Jean who was born January 24, 1980.

J. Thomas Maynard Austell (June 27, 1925) married Anita Owens on June 28, 1952. To this union were born three children: (1.) Forrest Maynard Austell (May 12, 1955). (2.)

Carey Lynn Austell (October 30, 1957) married Steve Marley on August 29, 1981. (3.) A twin sister to Carey was still-born.

Sources: personal records and research.

— Rebecca Austell Lutz and Mary Sue Austell Blanton

SAMUEL HUGH and MARY BOSTICK AUSTELL FAMILY

229

Samuel Hugh Austell (February 18, 1864 — April 15, 1958) was born in York County, South Carolina, the son of Joseph Hopson Austell (August 4, 1832 — August 8, 1910), a gallant Confederate soldier, and Mary Jane Borders Austell (February 17, 1838 — May 28, 1928), the fifth child of Major Hugh Borders.

Samuel Hugh Austell

Samuel Hugh Austell was a farmer and a deacon in New Hope Baptist Church, Earl, North Carolina. On March 28, 1888, he married Mary Jane Bostick (February 18, 1868 — May 15, 1927), the daughter of Samuel Evans (July 10, 1830 — January 11, 1910) and Jane Price Suttle Bostick (January 21, 1835 — October 23, 1921), and the sister of Attie, George Pleasant, and Wade Bostick, missionaries to China.

To Samuel Hugh and Mary Bostick Austell five children were born: Lillie Lois (March 3, 1889 —) who married John Welborn Byers, Ruby (July 10, 1890 — October 16, 1955), Joseph Hopson (April 28, 1901 — March 24, 1959) who married Mary Carson Hamrick, Samuel Wade (May 5, 1903 — October 22, 1978) who married Ruby Mangum Williams, and Bostick (June 9, 1895 — October 31, 1958).

On September 4, 1921, Bostick married Gertrude Amanda Goode Rhyne (August 28, 1895 — August 23, 1981), the daughter of Thomas Franklin Goode (April 25, 1842 — November 27, 1927), a Civil War soldier who fought at Gettysburg and was a prisoner from December 1864 until the war's end, and Amanda Eaker Hambright Goode (May 13, 1851 — January 27, 1921), a descendant of Colonel Frederick Hambright who was a hero at the Battle of Kings Mountain.

Bostick Austell was a farmer, and one of the first poultrymen and hatcherymen in Cleveland County, operating B. Austell Hatchery from 1924 until his death in 1958. He was a deacon in New Hope Baptist Church in Earl, North Carolina for many years, and was on the building committee when the church was rebuilt in 1953-54. A member of the Cleveland County Board of Education from 1941 to 1958, he served as chairman for the last seven of those years.

To Bostick and Gertrude Austell four children were born: Samuel Harold (July 15, 1922 —), Mary Louise (July 15, 1924 —), Thomas Bostick (January 10, 1927 —), and Bobby Goode (January 14, 1932 —).

Harold, a graduate of Mars Hills College and UNC-CH, served in the Quartermaster Corps from 1943 until 1946 when he was discharged with the rank of captain. In Richland, Georgia, on October 20, 1946, he married Patricia Ruth Richardson (March 3, 1925 —), a graduate of Mars Hill College, and the granddaughter of Dr. Benjamin Franklin Falls of Cleveland County. They live in Greenville, South Carolina where Harold is a realtor.

Mary Louise, who graduated from Mars Hill College and attended UNC-G and Bowling Green University, married William Ray Moss (June 25, 1921 —) of Blacksburg, South Carolina on February 22, 1947. Ray was in the army from 1944 until 1946, and is now a welding engineering technician at the Charleston Shipyard in Charleston, South Carolina.

Bobby served in the U.S. Navy for four years, and has been a member of the Cleveland County Board of Education and the Board of Directors of Charlotte Motor Speedway. He is now a commodity inspector for the state of North Carolina, and lives in Charlotte.

Harold and Patricia Austell are the parents of three children: Samuel Harold, Jr. (November 14, 1948 —), a graduate of UNC-CH who on November 13, 1971 married Mary Emily Stuart (July 2, 1949 —) and lives in Baltimore, Maryland where he is a potter; James Michael (March 10, 1951 —) who received a master's degree from Georgia Tech and is a power engineer with J.E. Serrine Company in Greenville, South Carolina; and Susan Ruth (September 26, 1953 —), a graduate of Mars Hill College, who on May 31, 1975 married Roger Eugene Holdway and lives in Laurens, South Carolina. Sam and Mary have a son, Andrew Stuart, born December 30, 1979, and Gene and Susan have a daughter, Kelly Elizabeth, born September 8, 1980.

Bostick Austell, 1895-1958

Gertrude Goode Austell

Mary and Ray Moss have a daughter, Mary Eugenia (December 18, 1952 —), a graduate of the Medical University of South Carolina, who on August 28, 1976 married Richard Howard Reeves and lives in Beaufort, South Carolina. Eugenia and Rick have a son, Eric David, born May 8, 1980.

Sources: Family Bibles, History of the Goode Family, History of Borders Family, Newspaper clippings, Gravestones, and Conversation with family members.

— Thomas and Doris Austell

THOMAS BOSTICK and DORIS NICHOLS AUSTELL FAMILY

230

Thomas Bostick Austell January 10, 1927 —) is the son of Bostick and Gertrude Goode Austell. He attended Mars Hill College, and was in the Navy for 18 months during World War II. Since 1946 he has been a partner in B. Austell Hatchery in Earl, North Carolina.

He is a member of the Number Three Volunteer Fire Department, a director of the Cleveland County Farm Bureau, a member of the Earl Town Council, a member of the County ASC Committee, and a deacon in New Hope Baptist Church in Earl.

On July 24, 1948 he married Doris Jean Nichols (August 19, 1927 —), daughter of Robert Landrum and Pinkie Jones Nichols. She is a graduate of Meredith College and received a master's degree from Winthrop College. Since 1965 she has been a librarian at Graham School in Shelby, and is director of the Preschool Department at New Hope Baptist Church.

Thomas and Doris have three sons: Thomas Bostick, Jr. (January 17, 1951 —), Robert Nichols (October 9, 1952 —), and Hugh Franklin (May 26, 1958 —).

Tom, a graduate of North Carolina State University, on June 30, 1973 married Mary Emily Thompson (November 16, 1950 —), a graduate of Meredith College, and the daughter of the Reverend Horace Graham and Mary Elizabeth Midyette Thompson of Winterville, North Carolina. Tom is chief industrial engineer with a division of Campus Sweater and Sportswear and Mary Emily is a kindergarten teacher. They live in Henderson, North Carolina. Their daughter, Jennifer Ann, was born March 30, 1976, and their son, Thomas Jason, was born February 9, 1979.

Nick, a graduate of Chowan College, on March 31, 1973 married Janet Faye Whitaker (August 23, 1954 —), the daughter of John B. and Patsy Brooks Whitaker of New House, North Carolina. Nick is a working supervisor at Dennison Manufacturing Company in Gastonia, North Carolina. He and Janet live in Earl with their daughter, Melissa Faye, born October 19, 1980.

Hugh, a graduate of Nashville Diesel College, on August 12, 1978 married Anita Christine Blanton (March 4, 1960 —), a graduate of Gardner Webb College and the daughter of Andrew and Martha Hester Blanton of Earl. Hugh is a diesel mechanic with PPG Industries in Kings Mountain, North Carolina, and Anita is a secretary at Boiling Springs Manufacturing Company in Boiling Springs, North Carolina. They live in Earl.

Sources: family records, personal knowledge.

— Thomas and Doris Austell

BABINGTON — A FOUNDRY FAMILY

231

Babington bears the unique distinction of having had every Babington come from one common ancestor who dates from the Norman conquest of England. This man (given name unknown) was the ancestor of John de Babington, who in the reign of Henry III was owner of the district around Mickle and Little Babington of Northumberland.

Thomas, fifth in descent from John in the Fifteenth Century married the heiress of Robert of Dethick and became identified with Derbyshire, and by a series of intermarriages acquired additional property, and branches settled in Nottinghamshire, Leicestershire and Oxfordshire. Lord Thomas Babington McCauley was named for Thomas Babington. ("The Babington Family" — Robert Benjamin Babington).

The first known record in America is that John Babington sailed to Virginia on the Globe in 1635 and William Babington was a "free-man" in Massachusetts in 1678. There are no further records of either of them. In 1865 Randall Patterson Babington participated in the Mammouth Rebellion, in support of the Protestant cause in England and was transported to Barbadoes by James II. Later research shows him executed because of his relationship to the Roman Catholic Church.

This brings us to Thomas Babington, born about 1775, died 1845. His father, born in England about 1751, was disinherited for marrying an Irish seamstress, and so emigrated to America. Thomas was said to have been associated with five other men in the operation of a New Jersey foundry. Their specialty was the casting of bells. It's very probable that he worked with McShane, most noted bell founder in America.

Benjamin Boyer Babington (son of Thomas) was born in New Jersey in 1806, and died in 1876. He married Catherine Sweet of Kentucky, who lost her parents at an early age and lived with uncles who were Masons. They attended Lodge in a hall over a school-room where Catherine attended school. Led by her curiosity, she hid in the Lodge Hall on numerous occasions and became very proficient in the secrets of the work. When it became known, and after long and anxious discussions, she was permitted to take the obligations of secrecy, but naturally she was not made a full member. She always remembered and esteemed the order and was faithful to its obligations — the only woman ever to come to full knowledge of Blue Lodge Masonry in the United States.

The above Benjamin Boyer Babington was a foundryman and builder. His son, Elisha Johnson Babington, married Margaret Isabelle Haynes from Rutherford County. Elisha owned and operated a foundry in Charlotte, North Carolina.

Benjamin Boyer Babington, Jr. (born August 22, 1837 — died October 18, 1906), married Elizabeth Jane Coker from Hartsville, South Carolina. She was born November 7, 1837 and died November 11, 1929. They were married February 16, 1859 and lived in Alabama before moving to North Carolina. To this union was born: Thomas Joseph; William Davis; Benjamin, who died at eleven years of age; and three daughters, Belle (Mrs. Sam M. Evans Atlanta Ga.); Eva (Mrs. Lee Sullivan); and Launa (Mrs. Philip Hill Kendrick, Shelby, N.C.).

The above mentioned son, William Davis Babington (born Sept. 19 1864 — died September 3, 1946), married Elizabeth Lela Leak (born April 27, 1867 — died October 1, 1940). To this union was born James Fell Babington (born 1887 in Shelby — died in Washington D.C. August 1, 1951); Eula Mae Babington (born 1889 — died September 1970), married Julian Carr Bundy; Benjamin Bernard Babington (born 1893 — died 1980). Carolyn Jane "Miss Carrie" (born Sept. 15, 1895 — now living in Shelby; Mary Lucille (born 1898, married Landon Holland McSwain, now living in Texas); Fred Leak Babington (born 1902, married Julia Ross White, Kings Mountain, now living in South Port); William Davis Babington Jr. (W.D.) (born May, 1905 — died 1968 in Jackson Mississippi).

William Davis Babington and his brother, Thomas, worked with their father in the foundry which he began operating in Shelby in 1872. The business was known as Shelby Foundry and Machine Works, and consisted of all kinds of foundry and repair work, but catered especially to cotton mill castings with 95% of the mill castings shipped out of North Carolina. They became associated with a Massachusetts inventor and established the Carolina Sewing Machine Company. The machines were made in the Babington foundry, along with stoves, flour and cane mills, wagons, buggies, stamping mills, plows and other things. The foundry was torn down in 1923.

The Babingtons were kind, faithful robust men of pleasing personality, keen business ability and great energy. They were well read in all matters relating to the moral and material growth of their community.

Sources: Family Bible; "Our Heritage" by Lee B. Weather; Obituaries; "The Babington Family" by Robert Babington.

— Caroline Jane Babington

DR. LUTHER PHILIP BAKER

232

Dr. Luther Philip Baker was born April 21, 1884 in Kings Mountain, one of six children born to Philip Sylvanus and Selena Ellen Patterson Baker. Brothers and sisters were: Rufus Crowder, Lillian Leola, Jessie Pearle, Fred Allen and Sarah Selena. One half-brother, Henry Sylvanus Summit Baker born to Philip Sylvanus and Sarah Jane Summitt Baker.

Philip Sylvanus Baker (1848-1907), father of Dr. Baker, born in Cherryville, North Carolina. He later moved to Kings Mountain and was founder of the Crowders Mountain Mill which is still in operation. The mill is located in the foothills of Crowders Mountain and at the time it was founded, produced cotton yarn. Philip Sylvanus Baker was married March 12, 1870 to Sarah Jane Summitt. To this union one child was born, Henry Sylvanus Summitt, February 18, 1871 who died September 26, 1898. Sarah Jane Summitt died March 6, 1871 and on October 31, 1872, Philip Sylvanus Baker was married to Selena Ellen Patterson, (1850-1912).

In 1896 the family moved from their home near the Mauney Memorial Library to a three-story Victorian style home on North Piedmont Avenue. Built by Sylvanus Baker with hand-picked lumber, it is reported that he sent back to the mill more lumber than he used in the home. The Baker family lived in the house until 1980 when it was razed to make room for the Number 74 by-pass around Kings Mountain.

Dr. Luther Philip Baker graduated from the University of Maryland School of Dentistry in 1907 and returned to Kings Mountain to practice. He was the second dentist to practice in Kings Mountain, beginning his practice in 1907 and continuing until his retirement in 1964. His affable personality made his practice a pleasure and he had patients from North and South Carolina, some traveling by train to see him. His gift of conversation kept his patients so interested in his story telling that they forgot the pain.

The Dr. Luther Phillip Baker Family: L to R: Dr. Baker, Richard Gilbert, Luther Phillip, Jr., Thomas Poleyette (seated front), Mary Tipton Baker, Mary Tipton (Fulford), Robert Nelson.

Dr. Luther Phillip Baker's Home on North Piedmont Ave., Kings Mountain, NC. Built in 1896 and razed in 1980 for the new U.S. 74 by-pass.

A life-member of the American Dental Association, Dr. Baker was also a member of the North Carolina Dental Society. He was a director and vice-president of the Kings Mountain Savings and Loan Association for thirty years. He was a director of First Union National Bank and also a member of the Cleveland County Board of Health. He served as chairman of Kings Mountain Board of Education for twenty years, was also a Mason and a Shriner. He was active in St. Matthews Lutheran Church of which he was a member and his father, Philip Sylvanus Baker was a charter member.

On November 14, 1912, he was married to Mary Tipton Poleyette of Crisfield, Maryland. Although he had attended the University of Maryland, it was not until Miss Poleyette came to Cleveland County that the two met. Mr. Larken Kiser had brought Miss Poleyette and two other young ladies from Maryland to work as milliners in his hat shop on Battleground Avenue. Miss Poleyette enjoyed swimming, ice skating, horseback riding and boating and continued active in swimming for most of her 84 years.

Five children were born of this marriage. Luther Philip, Jr. was born December 12, 1913, died June 11, 1981 and is buried at Kings Mountain. He was married November 14, 1936 to Ruby Hughes of Kings Mountain. Two children, a girl and a boy, were born of this marriage.

Robert Nelson, born May 20, 1916, married Mary Louise Gerhing, a native of Louisiana, March 10, 1979. They reside in Kings Mountain where he is practicing dentistry.

Richard Gilbert, born March 22, 1920, married Nancy Oates of Terzah, South Carolina Jan. 14, 1956. They have two sons and live in Rock Hill, South Carolina.

Mary Tipton, born October 18, 1923, married Leonard Fulford of Knoxville, Tennessee July 18, 1952. Two boys and one girl were born of this marriage and the family resides in Knoxville.

Thomas Poleyette, born August 6, 1928, married July 10, 1951, Mary Beth Hord of Kings Mountain. Five boys were born of this union and the family resides in Kings Mountain where he practices dentistry.

Dr. Luther Phillip Baker died October 18, 1967 and his wife, Mary Tipton Poleyette Baker died March 14, 1976. Both are buried at Kings Mountain.

Sources: Family records, family Bible.

— Luther Philip Baker, III

LEWIS JOSIAH and LOUISE RAY SUTTLE BALEY

233

Lewis Josiah Baley was the second child born to William W. Baley and Lucinda Sams Baley, May 23, 1878, Flag Pond, Unicoi County, Tennessee and died in Atlanta, Georgia, April 4, 1936 buried in Sunset Cemetery, Shelby, Cleveland County, N.C.

Louise Ray Suttle Baley

at Shelby until he was transferred to Atlanta, Ga. July 1909. Ray stayed in Shelby to have their first child, Mary Louise Baley, born August 19, 1909. Ray and Louise went to Atlanta to set up housekeeping with Lewis when they were able to travel.

After moving to Atlanta they set up housekeeping in one of Atlanta's fashionable apartments until they could move into their first home. The family moved a number of times while in Atlanta until Lewis was promoted head of the Southern Division of the FBI in Atlanta in 1913. He was called to investigate all over the United States and some foreign countries. During the year the family lived in Atlanta nine months during school, then spent the three summers in Shelby while Lewis was traveling.

Ray went back to Shelby with Louise for Ray's second child, Lewis Josiah Baley, Jr. born November 5, 1915. Lewis Senior was in Washington at the time and Ray had to give their son a name so she named him Lewis Junior. When Lewis Senior returned from Washington he wanted to name his son after his father, William W. Baley, so he said he would call his son "Bill" from then on. This name stuck.

During World War I, Lewis was investigating German spies and other aliens, hoarders, white slavers, draft dodgers, Klu-Klux Klan and working with the American Protective League involved in protecting the citizens at home. After the War the APL honored Lewis for his work during the War.

August 1, 1920 Lewis served for one year as Chief of the FBI in Washington until a democrat was appointed. Then he was transferred back to Atlanta until 1924 when he ran for the appointment as Director and Chief of the FBI and lost to J. Edgar Hoover, a democrat. He remained in Atlanta with the Bureau until he resigned in 1927.

During the years in Atlanta from 1909 to 1927 the Baley family was members of the First Baptist and Druid Hills Baptist Churches. Lewis was one of the few third-third degree masons, exalted ruler twice of the B.P.O. Elks Lodge. Ray was a charter member of the KLE Club Auxiliary of the Elks and President. Her occupation was housewife and was very active with their children in church and school work.

In 1927 Lewis bought stock in and was vice-president of the National Bank of West Palm Beach, Florida, during the boom in 1927 until the "bust" in 1929. The family "busted" financially and moved back to Atlanta and lived in East Point, Ga. Lewis practiced law until 1930 when the depression hit the Baley family again. Lewis was not making enough in the law practice and moved his family to Shelby to live with Ray's family until he could find a better job in Atlanta. Ray and Bill lived with the Suttle family while Lewis was in College. Louise married in 1931 to Norris Dixon Lackey of Shelby. The year 1935 Lewis found a good steady job in Atlanta, called for Ray to come to Atlanta, which she did and came back to Shelby to move her things to Atlanta. In October 1935 Lewis became ill, Ray went back to Atlanta to take care of him. Lewis Josiah Baley, Jr. married January 19, 1936 to Mildred Juanita Grigg of Cherryville, N.C. Lewis Senior became quite ill and died with cancer in Atlanta April 4, 1936. He was brought back to Shelby to be buried in Sunset Cemetery.

Following Lewis' death Ray continued to live with the Suttle Family in Shelby. Louise and Norris had their home in Shelby, Lewis Junior and Mildred had their home in Shelby. Louise Ray Suttle Baley born June 25, 1887, daughter of Mr. & Mrs. Charles Beaty Suttle a prominent family of Shelby, attended public and private schools in Shelby through high school before meeting Lewis. She was a member of DAR, Daughters of the Confederate, Chicora Club, TEL Class and superintendent of the Nursery Department until 1952 at the First Baptist Church. She lived as a single parent for over twenty years helping to raise her children and grand children and trying to instill in them the proper values of life until she died of unknown cancer September 17, 1957 and was buried next to Lewis in Sunset Cemetery in Shelby, Cleveland County, North Carolina.

Sources: Family records; family Bible; newspaper clippings; personal letters; personal knowledge and memories.

— L.J. "Bill" Baley, Jr.

LEWIS JOSIAH BAILEY, JR. and MILDRED JUANITA GRIGG BALEY

234

Lewis Josiah "Bill" Baley, Jr., the second child born to Lewis Josiah Baley, Sr., and Louise Ray Suttle Baley, November 5, 1914, Shelby, Cleveland County, North Carolina.

Mildred Juanita Grigg the fifth child born to Solon Leon Grigg and Lou Rebecca Grigg, June 12, 1916, Cherryville, Gaston County, North Carolina.

"Bill" had all the advantages in growing up that a child could ask for. A loving family who taught him the best things in life. His father traveled a lot with the FBI, but was very close to him. "Bill" attended Atlanta public schools where he participated in all activities, taking piano for five years, trumpet from the fifth grade to the twelfth. Played in a number of orchestras and bands, performed in a teenage band over Radio WSB, Atlanta, for two years. He worked in a grocery store, filling station, sold Liberty magazines, had the Atlanta Journal and Atlanta Constitution paper routes, also swimming pool life guard.

Lewis Josiah Baley, Sr.

The Baley family lived in Atlanta until Lewis Baley, Sr. resigned from the FBI in 1927 when he became Vice-President of the National Bank of West Palm Beach, Fla. The family lived in West Palm Beach until all the banks went broke and the Baleys did too and they moved back to Atlanta. "Bill" attended Atlanta schools through the tenth grade, during which time he became a charter member of "The Antlers", Junior Order of Elks, holding a number of offices and playing trumpet in the Antlers Band. He was in the Intermediate Department of Druid Hills Baptist Church working with the young people and did not leave the Intermediate Department as a pupil.

The Big Depression hit in 1930 and 1931 after the Florida "Bust" and in the summer of 1931 his father moved the family to Shelby to live with the Suttle family until he could find a steady job in Atlanta.

"Bill" attended Shelby High School where he was the first drum major and organizer of the marching band. He organized the Good Sports Club, was in the debating and drama clubs. He and three other students formed a singing quartet, "The Aces of Harmony", singing all over North Carolina and had an hour show over WOHS, Radio station, Gastonia. He was chorister, teacher and superintendent of the Intermediate Department in the First Baptist Church, also a choir member for a number of years. During this time he was working close with the Pastor and was called to go into Christian Education work, but did not heed the call. He heeded this call sometime later in 1951.

He graduated from Shelby High School in 1933 had to decide whether to go to school or work. He was pulled between working and making money and living with his mother, or going to school studying Christian Education. He picked work. He worked with J.C. Penney Company from 1931 to 1937.

In 1935 Bill met his future wife, Mildred Juanita Grigg, of Cherryville, the fifth child of Mr. & Mrs. Solon Leon Grigg, who was living with her sister Mae at the time, since her mother and father died. They dated until they were married on January 19, 1936 in York, S.C. by Magistrate E. Gettys Nunn. They set up house-keeping in small apartments until they built their first home on Suttle St. in 1938.

In 1937 Bill started to work with M. & J. Finance Corp, as Adjuster and Manager in Shelby until he was called in service during World War II. During the six years at M. & J. he continued his church work, was a charter member of the Shelby Jaycees in 1941. He held every office in the Club except president until he was aged out. In 1942 he was chosen Young Man of the Year in Shelby for his youth work, bond sales. During this year he volunteered for the U.S. Army.

He was called in the Army January 1943, served in the Ranger Casualty Unit until his honorable discharge in May 1943, waited until he was drafted and went into the U.S. Navy attached to the Sea-bees as a physical instructor until his honorable discharge in October 1945. During this time his wife, Mildred, was working at Suttle Drug Store in Shelby as a bookkeeper and attending to the house by herself, until she moved to Rhode Island to join Bill where she worked in Civil Service for the Navy until October 1945, when they returned to Shelby to open up their home.

After being discharged, Bill worked for M. & J. until January 1946 when he went with Union Trust Company where he remained until January 1963. During this seventeen years a lot of things happened. The Baleys had gone almost ten years without a baby. On April 25, 1947 their first and only child, a boy, named Lewis Josiah Baley, III was born in Shelby. The Baley family worked in the First Baptist Church for a number of years. Bill was President of the First Baptist Church Brotherhood, President of the Kings Mountain Baptist Brotherhood Association. He was made a deacon for a three year term. They continued to work with the Shelby Jaycees until Bill aged out. In 1951 he was approached to take the Shelby city parks youth program. As a deacon and father of a four year old son he had to do a lot of praying until he was directed to heed the call he had when in high school, working with young people. So September 1, 1951 he was made director of the Shelby Teen Club and is still director as of April 1, 1982, going on thirty years serving the youth of Shelby and Cleveland County.

During the next thirty one years Bill helped charter the Shelby Optimist Club where he served as the first full term President, then Lt. Governor for two terms, was boys work director for a number of years organizing three Junior Optimist Clubs, the Kadets, and other youth clubs trying to give his son and the youth of Shelby a wholesome place to live and grow up in. All the time Mildred was helping out until 1963.

In 1963 Bill went into the insurance business for himself and for the second time Mildred had to go to work and has been working since. Son Lewis graduated From Carolina in Chapel Hill in 1969 and is married and now with DuPont in Wilmington, N.C.

Bill, over the years, has been honored a number of times, too numerous to mention here, but one of the highest honors he received that can be mentioned is one after twenty-nine years working as director of the Shelby Teen Club. The Rotary Club of Shelby with some two hundred Teen Club members held a "Bill Baley Day" in December 1978, at their regular luncheon meeting, without "Bill" knowing about it until at the meeting. The Mayor presented him with a plaque and the key to the City of Shelby. Ten of the Teen Club members presented him with $100.00 each, and a sterling silver engraved platter, a number of remarks. Mildred was presented a sterling silver Christmas cross for her work with Bill during these years. To top it all WBTV, Charlotte, N.C. "Carolina Camera" made movies of the Rotary meeting then came out to the Teen Club Saturday night meeting and made more movies and aired the film over WBTV, Charlotte, N.C. December 29, 1978. Their son and his wife and children were present at the Rotary meeting. Neither Bill or Mildred knew they were in Shelby.

Over the many years of youth work, Bill has worked with some twenty thousand teenagers and pre-teenagers through various organizations. Some twelve hundred of these through the Shelby Teen Club, hoping to make Shelby and Cleveland County a better place to live and work. To plant a seed in young people that might grow into a large strong personality.

At this writing, April 1, 1981, Bill and Mildred are members of the First Baptist Church, Mildred a PBX operator at Cleveland Memorial Hospital in Shelby for the past fifteen years. Bill is executive secretary of the Shelby Merchants Association and has been for fourteen years; an Insurance Agent for the past thirty-six years and still Director of the Shelby Teen Club going on thirty-one years.

Their son, Lewis Josiah Baley, III is living with his family in Wilmington, N.C. working as fourth man with DuPont. September 27, 1969 he married his wife Sandra Kay Emory, the third child of Woodrow John Emory and Flossie Webb Emory born at Weaverville, North Carolina November 6, 1947. They have two children, Jennefer Gray Baley born in Wilmington, Hanover County, North Carolina, June 17, 1975 and Lewis Josiah Baley, IV, born in Wilmington, N.C. September 20, 1977

Sources: Family records: family bible: newspaper clipping: personal letters: personal knowledge and memories.

— Lewis Josiah "Bill" Baley, Jr.

L. J. "Bill" and Mildred Grigg Baley

THE ROBERT BARBER FAMILY OF KINGS MOUNTAIN

235

Robert (called Robin) Barber was born in 1855, York County, South Carolina and Sophronia Loutisha Elvira (called Fronie) Crawford, born 1856, Catawba County, North Carolina, were married in Bethany community in 1874 and lived in Robin's homeplace which is now Park lands.

They had nine living children before losing home and all possessions in a fire about 1893, after which they moved to Kings Mountain. Robin's mother was a Mauney whose family were leaders and pioneers of the town and the Barbers were given much help to make a new start. Two more children were born after the move.

The Barbers built a home on corner lot of Piedmont Avenue and Parker Street and lived there until their deaths (Fronie in 1918; Robin in 1928) and burial at Mountain Rest. Shortly before Robin died, he sold the property to Henry Jones with the premise that he be allowed to live there during his natural life.

Robin operated a meat market next to the Dilling Mill store. He became a leading Elder of the Presbyterian Church and was leader of the Men's Bible Class until his death. A member of the family has in her possession a commendation of love and respect to him, signed by his class, which included many then and future leaders of the town of Kings Mountain.

Their family, listed below, married and had large families in and around Kings Mountain and their grandchildren spreading out over the country. All tried to be decent law-abiding citizens, contributing to their communities in various ways, all trying to make their world a better place in which to live.

Barber's sons and daughters:

Thomas I., born 1875, married Alice Simpson, lived Rock Hill, S.C.

Eliza Laura, born 1876, married Ben Huffstetter, lived Gastonia, N.C.

Sarah Ann, born 1879, married William Turner, lived Gaffney, S.C.

Barbara Alice, born 1881, married William Howard Jenkins, lived Kings Mountain (K.M.)

William Banks, born 1883, married Elizabeth Ashby, lived K.M.

Emma Jane, born 1884, married Decator Norman and James T. Hord, lived K.M.

Lela Frances, born 1887, married Dock Henry Houser, lived K.M.

George Caldwell, born 1888, married Bess Eaker and Amanda Jane Rhea, lived K.M.

Thomas Lee, born 1891, married Jennie Knox and Doris Sims, lived Atlanta.

Jessie Augustus, born 1894, married Bryte Carpenter, lived Shelby, N.C.

Jettie Mae, born 1896, married William Rhodes, lived Tampa, Fla.

Both Robin and Fronie were descendants of early pioneers who settled on both sides of the borderline of North Carolina and South Carolina, Old Tryon County and York County.

Among Robin's ancestors were:

John Barber (c1748-1843) who landed Charleston in December of 1772, passenger of ship "Pennsylvania Farmer", one of the five ships chartered by the party of Ulster-Scots headed by the Covenanter Presbyterian minister William Martin . . . a veteran of American Revolution . . . lived in Fairfield District, S.C., location of his first land grant. He later settled on Clark's Fork, Bullocks Creek, York County, S.C.

Christian Mauney, Sr. (1741-1815) first land grant in what is now Lincoln County, N.C., whose home was used as the first courthouse and jail for the community . . . a Revolutionary War Patriot.

Jacob Rein (Rhyne) who died 1794, Old Tryon County.

Pieter Heyl (Peter Hoyle) (1710-1761) settler, Old Tryon. Hoyle, along with Mauney and Rhyne were of German ancestry.

Among Fronie's ancestors were:

William Crawford (1747-1813) another member of the Martin Party from Northern Ireland, who brought the trade of "stone-cutter" to the area and passed it down to his descendants, among them Fronie's father. Settled on Crowder's Creek below the North/South Line, York County.

David McCarter (c1757-1818) Veteran of Revolution, S.C. Militia, settled on Crowder's Creek below the line . . . blacksmith and planter.

Andrew Falls (c1735-1798) and Robert Ferguson (died 1794) both early settlers in area of Pisgah community, now Gaston County, North Carolina.

Col. Frederick Hambright, Sr. (1727-1817), a well documented hero and public figure of the area, and for whom the DAR Chapter of Kings Mountain is named.

The author remembers her grandfather Robin as a tall distinguished elderly man who walked with a cane and sat in his seat of the church sideways, watching to see that each member of his large family attended. Each absentee would be contacted soon after. If one of them whispered or giggled during services they would hear the gentle tap of his cane as though he had accidentally moved it.

Several years ago the author was in Kings Mountain visiting an old friend and had decided, because of a heavy travel schedule, not to attend services as she always does when there. She slept late, awaking with a start, thinking someone was rapping at the door. No one was there and suddenly she remembered her grandfather's cane. She quickly dressed and made the service as the first hymn was being sung.

Sources: Courthouse records, family Bibles, a manuscript John Barber, Pioneer, Kings Mountain Library.

— Ruth Jenkins Curley
(Mrs. E. Patrick)

THE JOHN FRANK BARNER FAMILY

236

My father, John Frank Barner, was born June 25, 1907 in Mooresboro, North Carolina. His parents were Simpson Daniel Barner and Elizabeth Horne Logan Barner.

Daddy attended school in Lattimore, North Carolina where at age ten or twelve he entered as a primer grade student. It was not until that time that a school for blacks was established in the area where he lived. He walked about three miles to a one teacher school which was a room in an old "dwelling" house. His teacher, who had a minimum of a seventh grade education, taught reading, writing, spelling, geography, and arithmetic to students in grades primer through six. The students had to buy the books they used in school.

In those days school terms lasted only three months out of a year. Classes began at eight in the morning and were dismissed for the day at four in the afternoon. There was a one hour lunch period, and because he seldom carried anything for lunch, Daddy usually spent his lunch break playing baseball.

Daddy's schooling ended when he completed the fourth grade. At that time the school was moved from the Lattimore area to the Rehobeth area, and the distance from Daddy's home to the new school site was too far for him to walk.

Over the years Daddy has worked at a variety of jobs. He has farmed (seventy-five cents a day/twenty dollars a month and board), done construction work (two dollars and fifty cents a day), worked on a railroad section force (about twenty-eight dollars every two weeks), dug holes and set posts for Southern Bell (thirty dollars a week), cleared area for steel towers and cut right-of-ways for Duke Power (sixty-six dollars every two weeks), dug ditches for sewage lines, picked peaches in South Carolina, and worked in a dairy.

On November 8, 1930, Daddy married Jewell Withrow (born May 5, 1912), daughter of John Calvin Withrow and Caroline Elliott Withrow (see related article on "The John Calvin Withrow Family"). To this union was born five sons: (1) John Virgil born August 5, 1931, (2) Albert Daniel born March 11, 1940, (3) Frank Calvin born February 22, 1946; (4) Theodore Samuel born February 16, 1949 — died September 18, 1977; (5) Robert Eugene born December 18, 1951; and five daughters: (1) Carolyn Elizabeth born July 21, 1932; (2) Lucinda born July 20, 1933 — died August, 1933; (3) Clara Mae born September 9, 1935; (4) Donnis Maxine born September 10, 1937; (5) Linda Ann born September 30, 1943.

Daddy is an active member of Brooks Chapel United Methodist Church located near Hollis, North Carolina. He has served there as a member of both the finance committee and the building committee, Sunday School secretary, choir treasurer, a trustee, a member of the church choir, and chairman of the trustee board.

My parents are a conscientious, generous, loving, and hardworking couple. They have always been there for us when we needed their encouragement and support. Because of their own limited schooling and the "lean" years through which they have come, Mama and Daddy have tried to instill in us a love for learning and an understanding of the value of an education.

Sources: Family memories; the family Bible, and personal knowledge.

— Linda A. Barner

CARL AUSTIN BAXTER FAMILY 237

Carl Austin Baxter (2-26-1891 — 5-13-1963) was the grandson of Captain Peter Frank Baxter (Confederate Army — Civil War) and Sarah Bess Boggs Baxter, and son of Peter Frank Baxter, Jr. and Lucinda Carpenter Baxter of Lincoln County. He was one of six children. He was a farmer and a salesman.

Carl Baxter was married January 14, 1913 in a home ceremony in Fallston, N.C., to Emma Jane Grigg, granddaughter of Burl Grigg and Malinda Baker Grigg and William Bingham and Isabella Wilson Bingham, and the only child of Henry Sidney Grigg and Samantha Ellen Bingham Grigg. Emma attended Fallston Boarding School and later Rutherford College. She taught in Cleveland and Lincoln County schools.

Seven children were born to Carl and Emma Baxter: three sons, Carl Nixon, Grady Blaine and Frank Herman; and four daughters, Jessie Irene, Laura Ellen, Madeline Elizabeth and Blanche Alice.

All graduated from Fallston High School, Fallston, N.C. Carl Nixon died in an accident the summer after graduating from high school. Jessie, Ellen, Madeline and Herman graduated from Lenoir Rhyne College, Hickory, N.C. Blaine and Blanche graduated from Boiling Springs Junior College, Boiling Springs, N.C. and High Point College, High Point, N.C. All graduated with a major in Education. Jessie, Ellen, Blaine, Madeline and Blanche pursued a career in teaching. Herman majored in Physical Education. After graduation he joined the staff of Cannon Memorial Y.M.C.A., Kannapolis, N.C.

Jessie and Madeline received the M.A. degree from the U.N.C. at Chapel Hill, N.C., Jessie also did doctoral work at the University of Michigan Ann Harbor and Columbia University, New York, New York, and Ellen the M.A. degree from Columbia University, New York, N.Y.

During her career Jessie worked as a teacher, supervisor, and consultant in Caldwell, Cleveland, Columbus and Gaston Counties and in Gastonia and Charlotte Schools. She later became a member of the staff of the University of North Carolina at Greensboro in the School of Education. She held numerous places of leadership in local and state education organizations and honorary societies.

Ellen taught in Rowan and Cleveland Counties and Shelby City Schools.

Blaine served during World War II in the U.S. Army Medical Corps as an x-ray technician station at Gorgas General Hospital, Panama Canal Zone. Following discharge, he taught and coached in Mecklenburg County for a short time and then returned to Cleveland County where he became an outstanding basketball coach, winning 475 games and losing only 58 during his entire career. Weller R. Gary, his principal at Fallston High School, a native Kentuckian who was a friend of Adolph Rupp, renowned basketball coach at the University of Kentucky, encouraged Blaine to attend some of the clinics for coaches which he directed. Blaine felt privileged to have sat at the feet of so great a teacher. After 22 years of teaching and coaching, he joined B.P. Sherer as a partner in the firm of Sherer-Baxter Oldsmobile, Shelby, N.C.

Madeline's teaching experience has been in Mecklenburg, Gaston and Lincoln County schools and Calvary Country Day School, Charlotte, N.C.

Blanche taught in Greensboro, Durham, and Charlotte City Schools.

Herman graduated from Pfeiffer Junior College, Misenheimer, N.C. and entered Lenoir Rhyne College in the Enlistment Reserve Corps during World War II. He was sent from there to Fort Bragg, N.C., where he served for a short time before being honorably discharged due to a service incurred injury. He then returned to Lenoir Rhyne College. Upon graduation he joined Cannon Memorial Y.M.C.A., Kannapolis, N.C. as a Physical Education Program Director for Youth. He later joined New Holland Farm Machinery Company, a subsidiary of Sperry-Rand, Inc., as an area representative in Florida and later in North Carolina.

Laura Ellen Baxter and Herman Alexander Beam of Fallston, N.C., were married January 4, 1958 in the First Baptist Church in Harrisonburg, Va. Herman was manager of Union Trust Company Branch Bank in Fallston. Upon retirement from the bank, he opened and operated Security Insurance and Service Corporation in Fallston until his death March 3, 1978.

Grady Blaine Baxter and Sarah Roberta Hamrick were married in a home ceremony in Shelby, N.C. October 25, 1948. They have one child, Susan Emmalyn Baxter, R.N., graduate of Lenoir Rhyne College with a degree in nursing.

Frank Herman Baxter and Bonnie Bell James were married in the First Baptist Church, Clearwater, Florida, July 13, 1947. They have two children, Timothy Carl and Patricia Carol. Timothy attended Gardner Webb College and the U.N.C. at Charlotte, concentrating in courses leading to a degree in architecture. Patricia majored in business education at Mitchell College, Statesville, N.C.

Madeline Elizabeth Baxter and Russell Mincy were married September 25, 1965 in Charlotte, N.C. Russell was a supervisor with the Department of Transportation, N.C. Division of Highways. Russell attended Lenoir Rhyne College.

Carl Austin Baxter

Emma Jane Grigg Baxter

Blanche Alice Baxter and Charles Raymond Duval of New Bedford, Mass., were married April 21, 1946, in Friendship United Methodist Church, Fallston, N.C. Charles, a Certified Public Accountant in Shelby, N.C., was Phi Beta Kappa graduate of U.N.C. at Chapel Hill and a member of the University Varsity tennis team. They have two sons, Maurice Charles and Mark Baxter Duval. Maurice graduated from U.N.C. Chapel Hill, N.C. with a degree in psychology, and from U.N.C. at Charlotte with a degree in Education. Mark graduated from the U.N.C. at Charlotte, N.C. with a degree in Criminal Justice. Maurice was married to Barbara Carpenter, October 19, 1974 in Aldersgate United Methodist Church, Shelby, N.C. Barbara graduated Phi Beta Kappa from the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor. She received a Master of Arts degree from the School of Library Science, U.N.C. at Chapel Hill.

Our homestead and land are presently owned by the Baxter children. This land is part of a grant given to Samuel Bingham, father of William Bingham grandfather of Emma Brigg Baxter, following the Revolutionary War.

Sources: Family records, personal knowledge and memories, Church records and interviews with relatives.

— The Baxter Children

THE FAMILY OF CHRISTOPHER BEAM

238

Christopher Beam born August 3, 1784 was the son of Johann Deitrich Biehm, whom the English called John Teter Beam, and Elizabeth Rudolph.

John Teter Beam was born in Hamburg, Germany. He was the son of Michael Beam and Sarah Rudolph whose father had been Emperor of Germany.

After finishing his education, and serving in the army he decided to follow the weaver's trade. To finish his training he went to Geneva, Switzerland. There he married Rebecca Reynolds. He intended to go back to Germany but in 1767 he and his wife, with two small children, John and David, came to America. In 1779 Rebecca died leaving six children, four of them having been born in America.

John Teter Beam married his second wife, Elizabeth Rudolph, in 1781. She was of German descent and a distant cousin of John Teter Beam's mother.

Christopher was the second child of his father and Elizabeth Rudolph. Christopher Beam lived with his parents on Buffalo Creek until he married Margaret Gordon of Lincoln County from another pioneer family.

Christopher Beam and Margaret Gordon Beam built a home and settled on Brushy Creek in Cleveland County, North Carolina where they owned a large estate.

A.R. Beam who wrote The Life of J. T. Beam and His Fifteen Children said of Christopher Beam: "He was a man of good judgement and gifted with business capacity".

The children of Christopher Beam and Margaret Gordon Beam were: (1) John Beam born December 2, 1809 and married Julia Ann Bennet. To this union there were born six children who were as follows; Moriah Beam m. J.J. Gardner, Martha Beam m. Rev. Monroe Bridges. To this union was born two children; Joe B. and Novella Bridges; Roxanna Beam never married. Sarah Beam m. Johnny Pruett. To this union was born one daughter, Maggie Pruett. Claudia Beam never married. (2) Lucy Beam b. December 19, 1811 m. Abe Irvin. There was one daughter, Roxanna m. Albert Blanton. (3) Abel C. Beam b. June 23, 1814 m. Lucy Camp. To this union were born one son, William Beam, and two daughters. (4) Elizabeth Carson Beam b. March 13, 1817 m. Ancil C. Irvin. To this union were born eight children: John Irvin, A.C. Irvin, James Irvin, Roxanna Irvin, Margaret Irvin, Ellen Irvin,

Marquis Lafayette Beam, October 30, 1835-June 23, 1864

Oliver P. Beam, January 21, 1832-June 23, 1864

Rachel Irvin, and Claudia Irvin. (5) Jordon Beam b. August 2, 1819 never married. (6) Ann Long Beam b. July 14, 1822 m. Walton W. Green. To this union was born one son, Sam Green. (7) Sarah Beam b. June 22, 1825 m. John Paxton Elliott. To this union were born ten children: Christopher Beam Elliott, Mary Donoho Elliott, Margaret Gordon Elliott, Thomas Forbis Elliott, Oliver Beam Elliott, Ann Elizabeth Elliott, Sarah Susan Elliott, John Daniel Elliott, Andrew Jackson Elliott, and Robert Lafayette Elliott. (8) Esther Beam b. July 21, 1828 never married. (9) Oliver P. Beam b. January 21, 1832 m. Dicy Tucker. To this union were born two children; Margaret Beam and Lafayette Beam who lived in Texas. (10) Marquis Lafayette b. October 30, 1835 never married.

Oliver P. Beam and Marquis Lafayette were killed at Petersburg, Virginia on June 23, 1864. This was a very sad time for Margaret Gordon Beam. Her two youngest sons were killed. Marquis Lafayette had written her many letters during the war years and then a letter came on June 25, 1864 from H.H. Green saying he and his brother had been shot down on June 23, 1864. She wore a black armband many days in their memory.

Christopher Beam died May 27, 1849 and is buried at Zion Baptist Church. His wife survived him many years. After the sale of the Christopher Beam estate, Margaret Beam lived with her daughter, Sarah, who married John Paxton Elliott. She died May 7, 1873 and was buried beside her husband Christopher Beam at the Zion Baptist Church cemetery.

Sources: The information on the family of Christopher Beam and Margaret Gordon Beam was taken from a Book of Sermons owned by James Gordon. This book was printed by Gil Martin and Jo Wotherspoon Edinburgh. MDCCCLXII Sold at their printing office: Gil Martin and Jo Wotherspoon, Advocate's — close, Luckenbooths, and by the booksellers in Town and Country. Other information from The Life Of J.T. Beam and His Fifteen Children by A.R. Beam — 1898.

— Mary Gordon Elliott

THE DAVID ANDERSON BEAM FAMILY

239

The roots of the Beam family in Cleveland County are older than the county itself. David Anderson Beam (8 Apr. 1861 — 10 Jan 1937) was the son of Martin Beam, Jr. (1819-1886) and Susan Margaret Petty (b. c. 1837), and a grandson of Martin Beam Sr. (b. 1771), who was the first child of John Teeter Beam (1732-1807) of Hamburg, Germany, and his first wife, Rebecca Ranyolds (1744-1779) of Geneva, Switzerland, to be born in the New World. (John T. Beam, or Baum, as the name was originally in German, the prolific patriarch of the clan, was the father of 15 children, nine of them by his second wife, Elizabeth Rudolph. His first wife was the niece of the eminent philosopher and writer, Jean Jacques Rousseau. They came to America in November, 1767, arriving in Charleston, S.C., and came to what was then Lincoln County, where he spent the next seven years working to pay off the cost of passage.)

A man of firm principles and a staunch Baptist, David A. Beam was born, raised, and lived out his life as a farmer in northern Cleveland County, on land crossed by Philadelphia-New Bethel Road and Magness Creek, southwest of Fallston and north of Shelby. Of medium stature, he wore a large "soup-strainer" moustache in the style of the times. He tended to be reserved in manner, and his German heritage was reflected in his devotion to the land and his respect for honest labor. His older brother, John Alexander Beam (1853-1928), a Baptist preacher, married Mary S. Elizabeth ("Molly") Lucas, a music teacher; an older sister, Nancy Elizabeth (1856-1929), married Millard A. Grigg, a prominent Mason of Shelby; a twin sister, Charlotte Louisa (1861-1926), became Mrs. Jerome Cline; and a younger brother, Martin Gaither (1868-1874), died at the age of 6 years — he lies buried in the Nineteenth Century Beam Family cemetery which lies on a knoll overlooking Magness Creek, and which is being restored.

On 26 December 1901, David A. Beam married Elizabeth Lee Elliott (24 July 1874 — 19 May 1948) of the Polkville area. She was a daughter of James Carson Elliott (1845-1936), a Cleveland County Confederate veteran (Co. F, 56th Regiment, N.C. Troops), well known in the area as a teacher, writer, and rural raconteur, who was the first mayor of Cherryville, and Biddy Gettys Elliott (1853-1897), of Rutherford County. As faithful to the Methodist persuasion as her husband to the Baptist, she came to live on the "Beam place," and they made their home on a hill above Magness Creek. Over time, what had originally been a log house was enlarged and covered in siding — the resultant two-storied Victorian farmhouse was painted yellow, and for a long time boasted the only coat of house paint in that area of the county. Their union was blessed by seven children, six girls and a boy, who have maintained their forebearers' interest in both religion and civic affairs, and who have found their occupations in education, nursing, and housekeeping, as well as farming, poultry breeding, and local politics.

Charlotte Susan Beam, a retired school teacher, taught for 45 years in the public schools of Cleveland, Rutherford, and Stanly counties, returning in retirement to her home on a part of the Beam farm. Lillian Biddy Beam married Nicus A. Hicks; they made their home in Norris, Tennessee, where they raised two children, Maynor and Doris. She, too, taught in Cleveland County, then worked for a number of years for T.V.A. in Knoxville. Delia Elizabeth Beam, a registered nurse, married Edwin Smiley and lived in Tennessee. They had two children, Barbara and Edwin Douglas. Esther Barbara Beam who was also a teacher, married Joseph Winfred Gaddy of Albemarle, N.C.

David Anderson and Elizabeth Beam, Wedding picture December 26, 1901

There they raised two sons, David Winfred and Charles Elliott, and, after her husband's death in 1968, she moved back to Shelby. Meredith Mae Beam a registered nurse, married Willie Coleman Doggett, and raised two boys in Shelby, Coleman Anderson and George. David Elliott Beam, only son of David A., married Ruth Azelia Spurling — their three children are Conrad, Frederick, and Selvia Elizabeth. A successful poultry breeder and hatcheryman from 1948 until his retirement in 1979, he converted "the old home place" into Beamsdale Poultry Farm and Hatchery, and built a lovely, modern brick home on the site of the old Victorian farmhouse. He was a County Commissioner, 1960-1966, and Chairman, 1964-'66. Nancy Leona Beam married John Harrell McBrayer, who served in the army during World War II as an officer in chemical warfare. They make their home in Shelby, where they have raised three children, Elizabeth, John, and James.

Today the grandchildren and great grandchildren of David A. Beam are scattered about the nation, but family roots remain deep in the soil of Cleveland County, where the Beam family continues to hold its reunion each fall.

Sources: Beam family history, census, directly obtained information.

— David Winfred Gaddy

THE DAVID ELLIOTT BEAM FAMILY

240

David Elliott Beam of "Beamsdale" at Lawndale was born May 15, 1912, the only son of David Anderson Beam (q.v.) and Elizabeth Lee Elliott, both of old Cleveland County families. Inheriting the tall, lanky frame of his mother's family, David towered above his father, and came to earn the nick-name, "Big David". As a youth he had the urge to join the army, so he journeyed to Fort Bragg, where he was disappointed at being rejected by the examining doctor because of a skipping heart, which was not known before. The doctor said, "The army needs men of slow mule disposition. A high spirited race horse will break down in no time." To help overcome his dejected feeling, David continued east to the beach before hitch-hiking home. During the Great Depression years he hitch-hiked through the States and to see the Chicago World's Fair.

After attending North Carolina State University in Raleigh, Beam returned to his home and farmed alongside his father. On January 10, 1936, he married Ruth Azelia Spurling (born April 10, 1914) and they made their home with his parents. Upon the death of his father the following year, David took over the running of the farm. He experimented with poultry and beef cattle breeding, and in 1948 established his business as Beamsdale Poultry Farm and Hatchery. He retired from the poultry business in 1979 and continues to find contentment with the cattle. Through these endeavors, he was ably assisted by his wife, Ruth. Both have been active in their New Bethel Baptist Church and have maintained a keen interest in civic and political affairs as staunch Democrats.

As a community leader, Mr. Beam served as a County Commissioner from 1960-'66, holding the position of Chairmen 1964-'66. He was among the organizers of the Cleveland County Historical Association and served as its first vice-president. He aided in the creation of the Historical Museum and served as chairman of the committee to set up the Founders Room. In 1972-'74 he was chairman of the Cleveland County Democratic Party, and in 1977 he and his wife attended the inauguration of President Carter as part of the North Carolina delegation.

Upper Cleveland County is about to realize in 1982 one of its greatest accomplishments — that of a rural water system including a filtering plant on First Broad River. David Beam has strived diligently for many years to help bring this about. He is serving as chairman of this Upper Cleveland County Sanitary District.

Three children were born to David and Ruth Beam. David Conrad (born March 1, 1938) was graduated from North Carolina State University and commissioned 2nd Lieutenant of US Army Chemical Corps. In March 1961 Conrad was assigned to the 7th Chemical Company at Fort Bragg, North Carolina. He completed jungle warfare training at Fort Sherman, Panama, Canal Zone as first in his class. He served a two year tour, spending most of this time in Europe, stationed in Hanau, Germany. Conrad joined the active reserve and in 1966 was promoted to Captain, US Army Reserve. On June 30, 1963, he married Rebecca Warlick Putnam (born April 13, 1941). They have three children, Susan Rebecca born July 1, 1966; Barbara Ann born May 23, 1969; and David Jonathan born December 8, 1970. They make their home in Charlotte, where Conrad is employed with Celanese.

James Frederick (March 10, 1940) attended Nashville (Tennessee) Auto Diesel College and is employed by the N.C. Department of Transportation, Highway Division, as a master mechanic. On December 22, 1963, he married Margaret Louise Owens (March 1, 1942). They have built a lovely home on a portion of "Beamsdale", where they live with their three children: Julie Ann born January 20, 1966, Nancy Elizabeth born May 17, 1970; and James Frederick, II born March 23, 1972. Selvia Elizabeth Beam (born October 9, 1946) attended Saint Andrews Presbyterian College at Laurinburg, North Carolina and was employed by Eastern Airlines before marriage. She was married on April 5, 1980, to James Willis Brown, Jr. of Sumter, South Carolina. They have two daughters — Caroline Elizabeth was born February 20, 1981 in Sumter, SC. Laura Ashley was born March 28, 1982 in Charlotte, North Carolina where the family now resides.

Sources: family records.

— David Gaddy

THE HERMAN ALEXANDER BEAM FAMILY

241

Herman Alexander Beam (b. May 26, 1894, d. Mar. 3, 1978) was one of nine children born to David Columbus and Josephine Alexander Beam of Fallston, North Carolina.

Herman was first married to Lura Gardner Beam. Child: Rebecca Beam graduated from Fallston High School, Converse College, and the Julliard School of Music, New York, New York, with a degree in church music. She married Donald Kirby of Detroit, Michigan. Two sons: Kevin Kirby and Alexander "Alex" Kirby.

Herman and Ellen Baxter Beam of Fallston were later married in Harrisonburg, Virginia. Ellen graduated from Fallston High School; Lenoir Rhyne College; M.A. degree Columbia University, New York, New York.

Herman completed school in Fallston and later had an intensive electrical course at Clemson College. He volunteered for military service during World War I serving in the Army in France. He and his sister, Cera Beam, Registered Nurse with American Red Cross, met by accident, at the home of Joan of Arc. Happy meeting! Later, he wrote a letter home while sitting at the table in the Hall of Mirrors in the Palace of Versailles where the peace treaty was signed two weeks earlier.

Herman returned home to enter Piedmont Boarding School in Lawndale for a course in business. Upon completion of the course, he accepted a job offer with First National Bank in Shelby, North Carolina, remaining there for about three years. When the bank officials decided to open a branch bank in Fallston in 1923, Herman was asked to become its manager, and remained in that position for about 40 years. On retiring from the bank, he opened and operated Security Insurance and Service Corporation in Fallston until his death.

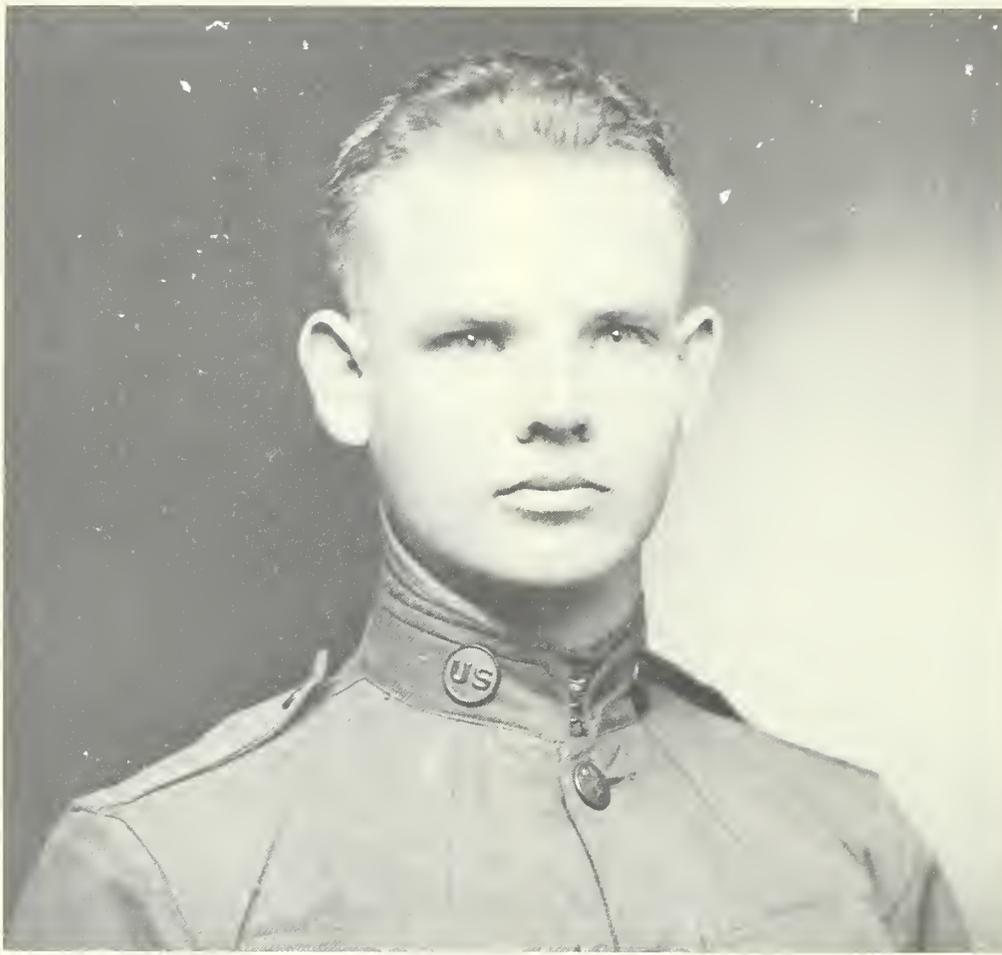

Herman was a doer. After leaving the bank he often spent as much time on community and church projects as he did in his own business. At one point in time his faithful secretary Joan Harmon said, "Mr. Beam, I'm going to have to put a 'for sale' sign in front of this office if it can't have more of your time."

Herman was a community promoter and was at his happiest when trying to make things he envisioned become realities for the betterment of all. He liked excellence in all things and put forth tremendous effort in all his undertakings.

In 1939 Herman was elected to serve as Chairman of the Building and Grounds of Fallston Baptist Church. In the spirit of christian love and helpfulness, he served in that position for thirty-eight years. During those years the present church building (1940) and Pastorium (1950) were erected. In 1967 a new vestibule, steeple, and lighting were added, along with air conditioning in 1970. Herman gave about three acres of land for the present church. He also donated the lot for the Pastorium. During each of those years he spent many hours at manual labor about the church.

Herman, a member known always for his devotion, love and support to his pastors, his church, and its work, served with heartfelt sincerity on various other committees and as a deacon and Sunday school teacher throughout the years of his life.

In 1960, Herman decided Fallston community needed an industry. Realizing Fallston must have a water system to attract industry, he sought and received the necessary help in this endeavor from our U.S. Representative, James Broyhill, of Lenoir, North Carolina, and John Ed Davis, Fa. H.A. Director in Shelby, North Carolina.

Herman Alexander Beam, 1917

Herman Alexander Beam, 1973

After months of negotiations through personal visits, letters, and telephone conversations — the great telephone call came to Herman at his office from Representative Broyhill in Washington, D.C. The Federal Government had granted to the community of Fallston the first rural Federally funded water system in the nation. A local committee was then formed through the Fallston Lion's Club to expand the idea to a supportive community.

Less than two years later, two deep wells had been drilled, the water lines laid, a water tank erected and Fallston city water was turned on. During the construction done by Col. H.K. Dickson Engineering firm of Charlotte, North Carolina, Herman was present for all the hours of drilling, laying of water lines, and the erection of the water tank. Col. Dickson said of Herman, "I have never seen, or known a man like Herman Beam. He says he was not trained as an engineer but he has the insight, knowledge, and expertise of a skilled engineer."

With the water system a reality, Herman then turned his attention and efforts to securing industries for the community. He brought a prospect to Fallston and asked him to choose a site he would like for his plant. Herman immediately took an option on the land. Then again, a community committee, through the dedicated Lion's Club was formed to help sell stock for the development of Fallston Industrial Park. Herman ultimately purchased two-thirds of the stock to get the project underway. Two years later, Starview Sportswear Inc. opened its doors as Fallston's first industry. Cy Ledgin was the happy owner and operator. Within two more years a sock manufacturing plant and box factory opened for business in Fallston Industrial Park.

Shadowline, an outstanding manufacturer of lingerie, now has a large plant in the Park.

Joseph C. Whisnant, a Shelby attorney who worked closely with Herman on legal matters along the way, said at the time of Herman's death, "Much of what Fallston is today can be attributed directly to the personal interest and efforts of Herman Beam throughout the years. The water tank itself stands as a personal monument to Herman Beam."

Herman served, at the request of the Cleveland County Board of Education, as a member of a select committee of five for the promotion of "Better High Schools for Cleveland County" through consolidation. Herman early secured options on three tracts of land for the high school in upper Cleveland County. One of the sites was chosen for the present Burn's High School.

Herman was instrumental in securing curbing and sidewalks for the two main streets in Fallston, especially for the safety of children who walked to school. Roy Dedmon, District Highway Commissioner, helped to bring that to fruition.

Herman left a trust fund of $50,000 in memory of Herman A. Beam and wife Ellen to Christian Service Foundation — Gardner Webb College of which Herman and Ellen were charter members.

Herman was a 33rd Degree Mason and Shriner, a member of the Fallston Lion's Club in which he held numerous offices, a member of the Town Council, the Upper Cleveland Chamber of Commerce, President of the Fallston Water System, and President of Fallston Industrial Committee.

Herman was a gentleman — kind, generous, conscientious, capable, and devoted to a cause.

Sources: Family records, personal letter files, Herman's sister, church records, Cleveland County court records, personal papers. Joan Harmon — personal secretary for 23 years, personal knowledge and memories. See articles of tribute to Herman in Tribute Section in back of book.

— Ellen Baxter Beam

JOSHUA BEAM

242

Joshua Beam, son of John Teeter Beam, was born July 16, 1800, in his father's home on Buffalo Creek, then in Lincoln County. Teeter Beam died in 1807, leaving his widow, son Joshua, and his younger brother Aaron in the homestead (youngest of Teeter's fifteen children). Widow Elizabeth Beam (m. 1781) had 366 acres in dower rights — both sides of Buffalo Creek including home site. In 1833 she began releasing her rights to the heirs of Teeter Beam and in the 1830's Joshua acquired the homestead, store, corn, and sawmills that belonged to his father.

On Oct. 7, 1830 Joshua married Matilda Mauney (b. Feb. 20, 1812 — d. Aug. 18, 1845). He became a successful planter and with Jacob Anthony began a merchant trade through the port at Charleston. Beam purchased land there and in Alabama.

The Beam site on New Prospect Road at Buffalo Creek is historically important in the establishment of Cleveland County. At the age of thirty-six Joshua was still living at the Teeter Beam homestead when he was host for a gathering of leading citizens from lower Rutherford and upper Lincoln counties to plan for a petition to the next N.C. General Assembly to organize a new county for that area. The meeting was on Sept. 22, 1836. Cleveland County court met first in 1841. Joshua Beam was the first trustee, a justice of the peace and in 1846-47, the second county N.C. General Assembly representative.

Around 1841, Joshua built a large new home up the hill, west of his father's homestead (which burned). His wife and mother died there before 1846. On May 14, 1848, he married Susan Heavner (b. Oct. 24, 1849).

In 1850 he owned a large estate and eighteen slaves, engaged in iron manufacturing while continuing his merchant trade, and had an interest in two gold mines. With the changing economy around 1860, Beam turned to tobacco production as a major source of income.

A nephew, Aaron Beam, lived with his uncle's family many years, and he described many interesting details of family personalities and life on this busy plantation in his History of the John T. Beam Family of Fifteen Children.

After the death of Joshua Beam Feb. 12, 1869, his widow Susan lived in their home with various family members until her death Apr. 26, 1902. They are buried in the Beam family plot in New Prospect Church cemetery.

A number of land transfers took place before the Joshua Beam house and land around it were bought by descendants of their daughter Matilda Beam Lattimore. The house was restored in 1952 by Matilda Lattimore and her husband Roy W. Morris.

In July, 1980, one of Cleveland County's oldest historic homes was entered in the National Register of Historic Homes — the Joshua Beam Home. The 150-acre farm is also owned by his great-great-great-granddaughter, Sue Morris Hopper (Mrs. Alton Hopper Jr.).

Joshua Beam was the father of seventeen children. The seven children (and spouses) of Matilda and Joshua Beam and the children of Susan and Joshua (with their spouses) are listed in the Joshua Beam File in the Cleveland County Museum.

Sources: (J.T.) Beam History County Records Family Bible

— Bea Morris

JOSEPH LUTHER BEAM

243

Joseph Luther Beam, the son of David Christie and Lizzie Nora Camp Beam, was born April 20, 1898 at the home of his parents in Cleveland County near Shelby, N.C. He attended Elizabeth School, and worked with his father until his marriage.

Joe and Addie Mae Barnett were married November 19, 1919. They had six children, four sons and two daughters. David Eugene Beam was born May 8, 1921. Eugene married Mary Sue Morehead, and they have two children, Donna Lynn Beam and David Christie Beam. Hubert Franklin Beam was born February 15, 1923. He was married to Louise Costner. They had two children, Cecelia Starr and Joseph Vance Beam. Hubert died December 18, 1966 and was buried at Sunset Cemetery in Shelby, N.C. Mattie Sue Beam was born June 20, 1925. She married John Randolph Lowery and they have one daughter, Gayla Sue Lowery. Ruby Isadore Beam was born May 17, 1927. She is married to William Glenn Sperling and they have two daughters, Carolyn Jane Sperling and Nancy Ruth Sperling. Buford Wray Beam was born April 14, 1933. He is married to Doris Ann Paxton. They have four children, Donald Wray Beam, Teresa Ann Beam, Alica Addie Beam and Myra Suzette Beam. Joseph Jackson Beam was born January 11, 1941. He is married to Madge Pack and has two children, Philip Jackson Beam and Sandra Mae Beam.

Joe and Addie bought a farm in Number Three township near Pleasant Hill Church shortly after they were married, and it was there that they reared their children. They all worked together on the family farm, and were active members of Pleasant Hill Baptist Church.

During World War II the older sons, Eugene and Hubert, were drafted into the U.S. Air Force. With a shortage of labor on the farm, Joe and Addie moved to Shelby and he served as Cleveland County Jailer for two years. He had served as a County Deputy for a number of years and had also worked with the Shelby Police Department.

When Joe and his family moved back to the farm in 1946 he and Addie saw the need for recreation for the youth and decided to build a public swimming pool on their farm. This was the beginning of Joe's Lake which was operated by Joe and Addie. The younger boys, Wray and Jack served as life guards. Joe's Lake was enjoyed by children and adults of all ages.

Addie died October 4, 1954 and was buried at Pleasat Hill Baptist Church. Joe continued to operate the swimming pool until his retirement.

Joe married Ruby Hawkins in 1955 and still lives at the family home on Joe's Lake Road near Shelby, N.C.

Sources: Family records.

— Jack Beam

MARCUS COLUMBUS and WILLIE ETTA HOYLE BEAM

244

Marcus C. Beam was born on December 1, 1886, in Cleveland County to Columbus and Jennie Baker Beam. He was one of ten children and a great-grandson of John Teeter Beam, the first Beam ancestor to come to America.

On September 16, 1908, Marcus married Willie Etta Hoyle, daughter of Van and Josephine London Hoyle. Willie was born on August 1, 1886, in Cleveland County. To this union were born ten children: Annie Laura, on July 30, 1909, who married Dever Greene; Josephine, on January 22, 1911, who married Marvin Fortenberry; Woodrow, on November 25, 1912, who married Annie Lou Harmon; Columbus, on July 22, 1914, who married Ruth Hamrick; Marcus E., on June 3, 1916, who married Alda Parker; Jennie Lou, on September 10, 1918, who married Garland Jones; Frances, on August 20, 1920, who married Marshall Wolfe; Mary Baker, on August 28, 1922, who married Floyd Mode; William B., on August 8, 1925, who married Helen Quinn; and Jeanne, on February 25, 1928, who married Wallace Early.

Life on our farm was a lot of hard work during the growing season. We grew cotton, corn, and small grain crops, and all of us worked in the fields. We had a large garden and our mother, with the help of the older children, canned vegetables, fruits, and meats for our winter use. We had a good orchard and dried many pounds of apples and peaches during the hot summer months.

My father and brothers were busy in winter sawing and cutting wood for the fireplace and the big Home Comfort range on which our mother prepared many delicious meals for her family. She was a great cook and it was not uncommon for her to bake eight pies during the working season. Her days were always full with ten children to cook and sew for. She did lots of patching our jeans back then as we had to wear them until they were threadbare.

We usually took Saturday afternoon off from farm work to get ready for Sunday. My father took the eggs and home-churned butter to Shelby. There he traded them for the things we didn't have, such as bath soap, sugar, soda, baking powder, and salt. My mother made her own lye soap for the laundry when we were growing up. We children always looked forward to a treat when our father got back from Shelby. He would sit down with the two youngest on his knees and give all of us some candy. In those days Christmas time was the only time we had plenty of fruit. Santa Claus always saw to it that we got plenty of nuts, raisins, oranges, tangerines, and apples for Christmas.

Our parents, Marcus and Willie, were wonderful people. They were lifetime members of New Prospect Baptist Church where we attended the services each Sunday. We had a happy life and I treasure the memories of those many years when we didn't have electricity or modern conveniences.

After a lingering illness, Marcus died on February 9, 1960. On June 18, 1965, Willie Etta passed away. As of this writing, February 18, 1982, all ten children are living. We keep in touch and have a family get-together each year at Christmas.

Sources: Family records

— Mrs. Frances B. Wolfe

THOMAS "TOM" PHILLIP BEAM

245

Thomas "Tom" Phillip Beam, son of Christopher Columbus Beam and Amanda Jenny Baker Beam, was born July 10, 1884, in Cleveland County, North Carolina, the oldest of ten children. He attended the local community schools for several years. Then he went to Piedmont Boarding School in Lawndale, North Carolina, where, along with school work, he met Cora Madda Burns.

On August 25, 1905, at the age of twenty-one, he married Cora Madda Burns, twenty, daughter of William Burns and Fannie Lou Hamrick Burns of nearby Rutherford County. The newly wed couple made their home in Cleveland County for several years and then went to Tennessee for a year. One other short period was spent in Polk County, North Carolina before settling in Rutherford County where Tom purchased some land near Ellenboro, North Carolina; and he and a brother, Josh, built his home from rocks gathered in the nearby fields.

Tom truck farmed for a living, carrying the produce from his crops to Asheville to the Farmers' Market and to various other mountain areas, sometimes even to Tennessee, to sell. Meanwhile, Cora was busy at home taking care of her home and raising their family, as well as at times helping in the fields to plant, hoe, tend and pick the crops. The girls shared in helping with the crops as they became old enough. In later years, Tom raised hogs and marketed them for a living. Many times he would have probably forty to fifty sows and numerous pigs.

In their sixty-two years of marriage, Tom and Cora had six children — all daughters:

Louise (July 14, 1906) married Otto Moore;

Daisy (December 20, 1907) married E. Yates Spangler;

Tennis (May 2, 1910) married Cyrus Wilson;

Meredith (September 22, 1912) married Reid Bedford;

Elizabeth (December 9, 1915) married Esko Brackett;

Madeline (October 23, 1917 — September 20, 1918).

Cora crocheted, tatted and made quilts when not busy with the regular work. She made enough quilts so they would have plenty to use and then made one for each of her granddaughters. At that time, quilts were made to be used to keep warm, not as decorative items like many today. They used whatever scraps of material they had and formed them into beautiful patterns and designs. Crocheted and tatted items were made for tables, chair back and arms, as well as tableclothes and trim.

TV was a rather new device on the market the last several years of Tom's life. He would never give in to have one and never watched one to amount to anything. Cora enjoyed watching the cartoons and the news, but even when she had a TV in the house the last year or so of her life, she only watched occasionally. Radio was a different story. It was a daily ritual to turn the radio on for the news, weather and obituaries. When time permitted, there were other favorite programs, too.

They always enjoyed company coming. They loved to sit and talk about old times, old friends, politics and the changing world around them. Cora usually had some teacakes or some type of sweets cooked and the grandchildren always seemed to have hunger pains about the time they arrived.

Their house was surrounded by lovely flowers and trees. No grass, to amount to anything to mow, because beneath the trees was a garden of flowers — Siberian iris, old fashioned iris, daffodils, thrift, wildflowers of all kinds, etc. In the side yard, Tom had his favorite cannas. The front yard had a small goldfish pond. It was the grandchildren's delight to dip their hands or feet into this pond, stepping on the flowers around it as they went.

They always enjoyed going to the mountains. To Tom, it was going back to familiar territory where he had carried produce so many times. And then there was always the beauty and magnificence of the rolling mountains that only God could have created.

Tom died January 3, 1968 at the age of eighty-three, and Cora died July 1, 1970 at the age of eighty-four. They are buried in the Ellenboro Baptist Church Cemetery.

Source: family Bible, personal knowledge

— Theresa Lowe

WILLIAM AARON BEAM FAMILY

246

William Aaron Beam was born February 28, 1884 at the old home place one and one-half miles northeast of New Prospect Baptist Church. He was one of six children born to Dr. Joshua Franklin and Eugenia Parham Beam. He grew up on the farm and helped his father with the farming operations since his father was a large land owner in Cleveland and Lincoln Counties.

He met and married Helen Payseur of the Tryon Community in Gaston County. They moved to the farm in Lincoln County known as the Parham Place near Rockdale. There he farmed and operated a sawmill powered with the steam engine. While living at the Parham Place, two daughters were born to them. Margaret Beam married Ernest Lee Bowers from Morganton, who was electrocuted several years later at the Morganton High School Ball Park near Grace Hospital. Five days later, their only son, Ernest Lee Bowers, Jr., was born and now resides in Rock Hill, South Carolina, with his wife, Mabel. Margaret has since married Roby Williams of Valdese, North Carolina.

The second daughter, Gretchen Beam, married Herman D. Willis of Fallston and lives in the New Prospect Church Community. They have two sons. Their first son, Dennis, married twice, first Judy Martin of Cherryville, they had one daughter, Denise Willis. Dennis later married Judy Canipe of Cherryville and they have a son, Bryson Willis.

The second son, Stephen Aaron Willis, married Connie Dellinger of Lawndale and lives in the Fallston Community.

William Aaron and Helen Beam, with their two daughters, moved to the home place in the New Prospect Church Community. William Parham Beam, their only son, was born May 7, 1922. He as well as his sisters, grew up on the farm and attended and graduated from Waco High School. He served in the Quartermasters Corp during World War II. After the war he came back to the farm and married Mildred Fortenberry. They have one son, William Parham Beam, Jr., who graduated from Western Carolina University and he married Susan Spangler who also graduated from Western Carolina.

The fourth child, Lena Jo Beam, was born to this union and she married Larry Williams of Charlotte. She graduated from Kings Business College in Charlotte. Lena Jo and Larry Williams have four children. Larry Williams, Jr., of Charlotte; Kathy Williams who married Douglas Griffin of Charlotte, (they have a daughter, Shannon.); Debra Williams resides with her mother in Boone, North Carolina; and Joe Beam Williams, who lives with his wife, Suzanne, in Charlotte.

William Aaron Beam continued farming and was, also, a good finish carpenter and had a lot of mechanical ability. He could and did make some beautiful furniture. He loved machinery and was a fanatic about cleanliness. All machinery was properly oiled, greased and cleaned. He did custom work with his machinery for his neighbors and, also, helped his neighbors build barns and some of their houses. He sawed lumber with his sawmill for his own buildings and for the people in the community to build houses and barns.

He was contacted by the Rural Electrification Commission about the availability of

JAMES THEODORE BEASON FAMILY

248

James Theodore "J.T." Beason (1869-1948) was born in Cleveland County between Boiling Springs and the Trinity Church Community. He was the eldest son of John Beason (1864-1913) and Elvira Jane Green (1851-1920). I have been told by elderly family members that J.T. Beason's grandfather's name was Robert and his great-grandfather's name was Joseph Beason, the first to come from Europe; they said Stokes, England. J.T. Beason had two brothers Charles and Cliff, and six sisters, Emma, Radar, Dovie, Della, Betty, and Evie. During his early years J.T. Beason lived with his father in a home which still stands today between Trinity and Mooresboro. It is known as the Morris Blalock home today.

As a young man, J.T. Beason met and married Cora Lee. They had five children, a daughter Pearl and sons, Wayland, Winburn Hubert and Belton Gibson (my father). Cora Lee Beason died around 1909 at a very early age, leaving J.T. Beason with children ages 9 to 18 to care for. He moved about from time to time as jobs required. For awhile he ran a mill store in Henrietta, later moved to Hendersonville, NC.

In the early 1920's, not long after marrying his second wife, Beuna Lee (1886-1951) J.T. Beason settled in Shelby, NC where he lived on North Morgan Street until his death in 1948. He spent the last 25 years or so as a traveling shoe salesman and was known affectionally as "Shoe Jim."

Belton Gibson Beason (1900-1952), my father, married a Boiling Springs native, Maggie Jane Hamrick (1901). Born to this union, were four sons, James Landrum, Robert Hoyle, Carl Lee, and Bill Gibson, and a daughter, Margaret Jane. Just after he was married, B.G. Beason operated a service station in Shelby for about a year, then in 1926 he moved to Boiling Springs and established a sandwich Manufacturing Company, Cleveland Sandwich Co., in the olde Bank Building on Main Street.

In the early years B.G. Beason made and delivered sandwiches to textile plants where they were pushed through the plants on "Dope Wagons" and sold to employees. Times were tough and he worked almost around the clock, but the business survived and grew. In 1933, tragedy struck and fire destroyed the business. B.G. Beason did not quit. Sandwiches went out on schedule the next day, thanks to generosity of Boiling Springs Junior College (now Gardner Webb) who allowed him to use their kitchen facilities. He rented another building in Boiling Springs until a new building could be constructed. B.G. Beason established the Snack Shop as a retail outlet for his sandwiches and this venture developed into a full fledged restaurant. The companies are still in operation today, after 56 years.

B.G. Beason was active in Civic and Community affairs. He supervised the construction of the Royster Clinic for free in order to save money for the project. He was a Charter member of the Boiling Springs Lions Club which he helped to establish. He was a deacon in the Crawley Memorial Hospital; and, he also chaired the fund raising committee for Crawley Memorial.

A former trustee of Gardner-Webb College in Boiling Springs; Jim was a director of the Bulldog Club, and nominated as Bulldog of the year 1974-1975. He supported the basketball team faithfully, and attended almost all of their games, whether at home or away.

He was on the Board of Directors at Independence National Bank; he served as a Mason, and as a member of the Woodman of the World. Jim joined the Shelby Lions Club at an early age, and when the Boiling Springs Lions Club was organized he became a charter member.

Being a member of the Boy Scouts when young, he still enjoyed this club as an adult and went with the scouts to camp as a leader. For a number of years he served as a Scout Committeeman.

Jim married Helen Frances Whisenant, born May 2, 1923, daughter of Philip M. Whisenant and Lorena Cantrell Whisenant. Helen was a student at Boiling Springs Junior College when they first met. Jim and Helen were married a year later on August 31, 1941 in Chesnee, South Carolina.

Jim was the father of five children, three girls and two boys. Elizabeth Jane Beason, born 1942, and married Rodney R. Nolen. They have two sons, Scott and Jamie.

Mary Frances Beason, born 1944, was married to Talmadge Lee Turner. They have four children, Tammy, Chris, Todd, and Tricia.

Nancy Lee Beason, born 1946, married Tommy C. Greene. They have two children, Angie and Jonathon. They are now divorced.

James Landrum Beason, Jr., born 1956, married Sandra Leigh Sherman.

John Terry Beason, born 1959, married Elizabeth Ann Russell.

All five children and eight grandchildren were born in Cleveland County and still reside there with their families.

Jim had several hobbies. His favorite was going fishing with his friends. Every October he went to the Outer Banks of North Carolina with his brother Robert, and his friends Herman Howington, Horace Willis, and Ned Blanton. He also liked to water ski. Having a house at Lake Lure, North Carolina, Jim and his family spent most of the summer there fishing, skiing, boating, and entertaining friends. He also enjoyed cooking and inviting friends to his home.

On any Saturday, Jim could be found at the local flea markets with his good friend John Washburn. Looking for more antique White House Vinegar bottles to add to his prize collection was another of his favorite pastimes.

Jim died on June 28, 1981 at Cleveland Memorial Hospital at the age of 55. He was buried at Cleveland Memorial Park.

Sources: Family Bible, family memories.

— Helen Whisenant Beason

electricity for this community. He started signing up his neighbors from Waco through the New Prospect Church Community to near Highway 18 to the E.G. Clark Farm. It was a joyous time when lines were built and he had electricity for the first time.

William Aaron and Helen Beam were active members of New Prospect Baptist Church as well as all of their children. He was always interested in the church and participated in group maintenance of church cemetery. He always, with the help of others, built tables for the Annual Beam Reunion and attended each reunion.

William Aaron Beam passed away at his home on December 23, 1956, after a tumor was removed from his brain at Memorial Hospital in Charlotte. He was buried in Sunset Cemetery in Shelby. He lived to be 72 years of age. His wife, Helen Beam, passed away in Cleveland Memorial Hospital in Shelby, January 14, 1978, and was buried beside her husband at Sunset Cemetery, also. She lived to be 91 years of age.

Sources: Family knowledge, family records.

— Wm. Parham Beam, Sr.

JAMES LANDRUM BEASON, SR.

247

James L. Beason was born in Cleveland County on August 30, 1925 to Belton Gibson Beason and Maggie Jane Hamrick Beason. He was the grandson of James Theodore Beason, Cora Lee Beason, John Landrum Hamrick and Docia Etta Green Hamrick. He was the brother of Robert Hoyle Beason, Billy Gibson Beason, Carl Lee Beason, and Margaret Beason White. Their homeplace and land is presently owned by Robert Hoyle Beason and Billy Gibson Beason.

Jim, his father, and his brother Carl, are deceased and buried in Cleveland County. His father died January 15, 1952 and his brother, Carl, on September 29, 1943.

Jim attended Boiling Springs Elementary School and Boiling Springs High School. He was a member of the Boiling Springs Baptist Church where he held many offices throughout the years, including positions of former deacon and R.A. leader.

Jim's father founded Cleveland Sandwich Company in 1926. Sandwiches were made in a small building on Main Street in Boiling Springs and then sold to concessions, particularly in textile mills, around the Carolinas. This same year, he opened the Snack Shop, on outlet for the Sandwich Company's product.

Jim grew up in the family business, starting to work at an early age, after school and on weekends. When his father died, he took over management and eventually acquired ownership from his mother. He worked there until his death. At the present time, his oldest son, James Beason, Jr. is managing the family business for his mother.

Jim was a Boiling Springs Town Commissioner from 1947 until 1975. He was a former chairman of the Democratic Committee in his district, a former board chairman at Boiling Springs Baptist Church. He donated thousands of sandwiches to flood victims in Kentucky in the 1930's.

James Landrum Beason Sr. (1925-1981) (SEE BIOGRAPHY: JAMES LANDRUM BEASON SR.)

Robert Hoyles Beason (1926) was born in Shelby and attended public schools and Gardner Webb College in Boiling Springs. He graduated from UNC School of Pharmacy in Chapel Hill in 1951. While at Gardner Webb, he met and married a Gaston County native, Iva Jean Kincaid (1927). Two children were born to this marriage, a daughter, Sherry Jean and a son, James Theodore II.

After graduation Robert Beason came to work for Boiling Springs Drug Co., a company he established along with his father and W. Wyan Washburn, MD, in the fall of 1949. This was to be the first drug store in Boiling Springs to be operated by a pharmacist. Robert continued to operate the Company until November 1980, when he retired and the company was sold. Robert Beason lives with his wife, Iva Jean, a public school teacher, on Wall Avenue in Boiling Springs. He enjoys gardening, hunting, fishing, cooking, and singing in the church choir, where he has been a member for more than 25 years.

James Theodore Beason II (1954) is married to Cindy Gibbs. They have a daughter, Laura Ann (1980). Ted lives in Clayton, NC where he is a pharmaceutical Sales Representative.

Sherry Jean Beason (1954), married to Brian Baron, now divorced and lives on Hillcrest Street with her son Paul Robert Baron (1978). Sherry is a public teacher in Rutherford County.

Carl Lee Beason (1928-1942) contracted polio at age 2 and died at age 14.

Billy Gibson Beason (1930) married to Patricia Thompson (1930), have three sons, Carl Gibson, Belton Lee, and David Scott. Bill Beason attended public schools and Gardner Webb College in Boiling Springs. He served a tour of duty with United States Marines and later received a degree from State College Raleigh in Furniture Management. After graduation, he worked for furniture companies in Virginia for a few years. He returned to NC and was employed at Broyhill Furniture, where he climbed to plant manager. An organizational specialist he served as plant manager of three different plants until his retirement in 1980. Bill lives with his wife Patricia, a public school teacher in Lenoir, North Carolina, and enjoys gardening and working in his wood working shop.

Carl Gibson Beason, b. 1954, married to Debra Collins has one son, Joshua Issac Beason b. 1979. He lives in Lenoir and is employed by Broyhill Industries.

Belton Lee Beason, b. 1958, lives in Rutherfordton, North Carolina, and is employed at Broyhill Industries.

David Scott Beason, b. 1960, is a student at NC State University in Raleigh.

Margaret Jane Beason, b. 1936, married to Charles Heyward White, lives in Boiling Springs, North Carolina, and has seven children and one grandchild.

Sources: Family members, Cemetery Personal knowledge

— Robert H. Beason

JOHN WILLIAM BELL

249

John William Bell (born April 2, 1906) first arrived in Cleveland County during the mid 1920's. He was working this area selling automobile parts to garages and service stations.

A native of Rock Hill, South Carolina he was the son of Roby Eli Bell (1871-1949) and Margaret Bruce Bell (1881-1967). Named for his grandfathers John Lawrence Bell (1845-1922), and William Brasington Bruce (1844-1930), both residents of Heath Springs, South Carolina, he had inherited his instinct for business from both the Bell and Bruce families; as both were engaged in various business enterprises.

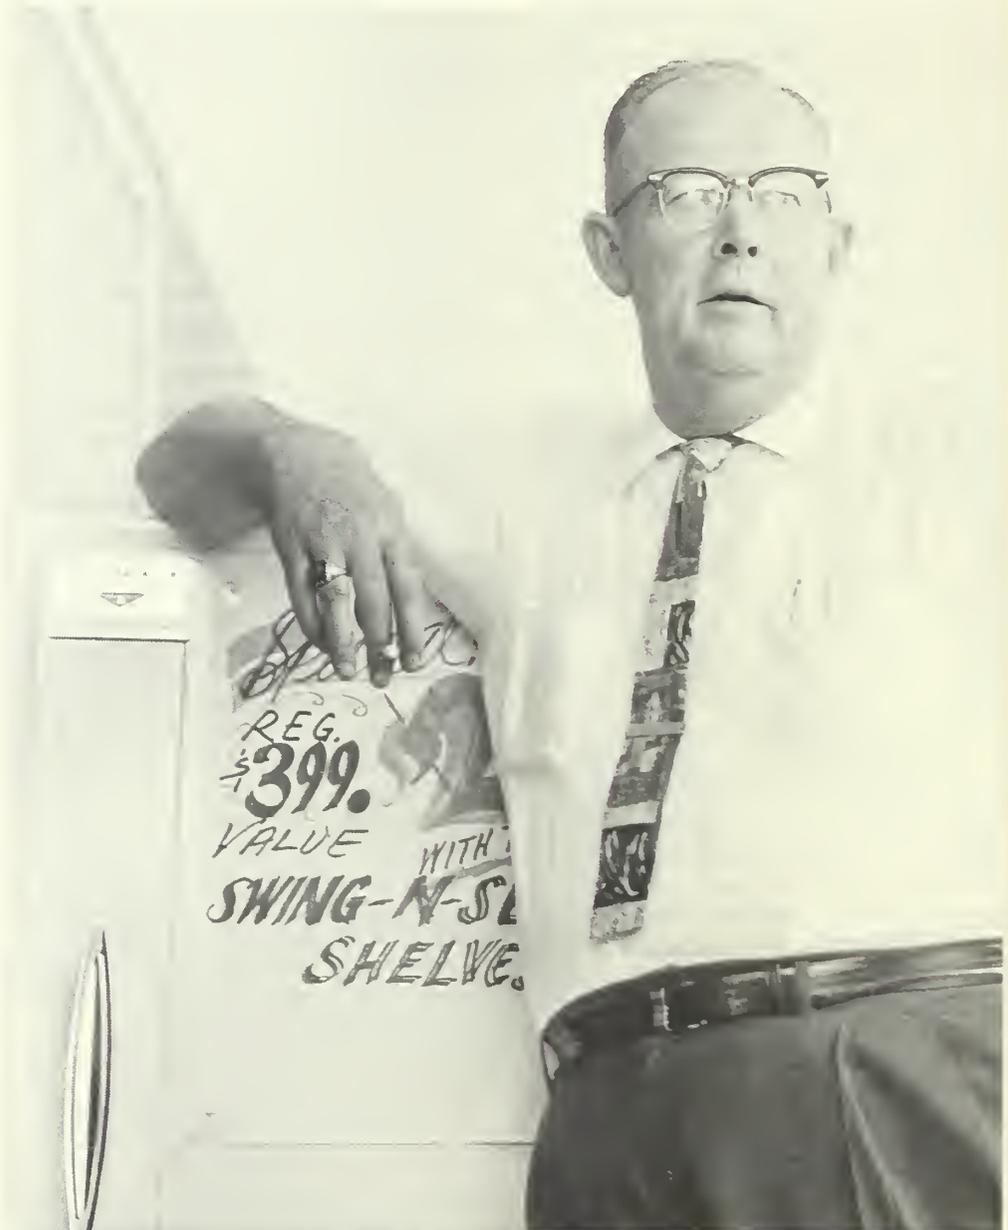

While boarding in Lawndale and working the Cleveland-Rutherford area, John met and married Mary Williamson, daughter of Charles (1867-1928) and Hester McMurry (1872-1961) Williamson of the Rehobeth Community.

John and Mary Bell started their first business of general merchandise and service station in 1929. "Bell's General Merchandise" was first located halfway between Lattimore and New House and soon became known as the "Route Four" store.

By the mid 1930's Mr. Bell had heard of a business in eastern Tennessee which took their line of merchandise to the rural mountain people in large van trucks. Upon visiting this operation, Mr. Bell purchased a used van and soon established Bell's Rolling Stores. Before long, his three rolling store trucks were covering all of rural Cleveland and Rutherford Counties. The trucks often covered a route of over 100 miles a day and usually visited each farm once a week.

Rather than an exchange of money for groceries, cloth, tools, or seed, often farm produce was exchanged for items on the trucks. Many nights the trucks returned to the "Route Four" store filled with farm items which had been traded, i.e. chickens, eggs, butter, molasses and home-grown produce.

In 1940 truck loads of chickens which had been traded began being shipped to Philadelphia several times a month. On the return trip to Cleveland County, used furniture and antiques were transported.

John W. Bell

John W. Bell's Rolling Store

Business continually increased and additional stores, corn mills, and warehouses were needed to house the large variety of merchandise carried. Stores were opened in Hollis and Lattimore, in addition to the "Route Four" store, to expand the items carried to include appliances, groceries, small farm equipment, clothing, and antiques.

The Rolling Stores became so well known that in January 1940, a reporter for The State magazine rode on one Rolling Store route in order to write about the "Store on Wheels." The Rolling Store trucks continued their routes until the gas and tire shortages during World War II caused their retirement.

During the late 1940's the main headquarters for Bell Stores Incorporated moved to 136 Main Street, Lattimore and several years later the stores in Hollis and on "Route Four" were sold.

Bell's General Merchandise of Lattimore was expanded several times to carry a complete line of clothing, major appliances, farm equipment, household goods, shoes, groceries, gasoline, and antiques. There were few items customers could not find in one-step shopping with Bell's.

The Bell children, Marca, Billy, Robert, and Steve grew up in and around the store as both parents worked many long hours to insure a successful business with many satisfied customers.

The demand grew for major household appliances, and freight car loads of refrigerators, freezers, washers, dryers, and ranges were often delivered to Lattimore by train. Mr. Bell's reputation for honest deals and low prices drew customers from as far away as Charlotte and Hickory.

In 1964 Mr. Bell decided to sell out his general merchandise line to Plonk Stores in Kings Mountain and concentrate on expanding his antique business which had always been a favorite with him.

As the antique business grew, tractor-trailer sized container loads of antiques from England, Portugal, Holland, and Denmark were shipped to Bell's Antiques. His line of American and European antiques brought antique dealers from throughout the country to Lattimore.

John Bell died in 1973 at the age of 67 leaving the management and operation of Bell's Antiques to his wife Mary and son Steve.

The wholesale antique business continues to thrive today as honesty and fair trade continue to be a vital part of the business ideals John William Bell and Mary Williamson Bell first established in 1929.

Sources: Family knowledge.

— Joyce Davis Bell

THE THOMAS BENNETT FAMILY

250

Thomas Bennett was born in Cornwall, England, December 18, 1801. He came to America before 1835 and worked in the Catawba Gold Mine south of Kings Mountain. He was a superintendent and made five dollars a day. Thomas married Nancy Costner and they lived on a farm on York Road (Highway 161) out of Kings Mountain. Some of the land remains with Bennett descendants, but the homeplace acre was recently sold for development.

Thomas's and Nancy's children were Joseph, April 24, 1836 — May 11, 1914, Elizabeth, November 13, 1838 — January 1, 1916 (1. Henry Huffstetler (2) Charles Foster), William, 1841 — March 11, 1914, (Margaret Adams), Sarah, April 15, 1842 — December 29, 1919, John 1845 — September 1, 1924 (Rhoda Roxannah Bumgardner), Mary, 1846 — died when a young girl, Benjamin, 1849 — died before 1870, Margaret Ann, 1852 — died before 1914 (David Mabry), Martha, February 2, 1855 — May 3, 1934 (Pinkney Bumgardner).

Thomas died December 7, 1856 and Nancy died February 7, 1891. Both are buried in Old Pisgah Cemetery off Highway 74 in Gaston County.

Joseph and William Bennett served in Company D, 14th Regiment (N.C.) Infantry, known as the "Cleveland Blues". Both served four years and were present at the Battle of Gettysburg. John served with Company K, 49th Regiment (N.C.) Infantry for three years until his capture days before the Battle of the Craters in Petersburg, Virginia. He was in Elmira Prison, New York until the war's end, about ten months.

Joseph went to Texas after the war and made money in real estate. He went to England to investigate a legacy left to his father's heirs. He, in turn, willed his brothers and sisters his wealth.

William lived in the Crowders Mountain township and his children were William W., John Thomas and Joseph Wilson.

John raised his family on the Thomas Bennett farm and his children were Robert (Ella Lynch), Mary Alice (John Jones), James (Minnie Jones), Nona (John Ford), Ollie (Carl Mayfield), Wade (Nancy Ivester), Harvey (Isabelle Burgess), Arthur (Mary Jane Wright), and Guss Sales (Lillie Mae Ramsey).

Sarah and Elizabeth lived near John. Sarah's children were Frances Bennett Yates, Mollie B. Lanear, Zeb and Wes. Elizabeth's children were Lenora, William and David Huffstetler.

Margaret's children were John, Vinnie (Estridge), Joe, Dorus, Caleb, Ida (Barrett), Minnie (Whitesides), Viola (Briggs) and Gertie Mabry.

Martha's children were Benjamin Franklin, Charles Henderson, Ed and Laura Jane (Jenkins).

Robert moved to Toccoa, Georgia where he raised his family, Essie, Theno, Myrtle, Stonewall and Ethel. One of his descendants is Paul Anderson, Olympic weight lifter.

John's and William's children were among the founding members of Grace Methodist Church, Kings Mountain.

Many Bennett descendants live in Kings Mountain and surrounding cities. Some of the names are Thomasson, Blanton, Bumgardner, Gault, Mull, Early, Jolly, Whitesides, Yates, Huffstetler, Barrett, Jenkins, David, Wright, Kiser, Mabry, Farmer, Allen, Early, Martin, Eng, Ford, Lanear, Stringfellow, Owens, Ledford, Elgin, Rikard, Welch, Hayes, Creedmore, Nash, Wray, Lynn, Cobb, Wise, Russell, Chavis, Puckett and Stewart.

Sources: Conversations and correspondence with family members. Mrs. Peggy Wright, Bumgardner genealogist. Census Reports: Cleveland County, 1850, 1860, 1870, Gaston County, 1850, 1860, 1870. Death Certificates, Cleveland County. Cleveland County Marriages, 1851-1968, by Ramey. Cleveland County Cemetery Records, WPA Projects. Cleveland County Wills. Gaston County Wills. Marriage Bonds of Tryon and Lincoln Counties, N.C., Curtis Bynum, 1928. Kings Mountain Herald, CSA ARCHIVES. North Carolina Troops, 1861-1865, A Roster, Vol. V, Infantry. Weymouth T. Jordan, Jr.

— Mrs. Joan T. Owens

THE HERMAN ODELL BEST FAMILY

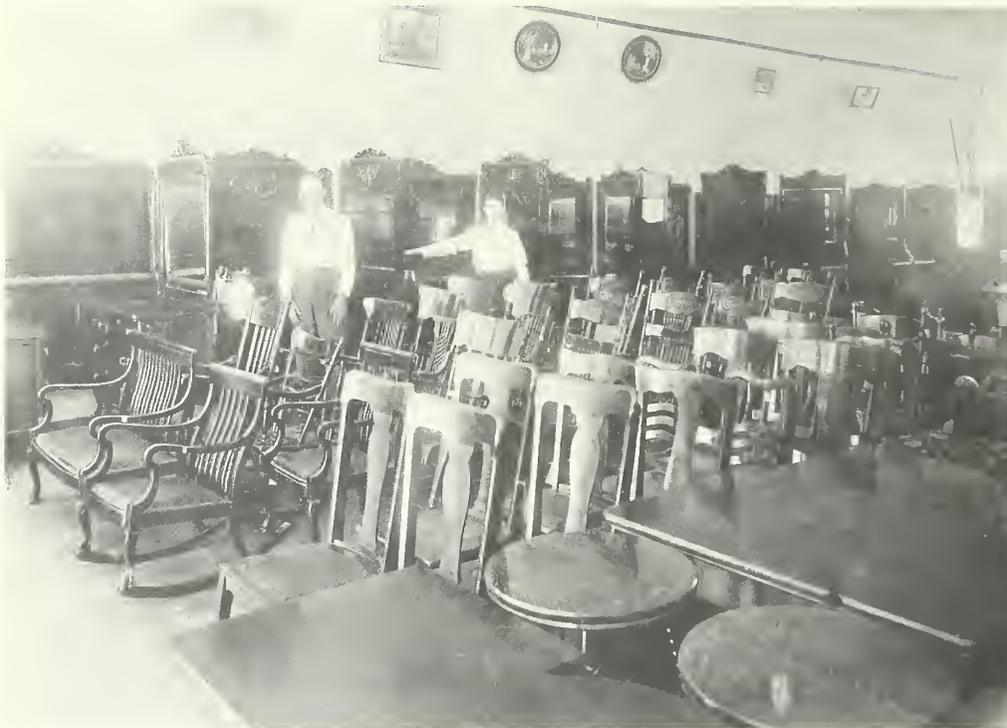

251

Herman Odell Best was born July 18, 1915, in Shelby, North Carolina, the son of John McClanlian Best (1885-1941) and Anna Potts Best (1889-1972).

John McClanlian Best, Senior, was born in

Herman Odell Best Family. L to R: Margaret McInnis, David Herman, Jane Ann, Herman Odell.

John M. Best's First Furniture Store, 1909. Best on right.

Franklin County, North Carolina, the son of William McClanion Best (1856-1929) and Dorothy Perry Best (1865-1960).

In 1904, John McClanion Best, Senior, graduated in Accounting from Smithdeal Business College, Richmond, Virginia, and began his business career with Stough Cornelius Furniture Manufacturing Company of Cornelius, North Carolina.

In 1909, he married Anna Potts Best of the Gilead Community in Mecklenburg County, daughter of William Henry Potts (1849-1898) and Susan Anne Caldwell Potts (1851-1940). Anna Potts graduated from Linwood Female Academy, Gaston County, in 1908.

In 1908, Mr. Best opened a retail furniture company in Gastonia and in 1912 moved to Shelby and founded the John M. Best Furniture Company which also included an undertaking department — a combination often found in those days. Many older Cleveland County families will recall "starting to house-keeping" with furniture purchased at Mr. Best's store and some will remember the burial of family members by his funeral division. Especially remembered is the "flu epidemic" of 1918 when many died. During this time, five members of one family were buried by Mr. Best.

Herman Best remembers as a boy some Saturdays when folks would come with a team of mules and wagon to buy a load of furniture.

In those days, a cook stove cost as little as $15.00, a table and six chairs $10.00, and an iron bed $4.50. A young married couple could "go to housekeeping" with $50.00 worth of new furniture.

Furniture was a popular business in the Best family. Herman's mother, Anna, served as office manager of the family store for many years. His grandparents owned a furniture store in Franklinton, his uncle, one in Lumberton, and after attending Shelby City Schools and Davidson College, Herman joined his parents in the family business.

After returning from World War II, where he served in the Army Quartermaster Corps, Herman established a furniture manufacturing company in Shelby. In 1959, he closed out the retail store which was begun by his father. In 1962, he sold the furniture manufacturing company to Drexel Furniture Company. He presently is a real estate broker and building contractor.

Herman's brother, John McClanion Best, Junior, attended Shelby City Schools and Davidson College. He became a well known professional trumpet player, and lives in La Jolla, California.

Herman's sister, Sara (Best) Dula Belvin, attended Shelby City Schools and UNC at Greensboro, and lives in Durham.

On February 27, 1945, Herman Odell Best married Margaret McInnis at Red Springs, North Carolina. Margaret was born September 26, 1919. Her father, Neil McInnis, Junior (1887-1939), a Presbyterian minister, was born in Dillon County, South Carolina. He was educated at Davidson College and Columbia Theological Seminary, Columbia, South Carolina. Margaret's mother, Janie Thomas Hamer McInnis (1890-1961) was born near Maxton, North Carolina, and graduated in nursing at Highsmith's Hospital, Fayetteville, North Carolina.

Margaret graduated from Philadelphus High School and Flora McDonald College (1940), both in Red Springs. She taught school both in Red Springs and Lincolnton until her marriage to Herman Best.

Herman and Margaret Best have two children, Jane Ann Best and David Herman Best.

Jane Ann Best was born October 9, 1949. She attended Shelby City Schools and received a B.A. degree from Limestone College (1971) and an M.A. degree from Appalachian University (1975). She is in the real estate business and lives in Morganton, North Carolina.

David Herman Best was born June 8, 1954. He attended Shelby City Schools and received a B.A. degree from Gardner Webb College (1975), and a M.Div. degree from Southeastern Theological Seminary, Wake Forest, North Carolina (1978). He is presently Minister of Education and Youth at the First Baptist Church, Belmont, North Carolina, and is married to the former Jane Brogden of Alcolu, South Carolina, also a graduate of Southeastern Theological Seminary (1979). They have a son, John David Best, born March 6, 1981.

Herman and Margaret Best are active members of the First Baptist Church, Shelby, North Carolina. Mr. Best is a deacon and both have served for many years as Sunday School near Earl, Allen gradually became involved in local affairs and represented Cleveland County in the North Carolina General Assembly in Raleigh from 1874-1875. Allen Bettis died in 1886 and was buried at New Hope Baptist Church cemetery. His wife was buried in Tennessee at her request.

John McClanlan, Sr. and Anna Potts Best home on S. Washington Street, Shelby, North Carolina.

A.E. Bettis married Leola Austell November 28, 1878. Leola was born January 5, 1861, the daughter of Joseph Hopson Austell (1832-1910) and Mary Jane Borders (1838-1928). Her paternal grandparents were William Austell (1799-1871) and Catherine Lipscomb (1812-1895). Leola's maternal grandparents were Major Hugh Borders (1804-1888) and Luvicy Sepaugh (1809-1883).

A.E. and Leola Bettis had eight children to live to adulthood, having lost one in infancy. Leola Bettis died suddenly of a heart attack in the front yard of her Earl home April 14, 1921. Both Leola and A.E. were buried at New Hope.

Their first child, William French Bettis, was born September 21, 1879. On February 8, teachers and in various other leadership capacities.

Herman and son, David, have been active in Scouting. Both are Eagle Scouts.

Margaret Best is a member of the Chicora Literary Club.

Sources: Historical records of Mrs. Anna Potts Best, the Potts Family Bible, the McQueens of Queensdale, and Hamer and McInnis family papers.

— Margaret McInnis Best

THE A.E. and LEOLA AUSTELL BETTIS FAMILY

252

"While making a public talk, closing a service in New Hope Baptist Church, Earl, Sunday at noon endorsing the Centennial campaign to raise funds with which to make Boiling Springs High School, a junior college, Mr. A.E. Bettis, prominent merchant, farmer, and religious leader, reeled on his feet and fell dead with the eyes of the large congregation fixed upon him and the ears of his hearers listening intently as they had so often listened to his lips utter appeals for kingdom extension." The Thursday, April 26, 1928 edition of the Greer Citizen carried this excerpt from an article in the Cleveland Star pertaining to the death of A.E. Bettis, widower and father of eight.

Allen Erastus Bettis ventured to Cleveland County with his family during the Civil War to flee the political unrest of Eastern Tennessee's Jefferson County. He was born July 13, 1854, the son of Allen E. Bettis (1812-1886) and Catherine Witt (1814-1883). His paternal grandparents were Bradley Bettis (1787-1840) and Frances Walker (1783-1840). His great-grandfather, Joseph Emsley Bettis, settled in the area of Dandridge, Tennessee around 1800. A.E.'s maternal grandparents were Daniel Taylor Witt (1790-1871) and Ingabo Skeen (died around 1863).

A.E. arrived in North Carolina with his parents, a brother, Albert, and a sister, Frances Ingabo. Five older children remained in Tennessee. After establishing a home for his family

A.E. and Leola Austell Bettis Family. Standing L to R: Sallie, Will, Baxter, A.E., Austell. Seated: Leola holding Freelove. On ground: Hugh, Kate, Leitha.

1912, he married Corrie Towery (born 1886), the daughter of Pinkney and Sarah Brackett Towery. No children were born to this union. Will died March 20, 1960. Corrie lived until December 19, 1978. Both were buried at New Hope.

Sallie Bettis was born December 2, 1882 and never married. She lived with her brother, Baxter, in Earl. Sallie died January 18, 1971. Baxter Bettis was born October 3, 1884 and like his sister never married. He operated a general merchandise store in Earl and died October 26, 1966. Both Baxter and Sallie were buried beside their parents.

Hugh Bettis was born August 15, 1887 and married Epsie Mae Lowery November 12, 1910. Born November 25, 1891, Epsie was the daughter of D.B. and Margaret Bridges Lowery. After giving birth to five children and losing several infants, Epsie died January 10, 1921. The children of this union were Virginia Louise, Eugene Wryley, Allen Lowery, Hugh, Jr., and Harold Lee. On June 1, 1922, Hugh married Mattie Beam, the daughter of Bert and Jennie Beam of Shelby. They had no children. Hugh died May 12, 1963 and Mattie followed on May 21, 1981. Both were buried at New Hope. The descendants of Hugh Bettis include three remaining children, nine grandchildren, and eleven great-grandchildren.

Kate Bettis was born June 29, 1891. She married Robert White October 9, 1929 and had one son, Robert E. White, Jr. (1931-1976). Kate died January 18, 1962 and left three grandchildren and one great grandchild.

Austell Allen Bettis was born June 6, 1894 and married Zelia Elizabeth Hopper December 24, 1914. The daughter of Lanceford Hopper and Mary Ollie Wilson, Zelia was born April 27, 1896. Austell and Zelia had nine children: Howard Bernard, Mary Love, Austell Allen, Jr., Randolph, William Baxter, Gene, Donald, Leola, and Allen Erastus. Zelia died April 18, 1951 and Austell followed on November 24, 1951. Their descendants include eight surviving children, eighteen grandchildren, and thirteen great-grandchildren.

Leitha Bettis was born November 6, 1896 and married Garry Hill Hamrick August 18, 1930. The son of George W. Hamrick and Phoebe Washburn, Garry was born May 17, 1889. He died September 24, 1958 and was buried at Sunset Cemetery in Shelby. Garry and Leitha had no children.

Freelove Bettis was born November 18, 1898 and married George Dennis Washburn on June 6, 1925. Born July 5, 1896, George was the son of Seaton A. Washburn and Mintie Missouri Hamrick. Freelove and George had two daughters, Bettie and Carolyn. George died October 20, 1971 and Freelove followed on June 3, 1979. Both are buried at Sunset Cemetery. In addition to their daughters, descendants include one granddaughter.

Sources: Greer Citizen, Census and Courthouse Records, Austell Family Bible, Cemetery Information, Adele Kirrigan's, The Bettis: England to America.

— Stephen C. Bettis

MINOR RANDOLPH BIGGERS 253

(From an old newspaper article)

When M.R. (Minor Randolph Biggers) resigned as principal-teacher of Patterson Springs school last year, it had been 48 years since he took his first job as school teacher in the western part of old York County, South Carolina, which is now Cherokee County. And during that time three generations of Patterson Springs families had pored over their books in Mr. Biggers' classroom.

Born in York County on June 19, 1877, the retired schoolmaster at 70 is as spry and healthy as most men much younger.

"I plowed this summer", he said. "Didn't hurt a bit. As a matter of fact I believe it helped me. I've never been ill and I give credit for that to something I learned from my father. He taught me not to use medicine but to regulate my diet."

Sitting on the rambling porch of his Patterson Springs home shaded by chinaberry trees, Mr. Biggers recalled that he accepted his first school in 1898. "I was 22 years old and still going to a one-teacher school", he stated, "when the folks around the Old Fork school in York County, came to see me one night and asked if I could teach in the school. I said I hadn't thought about it but I guessed I could. So that's how it started. Then after I had taught a couple winters and seemed to be doing all right in the work, I decided to go to Catawba College. It was in Newton then".

"In 1901 and 1902 I attended Catawba and worked my way. I remember I bought two new suits of clothes for college from a fellow who ran a store where I had been working when school was out. He let me have them at wholesale price, which was $5 a piece, instead of $7 which he got for them in the store. My board at the rooming house in Newton where a group of us lived cost me $4.32 one month when I had some guests visit and eat on my bill."

Professor Minor Randolph Biggers

In 1910 Mr. Biggers left South Carolina and moved to the school at Patterson Springs. Two years later he married Lochie Christine Hamrick, a daughter of John Hamrick of the Patterson community.

"There were two John Hamricks around here." Farmer Biggers, who now devotes his time to two tracts of cotton land, explained. "One was called Rich John Hamrick and the other one, Cow John Hamrick, because he traded in cattle. My wife was a daughter of Cow John."

For an interval of about four years Mr. Biggers taught at Buffalo school and for several years at Earl. In every school, the venerable rural educator was principal as well as teacher.

There were two brief interruptions in Mr. Biggers' teaching career. In the late 1920's he accepted management of the Paragon Bargain house, owned by Mal Spangler and the late Will Lineberger, in the building now occupied by Kendall Medicine Company. But he was soon back with the children and their three R's.

Again in 1932-33 the Patterson Springs mentor turned his back on textbooks and blackboards and abandoned his classroom for a position as appraiser for the Federal Land Bank, with a territory that covered the counties of Cleveland, Lincoln, Gaston and Rutherford.

In 1946 Minor Biggers decided that he had fulfilled his portion of service to the youth of Cleveland County and retired to his home and farms. His last school was at Patterson Springs.

"People who say the younger generation is much different from what it ever was have forgotten," said the man who has spent so much of his life so close to young people. "But I do notice a difference in the attitude of parents from what it was 40 years ago — toward their children's schooling, I mean. Then they expected their children to learn and they were more vitally concerned with their progress in school, I think, than parents are today. Now I'm afraid too many of them look on school as a means of getting their children out from underfoot."

"It used to be, too, that parents expected the teacher to use the rod when he thought it was necessary. Now, of course, you can't do that. But, I never felt that was the best way to teach a child anyway."

M.R. Biggers died April 12, 1961, leaving his wife Lockie Hamrick Biggers. They had five children: Margaret Isabel (died at age 2), Paul Carson, Billy Lowery, Katherine Harriett Biggers Moss, Mary Louise Biggers Wolfe.

Sources: Newspaper article.

— Mary Wolfe

JOSEPH PINKNEY BINGHAM FAMILY

254

Joseph Pinkney Bingham was born in upper Cleveland County near St. Peters United Methodist Church, January 12, 1864. He was the son of Christopher Bingham and Rebecca Greenhill, who were married July 14, 1861. His father, Christopher, had been previously married to Hannah Willis, daughter of Robert Willis, who died in 1859. Christopher was born November 1815 and died February 4, 1904. His second wife, the mother of Joseph, was born November 4, 1823 and died August 17, 1900. They are all buried at St. Peters United Methodist Church.

Joseph had one full sister, Amanda, born August 29, 1862 and there were three children by his father's first marriage. They were William Patterson Bingham born July 13, 1843, Sarah Malinda Bingham born August 28, 1847, and Elizabeth Jane Bingham born July 5, 1854. William and his two sisters moved to Iowa at an early age.

Joseph married Cynthia Jane Brackett who was born May 23, 1868. Her parents were Elijah Brackett, born 1838, and Manerva Condrey Brackett, born November 9, 1844. Her paternal grandparents were William Brackett, born in 1805 and Mary Brackett, born December 18, 1806 and died November 30, 1891.

Elijah and William had tuberculosis when they returned from the Civil War. They never recovered. They are buried on the top of a small hill near the old home-place on Pheasant Creek in upper Cleveland County near Casar.

Mary Brackett died November 30, 1891 and is buried at St. Peters United Methodist Church.

Cynthia's mother, Manerva, was married a second time. This time she married the Reverend Joseph H. Brendel. He was born June 23, 1833 and died May 16, 1914. Manerva died August 9, 1911 and is buried at Hebron United Methodist Church in Lincoln County. Cynthia's maternal grandparents were John Condrey (Condria) born in 1817 and Susannah Condrey born October 14, 1817. She died January 11, 1897.

Joseph and Cynthia had three daughters. Minnie Ella Bingham was born March 5, 1884. She was a polio victim at an early age and as a result had a crippled leg. She walked with a pronounced limp. Later she broke her leg and spent a great part of her life in a wheel chair. She helped with the household tasks, sewed, and did hand-work. She had a sunny disposition, a great love for people, and an interest in things about her. She was an inspiration to everyone. She died December 15, 1966.

Hattie Ola Bingham was born July 8, 1890. She attended Piedmont High School and Womans College (now University of North Carolina at Greensboro, N.C.). She taught school in Cleveland County until her marriage to Dr. Forrest Decator Edwards.

Dr. Edwards practiced medicine for many years in Toluca, North Carolina, with patients coming to him from several surrounding counties. He established the Edwards Clinic and for many years delivered babies there. Other kinds of patients were also kept and treated at the clinic. He was known for his generosity to and compassion for people as well as his skill as a doctor. They had one child, Hattie Meriel, born October 18, 1916. She married Richard Franklin Tillman. Dr. Edwards died April 12, 1964. Hattie died October 15, 1973. Meriel died September 2, 1975.

Essie Gettie Bingham was born July 9, 1895. She graduated from Piedmont High School and taught school in Cleveland County for several years. She married Walter Hake Mitchem. He was called into the army shortly afterwards and served overseas during World War I. Upon his return they built a home and settled in Belwood, North Carolina. They had two daughters. Wilma Gladys was born January 24, 1921, married Jack Thompson Hoyle. Marjorie Jane was born June 30, 1928, married Warren Franklin Spurling. Essie died November 2, 1971. Walter died October 7, 1975.

Joseph Pinkney Bingham was an outstanding farmer in the community. He was progressive in his methods, always trying to preserve the land and at the same time increase the yield. His farm animals had the best of care. Needy people came to his door knowing they would receive help. He was not a wealthy man, but he was not a selfish man.

The Bingham family attended St. Peters United Methodist Church. They were leaders and outstanding members giving freely of their time, labor and worldly goods. Joseph died February 16, 1945. Cynthia died July 24, 1965. They and their family are all buried at St. Peters United Methodist Church.

Sources: Grave stones, personal papers.

— Wilma M. Hoyle

THE REID McSWAIN BLACKBURN FAMILY

255

Reid McSwain Blackburn was born on October 14, 1909, in Lawndale. He was the son of Jesse Edgar Blackburn (1884-1938) and Amanda Leola Long (1885-1968). He grew up in Lawndale, where he worked in Cleveland Mill. On October 14, 1930, he married Kate Bridges, who was born on June 8, 1910 in upper Cleveland County. She was the daughter of Joseph Chancey Bridges (1865-1944) and Sarah Ever Bridges (1872-1941). She grew up in the Mt. Sinai section of Cleveland County, where she lived until she married Reid. They began their life together in Lawndale, where Reid worked in the company store. On December 12, 1932, their first son, Robert Reid, was born. In 1938, they moved to Mooresboro and bought the D.C. Wright store. The first year was full of difficulties and hard work. Then in September of 1939, their second son, Thomas Reid, was born. Kate worked at the store and also ran the household. A lady came in daily to clean house and care for the children.

The store was beginning to flourish, and then the war came along. They could sell every bit of supplies they could get, but the problem was getting supplies. When they received four-pound packages of lard, they would divide them in half so there would be enough to go around. When they got scarce items such as washing powder or cigarettes, they had to store it under the counter for their regular customers, because out-of-town people traveled all around just to buy hard to find items.

After the war, things began to return to normal. Bob attended Gardner-Webb College, and then transferred to Erskine College in SC. When he graduated, he was drafted into the army, where he was sent to Stuttgart, Germany. While there, he worked as a supply clerk. When he returned, he married Rose Marie Creswell from Plum Branch, South Carolina on July 1, 1956. After their wedding, they moved to Walhalla, South Carolina, where Bob taught history and geography and coached football, basketball, and baseball. Rose worked as a church secretary. In 1958, they returned to Boiling Springs, where he coached football, basketball, and track at Gardner-Webb College. On December 1, 1961, their first daughter, Barbara Rose was born. In late 1962, they moved to Nashville so Bob could work on his doctorate. Then in late 1963, they moved to Pineville, Louisiana, where Bob became Chairman of the Department of Physical Education at Louisiana College. Rose concentrated her energies on raising their three daughters, since Rebecca Suzanne was born on August 31, 1963; and Brenda Marie was born on October 16, 1964. He completed his doctorate in 1968. In June, 1969, they returned to Boiling Springs with their children. Bob became Chairman of the Department of Health and Physical Education, and Rose became secretary at Boiling Springs Elementary School. They presently hold these jobs.

Meanwhile, Tom had entered Wake Forest University. He then entered Bowman Gray Medical School. Upon graduation, he married Barbara Snoddy from Silver Springs, Md., on June 4, 1966. He joined the Peace Corps, and they both went to the Caroline Islands in the South Pacific, where he worked as a doctor. Tom and Barbara returned to Boiling Springs, where he worked at the clinic for seven months. He then went to Atlanta, Georgia and completed residencies in internal medicine and radiology at Emory University. In 1974, he returned to Shelby to work at Cleveland Memorial Hospital as a radiologist. He returned with his wife and two sons, David Reid (born October 1, 1969), and Paul Thomas (born December 5, 1971).

Although it involved a great deal of time, hard work, and dedication, the store in Mooresboro flourished. In 1973, Reid and Kate retired and sold the store. After long years of work, they could do many things they had previously been unable to do. They traveled to many places, such as Rome, London, Brazil, Hawaii, and the Bahamas. By this time, both sons had returned to the area and the family saw each other often. Company was always at the house, and there was always plenty of food. In all her years of housekeeping, Kate had become an accomplished cook. The house always smelled of pound cakes, pies, and cookies. To this day, both are at their home, and are always willing to help family and friends, whether this means babysitting, fixing things, or cooking.

Sources: Personal knowledge, conversations with grandparents, parents, and uncle. Family Bible

— Barbara Rose Blackburn

AURELIA BARR BLANTON

256

Aurelia Barr, daughter of Rev. J. Scott Barr and Susan Rudisill Barr, was born on June 27, 1859. She lived with her family in Lincolnton where her father was a Presbyterian minister. He died when she was only thirteen years old.

The year after her father's death, 1873, she spent ten months in a boarding school in Reidsville, South Carolina and continued her education, going ten months each year until she finished in September 1876. For the next five years, she taught school in several different places. In August 1882, she went to Gastonia to teach music, art and primary grades. (One of my most prized possessions is an organ that belonged to my grandmother.)

It was in Gastonia that she met Johnathan Batey Blanton who was principal of her school. On July 2, 1883, they were married and continued teaching there until 1886. They built a two-story house there and she wrote of her desire to make it truly a home. She wrote, "I am not desirous of starting out in life on too extravagant a scale. What we need in this world is happiness and how that is to be promoted is our task to discover. Our house I trust will be our home in every sense. A refuge from the storms that rage around us."

A few years later, they settled in Mooresboro where they both taught school and were active in religious and community affairs. J.B. Blanton was involved in several different business enterprises. (See related article.)

It has been through the written word that I have come to admire my grandmother. Words written by her mother, sister, husband, pupils and friends, but most important her words from a diary and letters give a glimpse into her life. Even though this correspondence is 99 years old, her clear, beautiful handwriting is easily read. She expressed her thoughts and feelings beautifully. A warm, caring, loving person, radiates from her writings — a true Christian whose greatest desire was to serve her Lord.

J.B. Blanton and Aurelia Blanton had the following children: (1) Scott (1884-1943) married Rose Brown, (2) William (1885-) married Lois Little, (3) Annie (1887-) married John A. McBrayer and (4) May (1889-1974) married J.W. Lucas.

In 1892, Aurelia, age 33, became ill and died, leaving four small children. Death came while she was visiting in the home of her mother-in-law, Almira Blanton Wilson in Shelby. She is buried in the Sunset Cemetery in Shelby.

— Ruth Dover

BURWELL BLANTON and DESCENDANTS

257

Burwell Blanton (1762-1861) known as "Grandsir Burwell", was born 1 November 1762, Dinwiddie County, Virginia. The oldest son of George Blanton (early planter) and Elvira Lee (History of Old Tryon & Rutherford Counties by Griffin).

He came with his father to old Tryon County (now Cleveland) N.C. from Lunenburg County, Virginia about the year 1769. In 1781 he was drafted for service in the Revolution and served for a term of three months and ten days as a private in Capt. Navals Co. N.C. Militia, commanded by Col. John Earls (National Archives N. BLWT 59093-160-55). He walked to Charleston to the relief of General Lincoln, the General having surrendered before they arrived.

Burwell Blanton was twice married, first to Phoebe Margaret Bridges, daughter of James and Rebecca Hamrick Bridges. They settled on Beaver Dam creek on First Broad River near his father George Blanton. Here he lived until his death 14 May 1861 being 99 years old. During these years he followed agricultural pursuits. He was also active in the affairs of the county. His name appears often in deeds, county business, and court appointments. He was often appointed overseer of the public roads in his area. Roads were a community project for which all citizens were required to bear the responsibility of maintaining. Ferries were used in crossing streams; bridges were nonexistent.

A grandchild of Burwell Blanton described him as "a man of uncommon physical abilities and of good mind, but a laboring man. With him not to work with his hands was sin: Idleness was a vice he did not indulge, neither would he allow it to be about him." He had by his first marriage ten children, each of them rearing large families which are the forebears of the Cleveland and Rutherford counties' Blantons. These children were: John Blanton (ca. 1785-1847) married Rebecca Hughes (b. 6 October 1789; d. ca. 1876) the daughter of Revolutionary soldier William Hughes (ca. 1750-1835) and Nancy Bowers (d. 5 March 1843). Their children were: Burwell "Lawyer Burt", Andrew, Nancy, Julia Ann, Rebecca, William, John, Mary, Matilda, and Franklin, James Blanton (1787-1833) married first Mary Bridges. Four children were born of this union: Benjamin Edward, Mary Ann, Lucy E. and Edward Manson. After Mary's death James Blanton married Rebecca Hamrick. Their children were: Francis A., Drury Allen, Margaret, Priscilla, James H., George and Sarah Ann. (The Bible record of Mr. Grason Blanton of Spindale, N.C.); Jesse Blanton (ca. 1789-1875) married three times. First to Nancy Watkins (1795-1838) buried at Buffalo Church, daughter of Daniel Watkins. Second wife was Frances "Fannie" Tate (b. 1805). Third wife, Lidia Sepaugh (b. 1834 S.C.). He served in the war of 1812 for which Lidia received a pension for his service. He died in York, South Carolina. None of Jesse's children have been identified as of this writing; Sarah "Sally" Blanton oldest daughter of Burwell Blanton was born ca. 1790, married 22 March 1809 to Young Hughes (1784-1860) son of William Hughes and wife, Nancy Bowers Hughes. Their children were: Richard, J. Putnam, Narcissus, Artelessa, Elizabeth, Susanna, Sarah, Wesley, and Amos Hughes; Nancy Blanton (b. 11 February 1792) married 27 July 1818 to Joseph Byers (b. 7 June 1792). Their children were Joseph Clayton, Burwell Benson, George, Elizabeth, and William Byers. After the death of Joseph, Nancy married Abram Padgett (b. 1790 S.C.); Elizabeth Blanton (b. ca. 1800) married ca. 1820 Thomas Harris (1799-1887). Their children were: Burwell, Margaret, and Emiline. After Elizabeth's death Thomas married twice. First to Matilda Watkins and second to Suie Watkins (sisters); Susanna "Susan" Blanton (b. ca. 1801) married William Winn (1795-ca. 1870). Their children were: Wallace, Mary, Margaret, Fannie, Julia Ann, Lucrertia, Emma, Eunice, Octavia, Sarah and Elizabeth (Jones p. 123), George Blanton (1802-1835) married 27 September 1831 Priscilla Harrill, daughter of Samuel and Susanna Hamrick Harrill. He was a merchant. His will is recorded in Rutherford County, North Carolina. He is buried at Concord Church, Rutherford County. Their children were: Susanna "Sukie", Margaret "Peggy", Baily "Bate", James Hill, Guilford E. and Priscilla Jane. After the death of George Blanton Priscilla married a Burge; Charles Blanton, the first Sheriff of Cleveland County (b. 1804-d. 1866) married 1 January 1823 to Judith Hamrick (1805-1864) daughter of George and Phoebe Wright Hamrick. Charles and Judith are buried at Zion Baptist Church. Their twelve children were: James Wesley, Albert, Elizabeth Elvira, George, William Miller, Burwell, Martha Jane, John Bailey, Charles Pinkney, Jesse Guilford, Judith Margaret, and Sarah Frances.

Burwell Blanton's second wife was Mary "Polly" Wiley (b. 1798 S.C.). They had one child, Burwell Wiley. Burwell Wiley Blanton born in 1835 was killed at the Battle of the Wilderness. He married Elizabeth Jane Turner (b. 1836). Their children were: Burwell W., Mary E., Nancy S. and Eliza Jane. After his death Elizabeth Jane married James "Jim" Madison Champion.

B.H. Bridges of Rutherford County, North Carolina stated in a 1912 letter "I have seen "Grandsir" Burwell many times. My father lived near him. He died when I was about twelve years old. He was confined to a large rolling chair, not able to walk, for a year or two before his death. His grandson, "Lawyer" Burt Blanton (son of John) was appointed his guardian." On 13 February 1857 at the age of 93 Burwell Blanton was granted a County Land Warrant for 160 acres. A government marker is at his grave in the family cemetery. His father, George Blanton is also buried in the cemetery. (Cleveland County Cemetery Records in the Museum).

Sources: Family history.

— Mrs. S. Arnold Ramey

THE BURL BENJAMIN BLANTON FAMILY

258

Grandfather Burl Benjamin Blanton was born in Cleveland County, June 12, 1859. He was the son of Drury Allen Blanton and Julia Ann Ledbetter Blanton. He had four brothers and four sisters. (See Drury A. Blanton story)

Burl Blanton was a lifelong member of Sharon Church. He was a hard working farmer, and a Christian man who always treated his neighbors as he would like them to treat him. Uncle

Sources: Family Bibles, Church Cemeteries, relatives and my own memories.

— Johnnie M. Queen

CHARLES BLANTON

259

Charles Blanton, son of Burrell and Phoebe Margaret (Bridges) Blanton, was born May 18, 1804 in Tryon County near present Shelby. On January 1, 1823 he married Judith Hamrick, daughter of George and Phoebe (Wright) Hamrick. That February a deed was registered for a farm his father sold him for $350.00. They had 12 children (1).

In 1841 after Cleveland County was formed Charles was appointed by the Justices of the Peace, who were the governing body, the first Sheriff and county treasurer. He was re-elected for 10 years. William Weathers loaned his two story house near Zion Church for the courthouse until the county seat was located.

Charles collected the taxes and carried the money to be delivered in his saddle bags. It was said that "the taxes sometimes amounted to as much as $500.00 but he never carried a gun."

Mrs. Victor McBrayer, mother of Mrs. Paul Webb, Sr., and Mrs. Penny Owen, saved a newspaper clipping of 1912 about early settlers of this area in which Rev. L.L. Smith reported that Charles Blanton, Mrs. McBrayer's grandfather, said of politics, "We will never have good times and economy in taxes until we quit sending lawyers and doctors to the legislature." Complaints about taxes seem always to be with us.

Charles Blanton's house, which is still standing, is north west of the Dover Mill. It was on the old Post Road from Rutherfordton to Lincolnton. It ran past Zion Church where he is buried, along with an infant child, his wife, and two sons killed in the Civil War.

(1) Children of Charles and Judith Blanton:
James Wesley b. November 1 1823 — d. 1845; Albert b. January 7, 1826, m. Roxanna Irvin; Elizabeth Elvira b. January 1, 1828, m. Rev. Joseph Suttle; George b. January 8, 1830, m. Mary Jane Elliott; William Miller b. February 1, 1832, m. Josephine Setzer; Burwell b. January 7, 1834, m. Frances Caroline Doggett and Pattie Ramsey; Martha Jane b. January 1, 1836, m. Sheriff Dury Dobbins Suttle; John B. b. February 19, 1838, m. Catherine Stroud; Charles Pinkney b. July 30, 1840, d. 1862 in Civil War; Jesse Guilford b. December 6, 1842, d. 1884 in Civil War; Margaret b. February 12, 1845, m. Minor Winn Doggett; Sara b. April 12, 1848, d. 2 months old.

Burwell Blanton was the son of Charles and Judith (Hamerick) Blanton. He was born August 27, 1834, west of Shelby, and named for his grandfather, Burrell, but now spelled phonetically. On August 16, 1855 he married Frances Caroline Doggett, the daughter of Coleman and Mary Ann (Smith) Doggett. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Thomas Dixon. They began their married life in a very small house north of Shelby.

As we might today, "Fannie" traveled home to her mother near the present airport when her first child, Charles Coleman, was born in 1858. More children came: Mary (m. Richard Eskridge), Margaret (m. George M. Webb), Dora (m. Rush Oates), George (m. Ida Wood), Edgar (m. Mae Martin).

Burwell and his children worked hard to enlarge his holdings. The census of 1880 lists his nine year old son, George as "farmer". As the family grew Burwell built a bigger house three miles west of Shelby near his flour mill on Brushey Creek. It has been said that Fanny was the first woman in the county to have a cook stove. Even if the story is not true it suggests the primitive conditions our pioneer ancestors encountered during the first hundred years of settlement of this area.

In the 1880s Burwell built a house in town on West Marion Street, now moved to and bought into the bank. George, the 9 year old "farmer", then went to Captain Martin's school on West Marion Street where the old High School was later built. He graduated from Wake Forest College with Dr. Everette Lattimore and Judge Edwin Yates Webb.

In 1889 Burwell was appointed one of the first Trustees of the newly formed North Carolina College of Agriculture and Mechanical Arts. His name is on the cornerstone of the first building.

In 1882 as the family was walking to church past Dr. McBrayer's house at the corner of West Marion Street and Cemetery Road the doctor greeted them then said to his wife, "I must bleed Fannie tomorrow. She is too red." That night she had a stroke and died.

In 1893 Burwell married Martha (Pattie) Ramsey. The newspaper of June 1, 1893 said, "The marriage took place in the parlor of the Shelby Hotel which had been beautifully decorated for the occasion, and was witnessed by a few of the relatives and intimate friends of the contracting parties. Immediately after the ceremony the bride and groom left in the private car of Superintendent Tripp on the 3 C's for a week's stay in Charleston."

In 1895 Burwell bought out the bank and named it B. Blanton & Co., Bankers. He also bought the bankers Second Empire house on North Lafayette St. where his grandson George Blanton, Jr. now lives.

Burwell died in 1908 and is buried in Sunset Cemetery in Shelby. He was a hard working responsible citizen who prospered in building up his community.

Sources: Family history

— Caroline Blanton Thayer

CHARLES COLEMAN BLANTON

260

Charles Coleman Blanton, eldest child of Burwell Blanton and Frances Caroline Doggett, was born on January 31, 1858 in a house which stood on the road between Shelby and Boiling Springs, just southeast of Shelby's present airport. Some years later his parents built the house that is still standing on Highway 74 west of Brushy Creek on property which is known today as Blanton Farms.

He received his early education in the Shelby schools of that era and then taught in a rural school at the town of Dysartville, near Marion,

Bert, as he was called, was a kind and gentle man. His home was a place where nieces and nephews often spent their summer vacations because Uncle Bert lived in the country not far from Beaver Dam Creek and Meadow Branch, which made excellent playing areas. There were also chickens, ducks, cows, pigs and a horse to be enjoyed. Uncle Bert also had a "pet" King snake which came to the horse's watering trough to get water. No one dared kill it because it caught the rats that ransacked the corn crib. The grandchildren also found it a great place to visit, which they did often because all lived within a few miles of my grandparent's house.

Burl Benjamin Blanton married Arminda Ransom Hawkins (b. February 15, 1862) on August 4, 1881. Aunt Mindy, as she was lovingly called, was a Baptist at the time of her marriage but joined Sharon Church with her husband and remained a faithful member until her death December 28, 1936. Both are buried in Sharon Cemetery.

This couple was married for 55 years. They enjoyed their married life, their children, grand-children and great grandchildren. They worked hard, shared with others, but held to old ways and ideas. There was never any electricity in their home, only kerosene lamps, open fireplaces for heat, wood stoves to cook on, no indoor bathrooms, but they had a telephone and in their later years a radio. They never owned a car. Their old house is still standing, though badly dilapidated.

They had five children. Alma (b. September 17, 1882 — d. April 19, 1973) married Charles Postell Morehead (b. October 15, 1887 — d. March 30, 1939) on July 15, 1907. Alma and Charlie had three children: Helen, deceased, Johnnie and Ila Mae.

Their only son Coel (b. October 3, 1883 — d. January 28, 1948) married Aquilla B. Moore (b. February 4, 1884 — d. March 5, 1927) on February 4, 1909. They had no children. Coel married Tilda Corinne Putnam (b. January 4, 1904 — d. August 27, 1951) as his second wife. They had two sons, an infant, deceased, and Benjamin Coel, who now lives and owns his grandfather's farm.

Gatha (b. February 4, 1885 — d. November 4, 1961) married Lewis Albert Smith (b. December 10, 1883 — d. February 13, 1965) on March 27, 1907. Their children were Ralph Grayson, Ruth Elizabeth, Lois Alice, and twin boys, B.B. who died in infancy, and W.R. who served in the United States Navy during World War II and died at sea May 5, 1944.

Zelia (b. June 1, 1889 — d. July 15, 1966) married Robert Edgar Ledbetter (b. February 22, 1883 — d. September 6, 1955) on December 8, 1910. They had two sons, Robert Hugh and Clyde Mills. Both are now deceased.

Julia Ann (b. April 1, 1898 — d. March 26, 1975) married Saylor Shaw Moore (b. April 2, 1897 — d. March 17, 1972) on December 22, 1920. Shaw served in World War I at home and overseas.

Burl Benjamin and Arminda Blanton with all their children and in-laws are buried in Sharon Cemetery with the exception of Rob and Zelia Ledbetter who are buried at Memorial Park near Boilings Springs.

N. C. His first enterprise was a mercantile business located on West Warren Street.

As so many young men in the first decades following the Civil war, Charlie, as he has always referred to, migrated to Texas to seek his fortune. He was highly successful in the pharmaceutical, cattle, and banking businesses. At the age of 37, he returned to Shelby to enter banking with his brother George, in the firm of his father, known as B. Blanton and Company.

In 1884 Mr. Charlie married Ora Brewster (b. 1859, d. 1890) of Sweetwater, Tennessee. She had come here as a music teacher in the old Shelby Female Academy. Unfortunately she died only six years later leaving no children, and Mr. Charlie never remarried.

The early 1900's was a period of spectacular growth in Cleveland County. Into this burgeoning economy Mr. Charlie threw his enthusiasm, business acumen and resources. His faith in people and the future was abundant. His name became synonymous with development of many industrial plants and business enterprises.

His love of fine horses is remembered yet by many people. He and his brother George kept their saddle horses in the barn located behind the North Lafayette house (the present Bankers house where his father had previously lived and in which he resided for many years). A typical sight for the towns-people was to see Mr. Charlie, his brother, and other companions riding out every morning and occasional evening, weather permitting, until he was in his 80's. He gave generously to public and private charities, aided hundreds of young people to secure an education and was always ready with a cheerful smile to offer counsel and assistance to those who came to him.

At the time of his death on November 24, 1944, he was President of the Union Trust Company (later Independence National Bank and recently merged into Branch Banking & Trust Company); president of Shelby Cotton Mills; Chairman of the Board of First National Bank, director of Alexander Manufacturing Co. of Forest City, director of Dover and Ora Mills (this last one having been named for his wife). Until his semi-retirement he had served as president of Eagle Roller Mill Company, the Shelby Building and Loan Association, director of Lily Mills, of Cleveland Mill and Power Company, and as an organizer and one of three owners of Cleveland Cloth Mills.

Quoting from a tribute by Dr. Zeno Wall at First Baptist Church, of which he was a life long member, Dr. Wall said:

"In the passing of Charlie Blanton we feel like saying one of the tallest trees in our forest has fallen; a tree which has, for so many years, offered protection, shade and fruit for so many hearts, homes, churches, and places of business. Everybody holds in high esteem one whose word is his bond, one whose sacred honor means everything. Mr. Charlie's word was his bond. He, like General McArthur, was sorely tried but he met every test of life with a courage, a magnanimity, that was most beautiful. When the banks were closed all over the country in 1933, his banks had to close but not for long. He and his brother George moved swiftly and sacrificially. They mortgaged over one half million dollars of their property in order that their banks might reopen, and he gave $100,000 in order that the depositors, who had trusted him, might sustain no losses. He and his brother George saved our banks and stores and places of business, and restored confidence in the people. By every measurement he was a big man, an outstanding man. We shall greatly miss him and may never see his likes again. In the language of St. Paul, "he fought a good fight, finished his course and kept the faith."

Charles Coleman Blanton

Charles Coleman Blanton is buried in the plot at Sunset Cemetery, Shelby, N.C., beside his mother and father, Frances Doggett and Burwell Blanton, and his stepmother, Martha K. Ramsey, known as "Miss Pattie."

Sources: Family history

— Nancy Dicks Blanton (Mrs. Geo. Jr.)

THE DRURY ALLEN BLANTON and JULIA ANN LEDBETTER FAMILY

261

My great grandfather, Drury Allen Blanton was born in 1821 in Rutherford County (now Cleveland County). He was the son of James Blanton, who was a Revolutionary war soldier, and wife Rebecca Hamrick Blanton. He had three brothers. James Hamrick Blanton who married Catherine Ledbetter and a brother George Blanton who never married. A half-brother, William Asbury Blanton married Lucindy Lovelace.

The Blantons are considered good, law-abiding citizens and are among the very best people in this county. It is seldom you see their names in any court proceedings except when prescribed by business ends. They are good farmers and very thrifty in all their business affairs and undertakings.

When Drury Allen Blanton died he was eulogized by his pastor Squire M. Davis. His eulogy follows:

"Drury Allen Blanton died at his home in Number 2 Township July (16 or 17), 1889, age 68 years and 6 months. In his death we are all bereaved, family, church, community, because a steady light that shone more and more until the perfect day has gone out. But a new light has been kindled on the shores of eternity — let us walk in that light until our perfect day shall dawn. Every circle is poorer when such a noble heart ceases to beat on earth, when a spirit so pure takes its exit to the Home of the Pure. Physicians, friends and loved ones did all that could be done to prolong his life with us; but his work was done, and well done. Faithful, true, kind, liberal, patient, Uncle Drury was always at his post; and his children now miss him at home, his seat is vacant in the church. He had long been a devoted member of the Methodist Church at Sharon and one of the most zealous stewards. We see not, but God sees how we can do without him. Heaven bless the children, relatives and church in this dark hour. Ready to go, yes, of course, he was ready — he told me so. And now Uncle Drury is at Home over yonder, safe evermore. We buried him in the Sharon Church Cemetery yesterday."

S.M. Davis, Pastor

Drury Allen Blanton married Julia Ann Ledbetter who preceded him in death about one year. Mrs. Julia Ann Ledbetter died at her pleasant Christian home in the Sharon congregation, Cleveland County, Sunday morning, June 3, 1888, aged 53 years, 3 months.

To this union of Drury Allen and Julia Ann were born 9 children, 5 boys and 4 girls. James Henry (b. June 7, 1854 — d. March 7, 1934) married Mary Luvenia Lee (b. June 27, 1860 — d. February 5, 1925) December 14, 1876. They were buried in Sunset Cemetery in Shelby. Aunt Vinie, as she was called, was the first person to have their funeral held in Central Methodist Church in Shelby. William Norman (b. September 16, 1856 — d. August 26, 1936) married Rebecca Blanton (b. July 26, 1860 — d. August 10, 1897) December 28, 1882. Mary Wolfe (b. April 16, 1886 — d. October 29, 1959) was his second wife. All three are buried in Sharon Church Cemetery. John Summey (b. October 22, 1863 — d. December 22, 1938) married Frances Jane Blanton (b. January 8, 1867 — d. September 30, 1945) July 30, 1885. They are buried in Sharon Church Cemetery. Burl Benjamin (b. June 12, 1859 — d. December 30, 1936) married Arminda Ransom Hawkins, (b. February 15, 1862 — d. December 28, 1943) August 4, 1881. They are buried in Sharon Church Cemetery. Cordelia Arvezonia (b. July 25, 1866 — d. May 26, 1915) married J. Cicero Hughes (b. September 19, 1866 — d. October 6, 1904) November 1, 1888. They also are buried in Sharon Church Cemetery. Nancy Jane (b. October 11, 1871 — d. June 25, 1952) married Leonard Yelton (b. March 20, 1856 — d. March 8, 1933). Both are buried in Sharon Church Cemetery. Mary Elizabeth (b. July 25, 1872 — d. September 18, 1925) married Amos Davis (b. June 23, 1848 — d. June 22, 1921) January 5, 1897. They are buried in Sharon Church Cemetery. Julia Ann married Robert A. Houser December 25, 1913. They are buried in Lincoln County. Drury Allen, Jr. (b. July 21, 1869 — d. April 4, 1890) never married. He is buried Sharon Church Cemetery.

Sources: Family history, court records, Sharon Cemetery, relatives and S.C. Jones' book.

— Johnnie M. Queen

DRURY WATSON BLANTON

262

Drury Watson Blanton was the third child and oldest son of James Henry and Mary Melvina Lee Blanton. He was born April 21, 1883 in Cleveland County, North Carolina. Watson was known by his friends and loved ones as a kind, considerate, and tall, silver-haired, handsome man, hair grayed in early manhood, a Blanton family trait. He was a farmer, builder, and salesman in the Sharon community and in Shelby, where he lived from 1909 until death.

Watson was married to Ida Pearl Byers, adopted daughter of John Franklin and Mary Alena Flack Ledbetter. She was born March 27, 1884 in Cleveland County. They had nine children: Joseph Kennon, Reba Corene, Hughlen Eugene, Ruby Lucile, Alena Melvina, J.W. (this stood for part of his father's name and part of all his grandfathers' names), twins Ben and Frank (died in infancy August 9, 1920), and Lucy Mae (named for two dear aunts, one on each family side).

Watson died March 15, 1932; Hughlen died November 9, 1940; Pearl died August 17, 1967 and is buried in Sunset Cemetery, Shelby, N.C. J.W. died February 14, 1982 and is buried in New Maplewood Cemetery, Durham, N.C.

J.W. served in both theaters of World War II, Pacific and European. He was among the first draftees to be sent to the Pacific Islands after Pearl Harbor and among the first to cross the Rhine River into Germany. Then he came home to find that he had only one kidney, a birth defect never detected until an emergency appendectomy, a number of years later, after he had returned to civilian life. J.W. was one of America's finest, most wonderful young men. He gave of himself to his church, St. Paul United Methodist Church, Durham, N.C. and to all who knew him. He was observant when quite young. His mother took him out behind the house to go to "the john" and the moon was in eclipse. He looked up and said, "Look Mama, the moon has on a cap."

Corene published a book A Penny's Worth of Candy in April, 1982. She is an artist and this book will include 17 examples of her primitive art, which are scenes from her early childhood.

Joseph Kennon Blanton married Essie Christine Camp. Two children: Frances De-lorese Blanton married Raymond Murphrey, three children: Cary, Chrissy, and Michael Murphrey. Joseph Kennon Blanton, Jr. married Dean Caulk, two children: Andrew Kennon and Alva Miranda Blanton

Reba Corene Blanton married John Carl Anthony. No children.

Drury Watson and Ida Pearl B. Blanton on their Wedding Day.

Home of Mr. & Mrs. Drury Watson Blanton and Family.

Children of Drury Watson Blanton. L to R: Corene, Hughlen, Kennon.

Ruby Lucile Blanton married Gordon Sanford Justus. One daughter, Suzanne Blanton Justus.

Alena Melvina Blanton unmarried.

J.W. Blanton married Betty Sellers, three children: Andrea Sellers Blanton married John Paul Dennis; Two children: Christopher Daniel and Blaine Thomas Dennis. John Watson Blanton (Johnny) married Debbie Milgate, no children. Tonya Starr Blanton married Milton Elmer Parker, no children.

Lucy Mae Blanton married Dewey Dorman Washam; three daughters: Ida Camille Washam married Richard Blevins Carriker, two children: Jeffrey Alan and Rebecca Camille Carriker. Dorma Gayle Washam married Peter Charles Tabisz, three children: Jennifer Leigh, Charles Matthew, and Amanda Nicole Tabisz. Lucy Lynn Washam married James Donald Smith, expecting in May, 1982.

— Corene Blanton Anthony

FRANKLIN BLANTON FAMILY

263

Franklin Blanton (1831-1915) was the youngest child of John Blanton and wife Rebecca Hughes Blanton of Cleveland County.

He was reared on his father's farm which was located south of Cleveland Memorial Park. He married Sarah Chitwood (1839-1890) the daughter of Jesse and Sarah Horton Chitwood of Rutherford County, N.C. Franklin and Sarah moved to their farm near Hollis, N.C. soon after they married.

On May 10, 1862, Franklin enlisted in the Confederate Army as a private, 56 Reg. N.C. Infantry and served a period of two years and two months. J.C. Elliott, a fellow soldier, referred to Frank Blanton as "a faithful soldier". He was with him in the trenches at Petersburg, Virginia. It was here that Franklin contracted a bad case of chronic diarrhea and was sent to a hospital in Richmond, Virginia. He was later sent home where he lay in critical condition for many months. After his recovery, he did much hard work on the farm, reared a large family and took an active part in community activities. He subscribed to several newspapers and magazines. He spent much of his free time reading. The national news was of great interest to him.

Franklin and Sarah Blanton's twelve children were:

(1) Jesse Guilford (1860-1894) a school teacher, farmer and the first postmaster of Hollis, N.C. He owned a large library and was always buying books when they were available. He married (1888) Lora Manassa Bridges (1869-1926), daughter of Jesse Whitson and wife Mary Jane Hamrick Bridges, of Lattimore. They had one child, John Samuel Blanton (1889-1947).

(2) Julia Rebecca Blanton (1862-1936) married (1889) Oliver Abraham Hamrick (1864-1952) son of Abram and Nancy McSwain Hamrick. Their children were: Fannie Elizabeth, Matty, Cuba, and Celeste Berniece.

(3) Ellen Blanton (1865-1957) married

Franklin Blanton, 1831-1915.

(1886) Gilbert Andrew "Dock" Price (1862-1932). Their children were: Sarah, Burwell, Roland Earnest, (who was publisher of the Rutherford County News), Ada Mae, Elmer, Edna, and John Bynum.

(4) John Blanton (1866-1895) married Martha C. Hamrick (1871-1919) daughter of Abram and Nancy McSwain Hamrick. They bought a farm on the Lattimore — New House road and reared the following children: Sarah, Bessie Lillian, Mary Elizabeth "Mamie", and John Abram. John A. was superintendent of the Cleveland County Home for the Aged.

(5) James Blanton (1868-1895) never married.

(6) Burwell "Burt" Blanton (1870-1954) married (1894) Mary Laura "Maggie" McKee (1875-1952) daughter of John William McKee and Mary Elizabeth Goforth McKee. Their children were: John Clay and Fred Franklin, who owned and operated a livermush business; Sankie Lee, a minister-educator, was Dean of Religion at Wake Forest College and president of Crozer Theological Seminary, Chester, Pennsylvania; Lydia Vashti; Maynard Leo, Mary C, Carrie, Doris, Gaynelle, and two sets of twins who died in infancy.

(7) Mary Malindy Blanton (1872-1899) married James Vernon Allen (1864-1945) and moved to South Carolina. Their children were: Samuel, a deputy in Bennettsville, S.C., Clifford Jesse; and Millard.

(8) Sarah "Sally" Blanton (1874-1950) married (1892) James Louis Hamrick (1869-1970) the son of Abram and Nancy McSwain Hamrick. Their children were: Eldon, Lala, Rush, Laxton who was superintendent of Mt. Holly Schools, Hermina, Abram Franklin, a professor at Georgia Tech; and James Lewis, Jr., Superintendent of Water Works, Richmond, Va.

(9) William F. Blanton (1876-1894) never married.

(10) Nancy Elizabeth Blanton (1878-1952) married (1897) William Newton Daves (1868-1946) son of Jimmie and Nancy Justice Daves. Their farm was located on the Lattimore — New House Road. Their children were: Guy, superintendent of schools, Kipling, N.C.; Austin, and Evelyn Daves.

(11) Frances "Fannie" Blanton (1880-1962) married (1898) Rev. William Martin Gold (1873-1949) son of Benjamin Franklin and Cynthia Narcissus Pannel Gold. They lived near the Cleveland and Rutherford County line north of New House. Their children were Paul, Mozell and Ruth.

(12) Eliza Blanton (1882-1972) married (1905) Twitty Daves (1880-1964) son of Clingman and Anna Marie Moore Daves. Their children were Madeline, who was a supervisor at the deaf school in Morganton, Velma, and Ora.

Franklin, Sarah, and their children are buried at Mt. Olivet Baptist Church in Rutherford County with the exception of Sarah Blanton Hamrick who is buried at Ellenboro, N.C.

— Mrs. Beatrix B. Ramey

George Blanton, a progenitor of the Blantons in Cleveland and Rutherford counties was born in Virginia ca. 1730. He was twice married, first to Elvira Lee of Virginia (Old Tryon & Rutherford Counties by Griffin) and second to Susanna, surname not known. He first appeared in Lunenburg County, Virginia records in 1763. The indenture states that George Hares bound himself for six years to George Blanton, planter. He again appears in the St. James Parish having no land but with three tithables. In 1764 he bought land in Bute County, NC (now Warren), and was identified as being from Lunenburg County, VA. It is not known if he ever lived in Bute County, NC, for the next year the same land was sold for the balance of the purchase price.

George Blanton and his family had moved to Tryon County, NC, settling on First Broad River just below Chamber's Old Mill place on Shoal Creek. It was noted that he witnessed a deed in Tryon County, NC 19 May, 1769.

The surname Blanton dates back to the fifteenth century, being an ancient Scott border family name. In 1574 reference was made to a John Blanton being knighted for bravery by Queen Elizabeth, I of England. Representatives of the name came from England to the United States in the early seventeenth century, settling in Massachusetts and on both sides of the James River in Virginia. The Virginia branch became the founders of the families in North Carolina, however, the direct line of George Blanton to these families has yet to be established.

George Blanton was a planter and surveyor by trade and in order to protect his land investments he became very active in the affairs of Old Tryon County, and remained so until his death. These interests were shown in the following ways: The November, 1769 meeting of the North Carolina Council in New Bern ordered that his name be added to the Commission of Peace and Dedemus for Tryon County (Colonial Record Vol. III, p. 149). The Tryon County Court Minutes show that he qualified as a justice and took his seat during the January term 1770, the first term after his appointment.

George Blanton was anxious as to his land holdings, for in 1775 he was one of the petitioners to the King's most Excellent Majesty in Council asking that their land be returned to the province of North Carolina when the western boundary line was extended (Colonial Records Vol. 9, 1260-1262).

The newly settled territory of Tryon County had few roads and as more land was acquired when the settlers moved into the area, it became necessary to build new roads and give more power to the courts. George Blanton was given many appointments such as laying out roads, serving on jury duty, witnessing deeds, tax collector, and serving as administrator of estates.

His name does not appear in the 1790 United States census of the district; however, he was listed as a Justice of Peace and militia officer which bears out the fact that he was indeed in the district. In 1795 he was granted the privilege to build a mill on Shoal Creek, waters of First Broad River. In 1799 he was appointed, along with others, to lay off a town (Burr Town) on main Broad River between the mouth of First Little Broad and the mouth of Green River. The project failed when the state abandoned its efforts to make the rivers of North Carolina suitable for navigation.

On 22 January, 1796 George Blanton made his will and named his two sons, Burwell and William as executors. The will was probated in Rutherford County, NC, Court, 13 October, 1802. He named his wife Susanna and the following children: Burwell, Ann Bridges, Catherine Bridges, William, Betsy Bridges, Frances, John, Peggy and Richard.

Burwell Blanton, born 1 November 1762 in Virginia, died 14 May, 1861 Cleveland County, NC. His first wife was Phoebe Margaret Bridges and his second wife, Mary "Polly" Wiley of South Carolina. Ann married a Bridges (no record of this family has been found); Catherine married William Bridges; William married Sarah Gilchrist and moved to Tennessee. He died 3 October 1826; Betsy married a Bridges, no record of this family has been found; Frances, born 1775, died 13 January, 1849 married James Hamrick, son of Samuel Hamrick and wife Mary. Their children were William, Albert, Allen Dillard, and Thompson Hamrick: John, born CA 1778 married and moved to Tennessee. He had five sons; John Carter, Thomas, Coleman, William, and Richard. The families of Mary and Peggy have not been identified.

Richard Blanton, the youngest son died in 1821. He married Sarah, surname not known. Their children were: Malinda, Susannah, William Ross, Hester, and Elizabeth L. (estate settlement, NC archives).

George Blanton owned eighteen hundred acres of land at the time of his death. He is buried at his old homeplace in Cleveland County, along with his son Burwell Blanton and family. A field stone marked his grave.

Sources: Rutherford County court records and family records.

— Mrs. S. Arnold Ramey

GEORGE BLANTON, SENIOR

265

George Blanton, Sr. of Shelby, second son of Burwell and Frances Doggett Blanton, was born on October 26, 1871. The house where he was born still stands on property now a part of Blanton Industrial Park.

He attended Captain William Bell's school in Shelby and Wake Forest College from which he was graduated in 1893. While there, he was a member of Kappa Alpha fraternity, the Euzelian Society, Chief Commencement Marshall and was captain of the football team. Their team had only one substitute, a total of twelve men on the squad. If two players were injured, the team proceeded with ten men, if another was injured you were down to nine and so it went! Occasionally the schedule would include three out of town games over a weekend, with only one substitute available.

After college Mr. George, as he was fondly called, sold sewing machines in Tidewater, Virginia until 1895, when he and his brother Charles entered the banking firm, of B. Blanton & Co. acquired by his father, Burwell. This was the forerunner of the present First National Bank of Shelby in which Mr. George served as Cashier, President and finally Chairman of the Board until his death at 88.

On January 17, 1900 he was married to Ida Estelle Wood (b. May 2, 1879 d. February 21, 1977), daughter of Millicent Catherine Draper and Adolphous Nott Wood, industrialist and banker of Gaffney, S.C.

Mr. George's contributions to Cleveland County were not confined to banking, one of the most important being his interest in the improvement in farming methods. He encouraged terracing, the use of commercial fertilizers, and bankrolled many a farmer to promote the latest scientific practices. With a number of county citizens he helped organize the Cleveland County Fair Association in 1924 and served as a vice president without interruption until 1959.

George Blanton, Sr.

Totally committed to the premise that higher education is of prime importance, he gave generously to the building programs at Gardner-Webb College and established the permanent George and Ida Wood Blanton Scholarship.

It is difficult to choose which sport Mr. George loved best, football or horseback riding. Besides being an accomplished horseman, he taught many youngsters the art. For years one would see him most mornings riding out with his brother Charlie. When age forced him to curtail his own riding, one could find him seated in a chair in the riding ring instructing his beloved granddaughters in the finer points.

His keen interest in football dated from his days at Wake Forest College. In his later years one could drop in to see Mr. George and find him tuned to one game on television and another on radio. He instigated the annual presentation at Shelby High School of the George Blanton Athletic Award, for the best all-around athlete. Perhaps it is most fitting that the challenge gift came from his family for the erection of a football stadium at Shelby High School and that it is named the George Blanton Memorial Stadium.

During the last few years of his life Mr. George would spend several hours during the day at his desk at First National Bank, counseling and advising all who came to him for help in his quiet gentle manner.

His contribution to the ongoing success of Cleveland County can best be summed up by the various civic and business activities he engaged in during his long and productive life.

He followed his brother Charlie as President and Chairman of the Board of First National Bank; he was president of Eagle Roller Mill, and Shelby Loan and Mortgage Corporation. Elected the first Board Chairman of N.C. Orthopedic Hospital in Gastonia, he served in this capacity until his death thirty years later. He was a vice president of Shelby Cotton Mills and of Dover Mill; director of Ora Mill, Lily Mills, Shelby Building and Loan Association, Star Publishing Company, Planters & Merchants Warehouse, and Western Carolina Radio Corp. He served several times on the Shelby School Board and for many years was superintendent of the Sunday School Department at First Baptist Church.

Mr. George died on April 21, 1959 and is buried in the family plot at Sunset Cemetery. He was survived by his wife, his children: the late Mrs. Millicent Blanton Thompson of Charlotte, N.C.; Mrs. Caroline Blanton Thayer of Boston, Massachusetts; and George Blanton, Jr. of Shelby, N.C.; and five grandchildren.

Source: Family records

— Nancy Dicks Blanton

GEORGE BLANTON, JR.

266

George Blanton, Jr. is the third direct generation of this branch of the Blanton family to make banking his lifetime career. He was born September 3, 1914, the only son of George and Ida Wood Blanton at his parents' home on West Marion Street, Shelby. This house was presented by George Blanton, Jr. and his two sisters to Gardner-Webb College in 1981 and is serving as the residence for its president.

He attended the Shelby Schools and graduated from McCallie School at Chattanooga, Tennessee in 1931, matriculating to the University of North Carolina where he received a B.S. degree in Business Administration. After a year's apprenticeship with the American Trust Company in Charlotte, he returned to Shelby entering the First National Bank. In 1947 at the age of 32 he succeeded George Blanton, Sr. as president and thus was the youngest president of a national bank in the United States. In 1980 he became Chairman of the Board and Chief Executive Officer.

George Blanton, Jr. has followed the distinguished careers of his forbearers in banking and community services. During World War II he joined the United States Navy as Ship Service Officer of the Naval Receiving Station at Anacostia, D.C., retiring as a Lieutenant, J.G. in 1946. He has been the Volunteer Chairman of the Cleveland County U.S. Savings Bond program since 1959, was selected the first Chairman of the Young Bankers Association and has held various positions with the North Carolina Bankers Association.

In 1964 he was appointed to the Board of the Federal Reserve Bank in Richmond and served as a member of the Federal Advisory Commission to the United States Comptroller of the Currency. In 1965 he was named by Governor Dan Moore to the Board of Trustees of the North Carolina Orthopedic Hospital in Gastonia.

In civic and community service, George Blanton, Jr. was a charter member and officer in the Shelby Junior Chamber of Commerce as well as a director and vice president of the Shelby Chamber of Commerce. He is a former president and director of the Shelby Downtown Improvement Corporation, a charter member and past president of the Cleveland County Historical Association and is a past president of the Shelby Lions Club. He is a lifelong member of the First Baptist Church of Shelby, has twice been president of the Cleveland County United Fund, and was twice elected chairman of the Gardner-Webb Board of Advisors.

Inheriting a love of the land from his antecedents, George Blanton, Jr. has been associated with the promotion of agriculture in Cleveland County and the state. At Blanton Farms he developed one of the outstanding herds of Jersey cattle in the United States, receiving recognition locally and nationally. Since the dispersal of the dairy in 1971 he has continued this interest by raising fine beef cattle.

He served as a director and treasurer of the North Carolina Jersey Cattle Breeders Association, director of the North Carolina State Agricultural Association and is a director and current vice president of the Cleveland County Fair Association. It has been said that if you are a true Blanton, you have a natural proclivity for fine horse flesh. Before his daughters were married, the big barn behind their home was occupied by champion three and five gaited horses, as well as others which were kept by Jack Boyd in Simpsonville, S.C.

In addition to being Chairman of the Board and Chief Executive Officer of Cleveland County's First National Bank, he is currently president of Eagle Roller Mill, a director of Dover and Ora Mills, Star Publishing Company and P and M Warehouse Co., secretary and director of Shelby Radio Corporation, vice president and director of both Seal Wire Company and Artee Industries. He is a charter member of the Board of Advisors of the University of North Carolina at Charlotte.

On September 10, 1937 George Blanton, Jr. was married to Nancy Coltrane Dicks of Rockingham, N.C., the daughter of Lydia Dozier Lee of Sumter, S.C. and Robert Peel Dicks originally of Randolph County, N.C. Mrs. Blanton was born on April 16, 1915 in New York. She was educated at Sweet Briar College, was graduated from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and did post graduate work at the Sorbonne in France. She has been active in the social, civic and religious life of the community; serving as president of the Shelby Junior Charity League, was a charter member and director of the Shelby Art League, a member of the Vestry of the Episcopal Church of the Redeemer, served on the board of the Florence Crittendon Home, is a member of the Contemporary Book Club and of the National Society of Colonial Dames of America in North Carolina.

George Blanton, Jr.

Since their marriage Mr. and Mrs. Blanton have resided in the 1876 home on North Lafayette Street known as the "Bankers House," registered with the National Register of Historic Places.

Sources: Family records.

— Mrs. George Blanton, Jr.

BLANTON, GEORGE JR. FAMILY

267

Three daughters were born to the union of George Blanton, Junior and Nancy Coltrane Dicks. The eldest, Nancy Dicks Blanton Siegel, was born on February 23, 1940. Educated in the Shelby Schools, she was graduated from Sweet Briar College in 1962 with a Bachelor of Arts degree in American Studies, and spent the following year in Europe attending the Institute Richelieu in Lausanne, Switzerland. Upon returning she was employed by First National Bank of Shelby, and a year later the North Carolina National Bank in Charlotte. In 1964 she entered the University of Virginia at Charlottesville, earning a Master of Business Administration degree, the only woman in a class of men. Subsequently she joined the First National City Bank of New York where she was a vice president and securities analyst. In 1974 she and L. Pendleton Siegel of Richmond, Virginia were married; living in New Canaan, Connecticut until her tragic death on July 13, 1976. She is buried in the family plot at Sunset Cemetery.

Nancy was an accomplished horsewoman, owning a number of champion equitation and three and five-gaited horses with which she won many honors at horse shows in North Carolina, South Carolina, Virginia and Pennsylvania. She was a member of the Episcopal Church of the Redeemer, the New York Society of Securities Analysts, and of the National Society of the Colonial Dames of America in North Carolina.

Catherine Wood Blanton Freedberg, the second daughter of George and Nancy Blanton, was born on May 9, 1942. She graduated with a Bachelor of Arts degree from Smith College, Northampton, Massachusetts in 1964, having spent her junior year at the Sorbonne in France. For the year of 1965-1966 she was affiliated with the National Gallery of Art in Washington, D.C. on a Kress Fellowship, subsequently entering Harvard University where she received a Masters and a Doctorate in the History or Art. Catherine is a member of the National Society of the Colonial Dames of America in the State of Massachusetts. She resides in Cambridge with her husband, Dr. Sydney J. Freedberg, of the Harvard University faculty, and their son, Sydney J. Freedberg, Jr., born on October 14, 1973.

Lydia Lee Blanton Hamrick, the third daughter of George and Nancy Blanton, was born on October 27, 1948. After finishing the Shelby Public Schools, she attended Stratford College in Danville, Virginia, transferring to the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill her junior year. Marriage to C. Rush Hamrick, III in 1970 interrupted her education while she joined her husband for a two year tour of duty with the United States Navy in Naples, Italy. Returning to Shelby she completed her degree in Primary Education at Gardner-Webb College. Lydia is an active member of the Shelby Junior Charity League and the First Presbyterian Church to which she and her family belong. They have two sons: Charles Rush Hamrick, IV, born April 11, 1977 and George Blanton Hamrick, born June 5, 1979.

Source: Family history.

— Nancy Dicks Blanton

HARRILL LEE BLANTON

268

Harrill Lee Blanton was born on April 17, 1924 in Cleveland County to John Samuel Blanton and Garva Ella Harrill. "Buster" (now called "Bus") as he was nicknamed by his mother was the sixth of seven children.

Bus attended Lattimore School where, on the first day, he sneaked away and returned home. His mother found him sitting nonchalantly on the couch and asked him why he wasn't at school. He replied that his heart just didn't beat right over there!

When "Bus" was a little boy he had an unusual pet, a rooster. One of the things "Bus" enjoyed doing was putting baby shoes on the rooster and watching him walk around.

After graduation from Lattimore High School in 1941, Bus worked for Glenn L. Martin Aircraft Company in Baltimore, Maryland. He also attended Howard's Business College and served in the United States Navy.

For many years Bus worked with his father and brothers (J.S. Blanton & Sons) in the plumbing and electrical business. Years later, Bus and his brother Ken took over the business and also operated a poultry farm for a while. After working as a salesman for Dixie Industrial Supply Company of Shelby, Bus owned and operated a clothing store (The College Corner) in Lattimore for a brief period.

As an active member of Lattimore Baptist Church he has served for many years as a deacon, a Sunday School teacher, the director of Training Union, a choir member, and on many committees. Throughout the years he has also rendered various services in community work.

Harrill L. and Evelyn Gold Blanton.

Bus married Martha Evelyn Gold (Nov. 27, 1923) on May 17, 1945 in Milton, Florida. Evelyn is the daughter of Ralph Royster Gold (May 9, 1898 — May 30, 1968) and Alma Branton (June 17, 1902). A graduate of Lattimore High School and the Shelby School of Nursing, Evelyn was a registered nurse at Cleveland Memorial Hospital for many years. Presently an attendance counselor for Cleveland County Schools, she devotes a majority of her time unselfishly and many times without recognition in helping others.

Evelyn is an active member of Lattimore Baptist Church. She has for many years and still does teach one of the women's Sunday School classes. A member of the choir, she has worked in Bible School, taught Training Union, and served on different committees.

Bus and Evelyn have four children and one foster child. The first child Harrill Lee Jr. was born January 4, 1947. He attended Lattimore School and graduated from Shelby High School. He also attended N.C. State University. He is employed by Summey Building Systems of Dallas, N.C. Harrill married Tena Gail Harris (Jan. 25, 1947) on September 5, 1970. Tena is a teacher at Elizabeth School. Harrill and Tena have one child Joshua Lee (Jan. 25, 1976).

Martha Beatrix is the only daughter of Bus and Evelyn. Born August 4, 1948 she attended Lattimore School. She graduated from Shelby High School, Gardner-Webb Junior College, and Appalachian State University. March 29, 1975 Martha married Stuart Maxwell Caudill (June 5, 1946) who is a biology teacher for Gaston County Schools. Having taught French for nine years in the Gaston County School system, Martha is presently at home taking care of their son Jonathan Stuart who was born October 16, 1979.

Born July 8, 1955 John Gold was Bus and Evelyn's third child. He graduated from Crest High School and attended Gardner-Webb College. He and his brother Mike own and manage Cross Country Cycles, a bicycle shop in Shelby. John married Margaret Rose Nanney (Dec. 4, 1956) on May 21, 1977. "Maggie" is a registered nurse in Labor and Delivery at Cleveland Memorial Hospital.

The last of four children, William Michael was born January 15, 1959. He graduated from Crest High School and is currently co-owner of Cross Country Cycles.

Bus and Evelyn have a foster child Robert Steven who was born July 6, 1966. He is a student at Crest High School.

A man of many talents and skills, and one known for his unselfish time and effort devoted to helping others, Bus is presently an industrial trade teacher at Kings Mountain Junior High School. He still resides with his wife, one son, and their foster child in the Lattimore Community.

Source: Family history.

— Stuart Caudill

JAMES HENRY BLANTON

269

James Henry Blanton and Mary Melvina Lee were married December 14, 1876. They had nine children: Annie Jane, Ollie, Watson, Viola, Sam, Lena, Ethel, Mae and Harold. Lena Blanton Beam (Mrs. Merton H. Beam) is the only surviving child, living in Charlotte.

James Henry Blanton was born June 7, 1854, died March 7, 1934; Mary Melvina Lee Blanton was born January 27, 1860, died February 5, 1925.

Melvina Lee's father, Watson E. Lee, fought in the Battle of Gettysburg. He was in 28th Regiment, Company H. Some of the family have his last letter written shortly before he was killed in action.

Ida Pearl Byers, wife of Watson Blanton, was adopted at age five by John Franklin and Mary Alena Flack Ledbetter. She has three sisters, and after their father died with typhoid when a very young man, the mother was unable to care for four small daughters and the father's parents. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Creighton Byers, Sr., of Sulphur Springs took all four to raise, but as Pearl was the youngest and the grandmother was getting older, the youngest could not help to look after herself.

Grandchildren of James Henry and Mary Melvina Blanton. L to R: Alena, J.W., Lucy Mae, Lucile. In back: Hughlen.

Her three sisters were: Mattie Byers married David Barnett; Dorothea Byers married Leonard Ledford; Lily Byers married Noah Gladden, all deceased.

The sisters remained close until death and visited Pearl often, calling Pearl's adoptive parents Uncle John and Aunt Mary. Her three sisters were living in Sulphur Springs community, Peal in the Sharon community. She was a real Southern lady from her earliest days. She was a gentle mother, soft-spoken and lovable girl and woman, and an excellent speller.

Later John and Mary adopted a son, Frank Boyce Ledbetter. Frank was a very talented person. He married Lucy Hasty from down east, Raeford, N.C. Frank and Lucy adopted John William Ledbetter (Bill). Bill married Ada Jean Walker of Cleveland County. They have two children, Cindy and Mike.

John F. Ledbetter, born February 2, 1850, died October 11, 1930. Mary Alena Flack Ledbetter, born January 9, 1859, died November 14, 1940. Frank Boyce Ledbetter, born December 18, died December 11, 1958. John, Mary, and Frank, buried at Sunset Cemetery, Shelby, North Carolina.

Sources: Family knowledge.

— Corene Blanton Anthony

JOHN "BUCK" BLANTON

270

John Blanton, known as "Buck" was born ca. 1785, died 1 December, 1847. He was the son of Burwell Blanton, the Revolutionary soldier and Phoebe Margaret Bridges Blanton. He married Rebecca Hughes (1789 — d. ca. 1876), daughter of Revolutionary soldier William Hughes and wife Nancy Bowers Hughes.

John Blanton and family lived on Beaver Dam Creek in Cleveland County. The old home place is located behind what is now known as Cleveland Memorial Park. The family cemetery is nearby where John and Rebecca, along with Rebecca's parents are buried. John Blanton's estate settlement indicated that he was a very successful farmer. To this union were born ten children.

Burwell (1809-1877) was known in the area as "Lawyer Burt". Although he had no legal training he was often called upon to write wills and other important documents. He too, was a successful farmer. He lived with his blind mother and his sister Malinda. He never married and when he wrote his will in 1877 he gave all his property to his beloved sister Malinda, naming his youngest brother, Franklin Blanton, as executor of his estate. His grandfather Burwell Blanton, for whom he was named, appointed him executor of his estate.

Andrew "Andy" Blanton (b. 1811) married (1838) Elizabeth Jane Jolley (b. 1820). His second wife was Elizabeth Winn (b. 1830) whose first husband was Lemual Pearson. Their children were: William C., Karolina, Messeleny, Eady E., Rebecca, Burrel A., Elizabeth J. and Nancy S.

Nancy Blanton (1814-1887) married Peter Bedford. They had one child Malinda Bedford who married Thomas Stroud.

Julia Ann (b. 1817 —) married 26 December 1839 to Samuel Marion Dunn (b. 1818 Lincoln County, NC). He was a boatmaker by trade. He fought in the civil War on the side of the Union. He and Julia Ann lived in South Carolina before moving to Tennessee. Their children were: John, Samuel, Phillip, Charlotte, Nellie, James A., Ellen, Rebecca and Noah Dunn.

Rebecca Blanton (1820-1891) married Lewis "Dock" Jolley (1812-1898) who was a soldier in the French and Indian war. Their children were: Martha and Jesse Goven Jolley. Lewis Jolley's first wife was Mary McCraw.

William Blanton (1817-1907) married 29 July 1856, Almira (Elmina) N. Hughes (1839-1092). Their children were: John, Linda Jane, Greenberry, William Franklin, and Mollie Blanton.

John Blanton (1826-1862) married Sarah "Aunt Sack" Hughes (b. 1829). Their children were: Elizabeth, Malindy, Tucker and Jesse Blanton.

Mary Blanton (b. 1827) married 22 April, 1856, her first cousin Burwell Benson Byers (b. 1828 —). Their children were: Benjamin Franklin, John James, Joseph Crayton, Mary and Nancy Blanton.

Malinda Blanton (1830-1897) never married. She lived with her mother Rebecca, and brother "Lawyer Burt" Blanton. After their death her niece, Mary Etta Blanton and nephew, William Franklin Blanton took care of her, and in return for this service inherited her property (Cleveland County Will Book I). Malinda is buried with her parents in the family cemetery.

Franklin "Frank" Blanton (1831-1915) the youngest child, married Sarah Chitwood (1839-1890) of Rutherford County. She was the daughter of Jesse Chitwood (a soldier in the war of 1812) and wife Sarah Horton. Franklin and Sarah moved to Hollis, NC where he engaged in farming. Their children were: Jesse Guilford, Julia Rebecca, Ellen, John, James, Burwell "Bert", Mary Malinda, Sarah "Sally", William F. "Bill", Nancy Elizabeth "Lizzie", Frances "Fannie", and Eliza Blanton.

Sources: Family Records

— Mrs. S. Arnold Ramey

JOHN G. BLANTON and DESCENDANTS

271

John G. Blanton was born June 2, 1863 and died July 25, 1931. He married Lissie Edison and had four children; Lillie Mae, Ernest, Ed. P., and Hettie.

John G. Blanton lived on a farm close to Shelby, N.C. After Lissie Edison Blanton died, he married Cathrine E. Peeler. She was born September 22, 1871, and died about 1942. John G. and Cathrine E. Peeler Blanton are buried at Sharon Methodist Church. The church was founded in 1851 and is presently located close to the Shelby Airport. They had no children.

Lillie Mae, a daughter of John G. Blanton, was born June 15, 1886 and died September 20, 1932. Lillie Mae married Dock Reed Hovis. Dock was born December 19, 1875 and died May 20, 1940. Both are buried at Macedonia Church in Lincoln County, N.C. For awhile they lived at Gaffney, S.C. before moving to Lincoln, N.C. They had eight children: Thomas Wesley, born April 8, 1910, died September 13, 1919 and is buried at Macedonia Baptist Church; Jake Sullivan, born June 14, 1913, died October 27, 1979. He married Alice Mathis and they lived in Lincoln County, N.C. They had nine children: Lillie Nadine, Nancy Mae, Alfred, Edward, Margie, Dorothy, Carolyn, Nettie, and Carl; David's twin brother, who wasn't named, died October 28, 1916; David Lockman, born October 26, 1916, married Helen Poole. They had four children: Sylvia Inez, Pansy, Allen, Mildred; Samuel Mullen, born October 3, 1918 and died December 14, 1973, married Elizabeth Beal and had two children: Mack Daniel and Howard Reed; Wade Shelton, born April 9, 1921, married Mary Lou Richard and had one child, Dale Richard; Daniel Moore, born September 5, 1923, married Lois Brackett, and had three children: Daniel Moore, Jr., Eddie Eugene, and Ricky Lamar; Mary Lissie, born April 13, 1926, married Gaither Lee Beal. Gaither was born August 18, 1918. They have five children: Larrv Danny, Kenneth Lee, Blair Eugene, Betty Faye (Lavander) and James Darrell.

Ed. P. Blanton, a son of John G., married Bessie (?). He had four children: Andrew, Lillie, Velma, and John.

Ernest, another son of John G., married (?) and had six children, four by his first wife and a set of twins by the second. They are Velma, John, Margaret, and Junior.

— Mary Lissie Hovis Beal

THE JOHN SAMUEL BLANTON FAMILY

272

John Samuel Blanton (b. September 1889; d. 23 February 1947) was the son of Jesse Guilford (1860-1894) and wife Lora Manassa Bridges Blanton (1869-1926), and grandson of Franklin (1831-1915) and wife Sarah Chitwood Blanton (1839-1890).

John's father taught school at the Old Boone School located west of Lattimore (Cleveland County). When John was five years old his father died. His mother, unable to continue farming, moved back to the home of her parents (Jesse Whitson (1875-1904) and wife Mary Jane Hamrick Bridges) (1851-1945) in the Lattimore Community. In 1900 his mother married James Albert Johnson (1875-1949).

John S. Blanton entered the business world as operator and director of the Lattimore Telephone Company. After serving in this capacity from 1905 — until 1920, he went into business for himself. He sold and installed home electric light and water systems in Cleveland and Rutherford Counties. At this period of time, electricity was not available in the rural area and families who wanted these conveniences had to buy their own systems. John's home was the first in Lattimore area to have these utilities. Prior to his home electrical system, John had built and installed a water wheel to generate electricity for his home. The wheel was placed in a branch about a mile away. While it furnished only enough electricity to light one light bulb, it caused a sensation among neighbors and friends who came to see his invention. John and his neighbor, Dr. L.V. Lee, were instrumental in bringing electricity to Lattimore (1923).

John, in addition to his electrical and plumbing business, operated a grocery store.

In the late twenties his uncle D. Cicero Bridges, became a partner in his grocery business. This was all destroyed in the March 11, 1930 Lattimore fire. After the fire John built a small electrical shop near his home, and in spite of declining health, continued to operate his business and teach classes in electricity for the defense program. Eventually, his sons joined him and the business became known as J.S. Blanton and sons.

Since John's interest was in the field of electricity, it was no surprise that he became interested in radio. His hobby was building radio receiving sets, also a first for the area. He spent many happy hours sitting by his receiving set, headphones to his ears, listening to KDKA, a station in Pittsburg, Pennsylvania. Neighbors and friends from all around came to hear the "man talk from Pittsburg."

On June 29, 1910, John married Garva Ella Harrill (b. 27 June 1891) daughter of Robert Lee and Julia Jane McSwain Harrill. In 1911 they bought and moved into the Pratt Early house in Lattimore, this has remained the family residence for 71 years.

Garva came with her family to Lattimore in 1905 from the Beaver Dam Community. She was an assistant postal clerk in the Lattimore post office, and was a teacher at the Padgett School (1910). John Crawley, one of her pupils, described her in a 1975 article that he wrote to the Star, "as quiet, loving, kind and sincere and did her work well — there were no discipline problems then." After her marriage, Garva worked (in their home) as the Lattimore Telephone Company operator and later ran a small hat shop. For seventy years she has been active in the Lattimore Baptist Church. She has served as a Sunday school teacher, choir member, and leader of the R.A.'s. In 1954 she was young people leader for the Kings Mountain Baptist Association. She was a charter

The John Samuel Blanton Family. L to R: Sarah Dedmon, Harold L., Annette Cline, Robert E., Beatrix Ramey, John S., Jr., Mrs. John S., Kenneth H.

JOHN SAMUEL BLANTON, JR. — LOUISE BROWN BLANTON 273

John Samuel Blanton, Jr. was born in Lattimore, North Carolina to John Samuel Blanton (1889-1947) and Garva Ella Harrill (1891-), attended by Dr. Lawrence Victor Lee.

John played basketball and baseball for Lattimore High School, all team sports for Gardner Webb College (1936-1938), and was graduated from North Carolina State University, Raleigh, N.C. in 1954.

During the summer of 1939 he worked in Powell, Wyoming; did electrical installations during the construction of Camp Croft, Spartanburg, South Carolina (1940-1941); worked as an electrician and ground test mechanic for Glenn L. Martin Aircraft Company, Baltimore, Maryland (1941-1945); served as First Sergeant of Headquarters Company, 349th Infantry Battalion, 88th Division in Italy (April 1945 — August 1946); and worked as a plumber and electrician with Blanton and Sons, Lattimore, North Carolina prior to 1940 and from 1946-1951.

On March 15, 1942 he married in Shelby, North Carolina, Mary Louise Brown (born June 7, 1919), daughter of William Thomas Brown (1887-1955) and Fannie Jane Casey (1884-1959).

John and Louise have one son, John Samuel Blanton III (Sam), born May 13, 1944, Baltimore, Maryland. Sam married Mary Ann Bunker, January 28, 1964 and they have three children: Misty Ann Blanton, born December 25, 1964; John Samuel Blanton, IV, born February 20, 1967; and Robert Lee Blanton, born January 6, 1970.

John sang in the choir at Lattimore Baptist Church, Lattimore, North Carolina and at Pullen Memorial Baptist Church, Raleigh, North Carolina. He was a Boy Scout Master and had a square dance team in Lattimore, North Carolina; did a variety of community recreational activities in Raleigh, North Carolina; was director of Water Safety for Wake County American Red Cross (1955-1958); taught Diversified Occupations in Garner, North Carolina (1954-1964); was Assistant State Supervisor and Consultant of Vocational Education for the North Carolina Department of Public Instruction (1964-1980).

He received the Cross of Military Service from the United Daughters of the Confederacy through the Cleveland Guards, Chapter 443, Shelby, North Carolina on March 9, 1980.

His hobbies have included horseback riding; photography; water and snow skiing; bridge; hunting; fishing; boating; model building; raising parakeets, tropical fish, poodles and bird dogs; collecting antiques; travel; golf; tennis, and dancing.

John retired July 1, 1980 and spends his time between his homes in Raleigh and Harkers Island, North Carolina; boating, shrimp-ing, fishing and enjoying his friends.

Louise was born at Pacolet, South Carolina. She attended Morgan Elementary School and Shelby High School, Gardner-Webb College, Asheville Teachers College and the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. She taught school at Grover, Lattimore, and Raleigh, North Carolina for 33 years, nine years of which she was a principal in Wake County.

Her memories of life in Cleveland County include: representing Morgan Elementary school at an art contest in Washington, D.C.; debating and public speaking at Shelby High School; Isabell Hoey (daughter of Clyde R. Hoey) as the most colorful teacher she ever had; being elected to the Beta Club and Phi Rho Pi; working a whole day for her brother who was an auditor, to find a penny to balance a tax sheet; walking from Earl Road to Shelby High School daily; wearing a pink crepe smocked dress to the Junior-Senior Banquet that was made by her mother; all the small children of the family sitting on a feather bed and her mother reading to them during a thunder storm; eating banana pudding on Sunday, lettuce and fish on Friday; no work on Sunday except dishwashing; her daddy clearing his throat to correct behavior of children; being sent away from the table for giggling; tin tubs of lemonade on church picnics; working in the library and kitchen at Gardner-Webb and seeing the Price Tulip Garden at Lattimore, North Carolina.

Louise's hobbies include all kinds of crafts. She is always busy at work no matter which home, Raleigh or Harkers Island.

Sources: Family Knowledge

— Louise B. Blanton

THE JONATHON BATEY BLANTON FAMILY

274

John B. Blanton was born March 21, 1857, to Batey Sawyer Blanton, major in the Civil War, and Almira Clementine Whitesides Blanton (daughter of Aaron W. Whitesides and Elizabeth Lewis). They lived in the Forest City area near Concord Church and owned much property from there to Chimney Rock. Almira attended Limestone College. John's aunt (Priscilla Jane Blanton) and her husband, Milton Webb, lived next door. They were the parents of Judges James L. and E.Y. Webb. John's father died when he was one year old and is buried at Concord Church Cemetery. John had a brother, Hackett. Their mother married S.A. Wilson from Shelby, on September 3, 1963, and the Forest City area property was sold for Confederate money. Almira and S.A. Wilson had two children, James and Julia. They lived in Shelby.

As a young man, John and his friend, Charlie C. Blanton, (First National Bank) worked in Texas. After returning home, he attended Wake Forest College. In 1880, John started the first private school including primary and high school in Gastonia. Pupils attended from many counties. At night he prepared young business men for college. Two of his students were his cousins, O. Max Gardner and Yates Webb. This was the beginning of the school system in Gastonia.

John married Aurelia Barr, the talented daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Scott Barr, on July 2, 1883. Aurelia taught music and art. They had four children.

Garva Harrill and John Samuel Blanton.

member of the Lattimore Home Demonstration Club, serving as its president for two terms. She enjoyed writing and served as the town's reporter for the county newspapers. Her hobbies were gardening and playing her old reed organ.

There were eight children born to this union: Jesse Miles (b. 9 September, 1912; d. 1 October, 1912) died in infancy, Jenny Beatrix married S. Arnold Ramey; Mary Annette married Thomas Ray Cline, John Jr. married Mary Louise Brown; Kenneth Hewitt married Jane Elizabeth Cabaniss, Sarah Caroline married Thomas Hal Dedmon, Harrill Lee married Martha Evelyn Gold. (See articles elsewhere in book for information on the above children.

Robert Eugene, the youngest of the eight children was born 27 August 1929 in Lattimore. He was graduated from Gardner-Webb Junior College, University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill in radio broadcasting production, Florida State University in instrumental music, and the University of South Florida with a MA in Music Education.

His career in music includes the following: Band director in Lakeland City Schools, Lakeland, Florida. He was chosen Lakeland's 1964 teacher of the year. In 1963 he was a member of the summer staff of Brevard School of music, Brevard, N.C.. In 1970 he joined the Charlotte-Mecklenburg school system and in 1980, was chosen outstanding band director of North Carolina's sixth district.

He served in the armed forces, during the Korean conflict, with the Third Army Band. He is single and makes his home in Lattimore and Charlotte.

Sources: Family Knowledge, Bible

— Mrs. J.S. Blanton

— Mrs. Arnold Ramey

Batey Scott was born April 12, 1884. He married Rose McCanon. Their children were B. Scott, Jr. and Constance.

William McIlwain was born December 21, 1885. He married Lois Little. Their children are Nancy Lois and William, Jr.

Annie Barr was born July 8, 1887. She married John A. McBrayer. Their children are John Albert, Martha Aurelia, Charles David, and Mary Ruth.

May Aurelia was born February 19, 1889. She married J.W. Lucas. Their children are James Batey, William Scott, and Robert Pressley.

John's wife Aurelia died January 19, 1892, leaving four small children. He later married Alice Lillian Purcell, who had been an unusually bright student of his and who knew and loved his children. Lillian was born February 17, 1877, in Kings Mountain, North Carolina. She was the daughter of Dr. James J. and Harriett Melissa Baird Purcell. Dr. J.J. Purcell was the first (known) doctor in Mooresboro.

John and Lillian had seven children.

Ralph Purcell was born July 13, 1893. He married Edna Harrill. He died October 12, 1977. Their children are June Evelyn, Ralph P., Jr., and Margaret Lillian.

Fred Wilmont was born December 8, 1896. He married Maude Sikes. He died January 15, 1951. Their children are Mary Lylyyan, Jayne Alice, and Maude Sikes.

Johnathan Dewey was born May 26, 1898. He married Turner Smith. He died July 23, 1943. Their child is Marguerite Smith.

Rena Lillian was born May 16, 1900. She married Dr. W. Frank Strait. Their children are Rosa Lillian, Frank, IV, and Isabella Blanton.

Charles Edwin was born May 10, 1902. He married Blanche Faegan. Their children are Charles, Jr. and James Oliver.

Edna Whitesides was born May 26, 1904. She married C.O. Champion. Their children are Constance Alice and Clifton Ormond, Jr. Later she married Fred B. Hendricks.

June Evelyn died at 4 years of age.

John and Lillian sent all of their children to preparatory school and college.

John was active in business, community and religious affairs. He had a general merchandise store with farmers' supplies. In 1909, he started the first creamery in North Carolina and was its president and general manager for eight years. He was president of the Mooresboro Oil Mill, which produced cotton seed meal and oil. He helped organize the Bank of Mooresboro and was president at one time. He helped form the Lattimore Central Telephone Company.

John belonged to the Sandy Run Baptist Church. Lillian belonged to the Presbyterian Church.

John died of a stroke on October 19, 1928. From his obituary, "He was a clean, upright citizen, honest in his dealings, generous and kind. He became one of the leading and most influential citizens of Mooresboro."

For many years after John died, Lillian lived in the homeplace at Mooresboro (now the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Reid Blackburn). For years, four generations lived there, including "Grandma" Purcell. The large family congregated at her house on Sundays and during summers. Lillian was witty, knowledgeable about business and world affairs, keeping up with the world news by radio and newspapers. "Grandma Lillian" was much beloved by her family.

She died December 10, 1954, in Shelby at the home of her daughter, Edna Hendricks.

John B. and Lillian Blanton are buried in the Sandy Run Baptist Church Cemetery at Mooresboro.

Blanton Genealogy:

John B. Blanton, born March 21, 1857, died October 19, 1928, son of Batey Sawyer Blanton and Almira Whitesides.

Batey Sawyer Blanton, born January 29, 1827, died April 18, 1858, son of George Blanton and Priscilla Harrill.

George Blanton, born November 12, 1791, died June 2, 1863, son of Burrell Blanton and Phoebe Margaret Bridges.

Burrell Blanton, born November 1, 1762, died May 14, 1860, fought in Revolutionary War, son of George Blanton (Court Judge) and Elvira Lee.

Sources of information: Ruth Dover; Family records, letters; Max Gardner Foundation; Newspaper clippings, stock certificates; DAR records; Family Bible; Gastonia Gazette, March 13, 1926; Shelby Daily Star

— Constance C. Young (Mrs. Carlos)

THE KENNETH HEWITT BLANTON FAMILY

275

Kenneth Hewitt Blanton was born in Lattimore, North Carolina on February 29, 1920 to John Samuel (1889-1947) and wife Garva Ella Harrill Blanton (1891-).

As a young boy, Ken's pockets were always filled with bits of collected treasures. He delivered the "Charlotte News" scooter-style from a coaster wagon, winning a bike for getting the largest number of new subscribers.

At an early age he began assisting his father in the plumbing and electrical trade, becoming the head of Blanton Brothers after his father's death. He has continued as a plumber and electrician by trade and is an auto-repairman and mechanic by avocation.

He is active in the Lattimore Baptist Church having served as a member of the choir, the building committee, pastoral search committee, and as a deacon. He is a special friend to all who need help and comfort, requiring no fanfare or recognition for his humanitarianism. He is patient, persevering and industrious.

Ken married May 30, 1944 Jane Elizabeth Cabaniss born March 5, 1922 to George Turner (1889-1982) and Bryte Beam Cabaniss. Elizabeth attended Lattimore School and Boiling Springs Jr. College (Gardner-Webb). She graduated from the Shelby Hospital School of Nursing (1944). She is employed by Cleveland Memorial Hospital.

Elizabeth, as well as her husband, is very involved in the activities of Lattimore Baptist Church. She is a member of the church choir. One will find her always willing to lend a helping hand to any worthy cause. She is a kind, compassionate, and understanding person.

Their two children are: Kenneth Hewitt, Jr. born in Cleveland County, October 12, 1945; married Sarah Elizabeth McGill. Their children are Kenneth Hewitt III born March 25, 1975 and Andrew Thompson born January 31, 1978. Jane Elizabeth born April 10, 1948, married Richard Matthew Moor of Delaware. Their children are Jennifer Jane born August 4, 1972, Richard Matthew, Jr. born May 5, 1975, and Alex Blanton born July 18, 1980.

Sources Family Knowledge

— Louise B. Blanton

LAWTON and CARRIE MOORE BLANTON FAMILY

276

The following is a brief sketch of the family history including early American ancestors of Lawton Blanton: George Blanton was the first Blanton to come to America. He first settled in Virginia then came to North Carolina. His land was located on the west side of Sandy Run Creek, two and one half miles southeast of Boiling Springs Church in Cleveland County.

He was the first magistrate of Tryon County appointed by King George of England on November 10, 1769, the year Tryon County was formed. In 1769 Tryon County reached from the Virginia line and ran southwest to about where Charlotte is now situated. It followed the main Broad River where the two states now join.

George is supposed to be buried on his farm. His will was probated October 6, in 1802 in Rutherford County.

George brought a huntsman's rifle from England. It has been shown at family reunions. Bill Harris, Jr. owns the gun.

George married Elvira Lee and they had one son, Burwell. He was one of the first trustees of North Carolina College of Agriculture and Mechanical Arts in the year 1889, and his name is on the cornerstone of the college in Raleigh.

Burwell Blanton married Phoebe Margaret Bridges. Nine children were born to his union. James was the fifth child; he and his second wife, Rebecca Hamrick, had three children. Their first child, Drury Allen, married Julia Ann Ledbetter. They had nine children. Their second child was William Norman, and he married Rebecca Blanton the first time.

William Norman and his wife, Rebecca, lived on a farm in the Sharon section. Their children were: Marvin, Lawton, Herbert, Mrs. Arrie Hawkins, and Mrs. Madge Shytle. The family belonged to and loved Sharon Methodist Church. William and Rebecca were buried in the church cemetery. William's second wife was Mary Wolfe.

Lawton Blanton (1885-1945) was born in the Sharon section of Cleveland County in North Carolina. He died at the age of 59. Lawton graduated from Piedmont High School and the University of North Carolina, coming directly out of the university to take up the profession of teaching in the county of his birth. He became one of the most beloved school men in the section, and hundreds of young people came under his influence in the classroom. He retired from active teaching after 35 years of service as principal of schools at Piedmont, Lattimore and No. 3 Township. Seventeen years of his work were spent as principal of Lattimore School. During that time the school included elementary, junior, and senior high grades.

He loved public speaking and spoke english, german and latin fluently. Mathematics was one of his favorite subjects. He was also a student and lover of the Bible.

Lawton married his sweetheart from childhood, Carrie Ann Moore (1887-1978). She grew up in the nearby Poplar Springs community. Lawton would put candy in Carrie's desk at school. School friends teased and she was embarrassed. Lawton and Carrie were married around 1913 on the front porch of the Moore family home. (See Marion Moore Family)

The children of Lawton and Carrie were: Genevieve Rebecca (1915), married Marshall Fotch Edwards; Marsdon Burns (1917-1981), married Elva Moss; Lawton, Jr. (1919-1920); Geraldine Moore (1924-1980), married Gene Wease; William Eugene (1926), married Jean Peters; Elizabeth Ann (1929), married Marvin Grigg, Jr.

Carrie proved herself to be a strong woman when faced with hardships. You could always count on her for wit and humor and a practical joke. She was a wonderful personality to come home to after a tension filled day at school.

Lawton had a charm that seemed to draw people to him. He also was fun loving and had humorous wit. Yet, he had a deep mind. He was always concerned about his fellow man and devoted his life to helping others.

It has been said many times that behind every good man stands a good woman. This was certainly true in Lawton's case. Carrie was there running the home and taking in an occasional visitor or caring for a homeless child.

Lawton died in 1945 and Cleveland County

Professor Lawton Blanton

mourned his passing. Carrie lived to see ten grandchildren grow up. She retained her fun loving disposition much to the delight of the grandchildren and friends. She died at the age of 92. Lawton and Carrie were buried in Sharon Methodist Church Cemetery.

Sources of Information: family Bible, family records, personal knowledge of Genevieve Blanton Edwards, clipping from 1945 Shelby Daily Star

— Genevieve Blanton Edwards

SUSANAH CLARINDA BLANTON

277

Susanah Clarinda Blanton was born July 18, 1855 in Number Two Township, Cleveland County, North Carolina. She died February 2, 1912, and is buried in Poplar Springs Baptist Cemetery, Shelby, North Carolina, beside her husband Benjamin Franklin Jones.

Mrs. Hudson Blanton told me that Susan had the palest blue eyes, and she always wore an apron with a hickory stick under her belt to discipline the children. She said that Lorie Jones favored her mother most of all the children.

Susan's parents were Jackson (1816-1887) and Sarah Byers (1821-1898) Blanton. Both are buried in Sharon Methodist Cemetery, Shelby, North Carolina.

Hudson Blanton described his grandfather as "short and stout in stature". A Friend wrote in "The New Era", December 7, 1887 and described him as "a man of high moral principles, strict integrity, a kind neighbor, and possessed of all the qualities characteristic of the old style gentleman in the circle of his associates . . ."

Hudson described his grandmother ("Sally Jack") as "fire and toe, not as big as a washing of soap", and that she was bossy. I don't know who were the parents of Sarah Byers Blanton.

Their children were: Luvianne Ann Blanton married Elijah Newton Harrill; Hartwell Sain Blanton married Sarah Jane Bridges; Mary Jane Blanton married William Miller Morehead; Charles Tyrell ("Tull") Blanton married Lizzie Blanton; Jonas Monroe Blanton married Molly Hopper, Liza Hopper, Delola Hopper; Cleophus Postell ("Tommy Jack") Blanton married Rhoda Green; Susan Clarinda Blanton married Benjamin Franklin Jones; Sarah Anderson Blanton married William ("Bill") Pearson.

Hudson Blanton said that Jackson Blanton was an overseer for Drury Birchett who owned land and slaves, so he didn't have to serve in the Confederacy. Jackson bought some of the land when Drury Birchett died. The land was where the Sharon Retirement Home is now on Highway 150, West, Shelby, North Carolina.

Susan Blanton Jones' grandparents appear to be Charles Blanton and Sarah, and her paternal great-grandfather Reuben Blanton, Senior.

Rutherford County Court, November 1823, page 217 . . . "Daniel Blanton, administrator of Charles Blanton, deceased, George and Herod Blanton, Securities" . . . page 218,

"support for Sarah Blanton, widow of Charles Blanton".

Rutherford County Guardian Accounts, January Court 1834, Page 72, Number 19 . . . the court appointed Daniel Blanton guardian to Jackson, James, Willis, and Betsy Ann Blanton, distributees of Reuben Blanton, Senior.

January Court 1836, Number 5, . . . Report of the estate of Betsy, Jackson, John W., and Artemissa Blanton, orphans and heirs of Charles Blanton, Deceased, in the hands of Daniel Blanton their guardian.

Spring Court 1843, pages 88-89. Receipt in full from heirs of Charles Blanton . . . Arte Harrill, Jonathan Harrill, Jackson Blanton and all the others.

Sarah Blanton is listed in the 1830 Rutherford County, North Carolina Census with males 3 (10-15), 1 (15-20), 1 (20-30); females 2 (5-10), 1 (40-50).

Willis, Jackson, and James Blanton, Elizabeth Ann Harrill of Cleveland County and Caroline Winn of Burke County, North Carolina were notified to appear before the Judge of Probate of Cleveland County concerning the will of John W. Blanton, deceased, which was to be recorded and filed on July 31, 1880.

The children of Ben and Susan Blanton Jones had a family reunion each year on the first Sunday in August. The grandchildren changed the time to the second Sunday in June each year at the Poplar Springs Baptist Church.

Their grandchildren were: Bussie F. Jones, Wylie and James Smith (children of Laura Jones Smith) Love, Christine, Clyde, Herschel, Helen and Margaret Jones (children of Doctor Young Jones); Mae, Myrtle, Arthur, Katie, Jennie Rae, Albert, J.C., Howard and Rosie Jones (children of Clint Andrew Jones); Buford, Nannie, Hatcher, Herman, Thurman, Edgar, Selma, Miller T. and Ben Jones (children of Samuel Edward Jones); Lillian, Gertrude and Anna Mae Jones (children of Sidney Hamrick Jones); Horace, Fitchue, Elzie, Herbert, Vernon, Connie, Loria Lee, Kathleen and Inez Lemons (children of Cynthia Jones Lemons); Allen Jones (son of Winslow Washburn Jones); Alvie, Carl, Carson, Kathleen, Elizabeth and Kay Jones (children of John Bunyan Jones); Aileen, Annie Ray, Frances and Julius Troy Jones, Junior (children of Julius Troy Jones); Eva Lane Jones (child of Wite Quitman Jones); Louise and Eugene Jones (children of Edmund D. Jones); Carrie Mae, Frances, Howard and Melba Lois Bridges (children of Lorie Jones Bridges); Martha and Ruth Hamrick (children of Agatha Jones Hamrick). Infants were not listed.

Forty grandchildren remain to carry on with the annual Jones reunion.

Sources: Family Knowledge

— Annie Ray Jones Dodd

THE WILLIAM HERSCHEL BLANTON FAMILY

278

Our father, William Herschel Blanton, was born January 25, 1889, in Cleveland County, North Carolina, at the old homeplace in the Mt.

William Herschel Blanton 1889-1952

William Herschel Blanton Family, 1943. L to R: Elizabeth Bethea, Katherine Washburn, James Sidney, Darfer, Hazel, William Herschel.

Darfer Hoyt Hamrick Blanton, 1889-1972

Sinai community. He was the son of James Franklin and Janie Elizabeth Dodd Blanton.

Daddy attended the old Piedmont School in Lawndale. After his schooling, he went to Charlotte and worked with the Wade Manufacturing Company for a number of years, later returning to Shelby and going into the mercantile business. He attended the First Baptist Church regularly, being a member of the John P. Mull Bible class, and was active until his death on March 10, 1952.

At the age of 24, Daddy met our mother, Darfer Hoyt Hamrick, born Sept. 6, 1889, daughter of Sidney Hill and Elizabeth Harrill Hamrick. They were united in marriage on April 16, 1913, by the Rev. John W. Suttle.

Mother grew up in the Beaver Dam community of Cleveland County. She received her education in the Cleveland County Schools, The Asheville Normal, and The State Normal (now UNC-G) in Greensboro, N.C. After attending college, she taught school in the Earl Public School for a number of years.

She was a member of the DAR (Daughters of the American Revolution) and was active in the First Baptist Church until her health failed. She died May 9, 1972. She and Daddy are buried in Sunset Cemetery in Shelby.

Mama and Daddy were blessed with their first child, Jane Elizabeth, on March 26, 1914. Elizabeth married James Arthur Bethea, Jr., who died December 2, 1964. She died April 17, 1972. They are buried in Bogansville Methodist Church Cemetery in West Springs, South Carolina, of which they were members and took an active part in church work there.

Their second child, Kathryn Myers, was born September 1, 1915, and married Vinson Waddell Washburn, son of Grady and Vastine Crowder Washburn. Kathryn Myers died August 20, 1952, and is buried in Sunset Cemetery in Shelby. They had one son, James William Washburn, born December 4, 1949. James married Sandra Leigh Webster of Greensboro, N.C., and they have two boys, Jeremiah Webster and James Brandon Washburn.

Mama and Daddy's third child, a son, James Sidney Blanton, was born June 3, 1917. He married Ruth Gaynell Walker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C.B. Walker of Shelby, N.C. They have a daughter, Cynthia Jane who is married to Thomas W. Melton. They have two boys, Rodney Alan and Jeffrey Aaron Melton.

The fourth and last child, Hazel Rebecca, was born December 11, 1920. She lives in Shelby and is an executive secretary.

Our parents were wonderful parents. Mama always enjoyed cooking a big meal on Sunday and having her children and grandchildren at home. We were very happy growing up and were very close.

Sources: Family memories, the family Bible and personal knowledge.

— Hazel R. Blanton
— and James S. Blanton

CLINE WILSON and DORIS BROWNE BORDERS FAMILY

279

Cline Wilson Borders was born on April 14, 1926. His parents, Mike L. and Dona Cline Borders, had seven other children: Ambrose (1907-1918), Bernice Hamrick (1909-1981), Mary Sue Dameron (1911), Hessantine Johnson (1913), Laura Mae Self (1916-1980), Cleo Worrell (1918), and Mike Jr. (1921).

Cline's father farmed extensively and as he grew up, Cline worked with the tenants, plowing and hoeing the main crop, cotton. There were always horses to ride and he often rode through the woods to his Uncle Herbert's house. He remembers the trees being so large and the limbs so high that he could ride his horse at full gait. He was not allowed to have a bicycle because of the heavy traffic by his house.

After graduating from Shelby High School, Cline was drafted into the army where he served with the 79th Infantry Division in combat in the European theater during World War II. He was discharged as a Staff Sergeant.

Choosing not to go to college, Cline bargained for part of the family farm, and planned to become one of the county's leading farmers. He purchased enough stock to become vice president of the Post Road Gin Company.

Doris Jane, youngest child of Wayne and Beatrice Whitworth Browne, was born August 12, 1926, in the Browne home on Main Street in Waco. There were two other living children in the Browne family: Hal (1915-1968) and Jean (1923).

Doris grew up in Waco, graduating from Waco High School. More than half of the population of Waco were relatives, with aunts, uncles and cousins in every other house on the street. She attended Limestone College, and having received business training there, secured a secretarial position in Charlotte.

Cline and Doris met in the balcony of Elizabeth Baptist Church while they were teenagers. They dated through their last year of high school and wrote faithfully to each other while Cline was in the army. In September, 1946, they were married in Waco Baptist Church, with Jean Browne and Robert Borders as attendants. They honeymooned in New York City.

The young couple built a small house on their farm and lived there for five years. Cline Jr. and Timmy were born during that time. Although both Cline and Doris were members of Elizabeth Baptist Church, Cline first became a Christian in 1949. He responded to a call to the ministry in 1950 and immediately enrolled at Gardner-Webb College. Doris began working as a secretary in Shelby and Cline continued to farm for two years, often caring for two small boys as he studied.

Cline graduated from Gardner-Webb, Wake Forest University, Southeastern Baptist Theological Seminary and Baptist Hospital School of Pastoral Care. He did post-graduate studies at N.C. State University and Indiana University. During his years at Wake Forest and Southeastern, he was pastor of Ephesus Baptist Church in Spring Hope. Cheryl, called Cherie by her family, was born during this time.

In 1958, Cline became pastor of Draytonville Baptist Church near Gaffney, South Carolina. In 1963, he became an associate Director of the Seminary Extension Department of the Southern Baptist Convention, with responsibility of promoting leadership training for pastors and lay leadership for the five state conventions on the Eastern Seaboard. The family moved to Lawndale, where Cline also was pastor of New Bethel Baptist Church for four years. Danny was born while they lived in Lawndale. Doris ran for her first public office and was elected to the Cleveland County Board of Education. She was the first woman to be elected to this board.

In 1971, Commonwealth Baptist Church in Charlotte called Cline as pastor. During his last year there, there were forty-five additions by baptism and fifty-five by letter. He resigned after two years to become Director of Missions of Kings Mountain Baptist Association.

The family moved back to Cleveland County and built a home in Allen Acres, about one mile north of Shelby. Doris became president of the North Carolina Baptist Ministers' Wives. Cline was on numerous committees and boards for the North Carolina Baptist Convention. He was elected as president of the Southern Baptist Conference for Directors of Missions and presided over the sessions in Los Angeles and New Orleans. The Sunday School and Home Mission Boards have used him as a faculty member at both Ridgcrest and Glorieta Assemblies. He has led seminars for pastors at the state and national level and worked in three foreign fields — Guatemala, Guyana and South Africa.

Cline and Doris are approved by the North Carolina Christian Life and Public Affairs Council to conduct marriage enrichment retreats. Cline's acceptance among his peers is reflected in the fact that he has been asked to conduct over one hundred revival meetings in churches. Continuing education is a goal he promoted for eight and one-half years and a practice he continues.

Cline and Doris are parents of four children: Cline Wilson, Jr., 1947 (married Jonina Swingle); Timothy Hal, 1950 (married Paulette Fincher) has two children, Lana and Melissa; Cheryl Jean, 1954; Daniel Browne, 1964.

Sources: Personal knowledge.

— Doris Browne Borders

ELZIE and SUSAN WILSON BORDERS

280

Elzie Caveny Borders was born to Henderson Borders and Susan Doggett Borders on December 22, 1857 in Cleveland County. He was considered one of the county's leading citizens, serving his community in many ways. Elzie Borders owned and operated one of the first cotton gins, which was located near his farm east of Shelby; what today is thought of as Keeter's corner. His was a large acreage farm, the main crops being cotton and corn. His children provided the work force to cultivate and harvest these crops. In addition to his farming interests, and for more financial assets, he and his oldest son, Mike L. Borders, opened and operated the Snowflake laundry in Shelby. He was also active in the civic affairs of his day by serving a number of years as a county commissioner, and chairman part of the time. He was serving as chairman during the great flood in 1916, and was responsible for the leadership in rebuilding the many washed-out bridges due to the flood. He was elected as a trustee by the Kings Mountain Baptist Association to begin the Boiling Springs High School (now Gardner-Webb College). His church, Elizabeth Baptist, was an important facet of his life. It was here that he served as a Sunday School officer, and usually walked with his children to his church. Occasionally, they had the privilege of riding in the buggy. He and his wife, Susan, were charter members of Elizabeth Baptist church.

Prosperity enabled him to purchase one of the first four automobiles in Cleveland County. This was a Maxwell, well remembered by the children for a number of reasons; one being the scarcity of cars, others being this vehicle had no windshield, no top, and no headlights. There were lights, but mind you, these were those classy kerosene burning side lights.

Elzie married Susan Elizabeth Wilson on December 17, 1878. She was the daughter of John and Elizabeth Jane Beam Wilson, born November 24, 1858. Her mother later married Monroe Houser and lived a long, full life, dying at the ripe old age of 100 years plus. Susan was the strong-willed, hard working helpmate of her husband. She instilled in her children the traits of honesty, integrity, thrift, and the desire to be industrious. She found pleasure in crocheting and quilting, carding her own cotton that was used as the filling for the quilts. The quilts then became heirlooms after meeting the need of providing warmth in the cold winter months.

To this union eleven children were born: Cordie Jane, born September 24, 1879; died October 18, 1895 at the young age of sixteen years. Mike Lawson, born March 10, 1881; died June 8, 1978. He was married to Dona Cline on November 21, 1907. Bessie Katherine, born October 18, 1882; died March 31, 1966. She married James D. Allen on November 22, 1899. Maggie Rebecca, born October 13, 1884, died April 26, 1977. She married Robert E. Roberts. Hattie Pearl was born October 12, 1886, and married Zeb Vance Cline on November 18, 1908. Pearl is presently living with her daughter, Clayton Putnam, a very alert and active lady for 95 years of age. Susan Luvenia, born October 2, 1888; died February 14, 1977. She was married to Grover Cleveland McClure.

Also, William Herbert, born November 2, 1890, and married Laura Novella Falls on July 29, 1919. Both are still living and on the original Borders farmland, and in reasonably good health. Leola, born July 26, 1893; died October 18, 1955. She married J. Raymond Cline on January 9, 1915. He survives and makes his home in Shelby, North Carolina. Thomas Huffman, born November 21, 1895; died March 27, 1978. He was married to Lula Mae Falls on August 21, 1927. Della Cora, born July 10, 1895; married Elzie Lee Beam on October 20, 1920. Both she and her husband live on Peach Street in Shelby, North Carolina. Frankie Selina, born December 25, 1901; married to Dewey F. King on June 30, 1930. They make their home in Chapel Hill, North Carolina. Elzie C. Borders died September 9, 1941; Susan W. Borders died June 18, 1947. Both are buried in the Elizabeth Baptist Church cemetery.

Sources: The Borders Family Bible, interviews with family members and personal memories.

— Robert W. Borders

THE GEORGE MARKS BORDERS FAMILY

281

Our father, George Marks Borders, was born January 27, 1891, and died April 5, 1960. He was the son of Hugh and Ellen Lowery Borders, and grandson of Henderson and Susan Doggett Borders and William and Levicy Adams Lowery.

Our mother, Della Blanche Hord Borders, was born January 18, 1895, and died September 24, 1979. She was the daughter of George Clifton and Emma Lee Hord, and granddaughter of Richard Thomas and Mahala Ledford Hord and William Crook and Mary Hardin Lee.

Our Grandfather Hugh Borders made two trips to Texas to seek his fortune; one with his family by wagon train, and another alone on horseback. Other than this and Daddy's military service, our parents and grandparents were born, lived, and died and were buried in Cleveland County, North Carolina.

MIKE LAWSON BORDERS

282

Daddy served in World War I with a hospital unit in France and Germany, and he used what he had saved of his army pay to buy a lot and build a home near his parents in Patterson Springs. Prior to being drafted into service, he was a salesclerk for the Belks Store in Charlotte, but did not return to that job after the war because his mother was blind and his father an invalid and he chose not to leave them.

Consequently, we were not farmers, as were most of our neighbors. Daddy had a love for his land and was a staunch soil conservationist. Occasionally he would work as a substitute schoolteacher, bookkeeper for various cotton gins, as land surveyor, or teach singing schools. Then in 1937 he was appointed postmaster at Patterson Springs and served until December 31, 1958 when that postoffice was closed.

During the 1930's, we knew what it was to patch our clothes and reinforce our shoes with paper. The price of cotton sunk to five cents per pound and briefly to four cents. But we held ours for two years, and finally sold some for the generous price of twelve cents. We had no luxuries, but managed to pay our fertilizer bills and taxes without borrowing funds. Later we children learned we had weathered the Great Depression. However, since everyone else was in the same boat, we survived that sub-poverty-level era with few scars.

Our home was near the Southern Railroad switchline track, and it was a common occurrence in those lean years for a hobo to knock on our back door and request an hour's work of cutting wood in exchange for a good meal. Our mother did not allow them to enter the house, but never refused to give the food.

The six living children are: Helen (Mrs. George Blanton), Annie Pearl (Widow of John T. Miller), Jennie Louise (Mrs. Jack Ivie), and Gene, all of Cleveland County; Rev. Hugh L. Borders of Spruce Pine and Sylvia Langston of Greensboro. We lost two brothers by death; Horace at age 2, and Kenneth when he was 5.

We children were introduced to work at an early age, both at home and in the fields. At age five our mother tied us in the big rocking chair with the baby in our lap. We were then placed where our feet could touch the wall and thereby keep the chair in motion. If rocking and patting did not perfect our babysitting task, we knew to talk and sing. Talk about family involvement, we had it!

Two things were emphasized at our house, education and Baptist churches. Daddy was for many years a deacon and music director of Patterson Springs Baptist Church, while mama played the organ or piano for about 40 years. Books and music were our all-expenses-paid forms of recreation.

The spring great-grandmother Levicy Adams Lowery used is still on family lands. It was there she sent the returning confederate soldiers to wash off the lice before she fed the men as they passed by, walking home from the battlefields.

Sources: Family records and memories.

— Annie B. Miller

My father, Mike Lawson Borders, was born on March 10, 1881, to Elzie C. and Susan Wilson Borders, the first of nine children. He grew up on a farm located just off Kings Road. His father operated a cotton gin and a sawmill. Early in life, my father learned how to drive a log wagon and load logs.

As a youth, he became a member of Elizabeth Baptist Church and remained a member until his death. He served in a variety of capacities within the church, such as deacon, Sunday School teacher, various committees, and loved to sing in the choir. He was noted for his fine bass voice.

My mother, Dona Cline Borders, daughter of Ambrose H. and Hester Cline, was born on January 2, 1884. She and Daddy were married on November 21, 1906. Several friends across the county have commented about attending the beautiful wedding ceremony, held at the bride's home.

They began their lives together as farmers and operators of the Snow Flake Laundry in Shelby. Their first home was east of Shelby on what became Highway #74. This home was destroyed by fire which began when they were rendering lard and the hot grease spilled. My father was on crutches at the time, having broken his leg in a logging accident. The story is told that in an effort to get the family and furniture out of the house, he lost his crutches and never really used them again. The family used a tenant house on the Tucker farm until a new house could be built. In 1926, they built a spacious, impressive ten room home which is still located at the intersection of Highway #150 North and present Business Highway #74.

My father became a landowner, cotton farmer and businessman. At one time he worked fourteen mules. He purchased one of the first field tractors in Cleveland County. He was elected as a county commissioner and when the state took over the local prison, he was chosen as a supervisor of the prison. He became a member of the county committee which administered the Federal Farm program, and worked in this capacity for many years. He also served as chairman of this committee.

When the Post Road Gin burned in 1940, he gave up his work with the county committee and reorganized the gin business and built one of the most modern cotton gins in the county. He was president of the Post Road Gin Company until he liquidated the business when cotton was no longer king in Cleveland County.

Affectionately called "Uncle Mike" by many residents of Cleveland County, he was sought out by others as an advisor in personal and business ventures.

My mother and father had eight children. Their first child, Ambrose Elzie, was born on August 30, 1907. He had what was then called 'infantile paralysis' and was taken by train to some of the large medical centers of the country for treatment. One of the favorite stories about Ambrose is that when he was as young as six years old, he would haul laundry from Kings Mountain to Shelby. Grandfather Cline had given Ambrose a big gray horse named Doll. If Ambrose got tired, he would tie up the lines, lie down in the laundry wagon and go to sleep. Doll would park the wagon either in Kings Mountain or at home. My father retired Doll to open pastures and kept her until she died. Ambrose died in December, 1918, at the time of the big flu epidemic. Both my parents had flu also at the time of Ambrose's death and were not able to attend his funeral.

Bernice Elizabeth was born on September 15, 1909. She was educated in the public school system and attended Meredith College and Wake Forest. She married Charles J. Hamrick of Boiling Springs and they had two sons, Joseph Marshall and Cline Borders Hamrick. Bernice died June 25, 1981.

Mary Sue was born September 9, 1911. After graduating from Shelby High School, she attended Meredith College. She later worked in Penny's Department Store in Shelby. She married Wayne Dameron, a civil engineer from Bessemer City. They moved to Belmore, Long Island, in New York state, and most of their adult lives were spent there. They had two daughters, Elizabeth Ann and Linda.

Hessantine was the next girl, born on December 28, 1913. She graduated from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. While in school there, she met and married J. Clark Johnson. They had two sons, Wayne and Mike.

Laura Mae was born on March 23, 1916. After graduating from Shelby High School, she attended Appalachian State University. She worked as secretary for the Cherryville Credit Corporation in Shelby. She married Coleman Self and they had two children, Ronald Coleman and Dona Kay. Laura died August 5, 1980.

Cleo was the fifth and last daughter, born November 27, 1918. She graduated from Limestone College, then married George Worrell of Mount Airy. They had one daughter, Elaine.

The seventh child was a boy, named Mike Lawson, Jr., born November 8, 1921. Disliking farming, he chose pharmacy as a profession. He moved to Chadburn upon graduating from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and has lived there since that time.

Cline Wilson, born April 14, 1926, was the last of the eight children. He graduated from Shelby High School, Gardner-Webb College, Wake Forest University and Southeastern Baptist Theological Seminary. He was a Baptist minister. Cline married Doris Jane Browne from Waco. They had four children: Cline Jr., Timothy Hal, Cheryl Jean and Daniel Browne.

My mother died on September 20, 1962. My father died June 8, 1978 at the age of ninety-seven. Both of them are buried in Elizabeth Baptist Church cemetery.

Sources: Family records; personal knowledge and memories; and interview with family members.

— Cline W. Borders

WILLIAM HERBERT and LAURA BORDERS FAMILY

283

William Herbert Borders was born November 2, 1890. He was the son of Elzie Cavney Borders who was born December 22, 1857 and died September 9, 1941 and Susan Elizabeth Wilson who was born November 26, 1857 and died June 17, 1945. He grew up in Cleveland County on a farm on Kings Road where he now resides. He had two brothers and eight sisters, he being the seventh child. They were: Cordie Jane who died at the young age of 16, Mike Lawson who married Dona Cline, Bessie Katherine who married James D. Allen, Maggie Rebecca who married Robert E. Roberts, Hattie Pearl who married Zeb Vance Cline, Susan Luvenia who married Grover Cleveland McClure, Leola who married J. Raymond Cline, Thomas Huffman who married Lula Mae Falls, Della Cora who married Elzie Lee Beam and Frankie Selina who married Dewey F. King.

Herbert attended Shelby Grade School and Boiling Springs High School where he was a very good baseball player. He went into the army in 1917 and took his basic training in Columbia, S.C. He was in the ordinance detachment of the 317th field artillery. He was sent to Camp Grant, Illinois for six weeks to learn to be a gun mechanic. Then on to France in World War I where he served for one year in the 81st Wildcat Division. He was honorably discharged in 1919. After the war was over, he played football in France as fullback and was an outstanding player.

When he came back to the U.S. in 1919 he married Laura Novella Falls who was born October 2, 1893, daughter of John Zimri Falls, Jr. born September 30, 1846 and died October 23, 1937 and Sarah Catherine Cline born May 24, 1850 and died July 8, 1935. Laura was the youngest of 11 children. Her sisters and brothers are: Mittie who married Decator Warlick; Alfred who married Lula Crowder; John Franklin who married Irene Costner; Tilden who married Kimmie Grigg; Thurman who married Selma Eskridge; Cicero who married Maude Lattimore; Maggie who married Clarence Warlick; Docia who married Clyde Eaker; Charlotte who married George Edwards; and Louisa who died at 16 months of age.

Laura was born in Number Ten Township in Cleveland County. When she was 14 years of age, her daddy bought a farm in Shelby where the city park is now located. She attended school in Shelby and Boiling Springs High School, which was then a boarding school, where she met Herbert. While there she belonged to Kalleragian Society and played on the tennis team. After graduating she taught school at Casar three years in Intermediate work and then served two years as principal, then she moved to Ross Grove and served as principal two years.

Their first year of marriage they lived with Herbert's parents where they farmed with his father. The first child, W.H. Borders, Jr. who married Rebecca Kendrick, was born in 1920.

In 1921 they moved to a house on Old Post Road where the Western Steer Steak House is now located. Henderson Falls who married Mildred Blanton was born in 1921 and Sara Elizabeth who married Buford Lee Self was born in 1923.

His father gave him 28 acres where they built their home in which they now reside. There the other seven children were born of which the last was still born in 1941. Robert Wilson who married Helen Cline was born in 1925, Charlotte Mae who married Bernard Plemmons was born in 1927, Marjorie Eunice who married Clyde Rhyne was born in 1929, Magel Ruth who married Jim Guin and later Charles Hendrix was born in 1930, Laura Jewel who married William Leon Brown was born in 1933, Elzie Zimri who married Elaine Gallimore was born in 1935.

They have 32 grandchildren and 24 great grandchildren with sixteen of the grandchildren being married.

Herbert enjoyed fishing and hunting and often took his family on camping trips. He bought more land from his father making a total of 210 acres. He was an outstanding farmer and believed in always having good stock. At one time he had eight mules, a three gaited saddle horse and a pony for the children to enjoy. He entered a pair of mules in the Cleveland County Fair mule pulling contest where he won 1st place. When cotton was the main money crop, he produced a hundred or more bales. He also raised hay, grain, and food to feed family and stock.

They attended the Elizabeth Baptist Church where they were very active and taught their children Christian principles. Laura taught Sunday School and was active in W.M.U. work. All their sons and sons-in-laws have served as deacons in their churches.

They believed in education which resulted in six of the children receiving college degrees. Herbert served at one time on the Elizabeth School Board.

Laura's hobby is piecing quilts and quilting for children, grandchildren, great grandchildren and friends. Even though her eyesight is failing, she with the able assistance of her husband, still put together many beautiful quilts each year.

Sources: Family Bible; interviews with Mother and Daddy; and memories.

— Sara Borders Self

HISTORY OF LON CLEVELAND BOST

284

Johannes Bast was an educated German, a farmer, the father of fourteen children and all were ardent Lutherans. The first records to date are in the History of Old Williams Township Congregation (Lutheran) of Bucks County, Pennsylvania, but now in Northampton County due to county line changes. Here we find the names of his wife, Susanna Catherine, and nine of his children. Their church activities are set forth from 1740 until the late summer of 1754.

The whole family left Pennsylvania by early fall 1754, and came to North Carolina where they settled in what is now Cabarrus County near St. John's Lutheran Church. Johannes Bast died late in 1777, but Susanna was alive in 1787. Johannes signed his name Johannes Bast. In later years it was Anglicized to Bost. Both must have been buried at St. Johns.

Johannes sons were John, Leonardt, Elias, Jacob, George, and William. Leonardt probably died as a young man. All the other sons were involved in the Revolutionary War.

John Bost was born in Bucks County, Penn. August 23, 1743. He married Catreena Shuford, daughter of John Shuford of the Lincoln-Catawba area. John Bost died about 1793. Catreena must have died soon after John, probably about 1797 or 1798. In all probability, they were buried at Organ Lutheran Church, now Rowan County, N.C.

There were seven recorded children of John and Catreena Bost. There may have been more but these seven were Conrad, John, Jr., George, Catherine, Jacob, Elizabeth, and David.

George Bost was born September 15, 1779, and died on October 10, 1853. In 1805 he married Catherine Ridenhour in Cabarrus County. Catherine was born on April 20, 1783 and died September 6, 1853. They are both buried at Organ Lutheran Church in Rowan County, N.C. George and Catherine Bost had twelve children, Nancy, Eleanor, Elizabeth, William Daniel, Leah, John, Paul, George Eli, Margaret, Moses, Reuben, and Catherine. All of the twelve children have been traced. Most of them have decedents in and around Rowan County.

Paul Bost, son of George and Catherine Bost, was born July 20, 1821. He died May 16, 1879 in Iredell County. Paul married Margaret "Peggy" Lentz on January 24, 1843. Margaret was the daughter of Jacob and Mary Yost Lentz. She was born June 5, 1822 and died November 11, 1904 in Iredell County. Paul and Margaret Bost are buried at St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Statesville, N.C. They had eight children, Sarah, George, Mary, Jacob W., Rosy, Joseph, Franklin, and Lucy.

Jacob Wesley Bost, son of Paul and Margaret Bost, was born August 21, 1851 in Iredell County, N.C. and died August 5, 1922. Jacob married Josephine Alice Deaton on December 26, 1876. She was the daughter of Emsley M.C., and Mary "Polly" Brown Deaton. Josephine was born July 5, 1856 and died November 19, 1932. Jacob W. and Josephine Bost are buried at Shady Grove Baptist Church, Amity Hill Section outside Statesville, Iredell county, N.C. They had seven children — William, Lettie, Joseph, Lon C., Ellie, Thomas, and Daisy.

Lon Cleveland Bost, son of Jacob W. and Josephine Deaton Bost was born October 23, 1884 in Iredell County, N.C., and died September 16, 1971 in Shelby, N.C. He married Mary Jane Odom, born March 26, 1887 and died September 5, 1908. They had one child, Ila Mae, born April 14, 1907. She married Delmas A. Roebuck of Robersonville, N.C. They had two children, Fred and Flora Nell. D.A. Roebuck died May 13, 1981 and is buried in New Bern, N.C.

On June 6, 1909, Lon Bost married Eula Florence Bennett, daughter of Elijah Patton was from this Shelby home that Attie went to the mission field in 1900. She was Cleveland County's first woman foreign missionary.

Lon Cleveland Bost, October 23, 1884 — September 16, 1971.

Attie's older brother, G.P. Bostic, sixteen years her senior, had gone into the ministry and later answered God's call to go to China as a missionary. It was after hearing one of G.P.'s sermons with the title, "She Hath Done What She Could," that Attie answered God's call to be a missionary.

Attie was educated at the All Healing School near Kings Mountain, N.C. and at Judson College, Marion, Alabama. While at Judson she stayed the full two years in order to save the farm home, working for her board during the summer. After graduation from Judson she came to North Carolina and taught school for two years in Gastonia, where she made life long friends. The First Baptist Church of Gastonia contributed greatly to her salary.

In 1900 she realized her life long dream and sailed for China. In 1904 she was sent to China's interior, Pochow, a city of one hundred and fifty thousand people; at this time no white woman or child had been seen there. It was here that Attie arrived with her brothers, G.P., Wade, and Wade's wife that they labored with another missionary couple. At first the Chinese called the missionaries bad names, such as "foreign devils," but they dared not molest or harm them in any way; later the people trusted and looked up to the missionaries to turn to for help in case of sickness and accidents.

Miss Attie worked in China until 1941, when she was held in a Japanese internment camp in occupied China. In December, 1943, she made the voyage home (Shelby) on the Gripsholm requiring seventy-seven days, covering 21,880 miles and crossing the equator four times.

In 1947 she married T.J. League of Greenville, S.C. who had also been a missionary to China.

Attie Texas Bostic, 1875-1965.

and Zelpia Ann Morrison Bennett. Eula B. Bost was born in Burke County, N.C. on March 23, 1886, and died April 29, 1972 in Shelby, N.C. Both are buried in Sunset Cemetery, Shelby, N.C. Lon C. and Eula B. Bost had seven children — Lloyd C., Floyd P., Ned W. Bennett W., Jean L., Ruth J., and Margaret L. All the children were born in Shelby, N.C.

Margaret L. Bost, born April 7, 1911 married Taylor O. Johnson of Wilkes-Barre, Penn. They had two children — Ned G., born April 29, 1934 and Ann, born January 16, 1939.

Ruth J. Bost born September 26, 1913, married W.A. Poston of Shelby on January 19, 1930. They had two children — Joanne, born January 11, 1931 and Michael, born February 4, 1936. W.A. Poston died on June 18, 1981 and is buried in Shelby, N.C.

Jean L. Bost, born March 23, 1918, married Lewis Gardner of Pulaski, Tenn. He was killed in World War II. Jean B. Gardner died March 11, 1952. She is buried in Shelby, N.C.

Bennett W. Bost, born April 26, 1916, married Myra Berry of Morganton, N.C. They had three children — Brenda, born July 12, 1944, Bennett, Jr., born January 2, 1947, and Jean, born May 29, 1952.

Lloyd C. Bost, born December 25, 1920, married Virginia Falls of Shelby on October 20, 1945. They had four children — Lloyd Jr., born October 5, 1946, Virginia Ann, born May 1, 1949, Bayard T., born September 19, 1952, and Harlan S., born August 18, 1955.

Floyd P. Bost, born December 25, 1920, married Evangeline Palmer of Shelby, on October 10, 1949. They had two children Susan, born January 20, 1954, and Floyd Jr., born August 11, 1955.

Ned W. Bost, born August 10, 1923, married Helen Hyder of Shelby, on December 14, 1941. They had one child, Barbara Galin, born October 8, 1942.

— Loyd C. Bost

ATTIE TEXAS BOSTIC

285

Attie Texas Bostic was born September 9, 1875 the fifteenth of sixteen children of Samuel Evans Bostic and Jane Price Suttle Bostic, in Rutherford County on a rugged, hilly farm known as Floyd's Creek. She learned early what it meant to work hard to live with the barest necessities. The home had a strong religious atmosphere for both parents were deeply pious. Attie was raised during the hard reconstruction days after the Civil War, when all the work, from raising cotton and sheep, carding and spinning and weaving the thread into cloth to cutting and making every article of clothing was done in the home chiefly by the mother. Even though this mother was busy, she still found time and room to take in and entertain preachers and missionaries when they were in the vicinity, even to doing their washing and ironing with her own hands.

The family moved to Shelby sometime after selling the Rutherford County farm and lived near the Second Baptist Church in South Shelby. Samuel Evans Bostic was a deacon at Zoar Baptist Church where the family attended. It

At the age of eighty-nine, in 1965, Miss Attie died. She was buried in a Chinese robe with her hands clasped over a well worn Bible in recognition of the fact that she had read through the Bible ninety-one times.

— Mrs. Jane P. Jolly

BERTHA MAY BOSTICK

286

Bertha May, daughter of G.P. Bostick and his second wife Mary Thornton, was born in Shantung Province, China, March 9, 1893. She spent her childhood in China and came to Shelby with family in 1907 at age 14. The first school attended was at Nashville then at Shelby, N.C., living with grandma and Aunt Judie on East Graham St., graduated from Shelby High School, I think about 1911. She later attended Carson-Newman College, Jefferson City, Tennessee, taught primary grades a few years in South Carolina, then taught music in Shelby for over 30 years, living with Grandma (Jane Bostick) and Aunt Judie and caring for both in long illnesses.

On May 10, 1947, she married Dr. W.C. Bostic, Sr. second cousin, and lived with him until his death in September 1957. Then resumed music teaching both in Shelby and at Alexander School, Union Mills, N.C. She lived in Forest City and drove back and forth each day. During the last ten years, she made a home for elderly Aunt Attie, after she had been left a widow by the death of T.J. League in January 1954.

In June, 1963 Bertha had an operation and while still in hospital developed glaucoma; was operated on in both eyes and made a good recovery, resuming driving and teaching. In December of that year she had breast removed for cancer and again made partial recovery with some driving and teaching. In February 1965 when eighty-nine year old Attie had a stroke and Bertha herself was getting worse, both were moved to a nursing home. Aunt Attie died there May 7, 1965 and Bertha on November 26, 1965.

Jane Suttle and Samuel Evans Bostick. Grandparents of Bertha Bostick.

Bertha was always exceedingly interested and active in church work; S.S. teaching, choir, W.M.U., B.T.U., etc., as well as in personal ministry to those in need, in her family and in the community. She was never a really robust person, being subject to colds and flu, and other ailments, but she never spared herself and often drove herself beyond the limit of good judgment in attempting to render needed service.

As her pastor said at her funeral, Bertha was always a crusader, regardless of what other people might think of anything she said or did. Like her father and her husband, she was strongly, almost violently opposed to the use of alcohol and tobacco. As long as possible she played piano for S.S. in the Home and gave a few music lessons there. She also gave much of her time and interest to her individual friends and pupils, especially the "problem children" at Union Mills. Hundreds of her former pupils remember her with the deepest of love and affection. The Bel Vanto Music Club of Forest City has recently been renamed for her.

Bertha Bostick's great grandparents were John Bostick (1805-1873) and Cynthia Marrill (1808-1861). John and Cynthia Bostick, at age forty-five lived in 2nd Broad River District. They had the following sons, Samuel Evans, George, Richard and John. Their daughters Priscilla married Tom Carroll; Susanna married Henderson Carroll and Temperance married Andy McDaniel. John gave land for a church and was the first deacon.

Her grandfather, Samuel Evans Bostick and wife lived in Rutherford County for awhile on Bostic property. They moved to Shelby on South Lafayette Street where the Railroad crosses, and later to land inherited by Jane Price Suttle on East Graham St. S.E. Bostick was a Charter Member and deacon of Zoar Baptist Church in 1837. They had fifteen living children who were: Joseph Taylor Bostick who married Attie Hallman, John Baxter Bostick who married Bettie Durham, Benjamin Suttle Bostick, William Carroll Bostick who married Mary Beam, George Pleasant Bostick who married 1) Bertha Belle Bryan, 2) Mary Thornton, 3) Lena Stover, Sara Louise Bostick who married James Monroe Putnam, Cynthia Judith Bostick who married J.D. Eskridge, Samuel Evans Bostick, Jr., Thomas Wilkins Bostick, Mary Jane Bostick who married Samuel H. Austell, Lenorah Donie Bostick, Plato Lee Bostick who married Nettie Moore, Orlando Cephas Bostick who married Buena Hamrick, Wade Dobbins Bostick who married 1) Flora Holloway, 2) Estelle Gough, Attie Texas Bostick who married T.J. League.

Bertha May Bostick, picture taken April 1944.

Sources: 1850 Census Rutherford County, Bertha Bostick's Family Records, Adelaide Bostick's "Data on Family, of G.P. Bostick."

— Rebekah Putnam Ellis

REV. GEORGE PLEASANT BOSTICK

287

George Pleasant Bostick, who was born in Rutherford County on May 29, 1858, was one of fifteen children of Jane Price Suttle Bostick and Samuel Evans Bostick of Shelby. Of the fifteen, three, including "G.P." as he was called, went out to China as Baptist missionaries. G.P. was first, in 1889, and lived 37 years in China until his death in Kewitchfu, Anhwei Province, on June 22, 1926. His sister, Attie Texas Bostick (1875-1965), went in 1900 for forty-three years, and brother Wade Dobbins Bostick (1874-1944) spent 31 years in China from 1909. Together they served 111 years in China. The Biblical Recorder, organ of the Baptist State Convention of North Carolina, noting this service, in 1915 described Jane Price Bostick as a "Mother of Israel."

G.P. served mainly in the area around Chefoo, in the northeast. He had been less than a year in China when his wife, Bertha Belle Bryan, died, leaving him with an infant daughter, Adelaide. Mrs. Bostick also was a missionary. It was typical of G.P.'s devotion to service that he wrote to the Kings Mountain Baptist Association on August 12, 1890, saying he would ask no more than $700 on which to live for a year and support his child; but if that was not possible, he would do with $600. "The heathen world is never going to have the Gospel," he wrote, "until those who have it are ready to make sacrifices to give it to them."

G.P. Bostick, 1909.

G.P. Bostick Family, 1886. L to R: Martha Violet (Mattie), G.P., Mary Thornton, Bertha.

He tried to live as the Chinese did, and they lived poorly indeed. He learned Chinese fluently, often wore a black Chinese gown, but usually was dressed in grey which was matched in his later years by a handsome grey head and beard.

In 1891, G.P. married Mary Jane Thornton of Alabama, and three children were born of this union: Bertha May, in Shantung Province, 1893; Martha Violet "Mattie" in Pingtu, 1894; Sam Crawford in Shelby, 1896, and George Thornton, in Taianfu, 1898.

After the death of his second wife in Chefoo in 1903, G.P. married Lena Stover in Luray, Virginia, in 1907. She returned to China with him.

As fierce as his devotion was to his faith, G.P. was as gentle a person, and modest about his work. Once, when he was ill, a Chinese "old brother" told him he had prayed for him that morning and had told the Lord that G.P. had done much good work, so please to heal him. G.P. responded: "I have no merit."

He enjoyed visiting his daughter Martha who lived with her husband Harold W. Grambs, a business man, in Tientsin, and their two children. In June 1926, when he was returning to Chefoo from one such visit, he encountered delayed trains and was forced to sleep on his bedding on the cement floor of the station of Tsinan, among a large number of soldiers. One soldier appropriated his overcoat as a pillow. When G.P. got up he asked for the return of his coat — and with it acquired the typhus germ.

By the time he reached home he had a high fever. He was taken to his sister Attie's home in Kewitehfu, and from there to the Canadian Hospital. He hated to be a bother to anyone and once, when his wife and sister stepped out of his room, he tried to help himself and fell to the floor. Both women rushed in and Attie said: "Did you fall hard?" Ill as he was, his ever-present wit came through and he replied: "No, I fell easy, but I can't get up easy." He died a few days later.

G.P. had purchased land for a cemetery at Pochow, where he had lived for some time with his family. Aside from an infant child, he was the first foreigner to be buried there.

Three grandchildren survive. They are James Pleasant Bostick, son of George Thornton, who lives in Winston-Salem and has a lifetime career in the U.S. Navy; and two children of Martha Violet Bostick — Harold P. Grambs, retired from the Department of Agriculture, who lives in College Park, Maryland, and Blanche Mary Grambs (Mrs. James Aronson), an artist and illustrator, who lives in New York City.

Blanche Mary is the proud inheritor of a gold watch inscribed on its inner cover as follows:

"First Baptist Church of Durham, North Carolina, to Rev. G.P. Bostick, a missionary to China on leaving us February 24, 1889."

Sources: Family letters, Newspapers, "History of Kings Mountain Association," Material supplied by Rebekah Ellis, Compiled by Adelaide Bostick

— Prof. James Aronson

JAMES THOMAS BOWMAN

288

James Thomas Bowman was born in Lynchburg, Virginia on March 12, 1854. His parents were William Lovelace Bowman and Amanda Love Bowman. In early life he was called Jimmy or Jim. Later he was called James T. of just J.T.

In childhood he attended Sunnyside Academy, Bedford, Va. and Washington Boarding School and later Washington College, under Robert E. Lee, before the school became Washington and Lee University at Lexington, Va.

He married Lelia Anna Phelps, daughter of David Bell Phelps and Mary Elizabeth Phelps on Oct. 29, 1874 in Lynchburg, Va. Their eight children were: David Bernard Bowman, married Maggie Craddock; Laura Irma Bowman Darnell, married Henry Vance Darnell; James William Bowman, never married; Horace Lee Bowman, never married; Bertie Bass Bowman Rucker, married Edgar Parks Rucker; Nannie Amanda Bowman Moore, married James Robert Moore, Jr.; Nathaniel Robert Bowman, married first Mayce Glasco, second Patsy M. Ellis; Walter Harlowe Bowman, married Clara Kidd Wright.

At this writing, Nannie Bowman Moore is the only surviving child. She will be 95 on August 8, 1982.

After Lelia Anna's death, Mr. Bowman married Miss Wood who lived until 1948.

In 1882 Mr. Bowman went into tobacco business with his father. In 1890 he went to work for National Exchange Bank of Lynchburg and in 1905 he came to Shelby, N.C. where he organized Shelby National Bank. This bank merged with Cleveland Bank and Trust Co. and became Union Trust Co., which he headed until his death in 1950. During Mr. Bowman's life at Union Trust Co., the bank always had a holiday on Robert E. Lee's birthday. Since that time, Union Trust Co. merged in 1976 to become Independence National Bank and merged again in 1981 to become Branch Banking and Trust Co.

James Thomas Bowman, 1854-1950.

During his years in Shelby, Mr. Bowman had a strong interest in First Baptist Church where he served as a deacon, Superintendent of Sunday School and Bible teacher. He had an active interest in young people and public education and at one time served as a trustee of Boiling Springs College which is now Gardner-Webb College. He was instrumental in organizing the Ella Mill with the late J.R. Dover, Sr. The Eagle Roller Mill, Shelby's First Dairy, First Building and Loan and other business institutions came to life under his hands.

When he died at the age of 96, he was the Nation's oldest active Bank President and had been recognized as such since his 93rd birthday. He died August 16, 1950 and is buried in Sunset Cemetery in Shelby, N.C.

Mr. Bowman's earliest known ancestor in this country was Nathaniel Bowman who settled south of Richmond about 1630 — earlier ancestors came from Bristol, near London England and came from Lucerne, Switzerland to England.

Sources: Newspaper, Family records

— Nancy M. Magill

RAYMOND R. BRACKETT and DELLA DIXON BRACKETT

289

Raymond Reinhardt Brackett (born December 2, 1902, died September 12, 1966) and Della Mae Dixon Brackett (born December 10, 1903 and died July 1973). Raymond was the son of Julius W. Brackett and Maude Thompson Brackett of Belwood. Della was the daughter of Henry P. and Alice Skinner Dixon of Belwood. They both were raised on a farm in Belwood and attended school there. Both were members of Kadish Church growing up.

At the Brackett homeplace was the Belwood Post Office until the early 1930's. They were married December 10, 1921 and lived with the Bracketts' for a couple of years before moving to Shelby. They had six children.

Their first born at Belwood was Frances Rebecca born September 5, 1922 and she married Jackson David McDonald, born September 6, 1915 of Charleston, S.C. He is now deceased and she lives in Rock Hill, S.C. They had three children, the oldest, Paul David McDonald, born August 16, 1944, married Barbara Eleanor Adams, born September 5, 1949 and their son is Jackson David McDonald, September 3, 1974 in York County.

Frances and Jack's second son was Raymond Dean McDonald, born July 3, 1946 in Lincoln County. He served in the U.S. Navy and graduated from Clemson University. He married Delores Elaine Peebles on November 7, 1946 and they have a daughter, Lorie Dennise McDonald, born January 22, 1974. Their third child is Sue Della McDonald, born October 25, 1950 in York County. She married Marion Dewitt Ferguson, born November 11, 1949. They have two children: Brian Dewitt Ferguson (April 28, 1974) and Allison Hope Ferguson (January 30, 1978). They live in Rock Hill, S.C.

Raymond and Della's second child was born in Shelby and his name was Paul Dixon Brackett (born July 24, 1924 — died May 22, 1973). He married Sarah Kiser, born August 16, 1931. Paul was a star football player in high school at Lincolnton where the family later moved to. He played in the Shrine Bowl in Charlotte. He fought in World War II on Iwo Jima as a Marine, winning honors for his heroic duty. He and his wife were married in 1962 and have two daughters, Paula Dawn (born March 29, 1963) and Lynne Katherine (born April 27, 1964). Paul is buried at Laboratory Methodist Church in Lincoln County.

Their third child was Mary Lois, born July 19, 1927 in Lincoln County. She married Daniel M. Hovis in York, S.C., August 24, 1945. Dan was born September 5, 1924 in Lincoln County. He was in World War II in the Air Force. Lois worked at PPG Plant in Shelby for fifteen years. She now enjoys doing needlepoint, and cross-stitch and sharing some of her work with others. They had three sons, Daniel M. Jr., born July 17, 1947 in Lincoln County, married Deborah Gail Newton, born May 20, 1955. Their wedding was September 5, 1976. Daniel joined the army in 1969 for four years including tour of duty in Vietnam in Army Security Agency. He graduated from Appalachian University in Industrial Arts. While in the army at Fort Hood, Texas, he won first place in an art contest with a necklace. It went on to the National Contest where he placed third and the necklace was placed in The Art Gallery in Washington, D.C. Their second son was Edwin E. Hovis, born March 12, 1950 in Lincoln County. He married Angela Haynes on May 7, 1980. He joined the army in 1970 for two years including one year in Okinawa. Eddie was in a band with three other boys where he played guitar and while in high school, they cut a record. Their third son is Ricky L. born in Lincoln County September 22, 1953. He married Helen Ann Howell April 3, 1977 in Gaston County. She was born May 29, 1958 at Cleveland Memorial Hospital and lived in Cherryville.

Their fourth child was Hugh E. Brackett, born September 2, 1929 in Lincoln County and died February, 1972. He was buried at River View Baptist Church in Lincoln County. He married Nina Hicks of Lincoln County and they had one son Jeffery Maxton Brackett.

Their fifth child was Robert E., born in Lincoln County August 26, 1931. He married Ruth Rudisill on October 14, 1951, who was born December 29, 1928 in Gaston County. They live just outside Crouse, N.C. They have two sons. Kenneth Robert was born in Gaston County, October 8, 1957 and married Teresa Abernathy July 30, 1976 in Lincoln County. Her birthday is May 31, 1954. Michael Carl is their second son, born in Gaston County, May 19, 1962. Robert, or Bab, as he is called, enjoys doing woodwork and crafts for a hobby. He and his wife always have a booth at the craft shows at Cleveland County Fairground.

Their sixth child was Alice Maude, born March 3, 1936 in Lincoln County. She married Billy D. Parker of Lincoln County. Their two children are Queeta Dianne, born January 30, 1956 and Rex Bradly, born in 1959 in Lincolnton, N.C. Alice is a cosmetologist and has a shop in her home.

Raymond was a bricklayer while still living in Cleveland County. He helped build the present First Baptist Church, and remembers where one brick was laid wrong, and would always point it out to his family in passing. Raymond, in later years, in Lincoln County, was very talented with wood and could build anything in the furniture line. He had a shop in the back of the house and did this as a hobby. Della was very talented with finger-work, such as tatting to go on pillowcases or collars and embroidery work. As a hobby, she loved working with her African violets of which she had quite a collection.

They were both members of Rhyne Heights United Methodist Church and when they died they were buried in Forrest Lawn Cemetery in Lincolnton, N.C.

Sources: personal knowledge, Family Bible

— Louis Hovis

THE WILLIAM FRANCIS BREWER FAMILY

290

Born in Henderson, North Carolina, June 22, 1913, Captain Brewer is a graduate of Davidson College. He served in the United States Navy until his retirement July 1, 1968, and was based at many naval installations in the United States, Europe, as well as commanding ships at sea including the ENTERPRISE during World War II and subsequently.

He married Ida Pauline Neisler of Kings Mountain (daughter of Charles E. and Ida Mauney Neisler) on November 29, 1939. Mrs. Brewer was a graduate of Ward-Belmont in Nashville, Tennessee.

Children of the Brewers include: Betty Jean, born April, 1944, died August, 1944; William Francis Brewer, Jr., born February 16, 1941 (married Ellen Furry of Massachusetts in 1963), children: John William Brewer, born March 10, 1966, and Robert Stevenson Brewer, born November 1, 1971; Andra Neisler

Brewer, born June 9, 1946 (married David Klarman July 6, 1980); and Paula Hart Brewer, born September 5, 1952.

Since his retirement, Captain and Mrs. Brewer have lived in Henderson.

Sources: Family knowledge

— Mrs. John Plonk

CARVER SPURGEON & JENNIE ALLEN BRIDGES

291

Carver and Jennie Bridges are a conspicuous couple; eyes do not glance over them unimpressed. Jennie's cheerful face, highlighted by a background of red hair, reveals a genuine happiness. Carver's calm, assured face and steady, peaceful demeanor suggests contentment. The impression is unmistakable. Their's has been, and is, a good life.

Of the things that have made their's a good life, family, community, and the land stand out. Carver Spurgeon Bridges was born April 2, 1902 to Seaton and Josie Irene Bridges near what is today Davis Road. Jennie Dean (Allen) Bridges was born April, 10, 1899 to John L. and Evelina Allen in what is today the Elizabeth community. From the start the two were members of large families — Carver having 12 brothers and sisters, and Jenny eight — and following their marriage in 1922 (Dec. 2) they proceeded to keep it that way, raising eight kids of their own: Spurgeon and Lawrence, both deceased, Carl S. and Carver Don of the Mt. Sinai community, Dean and Dorothy of Shelby, David Lee of Gastonia, and Jolena Rayburn of Columbia, South Carolina. To date the couple boasts 24 grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

Their community has always meant a lot to Carver and Jennie, and they to it. They first lived in Mooresboro for four years after they were married, then moved to the Zoar community for ten years, and then to the Mt. Sinai community.

Carver and Jennie Bridges.

"When we first moved down here, we said it seemed more like one big family than any we'd ever seen," Jennie says. They remained here ever since.

Carver and Jennie have participated in and contributed to their immediate community and the county at large in a number of ways. Jennie graduated from Boiling Springs High School in 1920 and later taught school, first through third grades at Beaver Dam for two years. Also, she has served in a variety of capacities as a member of Mt. Sinai Baptist church. Carver finished school after one year at Boiling Springs High School, and years later served as a member of the school board of Number Three School. Also, Carver has served as a member of the Cleveland Memorial Hospital Board, the A.S.C. Farm Committee board, and served as a deacon, Sunday School superintendent, church clerk, and treasurer at Mt. Sinai. He is currently a trustee.

Both born the children of farmers, Carver and Jenny followed in their parents footsteps, and found that path well worth the walk. Over the years, thanks to intelligence and hard work, they earned a generous living off the land.

"We started raising cotton, and made a good living for years," Carver says. "Then cotton went to the bad, and we went into the chicken business. Made a good living at that until it went to the bad, and then we got into the cattle business. When it finally went to the bad after several years we quit (retired)."

Though they earned a comfortable retirement from their years of farming, it was not always a lucrative enterprise and afforded many tough times, especially during the Depression.

"We had five kids by the Depression," Carver says. "We always had plenty to eat, but we didn't have no money. I remember we had a car, but we couldn't afford to buy a tag to drive it."

"One time I remember we were out picking cotton and a fellow lost a dime in the field, and all of us stopped picking and looked for that dime for hours until we found it."

Though farming proved a hard life, with dawn to dark work days, looking back on it from the perspective of the leisure-filled 1980s, Carver and Jennie have no regrets. Carver sums their feelings up best:

"It didn't hurt us to work and do without things; I think it did us a lot of good. We were happier than people are today, I'll tell you that."

To see them is to believe that.

How does this couple spend their time now that they are passed 80? In addition to being active in Mt. Sinai Baptist Church Mr. Bridges plays checkers at the neighborhood store (Glenn's Minute Market) while Mrs. Bridges works in her most impressive vegetable garden.

Sources: personal interview

— Brian E. Putnam

CLARENCE EDGAR BRIDGES' ANCESTORS and DESCENDANTS

292

Zechariah Bridges, son of John Bridges and Cynthis Jones, married Nancy Hamrick on February 4, 1858. Nancy, daughter of Berry and Catherine Hamrick, was born on June 8, 1843 and died May 2, 1931. Nancy and Zechariah lived above Lattimore in Cleveland County. Both were descendants of George Hamrick who came from Germany in 1731.

According to S.C. Jones, Zechariah's great grandfather, James Bridges, lived in York County, South Carolina. He was the first deacon of Buffalo Church, which was the first church organized in this area in 1786.

Zechariah served in the Confederate Army. He died sometime between 1885 and 1890.

Zechariah and Nancy Bridges had two children, Eliza and Cicero. Eliza married Benjamin Green. They adopted one daughter who died in early childhood.

Cicero married Susannah Jane Harrill, born June 1, 1856; died April 12, 1901. She was the daughter of Nathaniel Harrill and Susannah Lovelace. Nathaniel Harrill served in the Confederate Army and was the grandson of Housand Harrill. Cicero's second wife was Carrie Hawkins Wilson, born February 24, 1873 and died November 6, 1950.

Clarence Edgar Bridges, born August 26, 1880, died November 2, 1971, was the oldest son of Cicero and Jane Bridges. His brothers and sisters (by Cicero's first marriage) were: Beatty, Broughton, Beuna, Posie, Hessie, Plato and Yates. Brothers and sisters by Cicero's second marriage were: Manley, Pauline, Mertice, Truman, Earl and Lena. Carrie Hawkins Wilson had two children when she married Cicero Bridges. They were: Melvin and Analdo Wilson.

Clarence Edgar Bridges married Bertha Green on February 11, 1911. Bertha was born on June 19, 1884 and died June 27, 1967. She was the daughter of Andrew and Permelia Green of Boiling Springs.

Children of Clarence Edgar and Bertha Bridges were: Troy, born December 20, 1911, married Lillian Wix of Miami, Florida. Esther, born May 26, 1915, never married. Clarence, born July 10, 1918, married Doris Kappelman of Mason City, Iowa. Clement, born July 10, 1918, died July 11, 1944 while in the Army and during the Battle of Saipan, WWII. Mont, born December 8, 1920, married Annie Mae Humphries of Cleveland County. Hessie, born August 26, 1924, married Thomas Harris of Rutherford County. Nancy, born February 10, 1926, married Howard Tesseneer of Cleveland County.

Troy and Lillian Bridges had two daughters, Shirley and Jane. Shirley married Tony Pack of Belmont. They have two children, Wade and Elizabeth. Jane married James Garrison of Belmont. They have two sons, Jim and Joseph.

Clarence and Doris Bridges had one son, Edgar. He married Robin Makowka of Maryland. They have two children, Emily and Andrew.

Mont and Annie Mae Bridges had two sons Roger and Miller. Roger died in 1955 at the age of 5 with polio. Miller married Lou Ann Greene of Boiling Springs. They have one son, Clint.

Hessie and Thomas Harris had two sons, Kenny and Alan. Kenny married Rita Hawkins of Cleveland County. They have two daughters, Andrea and Laura. Alan married Ginny Ballenger of Shelby. They have one son, Boyd.

Nancy and Howard Tesseneer had three children, Carol, James and Rodney. Carol married Roger Tate of Greenville, South Carolina. They have two children, Linda Jo and Dale. James married Jean Threatt of Cleveland County. They have two daughters, Sharon and Kimberly. Rodney married Lynn Dickey of Michigan. They have one daughter, Willow.

Clarence and Mont Bridges served in the Army during World War II.

Howard Tesseneer and Thomas Harris served in the Navy during World War II.

James L. Tesseneer and Roger Tate served in the Army in Vietnam.

Kenny Harris served in the Air Force in Korea.

Most of the Bridges are Baptist, but there are a few Methodists in the family. Clarence and Troy Bridges, Howard and James L. Tesseneer, and Roger Tate are ordained deacons.

Clarence Edgar Bridges was primarily a farmer, but he worked at a sawmill, a cannery, in the post office as assistant mail carrier and was postmaster at Boiling Springs. He and his wife loved their family, their church and their community and gave themselves unselfishly to each.

His children and grandchildren work in textiles, education, electronics, retail, insurance, civil service and various other fields.

Sources: Family knowledge

— Esther Bridges

DR. DWIGHT THOMAS BRIDGES

293

Dr. Dwight Thomas Bridges, son of David Cicero and Leona Magness Bridges, was born near Lattimore February 11, 1903. Both his mother and father were direct descendants of the George Hamrick who was one of the first settlers of what is now Cleveland County. After his graduation from Wake Forest College and Emory University School of Medicine and a year's internship at Macon General Hospital in Macon, Georgia, he returned to his home town of Lattimore to practice medicine. For more than fifty years he maintained an office for General Practice in Lattimore and was the family physician for many families in that area. For some of those families, he was the family doctor for as many as three generations of them. In the early years of his practice he made many house calls in an A model Ford over poor and practically non-existent roads. Once, he got stuck in a snow storm after having spent the night delivering a baby in the Duncan's Creek community in Rutherford County, and, abandoning his car, he borrowed a horse from the new father and rode home on horseback. Dr. Bridges was a tall man, several inches over six feet, and some of his friends remarked that he was the only man that they had ever seen who could ride horseback and walk at the same time. During the Depression years before World War II, he received bales of cotton, country hams and even an occasional beef cow in lieu of cash payment for doctor bills.

Dr. Dwight Thomas Bridges.

In 1933, he and Mary An Phelps of Nashville, Tennessee (who was teaching French in the Lattimore High School) were married. Dr. and Mrs. Bridges had three children: Elizabeth, who married Dr. Frederic Mushinski of Bethesda, Maryland; Anne, who married Bryan Thornton of St. Petersburg, Florida; and Dwight Thomas, Jr., who married Jean Collins, of Wilmington, North Carolina. Anne Thornton has one daughter, Elizabeth, who is married to Michael Marziale, of Metairie, Louisiana and Dwight Thomas Bridges, Jr. and his wife, Jean have three children: Melissa Bridges, Dwight Thomas Bridges, III and Amy Bridges.

During World War II, Dr. Bridges served in the United States Army for three years, eighteen months of which he was a member of an Auxiliary Surgical Group which made the D Day Landing and which was shortly afterwards attached to General Patton's Third Army in its race across Europe. He was separated from the Army in September, 1945 with the rank of Major, the Bronze Star and six battle stars.

Dr. Bridges was a quiet, reserved man with a lively sense of humor and a genuine love of people. Always an enthusiastic supporter of Wake Forest University and an avid sports fan, he was a familiar figure at the local baseball games for many years. During the years that his children were growing up and his family had a vacation cottage at Lake Lure where he spent many happy hours in his boat on the lake piloting his water-skiing children and their friends. He died March 1, 1979 at the age of 76. At the time of his death, he was a Life Member of the Cleveland County Medical Society, the North Carolina Medical Society, the Southern Medical Society and the American Society.

His wife, Mary An Phelps Bridges is a graduate of Vanderbilt University. She has been president of the Lattimore Woman's Club, the Cleveland County Chapter of the American Association of University Women, the Auxiliary to the Cleveland County Medical Society, Regent of the Benjamin Cleveland Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution and, until her retirement in 1981, a member of the Board of Trustees for the Cleveland County Memorial Library for many years.

Source: Personal knowledge

— Mary An Bridges

GLEE A. and ADDIE H. BRIDGES FAMILY

294

The second of sixteen children born to Joseph Chancey and Sarah Ever Gold Bridges, Glee Acor was born June 27, 1894 in Cleveland County, North Carolina.

Following his childhood years on the farm and after completing his high school education, Glee took a job in a mercantile store in Kings Mountain. Soon afterward, he entered the retail hardware business with his uncle, R. Coleman Gold. He remained in the hardware business until his retirement when Bridges Hardware Store went into the hands of two of his sons, J.C. and Glee Edwin.

During World War I Glee served in the Navy. After returning home he met and soon married Addie Nelson Hamrick, daughter of Cleophas and Sallie Elizabeth Hoyle Hamrick. Addie was born in Polk County near Landrum, South Carolina on February 12, 1900. Glee and Addie had four children, three sons and one daughter.

Although their childhood years spanned the time of national depression, these four grew up in a happy home with devoted parents who wanted the very best for their children.

There were always pets in seemingly endless varieties including dogs, rabbits, squirrels, goats, ponies, horses. The entire family enjoyed them.

Having grown up on a farm, Glee used several acres near the family home for farmland. The children shared in the farm chores and each had individual responsibilities.

Church activities were an important part of family life, and the family attended the local Baptist Church regularly. Glee served as deacon and held several other positions of leadership. Addie accepted leadership roles in the Woman's Missionary Union and Sunday School. Glee helped organize Boy Scout Troop Six in his church and served for several years as scoutmaster. Working with the boys, including his own sons, gave him great satisfaction. The outdoor activities and camping trips were as much fun for him as the scouts.

Singing was another of his pleasures. He was a member of the church choir. No family gathering was ever complete until everyone had gathered around the piano or old pump organ for a sing-along. On family-trips in the car he became the song leader for folk songs, fun songs and hymns.

When son J.C. became an aviation cadet and earned his military pilot's wings in 1944, Dad couldn't be left out. Not only did he take private flying lessons and obtain his pilot's license, he built Bridges Airport from part of his farmland! Soon sons Glee Edwin and Nelson also learned to fly.

During World War II J.C. was a pilot in the Air Force and Glee Edwin served in the Navy. Nelson was a radar navigator in the Air Force during the Korean Conflict.

Glee and Addie Bridges Family. Standing L to R: J.C., Addie Hamrick, Glee E. Seated L to R: T. Nelson, Emojene Bridges Schenk and Glee A.

By this time Glee was into county politics and represented Kings Mountain as a county commissioner. He became mayor of Kings Mountain in 1953 and served until 1961. Re-elected in 1963, he completed another two year term. While in office he led an effort to increase the town's water supply and saw construction of a new lake to meet this need. Under his leadership the town's natural gas distribution system was developed and put into operation.

Involvement in community life and civic affairs helped Glee express his friendliness and his real love for people. He never met a stranger. Everyone called him by his first name which he liked very much. Innately energetic, he was constantly visible anywhere and everywhere throughout the town in his jeep.

He was a charter member and served as President of the local Kiwanis Club. A thirty-second degree Mason as well as a Shriner, he and Addie enjoyed membership in the Eastern Star. He became charter worthy Patron of the Kings Mountain Chapter, instituted in 1950. Addie was Worthy Matron in 1960-1961 and served as treasurer for many years.

Glee died March 23, 1966.

Addie was a devoted and loving mother who nurtured her children, her number one priority. An accomplished needlecrafter, her hobbies include sewing, crocheting, quilting, and tatting. Friends and family members delight in the lovely pieces of needlework she has made for them. An excellent cook, her specialty is baking cakes. Her family dinners are truly delightful.

Joseph Cleophas (J.C.) was born October 19, 1923. He married Edith Franklin of Hickory, N.C. Their four children are Edith Jo, Don Forrest, Janet Sue, and Joy Leigh.

Glee Edwin was born February 13, 1926. He married Martha Poythress of Savannah, Georgia. Their three children are Glee Edwin, Jr., Thomas William and Lynne Elizabeth.

Thomas Nelson was born June 26, 1928. He married Jeanne Cash of Burlington, N.C. and they lived in Marietta, Georgia. They have four children: Thomas Nelson, Jr., Debra Carol, Diane Kay, and Donna Sue. Nelson died November 13, 1981.

Sarah Emogene was born May 8, 1930. She married Robert Eugene Schenk of Waterloo, Iowa where they reside. Their children are Robert Eugene, Jr., and twin daughters Anne Marie and Glee Acor.

In addition to the fourteen grandchildren, there are presently fourteen great-grandchildren.

Sources: Information from Family Members, March 1982.

— Mrs. Glee A. Bridges

THE GLEE EDWIN BRIDGES FAMILY

295

Glee Edwin Bridges was born February 13, 1926 in Kings Mountain. He is the second son of Glee Acor and Addie Hamrick Bridges. Glee grew up in a happy family of three boys and one girl.

As a youth he was active in life of the First Baptist Church. Glee played French horn in the high school band which traveled near and far winning many awards. This participation led to his playing with the North Carolina Symphony during his years at University of North Carolina.

During his pre-adolescence Glee and his brother, J.C., formed a business partnership that was to last a lifetime being interrupted only by World War II. At about the age thirteen the two boys raised and sold capons to their friends and neighbors. They took orders, dressed and delivered their chickens every Saturday. Glee grew up knowing the satisfaction of a job well done.

Each Bridges boy worked in a family hardware business. Their responsibilities included everything from unloading a boxcar of fertilizer to accompanying their Dad on a buying trip to New York. They were taught the value of hard work. Their Dad instilled into each child the idea that "any job that is honest is honorable."

During the fall of his senior year at Kings Mountain High School, Glee was privileged to take the entrance examination at the University of North Carolina and subsequently entered the university at the age of sixteen. Six months later, in July 1943, he joined the Naval Reserve and remained a student at Chapel Hill until the fall of 1944. From there Glee attended Midshipman School at Cornell University and was commissioned an ensign in the U.S.N.R. in April 1945. He served as Executive Officer on an LCI in the Pacific Theater and returned to civilian life in August 1946.

September 1947 Glee married Martha Ann Poythress of Savannah, GA. At this time he was in the hardware business with his uncle in Bessemer City. Later he joined his father and brother in the family hardware business in Kings Mountain.

Glee and his wife are parents of two sons, Glee Edwin, Jr. and Thomas William, and one daughter Lynne Bridges Fulton. At this writing there are three grandchildren. The family has, through the years, been active in St. Matthews Lutheran Church, participating in all facets of church life. Glee has served as a church councilman, Sunday School superintendent and teacher, choir member and building committee for both the church proper and the parsonage.

His interest in the Navy remained constant for many years. He served as Commanding Officer for the U.S. Naval Reserve Unit in Shelby and later in Spartanburg. In the spring of 1974 he retired from the Reserve with the rank of Captain.

At this writing he continues to manage the family business with his brother. He enjoys working in his flower and vegetable garden, regarding them as his "therapy patch". He is active in civic organizations, and a faithful supporter of the UNC Tarheels.

Sources: Information from family members

— Glee E. Bridges

JESSE WHITSON BRIDGES and WIFE JANE

296

Jesse Whitson Bridges (b. 6 October 1845, d. August 1904) was the son of Jesse Bridges and his second wife, Malinda Dye of Cleveland County. On 10 of September, 1864 Jesse Whitson Bridges enlisted in the Confederate Army, Company E. Major Frank J. Hahr's Battalion. He is listed as a guard, stationed on the coast of eastern North Carolina.

On 16 September 1868 he married Mary Jane Hamrick born 18 September 1851, (daughter of David and Caroline Hardin Hamrick and great-great granddaughter of the Revolutionary Soldier Housen Harrill) of Lattimore. Jesse and wife Mary Jane moved to Jesse's large farm near Lattimore where they reared their family, six boys and one girl. Jesse's one goal was to purchase enough land so that each child could inherit a farm. This meant hard work for the family; however, the goal was reached after Jesse's death.

His widow, Mary Jane remained at the home place and lived a most productive life. She was accustomed to hard work. Her father was killed in the Civil War, leaving her mother Caroline, and her younger sister, Hester "Hess," to make the living for the family.

Jane told of these experiences to her grandchildren when she came for a visit. One such story was about riding a mule with a sack of corn on its back, from her home in Lattimore to Mont Cabaniss Mill on Brushy Creek in the Zion community. There she narrowly escaped drowning. Her corn and riding blanket were washed down the creek and she herself was washed off the mule, but the animal happened to step on her long skirt and she managed to get up and out of the swollen stream. There were few bridges then, and almost all the streams had to be crossed by fording.

Another story was about going to Lincolnton with her uncle, Charles Washburn and the children, to see their first train. Mr. Washburn went to buy yarn and carried the children along on this two day trip to see the train, that being the nearest railroad station.

Mary Jane Hamrick Bridges, 1851-1945.

Jane, her mother and sister would walk four miles to all kinds of weather to attend "preaching services" at Beaver Dam Church. "We didn't get very cold," she said. "We wore heavy homemade shoes, all the kind we had, and long capes made of jeans, and then we warmed good before we went into the meeting house." Of course she had to explain how she warmed before she went in. "You see there was no way to make a fire in the church, and we always had a big fire of logs burning outside."

"Aunt Jane," as she was called by friends, lived to the ripe old age of 94. She was one of the sprightliest elderly women in the country. She was in good health and physically strong. She took long walks every afternoon. She suffered a broken hip in a fall which led to her death 9 October 1945. She and her husband are buried in the Double Springs Cemetery.

Their seven children were:

Lora Manassa (b. 18 December 1869; d. 20 October 1926) married first Jesse Guilford Blanton; their only child was John Samuel Blanton. Her second husband was James Albert Johnson; their children were: Durham, Aquilla, Mattie Lou, and Bernice. James Samuel (b. 3 March 1872; d. 17 January 1950) married Aquilla Hamrick. They lived in Macon, Georgia. Their children were: Hester, Jesse, Charles, Charles Jethro, and Daniel Woodrow. David Cicero (b. 11 July 1874; d. 23 December 1949) married Leona Magness. Their children were Dwight Thomas. MD and Hal, MD. Dwight practiced medicine in Lattimore. Charles Alexander (b. 24 February 1877; d. 2 March 1937) married Missouri Bridges. Their children were: Hettie Ray, Jesse, Charles, Johnnie J., and Kester. Andrew Dobbins, died young. Clarence (b. 28 January 1888; d. 7 November 1910) married Cleo Washburn. They lived in Macon, Georgia. Their only child was Elmo Bridges. Summey (b. 17 October 1897; d. 2 September 1892) never married.

Sources: Family records

— Mrs. Garva H. Blanton

J.C. and EDITH BRIDGES FAMILY

297

J.C., named Joseph for his paternal grandfather and Cleophas for his maternal grandfather has lived in Kings Mountain his entire life. The first child of Glee A. and Addie Hamrick Bridges, he was born October 19, 1923.

With two younger brothers and one sister he enjoyed a happy childhood. Many activities centered around the family as well as school, church, and scouting.

One of his earliest memories is of going to pick cotton on grandpa Hamrick's farm. He recalls how he later earned spending money by raising chickens and capons which he sold in the neighborhood, delivering them alive on his bicycle to housewives all over town.

An avid Boy Scout, he earned the Eagle Scout rank.

After attending the local city schools he graduated from Kings Mountain Central High School and enrolled at Wake Forest College in the fall of 1940.

World War II interrupted his college career, and he entered the Army Air Corps as an aviation cadet, receiving his pilot's wings in 1944. For the duration of the war he instructed advanced single engine flying. He remained in the active Air Force Reserve until twenty-eight years later when he was placed in the inactive reserve with the rank of Lieutenant Colonel.

Following the years and upon returning to civilian life, J.C. went in to the family retail hardware business with his Dad and one of his uncles. This became his life long occupation, and he and his brother Glee Edwin, now own Bridges Hardware, having bought it in 1960.

Civilian flying instructing was one of J.C.'s favorite hobbies during the years immediately following the war. He taught many students to fly at the family's airport in Kings Mountain.

In 1946, J.C. and Edith Franklin were married. Edie is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Marcus Franklin of Hickory, NC. Edie grew up in Hickory where she attended the city schools and graduated from Hickory High School. After attending Mars Hill College, she received her bachelor's degree from Lenoir Rhyne College in 1944.

J.C. has accepted leadership roles in many civic endeavors throughout his adult life. A longtime member of the Kiwanis Club, he served a term as club president. He was a member of the Junior Chamber of Commerce and the Chamber of Commerce. He is presently a member of the Kings Mountain Hospital Board of Trustees and a Bank Director at First Union National Bank, Kings Mountain.

All of the family members have been deeply involved in life of the Kings Mountain Baptist Church where J.C. has served as deacon and many other areas of responsibility. Edie has served as church organist for many years.

Edie has taught first grade in the Kings Mountain District Schools since 1958.

J.C. and Edie have four children: Edith Jo who married Michael Eugene McRee; Don Forrest who married Carole Claire DeMille; Janet Sue who married Thomas Arthur Anthony, Jr. and Joy Leigh who married Myron Gregory George.

The five grandchildren are Joseph Marc McRee, Dale Forrest, Bridges, Emily Britte Anthony, Gregory Lee George, and David Hunter George.

Sources: Information from family members

— Glee E. Bridges

Sons of Joseph Chancey Bridges. Front row L to R: Elmo, Milan, Hugo. Back row L to R: Torrence, Glee, Ben, Durham.

THE JOSEPH CHANCEY BRIDGES FAMILY

298

Our father, Joseph Chancey Bridges, was born December 3, 1865, in upper Cleveland County. He died January 17, 1944. His parents were Thomas Sylvanus Bridges and Martha Hicks Bridges. Our mother, Sarah Eva Gold, was born in the Double Springs Community of Cleveland County on January 6, 1872 and died August 3, 1941. Her parents were Benjamin Franklin Gold and Cynthia Narcissus Pannell Gold. Our parents are both deceased and buried in the church cemetery of Mt. Sinai Baptist Church, where they were both faithful members.

Their marriage began in 1888 in Rehobeth Community near Lattimore. A few years later, with diligence, patience, faith in God, and a lot of hard work, they bought a farm in the Mt. Sinai community in lower Cleveland County where thirteen of their sixteen children were reared on the farm (three died in infancy).

We worked long hours but still had time for relaxation and fun. We grew our own vegetables (such as cabbage, potatoes, and turnips) and either canned them or stored them in a mound of dirt shoveled out of earth and layered with straw. We called this a vegetable "hill". Mostly, we dried our fruit. We also raised our own chickens and eggs, churned our own butter from milk-producing cows, raised our own hogs, curing them for ham and sausage. Oftentimes, we would exchange butter and eggs for the essential items we needed from the store.

Our father was a deeply religious man who saw to it that we went to church regularly every Sunday unless we were sick. He loved music and taught us early in life to sing the gospel hymns from the Christian Harmony Hymnal. We had our own choral group which gave us much joy on long winter evenings and Sunday afternoons. He taught music schools for many years in neighboring communities in the summer.

Our mother was an excellent cook and homemaker. She had quiet strength that was something amazing. A weekend barely passed without guests in our home, either relations or friends. Usually we baked on Saturday on a large wood stove with a reservoir on the side for heating water, as we had no plumbing conveniences that we have today. One of her favorite recipes was a stack cake, which was a light cookie dough baked in thin layers (eight to ten) spreading sweetened, cooked, dried fruit between the layers. Her guests always found this to be delicious. However, she was never too busy to carry a basket of food to a needy family, or sit all night with a neighbor's sick child. She was truly a lady who lived her Christianity each day.

We children attended Broad River Academy, a two-room, two-teacher school that taught grades one through seven. In 1924, my father bought a T-model Ford, with curtains that snapped on and off to keep out the snow and rain. My brother Milan and I drove this car for four years to Shelby High School, where we graduated in 1928. In 1929, when the stock market crashed, the county was in a state of panic with the closing of the banks and the deep depression, but slowly, we pulled out of it.

Daughters of Joseph Chancey Bridges. Front row L to R: Gertha Ellis Jolley, Wretha Westmoreland, Kate Blackburn. Back row L to R: Wilma Putnam, Lyda Williamson, Coie Biggerstaff.

Joseph Chancy Bridges and Sara Eva Gold Bridges

What a privilege to have been born in this century with all of its changes. To have experienced two world wars, the stock market crash, the great depression of the 1930's, the electronics age with the advent of radio and television, and the introduction of the space age seems almost unbelievable in one generation.

The children in our family, listed in order of age, are: Torrence Festus (1890-1946), Lillian Coie (1892-1981), Lyda Lassie (1893-), Glee Acor (1894-1966), Lala Wilma (1896-1965), Gertha Gay (1899-1965), Wretha Ramer (1900-), Benjamin Foy (1902-1973), Durham Felma (1903-1964), Robert Hugo (1906-1962), Milan Garrett (1908-1979), Kate (1910-), Elmo Maxwell (1912-1972).

Sources: Family records and Bible, microfilm on Robert Gidney, personal memory, research papers of Rebecca Putnam Ellis.

— Kate Bridges Blackburn

THE JOSEPH REX BRIDGES FAMILY

299

On December 26, 1906, in Gaffney, South Carolina, Joseph Rex Bridges married Oder Galena McSwain. Rex, the son of James Wayne and Mary Ann Beason Bridges, was born in Cleveland County, North Carolina on August 2, 1886. Oder, the daughter of Amos Wright and Alice Hamrick McSwain, was born in Cleveland County on September 8, 1890.

Rex had two brothers, Chivous Jefferson (1875-1932) and Xenophen Polk (1892-1976) and one sister, Cuttie (1882-1885). Oder had two brothers, Grover Cleveland (1893-1966) and George Thomas (1900-1962) and two sisters, Myrtle (1895-1898) and Betsy Ann (1897-1975). Rex and Oder were the parents of six children, Esley, Aaron, Mary, James, Lyman and Lucille.

The first home for Rex and Oder was located on what is now East College Avenue in Boiling Springs, North Carolina at the present site of Ladd Hamrick Fuel Oil Company. This house was destroyed during a storm on April 30, 1917. The family had been out all day on some farm land that belonged to Oder cutting corn stalks and turning land. Late in the afternoon their son Aaron became too sick to remain at work and had to be taken home. Dr. Yates Hamrick was sent for and he diagnosed double pneumonia. The doctor hadn't been gone long when the storm started. A number of other homes and barns in the community were also destroyed.

The family then moved to a house that had belonged to Rex's brother Chivous. This was located just to the east of the present Boiling Springs Town Hall.

In 1919 they moved into a house that once belonged to Tom Phillips. This was located beside their first home. They lived here about one year. Rex had taken work at the Bostic Brick Yard and the family moved to Bostic in April of 1920. Rex operated a pug mill which mixed water and clay to make the bricks.

On February 21, 1923 the family moved to Alexander Mills, North Carolina where Rex, Oder, Esley and Aaron worked in the Alexander Cotton Mill. This is the only time that Oder worked outside of her home. While here James and Lyman, along with eight other neighborhood boys, were bitten by a mad dog. All had to take the rabies vaccine for twenty-one days. Lyman's case was further complicated by a bout with chicken pox at the same time. Happily they all recovered from this bad experience.

In 1925 the family moved back to Boiling Springs to their new home on East College Avenue. They remained in this home until the children were married and moved and Rex and Oder remained there until their deaths. Rex farmed and also helped out in Mr. R.D. Hord's Filling Station and Grocery Store (located at the present site of the College Gulf Station). He also worked in his brother Zen's store which was located at the present site of Sally's Department Store in Boiling Springs.

In 1953 Rex took the job as caretaker of Boiling Springs Baptist Church. He remained in this position until his death.

Rex and Oder's six children all married and had children. Esley Winburn (1908-1965) married Sadie Beason and they had four children — Jerry (1932), Betty (1934), Alice (1937), and Michael (1941). Aaron Denton (1909) married Ruby Vasse and they had three daughters — Doris (1930), Geraldine (1932), and Jo-Neil (1939). Mary Wynonah (1910) married Elam Lovelace and they had two children — an infant daughter (d. 1928) and Donald (1930). James Wright (1913) married Lona Spuring and they had four children — James (1934), Robert (1935), William (1937) and Peggy (1940). Thomas Lyman (1920) married Elese Blanton and they had two children — an infant daughter (d. 1942) and Barbara (1947). Dorothy Lucille (1930) married Bruce Walker and they had two children — Joseph (1953) and Debra (1957).

One of the happiest memories of the children were the annual trips to Broad River. Each year after the crops were in the family would hitch a two horse wagon and go to the river for several days. Other local families would also gather there and each family would sleep in their wagon. Large fish fries were held and each family also contributed home grown vegetables. For entertainment families went swimming and then built camp fires at night and sat around and talked.

Oder Bridges died of cancer on August 31, 1967. Rex died of a heart attack on June 7, 1968. Both are buried in Cleveland Memorial Park.

Sources: Family records and interviews with Rex and Oder's children by Barbara Bridges Lovelace.

— Mrs. Robert Lovelace

LUTHER and MINNIE LEE HUFFSTICKLER BRIDGES

300

Luther Bridges (b. Feb. 15, 1876 — d. April 20, 1937) was the son of William T. (b. Feb. 7, 1850 — d. May 23, 1924) and Sara McKee

Luther and Minnie Huffstickler Bridges and daughter Edith.

Bridges (b. April 29, 1848 — d. Sept. 3, 1925). He married Ellen Walker the first time and they had a son, Garrison Bridges. This marriage was very short.

Luther married Minnie Lee Huffstickler (b. Oct. 31, 1883 — d. Oct. 10, 1963) daughter of Albert and Martha Kennedy Huffstickler. Minnie was crippled by polio as a young child along with a sister Birdie. They were sent to a boarding school in Lenoir, North Carolina since they couldn't walk to school. Minnie remembered the school being at the bottom of a hill and apples from an orchard higher up rolling down the hill to the school. They traveled by wagon several days, camping out by night to get to Lenoir.

They had twelve children born of this union. Four of these died at birth or at a very early age. Eight survived to adulthood. Sara Nina Elizabeth (b. Aug. 22, 1907 d. Feb. 12, 1949) married Lee Roy Camp; Elizabeth m. William P. Anthony, Reba m. George Joy 2nd Frank Conner, Miles Richard d. m. Mary Herron: Brunell (b. Jan. 23, 1911) married Henry Bryant; Howard Bryant married Edna Bradshaw, Janet Dora Lee Bryant married Allen Fisher, Donald Bryant (not married): Lillian Frances Bridges (b. Feb. 23, 1913 married Homer Davis; Norman Davis, Kenneth Davis, Bobby Davis, Allen Davis: Clyde Bridges married Averice Eaker; Carolyn Bridges married Ed Wiggins, Janice Bridges married Dennis Beaty, Ned Bridges: Frank Hood Bridges (b. Jan. 25, 1920) married Faye Wright; Brenda Kay Bridges married Dale Gilliland, Barry Bridges, Bruce Bridges: Robert Arthur Bridges (b. April 10, 1922 d. Oct. 6, 1961) married Virgie Canipe; Douglas Bridges, Charlotte Jane Bridges: William Edward Bridges (b. Feb. 1, 1924) married Mildred Mullinax; Judy Bridges married Bobby Putnam, Terry Bridges: Edith Jane Bridges married Rommie Carpenter; Ronald Steven Carpenter married Carolyn Thrift, George Sidney Carpenter married Teresa, Larry Dean Carpenter married Myra Mauney, David A. Carpenter married Dianne, Frances Elaine Carpenter married Richard Davis, Paul Edward Carpenter married Jane, Cynthia Diane Carpenter.

They sold their farm in the country because of Luther's asthma and moved to town. They bought a house on Stone Street in East Kings Mountain where they lived until they died. Luther died in 1937. He woke up one morning and told them that he dreamed that he had died. He went back to sleep and died in his sleep. He worked for many years at the ole Phenix Cotton Mill — at that time they worked five days and then he spent many weekends as a watchman. He was a very outgoing person and never met a stranger.

Minnie was later confined to a chair unable to use crutches but she cooked, ironed, and did most things any un-crippled person does to raise a big family. Her life couldn't have been easy but she didn't let it get her down. I never heard her speak of it. She died a month before her 80th birthday. Both are buried at Patterson Grove Baptist Church.

Sources: Family knowledge

— Elizabeth Camp Anthony

Luther and Minnie Huffstickler Bridges Family. Seated: Minnie. Standing L to R: Edith, Lillian, Frank, Brunell, Bill, Rob, Clyde.

ARTHUR CLARENCE BROOKS FAMILY

301

Arthur Clarence Brooks (7-19-1893/9-2-1960) was the second son of Benjamin Taylor Brooks and Della Holland Brooks of Cleveland County. On June 3, 1917, he married Ida Matilda Stacy (7-3-1898/12-23-1973) fourth daughter of Julius Emery Stacy and Irena Hesentine Randall Stacy of Rutherford County. (For Ancestors of each, please refer to related articles headed "Ransom Brooks Family" and "Catherine Whitener" Stacy Family" in this book).

The following lists their three daughters and descendants by birth and marriage:

Bernice Burnette Brooks (10-12-1918) married Frank Selby (4-16-1923) of New Windsor, Maryland on July 15, 1946 in Cleveland County. They have one son, Phillip Arthur Selby (4-29-1947) who married Diane Ferguson of Ohio, on June 22, 1972.

Eunice Ruth Brooks (3-8-1922) married Joseph Thomas Hart (6-22-1910/10-13-1977) of Hartsville, South Carolina on May 5, 1955 in York, South Carolina. They have two daughters Laurel Ellen Hart (5-16-1957) and Janet Camille Hart (11-18-1960).

Muriel Wilda Brooks (3-8-1926) married Norman Wayne Edwards (7-15-1927/6-14-1977) of Missouri on September 15, 1947 in Cleveland County. Their children are: Alesia Babette (8-31-1948) who married Robert G. Meyers of Provo, Utah and they have five children: Robert George, Jr. (6-21-1970), Michelle Nicole (7-6-1972), Kristen Alisa (8-29-1974), Candace Lauren (1-3-1977), and Pamela Ann (2-15-1979).

Wilda Elaine (7-15-1951) married Joseph Victor Portner of Thurmont, Maryland and they have one son, Joseph Wayne (5-25-1976).

Brenda Waynette (7-26-1954) married Mario Ayerdis of Anchorage, Alaska and they have one daughter, Anna Maria (4-19-1976).

Barbara Ellen (1-3-1957) married John Trimble of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania and they have one son, Benjamin Allan (4-7-1978).

Loretta Fay (12-12-1958) married Wayne Vanderpool of Maryland.

Norman Wayne, Jr. (9-27-1964/9-28-1964).

Arthur Clarence Brooks received his education at Pleasant Ridge School and the Padgett School both in Cleveland County. Ida Matilda Stacy attended Shiloh School in Rutherford County. After their marriage they lived in the New House Community, north of Lattimore, moved to Shelby in 1928, then, in 1933, they bought a home in Swainsville, six miles west of Shelby, and lived there until their deaths. They are both buried at Pleasant Ridge Baptist Church, Rt. 3, Shelby, North Carolina.

Their three daughters graduated from Lattimore High School, Lattimore, North Carolina with highest honors in their classes.

Arthur Clarence and Ida Matilda Stacy Brooks were both raised as children of farmers. After their marriage, and years of hard work at which they could hardly support their family, they moved to Shelby. Here he found work as a truck driver and he stayed with this same company until he retired.

He loved baseball and heard every game that come over the radio. After television came along, he saw every game shown, if he was at home. Their pleasures were few, but their devotion to their family and the church was great. They were greatly loved by all who knew them.

Sources: Personal memories, Word of Mouth, Family Bibles

— Eunice Ruth Brooks Hart

MALLARD GUY BROOKS, SR. FAMILY

302

Mallard Guy Brooks was born September 17, 1903 as the fifth child and youngest son of Benjamin Taylor and Della Melissa Holland Brooks (For family and ancestors, see related article "Ransom Brooks Family" in this book). He was born and raised in the New House community of Cleveland County. He attended the Padgett School in that community, and then the old Shelby High School, after his family moved to Shelby in the block where the Shelby Junior High School stands now.

In 1928, the family moved to Gastonia, North Carolina where they operated a small cafe.

In 1928, Mallard Guy Brooks went to Charlotte, North Carolina and secured work with the Nehi Bottling Company. It was here that he met and married Lila LeGrand (12-30-1902), daughter of John Henry LeGrand (3-22-1857/3-23-1926) who ran a general merchandizing store, and Emmeline Bladwin LeGrand (/October 1, 1906). The LeGrand's home was at Ellerbe, North Carolina in Richmond County. Their other children were: Lucy Elizabeth (1-22-1893/12-8-1972) who married Berta Goodman; Lola Virginia (7-17-1894/) who married Reid Dawkins; Sally Elmore (7-14-1894/3-4-1975) who married Paul Allen Covington; Bessie Mae (5-25-1898/11-27-1928) who married John Spivey; and Willie Baldwin (2-6-1900/6-28-1935) who married William Shuford Childress (2-17-1893/10-23-1927) on 8-4-1917; a son, not named, born and died of 6-13-1904.

Mallard Guy Brooks and Lila LeGrand were married August 27, 1931 in Charlotte and lived there where he continued his work with the Nehi Company.

In 1932, they moved to Shelby and bought out the Nehi Bottling Company Franchise. This first building was located on South Dekalb Street, but in 1942, a new plant was built on East Marion Street which is still in operation by the Brooks family.

Their children were born and raised in Shelby, attending the Shelby schools; the daughter going to Gardner Webb College and the son attending the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and Appalachian State University at Boone.

They are listed here with their children and grandchildren:

Jacqueline LeGrand Brooks (11-19-1932) was married to Robert Welch Stone on July 9, 1948 and they had five children; one girl, (the first child) died at birth; Robert Welch Stone, Jr. (11-17-1955) married Cathy Henson and they have one son, Isaac Welch (3-26-78) and one daughter Sarah (3-8-81); Terri Brooks Stone (9-7-1957); Jacky Leeanne Stone (12-25-62); and Allyson Anne Stone (2-11-65).

Mallard Guy Brooks, Jr. (5-1-1935) was married to Betty June Hollander on October 10, 1954 and they have two children: Mallard Guy Brooks III (3-20-1956) who married Ann Dorsett Bowers; Mark LeGrand Brooks (3-7-1958) who married Patricia Ann Crawford.

Also, in June of 1935, Mallard Guy and Lila Brooks accepted the responsibility of raising the son and daughter of Lila Brooks' sister, Willie who died that year. The father of the children, William Shuford Childress, had died several years earlier. These children are: Lila Bernice Childress (8-12-1921) who married Robert Mason Latham on June 22, 1941. They have one daughter, Vickie LeGrand Latham (11-30-60); William Shuford (Jimmy) Childress, Jr. (11-4-1923) married Minna Gold (Peggy) Putnam on February 2, 1942. They have one son, Malcolm Shuford (4-17-1948) who married Wanda Bostic.

Mallard Guy Brooks died October 6, 1979 and is buried in Sunset Cemetery in Shelby, North Carolina.

Sources: Family Bible; Cleveland County Census Records; Personal Memories; Word of Mouth

— Lila LeGrand Brooks and Eunice Brooks Hart

RANSOM BROOKS FAMILY

303

Ransom Brooks (1816/), born in Cleveland County, North Carolina, married Frances (Franky) Humphries who was born in 1819 in South Carolina. (Year of death and place of burial are not known.) They lived in the New House section of Cleveland County, as farmers, but owned their land. They had four sons and three daughters; Nancy (1835/), William (1837/), Benjamin (1839/1862), Caroline (1841/), Samuel (1843/1930), Evelina (1845/), and Lawson (1847/).

Three of the sons, William, Samuel and Benjamin enlisted in the Civil War on September 2, 1861, in Rutherford County, but served with Cleveland County's 34th Regiment, Company B, known as "The Sandy Run Yellow Jackets." Benjamin died in camp at Goldsboro, North Carolina on March 15, 1862, and Samuel was wounded at Frazier's Farm and wore a steel plate in his head the rest of his life.

Here, we will trace only the son Samuel, my great grandfather. He was married on December 17, 1863 to Rebecca C. McKinney (6-17-1848/10-8-1908) daughter of Simeon and Letha McKinney of Cleveland County. They had four sons and four daughters; Rachel (1866/1948), Benjamin Taylor (1869/1930), Samuel Columbus (1867/1953), Joseph R. (1879/), James C. (1882/), Phoebe (1885/1973), Otis W. (1887/1974), Rebecca Melissa (1890/).

Samuel Brooks was a tall, very thin man. His wife Rebecca was a tall, large woman, but I am sure that he was the "boss" in the family. There was always a family reunion at their home on his birthday. All relatives and neighbors would attend. Tables were set up outside and food was plentiful.

Here we will trace only Benjamin Taylor, the eldest son of Samuel and Rebecca Brooks, who was my grandfather. He was born December 14, 1869 and died August 31, 1930. A native of Cleveland County, he grew up in the New House community. He was married in 1890 to Mary Cordelia Mellisa Della Holland (4-29-1874/6-23-1936), the daughter of Landrum Lafayette and Martha Potter Holland who had come to Cleveland County from South Carolina. Her brothers and sister were; Perry Morgan, General M. Mattson, John Landrum, James and Laura.

Benjamin Taylor and Della Holland Brooks became the parents of six children; Alonzo Preston (1891/1932), Arthur Clarence (1893/1960), Eury Lester (1896/1946), Vernie Vell Zora (1899/1962), Mallard Guy (1903/1979), and Virgie Willa (1910/1981).

"For related articles on two of the sons, see "Arthur Clarence Brooks Family" and Mallard Guy Brooks, Sr. Family" in this book.)

Benjamin Taylor and Della Brooks lived near New House until about 1927, when they moved to Shelby, then to Gastonia in 1928 where they operated a small cafe until his death there in 1930. Then Della Brooks moved to Charlotte to live with a daughter until her death in 1936. Both are buried at Sandy Plains Baptist Church where they were lifetime members.

Sources: Cleveland County Census Records; Roster of the 15 Militaty Companies of Cleveland County, dated 1861-1865; Personal memories; word of mouth

— Eunice Brooks Hart

BAXTER CLIFFORD BROWN

304

Baxter Clifford Brown, son of William Thomas Brown and Fannie Jane Casey, was born in Shelby, NC, April 23, 1930; married Emiko Miura, Born July 5, 1931 in Beppu Oetaken, Japan.

During World War II, Baxter served in Korea and Japan. He retired from the Army to Miami, Florida and was operating a lounge when he was killed June 19, 1969 by the underground world. He had refused to give payoff money to them, feeling he had served his country and earned the right to have his own business. Baxter is buried in Miami.

Born to Baxter and Emiko were: 1. Junji, January 8, 1950, Beppu Oekaken, Jampa, married Jill Carolyn Mounon, Miami, Florida, March 12, 1978. 2. Jannet, July 17, 1955, Kanagawaken, Japan, married Lyle Jessie Petty, Miami, Florida, June 4, 1978. 3. Maki Ann, August 26, 1956, Fort Bragg, North Carolina. 4. Mary Emiko, July 22, 1962, Fort Dix, New Jersey.

Sources: Family Knowledge

— Mrs. John B. Blanton, Jr.

BOYCE REID BROWN

305

Boyce Reid Brown, son of William Thomas Brown and Fanny Jane Casey was born June 19, 1921 in Caroleen, North Carolina. On July 16, 1941 he married Ola Elizabeth Flynn, born July 31, 1924 to Hubert Lee Hoyle Flynn and Cora Elizabeth Self of Shelby, North Carolina.

Boyce played football for Shelby High School (1935-1939), Appalachian State Teachers College, and Wake Forest College. He was a member of the Cleveland County National Guard (1937). During World War II he served in the Corps of Engineers, earning three battle stars. He retired from the Army in 1962 as a Major. As a civilian he was chief instructor of the Niki X Branch, Missile Support Division, Department of Mechanical and Equipment. He was a member of the Society of American Military Engineers. In addition to English, Boyce spoke German, Russian, Vietnamese, and French, learned from study and service tours in Germany (1947-1950), Alaska (1956) and Viet Nam (1959-1960).

Boyce died December 7, 1972 in El Paso, Texas, and is buried in the National Cemetery there. Ola still lives in El Paso.

Children of Boyce and Ola are: 1. Blyce Reid, Jr., born in Shelby, November 27, 1942; married June 8, 1967 to Lynn Merick, one son Boyce Reid, III, born November 11, 1969, Honolulu, Hawaii, where his Dad is a lawyer. 2. Sandra Gwendolyn, born April 24, 1946, Shelby; married March 2, 1974 in El Paso to Julio Rajos. 3. Donna Elaine, born March 2, 1948, Frankfort, Germany; married June 18, 1975, Ralph Kruegar, daughter Julie Elaine, born November 15, 1977, San Bernadine, Calif. 4. Steven Thomas, born January 30, 1951, Fort Belvoir, Virginia; married October 15, 1974, Judy Lee, daughter Jasmine Lee, born June 15, 1977, El Paso, Texas; son, Steven Thomas, Jr., born February 11, 1979, San Jose, California. 5. Marcus Lee, born June 30, 1962, Fort Belvoir, Virginia. 6. Misty Elizabeth, born March 31, 1966, Fort Belvoir, Virginia.

Sources: Family Knowledge

— Mrs. John S. Blanton, Jr.

GUY BENJAMIN BROWN

306

Guy, son of William Thomas Brown (1887-1955) and Fannie Casey (1884-1959) was born December 12, 1909, Spartanburg County, South Carolina. He was married November 14, 1931 to Eula Seville Blanton, born January 8, 1908 in Cherokee County, South Carolina, daughter of William Pinkney Blanton (1882-1949) and Antoinette Turner.

They had one son, Thomas Eugene, born in Shelby, North Carolina, April 26, 1933. He married Shirley Keever of Charlotte. They had one son, Thomas Eugene, Jr., born November 12, 1955. Thomas Eugene died February 18, 1956 in Charlotte where he is buried.

Guy played football at Shelby High School and Lenoir Rhyne College. He was a member of Cleveland County National Guard. He moved to Charlotte in the 1950's where he owned a small craft shop and worked as a baker for Colonial Stores until his death March 22, 1965. He is buried at Forest Lawn Cemetery. Eula lives on Enderly Drive in Charlotte.

Sources: Family Knowledge

— Mrs. John S. Blanton, Jr.

RAY EVERETT BROWN

307

Ray Everett Brown, son of William Thomas Brown and Gannie Jane Casey, was born September 26, 1913, Union, South Carolina. He died in Chicago, Illinois, May 4, 1974. He is buried at Mount Zion Baptist Church, Cherryville, North Carolina. He married November 26, 1937, Mary Witherspoon, born March 15, 1916 to Don Witherspoon and Margaret Norvell of Murphy, North Carolina. Mary Brown now lives in Durham, North Carolina.

Children of Ray and Mary are: 1. Margaret Witherspoon, born January 15, 1940, Shelby, North Carolina; married Lorand Spyers-Duran, July 1961; daughter Mary Margaret, born February 7, 1962, Chicago, Illinois. 2. Mary Norvell, born April 30, 1943, Chicago, Illinois; married July 1964 to James Kennedy, daughter Kelly Cathleen, born December 24, 1965, Pensacola, Florida; son Kyle Robert, born December 3, 1965, Pensacola, Florida; daughter, Margaret Witherspoon born November 7, 1974, Livermore, California. 3. Barbara Casey, born June 17, 1947, Chicago, Illinois; married December 30, 1967 to William Loveday; a son Alixe Casey, born December 29, 1971, Long Beach, California; a daughter, Michele Brown, born May 8, 1973, Long Beach, Calif. Barbara's second marriage May 1978 was to Larry Ralston.

Ray played football at Shelby High School and Gardner-Webb College. In 1937 he received a Bachelor of Science degree, with a major in economics at the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where he was president of the student body and later assisted in planning and staffing Memorial Hospital there. He was made a member of Phi Beta Kappa honorary fraternity and the Beta Gamma Sigma, an honorary accounting society.

After graduation he returned to Shelby as Cleveland County auditor from 1937 to 1940 and was superintendent of Shelby Hospital from 1940 to 1942. He completed his masters and doctorate in hospital administration at the University of Chicago and then served from 1943 to 1945 as administrator of North Carolina Baptist Hospital, Winston-Salem, North Carolina.

Returning to the University of Chicago (1945-1963) he was superintendent of the Clinics, Director of Graduate program in Hospital Administration, Professor in Graduate School of Business and Vice President of Administration at the University. During this time he was President of the American Hospital Association (1953), President of the American College of Hospital Administrators, and recipient of the distinguished Service Award of the American Hospital Association (1963).

From 1964-1967 he was at Duke University, Durham, North Carolina, as director of the Graduate Program in Hospital Administration and founded the National Forum.

The next three years he was a professor and Executive Vice President of the affiliated Hospital Center, Inc. at Harvard University, Boston, Mass.

From 1970 until his death, he was Executive Vice President of McGraw Medical Center and professor of graduate studies of hospital and health services at Northwestern University, Chicago, Illinois.

Sources: Family Knowledge

— Mrs. John S. Blanton, Jr.

WAYNE LYTLE and BEATRICE WHITWORTH BROWNE FAMILY

308

My father, Wayne Browne, was born in Cherryville on October 8, 1888, the eighth of ten children born to William and Matilda Rhyne Browne. His brothers and sisters were, in order of birth: Frank, Georgia (m. Dr. Tom Goode), John, Ed, Annie (m. John Booker), Mollie (m. Monroe Beam), Will, McBride (Mac), and Hazel.

Mother, Beatrice Lambert Whitworth (more often called 'Beadie'), was the youngest child of John W. and Nancy Putnam Whitworth. She also had nine brothers and sisters: Jim, Margaret (or Maggie, m. Lee Dellinger), Eurie (m. Dan Stroup), Ella (m. John Hord), Mollie (m. Will Hord), Crowder, Maude, Everette and Ausborne. Mother was born on July 24, 1892, at the family home, located at Cleveland County southwest of Waco.

Mother was not attracted to the red-haired, freckled-faced young man at their first meeting. However, she soon became aware of his unique sky-blue eyes. They were married in Waco on November 3, 1912.

Daddy worked for a sawmill the first winter of their marriage, and they lived in a tent near his work. Sometime after that, Daddy began working on the Seaboard Airline Railroad. In April, 1919, while working as a brakeman on the railroad, he fell beneath the train and lost both his feet when the train ran over them. After some days in the hospital, in his delirium he leaped from the bed and landed on one leg. This caused additional injury and more of that leg had to be removed.

There were no rehabilitation programs or centers for the handicapped at that time, but if there had been, any would have been proud to claim Daddy as a product of their work. Mother enjoyed telling how they walked to the top of Chimney Rock sometime after his accident. Others who sat down half-way up the mountain suddenly found new energy when they were passed by this man walking with two artificial legs! He drove a car expertly and some of my earliest memories include Daddy laughingly chasing me. He remarked once while hunting with his grandsons that he couldn't understand why they wanted to go inside to warm — his feet weren't cold!

My parents built their house on Main Street in Waco around 1918 and lived there the rest of their lives. The house was originally painted brown, which prompted jokes about the Brownes living in the brown house. I remember it being painted white about 1935. Main Street was also paved about this time.

Daddy became postmaster in Waco in 1925. A bank building had been built in 1911, and when the bank failed in the early thirties, he acquired this building. Then the post office was moved from a small store building on Main Street to the bank building on Railroad Street, where it remains at the present time. While he was postmaster, he was also station agent for the railroad. Mother often helped in the post office.

Mother originally had dark hair, but her hair turned gray prematurely and she was noted for her beautiful gray hair. She was an avid reader — the Bookmobile stopped regularly at our house for many years. She was a good cook and an exquisite seamstress. But her most visible talent was her ability to grow things. Ours was one of the first (if not the first) yards in Waco to be sown with grass and become a 'lawn.' Her beautiful flowers were given in evidence and for many years her talent for growing and arranging flowers was enjoyed in the Baptist Church in Waco. Because of this, a brass flower container was given to the church in her memory by one of her nieces.

Daddy was an active Mason and member of the Presbyterian Church in Cherryville. At times during the year the family would attend church with Daddy. However, Mother was a member of Waco Baptist Church and their children became active members there. Much of the family's activities centered around school and church. We lived close enough to walk to the operettas, music recitals, plays, sports, cantatas and Christmas programs.

The oldest child, Hal Lytle, was born October 1, 1915. He married Virginia Watts, daughter of Jeff and Kate Webb Watts. Their only child, Patricia (Patti), married Jerri Williams and they have two daughters, Lynn and Stacy. Hal was a conductor on the Seaboard Railroad when he died suddenly in 1968. Except for his college years, he lived in Cleveland County all his life. He is buried in Cleveland Memorial Cemetery.

Their second child, Nancy Ruth, was born November 14, 1921, in the new house. Nancy lived only four days and is buried in Capernaum Cemetery, about two miles south of Waco.

Ruby Jean, born October 16, 1923, married Hugh Randall, son of Alec and Ethel Randall of Cleveland County. They have one child, Nancy. Jean taught first grade for thirty one years. Hugh recently retired as Superintendent of City Schools of Hendersonville City Schools.

The youngest child, Doris Jane, born August 12, 1926, married Cline Borders, son of Mike L. and Dona Cline Borders. Their children are: Cline Jr. (m. Jonina Swingle); Timothy (m. Paulette Fincher), two children, Lana and Melissa; Cheryl Jean; Daniel Browne. Doris is a past-president of the North Carolina Ministers' Wives and in 1968 became the first woman to be elected to the Cleveland County Board of Education. Cline became a Baptist minister and is presently Director of Missions of Kings Mountain Baptist Association.

Daddy died at the age of 79 in 1968. Mother was 79 at the time of her death in 1971. Both of them are buried at Capernaum. The family home burned about two years after Mother's death.

Sources: Family records and personal knowledge

— Doris Browne Borders

WILLIAM THOMAS BROWN

309

W.T. Brown, son of Marion Benjamin Brown and Mary Leticia Horne (1872-1963), daughter of James Bartley Horne (1850-1919) and Julia Pricilla Hardin (1856-1898), was born November 30, 1887 at Cross Anchor, Spartanburg county, South Carolina. He married around 1907 Fannie Jane Casey, born also at Cross Anchor on May 12, 1884 to Thomas Henry Casey (1856-1921) and Mary Jane Fowler (1857-1927).

He attended Boiling Springs High School, Boiling Springs, North Carolina. At that time there were five children born in South Carolina: Guy Benjamin (1909-1965), Thomas Frank (1912-1926), Ray Everett (1913-1974), Ruth Audrey (1915-1959), and Mary Louise (1919-). To help support the large family several boarders were kept. Boarders remembered were C.C. Horne, "Pop" Simmons, and Jesse Bridges. Two children were born later, Boyce Reid (1921-1972) and Rachel Annette (1924-). A pastorage at Mount Zion Baptist Church, Cherryville, North Carolina, he continued ministerial study at Wake Forest College, Wake Forest, North Carolina, graduating in 1927.

Three children were born in Wake County: Eunice (1925-), Edwin Robert (1925-1926) and William Thomas, Jr. (1927-1973). Three children died in Wake County and were buried at Mount Zion Baptist Church, Cherryville, North Carolina: Eunice, Edwin Robert and Thomas Frank.

He was pastor of several church while living at Bunn, North Carolina. Even though the community was most supportive with poundings and the family members supplemented by picking cotton and delivering papers, W.T. decided to return to Cleveland County.

The family moved to Shelby in 1929, living first in South Shelby behind Cameron Morrison and beside Marvin Blanton and it was there Boxter Cliffor (1939-1969) was born. Later, when working at Ella Mill, the family lived at 206 Earl Road.

W.T. Brown served as assistant pastor at Second Baptist Church taught the Men's Bible Class, led the Baptist Young People's Union, and was visiting minister for many Cleveland County Church revivals. He retired from active ministry in 1947.

In 1943 he moved to Mecklenburg County, North Carolina, to be near his eldest son, Guy. There he taught the Thomasboro Baptist Church Men's Bible Class.

He died in Charlotte September 26, 1955, and Fannie died March 25, 1959. Both were buried at Mount Zion Baptist Church, Cherryville, North Carolina.

For information on their children see related articles: Guy married Eula Blanton, Rey E. married Mary Witherspoon, Ruth married Wade Ferguson, Louise married John S. Blanton, Jr., Boyce R. married Ola E. Flynn, Rachel married Samuel High, William Thomas, Jr. married Pat , Baxter C. married Emiko Miura.

Sources: Personal knowledge, birth certificates, newspaper clippings, and answers of questionnaire from family members.

— Mrs. Louise Brown Blanton

WILLIAM THOMAS BROWN, JR.

310

William Thomas Brown, Jr. (Buck), son of William Thomas Brown and Fannie Casey Brown, was born May 22, 1927 in Wake County, North Carolina. He married Pat M. of Greenville, South Carolina. They were divorced after the birth of their two children:

1. Donnis, was married to Mike Garrett
2. Willetta, was married to Denny Pennington

"Buck" attended No. 3 High School, Cleveland County. He played professional baseball in Greenville, South Carolina. During World War II, he served in Korea. He worked as a commercial fisherman out of Florida and Texas. He died April 1, 1973 at Port Arthur, Texas. His ashes were scattered over the Gulf of Mexico. A memorial stone is at Mount Zion Baptist Church, Cherryville, North Carolina.

Sources: Family Knowledge

— Mrs. John S. Blanton, Jr.

BRYDGES-HOPPER

311

Thomas Hendrick was born about the year 1774. He lived in Virginia near Fairfax courthouse, in or adjoining Mecklenburg County.

He married Miss Mary (Polly) Newton of that place. About the year 1800 he came to Cleveland county, then known as Rutherford county, to purchase land for a new home for himself and family. He died on his return trip to Virginia. However, a few months later, his widow with her four children and son-in-law, George Royester, moved to Rutherford county, now known as Cleveland county.

William (Bill) Hendrick (17 -1859) was the third child of Thomas Hendrick and Mary Newton Hendrick. He was born in Virginia. He married Miss Charity Love of Shelby, who was a sister to James Love. She was born 1805 and died July 21, 1884. She was buried at Double Shoals by the side of her husband. They had eight children. Their first child, Mary Ann (Polly) Hendrick (September 19, 1823 — April 12, 1885) married Thomas Wilson (1821 — August 12, 1872), a brother of Crocket and Joe Wilson. They settled on the west side of what is now known as North Lafayette Street in Shelby; it became known as the John W. Hopper "old homestead" or "Hopper's Park." They had two children, Sarah Ann Eliza and Charity Margaret. Sarah Ann Eliza (November 3, 1842 — October 8, 1899) was first married to Anonymous London, and they had two children who died in infancy. Anonymous died in the Confederate War (December 16, 1864).

Mary Ann Hopper & Rev. Joseph Bunyan Brydges. Wedding Day, April 5, 1899.

Eliza Wilson married a second time to Mr. T.S. Putnam. They had two children; S.C. (died in infancy) and T.W.M. (Marion).

T.S. died in 1870 from tuberculosis due to exposure while in service during the Confederate War.

Eliza Wilson married a third time to John W. Hopper, (July 8, 1852 — March 26, 1915) son of John Alexander Hopper (1815-1892) and Julia Ann Harry (1818-1892), and they had six children: An infant who died March 9, 1872, Major (August 22, 1875 — February 5, 1953), John W. (July 21, 1876 — August 8, 1901), Margaret Mary Ann (November 14, 1878 — March 10, 1956), Eliza Vedella (November 10, 1883 — January 24, 1900), Stough Hopper (September 15, 1881 — March 1, 1942).

John Hopper was known as Irish John Hopper because of his quick Irish temper; also as the man with six names, John William Burton Philmore Henry Clay. His six older sisters had each picked a name for him.

Mary Ann Hopper, the fourth child of Eliza and John W. Hopper, was married to Jasper Bunyan Brydges (J. Bun) on April 5, 1899, son of Thomson Wallace Brydges (February 9, 1843 — December 1, 1912) and Patience Durham, (March 12, 1840 — December 31, 1879). He was born August 6, 1875 and died January 6, 1921.

The first time Mary Ann saw J. Bun, he was preaching at Ross Grove Church. When they became interested in each other, her brothers did not approve of him as they thought he was a Republican. It was only after he brought letters to them from some prominent Democrats of Shelby that he was allowed to call on her. She told her children that when she was a little girl, she actually believed that if you were not a Baptist and a Democrat, you would surely go to Hell when you died. During their early married life he preached one Sunday a month at four different churches and taught school through the week.

They had eight children:

1. Marion Harold (March 12, 1900 — January 24, 1928) married Katie Ruth Housman of Texas. They had two children: Marion Harold Jr. (July 21, 1946) and Betty Ruth, who died February 24, 1928.

2. Anna Ruth (April 12, 1902) married Clarence M. Morrison of Shelby. They had three children: Sarah Margaret (September 30, 1925), Charles Avery (June 8, 1927 — June 27, 1927), Carl Lee (June 21, 1929).

3. Eliza Frances (January 7, 1904) married Robert Hubbard Hamrick of Shelby. There are two children: Mary Lucinda (June 29, 1927), Ada Ruth (January 31, 1933).

4. Irma Hortense (July 26, 1905) married William Albert Grayson of Bostic, N.C. They had four children: Margaret Gwendolyn (December 21, 1926 — January 12, 1947), William Albert Jr. (July 15, 1928), Julia Irene (March 13, 1931 — May 9, 1933), Jasper Glenn (July 25, 1934).

5. Jasper Bunyan Jr. (August 6, 1907 — July 17, 1981) married Nellie Fay Smith of Shelby. There is one child, Charles Hartwell, (May 15, 1937). He was married a second time to Helen Harding of Yadkinville, N.C.

6. Mary Irene (July 29, 1909) married Alfred William Pett of Providence, R.I. There are three children: Mary Irene (April 26, 1934), Ruth Eva (May 23, 1937), Alfred William Jr. (June 3, 1946).

7. Harlan Shumaker (August 4, 1911) married Azalea Blanton of Shelby. There is one child — Mary Alice (May 6, 1936).

8. Margaret Ray (November 4, 1915) married Neil Goldsmith of West Virginia. There is one child — Linda Ray (July 21, 1944).

Mary Ann Hopper Brydges was kind, thoughtful and generous and the most courageous woman I have ever known.

Sources: From family records — mostly from Frances Brydges Hamrick and Robert Hubbard Hamrick.

— Mrs. Irene Pett

THE WILLIAM BUMGARDNER FAMILY

312

Preacher John Bumgardner b. April 6, 1817 d. April 8, 1890 m. Jemima Pruett b. September 18, 1823 d. October 7, 1899. Their children were Dave, killed in the Civil War, Edie Ledford, William, Wheeler, Katie Buff, Webb, Amos, Gaither, Lewis, and Fannie Crotts.

William Bumgardner b. November 17, 1845 d. March 27, 1927 and Susan Newton b. February 19, 1848 d. April 2, 1942 were married February 18, 1866 at the home of Preacher Hullender. William, who had entered the Civil War with the 18 yr. olds, had just returned from the war where he served four years with Co. F 55 N.C. Inf. CSA. He was reluctant to talk about the war because so many of his friends were killed.

William and Susan had eleven children. Dove Swofford b. March 1, 1868 d. September 5, 1950; Sarahann Navey b. June 22, 1870 d. February 3, 1938; Amanda Newton b. March 30, 1873 d. February 12, 1948; John F. b. March 15, 1875 d. November 1, 1940; Mary Proctor b. January 17, 1877 d. October 10, 1935; Etter Hoyle b. February 20, 1879 d. February 10, 1973; Benjamin T. b. September 25, 1880 d. February 11, 1968; Rosie Ramsey b. December 14, 1882 d. October 13, 1952; Cary Propst b. January 29, 1885 d. July 23, 1980; Bessie Conner b. March 29, 1887 d. May 5, 1965, and Texie Wortman b. July 12, 1890.

Source: Zion Cemetery; Bible

— Sue P. Wells

William & Susan Newton Bumgardner.

WILLIAM and SUSAN NEWTON BUMGARDNER FAMILY

313

William Bumgardner was born November 17, 1845 near Casar. Susan Newton Bumgardner was born 1848 near Casar. William was the son of the Rev. John Bumgardner b. 1818 and wife (m. August 15, 1838) Jemima Pruitt Bumgardner b. 1824 and the grandson of Louis Bumgardner. Susan was the daughter of B.B. "Captain Ben" Newton and his wife Millie Norman Newton.

William Bumgardner had the following brothers and sisters: Webb, married Lynn Hudson; Wheeler; David; Albert, married Ellen Ferguson; Louis, married Della Chapman; Gaither; Amos; Edith, married Fred Ledford; Sally, married Joe Buff; Fanny, married Edgar Crotts; and Kate, married Edgar Buff.

Susan Newton Bumgardner had the following brothers and sisters: Thomas, married Mary Elmima White; Robert, married Sarah M. White; B. Frank; John A., married Ellen Canipe; Sarah, married Henry Bumgardner, Mary, married Emanuel Crotts, II.

William and Susan Bumgardner made their home near Zoar Baptist Church, Casar, North Carolina. They had the following children: Dovie Frances born March 1, 1868, married Joseph Martin Swofford on January 6, 1884, Dovie died September 5, 1950 and Joseph died January 21, 1934; Sarah Ann married Joshua Navy; Amanda married Melvin Newton, son of Rev. B. Frank; John Franklin married Catherine Handcock; Benjamin married Leila Newton, daughter of Andrew J.; Mary married Andrew Proctor, son of Samuel; Etta married Peter Hoyle, son of William H. and Hilda Buff Hoyle; Rosa married Edgar Ramsey; Carrie married James O. Propst, son of Albert W. and Mary Hudson Propst; Bessie married John Connor; and Texie married Charlie A. Wortman, son of John and Sarah Wright Wortman.

William and Susan Newton Bumgardner were married February 18, 1866. They are buried in the Casar Baptist Church Cemetery.

Sources: Family Knowledge

— Elizabeth S. Cofer

ROBERT JONES BURTON

314

Robert Jones Burton was born in Bethel, North Carolina on January 8, 1918 to Cleveland Manning Burton and Cecil Jones Burton. He served as a captain in the United States Marine Corps during World War II. Following his discharge from the USMC in 1946 he served as a Special Agent of the Federal Bureau of Investigation until his death in Garden City, New York on February 8, 1964.

On August 4, 1945 in Shelby, North Carolina, Robert married Betty Ann Lutz, daughter of Roscoe Eli Lutz and Mary Jane Austell Lutz. They had three sons.

The oldest of these son is Robert Jones Burton, Jr. (b. May 22, 1946). He married Hilda Meyers of Laurel Springs, North Carolina. They have one son, Michael Patrick Burton (b. May 22, 1969). They live in Cincinnati, Ohio.

The other two sons are William Lutz Burton (Bill) born in Charlotte, N.C. March 16, 1951, and Cecil Manning Burton born in Flushing, New York on October 3, 1954. Bill and Cecil live in Shelby.

Following the death of Robert, Betty and their three sons moved to Shelby. She is a teacher at Shelby Junior High School.

Sources: Family knowledge

— Betty Lutz Burton

CHARLES I. CABANISS and DESCENDANTS

315

Charles I. Cabaniss was born February 17, 1856, in Cleveland County. The Cabaniss family originated in France; however, soon after the revocation of the Edict of Nantes in 1685, the family fled to Switzerland, then to Rotterdam, Holland, and from there to London, England. Henry Cabaniss, his wife, and possibly a child, left London aboard the ship Mary and Ann "in search of religious freedom and political sanctuary in the new world." The party arrived at the mouth of the James River in Virginia on July 23, 1700, after a thirteen weeks passage. Henry had three sons; the third son, George, migrated from Virginia to Rutherford County (now Cleveland) about 1806. He became an extensive landowner and was one of a committee of six representing the eastern portion of Rutherford County, who prepared, circulated, and presented a petition to the 1840 General Assembly, asking that a new county be formed. The result was the formation of Cleveland County in 1841. The descendants of George Cabaniss have a yearly reunion at Zion Baptist Church in July.

Charles I. Cabaniss was the sixth of nine children of Athel Montcalm Cabaniss, born March 13, 1822, in Shelby and died March 5, 1900; and Perthenie Elizabeth Elliott, born May 22, 1826, in Rutherford County (now Cleveland) and died on December 13, 1918. Athel Montcalm was enlisted in the Cleveland Guards, Company D, 55th Regiment, in October 1860 and was discharged in 1864 as a First Lieutenant, Army of the Confederate States of America. They are buried in Zion Baptist Church Cemetery.

Charles I. was married on April 13, 1881, by Rev. A.C. Irvin to Mary Hester Harrill, born May 24, 1862, daughter of Nathaniel S. and Susanna Lovelace Harrill. (The Harrills are buried in Beaver Dam Church Cemetery.) Charles and Hester built a home on Brushy Creek, northwest of Shelby, on land that had been her "dowry." Several extra rooms, including an upstairs, was added later as the family grew. They were members of Zion Baptist Church where they were active and very influential. Mr. Cabaniss was one of the most substantial farmers in the county. His obituary stated that "his life was one of usefulness, and he was held in highest esteem in his community and town for his exemplary character and noble deeds." Mr. Cabaniss died unexpectedly of a heart condition at age seventy-six on February 13, 1920, at his home.

Mrs. Cabaniss was a beautiful woman of regal stature with a delightful wit which made her a favorite with all. A treasured family heirloom is a tapestry she received in school which reads, "To Hester Harrill for the most headmarks." She died January 19, 1939, of a heart attack. She and her husband are buried in Zion Church Cemetery. There were six children: Precious Bessie born May 14, 1882, died December 26, 1963, married September 27, 1908, Audley M. Lattimore born November 21, 1882, and died June 17, 1955; Willie Clyde born July 23, 1883, and died February 12, 1948; Mont Glenn born March 2, 1884, died September 15, 1967, married December 19, 1909; Bessie Jane Horn born April 29, 1886, died November 17, 1980; Lottie Sue born May 37, 1887, died May 11, 1977; Lee Nathaniel born May 2, 1900, died September 17, 1964, married Susie Gold born Aug. 25, 1896; Ollie Blance born December 18, 1893, and died July 1, 1944. The only survivor at this writing is a daughter-in-law, Mrs. Lee N. (Susie) Cabaniss, Hwy. 226, Shelby. Descendants include six grandchildren, eleven great-grandchildren and nineteen great-great grandchildren.

Sources: Henry Cabaniss and His Descendants, interviews with family members, and family records

— Vernie C. Piercy (Mrs. Brooks E.)

GEORGE TURNER CABANISS

316

George Turner Cabaniss (b. 29 November 1890 d. 30 January 1982), a native of Cleveland County, was the son of Thomas Poole and Laura Gold Cabaniss. When Turner was born, his greatest heritage was farmlife and religious ardor. He spent most of his ninety-one years cultivating the two.

Zion Baptist Church and the surrounding community, as well as the whole of Cleveland County, have reaped the benefits of his toil.

Through the years he has performed many tasks and served in many offices in his church "I've done just about everything except preach; I even conducted a few funerals back during the big 'flu' epidemic," he once said.

A retired farmer, he was a tax lister for Cleveland County for forty years and served as registrar for the Double Springs precinct. He was a member of Zion Baptist Church, where he was a deacon, a Sunday school teacher for twenty-five years, superintendent for fifteen years and church clerk for sixty years. He was president of the alumni association, a graduate of Piedmont Boarding School, and a mason at Camp Call Lodge 534.

On November 24, 1915, he married Bryte Beam (b. 2 September 1897; d. 16 December 1972), daughter of William Joe (Joseph) and Etta Ford Beam and great-great-great-granddaughter of John Teeter Beam of Hamburg Germany, who landed in Charleston, South Carolina, in 1767 and settled in Cleveland County, North Carolina. Bryte Beam's parents died; she was adopted by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas S. Wilkins of Shelby. In 1963 Bryte was nominated as Cleveland County's mother of the year by the County Home Demonstration Club Council. She was a devoted wife and mother and was admired and respected by her many friends.

From this union there were ten children: Elizabeth (Mrs. Kenneth H. Blanton), employee of Cleveland Memorial Hospital lives in Lattimore; Sarah (Mrs. Raymond E. Johnson), employed at Home Health Agency lives in Oak Ridge, Tennessee; Joseph E. Cabaniss, President of First Federal Savings and Loan, Shelby, North Carolina, married Norma Farmer of Blue Field, West Virginia; Robert G. Cabaniss, owner of Cabaniss Insurance Company, Shelby, North Carolina, married Evelyn Woodall; Doris married Ralph Wright, lives in Indian Harbor Beach, Florida; George T. Cabaniss, Jr. is an employee of Fiber Industries of Shelby, is married to Janis McSwain; Hal Cabaniss, employed at Eagle Roller Mill in Shelby, wife Martha Green Cabaniss; Carolyn (Mrs. Robert P. Diehl) lives in Raleigh; Brenda (Mrs. Steve Curtis) is a teacher in the Cleveland County School System, and lives in Shelby.

George Turner and Bryte Beam Cabaniss on their 50th Wedding Anniversary.

Sources: family Bible; article by Martha Mason (Times) obituary (Star)

— Mrs. Kenneth Bridges

THE CABANISS FAMILY

317

The Cabaniss family came to America in the year 1700 by way of London England, with a group of men, women, and a few children. They were members of a group of French Hougenot Party who were seeking political sanctuary and religious freedom of which the French government had denied them. They were headed for the mouth of the James River in the state of Virginia. The party landed on July 23, 1700 after a long hard journey in the good ship "Mary Ann."

These records have been researched and proven to be correct from records of the Virginia Historical Society of "Prince George County;" from deeds, court records, Bible records and personal memory of people living at the time the history was written.

Henry Cabaniss was a leader of the group. He was a member of the Reformed Church of France, and a very religious man.

The group had been given a land grant by the Queen and they were able to set up a small settlement and get started living in their new found land. Henry had with him his wife and small child named Henry. Later, two other children were born; namely, Matthew and George. The Cabaniss family spread out into Virginia and down into the Carolinas. George was the one who came to Rutherford County, North Carolina, in the year 1806 and he is the father of most all North Carolina Cabanisses. He was a surveyor and helped a group of men form and separate Cleveland County from Rutherford County in the year 1846.

It was grandfather George who settled and raised the family on the banks of the "First Broad" river where he owned and cultivated lots of land. His son Montcalm Cabaniss, a member of the fifth generation, born in 1822 — d. 1900 in Shelby, Cleveland County was the grand and great-grandfather of most of the families in Cleveland County. He enlisted in the Cleveland Guards Arms of the Confederacy in 1860 and was discharged in 1864 as a first Lieutenant. In 1865 he married Elizabeth Elliott. They raised nine children. He was a farmer and an extensive land owner. He and grandmother raised their family of six boys and three girls in the "Zion Church" community. Many of the family still own and live on the land that he settled his family on, which is Number 7 township in Cleveland County.

Both grandparents are buried in Zion Church Cemetery and so are many members of their family. Each year in July the Cabaniss families gather at Zion Church for a reunion in honor of our forefathers and to keep alive the kinship we have enjoyed over the years.

Their children were: Willie Minor Cabaniss, who married Thomas Franklin Green, (b. 1848; d. 1894 at Cedar Hill Texas). Essley E. Cabaniss (b. 1850; d. 1929) who married Lillian Beatty. William A. Cabaniss (b. 1852; d. 1909) who married Margaret Botts. Joe T. Cabaniss (b. 1853; d. 1888) who married Paethie Washburn. Parmelia Jane Cabaniss (b. 1855; d. 1935) who married Charlie Blanton. Charles Cabaniss (b. 1856; d. 1920) who married Hester Harrill. Thomas Poole Cabaniss (b. 1860; d. 1942) who married Laura Gold. Mary Elizabeth Cabaniss (b. 1863; d. 1903) who married Gus Borders. Frank Cabaniss (b. 1860; d. 1939) who married Katie Lattimore.

This is intended to be an abbreviated record of the fifth generation of the descendants of George Cabaniss, who migrated to Shelby, Cleveland County, North Carolina, about 1806. Hopefully the dates are correct.

Sources: Family knowledge

— Mrs. Robert Hawkins

DR. JAMES WILLIAM CABANISS

318

Dr. James William Cabaniss was born August 2, 1807, son of George and Jane (Jincy) Elliott Cabaniss who immigrated from Mecklenburg County, Virginia, to Rutherford County, N.C. which is now a part of Cleveland County, N.C. Jincy was the oldest daughter of Martin Elliott and Anne Finch Elliott who immigrated to North Carolina from Virginia at the same time.

James William Cabaniss entered Transylvania Medical University, Lexington, Kentucky November 12, 1832.

On November 26, 1835 he and Elizabeth Donoho Elliott, daughter of John Crenshaw Elliott and Mary Donoho Elliott were married by the Rev. Drury Dobbins. They moved on March 16, 1837 to their new home on the main public road leading from Rutherfordton to Lincolnton (Location two miles west of Polkville, N.C.).

Eleven children were born to Dr. James William Cabaniss and Elizabeth Elliott Cabaniss. Seven of the children either died at birth or in early childhood. The other children were: Louisa Yandel Cabaniss born September 13, 1839 and married Francis Marion Stockton July 23, 1857. They had eight children: Charles D. Stockton who died at age one; John J. Stockton married Martha Hord; Esther E. Stockton married Julius Gettys; William Worth Stockton married Della Robbins; Jesse F. Stockton married Ida Walker; Virginia Ann Stockton married Oliver Beam Elliott; Nancy Lucy Stockton married Amos Jones and Mary Jane Stockton married D.M. Davis. Mary Slade Cabaniss was born July 26, 1844. She never married and lived with her parents. Western Carolina Cabaniss born March 25, 1846 married John A. Finch May 4, 1871 and moved to Eagle Lake, Texas August 8, 1871. They had one daughter, Bessie Jane Finch who married Walter Ben Welhousen, and had one son, Ben Byars Welhousen, Corrinah Elizabeth Cabaniss born November 26, 1848 never married and made her home with her parents.

Dr. James William Cabaniss was a practicing physician; joined the Methodist Episcopal Church July 25, 1845; appointed Deputy Marshall for the year 1850 by Col. George Little, United States Marshall for the District of North Carolina, and took the first census of Cleveland County that year: Free Inhabitants 8,636, Negroes 1,747, Federal Pop. 10,383.

He served on the School Committee 1857 for District No. 9 for Cleveland County, North Carolina, along with J.E. Lattimore, and W.M. Elliott and engaged the services of A.B. Grigg as the teacher of the school for that District. John R. Logan was Chairman of the Common Schools for the county.

Dr. Cabaniss kept a notebook or diary in which he recorded births, deaths and happenings. The notes in the diary are written in beautiful script and legible although the pages are yellow with age. He was a well educated man often writing quotations in Latin and translating them in English. He also wrote quotations from Walter Scott's "Lady of the Lake" and from Shakespeare. The following excerpts are taken from this diary which is dated 1850:

"Friday the 14th of January, at night, commence snowing, and fell to the depth of six inches. Precisely about the same time on the next Friday, the 13th, the same month, it snowed again, and it fell to the depth of 13 inches — some day 15 inches. This was in the winter 1856.

Again on the 26 of the same month and the same year, it fell to the depth of six inches more. The ground than being covered by the 3rd one to the depth of two and three inches. 1856.

Just 8 days from the falling of the 3rd another, the 4th, fell to the depth of 4 to 5 inches. This is one of the hardest winters we have had for the last 40 years. February 26, 1857."

"Receipt for Making Blackberry Wine"

"The berries should be placed in a vessel and well mashed — let them ferment 12 hours, then strain, and to every 3 quarts of juice add 3 lbs. of brown sugar and quart cold water, stir well, then let it stand and ferment, taking the froth often until the fermentation ceases which will last about 18 or 20 hours — the liquid then must be carefully strained, taking out all the sediment. Place the wine in jugs, cork it tight; let it thus remain 'till the March, when it would be carefully poured off, and bottled for use. July 1st 1859." J.W.C.

"Blacking"

Snuff bottle nearly full of soot. Put in a good drink of whiskey, same quantity vinegar, shake well and it will make first rate, glossy blacking. Try it!"

"Cure for the Itch"

"One oz. of sulphuric acid to one of hogs lard, rubbed on the skin several times, and taking a small dose of Epson Salts every other day, and light diet, will cure the above named troublesome and harrassing complaint. The acid and lard must be rubbed up in a mortar."

October 12, 1861 — "I was taken with a severe chill on Sunday, and afterwards succeeded by fever. The next day I had a sore throat and bronchitis, and was confined to my bed until 22 day of June, 1862, when I put in the carriage and rode out without any inconvenience or making me sick." J.W. Cabaniss — "Died at his residence in Cleveland County on the 28th of September, 1862 — Dr. James W. Cabaniss in the 55th year of his age — He sleeps in Jesus." Written by a relative in Dr. James W. Cabaniss' Book "1850." Died at her residence in Cleveland County, N.C. on the 7 day of July, 1873 Mrs. Elizabeth E. Cabaniss — age 64 years.

They are buried near their old homestead on the Lincoln — Rutherfordton Road.

Source: Dr. James William Cabaniss' Book 1850.

— Mary Gordon Elliott

JOE TURNER CABANISS FAMILY

319

Joe Turner Cabaniss (b. 4 Oct. 1888 — d. 17 Jul. 1973) was the youngest child born to William Athel Cabaniss (b. 12 Apr. 1852 — d. 9 Sept. 1909) and Margaret (Maggie) Botts Cabaniss. He grew up in the Zion Church Community, Cleveland County.

On 2 Nov., he drove his horse and buggy to the home of Gertrude Mae (Gertie) Beam (b. 17 Apr. 1895 — d. 24 June 1965) where he took her as his bride on that Sunday afternoon. Gertie's father was C. Columbus Beam (1860-1938), son of Joshua and Susan Heavner Beam, grandson of the pioneer John Teter Beam.

Gertrude's mother, Jenny Elizabeth Baker (1864-1951), was the daughter of Allen and Elizabeth Plonk Baker.

Joe Cabaniss was a master mechanic. He and Gertie were life long residents of Cleveland County and members of the Baptist church. Both are buried in Zion Church cemetery, along with four young sons. Two of the boys were stillborn and unnamed; the other two were: Columbus Earl Cabaniss (b. 6 Nov. 1918 — d. 9 Jan. 1919), and Joseph Mills Cabaniss (b. 3 Aug. 1917) who died on 20 Jan. 1918, eleven days after his brother's death.

Buford Lawson (Boots) Cabaniss was their oldest child (1914-1973). In 1940, he married Eva Brathel Abernathy (1912-1972), of Newton, NC. They continued to live in that area where they reared their two children: Nancy Gertrude (Judy) Cabaniss (b. 1940). She married Charles Luther Perrell of Morganton, N.C. Their three children are: Kelly Cabaniss Perrell, (b. 1967); Paige Wiseman Perrell (b. 1969); and Charles Luther (Pepper) Perrell (b. 1972). They are now residing in Charlotte, N.C.

Thier other child is Buford Lawson (Buddy)

Cabaniss (b. 1943). In 1965, he married Mary Ann Isenhour of Newton, N.C. They have three children: Laura Ann Cabaniss (b. 1966); Amy Michelle Cabaniss (b. 1969); and Buford Lawson (Boots) Cabaniss III, (b. 1973).

Joe and Gertie's fourth child was Margaret Jane Cabaniss (b. 1920) who married William Leland Gardner (b. 1918). They live in Georgetown, Texas and have two children, William Leland and Margaret Jane. William Leland Gardner, Jr. (b. 1948) married Elizabeth Strain. They live in Bryan, Texas and have two daughters: Jessica Lee (b. 1977) and Katherine Jeanne (Katy) (b. 1980). Their second child, Margaret Jane Gardner, (b. 1952), married Michael Lee Dukes (b. 1951). Their three children are: Timothy Gardner (b. 1976), Daniel Lee Decker (b. 1977) and Stephanie Jane (b. 1980).

Cance Juanita Cabaniss (b. 1923) first married James D. Minton of N. Wilkesboro, N.C. Their only child was a daughter, Melloney Maria Minton (b. 1947), married Richard Garland Jones of Norfolk, Va. Richard Garland (Ricky) Jones, Jr. (b. 1966) was their only child. Melloney's second marriage was to William E. Randolph, III, of Las Vegas, Nevada. Cance's second marriage was to John Stephen Marcoux of Boston, Mass.

Gertrude Eugenia (Jeanne) Cabaniss (b. 1925 — d. 1973) was first married to Jack K. Whitaker of Hendersonville, N.C. They also had three children: Brenda Joyce Whitaker (b. 1948); Deborah Jeanne Whitaker (b. 1951) and William Calvin Whitaker (b. 1951). Brenda first married Charles Edward Rhodes, Jr. of Vienna, Va. and they have two children: Michelle Reneigh (b. 1966) and Michael Gene (b. 1968). Her second marriage was to Charles Richard Campbell (b. 1948) of Pittsburgh, Pa. Their son is Jason Robert (b. 1971).

Deborah Whitaker's first marriage was to Kenneth E. Rhodes, and they have two daughters: Tana Michelle (b. 1971) and Brett Christina (b. 1974). Her second marriage was to James Michael Earman of Arlington, Va. Their daughter, Margaret Denise (Maggie) was born 1969. Jeanne's second marriage was to Bob Pond of Washington, DC.

Joe Turner Cabaniss, Jr. (b. 1927) was married to Mableen Self (b. 1928). Their three daughters were born in Shelby, N.C.: Mae Kathleen (b. 1954), Connie (b. 1956) and Crystal (b. 1959). Their son, Chris (b. 1962) was born in Orlando, Fla. Mae Kathleen (Cathy) married Richard Graham Merrill (b. 1954) of Hendersonville, N.C. They have two children: Emily Kathleen (b. 1978) and Mark Richard Merrell (b. 1980). Connie Cabaniss married Dale Edwin Willis (b. 1954). Crystal is unmarried. Chris Cabaniss, married Linda Faye Garrison (1961) of Lincolnton, N.C.

Nell Ann Cabaniss (b. 1931) was first married to Dwight Crane and they had one daughter, Donna Jo Crane (b. 1946). Donna's first marriage was to Clayton Williams and they had three sons: Henry Lewis (Hank), Clayton Scott, and Timothy Dean. Her second marriage was to Albert Bruce Leatherman and they have a daughter, Kimberly Hope (b. 1977). Nell's second marriage was to Louis Throckmorton of Mt. Airy, NC. Their two children are:

Lewis Earl and Lou Ann. Lewis Earl (b. 1951), married Roberta Gayle McManus of Monroe, N.C. Their daughter is Tara Shane. Lou Ann Throckmorton (b. 1961) married Billy Joe Mills, Jr. and they have a son Billy Joe Mills, III.

The last child born to Joe and Gertie was Charles William Cabaniss (Bill), (b. 1933), who married Sarah Margaret Hull of Memphis, Tenn. Their daughter Jane Ellen was born in 1961; and their son, Charles Douglas was born in 1963. Bill and his family live in Marion, Illinois.

Sources: Family Bible, personal knowledge

— Mableen S. Cabaniss

THE MONT GLENN and BESSIE HORN CABANISS FAMILY

320

Mont Glenn Cabaniss is a seventh generation descendant of Henry Cabaniss, a Huguenot who fled France in the Seventeenth century. He is a direct descendant of George Cabaniss who migrated from Virginia to Rutherford County (now Cleveland) about 1806 (see Charles I. Cabaniss and Descendants).

Mont Glenn was born in Cleveland County on March 2, 1885, one of six children of Charles I. Cabaniss, (born February 7, 1856, and died February 13, 1920), and Mary Hester Harrill (born May 24, 1862, and died January 19, 1939). Mont was named for his grandfather, Athel Montcalm.

Mont Glenn attended school in the Cabaniss School, located just behind his parents' home. He married Bessie Jane Horn, daughter of James Alexander ("Cobb") Horn (see James Alexander Horn and His Descendants), and Loucreasa Lattimore Horn on December 19, 1909. They began housekeeping on a farm near the home of her parents on Brushy Creek where their first child, Vernie Louise, was born on March 20, 1914

In 1914 they moved to the Double Shoals area near Bessie's parents. In 1917 they built a modern home on Highway #226, north of Shelby, on land known as the Poston property, which was deeded to them as a wedding gift by her father. On January 13, 1918, their son, Charles Clay was born.

Mr. Cabaniss was a landowner and a farmer, growing mostly cotton with the help of tenant farmers. He was tall, erect, soft-spoken, and unassuming. His judgment was well respected, his integrity unquestioned, and his counsel was sought in community and especially in church affairs. He was a member of Zion Baptist Church, of which he served as a trustee and where he was a deacon for forty-two years. He and "Miss Bessie" seldom missed a church service. After being in ill health for approximately three years, on September 15, 1967, he died of a heart attack at Shelby Hospital. He was buried in Zion Baptist Church Cemetery.

Bessie Jane Horn Cabaniss graduated from Piedmont High School and attended Mars Hill College. She was a member of Zion Baptist Church where she taught the Adult Ladies Class for many years and was very active in the Woman's Missionary Union. She led a family devotional at the end of each day, reading her Bible and praying for each member of the family individually, as well as her neighbors and friends. Mrs. Cabaniss was also a member of the Home Demonstration Club and was recognized by all who knew her as an exceptionally good cook.

She died at age ninety-four on November 17, 1980, after a lingering illness (for fourteen years) of myesthenia gravis. She was buried in Zion cemetery beside her husband.

Vernie Louise, the oldest child, married on June 21, 1938, Brooks Ervin Piercy, born January 10, 1915, in Burnsville in Yancey County. They met while teaching in Boiling Springs High School, and have lived in Boiling Springs since their marriage. They had two sons, Brooks Ervin, Jr., born August 13, 1940, and another son, who died at birth, born on June 12, 1942.

Vernie graduated from Lattimore High School in 1931, attended Lenoir Rhyne College, Boiling Springs Junior College, and Meredith College, receiving an A.B. degree with majors in English and history in 1935. She did further study at North Carolina University at Chapel Hill and North Carolina State University.

She was a teacher, teaching English for thirty-six years in Boiling Springs High School, Lattimore High School, and Crest High School, retiring in 1976. She is a member of Boiling Springs Baptist Church where she has served as Sunday School teacher, library worker, choir member, and on various committees. She is a member of the N.C. Chapter of Retired School Personnel, the Flint Hills Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution, the Boiling Springs Garden Club, the Homemakers Extension Club, and the Boiling Springs Citizens Planning Council. Formerly she has served on the Royster Hospital Board and the Crawley Memorial Hospital Board, as a member of NCEA, NEA, and Delta Ksppa Gamma, teachers' sorority.

Brooks Ervin, Jr., a teacher in West Mecklenburg High School, Charlotte, has three children; Lisa Anne Piercy, born November 30, 1963; Pamela Elizabeth Piercy, born April 22, 1966; and Charles Ervin Piercy, born May 21, 1973.

Charles Clay, the son, married on July 4, 1939, Bertie Lee Hord of Lawndale, born February 11, 1918. They have four children: Bertha Jane born October 16, 1940; Charles Clay, Jr. born February 23, 1944; Nira Catherine born July 30, 1948; and Michael Glenn born April 26, 1954. Clay graduated from Lattimore High School in 1937 and attended North Carolina State University.

He is president of Shelby Auto Parts, Inc. and Lawndale Auto Supply and is a partner in C and H Realty Company. He is a member of Zion Baptist Church, where he serves as church treasurer, a deacon and trustee, having replaced his father as a trustee at his death. He is a former Sunday School teacher and choir member. Clay is a Mason and a member of the Scottish Rites of Freemasonry, Gideon International, the Piedmont Shrine Club, the South Mountain Shrine Club, and the Shriner Oasis Temple. He has served as President of Shelby Lions Club (1967-1968) and is a former Director of the North Carolina Automotive Wholesalers. He is a member of Cleveland County Club and his favorite hobby is golf.

Jane married May 13, 1961, Gary Bryon Gragg, born January 25, 1938. They have two sons: Gary Bryon, Jr., born February 23, 1964, and Jason Daniel born May 10, 1967; Charles married August 4, 1963, Karen Beth Floyd born December 7, 1947. They have two daughters: Amy Karen born January 27, 1965, and Jada Carol born December 29, 1968; Nira Catherine married April 5, 1969, Ronald David Ledbetter born November 23, 1949. They have three sons: Ronald David, Jr. born December 27, 1969, Robert Steven born September 8, 1971, and Jonathan Thomas born August 9, 1973; Michael is not married.

Sources: Henry Cabaniss and His Descendants, Mont G. Cabaniss Bible, family interviews

— Vernie C, Piercy (Mrs. Brooks E.)

THOMAS POOLE and LAURA GOLD CABANISS

321

Thomas Poole Cabaniss was born May 26, 1860 at the old homeplace, on a large farm in Cleveland County. He was the son of Athel Montclair and Elizabeth Elliott Cabaniss.

My father graduated from Bell's Academy in Shelby, North Carolina. He boarded with Mr. and Mrs. Lee Greene, who were friends of my grandparents.

After my father's graduation from Bell's Academy he was employed as a school teacher in Cleveland County.

While my father was teaching he met a beautiful young lady, who was also a school teacher, Laura Gold. They were married in Cleveland County, North Carolina on December 24, 1889 by Reverend A.C. Irvin. His father gave them a farm and helped them build a large home on the farm.

They spent many long hours working on the farm. My father also helped his father operate the grain mill and cotton gin. My great grandfather owned the first grain mill and cotton gin in Cleveland County.

God blessed my parents with ten children: George Turner, Pleas Buren, Elizabeth Elliott, Mary Francis, Charlie, Margaret, Minnie, Tom, Nina and Thelma.

George Turner Cabaniss was born November 30, 1890. He married Byrte Beam on November 24, 1913. They had ten children: Aileen, Elizabeth, Joe, Sara, Robert, Doris, George, Carolyn, Hal and Brenda.

Pleas Buren Cabaniss was born on February 15, 1892. He married Dorcas Depriest on December 19, 1920. They had a daughter, Laura Jane.

Shortly after Pleas Buren Cabaniss was born, my father had a serious illness, typhoid fever. He was so ill that his parents had him move back to their home. Mother and the little boys, Turner and Pleas, went to her parents until my father was well.

Almost a year passed before daddy was able to move back home. He was not strong enough to do farm work so he opened a general merchandise store out in the country.

On March 2, 1894 they were blessed with a lovely daughter, Elizabeth Elliott Cabaniss. Elizabeth married C. Reuben Spangler on October 11, 1917. They had three children: Thomas Norris, Ralph Reuben and Golda Elizabeth.

On July 6, 1896 another daughter was born, Mary Frances Cabaniss. She and Vaughn O. Moore were married March 18, 1919. They had three children: John Morris, Vaughn O., Jr. and Mary Frances.

A son, Charlie Cabaniss was born on June 15, 1898. Charlie and Marie Mintz were married June 29, 1919. They have two daughters, Dorothy and Nell, an adopted son, Charlie, Jr.

A daughter, Margaret Cabaniss was born on August 16, 1900. She married Hugh Neal on November 18, 1928. They adopted a son, Tommy.

A daughter, Minnie Gold Cabaniss was born February 2, 1903. She was never married.

A son, Thomas Evans Cabaniss was born on January 20, 1905. He and Mayme Gettys were married on May 3, 1925. They had three children: William, Nancy and Jo Ann.

A daughter, Nina Cabaniss was born August 1, 1908. She and Robert Lee Rudasill were married January 13, 1930. They had four children: Robert, Ora Belle, Ann and Thomas Michael.

A daughter, Thelma Cabaniss was born on July 19, 1910. She and Yates Brooks were married on November 2, 1930. They had four children: Patsy, Milton, Betty Lou and Golda.

My father and mother spent many long hours working on the farm and in the store. Mother was a great cook and a good seamstress. They loved to have friends and relatives come visit them. They both were members of Zion Baptist Church where they attended regularly. My father served on the Cabaniss School Committee for years. They are both buried at Zion Church Cemetery.

Sources: Family records

— Nina C. Rudasill

WILLIAM ANTHEL CABANISS

322

In 1903 William Athel and Margaret Botts Cabaniss bought the Monroe Grigg farm, three miles north of Shelby on the McBrayer Springs Road and moved their family from the Cabaniss community in the Number 7 township to be able to get closer to Shelby where some of the family worked. They raised six children some of them lived in and owned the old homestead as long as they lived.

Their children: Lawson Athel Cabaniss (1878-1958), married Lillian Kendrick of Cherryville, North Carolina; Willie Georgeiana Cabaniss (1876-1950), single; Cancie Cabaniss (1880-1967), married Grover Nanny, buried at Zion Church Cemetery; Clarence Broughton Cabaniss (1883-1952) married Margaret Roberts, buried at Sunset Cemetery; Hester Cabaniss (1885-1955), married D. Mills Cline, buried at New Prospect; Joe Turner Cabaniss (1887-), married Gertrude Beam, buried at Zion.

Lawson A., the oldest son, bought a small farm which was a part of the Dr. T.E. McBrayer homeplace adjoining his father's farm and moved his family, to the "Ross Grove" church community. They raised eight children in this community. The old homeplace is standing yet.

He was a graduate of the "Old Piedmont High School" at Lawndale, North Carolina and later at Cherryville High School.

With some help from Mr. J.Y. Irvin, who was principal at Cherryville and later became Superintendent of Cleveland County Schools, he taught seven years in the county schools. During the time he was teaching, the state passed a Compulsory Attendance Law requiring children between the ages of six and sixteen to attend school.

He was hired as truant officer and worked at that several years. He made a school census that was possibly the first in the county.

This was during governor Charles B. Aycock's years in office. He did more for rural schools than any governor we had up to this time.

He had ten children, eight of whom are still living. He was very interested in seeing everyone get an education.

He was interested in his Church, which was Ross Grove Baptist Church, where he and his wife are buried.

He served as a deacon, Sunday school superintendent, and a teacher for many years. No one ever enjoyed his big family more than he. He was a good father who believed obedience was the first law of Heaven. His long, useful, happy life lasted eighty years. He retired at seventy-seven, after 27 years with the Cleveland Hardware Store, along with his farming.

His motto for living: "Matters not that you won or lost, but how you played the game."

Sources: Family knowledge

— Mrs. M.C. Hawkins

THE WILLIAM RALPH CAMERON FAMILY

323

On January 20, 1962 the Cameron family moved to Earl, North Carolina located in the southern portion of Cleveland County. This is a short account of the W.R. Cameron family in Cleveland County.

William Ralph Cameron, Sr. (W.R.) born in Lugoff, South Carolina July 10, 1922 was the last of six sons of John Thomas Cameron and Ada Maude Jones Cameron. Both Jones and Cameron families were "settled" in the Lugoff area of Kershaw County. W.R. had five older brothers — John Thomas Jr., Edwin, Robert Oliver, Eugene, Paul Arthur and one sister, Emily. W.R. graduated from Camden High School in 1941 and went to work for Seaboard Railroad. He served in the U.S. Navy from 1944 to 1946 and upon discharge returned to work with the railroad. After moving to Charlotte, he met and married Mary McSwain of Cleveland County.

The William Ralph Cameron Family: Front row: L to R: William Sr., Mary, Carol. Second row: L to R: William Jr., Elizabeth, Brian, Melba

Mary Martha McSwain was born on April 15, 1923 in Earl, North Carolina as the third child to Grover Cleveland McSwain and Lunie Irene Wylie McSwain. Mary had a brother, Walter Cleve McSwain, and a sister Clara. Mary attended Earl Elementary and graduated from Number Three High School in 1940. Mary's father, Grover McSwain, died when she was six years old. He helped a farmer friend put out a fire in his barn and shortly thereafter caught double pneumonia and died. Her mother, "Mama Mac," lived to see Mary grown with children of her own. Both are buried in New Hope Baptist Church Cemetery.

W.R. and Mary married on February 17, 1951 in Gaffney, South Carolina. They made their home in Paw Creek, near Charlotte, N.C. and had four children. William Ralph Cameron, Jr., Melba Jane, Richard Brian, and Carol Ann were born in Mecklenburg County at Mercy Hospital in Charlotte.

In 1962 the Cameron family moved to Earl where W.R. continued his work with Seaboard as an agent in Shelby, N.C. Bill Jr., Melba, Richard and Carol attended Earl Elementary (the same school their mother attended) Number Three and South Cleveland before graduating from Crest High in 1970, 1972, 1974 and 1979 respectively. The Cameron family attends New Hope Baptist Church in Earl where W.R. served as a deacon.

William Ralph Cameron, Jr. (Bill) was born on December 1, 1951. He was a three sport athlete in high school and very successful scholastically. At N.C. State University, he majored in science and English. In 1978, he received his master's degree from Western Carolina University. Bill married Elizabeth Vee Poston (Beth) on December 17, 1977. Beth is the daughter of Dan Issac Poston and Eunice White Poston of Shelby. On May 2, 1980, a son, William Christopher Cameron was born in Cleveland Memorial Hospital in Shelby, N.C.

to Bill and Beth Cameron. Bill and Beth are both teachers in the Cleveland County school system. Bill coaches football and baseball and teaches science at Crest Senior while Beth teaches math at Crest Junior High School.

Melba Jane Cameron was born on February 8, 1954. While attending Crest, Melba was very active in community, church and school activities. She graduated from Appalachian State University in May 1976 with majors in Educational Media and P.E. in 1978, she received her master's degree from ASU in Reading Education. Melba married Donald Ray Chandler on June 30, 1979 at New Hope Baptist Church in Earl. Born in Greenville, South Carolina, Donnie was living in Asheville, North Carolina during the time they dated. Donnie is the son of Mrs. Sona Ruth Chandler Stoots and the late Roy Chandler of Marshall, North Carolina. Melba is employed by the Cleveland County school system as librarian at Crest Senior High School.

Richard Brian Cameron was born August 6, 1956. Richard was elected class officer several times during his high school years and active in sports. He attended N.C. State University one year, then transferred to Appalachian State University. After graduating in 1979 with a major in computer information systems, he began work for Sperry Univac Corporation in New Orleans, Louisiana. In 1982, he transferred to the Sperry Univac office in Charlotte, N.C.

Carol Ann Cameron was a Valentine's baby born on February 14, 1961. She moved to Earl at the age of one. Carol was active in school activities and played softball and basketball for her school and church. Carol attends Appalachian State University where she is a junior, majoring in business.

Sources: Personal knowledge and memories, interviews with family members

— Melba Cameron Chandler

ABRAHAM and ELIZABETH RANDALL CAMP

324

Abraham Camp born in 1831, son of Joseph Alexander and Lucretia Taylor Camp married Elizabeth Randall. They had three children: Nitey Elizabeth Camp, Dickson Camp and Marcellia Camp.

Nitey Elizabeth Camp married Jonah Bell and they were the parents of ten children: David Bell who married Ollie Lovelace, Tid Bell who married Mandy Ledford, Lee Bell who married Sally Ledford, Mary Bell who married Dave Lovelace, Martha Bell who married Monroe Lovelace, Dick Bell who married Minnie Ledford, Jonah Bell who married Mae Oates, Annie Bel who married Eliam McSwain, Essie Bell who married William Wright, and Sam Bell who married Jennie Wright.

Dickson Camp married Alma Rene Victor, Venia "Sally Ann" Joanna Lee Sanders. She used the name Sally Ann most of the time. They had two daughters; Docia Lee Camp who married Lee Hamrick and Lizzie Lillian Camp who married Reuban Ross (they later separated and she and their son used the name Camp).

Marcellia Camp married James Allen and lived in the Earl section of Cleveland County: Their children were; Mandy Jane Allen who married Clint Hamm, Julia Allen married Joseph "Bud" Leigh, Nigtey Elizabeth Allen — died at early age, Dovie Lee married Sam Bowen, Dora Allen married Joe Ellis, Nora Allen married Irvin Mayhew, Jacob Allen married Alice Wright, Sandy Allen married Charlie White, Grier Allen married Ila Mayes, Viola Allen married Richard Curry, Lula Lee Allen married Greenberry Lovelace, Molly Allen married Bill Bowen, Venrhi Allen married Dwight Lemons, and Nannie Allen died at an early age.

Abraham Camp returned home on an emergency leave from the Civil War — one of the children was seriously ill. He was cleaning his gun and accidentally shot himself. He was buried at Pleasant Hill Church. I can find no records as to where or when Elizabeth Randall Camp died or was buried.

— Elizabeth Camp Anthony

DIXON and SALLY SANDERS CAMP

325

Dixon Camp, born on April 23, 1853 to Abraham and Elizabeth Randall Camp, was the second child. He had an older sister, Niety Elizabeth, who later married Jonas Bell and a younger sister Marcellia, who married James Allen. He was eleven years old when his father, who was a soldier in the Confederate Army came home because one of them was seriously ill, accidentally killed himself while cleaning his gun. This took place in October 1864. Times must have been hard for them. He was a farmer all his life, usually working a farm for a percentage.

He married Sally Ann Sanders. Sally's full name was Alma Rene Victa Vena Sally Ann Joanna Lee Sanders. She was named by the doctor who delivered her. She was the daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth Sanders. They moved to Cleveland County from South Carolina. She remembered going to her Grandmother Cohen's house in Union, South Carolina to visit. She said the young black girls on the plantation always wanted to hold her and carry her around. She also remembered an old woman who lived in a ditch with her children, because they were very poor. I have a chest, given to Sally by her Grandmother Cohen, who bought it from a family going west in a covered wagon. She was the youngest girl of the family. Her brothers were Joshua, Griffin, Dan, Asbury, John and young Washington. Her sisters were Nancy, Mary and Liza. John and Asbury went to Georgia and lost track of the family. Dan was killed in the Civil War. Washington died at age five. Joshua married Lula Bragg and moved to Converse, S.C. Griffin married Lizzie Sparks; Nancy married Bartlett "Will" Goins; Liza married Allen Thrift and Mary never married. The Sanders family had come over from Norway and there were tales of the land of the mid-night sun.

Dixon and Sally Sanders Camp

Dixon and Sally lived in the area around Shelby after they were married. They were parents of two daughters; Docia Lee (who was a great beauty) and Lizzie Lillian. The family attended Pleasant Hill Baptist Church and the four of them are buried, beside each other, at Pleasant Hill. Most of the families on both sides are also buried there.

Docia Lee Camp married Lee Hamrick and they were the parents of four children: Sally Ann Hamrick who married Jack Mintz; she is now a widow and resides in Bessemer City. Lily Belle Hamrick who married Jewel Harrelson, is now a widow and lives in Bessemer City with her sister. Clyde Hamrick, who married Beulah Falls and they are the parents of two daughters; Norma Lawing and Frances Thornburg of Bessemer City. There are two grand-children, Lisa and Jonathon Cobb. James Hamrick was the youngest child, and he married Hattie Casey from Kinston, N.C. They now live in Orange, California. Their two daughters are Rita Ann Cose, a widow, lives near her parents with her four children; Elizabeth and husband, Sam Young, a lawyer, live on the San Francisco Bay with their three children. Docia Hamrick lived to be ninety-five and died in 1970. Ten years later, son Clyde died, a victim of cancer.

Younger daughter, Lizzie Lillian Camp, married Reuben C. Ross, son of Moses and Mary Ledford Ross. They were the parents of a son, Lee Roy Dixon Ross. When Roy was about three years old they separated and Lizzie went back home to her parents and Reuben went into service; it was the Spanish-American War. They never got back together. Lizzie started calling herself Camp and son Roy also used the name Camp.

Roy married Nina Bridges, daughter of Luther and Minnie Lee Huffstickler Bridges. They were parents of three children: Elizabeth Lee who married William P. Anthony and has a son, Neal; Reba Frances who married George Joy and then Frank Conner. Her children are: Kimberly, Donna, Jill and Viola Joy. Miles Richard Camp married Mary Herron and their children are Sara, David, Robert and Randy. Miles Richard Camp drowned in a boat accident in 1977 at Lake Wylie, S.C. Nina Camp died in 1949 following surgery and Roy died of cancer in 1958. They are buried at Pleasant Hill Baptist Church. Lizzie Lillian Camp (Ross) died July 3, 1962, one month before she was eighty-five.

Dixon Camp died June 14, 1924 at age 71. He had plowed for someone the day before and it was thought that he suffered a stroke. Sally Sanders Camp lived with her daughter Lizzie and grandson Roy and as she grew older became totally blind. At some point after she became blind, they had bought a radio, and hearing the announcer talking, she called her daughter aside and whispered and asked if that man was going to spend the night. She died in 1936 at age eighty-six.

Lizzie Lillian Camp Rose

Sources: Family History

— Elizabeth Camp Anthony

JOSEPH ALEXANDER CAMP

326

Joseph Alexander Camp, born in 1800, son of William Camp was married twice. He was first married to Lucretia Taylor, born in 1801, daughter of Henry and Priscillia Naylor Taylor. They had seven children: Abraham, who married Elizabeth Randall and fathered three children — Nitey Elizabeth, Dixon, and Marcellia before he went to fight in the Civil War. He returned home when one of the children was very ill. He was sitting on the back door steps cleaning his gun and accidently killed himself. Nitey Elizabeth Camp married Jonas Bell and they were the parents of ten children; most of this family lives in the Oak Grove Community of Cleveland County. Dixon Camp married Sally Ann Sanders and they had two daughters: Docia Lee Camp Hamrick and Lizzie Lillian Camp Ross. Marcellia Camp married James Allen and they were the parents of fourteen children whose decendents are throughout Cleveland County.

Joseph and Lucretia had a son Tom, killed by a horse and a daughter Nighty, who died at an early age.

Their son Abner Camp married Sophia Putnam and they had two children Peter and Attie. Abner was a Civil War Veteran.

Joseph Alexander Camp, Jr. was born 2-3-1841 and was also a Civil War Veteran. He was married twice; first to Marcella M. Roberts born 12-8-1850. Their children were: Panola, who married Lawson Kendrick, Iron Tyson who married Minnie Roberts, Hughie Jackson Camp who married Lula Rippey; Cromwell Camp, who died at a very young age — he used to say his name was “Arthur William Come here.” Lizzie Nora, who married Dave Beam; Maudillian who married Dave McCarter and lived in Grover; Leola Cam, who married Dave Byers from Blacksburg, S.C.; John Camp married Laura Allen of York, S.C. Josiah Ottas died when he was almost one year old. Joseph Camp Jr. married a Hambright after Ellen Camp died in 1888. There were no children of this marriage.

John Camp born in 1828 was married first to Jane, and their children were Bonner, who married a Philbeck; Lucretia Ann who married Bud Blalock; Bun Camp, who married Angeline Parker; and Mary Jane Camp, who married a Philbeck — brother of Bonner’s wife. John married Isaac Randall’s widow the second time; Sarah A.B. Randall. Her children who were Randall’s were William M., Martha Randall, Walter Randall. According to the 1870 Census there is a Priscilla age ten and a Mar-grate age seven — either Camp or Randall — probably Camp, since a last name is not given.

Tyrell Camp, youngest son of Joseph A. and Lucretia Taylor Camp, married Elizabeth and their children were Lucretia Jane, who married Jake Bowen, and Tom who married Harriett Bridges; Tyrell married Naomi Logan the second time and their children were: Neely, who married Dovie Evans, Calvin Camp, Hattie Camp, who married Isaiah Thrift, Cordia Camp, who married George M. Allen. Two other children lived only a short time. Joseph Alexander Camp, Sr. married Dulcene Conner the second time. They had three sons: Rollins-Pinkney Camp, Granger Camp, who married Maurey Putnam and Edney Camp, who married Amelia Kendrick.

Joseph Alexander Camp was a blacksmith by trade. From all I have found on him in my research and been told by my Grandmother Lizzie Camp(Ross), he was a true pioneer who people looked up to. It is believed that he was a decendent of Thomas Camp, who settled at Island Ford in Rutherfordton, N.C. Thomas had a large family of twenty children and he had a son William born in 1753, who could have been the William Camp, father of Joseph Alexander Camp born in 1800. Joseph Alexander Camp has many decendents in North Carolina and other states. I know of many professions and trades that boost their talents.

Sources: Family Histories

— Elizabeth Camp Anthony

THOMAS PICKNEY CAMP

327

Thomas Pickney Camp came to Cleveland County as a young man from the Flat Rock section near Hendersonville, North Carolina, in the mid 1870’s. He settled in the Patterson Springs area of Number Three Township.

Tom, the son of Lawson and Peggy Hardin Camp, married Amanda Connor February 7, 1878. Nine children were born to the couple during the next twenty years. Only two of these children survive today.

Baxter, the eldest child, married Minnie Moore. Their children and decendants live in Cleveland and Mecklenburg Counties. Ella, the eldest daughter, married Greeley Martin. Their children and decendants live in Cherokee County, South Carolina as well as in Florida and North Carolina. Hilyard married Anthie Martin. After her death he married Lula Hawkins. There are no surviving children, but the decendants live in Cleveland County. Joseph Lester married Nora Arrowood. They had no children, but Nora still lives in their home near Patterson Springs. Thomas Rollins married Lois Neal. One of their two children now survives and resides near Kings Mountain, North Carolina. The other decendants live in Georgia. Bessie married James William Ellis. Will died a few years after the birth of their only child, a son. He and his decendants live in Cleveland County; Ida, the youngest child, died in 1900 at two years of age. Edna and Novella never married. They now reside at Fair Haven Home near Forest City, North Carolina.

Tom Camp was a blacksmith and farmer. In the farming off-season, he followed the blacksmith trade to accumulate funds to purchase land. He acquired considerable acreage, and as his sons married, he gave each of them a farm. He was a skilled craftsman. He constructed his own home and out-buildings. Tom devised intricate wooden locks and keys, some of which are still in use today. In the late 1800's he made coffins for deceased members of the community. He began repairing wagons and buggies with metal bolts that he made with a tap and die set he ordered from Germany. His workshop still stands near the large white frame house on Highway 226 near Buffalo Creek. This house was furnished with Tom's handcrafted furniture made of oak, pine and walnut cut from his land.

Thomas Pickney Camp Family: Standing, L to R: Lester, Eller, Baxter, Hilyard, Rollins. Seated, L to R: Novella, Tom Camp, Amanda, Bessie, Edna, Baby Ida seated on mother’s lap

Tom was also a very good farmer, producing most of the food for his family and tenants. The smokehouse always contained an ample supply of cured hams and shoulders, poked sausage and middling meat. Sweet potatoes were abundant, and the cane mill and molasses boiler were permanent fixtures on the farm. This smokehouse is now restored and is owned by his great-great-grandson.

Tom was a quiet God-fearing man, and he played an important role in the early days of Patterson Springs Baptist Church. The first pews were made of virgin timber cut from his land. The seats and backs were each one solid board. Tom, Amanda, and several of the children were charter members of the church which was organized in 1895.

Amanda was as skilled as her husband. She made most of the family clothes, including carding, spinning and weaving the wool. Her daughters became quite skilled at crochet, embroidery and doll-making. Amanda's pantry was always full of canned and dried foods. Many friends would visit and enjoy the good food that graced their table and their warm hospitality. Tom enjoyed playing his fiddle for family get-togethers and community dances. Their love of music was evidenced by the formal parlor which housed an ornate walnut reed organ.

Since Tom's smokehouse was always filled with a supply of meat, it was a temptation for someone to break in and steal. One morning Tom found the smokehouse had been broken into and some meat stolen. After an ample breakfast of country ham, eggs, grits, red-eye gravy, home made biscuits, jelly and coffee he set about repairing the damage. Soon one of the tenants came along and offered to help. As Tom discussed with the tenant the theft, he realized that this man must know something about it. He pointed his finger at the man and said, "You are the man!" The man readily admitted his guilt. Tom, being a man of kindness, forgave the tenant of his wrong.

Tom and Amanda set a good example for their children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

Tom passed away January 21, 1937 and Amanda on April 30, 1949. They are buried in Patterson Springs Church Cemetery.

Sources: Dates and Births: Camp Family Bible

— J.D. Ellis

William E. Campbell Family, 1981: L to R: James, Kathryn, Frances, William, Mary, William, Jr.

THE JOHN DAVID and LUCILLE NORTH CAMPBELL FAMILY

328

John David Campbell Senior was born in York County, South Carolina, July 11, 1897 to William Miller and Florence Ethel Johnston Campbell and died May 26, 1958. He came to Shelby, North Carolina in the early 1920's to become a cotton broker. It was here he met Lucille North; born January 1, 1898 and died April 2, 1977.

Her mother, Katie Lee Bridges North, the young widow of John Egbert North of Grover, North Carolina, was managing the Courtview Hotel which was located on the north side of the Court Square. They were married on February 22, 1925. They had two children, John David Campbell, Junior born December 13, 1926 and William Egbert Campbell born May 19, 1928. John Campbell had a great love for horses and the land. He trained five gaited horses and his sons rode them in the shows winning many blue ribbons. He raised cotton in Cleveland County and in York County, South Carolina. Later with Willis McMurry, he owned and operated the J.D. Campbell and Company, Incorporated, Cotton Merchants.

John David Campbell, Junior graduated from Shelby High School and Georgia Military Academy. John served with the Air Force in the Pacific Theater during World War II. He attended UNC-Chapel Hill for two years; returned to Shelby to work for Charles A. Hoey Insurance Agency, now Cleveland Insurance Agency. He married Betty Hull Newton, of Shelby (Born: 1927, Died: 1980), They had two children: Alison Newton Campbell, born July 21, 1952; and John David Campbell, III, born October 12, 1953. John returned to college, graduating from Presbyterian College in Clinton, South Carolina and on to Columbia Seminary in Decatur, Georgia. He served Presbyterian churches in Georgia and North Carolina.

William Egbert Campbell attended Shelby schools, and graduated from Shelby High School in June 1945. He attended Davidson College receiving his Bachelor of Science degree in Business Administration in 1949. He immediately went to Memphis, Tennessee to work for Weil Brothers Cotton, Inc. from 1949-1950. It was there he met and became engaged to Frances Elizabeth Bodley, daughter of Dr. James Wiley and Frances Taylor Bodley. She was born February 7, 1930 in Memphis, Tennessee; where she attended Lausanne School for Girls. Upon graduating from there, she attended Holton Arms Junior College in Washington, D.C., graduating in 1950. She was Tennessee Princess in the Cherry Blossom Festival in 1949.

William Campbell served in the United States Army Signal Corps during the Korean War, 1950-1952, as a First Sergeant with 578th Signal Construction Company. He married Frances on April 25, 1953, at Calvary Episcopal Church in Memphis, Tennessee. A son, William Egbert Campbell, Junior was born on August 4, 1954 in Memphis. Two months later, William moved his family to Shelby where he worked for the J.D. Campbell and Company, Incorporated. He later joined the Prudential Insurance Company of America in 1956 and moved to Winston-Salem as Division Manager. While there, a son, James Bodley Campbell was born on February 7, 1959. He returned to Shelby with Prudential in the summer of 1959. In June, 1962, he became General Agent for Security Life and Trust Company, Inc., now Integon Life Insurance Corporation. He became active in the Red Cross 1962-1980. He is past president of the Shelby

Rotary Club, Toastmasters, The Cleveland Association of Governmental Officials, Cleveland Country Club, Shelby Swim Club, a member of the Shelby Planning and Zoning Board. He has served on the Shelby City School Board since 1961.

Kathryn Taylor Campbell was born on November 7, 1967.

Active in the Shelby Presbyterian Church, William Campbell has served as Sunday School teacher, Superintendent, Deacon and Elder and is a member of the Men's Bible Class. Frances has taught Sunday School and served on the Board of the Women's Auxiliary. Frances also has been active in civic affairs: past-president of the Shelby Junior Woman's Club; past president of Junior Charity League Sustaining Members; 1981, Chairman of Debutante Ball, 1965; Secretary to Debutantes, 1975 and 1982; board member of the Shelby Swim Club.

William Egbert Campbell, Junior, attended Shelby City Schools and graduated from The Hill School, Pottstown, Pennsylvania in 1973 where he was captain of the Swim Team; listed in Who's Who for High School. He graduated from North Carolina State College in 1978 with a B.S. in Zoology where he lettered in swimming, member of Gamma Sigma Delta, honor society. In 1978, he entered Bowman Gray School Medicine in Winston-Salem; he married Mary Ann Sullivan, on June 23, 1979; and graduated from Medical School in 1982.

James Bodley Campbell was captain of the Shelby High Swim Team, 1974-75. He graduated from Pine Crest School in Fort Lauderdale in 1977 where he lettered in Swimming and went on to swim for the University of North Carolina. In May 1981, he graduated from The University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill with a B.S. Degree in Administrative Criminal Justice and was commissioned a second Lieutenant in the United States Marine Corps.

Kathryn Taylor Campbell has proven to also be a good swimmer having received top awards from the Shelby Swim Club; Most Improved and Best Around Swimmer. She has been co-captain of the cheerleaders at Shelby Junior High School. She plays the first flute in the Junior High School Band.

William Egbert Campbell, Senior received the Cleveland County Citizen of the Year award in 1980 for his outstanding and dedicated work in the community.

Sources: Bible records, Scrapbook, Family Bible, Baby Books, Clippings from Shelby Daily Star, Files from William Campbell's office.

— Frances Bodley Campbell
(Mrs. William E. Campbell)

RUTH DIXON CARNES

329

Ruth Edna was the third daughter of Edgar William Dixon and Hettie Sarah Gantt Dixon born September 14, 1921 in Belwood. The family later moved to Shelby where she grew up on Grover Street. She graduated from Shelby High School in 1937, having served as a marshall, member of the Honor Society, and was valedictorian of her class.

Upon her graduation she went to North Wilkesboro, N.C. and graduated from the Heshaw School of Cosmetology. From there she went to Kannapolis, N.C. and began as a beauty-operator. In Kannapolis is where she met her husband, Luke Carnes, an overseer for Cannon Mills, therefore making Kannapolis her permanent home.

Anderson P. Carpenter (1846-1912) and Family

They have four children. William Jeffrey (Jeff) born August 14, 1947. He is 34 years old, had two years at Wingate College on a Cannon Scholarship, then graduated with honors with a business major. He now lives in Tampa, Florida where he is a fireman and thoroughly enjoys his work. He has one fourteen year old daughter, Elizabeth.

Mary Anne, born July 4, 1950 is 31 years old and is now head of data department with S. & D. Coffee in Concord, N.C. She married Bill Bauer, who is electronic maintenance supervisor for the Phillip Morris Plant. They have 2 daughters; Shannon, 10 years old, and Erin, 5 years old.

James Keith (Keith), born May 22, 1959, is 23 years old and is a senior at North Carolina State in Raleigh. He had a four year scholarship from Cannon Mills. He was salutatorian in high school and as a senior received an appointment to the Naval Academy in Annapolis, Maryland but preferred to go to State. He is a dean's-list student, majoring in textile chemistry.

Karen Elizabeth born August 20, 1960, is 21 years old and is a nurse at Charlotte Memorial Hospital on the heart floor. She graduated from Rowan Tech and finished in the top ten percent nationally.

Ruth keeps Mary Anne's children while she works, and loves every minute of it. She is a proud grandmother and says these children truly light up her life.

Sources: Family Knowledge

— Ruth Dixon Carnes

THE ANDERSON P. CARPENTER FAMILY

330

When the patents were issued for the land selected by Hans (John) Zimmerman, C. 1690, the clerk at Philadelphia, following an old order of William Penn, the names of all persons to whom land grants were made were Anglicized. Thus, the name became Carpenter, its English equivalent.

The Zimmermans were of Swiss origin — native of the Canton of Bern (German section), the country thereabouts being known as Zimmerwald, or in English "The Forests of the Carpenters".

The Carpenters first settled in Lancaster County, Pennsylvania. Sometime later, some members of the family, hearing of the bountiful lands between the Catawba and the Yadkin Rivers in the Carolinas, decided to come here to settle.

Peter Carpenter (d. 1817) was summoned from Pennsylvania by his half-brother, Jacob, a large landowner in Lincoln County, N.C. to come south to join him. Peter came and Jacob divided his land with him. Jacob and Peter both are buried in Lincoln County.

Peter married Barbara Deppen (d. 1816) and their eighth child was Frederick (1770-1840). He married Catherine Kiser with marriage bond signed with the German spelling of Zimmerman. Both are buried in a graveyard on the plantation in Gaston County, N.C.

William Carpenter, Frederick and Catherine's first child (1818-1900), married Elizabeth Baker (1819-1905). Buried at St. Mark's Church, Gaston County, North Carolina.

This union produced the following children: Anderson P. Carpenter (1846-1912) m. Caroline (Callie) Hoke (1861-1937); Marcus m. (1848-1928) m. Frances Rudisill; Sylvanus; Frances (1852-1928) m. Christian Crouse. Anderson served as a 17-year-old in the Civil War.

Two of the brothers, Anderson and Marcus, came to Kings Mountain, formerly called White Plains, in 1874. They were cousins to the two Mauney brothers, W.A. and Jacob S., who came two years before that — all four were early settlers of Kings Mountain.

The Carpenter brother's businesses consisted of a general store selling everything from nuts to furniture to farm machinery; a brickyard from which they built one of the first brick store buildings in 1878. This building remained standing downtown until recent years and was occupied by Phifer Hardware Company. Now the Blazer Building stands on this land.

Another business of the brothers was operating a tin mine on land near Lincolnton. My mother and her sisters and brothers tell of the fun they had as children visiting this underground mine, going from shaft to shaft carrying lighted lanterns.

These bachelor brothers also bought a block of East Mountain Street on the south side running from Piedmont to Gaston. Together they built a two-story white house with porches across the front both upstairs and down, with white "palings" all around the lot.

Later on they added a barn, stables, a cow and a garden out back. (There was also a well which the grandchildren still remember as it stood underneath a tremendous grape arbor loaded with purple grapes in summer. The wellhouse, no longer in use, contained a rocking horse and other toys memorable to our childhood. Today, 1981, the Kings Mountain Post Office stands on this ground.)

My grandmother, Caroline (Callie) Hoke, moved to town from Shelby and Lincolnton with her father, Col. Peter Philo Hoke, after the death of her mother, Faith Goforth Hoke. When she was still a girl, she went into the Carpenter brother's store to buy a spool of thread. After she walked out my grandfather, Anderson, said, "I'm going to wait for that girl to grow up and marry her. He did just that. He was fifteen years older, and they were married in 1887.

My grandparents lived in the white house the brothers had built until after three of their six children were born. At that time they built their own home on the far corner of the same block — where it is still occupied by their youngest daughter, Frances (Fanny). The lots in between the two houses were left vacant "for the children" when and if they wanted them. My parents, Lula Carpenter Herndon and Marion Elmer Herndon and we three children, benefited from this as we built our house "in between" in 1921. Warlick's Insurance Company and Kings Mountain Woman's Club now occupy this land.

My grandmother, Callie, was one of the three women who organized the First Baptist Church and devoted her life to home and church. Anderson and Marcus, with his wife Fanny (Rudisill), remained staunch Lutherans from their Swiss-German origins and were among the founders of St. Matthew's Lutheran Church.

Anderson's and Callie's children are as follows; Clara, b. 1887, d. 1965 m James Vernon Phillips — Issue: 3, Lula, b. 1889, d. 1935 m Marion Elmer Herndon — Issue 3, Daisy, b. 1891 m Oscar R. Long — Issue 7, Clarence, b. 1893 d. 1965 m Elizabeth (Bess) Webb — Issue: 2, Charles Troy, b. 1896 m Aileen Ormand — Issue: 4 and Frances (Fanny), b. 1898 — lifelong teacher.

Sources: Counting Kindred by Deppen (pgs. 226-313); Carpenters A Plenty by Robert Carpenter to be published soon.

— Hazel Herndon Fryer

MINNIE EDDINS ROBERTS and GEORGE MOORE CARPENTER

331

Minnie Eddins Roberts Carpenter, was born on August 12, 1908, in Shelby. She was named for her paternal grandmother, Minnie Eddins Roberts, who died on August 12, 1892. Her name was chosen by her parents, since her date of birth was the same month and day as her grandmother's date of death.

Minnie Eddins was the daughter of Frances Margaret Eskridge and William Joshua Roberts, Jr. Her maternal grandparents were Mary Judith Blanton and Abram Richard

George Moore Carpenter

Eskridge. Her paternal grandparents were Minnie Eddins and William Joshua Roberts, Sr.

Many of her ancestors were well known in the area. Her maternal greatgrandfather, Burwell Blanton, was a prominent Cleveland County farmer and Shelby banker. Another maternal greatgrandfather Elijah Eskridge, and her paternal greatgrandfather, William Roberts, were large landowners and farmers in Cleveland County. An earlier direct paternal ancestor, George Washington Williams, was a prominent South Carolina lawyer.

She was born in the Eskridge family's victorian home then located in Shelby at 522 West Marion Street. The house is now situated at 515 West Sumter Street. Except for the first six years of her life spent with her parents in a home next to the First Baptist Church, she has resided her entire life in her present home at 521 West Marion Street in Shelby. She moved there with her parents and her sister, Mary Adelaide, at age six and after her parents' deaths, she continued to live there with her husband.

As a young girl, her two principal school interests were music and drama. Her musical talent was derived from the grandmother she was named for, Minnie Eddins Roberts, who was known as the "Mockingbird of North Carolina". She came to Shelby as a young girl from Yorkville, South Carolina, with her mother, Adelaide Williams McAfee, and her stepfather, Colonel Leroy McAfee, and later taught music at the Shelby Female Academy. The younger Minnie Eddins' interest in drama evolved from her mother, Frances Eskridge Roberts. She graduated from Shelby High School in 1924.

Minnie Eddins Roberts attended Woman's College, now the University of North Carolina at Greensboro, where her mother had graduated. She later transferred to Converse College in Spartanburg, South Carolina, where her sister, Mary Adelaide was a student. Both sisters studied music, and Minnie Eddins graduated with a B.A. in music in 1928. After a year of public school teaching in Gastonia, she returned to Shelby where she either taught public school music or primary grades in the Shelby public schools until 1943.

On May 31, 1942, Minnie Eddins was married to George Moore Carpenter of Forest City. The Carpenters have made their home in Shelby where like her mother, Minnie Eddins Carpenter, has been very active in civic and church affairs. For a few years, she directed the First Presbyterian Church choir. She has been most active in her own church, the First Baptist Church. She has served at different times there as a choir member and for many years was a Sunday School teacher of women's classes. She also has been a member and president of the Frances Eskridge Roberts Missionary Circle, named for her mother. She and her sister decorated the church's parlor in memory of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. W.J. Roberts, Jr.

he moved to Shelby where he has been a sales representative and merchant. For many years he was co-owner of Roberts-Carpenter Men's Shop. He has been a member of the Shelby Rotary Club and is an active member of First Baptist Church.

Although the Carpenters had no children of their own, they have been a loving aunt and uncle to their niece, Mary Adelaide Austell Craver, who was the daughter of her sister, Mary Adelaide Roberts and Charles Benjamin Austell. The children of her niece, Adelaide, and her husband, Richard Davidson Craver, are as grandchildren to the Carpenters. Their names are Joseph Newton Craver II, born January 12, 1975; and Adelaide Austell Craver, born July 16, 1976. Minnie Eddins and George Carpenter, as of this writing, remain active residents of Shelby.

Sources: Personal knowledge.

— Mary Adelaide Austell Craver

CARL GORDON and ANNIE RUTH PROPST CARPENTER

331-A

Annie Ruth Propst was the seventh child born to Thomas Clyde and Bessie Ellen Ledford Propst. Born on December 17, 1926, at the family farm near St. Peters Methodist Church at Belwood, she was the only red-head among the eight children, having inherited it from her grandmother Mary Jane Spurling Ledford.

Annie Ruth graduated from Belwood High School in 1944. It was here she met her future husband, Carl Gordon Carpenter. Annie Ruth was salutatorian of her senior class while Carl was valedictorian of the same class. She graduated from the Newton Business School in 1945, living in Newton with her Aunt Dora Lingerfelt. Her first job was secretarial with Southern Engineering Company in Charlotte. She worked there one year and shared an apartment with Witts Mull Warlick and Roberta Sain Crotts, former Belwood girls working in Charlotte as secretaries. She also worked a year in the office of Southern Friction Materials Company.

On June 22, 1947, she married Carl Gordon Carpenter at Carpenters Grove Baptist Church. Carl's brother, Rev. Ralph Carpenter, performed the ceremony. After a honeymoon to Cherokee and the North Carolina mountains, they settled on the Carpenter farm four miles north of Belwood School. His parents had some land that joined the Propst property. Annie Ruth and Carl remember as children hoeing corn in the bottom-land and waving to each other across the creek.

Upon graduation from Belwood High School, Carl joined the Navy for a fourteen months tour of duty.

Annie Ruth and Carl lived with Carl's parents, James Gordon Bennett and Vertie Pruett Carpenter for two months while they fixed up the former house Carl's parents had lived in. After moving in the nearby house they continued to be partners on the Carpenter farm with Carl's parents. Upon the death of his father on November 25, 1950, Carl and Annie Ruth bought the farm consisting of about 135 acres. In 1948, they switched from cotton farming to dairy cows because of the boll weevil. Starting with five cows, they increased to 30, and bought some new machinery too. Annie Ruth was a vital part of the operation by helping milk the cows, haul hay, cut grain and silage.

Their first child, Myra Ruth, was born October 2, 1948, at Edwards Clinic in Toluca. A second child, Joseph Carl, was born September 6, 1950, also at Toluca. In 1956 they built a new house beside Carl's mother. Both children attended Belwood Elementary School. The school bus was a major concern for the parents because the route never came by their home. Myra graduated from Burns at Fallston High School in 1966. Joe graduated from Burns High School in 1968. Both children were members of the Beta Club.

Myra went to Mars Hill College and graduated with a Bachelor of Arts degree in History. She married Gerald Strickland on June 20, 1970. They have one child, Leslie Jill born on February 25, 1980. Myra teaches at Crest Junior High School and lives near and attends Poplar Springs Baptist Church.

Joe graduated from Lenoir Rhyne College in 1972 with a Bachelor of Science degree in Chemistry. In 1975 he also earned a Masters degree in Environmental Science from Clemson University. He lives in Atlanta, Georgia, and works for the Environmental Protection Agency.

In 1961, Carl and Annie Ruth sold the dairy cows and Carl went to work at Fiber Industries as a mechanic. Annie Ruth was a homemaker and seamstress, and sewed for many people in the community. In 1967 she also went to work at Fiber Industries.

The church was always an important part of the family's life. They faithfully attend and support Carpenters Grove Baptist Church where Carl serves as deacon, trustee and former Superintendent.

Carl retired from Fiber Industries in 1977, and now tends a small herd of beef cows. Annie Ruth has worked at Fiber Industries for fifteen years, but continues to enjoy sewing for her family.

Sources: Family Bible, personal knowledge.

— Annie Ruth Propst Carpenter

WAYNE JACK CAUDILL FAMILY

332

This Wayne Jack Caudill family came to Shelby, Cleveland County, North Carolina, August 1952. Wayne Jack Caudill was born at North Wilkesboro, North Carolina, November 10, 1923. His parents were Charles Lester Caudill and Queen Victoria Hudson. There were three brothers, Paul Warren Caudill, Howard Caudill, and Charles Lester Caudill Jr.

Wayne was educated in the North Wilkesboro Public Schools, graduating in 1940. He received a B.S. degree from Appalachian State University, 1946; M.D. degree from the University of North Carolina, 1954; and an ad-

Minnie Eddins Roberts Carpenter

Minnie Eddins has been very active in civic affairs in her community, supporting Red Cross and Girl Scout work and leading many local campaigns for charitable funds. In 1952 she was selected Shelby's Woman of the Year. She was also appointed a member of the first Human Relations Council for improving relationships between the black and white races of her community.

She has also been a charter member of the Junior Charity League, the Contemporary Book Club, the Twentieth Century Book Club, the Cecilia Music Club and many social organizations.

George Moore Carpenter was born in Forest City, North Carolina, on May 8, 1907. He was the son of John E. Carpenter and Margaret Padgett Carpenter. He has two younger brothers, Spurgeon Carpenter, now of Brevard, and Howard Carpenter, now of Rutherfordton. After his marriage to Minnie Eddins and having served in the army in World War II, vanced Principal's degree from the University of North Carolina, 1964. From 1943 to 1946, he served in the Army Air Corp.

He began, in 1947, his career in education as a fifth grade teacher at the Appalachian Elementary school, Boone, North Carolina. In 1948-49 he was a principal at Mills Mill School, Parker district, Greenville, South Carolina. From the fall of 1949 to 1952, he was an assistant principal and coach, South Park School, Winston-Salem, North Carolina. In August 1952, Wayne became the Principal of Shelby Junior High School, Shelby, North Carolina. He served in this position until 1955. From 1955 to 1970, he was principal of Shelby Senior High School. He spent four years in the Cleveland County school system at Waco. He retired after 30 years in public schools June 1977.

Wayne Jack Caudill married Sarah Jacqueline Lowry, March 25, 1948. They have two sons, Wayne Jack Caudill, Jr. born November 29, 1949, and Walter Lowry Caudill born July 6, 1957.

Jacqueline Lowry Caudill was born May 1, 1926 at Jefferson, South Carolina. Her parents were Walter Clyde Lowry and Sallie Jones Gregory. She has two sisters and one brother, Editha Grace Lowry, Laura Frances Lowry, and Walter Clyde Lowry, Jr.

Jacqueline was educated in the public schools of Jefferson, South Carolina, graduating in 1943; attended Queens College 1943-1944; and received a B.S. degree from Appalachian State University, 1947.

She taught in 1947-1948 at Avery Sherrill School, Statesville, North Carolina; in 1948-1949, Dunean School, Parker district, Greenville, South Carolina. After moving to Shelby, she was a teacher at Marion School, 1952-1956. For the past 17 years, 1965-1982, she has been a teacher at Elizabeth School in the Cleveland County School System.

The Caudill family are members of the First Baptist Church, Shelby, North Carolina. Wayne Jack Caudill, Jr. was born at Winston-Salem, North Carolina. He attended the Shelby Public schools and graduated from Shelby High School in 1968. He received a B.A. degree in psychology and business from East Carolina University in 1972.

Jack married Maryrita Clarke, a graduate of East Carolina University, of Fort Wayne, Indiana, August 15, 1971. They have one son, John Clarke Caudill, born May 1, 1977, at Charlotte, North Carolina. Jack and Mary work for Aetna Life and Casualty Company, Hartford, Connecticut. Jack is a senior administrator, employee relations and Mary is a financial analyst. They live in Vernon, Connecticut.

Walter Lowry Caudill was born at Shelby, North Carolina. He attended Shelby public schools. After graduating from Shelby High School in 1975, he received a B.S. degree in chemistry from the University of North Carolina in 1979. Lowry is attending Indiana University Graduate School of Chemistry, Bloomington, Indiana.

Lowry married Susan Elizabeth Self from Durham, North Carolina on December 27, 1980. Susan is a graduate of the University of North Carolina and a registered pharmacist in Bloomington, Indiana.

Sources: Family knowledge.

— Mrs. Wayne J. Caudill

JAMES HOWARD CAVENY FAMILY

333

James Howard Caveny was the third son born of Charles Spurgeon and Lillian Belle Sarratt Caveny on August 14, 1917. His father owned and operated grocery stores in the Belmont and Lilly Mill villages until his death during the flu epidemic of 1920. His mother, along with her two other young sons Charles Ramseur and John Camillus Caveny continued to reside in Shelby. After selling the store his mother became a seamstress, and with the aid of her sons the family was able to stay together during hard times which included the Great Depression era.

Early in life Howard had a paper route, mowed lawns, jerked sodas, pumped gas, fixed flat tires, and bagged groceries, which taught him the virtues and rewards of hard work.

He attended Shelby High School, Alexander Hamilton Institute of Business, and Indiana State University Decorating School.

From 1950-1955 he was vice-president and Sales Manager of Shelby Supply Company. He always had a burning desire to have his own business and the opportunity came in 1955 when he and his brother Charles were able to get a Glidden Paint franchise for five (5) Counties with Howard operating the Shelby Glidden Store and Charles the Hickory Glidden Paint Center. The partnership continued until Charles retired in 1975 and they divided their assets.

In 1952 Howard met and married Muriel Cline, a registered nurse from Lincoln County. Muriel has been employed in several health care facilities including physicians office, hospital, nursing instructor at Cleveland Technical College and currently working as a Public Health nurse.

To this union was born two lovely daughters. Janet Lillian in 1955 and Karen Renee in 1958.

Janet graduated from Shelby High School and UNC at Chapel Hill. Shortly after graduation she married "the boy next door." John Landrum Hawkins, Jr. also a graduate of Shelby High School and Wake Forest University. They graduated together from Southwestern Baptist Seminary, Ft. Worth, Texas in 1979. Janet received a Masters degree in Religious Education and John a Masters degree in Theology. John is on the church staff at Hope Baptist Church in Ft. Worth, assigned to the youth ministry at Texas Christian University, with Janet supporting and assisting him in this endeavor. Together they own and operate All Clean Cleaning Service providing a service for commercial and residential customers.

Karen Renee graduated from Shelby High School and the University of Tennessee at Knoxville with a BS degree in Public Health Education and a teachers certificate in Health and Science. While at U.T., and working with Young Life at Webb High School she met and fell in love with Scott E. Anderson, a U.T. student from Memphis, Tennessee. They were married her senior year in college and moved to Atlanta, Ga. where she completed requirements for graduation in field work at Dekalb General Hospital and Peachtree High School. Scott graduated with a Masters degree in Counseling and Psychological Services from Georgia State University, and is currently at the University of Tennessee enrolled in a Counseling Psychology doctoral (PhD) program. Karen stays busy caring for their active one year old Sarah Renee and being a consultant for Mary Kay Cosmetics, Inc.

Even with a full work load, Howard has always been very civic minded and has been active in a number of organizations including Jaycees, Lions Club, Merchants Association, Chamber of Commerce, Elks, Masons and Shrine. He has served in various capacities in most of these organizations including presidency and board of directors.

Central United Methodist Church has always held an important place in their hearts and lives, Howard being a life time member and Muriel since their marriage. Each has served in various leadership and service roles and they remain faithful in their attendance and in support of the church and its programs.

Due to his business accomplishment, Howard was recognized in The 1975-76 Edition of Who's Who in Finance and Industry; 1977 Edition of Personalities of the South; and 1978-79 Edition of Who's Who in the World.

Howard retired in 1980, selling his inventory to the Glidden Company but retaining ownership of the store building. This has left him with time to improve his golf score and to do some gardening. He and Muriel are now able to spend more time at their cottage on Lake Norman where they enjoy boating, fishing and entertaining. They also look forward to more frequent visits with their children and to watching their grand-daughter grow.

Sources: family records, organization records, Who's Who.

— Muriel C. Caveny

DR. CLIFTON OTIS CHAMPION 334

C.O. Champion was born August 27, 1857, in Cleveland County to David B. Champion (August 7, 1832 — August 27, 1860) and Amelia Jane McBryer (December 21, 1833 — October 20, 1919). Amelia Jane McBryer was the daughter of Samuel McBryer and Rhoda McIntire Champion. David B. Champion was the son of George Champion (December 28, 1792 — April 25, 1851) and his second wife, Elizabeth Boswell Champion (May 13, 1799 — February 7, 1900). George was the son of Richard Champion and Margaret Goodell. Richard Champion's ancestors had come to Surry County, Virginia, from England in the 1600's. They came to Granville County, North Carolina in 1760, and to York County, South Carolina and Rutherfordton County, North Carolina in the 1780's. Richard Champion's will was probated September 14, 1796, in the York County, South Carolina Courthouse. He was the son of John Champion of Granville County, who died in 1787.

George, his wife Elizabeth Boswell and son David and other relatives are buried in the Boiling Springs Cemetery.

Dr. Champion had one sister, Mattie, who married Tom Petty of Gaffney, South Carolina. His father, David died when he was three years old. Later his mother married Amos Petty Austell (December 14, 1833 — September 16, 1919). Amelia Jane and Amos Austell had five children: Charles E., Samuel, Belle, James Petty, and Claud Love.

Carrie Alice Crowder was born November 25, 1869, in Lattimore to Matthew Crowder (October 15, 1823 — July 31, 1897) and Amelia Wells Crowder (April 4, 1840 — September 27, 1916). Carrie Alice's brothers and sisters were: Hester, Julius, James, Sidney and Maude.

After graduating from the Atlanta Medical College, Dr. C.O. Champion and Carrie Alice Crowder were married by Rev. A.C. Irvin on December 10, 1890, at New House. They built a brick home in Mooresboro, which is still in the family.

Dr. and Mrs. Champion had three children. Bettie (Elizabeth Boswell) was born March 3, 1892, and died October 19, 1918. Bettie was a talented music teacher. She married Dr. Yates Hamrick of Boiling Springs. She died in the flu epidemic of 1918 leaving an infant daughter, Katherine Champion. Bettie is buried at Boiling Springs Cemetery.

Herbert Otis was born March 4, 1895. He graduated from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill as a pharmacist. In World War I he won the American Distinguished Service Cross for extraordinary heroism. He is married to Hazel Brumley Champion, daughter of Frank and Margaret Clayton Brumley. They live in Waynesville, North Carolina.

Clifton Ormond was born April 24, 1904, at Mooresboro and attended Carolina Military Academy and Boiling Springs Boarding School. He married Edna Blanton, daughter of John B. and Lillian Purcell Blanton of Mooresboro. They had two children. Constance Alice married Carlos Young of Shelby. Clifton Ormond, Jr. married Martha Martin of Anderson. C.O. later married Zona Carroll. Their children are Betty Ann, who married Gary Smith; Michael Herbert, who married Jayne Issacson; and Richard Clifton, who married Kathy Bridges and later, Debbie Page.

Dr. Champion had a wide practice as a country doctor. In a letter to her brother, his wife said, "Doctor rides (horse and buggy) day and part of the night, so many people are sick." He helped form the Lattimore Telephone Company and was at one time Vice President of the Mooresboro Cotton Oil Mill and President of The Mooresboro Bank. He was a member of the Volunteer Medical Service Corps in World War I. He was an active member of Sandy Run Baptist Church.

Dr. Champion died November 2, 1922. From his obituary from the newspaper, "Dr. Champion was one of the best known physicians in the county; operated a drug store and was prominently identified with the public affairs in his community and county."

His wife Alice lived in the homeplace many years after her husband died. She was a dedicated member of Sandy Run Baptist Church, where she sang in the choir. She enjoyed being a member of the Cleveland Guards Chapter of the U.D.C. in Shelby. She was interested in family history and kept many family letters, momentos, business papers and newspaper clippings which were used as a source of information for this article. Alice Champion died September 19, 1944.

Dr. and Mrs. C.O. Champion and son C.O. are buried at Sandy Run Baptist Church Cemetery in Mooresboro.

Sources: Herbert O. Champion's records of the Champion family history; Family Bible; Family papers and records and letters; Boiling Springs Cemetery; Sandy Run Church Cemetery; U.D.C. records — Matthew Crowder — Civil War Veteran; Myra Champion; Newspaper clippings.

— Constance C. Young (Mrs. Carlos)

Margaret Glenn and Ezra Champion

THE EZRA CHAMPION FAMILY

335

This Champion family originally came to upper Cleveland County by way of South Carolina. Ezra, born November 3, 1847, died September 11, 1903, had nine brothers and one sister. Of these, brother, William settled in the Cabiness Community; brother Asa lived at Metclafe; brother George near Waco; sister Lizzie married and lived near Shelby; while Ezra and his wife, Margaret Misener Glenn, born November 29, 1844, died October 23, 1919, owned a farm at the Union Community, South of Polkville.

Ezra was a Civil War veteran, a Magistrate and a builder. His wife, "Aunt Mis" as she was called, bore him four sons and four daughters, of whom most shared his love of Cleveland County and remained to live, work the farm-lands, raise their children and to die there. Their children were Banks, John Eppley, Grayson, Clayton, Lola Emmaline, Etta, Lily (who married Plato McEntire, and moved to reside in Arkansas) and Tina (who died as a child).

The daughter Lola married William Jackson

Powell while Etta married William Miller, both daughters remaining near the homeplace. Many Powell and Miller descendants still live in the area and once a year all of the Ezra Champion descendants are invited to gather for a reunion at the Union Church, where Ezra and "Aunt Mis" are buried.

This Church, Union, would not stand today without the efforts of Ezra Champion and others who built it with their own hands. Indeed, Ezra truly gave his life to the building of Union Church, for while constructing it he contracted pneumonia and died to be one of the first buried there. Lovely stained glass windows commemorate him and others, most of whom are his descendants.

It is said among the family that "all Champions love to sing" and at the song-fest which is always a part of the family reunion one cannot help but look at the sun streaming through those beautiful windows of that old Church and wonder if Ezra is pleased and singing along, too.

Sources: Family Bible, Union Church Cemetery records, letters, interviews.

— Ann Powell Whitmire

DR. JEFFREY CHIT-FU CHANG

336

Dr. and Mrs. Jeffrey Chit-fu Chang and their three children, sons Paul Wei-sung, John Weikung and daughter Margaret Jong-hwa formally immigrated from Taiwan, China to the United States of America in August, 1967. They have been living in Boiling Springs, Cleveland County, North Carolina. They received their citizenship of the United States in November, 1973.

Jeffrey Chit-fu Chang was originally from Canton, China. Frances Hung-wen Lin Chang (Mrs. Jeffrey C. Chang) was originally from Peking, China. They have been married since August, 1946. Because of the civil war in China, they went to Taiwan in May, 1949. The three children were born in Taiwan.

Jeffrey C. Chang worked for the Taiwan Government before he came to the United States in September, 1963. Then he enrolled at the Western Illinois University in Macomb, Illinois. He received his B.S. and M.S. degrees in mathematics in 1965, 1966 respectively. In 1966, he started teaching at the Gardner-Webb College. He received his Ph.D. degree in statistics and computer science from the University of Georgia, Athens, Georgia in August, 1973.

Frances L. Chang (Mrs. Jeffrey C. Chang) was graduated from the National College of Arts in Peking, China with a B.A. degree. She is an artist and she is members of the Shelby Arts League and the North Carolina Arts Society. She came to the United States with the three children in August, 1967 with the permanent resident status. Paul Wei-sung graduated from the Gardner-Webb College with a B.S. degree and now he is working as industrial computer programmer with Homelite Inc. Margaret Jong-hwa graduated from the Gardner-Webb College with a B.S. degree and then she went on to the graduate school of the Clemson University, Clemson, S.C. She received a M.S. degree in computer science and operations research and now she is working with IBM as a system engineer. John Weikung graduated from the Duke University, Durham, N.C. with a B.S. degree in mathematics and computer science and now he is working as an engineer with the Pertec Computer System Inc.

Source: Family history

— Mr. & Mrs. Jeffrey Chit-Fu Chang

WILLIAM S. CLAY FAMILY

337

William S. Clay was born about 1839 in Lincoln County, North Carolina. He became a farmer and on September 17, 1861, he volunteered to serve in the Civil War. Records show that at the age of 23 his description was six feet one inch high, fair complexion, grey eyes, and light hair. He served as a private of Captain A.G. Waters and D.R. Hoyle's Company F, 34th Regiment, North Carolina Troops and was killed June 27, 1862 at Gaines Mill, Virginia, and was buried in a grave with others at a fork of two creeks about 12 miles from Richmond.

He was married to Catherine Carpenter, who was born on July 15, 1834, and died on November 8, 1893. She was buried at New Prospect Baptist Church. They had two daughters: Mary and Dora Alice.

Dora Alice Clay was born May 27, 1862 and married Rufus Marion Grigg, son of William Grigg. He was born on March 27, 1857. They had six children: Johnny W. Grigg, who died February 28, 1963. He married Molly Howell, who died April 1, 1968. Charlie Grigg married first to Betty Beam and the second time to Gertie Coffey. Minnie Grigg married first to Will Glenn and the second time to Arthur Putnam. Dovie Grigg married Albert Colbert. Nora Grigg married John Lawson Wright (see family history). Furman Rufus Grigg was born April 6, 1889 and died July 5, 1889.

Dora Alice Clay Grigg died April 18, 1889 and was buried in New Prospect Baptist Church cemetery. After Dora Alice died, her husband, Rufus, then married her older sister, Mary Clay, who was born on December 22, 1860. They had six children: 1) Jasper Grigg married first to Ola Putnam and second time to Josephine Ross. 2) Clara Grigg (single). 3) Zula Grigg (single). 4) Alonzo Grigg married Dovelena Glascoe. 5) Eula Grigg married Verus Williams, son of Minnie Wright Williams. 6) Elta Grigg married Melvin Wright.

Rufus Marion Grigg died on January 11, 1937 and Mary Clay Grigg died January 8, 1943 and both were buried in New Prospect Baptist Church cemetery located east of Shelby.

Sources: Military records, death certificates, cemeteries, and interviews.

— Mrs. Arlene Wright Myers

William S. Clay, 1839-1862. Civil War Veteran

EDWARD BENJAMIN CLAYTON FAMILY

338

Edward Benjamin Clayton was born in Brevard, North Carolina. The son of Joseph Ezra Clayton. His grandfather was E.B. Clayton, a medic in the War between the States. His great-great-great-great-grandfather Lambert Clayton fought at the Battle of Kings Mountain, Guilford Courthouse and Eutaw Springs. His mother Isabelle Wood was the daughter of Thomas Wood who came to the United States from Scotland in 1864.

Edward graduated from Brevard High School, Brevard Junior College and received an A.B. degree from Furman University. He holds a M.A. in Education degree from the University of North Carolina in Chapel Hill and a Specialist in Education degree from Appalachian State University.

An athlete, interested in all sports and an active participant, he was a halfback on the Furman University football team and a catcher on the baseball team. His interest in sports was continued when he was active in supporting and coaching Little League Baseball, Babe Ruth Baseball, Midget Football, Pop Warner Football, also officiating college and high school football. He was a member of the N.C. High School Officials Association and Clinic Leader of the North State Football Officials Association for 15 years.

He spent five years in the U.S. Army with service in Iceland and the Phillipines and earned a rank of 1st Lieutenant.

For thirty-five years he has been a dedicated and influential person in the field of education, having been a coach, teacher and principal. The past twenty-five years have been spent as principal of Crest Senior High School. Under his leadership Crest Senior High School has become one of the outstanding high schools in North Carolina. He continues to lead and direct the young people of Cleveland County as a conscientious and dedicated principal.

Millie Jocelyn Magness Clayton, daughter of Carl Jackson Magness was born in Lattimore, North Carolina. She is a direct descendant of Captain Benjamin Magness, soldier in the Revolutionary War who fought at Kings Mountain. Her mother was Dorcas Greene. She is the granddaughter of W.T.D. Greene, well-known as a musician. A hymn "Traveling Home," was written by Mr. Greene and published by Rubush Publishing Company. Jocelyn is the granddaughter of Thomas Greene, a teacher issued a temporary teaching certificate by North Carolina in 1854. He served in the War between the States.

After graduating from Lattimore High School, she received a B.S. degree from Asheville Teachers College. She has spent the past thirty years teaching first grade in the schools of North Carolina. The joy she has received from her work is indicated in this statement appearing in a scrapbook compiled when she was chosen Teacher of the Year from Boiling Springs School, "Surely there is no other profession so exciting, challenging or rewarding." She continues to teach in the Boiling Springs School as a dedicated teacher.

Edward Benjamin Clayton and Millie Jocelyn Magness Clayton were married on July 30, 1948. To this union were born three children.

Edward Benjamin Clayton, Jr. who graduated from Crest High School and Appalachian State University is currently employed by the North Carolina Employment Security Commission in Shelby, North Carolina.

Carl Thomas Clayton was graduated from Crest Senior High School and Appalachian State University. He is well known in North Carolina, South Carolina and Virginia for his expertise in basketball handling skills. He teaches in college basketball camps over the states during the summer. He is currently Graduate Assistant Basketball Coach at Appalachian State University.

Jocelyn Isabelle Clayton Tolleson was graduated from Crest Senior High School and graduated cum laude from Appalachian State University. In 1981 she received her M.A. degree in ESL — Teaching English as a second language — from San Francisco State University. She is currently employed as an instructor in San Francisco Community College and the University of San Francisco in California. She is married to Robin James Tolleson, musician and writer.

— Jocelyn Clayton

THE WALTER SHIELDS and JULIA HUNT CLAYTON FAMILY

339

Julia Cathleen Hunt was born in Lattimore, North Carolina to Robert Lee Hunt and Alma Harrill Hunt, Sept. 6, 1918. (See Robert Lee Hunt, D.D.S.) Graduating from Lattimore High School in 1935, and Gardner-Webb College in 1937, she was an outstanding and popular student. In the spring of 1939 she received her Bachelor of Arts Degree from Meredith College, and began teaching home economics at Bethware High School that fall. She also taught home economics at Ellenboro High School, and was a home supervisor with the Farm Security Administration.

On March 8, 1947 she married Walter Shields Clayton, D.D.S. of Cliffside, the son of Joseph Ezra Clayton (B. 12-23-1867 — D. 8-9-1933) and Isabelle Wood Clayton (B. 12-23-1874 — D. 10-22-1942) of Brevard. His grandfather Wood came to America from Glasgow, Scotland at the age of nineteen to manage the Clough Farm in Brevard. It is remembered that he walked from Charleston, South Carolina to Brevard! Walter is a graduate of Wake Forest University and received his D.D.S. degree from Emory University. He taught and coached at Carthage and Burlington High Schools several years before entering dental school.

While living in Cliffside their three children were born in Cleveland Memorial Hospital: Walter Jr., Feb. 11, 1948, Robert Hunt, July 11, 1949; and Julia Anne, March 11, 1953. They enjoyed their years in Cliffside and have many friends and memories that they cherish. However, in March of 1953, Walter was called back into military service during the Korean War. In June the family moved to Ft. Bragg.

After two years in the air force, they moved to Brevard, Walter always wanting to go back to the mountains and his hometown. They are members of First United Methodist Church, and both have served several terms on the administrative board.

Walter was a member of the Transylvania County Board of Health for twenty-one years. Having played football and baseball at Brevard College and Wake Forest University, he continues his interest in high school, college, and professional sports. He enjoys golf and has been Club Champion and Senior Club Champion several years at Glen Cannon Country Club.

Julia has been very interested in church work — teaching in Sunday School and holding various offices in the United Methodist Women. She received the Special Membership Award in 1975. She has been active in Brevard Garden Club for over twenty years and Glen Cannon Ladies Golf Association — holding various offices in both.

Walter Shields D.D.S. and Julia Hunt Clayton

Walter Jr. attended Brevard College and is a graduate of North Carolina State University. He played on the golf team in high school and at Brevard College. Also, he enjoys skeet shooting, hiking, and skiing. He served four years with the United States Air Force — spending one year in Vietnam. While there, he was awarded The Bronze Star.

He married Anne Rodgers Marchman, daughter of William Rodgers Marchman and Charlotte Wood Laidlaw Marchman. They have two children Richard Marchman (B. 6-23-1973) and William Shields (B. 1-15-81). He is a teacher at Rosman High School.

Robert, a graduate of Brevard High School, was President of the student body his senior year. In 1966 he was selected to attend Boys State at Wake Forest University. He graduated from Brevard College, University of North Carolina and UNC School of Dentistry (1975). An outstanding athlete, he played on the basketball and golf teams at Brevard High and Brevard College.

He married Carol Wratten, daughter of Joseph Wratten and Theresa Talbot Wratten. She is a graduate of UNC Medical School. After living a year at Chapel Hill, they moved to San Antonio, Texas where she completed her residency, and is practicing Obstetrics and Gynecology there.

Robert was an associate professor in the School of Dentistry at The University of Texas at San Antonio. He was held in high esteem by his students and peers, and in 1979, he received the Teacher of the Year Award. For twelve years he was a victim of Hodgkins Disease, and died on March 8, 1982. He is buried in Gillispie Cemetery, Brevard, NC. They have one son Robert Matthew (B. 7-31-80).

Julia Anne, a 1971 graduate of Brevard High School, attended Brevard College and graduated from Asheville-Buncombe Technical College in dental hygiene. She was a high school cheerleader and enjoyed scouting, swimming, diving, and dancing. She is married to H. Stephen Blythe, son of Homer Roger Blythe and Ann English Blythe. They have two children, Stephanie Anne (B. 11-9-75) and Robert Clayton (B. 6-16-79). Steve is employed as Shift Supervisor at Olin Corporation in Brevard. They enjoy bowling, gardening and collecting and refinishing antiques.

Sources: Family Bible. — Julia Anne Clayton Blythe

AMBROSE HAYWOOD CLINE

340

Ambrose Haywood Cline, one of the eight children of David Anderson Cline and Rachael Charlotte Lattimore, was born November 15, 1855 in Cleveland County on a farm north of Double Shoals. He was a direct descendant of Sebastian (Bostian) Klein who came to America in 1739.

He married Eudorah Hessentine (Hester) Hendrick, daughter of Chappell and Mary Ann Wellmon Hendrick of Shelby. Hester was born March 8, 1856 on her parents farm at Shelby (Now called Rose Hill and owned by the Meachams). She was a faithful worker in Sunday School and the church at New Bethel Baptist Church, East of Lawndale.

Ambrose Haywood and Hester Hendrick Cline

Six children were born to this union: D. Augustus Cline, born September 27, 1880 and died May 21, 1942, who married Eloise Stamey, born June 20, 1883 and died July 2, 1929; Zeb Vance Cline, born November 14, 1885 and died April 20, 1960, who married Hattie Pearl Borders; Dona, born January 2, 1884 and died September 20, 1962, who married Mike L. Borders, born March 10, 1881 and died June 8, 1978; Clayton, (1888-1911) who married John Allen Dixon; V. Otho Cline, born July 6, 1893 and died June 10, 1973, who married Kate Tucker and J. Raymond Cline, born February 5, 1895, who married Leola Borders, born July 26, 1893, and died October 18, 1955, and who married the second time to Vertie Champion, born May 17, 1894 and died December 8, 1977.

Ambrose and Hester also reared their granddaughter, Ruth Dixon, daughter of Clayton Cline and John Allen, who were murdered in 1911. Ruth married Doctor Walter Lackey of Fallston.

Ambrose's brothers and sisters were Katherine (1850-1935) who married Zimri Falls; David Anderson Cline, Jr. (1853-1908), who married Mattie DePriest; John F. (1847-1923) who married Mary Hoyle; Jerome F. (1859-1921) who married Louisa Beam; Henry Sylvester (1862-1934) who married three times: Alice Dickson (1861-1890), Willie Warlick (1864-1897) and Louise Stockton (1867-1944); Mag Cline (1865-1963) who married Frank Hendrick of Shelby and Lou (1869-1954), who married Tom Stamey of Fallston. Incidentally, Frank Hendrick was a brother to Ambrose's wife, Hester.

Ambrose built a home on a tract of land on which he was born near Double Shoals between Fallston and Lawndale. The family lived there until the children were of school age and they then moved to Shelby, living on Lee Street and then on North Morgan Street in the vicinity of the Lutz Furniture Company location. Hessian, or Hess as she was sometimes called, was a believer in education and spent many hours tutoring her children. While living in Shelby, Ambrose operated a grocery store, but in the 1890s moved to a large farm located on Buffalo Creek East of Shelby which he purchased from Preacher Thomas Dixon. He later bought additional land increasing the acreage. This farm was known throughout the county for its many acres of rich bottomland. The farm was surveyed in 1876 by Surveyor J.R. Logan and the road passing through the farm was known as Old Post Road and/or Mill Road and later as Stoney Point Road.

In later life, he moved back to Shelby where he died at his home on North Morgan Street on November 4, 1929. The Cline farm remained in the Cline family, with sons Zeb and Otho establishing their farming and livestock operations. At this writing, three grandsons, John Dixon Cline, Buford D. Cline and Ambrose Borders Cline reside on parts of the original Cline Farm. All of the fine bottomland is now inundated by Moss Lake.

Ambrose was an active member of Elizabeth Baptist Church and he and Hester, who died August 25, 1936, are buried in the church cemetery.

He also served on a committee of men in the county who were responsible for dredging of Buffalo Creek throughout the county and other drainage work on which a book is on file at the County Courthouse.

This paragraph, taken from the Star in 1929, at the time of his death, perhaps describes him best:

"Mr. Cline was one of the county's most substantial and prominent citizens. He was a farmer and livestock dealer and his thrift, enterprise and fine business judgment crowned his life with success. In all of his dealings, he was honest and those who came in contact with him, loved him for his magnanimous spirit. He was devoted to his family and shared during his lifetime much of his competence with his children."

Sources: From Church and Family Records and Cleveland Co. Library.

— Mrs. A.B. Cline

DAVID ANDERSON and RACHAEL CHARLOTTE LATTIMORE CLINE

341

David Anderson Cline, called "King" Cline, was the son of John Klein I (1799-1845) and

David Anderson and Rachael Lattimore Cline

Family of David Anderson Cline, Katherine Cline Falls not shown. Preacher Thomas Dixon seated on left.

Katherine Muehl (Mull). His great-great grandfather was Sebastian Bostian Klein, who came to America from Germany in 1739. (See article on Sebastian (Bostian) Klein.

Records of the first census in 1850 list the household of David Anderson Cline and family and he was shown as a farmer. He owned some 1200 plus acres of land in the area above Double Shoals between Fallston and Lawndale. In fact, the old two story frame King Cline home, which is now owned by David Beam, is still standing.

On July 23, 1846, he married Rachael Charlotte Lattimore, whose Father was Frank Lattimore. Records show they were married by Rev. Drury Dobbins, Baptist Minister.

David Anderson and Charlotte had eight children:

John Franklin Cline (1847-1923) who married Mary Elizabeth Hoyle.

Sara Catherine (1850-1935) who married John Zimri Falls, Jr.

David Anderson Cline, Jr. (1853-1908) who married Martha Jane DePriest (1861-1941). (See related article).

Ambrose Haywood Cline (1855-1929), who married Eudora Hessian Hendrick (1856-1936).

Jerome F. (born June 7, 1859 — Died December 30, 1921) who married Louiza Beam, born April 8, 1861.

Henry Sylvester ("Ves") (1862-1934) was married three times. His marriages were to Alice Dickson, born May 12, 1861, died February 12, 1880; Willie Warlick, born July 23, 1864 and died August 19, 1897 and Lou Stockton, born October 1, 1867 and died July 16, 1944.

Maggie (1865-1963) who married Frank Hendrick.

David Anderson Cline, Jr.

Rachel Louisa ("Lou") who married Tom Stamey.

David and Charlotte were members of New Bethel Church East of Lawndale. Early church records show David joined in its first year of organization in 1848 and served for years as a Deacon. Records also indicate he served as Assistant to the Superintendent of the Sabbath School which he helped organize in 1865 and he served on a building committee, along with four other men in 1879.

David Anderson Cline died June 9, 1894 and his gravestone shows his age as seventy one years, six months and four days.

Charlotte died October 18, 1892 and the gravestone shows she died at the age of sixty four years, nine months and twenty one days.

Both are buried at New Bethel Baptist Church East of Lawndale.

Sources: From Family Records and Mr. Robert Gidney.
— Mrs. Ambrose B. Cline

DAVID ANDERSON CLINE, JR. 342

David Anderson Cline, Jr. was the son of David Anderson Cline and Rachael Charlotte Lattimore. He was the fifth generation of Clines, being a descendant of Sebastian (Bostian) Klein from Germany. David was born January 25, 1853 on a farm in Cleveland County located north of Double Shoals and between Fallston and Lawndale.

He married young Martha Jane DePriest, daughter of William Cansalor DePriest (1818-1897) and Rebecca Baber (1824-1899), who was of French descent. It is remembered her wedding gown was of grey silk. Martha Jane, known as "Mattie" was born April 15, 1861. The DePriests were from the Cherry Mountain area of Rutherford County.

By occupation, David was a farmer, owning considerable acreage in the Lawndale area bordering Broad River and Maple Creek. He built and owned the Old Pearl Mill, which was located on Maple Creek. Their homeplace, a large two-story frame house, which burned in the 1920s, was located just East of Lawndale near Piedmont Hill. In fact, Piedmont School, which was chartered and incorporated in the 1900s became the second largest boarding school in the State and evolved into Piedmont Elementary and High Schools, was located on a part of the Cline Farm. A bungalow was rebuilt by Mattie on the home site after the first home burned and this house still stands.

They produced cotton, corn, grain, fruit and, of course, grew their own vegetables and meat, being quite self-sufficient. They had a huge room dug out on the hillside underneath large solid rock on Maple Creek, which they called the "Ice House". In the wintertime, they cut blocks of ice from the pond and stored it in the ice house until late spring and early summer.

David was once described by John F. Schenck, Sr. of Lawndale as "a happy fellow, brave and muscular and was what was called 'mutch of a man' ". He was known as a stammerer. He had light coppery colored hair and blue eyes and a fine sense of humor.

David Jr.'s brothers and sisters were John Franklin Cline; M. Sylvester Cline; Lou Cline, who married Tom Stamey; Mag Cline, who married Frank Hendrick of Shelby; Ambrose Haywood Cline, who married Eudora Hessentine Hendrick of Shelby, Jerome F. Cline, who married Louiza Beam; and Catherine, who married Zimri Falls.

Twelve children were born to David and Mattie as follows:

The first, Ida Ulysses, born May 11, 1878, died June 27, 1913, married William Crook Lee, born October 26, 1841 and died December 20, 1909. They had three children: Glenn, born March 31, 1903 and died April 1, 1959, who married Elizabeth McEntire; Cline Owen

Mattie Jane DePriest Cline, wife of David Anderson Cline, Jr.

Lee, born October 18, 1907 and died October 26, 1966, who married Beatrice Rose; and Martha Sedelle, born February 26, 1910, who married Neb M. Grigg.

The second child of David and Mattie was Jerome Bynum, who was born February 28, 1880 and died January 5, 1920. He was a bachelor.

The third child, William Frank, born December 22, 1881 and died May 7, 1965, married Bertha Gold and they had two children, Cleve and Inez. (See related article on William Frank Cline).

Thomas Cleveland was born April 13, 1884 and died August 22, 1893, at the age of nine years.

Gazzie Lou, was born December 18, 1888 and died June 25, 1889.

John Hoyte, born January 19, 1895 and died June 18, 1973, married Fairie Williamson, born April 7, 1901 and died February 26, 1978. Their children were Martha DePriest ("Chick") born September 29, 1926; Clifton Franklin ("Bub:") born January 12, 1928 and killed in a plane crash February 28, 1965; Carolyn Bertha, born February 28, 1932; Imogene Lee, born July 9, 1934; Nell, born August 27, 1938 and John Hoyte, Jr., born May 29, 1941.

Rebecca Pearle, born July 15, 1886 and died June 7, 1957, married D. Audley Gold, born August 3, 1876 and died July 8, 1958, and moved to Blacksburg, S.C. Their children were Thelma Gold (Thayer), born August 16, 1905, died October 27, 1937; Janet Gold (Owen), born November 4, 1907; Pauline Gold (Bridges), born June 18, 1913; De Audleen Gold, born February 17, 1917, and Daniel Audley Gold, born November 19, 1922.

Maggie, who married Doctor Will Shellum, moved to Ansonville where she lived until her death. They had two daughters, Catherine, who married Milton Smith and Virginia, who married Gene Bolick.

David Huss, born July 12, 1892. (See related article)

Paul Clark, born May 15, 1897 and died August 8, 1935, married Josie Smith, and their children are Paul Clark, Jr., born January 1, 1920 and Colleen.

Griffin was born September 2, 1902 and died August 2, 1921. He was a bachelor.

The twelfth child, Mattie Lee, was born February 22, 1900. She married Samuel McBride Poston and moved to Shelby (See related article on Samuel McBride Poston).

David died April 13, 1908 and his wife, Mattie, died December 29, 1941. Both are buried in New Bethel Baptist Church, East of Lawndale.

Sources: From family records, Cleveland County Library and Mr. Robert Gidney.

— Mrs. Ambrose B. Cline

THE FAMILY OF DAVID HUSTLER CLINE, ELLA LUTZ and VIVIAN ARLINE ODOM

343

David Hustler "Huss" Cline (b. 7-12-1892 Lawndale, NC) tenth of twelve children, was reared on his parents' farm located between Lawndale and New Bethel Baptist Church.

David Anderson, Jr. (b. 1-25-1853 Cleveland Co., d. 4-13-1908 Lawndale, NC), his farmer father, dealt in livestock and real estate, founded the Pearl Grist Mill on Maple Creek at Lawndale and gave the initial land on which to build the original Piedmont School. As the school grew, he sold additional parcels of land necessary for dormitories and building the grades thru high school, including an athletic field. Stockily built he was approximately 5'-10" tall, and had coppery red hair, a beard, and bright blue eyes. He died of Bright's disease. His farming parents were Charlotte Lattimore and David Anderson, son of David King Anderson.

Martha Jane DePriest (b. 4-15-1861, Cherry Mountain, d. 12-29-1941, Shelby), his mother, was a pleasant stately woman with dark brown hair and blue eyes. Her home seemed to be the gathering place for her twelve children to bring friends and cousins. She was a wonderful cook, and when preparing a meal, never knew how many would arrive in time to eat and always prepared large pots of food.

In addition to her children, she reared several grandchildren, following their mother's deaths. She was very industrious around the farm and home, even assisting her husband nail shingles onto the roof when building back following a fire. Her parents were William Canselar DePriest and Myra Rebecca Baber.

After the death of Huss's father, he helped operate the farm and married Ella Lutz (b. 9-24-1894, d. 8-6-1916 Lawndale, buried Shelby's Sunset Cemetery) who died giving birth to their third child, a son who died at birth. She was very beautiful, with brown hair, blue eyes, and a lovely disposition. Their children were:

"Mildred" Rebecka (b. 4-6-1913 Lawndale, d. 10-29-1964, buried Shelby's Sunset) married Ward Hunter Arey, Jr., of Shelby, (deceased), Children:

(a) Rebecca Carol "Becky" — husband

"Vivian" A. Odom in 1918

Loyd Baxter Smith; children: Kimberly (Kim) Carol, Loyd (Kip) Baxter, Jr., "Scott" Wylie, "Seth" Anthony. (b) William Jackson (Jack) — wife Sara "Carole" Suttle; children: Mildred (Millie) Carole, William (Bill) Jackson, Jr. She later married Gastonia's Paul Vaughn (deceased).

David Hustler, Jr. (D.H., Jr.) married Veva Armour of Shelby, deceased, children: (a) David Hustler, III (Sonny) — wife Tenny Mullinax, children: Mellisa and David Hustler, IV. (b) Richard (Dick) Carrol — wife Jean Green; children: Jaquitha and Jeanna Lynn. His second wife, Debby Carpenter, produced son Ricky Jr. who died of cancer at age four. He presently lives in Florida with third wife, Debby, (c) Frederic (Fred) Eugene — wife Darlene Philbeck; Children: Kelly and Fred, Jr. D.H. Jr.'s second wife is Merlyn Black (Cherryville, NC) whose daughter is Janice Richards — husband Harold Watts; children: Janna and Johnny.

Following Ella's death in 1916, Huss realized $200 from their entire farming year. Recalling the thrill and excitement he felt first seeing an automobile, he knew he wanted to be associated with that growing business. Not knowing how to accomplish this, he left Mildred and D.H., Jr., in the care of his mother and went to Detroit, Michigan. Obtaining production employment with Ford Motor Co., he saved enough to purchase a Buick sedan which he drove back to Lawndale to visit his family. He later sold this car making an excellent profit and began working for Lawrence Lacky of Shelby, NC, selling Buicks.

Vivian Arline Odom (b. 10-2-1898 Hertford Co., NC, d. 6-15-1978 Shelby/Sunset burial) was the last of six children born of Charles Richard and "Molly" Ann Deanes who died at Vivian's birth. Reared by her aunt, Lydia "Annie" Odom, and husband, James Mattison Tayloe, at Woodland, NC, she was a Chowan College music graduate and taught voice and piano several years at Piedmont School. She was 5'-2" tall and weighed about 115 pounds. She appreciated beauty where it was found, was vivacious and enjoyed people. After marrying "Huss" (11-21-1918) in Rutherfordton, NC, they settled in Lawndale and began their family, who are:

(1) Mary Annie, married Robert (Buddy) Earl Armour of Shelby producing Ann Tayloe and Betty Ruth. Her second husband was Alex Keeler Barberree of Alabama.

(2) "Janie" Tayloe married Stough Alexander Wray of Shelby. They are parents of: (a) Stough Alexander, Jr. — wife Sarah Helen McEntire; children: Stough (Chip) Alexander, III, "Shelley" Hope, Sarah Louise (Lou Lou), "Rush" Aaron. (b) Janie (Jane) Cline married Daniel (Dan) Hugh Ledbetter (b. 1-8-1942, d. 5-23-1977, buried Shelby's Sunset) whose accidental death was from carbon monoxide poisoning at the Shelby Water Treatment Plant. Children are "Anna" Christine, Daniel (Danny) Hugh, Jr., Julia "Lee" and "David" Wray.

(3) "Lillian" Sue (b. 12-9-1923 Lawndale d. 6-20-1981 Atlanta) married Walter Everett (Bill) Haney of Marshville, NC children: (a) "Vivian" Eulalia — husband James (Jim) Fox; their child: Lillian "Leigh." (b) Walter (Walt) Everett, Jr. — wife "Lissa" Gayle Bomar; child Walter Wesley (Wess). Lillian's stepdaughter is Linda Thompson — husband Robert (Bob) Prater children: Denise, Bobby Jr., and John.

(4) "Marshall" Odom married "Iva" Ellen Hoyle of Casar, NC, whose children are: (a) Lucile "Arline" — husband Claude Osborne Ross Children: Claude (Clay) Osborne, Jr. (b) "Marshall" Odom, Jr. — wife Cathy Powell Children: Marshall (Mark) Odom, III, "Adam" Micheal. His second wife is Terry Rogers.

By 1927, Huss and Vivian were settled into their 715 E. Marion Street, Shelby, NC, home and his car business was good. He soon acquired the Chevrolet Agency which he held until 1938 when he retired due to tuberculosis. After WW II, he continued his show horse hobby, opened Cline Motors, a Nash dealership, and retired in the early 1970's. Marshall own and operates Cline Motors, an AMC/Jeep/GMC Truck dealership. "Huss" and Vivian also dealt in real estate. Both were kind and generous to their children throughout their lives.

D. "Huss" Cline in 1934

Stough A. Wray courting Janie T. Cline, Fall, 1936

Sources: Personal knowledge, family records

— Slough A. Wray, Jr.

DAVID MILLS CLINE

344

My father, David Mills Cline, was born in Cleveland County, August 10, 1886, to John Franklin and Mary Elizabeth Hoyle Cline. His only brother was Jacob Spurgeon; his sisters, Lottie (Mrs. B.B.) Suttle; Artlisse (Mrs. William) Cornwell; Margaret (Mrs. Lumas) Klutz; Mittie (Mrs. Charlie) Cornwell; Eula (Mrs. E.L.) Webb; (She is still living and celebrated her 103 birthday Christmas Day, 1981. She can recount many childhood and adolescent happenings); and Nouvella (Mrs. Anderson) Kiser.

His father, John Franklin a farmer, was the son of David Anderson and Charlotte Lattimore Cline whose lineage can be traced to Sebastian Cline who arrived in America in 1739 from Germany. Also my grandfather was a Civil War veteran who served with the Cleveland volunteers in the 55 Regiment, Company F. He joined the Confederate Army when he was only sixteen years old. He and my grandmother are buried in New Prospect Baptist Church Cemetery.

Daddy was reared on his father's farm which was located four miles north of Shelby between Broad River and Buffalo Creek. Today the McBrayer and Zion Church roads run through this property. The old Cline house still stands and reflects the late Nineteenth Century architecture. Daddy attended grade school (free school) at the Botts School which was located on the farm. Then he attended boarding school at Piedmont Academy, Lawndale, N.C. Later he enlisted in the Army during World War I. He served in the 81st Division, 317 Field Artillery, in France. He was proud that he served his country and never missed the reunion meeting of the 81st Division.

Upon returning home, he married Hester Cabaniss. They settled on a portion of the land that he was reared on and became a cotton farmer and mule dealer. He traded mules in Shelby at the old Hachett Blanton stables, once a livery stable. In addition to mule trading he loved to raise cotton. The tenant-landlord system was used. All cultivating was done by mules. A giant step (later an enemy to his mule-trading business) was taken when he bought one of the first John Deere tractors in the county around 1926 or 1927.

My mother, Hester, was a very versatile woman. She was an excellent cook. Her kitchen was her haven. Family, friends, and strangers were always welcome for a meal. She could prepare plain food into a gourmet meal. Her hands were busy ones. When not in the kitchen she sewed or visited, particularly the sick. She helped the doctor in various homes at the birth of babies. Laboring mothers would say "Call the doctor, and go for Hess Cline."

Through the years they were faithful members of New Prospect Baptist Church (both are buried here), attended many big meetings and memorial day services; they raised many cotton crops, hosted yearly corn-shuckings, planted big gardens, made gallons of molasses, operated a saw-mill and raised five children, two boys and three girls.

John William Cline born in 1920, a World War II veteran married Lillian Self. They reside at the homeplace, 1901 Fallston Road on a portion of grandfather's property. Their only child John William Cline, Jr. married Martha McDonald. They live in Fayetteville, North Carolina.

David Mills Cline, Jr. born in 1931 married Amanda Francis. He also is a veteran. They live on Zion Church Road on another portion of the original Cline land. They have two children David Mills Cline, III and Leslie Cline.

Margaret Arledge, born in 1922, married Thurston Arledge and live in Tryon, N.C. Their two sons are David and Michael Arledge.

Mary Shaw, born in 1925, married Johnny Shaw and live in Deland, Florida. Their children are Robert, Edward and Roger Wire and Karen Shaw.

Eloise Douglas, born in 1928, died in 1973, married Dick Douglas. Their children are Hester and Timothy Douglas.

Sources: family records, personal knowledge, and memories.

— John W. Cline

THE HENRY SYLVESTER CLINE FAMILY

345

Henry Sylvester (Ves) Cline was born July 30, 1862 in Cleveland County, and died February 20, 1934. He was the son of David Anderson Cline (January 5, 1823 — June 9, 1894) and Rachel Charlotte Lattimore Cline (April 27, 1825 — October 18, 1892). They were also born in Cleveland County. He was the youngest of a family of eight children: Catherine (Mrs. Zimri) Falls, Lou (Mrs. T.A.) Stamey, Mag (Mrs. Frank) Hendrick, David, Jerome, John and Ambrose.

He was thrice married, the first time to Alice Dixon (May 12, 1861 — February 19, 1890) to which there were three daughters: Emma Jane (June 26, 1884 — May 13, 1961); Rachel Charlotte (February 24, 1886 — February 4, 1904); and Laura Lee (May 27, 1888 — August 30, 1975).

The second marriage was to Willie Mae Warlick (July 23, 1864 — August 19, 1897). To this union were born two sons: James Sylvester (June 29, 1891 — April 23, 1948) and William Robert (July 13, 1894 — November 24, 1965).

The third marriage was to Charity Louise Stockton (October 1, 1867 — July 16, 1944). To this union were born three sons: Thomas Fulton (November 12, 1893 — March 20, 1979); Edward Dewey (December 12, 1902 — May 24, 1956); Forest Floyd (July 11, 1908 — July 30, 1965); and one daughter Willie Mae (December 21, 1904).

He loved his family, his church, his fellow-men. He was a faithful supporter of New Bethel Baptist Church and was an active member and a deacon. He was a man who enjoyed his family and made it a practice to hold an annual picnic for his children and grandchildren. A remarkable family relationship existed among all the children of Mr. Cline's. Even though there were three sets of children, they all felt and loved each other as full brothers and sisters.

He was one of the largest land owners in the county and also a dealer in livestock. Those who had dealings with him had confidence in his judgement and representations. He was never known to press a debtor unduly. He was quiet and assuming in his nature and enjoyed the confidence and esteem of all who knew him. The strong family ties and love of the Fallston community made Fallston the choice of all eight of Mr. Cline's children and their families.

Emma Jane was the first born to Henry Sylvester and Rachel Charlotte Cline. She married William Franklin Hamrick (merchant) June 12, 1877 — March 1, 1963) to whom were born four children: Dillard Sylvester (1915-1964) who married Beatrice Howell and they have two daughters Mary Dee and Aretta; William Dixon (September 19, 1917 —) and is married to Elizabeth Bridges and their daughters are Elizabeth (Betsy) and Nancy; Lou Alice (December 27, 1919) is married to Joseph Carpenter Whisnant, and they have one son Joseph, Jr.; Alvin Houser (April 10 1922) married Pauline Willard and they have two daughters, Jane Celeste and Jean Paulette and one son William Alvin.

Daughter Laura Lee married Claude Connally Falls (farmer and fertilizer dealer) (May 17, 1879 — January 9, 1950). To this union were born these children: Robert Watson (March 14, 1912); Henry Sylvester (December 11, 1913) who married Zora Boggs and they have one son Claude Connally; Laura Alice (August 29, 1921) married David C. Garvin, Jr. and they have three sons: Stephen Edward, David Connally (March 13, 1947 — December 24, 1981); Richard Gary; Lillian Ann (November 25, 1924) married Robert Milton Michael (May 4, 1926 — November 7, 1976) and they have one daughter Laura Elizabeth; Jean Cline Falls (September 20, 1928) married Joseph A. Whitner and they have two children who are Laura Lee and Thomas Andrew; A son Ralph C. Falls, born July 2, 1909, died July 11, 1910.

James Sylvester, a son (lawyer) married Mary Mae Wise (August 23, 1903) to whom three children were born: Minnie Mae (May 7, 1921) who married John J. Boggs and they had one daughter, Johnette; Mabel Elenna (August 20, 1923 — June 7, 1925); and James Sylvester, Jr. (May 7, 1926) who married Yvonne Whisnant and they have four daughters who are Mary Elizabeth, Nancy, Virginia and Laura.

A son William Robert (farmer — livestock dealer) married Agnes Griffin and they had one son, James Robert. He married Claire Holling to whom were born two children, Candace, and James Robert, Jr.

A son Thomas Fulton Cline (merchant) married Tessie Estell Dellinger (October 5, 1900-) to whom were born four children: Henry Sylvester (H.S.) (May 14, 1922 —) married to Dorothy Alene Crouse (February 10, 1923). Their children are: Judy, Dale, and Vicky; Carol Dellinger Cline (November 19, 1923 —) is married to Helen Lopez; Ralph Fulton Cline (September 7, 1928 —) is married to Jackie Warlick and they have two children: Susan Elizabeth and Cristy Jeanine.

Edward Dewey Cline (farmer and livestock dealer) married Ruby Louise Lattimore (November 27, 1889 — December 15, 1982). To this union were born two daughters, Dorcas Louise (January 2, 1923) who is married to Jack Hutchins White and they have three children: Jack, Jr., Nancy and Allyson; Dorothy Ann (December 8, 1925) is married to Dwight Beam Hord, DDS and they have three daughters: Anne, Jeane, Ellen, and a son Edward Cline Hord.

A daughter, Willie, married Austin Alexander Lackey, DDS (November 12, 1899 — April 4, 1965). They have one son Austin, Jr. He married Lenore Plonk and they have one son, Robert, and a daughter, Margaret Elizabeth.

Willie Mae Cline Lackey married William Judson Jones (January 29, 1893).

A son, Forest Floyd Cline (July 11, 1908 — July 30, 1965) married Ellen Josephine Ramsey (5/1/1905 —).

Sources: family records, news clippings, and tombstones.

— Mrs. Jim Cline, Jr.

Thomas Franklin and Sarah Cline

THOMAS FRANKLIN CLINE FAMILY

346

Thomas Franklin Cline and wife Sarah "Sally" Jane Beam were both members of pioneer Cleveland County families of German origin. Mr. Cline was born July 11, 1858, the son of Lieutenant Henry Cline who served in the War Between the States, and wife Mary Willis Cline, daughter of Joseph and Sarah Boyles Willis.

Thomas F. Cline was the great-great-grandson of Jacob Kline (Klein) and Veronica Gertrude Maelick Kline, who came from Germany in 1735 to Hunterdon County, N.J. and settled at New Germantown.

Mr. and Mrs. Cline were married November 22, 1883, in Cleveland County, by the Rev. Thurman Poston. Mrs. Cline, born March 22, 1863 was the daughter of David Marcus Beam, a veteran of the War Between the States, and Lottie Nolan Beam, and the great-granddaughter of John Teeter Beam of Hamburg, Germany, who landed in Charleston, S.C., November 1767, and Elizabeth Rudolph Beam. John Teeter Beam settled on Beaver Dam Creek in Lincoln County but later moved to Buffalo Creek in Cleveland County. He is buried at New Prospect Church in Cleveland County.

Thomas Franklin and his father Henry Cline built and operated two stores on North Lafayette Street, Shelby, N.C. They also operated a roller mill. Franklin F. later traveled throughout the area selling textile machinery. The 1900 Cleveland County Census lists Thomas Franklin Cline as the superintendent of the old Buffalo Cotton Mill. In 1901 he purchased from C.P. Miller the historic Adams Reep farm on the Lincoln-ton-Reepsville highway and since that time he and his wife made their home in Lincoln County. After retiring from operating his large farm he and Mrs. Cline spent their winters in Florida.

The Clines had five children: David Ambrose, born 1887, married Bessie Mae Smith. He still owns the family farm. Their children are Henry, who died in World War II, married Charlotte Jean Holder; Thomas Ray married Mary Annette Blanton of Lattimore. They live in Marion N.C. (See Roy Cline article in book); Marybell, married Horace Rhyne of Lincoln-ton; and Haywood Cline, who still operates the big Cline farm, married Louise Leanord.

Noah Henry (b. January 4, 1889, d. October 11, 1947) lived in Lincoln-ton, he never married.

Ollie Mae, born November 23, 1891 married

Rush Stroup of Cleveland County. Mrs. Stroup is a businesswoman and philanthropist. She is known for her work at Gardner-Webb and Mars Hill Colleges, and Wake Forest University. She has been a member of the board of trustees at all three institutions.

Mary Ethel, born 1894, married Earl Honeycutt of Rutherford County, N.C. Mr. and Mrs. Honeycutt made their home in Shelby. Their children are: Earl Jr., married Janis Roberts and Sarah Ellen who married Julian Hamrick.

Sources: Mrs. Earl Honeycutt, Lincoln Co. News Article, (1933) 50th. anniversary

— Mrs. Earl Honeycutt

THOMAS RAY CLINE and ANNETTE BLANTON CLINE

347

Thomas Ray Cline (born 4 November 1917 in Lincoln County, NC) is the son of David

Ambrose (1887-) and Bessie Mae Smith Cline (1887-1971) and the grandson of Thomas Franklin (1858-1943) and Sarah Jane Beam Cline (1863-1948) who were all natives of Cleveland County (see Thomas F. Cline Article).

Ray was graduated from Appalachian State Teachers College (1938). After a very short career in the teaching profession, he enlisted in the United States Coast Guard. He was stationed at Manhatten Beach, New York during World War II as a Chief Petty Officer. After the war he became a partner in a chain of auto parts stores which he still operates.

On 15 August 1942, Ray married Mary Annette Blanton (born 21 April 1915) daughter of John Samuel and Garva Ella Harrill Blanton of Lattimore. They were married 15 August 1942, in "The Little Church Around the Corner" in New York City.

Annette was graduated from Boiling Springs Junior College (Gardner-Webb) and Appalachian State Teachers College (1939). She was chosen "Miss Appalachian" of 1939 and was elected to the May Court, and represented Appalachian as a soloist in their weekly radio broadcast from WBT Charlotte. She taught in the Kannapolis and Marion (NC) City Schools with a total of 32 years of service.

Annette and Ray are very active in the church and civic activities in Marion. Annette is soloist in her church choir and teaches a Sunday School Class. A former member of Sweet Adelines, has been chairman of the Advisory board for the McDowell County Nursing Homes, and is on the Advisory board for Agricultural Extension Service in McDowell County. Both enjoy golf as a hobby. Ray is a member of the Board of Directors for the North Carolina Automotive Association and the North Western Bank. He is a trustee of McDowell Technical College, secretary and treasurer of Marion Credit Company, former chairman of the Hospital Board, and a member of the cities planning board. He is a deacon and treasurer at the First Baptist Church. They have two children: Thomas Ray, Jr., is a salesman for the Volvo and Mercedes Trucks. He and his wife, Shearon Holmes McIntosh Cline live in Greensboro. Their children are Estelle Holmes McIntosh Cline (9 May 1972) and Thomas Ray Cline III (28 January 1980).

Janis Annette is a teacher of the gifted in the Charlotte-Mecklenburg School System. Her husband Robert Henry Taylor, is an engineer with Aetna Insurance Company. Janis and her brother Thomas Ray, Jr., are graduates of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

Sources: Family knowledge

— Mrs. Ray Cline

V. OTHA CLINE FAMILY

348

Our daddy, V. Otha Cline, born in Cleveland County, July 6, 1893, to Ambrose Haywood and Hester Hamrick Cline. He was a brother of D. Augustus (Gus), Zeb, Vance, J. Raymond, Dona (Mrs. Mike Borders), and Clayton (Mrs. John Dixon). The farm, which daddy inherited, still is found east of Shelby on Kings Mountain's Moss Lake (formerly Buffalo Creek). The original homeplace was torn down and replaced with a modern brick home in 1938, using the sturdy 100 year old beams, and it is in this house that Buford, the oldest son and his family live. The Cline ancestry has been traced to 16th Century Germany. (See the Ambrose Haywood Cline History).

Daddy, his parents, and four of his brothers and sisters are deceased and buried in the Elizabeth Baptist Church cemetery. The one living brother, J. Raymond, makes his home in Shelby, North Carolina. Daddy died June 10, 1973; his wife, our Mother, died May 1, 1969.

To acquire a higher education than that offered in the one room schools of his day, daddy had the opportunity to attend Boiling Springs High School. Many "wild" interesting tales have been told and retold of these days.

V. Otha married Katherine Myrtle Tucker (Kate), born April 18, 1892, daughter of Columbus Alexander and Victoria Augusta Beatty Tucker, on April 20, 1916.

Daddy was a large scale farmer, as well as a well-known livestock dealer. The farm, formerly the Thomas A. Dixon land, and bought by our grandfather, (A.H. Cline) is rich in history and was known for its productivity. The bottom land, along Buffalo Creek, produced such big, tall corn that it was said: "You needed a ladder to reach the top ears of corn." Cotton was grown to provide the main money crop, and was cultivated and harvested with the help of several dependable tenant families and the "industrious" children of Otha and Kate Cline. We, as children experienced many cotton boll fights, "imagined" aching backs, and yes, some sore derrieres in the process of harvesting the crops.

Daddy's livestock business was begun around 1925, in partnership with his brother, Zeb Cline. He made many trips to Tennessee and South Carolina to buy mules, horses, and ponies. The livestock stables were first located on what is now known as Trade Street, and later moved to Graham Street, when a blacksmith shop was added. In the early days of business, the livestock was shipped to Shelby by railroad cars, but soon he made his buying trips by truck, returning loaded with mules. He recognized and sold only "good stock", and he, too, always kept well-fed, well-trained mules and horses for his own farm use and pleasure.

"Horse lovers never die, they just fade away"; this statement could apply to our daddy. He never lost his interest and love for horses, owning many outstanding, beautiful Tennessee walking horses. His many silver trophies, and numerous blue ribbons won at horse shows in and around North Carolina are part of our heritage. He enjoyed his role as chief marshal for the great Cleveland County Fair for many years, another opportunity for him to ride one of his favorite horses. He served as Director of the Horses and Ponies Department, and was instrumental in beginning the pony races at the fair, and these proved to be a highly competitive event among youngsters of that day. The Cline children made up a large number of the entrants, the daughter, Helen, being the first girl in Cleveland County to ride in the pony races.

Soon after Mother and Daddy's wedding, April 20, 1916, they saw their first crops destroyed by the "big flood," but not their faith and love in farming.

Mother canned, pickled, and preserved from the beautiful garden and fruit trees. Meat was butchered and cured. Cows, chickens, pigs, mules, horses and ponies were tended for food, work and pleasure. "Mom" had many talents — an excellent cook, experienced seamstress, teacher, nurse, bookkeeper and a good manager of her resources. The kitchen was the heart of the home, filled with the aroma of her "melt-in-your-mouth rolls," country ham, and many other goodies, reason for full stomachs and happy hearts. Her hands were busy much of the time making garments and household articles. Before marrying, she taught at Sharon School, and she continued to use her teaching skills with her own children. Not only did she teach us the "basic 3 R's" but values which were priceless. She encouraged all of her children to use their potential and abilities to the fullest, pursuing a career through further education. She and Daddy lived to see this goal and dream fulfilled.

They were blessed with five children:

Buford Dempsey, born September 27, 1921; married to Wilda Reese. Their children are: Elizabeth (Beth), deceased; twins Raye, married to Janet Goodwin Atkins and they have three children — Britta, Donald and Zac; and Kaye (Mrs. Joe Broughton); they have two children, Bert and Barbie.

Joe Corrace, born January 11, 1924, married to Betty Bradley. Their children are: William Tucker (Tuck), married to Virginia Lightner; Jane (Mrs. Tim Yandle); and Steven.

Helen Eloise, born July 8, 1926; married to Robert Wilson Borders. Their children are: Robert Jr., married to Beverly Byrd, and they have one son, Will; Steven Cline married to

Thomas Ray and Annette Blanton Cline

V. Otha Cline Family. Front: Ben, V.O., Helen. Middle: Otha, Kate. Back: Buford, Joe

Cynthia Bettis, and they have one son, Ben; and Nancy.

Benjamin Eugene, born September 13, 1928; married Frances Scism. Their children are: Benjamin Eugene Jr., and Vickie. Ben was killed in a car accident, January 19, 1957.

V. Otha, Jr. born June 12, 1931; married to Jane Horn. Their children are: Karla Marie (Mrs. Johnny Patrick), twins Mark and William (Bill).

Sources: The family Bible, personal knowledge and memories.

— Helen Cline Borders and Buford D. Cline

WILLIAM FRANK CLINE and DESCENDANTS

349

William Frank Cline, born December 22, 1881, died May 7, 1965, was the son of David Anderson Cline, Jr. and Martha Jane DePriest. He was born on the family farm at Lawndale near Old Piedmont School. He was one of twelve children.

He started his education at Old Piedmont School at Cleveland Mills just above the homeplace in 1898. The school was later moved to Lawndale.

Frank married Fanny Bertha Gold, daughter of Dr. G.M. Gold and Sarah Josephine Packard Gold and they were married for sixty-one years.

His father, David Anderson, gave him some land from the Cline estate on which he built a home and acquired additional farm land. He was a good farmer and prospered. An outdoorsman, he loved to fox hunt and kept a pack of July Fox hounds, his favorite breed. He also enjoyed quail hunting and fishing immensely. He had a deep love for baseball, which was a favorite pastime in those days and was known quite often to slip away from his farming to umpire a game when Piedmont School played. When he called a play, no one questioned his decision. He was a fair and honest man in everything. He was also an outstanding catcher and could play other positions just as well. The family lived on the farm from about 1905 until 1925 when they moved to their second home in Lawndale (on what is now NC 182), just a short distance from his birthplace. He was a staunch Democrat.

Bertha, who was often called "Easie", also attended Old Piedmont School at Cleveland Mills and there are commencement programs of Old Cleveland Mills still in the family. She, as well as Frank, was a member of New Bethel Baptist Church. She was baptized in 1906. Bertha was honored by New Bethel Baptist Church on her retirement as organist. She had been organist for forty years and missed only seven Sundays at the keyboard, due to sickness, and never missed a revival service. She was seventy-nine when she retired, but continued to serve as assistant organist, playing once a month. She continued to attend church until she broke her hip two and one-half years before her death at the age of 94 years, 11 months and twenty five days. She was born January 13, 1886 and died December 25, 1980. She was a kind and patient lady and of a quiet nature. Bertha was the head of a five generation family: Inez Cline Elmore, J.B. Elmore, Jr., Connie Elmore Grigg, and Scott Grigg. She lived to see four more great great grandchildren.

Frank and Bertha had two children:

Pearl Inez Cline, born July 27, 1904, married Johnnie B. Elmore on December 28, 1922. A homemaker, active in church work at New Bethel, she taught a class for thirty years. She has been a Home Demonstration member for more than fifty years and was county and district president. Johnnie was born March 10, 1903. He is a farmer. He also looked after the farming and worked for Cleveland Mill Company as Outside Foreman for thirty six years. He loved fox hunting, always keeping a pack of July Fox dogs, but his favorite recreation was square dancing.

Carroll Cleve Cline was born May 18, 1906 and died January 7, 1930. Cleve was killed in a tragic hunting accident. He was a star baseball and football player. A member of Shelby High's baseball champions and later starred in baseball and football at Blue Ridge and Boiling Springs College. He played with the Columbus team in the Southeastern League, and was known as "Rube" by western athletic followers.

Johnnie and Inez Elmore have three sons: J.B. Jr., Ben C. and Dan G. Elmore.

J.B. Elmore, Jr., born January 3, 1924, married Janice Wallace (born December 13, 1923). J.B. owns and operates Elmore's Auto and Tractor Service in Lawndale. He attended Piedmont High School and Boiling Springs College. They have two children: Connie Lydia Elmore, born November 25, 1945, who married Randy Grigg, born January 8, 1944. (Connie and Randy have two children, Scott Grigg, born December 12, 1964 and Wendy Grigg, born July 12, 1971.) John B. Elmore III, born March 10, 1956, who married Sandy Lang, born September 25, 1956.

Second son of Johnnie and Inez is Ben Cleve Elmore, born July 20, 1931. Married Barbara Dixon, born April 20, 1932. They have three children: Ben Steven, Jane Inez and Cleve Allan. Ben Steven Elmore, born September 20, 1953, married Patricia Passmore, born September 9, 1954, and they have two children: Tiffany Elmore, born October 5, 1974 and Patrick Steven, born November 7, 1978. Jane Inez Elmore, born October 9, 1956, married Donald Jenkins, born December 22, 1954 and they have one child, Kathy Jane Jenkins, born January 6, 1973. Jane Elmore Jenkins married Chris Newton, born January 25, 1957, and they have one child, Heather Lee Newton, born March 26, 1981. The third child of Ben and Barbara is Cleve Allan Elmore, born December 6, 1962, who married Anita Wright, born April 22, 1964. Ben and Barbara live on a part of the original Cline Farm. Also, Burns Sr. and Burns Jr. High Schools are located on parcels of the Old Cline Farm. Ben Cleve Elmore went in the army in 1953; in 1954 he was stationed in Eniwetok, Marshal Island, in charge of Heavy Equipment Operations used in Atomic Energy Division. He is engaged in farming and works for Eaton Corporation. He is a graduate of Piedmont High School.

The youngest son of Johnnie and Inez is Dan Gold Elmore, born October 7, 1938, married Beverly Brice Mitchell, born August 6, 1941. They have two children, Dan Gold Elmore, Jr., born September 24, 1962, and Lisa Elmore, born September 28, 1966. Dan Gold Elmore graduated from Shelby City Schools in June 1957. A varsity basketball player, he graduated from Lenoir-Rhyne College with Bachelor of Arts Degree, June 1963. Currently he is with Burlington Industries as Division Planning Manager; he and his family live in Greensboro, North Carolina.

Sources: Family Records, Bible

— Mrs. Inez Cline Elmore

William Frank and Bertha Gold Cline, 50th Wedding Anniversary

ZEBULON VANCE CLINE ³⁵⁰

Zebulon Vance Cline, born in the Double Shoals community on November 14, 1885, was the second son of Ambrose Haywood (1855-1929) and Endora Hessentine Hendrick Cline (1856-1936).

He was born before the age of automation into a farming family. Mules were used extensively to cultivate the red clay hills of Cleveland County. Because of this need for "mule power", he made many trips to Greenville, Tennessee, with his uncle "Ves" Cline to buy mules for trade. On these earlier trips they drove the mules over the mountains but later were able to ship them to Shelby by rail. This early experience led to a life-long interest in the trade which he later developed into a prosperous business with his brother, V. Otho.

When he was about sixteen, his father bought 420 acres from Rev. Thomas Dixon and moved the family to a farm out on Buffalo and White Oak Creek. He subsequently met and married Hattie Pearl Borders (1886-), daughter of Elzie Caveney Borders (1857-1941) and Susan Wilson Borders (1857-1947). They had five sons and two daughters.

Although a very modest man, he had many talents. He was a hard worker, a good farmer who loved the land, very family-oriented, well-disciplined, mule trader, cattle dealer and a good business man. He was an active member of Elizabeth Church serving as deacon much of his adult life. For years he was a judge of the harness races at the Cleveland Fair. Those piercing, blue-green eyes sized up every man with whom he came into contact. He lived by the adage: "Judge a man for what he is and what he is capable of doing—a full day's work is due a full day's pay." His word was his "bond".

He cut and dressed timber off his land to build four new homes for his growing family, drawing the plans for each house himself and selling the surplus lumber to buy adjoining land and additional farms. He bought 350 acres above Waco, some in Gaston County (where Edwin and Lamar presently live), another 280 acres in Cherryville (where the city cemetery is now located), another 260 acres on the County Home Road where Z.V. Jr. now lives. In the late 30's he was farming approximately 2000 acres, planting as much as 500 acres in cotton, the "money" crop.

His first mule trading barn was located behind the Charles Hotel and his partner was C.R. Doggett. A few years later he and his brother, Otho, built another barn where Spangler and Sons are today.

During this period he started buying and breeding Hereford cattle, fattening the steers on the corn grown in the "bottoms" and selling to John Hipps, who shipped to Baltimore. After the bollweevil hit and made cotton production unprofitable, he turned more of his cotton fields into permanent pastureland.

After a bad tractor accident in 1945, which rendered him unconscious for three days, and the return of his two younger sons from World War II, he retired from farming. He built another trading barn on the Patterson Springs Road and another home nearby. He and another brother, J. Raymond Cline (sheriff of Cleveland County from 1933-1946) were partners in this business until the morning of his fatal stroke April 20, 1960.

He was appointed to the board of county commissioners in August of 1948, at the death of Dr. S.S. Royster, and became chairman of the board the next year, a position he held until his retirement in July of 1957. According to the Shelby Daily Star, "he guided the board through what many persons considered the most critical period in county history. He was board chairman when a multi-million dollar school building program was launched, when county hospitals got out of the red, and when one of the area's largest bond issues was approved for industry."

Six of the seven children are living. Edwin Haywood (1909) married Joan Rothrock. They had two daughters: Patricia Ann and Joan Rothrock. Patricia married Harry Gene Gold and they have two daughters: Jennifer and Vickie. Joan married Dowel Campbell, John Lattimore and Ken Backhaus. She has one son, Edley Lattimore.

James Lamar (1911) married Gola Hamrick. They had a daughter who died at birth. They adopted a daughter, Barbara Ann, who was killed in an accident in 1961, and a son, James Lamar, Jr., who married Patricia Hastings and they have a daughter, Tammy.

Z.V. Jr. (1915) married Elsie Mae Wilson. They have three children: Betty Jane, Stephen Wilson and Nancy Carol. Betty married Jackie Ned Rich. They have two daughters: Jacqueline and Sharon. Steve married Glenda Jean Philbeck. They have two daughters: Stefanie and Shelley.

Mary Lou (1917) married Marvin H. Putnam. They had one daughter, Syble Ann, who married Paul Jarvis Hutchison and they have one son, Marvin Paul. Mary Lou died January 28, 1944.

Clayton Jane (1913) married Jesse Lee Hord Jr. Their two children are: Martha Janet and Jesse Lee III. Janet married Thomas Arlis Tate and they have four children: Jane Lynn, Thomas A. Jr., Roxanne, and Dexter Cline. Thomas A. Jr. married Amber Jean Cooper and they have a daughter, Samantha. Jesse Lee III married Martha Louise Guffey and they have a daughter, Cynthia Shan. Clayton also married Marvin H. Putnam in 1953.

John Dixon (1920) married Violet Austell. They had four daughters: Linda, Peggy, Martha Sue and Johnnie. Linda married Toby Thrift and they have two daughters: Rockelle and Amanda. Peggy married Dennis Goforth. They have a daughter, Jessica and a son, Dennis Jr. Martha Sue married J.L. Hamrick and they have two sons: John Edwin and Lindsey Lamar. Johnnie married Ralph Douglas Ingle and they have a daughter, Lacey Jean. John Dixon also married Frances Beaver Wyatt. Frances had a daughter, Deborah Yvonne, who married Mills Curry.

Ambrose Borders (1924) married Martha Jean Poston. They had a son who died at birth. They also have a daughter, Amy Jean.

John and Ambrose presently live on what is left of the original Zeb Cline farm. The remainder is under water — Moss Lake.

Sources: Mrs. Zeb Cline Sr.; The Shelby Daily Star; Family records

— Janet H. Tate

HERBERT CRANFORD COMBS

351

Herbert C. Combs' grandfather was Alfred D. Combs and his grandmother was Margaret Cochran Combs.

Herb's Mother was Letha Belle Welborn Combs who was born February 23, 1884 and died in High Point, North Carolina, on May 29, 1964. Herb's father was Charles Watson Combs, born June 16, 1884 — death date unknown.

Herb had two sisters, now deceased: Nellie Wilma Combs and Ruth Welborn Combs Felton. Ruth married Wesley Felton and they had a daughter, Beth and a son Lynn.

Herb finished at State College, Raleigh, N.C., majoring in textiles in the class of 1931. Herb came to Shelby with the North Carolina Highway Department. Here he met and two years later married Minna Gaston LeGrand. Minna was the first trained (with a postgraduate degree) librarian at Shelby High School in 1934, after graduating from the school of Library Science at the University of North Carolina.

Minna and Herb were married on June 17, 1936. To this happy home were born four children; two boys and two girls. Fain LeGrand Combs, now Mrs. Alfred Green Eskridge, Jr. Fain and Al have four children: Allison Welborn, Alfred, III, Catherine LeGrand and John Porter (named for his great-grandfather Tela Porter).

Next Minna and Herb were the proud parents of Herbert C. Combs, Jr., now a practicing attorney here in Shelby, NC. Then came a wonderful surprise: THE TWINS! Torrance LeGrand Combs, a tax accountant with the State of North Carolina at the Employment Commission here in Shelby. Minna Gaston (Gay) Combs, now Mrs. Joseph Linton Suttle. "Gay" and Linton have three of our seven grandchildren and live on Montrose Drive. Grandchildren are Joe, Tyler Combs, and Major Greer.

Zebulon Vance Cline

I am very sorry to say that my husband, Herbert C. Combs, died on Tuesday, June 30, 1981 here in Shelby, North Carolina.

— Mrs. Minna LeGrand Combs

EDGAR CLAUDIUS COOPER

352

Edgar Claudius Cooper was born March 29, 1887 near China Grove, North Carolina,

Rowan County. His parents were John Francis Jacob and Martha Jane (Page) Cooper. He was next to the oldest of twelve children; William Franklin, Whitson Leroy, Hubert Francis, George Herman, Susanne Elizabeth (Annie Lingle), Laura Effie (Newland), Mary Sophia (Williams), Myrtle Louise (Lippard), Luther Grady, Mabel (died at age fifteen), and an infant died at birth. The Cooper family lived on a farm long enough for Edgar Cooper to be sure the thing he wanted most was a cotton picker. Soon they moved to China Grove where his father built and operated a flour mill which is still in use today. It is one of the oldest mills of its kind and is being considered for National Historic Registration.

Edgar (Ed) Cooper received his early education in public and private schools of China Grove, graduated from Roanoke College, Virginia (1907) and Mount Airy Lutheran Seminary, Pennsylvania (1912). He was ordained 1912 by the South Western Virginia Synod into the Lutheran ministry. Two of Rev. Cooper's brothers — Herman and Grady — his son, Edgar Mauney, his future wife's brother — Rev. John David Mauney — and Rev. Mauney's three sons — Luther, Jack, and Marshall all became Lutheran ministers.

Hattie Pearl Borders Cline

Rev. Edgar Cooper pursued graduate studies at Mount Airy Seminary and Princeton and he received his Doctor of Philosophy degree from Hartford Theological Seminary, Connecticut (1927). Dr. Cooper was a diligent student of Greek and Hebrew.

Dr. Edgar Cooper married Vera Lavene Mauney, daughter of Jacob Simri and Margaret Juletta Rudisill Mauney, in Saint Matthew's Lutheran Church, Kings Mountain, North Carolina September 11, 1913. Three children were born to this union.

The older son, Jacob Mauney, married Eleanor Neal September 11, 1937. He died

September 13, 1975. Their children are: Martha Julia — married to Robert Lee Wilson; Eleanor Ann — married to Charles Robert Dawkins; and Jacob Neal — married to Martha Cohn.

The only daughter, Margaret Juletta — married Dr. George Webb Plonk, June 26, 1941. Their children are: Carole Elizabeth — married William Mitchell Fenimore, Jr.; Margaret Juletta — married Kenneth Joseph Pollack; George Webb, Jr. — married Judy Morris; Barbara Ann — married William Douglas Bridges; and Susan Rebecca — married Major William Loftin, Jr.

The younger son, Rev. Edgar Mauney, married Jacqueline Golden Wyrick, April 16, 1977.

There are eighteen great-grandchildren; Lee Ann Wilson, Robert Neal Wilson, Sarah Helen Cooper, Jacob Mauney Cooper II, William Mitchell Fenimore III, Scott Collins Fenimore, Matthew Ryan Pollack, Adam Cooper Pollack, Palmar Ellen Plonk, Margaret Erin Plonk, Sara Adele Plonk, Drew Patterson Plonk, Ann Rollins Plonk, William Douglas Bridges, Jr., Sidney Sloan Bridges, Wesley Hudson Bridges, Matthew Bradley Bridges and Loftin.

Dr. and Mrs. Cooper served Lutheran churches in Lynchburg, Virginia; Germanton, Pennsylvania; and Albemarle, North Carolina. In 1927 Dr. Cooper became Field Missionary of the North Carolina Lutheran Synod until 1937. During this time the Coopers lived in Kings Mountain with Mrs. Cooper's parents. Dr. Cooper served and developed Holy Comforter, Belmont; Bethany, Kannapolis; Saint Luke — Morning Star, Calvary, Morganton; Watauga (County) Parish; and Ascension Lutheran Church, Shelby, North Carolina.

Dr. Cooper was happiest when he was revitalizing an old church or establishing a new one. Through the power of the Holy Spirit he was able to encourage many people to give their wealth to the work of God's Kingdom. Many were the Sunday mornings when Pastor Cooper's car was full to overflowing with little children on their way to Sunday School and church. A great number of these children helped their parents to find their way into God's house.

Governor Clyde R. Hoey appointed Dr. Cooper Director of Religious Training and Chaplain of Raleigh prisons, North Carolina State Prison System (1937-39). He served as President and part-time professor of Southern Lutheran Seminary, Columbia, South Carolina (1939-45) and Chaplain United States Penitentiary, Atlanta, Georgia (1945-46). He served Holy Trinity, Chapel Hill, North Carolina (1946-53), raising part of the funds and building the church and parsonage. He was also pastor to the students of the University of North Carolina.

He retired 1953 at Kings Mountain. Later Dr. Cooper was guest Professor at Dana College, Blair, Nebraska and the Pacific Seminary, Berkeley, California. He died May 26, 1963 and is buried in Mountain Rest Cemetery, Kings Mountain, North Carolina.

Sources: LIFE SKETCHES OF LUTHERAN MINISTERS North Carolina and Tennessee Synods; Centennial Booklet of Kings Mountain, 1974, Jacob Simri Mauney Scrap Book; Vera Lavene Mauney Cooper's diaries; THREE MAUNEY FAMILIES Summers; KINGS MOUNTAIN HERALD May 23, 1963.

— Margaret Juletta Cooper Plonk

VERA LAVENE MAUNEY COOPER

353

Vera Lavene Mauney was born July 17, 1887 at 107 North Piedmont Avenue, Kings Mountain, North Carolina, Cleveland County. Her parents were Jacob Simri and Margaret Juletta Rudisill Mauney.

Miss Mauney was educated in the Kings Mountain High School, 1905. She particularly enjoyed and excelled in Latin and Algebra. She graduated from Elizabeth College in Charlotte, North Carolina, 1909, and has been very active in the Elizabeth College Alumni. Miss Mauney took a kindergarten course at the Mary J. Drexel School for Girls — a part of Lankenau Hospital, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. She came back to take care of her parents and started the first kindergarten in Kings Mountain at Saint Matthew's Lutheran Church. Miss Mauney taught for two years. She had every intention of making these activities her career, but Rev. Edgar Claudius Cooper of China Grove, North Carolina changed her mind. They were married in Saint Matthew's Lutheran Church September 11, 1913. Three children were born to this union — Jacob Mauney, Margaret Juletta, and Edgar Mauney.

Rev. and Mrs. Cooper served Lutheran churches in Virginia, Pennsylvania, and North Carolina. In 1927 he became Field Missionary of the North Carolina Lutheran Synod until 1937. During this time Dr. and Mrs. Cooper lived in Kings Mountain with Mrs. Coopers parents. These ten years were a joy to the whole family. Vera Mauney Cooper was able to care for her parents in their last years, and the children had ten years of uninterrupted schooling and the pleasure of living with grandparents.

Dr. and Mrs. Cooper have always enjoyed entertaining. They particularly liked to serve breakfast to friends, family and the students who visited them. They have also traveled many thousands of miles together in Dr. Cooper's work. Mrs. Cooper has served faithfully at her husband's side.

Mrs. Cooper loves children and has always taken her place teaching them, inspiring them, caring for them, and opening her home to them. Her deep appreciation for the beauties of nature and for all of the gifts from God have made the lives of her children richer and fuller.

Horseback riding, tennis, and basketball were her favorite sports. As a young woman, she rode side-saddle, but later, she rode astride and did some riding until her late fifties. Quite often Mrs. Cooper would produce a lovely bit of poetry about something that she had enjoyed or experienced. Below is a favorite.

O beautiful fire, what would I give
To have you with me down where I live?
They say you are mine, but I can't see
What earthly good you are to me
Away up here and me down there
A shivering and shaking — Well I declare,
Things work out in this world rather "quare."
If a person can't be where his home is,
I swear it's just a burden, and a care,
But it is a pleasure, I must confess,
To slip in the key to the home we possess,
Build up a fire in the old fire place
To warm ones toes and burn ones face.
Yes, there are things I came to do
But I'd rather just sit here and look at you
While dreaming of pleasant days gone by.
O beautiful fire, in the old home hearth, Memories crowd 'round me here from the day of my birth.

— Vera Mauney Cooper

Mrs. Cooper is a member of the United Daughters of the Confederacy and the Daughters of the American Revolution. She is a former member of the Kings Mountain Womens Club and the Home Arts Book Club. While she and Dr. Cooper were at the Southern Lutheran Seminary in Columbia, South Carolina, Mrs. Cooper organized the Auxiliary of the Southern Lutheran Seminary — a very active organization today in the North and South Carolina Lutheran Synods.

Vera Cooper's love for and faith in God have been the foundations of her life. Her church, home, and community have been her workshops. Service to others has certainly been the joy and meaning of her life.

At present she is looking forward to her 95th birthday, and she is a patient in the Kings Mountain Convalescent Center.

Sources: LIFE SKETCHES OF LUTHERAN MINISTERS North Carolina and Tennessee Synods; Centennial Booklet of Kings Mountain, 1974; Jacob Simri Mauney Scrap Book; Vera Lavene Mauney Cooper's diaries; THREE MAUNEY FAMILIES Summers; KINGS MOUNTAIN HERALD May 32, 1963

— Margaret Juletta Cooper Plonk

Vera Lavene Mauney Cooper

THE GEORGE CORN FAMILY

354

George Henry Corn, born in Greenville, South Carolina, November 19, 1916, made his first visit to Shelby in 1936 to "court" Ann Jones, whom he met at Appalachian State Teachers College.

"Ann," Annabeth Hoyle Jones was born August 6, 1919, in the Palm Tree Community, to Florence Elliott and William Judson Jones. Her forebears on both sides lived in this area before it was Cleveland County. Their stories are also in this book.

GEORGE AND Ann were married on May 29, 1941 in Central Methodist Church. George spent the next four years in World War Two, attaining the rank of Lt. Senior Grade in the United States Navy. In 1946, he came back to Shelby and Cleveland County.

George owned and operated Corn's Ice Cream Company, located in the 800 block of West Warren Street, selling out to Coble Daries in 1951. In June 1951, he organized Shelby Concrete Products, Inc. which manufactured the blocks and building materials for many of the finest buildings in Western North Carolina.

George Henry Corn, Junior was born November 14, 1947. He graduated from Wofford College, Spartanburg, South Carolina and from California Western Law School. George married Lynda Rebecca Booth, Kingsport, Tennessee, June 26, 1971. A daughter, Annabeth Ramey was born August 3, 1980.

They reside in Hamilton, Montana, where George is a practicing attorney.

William James Corn was born May 12, 1950. He graduated from the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill. On August 18, 1973, he married Penny Hunt of Lattimore where they live with their three children. James Hunter Corn, born August 5, 1975. Annabeth Jones Corn, (Annie J.) born August 11, 1977. William James Corn, Junior, born August 19, 1978.

Among George's contributions to Shelby and Cleveland County were: Youth Leader, Sunday School Teacher, chairman of Administrative Board, and many other things at Central Methodist Church. He served as president of the Rotary Club, president of Chamber of Commerce, president of Cleveland Country Club, city alderman 1957-1961, Mayor Pro Tem 1959-1961, on boards of Salvation Army, Boy's Club, First Citizen's Bank, Cleveland Memorial Hospital, chairman of building committee Blanton Stadium, member of building committees of Cleveland County Memorial Library, Veteran's Field and Schweepe Tennis Stadium.

George and Ann annually present a trophy for most outstanding golfer at Shelby High School.

Among Ann's contributions to the city and county were: served on board of Cleveland Memorial Library, Cleveland Country Club, President of Junior Charity League, taught handicapped children in the public schools, taught the game of bridge for City Park and in her home she pioneered with "Reach for Recovery", a cancer support group, filled with any and every job offered her at Central Methodist Church.

Sources: Family Bible and personal knowledge

— Ann Corn

THE CORNWELL FAMILY

355

The Cornwell Family came from England. They first spelled their names Cornwall. They settled in Virginia in 1635, and at an undetermined date they came to North Carolina. Some of the family moved to North Carolina and settled three miles north of what is now Shelby.

McCager Cornwell is the first traceable ancestor and was the father of Abner who married Suzannah London. They lived on a farm which was a Land Grant from the government. Abner and Suzannah had nine children.

Abner Cornwell was a great "Church Goer." After Zion Baptist Church was established, they had services once a month. He had the desire to attend a worship service every week. To fulfill his desire, he would get up before daylight and ride a horse or mule many miles to attend other churches.

Abner and Suzannah Cornwell's children were Creighton, Jack, Amos, Frank, Mary Ann, Elizabeth, Amanda, Mariah Jane and William. Jack, Amos, and Frank served in the Civil War. Frank, a captain, died in Service.

Creighton Cornwell went west and settled in Petaluma, California. In 1859, he married a beautiful native girl from Ireland, Eliza Brady.

Sara Susan Elliott, age 16, wife of William Cornwell

Their wedding was at St. Vincent's Catholic Church. They were blessed with three sons, James, Henry and Frank. They accumulated quite a bit of property in East Petaluma. One of the great grandsons, Captain James William Cornwell served in the second World War as a pilot. While in the Navy he had a mountain named for him because of his extensive aerial mapping of the Antarctic mountains, some of which had never been seen before by man. He was previously stationed in Washington D.C., and his assignment was to take diplomats to various foreign countries.

Amos Cornwell married Clemintine Gilispie. They had ten children. Mary Bell, a great granddaughter married C.W. Jenson, and they live in Donville, California. C.W. is a college professor and writer. He has written a text book for college on the "Metric System." Two of Amos's grandsons, Tom and Hal Cornwell have a chain of drug stores in Cleveland and other counties. Tom Cornwell and his wife have a building at Mars Hill College called the "Cornwell Dormitory." In this family, there are two medical doctors. Dr. Abner Cornwell was an English Professor at Davidson College. Roslyn Cornwell (Mrs. Williamson) is a teacher and musician. Frances Cornwell (Mrs. Greene), a gifted musician is Music Director of a church in Elkin, N.C. Tom Cornwell, a son of Amos was President of Cleveland Co. Fair for many years.

Elizabeth Cornwell married Ansel McSwain, a Baptist Minister. They had three children. One of the great grandsons, Mallery McSwain, is the District Director of Young Life Clubs with headquarters in Atlanta, Georgia.

Mary Ann Cornwell was the wife of Joseph Wilson. They were blessed with six children. Their daughter, Etta, never married. She was the "helping Angel." When anyone was sick or lonely in the community, she was there with a smile and a remedy. One great grandson, Matthew Patterson was a Dentist in Concord, North Carolina. Sara Elizabeth Davis (Mrs. Tal-ent) has been a Reading Specialist in schools and colleges including Gardner Webb College.

Jack Cornwell married Rachel Putnam, and they had five children. Three great granddaughters were tops in their fields. Mary Winn (Mrs. William Paugh, R.N.), taught at Gardner Webb College and Cleveland Memorial Hospital. Mary Cornwell (Mrs. Campbell), is a teacher and her husband is a minister. Cathy, (Mrs. Cheek) works in the Business office of the "Biblical Recorder" in Raleigh, North Carolina.

Mariah Jane Cornwell married Rev. Abe Irvin, a Baptist Minister. They had four children. One of the sons, John Irvin, was Superintendent of Schools in Cleveland County. James Irvin was an outstanding Bible Teacher. Great granddaughters, Ruby Irvin, and Mary Lackey are also superior teachers.

Amanda Cornwell never married. She lived with her brother, William. When she was a small girl, her mother showed her a big tree on the farm where the Indians would hide behind, and peep at them as they worked on the farm. Lydia Amanda was a devout christian and a "second mother" to her brother William's children.

William Cornwell married Sara Susan Elliott. They built a new home by the old Cornwell ancestral home. On one occasion, Sara Susan rode horseback some fifteen miles to Polkville to the ancestral home to get some old English Boxwoods to put out at her new home.

Laura Cornwell, principal of Marion Elementary School, Shelby

There were five living children. Four passed away in infancy. Frank Cornwell married Margaret Blanton and Charlie Cornwell married Mittie Cline. They lived on the old ancestral farm secured by the Land Grant from the U.S. Government. They added other connecting farms and were good farmers and cattle raisers. Both brothers were very faithful to Zion Baptist Church where Frank gave the brick to build the church and Charlie gave the pulpit furnishings.

Laura Cornwell, a devout Christian, was for many years principal of Marion Elementary School in Shelby, N.C. Later she spent 8 years in Honolulu, Hawaii working with the Baptist Academy as a teacher and principal.

Nora Cornwell received her education at Duke University and the University of North

Captain James William Cornwell (U.S. Navy), June 1977

Carolina. She was an elementary teacher in the Shelby Public Schools. She also taught Sunday School at First Baptist Church for many years. She became the wife of C. Yates Harris, a great nephew of Senator Plato Durham, who did much good for our country.

Pearl Cornwell, the youngest child of William and Susan Cornwell, graduated from the University of North Carolina at Greensboro, and taught math for six years before she married Rev. Edward Sylvester Elliott. They both served Baptist Churches in Kentucky, Arkansas, and North Carolina for over fifty years.

Edward Cornwell Elliott, a son of Pearl Elliott received his A.B. degree from Wake Forest University, his B.D. degree from Yale University, His Master's of Divinity from Southern Baptist Seminary, and his Master's of Science in Social Work from the University of Illinois. He is an ordained Methodist Minister serving as the Director of the Methodist Childrens Home in Raleigh, N.C. Edward's wife is Gay Hay of Shreveport, La. She received her B.A. degree from Centenary College, and her Master's of Science in Speech and Hearing from Eastern Illinois University. Their two sons, Ralph and Chris are graduates of the University of Illinois. Ralph received his law degree, and is practicing in Freeport, Illinois. Chris is a computer scientist in San Diego, California.

William Salin Elliott, a son of Pearl Elliott was named after his Grandfather, William Cornwell. He received his A.B. degree from Wake Forest University, His Master's of Science in Guidance from Indiana University, his Bachelor and Master's of Divinity from Southern Baptist Seminary, and completed his Ph.D. studies at the University of Edinburgh in Edinburgh, Scotland. He is an ordained Baptist Minister, and has served churches in North Carolina, Kentucky, and Indiana. Also, he is a Guidance Counselor in the New Albany — Floyd County Schools. His wife is Louise Elliott from Roswell, Georgia. She received her B.A. degree from Tift College, her Master's degree from Indiana University, and her Master's in Religious Education from Southern Baptist Seminary. She is an Educator in the public schools of Southern Indiana. Their two children are Susan Elliott Bell and Mark William Elliott. Susan, named after her Great-Grandmother, Susan Cornwell, is a Graduate of Georgetown College and Bellerme College. She is an Assistant Vice-President of Portland Federal Savings and Loan in Louisville, Ky. Her husband, David Bell, is a graduate of Georgetown College and the University of Louisville with his law degree. He is an attorney for the First National Bank of Louisville, Kentucky. Mark William Elliott is a graduate of Butler University, and Vanderbilt Medical School of Vanderbilt University in Nashville, Tennessee.

— Mrs. Yates Harris

THE FAMILY OF GEORGE L. and JULIA GOLD CORNWELL

356

"I found a good woman and I treated her right! We had arguments but never any fusses and she's the boss in the family." That was George L. Cornwell's reasoning for the success of his seventy years of marriage to Julia Gold as told to Shelby Daily Star reporter, Pat Poston, in February, 1961. That marriage which took place on February 19, 1891 united two deeply rooted Cleveland County families and produced a number of widely dispersed descendants.

George Landrum Cornwell was born June 22, 1870 the son of Amos H. Cornwell (1844-1924) and Sarah Clementine Gillespie (1850-1933). His paternal grandparents were Abner Cornwell (1803-1885) and Susannah London (1806-1879). His maternal grandparents were Jonathan Gillespie (1807-1859) and Nancy Bland (1819-1887).

Julia Gold was born August 4, 1872 the daughter of Williamson Fortune Gold (1836-1928) and Margaret Gordon Elliott (1848-1921). Her paternal grandparents were Milton Gold (1805-1888) and Martha Fortune (1812-1886). Her maternal grandparents were John Paxton Elliott (1817-1873) and Sarah Beam (1825-1895).

Both George and Julia's fathers served in the Civil War and returned to their native area to pursue farming and raising a family. George and Julia would establish their household in the Double Shoals area of Cleveland County.

The first of their thirteen children arrived on February 4, 1892. She was named Buna Belle. Buna married Frank Guy Hull (born 1878) on June 28, 1922. Guy Hull died August 1, 1973. No children were born to this union.

Zoa Lala Cornwell was born October 9, 1893 and married Claude Stamey (born 1887) on January 22, 1913. Claude died February 27, 1961. This marriage produced three children, six grandchildren, and three great grandchildren.

Abner Milton Cornwell was born May 17, 1895 and married Mary Anne Newcomb (born 1895) on November 19, 1927. This union produced two children, and four grandchildren. Abner died December 27, 1967, Mary followed on January 20, 1981.

Mittie Mae Mattie Cornwell was born March 12, 1897 and married Claude Gettys (born November 24, 1895) on October 26, 1927. This marriage produced four children, six grandchildren, and one great grandchild.

George L. and Julia Gold Cornwell Family: Standing, L to R: Tom, Mattie, Pearl, Hal, Margaret, Clema, Mark. Seated, L to R: Abner, Lala, George L., Julia, Buna, Lee. On ground: Jim, Robert

Claude died March 4, 1962.

Lee Williamson Cornwell was born February 14, 1899 and married Dorcas Helen Blanton (born March 3, 1903) on December 15, 1923. This marriage produced three children, four grandchildren, and three great grandchildren. Helen died May 30, 1976. Lee married Maude Roberts July 19, 1977 and she died later that month. He married Vada Devine March 3, 1981.

Cora Marie Cornwell was born February 15, 1901 and married William Yates Horn (born June 8, 1898) on March 4, 1928. Yates and Marie had three children and eight grandchildren. Yates died December 7, 1976.

Luna Clementine Cornwell was born March 13, 1903 and married Ira Elmore (born May 9, 1900) in August, 1924. The marriage produced four children and nine grandchildren. Clementine died January 5, 1933. Ira married Della Powell (born January 15, 1904) on December 27, 1934. Ira died January 29, 1966.

George Thomas Cornwell was born March 3, 1905 and married Mary Louise Huffman (born March 13, 1908) on August 16, 1933. This union produced three children, ten grandchildren, and two great grandchildren. Mary Louise died December 9, 1961. Tom married Louise Johnson Grill (born July 21, 1917) on May 1, 1965.

Margaret Lillian Cornwell was born January 12, 1907 and married Carl Lee (born November 5, 1908) with whom she had two children and five grandchildren. Carl died in 1956. Margaret married John Mull who is now deceased.

Pearl Gold Cornwell was born February 7, 1909 and married Harvey Samuel Warlick (born March 28, 1909) on May 3, 1935. This union produced three children, and three grandchildren.

Amos Halstead Cornwell was born June 4, 1911 and married Dorothy Elizabeth Miller (born May 10, 1917) on January 4, 1941. Hal and Dorothy had three children and three grandchildren.

James Francis Cornwell was born July 1, 1913 and married Sarah Elizabeth Hamrick (born May 26, 1913) on February 16, 1938. Jim and Sarah had four children and two grandchildren.

Robert Alton Cornwell was born August 3, 1915 and married Mary Erlene Hoover (born August 2, 1918) on October 10, 1940. This marriage produced five children and six grandchildren.

George L. Cornwell, farmer and county commissioner (1936-1940), died October 1, 1961, ending seventy years of marriage. Julia Gold Cornwell died November 26, 1964 and was buried with her husband, numerous ancestors, and many relatives at Zion Baptist Church. Pat Poston summed up their life together beautifully when she wrote, "It is evident in their faces. Although time has chiseled its marks there, love shines through like the glint of a diamond."

Sources: Cornwell Family notes of the late Mary N. Cornwell, Cemetery Information, "Shelby Daily Star," Ancestry information from Census Records and courthouse records (wills, etc.)

— Stephen Claude Bettis

JAMES FRANCIS CORNWELL

357

James Francis Cornwell was born July 1, 1913, in the Lawndale community. He was the twelfth of the thirteen children born to George Landrum and Julia Gold Cornwell. When he was eleven he joined the Zion Baptist Church, and, as he reports it, "Uncle Gordon Washburn nearly drowned me when he baptized me!"

In 1931 he graduated from Piedmont High

JOSEPH NEWTON CRAVER and SARAH ELIZABETH ROSEMAN CRAVER

358

Joseph Newton Craver ("Joe") and Sarah Elizabeth Roseman Craver became residents of Shelby September 22, 1941, when he assumed duties as Assistant Soil Conservationist for Cleveland County. In 1971 he resigned his position as District Conservationist of the Soil Conservation Service. His thirty years profession has contributed significantly to reforestation, terracing, water disposal farming practices, and grazing land management in Cleveland County.

He was a principal organizer of "Miracle Farm Day" in conjunction with the Shelby Lions Club in 1950, when in a single day a substandard farm was transformed into a "show case" of progressive agricultural practices and facilities. The United States Secretary of Agriculture was among other state and federal officials present in the county for the event which was nationally acclaimed.

Another hallmark of Joe Craver's career has been North Carolina's "Better Acres Program" of the 1950's which originated here under his direction and the sponsorship of the Cleveland County Agricultural Workers Council. In the late 1950's and early 60's, he has also been a significant contributor to the success of Cleveland County's Vocational Agricultural land judging teams which won the first place award in international competition in Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, in 1956 and also national honors in other years.

As a civic leader Joe Craver presently is a member of the board of trustees of the O. Max Gardner Foundation, the Shelby Appearance Commission, and the Shelby Lions Club. He was an organizer of the Cleveland County Chapter of the American Cancer Society and has served as chairman of the Cleveland County United Fund. A former member of the City of Shelby Parks and Recreation Commission, he has always maintained a keen interest in supporting recreational programs for children and has served as a member of the Piedmont Boy Scouts Council for over twenty years.

Elizabeth Craver taught mathematics and general science in the Shelby public schools from 1956 to 1970. She has also been active in the community as well as Ascension Lutheran Church in Shelby where both she and her husband have served as church teachers and council members.

In the summer of 1949 during a fierce polio epidemic, Elizabeth Craver and the local Lutheran minister, the Reverend J.D. Shepard, taught Sunday school lessons to the children of the area each Sunday morning over the local radio station.

A victim of severe rheumatoid arthritis since the late 1940's, serious physical impediments required her professionally to abandon her home economics degree and to obtain a new degree in mathematics and general science education. In addition, her physical condition has progressively tempered her ability to remain extremely active outside of her home throughout the recent years.

Elizabeth Roseman Craver

A native of the Hargrove community of Davidson County, Joseph Newton Craver, named for his grandfathers, John Newton Craver and Joseph Coldfelter, was born May 19, 1909, the eighth of nine children of Mary Alice Clodfelter and Curran Plianius Craver, a farmer and justice of the peace. A college football standout, he graduated from High Point College in 1933 and became employed as a public school teacher and athletic coach at Norlina, Warren County, North Carolina for two years. From 1935 to 1941 he was employed as the Custodian of Labor of the Soil Erosion Service of the Civilian Conservation Corps, working with young men of the great depression era who fondly came to call him "Big Joe".

Sarah Elizabeth Roseman, named for her paternal grandmother, Sarah Elizabeth Lyerly, was born in Salisbury March 8, 1909, the third of ten children of Florence Myrtle Chase and Freddie Sylvester Roseman, a railroad man. She traveled extensively throughout the United States and Mexico as a young woman and graduated from Catawba College with a degree in home economics in 1930. After teaching public school in North Carolina for five years during the great depression earning $72.50 per month for eight months each year, in 1934 she became a home economics representative for the Georgia Power and Light Company in Athens, Georgia, and for two years demonstrated the new "electric" stove to homemakers. In 1936 she assumed a similar position with the East Tennessee Power and Light Company in Johnson City, Tennessee until 1938 when she returned to Salisbury to marry Joseph Newton Craver.

Joe and Elizabeth Craver are the parents of three children. A son, Joe Malcolm Craver, now a thoracic surgeon, was born in Concord, North Carolina, April 18, 1941, is married to Lillian Elizabeth Wallace, born February 18, 1941, and has two children, William Joseph Craver, born October 24, 1968, and Catherine Frances Craver, born May 18, 1972. A second son, Richard Davidson Craver, a lawyer, was born in Shelby August 19, 1942,

School and then attended Boiling Springs Junior College for a year and a half. There he lettered in football, basketball, and baseball. Determined that he would be a farmer, he left the halls of academe for the fields of home and finally started farming on his own in 1935. His love of the land and his sense of stewardship are apparent to anyone who drives by his farms in the Rehobeth and Lattimore communities.

On February 16, 1938, he and Sarah Elizabeth Hamrick, the daughter of Charles Jefferson and Belva Hamrick, were married at the home of the Rev. Rush Padgett, then pastor of the Lattimore Baptist Church. To this union four children were born: Charles Landrum (May 3, 1939); Carolyn Hamrick (May 13, 1941); George Richard (March 28, 1946); and James Stephen (September 28, 1949).

In addition to working on his farms (it could be said that his chief hobby is working), he has been active in the Lattimore Baptist Church (as deacon and as chairman of the Building and Grounds Committee) and in community affairs. He has served as a trustee for both Cleveland Memorial Hospital and Crawley Memorial Hospital and has been a member of the Board of Trustees for both Gardner-Webb College and Cleveland Technical College.

Although he likes long days in the fields, he still finds time most evenings to read. While he enjoys books on current events and local history, he reads books on Civil War with a passion. Like most Southerners, he is a bit of a raconteur; he respects the traditions he was reared in, and he loves the land and his family.

Sources: Personal knowledge

— Charles L. Cornwell

Joseph Newton Craver

is married to Mary Adelaide Austell, born July 1, 1942, and has two children, Joseph Newton Craver, II; born January 12, 1975, and Adelaide Austell Craver, born July 16, 1976. Their only daughter Sarah Elizabeth ("Sis") was born in Shelby September 5, 1943, is married to William Arthur Mann, born June 30, 1944, and has three children, William Haynie Mann, III, born March 4, 1969, Marion Elizabeth Mann, born September 5, 1970, and Richard Joseph Mann, born February 2, 1976.

Sources: Personal knowledge

— Richard Davidson Craver

Joe, Dick and Sarah Craver, picture taken 1947

FRED ADERHOLT CRAWFORD and VANNAH BELLE YOUNG

359

Fred Aderholt Crawford (1885-1935) was born in Morgan Co. Ga. the son of William Columbus Crawford and Ramoth Cornelius Gordon Crawford. He was married to Vannah Belle Young on May 7th. 1905 in Walton Co. Ga. She was born the daughter of Joseph Walton Young and Susan Zillima Daniel Young (1889-1980) in Morgan County Ga. Fred and Vannah were the parents of ten children.

Fred was a farmer until the depression years. In 1933 he moved his family to Shelby, N.C. At this time he put his hobby of carpentry to work, in order to provide for his family. To help financially, Vannah worked for the Rexlex Co. wrapping headache powders. On June 14th, 1935, Fred passed away. This left Vannah with a large family to care for.

Vannah proved as strong as the task before her. With sewing, canning and a part time job, along with the help of her older children, she managed to raise her family. Her love for her family and her strong faith in God carried her through many hard times. By 1944 she had seen both of her sons and three sons-in-law serve their country in foreign lands. One son-in-law worked in a shipyard in Virginia. By 1957 three of her grandsons had served in the armed forces, two having been in Viet Nam.

Fred and Vannah's children are Foster (1906-1906); Ernest Euell (1907-1967) who married Lillian Johnson (from England). Their children are Gail and Gary Euell; Nellie Ruth, married Roy Byram, daughter. Betty Jean; Walton Columbus (1911-1913); Susan Virginia married Max Robert Williams. Their daughter is Noreita Virginia; Henry Fred's second wife, Mildred Wright. Their children are Judy Ann and Sandra Dianne. He and his first wife Jeanette Rucker had two children, Thomas Euell Crawford and Carla Karen; Minnie Belle's second husband was Howard Anthony. Her first husband was Wilson Biggerstaff, children Rosiland Leah, George Wilson Biggerstaff and Cathy Dianne; Dorothy Christine married James Glenn Smith — children, Glenn Fredrick and Janet Suzanne; Ramoth Janet married Thomas George Isrel. Their children, Thomas George Isrel, Richard (Rick) Isrel and Sandra Dianne Isrel; Kitty Elizabeth married James Calvin Minnix — Children, Rev. James Michael Minnix and Carl Stephen Minnis.

Fred and Vannah Crawford have at present 23 greatgrandchildren . . .

Vannah lived to be 91 years old. She had lost in death her mother, father, husband, three of her sons, and all of her brothers and sisters except one. She was an inspiration, not only to her family, but to all who knew her. Her concern for others, many talents, fortitude, and her faith in God will live long in the hearts and minds of all who loved her.

Thomas George Isrel, husband of Janet Crawford, also died at the age of 48.

Sources: Personal Knowledge

— Mrs. James Minnix

THE RICHARD PATRICK CROKER FAMILY

360

Richard Patrick Croker was born May 20, 1885. He rode a car into Kings Mountain in the early 1930's and went to work for the Neisler's who owned the Margrace Mill. Pat, whose real name was William Franklin Croker, kept the grounds and did the landscaping at the plant. He changed his name, because he wanted a more Irish sounding one. His parents, Albert Lindsey and Abigail Murphy Croker were from Ireland, but lived in High Point at the time of their deaths. Pat was a tall, thin man about six feet and had a keen sense of humor. He had a bit of the blarney in him.

Ellen B. Falls was working at the Margrace at the time Pat Croker arrived. She had been working there since 1928. They were married September 24, 1932 in York, S.C. by Gettys Nunn. Ellen and Pat were living in the Nebo community when their first child, Richard Lyndgree (Dick) was born April 30, 1934. Dick resembled the Falls side of the family and was a mischievous little boy. He didn't like his milk and wouldn't eat his vegetables. He was a skinny child, but he had a big Irish grin. Dick was four when his little sister, Lydia Jane, was born. She was delivered by Dr. Bill Ramseur and was born in the Falls family home on East King Street in the downstairs bedroom September 29, 1938. An older sister, Ellen Kathryn Falls, was born in the same bedroom on March 13, 1928.

Jane was a chubby little girl with blonde hair. She ate most of her vegetables and she liked milk. Jane especially liked the left over dough from a pie her mother would make. Jane's father called her Liddy and a neighbor gentlemen called her "Little Pat" so you know who she resembled.

She like her Grandpa Falls, liked music and sang in the junior and senior choir at the Methodist Church.

In the early 1940's the Croker family lived at 301 North Gaston Street near the Power House. There was a creek at the back of the house that Dick and Jane played in and fought over. Dick would pick craw-fish and chase Jane, screaming all the way, up the hill to the house and the safety of mother.

In August 1946 Patrick and Ellen were divorced. He moved to Chattanooga, Tennessee where he died in October 1963. Pat never remarried.

Ellen was introduced to Andrew Petrosino by friends of the couple, Frank and Margrace Ford Cicerano. Andy was born in Toronto, Italy in 1903, but had been living in Boston, Mass. Ellen and Andy began their courtship through letters, then Andy flew down in September 1948 and they were married. He was a heavy set man with cold black wavy hair. His eyes were bad and he had to wear very thick glasses. They moved to a little house on York Road. Andy died August 1953.

Ellen Kathryn Falls had married Hazel Edward (Rab6 Huffstickler, a fifth cousin, in May 1944. She was sixteen. Kathryn was a tall beauty that favored her great Aunt Regina Falls, her grandfather's sister.

November 20, 1945 Kathryn and Rab had their first child, Cecelia Elaine. In July 7, 1950 Oliver Michael was born. He had red hair and was a chubby little boy. Elaine had a reddish-blond color of hair and was tiny. October 18, 1955 Pamela Jane Huffstickler was born. She had big brown eyes and auburn hair. Teresa Beverly Huffstickler was born August 22, 1958. She had high cheek bones and blonde hair. Kathryn died March 10, 1959 from complications of a gallstone operation.

Dick Croker joined the Navy in 1954. He spent most of his Navy duty overseas and on the West coast. In 1961 he was stationed in Brunswick, Georgia and in September that year Dick married Emory Earlene (Jean) Callahan. They had three children. Richard Terry born June 17, 1962. Victoria Lynn born August 17, 1965 in California and also Kevin Patrick born February 1, 1967 in Calif. Dick and his family had been transferred to North Augusta, S.C. in March 1972. He died in the Naval Hospital in Charleston, S.C. December 15, 1973 of Peri-Artiritis-Nodosa. He was buried with full military honors in Kings Mountain.

Lydia Jane met Charles Lee Edwards, son of Dwight and Faith Beam Edwards of Cherryville at the "Corner" cafe, a teenage hangout in Kings Mountain, in 1956. Charles is a short man about 5'9" with blue-green eyes and brown hair, which he wore in a crew cut. Rock and Roll was the music of the day and peg pants and pony tails and pedal pushers were the casual dress of the boys and girls of that era. Crinalon's were worn by the girls under their skirts.

Charles and Jane were married July 20, 1957 in Gaffney, S.C. by W.R. Douglas. Charles was shy and Jane was talkative. Their first child was born February 4, 1958, she was delivered by Dr. Torben Seer, in Gastonia. She had cold black hair at birth that turned blonde as she grew older. She was a prissy little girl who learned quickly. Karen Danette, was the first female to be born an Edwards in 50 years. Five generations were living at the time of Karen's birth on her father's side. May 23, 1959, Charles Lee Edwards, Jr., was born. He had red hair and had big hands and big feet like his dad. He was nicknamed "Butch", because he was large at birth. He weighed 8 lbs. 9½ oz. Butch liked to ride Karen's little blue hobby horse and would bounce himself to sleep on it. Donald Scott Edwards born February 11, 1961 was a beautiful baby. He had olive skin and a twinkle in his eye. He wanted to play football all his life, but an accident in high school ended the football career for good. His right kidney was badly damaged in a tackle. Ellen Faith (Missy) Edwards born September 16, 1967 has very red hair. She is a petite and very thoughtful child. She had Herpes Encephalitis in August 1970 and spent 29 days in the North Carolina Memorial Hospital in Chapel Hill. She had some brain damage on her right side, but she goes to school and she learned to swim in 1981. She is very bright for what she went through.

Karen finished high school and attended Gaston College and finished Gardner-Webb College Cum Laude in August 1981. Karen and Douglas Miles Childres were married at the First Wesleyan Church in Cherryville September 15, 1979. Rev. Jack Cook, Chaplin of Carolina Freight heard the vows. Doug teaches school at West Lincoln High and also coaches.

Butch Edwards and Lisa Annette Sellers were married May 18, 1980 in the Shady Grove Baptist Church. They were separated September 1981. There were no children. Butch lives alone near his parents on a small piece of land he bought himself. He works for Harris-Teeter in Cherryville.

— Mrs. Charles Edwards

THE REV. CLIFFORD COMELIUS CROW

361

The Rev. C.C. Crow, better known as Preacher Crow, made as much impact on his community as the new century that ushered him in on August 5, 1900 in the Hollis Community of Rutherford County.

Before his death September 23, 1981 and burial in Sunset Cemetery in Shelby, C.C. Crow served fifteen churches during a thirty-two year active ministry in Cleveland and Rutherford Counties. He baptized more than a thousand people, performed three hundred marriage ceremonies, preached over one hundred revivals, and presided over more than a thousand funerals.

He was moderator of both the Sandy Run and Kings Mountain Baptist Associations. For four years after retirement, he taught at Fruitland Minister's School, Hendersonville, N.C. A national honor came his way in 1952 when he was named "Rural Pastor of the Year" by the Progressive Farmer.

Richard Patrick Croker, 1885-1963

Crow's background gave him a special understanding of the rural people he served. Feeling that a minister should understand the work his people do, Crow passed up opportunities to pastor town churches in favor of the rural life he loved.

Born to Elijah P. and Ella Price Crow, a poor tenant family, Crow grew up working on the farm. Being the only boy (he had one sister, Dorcas), he began plowing at age nine to help his family dig a living out of the rolling hills.

Helping out at home took precedence over schooling. Although he was second in his class and dreamed of going to high school, Crow had to stop school after the seventh grade.

Older people at Big Springs Baptist Church urged Crow to preach after he started Sunday School there. He wrestled with the calling because he didn't see his way clear to the education he needed. Meanwhile, he and his wife, Lillie Toney Crow, had two children, John Buren, born February 10, 1925 and Macy Ellen, born June 25, 1926.

With the encouragement of Big Springs' pastor, D.G. Washburn, Crow began preaching at his home church. Fourteen years after leaving elementary school, the age of 27, he started to Hollis High School. He was eager to go to college and felt a door would open when he needed it. Crow sold one of his two cows for $45 and put the other on a truck with his family and headed for Wake Forest College.

Student Crow fed children and helped pay his way through college with the milk from the cow. He also received $15 a month from a minister's fund and filled in at area churches.

The Depression prevented Crow from attending the seminary. After a brief ministry in Wake County, Bethnay Baptist Church in Rutherford County called him. Except for a year as an army chaplain in World War II, Preacher Crow spent his entire career in Rutherford and Cleveland Counties.

After the death of his first wife, Crow married Edith Queen. They lived in Kings Mountain.

Preacher Crow promoted an idea called "the Lord's Acre" during the depression. Each family farmed an acre of land, grew chickens, a calf, or a hog and used the profit to support the church needs. Besides filling a practical need, he thought the people could appreciate how the Lord makes things grow. The idea summarizes much of Rev. Crow's philosophy. "Man isn't much if he can't get out of the common and feel the spiritual matters of life. Life is a spiritual matter," he said.

His son, John Buren, a physician, married Ola Maye Cannon and lives in Earl, N.C. They have four children: two daughters, Betty and Toni; and two sons, John and David. His daughter, Macy, married Jennings Brooks, plant supt., Cleveland Lumber Co., Shelby. They have three children: one son, Wm. J., Jr. (Bill), and two daughters, Patsy and Penny.

Sources: "A Conversation with The Rev. C.C. Crow" by Jim Weathers in Shelby Daily Star, July 31, 1980; family

— Mrs. Macy Brooks

JOHN BUREN CROW

362

John Buren Crow was born February 10, 1925 in Duncan's Creek Township near Hollis, North Carolina in Rutherford County. He is the oldest of two children born to Clifford Cornelius and Esther Lily Toney Crow. He has one sister, Macey Ellen Crow Brooks. His paternal grandparents were Elijah Pinkney and Ella Mason Price Crow. His maternal grandparents were James Coren and Ellen Walker Toney.

Being tenant farmers the family was poor. Clifford Crow had to drop out of school after the completion of the seventh grade. However, fourteen years later at the age of twenty six and with the added responsibility of a wife and two children, he entered high school. On the farm they were able to eke out a meager existence which provided the necessities of life but afforded no luxuries. By driving a school bus and preaching whenever the opportunity arose he was able to support his family and finish high school.

In 1930 the family moved to Wake Forest, North Carolina where Clifford Crow entered college at the age of thirty. It was here that John Buren Crow began his elementary education. He completed the second grade here and upon the graduation of his father from college, the family returned to Rutherford County.

In the early 1940's the Crow family moved to Cleveland County. After graduation from Lattimore High School in 1942, John Buren enrolled at Wake Forest College. He had taken the first step toward making his boyhood dream become a reality; the dream of becoming a doctor, ministering to the needs of rural people. These were the people that he knew and loved best.

Rev. Clifford Cornelius Crow, 1900-1981

Following the example of his parents, he applied himself to whatever task that lay before him. He was able to get things done by combining opportunity and effort. He helped finance his schooling by working in the college cafeteria. On holidays and during summer vacations he worked on farms, as a carpenter's helper, as a brick mason's helper or at whatever work was available.

In 1948 he earned a Doctor of Medicine degree from Bowman Gray School of Medicine in Winston-Salem, North Carolina. He completed one year of rotating internship at Rex Hospital in Raleigh, North Carolina in December, 1949.

In January of 1950 Dr. Crow began the practice of medicine with Dr. Wyan Washburn in Boiling Springs, North Carolina. He stayed there six months fulfilling an agreement to take care of Dr. Washburn's practice while he was away the month of June.

On July 15, 1950 Dr. Crow opened his office for the practice of medicine in Earl, North Carolina. His first office was in his home. In 1959 he built the building where he currently carries on his practice. In 1955 he was drafted into the army. He served as a captain until December 1956 serving the entire time in Germany. After his discharge he returned to Earl where he has maintained a solo practice for the past thirty two years except for the two years he was in service.

On July 8, 1950 he was married to the former Ola Maye Cannon of Chesnee, South Carolina. They have four children.

Betty Louise was born September 6, 1951. She graduated from Carson Newman College with a BS in Sociology in 1973. After two years with the Home Mission Board in Marietta, Georgia, serving as Director of Senior Citizen Activities, she entered Southern Baptist Seminary in Louisville, Kentucky. She received a Master's Degree in Religious Education from there in 1978. She is currently employed as Minister to Children at Crestwood Baptist Church. She is married to Daniel Alton Denkler. Dan is a finance and operations specialist with Federal Bank of Louisville. They have one daughter, Erin Elisabeth and live at Crestwood, Kentucky.

Toni Jewell, born June 9, 1954, is a registered nurse. She received an Associate Degree in Nursing from Gardner-Webb College in 1975. She works with her father assisting him at Cleveland Memorial Hospital in Shelby, North Carolina. She is married to Nelson Sneed Sellers, Sr. Nelson farms and operates Sellers Fishing Lakes. They live near Cherryville, North Carolina with their three children, Christopher Lee, Nelson Sneed, Jr. and Karen Elizabeth.

John Logan Crow was born January 20, 1963. He is a freshman at Western Carolina University at Cullowhee, North Carolina.

David Frank was born August 28, 1968 and is an eighth grade student at Shelby Junior High School.

Sources: Interview of John Buren Crow

— Ola Maye Crow

THE PLATO DIXON CROWDER FAMILY

363

Vada Spangler was born March 25, 1903 at home near Double Shoals. She was the child of James Webb and Emma Laughlin Spangler. Vada married Plato Dixon Crowder. Plato was the son of William A. and Mary Boggs Crowder. He was born March 15, 1901. He worked in Crowder's Cotton Gin. Also, he farmed until his retirement in 1965. Vada and Plato raised five children.

Ruby Frances was born March 14, 1926 and married John Jackson Hunt on June 22, 1946. They have five daughters. Judy Frances was born May 16, 1949. She married Hanse Kohler July 10, 1978. They have one daughter, Jackie Hunt Kohler born September 27, 1979. Penny Ann was born July 4, 1951. She married James Corn, August 18, 1973. They have three children. James Hunter was born August 5, 1975, Annabeth Jones was born August 11, 1977, and William James was born August 19, 1978. Alma Elizabeth was born July 18, 1952 and married Paul Sarazen, III on December 30, 1972. They have two children Paul Sarazen, IV, born July 13, 1977 and Elizabeth Hunt, born August 6, 1979. Cindy Jane was born March 19, 1954. Sally Lou was born March 1, 1956 and married Roland Jones September 27, 1980.

Veva C. Crowder was born February 12, 1927. She was married to Donald Ralph Gold February 20, 1948. They have four children: Janet Iris Gold, born September 8, 1950, married Roger McSwain September 8, 1973, and they have two children Emily Kathryn, born November 8, 1977 and Katie Ellen, born December 30, 1980. Donald Allen Gold was born March 3, 1952. He married Wanda Surratt July 7, 1978. Ned Milton Gold was born March 22, 1957. Gary Ralph Gold was born June 14, 1958.

Plato Dixon Crowder, Jr., born April 20, 1931, married Betty Lou Hendrick December 21, 1948. They had four children. Regina Lou, born September 2, 1949, married Vance Suttle June 10, 1972. Plato Dixon Crowder, III, was born December 12, 1954, and married Jo Ann Smith November 17, 1981. Betsy Harrill Crowder was born September 24, 1959. Mary Lena Crowder was born October 17, 1961. Betty Lou H. Crowder was killed in an automobile accident on July 1, 1976. P.D. Crowder, Jr. married Mary Bray May 31, 1980.

Mary Willie Crowder was born February 16, 1935 and married Franklin V. Beam February 9, 1957. They have two children: Betsy Jane born November 23, 1959 and David Milton born March 26, 1961.

Patsy Elizabeth Crowder was born April 24, 1944 and married Douglas D. Cabiness, March 6, 1966. They have three children: Bruce Alan born March 10, 1967; Barry Wayne, born June 22, 1968 and Boyd Lee born May 18, 1971.

Plato Dixon Crowder, Sr. died May 19, 1971. He was buried at Cleveland Memorial Park. His funeral was held at Double Springs Baptist Church where he and Vada had been members for many years.

Vada Crowder lives alone in Lattimore. She works in her yard and garden. She cooks for children, grandchildren, and great-grandchildren. Vada enjoys staying busy and having company.

Sources: Family sources

— Patsy Cabiness
and Mary Beam

ROBERT WELLS CROWDER and EUNICE JANE EVANS CROWDER

364

Robert Wells Crowder was born in Cleveland County on February 24, 1932. He was married to Eunice Jane Evans on the 28th of April 1856. They lived a few miles north of Lawndale, N.C. He enlisted in the Confederate Army on September 17, 1861 and was wounded in the first battle of Manassas. He was killed in the second battle of Manassas on August 27, 1862. At the time of his death, he was a Sergeant in Company F, 34th N.C. Infantry, C.S.A.

Robert Wells Crowder was the son of Bartlet Crowder and Polly Broom Crowder, who had ten children: Joseph P. Crowder, born May 1, 1826, served in Co. F, 56th Regiment, Confederate Army. Enlisted 7/8/62.

Private John K. Crowder, born Oct. 29, 1827, enlisted Nov. 22, 1861 in Co. I, 38th Reg; Sara Jane Crowder, born March 14, 1830, date of death unknown; Spencer A. Crowder, born Nov. 14, 1835, married Martha Marton on October 2, 1861, served in Co. F, 56th Reg., N.C. Infantry, C.S.A., died August 22, 1922. William F. Crowder, born January 8, 1838, enlisted in Confederate Army September 17, 1861; Mary Crowder born January 5, 1840, death unknown; Mike W. Crowder, born

November 27, 1842, enlisted in Confederate Army September 20, 1863, Co. F, 56th Reg. Eliza Crowder, born May 18, 1847, date of death unknown; Frances (Fannie) Crowder, born March 6, 1850, date of death unknown.

Robert Wells Crowder and Eunice Jane Evans Crowder had one daughter and one son. Eva Crowder Shuford married George Shuford. Born to them were five children: Bertha Shuford who married Charlie Crowder; John Shuford, a daughter, married George Grigg; Robert Shyford married Maude Grigg; Lillian Shuford married Ed Sain; Lou Shuford did not get married. Lou Shuford is the only surviving member of that family.

William Yancy Crowder, born June 26, 1860, married Minnie Gertrude Dellinger, born August 30, 1866. They lived at 312 N. Morgan Street, Shelby, N.C. William Yancy Crowder died July 10, 1945, and Minnie Dellinger Crowder died March 19, 1951. They had nine children: Mary Vastine Crowder Washburn (February 25, 1891 — July 19, 1962) married Grady Washburn. They had three children: William C. Washburn, Vinson W. Washburn, and Mary Glenn Washburn Walker.

Robert Dellinger Crowder (November 28, 1892 — February 8, 1936), married Kate Hardin. They had one son, Robert Hardin Crowder, who died July 28, 1980. Lois Catherine Crowder Green (August 19, 1894 — July 4, 1972) married Buford L. Green. They had three children: Buford Leonard Green, Jr., Minnie Catherine Green Daniels and Charles Herbert Green.

William Evans Crowder (April 3, 1896 — August 23, 1972) married Gertrude Austell. They had two sons: William Evans Crowder, Jr. and James Love Crowder.

John Durant Crowder (July 22, 1898 — October 12, 1973) married Bertha Grigg. They had one daughter and one son, Mildred Lee Crowder Templeton and John Durant Crowder, Jr. Minnie Lee Crowder Francis, married Max Clayton Francis. She was born August 19, 1900 and died February 9, 1973. They had three children: Max Clayton Francis, Jr., Robert Ray Francis and Nancy Crowder Francis Grigg.

Robert Wells Crowder

Margaret Eunice Crowder is unmarried. She lives at homeplace, 312 N. Margan Street, Shelby, N.C. Bertie Ware Crowder Lee, married Dexter A. Lee. They have two children: David Allen Lee and Martha Ann Lee.

Mattie Brown Crowder Allen, married Ray Landrum Allen. They have one son, John Thomas Allen.

The last three are the only surviving members of the William and Minnie Crowder family and they all three live in Shelby, N.C.

The folling was copied from Eunice Jane Crowder's tombstone in Palm Tree Methodist Church, Lawndale, N.C.:

Eunice J. Crowder
Born August 13, 1829
Died July 10, 1886

Robert Wells Crowder
Born Feb. 24, 1832
Died Aug. 27, 1862
Grave unknown

Sgt. Robert W. Crowder
Co. F — 34th N.C. Inf.
C.S.A.

Sources: Moore's Vol. 2 — 3 — 4 and family records.

— Mattie Crowder Allen

WILLIAM ALBERT CROWDER

365

William Albert Crowder, (1873-1932), an orphan who pulled himself up by his boot-strings, was a scientific farmer. He was a cotton ginner who pioneered in the competitive buying and selling of lint cotton, and a business man who helped introduce the crawler tractor in Cleveland County. Dr. R.L. Hunt and W.A. Crowder sold these tractors at Cleveland Tractor Company, West Warren Street, Shelby, North Carolina.

His large land holdings were at Lattimore, North Carolina. In 1931, the year prior to his death, he and his sons produced 631 bales of cotton. He was a mule trader and was known for selling the very best mules. These were bought in Morristown, Tennessee.

Roads and schools were two of his interests. His formal education ended when he was in the third grade. However, his education did not stop there. Through reading and studying he became proficient in spelling and pronunciation. He was also accomplished in mathematics. The popular farm magazines of that day, such as Progressive Farmer, helped him become a successful farmer.

He promoted better roads so farmers would have easier access to the market place. His interests in roads increased because of his pride in the Studebaker car he purchased in the early 1920's. It is ironic that the road through the original Crowder farm has never been paved!

Early in the century, he was instrumental in the building of a new church at Lattimore Baptist Church where he was a deacon and Sunday School teacher. Later he taught the Men's Sunday School Class at Double Springs Baptist Church.

William Albert Crowder was born January 1, 1873, the son of John K. and Biddie Walker

Crowder. His mother died when he was eighteen months old and his father died about four years later. He had a difficult time during his boyhood. Among the people who befriended him by providing him a home and employment were Mr. and Mrs. Frank McCall, D.W.F. Hamrick, and Sylvester Cline. Will Crowder died February 20, 1932.

On April 5, 1896, Will Crowder married Mary Etta Boggs, the daughter of Noah E. and Sara Wilson Boggs of Belwood. She was known as "Molly." Her education included schooling at Belwood. Her teacher paid her to teach spelling for him. With the money earned, she bought a trunk which is now being used by her great-granddaughter, Frances Boggs Harris Gettys. Molly Boggs was a kind, gentle, soft spoken, and patient wife and mother of seven. She taught the children to work and instilled in them the desire to be educated.

She was born January 15, 1872, and died October 23, 1911. At the time of her death, the youngest child, Daisy, was four years old.

On July 12, 1912, Will Crowder married a popular teacher, Sara Frances Jones known as "Miss Fannie." Five children were born to this marriage, two are deceased. She had been educated at Ellenboro Boarding School and Round Hill Academy in Rutherford County, North Carolina. She attended Greensboro College, Greensboro, North Carolina. She taught at Union School south of Polkville, North Carolina, and at Balfour in Henderson County, North Carolina.

Fannie Jones Crowder was a kind and loving mother for all the Crowder children. She never knew the difference in the loving, sharing, and caring for them. She encouraged them to pursue an education. All of them became high school graduates. Seven of the ten children attended and/or graduated from college. Six of the Crowder daughters, Lottie, Leila, Hattie, Maude, Aileen, and Ruth were teachers. Leila and Daisy did the office work related to the farm business. The three sons, Forrest, Plato, and John were farmers, ginners, and business men. Fannie Crowder was loved and held in high esteem by the Crowder children and grandchildren.

Fannie Jones Crowder born July 3, 1882, was the daughter of Donald William and Mary Ann Magness Jones. She died June 13, 1952.

The Crowder funerals were home funerals. William Albert Crowder, his wives "Molly and Fannie" and two infant daughters are buried in the Lattimore Baptist Church Cemetery, Lattimore, North Carolina.

Sources: W.A. Crowder obituary, Records of Joe Washburn, family records, personal interviews

— Mary Harris

EDWARD ANDERSON DALTON FAMILY

366

Edward Anderson Dalton, son of William M. Dalton and Polly Young Dalton, and Hester Mauney Whiteside, daughter of Samuel and Salina Green Whiteside were married Jan. 2, 1884. They lived on a farm on Shelby, N.C., Route #1, in the St. Paul Methodist church

St. Paul School, Cleveland County, Rt. #1, 1914-1915. Wray Elam Putnam, Teacher community near Waco, N.C. the largest city between Shelby and Cherryville, N.C.

They had thirteen children: Chancey Caldwell, Beuna, Oattie Myrtle (died at the age of six, smothered to death in cotton), Ulah May (died at the age of two with spinal-meningitis), baby (died unnamed, found dead in the bed). These children are buried in the Bethlehem Methodist Church Cemetery in Lincoln County. Chesley Amzi was born next, then Lewis Clyde, Roy, Essie Grace, Iva Ruth, Grayson Yates (died at the age of twenty with leukemia, buried in the St. Paul church cemetery), Vivian, next, and J.D. (By this time they had run out of names).

We all attended a one-teacher school at the St. Paul School. At one time there were eight Dalton children in a one-room school (see picture). Later Chesley, Roy, and Essie went to Piedmont High School, Lawndale, N.C. The others went to Waco High School, Waco, N.C.

Life was always interesting. We lived in a thickly settled community, between the main road to Shelby and Cherryville, N.C. and the creek which was known as the Suck. What we didn't see happening, neighbors told us.

We all attended St. Paul Methodist church and once a year, at laying-by-time, we would have a revival meeting at which we were supposed to renew our religion. Sometimes we would have a few souls who would go on a shouting "spree," especially one old lady would take off her bonnet and say "Make Glory hump it." She would frighten all the children and wake all the older ones who were asleep. During one tent meeting there was an earthquake which really shook the walls and rattled the dishes and some people got religion that didn't intend to.

My daddy was the one who was called to haul all the dead to the cemetery, and when he had to haul some one he wasn't fond of, he would say he drove very carefully over the rough road so as not to wake him. My mother was sent for when there was sickness in a family or a new baby about to arrive in this world. She knew all the poultices, teas, and toddy to cure all kinds of ailments. She had already tried them out on her children, like when we had to wear a safetide on a string around the neck when there was an epidemic around. That not only kept the germ away but everybody away. We would fake illness to get out of work sometimes, but when we found out what the remedy was going to be, we made a speedy recovery.

In the fall we would have corn shuckings; after the corn was shucked, there would be a big supper, chicken pie or dumplings, beans, slaw, etc., also potato or pumpkin custard, apple pie or pound cake. And the younger ones would play "Tap Ring" or square dance.

We had city cousins who could come for a summer vacation; we were more than glad to introduce them to our country life, like where our ham meat, milk, and eggs came from, or when the Jack brayed, it wasn't Gabriel blowing his horn, and the world was not coming to an end.

Chancey C. Dalton married Pearl Grigg, they had eight children. Chancey is buried in Forest Lawn Cemetery in Lincoln County.

Buena Dalton married W. Rufus Sweatt; he was with the Seaboard Railroad. Beuna died April 13, 1982 and is buried at St. Paul Methodist Church Cemetery in Cleveland County. They had four sons.

Chesley A. Dalton married Addie Harrelson; they had one daughter and one son. Chesley is buried in St. Paul cemetery. L. Clyde married Bessie Hoyle; they had one son and one daughter. Clyde is buried in Warren Dale cemetery in Norlina, N.C. Roy Dalton married Nell Grey Holmes; they had one son. Roy is buried in St. Paul cemetery. Essie Dalton married Donald B. Briggs of the U.S. Navy. Essie is buried in Forest Lawn Cemetery in Greensboro, N.C. Iva Dalton married Carlo Self; they had one son. Vivian Dalton married Mannings Gathings; they had four daughters. Later she married Marion Spargo. J.D. Dalton married Gertrude Hunter, J.D. is buried in Forest Lawn Cemetery in Greensboro, N.C.

Sources: Tombstones and Family Bible

— Iva D. Self

THE JOHN L. DAMRON FAMILY

367

John L. Damron was born January 24, 1798 in Covington, Virginia. He died near Shelby, North Carolina, April 1, 1870, at the age of 72.

At the age of 16, John L. Damron left his home in Covington, Virginia, and went to fight his own battles in the world and was successful.

First account of John L. Damron's success was from Knoxville, Tennessee, where he married a "Miss" Backman, a relative of Reverend R.L. Backman of Knoxville, Tennessee. There were three children, John D. Damron, born 1-4-1832, died August 11, 1871, buried in Sunset Cemetery in Shelby, North Carolina. There is no record of the other two children.

John L. Damron was one of the most successful and popular builders and brickmasons Knoxville, Tennessee possessed.

Our present court house in Knoxville, Tennessee, the block now occupied by Mitchell and Brothers, Druggist, Walley Tobbaconist, and Hart Clothiers, and many other buildings of less note, were erected by John L. Damron. John L. Damron was prompt and honest in fulfilling his contracts and equally as exacting in requiring others to do likewise.

John L. Damron never lost a job of brick work because the money could not be paid down for it. If there was an old worn out farm or sedgefield, or a lot with gullys running through it, he took it always as equivalent to cash. In this way, there is scarcely a county in East Tennessee, and certainly not one where he erected a building, that he did not own real estate.

After John L. Damron built the Knoxville Tennessee Court House and other buildings, John L. Damron took his profits and invested it in the Knoxville County Tennessee land.

He purchased the farm lying North of town, known as John L. Damron's addition. On this farm was an old gray cemetery, and all the section of the city of Knoxville, Tennessee, lying north of Broadway Street, and the National Cemetery. This farm was said to be a poor farm. One day his wife, after going over the farm, remarked to him that it was an awfully poor farm land. "Well," said Mr. John L. Damron, "the ground may be poor, but it will be rich some day. I, John L. Damron, may not live to see it, but my children, or their children, will live to see Knoxville, Tennessee, extended. This will be one of the best parts of the city of Knoxville, Tennessee." John L. Damron's granddaughter's lived to see his prophecy fulfilled.

John L. Damron saw the natural resources around Knoxville, Tennessee. He had faith in the little hamlet that it would one day be a great city.

A May 1911 issue of CLEVELAND STAR reprinted an article from KNOXVILLE (Tenn.) SENTINEL on John L. Damron as follows: not only did he build the first Cleveland County Court House, but the first and second court-houses in Knoxville (Tenn.), along with similar structures in Salisbury, North Carolina, Chester, Columbia, and Union, Souther Carolina.

It is thought that John L. Damron came to Shelby, North Carolina, around 1841, when Cleveland County, North Carolina had recently been formed. He built the first Cleveland County Courthouse about 1845 in Shelby, being the county seat.

According to deeds and other records, John L. Damron built up a plantation consisting of approximately twelve hundred (1200) acres of land. This land was located about two miles south of Waco, North Carolina, and what is now Waco Road.

John L. Damron also acquired twenty seven (27) slaves, according to a book by Lee B. Weathers called The Living Past of Cleveland County.

On this plantation, John L. Damron built a huge house for the family, a "mansion house" for the time in history. Other quarters for the slaves were also built. According to records, they refer several times to "The Mansion House," out buildings, and improvements.

John L. Damron's second wife was a sister of Colonel Leroy McAfee of Shelby, North Carolina. They had three children. One son, William L. Damron, who later lived on the plantation. Two daughters, Mrs. W.A. Wray and Sara J. Lee, both lived in Knoxville, Tennessee. Information is limited, and sources were newspaper clippings found in Damron's Family Bible, obituaries undated, unnamed newspapers, and tombstones in the family plot in the Sunset Cemetery in Shelby, North Carolina.

Elizabeth P. Webster Damron, of Union, South Carolina, died at the home of her son-in-law, Mr. W.A. Wray in Shelby, North Carolina, on the thirteenth (13th) day of May, 1878. She was 51 years old. She was married twice, and was known as Mrs. Damron for many years in Shelby, North Carolina, where she died after many years of illness. The funeral was preached by Reverend R.Z. Johnston, of Lincolnton, North Carolina. Some very touching remarks were made by Reverend H.T. Hudson. E. Webster Damron is buried in Sunset Cemetery, Shelby, North Carolina, next to John L. Damron.

Sources: Newspaper clipping in family Bible

— Mrs. Jack Shuford

WILLIAM L. DAMRON

368

Mr. William Damron — Born September 7, 1860 — died January 13, 1924. Mr. William L. Damron was son of John L. Damron and Parmelia McAfee Damron.

Mr. Will Damron was descendant from two of the most prominent families in North Carolina and Virginia. The Damron's were among Virginia's leading families, while the McAfee's were prominently connected with North Carolina history for many years.

Mr. Will L. Damron was first married to a Miss Georgia Borders, who died in Knoxville, Tennessee, at the residence of her brother-in-law, on North Broadway Street, June 11, at 10:20 p.m. Major H.D. Lee was her brother-in-law. Mrs. Georgia Damron, wife of W.L. Damron, Mayor of Shelby, North Carolina, at the age of twenty two years. Mrs. Damron had been suffering for a long time with cancer of the stomach. All that medicine skill could do, was done for her. She passed quietly and peacefully to the great beyond, in the full faith of a home where pain does not enter, and trouble never comes. She was a member of the Presbyterian Church of Shelby, North Carolina, and loved by all who knew her. She leaves a husband, a father, mother, two sisters, and three brothers, all of whom reside in Shelby, North Carolina, where her remains were shipped on the 1:30 train yesterday, accompanied by Mr. Damron and Dr. W.A. Wray. Mrs. Damron was a relative of Major Jennings and Family, and had been on a visit here with her husband in hopes the change would benefit her. This obituary was in The Tribune, Knoxville, Tennessee, who extends its sympathy to the sorrowing husband and afflicted relatives in the hour of trial.

Mr. Will Damron was held in high esteem, both as an official and as a business man. A large number of people will hear with regret of his passing. Mr. Damron was a member of Shelby Presbyterian Church. He was a master mason, and was Mayor of Shelby, North Carolina, for several years. Mr. Will L. Damron decided to forego politics, and moved to his farm of some four hundred acres. He was a very successful farmer, and his home was ever open to his many friends. Former Mayor Damron ever had the interest of his home town at heart, and had pleasurably watched Shelby, North Carolina, grow from a little hamlet to a thriving and prosperous city.

Eva Suzzanne Whiteside Davis

In the death of Mr. Will L. Damron, Cleveland County has lost one of its best and leading citizens, and a high toned Christian gentlemen.

In October 1891, Mr. Damron was married to Miss Addie Lynch of a leading family in Rutherford County, who with one daughter, Miss Mary L. Damron, survive. Several sisters and brothers proceeded Mr. Will Damron to the grave.

Sources: This information was taken from newspaper clippings in the Damron Family Bible. The clippings had no names or dates.

— Mrs. Jack Shuford

for the Insane (now Broughton Hospital) at Morganton. He participated in numerous civic affairs and was a founder and first president of the Morganton Chamber of Commerce, and Vice-president of the First National Bank. Always a leader in the local Mercantile field, he was a most respected and well beloved citizen.

Isaiah Iverson Davis married Lucy Isbel Bettis on May 28, 1871. She was the Daughter of Sylvester and Adeline Walker Bettis. Their children were: Unnamed daughter, died in infancy; Frank Bettis, 1873-1920; William Iverson, 1875-1956; Lucy Adeline, 1877-1889; Genie Gertrude, 1878-1945; Mamie Ethel, 1880-1899; Mattie Mira, 1882-1961; Isaiah Iverson, Jr., 1884-1972; Robert Micajah, 1888-1947; Helen Atlanta, 1892-1969.

Isaiah Iverson Davis died on May 28, 1929.

Sources: Family Bible, personal information, family papers.

— Finley Webb Davis (grandson)

BENJAMIN DAVIS FAMILY

369

Benjamin Davis was born in 1731, in Wales, and died in Rowan County, North Carolina, in 1802. Sometime prior to 1749, he came to America, where he settled in Virginia, south of James River. He served in the Revolutionary War as a lieutenant. After the war, he moved to Cleveland County, North Carolina, and settled above the Broad River with his wife, Rebecca Harrell.

Ten children were born to this union, namely Catherine, Martha, Elnathan, Patience, Rachel, Jane, Josiah, Isaiah, Benjamin and Micajah.

The youngest son, Micajah, was born in 1789. He married Mrs. Elizabeth Smith Bridges. Their son, Zachariah Bolivar (b. 1813, d. 1852) married Mira Webb, of Shelby. Their children were: Rosilia, b. 1834; Elizabeth, b. 1836; Micajah, b. 1837; Phoebe, b. 1839; Mary Ann, b. 1841; Martha, b. 1842; Isaiah Iverson, b. 1843; Sarah, b. 1845; Adeline, b. 1847; Benjamin F., b. 1850.

Isaiah Iverson migrated to Burke County shortly after the War between the States, settled in Morganton, where he opened a store on the main street, stocked with a wide variety of goods, consisting of dry goods, shoes, notions, etc. His brother, Benjamin later joined him in Morganton, and became a partner in his store, known as I.I. Davis and Bro., and still later as I.I. Davis & Son. While serving the Confederacy as a foot soldier, he also acted on occasion as flag bearer, and was a member of a military band. He was with Lee's Army of Northern Virginia, with a rating of sergeant, when Lee surrendered at Appamattox Court House.

I.I. Davis became one of Morganton's most prominent citizens, living a quiet and sober life, and serving his church and his community throughout his lifetime. A long time member of the Board of Stewards at the First Methodist Church, and for 35 years (1883-1917) a member of the Board, including a six year period (1911-1917) in which he served as President of the Board of Directors of the State Hospital

William Simon Davis

PHILLIP DAVIS and DESCENDANTS

370

The origins of Phillips Davis have been widely researched and debated for many years without much luck. Many theories have developed with little concrete evidence to back them up. In 1790, he was a resident of the 96th district of Union County, South Carolina. By 1800, he, his wife Mary, and their family had moved to Rutherford County, North Carolina. Revolutionary War Records for Phillip have not been discovered, but many believe him to be a younger brother of Simon Davis, Revolutionary patriot of Virginia. Simon is buried in Rutherford County, North Carolina.

On March 19, 1788, William Fernilson Davis was born to Phillip and Mary Davis. Little is known about William Fernilson's younger years, but on November 5, 1812, he married Sarah Womack of Rutherford County, North Carolina.

To this union was born 16 children; Nancy, John, Anderson, James, Sussannah, William, Phillip, Nathaniel, Sarah, Mary Ann, Malena, Phoebe, Thomas, Willis, Simon, and Abraham "Hamby."

This large family was raised on a farm between Polkville and New House, and many loving years were spent farming here. The Davis-Green family cemetery is now the only remains left on the home-site.

One family story that is often told concerns the disappearance of William and Sarah's youngest child — Hamby. Their large two-story house caught on fire one night and everyone was frantically trying to get the possessions out of the house. The mattresses were rolled up and thrown out the upstairs window, later to be carried away from the house out of danger of the fire.

As the house burned, the parents began counting children and soon discovered that "baby Hamby" was missing. Everyone looked for Hamby, but they each began to know he had been lost in the fire. In a few minutes, they heard a baby crying. Hamby had been rolled up in one of the mattresses, thrown out a second story window without waking up. Cleveland County would have quite a few less Davises had Hamby really been lost in the fire.

Hamby (1835-1906) married Arabella Bridges on June 16, 1858 and eight children were born to this union; Willima Simon, Milton Webb, Hillard "Hill", Dexont "Duke", Joseph, Parmelia Susan, Essie, and Louisa. Hamby and Arabella raised their children on a farm near New House. Hamby served during the Civil War with the "Sandy Run Yellow Jackets." They are both buried at Sandy Plains Baptist Church, New House, North Carolina.

William Simon Davis was born June 10, 1872 on the farm of his parents, where he helped with the various farm chores until his marriage August 30, 1894 to Eva Suzanne Whitesides Davis of Gaston County. Evan and Simon met while Eva was visiting cousins at New House.

Shortly after their marriage, they bought a small farm between New House and Lattimore and began raising their family, later they bought a farm in "Washburn Switch" and settled there. Thirteen children were born to this union. Samuel Valentine (1895-1955) married Hokie McMurray, Barbara Lee (1897-1945) married Shelton Cabiness, Crowder Garmon (1899-1967) married Minnie Lovelace, Arie Pearl (1901-1971) married Milton Hawkins, Vertie Susan (1903-1967) married Clyde W. Short, Truman Arlander (1906-1954) married Mallie Bridges, Lalah Myrtle (1908-1976) married Ralph Putnam and Sam Page, Selma Dee (born 1909) married F. Pyne Withrow, Reba Belle (born 1911) married Worth Melton, William Rush (1913-1979) married Louise McSwain, Hester Blance (born 1914) married Dortch Gillespie, Grady Champion (1915-1979) married Barbara Musgroves, Hannah Bryant, and Peggy Fenney, William Simon, Jr. (born 1919) married Evelyn Green.

William Simon, Sr. died 1948 and Eva died in 1958. They are both buried at Double Springs Baptist Church.

The Davis generations through the years have contributed greatly to the population census of Cleveland County, as most have continued to live, work, and raise families within this local vicinity.

Sources: Family knowledge

— Joyce Davis Bell

THE WILLIAM THOMAS and STELLA HARRILL DAVIS FAMILY

371

William Thomas Davis was born September 4, 1894 at Lattimore, son of Agatha Bridges (1875-1963) and Alonzo H. Davis (1872-1917). His father was a railroad man, but William chose to be a salesman. He was a beautiful child with sparkling brown eyes and blond curls. An 1897 news item is quoted.

"The cut above shows the Observer's youngest newsboy as he appears on the streets at his home at Lattimore, near Shelby, N.C. His name is William Davis, aged three years and six months and weighing only 28 pounds. Lattimore is only a small town, but William easily disposes of ten papers a day and many times sells twice as many. William is numbered among the Observer's many bright newsboys as being one of the most prompt and accurate in his dealings. The Observer hopes to find him in the president's chair some day. Who Knows? — Charlotte Observer.

This boy is a son of A.H. Davis, the White Plymouth Rock man. The boy is not only a good newsboy, but he is a fancier of fowls as well, and has a nice flock of bantams which he attends to himself. We wish brother Davis and his bright boy much success."

A Young Newsboy.

WILLIAM DAVIS.

William Davis

The blond curls turned to warm brown and teenage William fell in love with pretty little Stella Harrill, b. August 24, 1893, daughter of Julie McSwain and Robert Harrill. Her father offered her a twenty dollar gold piece not to marry William, but the glow of their love was brighter than gold. They were married October 19, 1912. The Harrills became Uncle Bob and Aunt Julie to William and he became a son to them. Aunt Julie simply adored him.

The Davis children, Frank Harrill, May 5, 1915 and Willie Elise, June 21, 1917 were both born at Lattimore.

Frank, Master Sergeant, served thirty-three years in military service in the United States and on many foreign fields. He married Sylvia Ruslikas from New York State, May 28, 1943. William affectionately called her "Yankee". Frank Harrill, Jr. was born January 12, 1947. Charles William was born September 20, 1951. Frank Jr. and Gwenn Paulson have two children. Frank Harrill Third and Jill. Frank Jr. and second wife Rebecca Ryland have one son, Favor, and now live in Kentucky. Frank and Sylvia live at Charlotte. Charles lives also, in Kentucky.

Elise married Flake T. Lyerly, Jr. of Charlotte, April 18, 1937. They have two children. Ned Thomas, May 4, 1939 and Nancy Elise, January 22, 1948. Ned married Frances McCall and they have three children, Ned Thomas Jr., Jill and Lynda. All the Lyerlys live at Charlotte. Nancy married Ronald Adam Dilg of New York. They live in New York and have one son Cason. "Casey" who at age three was quoted in an article in the New York Times is following in his great grandfathers footsteps.

In 1918 William, Stella, Frank and Elise moved to Florida. It was warm and wonderful, they saw many new things and tasted their first grapefruit. Florida's water didn't agree with baby Elise so they moved again in 1919 to Charlotte. They lived in the popular Fourth Ward and Stella and William opened a large furniture store. Soon William found a new love — antiques.

Summers were special. What fun Frank and Elise had at Lattimore, walking the railroad tracks, swimming(?) in the culvert (a hole), riding horses, picking cotton and eating tons of fruit. Aunts Alma and Garva still look for a green apple when Elise visits them. Visitors to Charlotte rode the street car, played in the parks, shopped, saw movies and ate peanut butter. Stella's younger brothers would come to work with William. He taught them to buy and sell antiques, then he sent them out alone to buy a truck load.

The Davis family joined Nine Avenue Baptist Church. It played an important part in their lives. William loved to sing, not only church hymns but he also loved folk and country music. One song, not a hymn or country, he only sang two lines of "Pedro Had A Little Dog," dirty little dog was he. At this point Stella always said, "William," and that was that. Stella was never loud or bossy but when she said don't, you didn't. Anyone know that song?

Frank and Elise Davis, photographed 1919

The war years found William and Stella at Wilmington, where he worked at the shipyard. This letter was found among his keepsakes. "I hope this letter will express my heart felt thanks for your wonderful record of attendance, conduct, attitude and loyalty. You are always here on the job ready to give an honest days work. You accept the work assigned to you without fear or comment. Your viewpoint of honest labor goes a long way in relieving the burden on me and my supervisory staff. May I offer you my heartiest congratulations and suggest that you use your attitude to influence others who may not see things as clearly as you do."

From 1921 until 1970 William sold antiques in Mecklenburg and Cleveland County. He talked and taught antiques to anyone who would listen and some who wouldn't (Elise, now an antique dealer). It was said, "he could tell more by looking at the backside of a piece of furniture, than most folks could tell by the front." His expertise was widely known. He shipped many pieces out of state. Those lucky enough to own an antique selected by this veteran dealer are proud indeed. He taught many others and encouraged them to become dealers.

The Charlotte Observer and William remained life long friends. Many articles followed the one written in 1897, in one he was called "A Dealer Of The Unique." This was his favorite work to describe his antiques. What better work to describe WILLIAM-UNIQUE.

His great grandchildren called him "Tick-Tock." They loved his old clocks as he did and were delighted when he would make them strike. He gave them rolls of pennies or nickels, always advising them to save part of their money, (Probably hoping they would buy antiques someday).

Stella, not a famous scientist or a writer of books, but always there to read your favorite story, over and over, to play Old Maid or Go-Fishing, to teach you to crochet, to make a dress or go to town, to say prayers with you or just to watch the rain, like millions of little soldiers marching in the street. She was made of patience and love. Stella, the beautiful beloved wife, mother and grandmother, died March 16, 1959. William died September 11, 1970. They are buried in the Lattimore Baptist Church Cemetery.

"They belong on that special hill in the country church yard. Somehow I know I belong there too."

Sources: Newspaper clippings; Bible, Family quotes

— Elise Davis Lyerly

ROBERT ELIJAH DAYBERRY and ELLAR DIXON DAYBERRY

372

Robert Elijah Dayberry was born August 8, 1879 in the Moriah Community of Upper Cleveland County. His parents were William and Fronia Ledford Dayberry. They were land-owners and farmers and Elijah grew up to love the soil and the challenge it presented. As Elijah approached young adulthood, times were hard, and he had heard rumors about a mill in Bessemer City, N.C. where jobs were plentiful. He rode in a wagon with neighbors to Shelby, walked to Kings Mountain, and caught another wagon ride on to Bessemer City. It was there, working at the mill job, he met young Ellar May Dixon, daughter of John R. and Melvina Jenkins Dixon.

They were married on January 24, 1904 and continued working together in the mill. Shortly after their first child was born, Elijah became ill and was unable to continue working in the mill. It was then that he decided to bring his young family back to the rural life. They moved to a small house on Elijah's father's farm in Moriah and Ellar started learning the arts of being a farm wife. She soon learned to love the gardening, sewing and preserving her in-laws taught her. She became an excellent seamstress and her talents in the kitchen were unforgettable to those who had the opportunity to sample her marvelous cooking. When the William Dayberry farm was sold, it seemed only logical to Elijah and Ellar to venture out on their own, even though it meant becoming tenant farmers. They lived on several farms in the Upper Cleveland area — one of their favorites being the Marvin Lutz farm in Belwood.

They reared eight children: Roy Henderson, Ruby Mae, William Howard (deceased 1964), Florence, Austin Clifford, Veda, John Charlie (deceased 1950), and Robert Coleman.

Elijah and Ellar reared their children to work hard on the farm. The boys learned farming skills from their father and the girls learned the household skills their mother had perfected. There was never any accumulation of wealth, but neither was there any feeling of poverty. The home was full of beautiful hand-made quilts, crocheted and embroidered items and the aroma of delicious foods. The pie safe was a favorite place for grandchildren to look to find stacked blackberry pies, fried apple pies, and another favorite — stacked cake put together with stewed dried fruit.

A.V. Dedmon, circa 1965.

Eller also had a very strong spiritual background and read her Bible daily and took the family to church. They attended Knob Creek Methodist Church in Belwood where several family members still attend today.

All eight children remained in Cleveland County. Four of them living below Belwood School when Elijah and Ellar reached retirement. They decided at this time to buy a small lot in Belwood and build their first new house. Ellar had to give up her much loved cows and chickens when they moved to the smaller retirement home, but they both continued to enjoy the rural life that always had been so dear to them. Elijah walked daily — checking neighbors crops and gardens — and Ellar enjoyed sewing and cooking at a more leisurely pace.

The children and grandchildren visited often and cared for Ellar after she developed cancer. She died on April 16, 1950. Four days later John, who remained at home with his parents, died suddenly at age 32. Shortly after their deaths, Elijah moved across the road to live with son Coleman and his family. He lived 24 years after his wife's death. He continued to enjoy his daily walks and some fishing and hunting. He amazed his children and grandchildren with his alertness and sharp, keen mind right up to his very last day. He had been totally bedfast only 10 days when he died on Dec. 23, 1974 at age 95. He was buried beside his wife at Knob Creek Methodist Church on Christmas Day.

Sources: Family Bible

— Joyce H. Lutz

A.V. and LIZZIE LEE KENDRICK DEDMON

373

A.V. Dedmon, fourth son of Jesse Frank and Lottie Wellmon Dedmon, was born October 4, 1899, in Cleveland County, near the Ross Grove community. Moving soon with his family to a farm near Buffalo Creek on North Carolina Highway #150 East, A.V. grew up here, attending Rock Cut School, located up the hill from his home on what is now Troy Road.

After completing Rock Cut School, A.V. attended Waco School. He later went to work, bought a car and provided transportation for a younger brother and sister to attend high school. This was before the day of public school transportation.

A.V. was five feet, eleven inches tall. He had brown eyes and black hair, which he always wore parted in the middle. He and his brother Wray enjoyed attending parties at the homes of the young people throughout the county.

That was the case when A.V. first saw the girl who was to later become his wife. At the home of L.I. Kendrick the youngest daughter, Lizzie Lee, was on top of the woodshed putting apples out to dry on the day that the threshers were there. Although she was only fourteen at the time, A.V. said to a fellow thresher, "That's the girl I'm going to marry, because I know she will work." (That was intended to be a compliment). Lizzie Lee was unaware of this and did not meet A.V. until that fall (1918) when they both attended a lawn part at the home of Dave Barnett. Lizzie Lee was five feet five and one-half inches tall, and although she had been a blond as a young child, her hair had grown darker and was now black. She also had brown eyes.

Lizzie Lee Kendrick, daughter of Lawson Irvin and Ponola Camp Kendrick, was born in the Pleasant Hill community on December 4, 1903. She grew up in that community, attended the local school, and graduated from Boiling Springs High School (now Gardner-Webb College) in the spring of 1924. She later attended Lenoir-Rhyne College in Hickory.

A.V. Dedmon and Lizzie Lee Kendrick were married on June 10, 1925, at the home of the minister, Rev. I.D. Harrill in Lattimore. They first "set up housekeeping" in Kings Mountain, and later had their first house built there. He worked for an oil company and she taught in the one-room County Line School. They moved back to Shelby before their first child was born in 1930. That birth occurred on May 4, Memorial Day at Pleasant Hill Baptist Church. "Loss" Kendrick, father of Lizzie Lee, sat on the back doorstep waiting for the news of the baby's arrival and then happily went on to church to tell the friends and neighbors of Lizzie Lee's first baby.

A.V. worked for Shell Oil Company, driving a truck, in Shelby, Lincolnton, and Salisbury, but decided when the company wanted him to move to Baltimore, Maryland, in 1938, that that was not the thing to do. He left Shell and he, his wife and family returned to Shelby to live and work.

By this time there were four children. The family first settled on a farm near Buffalo Creek on North Carolina Highway #150 East and lived there for a few years before moving to a new location, still on Highway #150, closer to Shelby. Three more children were born into this family.

A.V. worked for several years with brother Wray Dedmon and brothers-in-law Lee Carpenter and John Dalton in the tire recapping business. Their shop was located in Shelby on West Marion Street near the railroad.

The A.V. Dedmon Family, 1950. Front row L to R: Joe, Richard, Sue, Roy. Back row L to R: Doris Ann, A.V., Lizzie Lee, Mary Ruth, Charles.

His next business venture was back to trucks, which he stayed with until his death in 1967. Brothers A.V. and Wray bought the original Ellis Transfer Company consisting of two trucks — a Ford B Model and a Ford V-8. Later Wray sold out to A.V. and in 1942 the A.V. Dedmon Trucking, Inc. was formed. This business was located on South Morgan Street in Shelby near the Southern Railroad Depot until 1965 when a new office and terminal were built on North Carolina Highway #150 East. Sons Charles and Joe Dedmon later joined the business which specialized in local and long distance household moving and commercial freight. The business continues to be in operation at this date.

During this time wife Lizzie Lee provided support from the home in the rearing of their children. She sewed well and made all of the girls' clothes. She also loved to garden and always canned enough fruit and vegetables to feed the family throughout the year. But she is best known for her cooking, especially the biscuits and gravy that all the kids, cousins, and grandchildren loved. According to many, she made the best biscuits in the country.

A.V. enjoyed his membership in the local Kiwanis Club. A favorite pastime, was to sit on his front porch on Sunday afternoons in the summertime and speak to all the people who rode by. He is described by one son as being one who "loved to talk, loved to eat, loved his children, and loved to smoke his cigar." The ever-present cigar was one of his trademarks.

Both A.V. and Lizzie Lee, along with their children, were long-time members of Elizabeth Baptist Church where A.V. served as Trustee during the mid-1950's when the present church building was being built, and Lizzie Lee taught a Sunday School class for a number of years.

A.V. became ill in 1967 and died on October 5, 1967, the day after his sixty-eighth birthday. His body was buried in the Elizabeth Baptist Church cemetery. At this writing Lizzie Lee lives at the "home place" on Cherryville Road, Shelby, North Carolina. She continues to be actively involved in church and community activities and spends time at her hobbies of crocheting, upholstery, and art. One of her main contributions to art is the oil painting of the Jordan River, painted for the baptistry of Pleasant Hill Baptist Church, the church of the community of her youth.

Children of A.V. and Lizzie Lee Dedmon are: Mary Ruth, born May 4, 1930, married Horace Blainey Hord June 2, 1955, (children: Deborah Lynn, born July 2, 1956; Melanie Jane, born September 5, 1958; Charlotte Elaine, born August 19, 1962; and Emily Celeste, born January 15, 1965); Doris Ann, born November 8, 1933, married Dale Oren Steele August 2, 1958, (children: Karen Marie, born February 19, 1960, and Carol Alicia, born March 18, 1963); Charles Edward, born November 8, 1935, married Rachel Doris Hamrick June 2, 1962, (children: Lisa Darlene, born March 19, 1963; Lora Denise, born May 29, 1964; Lynda Doris, born September 29, 1966; and Lenita Dawn, born January 14, 1969); Joseph Hal, born February 14, 1938; Betty Sue, born June 11, 1941, married Bob Troy Dover February 20, 1965, (child: Eric Tyson, born February 26, 1972, adopted April 7, 1972); Roy Lee, born July 11, 1944; married Connie Gwen Elliott February 2, 1980; and Richard Kendrick, born October 16, 1947, married Sandra Schenck January 25, 1975, (child: Susannah Schenck, born May 2, 1979).

Sources: Personal interviews, knowledge, and family records

— Mary Ruth Dedmon Hord

Lizzie Lee Kendrick Dedmon, circa 1965

Hezekiah and Roxanna Weathers Dedmon

HEZEKIAH and ROXANNA WEATHERS DEDMON

374

Hezekiah Dedmon was born in Cleveland County, North Carolina, March 13, 1837, to Jesse and Anna McEntire Dedmon. Wray Dedmon, a grandson, quotes the birthplace as being "near Broad River on the left side of the road going from Highway #18 toward Zion Church." According to the 1850 census for Cleveland County, Hezekiah Dedmon had a sister, Elizabeth Dedmon, born in 1844.

Hezekiah Dedmon, known as Kiah Dedmon, married Leona Roxanna Weathers. She was born in 1835 to William M. and Celia Padgett Weathers, in whose home, it is said, the first court was held. Hezekiah and Roxanna lived for a time in Grover, where he was instrumental in the organization of the Baptist Church.

Hezekiah served with the Company F, 56th Regiment of the North Carolina Troops in the War Between the States. He enlisted September 20, 1863, was promoted to sergeant, became a prisoner of war, and was released on June 11, 1865. On the official release paper he is described as having "light complexion, brown hair, blues eyes, and being five feet nine and three-quarter inches high." According to grandson Wray Dedmon, "both Granddaddy Dedmon (Hezekiah) and Granddaddy Wellmon (William) came home from the war together and said they would have starved had it not been for a "cake of cornbread" that they had with them." It is interesting to note that the son of Hezekiah Dedmon, Jesse Frank, married the daughter of William Wellmon, Charlotte — thus this story of their grandparents coming home from the war together.

Hezekiah and Roxanna moved to the Ross Grove Community where they settled on land at what is now the junction of New Prospect Church Road and North Carolina Highway #18. They became charter members of Ross Grove Baptist Church, organized in 1881.

Roxanna Weathers Dedmon, circa 1897.

Hezekiah is listed in the history of Ross Grove Church as being on the Building Committee of the church and being a member of the Sunday School, along with the family.

In addition to farming, Hezekiah was a cotton ginner and miller. The gin and corn mill were located near Lithia Springs.

According to the census records of 1860 and 1880, Cleveland County, North Carolina, the children born to this union were: Cela U.

Dedmon (1857), William L.P. Dedmon (1860), Rufus J. Dedmon (1862), Albert Dedmon (1866), James Monroe Dedmon (1868), Jesse Frank Dedmon (1869), Alice E. Dedmon (1872), and Hezekiah Dedmon, Junior (1875). Other known children were Nora Dedmon who married Jimmy Spake and Roxanna (Rocky) Dedmon who married Charlie Sheppard.

According to the grave markers in the Ross

Grove Baptist Church cemetery, Hezekiah Dedmon died January 9, 1921. His wife, Roxanna, preceded him in death on October 6, 1917.

Sources: Interview: Wray Dedmon, grandson; Census, Cleveland County 1860-1880; Family Bible; Nora Dedmon-Jimmy Spake; Tombstones: Ross Grove Baptist Church; Prisoner of War Release papers

— Mary Ruth Dedmon Hord

JESSE and ANNA DEDMON

375

Very little is known about Jesse and Anna Dedmon except that he was the son of Mark Dedmon and that she was Anna McEntire, sister of Baynard McEntire.

The 1850 United States Census for Cleveland County lists Jesse Dedmon as a farmer, born in North Carolina, age 45. Other data listed: Anna Dedmon age 44, female; Hezekiah Dedmon, age 13, male; and Elizabeth Dedmon, age 6, female.

However, in a letter written January 24, 1980, Viola L. Dedmon of Bigfork, Montana, states that she is researching the Dedmon family and that Daniel M. Dedmon (her husband's great-grandfather) was born about 1834, son of Jesse and Anna Dedmon. Dates and location suggest that this was the same family.

Sources: Cemetery survey, Cleveland County Historical Museum; 1850 Census, Cleveland County; letter: Viola L. Dedmon, Eastshore, Bigfork, Montana 59911, January 24, 1980

— Mary Ruth Dedmon Hord

JESSE FRANK and CHARLOTTE (LOTTIE) WELLMON DEDMON

376

Jesse Frank Dedmon was the sixth child of Hezekiah and Roxanna Weathers Dedmon. The 1880 census of Cleveland County, North Carolina, states that he was eleven years of age, making his birth year 1869; however, the grave marker in the Ross Grove Baptist Church cemetery states that he was born May 9, 1871. He lived with his family at the "home place" located at what is now the junction of New Prospect Church Road and North Carolina Highway #18. Frank, as he was called, was one of ten children.

Hezekiah Dedmon with grandchildren, Maggie and Mack Spake, circa 1897.

The Jesse Frank Dedmon Family, 1934. Front row L to R: Margaret Oveda, George Durham, Charlotte "Lottie" Wellmon, Jesse Frank, Jesse Frank, Jr., Sarah Lovay. Back row L to R: William Wellmon, Eva Mae, A.V., William Wray, Flavius Sextus, Martin Van Buren.

He was married to Maggie Branton who died at birth of their first child. The child also died in infancy. Although the marriage dates are not known by this writer, it was said of Frank that he "was married twice by the time he was twenty-one." His second marriage was to Charlotte Wellmon. Charlotte, better known as Lottie, was born November 14, 1871, to William Wellmon (March 12, 1763 — September 5, 1857) and Rebecca Weathers Wellmon. Wray Dedmon, grandson of William Wellmon, says that Wellmon was a "regular Dutchman." He remembers Wellmon speaking dutch and says that his (Wray's) mother Lottie taught him to count to ten in the Dutch language.

The Wellmons lived near Zion Church in a "big, old, two-story house." The 1850 census for Cleveland County shows that William and Rebecca Wellmon had a seven-month old son, James G. Wellmon. In the 1880 census, William R. Wellmon lists children Riley (age 25), Monroe (age 22), Arrabecca (age 17), Louise (age 16), Angelina (age 15), Elsey (age 13), Ellen (age 11), Charlotte (age 10), Bertha Dee (age 7), and Effie Belle (age 4). No wife is listed. Lottie's children remember her saying that her mother died when Lottie was just a little girl, leaving her to help the father with the house and her younger sisters.

Lottie and Frank Dedmon were married and lived for a time by North Carolina Highway #18, near the Ross Grove community. They then sold that place and bought the "Tucker place" at Buffalo, about forty acres. Later Frank bought more land and had a farm of one hundred sixty acres on Buffalo Creek, now

North Carolina Highway #150 East. The old log house became the barn, and in 1912 a house was built nearby to house the family.

Some of the happy childhood times remembered by this writer are going with Granny Dedmon and Grandpa to the barn and seeing the animals. The dangerous part of that venture was crossing the "big road" which curved in front of the house and separated it from the barn. Another big thing was to pump water from the well with the hand pump. We always loved to work the pump handle up and down, and finally have the water come splashing out.

The house was a T shape with a porch across the front and a porch down the side of the T. The head of the T was two stories, and the length was one. We loved to visit on Sunday afternoons when the youngest daughter, Lovay, was courting John Dalton in the parlor. The grandchildren had great fun cranking the old Victoria and playing the record "John Henry." The name John Dalton was substituted as the kids sang to the courting couple.

That courtship survived all our "kids' antics" and a marriage resulted. Another memory I have was of the wedding day. It was a beautiful warm day in June. The wedding was at high noon on the lawn of the bride's parents. I can remember walking out the front door of the house and down that long flight of steps to the yard, walking over the cloth that had been laid out for the bride, to the music provided by the pump organ. My mother had crocheted a dress for me to wear for this occasion. I was the flower girl.

Frank Dedmon was a farmer and also ran a small grocery store near the home place. Lottie enjoyed the "egg and milk money" that she earned from providing these commodities to the people nearby. She also was considered the neighborhood nurse and was called on when new babies arrived or when someone was ill. She cared for many, many people during her lifetime, and was known for her "home remedies" which brought good results.

In his older years Frank Dedmon is remembered by his grandchildren as enjoying resting under the big shade trees in the front yard while he read his Bible.

Also, this writer remembers Grandpa offering me some cantaloupes from his patch one day as I was leaving his house to go back to my home. I was about nine years old and lived just up the hill from Grandpa. As we picked the cantaloupes from the patch and he carried them to the road for me, someone came by in a car, stopped and wanted to buy the cantaloupes. I told Grandpa to sell them and I would get more another time, but he refused. He said that he had promised them to me and that that was more important than the money he could receive from selling them. That made a lasting impression on me and has meant much through the years.

Frank and Lottie were parents of a large family. One girl and two boys died in early childhood. Children who lived to be adults were: Martin Van Buren, who married Jackie Stroup; Flavius Sextus (F.S.), who married Jenny Alexander; William Wray, who married Ezma Roberts; A.V., who married Lizzie Lee Kendrick; Eva Mae, who married Robert Lee Carpenter; William Wellmon, who married Mamie Sipe and Gladys Gardner; Margaret Oveda, who married Odell Bumgardner and Carl Moss; George Durham, who died of pneumonia in early adulthood; Sarah Lovay, who married John Dalton; and Jesse Frank, Junior, known by many as "Jeff," who suffered a crippling disease at age twelve and who never married.

Frank Dedmon was also a justice of the peace. He died February 25, 1946. His wife Lottie, died December 19, 1953. The bodies of both are buried in the Ross Grove Baptist Church Cemetery.

Sources: Personal memory; tombstones; census records; oral history; program of Wellmon Family Reunion

— Mary Ruth Dedmon Hord

FAYVIN SEXTUS DEDMON

377

F.S. Dedmon said that when he was born in Grover, North Carolina on 2-19-1896, his parents, Jessie Frank and Lottie Wellmon Dedmon, chose his name from the Almanac. Perhaps a tie with that practical and common sense reference made an imprint on his life which, in part, could be so characterized. Until his death on 3-13-81, Dedmon worked and participated in various arenas to make a sound impact on Cleveland County's business life. So, too, did his nine siblings: Buren (farmer), Wray (Dedmon's Recapping Service), A.V. (A.V. Dedmon Trucking Company), William Wellmon (Sipe's Grocery Store), George Durham (bondsman), Jessie Frank, Jr. (local trader), Eva Mae Carpenter (Carpenter's Vulcanizing and Carpenter's Store), Margaret Bumgardner Moss (long time employee of Hudson's Department Store), and Lovay Dalton (Dalton's Trailer Park).

Completing six grades at Buffalo School, Dedmon quit school to help his parents in farming until he entered the army on 6-5-17. He was assigned to Company "L" of the 120th Infantry and served on active European duty in World War I, particularly in France, for 16 months (10-2-17/4-13-19). While on combat duty, he was promoted to Corporal and later to Sergeant before completing his service with an honorable discharge on 4-17-19.

At home from military service, Dedmon began a gradual move from farming by barbering in Buffalo and selling cars in Kings Mountain. He worked at these jobs during winter months when he could not farm. Finally, he put together his ability to sell with his knowledge of farm life, particularly raising livestock. In 1932, he borrowed $5 from his brother-in-law, Lee Carpenter, and bought a cow to trade. This was the beginning of a business which was to move in 1938 from a farm-to-farm trading endeavor to a cattle auction company still in operation. Dedmon's livestock Yards began with weekly sales of cattle and hogs and later was expanded to cover the sale of farm equipment, particularly Allis-Chalmers tractors. For a short time, Dedmon also sold Minneapolis Moline equipment in a separate business, Dedmon's Moline Company.

Flavius Sextus Dedmon

Moving to a second business field, that of transit concrete, Dedmon invited Edward Branton as a partner and opened in 1954 Dedmon's Concrete Company, also still in operation. A third endeavor was to become involved in 1964 in automatic silage and feeding systems. This business compliments the cattle and hog auctions as well as the farm equipment interests, but also was a business to bring innovation to silage storage and animal feeding for Cleveland County farmers. Dedmon's Harvestore Systems, too, remains a local business.

In all the moves to initiate, run and expand his varied businesses, Dedmon involved his total family and made the enterprises family businesses. He married Margaret Jane Alexander (b. 7-31-1897) in 1923 and the two of them farmed and raised cattle on the Alexander homeplace on Highway 180. As their five children were born, each worked in the family business. The sons, still residents of Cleveland County, are owners/operators of local firms: William Fay (b. 11-29-23) Shelby Asphalt Paving Company, Talmadge Carl (b. 11-2-28) Dedmon's Harvestore Systems, and Eugene Alexander (b. 8-17-30) Dedmon's Livestock Yards. The two daughters went into education: Clara Lee Shive (b. 1-6-26) public school teacher in Greenville, South Carolina and Sarah Rachel (b. 7-16-37) Professor at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

Integrated into his involvement with work and family, Dedmon was an active churchman and a lover of animals. As a long-time member of Ross Grove Baptist Church, he served in various positions, particularly as deacon and teacher of the Men's Bible Class. For relaxation, in addition to hunting and fishing, he spent years in the care and training of horses and dogs. In the 1940's and 1950's, he showed Tennessee walking horses and won numerous area and regional championships. For many years, the site of the Cleveland County Horse Show was at a track built by Dedmon on Highway 18 North at the site of Dedmon's Livestock Yards. In his latter years, he raised and trained Border Collie dogs as an aide to cattlemen in herding their stock.

Until his death at the age of 85, Dedmon was an active man and was survived by his wife, children, 11 grandchildren and five great-grandchildren. He is buried in Rose Hill Cemetery, Fallston, North Carolina.

Sources: Personal knowledge
— Sarah Rachel Dedmon

MARK and ANNA (HANNA) DEDMON

378

The earliest known Dedmon to settle in Cleveland County was Mark Dedmon. According to oral tradition, Mark Dedmon was one of fifty-six people who came south to North Carolina. They stopped first in Charlotte. Mark was said to have been part of a family who came from Luxembourg near the River Rhine between France and Germany. As in many other stories, this man had three sons: one settled in Mocksville, one (Jesse) settled in Cleveland County, and one went to Ringgold, Georgia.

Another reference to Mark Dedmon is from the data collected by Cleveland Gardner, Cleveland County Historian. It states: "According to data supplied by Veterans Administration, Washington, D.C., 'Mark Dedmon was a Revolutionary War pensioner, claim W. 3960. Mark Dedmon was born August 15, 1750 in Baltimore County, Maryland, and as a child was taken to Rowan County, North Carolina. Mark Dedmon enlisted August 5, 1779, served three months in Captain Lion's Company, Colonel Locke's North Carolina Regiment and was at the taking of several Indian towns. He enlisted in the fall or winter of 1780, served in 'Captain Niten's and William Wilson's Companies, under Major McDowell, in the North Carolina troops and was in the Battle of Cowpens. He enlisted in 1781 and served three months in Captain Haden's and Captain Niten's Company of Calvary under Major Smith in the North Carolina troops. In 1786 he moved to Greenville District, South Carolina where he lived one year, then moved to Rutherford County, North Carolina where he was residing when he was allowed pension on his application executed September 12, 1834. He was pensioned in the name of "Mark Dedmon." He died March 23, 1839."

"Mark Dedmon was married in 1784 or 1785 to Hanna, maiden name not known, and place not stated. Hanna, Dedmon, widow of Mark Dedmon, was allowed a pension on application dated January 27, 1842, at which time she was a resident of Rutherford County, North Carolina and gave her age as 76 years. In 1848, she stated that she was aged 84 years."

"The following data are shown: Polly Dedmon, b. November 13, 1786; Thomas Dedmon, b. January 15, 1788; William Dedmon, b. March 12, 1791; Sally Dedmon, b. September 29, 1793.

"Old land deeds show that Jacob Christman conveyed to Mark Dedmon one hundred acres of land on First Broad River adjoining lands of John McEntire February 8, 1795."

"Mark Dedmon settled in Zion Baptist Church community, No. 6 Township, Cleveland County (formerly Rutherford County) where he reared his family and died, and it is said that he was buried in said graveyard, namely that of Zion Baptist Church, as that church was organized about 1814."

According to the cemetery book in the genealogy room of the Cleveland County Historical Museum, the grave of Anna (Hanna) Dedmon is located "in No. 6 Township, Cleveland County, North Carolina on her plantation, one-fourth mile south of Metcalf Station on Lawndale Highway, about one mile west of Zion Baptist Church. A large cedar tree stands at the head of the grave. There is no other grave. She requested to be buried here on her own land."

In the summer of 1981, Wray Dedmon, Mary Ruth Dedmon Hord, and Roy Lee Dedmon, descendants of Mark and Anna Dedmon attempted to visit the grave location. They visited with Mr. Everett Eskridge near Metcalf Station. Mr. Eskridge pointed out the location of the grave but stated that it was nearly impossible to reach it in the summer time because of vines and undergrowth. However, he re-confirmed the information listed above.

Sources: Cemetery book, Cleveland County Historical Museum, copy of data furnished by Cleveland Gardner, Cleveland County Historian

— Mary Ruth Dedmon Hord

THOMAS HAL DEDMON and SARAH BLANTON DEDMON

379

Thomas Hal Dedmon was born January 16, 1922. He is the son of Thomas Lawson (1889-1956) and Verdie Mae Horn Dedmon (1893-) of Cleveland County, and the great grandson of the confederate soldier, Hezekiah Dedmon.

Hal attended Ross Grove Elementary School and graduated from Fallston High School, Boiling Springs Junior College (Gardner-Webb) and Howard Business College. He served in the 416th Bomb Group 9th Air Force of the United States Army during World War II.

His professional baseball career includes: Boston Braves of West Virginia, Shelby Farmers, High Point Hi Toms and Rutherford County Owls. He coached the Kings Mountain American Legion baseball team (1955), Shelby Legion team with "Pop" Simmons (1954-55) and was athletic director for Shelby City Park and Recreation (1955-1967).

In 1967 Hal became a member of the North Carolina Parole System, serving Cleveland, Rutherford, Polk, Henderson and McDowell counties. He is a "south paw" golfer and proudly displays five "hole-in-one" awards.

On February 19, 1949, he married Sarah Caroline Blanton of Lattimore. She was born on March 21, 1922. She is the daughter of John Samuel and Garva Ella Harrill Blanton of Lattimore. Sarah graduated from Lattimore High School, Boiling Springs Junior College (Gardner-Webb). At Gardner-Webb she was a cheerleader and a member of the Glee Club. She also attended Appalachian State Teachers College. During World War II she was a member of the United States Signal Corps (1941-1943) stationed at Red Bank, New Jersey.

She entered the teaching profession in 1945. She has taught in Hickory, Lattimore, Bethware, Kings Mountain and has been employed by the Shelby City Schools since 1960.

Hal and Sarah devote much of their time to the Ross Grove Baptist Church and community activities. Hal is a deacon at Ross Grove Baptist Church and Sarah sings in the choir.

Hal and Sarah have three children: Caroline, Thomas Hal Jr., and William Theodore "Ted". Caroline was born on February 23, 1952. She attended Shelby Schools and East Carolina University. She is employed by the North Carolina State Highway Engineering Department. Thomas Hal, Jr. was born on July 16, 1957. He attended Cleveland Technical College and is employed by the North Carolina Highway Department. William Theodore was born on May 15, 1960. He attended Western Carolina University. He is employed by Cleveland Lumber Company of Shelby.

— Sarah B. Dedmon

THOMAS LAWSON DEDMON

380

Thomas "Tom" Lawson Dedmon was born September 21, 1889. He was the son of Monroe and Florence Jane Botts Dedmon, and the grandson of Confederate soldier Hegekioh Dedmon and wife Roxanna Weathers Dedmon of Cleveland County.

Tom Dedmon was a prosperous farmer of the Ross Grove Community. He was very active in the church and community projects. His friends described him as "an easy-going, fun loving person who was well respected in the community." He enjoyed singing and playing the piano. As a farmer, he was noted as having good horses, mules, wagons, and buggies.

He attended Poplar Springs School and Shelby High School. He is a veteran of World War I, 82nd Field Artillery.

On June 15, 1919, he married Verdie Mae Horn. She was born May 22, 1893, and was the daughter of James Alexander "Cobb" and Lucretia Lattimore Horn of the Union Community. Verdie was reared in a large family. Her father, "Cobb", owned and operated a large farm, and all the children helped with the farm work. When she married, she and her husband, Tom, bought a farm at Ross Grove. This has remained the family home for sixty-three years. Their three children are: Thomas Hal, Roy Donald, and Lugene.

Thomas Hal was born January 16, 1922. He is employed by the North Carolina State Parole System. He married Sarah Caroline Blanton of Lattimore (see article elsewhere in book).

Roy Donald was born October 8, 1925. He is a breeder of short horn cattle. He is a licensed cattle and farm auctioneer, a farmer, and an agent for Farmers Mutual Fire Insurance. He was also a highway commissioner for the state. He married Ruth Spangler, daughter of Abe and Mattie Warlick Spangler. Ruth is Clerk of Court for Cleveland County. They have one child, Kevin Rodney.

Lugene was born October 20, 1929. She attended Gardner-Webb and Flora McDonald College. She has taught home economics in Cleveland and Gaston Counties. Her husband, Joe Hamrick, is employed by the United States Federal Government.

— Hal Dedmon

WILLIAM WRAY and EZMA ETHEL ROBERTS DEDMON

381

My father, William Wray Dedmon, was born on January 20, 1898, in Cleveland County, to Jesse Frank Dedmon and Lottie (Charlotte) Wellmon Dedmon. At the time of his birth his parents were living north of Shelby in the vicinity of Highway eighteen some three miles outside Shelby. He was child number three in a family of thirteen children. He was educated (8th grade) at Rock Cut School which was located near the Seaboard Railroad just off existing Highway 180.

Many stories were told of the good times he and his brothers and sisters had as they grew up together on the farm. A draft call to report to the U.S. Army on November 10, 1918 was cancelled when the war ended and an armistice was declared on November 11, 1918.

My father was married to my mother, Ezma Ethel Roberts, daughter of Samuel Leard Roberts and Emma Dellinger Roberts on June 25, 1924. I was born on April 2, 1925 in a little house (which still stands) located one-half mile south of Buffalo Creek just off Highway 150 East. Named Marjorie Frances, I was called Marjorie for the first few months until my parents decided to call me Frances, rather than the "Margie" all the friends and relatives had chosen to call me.

A funny story, although not funny at all the time it happened, was told by my mother. It seems she was in the field near our house chopping cotton when I was approximately three months old. She had left me in the house asleep and My Aunt Jennie (wife of F.S. Dedmon, my father's older brother, who lived nearby) heard me crying. She had a son, William Flavin (Bill), (also an infant but a year older than I) and they came and took me to their house. My mother continued to chop cotton, not aware that I had been taken by my aunt, who thought my mother saw her get me. When my mother came back to check on me and I wasn't there she became hysterical. My aunt still talks about "kidnapping" me and how badly she was hurt and how sorry she was for my mother when she discovered I was not in my cradle.

Our family grew with the addition of a boy named Wray Kenneth, born February 2, 1928. My father and mother were living in Kings Mountain, and my dad worked for the Shell Oil Company. Shortly after returning to Shelby in 1929, my father was seriously injured in a gasoline truck (which he drove for Shell Oil), car, and wagon accident late one evening in Cherryville, North Carolina where Carolina Freight Carriers now stands. The doctors gave him no chance for survival, but in spite of serious injuries he came through although he had a terribly scarred face. His left eye, damaged in the wreck did not, and would never, close on its own again.

My father purchased from my Grandfather Dedmon some twelve acres of land; and a house from the Buffalo Mill adjoined the Dedmon property. There our family lived until 1941, at which time my father sold the house and land and purchased a house on the Ross Grove Church Road, near the Ross Grove Baptist Church.

While living near Buffalo Mill our family increased with the birth of a daughter, Dean Carolyn, born February 18, 1935, and a son, Ned Edwin, born March 8, 1938. In the meantime my father went to work for a brother-in-law, Robert Lee Carpenter, (married to his sister, Eva Mae Dedmon) in the tire-recapping business. Later this business was bought by my father's brother, A.V. (married to Lizzie Lee Kendrick). He also worked for Tillman's Inc. and the Auto Inn as a tire-recapper before opening his own business, Dedmon Recapping, located on McBrayer Street in Shelby in August 1954. He retired from this business in January, 1965. The building is still owned by my father and my brother, Ned Edwin.

Members of Central United Methodist Church, my father is an honorary member of the Official Board, served as treasurer of the Hoey Bible Class, and as an usher. My mother passed away on December 4, 1981, at the age of 80 years, three months, and twenty-eight days. She is buried in Rose Hill Memorial Park Cemetery in Fallston, North Carolina, in the section near the Masonic Monument.

I graduated from Waco High School, the third highest in my class, in June, 1942. I was married to Paul C. (i.o.) Morgan, son of the Reverend Julius Martin Morgan and Maggie Esther Hatley Morgan, on March 17, 1946. Paul and I have a son, Jerry Paul, born March 21, 1948 in Shelby, and a daughter, Miriam Celeste, born November 26, 1952, in Shelby. Paul's father was killed in an automobile accident in October, 1958, and his mother died March 14, 1966. Both are buried in the cemetery at Friendship Methodist Church, Fallston. Mr. Morgan served as pastor of Friendship for 16 years.

Jerry was married to Sharon Culler Osborne (daughter of Henry Addison Culler and Irene Edwards Culler) on April 8, 1977. They have two sons, Addison Michaux Osborne by her previous marriage and adopted by Jerry; and Jerry Paul, Jr., born to Jerry and Sharon on February 15, 1979.

Celeste was married to Stephen Douglas Rogers, son of Heyward and Nancy Lee Rogers, on June 17, 1972. They have no children at this writing.

Wray Kenneth, my brother, was married to Carolyn Naomi Smith, on January 2, 1950, daughter of Menry Lee Smith and Lola Ethel Murray Smith. They have two sons, Philip Richard, born December 2, 1954; Mark Lee, born December 16, 1969; and Rebecca Naomi, born June 4, 1970. Philip Richard and Janet Helms Dedmon have a son, Alan Richard born March 5, 1978.

Dean Carolyn, my sister, was married to Ralph Fain Hambright, son of Robert Edgar Hambright and Flora Eloise Fain Hambright, on August 19, 1955. They have two daughters, and a son. Marjorie Karen (my namesake) born February 18 (her mother's birthday), 1958; Priscilla Claire, born May 31, 1963; and Karl David, born May 15, 1960.

Ned Edwin, my brother, was married to Deloris Bryant, daughter of Thomas Walker Bryant and Erie Ledbetter Bryant, in November, 1959. They have two sons, Thomas Andrew, born August 19, 1960, and Daniel Wray, born August 18, 1961.

Sources: Family knowledge

— Frances Dedmon Morgan

THOMAS BAXTER DEPRIEST

382

Thomas Baxter DePriest came to Cleveland County about 1870. He was born on May 27, 1847, near Cherry Mountain, Roberson's Creek District of Rutherford County, North Carolina, to William Cansaler and Rebecca M. Baber DePriest.

The DePriest family settled in Rutherford County in 1783, when Thomas Baxter's great-grandfather, William, fulfilled a promise he made during the Revolutionary War.

William DePriest, born about 1760 in Goochland County, Virginia, moved to Henry County, Virginia, prior to the outbreak of the Revolution. In 1778, he enlisted in the local militia. According to family legend, during one of his three tours of duty with the militia, the young man passed through Rutherford County, met a young lady, Esther Daves (Dayves or Davis), promised to return and marry her.

After serving in the war at such battles as Kings Mountain, Monck's Corner, and Goose Creek, William returned to Rutherford County and married Esther. They settled in Rutherford

Thomas Baxter DePriest

County near Cherry Mountain and raised a family of ten children: William, John Pitt, Green, James H., George, Randolph, Elizabeth, Jennie, Elmira, Barbara.

In 1831, William DePriest donated a parcel of land to Methodist Church trustees which encompassed the 'Meltons or Salom Meeting House' which became Salem Church. William is buried in the church cemetery.

Thomas Baxter's grandfather, son of the Revolutionary patriot, was also William DePriest. He was born on August 10, 1784, and on December 30, 1809, married Julian (Julia Ann) Cansler, daughter of John and Barbara Rudisill Cansler of Rutherford County, North Carolina. Julian Cansler DePriest died on January 8, 1844, but William lived to be 91 years ten months and eleven days old, dying on June 21, 1876. Both are buried at Salem Methodist Church cemetery.

Thomas Baxter DePriest's father, William Cansler DePriest, was born on June 8, 1818. About 1841, he married Rebecca M. Baber, daughter of James and Catherine Bell Baber of Sunshine, N.C. A miller by profession, William Cansler and Rebecca raised a family of eight children. William Cansler died on April 1, 1897. Rebecca M. Baber DePriest died on June 22, 1899. Both are buried at Salem Methodist Church cemetery.

After the War Between the States, Thomas Baxter bought twenty-five acres, a store and two-room cabin in New House, North Carolina. Perhaps the political climate in Rutherford County caused the young Confederate veteran to look elsewhere to establish his home as reconstruction in Rutherford County was extremely heated.

After his relocation, Thomas Baxter met and married a Cleveland County girl. On September 2, 1876, Amanda Jane Covington, daughter of William Covington and his second wife, Mary Rencie Greene, became Mrs. Thomas Baxter DePriest. Amanda Jane, always called 'Mandy', was born on September 28, 1855. Her father died on January 28, 1861, when Mandy was only five years old. Her mother, a strong woman by all accounts, lived to be 91 years and eight days old, dying on November 20, 1902. Both parents are buried at Zion Baptist Church in Cleveland County.

For many years, Thomas Baxter operated a store in New House. He and Mandy had ten children, eight of whom lived to adulthood in Cleveland County. Their children were William Wesley, born July 8, 1877; Bessie Beatrice, born April 20, 1879; Adolphus Bradshaw Clarence; born September 3, 1881; Pauline Belle, born April 13, 1889; Samuel Henry Covington, born August 20, 1891; Annie Nannie Dorcas, born November 1, 1896; and Olive Madge born October 9, 1901.

On February 22, 1907, Thomas Baxter DePriest died and was buried at Salem Methodist Church in Rutherford County. Mandy lived to see the births of many of her great-grandchildren. She died on February 18, 1945, and was buried at Salem Methodist Church beside Thomas Baxter.

Sources: Interview with Olive Madge DePriest William-son of New House, N.C.; Salem United Methodist Church, An Historical Workbook by Miles S. Philbeck, Jr., copyright 1979; Pension Application Papers of William DePriest, National Archives file #S-8319; DePriest Family Outline compiled by A.B.C. DePriest, St., Shelby, N.C.; Article from Forest City THIS WEEK, dated April 26, 1972, entitled "'DePriest Spent 'Prime of My Life in Defense of My County'"; The DePriest Family Bible in the possession of Miss Jessie Robertson of Rutherford County.

— Patricia DePriest King

Manda Covington DePriest

WILLIAM DICAS and DESCENDANTS

383

Persons with the name Dicas, Dicos, Dicus, Dycas, Dycus, Dykehouse, and Dykus all descended from one William Dicas who came from the British Isles and settled on a plantation in Kent County, Maryland around 1695. The ancestors of William originated from Holland and immigrated to the British Isle, Scotland and Ireland.

William first married Elizabeth Ambroso in 1707 and had one son, Edward, born September 18, 1708 in Kent County, Maryland. Elizabeth died at Edward's birth or soon thereafter, and William married Mary Ann Smith in 1710.

William and Mary Ann had five children, all born in Kent County, Maryland; William, Jr., born January 4, 1712; Thomas, born August 13, 1716; Mary Elizabeth (Nemo or Nimmo) born May 28, 1718; James, born 1720; and John, born October 8, 1723. All five children lived and died in Maryland. William died around 1735 in Kent County, Maryland. Mary Ann died after 1735.

Edward, the son of William and Elizabeth, first married Ann Phillips in 1734 in Kent County, Maryland. They had two children; Edward Jr., born September 7, 1735; and Elizabeth (Lee), born June 11, 1736, both in Kent County, Maryland. It appears Edward's wife, Ann, died around 1740. Soon thereafter Edward and children migrated to North Carolina and settled in Rowan County on the Yadkin River around 1745. After arriving in Rowan County, Edward married Margaret, last name unknown, and no known children were born from this marriage. Edward died around 1774, probably in Tryon County, North Carolina.

Edward Jr. married Lear or Leer, last name unknown, around 1752 in Rowan County, North Carolina. They had four children, all born in Rowan County: Edward C., born January 27, 1753, was in the Revolutionary War, and later moved to Jackson County, Tennessee; John, born about 1754, later moved to Montgomery County, Tennessee; William, born about 1755, later moved to Barren County, Kentucky; and James, born about 1758, remained in North Carolina.

James, wife unknown, had five sons born in Rutherford County, North Carolina; Edward, born about 1779, later moved to Tennessee; William, born about 1784 remained in North Carolina; James Jr., born about 1795 married Polly Edwards in 1814 and later moved to Jackson County, Tennessee; Michael, born about 1801 later moved to Kentucky; and George, born about 1802 later moved to Jackson County, Alabama. James died around 1810, probably in Rutherford County, North Carolina.

William, born about 1784, married Usely or Urcilla Walker April 12, 1803 in Rutherford County, North Carolina and had two sons in Rutherford County; Elijah, born about 1805 remained in North Carolina; and Edward, born about 1810 married Martha Mullens January 9, 1833 in Rutherford County and later moved to Murray County, Georgia. William and Urcilla also had several daughters, names and birthdates unknown. William died about 1818 in Rutherford County, North Carolina.

Sources: Census reports, court records and correspondence with descendants of William Dycas.

— William Allen Dycus

CLARENCE FRANKLIN DIXON

384

Clarence Franklin Dixon (Dick) was born March 10, 1898, and was the son of Henry

Pinkney Dixon and Alice Jane Skinner Dixon. He grew up on the family farm in the Kadash Church community. He was educated at Piedmont Boarding School in Lawndale. His early occupational years in the construction business took him to Miami, Florida where buildings that were being constructed were destroyed by the 1922 hurricane. He returned to North Carolina where he located in Boone, North Carolina and bought a butcher shop. Here in Boone was where he met his wife, Alta McSwain born September 28, 1905. She was a student at Appalachian, and went on to graduate there. They were married June 8, 1930.

Dick's favorite sport and hobby continues to be fishing.

The family later moved to Statesville, North Carolina where they still reside. He was a meat-cutter and she was a fourth-grade teacher and homemaker. They had three children: Charlene Franklin Dixon, Jr., June Katherine, and Rodney McSwain.

Clarence Franklin Dixon, Jr. was born May 15, 1931 and was a graduate of North Carolina State University. He married Laura Williams September 4, 1954. She was a graduate of Duke University and is a math teacher in the Greensboro Schools where they reside. He is a plant manager in Engineering Administration of Larillard in Greensboro. They have two sons Thomas Lloyd Dixon born April 29, 1957. He is a graduate of Rochester Institution of Technology in Rochester, New York. He is working for Aldermans Inc. as Production Coordinator in High Point, North Carolina. Richard Williams Dixon born May 5, 1960, attends North Carolina State University.

June Katherine Dixon was born May 2, 1934. She is a graduate of Greensboro University with a degree in business. She was a teacher. She married James Moffett Alexander II September 8, 1956 in Statesville. They now live in Fairfax, Virginia where his work is with American Telephone and Telegraph Co. in Washington, D.C. They have four children. James Moffett Alexander III; he is a graduate of Hampton Sidney University in Virginia. He is now working toward a masters degree at Georgia State. He was born August 9, 1958. Mary Moffett Alexander born January 31, 1961 is in school at Meredith College in Raleigh, North Carolina. Anne Kathryn Alexander, born December 14, 1962 is also in school at Meredith at Raleigh, North Carolina. John Christian Alexander born September 27, 1969 is a student in the grammar grades in Fairfax, Virginia.

Rodney McSwain Dixon born June 8, 1937.

He graduated from North Carolina State in ceramic engineering. He works with Leppy Owen Ford Co. in Toledo, Ohio. He married Joan Cranford Dixon February 27, 1960. She was a graduate of Salisbury Business School and is a legal secretary. They have three daughters. Patricia Janeen (Patti) Dixon attended Owens University and is married to Douglas P. Dauer. They have one child — Vincent born February 4, 1981. Lari Beth Dixon born June 23, 1967 is a high school student in Maumee, Ohio. Traci Leigh Dixon born February 2, 1970, is a grammar student in Maumee, Ohio.

Both Alta and Dick are retired, and celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary June 8, 1980 at a reception given in their honor by their children. They live at 222 Brevard Street, Statesville, North Carolina.

Sources: Personal knowledge

— Clarence Franklin Dixon

THE EDGAR WILLIAM DIXON FAMILY

385

Edgar William (Ed) Dixon was born on Christmas Day (December 25, 1896) to Henry Pinkney and Alice Skinner Dixon in a log cabin on First Broad River in Cleveland County near Zion Baptist Church. He was the second of eleven children born to this couple. The family later moved to the Belwood Community of Upper Cleveland County, where he met and married Hettie Sarah Gantt. She was the daughter of John and Eliza Hoyle Gantt. Mrs. Gantt was of German descent. The family still has a German Bible dated 1545. It is a leather bound and in good condition considering its age.

Ed and Hettie Dixon had four children. Lucy Alice Dixon was born on September 30, 1907. She married Fred Anthony of Kings Mountain. Jessie Adeline Dixon was born on February 2, 1909. She married David L. Blanton of the Union Community of Cleveland County. Ruth Edna Dixon was born September 14, 1921. She married Luke J. Carnes of Kannapolis, North Carolina. William Max Dixon was born December 20, 1924. "Bill" married Willie Hodges of Boone, North Carolina. They also raised a foster daughter Betty Jean. She was born August 14, 1930. She married Arnold Lail of Shelby.

Mr. Dixon was a farmer and a deputy sheriff for years, before moving to Shelby in 1928 to become chief deputy for Irwin M. Allen. He was elected High Sheriff during his stay as Sheriff. He was then elected as Magistrate for Number Six township, when he held for years, and was also a Justice of the Peace until he died on September 1, 1975. Mrs. Dixon died on November 15, 1967 and their daughter Lucy died on July 22, 1976.

While Mr. Dixon lived at Belwood, he organized the residents into a Co-op to get electricity from the Lawndale power company. He got the right-of-ways and helped build the lines.

When Duke Power Company decided to serve Cleveland County, the Honorable James B. Duke came to Shelby, stayed at the hotel and supervised. He wanted to hire someone who knew the entire county well to secure right-of-ways for their many poles. Mr. Dixon was recommended and hired by Mr. Duke. After the work was completed Mr. Duke was well pleased, so he wanted to do something extra for Mr. Dixon. He asked him what he would like, but Mr. Dixon told him he didn't want anything for himself. His church, Kadash, needed a bell, so Mr. Duke told him to pick out any bell he wanted, and send him the bill. Kadash Church has been replaced with a new building, but it has the same bell.

The Dixons' were faithful members of Kadash Methodist Church while living at Bel-

Ed W. Dixon with clock collection

lia Dixon married Sherrill Wehunt of Lincoln County and they had five children, three girls and two boys. Ophelia and Sherrill are buried at Bess Chapel in Lincoln County.

Bessie Dixon was born June 13, 1896 married Doctor E. S. Wehunt of Cherryville, North Carolina. They had a son and twin sons. Bessie, Dr. Wehunt and one of the twins, Loy, are buried in Cherryville City Cemetery.

Clarence Franklin Dixon was born March 10, 1898 married Alta McSwain. They have two sons, and a daughter, now living in Statesville.

John Thomas Dixon was born July 20, 1900 married Carrie McMurry. They have three sons and a daughter. Tom died March 20, 1976 and he and their daughter, Dorothy are buried at Kadesh Church.

Lona Dixon was born October 22, 1902 married Edward S. Qualls of Boone, North Carolina; and they have two sons and two daughters.

Della Mae Dixon was born October 10, 1903 married Raymond Brackett, also of Belwood. They have three sons and three daughters. Both Raymond and Della are deceased, he in September of 1966, and she in July of 1973 and they are buried at Forrest Lawns in Lincolnton, North Carolina.

In 1905, the family moved back to Belwood living in Henry's homeplace near Kadesh Church, where he had several hundred acres of land and tenants to tend the land. He sold the other farm in the Zion Community to a Cornwell family. They were members of Kadesh Church once again. The large two story house was changed somewhat, and was furnished with Victoria furniture covered in red velvet, marble top tables, lamps, and the organ was especially remembered by the children. They were so excited when Grandmother Skinner would come and visit, so they could gather around the organ and play and sing.

On May 26, 1907 Raymond Dixon was born, and at the age of eight months on January 20, 1908 he died of spinal meningitis and was buried at Kadesh.

Henry Dixon took pneumonia and died March 3, 1909, three weeks before his wife was to give birth to their twelfth child. He was buried at Kadesh. Three weeks later his wife had a daughter and she named her Henry Pauline, born March 23, 1909. She married J. Alvin Propst of Belwood Community and they had one daughter.

Alice (mother) was always known for her good smelling kitchen, where the aroma of homemace bread could be found. She would rob the bees, the family and friends would enjoy fresh honey from her table. On the right side of the house was an old-fashion rose garden with lilacs and periwinkle.

She was a very religious woman and the girls remember their mother spending much time on her knees in prayer. Alice Jane became sick with tuberculosis and died June 17, 1916. She is buried with her husband, Henry and son Raymond in Kadesh United Methodist Church Cemetery.

— Mrs. Charles L. Peeler

wood. Mrs. Dixon taught a Sunday School Class for many years. She was a well-versed Bible Scholar. Mr. Dixon served as steward of the church. He was also treasurer and Sunday School Superintendent.

Mr. Dixon was one of three school committee men who were responsible for consolidating several small schools into one larger school. The old Belwood School had burned down, so the large new Belwood High School was built. The first year in the new building was the 1926-1927 school year. That was the year Lucy and Jessie both finished high school. The county had debating teams in each high school that wanted to compete with other schools. Jessie was on the debating team at Belwood. Her team mate was Fletcher Sain of Toluca. They won out in the county and went to Chapel Hill to debate other counties, but were eliminated in the finals by one vote.

Mr. Dixon had many hobbies, such as fishing, hunting, horses and dogs. His most prized hobby was clocks. He could fix any clock and make it run, even if he had to make a piece for it, regardless of its condition. At one time he had as many as 200 clocks. He had customers from Virginia, Tennessee, South Carolina and other states.

Sources: Family records

— Jessie D. Blanton

HENRY PINKNEY DIXON FAMILY

386

Henry Pinkney Dixon was born March 20, 1849 in Belwood. He was the son of Gilbreath Dixon and Lydia Dixon. He was known to most as Gilly Dixon. The original name was spelled Dickson, and during his lifetime he was responsible for changing the spelling to Dixon to shorten the name. The Dixons were of English ancestry.

Henry's father, Gilly, was a wealthy landowner, having owned at one time a thousand acres of land in the Belwood section, and owned 75 slaves. He lost a lot of money when the slaves were freed because they were so expensive. Henry had four brothers, and four sisters: John, Bill, Edgar, Frank, Susan, Lydia, Hattie Bess, and Laura Lee. The house Henry was reared in later became his to rear his family in, and was given several hundred acres of land by his father. The house was a large two-story house that sat on a knoll about a fourth of a mile east of Kadesh Church. It was built of log, but plastered on the inside and wood siding on the outside. The house servants had a part of the upstairs, a petition being between the part the family lived, and where the servants lived. The servants stairs went up from the back, and family stairs from the front of the house.

Henry was educated at Rutherford College located in Valmead, North Carolina in Catawba County. After college, he spent some time living in Texas. After traveling around he came back to Cleveland County where he settled for a few years in the Zion Community buying some land and raising crops.

Henry met and married Alice Jane Skinner, born August 19, 1869, daughter of John Skinner and Nancy Agnes Reid Skinner. They were married in 1883; she being fourteen years old and he was thirty-four. The first child, a male, died in infancy and was buried at Zion Church. Other children born at this location were Susan Dixon, born October 25, 1884; she married Ezra Champion. They had one son Everette — are all deceased; Susan dying in 1911 and being buried at New Prospect Church.

Edgar William Dixon, born October 25, 1885 married Hettie Sarah Gantt and they had five children, four girls, and a son. Hettie died November 15, 1967 and Ed died September 1, 1975. They are buried at Sunset Cemetery in Shelby.

Rachel Dixon was born February 10, 1888 married George Wilson and they had three boys and 2 girls. Rachel, George, and daughter Madge are buried at Kadesh Church. Ophelia

Henry Pinkney and Alice Jane Skinner Dixon

JOHN THOMAS DIXON

387

John Thomas Dixon (Tom), the son of Henry Pinkney Dixon and Alice Jane Skinner Dixon was born July 18, 1900 in Cleveland County. He was named for Thomas Dixon, Jr. the famed author, lawyer, playwright, and actor who was a native of Cleveland County and a cousin of Tom's.

He was educated at Belwood School and farmed at the family farm. He married Carrie McMurry born November 20, 1897 of Lawndale, daughter of Mr. & Mrs. Crowell McMurry.

Their first son, Thomas Harold was born in Cleveland County, May 3, 1921. He married Mary Gales of Kannapolis, N.C., born February 17, 1930. They have three children. Thomas Owen Dixon born June 25, 1950 in Cabarrus County, married Mary Jessica Herman October 29, 1949 from Newton, N.C. They have two children — Kathryn Patricia Dixon born June 11, 1975 in York County, S.C. and Matthew Thomas Dixon born December 19, 1978 in York County, S.C. Their second child is Sandra Gail Dixon born December 26, 1952 in Cabarrus County, N.C. and she wed David Samuel Spurrier born November 28, 1951 of Gaston County. They have two children Bryan Damon Spurrier born November 30, 1976 in Mecklenburg County, N.C. and Mary Allyson Spurrier June 23, 1979 in Mecklenburg County, N.C. Their third child was Joni Elizabeth Dixon born September 30, 1954 in Cabarrus County, N.C. She married David Earl Beaudry born July 18, 1953 of High Point, N.C. They have one son, Wesley Earl Beaudry born April 8, 1979 in Mecklenburg County, N.C.

Tom's family moved to Lincolnton after a few years when he owned and operated a dry-cleaning business. Their other three children were born in Lincoln County. The second son was Robert Crowell born August 1, 1922 and married Blanch Beal of Lincoln County on May 17, 1942 in York, S.C. Bob is a postman in Lincolnton, N.C. They had two sons and 2 daughters. Jimmy; and Robert Crowell, Jr. (born July 1, 1950 and died 1970). Janis, oldest daughter born March 9, 1945 and later married Jerry Story. Cynthia born October 31, 1948 married Jimmy Fitzgerald.

Dorothy Alice Dixon, their only daughter was born February 5, 1924 and died March 14, 1937. She was 13 years old and is buried at Kadesh Church.

The fourth child was Richard Henry born February 17, 1926. He now lives in Baltimore, Maryland, is an artist in advertising and is unmarried.

Tom and Carrie later moved to Kannapolis, N.C. where she was a homemaker, and he was a professional tailor with Haney and Holbrooke Mens Store.

Tom had a heart attack on March 20, 1976 and is buried at Kadesh Methodist Church in Upper Cleveland.

Sources: Personal knowledge

— Mrs. Charles Peeler

THOMAS DIXON

388

Thomas Dixon was the son of John Dixon, brother of David Dixon, who was the father of Rev. Thomas Dixon Sr. Rev. T. Dixon Sr. had five children: 1) Thomas Jr., lawyer, preacher, actor, playwright, novelist, and motion picture producer, 2) Rev. A.C. Dixon, 3) Frank, minister and lecturer, 4) Addie Dixon Thacker, author, 5) Dr. Delia Dixon Carroll, one of the first women physicians in the state, served as physician for Meredith College 35 years.

Thomas Dixon married Cynthia Lackey, born Oct. 31, 1810, and died of small pox Dec. 25, 1862. To this union were born the following children: 1) Mary Dixon, born May 8, 1830, died July 11, 1866; 2) Roxanna Dixon, born Jan. 1, 1833, died Mar. 18, 1925; 3) infant, born June 27, 1835; 4) Thomas Jefferson Dixon (Little Tom), born Apr. 11, 1837, died May 17, 1921; 5) Adolphus I. Dixon, born July 6, 1839, died of small pox, serving in the Civil War on Sept. 5, 1862; 6) William Osborn Dixon, born February 2, 1843, died May 21, 1864 of small pox, serving in the Civil War. Cynthia, Mary, Adolphus, and Osborn were buried in the family cemetery a few hundred years south of the T.J. Dixon old homestead. Roxanna and Thomas Jefferson were buried in New Bethel Bapt. Church Cemetery.

Thomas Jefferson Dixon, "Little Tom", son of Thomas and Cynthia Lackey married Barbara E. Allen born Jan. 7, 1841, died Oct. 26, 1867. To this union was born 1) Osborn Clement Dixon born July 15, 1866, died Apr. 3, 1932; married Mattie Gold, born Dec. 31, 1878, died Apr. 6, 1955. 2) Thomas Adolphus Dixon, born Oct. 19, 1867, died July 20, 1901, married Lula Lattimore, born Feb. 13, 1872, died May 13, 1960. When Barbara died Thomas married her sister Mary Catherine Allen, born Apr. 3, 1843, died Jan. 3, 1915. To this union were born 1) Ella, born May 17, 1871, died Dec. 30, 1960, married C.S. Morehead. 2) Ada, born May 28, 1872, died Jan. 22, 1958, married Dr. John T. Buff of Casar, N.C. 3) Ida, born Nov. 12, 1873, died Nov. 23, 1953. 4) Her twin, Estelle, died May 8, 1874. 5) Edith Elizabeth born May 9, 1867, died Nov. 9, 1970, married O.M. Green. 6) Mary Kathryn (Kate) born Sept. 24, 1877, died Feb. 20, 1969, married Charles D. Stroup, Fallston, N.C. 7) Laura Alice, born Aug. 6, 1879, died May 3, 1951, married O.V. Warlick, Lawndale, N.C. 8) Sallie Lucretia born Apr. 21, 1881, died July 19, 1970, married John H. Trott. 9) John Allen born Dec. 4, 1882, died Dec. 12, 1911, married Clayton Cline, born July 23, 1888, died Dec. 12, 1911. Their marker in New Bethel Cemetery reads, "Murdered on the night of Dec. 12, 1911." 10) William Jefferson born Sept. 23, 1885, died Sept. 21, 1960, married Lucy Gold born June 16, 1888, died Nov. 25, 1961.

To the union of Osborn Clement and Mattie Gold Dixon were born the following children: 1) Thomas Gold born April 5, 1899, died Sept. 2, 1957 married Ruth Branton born Feb. 27, 1899. 2) Benjamin Franklin born June 14, 1902, married Selma Cabiness born July 25, 1907, 3) Pearl born May 10, 1904, died Apr. 3, 1970, married George Murray born Jan. 30, 1900, 4) Max R. born March 6, 1907, married Frances Ellis, 5) Minnie Cleo born Oct. 26, 1900 died April 24, 1901, 6) Ellowee born April 11, 1909 died July 21, 1909, 7) Avery Clarence born Feb. 10, 1911 married Thelma Spurling born Nov. 9, 1914, 8) Margaret born Apr. 24, 1913 married Albert F. Watson born March 2, 1906, 9) O.C. Jr. born May 15, 1915 married Irene Self born Nov. 20, 1917, 10) Williamson Fortune born May 25, 1917 married Hazalene Richardson born Aug. 28, 1922, 11) Hal born July 15, 1919 married Doris Jenkins born Sept. 10, 1922.

To the union of Adolphus and Lula were born: 1) Maude Ila born Dec. 11, 1894, died Dec. 11, 1958 married Fred Washburn born

MR. and MRS. WALTER C. DIXON

389

Walter Carl Dixon was born November 10, 1890, at the Dixon homeplace across the road from Kadesh Methodist Church, Belwood, North Carolina. He was the fourth child of John Robinson Dixon (born November 17, 1852, died December 27, 1895) and Frances Eliza Cline (born July 16, 1858, died July 5, 1931).

Other children in the family were Thomas L. (born January 4, 1883, died February 21, 1888); Lucy Ann (born June 15, 1885, married Muncy Dorsey, died June 12, 1925); Katherine Cornelia (Kate) (born June 23, 1888, died June 6, 1928); Ambrose Clayton (born July 22, 1893, died December 18, 1920); and Johnnie Adeline (born April 8, 1896, died May 5, 1968).

On September 1, 1921, he married Marie Self, born May 16, 1896, daughter of William F. and Samantha Brendle Self; and granddaughter of Lemuel and Martha Willis Self Hoyle, who remarried after the death of her first husband; and Joseph and Frances Nance Brendle.

The Dixons adopted two daughters. Frances Marie, born February 2, 1933, married Dwight Kenneth Beam on June 6, 1953. They have two children. Kathie Rose, born March 7, 1955, married to Tim Mossteller, has two children: Christy Hope Beam, born January 12, 1973; and Kenneth John Mosteller, born March 27, 1981. Jeannie Lynne, born March 15, 1957, married Ronnie Owens and has two children: Michael Beam Owens, born April 27, 1974, and Hollie Jean Owens, born August 27, 1978.

Roslyn Jane, born December 19, 1943, married Johnny Self on February 18, 1962. The Selfs had four children: Gary Wayne, born January 14, 1963; David Allen, born December 27, 1966; Lisa Marie, born February 9, 1968. One child, Sherri Jane, was born August 28, 1965, and died the same date.

After the death of Walter's father, his mother built a more modern home on the same place, and Walter continued to make his home with her and his sisters even after his marriage. He was a farmer, a good provider for his family. He was devoted to Kadesh Methodist Church and, in his quiet, unassuming way, was an active member during his lifetime, always present for all services.

Marie was essentially a homemaker, but held many offices in the work of Kadesh Methodist Church and has been heard to say that she had done "everything but preach."

In 1968, Marie burned her hand severely and was for a while incapacitated. That summer, Frances and her family moved into the home and were there to help care for Walter during his illness. He died July 8, 1975, and is buried in Kadesh Church cemetery.

Frances is a musician, serves as organist at Kadesh Methodist Church and is always on call for any occasion requiring music. She is a constant "doer of good works" in the Belwood community. Dwight Beam "sees to" the farm, but is a mechanic and has a farm equipment repair shop.

Jane and her family live just across the road. She sings in the Kadesh Church choir and teaches a Sunday School class. She works in the office of Dr. Joseph E. Walker at Toluca. Her husband is in the insurance and real estate business.

Marie is still living in the homeplace, is a shut-in, confined mostly to her bedroom and sitting room. But all the Dixon descendants are still in or near Belwood and so she is surrounded by children, grandchildren, and great-grandchildren, who now celebrate their birthdays with a party in her sitting room.

Sources: "The Genealogy of Peter Heyl and His Descendants" — Rucker; family records; personal knowledge

— Frances Beam

WILLIAM MAX DIXON FAMILY

390

William Max Dixon, Sr., son of Edgar William Dixon and Hettie Sarah Gantt Dixon was born December 20, 1924 in Belwood, North Carolina. He moved to Shelby in 1928, attended Washington Elementary School and Shelby High School graduating in 1941. He joined the United States Navy in 1943 and served on the Destroyer U.S.S. Southerland in the Pacific in World War II, as a Gunners Mate. His ship was just off Tokyo during the atomic bombing of Hiroshima and was the first warship to enter Tokyo Bay after the Japanese surrender, being there during the surrender ceremonies. He was honorably discharged in 1946.

In 1947 he married Willie Lee Hodges of Boone, North Carolina, a registered nurse, who was a Shelby Hospital Nursing School graduate. She is a granddaughter of Charles Gray Hodges who taught school in Belwood, North Carolina and Bethware Community in the early 1900's.

Bill has lived in Boone since 1947 and works for the United Postal Service in Boone. He is an active member of the Boone United Methodist Church serving on the Official Board, Board of Trustees and Member of Methodist Mens Club. His hobbies are fishing, wood working, gardening and hunting.

They have three children. Linda Lee Dixon, born February 26, 1949 in Boone, North Carolina and is married to Larry Ford and they live in Raleigh, North Carolina. She attended Appalachian Elementary School, Watauga High School and Appalachian State University. She was a top honor graduate of Watauga High School and a member of the National Honor Society, active in youth groups at Boone United Methodist Church, Girl Scout, Garden Club, School clubs. She plays piano, also attended Governors School while in high school. She was an honor graduate from Appalachian State University with a degree in Home Economics. Linda taught at Ravenscraft Private School for three years and is now a full-time wife, mother and homemaker. She is active in Sunday School, Church, Library at the Edenton Street United Methodist Church and Womans Club. They have two daughters Laura Ashley age 4½ and Sarah Katherine age 2.

Laura Beth Dixon, born August 24, 1952 in Boone, North Carolina, attended Appalachian Elementary School, Watauga High School, Appalachian State University and North Caroli-

Apr. 2, 1891, died Apr. 27, 1957. 2) Dr. Hoyt Carson born March 8, 1896 died Dec. 27, 1963. 3) Vera Catherine born Dec. 29, 1898.

To the union of Ada and John T. Buff were born 1) James Edward, Lawyer, born Apr. 8, 1906 died Jan. 5, 1969. 2) Jonnie Pauline born May 21, 1910, married George Brown born July 31, 1910.

To the union of Edith and O.M. Green were born 1) Thomas Caryle born July 16, 1910 married Lillian Shields born Aug. 13, 1917. 2) Joe Marshall born July 3, 1912 married Wilma Shields. 3) Odus Max born July 18, 1915 married Myrtle Parris born May 29, 1918.

To the union of Kate and Charles D. Stroup were born 1) Edward Yates born Oct. 12, 1899, died Oct. 19, 1976, married Lona Lounette Brackett born June 29, 1906. 2) Thelma born Oct. 7, 1902, died Sept. 19, 1963 married Robert Moore Willis born Nov. 16, 1899 died Nov. 20, 1964. 3) Kathleen born Oct. 7, 1904 married Hugh Beam born March 28, 1899, died July 15, 1978. 4) Charles Dixon, Jr. born Sept. 2, 1910 married Mildred Hord born Dec. 16, 1911. 5) Wilma born March 28, 1913 married Lawson Bryon Sweezy Sr. born Nov. 20, 1912. 6) Eloise born May 14, 1915 married James Hill Dameron born Jan. 30, 1916.

To the union of Laura Alice and O.V. Warlick were born 1) Ruby Estelle, born Feb. 6, 1908, married Taft S. Putnam, born Oct. 17, 1908; 2) Harvey Sam, born Mar. 28, 1909, married Pearl Gold Cornwell, born Feb. 7, 1909; 3) John Graham (James) born Feb. 11, 1912, married Evelyn Fowler, born May 19, 1913; 4) Mary Frances, born June 28, 1916, married Thomas A. Lattimore, born Aug. 28, 1914.

Sallie Dixon married John H. Trott, born Nov. 5, 1876, died Oct. 23, 1940. Their children were 1) Ralph Dixon Trott born Sept. 4, 1904, died Jan. 27, 1972. 2) Lucille born July 29, 1906. 3) Lamarr, born June 16, 1908, died Mar. 19, 1975. 4) Robert born Dec. 7, 1910. 5) Catherine, born July 25, 1913, died June 11, 1917. 6) Matilda, born May 12, 1915. 7) Eloise, born June 16, 1917. 8) Ruth, born Mar. 14, 1922.

John Allen Dixon married Clayton Cline, born July 23, 1888, died Dec. 12, 1911. Their child was Ruth, born Dec. 27, 1910, died July 6, 1980, was married to Walter Jackson Lackey, M.D., born July 12, 1906, died May 1, 1943.

William Jefferson Dixon married Lucy Gold born June 16, 1888, died Nov. 25, 1961. Their children were 1) Paul Allen, born Oct. 9, 1908, 2) Tom, born Oct. 1, 1910 3) John, born May 4, 1913, 4) Wilma, born May 21, 1916, 5) Jesse Sr., born June 28, 1919.

"Little Tom's" home in upper Cleveland become the choice meeting place of the Dixon kin, as well as the neighbors because of the congeniality of the family and the appetizing food served. His family was a church going family and most of them filled places of leadership in their churches.

Sources: Family knowledge

— Mrs. T.S. Putnam

na State University. Beth was top honor graduate of Watauga High School, was the highest ever scorer on SAT (Test) at Watauga High School, also a nominee for Governors School. A top honor graduate of Appalachian State University with a double degree in Mathematics and Sociology and a Masters Degree in Sociology from North Carolina State University. She now works in research at Research Triangle in Raleigh, North Carolina. She plans to be married in May to Richard Layton, Appalachian State University Sports Director. Beth was active in youth group at Boone United Methodist Church, Hand-bell choir, clubs at school, National Honor Society and Girl Scouts. Beth's hobbies are cooking, sewing, and piano playing.

William Max Dixon, Jr., born February 22, 1955 in Boone, North Carolina, attended Appalachian Elementary School, Watauga High School graduating in top ten of class. Active in school clubs, youth groups at Boone United Methodist Church and Boy Scouts. Hobbies are guitar playing, song writing, art, drawing and sketching. Graduated from University of North Carolina in Charlotte in the School of Architecture. He lives in Charlotte and works as a kitchen designer, married to Barbara Barnaby of Granite Falls, North Carolina.

Sources: Personal knowledge

— William Max Dixon

THE CARL JAMES DOCKERY FAMILY

391

In the fall of 1931 Carl James Dockery with his wife Alma Dwin Dockery came to Shelby, North Carolina from Morristown, Tennessee and established the Dockery's Funeral Home and Mutual Burial Association.

Carl is the son of Charles J. Dockery and Addie D. Dockery and Alma is the daughter of Tobe F. Dwin and Mayme Goins Dwin of Morristown, Tenn.

They have three sons, Carl J. Dockery Jr. who is Vice-President of the Dockery's Funeral Home, Charles Dwin Dockery who is an Associate Professor at Davidson College, and Paul Edward Dockery, who is a stock broker.

Carl Jr. is married to Chloe E. Runderson and they have two children, Carl James III and Rosanna Alma. Charles is married to Lia Amelia Martins and they have three children: Frederic Emanuel, Carmen Anita and Natasha Maria. Paul Edward is married to Mary E. Fernandez and they have two children, Melanie, Renee and Paula Edwina.

DAVID CROCKETT DODD

392

According to family tradition, David Crockett Dodd came to the Kings Mountain Battle-ground area of York County, South Carolina at the close of the Civil War with a Wesson boy, who lived near Grover, North Carolina.

He worked as a hired hand and was sent to William Wesson's, just southwest of Zoar Baptist Church, Shelby, North Carolina, to get some horses.

He later married Mariah Elizabeth Jane Wesson at her parents' home on January 7, 1867. William Wesson deeded them eighty-one acres on Red Road, Number Two Township of Cleveland County, North Carolina. They first lived back in the field, but their son, Dave, said that they built up on the road in 1877, the year he was born. This house is now owned by Harry Ramsey.

David Crockett Dodd was born September 19, 1843 in Tennessee, the son of Richard Dodd (ca. 1819, N.C.), and Elizabeth (ca. 1820, VA.). Elizabeth Dodd died September 16, 1871. Richard Dodd died April 13, 1878. (These dates in Bible owned by David Drewey Dodd).

In the Tennessee census, Richard and Elizabeth were listed in 1840, Haywood County, with no children. In 1850, they were in the adjoining Lauderdale County with children: Jane 9, David 7, Asa 5, Newton 3, Elizabeth 10/12. They were in Van Buren County, in northwest Arkansas in 1860 with additional children: Matthew six (Tenn), Wiley three (Ark), Anne one (Ark). They were in Dunklin County, Missouri, in the southeastern "Boot," in 1870 with another child, Richard six (Ark).

"Will" Dodd said the only member of his father's family that he ever saw was his Uncle Wiley, whom he visited in Tyler, Texas. His father told him that his forefathers were Scotch-Irish.

David Crockett Dodd enlisted in the Confederate Army in 1861 at Camp Shaver, Arkansas. He was with Company K, 7th Regiment, Arkansas Infantry, Captain McCauley's Company. He served as a Regimental wagoner and at General Liddell's Headquarters as orderly and hostler. He was wounded in the left lung at Kennesaw, Georgia in 1864. He was listed in Govan's Brigade, Army of Tennessee.

David and Elizabeth Jane Wesson Dodd had ten children:

Elizabeth Jane Dodd (1867-1937) married James F. Blanton (1864-1906), son of Reuben Blanton. Both are buried at Zoar Baptist Cemetery, Shelby, North Carolina.

Mariah Emeline Dodd (1869-1954) married Pinkney B. McMurry (1867-1954). They had no children.

William Newton Dodd (1870-1935) married Mamie Martin (1883-1926), daughter of Newton T. Martin of Greenville, South Carolina. They are buried in Springwood Cemetery, Greenville, South Carolina. His second wife was Mrs. Essie Stewart Daniel of Thomaston, Georgia.

John Clinton Dodd (1872-1931) married Rhader Hyder (1880-1966), daughter of C.D. and Sarah Lou Rainey Hyder of Rutherford County, North Carolina. Both are buried in Sharon Methodist Cemetery, Shelby, North Carolina. They had no children.

James Robert Dodd (1875-1892) was single. He is buried at Zoar Baptist Cemetery, Shelby, North Carolina.

David Drewey Dodd (1877-1942) married Sarah Doggett Packard (1880-1940), daughter of John Zaddock and Frances Elliott Packard. Both are buried in Sharon Methodist Cemetery, Shelby, North Carolina.

Alice Estelle Dodd (1880-1949) married Isaac Kendall (1879-1920), son of Benjamin D. Kendall. Her second husband was Robert Ramseur (1886-1963). They are buried in Sunset Cemetery, Shelby, North Carolina.

Broadus Oscar Dodd (1882-1944) married Mrs. Lula Pruett Dixon (1890-1944). Both are buried in Bethel Baptist Cemetery, Ellenboro, North Carolina.

Fredrick Love Dodd (1884-1937) married Pearl Lillian Cochran (1898). He is buried at

David Crockett Dodd Family. Front row L to R: Fredrick, David Crockett, Claud, Jane Wesson. Back row L to R: Elizabeth, Emeline, Estelle, William, Clinton, David. Jane Wesson holding picture of Broadus who was in Military Service.

Rosemont Cemetery, Union, South Carolina.

Claud Foy Dodd (1887-1970) married Mattie Ellen Collins (1902-1973). Both are buried in Woodlawn Park Mausoleum, Greenville, South Carolina. They had no children. Claud told me that he was in the 56th Coast Artillery, Fort Hancock, New Jersey when his father died in 1912, and he didn't have the money to come home for the funeral.

The Dodd family always participated in the "Tent Meetings" at Sharon Methodist Church. David Crockett Dodd, Elizabeth Jane Dodd and daughter, Alice Estelle Dodd, were charter members of Poplar Springs Baptist Church (1898), Shelby, North Carolina.

After Elizabeth Jane Wesson Dodd died in 1909, David Crockett Dodd married Mollie Hardin of Grover, North Carolina, daughter of Jud Hardin.

He died February 4, 1912 and is buried in Zoar Baptist Cemetery, Shelby, North Carolina.

Sources: Family records

— Annie Ray Jones Dodd

MARIAH ELIZABETH JANE WESSON DODD

393

Mariah Elizabeth Jane Wesson was born January 23, 1847 in Cleveland County, North Carolina and died June 30, 1909 (Aurora Newspaper) or July 1 (tombstone). She is buried at Zoar Baptist Cemetery, Shelby, North Carolina. She was married to David Crockett Dodd.

Her obituary in the Star said, "She was one of Shelby's most estimable and highly esteemed residents, gentle, unassuming, modest. Her life was marked with sixty-two years of usefulness and consecration to her master and the family she loved so dearly."

Later in the Aurora, her death was reported along with that of her brother, James A. Wesson, of Grover, North Carolina, who died July 5, 1909.

A few years before her death, Mr. and Mrs. Dodd had moved to the Sam Bostic house in South Shelby, beside the old Second Baptist Church.

She was the daughter of William Wesson (born December 7, 1800 VA, died June 1, 1874 NC) and Mariah McEntire (born August 18, 1804 NC, died January 9, 1889 NC). Both are buried at Zoar Baptist Cemetery, Shelby, North Carolina.

William's parents probably were James and Nancy Wesson. James' will dated September 12, 1819 lists his wife Nancy and children Henry, daughter Claryman, William, Luke, Edward Clanton, Rebecca Pearson, Patsy, Nancy.

Will Dodd said that his grandfather William was of German descent. He said that his grandmother Mariah was said to be of Irish descent, and the daughter of William McEntire, who lived between Little Hickory Creek and the old home of Ford Hughes, on east side of the present State Highway (Highway 18, South).

He said their children were: Minnie (1831),

Charles Reinhardt Doggett family: Four Generations: Mrs. Margaret J. Blanton Doggett; son, Charles Reinhardt Doggett; granddaughter, Mrs. Lollie May Doggett; great-grandson, Charles Thomas Lattimore.

Dilsey E. (1834), James A. (1836), Drewry D.R. (1839), William P. (1842), Luke C. (1845), Mariah E.J. (1847), Martha M. (1849) Wesson.

Elizabeth Jane Dodd was a postmistress of the Sharon Post Office in Number Two Township, Cleveland County, North Carolina.

David Drewey Dodd was the only child to remain in the Sharon Community. He moved his family from the Mt. Sinai Community in 1910 to the Caphus Lee house on Highway 150, across from the Shelby Airport.

His mother-in-law, Mrs. Fannie Packard, sent Art Wilson with her wagon to help them move. Art said "Mr. Dave, I'm glad you're getting over here near the old mistress, or you'd perish to death on this rabbit farm that you've bought."

Dodd Street in Shelby, North Carolina was so named because, at that time, Broadus Oscar Dodd happened to be operating a Service Station where Dodd Street runs into South Lafayette Street.

David Crockett and Elizabeth Jane Dodd had eleven grandchildren and twenty-one great-grandchildren.

Elizabeth Dodd Blanton had: William Herschel Blanton (1889-1952) married Darfer Hoyt Hamrick. Their children were Jane Elizabeth, Kathryn Myers, James Sidney and Hazel Rebecca Blanton. Arthur Waudell Blanton (1889-1952) married Mrs. Ellen Brock. They had no children. William Newton Dodd had: Hattie Estelle Dodd (1899-1981) married Edwin Guy McMillan. They had infant son Edwin McMillan. James William Dodd (1903-1959) married Gertrude L. Thorman (?Thurnborg). They had one son Frederick Newton Dodd. His second wife was Mrs. Lucille D. Mews (no children). David Drewey Dodd had: John Fitzhugh Dodd (1900) married Margaret Alice Magness (daughter stillborn). His second wife is Annie Ray Jones. Their children are David Drewey and Ann Holland Dodd. Waudell Barnett Dodd (1902-1977) married Alice Opal Vess. Both are buried at Cleveland Memorial Park, Shelby, North Carolina. Their children were Lillian Rebecca Dodd and Robert Vess Dodd. Janie Sue Dodd (1907-1979) married Arnold Wesley Kincaid, son of Samuel and Eva Stine Kincaid. Both are buried in Mountain Rest Cemetery, Kings Mountain, North Carolina. Their children were Iva Jean, Robert Arnold, Sarah Mae, David Ronald and Edith Jane Kincaid, Janie Dodd Kincaid married William Adolphus Campbell on May 22, 1976. Estelle Dodd Kendall Ramseur had: Isaac Horton Kendall (-1971) married Ginny. Their children were Douglas and Donna Kendall. Broadus Oscar Dodd had: Infant (1927) and J.C. Dodd (1931-1963). Frederick Love Dodd had: Elizabeth Jane Dodd (1917) married Christopher Edwin Webber. Their children are Jane Dodd, Christopher Edwin, Junior, Laura Elizabeth and Sarah Catherine Webber. Elmena MNM Dodd (1919) married Henry Lee Joyce. Their children are Henry Lee, III and Marsha Ann Joyce. Richard Earl Dodd (1923) married Mary Frances Roberts. Their children are Richard Earl, Junior; Nancy Karen and Phillip Kevin Dodd.

Sources: Family records

— Annie Ray Jones Dodd

THE CHARLES REINHARDT and LAURA G. WRAY DOGGETT FAMILY

394

The Doggetts are of English and Irish descent. It is not known when they first came to Cleveland County. Charles Reinhardt Doggett (1863-1938) was the oldest of eight children of Minor Win Smith Doggett (1840-1902) and Margaret J. Blanton (1845-1924), who were married September 23, 1862. Minor Win Smith Doggett was the second child of Coleman Doggett (1801-1853) and Mary A. Smith (1812-1861), who were married May 2, 1833. Minor Win Smith Doggett and family were members of First Baptist Church. He served in the Civil War.

Charles R. Doggett and Laura G. Wray (1869-1936) were married in Shelby, North Carolina, on December 16, 1884. They were members of First Baptist Church and Laura Wray was one of the first Sunday School teachers when the church was organized. Charles R. Doggett was a 32nd degree Mason and a Shriner, being a member of the Cleveland Lodge No. 202 Ancient Free and Accepted Masons. At the time of his death, he had more years of service as a Mason than any member of the Lodge.

Laura Wray and her double first cousin, Georgia Borders, were the first young women from Cleveland County to go away to school. They attended the Thomasville Female College in Thomasville, North Carolina. Later Laura attended the Shelby Female College.

Charlie Doggett was a horseman of note and was proud of the horses in his stable. He was a judge of horse racing at the Cleveland County Fair for years. Affectionately known as "Mr. Charlie" and "Miss Laura" they operated the Central Hotel for a number of years. It was a popular place for travelling men to stay and for the young people of Shelby to gather.

Later, Charlie, with his two sons, operated the district Esso Standard Oil Company and also had the agency for Studebaker cars. Always one to keep up with the times, he owned one of the first automobiles in the country. He was interested and active in politics and, when women were granted the vote, he personally saw to it that every woman in his household went to the polls.

After they moved from the Cleveland Hotel, Laura Doggett operated a boarding house in their large frame house. An excellent cook of outstanding reputation, people felt it a privilege to eat with them. She was known for her kindness to the ill, usually sending homemade dessert to people in the neighborhood when they were sick. She was president of the Civic League, the forerunner of the Shelby's Woman's Club. She was a member of the Cleveland Guards Chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy.

Charlie R. and Laura Wray Doggett had three children: Lollie May Doggett (1887-1980) See the Samuel Nelson Lattimore Family. John Wynn Doggett (1890-1943) See the John Wynn Doggett Family. Charles Robert Doggett (1893-1962).

Robert Doggett married Mary Frances Lide from Darlington, South Carolina, in Darlington on July 15, 1925. They had no children. Robert worked with his father and brother in operating the Esso Standard Oil Company. Later he worked at Belk's Department Store. He shared his father's love for horses and horseback riding. He was a deacon at First Baptist Church.

Mary Frances Lide Doggett taught at Boiling Springs Junior College (now Gardner Webb College) before her marriage to Robert. After they were married, she taught at Shelby High School until her retirement. A Latin teacher of note, she also taught other subjects and was admired and respected by students and faculty. After her retirement from the Shelby Schools, she again taught for several years at Gardner Webb College. For 50 years she taught Sunday School at First Baptist Church. The Mary Bible Class there is named in her honor. She was a deacon at the time of her death, October 18, 1980, and was known and will be remembered for her constant concern and visiting with the sick and bereaved.

Brothers and sisters of Charles Reinhardt Doggett were: Sarah Elizabeth Doggett (1866 — date of death unknown), George Burwell Doggett (1868-1941), Florence Roxanah Doggett (1872-1958), William Pinkney Doggett (1877-1878), Thomas Albert Doggett (1880-1947), Maggie Bussey Doggett (1883-1884), Halby Doggett (1886-1929).

Sources: Family Bible, A History of First Baptist Church, Shelby, North Carolina personal knowledge and memories

— May Lattimore Adams

THE JOHN WYNN AND FLORENCE MOSS DOGGETT FAMILY

395

John Wynn Doggett (7-8-1890 — 2-14-1943) was the son of Charles Reinhardt and Laura G. Wray Doggett. He worked with his father and brother in the gasoline and oil business and also in trading horses and mules. A most generous person and a friend of everybody he knew, he was well-liked by all. He shared his father's love of horses.

John Wynn Doggett married Florence Moss of Spartanburg, South Carolina, in Spartanburg on June 15, 1920. Florence was a teacher in the Shelby Schools before their marriage, and after her children were in school, she taught again. She was a beloved and respected teacher for many years until her death May 17, 1959. The Doggett family were members of First Baptist Church and Florence was an active and interested member of the church where she taught Sunday School. She was a member of the Ishpeming Club and the American Association of University Women.

John and Florence Moss Doggett had two children, Mabel Wray Doggett, born May 2, 1921 and Mary Leslie Doggett, born July 9, 1923.

Mabel Wray Doggett graduated from Furman University. She married Curt Folke Lindholm (born February 4, 1914) of Illinois, in Shelby, North Carolina, on January 19, 1946. They now live in Blue Mounds, Wisconsin, where they are active in the Mt. Horeb Evangelical Lutheran Church and in community affairs. Curt was an engineer with the United States Department of Agriculture until his retirement. He was president of the village of Blue Mounds for several years and was instrumental in securing a water system for the village.

The five children of Curt and Mabel Doggett Lindholm are, Steven Curt Lindholm, who was born November 27, 1946, and is an electrical engineer in Wauwatosa, Wisconsin. He married Janet Milarch on May 30, 1970.

Steven and Janet Lindholm have four children, Kristin Elizabeth Lindholm, born February 4, 1971, Jenny Leigh Lindholm, born March 8, 1974, Amy Terese Lindholm, born May 31, 1976, and Melissa Ann Lindholm, born October 17, 1978.

John Aaron Lindholm, born July 9, 1949, is a Doctor in Podiatry Medicine in Milwaukee, Wisconsin. He married Patricia Meyer on August 9, 1975. Patricia has been a teacher and is now in graduate school at the University of Wisconsin in Milwaukee where she will receive the degree, Master of Arts in Business Administration.

Marcia Gail Lindholm, born January 28, 1955, is employed at a bank in Madison, Wisconsin.

Robert Jennings Lindholm, born July 26, 1956, is a landscape architect in Madison, Wisconsin. He married Jane Merklein on June 17, 1978. Jane is a dental assistant.

Sara Jan Lindholm (10-20-1959 — 8-5-1980)

Mary Leslie Doggett attended Mars Hill College and graduated from Furman University. She married Walter Woodrow Wilson (12-28-1951 — 3-29-77), also a Shelby native, on April 24, 1952. "Woody" was a golf pro and he and Leslie operated the Magnolia Inn in Pinehurst, North Carolina, until his death. Since his death, Leslie, with the help of her daughter, has operated the Inn. The Magnolia is described in Southern Guest House Book and a picture of the Magnolia is featured on the cover of the publication.

"Woody" and "Les" Doggett Wilson have two children:

Ann Wilson, born November 24, 1953, married Dennis Martin on March 30, 1978. Ann works with her mother in operating the Magnolia Inn and Dennis is employed by the Moore County Sheriff's Department.

Sue Wilson, born January 20, 1955, married Earl Payne on March 31, 1974. They live in Southern Pines, North Carolina, where Earl is self-employed in construction work and Sue works for Calvary Christian School Day Care.

Earl and Sue Wilson Payne have four children, Sarah Ann Payne, born May 9, 1975, Eric Payne, born August 31, 1976, Grace Ellen Payne, born May 3, 1978 and Micah Timothy Payne, born February 8, 1981.

Sources: Family Bible, personal knowledge and memories

— May Lattimore Adams

JOHN WESLEY DORSEY

396

John Wesley Dorsey was born in Red Bluff, North Carolina, May 14, 1882. His parents were Pinkney Johnson and Sarah Chisholm Dorsey. His father was a railroad man and moved about the country building new railroads in the late 1800's and early 1900's.

John was a handsome man with a fair complexion, curly black hair, grayish eyes, and he stood about five feet, eight inches tall. He was known as a friendly person in the community. His children knew him as a strict but loving father.

His family lived in the Patterson Springs area while the Southern Railway was being built from Blacksburg, South Carolina, to Marion, North Carolina. As a young man he worked at several occupations. Farming and learning the barber trade were two of these occupations.

He married Essie Rachel McCoy, the daughter of Thomas and Martha McCoy of Shelby, in 1902. They lived in Shelby, and their first child, Winifred Pinkney, was born November 14, 1904. Selby Caroline was born October 25, 1907, and Elmer Johnson was born July 16, 1910.

During these years John owned a barber-shop located in the basement of the present Shelby Cafe building. In the early 1900's barbershops generally had rooms available where men could take their Saturday bath and get a shave, haircut and shoeshine.

Starting about this time he began a practice of buying, remodeling and reselling houses. The young family lived in the house during the remodeling and then moved to another house to begin work on it.

After a lengthy illness Essie died around 1912, and the three children were cared for by their grandparents in Shelby.

In 1914 John met and married Clara Bell Hamrick, daughter of William S. and Mary Hamrick of Shelby. Five children were born in the next eleven years. On August 27, 1915 Evelyn Virginia was born, and Dewitt David was born on June 17, 1917. Sara Lee was born September 4, 1919, and Hugh Manson was born June 12, 1922. All of the children were born in Shelby or Cleveland County except Wilda Ray who was born April 16, 1925, in Weirsdale, Florida.

John continued his barbering, but he also started something new for Shelby, a "Pressing Club." This was the forerunner of the modern dry cleaner. The "Pressing Club" consisted of scrub brushes, an ironing board and a nine-pound flat iron for pressing the clothes after the dust, lint and dirt had been removed.

In the fall of 1923 John's health had deteriorated. He kept the hiccups continuously for many weeks. The doctors were puzzled by this but advised a stay in the warm climate of Florida where plenty of fresh fruit, fish and other restoratives were available. The family, all but Winifred, packed a new Model T Ford and moved to Florida.

Because of John's sickness, the trip to Florida was very long. On some days they only traveled fifty miles. Each night the family slept in their tent along the roadside. One night they camped in Citra, Florida. John was very sick at this time and people from the village brought food and friendly words to the worried travelers. The family decided they had found their new home among the helpful people of the village in the heart of Florida's orange grove country. The cure the North Carolina doctors had prescribed worked.

John now tried a new venture. He started truck farming. Because farmers in Florida were not organized, there was a very poor market for their fresh vegetables. An arrangement between Winifred, John and the merchants in Shelby was made. Soon fresh beans, peas, tomatoes and cucumbers were being shipped to grocers in Shelby. This arrangement worked nicely for several years.

In 1932 the Florida boom ended! The depression arrived! The family, except Selby, moved back to Shelby.

John started a dry cleaning business in the basement of his home on the corner of West Graham and Market Streets. Later he opened Dorsey Cleaners on West Graham Street which operated until about 1975.

John had many talents that the family enjoyed. He was the family doctor, a good cook and a very good tailor. One time the whole family, with the exception of John, came down with influenza. John nursed and cared for Clara and the children until they all recovered. Often John was persuaded to cook up one of his "specials." The family favorite was roast beef and hot biscuits.

John was very proud of his children, and he always said he wanted enough grandchildren to make up a ball team. Winifred married Emma Young of Ruth, North Carolina. Selby married Evert Stamback of Mt. Hope, Kansas. Elmer married Mary Anderson of Spartanburg, South Carolina. Evelyn married J.D. Ellis of Grover, North Carolina. Dewitt married Doris Wolfer of Charlotte, North Carolina. Sara married John Sturdivant of Louisiana. Hugh married Dorothy Classen of San Diego, California. Wilda married Howard Haskell of Cherryfield, Maine. John soon had enough grandchildren for several ball teams, and the "stately" house at 833 West Marion Street was the "teams" favorite place to be, especially when John would gather them in his old Dodge and ride the group over "tickle belly hill" on Graham Street.

John Wesley and Clara Dorsey

After a short illness John died in the Cleveland Memorial Hospital March 8, 1952, and his beloved wife died on November 23, 1980. They are both buried in Sunset Cemetery in Shelby. John's funeral was held in the Central United Methodist Church where he was a member, and he was buried with Masonic Rights.

They are survived by six children, twenty grandchildren, forty-one great-grandchildren and six great-great grandchildren.

Sources: Date and Births: Dorsey Family Bible

— Evelyn Dorsey Ellis

CHARLES IRVIN DOVER

397

Charles Irvin Dover (June 28, 1903 —) was born in Shelby at 301 South Washington Street to John Randolph and Ella Toms Dover. He had a twin brother, William Jennings Dover, who lived only five years.

Charles attended the Shelby Schools, Fishburne Academy and North Carolina State College.

On October 12, 1929, he married Kathleen Nolan (1903-1981) of Shelby.

Because of his father's belief in the value of work, Charles began working in the Ella Manufacturing Company at eleven years of age. He worked eleven hours a day when not in school, and his wage was thirty-six cents per day. (Mills at that time operated two shifts per day, first shift being eleven hours for week-days with five hours on Saturday, and the second shift being twelve hours per day for five week-days. A work week contained sixty hours.)

With his first pay, his father helped him open a savings account in the Union Trust Company. On a later payday, his father asked how much Charles wished to keep from his pay. Charles asked for seventy-five cents. His father answered, "Great Scott, boy, what are you going to do with all that money?" Charles explained that he wanted to buy a work-shirt for forty-nine cents, and he would have twenty-six cents to spend for two weeks. This answer satisfied his father.

Charles and his brother, Jack, worked with their father at the Ella, in the construction of the Dover and Ora Mills, and the reorganization of the Eastside Mill (later named the Esther Mill). When John R. Dover died in 1931, Charles became secretary-treasurer of the Dover group, and Jack became the president. These two young men assumed this responsibility at the beginning of the depression of that decade. Their working relationship was remarkable, as Charles assumed the management of the finances while Jack concentrated on manufacturing. Out of this, they made joint decisions in the operation of the plants.

They expanded the Dover Textile Group to include Dora Yarn in Cherryville, Dover Yarn at Buffalo, J & C Dyeing Company and the D & O Warehouse. Those who have worked with Charles Dover through the years will affirm that he has put his best into his part in building this business, and that he has expected and received the best from those around him.

John Randolph Dover Home, 1906. Built by E. B. Jennings.

For many years, he held positions of leadership in the Dover Baptist Church, where he was president of the Men's Bible Class, Superintendent of the Sunday School and a Deacon.

In 1946-1947, Charles was president of the Shelby Rotary Club. In the year prior, he was attendance chairman. During his year as president, he continued the emphasis on attendance, and the club had an attendance record of over 98%, the best ever had by the Shelby Rotary Club and rating with the ten top Rotary clubs of the World.

He organized the Cherryville Rotary Club during that year. He attended in Cherryville on Wednesday and in Shelby on Friday for the first two years of the Cherryville Club's existence.

Because of his service, he has made a Paul Harris Fellow, the highest award a Rotarian can receive from Rotary International.

Charles Dover has maintained a family tradition of interest in education. The Charles I. Dover Community Service Center and the Dover Memorial Library are physical evidence of his close ties to Gardner-Webb College, from which he received an honorary doctor of humanities in 1977.

He and his brother, Jack, along with members of their families, started the Dover Foundation, whose purpose is to provide educational opportunities for young people.

As a youth, he began to cultivate his hobbies of hunting and fishing, and trophies from both are among his treasures. He has fond memories of his favorite dog, part setter and part pointer, given to him by an uncle. He called this dog "Bell", and he is sure that Bell understood every word he uttered, and can tell many stories to back up his belief.

His love for the outdoors is also shown in the varied garden which he has every year. He frequently surprises kin and friend with gifts from his harvest.

Like his brother, Jack, he was exposed early in life to the fun experienced from jokes and pranks, as practiced by his father. When Charles' nieces and nephews married and had their first children, he knew well the pride the young parents felt about each new baby. But to emphasize Charles' claim that all new babies looked alike, he would deposit on the doorstep of the home of every new parents early in the morning of the first day at home a likeness of the baby inside. This likeness was always a live 'possum loosely cased in a burlap sack.

Charles Dover has been a silent benefactor in small and large ways to both friends and people he knew only by their need.

He is a man with many faces: the conservative, strict financier of the textile world, the outdoors man, the interested citizen, the faithful Christian, the caring head of a family, the concerned friend, and best of all, the man whose smile spreads through the eyes from thoughts of something present or past.

The Dover children are: 1) Ann Nolan, married Hoyt Q. Bailey, 2) Elizabeth Kathleen, married Harvey Bly Hamrick, and Dorothy Esther Cykers.

Sources: Family knowledge; newspaper

— Esther Ann Ford

WILLIAM HUGH DOVER

398

William Hugh Dover was born in the Sharon Community of Cleveland County on November 7, 1920 to Charlie and Elizabeth Dover. The youngest of five sons, Hugh performed the chores typical for a boy growing up on a small family farm.

At age 16, he graduated from Boiling Springs High School with a dream for his future already shaped. His old friend Earl Scruggs said he and some other local musicians would gather at Hugh's home and before they played their music, Hugh would announce them by speaking into the end of a folks who have been wished a happy birthday by Mr. Dover could be heard, there would be a great chorus. Thirty years on the radio airwaves earned Hugh the sobriquets "The Happy Birthday Man" and "Mr. Radio."

William Hugh Dover, one of the first Cleveland County radio announcers.

A highlight of the radio career came in July, 1963 when he was a guest disc jockey for the Grand Ole Opry in Nashville, Tennessee and interviewed in a world-famous banjo picker who had played to sold-out houses in Carnegie Hall in New York — his old friend Earl Scruggs.

Children came to the Dover family in 1951 with the birth of Stephanie Sue and in 1957 with the birth of Robin Kay. Stephanie Sue married Wayne Roberts and had two children of her own, Richie and Hayley. Robin Kay married Tommy Burns of Kings Mountain, a son of Tommy Roger Burns II. Both daughters work in the Shelby public schools.

In 1956, Hugh enlarged his business interests by founding with Yancey and Rebekah Ellis the Shelby Wood Preserving Company, the first wood preserving firm in the country.

Politics tempted Hugh in 1960 and he ran for Cleveland County commissioner. After defeating two opponents in the primary, Hugh went on to victory in the general election and garnered more votes in Cleveland County that election than did Governor-elect Terry Sanford or President-elect John F. Kennedy.

As chairman of the county Board of Commissioners, Hugh, in 1967, accepted from Vice President Hubert Humphrey in Detroit, Michigan a national award for human relations activities of the Cleveland Association of Governmental Officials.

A Shelby attorney later ran into Humphrey who asked about "his old friend Hugh Dover."

While a commissioner, Hugh helped add space for county government offices and helped bring industry to the country. In 1984, he will have been a commissioner for 16 years.

Active also in church and civic affairs, Hugh was instrumental in the building of Zoar Baptist Church, twice received calls as music director in churches outside of Cleveland County; worked with school PTA, March of Dimes and Tuberculosis Seals.

Several times he has been honored by awards for his contributions to the community. He may have said of those awards, as he has often been known to say, "Yessiree . . . Oh boy . . . What about that?"

— Wm. Hugh Dover

JOHN RANDOLPH DOVER

399

John Randolph Dover (December 14, 1858 — October 18, 1931) was the son of James Marion and Amanda Nichols Dover. He was born on a small farm in York County, south of the Kings Mountain Battleground area.

After attending Bell's Academy for a short period, he left the farm and went to Oklahoma, where he found a job splitting rails. During this period, he continued his quest for learning on an individual basis, and taught school.

When he returned to the eastern part of the country, he made his base in Washington, Georgia, where he became a cotton buyer.

Nazi nation.

After his military service, Hugh returned home and worked briefly in the towel packing room at Cliffside Mills. His big break arrived, his dream became reality, when word came that a radio station was to begin operating in Shelby. Cleveland County's first radio station, WOHS, went on the air in August, 1946 and Hugh, hired a month earlier after a single interview, was one of the announcers.

Hugh once described his radio show as "a little informal get-together with the radio audience in which I play country, western and religious music."

His baritone voice did more than announce records. A large part of the popularity of "Carolina In The Morning" was Hugh's daily renditions of "Happy Birthday," sung particularly for his older listeners and for children.

A newspaper profile in 1962 said, "If all the broomstick. Eventually the broomstick was replaced by a real microphone and Hugh announced for Earl on a radio show in Spartanburg, South Carolina. The work was only part-time, however, so Hugh continued his dream of becoming a regular radio announcer.

In 1941, he married Minnie Sue Haynes, the great-niece of Raleigh Rutherford Haynes, who was the founder of the towns of Cliffside, Avondale and Henrietta in Rutherford County. For a time, Hugh and his wife operated the "Eat-A-Bite" lunchroom at Cliffside Mills for his wife's father, Sam E. Haynes.

World War II called and, on his second wedding anniversary, Hugh left for Europe. He served as a member of the 821st Military Police Battalion. During the first part of the war crimes trials in Nuremberg, Germany, he was assigned for three days to guard Hermann Goring, the former industrial dictator of the Vice President Hubert Humphrey and William Hugh Dover at Awards Banquet in Detroit, Michigan, 1967.

On September 27, 1887, he married Ella Esther Toms (September 11, 1867 — January 27, 1936), daughter of James M. and Priscilla (Wray) Toms, of Rutherfordton, who had been a student at the Shelby Female Academy, and a frequent visitor in Shelby at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Bate Suttle.

The Dover family moved to Shelby in the late 1890s, and moved into a home at 301 South Washington Street in 1900, where the five youngest children were born.

Backed by friends who had confidence in him as a business man with vision for the emerging textile industry of the region in 1907, John Dover organized the Ella Manufacturing Co., which was named for his wife, who threw in the first armful of cotton to be manufactured in the new machinery. This mill was sold at a profit for the investors in 1921. In 1923, he and associates built the Dover Mill, and added the Ora Mill in 1925. He assumed responsibility in the Eastside Mill (later renamed the Esther). At the time of his death, he was president-treasurer of the Dover, Ora and Esther Mills, and a director of the Charles Mill in Red Springs, North Carolina.

John Dover found great joy in learning about people, places and things all his life. Any plan for industry included availability of a school for children of the families connected with the mill.

He was a life-long student of the Bible, a member of the Baptist Church, and a participant in the religious life of the community. In order that a church be a part of any planned industrial community, he was active in the beginning of the Second Baptist Church, the Eastside Baptist Church and the Cover Baptist Church. He taught Sunday School regularly, and was widely known for his ability as an orator. The Cleveland Star of October 19, 1931, described him as "the most eloquent lay speaker in this part of the state."

He was a director of the Union Trust Company, a president of the Rotary Club, and an active member of the Masonic fraternity.

Events in the busy home on South Washington Street with nine growing children revolved around "Papa," as he was called by his children and then grandchildren. He started his mornings early with a turn around his always excellent garden in the back of the house, or with a three-mile walk from his home to the Dover Mill. When his step was heard on the side porch in the evening, all minds in the house turned toward "Papa" and the supper soon to be eaten together.

With six daughters, a constant stream of young men friends came to this house. All knew the house rule for the evenings: When the clock strikes the first stroke of eleven, the front door latch must click. When the last stroke is heard, the latch for the picket fence gate must sound. But some of the young men kidded John Dover with the assurance that they clicked the door-latch — but hopped over the fence.

Overnight visitors in the family were frequent. All knew John Dover's habit of enjoying breakfast at a very early hour. Any visitor who made the effort to get up in time to enjoy this early hour with his or her host was always after a favorite visitor.

John Dover had a great capacity for humor, both in laughter at himself, and with others. He liked to be the perpetrator of surprises, whether prank or pleasure. In September, less than four weeks prior to his death, he planned a surprise celebration of forty-four years of marriage for his wife, with all the children, husbands and wives, and grand-children present.

He had a gentle side, shown in his patient display for a grand-child of the wheels and gears inside his large gold watch, which he wore suspended from a chain and in his vest pocket.

When he saw one of his grandchildren meeting him on the sidewalk in town or near the house, he would keep his erect, brisk pace, pretend that he did not see the child, and make a gleeful collision happen to the two of them.

John Randolph Dover was a man of vision in a time of change, who embraced life and the people he found in it, who practiced his faith in his private and public life, and who used all his abilities to benefit those around him. The Dover children were: (1) James Toms Dover (1888-1964) married Georgia Ida Boone (1892-1963), (2) Helen Amanda Dover (1890-1972) married Flay DeWitt Quinn (1887-1957), (3) John Randolph Dover, Jr. (1892-1963) married Mary Elaine Hamrick (1893-) (4) Lila Elizabeth Dover (1895-1976) married Charles Preyer Roberts (1891-1971) (5) Margaret Marion Dover (1897-) married James Franklin Love (1894-1975), (6) Dorothy Esther Dover (1900-1979) married Robert Gaffney Laney (1890-1944), (7) Charles Irvin Dover (1903-) married Kathleen Nolan (1903-1981), (8) William Jennings Dover (1903-1908), (9) Mary Evelyn Dover (1906-1972) married John Fox (1902-), (10) Katherine Louise Dover (1909-) married Frank Hart Chamberlain, Jr. (1910-).

John Randolph Dover Family, about 1911. Front row L to R: Lila, John, Katherine, Ella, Evelyn, Charles; back row L to R: Dorothy, Margaret, Toms, Helen and Jack Dover.

John Randolph and Ella Dover are buried in Sunset Cemetery in Shelby.

Sources: Family records

— Esther Ann Ford

JOHN RANDOLPH DOVER, JR. 400

John Randolph Dover, Jr. (September 4, 1892 — August 15, 1963) was the son of John Randolph and Ella Toms Dover. His birthplace was a farm house in the southern part of Cleveland County, his parents' first home after their marriage.

He attended the Shelby schools, Boiling Springs, Berea College and the New Bedford Textile School.

On May 22, 1918, he married Mary Elaine Hamrick (1893 —), a native of Shelby.

Jack, the name by which he was known all his life, started to work in the Ella Manufacturing Co. at an early age. He worked with his father and Charles Dover, his brother, in the building of the Dover and Ora Mills, and the reorganization of the Eastside Mill (later known as the Esther Mill).

After his father's death in 1931, he became president of the Dover group of plants. In 1962, he was named chairman of the board of directors. At the time of his death, the group included the Dover, Ora and Esther plants in Shelby, Dover Yarn Mill at Buffalo and the Dora Mill and Dora Knitting Mill in Cherryville. The J. & C. Dyeing Company was under construction.

Jack and Charles Dover, who was Secretary-Treasurer of the Dover group, were a remarkable team because they were complements to one another with their different talents. In the Shelby Daily Star of April 30, 1981, Charles described their relationship with these words: "Jack stayed in the mills the great part of the time. He was really a great manufacturer. I think one of the best in the United States. I stayed in the office and handled the financial matters. We'd get together and talk things over and decide what we needed to do."

Jack was an innovator in manufacturing and management, and he conveyed the feeling of accessibility to all connected with the Dover plants. Everybody felt free to take their concerns to "Mr. Jack." On one occasion, a driver for one of the plants felt that he was not highly regarded because a driver at another of the plants had been furnished a new truck. The first driver went to Mr. Jack's office, described his predicament, said that the other driver refused to speak when they met on the road, and that friends were telling him that he was not as important as the other man. Jack told him that plans had been made to trade his truck in, also, and the matter was settled happily for all concerned.

His activities covered all segments of community life. He was active in the Rotary Club, the Masonic Lodge, the Dover Baptist Church, director of First National Bank, and was recognized as Citizen of the Year in 1945 by the Shelby Lions Club.

His chief interest was in education. He and his brother founded the Dover Foundation, with one of the purposes being the provision of opportunities for education for young people. The Dover Memorial Library and the Dover Chapel at Gardner-Webb College are monuments to his and his family's interest in the college and education.

In Jack Dover's presence, everybody felt at ease, regardless of their age or the circumstance of their meeting. He conveyed a sense of inner happiness and radiance.

From his father, he and his brother, Charles, inherited a fondness for pranks and jokes. Early every Christmas morning, Jack and his daughter, Sara Esther, got out shortly after dawn to try to visit his brother's and sisters' homes before any family had waked up. And they often succeeded, to everyone's delight.

His generosity extended far beyond his public image. His help for others was constant, with only the recipient knowing about his gift.

For more than a year before his death, he faced the tragedy of a terminal illness. As long as he could, he kept his schedule in the mills, and did not disclose the facts about his health. During this time, he was able to share with his wife and children, as well as his brother and sisters, his inner sense of acceptance and peace. To think of Jack Dover is to think of a joyful man.

Jack and Elaine Dover had two children: (1) Sara Esther married George Jackson Vincent, (2) John Randolph Dover III married Anne Louise Pearson.

John Randolph Dover, Jr., is buried in Sunset Cemetery in Shelby.

— Esther Ann Ford

THE RENN and ERMA DRUM FAMILY

401

Erma Johnston and Renn Drum, Sr. (b. April 28, 1902 — d. August 26, 1935) met on a blind date in the fall of 1923. This was the beginning of a two-year courtship that led to their marriage on August 14, 1925.

Erma, daughter of Rhett and Mary Johnston of Jacksonville, Arkansas, came to Shelby to teach in the fall of 1922 after graduation in June that year from Winthrop College.

Renn, Sr., only child of Charles A. and Etta Sherrill Drum of Stony Point in Iredell County, came to Shelby in the fall of 1923 to become News Editor of the Cleveland Star, now the Shelby Daily Star. He had attended Davidson College.

Two sons were born to the couple: Renn, Jr., (b. November 13, 1931) and Dale Johnston (b. September 21, 1933).

Renn, Jr. graduated from Limestone College in 1962 and from Wake Forest Law School in 1965. In August that year he passed the State Bar examination, and in early September he filed a reapportionment suit to force the State to reapportion seats for state legislators and members of the U.S. Congress from North Carolina.

The court ruled in his favor and a special session of the legislature was called to map the reapportionment.

Again in 1969 he filed suit against the state to force it to provide school bus service for urban children as it had done for years for rural children. Again, he won his case and North Carolina began providing bus service for city school children in the 1969-70 school year.

He has been twice married: on February 8, 1964 to Nancy Dawson, who is the mother of his two daughters, Jennifer (b. June 9, 1967) and Meredith (b. March 4, 1970); and to Jane Cline on August 20, 1978. They live in Winston-Salem.

Dale attended North Carolina State College, and the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. He served in the U.S. Army from October 13, 1953 to October 5, 1955.

He was married on October 24, 1968, to Betty Lengrand Maroney. They live in Kenner, Louisiana.

Renn Drum, Sr., was a born newsman: fast, accurate, versatile and with a "nose" for the human interest element in news.

He was one of the early writers of personal columns among North Carolina journalists.

Renn Drum, Sr., 1925

Erma Johnston Drum, taken in 1925

In later years she looked back on this with satisfaction. Future revelations about the bomb, she felt, had justified her handling of the story when it was first reported.

(Pictured of Renn, Sr., and Erma, used with this article, were made in 1925, near the time of their marriage).

— Erma Johnston Drum

JOHN GORDON DUDLEY

402

In 1899, shortly after John Gordon Dudley was mustered out of the army in the Spanish American War he was talking with friends, and Mr. A.W. McMurry of Shelby was in the group. He asked him to go to Shelby, North Carolina, his native home. His offer was "go with me to Shelby, stay three months and if you are not happy there he would provide transportation for him back to Richmond." John Gordon loved Shelby, met Blanche Eskridge, daughter of Albert Dixon and Susan Beam Eskridge, and the August 1901 wedding ensued in the Shelby Baptist Church.

The wedding invitations were handwritten by my mother's first cousin, Jefferson Lector Eskridge. His daddy, Webb Eskridge and my granddaddy were twin brothers. Lector Eskridge was a silver engraver by profession called chirographer and according to the dictionary meaning "elegant penmanship." Lector Eskridge was also a brother of Charles L. Eskridge, the Cleveland County Ford dealer.

John Gordon's father was the sheriff of Madison County and lived in the jail with his

His column, "Around Our Town," was a widely feature in the Star.

He left the Star in 1933 and accepted a public relations job with the U.S. Department of Commerce in Washington, D.C. He died on August 26, 1935. He is buried in Shelby's Sunset Cemetery.

Erma joined the staff of the Cleveland Star in 1930 as editor of the Society-Womans Page. She wrote social news, features, "personals," and a column, "Small Talk," which became a popular feature in the Star.

She won a number of awards for news writing and columns in North Carolina Press Women's annual competition. She served as president of North Carolina Press Women in 1960-61.

She remained a member of the Star staff for 34 years. During World War II, when all the young men on the staff were called into military service, Erma took over the news editor's desk for nearly four years, from early 1942 to late 1945. She handled the Associated Press wire news, editing this incoming world news, writing heads for it and local news, laying out the front page, etc., etc.

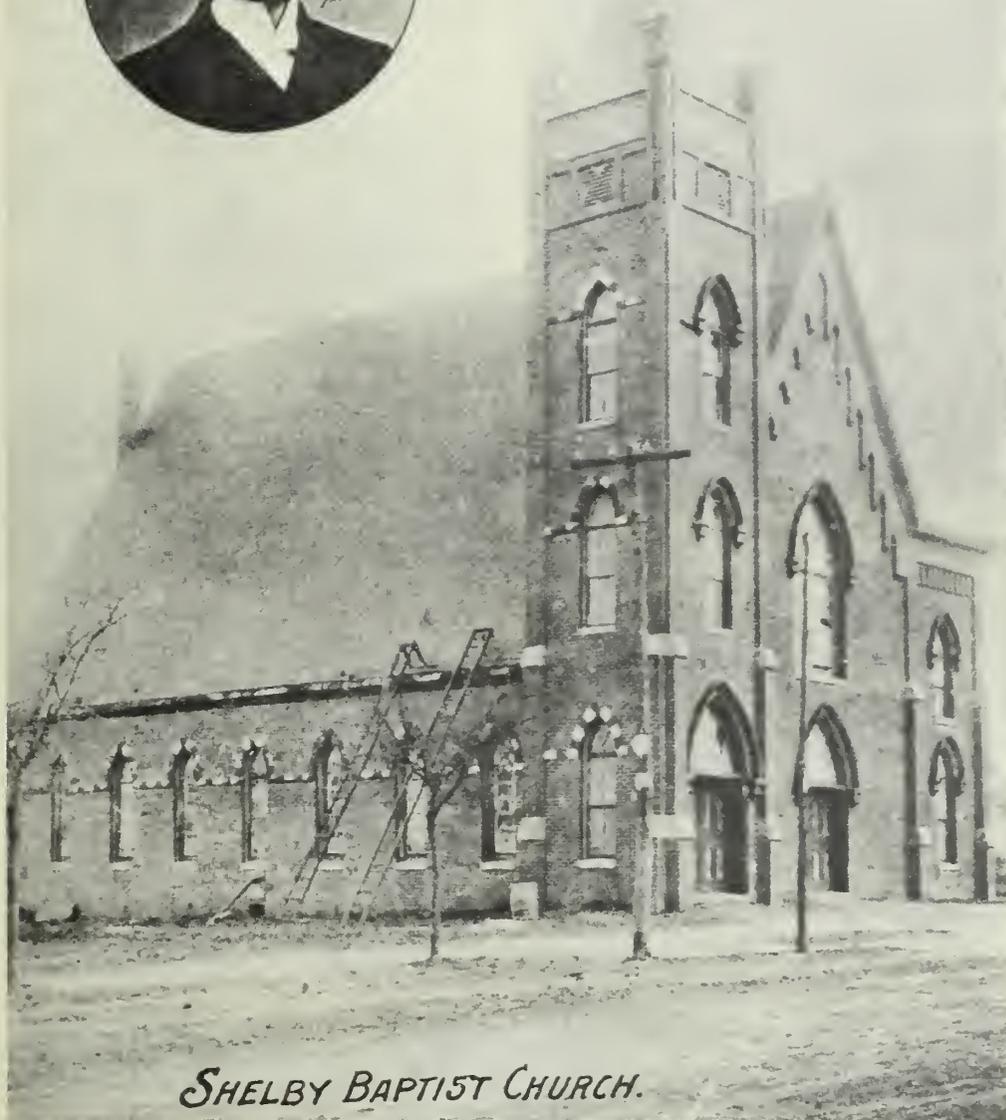

It was while on this job that she had the privilege of handling what she considers the news story of the century: the advent of the atomic bomb, when the first one was dropped on Hiroshima on August 6, 1945.

While the first atomic bomb was being put together, it was probably the best-kept secret in America. When news broke of the atomic bomb raid on Hiroshima, it caught news peopel by complete surprise. No one ever heard of an atomic bomb. They had no background for assessing its importance.

But the atomic bomb story, as it came in over the wire that momentous August 6, sounded like something bigger than big to Erma. So she played it big. She gave it two 8-column streamers and a three-line, 2-column drop head.

Blanche Eskridge and John Gordon Dudley

SHELBY BAPTIST CHURCH.

Shelby Baptist Church — 1904

family. When Sheriff Dudley died, his family received special permission to live in the jail and his wife was to be acting jailer. The arrangement was made to give Mrs. Dudley opportunity to find homes for the children. John Gordon was not placed in a home, but in an orphanage.

Ambros J. Dudley (b. 1803), grandfather of John Gordon, entered the Colonial Army in the Revolution, as a Captain. His commission being given by Patrick Henry. He was wounded and imprisoned at Williamsburg. While there he heard through the prison bars the preaching of Lewis Craig. He became converted and resigned his commission to become a preacher.

Mr. Dudley was a pioneer in adult education for this area. In 1909, he left his wife and young family to go to St. Louis, Missouri, to attend Sanitary Engineering School, comparable to our own Cleveland Technical College. He graduated as a Sanitary Engineer, the term often used is "plumber." Later he attended airconditioning school in Dayton, Ohio, and added that service to his business. One that served Shelby and Cleveland County over seventy years.

John Gordon and Blance had the following children: John Gordon Jr., Susan Elizabeth, Ambrose Dixon and Lucy Blanche.

John Gordon, Jr. (b. 1902) married Maybelle Hartness and had five children: John Gordon, III, Jane Hartness, Robert Pete, Thomas Rufus and Angela Claudia. John G., III married Ann Jewel and they have four children: Lynn, Laura Elizabeth, Sally Ann, and William Jewel. Jane Hartness married Rev. Boston McGee Lackey, Jr. and they have two children: Boston McGee, III, and Jane Gordon Lackey. Robert Pete married Doris Rucker. Their three children are: Robert Pete, Jr., Cathy and Henry Dudley. Thomas Rufus married Janice Abbot and their daughter is Sonja Dudley. Angela Claudia married first David Michael Lackey, Jr., and then John Webster Teer.

Susan Elizabeth (b. 1904) married 1. Heywood Benjamin Kendrick, 2. Anderson Vance Nolan.

Ambrose Dixon (b. 1906, d. 1970) married Eleanor Parks. They had one daughter Eleanor who married Jack Gold. Jack and Eleanor have two children, Eleanor Ann and Dick Dudley.

Lucy Blanche (b. 1909 — d. 1980) married Quinn G. McCombs. Their children are: Gilbert, John Herbert, Edgar. Gilbert and his wife Frances have a son, Todd, and a daughter Vicky. Edgar and his wife Michelle also have two children: Gail and Michelle.

— Mrs. Elizabeth D. Nolan

THE ABNER GREEN DYCUS FAMILY

403

Abner Green Dycus, born August 1, 1827 in Rutherford County, North Carolina married Susannah (Digh) about 1849 and they had five children all born in Rutherford County: (1) Sarah Ann Dweney (Wright), born May 11, 1850; (2) Willis Elijah, born April 13, 1852; (3) Rachel Ann (McKinney), born January 19, 1854; (4) John Robert, born January 16, 1856 who married Eliza Tessneer and had two sons, Cephus Onzo and Enzlie Broughton and two daughters, Arrie and Mattie, and (5) Mary Ann Elizabeth (McMurray), born March 10, 1858.

Susannah, born September 22, 1829, died May 17, 1865 in Rutherford County and Abner Green married Celia Bridges (Wright), born August 6, 1831. They had six children born in Rutherford County; (1) Ricey Ann Marendy (Owens), born July 10, 1866; (2) Biddie Ann (Pool), born March 10, 1868; (3) William Ezekiel, born September 20, 1869, who married Johnie Cogdell; (4) Rosanna (Webb), born March 25, 1872. (5) Carrie Suzaner (Spratt), born March 20, 1874, and (6) James Melton, born May 10, 1876 who married Georgia Bailey and had three known children, Vonnie (Braddy), Mary Sue (Dobbins) and Archie Rex. James died May 17, 1957 in Rutherford County.

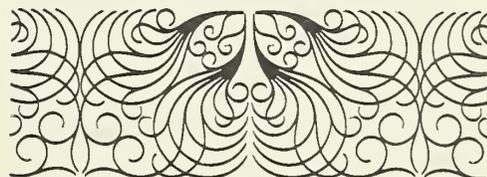

Abner Green and family were listed on the 1860 census report for Cleveland County.

Abner Green was one of thirteen children of Elijah and Lavinia (Green) Dycus. His occupation was farming and his church affiliation was Baptist.

Abner Green died August 7, 1908 in Bostic, Rutherford County, North Carolina and was buried in Walls Baptist Church Cemetery between Forest City and Ellenboro. Celia died April 28, 1929 in Rutherford County.

Sources: Family Bible, marriage records, census reports, deeds and discussion with descendants of Abner Green Dycus

— William Allen Dycus

THE ELIJAH and LAVINIA DYCUS FAMILY

404

Elijah Dycus born 1805 in Rutherford County, North Carolina married Lavinia (Green) November 1, 1826 in Rutherford County. They owned property and farmed near Cow Creek and Sandy Run Creek in Rutherford County.

Elijah was the son of William and Usely (Walker) Dycus of Rutherford County. Usely's name later was listed as Urcilla.

Lavinia known as "Viney" born about 1807 in Rutherford County was the daughter of Ansel Green, mother unknown, of Rutherford County.

Elijah and Lavinia had thirteen surviving children all born in Rutherford County; (1) Abner Green born August 1, 1827, (2) Dicy L. (Bridges) born 1830, (3) E. Celia (Doughty) born August 23, 1831, (4) Martha J. (Bridges) born 1833, (5) Beady M. born 1835, (6) William R. born 1837, (7) Sarah A. (Green) born 1839, (8) Ancil N. born 1841, (9) Artimincy M. (Philbeck) born 1843, (10) Joseph J. born February 10, 1847, (11) S.J. (Sedford) born 1848, (12) Dorah N. (Bridges) born 1851 and (13) R.M. (White) born 1855.

Ancil and Joseph, on the way home from the Civil War, drowned in the Catawba River near Mt. Holly, North Carolina due to an overloaded ferry boat in 1865.

Elijah, Lavinia and children were listed on the 1850 census report for Cleveland County. Cleveland County was formed in 1841 from parts of Rutherford and Lincoln Counties.

Elijah died about 1860 and Lavinia about 1883 in Rutherford or Cleveland County.

Sources: Family Bible, census reports, deeds and correspondence with descendants of Elijah and Lavinia Dycus

— William Allen Dycus

James Abner Dycus, 1882-1965 Photo taken at Shelby about 1902

Joanna known as "Jonie," born March 28, 1885 in Cleveland County, was one of five children of William Thomas and Nancy Matilda (Hord) Allen. Jonie was active in community and church affairs and both she and Jim were charter members of the present Elizabeth Baptist Church in Shelby, located on Route 180, one-half mile north of intersection 180 and Highway 74.

James and Joanna had eight children; (1) Adam Glenn, born October 17, 1906, in Cleveland County married Esther (Anderson) December 24, 1938 in Asheville, North Carolina and had six children; Bertha Joann, Nancy Elizabeth, Barbara Catherine, Glenda Sue, Margaret Annie, and James Adam. (2) James Hoyt, born May 14, 1908, in Cleveland County, married Wilma (Poston) June 9, 1928 in Gaffney, South Carolina. They had two children, James Ronald and Richard Kerr. Hoyt died April 2, 1956 in Daytona Beach, Florida. (3) Jesse Thomas, born September 17, 1911, in Cleveland County, married Mary (McAbee) September 24, 1938 in Asheville North Carolina. They had three children; Jerry Thomas, Delores Jean and Marilyn Kaye. (4) Harry Manning, born November 23, 1914, in Anderson, South Carolina, married Elma (Hudson) June 29, 1935 in Gaffney, South Carolina. They had three children; Wanda Raye, Patricia Faye (twins) and Harry Manning. (5) William Allen, born September 19, 1917 in Hopewell, Virginia, married Martha (Wright) February 9, 1941 in Greenville, South Carolina. They had one son, Bruce Allen. (6) Helen Louise, born March 13, 1921, in Cleveland County, married Ruel C. Crawford June 6, 1942 in Greenville, South Carolina. They had two children; Lela Jean and Carol Louise. (7) Nancy Varee, born July 3, 1923 in Cleveland County, married Harvey A. Sorrells June 13, 1940 in Asheville, North Carolina. They had two children; Joanna Varee and Harvey Allen. (8) Arpie Ezelle, born July 29, 1925, in Cleveland County, married Jack H. Littlejohn June 8, 1944 in Gaffney, South Carolina. They had no children.

Adam Glenn served several years in the Marine Corps during peace time. He also was employed by the U.S. Postal Service as a railway postal clerk. Later he became an insurance salesman. Adam and family made their home in Mars Hill, North Carolina after leaving Cleveland County.

James Hoyt, until his death in 1956, was manager of an Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company store in Daytona Beach, Florida. He won several awards as best manager of the year in

THE JAMES ABNER and JOANNA ETTA DYCUS FAMILY

405

James Abner Dycus was born April 24, 1882 in Cleveland County, North Carolina and married Joanna Etta (Allen) September 20, 1905 in Cleveland County. They owned property in Shelby at Cleveland Springs on old Highway 74 near Route 150 and the Elizabeth community on old Highway 74 near the fairgrounds.

James, known as "Jim," owned and operated the Shelby Radiator Shop for a number of years, The Chocolate Shop in Shelby for several years, and he was also an employee of the State Highway Commission as a prison guard and vehicle radiator repairman. During World War I he was employed in the gun powder plant of E.I. DuPont Company in Hopewell, Virginia and the Newport News Virginia Shipbuilding Company in Newport News as sheet metal worker. During World War II he was again employed by the Newport News Virginia Shipbuilding Company as a sheet metal worker.

James was one of eight surviving children of Willis Elijah and Nancy Jane (McMurray) Dycus.

James Abner and Joanna Etta Dycus Family: Seated, L to R: Nancy Varee, James Abner, Joanna Etta and Arpie Ezelle. Standing, L to R: Adam Glenn, James Hoyt, Jesse Thomas, Helen Louise, Harry Manning and William Allen. Picture taken 1955 in Shelby at Thomas and Matilda Allen homeplace.

that area. Hoyt and family made their home in Daytona Beach after leaving Cleveland County.

Jesse Thomas was a self-employed brick mason in Cleveland County. He assisted in the construction of quite a few homes, schools and commercial building in the Shelby area. J.T. and Mary are active members of the Elizabeth Baptist Church in Cleveland County.

Harry Manning was employed by the Biltmore Dairy Company in the maintenance department at Asheville, North Carolina. He is also a Baptist Minister serving as pastor to several churches in the Asheville Area.

William Allen was employed by the U.S. Department of Agriculture in Washington, D.C. as a finance officer. After leaving Washington, Bill and his son Bruce operated a television repair shop for several years in Asheville, North Carolina. During World War II Bill enlisted in the Marine Corps and served with the Second Marine Division in the South Pacific and on occupation duty in Nagasaki and Sasebo Japan. He was authorized to wear the following ribbons and medals; Sharp Shooter, World War Two Victory, Asiatic-Pacific Area and the Presidential Unit Citation.

Helen Louise makes her home in Asheville, North Carolina, where she assists her husband Ruel in the operation of their sign company.

Nancy Varee also made her home in Asheville, North Carolina where her husband Harvey was self-employed as a pipe fitter.

Arpie Ezelle lives in Newport News, Virginia, and is employed by the Newport News Shipbuilding Company. Her husband Jack is employed with another company as a machinist.

Joanna Etta died November 8, 1962 at the homeplace near the fairgrounds in Shelby. James Abner died January 26, 1965 at the Brentwood Rehabilitation Center in Asheville, North Carolina. They both are buried in the Elizabeth Baptist Church Cemetery, Shelby, North Carolina. This is in memoriam to them, may they rest in peace.

Sources: Family Bible marriage bond; military records; discussion with family members; personal knowledge of preparer

— William Allen Dycus

WILLIS ELIJAH and NANCY JANE (MCMURRAY) DYCUS FAMILY

406

Willis Elijah Dycus was born April 13, 1852 in Rutherford County, North Carolina. He was one of five children of Abner Greene and Susannah (Digh) Dycus. He married Nancy Jane (McMurray) about 1876 in Rutherford or Cleveland County. She was one of three known children of James W. and Susan (Hughes) McMurray. They owned and farmed land in both Rutherford and Cleveland Counties. Their church affiliation was Baptist. Willis Elijah had no known military record.

Willis and Nancy had eight surviving children, all born in Cleveland County. (1) Charles Baxter, born December 15, 1878, married Elizabeth (Whitaker) and they had no children. Charles died January 30, 1960 in Cleveland County. (2) Susan Marie (Mayes), born February 4, 1881 married Richard Mayes and had four children; Lillian, Pearl and Robert. Susan died September 21, 1917 in North Carolina. (3) James Abner, born April 24, 1882, married Joanna Etta (Allen) and had eight children; Adam Glenn, James Hoyt, Jesse Thomas, Harry Manning, William Allen, Helen Louise, Nancy Varee and Arpie Ezelle. James died January 26, 1965 in Buncombe County. (4) John Robert, born August 2, 1883, married Cora (Hancock) and had five children; Thelma Lee, Mary Elizabeth, Gaither Boyd, Charles Robert and Nancy Ann. John died June 14, 1971 in Sanford, North Carolina. (5) Noah, born June 14, 1885, married Minnie (last name unknown) and had four children; Homer, Lucille, Robert and Mildred. Noah died October 1, 1956 in Arkansas. (6) Julius E., born September 19, 1888 married Mary Etta (Hullender) and had eight children; Mavis, Gary Leroy, Aline, Elsie, Reba, Nancy Elizabeth, Herman and Ervin Lewis. Julius died July 14, 1971 in Hamlet, North Carolina. (7) Jesse Gilford, born November 19, 1889, married Irene (Francis) and had six children; Fannie Loraine, Nancy Frances, Jesse Burl, Donald Hubert, Rachel Irene and David Arnold. Jesse died October 14, 1951 in Columbia, South Carolina. (8) William Elijah, born November 22, 1895, married Lillie (Allen) and had five children; Virginia Blake, Robert Willis, Thomas Hord, Patsy Rena and Joe Henry. William died March 3, 1952 in Cleveland County.

Willis Elijah and Nancy Jane Dycus Family: Front row L to R: Nancy Jane, William and Willie Elijah. Middle row L to R: Julius and Jesse. Back row L to R: Noah, James, John, Charles and Susan. Picture taken about 1898 in Cleveland County

Sources: Family Bible, discussion and correspondence with members of the family and from personal knowledge of the preparer, William Allen Dycus.

— William Allen Dycus

JOHN BORDERS EARL

407

John Borders Earl, second son of Abel and Mary Earl, was born August 15, 1847. He was a private in Company "D", 2nd Junior Reserves. Returning home from the war and finding the country disrupted and all of the servants free, he decided to move west after an altercation with one of the colored hands. Traveling through Georgia he settled in Cullman County, Alabama in 1869. Buying land he also traded a shotgun for forty acres of land and later a milk cow was traded for another forty acres.

In 1869, he married Elizabeth Burgess, daughter of Smith and Sallie Burgess. Elizabeth was born on December 7, 1844. John Borders and Elizabeth built a home on the land he had purchased. The house was much like the one his father had built in North Carolina. It is still standing in Holly Pond, Alabama. Also like his father, when the community needed a Church he gave the land for it. He was also a deacon of the Church.

Being industrious like his forefathers, he was a farmer and also had a large avery. John Borders did not believe in banks so the story is told that he kept his money in a box which looked like and indeed served as a step inside the smokehouse.

In his declining years he had a habit of talking out loud to himself. Family history has it that two robbers hid in the house planning on robbing him, but when he came into the house talking to himself they thought someone was with him and ran away. To the union of John Borders and Elizabeth Earl was born two daughters and two sons.

Mary Earl was born July 29, 1871. She married Benjamin F. Chambers who was born May 28, 1864. He died July 20, 1945. They had one son, B.F. Chambers, Jr. born on March 29, 1912. He died February 8, 1932 and all are buried in Blountsville, Alabama.

John Borders Earl Home.

Alice Earl was born July 20, 1874. She married William Jackson Wright on January 2, 1894. He was born January 13, 1865, the son of Joseph and Susan Griffin Wright. Alice inherited her father's farm at his death. Alice died September 30, 1960 and William died on June 8, 1943. To this union were born eight children. Pearl was born December 30, 1894 and died March 12, 1982. Grover David born September 13, 1898 married Pearl Simmons. Wriitha A. was born March 27, 1900 and she married Elbert Key. Lanie Susan was born March 17, 1903. She never married and resides in the family homeplace. Joseph Abel was born April 4, 1907. He married Winoni Bussy. Hamilton Borders was born December 3, 1910 and married Minnie L. McAlpin. Euriah was born October 21, 1913. He married a girl named Sherrie. Zebiah F. was born on July 5, 1916 and married Hubert Smith.

Eursie Abel Earl born January 6, 1875 married Fannie Josephine Persall on December 18, 1892. Fannie was born in 1872. To this union were born ten children. Vera was born September 25, 1893 and she married Edward Garrison and they had four children. James was born September 28, 1895. He married Elmiere Mitchell and they had six children. Viola was born January 6, 1898. She married Chester King and they had two children. Lilar Earl was born March 10, 1900. She married Grady Canady and they had two children. Almer and Elmir were born on June 15, 1902. Almer married Katherine Smith and they had two children. Elmir married Curtis Mitchell and they had five children. Desirma was born November 6, 1904 and married Persion Haynes. They had seven children. Attis was born May 5, 1907. He married Beulah Jones and they had three children. Flora was born February 15, 1911 and she married William Hays and they had four children. Velva was born October 24, 1913 and married Luther Dover. They had three children.

Eursie died in 1951 and Fannie died January 25, 1944. Both are buried in Holly Pond, Alabama.

William Jacob Earl was born January 31, 1883. He married Mary Angeline Augustus McGinnis on November 11, 1901. They had three children.

John Borders Earl died July 7, 1925, and is buried in a family cemetery along with his wife, Elizabeth, in Holly Pond, Alabama.

— Victor L. Raimey

WILLIAM DAVIS EARL

408

William Davis Earl, the youngest son of Abel and Mary was born August 12, 1863 and died August 22, 1952. His first wife and mother of his children was Nancy Demmy Francis. She was born September 1863 and died July 15, 1905. William and Nancy were married April 15, 1883. Nancy was the daughter of John and Susan Arnold Francis.

William and Nancy had three sons and a daughter. John Abel Earl was born December 5, 1885 and died February 25, 1971. He married Clyde Runyan on January 8, 1905. She was the daughter of Joseph M. and Alice Fulton Runyan. Clyde was born April 5, 1883 and died August 10, 1965. Both are buried at New Hope. Unto this union were born: J.B. Earl born July 30, 1905 and died June 1, 1979. He never married. Josephine Earl born October 7, 1909. On September 27, 1956 she married Fred W. Reid who was born April 1, 1907. They have no children and reside in Earl, North Carolina. Hundley Gale Earl born November 22, 1919 and died on December 8, 1971. On October 26, 1946 he married Ruth Ramsey who was born September 9, 1924. Their children are Billy Joe born on August 7, 1951 and married on August 10, 1974 to Cathy Kendrick born December 11, 1954. They have one child, Ashley Kendrick born August 26, 1981. Barbara Gail was born April 28, 1948 and married on April 25, 1971 to Bill Gettys who was born April 11, 1951.

Jacob Quinn Earl was born August 25, 1889 and died on December 18, 1975. On June 25, 1913 he married Virginia Rebecca Patterson, daughter of Hayne and Mary Hardin Patterson. Virginia was born August 14, 1892 and died October 25, 1977. Both are buried in New Hope Cemetery. Their issues are Mary Gladys born December 29, 1915. On November 18, 1950 she married Raymond C. Robinson, Jr. He was born on April 15, 1912. They have no children. Mildred Patterson Earl born March 3, 1919 married George Solansky on December 26, 1947. George was born April 19, 1917. Their children are Rebecca Lee born November 4, 1949. She married on April 24, 1970 to Gary William Lewis; he was born May 8, 1972. They have three children; Dawn Michelle born May 8, 1972, Melanie Anne born August 31, 1978, and Gary William Jr. born September 18, 1979. George A. Solansky Jr. born August 21, 1951. His twin brother died just after birth. Stephen Quinn Solansky was born August 17, 1953 and Virginia Elizabeth was born May 25, 1958. Evelyn Lucille Earl was born February 9, 1927. On August 16, 1947 she married Earl B. Horner, Jr. He was born January 25, 1926. They have two children: Mary Michelle born April 23, 1952 and married on June 7, 1975 to John McNeill Holmes, Jr. He was born June 2, 1951. Their children are: Lauren Michelle born August 6, 1979 and Leslie McNeill born November 23, 1981. The other child Earl Baynes Horner, III was born October 13, 1954. He died January 19, 1959.

On November 21, 1892 twins were born to William and Nancy Earl. One died at birth, the other, Ira Roe, died December 1, 1896.

Thelma May Earl, the youngest and only surviving child of William and Nancy was born May 13, 1898. Thelma has never married but continued her education at Boiling Springs, Lenoir Rhyne and the State College for Women at Milledgeville, Georgia. After completion of her formal training Thelma became a school-teacher. Her first school was in Catawba County, North Carolina at the Clermont School where she taught for sixteen years. From there she spent five years at Hickory and the next twenty-four years were spent at Patterson Springs and Earl, North Carolina. Since her retirement in 1965 Thelma has lived in the ancestral home in Earl keeping active in the community and holding the position of City Clerk and Treasurer since 1971.

William having inherited his father's farm continued the family tradition of farming, but also he was a merchant and the first Postmaster of Earl in 1888 and again in 1893. Family history tells us that he purchased a Model T in 1925 which he drove until he was 85 years of age. The State refused to renew his license due to his age so he sold the car for the same price that he had paid for it back in 1925.

William Davis remarried on July 29, 1908 to Myra Fulton. Myra was born August 11, 1871 and died March 4, 1963. William, Nancy and Myra are buried in the New Hope Cemetery in Earl, North Carolina.

— Victor L. Raimey

WILLIAM JACOB EARL

409

William was born January 31, 1883. On November 11, 1901 he married Mary Angeline Augustus McGinnis, daughter of George Washington and Joanna O'Kelley McGinnis. Mary was born on August 8, 1881. Having been married in Alabama and following in the footsteps of his ancestors he was a farmer and a carpenter. Leaving Alabama in 1912 and moving to Georgia, he sent his wife and two children along with all the household and farming tools by train to Georgia. He himself rode his horse and drove all his livestock to where he settled in Forsyth County, Georgia.

He then built a house on the same style as his father and grandfather before. He sold his farm in 1918 and moved to Gwinnett County, Georgia. He died on February 23, 1920. Angie lived with various children until her death on June 11, 1964. Both are buried in Hog Mountain Cemetery, Gwinnett County, Georgia.

Their children are Clifford Walter Earl born January 15, 1903. On January 18, he married Beatrice Hanna, daughter of William R. and Nora Maddox Hanna. Beatrice was born October 30, 1903. Their children are William Elbert Earl born October 15, 1920. He married Montine Marshal and they have two children. Elbert died August 18, 1977. Wennell Earl was born September 12, 1923 and lives at home. Clifford Buman born April 1, 1930 married Dorothy Whigby and they have five children.

Eizie Eula Earl was born October 1, 1904. On March 1, 1925 she married Clarence Olin Raimey, who was born April 17, 1907. He was the son of George Washington and Ida Roxitine Maddox Raimey. Their children are Quintine Clarence born December 14, 1925. On September 3, 1947 he married Sarah Bates who was born May 12, 1928. They have one son, Larry, born June 27, 1948.

Lola Grace Raimey was born September 21, 1927. On April 20, 1944 she married Eurskin Clustus Mobley, who was born May 20, 1921. Their children are Joanna born November 28, 1946; Sammy Ray born September 10, 1948; Loretta Marie born November 13, 1954. Grace died May 12, 1974 and was buried at Aplachee Church in Barrow County, Georgia.

Betty Lou Raimey was born April 27, 1931 and on August 19, 1950 she married Willie Gordon Branham. He was born February 24, 1927. Their children are Mary Helen born December 5, 1951; Willie Gordon Jr. born August 1, 1955; and Donald Fred born October 31, 1958.

Victor Lewis Raimey was born October 5, 1936 and on December 5, 1959 he married Norma Gail Lowery, born November 5, 1940. She was the daughter of Carl Truit and Evelyn Glanton Lowery. Their children are Christopher Earl born August 7, 1961, and on October 6, 1979 he married Mitzi Summers who was born October 18, 1961. They have two sons Christopher Earl Jr. born December 5, William Jacob and Mary Angeline Augustus (Angie) Earl.

1980 and Bradley Franklin born April 14, 1981. Melanie Diane Raimey was born February 21, 1963 and has a son Philip Ashley born June 11, 1981. Cecelia Lane Raimey was born January 26, 1967. Clarence Raimey died December 17, 1963 and is buried at Aplachee Baptist Church, Barrow Co., Ga.

J.C. Earl was born May 31, 1913 and on October 4, 1931 he married Georgia Devera Brown, the daughter of Charles and Della Allredge Brown. Vera was born July 19, 1917.

Their twelve children are J.C. Earl, Jr. born and died May 29, 1932.

Rev. L.B. Earl born May 29, 1932 and on August 30, 1952 he married Pauline Pate and they have six children.

Angie Irene was born June 2, 1936 and on May 29, 1954 married Gene E. Smith, who was born August 1, 1935. They have two children.

Agnes Estelle was born December 31, 1937 and on December 29, 1956 she married Bernard Smith, born July 16, 1931 and they have two children.

Douglas Gary was born November 3, 1939 and on October 8, 1976 he married Margerett Denny. They have no children.

Royce Clifford Earl born September 16, 1941 married Annie Jo Adams, daughter of Iva and Eula Adams. Annie was born April 14, 1943. They have four children.

Floyce Beatrice born September 16, 1941 was married on February 16, 1957 to Robert Gene Wood, who was born January 10, 1937. They have three children.

Lenora was born April 11, 1943 and on March 7, 1959 she married Kenneth Little. They have three children.

Brenda Sue was born March 25, 1945 and married James H. Shoemaker born October 7, 1960. They have three children.

Willie Charles born March 23, 1947 and on July 22, 1965 he married Scherry Nesmith born January 31, 1949.

Vivian Elaine was born February 18, 1949 and married on August 28, 1965 Gary McRae born September 9, 1947. They have four children.

Dora Lynette was born March 16, 1951 and on March 14, 1970 married Earl Young born on June 11, 1948. They have two children.

— Victor L. Raimey

ABEL EARLE

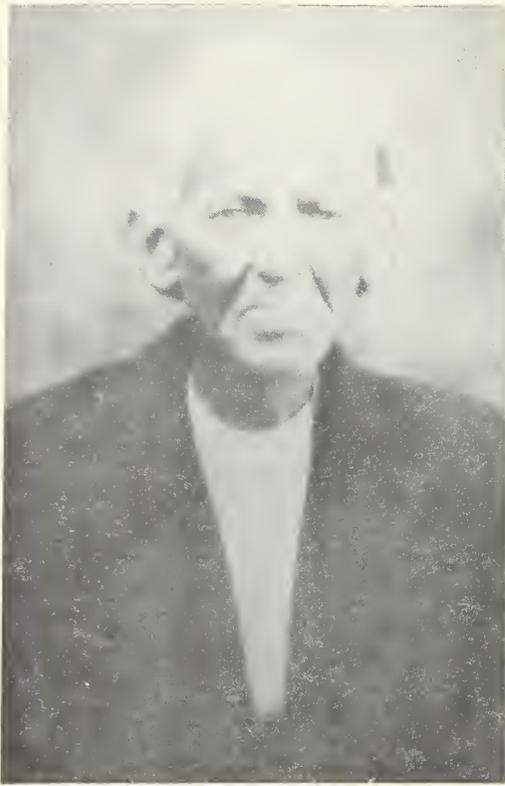

410

Abel, son of Zachariah and Jemima Earle, was born on November 5, 1817. He was appointed Ensign in the 10th Regiment of the North Carolina Militia on May 18, 1840.

On December 10, 1840 he married Mary (Polly) Sepaugh; the daughter of Jacob and Elizabeth Howser Sepaugh and granddaughter of Henry and Jane Heffner Howser. Having previously purchased his father's farm he carried on the family tradition of buying and selling land and farming.

On November 27, 1853 Abel started building a new home as per a bill of material listing made by him on that date. The house still stands today in the town named for him and his forebears, Earl, North Carolina. To supplement his income in the years before the Civil War, Abel is found in the tax records as paying taxes to the Confederate Government while running a distillery. On September 12, 1865; Abel, as most Southerners did, signed an oath of allegiance to the United States.

In 1872 the community needed a church for their meetings instead of the brush arbor which they had been using. Since there were now 56 members they decided to build a church. Abel Earle gave the land; five acres for the church and cemetery and Jacob W. Gibbons gave the spring. Abel was also a deacon for the church and was also on the early school committee from its founding until his declining years.

Mary (Polly) Sepaugh and Abel Earl.

He also had a surveyor layout part of his land into a town and began selling lots. The town, Earl, North Carolina was incorporated in 1881. When the Southern Railroad began laying tracks linking Rock Hill, South Carolina and Marion, North Carolina, Abel gave the land on which the train station was built.

Abel and Mary raised a family of one daughter and three sons. Mary was born and died on May 17, 1844 and buried in the Adams Cemetery.

Jacob Sepaugh was born December 2, 1841. He was a private in the 34th North Carolina Volunteers, Company "F". During the Civil War he married Mary Ann Little of Blacksburg, South Carolina. After the war, Jacob came home to pursue his career as a school-teacher. He taught in Earl, Cleveland County, North Carolina. Jacob Earl died on April 7, 1897 and Mary died on November 5, 1917. They are both buried in Berea Cemetery, Blacksburg, South Carolina. Jacob and Mary had no children.

John Borders Earl, second son of Abel and Mary was born August 15, 1847. He married Elizabeth Burgess of Cullman County, Alabama in 1869.

William Davis Earl, youngest son of Abel and Mary was born August 12, 1863. On April 15, 1883 he married Nancy Demmy Francis.

Abel Earl died November 7, 1889 and his wife Mary died July 9, 1909. Both are buried in New Hope Cemetery, Earl, North Carolina.

— Victor L. Raimey

WILLIAM EARLE AND HIS DESCENDANTS

411

Family tradition has it that three brothers came from England; one settling in South Carolina, one in Georgia, and the other, William Earle, in North Carolina. The first evidence of William Earle in North Carolina is his marriage to Mary Webb in Chowan County, North Carolina on September 9, 1779. Records show that he posted 2500 shillings as bond for his license. Mary is thought to be the daughter of Zachariah Webb.

William entered the Revolutionary War and served as Captain of the First North Carolina Regiment in 1780 and 1781 under Colonel Jarvis as shown in the state payroll records, page 1059. Tradition has it that he fought at the Battle of Kings Mountain in South Carolina.

The first U.S. Census shows a William Earle and wife, Mary, living in Edenton District, Tyrrell County, North Carolina owning ten slaves. Family records show that he moved into Lincoln, now Cleveland County, North Carolina looking for better lands.

In 1799 land documents show William Earle owning land on Buffalo Creek adjoining lands of Abednigo Adams and Abraham Collins. There he built a log home for his family, which still stands today. As family tradition has it, William was a tobacco planter and on January 13, 1802 he bought 100 acres of land on Buffalo Creek from Abraham Collins for which he paid for it with twelve hundred pounds of good tobacco. On April 17, 1810 William purchased from the state of North Carolina ninety-one acres for fifty shillings. Records of deeds at the statehouse show that on January 17, 1817 he sold 191 acres of land with improvements to his son, Zachariah Earle, for the sum of two hundred dollars.

William Earle's gravemarker shows he died on May 23, 1826. He and his wife, Mary, are buried in the Adams Cemetery, Earl, Cleveland County, North Carolina. The exact date of Mary's death is not known.

— Victor L. Raimey

The son of William and Mary Earle was born on February 5, 1793. In 1814 he married Jemima Hardin. Jemima was born about 1784. A deed recorded in Rutherford County, North Carolina on November 16, 1814 shows Zachariah purchased 33 acres of land located on Borens River from James Lindsey for seventeen dollars. In 1817 he purchased his father's farm in Lincoln County, North Carolina. Increasing the land holdings further, he purchased 100 acres with a mill and other improvements located on Camps Mill Creek on October 28, 1839 for $117.00. On November 8, 1844 he purchased 30 acres of land from Abedinego Adams for seventy dollars.

To Zachariah and Jemima were born five children. Irena Earle was born 1815. No record is found of her ever marrying, but we know that she had a son, John, born in 1840. He died in the Confederate War and is buried in the Adams Cemetery, Cleveland County, North Carolina. His Epitath reads: "Born March, 1840, JOHN EARLE, who died in service of his country at Goldsboro, North Carolina on June 18, 1862, aged 22 years, 2 months, 22 days. He was a member of the 49th Regimental Co., Goldsboro, North Carolina Volunteers. He died of disease. He was the son of Irena Earls and was raised by his mother and grandfather. He was strictly moral, dutiful, upright and obedient to his parents. He was loved by all who knew him. He heard his country's bleeding call, nor did she call in vain. He put his armour on and went her honor to sustain. But sickness with its heavy hand upon him did lay hold, the fever burned like scorching sand till death released his soul." Her other son, Columbus, was born in 1854. She and Columbus went West to Arkansas in 1872 joining her sister and brother-in-law, Leitha and Larkin Howell, in Yell County, Arkansas.

Abel Earle was born November 5, 1817. He married Mary Sepaugh on December 10, 1840.

Tridora Earle was born in 1820. She married Jacob Etters. Little is known of them except they had three children. Lydia, Elizco and E.L. Etters.

Leitha Earle was born in 1822. She married Larkin Howell. To this union were born two children; Sarah E. was born and died in 1855. She was buried in Antioch Church Cemetery, Blacksburg, So. Carolina. Thomas Jefferson, their only son went West with his parents traveling by covered wagon and settling in Yell County, Arkansas.

Elizabeth Earle was born March 9, 1824. She married William Dixon, a blacksmith. To this union were born Amanda, George C., William and W.N. Dixon. William Dixon's gravemarker shows he was born June 3, 1824 and died August 22, 1879. Both are buried in the Adams Cemetery, Earl, North Carolina.

On August 17, 1842 Zachariah Earle sold his farm to his son, Abel. Zachariah bought a farm in No. 4 Township, Cleveland County, North Carolina on Long Branch Creek in 1856. In 1857 increasing his land holdings he added 203 acres, as shown on deed records. On April 23, 1857 Deed No. 485 from the State of North Carolina shows he purchased 26 acres for $3.25.

Zachariah and Jemima were charter members of the Bethel Baptist Church and both died of typhoid fever within a couple of months of each other. They are the last of the Earles to be buried in the Adams Cemetery. Their Epitaths read; "ZACKERY EARL: A consistent member of the Baptist Church 56 years and a Deacon of same 27 years who died April 30, 1869 aged 76 years 2 months and 25 days." "JEMIMA EARL: Consort of Zackery Earl and a consistent member of the Baptist Church 60 years. She died February 28, 1869 in the 85th year of her age." "FAREWELL MY FRIENDS AND CHILDREN ALL, I LEAVE YOUR ABODE TO OBEY THE CALL OF HIM WHO GAVE MY BEING FIRST."

— Victor L. Raimey

DR. ANDERSON SAMUEL ELAM

413

Anderson S. Elam (1792-1878) came from Virginia about 1820, bought land and settled on Maple Creek in what is now upper Cleveland County. Here he farmed and practiced medicine until he died, except for the time he served in the Mexican War. He was Irish extraction, and, if a family legend is true, his father, Edward Elam, Jr., was a drummer boy with Cornwallis.

Anderson was born October 28, 1792, near Chase City, Virginia. He married Letisha Weatherford, also of Virginia, on February 7, 1814. Sometime after the birth of two boys, Francis and Thomas J., Anderson and "Letty" hitched up the wagon, packed their belongings, bundled up their babies, and headed for North Carolina. Among their possessions were the family cow and their Bible which has a hole made by an Indian bullet in its kidskin cover. This Bible is well preserved and is owned by Ernest Gardner, a great grandson.

It is not known where or how Anderson acquired his knowledge of medicine or when he began practice. Another family legend is that "Letty" was a great help to her doctor husband because of her Indian heritage and the knowledge of the medicinal value of herbs. Also, it is said that he manufactured his own whiskey for use in his sometimes potent medicines.

The family was Baptist and Anderson was active in church work, first as a deacon in Zion Baptist Church and later in New Bethel Baptist Church when it was organized in 1848. Anderson, "Letty," a son, William T. and his wife, Cornelia Royster, were charter members of the new church.

Anderson and "Letty" were parents of eleven children, seven boys and four girls. Of the two born in Virginia, we have no record of where they lived, married or died.

William T. and Cornelia emigrated to Yellville, Arkansas, where he became a large landowner and the father of several children. One of them, George Francis Elam, became a successful doctor.

Silas S. was for a time in South Carolina, then he moved to Charlotte, North Carolina, where in 1890 he operated a tailor shop in the "Democrat Building."

George A. married Mary Ford. He fought in the Civil War. He was killed in the Battle of Gaines Mill in Virginia. A short time after his death, a child, George, Jr., was born. It is told that mothers brought their babies to kiss baby George believing it would bring good luck to their child to kiss a baby born after his father's death.

Philip Ramseur married Mary Barber. He was ordained as a Baptist minister serving New Bethel and other churches. He was actively engaged in the work of the Kings Mountain Baptist Association.

Samuel left his home to join the Gold Rush in 1849. Because of unlucky experiences, he returned home to marry Martha Jane McCall, also of Cleveland County.

The four daughters of Anderson and "Letty" remained near the homeplace. Elizabeth never married. She died when she was only nineteen and was buried on the home grounds. Later her body was moved to the cemetery at New Bethel and hers is the first grave there.

Sophia Jane married first a Lattimore, and after his death while fighting in the Civil War, she married Charles Gold.

Nancy's young husband, Lawson Greenhill, was also killed during the Civil War. There is mention that she married a Mr. Houser.

The youngest daughter, Sarah Dobbins, married Rufus Garner and lived south of Fallston, North Carolina.

Descendants of the old country doctor, Anderson Samuel Elam and Letisha Weatherford Elam are now scattered far and wide. Each generation has produced not only preachers and doctors, but nurses, attorneys, religious workers, businessmen and women, scientists, and craftsmen — all proud of their Elam heritage.

Sources: Family Bible; Census Records; Church Records; Court Records (Deeds).

— Bryte Elam Lane

CARME NELSON ELAM FAMILY

414

Carme Nelson Elam (1896-1980) was born near Belwood, Cleveland County, North Carolina. He was the fourth of five children born to Frank Elam (1867-1949) and Sarah Katherine Wray Elam (1862-1958). — See Article on Samuel Weatherford Elam (1826-1907).

Carme grew up at his birthplace, on the family farm, which was a part of the Samuel Weatherford Elam property, near Maple Creek, and attended Piedmont School, Lawndale. He served in the United States Army from 1918 to 1919 attaining the rank of Sergeant. He married Ruth Ethelda Caldwell (1898-1967) on April 17, 1919. They bought a farm and built a house about three-fourth mile north of the Elam homeplace.

Carme was an energetic man, always looking for new and better ways to farm and provide for his family. His keen interest in New Bethel Baptist Church provided him opportunity to serve as Deacon, Sunday School teacher and in other roles of leadership. He was active in and employed by a variety of farm programs and organizations through the County Agricultural Agent, Farm Home Administration, Extension Department of State College, the state Grange and others. Carme pioneered in senior citizen activities in upper Cleveland County.

Ruth, his wife, was a beautiful mild mannered woman who loved God and her family, and her life showed it. When discipline of her offspring was called for, she knew how to handle that too. Ruth admired and loved her husband and supported him in his "head of the house" role. Ruth and Carme reared a family of six children, four girls and two boys.

Abel Earle's home built 1853. Front of fence, L to R: Jacob Quinn, John Abel. Back of fence, L to R: William Davis, Nancy Francis, Mary Sepaugh.

William Augustus (Bill) Elam (1920-) was more interested in the world of business than farming, and set out on his own in 1939. Bill married his childhood sweetheart Mary Elizabeth Sain, and they live in Charlotte. Their children are Melba, married Jerry D. Hall; Joel, married Betty Stringer, and Nelson married Sharon Stanback.

At this writing (1982) Melba lives in Gastonia, has two daughters, Carmen and Christine. Joel lives in Raleigh, has one son, Cary, and a daughter, Brittany. Nelson lives in Charlotte and has no children.

Katherine Elizabeth (1922-) is an accomplished piano teacher and devoted mother. She married Vinson Washburn and lives in Shelby. They have children: James William (adopted), married to Sandra Webster, Vinson, Jr., Sarah Glenn, Garry and Christopher (Chris). At this writing (1982) James William lives in Albuquerque, New Mexico, and has two sons, Jeremiah and Brandon.

James Durham (Jim) Elam (1924-) farmed with his father for some years and has been with Fiber Industries about 18 years. Jim married Marilue Roberts of Shelby. They raised five children, three boys and two girls, at their home on the Lawndale-Belwood Road. Their children are: Rachael, living in Jacksonville, N.C., Douglas (Doug), living in Shelby, Allison, William (Bill) and Mark living at home.

Sarah Lenoir (1926-) is loved and respected in her home town of Clemmons, N.C., as a kindergarten director, wife and mother. Sarah married Dorman Williams, who grew up in Fallston. They have one son, Dixon, a medical doctor practicing in Pulaski, Virginia. Dixon's wife is the former Julie McCollum. Dixon and Julie have two daughters, Jill and Lee.

Nancy Marion (1930-), a multi-talented lady, wife and mother lives in Shelby with her husband, Oliver Stanhope Anthony, Jr. They have two children: Elizabeth (Beth) living in Charlotte with her husband, Jim Gantt III and their two daughters, Laura and Hope. Oliver Stanhope III (Stan) is an architect and lives in Atlanta.

Eleanor Ann (1941-), a loving mother, wife and retail store salesperson, married Frank Cloyd, Jr., a native of Charlotte. They now live in Shelby with their two sons, Ray and Todd and daughter, Amy.

In 1968 Carme married Cleo Withrow (1902-) a retired dietician and teacher, holding a Masters degree from Columbia University in New York. Carme and Cleo had twelve happy years together. During those years Cleo earned the love and respect of the family and the community. She now lives at the home-place.

Sources: Personal knowledge.

— William A. Elam

REVEREND PHILIP RAMSEUR ELAM

415

The Reverend Philip Ramseur Elam was born March 12, 1833 near Fallston, N.C. The son of Dr. Anderson Samuel Elam and Letisha (Letty) Weatherford Elam both born in the Mecklenburg, Charlotte County area of South Central Virginia.

Philip Elam's early life is unknown to this writer, however, it is well known he grew up within a good christian environment provided by God-fearing parents. His education consisted of that available in the area, plus some time at Rutherford College and perhaps under Dr. John Broadus at Furman University.

Early in life, in the late 1840's, he dedicated his life to the ministry and started preparing himself to that end. In the 1850 census he was listed with the Josiah H. Durham household where he was following a course of study under Reverend Durham, a well trained and respected minister of that day.

He was ordained to the ministry on September 15, 1854 at New Bethel Baptist Church. He and his family were influential in the organization of the New Bethel Baptist Church. Reverend Philip Elam's name and influence can be seen in the minutes of this church until 1866. During these years he worked tirelessly for the establishment of Sunday school in churches. He was a delegate from New Bethel Baptist Church to the Kings Mountain Baptist Association in 1855, 56, 57, 58, 59 and 60. He was also very active in the Kings Mountain Baptist Association and preached the Annual Associational Sermon to this body in 1866 at the age of 33 years.

From 1861, to 1865 Philip Elam's life was interrupted by the Civil War when he joined in the recruitment of men and was present at the fall of Fort Sumter at the very beginning of the war. He then enlisted in Col. Conley's 55th N.C. Regiment and received the rank of Lieutenant.

He was active in most of the major battles of General Lee's armies of Northern Virginia. Lieutenant Philip Elam fell wounded in the front lines on the third day at Gettysburg, was picked up by the enemy and imprisoned at Johnsons Island, a Union Prison in Ohio for nine months. He was later released on a prisoner exchange. He fell the second time in the front lines at Petersburg, defending Richmond, on August 5, 1864. Then temporarily disabled, he resigned his commission February, 1865. A copy of his letter of resignation is a part of this record.

At about 36 years of age he married Mary Barber Crawford, a young war widow with one small son, John Thomas Crawford. To this union were born Alice Elam, Charles Spurgeon Elam, William Broadus Elam, James Boyce Elam, and Richard Fuller Elam.

It is quite evident that Reverend Philip Elam promised his maker many times that if his life was spared, he would never forsake the calling and he did not. Even though he operated a 400 acre farm near Kings Mountain, he was very active as pastor of a number of churches including Bethlehem church for 22 years.

His name and works appears many times in the minutes of the Kings Mountain Baptist Association and also as a member of the Presbytery in the organization of many Baptist churches and was in some cases the first pastor. This was true in the chartering of the First Baptist Church of Gastonia, N.C. which he pastored on two separate occasions. Recently a grand piano was placed in the sanctuary of this church in his honor, by his grandsons.

Philip Elam was a student, had a good library which was housed in a single building some distance from the home known as the "Study." In addition to theological books, there were books on agriculture, agriculture year books and books on geology. He was a self educated geologist or mineralogist.

Because of impaired health, he was forced to reduce his ministry in later years. During warm months of the year he engaged in mineral prospecting.

On February 24, 1901, he died and is buried in Bethlehem Cemetery.

"Fervent in prayer, consecrated in life, sym-

Dr. Anderson Samuel Elam, 1792-1818

Reverend Philip Ramseur Elam, 1833-1901

Camp Cooks Brigade Va
Feb. the 27th 1865
Hon. W.B. Bechenidge

Sir I have the honor to ask you to accept my resignation as 2nd Lieut.
Company C 55th Regiment N.C. Troops and allow me to officiate as clergyman. I am a regular ordained Minister had the charge of Churches at the Commencement of the war and Resigned as pastor and came in the Army. My Churches are still without pastors and they insist that I should leave the Army and preach for them I have also been appointed a missionary to Johnsons brigade of this Army there are other Regiments that want me as their Chaplain
I conscientiously believe it to be my duty to turn my attention to Religious duties and ask your serious attention to my petition

I have been twice wounded and my left arm is still weak and numb

I am Respectfully

Your Obedt. Servt-

P. R. Elam 2nd Lieut
Co C 55th N.C. Regt

A Civil War letter from Lt. P. R. Elam, C.S.A. See sketch 415 for details.

pathetic in council, friend of the friendless, the sorrowing, the poor, and the rich, he went about doing good."

Sources: Various public records, family records, quoted Baptist associational minutes, and family recollections.

— Philip R. Elam, II

PHILIP RAMSEUR ELAM II

416

Philip Ramsuer Elam II was born to Richard Fuller and Sarah Roberts Elam on May 10, 1914, near Kings Mountain, N.C.

In the early 1920's, when young Philip was of preschool age, he got lost at the Gaston County Fair, was recovered by a policeman and taken to the tower or central office and given a big striped stick of candy. He was asked two questions: Who's boy are you?, Where do you live? He politely answered, "I'm papa's boy . . . I live in a house." He says until this day he is still evading some questions.

Philip Elam II lived with his parents and family 2½ miles west of Kings Mountain on their family farm, with the exception of six years. His father built a home in Kings Mountain to get his family close to the City School and its advantages. He attended grade school and high school there, graduating in 1931. While in high school, with the help of Miss Daphne Doster and a Kings Mountain Civic Club, he organized the High School Band. Being a charter member, he was given the use of the bass horn, supplied by the Civic Club. His horn and training enabled him to be a member of the Red Coat Band at N.C. State College, where he received many advantages by his participation.

In 1938, Philip Elam graduated from N.C. State College with some distinction. He was president of the class in his division of the Agricultural School, was a member of the N.C. State Judging Team and was a member of four college fraternities, all free and won through scholastic achievement.

After graduation, he was employed by the N.C. State College Extension Service and sent as County Agent to Madison County, Marshall, N.C. He contends his greatest accomplishment in this position was to organize the French Broad Electric Membership Corporation, which now furnishes electric power to thousands of families in approximately 10 counties in N.C. and Tennessee.

In 1940 Philip Elam married Miss Julia English Roberts of Marshall, N.C. and to that union three children were born:

Julia Anne Elam, assistant school principal, Winston-Salem, N.C.

Janis Lucile Elam, married Dr. Eric Blackwell, West Texas Medical School, Lubbock, Texas. They have two sons, and one daughter: David Elam, Jonathan Eric and Janis Elizabeth Blackwell.

Philip Ramseur Elam III, NCR Corporation, Dayton, Ohio.

Philip Elam II, from 1947 until 1963, owned and operated P. R. Elam Farm Supply Company, Marshall, N.C. He then, after disposing of this business, became a licensed real estate broker and for several years was in real estate and land development. To his credit, in this endeavor, were three developments in Western, N.C.; The Glenn Cannon Golf Course and development, Brevard, N.C., The Crooked Creek Golf Course and Development on the Frank Sherril Farm in Hendersonville, N.C. and the Bald Mountain Development's Wolf Laurel Golf Course, ski slope, where he worked as general developer for several years.

At age 54, Philip Elam then went to Asheville to become Executive Director of the Business and Industry Department of the Asheville Area Chamber of Commerce. He intended to stay three months, but has now stayed 14 years. During his stay with the Asheville Chamber, he has been responsible, many times almost single handedly, for the increase in tax base of hundreds of millions of dollars in new investments. This resulted in thousands of new jobs for the area.

Presently Philip Elam is a member of the N.C. Industrial Development Association, The Southern Industrial Developers Association, a member of the Governor's Industrial Council, and a member of the Board of Directors of the Tennessee River Valley Association. He was appointed by the Board of Directors of the Tennessee Valley Authority to represent N.C.

Phillip Ramseur Elam, III.

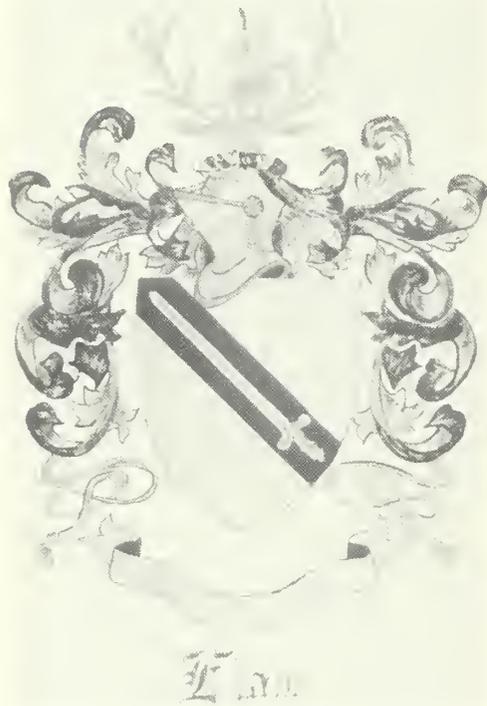

on their twelve person Industrial Council. He is presently 68 years of age and resides with his wife in Mars Hill, N.C.

He is a Baptist, supports his church, and for over forty years has served as a deacon. He is a devoted Civitan, is an immediate past President of Asheville Civitan (the world's largest Civitan Club) and is a member of the Board of Advisors of Mars Hill College.

Philip Elam's hobby is farming and cattle raising. He has in the past, at times, owned over two thousand acres of farm land in N.C. and East Tennessee, being a great believer in land as an investment.

Sources: Personal knowledge and family records.

— Philip R. Elam, III

The Elam Coat of Arms

RICHARD FULLER ELAM

417

Richard Fuller Elam was born Saturday, December 7, 1878, to Philip Ramseur and Mary Barber Elam at their home farm about two miles west of Kings Mountain, N.C. He was the youngest of five children.

His mother was an only child and had received education at All Healing Institute (later Linwood College), near what is now Gastonia, therefore, the parents were both literate. He attended the free school of that day and was considered a very good student, helping fellow students several grades ahead of him in the one room school.

Later Richard Fuller Elam, as a young man of approximately 21 years, entered and completed a course of study at Charlotte Commercial College, Charlotte, N.C. After graduation, his first position was secretary to attorney Hugh A. Harris in Charlotte.

In those days the railroad was new and popular and he received a job as secretary to the Train Master of the Charlotte to Atlanta Division of Southern Railroad. Later he moved to Greenville, S.C. nearer the center of the division.

Tired, he said, of the jumpy nature, long hours on the railroad, and investigating night train wrecks, he accepted a position as private secretary to Captain Ellison Smyth, the owner of the Pelzer Mill, a nine mill textile group.

There he met and married Miss Sarah Victoria Roberts, a teacher in a local school, sponsored by the company, and who also worked in the company office. She was affectionately known as Miss Sallie.

To this union was born six children: Richard Broadus Elam, Mary Elizabeth Elam, Sarah Viola Elam, Philip Ramseur Elam II, Alice Evelyn Elam and John Edgar Elam.

After several years as a Standard Oil Company distributor in South Carolina, Richard Fuller Elam bought his brother's interest in the family farm. This was the same 400 acres owned by his family for four generations and so he moved back to Kings Mountain. At Kings Mountain he farmed, to some degree, as a side line.

Richard Elam was a very enterprising man, continuously thinking, with many activities other than farming. At times he had to drop some other enterprise to care for a crop. He dealt in land, heavy at times. During his lifetime he held title to many pieces of property in No. 4 Township plus farms and residential sub-divisions and other properties in both North Carolina and South Carolina.

On one occasion, about 1922, he bought a large farm near Rock Hill, S.C. for $40,000.00 and intended to move there to be close to Winthrop College. Because some of his Kings Mountain property did not bring as much as he expected, he forfeited $4,000.00, which was a 10% down payment. He never went back to Rock Hill. Corn-on-the-cob was served for lunch at the hotel the day of the transaction. He never ate corn on the cob again.

Richard Elam had many good traits; he was honest, hard working and very frank in his approach to others. One always knew where he stood.

Sarah Victoria Roberts Elam, wife of Richard Fuller Elam (1780-1869)

He spoke impeccable English and was a great writer and speller. His greatest attribute was his love for education and the fact he strived to give all of his six children a college education. They all attended college and five graduated. This was also true of the twelve grandchildren. All were well educated with some holding several advanced degrees. Two medical doctors came from the family of Mary Elam Vance. Even though he lived in the country he always paid tuition for his children to attend the city schools. He later built a home in Kings Mountain for the expressed purpose of getting his family close to the better school and its appurtenances.

Like his father, he was a Baptist, supported his church, and always regretted he could not make larger monetary contributions to his church.

He could do most anything he set out to do. He was a good engineer. Once he engineered and built a water wheel to supply water and power to a handle mill. It all worked! He was also a carpenter and an excellent cabinet maker. Always busy, he never had a moment to waste. This also went for anyone working around him.

Richard Fuller Elam was tough and determined. While feeding a corn shreader in the fall of 1924, he slipped and fell into the mouth of the machine. He quickly pulled back and forced the belt off with his hips. The shreader ground his hand almost in two. He rode to Kings Mountain, some two and one-half miles, with out benefit of anesthetic, traveling in a buggy. He was aided by one of his good black men, Ellison Swann. Then they went onto Gastonia to the hospital where he told the doctors he would sue them if they cut his hand off.

He had an infection to develop and he pulled bones out of his hand for months. Finally his hand became better. It was a short hand and five short fingers but it all worked. The

Richard Fuller Elam, 1878-1955.

SAMUEL WEATHERFORD ELAM

418

Samuel Weatherford Elam (1826-1907) was born in Cleveland County, North Carolina, the sixth child of Dr. Anderson S. Elam (1792-1886) and Letisha Weatherford Elam (1795-1881). We can only assume that he lived the normal life of a country boy in the mid-nineteenth century.

When news of the discovery of gold came, Samuel couldn't resist the lure of treasure. He joined a group California bound. It is said they went by boat around the Cape and arrived at the gold fields before 1850. Samuel was lucky and found a fortune, which he soon lost by putting it in a bank that failed.

In despair, broke and homesick, the young man returned home by land. Somewhere along the way he was in an accident. He later became ill and lost the sight of one eye. It is not known when he arrived back home, but he often said that he was foolish to go off. He spent the remainder of his life within a mile of his birthplace on Maple Creek. He was the only son of the old country doctor to do so.

When Samuel was thirty-seven years old, he married Martha Jane McCall (1840-1898) and in the years ahead they reared a family of five. Both the Elam and the McCall families have been active in the New Bethel Baptist Church from the time of its founding.

The oldest child, Carme (1864-1932), left the farm when a young man and worked in Lawndale, North Carolina, with the Cleveland Mill and Power Company. He married Mamie Forney Peeler and for the remainder of their lives, Lawndale was home. They had no children. Carme was active in both church and civic affairs. He was for years a Sunday School teacher and superintendent. He served on the Cleveland County Board of Commissioners and Board of Education, and was on the Board of the State School for the Deaf and Dumb. He was president of the Lawndale Industrial Railroad and became treasurer of the Cleveland Mill and Power Company. He and his wife are buried in the New Bethel Baptist Church Cemetery.

Frank Elam (1867-1949) chose to remain on the farm. On November 14, 1889, he married Sarah Katherine Wray (1868-1958) and moved into a house his father built for him not far from the homeplace. Life on the farm was always busy, especially so in summer. They grew abundant crops of vegetables and fruits and did custom canning for the Shelby Hospital. Busy as she was, Mrs. Elam taught school in Belwood and was active in Sunday School and the women's work of her church. They reared five children:

Martha Wray Elam (1891-1981) married Foy Putnam (1888-1963); Sam. W. Elam (1892-1980) married Agnes Meerman; Mary Addie Elam (1894-1978) married C.B. Morgan (1892-1969) of Anson County; Carme N. Elam (1896-1980) married Ruth Caldwell (1898-1967) and after her death married Cleo Withrow (1902-); and Minnie Ramseur Elam (1899-) married the Reverend W.P. Biggerstaff (1902-1978).

Charles S. Elam (1869-) left home early and settled in Texas, where he married and died. He did not keep in touch with his family.

The only girl, Sarah Lettie Venora Elam (1873-1935) married William Noggle (1866-1903). Their family consisted of: Annie, who married Mr. Westmoreland and lived in Kannapolis until her death; George W. Noggle (1900-1960) married Eva Hamrick (1910-); and Lester T. Noggle (1902-1962) married Veda Dayberry (1914-).

After the death of Mr. Noggle in 1903, Venora married Frank Beam (1862-1940). Their children were: Boyd C. Beam (1908-1968) who married Mary Bracket (1911-); Carroll E. (1911-1978) who married Rosemary Peeler (1913-); and Broadus (1913-) who married Ezma Grigg (1915-).

William Anderson Elam (1878-1951) spent his early years on the farm. After the death of tendons were badly crushed, but not severed. This he knew and he won his battle. In spite of sometimes overwhelming odds, he remained determined and most of the time he won.

Richard Elam known by most of his peers as "Mr. Dick" was very devoted to and respectful of his wife, Miss Sallie. He loved horses and his favorite saddle horse "Duke" was kept by his son John Elam, Bladenboro, N.C., until the horse was nearly forty years old.

At the age of 76 he was accidentally killed in a tractor accident near his home and was interred in Mountain Rest Cemetery, Kings Mountain, N.C. in 1955.

Sources: Personal knowledge and family memories.

— Philip R. Elam, II

Samuel W. Elam and wife, Martha Jane McCall

William Anderson Elam, wife Georgia, and daughter Bryte. Picture taken 1906.

his mother in 1898, he and his father "batched" and farmed. He married Georgia Wayne Parker (1881-1942) on November 22, 1900, and their only child, Ollie Bryte, was born in 1904. After the death of his father in 1907, the family left the farm as William A. became a Baptist minister.

Samuel Weatherford Elam and Martha Jane McCall Elam are buried in the New Bethel Baptist Church Cemetery.

Sources: Family Bible; U.S. census records; church records; and personal knowledge.

— Bryte Elam Lane

WILLIAM ANDERSON ELAM

419

William Anderson Elam was born September 2, 1878, the son of Samuel Weatherford

Elam and Martha Jane McCall Elam. He was a farmer and a tanner before answering the call to preach in 1910. On November 22, 1900, he married Georgia Wayne Parker (1881-1942) and their only child, Ollie Bryte, was born September 18, 1904.

Entering the ministry was a major move for this family. It meant seven years schooling for this thirty two year old head of the family and also pulling up roots, grown deep in the soil of Cleveland County. After much prayer and discussion, they moved to Boiling Springs. The family theme became "Where He Leads Me, I Will Follow," the hymn sung by the future preacher as he left his home church, New Bethel Baptist Church.

Automobiles in 1910 were a rare sight for these country people and on the way to their new home, they heard one coming. Not knowing what the horse might do, they pulled off the road into some woods. The three got out of the buggy and Mr. Elam held the bridle and prayed. The horse ignored the noisy vehicle, and, somewhat chagrined, the family resumed the journey. There were many laughs over this episode in later years.

To help defray expenses, the family served as house parents in the only boys' dormitory of Boiling Springs High School and were soon at home in an apartment there. The father entered school and Bryte was enrolled in a private school. The mother taught a short time in the public school, encouraged her husband in his work, and enjoyed the many cultural advantages of the community.

After William completed high school, the family moved to Wake Forest where he entered college in the fall of 1913. These four years were happy ones. Summers were spent in Cleveland County with the homefolks while the college student was busy assisting pastors in special services. Later he had regular pastorates in the Wake Forest area and went by train once a month to Kenansville to preach at a nearby country church.

His ordination as a Baptist minister in his home church in 1914 and his graduation from Wake Forest College in 1917 were the culminations of busy years and the fulfillment of the country boy's dream.

For the remainder of his life, he served churches in Lilesville and rural Anson County, the Second and Dover Baptist Church of Shelby, and churches in Ramseur and Franklinsville.

Bryte attended Coker College in Hartsville, South Carolina. Then she taught in the Ramsuer School where her parents were living. It was here also that she met and married Guy Foust Lane in 1926. Ramseur is still home for them and this is where their four children were reared.

Martha Bryte Lane married Spotswood Bowers of Littleton; Elizabeth Lane married Robert Spencer of Ramsuer; William Guy Lane married Shirley York of Ramsuer and Margaret

William Anderson Elam, 1878-1951

Eugenia Lane married Dale McDonald of Thomasville.

Both Bryte and Guy Lane are happily retired in 1982, she, from school teaching, and he, from sales engineering with Johns-Manville Corporation.

After the death of Georgia Parker Elam on November 13, 1942, William Anderson married Nettie Moon of Franklinville.

Less than a year after retirement, Mr. Elam was killed instantly as he crossed the highway at his home. His wife, Nettie, lived less than a year after his death. He and his two wives are buried in the Baptist Church Cemetery in Franklinville.

William Anderson Elam, a grandson of the country doctor, Anderson Samuel Elam, was a dedicated pastor. He was a loving husband and father characterized by honor and justice tempered with humor. He always came home whistling a happy tune so that his family would not be startled by a sudden step at the door. He was proud of his Cleveland County heritage and always claimed that he knew when he crossed the county line as the air was sweeter and the sky bluer than any other place. He believed that the quotation with the senior picture in his college annual, The Howler, was an honor: "A good man never dies."

Sources: Family records; church records; and personal knowledge.

— Bryte Elam Lane

James Carson Elliott

THE JAMES CARSON and BRIDGET GETTYS ELLIOTT FAMILY

420

James Carson Elliott, born July 12, 1845 near Polkville, North Carolina, died June 17, 1936. He married Bridget Gettys, born in Rutherford County, North Carolina, January 27, 1853, and died December 3, 1897. Both were buried near their home in the Elliott Cemetery. James was the son of William Martin and Barbara Carson Elliott, grandson of John Crenshaw and Mary Donoho Elliott, great grandson of Martin Elliott and Anne Finch Elliott who about 1806 moved here from Virginia.

James Carson entered the Confederate Army and served from 1861-1865 in Co. F, 56th Regiment, North Carolina. He was in prison at Point Lookout. See: "The Southern Soldier Boy," copyright 1907, by James Carson Elliott. This book, well written and very interesting, gives a vivid picture of the war between the states, and conditions following its closure. Its a must for those interested in history.

James and Bidy had nine children: Elizabeth Lee Elliott 1874-1948, married David Anderson Beam; (seven children) — Charlotte Susan Beam (unmarried). Biddie Lillian Beam married Nicas Hicks, Delia Elizabeth Beam married Edwin Smiley, Esther Barbara Beam married Winfred Gaddy, Meredith Maie married William Coleman Doggett, David Elliott Beam married Ruth Azelia Spurling, Nancy Leona Beam married John Harrill McBrayer. (Note: See more on the Beam Family in this book.)

William Martin Elliott II, 1877 — 1921, married Elizabeth Noller of Denver, Colorado. They made their home and were buried there. (five children). William Martin Elliott III married Ruth Stalder and had three sons — William Martin Elliott IV married Mary Ann Burdick and had one child, Beth Wren Elliott; Steven Stalder Elliott married Emily Anita Ettlign and had one child, John Oliver Elliott; and Joseph Vance Elliott, unmarried; Clara Dorothy Elliott married Hermon Pringle; Charlotte Elizabeth Elliott, unmarried. Gladys Frances Elliott married Henry Estabrooks and have three children: Elizabeth Edith married James Edward Kohl, (two children — Michael Henry Kohl and Elizabeth Elliott Kohl). Michael Bancraft Estabrooks married Kathleen Ann Broderick (child — Ann Elizabeth Estabrooks). Catherine "Kate" Estabrooks married Jack Gilbert Bivens, Jr., (one child — Elizabeth Loreta Bivens). Lottie Charlotte Elliott 1878-1962, unmarried. George A. Elliott 1879-1924, unmarried. Barbara Eugenia Elliott 1881-1954, unmarried, Leona Nora Elliott 1885-1963 married Rufus A. Bingham, (no child). Rufus had one daughter, Dollie, by his first wife. James Carson Elliott Jr., 1888-1900. Henry Bedford Elliott 1889-1916. Plato Jefferson Elliott 1896-1956, married Eugenia Lollar (three children).

Tribute to the James Carson Elliott Family.

James C. Elliott's family was interested in politics, government, state, community, and church affairs. "Uncle Jim," having been a school teacher, was a brilliant writer. He spent much time writing articles of interest, current events, etc. for the Shelby Paper. Much of his work has been preserved.

Uncle Jim was tall, slim, white haired and long bearded. Many of us remember him as having a twinkle in his eyes, a walking stick by his chair, and surrounded by his writing materials. He was a very kind hearted man. He and his children showed concern for our family when, after our father died leaving our mother, at age thirty-six, with seven small children, we came to live on their place, staying there until we married and had homes of our own. Never do I cease to be amazed at the patience cousin Lottie, Eugenia, and Leona had with children. They invited us to visit them frequently, to spend the night, to go play in the creeks, to walk in the woods, to see things of nature and identify trees, plants and wild flowers, They helped us saddle horses to ride, hitch up horses to buggies, etc. They seemed to get great enjoyment out of this also.

William Martin Elliott

Lottie was a milliner. We girls loved to go each day in "Miss Lottie's Hat Store" to see what she'd made from the pretty flowers and braids. Her hats were exclusive.

Uncle Jim, first in the community to have an earphone radio, would invite us to come to listen. He'd put the earphones on us even when he was interested in the programs. This rare and unique family will always be dear to me.

Sources: Family records; Courthouse.

— Mrs. Palmer (Nan S.) Gold

THE FAMILY OF JOHN PAXTON ELLIOTT

421

John Paxton Elliott (b. January 5, 1817) was the son of John Crenshaw Elliott, born in Virginia and Mary Donoho Elliott, born in Caswell County, North Carolina. His parents were married in Caswell County, February 25, 1808 and came to live on a large plantation on Hinton's Creek, in what is now Cleveland County. It is said that John Crenshaw had the first grist mill and saw mill in this area. His parents were Martin Elliott and Annie Finch Elliott who moved from Virginia in 1806. Martin Elliott served as a Private in the Revolutionary War, Second Troop, commanded by Captain John Watts, First Regiment, Light Dragoons, Con-

Confederate Soldiers at Elliott Church Reunion

tinential Troops, which was a Virginia organization. He was a Revolutionary Soldier under General Washington, 1776.

John Paxton had the following brothers and sisters: Susan Elliott, married Nelson Nowlin; Elizabeth Elliott, married Dr. James W. Cabaniss; Nancy Elliott, married Joseph Bedford; William Elliott, married Barbara Carson; Mary F. Elliott, married Daniel Dobbins Lattimore; Thomas F. Elliott fought and died in the Mexican War, 1846; Edward Elliott, married Martha Eliza Piercy; Andrew Jackson Elliott, married Sarah Doggett; Dr. James Finch Elliott, was killed by a horse, 1850.

In the year 1940 John Paxton Elliott selected a homesite on his father's estate. This was on the north side of Hinton's Creek near a spring of running water. Here he cleared the land and built a log home.

On either side of the fireplace there was a window. These windows had panes of glass. They were the first glass windows in the neighborhood. This part of the house was divided into two rooms. On the right of the fireplace, a stairway lead to the upstairs. On the west side of this house was built two additional rooms, one to be used as a kitchen. The outside door led toward the spring. It was a Dutch door. A stone chimney was built at the north west end of the kitchen. The fireplace was used to cook their meals. The house was weather-boarded but not ceiled on the inside. The materials for the house were cut from the native trees and put together with pegs. What a lovely home for a bride!

John Paxton Elliott and Sarah Beam, daughter of Christopher Beam and Margaret Gordon Beam, and granddaughter of John Teter Beam and Elizabeth Rudolph Beam, were married on September 1, 1842. They moved into their new home. John Paxton Elliott was a farmer, blacksmith, and a Justice of the Peace. He was administrator, along with A.J. Irvin, for the estate of Christopher Beam, his father-in-law.

John Paxton Elliott and Sarah Beam Elliott had ten children: Christopher Beam, Mary Donoho, Margaret Gordon, Thomas Forbis, Oliver Beam, Ann Elizabeth.

Sources: Bible; John Paxton Elliott, Christopher Beam, "Book of Sermons"; Writings of Mrs. Ophelia Elliott Fausoux.

— Mary Gordon Elliott

THE CHILDREN OF JOHN PAXTON and SARAH BEAM ELLIOTT

422

Christopher Beam Elliott b. June 28, 1843. He served in the Confederate Army. He came home for a visit and had measles. Many of the kin-folks came in for a visit and to find out about their sons who were in the war. Christy died on January 27, 1862. He was eighteen years, six months, and twenty-nine days old.

Mary Donoho Elliott b. July 28 1845 m. Captain David Ramsour Hoyle on May 9, 1865. In 1880 he sold his plantation in Lincoln county and bought a farm near Lawndale, N.C. Their children were: Abel, Sarah, Ellen, Mary, John, Kate, and Ambrose.

Margaret Gordon Elliott b. June 28 1845 m. William Fortune Gold on September 27, 1866. He was a Confederate soldier. They purchased land and built about seven miles north of Shelby, North Carolina. Their children were: John, Laura, Julia, Ben, Mattie, Thomas, Minnie, Charles, and George.

Thomas Forbis Elliott b. February 1, 1851 m. Rebecca Bell Hoyle on November 6, 1878. Thomas Forbis Elliott was a businessman, owned a large farm, operated a harness shop, tannery, and had a large roller mill on Hinton's Creek. He was an honest and upright citizen and was well-liked by all who knew him. Their children were: Susan, Sarah, Mary, Margaret, Julia, Alice, John, William, Florence, Virginia and Belle. Bell Hoyle Elliott d. January 17, 1904. After her death, Thomas Elliott, married Caroline Withrow. They had one son, Valentine Jason Elliott.

Oliver Beam Elliott b. September 13, 1873. He spent many years in Georgia and Texas. He returned home in 1889 and married Virginia Ann Stockton on April 23, 1891. They bought the John Paxton Elliott homeplace and moved there on December 24, 1895. Their children were: Ophelia, Alpha, Paxton, Frank, Robert, and Mary Gordon.

Ann Elizabeth Elliott b. April 23, 1856 m. J. Monroe Wilson. They purchased land and built a home north of Zion Baptist Church. Their children were: Vernie, Florence, Belle, Mary, Charance, Grady, Buren and Margaret.

John Daniel Elliott b. June 26, 1861 d. June 17, 1863 age 1 year and eleven months and twenty-three days old.

Sarah Susan Elliott b. January 23, 1859 m. William Comwell. They lived on a farm south of Zion Baptist Church. William Cornwell died quite young and Susan with the help of her children continued to operate the farm. In 1924 she moved to Shelby to be near her daughters. Their children were: Charlie, Frank, Laura, Nora and Pearl.

Andrew Jackson Elliott b. October 2, 1863 m. Lydia Rebecca Willis on February 14, 1893. When they first married they lived at the John Paxton Elliott homeplace, but later moved to a farm east of the First Broad River. This land was part of the Joseph Willis Estate. They built a large two-story house. Jackson Elliott was a farmer and also had a Tannery. Their children were: Mary, Christy, Joseph, LeeRoy, Sarah Belle, Ifey, Lenna, Sophia, Ozni, and Dixie.

Robert Lafayette Elliott b. May 21, 1866.

Robert was the youngest child of John Paxton Elliott and Sarah Beam Elliott. About 1884 he went to Texas. At that time Texas was a wild new land and many young men went there for adventure and to seek their fortune. Robert worked on the railroad, building and repairing water tanks. Among the people Robert met was the Montgomery family.

John G. Montgomery and Ann Stockton Montgomery came to Texas from Mississippi with the Stephen F. Austin 300 original Colonist in 1824. They had built a home in the Edridge-Matthew area about thirty miles from Eagle Lake, Texas. They had several beautiful daughters. Bob courted Jennie and they were married in 1890. They had one daughter, Erie. Later, Jennie died and Robert was left alone with a seventeen months old baby girl. He bought a train ticket and they came back to North Carolina. It was a long trip but he arrived safely. Robert and Erie went to his brother Thomas Elliott's home to live. Thomas and Bell and their children took care of Erie. Robert worked in the Tannery. He later married Julie Packard. They bought a farm and built a house on land adjoining the Thomas Elliott property. They had one son, Foster Elliott. John Paxton Elliott d. June 5, 1873 Sarah Beam Elliott continued to live at the home place. In 1884 she moved to the home of son Thomas Elliott and lived there her remaining years. She died March 28, 1885.

John Paxton Elliott and Sarah Beam Elliott are buried at Elliott Cemetery. Cleveland County, North Carolina.

Sources: John Paxton Elliott Bible; Christopher Beam "Book of Sermons"; Writings of Mrs. Ophelia Elliott Faysoux.

— Mary Gordon Elliott

THE MARTIN ELLIOTT FAMILY

423

Martin Elliott was born in 1752 in Virginia, died in 1832. His wife Ann Finch was born in Virginia in 1761 and died in 1825. During the Revolution, Martin resided in Charlotte County, Virginia. He was a private in Second Troops which was commanded by Captain John Watts, First Regiment Light Dragons of Continental troops.

Martin and Ann had twelve children. They are recorded in his old leather Bible, (now in possession of Mrs. Plato Elliott of Polkville).

Jincy Elliott, born 1780, married George Cabiness in Virginia, their four children are: Nancy married Jack Finch; John married Susanne Hord; Dr. James married Elizabeth Elliott; and William married Caroline Smith.

James Finch Elliott was born 1782 and married Betsy Doggett in Virginia. His three brothers-in-law came to North Carolina with them. They settled on Buffalo Creek. John Elliott, born 1785, died young. John Chrenshaw Elliott, born 1787, married Mary Dohaho. "He had thirteen hundred acres on Hintons Creek." Martin Slaughter Elliott, born 1789, married Nancy Turner and had a large family. Robert Elliott, born 1791, "Went West," and has descendants in Texas. Sarah Hicks Elliott, born 1793, married Thomas Goode. They had three sons: Franklin married Sarah Magness; John married a Warlick; Martin Good married Milinda Walker, and Mary Martin. His daughter, Sarah Elizabeth married Rev. A.P. Avant, a Methodist Minister. Nancy Elliott born 1795, married Col. Pascal Grigg, (three children): Rosannah married Oliver P. Gardner, M.D.; James married Susanna Nolin; and Mary married Frank Hull. Susan Elliott, born 1797; Ann Elliott, born 1799; Elizabeth Elliott born 1803, married Nathan Hamrick. Adam Harmon Finch Elliott born 1805, married a Wilson, (two children): James "Went West," and Nancy married Majomin McCurry. Adam then married Verzilla Greene and had four daughters: Josephine married Amos Philbeck; Sara married Adam Weaver; Martha married Decatur Williamson, and Verzilla married William Crowder.

Martin Elliott married (Second time) Elizabeth McCombs, September 13, 1826. Their child Lucy Marion Elliott, born in 1829 married Dr.

Borden and moved to Florida. At least ten of the thirteen children were born in Virginia.

Mrs. Leona Elliott Bingham (deceased), and William Martin Elliott III and wife of Denver, Colorado, now residing in Virginia, as well as other relatives have done extensive research in North Carolina, Virginia, and other states. Considerable legal documents have accumulated which have been valuable in compiling Elliott History, (especially the John Elliott Will). Martin Elliott was named in the will. At times he spelled his name Ellett.

This will recorded in Book I, page 216, Nottowar County, Virginia, was dated April 15, 1792. In court June 2, 1796, the will of John Ellett, deceased was probated. According to the will, John Ellett was married twice, (first wife unnamed in will) and family tradition says she was a Thompson.

By his first marriage, he had two children: Martin and Betsy (deceased) who had married William Mosley, "and my named grandchildren: Susan, Robert, Lemusel, Edward, and William Mosely" I give Betsy's share.

"To my beloved wife Milley Elliott, and three hereafter named children: William, Nancy, and James Elliott" (not of age). I leave my home plantation, etc., until her death or marriage. John left a considerable amount of property and slaves to each of his family. To Martin he willed 430A, to William 735A, and to James 635 acres of land.

Martin Elliott's son, James Finch of Mecklenburg County, Virginia, was the first to come to North Carolina. October 1, 1805 he bought "of Jacob Vinsant (Whisnant) for $1,900" the place where he lived on little Broad River. About six months later Martin, Sr. moved his family to North Carolina. On April 14, 1806 he bought this same land from James Finch for $1,900.00

On this farm, near the Dover Mill and Shelby, Martin built the first frame house in the section. The framing was sawed by a whipsaw and was of oak. It was three stories high and had a basement. The corner posts were 12 inches square, and all the framing was well mortised. John Hardin, who helped to tear it down, told this to Miss Lottie Elliott's father James Carson Elliott.

Martin Elliott and wife Ann, who have a multitude of descendants in North Carolina, are buried on the knoll near the Dover Mill, Shelby.

Sources: Courthouse records.

— Mrs. Palmer Gold

Oliver Beam Elliott, 1853-1932

OLIVER BEAM ELLIOTT

424

Oliver Beam Elliott b. September 13, 1853 was the son of John Paxton Elliott and Sarah Beam Elliott who lived on Hinton's creek in Cleveland County, North Carolina.

After the death of his father in 1873 he left home and worked in a Sash and Door Factory in Greenville, S.C. From there he went to Covington, Georgia and did carpenter work and on to Walnut Grove, Georgia, where he and his cousin, William Donoho Elliott owned a store.

In 1876 Oliver Beam Elliott came home and went to school for a year in Forest City at "Burnt Chimneys." He returned to Georgia and continued to work there until he went to Texas in 1883. In Texas he worked as a carpenter and as a foreman of a bridge crew who helped him build the Great Gulf, Colorado, and Santa Fe Railroad. He lived in Eagle Lake, Temple, Granberry and went as far west as San Angelo where he bought a lot and built a house.

In 1887 he came home to North Carolina for a visit, but returned to Texas. In 1889 Oliver Beam Elliott came home to stay. His brother, Thomas Elliott, was there to meet him as the train came in. Thomas had written asking him to come home and offered him a job in the harness shop. He went to live at his brother's home and work in the harness shop as promoter and sales person for the business.

On April 23, 1891 Oliver Beam Elliott and Virginia Ann Stockton, daughter of Francis Marion Stockton and Louisa Cabaniss Stockton, were married at the Stockton home by J.A. Beam, Esq. After their marriage they lived with Thomas and Bell Elliott for a year and then moved in a house near the Thomas Elliott home.

Later, Oliver bought the Elliott homelace and farm on Hinton's Creek. He and Ann and their little daughter, Ophelia, moved to the farm on December 24, 1895. They lived in the house that John Paxton Elliott built in 1840.

About the year 1900 a storm came and blew down many large pine trees on the farm. They decided to use these trees for lumber for a new house. By 1902 the house was ready and the family moved in. This house was located near the old house since the barn and pasture was near the spring and a good well was available. Descendants of the Elliotts have lived in this house continuously since that time.

Oliver Beam Elliott and Virginia Ann Stockton Elliott had seven children:

Ophelia Scott Elliott m. James Oliver Faysoux. She attended Hollis Elementary School and Asheville Teachers College. She taught in a one room, two teacher school at Double Springs, Cleveland County and in Gastonia City Schools. Their children were: Niel, Virginia, James, William and John.

The second child was an infant son who lived only two days. Sarah Alpha Elliott married William Chitwood Lattimore. She attended Hollis Elementary school and Asheville Teachers College. She taught at Piedmont Elementary School, Mt. Vernon Elementary School in Rutherford County, and Glenwood Elementary School in McDowell County, North Carolina. They had one child: James Gordon Lattimore.

Oliver Paxton Elliott married Edna Earle Parker. Second marriage to Sally Mable Jones. He attended Hollis Elementary School and Piedmont High School and business college. He was cashier for many years at First National Bank and was appointed vice president in 1955. He gave sixty years of service to First National. There was one child by the first marriage: Sara Elizabeth Elliott.

Virginia Ann Stockton Elliott holding daughter Ophelia

Frank Donoho Elliott married Mercia Brown Smith. He attended Hollis Elementary School, Piedmont High School and Draughton Business College of Winston-Salem, North Carolina. He was in the real estate business in Winston-Salem for many years then moved to Albuquerque, New Mexico in 1949 where he was owner of Elliott Realty Company. There was one child: Rachel Ann Elliott.

Robert William Elliott married Reba Blanton Whisnant. He attended Hollis Elementary, Piedmont High, Appalachian State Teachers College and the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. He was a teacher and U.S. Government Internal Revenue agent. He gave almost forty-one years to government service. Their children are: Mary Carolyn Elliott and Ann Nixon Elliott.

Mary Gordon Elliott attended Polkville High School and Asheville Teachers Collge. She has taught in Cleveland County schools, Raleigh City schools and Shelby City schools.

On Sunday, September 13, 1931, relatives and friends gave Oliver Beam Elliott a surprise birthday party at his home. There was a cake with 78 candles. Over one hundred guests came to enjoy the day with him.

On May 31, 1932 he died at his home. He was a devoted husband and kind father and was always concerned about the welfare of his home and the education of his children, making sacrifices to send them to school to equip them for the duties and responsibilities of life. As a citizen he was industrious, upright, truthful and honest and was interested in those things that related to the upbuilding of the community in which he lived.

After his death Mrs. Elliott continued to live at the homeplace. In 1941 she moved to Shelby and made her home with her son, Oliver Paxton Elliott, still keeping the Elliott home. She died December 27, 1951. She was a devoted mother and grandmother and loved by all who knew her.

Oliver Beam Elliott and Virginia Ann Stockton Elliott are buried at Elliott Cemetery, Cleveland County, North Carolina.

Sources: Family Bible.

— Mary Gordon Elliott

PHILIP LOVIN ELLIOTT

425

Philip Lovin Elliott was a mountain man.

Philip Elliott was also a "mountain of a man" when his total contribution to Christian Education, his superb leadership at Gardner Webb College, his support of denominational and mission causes, and his shining example as a Christian gentlemen and devoted family man are all seen in profile.

Dr. Elliott was born in Wayside, N.C. a little village in the shadow of the Great Smoky Mountains, on September 22, 1891. He was the son of a Confederate soldier who fought in the battle of Atlanta in the Civil War, and was reared in typical mountain austerity and frugality, but whose parents provided him with a "common sense" education, then urged him to get all the book-learning he could.

In 1909 he walked 20 miles from Wayside to Robinsville to enroll in a small academy run by the Presbyterians, and by 1912 had enough education to enroll in High School at Mars Hill, then only a high school. While at Mars Hill he felt the call to the ministry and was ordained. He then rode a horse once a month across Bald Mountain to a little church in Tennessee.

His years at Wake Forest College found him deeply interested in English literature and journalism, and he got his degree in three years with majors in these subjects. While still a student at Wake Forest he married Miss Etta Maurine Carringer of Robinsville. Their first home was at Proctor, N.C. a sawmill village in the heart of the Smoky Mountains.

He later taught at a little school near the present Lake Fontana. In 1920 he became missionary pastor to all of Graham County, then was employed by the N.C. State Baptist Convention to be enlistment secretary for all of Western North Carolina. His career then took him to Cullowhee, Mars Hill, University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, then to John Hopkins in Baltimore and back to Mars Hill, then to Western Carolina Teachers College as head of the English Department.

This is where O. Max Gardner found him, after the late Horace Easom remembered him as a classmate at Wake Forest, Horace was for many years music leader and educational director at Shelby's First Baptist Church.

Dr. Elliott came to Boiling Springs in the summer of 1943 and was formally inaugurated as president in the spring of 1944.

For the 18 year span of his presidency the story of Gardner Webb reads like a book, a successful, novel, history, drama, romance and catalogue of many things done by many people. Phil Elliott and Max Gardner were at once a great team and at times great antagonists. Governor Gardner enlisted hundreds of influential men and women, with money, and gave generously from his own resources, while Dr. Elliott brought capable men and women to serve on the faculty, build the academic level of the school and prepare it for eventual accreditation by the Southern Association of Schools and Colleges and for full membership in the North Carolina Baptist Convention family of schools and colleges.

By 1948 all these things had come to pass, and Dr. Phil said "Now we are ready to begin to build a great school."

A more detailed history of Gardner Webb and the thrilling story of the Elliott saga and involvement are to be found in "Lengthened Shadows" by Dr. Francis B. Dedmond, a history of Gardner Webb, from its founding in 1905 through 1956.

Mrs. Etta Carringer Elliott continues to live in Boiling Springs and hundreds of alumni pay her homage at various times during the year. This is also "home" to their four children and eight grandchildren when they come to visit.

Ruth Eleanor (Taylor) Oakes is a registered nurse in Roanoke Rapids, N.C. Jane (Edward L.) Grady is a social worker in Morganton, N.C. Rachel Elizabeth Churchill is a teacher at Kansas University in Topeka, Kan. Dr. Philip Lovin Elliott Jr. is a teacher at Furman University in Greenville, S.C., following his father's favorite subject English Literature.

Dr. Elliott was an educated man, and all of his children are also educated — in the formula Dr. Phil advanced to his students so many times: "I want you to be so well educated that no one will ever suspect you have been away to school."

PLATO JEFFERSON ELLIOTT and EUGENIA LOLLAR ELLIOTT FAMILY

426

Plato Jefferson Elliott, son of James Carson and Bridget "Biddy" Gettys Elliott and grandson of William Martin and Barbara Rudasil Carson Elliott, was born in Cleveland County, North Carolina, March 19, 1896. He died December 18, 1956 and was buried in the Elliott Family Cemetery.

Plato was graduated from Piedmont High School in 1915. That fall he taught school at Washburn (near Bostic) in Rutherford County.

In the fall of 1916 he entered the University of North Carolina, at Chapel Hill. He completed a year of college work and went back in the fall of 1917. His ambition was to be a medical doctor, but he enlisted in the U.S. Army November 22, 1917. His service was in the Medical Department at Fort Jackson and in France. December 9, 1919, he was discharged from the army and came home in very poor health, suffering from a bout with double pneumonia which left him physically impaired. He was unable to return to college, but later was able to successfully manage his father's farm.

On June 5, 1928, he married Eugenia Lollar, daughter of David Archie and Mattie Stimson Lollar of Rutherford County. They built a nice brick home adjoining his father's home where his father and three sisters lived, and with loving care, took care of them as long as they lived.

Plato resembled his father in many ways. He was kind and considerate and put others before himself. He and his wife always had time to stop and help a neighbor or anyone in need. (Example: He and Eugenia kept our little niece for several months when her mother was sick and confined to bed). He was interested in the economic conditions of our country.

Plato and Eugenia have three daughters, nine grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Elizabeth Ann Elliott, born November 2, 1933, married Reese Honeycutt, a school teacher. They have five daughters: Charlotte Ann Honeycutt, born 1956, married Charles McLain of Austin, Texas; Phyllis Eugenia Honeycutt, born 1958, married David Prater. (They have two children; David Vernell Prater, Jr. and Christine Marie Prater). Laura Maie Honeycutt, born 1961; Christine Ellen Honeycutt, born 1962; and Emily Jane Honeycutt born 1964.

Barbara Mildred Elliott born 1940, married Edward Joseph Czajkowski, native of Maryland, he died in 1977. They have one daughter, Julianna Lollar Czajkowski born in Atlanta, Georgia, December 16, 1971. Edward Czajkowski and first wife had two sons: Edward Bruce and Robert Joseph Czajkowski.

Martha Louise Elliott, born 1943, married Ronald Graham Hester, son of Hugh and Vida Price Hester. They had four children: Martha Ellen born 1968 (died in infancy), Marie Lynette, (died in infancy), Brian Edward born in 1969; Jessica Lynn Hester born 1976.

Eugenia Elliott and all three of the daughters are graduates of A.S.U., Boone, North Carolina. All four are, or have been teachers. Elizabeth Ann has a Master's degree from Bowling Green University, Kentucky. Mildred has her Master's Degree from Georgia State, Atlanta, and Martha is working on her Master's Degree at A.S.U., Boone, North Carolina.

Education, school teaching, and farming seem to be predominant for generations in the Elliott families.

Sources: Family records; Courthouse.

— Mrs. Palmer Gold

SAMUEL DANIEL ELLIOTT

427

Samuel (Sam) Daniel Elliott (born October, 1877 — died August, 1950) was a giant of a man who stood seven feet tall and is fondly remembered for, among many other things, his "big heart," genial personality, and resonant laugh.

He was married twice, first to Lucinda Barner (died 1933), and then to Mamie Houser. Sam ("Uncle Sam" as he was affectionately called by his nieces and nephews) was the son of Daniel (Dan) Elliott and Eliza Wells Elliott (born c.a. 1840 — died February 27, 1930).

For sixty-one years he lived on the Walter Lattimore/D.D. Lattimore place above Polkville, North Carolina. The house in which he lived was located on the same site where his mother, Eliza, who lived on the Walter Lattimore place for more than thirty years before her death, reared her children and grandchildren. Although Sam had no children of his own, he vowed that he "raised thirteen nieces and nephews."

In the latter days of his life, Sam enjoyed reminiscing about the tales his mother recounted to him of her childhood and the days of slavery. He said his grandparents were brought to America in the early part of the nineteenth century and his mother was born a slave to the Captain John W. Gidney family of Cleveland County.

Eliza was later owned by a Wells family of Cleveland County, but at the age of fourteen she and her brothers and sisters were sold by the Wells' at a slave auction. She was bought by Jonas Bedford for the sum of $1,111.00. Sam often told people that he could show them the place where Eliza was sold as she "stood on two bales of cotton."

Although Sam's mother never "saw signs ears of corn or any excess produce they were able to raise." It was sometime after this the share-croppers system was begun.

Samuel Daniel Elliott.

Before his death Sam had earned a reputation for being an "industrious, faithful, and prosperous man." He at one time owned several acres of land, "a good team of mules, a fine car, and also "had money in the bank."

Sam was a loyal member of and an active worker in Brooks Chapel Methodist Church located near Hollis, North Carolina. He served there as both a trustee and a steward and was often called upon to aid in lifting the church offering. Sam used his genial personality and "flattering tongue" to persuade reluctant members of the congregation to "dig deep into their pockets" and give for the benefits of the "Lord's Work." He is buried in the Brooks Chapel Church Cemetery.

Sources: An old news article and family memories.

— Linda A. Barner

Eliza (Granny) Wells Elliott, mother of Samuel Daniel Elliott.

THOMAS FORBIS and REBECCA BELLE HOYLE ELLIOTT

428

Thomas Elliott, born February 1, 1851, died June 25, 1914. On November 6, 1878, he married Belle Hoyle, born December 23, 1862, died January 17, 1904. Both are buried in the Elliott family cemetery. His ancestry: John Paxton and Sarah Beam Elliott; John Crenshaw and Mary Donohoe Elliott; Martin and Annie Finch Elliott of Virginia and North Carolina; John Ellett (Elliott) of Virginia. Sarah's parents were Christopher and Margaret Gordon Beam; her grandparents were John Teeter and Elizabeth Rudolph Beam.

The home place of grandpa "Tommy" and grandma Belle is between Polkville and New House, Cleveland County, North Carolina. In 1920 all the family had died or moved away.

The place was rented to a Murphy family with daughters the ages of my sister and myself. Being neighbors, we visited often. To me, this home was fascinating, interesting, even aristocratic, and told much about the life of the people who had lived there. It had three stories, seventeen rooms, four staircases, it also had a bath room. With no electricity available, water was continuously pumped from a spring into a house by a ram. One staircase led from the living room to the second floor, one to the third floor, one from the parlor up to a private company bedroom, and above the large dining room and kitchen were two private rooms for hired help with another private staircase.

There was a huge barn with many stables. Since grandpa Tommy was a farmer and a tanner, there were many outbuildings, (pits, vates, caves in banks, etc., all the things necessary for conditioning hides into leather). The shoe cobbler's shop, with its many tools, patterns, heavy shoes for men, dressy shoes with heels and buttons, for ladies, and all kinds of shoes for children was very interesting.

Grandma Belle was a good seamstress and with nine daughters; there had to be much handwork and sewing in the making. Left behind were so many beautiful lacy, frilly dresses with puffed long sleeves, full gathered long skirts, full lacy underskirts, wide brimmed flowered hats, and buttoned shoes with high tops and high heels. There were discarded on the third floor because the styles changed or they were outgrown. (Imagine how the four of us thought we were in heaven for a half day at a time while modeling this beautiful apparel).

It was said of Tommy by his neighbors, that he was "an easy-going, serious person," a good manager, provider, industrious, and a good husband and father. Belle also was capable, industrious, and a good homemaker, wife and mother. Together they "looked well after their household," giving then the advantages of a good education. They were a church-going family. Some were doctors, some were lawyers, and many were teachers. All twelve have been successful in life.

The children are: Susan Ola Elliott, 1879-1954, married Rufus Lee Weathers, (five children). Susan taught school many years and in 1915 she became the first County Home Demonstration Agent in Cleveland County. After three years she quit to get married. Until her death, she was active and faithful in her club and church in Polkville, and an inspiration to those who knew her.

Sarah Therissa Elliott born 1881, died 1895. Mary Forbis Elliott, 1882-1965 married Samuel Carson Lattimore, (four children). Margaret Gordon Elliott 1884, married Matt Ransom Lattimore. They moved to Oklahoma, (six children). Julia Ann Elliott, 1886-1965, married Joseph Christopher Gold, 1881-1946, (nine children). Alice Hoyle Elliott, 1888, married Joseph Robert Jones, (five children). John Paxton Elliott, 1890-1944, married Fannie Whisnant, (six children). William Christopher Elliott, 1892-1977, married Lula Lattimore, (12 children), they moved to Oklahoma. Florence Bell Elliott, 1895-1971, married William Judson Jones, Felix Guinn Ellis holding Jessie A., and Mary Octava Glass Ellis holding Woody R.

Sr., (four children). Virginia Well Elliott, 1897-1974, married Henry L. Whitely (no child). Rebecca Belle Elliott, 1904, married Daniel Max Coble, they live in Greensboro, North Carolina.

Thomas Forbis Elliott married the second time Caroline Withrow, (one son) Valentine. Jason Elliott, 1911. He married Nettie Jones, (four children). Vol and Nettie own and live on part of the old home place. The remainder belongs to Rufus Weathers, a grandson.

Sources: Family records; Courthouse.

— Mrs. Palmer Gold

FELIX GUINN ELLIS

429

John Wallace Ellis, born June 6, 1861, was married to Mary Elizabeth Price, born November 6, 1856, and they lived in Cleveland Co., N.C. all their lives. Of this union, eight sons and five daughters were born, namely; Felix G., Sam A., Orie, John Lee, Clyde, W. Gordon, Mack R., Clifford B., Ina P., Mae E., Annie M., Fannie D., and Mildred H. Grandpa Ellis died October 2, 1920 and Grandpa Ellis died July 14, 1926. Prior to Grandpa's death, the homestead caught fire and everything was lost, including records on the family. He lived in an old feed house on the farm while a new house was being built.

In late 1897, my father, Felix Guinn, born November 11, 1875, left North Carolina for Winston Co., Miss., to visit his grandparents, the Dr. Daniel Price family. That visit lasted for quite a few years. He went into the sawmill business and shortly afterwards, my uncle, Sam A., joined him to assist with the business. Dad operated the saw mill while Uncle Sam took over the planer mill. They also had the dry kiln where the lumber was dried before being shipped. In no time, the lumber mill became a prosperous business. Oddly enough, instead of mules, he used oxen to haul the logs to the mill.

Over the strong objections of her father, my dad, on December 1, 1900, married his first cousin, Mary Octava Glass, born March 30, John Wallace Ellis Family. Seated: Mary Price and John Wallace. Standing L to R: Sam, holding Ray, Mattie, Mae, Gordon, Mack, Annie, Fannie, Mildred and Clifford.

1883, of Winston Co., Miss., daughter of Thomas Jefferson and Margrette Ann Glass. There were seven sons and five daughters born of this marriage; namely, Woody R. (Mann), Danley D., T. Audel, L. Spiva (Spike), Felix A., Garland W., F. Dean, Jessie A., Sarah E., N. Adelle, V. Margarette, and Ruby G. (Peggy).

On October 24, 1915, Union Ridge Baptist Church, located approximately five miles from Noxapater, Miss. (Winston Co.) was organized. My dad, Felix G. and I were charter members of the group instrumental in its organization and I relive many enjoyable memories each time I return to the church. My dad, one of the organizers, sawed and furnished every stick of lumber which went into the church. He also drew the plans, with the pastor's help, for the church and put in many hours of work helping to build it.

Uncle Sam, engaged to Mattie Turner, returned to Cleveland Co., N.C. and they were married on December 15, 1909. My parents, with the two oldest children (myself and oldest brother), traveled by train to North Carolina for the wedding. This was my first visit to my grandparents' home in N.C., and I can vividly remember the large pound supper given the night before and the beautiful home wedding. The highlight of the visit was my crossing Broad River from N.C. to S.C. on the Ellis Ferry.

We returned to Mississippi where dad continued his lumber business until 1919 when he decided to return, with his family, to his home. He chartered a box car to bring the household furniture, car, truck and all other possessions to Gaffney, S.C. where he thought opportunities were better than in North Carolina. He owned and operated a marble yard and bicycle shop for many years in Gaffney. He also did a little saw-milling in S.C. His last work was operating the Randall Foundry in Gaffney.

Sources: Family memories and personal knowledge.
Jessie Ellis Farish and Margarette Ellis

THE SAM A. ELLIS FAMILY 430

Sam Ellis was born in Cleveland County near Ellis' Ferry on Broad River on August 20, 1877. He was one of thirteen children (five girls and eight boys) born to Mary Elizabeth Price and John Wallace Ellis. He was not given a middle name at birth, but sometime in his young adult life, he chose the initial A. for his middle name.

Education in the time of his youth was in one-room schools, but for the most part, he was self-educated. He preferred to tinker in his father's blacksmith shop thus acquiring skills at an early age. He had a love for bicycles . . . making his first one himself.

At the turn of the century, he left Cleveland County and went to Mississippi. He went into the lumber business where he carried on a successful trade for six years. While he was in Mississippi, he taught organ lessons and often had to transport the organ on a horse-drawn wagon. In two separate sawmill accidents, he lost the thumb on his right hand and the little finger on his left hand. But the loss of the fingers did not hinder him in future years in repairing bicycles, locks, or guns.

In December of 1909, Sam Ellis returned to Cleveland County and on the fifteenth of that month, married Mattie Turner, daughter of Mary Austell and Barrett Turner. He took his bride to Mississippi but there her health failed and they were forced to return to Shelby in 1913. Two children were born during this marriage . . . Susie Raye (1911) and John Barrett (1913). Mattie Ellis died February 28, 1919, a victim of the flu epidemic of 1918.

On October 18, 1920, Sam Ellis married Bessie Hall Barnette (1891-1972), a native of Tennessee. They had five children . . . Nadine Hall (1922), Elizabeth Jean "Bettie" (1923), Samuel Lee (1926-1944), Margaret Marie (1929), and Clyde Joseph (1931).

His children's families consists of . . . a daughter, Raye Ellis McMurry and her husband Clarence Calvin McMurry; a son, J.B. and his wife Ottie. Their daughter Mattie Alice Boggs and her husband Charles Boggs have two daughters, Wendy and Michelle. A daughter, Nadine Ellis Brown and her husband Cecil. Nadine and her late husband Kemp Huss have two children . . . Kemp, Jr. and Linda. Kemp Huss, Jr. and his wife Pam have two children, Jeffrey McMurry and Elizabeth Jean. Linda Aschbrenner and her husband Don have three children; Laura Leigh Chapman, Jennifer Lynne, and Kristen Lea. A daughter, Elizabeth Jean Ellis Jordan and her husband Melvin (Jack) have one daughter Kimberly Hall Jordan. Daughter, Margaret Ellis Jenkins and her husband William (Bill) have one son Craig Lee Jenkins. Son, Clyde Joseph (Joe) Ellis and his wife Margaret have one daughter Trilby Lee Evans.

In 1914, Sam Ellis established Ellis Bicycle Shop, where he not only sold bicycles but worked on locks and guns. He was the dealer for the Indian motorcycle . . . , at that time the most powerful machine on earth. One day a customer wanted to try out a motorcycle and abandoned it in Alabama. Sam had to ride the train to Alabama, in order to get his motorcycle back.

Under his supervision, lumber cut and finished in Mississippi was shipped to Shelby. There it was used to build his home on LaFayette Street in South Shelby. He had a good singing voice, and for a time led the choir at LaFayette Street Methodist Church. The W. Barrett Turner home on West Warren Street was purchased in 1928 and during that year Sam Ellis moved his family to Shelby. The home, once the site of children playing, gathering eggs, and milking cows still remains in Ellis family ownership today.

In the early 1930's, he founded Cleveland Marble and Granite Works, a marble yard originally located on West Warren Street next to the railroad tracks. After his death in 1949, the business was operated by family members until it was sold in 1972.

During his lifetime, Sam A. Ellis acquired

Sam A. Ellis, 1877-1949.

Prized corn. L to R: Sam Ellis, Ambrose McWhirter, Shovine Beam.

Sam A. Ellis home, S. LaFayette St., Shelby, NC.

240 acres (of the original 1,800 acres) settled in the 1700's by his ancestors. This land was on the Broad River and farmed by tenants. When electrical power was not available to this part of the county, he installed a battery operated generator so that the tenant farmers would have a source of electricity. King cotton was the major crop. Molasses were made from sugar cane grown on the farm, and for a time turkeys were raised. Bottom lands were reserved for the corn crop, however, these areas often proved destructive and were of great concern when the Broad River flooded its banks.

Sam A. Ellis died June 12, 1949, and is buried in Sunset Cemetery in Shelby, North Carolina.

Sources: Family records.

The history of the Ellis family in Cleveland County began in the middle 1700's according to known records and deeds. Two sons of James Ellis settled on the south side of Broad River near the Ellis Ferry on land purchased from Edward Dickson in 1773. Dickson had owned the land since 1763 which he received through a grant.

James Ellis married Peggy Hopper. They had eleven children: Mary (1761), William (1767), Rebecca (1771), James (1773), Elizabeth (1776), Jane (1778), Benjamin (1782), Lettie (1785), Absalon, birth unknown, and Nancy, birth unknown.

Benjamin married Polly Hopper, daughter of Joseph Hopper. They had the following children: Charles, J.R. (Rich), Lovisa, Sallie, and Dora.

Charles married Nancy Hopper. Their children were: Bolivar, Luther, Early A., Franklin, Cinthia, Robert, Sally, Elijah, and Puryear L.

Bolivar married Mary Hopper. Their children were: John Wallace, Sarah, Cleo, and Floyd. Bolivar died September 27, 1862 at Richmond, Virginia, Company R 34th Regiment C. SA.

John Wallace (June 6, 1861 — July 14, 1926) married Mary Elizabeth Price (November 6, 1866 — October 2, 1920). She was the daughter of Dr. Daniel Price, dentist. Their children were: Felix Guinn, Sam A., Orie, John Lee, Clyde, Ina Pearl, Mae Ella, Annie Margaret, Fannie Dora, Mildred H., William Gordon, Mack Raleigh, and Clifford B.

October 23, 1920, William Gordon Ellis (January 20, 1898 — May 23, 1952) married Gertha Gay Bridges (September 4, 1900 — July 26, 1965). She was the daughter of Joseph Chancey Bridges and Sara Ever Gold.

To this marriage was born: William Yancey (July 30, 1921), married Frances Rebekah Putnam; Joe Dean (May 19, 1923 — January 2, 1981), married Doris McCarver; and Fredricka Lillanthal; Margaret Ann (October 3, 1924), married Jack Raymond Mercier, divorced; James Edwin (May 28, 1926), married Jeanette Blanton; Cynthia Rebecca (February 28, 1929), married James Clyde Peeler; Martha Marilyn (June 26, 1930), married Allen Askins, divorced; Nancy Carole (November 15, 1931), married George Gilbert Greene; Gladys Ruth (March 8, 1937), married Larry Clinton Arant.

Gordon and "Gerth" lived at the John Wallace Ellis home place and took care of him after his wife died. Gordon farmed until the depression; then he operated a sawmill while his children continued farming. During the harvest season, Gordon and his sons traveled throughout Cleveland County and into the mountains, threshing grain. Being a skillful mechanic, he repaired broken machinery and cars. He used his ingenuity in inventing a triangular shaped, three wheel tractor, which was designed to operate on steep hillsides. He obtained a patent which was issued February 10, 1942.

— Kemp Huss

William Gordon Ellis Family, 1942. Front L to R: Ruth, Dick, Gordon, "Gerth", Dean, Margaret. Second row L to R: Yancey (insert) in Charleston, Rebekah, Nancy, Martha.

The children have wonderful memories of good times. When they weren't working together they were playing together. "Gerth" and Gordon were musical, she played the piano and he played the fiddle or harmonica while the children harmonized. Gordon and his sons attended the fiddlers convention at Hollis. When Dean was nine years of age he won first prize at a convention.

In addition to games like marbles, leap frog, hopscotch, blind man's bluff, and horse shoes, the children could be found playing in trees. As Dean climbed to the top of a tree, Yancey would begin cutting it down. As the tree fell Dean would have a hair-raising ride to the ground.

James, at the age of four, wanted to fly, so he jumped off the top of the barn with a parasol. The parasol folded the wrong way, causing him to be knocked unconscious. In later years, his dream came true and he became a pilot.

In winter, Yancey and Dean made wooden sleds to slide down steep hills. This was as exciting as skiing today.

Some Sunday afternoons were spent rowing boats they built. The children were not afraid because their father was very familiar with Broad River and knew all the dangerous places. Some of the children waded while others would swing out on grapevine swings and drop into the river.

Motorcycle fever ran in the Ellis family. Dean would ride standing on the seat with arms stretched out.

For indoor entertainment they would swing on barn rafters from one side to the other — luckily never failing to the ground.

Many hours were spent by Yancey and Dean making "flutter" mills. They put these in the dam they had made in the branch. As the water would turn, the propeller it would lift an arm to hit a tin can making a weird sound scaring the black people as they went by at night.

Gordon was very talented in making toys for his children. He made a steam engine that would run for Yancey. He and his sons in a period of two years built two ferris wheels — one twenty feet high and the other forty-four feet high. As word spread, each Sunday the Ellis Ferry road was like the Cleveland County Fair. People from all around came to ride the ferris wheel.

For something more spectacular they tied two cow's tails together — to see which would be the winner.

Another exciting sight was when "Gerth" looked out the kitchen window and saw a cow running over the hill with a wash tub tied to its tail. The tub was sailing through the air.

During all these childhood escapades there were no serious injuries, not even a broken bone.

The children give credit to their parents for their musical, mathematical, and mechanical abilities.

Sources: Members of the William Gordon Ellis Family, Family Bible, Cleveland County Census 1850, 1860, 1870.

— Mrs. Rebekah Ellis and Mrs. Nancy Greene

THE WILLIAM YANCEY ELLIS FAMILY

432

William Yancey Ellis was born July 30, 1921 to William Gordon Ellis (1898-1952) and Gertha Gay Bridges (1900-1965). Yancey was the first born of eight children and enjoyed living in the home with his "dotting" grandfather, John Wallace Ellis. The attention soon passed as more children arrived and by age nine he was working at his father's sawmill as a full time worker. They arose at five each morning and worked until sunset, and then rode twenty-five miles home. During the depression Yancey quit school in the ninth grade and worked to help support his brothers and sisters.

At age twenty, Yancey took his savings of fifty-six dollars, which he had buried in a jar, and went to Charleston, S.C. where he was employed by Belk's, coming home every two weeks for a visit. From his first earnings, he gave twenty-five dollars to his home church's building fund, Mt. Sinai.

While in Charleston, Yancey received his high school diploma. This had been one of his goals in life and he achieved this by attending night school.

During one of his visits home he received a head injury while helping at the sawmill. This put him in 4F classification. He then became a draftsman in the Charleston ship yard.

He started dating Rebekah Putnam in the ninth grade. The romance blossomed while she was teaching Home Economics at Grover High School. They became engaged and were married May 31, 1944.

Frances Rebekah Putnam, born January 13, 1922, was the only child of Baxter Cleveland Putnam (1885-1955) and Ida Beau Hamrick Putnam (1883-1965). She graduated from Shelby High School and Meredith College.

After the wedding, they moved to Wilmington, N.C. where Yancey worked in the Ship Yard and Rebekah taught at Castle Haynes, a Dutch settlement.

Due to her mother's serious illness in 1945, they returned to Shelby for Rebekah to care for Ida. Nurses and domestic help weren't available during the war. Yancey went to work at Thompson Lumber Company in Shelby.

Yancey and Rebekah moved their letters to Zoar Baptist Church and became active members. He was Church Treasurer and deacon and she taught Sunday School and was active in Womans Missionary Union and Training Union.

On July 30, 1945, Yancey bought eleven acres of land from his mother-in-law and went into the lumber business. After Rebekah's father died in 1955, Ida sold the home to Rebekah and Yancey and she built a small house near by. In 1957, he built the Shelby Wood Preserving Company with Hugh Dover as a partner. This was the only wood preserving plant within a radius of forty-five miles. He saw the need for kiln dried lumber so he ordered blue prints and built one himself. It was completed in 1949. A freak accident caused it to burn in 1965, and he rebuilt it. Due to demand of dry lumber, he built two other kilns in 1975 and 1976.

Their first child, Rebekah Idette Ellis (Becy), was born in 1948. She attended Meredith College, married Dr. James Hall Adams, Jr. of Statesville, N.C. her junior year (1968) and they both graduated from N.C. State, Raleigh. She graduated from University of Houston 1972, Cum Laude with Masters of Social Work. They have a daughter, Mary Amanda, born in 1980. Becky is U.S. Probation Officer in U.S. District Court Washington, D.C.

The second child, William Baxter Ellis (Tim), born 1950, graduated from Shelby High School and Pfeiffer College 1972, majored in business administration. He is associated with Ellis Lumber Company. In 1977, he and Elizabeth Lynn Bankhead, a graduate of Peace College, and The University of N.C. at Chapel Hill, were married. They have a daughter, Elizabeth Ann, born in 1978. They are members of First Baptist Church Shelby.

Karen Gay Ellis, born 1954, graduated from Virginia commonwealth University, Richmond, Virginia. Received a masters degree in Religious Education from Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary, Houston, Texas. She met Donald Stephen Clarke at the Seminary, they married in 1979. They were appointed missionaries to Nairobi, Kenya May 10, 1981, by Campus Crusade for Christ International.

Stanley Scott Ellis, born 1958, graduated from Shelby High School and went to work at Ellis Lumber Company, declaring "experience on the yard is the best training ground". He inherited mechanical ability and love of motorcycles from the Ellises and hunting and fishing from the Putnams.

Yancey took the children on many train trips, to do and see the things he missed. A few months before Becky married, he took all four children to New York and Chicago by plane.

They have the following patriotic ancestors: In the Revolutionary War, Pvt. Isaac Robinson and Pvt. Housand Harrill.

The following served in The War Between The States: Bolivar Ellis, Co. F 34th Regiment N.C. d. Sept. 27, 1862. Sidney Hill Hamrick, Co. D. Regiment 2nd N.C. Paroled May 1, 1865. Drewy Harrill, Co. B 38th Regiment

The William Yancey Ellis Family, 1979. L to R: Yancey, Rebekah, Don & Karen, Clarke, Lynn, Elizabeth, Tim, Scott, Jim and Becky Adams.

N.C. d. February 24, 1862. Samuel Putnam, Co. B. 49th Reg. N.C. Samuel Evans Bostick, Co. I, 50th Reg. N.C.

Sources: Marriage and Birth Certificates, Moore Roster N.C. Troops, Cemetery Records and Memory.

— Rebekah Putnam Ellis

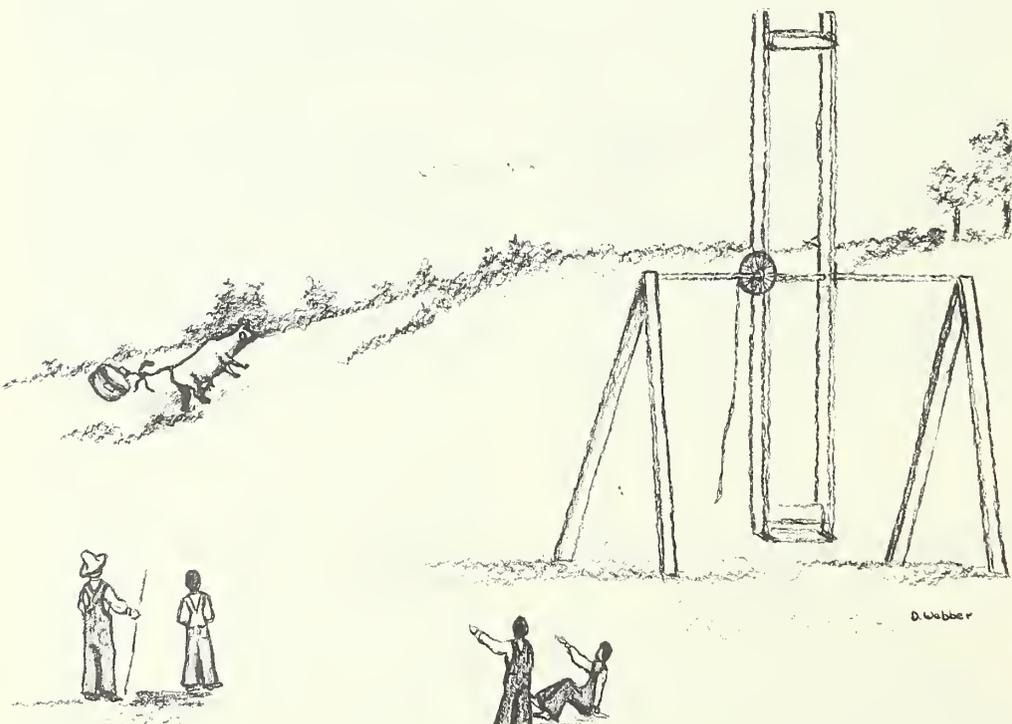

DECATUR ELMORE FAMILY 433

Decatur Elmore was born in Cleveland County, North Carolina, June 27, 1871, son of Benjamin Elmore, a Confederate soldier, and Elizabeth (Betsy) White Elmore. He resided in Cleveland County all of his life and died at the age of 75, September 9, 1946. He was a lifetime member of Clover Hill United Methodist Church, Casar, North Carolina. He was a man of unusual foresight and was known as a farmer, fertilizer dealer, and landowner, as well as having other business interests in the county. He took an active interest in community affairs, especially in the schools and served on the school board at Piedmont High School in Lawndale, North Carolina. He worked diligently at getting better roads and telephones for upper Cleveland County.

On August 8, 1897, in Cleveland County, he married Tallulah Rose Warlick, daughter of John Francis and Sarah Anne Norman Warlick. She was born September 5, 1878, and died at the age of 90, September 10, 1968. She was a pretty, blue-eyed petite and energetic lady. She was very proud of her home and took pride in making it comfortable for her family. She was fond of growing flowers, as was evident in her beautiful flower gardens. She was also a fine seamstress, making lovely dresses for her five daughters. Her art in stitchery left many heirlooms for her children.

Decatur and Lula had eight children: Ira H., Mary Ethel, John Broadus, Lula Maye, Verna Lou, Ruth Elizabeth, Anna Lee, and Robert Decatur (Bob) Elmore.

Ira Elmore married Clema Cornwell. They had four children: Jack, a World War II veteran, married Carolyn Bowen and their two children are Larry and Timothy. Betty Jean married Robert Edwards and their three children are Donald, Jeannie, married to Jerry Howard, and Julia Lynn. They live in Greenville, South Carolina. William H. Elmore, a World War II veteran, married Bobbi Lutz and their two children are Robin and David. They live in Charlotte, North Carolina. Donald Decatur Elmore, a veteran of the Korean War, is married to Beryl Dellinger and their two children are Brent and Douglas. Clema Elmore died in January 1933. After Clema's death, Ira married Della Powell. He died January 30, 1966, and both Ira and Clema are buried at Rose Hill Cemetery in Fallston, North Carolina. Della lives in Lawn-dale, North Carolina.

"Fun on the Farm." Ferris Wheel made by Wm. Gordon Ellis and sons, 1937.

Ethel Elmore married John Jack Hartigan of Holyoke, Massachusetts. She was an organ and piano teacher and taught in the Cleveland County and Shelby City schools. She was organist at Central United Methodist Church in Shelby for 25 years. Jack Hartigan died April 30, 1969, and is buried in Sunset Cemetery in Shelby.

John Broadus Elmore married Inez Cline and their sons are J.B., Jr., who married Janice Wallace. They have two children, John III, who married Sandy Lang, and Connie, who married Randy Grigg. Their two children are Scott and Wendy. Benjamin Cleve Elmore, veteran of the Korean War, married Barbara Dixon and they have three children. Jane married Chris Newton and their two children are Kathy and Heather. Steve Elmore married Patricia Passmore and their two children are Patrick and Tiffany. Allen Elmore married Anita Wright. Dan Gold Elmore, a veteran, married Beverly Mitchell and their two children are Dan, Jr., and Lisa. They live in Greensboro, North Carolina.

Lula Maye Elmore married Donald S. Abernethy of Mooresville, North Carolina. Their two children are Donald Elmore Abernethy and Claudia Sue. Donald, an Air Force veteran, married Shirley Parrish and their three children are Michael Elmore, Cheryl Anne, and Julie Elizabeth Abernethy. They live in Kissimmee, Florida. Claudia married James E. Lutz, Jr., and their two children are Elizabeth Elmore and James William. Lula Maye Elmore died December 19, 1947, and was buried at Montlawn Cemetery, in Raleigh, North Carolina. After their mother's death, Claudia made her home with her mother's sister, Verna Elmore Joyner and Donald made his home with another sister, Ethel Elmore Hartigan of Shelby.

Verna Lou Elmore married C.W. (Jack) Joyner of Winston-Salem, North Carolina and a veteran of World War II.

Ruth Elizabeth Elmore married Warren Washington (Red) Balentine. Their two children are Elizabeth Lou (Betsy) and John Warren. Betsy married Arthur Randolph Palmer and their children are Elizabeth Randolph, Lynn, and Pamela Palmer. John Warren married Becky Franklin and their four children are Kimberly, Bryant, Warren and Cindy. All three families live in Raleigh, North Carolina.

Anna Lee Elmore married Dr. Fred Falls, a veteran of World War II. Their two sons are Richard Elmore Falls (deceased) and Fred Eugene Falls. Fred Eugene married Linda Valerie Lee and their three children are Susan Elizabeth, Kathryn Anne, and Lee Falls. Fred Eugene lives in Raleigh. Dr. Falls died in 1965 and he and Richard are buried in Sunset Cemetery in Shelby.

Robert Decatur Elmore married Coye Peeler. Their three children are Linda Tallulah, Robert Michael, and Susan Ellen. Linda married Richard Goforth and they have one daughter, Lu Elmore Goforth. Michael married Kathy McDonald and they have one daughter, Emily, and twin sons, Robert Graham and Michael Adam Elmore. Susan married Hardee Mills and they reside in Greensboro, North Carolina.

Decatur and Lula Elmore were buried at Clover Hill United Methodist Church cemetery in Casar, North Carolina.

Sources: Family records and personal knowledge.

— Verna Elmore Joyner

ELAM SPURGEON EPLEY'S FAMILY

434

Elam's great grandfather, Peter Epley, was born in 1780 and died in 1877. He came to the United States from Holland, and settled in Pennsylvania. He married Susan Anna Scott, and they had eleven children.

Their son Jacob Epley was born March 15, 1815, and died March 8, 1903. He married Elizabeth Rudicil. Their son John Wesley Epley was born March 30, 1851 and died November 29, 1907. He married Lettie Jane Waters.

Elam Spurgeon Epley the son of John and Decatur and Lula Elmore.

Lettie Jane was born on November 4, 1880. He came to Cleveland county to live with his sister Julie Long and her family near Casar, and met Mary Floss Towry the daughter of John H. and Moriah Elvina Davis Towry.

They were later married on December 11, 1900. They made their home on a farm about three miles west of Casar. They were members of New Home Methodist Church.

Elam and Mary Floss had two daughters, Maud Augusta was born on November 14, 1901, and Florence Arene was born on September 11, 1906. They later moved to Shelby and they attended a Methodist Church in West Shelby. Maud married David Augustus Stroup (see related article) and Florence married Nelson Self.

Elam Spurgeon died in February 1977, at the age of 96 years. He is buried at Pleasant Ridge Church Cemetery in Burke County. Mary Floss died June 7, 1964 and was buried at New Home Methodist Church Cemetery near Casar.

Sources: Interviews with family members, correspondence with Fannie Epley Elliott of Gadsden, Alabama.

— Mrs. Gay Stroup Jenkins

ABRAM RICHARD and MARY JUDITH BLANTON ESKRIDGE

435

ABRAM RICHARD ESKRIDGE, born November 22, 1852, was the fourth child of Elijah Eskridge, born May 1, 1809. His mother was Margaret Durham Washburn, born January 22, 1823. He had five brothers and sisters, Martha Jane Cabaniss, Eunice Harriett Holland, Corra Anne McBrayer, Thomas Clingman Eskridge and Charles Chester Eskridge.

Elijah Eskridge was the ninth and youngest child of Elizabeth Reynolds Eskridge and Richard Eskridge who came to North Carolina with his father and two brothers, Thomas and Samuel, from Virginia when he was about eight years old. Richard Eskridge and his wife Elizabeth settled on Beaver Dam Creek, formerly a part of Rutherford County, now Cleveland County, and lived there until their deaths. Richard Eskridge was the first of the Eskridge name to settle in this county and the ancestor of all the Carolina Eskridge family.

Abram Richard Eskridge.

The Eskridge family cemetery on the Beaver Dam homestead contains forty graves, including that of Richard. By his side lies his wife, Elizabeth, for the love of whom he sundered parental ties, marrying against the will and wish of his father who disinherited him and moved on with his two other sons to Tennessee.

After Elijah's death, the Beaver Dam homestead was owned by his widow, Margaret Durham Eskridge, and subsequently sold at her death to Burwell Blanton. At his death it became the property of Burwell Blanton's daughter, Mary Judith Blanton Eskridge, the wife of Abram Richard Eskridge, whose children, Frances Eskridge Roberts and Forrest later inherited it at her death. From them the property was inherited by Mary Adelaide Roberts Austell and Minnie Eddins Roberts Carpenter, children of Frances Eskridge Roberts, and more recently the Eskridge homestead has become the property of Mary Adelaide Austell Craver, daughter of Mary Adelaide Roberts Austell, deceased: November 24, 1975.

Abram Richard Eskridge married Mary Judith Blanton Eskridge, born July 22, 1860 to Burwell Blanton and Frances Caroline Doggett. Her brothers and sisters were Charles C. Blanton, George Blanton, B. Edgar Blanton, Margaret Blanton Webb, and Dora Blanton Oates. They were married at the old Blanton homestead west of Shelby, and lived first at the Eskridge farm on Beaver Dam Creek west of Shelby where Abram Richard Eskridge was a land owner and farmer. They came to Shelby and built the "Charlie Webb House" on West Marion Street where the Shelby Junior High School is now located. They lived there for about ten years, then moved to Union, South Carolina and Atlanta, Georgia and Asheville, North Carolina; where he was associated with the railroad.

When Richard and Mary Judith Eskridge returned to Shelby, they lived until their deaths in the home formerly owned and built by her father, Burwell Blanton, at 522 West Marion Street. The large Victorian home was moved to its present location at the rear of the West Marion Street lot facing West Sumter Street in 1954 when their granddaughter, Mary Adelaide Roberts Austell, and her husband, Charles B. Austell, built their residence at 522 West Marion Street which is now occupied by their daughter, Mary Adelaide Austell Craver, her husband, Richard Davidson Craver, and their family.

Richard and Mary Judith Eskridge had two children, Frances Margaret Eskridge Roberts, born April 4, 1877, died December 9, 1942; and Forrest Eskridge, born July 10, 1880, and died March 7, 1943. Forrest never married.

Frances married William Joshua Roberts, Jr., born September 13, 1875, died December 5, 1933, son of Minnie Eddins and William Mary Judith Blanton Eskridge.

Joshua Roberts of Shelby, on June 23, 1904. They had two daughters: Mary Adelaide, born August 16, 1905, and died November 24, 1975, and Minnie Eddins, born August 12, 1908. Mary Adelaide married Charles Benjamin Austell, born April 17, 1904, and died January 27, 1967. Their daughter, Mary Adelaide Austell Craver, born July 1, 1942, is married to Richard Davidson Craver, born August 19, 1942, and has two children, who are Joseph Newton Craver, II, born January 12, 1975, and Adelaide Austell Craver, born July 16, 1976. Minnie Eddins married George Moore Carpenter of Forest City, North Carolina. He was born May 8, 1907. They have no children.

Mary Judith belonged to First Baptist Church and loved her church, family, home, gardens and friends. She died September 26, 1927. She and her husband, Abram Richard Eskridge, who died June 20, 1911, are buried at Sunset Cemetery.

Sources: Family Bible, Newspaper Clippings and personal knowledge.

— Minnie Eddins Roberts Carpenter

ALFRED GREEN ESKRIDGE

436

"Some men seem only to know how to make the most of whatever life offers them" — such a man was Alfred Green Eskridge. Alfred, a native of Shelby, was born January 2, 1914, to Charles Lester and Lela Porter Eskridge. He was a brother to Charles Robert, Martha Effie, James Lester, and Eugene Webb Eskridge.

As a boy, Alfred was always in a hurry. One Christmas Day he wore out a pair of new roller skates before the sun set. Frequently he was paid to stay out of his father's Ford Dealership garage because his mischievous manner created much chaos. His energies became well channeled in the years to follow, for he became an Eagle Scout at a young age.

Alfred was fondly nicknamed "Hoot" during his Shelby High School days. He was an out-

Mr. Eskridge came from one of the South's old and prominent families. His earliest American ancestor was Col. George Eskridge from Lancaster, England, who in 1670 was seized in Wales by Press Gang who carried him aboard a ship bound for Virginia where he was sold to a planter as an indentured servant for 8 years. When freed, he returned to England to get his law degree and then came back to Northern Neck of Virginia between the Potomac and Rappahannock. He was guardian to the orphaned Martha Ball who married Augustine Washington and begat George (first president of the United States) named after George Eskridge in appreciation for his guardianship. George Eskridge lived at Sandy Point (Run) in Westmoreland County of Virginia on the Potomac River.

Charles Lester Eskridge was born in Shelby, N.C. on March 17, 1884. He was a son of Alfred Webb (born February 26, 1850, died February 24, 1922) and Sarah Phoebe (Hamrick) Eskridge (born May 17, 1855, died May 26, 1930). One newspaper, at the time of Charles Lester Eskridge's demise, wrote as follows: "Mr. Eskridge was endowed with a natural genius for mechanics, and even later in life, after he was a business leader, found much pleasure in working on mechanical problems. Progressive in his ideas, he was nearly always first to introduce modern conveniences in Shelby. He owned the city's first automobile, one of the first radios, and of recent years was deeply interested in aviation . . ." He graduated from Shelby High School in 1899, and Philadelphia School of Horology in 1907. Before going to Philadelphia, he was manager of Shelby Telephone Co., 1900, building the first telephone lines connecting with other towns. He worked establishing Indian River Telephone Co. in Florida in 1903. He started a jewelry business in Shelby, N.C. in 1907, millinery business in 1908, founded an standing athlete in basketball and football. He stood a very handsome 6'2" with piercing blue eyes. In 1931, he entered the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill where he joined the Sigma Nu Fraternity.

Alfred Green Eskridge, 1914-1970.

A. R. Eskridge home on W. Marion St. in Shelby, moved to W. Sumter Street.

Restlessness set in, and Alfred left college to begin his career. He began by operating the Sinclair Station on Marion Street in Shelby. After he accepted his next job, the greatest single blessing in Alfred's life was his marriage to Elsie Belle Gidney of Shelby on June 19, 1935. She was born February 16, 1913, daughter of Robert Many and Hattie Sarratt Gidney. She proved to be the quiet inspiration that gave him the courage to be the man he was. Alfred and Elsie moved to Greenville, North Carolina where he traveled in the eastern counties as a station inspector for Sinclair. Several years later they moved to Salisbury, North Carolina where Alfred was the Sinclair Distributor. In 1938 they returned to Shelby permanently, and Alfred established himself as president of Eskridge Oil Company and secretary and treasurer of Eskridge Transport Company.

During his late twenties, he became very active in Shelby community affairs. He served as president of the Jaycees and as an active member of the Rotary Club and Elks Lodge. In his later years he served on the Official Board of Central United Methodist Church and Cleveland Springs Country Club.

Just as Alfred was gaining momentum in his career and community life, he was faced with a serious illness which was to affect the remainder of his life. At the age of thirty-two he lost his left leg after a long battle in New York's Presbyterian Hospital to a rare circulatory disease. Although he was never again a truly well man, his sense of humor and determination to survive was to carry him through many years of illness. Returning home as an amputee, he set his mind to continue to live his life to the fullest. As soon as he had an artificial leg he was dancing and playing golf. He was decidedly noticeable scooting around the golf course or carrying a load of kids out for ice cream or towing to the beach his "golf cart" — a phenomena of the times. He never considered feeling sorry for himself.

During the next twenty years, Alfred was to survive many illnesses related to circulatory disease. His sensitivity to human suffering and his deep-seated desire to live inspired him to comfort and support many. He challenged and inspired those he knew well and those he knew not at all to conquer whatever illness threatened their lives. If there was a choice between pursuing a new client or ministering to the needs of someone who was ill, there was never a moment's doubt which he would choose.

Alfred died June 26, 1970, of his second aneurysm at the age of fifty-six. He was buried in the family plot in Sunset Cemetery. He was loved, respected, and admired by many from every walk of life. Perhaps his greatest admirers were his children, for his gift for gab, his joking nature and love of life. Alfred was well described in the North Carolina Oil Jobbers Publication as "a most pleasing and warm personality — a rare individual."

Children and grandchildren of Alfred and Elsie Eskridge are: Alfred Green Eskridge Jr. (November 8, 1938) was married on June 14, 1958 to Fain LeGrand Combs (June 9, 1938). Their children are: Allison Welborne (May 28, 1960, Chapel Hill, North Carolina) Alfred Green Eskridge III (October 23, 1961, Chapel Hill, North Carolina.) Catherine LeGrand Eskridge (July 8, 1965, Shelby, North Carolina) John Porter Eskridge (January 27, 1969, Spartanburg, South Carolina) Elizabeth Anne Eskridge (January 18, 1942) was married on November 7, 1964 to Jesse Norris Barnes III (June 1, 1942) of Elm City, North Carolina. Their children are: Spencer Kathryn Barnes (October 31, 1966, Virginia Beach, Virginia) John Norris Barnes (April 10, 1970, Austin, Texas) Robert Porter Eskridge (February 4, 1950, Shelby, North Carolina) automobile bus transportation company in 1910, entered the retail field as distributor of several makes of automobiles; and for more than twenty (20) years was dealer for Ford and Lincoln automobiles. He was director of the First National Bank and of the Shelby Building and Loan Association, Director of Shelby Chamber of Commerce, and Kiwanis Club.

— Anne Eskridge Barnes

Charles Lester Eskridge, 1884-1931.

A Democrat, he had a widespread influence in political movements locally and throughout Cleveland County. He was president of the Cleveland Springs Golf Club, a dominant factor in promotion of the airport in Shelby. He belonged to the First Baptist Church, gave quietly and generously to philanthropic appeals, made a sport of hunting, fishing and golf, was fond of travel and the companionship of men, and took his greatest happiness in the home circle, reading, talking with his wife and children, a gay companion and the friend of everyone, no matter what walk of life was concerned. He did much in association with younger men for the advancement of city and county interests, and will always be remembered for his genial, kindly ways.

Mr. Eskridge was married near Blacksburg,

South Carolina on January 28, 1908 to Lela Ethel Porter (June 7, 1883 — December 6, 1973), daughter of Robert Erwin (December 9, 1830 — February 5, 1912) and Martha Henrietta (Hoyle) Porter (November 29, 1851 — April 20, 1932) who were married August 28, 1872 at Belwood, North Carolina. Robert Erwin Porter was a planter, a teacher and an influential man of the Blacksburg community, and attended the Baptist Church of which he was a member. To Mr. and Mrs. Eskridge were born children as follows:

Charles Robert (November 2, 1909 — March 21, 1970) who was married on July 20, 1931 to Anne Elizabeth Edwards (January 1, 1907 —) of Scotland Neck, North Carolina; Martha Effie (November 22, 1911 — May 25, 1980) who married on August 23, 1944 James Spencer Love (July 6, 1896 — January 20, 1962) of Greensboro, North Carolina; then married on March 2, 1968 Nathan McNeill Ayers (May 11, 1908 —) of Greensboro, North Carolina; Alfred Green (January 2, 1914 — June 26, 1970) who married on June 19, 1935 to Elsie Belle Gidney (February 16, 1914 —) of Shelby, North Carolina; James Lester (July 26, 1916 —) who married on July 17, 1937 Hazel Muriel West (February 22, 1916 — September 19, 1978) of Marshall, North Carolina. Then married on May 20, 1979 to Mary Baker Holcombe (August 17, 1919 —) of Greensboro, North Carolina; Eugene Webb (March 10, 1922 — July 26, 1930).

Charles Lester Eskridge died in Shelby, North Carolina on June 7, 1931.

— James Lester Eskridge

FORREST ESKRIDGE

438

Forrest Eskridge was born July 10, 1880, the son of Mary Judith Blanton Eskridge, born July 22, 1860, and died September 26, 1927, and Abram Richard Eskridge, born November 22, 1852, and died June 20, 1911. He had one sister, Frances Eskridge Roberts.

Most of his life was spent in Shelby on West Marion Street in the Victorian "Eskridge Family" home where he lived with his mother until her death, and thereafter continued to make his home until his death. He loved his home and yard, and took special pride in his flowers. His friends and neighbors often said they were never lacking flowers, for he always shared his seemingly never-ending supply. His home was also always open to his friends, including Hugh Walpole, noted English author whose portrait hangs in the National Gallery in London. Walpole visited in the Eskridge home and there is an autographed picture dated 1927 which he gave to the Eskridges.

He was also generous in the use of his tennis court which was part of the large side yard at 522 West Marion Street, where his great-niece, Adelaide Austell Craver, now lives. His was one of the first privately owned tennis courts in Shelby.

Coming from a family of bankers, he entered the banking business in early manhood, and as an editoralist wrote at the time of his death, became a diligent member of a banking triumvirate in Shelby which was headed by his uncles, Charles and George Blanton, which served well the banking needs of this area. The writer continued that he was a banker who regarded friendliness an important asset in any balance sheet. He suggested his gentle and friendly nature was subjected to such strains in the reorganization of the banking structure after the depression that it unquestionably contributed to the six year illness preceding his death.

Forrest Eskridge.

L to R: Dovie Suttle McBrayer, Lander McBrayer, unknown, Forrest Eskridge, Ola Suttle Holland, and Laurance Holland.

He was Cashier of the First National Bank and Union Trust Company until his retirement, because of poor health. From 1933 to 1934, he was president of the North Carolina Bankers Association.

During the First World War, he served as county chairman of the Liberty Loan Drive. Active in all phases of civic life, he was a member and president of the Kiwanis Club, and was a Mason.

He joined the First Baptist Church in early manhood and was an active member until his illness. He had a leading part in the construction of the major church building renovation, and served as treasurer of the church building fund.

He taught a Sunday school class for many years and a series of newspaper photographs titled "Are These Faces Familiar" gave the hint that the picture shown was taken at First Baptist Church, and the class was the Forrest Eskridge Sunday School class. It included many prominent present day business men.

He never married, but was a loving uncle to his sister's children, Mary Adelaide Roberts Austell and Minnie Eddins Roberts Carpenter.

He died March 7, 1943, and is buried in Sunset Cemetery beside his mother and father.

Sources: Family Bible, Family History, Newspaper clippings, and personal knowledge.

— Minnie Eddins Roberts Carpenter

GEORGE WASHINGTON and CLEVELAND COUNTY

439

George Washington would perhaps love Cleveland County. Why? Because many of the descendants of his mother's guardian live here and call Cleveland County home. Who was George Washington's mother? Her name was Mary Ball. Her father, who called her "his little rose of Epping Forest", died when she was very young. When her mother also died she left Mary under the care and tutelage of a guardian.

This guardian was an attorney and owner of Sandy Point Plantation on the Potomac River in the Virginia plantation country, in Westmoreland County, Virginia. His name was George Eskridge.

Many of his descendants live in Cleveland County and many perhaps do not know that their heritage goes from Cleveland County to the plantation society of colonial Virginia when Colonel George Eskridge was neighbor and friend to the Washingtons, Lees, Carters, etc. of Virginia.

At least one of George Eskridge's descendants married a signer of the Declaration of Independence. Some have suggested that George Washington may have been named by his mother after her guardian, George Eskridge, although this is conjecture. Mary Ball married George Washington's father at Sandy Point Plantation on March 17, 1731.

George Eskridge was a vestryman of Yeocomico Episcopal Church in Virginia. He was the first Eskridge to come to America. He went back to England to study law and returned to this country and became a member of Quorum and Kings Attorney in Virginia. He served in the House of Burgesses of Colonial Virginia for ten years. His portrait, together with that of his wife, Rebecca Bonum, hung for several years at Mount Vernon plantation but is now in the Department of Archives of the Virginia Historical Society in Richmond, Virginia. Further reference to George Eskridge is in the Eskridge drawer in the Westmoreland County Museum, Virginia.

But how does this relate to Cleveland County? Well, George Eskridge had a son named Samuel Eskridge. Samuel inherited Sandy Point and married Jane Ashton and they had a son, Richard Eskridge.

Richard Eskridge (I) married Elizabeth Read and went to North Carolina. His will is on record in Caswell County, North Carolina dated March 21, 1809. They had a son whom they also named Richard.

This second Richard married Elizabeth Reynolds, daughter of Hamilton (Hambleton) Reynolds, and settled near Beaver Dam Church, Cleveland County, then a part of Rutherford County, between 1800 and 1810. A part of the Eskridge log cabin still remains at this location.

Richard Eskridge (II) died in 1831 at the age of sixty-three and was buried in the Richard Eskridge Cemetery nearby, as shown by survey of this cemetery on October 14, 1938 by Bxnum E. Weathers and Anson G. Milton. Elizabeth Eskridge died March 2, 1856 at age eighty-four years.

Richard Eskridge and Elizabeth Reynolds had nine children, one of whom was a son, William L., born December 17, 1795. William L. Eskridge (Squire Billy) may be the William L. Eskridge who was one of the councilmen at the formation of Cleveland County from Rutherford County in 1841, since he was a justice of the peace in 1841. William L. Eskridge married Miss Mary "Polly" Bailey and they had a son, John William Eskridge who married Elizabeth "Betty Ann" Copeland. John William and Elizabeth Copeland are buried in the Double Shoals Baptist Church graveyard.

They had a son, Samuel Bailey Eskridge, many years superintendent of Double Shoals Mill, who married Millie Ida Yelton and they are buried at Sunset Cemetery in Shelby.

Samuel Eskridge and Ida Yelton had a daughter, Lesta Eskridge who was born June 18, 1896 and still lives on her farm in the Double Shoals community. She married Arthur Lee Spangler and bore five children all of whom reside in Cleveland County. One of these is my father, Arthur Lee Spangler, Jr., who married Irene Costner.

I, Janice Costner Spangler, born in Cleveland County, therefore, am tenth generation descendant of the guardian of George Washington's mother.

I have traced the above through my lineage with the realization and hope that you, the living in Cleveland County will know how you tie into the above lineage since all the above had many children and, therefore, Cleveland County's history has much of the above heritage. Also that you will use the above knowledge as a calling to honesty, to honor, and to service of God, our country, Cleveland County and your fellow man and then I know George Washington would love Cleveland County.

— Janice Costner Spangler

THE CALVIN ESKRIDGE FAMILY

440

The earliest record of the first Eskridge in America, was that of George Eskridge in Westmoreland County, VA in 1696. George was an eminent lawyer, served ten years as member of the House of Burgesses and was a member of Quorum & Kings Attorneys. His plantation of many thousand acres (land grants show 12,644 acres) was called "Sandy Point" and was located on the historic Potomac River. George was destined to play an important part in the lives of our first President, George Washington and his mother, Mary Ball Washington. Mary's father died when she was about three years old and her mother died when she was just a few years older. George Esckridge was made Mary's guardian by her mother's will. She spent her "girlhood" in the Esckridge home and later married a neighbor, Augustine Washington. The marriage took place at "Sandy Point", the Esckridge home. When their first child was born, the son was named for Mary's much-loved guardian, George Esckridge.

George and his first wife, Rebecca Bonum, had six children: William, George, Jr., Samuel, Robert, Sarah and Margaret. He and his second wife, Elizabeth Vaulx, had one daughter, Elizabeth.

The third child, Samuel, is the forefather of the Esckridge descendants in this area. Samuel and Jane Ashton Esckridge had five children. Their second child was Richard (1743-1804) who married Elizabeth Read in 1764. They and three sons; Thomas, Samuel, and Richard who was about eight years old, came to Caswell County, North Carolina. Ten more children were born to Richard and Elizabeth R. Esckridge. Young Richard married Elizabeth Reynolds and settled in Rutherford County, (now Cleveland County, NC) near Beaver Dam Baptist Church.

They had the following nine children: William L. Esckridge, (b. 1795), married Mary Roxanna (Polly) Bailey; Hamilton Esckridge (b. 1797-d. 1875), married Mary Irvin; Richard Henry Esckridge, (1798-1876) married Rachel Almira Martin; Simeon Esckridge, (b. 1800) married Susannah Martin; Unicy Esckridge (b. 1801) married Moore Martin; John Green Esckridge (b. 1803-d. 1891) married Elizabeth H. Thompson; Sarah (Sally) Esckridge (b. 1805) married Hezekiah Wilkins; Jesse Esckridge (b. 1807) married Rebecca Thompson; and Elijah Esckridge (b. 1809) married first Harriet P. Wilkins, and second to Margaret P. Washburn.

William L. Esckridge, known as "Squire Billy", married Mary Roxanna (Polly) Bailey and they also had nine children: Elizabeth Ann (Betty Ann) Esckridge (b. 1818), married first Squire S. Simmons, who lost his life in the Civil War. Her second marriage was to Chandler London. Simeon Esckridge (1820-1864) married Minerva J. Martin and also lost his life in the Civil War; Samuel Esckridge (b. 1825) married Cynthia McBrayer and moved with his family to Tennessee; Richard Calvin Esckridge (b. 1827), married Margaret N. (Peggy) Hendrick; Margaret (Peggy) Esckridge (1830-1911) married John Jefferson Spurling (1833-1924); Nancy A. Esckridge (b. 1832) died unmarried; Mary Adeline Esckridge (b. 1834) married Joshua Sparks; John William Esckridge (b. 1837) married first to Elizabeth (Betty Ann) Copeland, and second to Etta Green; Ruthy J. Esckridge (b. 1838) married Cam Beam.

Richard Calvin Esckridge married Margaret N. (Peggy) Hendrick in 1857 in Cleveland County, North Carolina. Margaret's parents were William (Bill) Hendrick and Charity Love.

Calvin was a Private in the Confederate States Army, Co. C, 55 Regiment, North Carolina Troops. He entered the CSA on Feb. 23, 1863, age 36 years. During the battle of Gettysburg, he was wounded and lost part of an arm as the result. He was captured on July 4,

1863 as a "Rebel Sick and Wounded Prisoner of War". He was received at DeCamp General Hospital, Davids Island, New York Harbor, sometime between July 17 and 24, 1863. His name appears on a roll of Prisoners of War paroled from the same camp, the record wasn't dated. (Indorsement shows he was among six hundred, eighty five Confederate prisoners of war paroled for exchange; received in City Point, Va., Sept. 8, 1863. National Archives, Washington, D.C.)

Calvin was a small man in stature, with a snow white beard, and rather long hair just as white. He farmed after returning from the war and lived in the Double Shoals community.

Their eight children were: Eliza A. Esckridge (1858-1948) married James Berry Wright (1845-1931); Sarah Jane Esckridge, (b. 1859) married Charlis A. (Doc) Putnam; James Lee Esckridge, (b. 1862) married Isabelle Yelton; John Bailey Esckridge, (b. 1865) married Martha Luvenia McSwain; Roxanna Esckridge, married William Clifton McWhirter; Amelia Esckridge died when three years old; Margaret (Mag) Esckridge, (1874-1947) married Amos Pinkney Shytte (1870-1893); and Zula Bell Esckridge (1876-1964) married Ira Sperling (1876-1921).

The Esckridge descendants are numerous throughout the area and continue to be active in all phases of civic, religious and educational affairs of the community.

Sources: personal knowledge, Bible records, birth and death records.

— Mae Cabaniss

BAYARD THURMAN FALLS

441

Bayard Thurman Falls, the son of John Zimri Falls, Jr. (1846-1937) and Sara Catherine Falls (1850-1935) was born on January 28th, 1879 in the Knob Creek Community. He was a charter member of Piedmont High School and graduated from Wake Forest University. From 1905-1911 he was Superintendent of Cleveland County Schools. In 1908, Mr. Falls was admitted to the Bar and began practicing law in 1911. He served as Judge of Recorder's Court from 1916-1924 and in the North Carolina House of Representatives from 1924-1926. Mr. Falls was one of the original trustees for Boiling Springs Junior College and served for thirty-four years.

Bayard Shurman Falls.

Mr. Falls married Selma La Reau Esckridge (February 1, 1883 — October 29, 1945) on June 10, 1909 in Shelby. Mrs. Falls was very active in the United Daughters of the Confederacy and served many years on the Cleveland County Library Board as treasurer. Mr. and Mrs. Falls had four children born in Shelby: Bayard Thurman Falls, Jr. (1911-1976 — see another history); Sara Louise Falls (April 8, 1915); Elisabeth Esckridge Falls (August 5, 1921) and Virginia Reid Falls (November 1, 1923).

Sara Falls married John Fleming Lyon (February 25, 1906 — October 9, 1978) from Durham, North Carolina. They had two children, both born in Durham. Ann Falls Lyon (January 31, 1943) and John Fleming Lyon, Jr. (October 12, 1944). Ann Lyon married James B. Weeks from Sampson County on March 3, 1962 and they had two daughters: Elisabeth Ann Weeks was born in Chapel Hill, North Carolina on January 1, 1963. Lori Lynn Weeks was born in Wilmington, North Carolina on August 12, 1965. John Fleming Lyon, Jr. married Carolyn Taylor (March 29, 1948) on December 28, 1973. They had two sons born in Wilson: John Fleming Lyon III, was born March 11, 1976 and James Taylor Lyon was born August 20, 1980.

Elisabeth Falls married William Foster Heisler (August 18, 1918) from Zion, Maryland on October 27, 1945 and they had three daughters: Elisabeth Falls Heisler (September 8, 1950) born in Shelby; Helen Clark Heisler (January 29, 1953) born in Nagoya, Japan; and Christine Foster Heisler (September 20, 1957) born at Patrick AFB, Florida. Elisabeth (Lisa) Heisler married John Albert Carenen (July 23, 1945) and they had two daughters: Caitlin Elisabeth was born September 27, 1976 in Iowa City, Iowa and Danielle Rowena was born December 14, 1979 in Morganton, North Carolina. Helen Heisler married Joseph Adrian Watson (August 3, 1948) and they had a daughter and a son born at Andrews AFB, Maryland. Patricia Lynn Watson was born January 27, 1978 and Stephen Adrian Watson was born April 22, 1981. Christine Heisler married Michael Paul Marzec (November 18, 1957).

Virginia Falls married Lloyd Cleveland Bost (December 25, 1920) on October 20, 1945. They had one daughter and three sons, all born in Shelby: Lloyd Cleveland Bost, Jr. (October 5, 1946); Virginia Ann Bost (May 1, 1949); Bayard Thurman Bost (September 19, 1952); and Harlan Stewart Bost (August 18, 1955). Lloyd Bost, Jr. married Brenda Kathryn Hoyle (December 1, 1946) on June 4, 1972 in Shelby. They had two daughters, both born in Hickory, North Carolina. Melanie Kathryn Bost was born on June 14, 1978 and Virginia Helen Bost was born on June 9, 1981. Virginia (Jan) Bost and Gary Edward Shuford (March 3, 1951) were married on July 25, 1970. They had three sons born in Shelby: Gary Edward Shuford, II was born October 23, 1974; Daniel David Shuford was born April 29, 1977; and Brian Bost Shuford was born November 9, 1979.

Bayard Thurman Falls practiced law until he was eighty-six years old. He was an active and dedicated leader in the Democratic Party and earned the title "Mr. Democrat", going by ambulance to vote in 1966. He died on August 28, 1966 and is buried beside his wife at Sunset Cemetery.

Sources: Family Bible Cleveland Times: March 24, 1961; Sept. 30, 1963; Aug. 30, 1966.

— Virginia Falls Bost

BAYARD THURMAN FALLS, JR. FAMILY

442

Bayard Thurman Falls, Jr. was born September 14, 1911 in Shelby, Cleveland County, North Carolina. His parents were Bayard Thurman and Selma LaReau Eskridge Falls, who were both born in Cleveland County. He had three sisters: Sara Louise (Mrs. John F. Lyon), Elizabeth Eskridge (Mrs. William F. Heisler) and Virginia Reid (Mrs. Lloyd C. Bost).

B.T. Falls, Jr. was educated in the Shelby Public Schools, the Citadel and Wake Forest College and Law School where he received his L.L.B. degree in 1940. He married Sara Elizabeth Hines of Oxford, North Carolina in St. Stephens Episcopal Church in Oxford on November 12, 1938.

He returned to Shelby to practice law with his father in 1940. In 1942 he was elected to the 1943 North Carolina General Assembly House of Representatives. He resigned to join the army, but was rejected for military service for physical reasons.

He was elected to the House of Representatives again in 1949 and served each succeeding session through 1957. He served as Chairman of the House Finance Committee in the 1957 General Assembly until Governor Luther Hodges appointed him Solicitor for the Sixteenth Solicitorial District. He served in that capacity until 1965 when Governor Dan K. Moore appointed him Superior Court Judge for the Twenty-Fifth Judicial District, making him the first resident judge from Cleveland County since Judge E.Y. Webb resigned in 1930.

Bayard and Sara had two daughters: Elizabeth Pearson, born February 5, 1943; and Selma Eskridge, April 6, 1946. Both girls were born in Shelby.

Elizabeth (Betsy) married Benjamin Thomas Ellis, also of Shelby, on August 23, 1963. They had four daughters: Sara Hines, born April 14, 1967 in Chapel Hill, Orange County, North Carolina; Elizabeth Falls, December 10, 1968; Mary Catherine, October 10, 1970; and Carolyn Whitten, July 15, 1972. The last three girls were born in Cleveland County.

Selma married Lehman Rowell Moody of Spartanburg, South Carolina, March 3, 1973. They had three sons, all born in Spartanburg: Lehman Rowell, Jr., March 22, 1975; Bayard Falls, March 23, 1977; and John Taylor, October 24, 1979.

B.T. Falls, Jr. grew up a Baptist, but he joined the Episcopal Church of the Redeemer in Shelby with his wife Sara. He was a devout member and served as Vestryman and Sunday School teacher.

Bayard Thurman Falls, Jr. was known professionally as B.T., but in Cleveland County and the General Assembly he was known as "Buzz", a teller of good jokes. His sense of humor, abundance of anecdotes, his knowledge of human frailties combined to make him a personality apart, and also served him well as Judge.

"Judge", as his grandchildren lovingly called him, died September 10, 1976 at home having suffered a fatal heart attack. He is buried in Sunset Cemetery, Shelby, North Carolina.

— Sara Hines Falls

CICERO CLEMMIE FALLS

443

My daddy, Cicero Clemmie Falls was born in Cleveland County March 24, 1881 and died January 6, 1952. He was the son of John Zemri Falls and Sarah Catherine Cline Falls. On February 14, 1906, he married Hattie Maude Lattimore, who was born December 11, 1887 and died March 29, 1929. She was the daughter of Charles Blanton Lattimore and Martha Jane Jackson Lattimore.

Daddy was a cotton and cattle farmer who started out with 72 acres. He bought the homeplace from his father in 1907, remodeled it in 1927, and added other tracts later leaving an estate close to one thousand acres. He felt that land was the best investment you could make and he wanted to leave each child at least one hundred acres.

His hobbies included the following: training saddle horses, trading mules, coon and 'possum hunting. His favorite dog was a blue tick hound named Old Blue. He also enjoyed entering his hereford cattle at the Cleveland County Fair, and showing off his prize bull Domino, who weighed close to 2400 pounds.

My mother loved music and could play by ear. She also enjoyed cooking and sewing, but she died at a young age so these chores were left for my daddy and the children.

My parents were members of Carpenter's Grove Baptist Church where they were buried. They had ten children:

Cicero Brevard Falls born October 13, 1907 and died March 29, 1980. He married Adele Nichols and moved to Dalton, Georgia where he was a dentist. They had three children: Sandra Maxine Falls married Patrick Lee Baker, Penny Lee Falls married Robert Lane Nix, and Cydell Brevard Falls married Susan Werle.

Bertha Helen Falls born February 11, 1909, married Joseph Caldwell Miller on January 21, 1938. They had no children. She lives in Maryland but owns the family homeplace.

Ralph Lane Falls born October 3, 1910 married Alice Street, December 31, 1937 and moved to Morganton where he is a dentist. They have two children: Alice Elaine Falls, and Ralph Lane Falls, Jr. married to Mary Harden Cooper.

Martha Catherine Falls born March 10, 1913, married Carl James Miller August 3, 1935, and lives on part of the land that was the Falls Farm property. They had five children: Marion Cicero Miller who married Alice Gay Toney, Frances Carolyn Miller who married Robert Amzi Ely, Rachel Etta Miller who married John Almer Howell, Olan Carle Miller who married Nancy Ann Drinkard, and Roger Kon Miller who married Julia Ann Lowe.

Charles Zemri Falls born January 3, 1915 married Deloma Jane Phillips March 27, 1943. He lives in Shelby and worked at the Veterans Service Office. They had three children: Charles Zemri Falls who married Dea Nebeker, Linda Deloma Falls who married Robert Weber, and Steven Scott Falls who married Mehri Heidi.

Sarah Falls born July 20, 1917 married John Ferdinan Brackett, August 16, 1936 and lives on part of the land that was the Falls Farm property. They had four children: John Kenneth Brackett died January 14, 1978, and was married to Marilyn Manor, Barbara Jane Brackett married to Terrell Archer Strickland, Margaret Maude Brackett married to Donald Ray Morrison, and Jo Anne Brackett married to Cletus Paul Owens, Jr.

Mary Frances Falls born May 17, 1920 married Vanoy B. Miller April 26, 1941 and lives in Morganton. They had two children: Vanoy Bruce Miller who married Susan Edith Cappel, and Frances Faye Miller who married Robert Thomas Stinson, Jr.

Jackson Lattimore Falls born June 22, 1922 married May 10, 1941 to Mary Etta Melton. They live in Glen Alpine where he is a real estate broker and insurance salesman. They had three children: Kaye Falls who died November 22, 1957, Jackson Lattimore Falls Jr. who married Sherry Allen, and Larry Wayne Falls who married Ann Ligon.

Margaret Ruth Falls born May 31, 1925 married William Ralph (Bill) Dixon April 21, 1945 and they live in Belwood. They had two children: Donald William Dixon married to Matilda Ann (Tillie) Barret, and Dale Falls Dixon married To Sherry Lynn Hamrick.

Bayard Thurman Falls, Jr.

Cicero Clemmie and Hattie Lattimore Falls.

Alfred Donald Falls was born May 6, 1927 and died on July 19, 1930.

Sources: Family records, grave stones.

— Martha Falls Miller, daughter and Margaret Brackett Morrison, granddaughter

CYRUS THOMPSON FALLS

444

Cyrus T. Falls, son of Alvin Price and Elizabeth Patterson Falls, was born February 2, 1896 in Cleveland County two miles northwest of Kings Mountain. He died December 20, 1981 and was buried in Mountain Rest Cemetery in Kings Mountain.

Cy spent much of his adult life in Florida but continued to maintain a home near Kings Mountain where he spent several weeks each summer.

In 1929, he married Bonnie Ware, also a Cleveland County native. They had two children — C. T. Falls, Jr. of Cranford, New Jersey and Sarah F. McCraney of Dunedin, Florida — and 7 grandchildren.

The following excerpts were taken from Rev. Allen Stuarts remarks given at the memorial service for Cyrus Falls in the United Methodist Church in Dunedin, Florida on December 22, 1981.

“On Sunday, December 20th., Cyrus Falls closed out a worldwide record in Sunday school attendance. He left this world with 67 years, 5 months of perfect attendance in Sunday School!

There’s a plaque hanging in our church that attests to this kind of dedication. It was presented to Cyrus at the 1979 session of the Florida Annual Conference of the United Methodist Church in recognition of his (at that time)

65 years of perfect attendance in Sunday School.

On October 27, 1981, he finished reading through the entire Bible for the 28th. time. His wife, Bonnie, said he wore out at least 3 Bibles through constant use.

He enjoyed reading the scriptures, and in 1979 he had the privilege to tour the Holy Land with our friend, Edison Russell. Cy wanted to become better acquainted, not simply with the homeland of Christ, but also he wanted to walk in his footsteps.

Cy gave himself completely to the Lord at an early age. He decided then that he would set aside a time for spiritual growth. He decided he would not only dedicate himself to reading the Bible, but also he would set a goal to attend Sunday School every Sunday he was able. He did it for 67 years and 5 months.

Significantly, Cy was in Sunday School when he felt something go wrong with his body. He was determined to finish out the hour, although what he was feeling was the beginning of a stroke. It was appropriate that he would be in Sunday School when the stroke set in — because it was Sunday — where else would he be?

It was on a Sunday again, and very appropriate, that he went home to that place prepared for him by that same Jesus that Cy had come to know through scripture, through worship, through the Sunday School and through walking in the footsteps of his Lord.

I feel tremendously inadequate this day because I don’t have these marks of dedication that Cy had. I’ve never possessed his sense of worth as an individual, nor his beautiful humility, nor the holiness that characterized his life. He was an inspiration to me, and I hope he was to you, so that we just might want to dedicate the balance of our lives to that holy purpose of growing in grace. Cy did it.

He did it by reading the Bible, a verse at a time, a chapter at a time, a book at a time. His Sunday School record came about one Sunday at a time.

Isn’t it strange that Cy arranged never to be sick on Sunday morning, never had friends to come in at the wrong time, never stayed up too late on Saturday night so that he had a headache on Sunday morning — and, for him, it never rained too hard, nor was it too cold for him to be in his place.

One Sunday at a time — he arranged that with his Lord until his final illness, and then when he was able to communicate he wanted folks to bring the Sunday School lesson to him.

The mark of a dedicated person is to give one’s self completely to a holy purpose. We’re here to celebrate the life of one who did it.”

— Hugh Falls

FRED FALLS, M.D.

445

Fred Falls was born in Cleveland County, North Carolina, December 29, 1903. He was the son of Alfred Falls and Lula Crowder Falls. His grandfather was John Zimiri Falls, Jr., who served in the Confederate Army as a Second Lieutenant. His grandmother was Catherine Cline Falls. His five sisters were: Mamie Lee Edwards, Mary Lou (Lucy) Williamson, Beulah Ann Harrill, Willie Lillian Sims. His two brothers were Cicero Dixon Falls (deceased), a dentist in Woodruff, South Carolina, and Robert Zimiri Falls who was a member of the North Carolina House of Representatives for sixteen years.

Dr. Falls was married to Anna Lee Elmore, February 25, 1937. They had two sons. Richard Elmore (Dicky) who died at the age of ten years with poliomyelitis in 1948. Fred Eugene married Valerie Linda Lee in 1964. They have three children: Susan Elizabeth, Katherine Anne and Lee Chapman. Fred Eugene graduated from Wake Forest University and received his Master’s Degree in Business Administration from Georgia State, Atlanta, Georgia. He now resides in Raleigh, North Carolina, and is an investment counselor.

Dr. Falls attended Boiling Springs High School and upon graduation he enrolled at Wake Forest College and graduated with a B.S. degree in medicine in 1928. He transferred to Tulane University Medical School to complete his medical education and received his M.D. degree in 1930. A two year internship was then served in the Henry Grady Hospital in Atlanta, Georgia. He returned to Lawndale, North Carolina and began the general practice of medicine. This practice was interrupted by World War II. In 1942, he began four years of active duty in the United States Army, spending two and one-half years in the Pacific Area with the 108th Station Hospital. After his discharge from the Army in 1946, he moved his family to Shelby where he began the general practice of medicine. He continued his busy practice in Shelby until six months before his death.

Dr. Falls was an active, and later honorary, member of the Cleveland Memorial Hospital

Dr. Fred Falls.

Medical staff, a member of the Cleveland County Medical Society, the North Carolina State Medical Society, and the American Medical Association. At one time, he was a member of the Board of Trustees of Cleveland Memorial Hospital.

He was also a member of the Masonic Lodge, Shelby Rotary Club, Central United Methodist Church, Cleveland Country Club, and North Lake Country Club.

During his busy years of practice, he kept informed of new developments in medicine by attending numerous post-graduate courses including one in traumatic surgery at the University of Pennsylvania and another in cardiology at Duke University Medical School.

Dr. Falls tempered the confinement of his medical career with his interest in farming and raising cattle. During his practice, he rapidly won the respect and admiration of his colleagues, was loved by his patients, and by his actions demonstrated the characteristics of a dedicated physician with a noteworthy concern and depth of understanding for those persons entrusted to his care. He was a gentleman who gave kind, soft-spoken words, patience, friendly help, and comfort to the many thousands who sought his capable help and advice.

Dr. Falls died July 8, 1965 and is buried in Sunset Cemetery in Shelby, North Carolina.

Sources: Family records and personal knowledge.

— Anne Elmore Falls

The American line of the Falls family was established by Charles Falls who came from England to Pennsylvania in 1635. From his line three brothers came from Chester County, Pennsylvania, to Rowan County, North Carolina, in the fall of 1753. One was John who brought with him a son also named John.

John Falls, Sr., born in 1710, died January 1776, in Mecklenburg County. His estate was settled by his wife, Martha, and son Gilbreath — who was at this time Sheriff of Rowan County. This Gilbreath Falls was one of the Captains killed at the Battle of Ramsour's Mill, June 20, 1780.

John Falls born in 1744 became the progenitor of the Cleveland County Fallses. His first purchase of land in the area as recorded in Lincoln County Deeds on December 21, 1784 was John Curry's Patent on Kings Creek. He added to this purchase until he eventually owned more than two square miles of land in and around the town presently known as Kings Mountain.

Here the Falls family settled in and became a part of the county with its fertile soil and streams for their grist mills, tanyards, and stills. Their neighbors were the Whites, Dicksons, Gambles, Fergusons, Beatties, Blackwoods, Oates, Quinns, and Wilsons, and their lives became interwoven through marriage.

John married first to a Ferguson by whom he had one son, James. On February 27, 1797, John conveyed to James three tracts of land, part of which is in the town of Kings Mountain where Mountain Rest Cemetery is presently located.

James' son, Robert Falls, was one of six Lincoln County representatives who met with Rutherford County representatives on September 22, 1836 at the home of John Teeter Beam for the purpose of promoting the formation of a new county. This county — Cleveland — was set up in 1841 as a result of their meetings.

John married second in Rowan County, June 2, 1772, to Rachel; daughter of George and Sarah Dodson Clayton. Their children were: George married Ellen White, Sarah married first cousin Andrew; son of Andrew and Sarah McLean Falls, John married Elizabeth; daughter of Thomas and Mary Beatty Ferguson, William married Sarah; daughter of John and Sarah Harmon Dickson, Esther married first cousin William; son of Andrew and Sarah McLean Falls.

George and Ellen lived in the mansion on a plantation near Kings Creek — which John had conveyed to his son, George, in March 1802. On October 14, 1814 William received from his father two tracts of land on Kings Creek. This land was sold by William, May 6, 1818, to John Dickson, Jr., his brother-in-law.

After selling his land in 1818, William moved to the Sugar Hill area of Cleveland County, and his family later acquired land which became the town of Fallston to which his son John Zimri gave the family name.

John Zimri Falls built the first corn mill, the first saw mill, and operated the first store in Fallston. He also donated the land and mostly built the Friendship Methodist Church in which the Fallston Academy was organized in 1886.

In 1903, his son Thomas Dickson Falls became chairman of the Cleveland County Board of Education. This Falls was also remembered for carrying the Confederate banner into battle at Gettysburg on July 3, 1863.

John Falls' third marriage was to Mrs. Rebecca Shields Gamble — who brought her young son, John Gamble, to live with them. Their children were: Isabella married first cousin George; son of Andrew and Sarah McLean Falls, Andrew never married, Rebecca married William; son of James and Mary Ferguson Falls, and soldier of the War of 1812 — this James was a son of Andrew and Sarah McLean Falls, Mary married Isaac White, Agness, called Nancy married John Dickson, Jr.; son of John and Sarah Harmon Dickson, Rachel married Robert Wilson.

John Falls left by will a tract of land to his son Andrew. Here is where gold was found in August 1829, in the gravels along a branch at the site where the Kings Mountain Waterworks was later located. In March 1836, Andrew acquired the two adjoining tracts of land, originally owned by his father, from John Dickson, Jr. Then on November 5, 1836, a company of ten was formed to mine the gold. It was called The Kings Mountain Gold Mine.

John Falls died April 23, 1828 and was buried in the rock wall enclosed cemetery at old Pisgah Associate Reformed Presbyterian Church — the church of which he and his son, James, were trustees in its earliest years and where many Fallses have markers.

— Mrs. Ola Falls Pruette

THE JOHN ZIMRI FALLS SR. FAMILY

447

John Zimri Falls Sr. was born on September 7, 1811, in the Kings Creek section of Lincoln County, North Carolina. His grandfather, John Falls, settled on Kings Creek around 1790. His father, William Falls, born around 1773 in North Carolina, moved with his father to Kings Creek. Around the turn of the century, William Falls married Sarah Dickson, daughter of the Revolutionary War veteran, John Dickson, Sr.

After the War of 1812, William Falls sold the land he received from his father and moved to the Buffalo Creek section of Lincoln County. John grew to manhood in this area of Lincoln County and was available to help with the formation of the new county to be called 'Cleveland'. He was a company captain for the 1840 tax survey which created the tax base for the new county. He later served as the second sheriff of Cleveland County.

On August 10, 1830, John married Eleanor G. Wilson, daughter of William and Isabella Graham Wilson. To them were born the following children:

Martha Love, born May 5, 1831, died February 10, 1901, who married Jacob Cline Lackey; Dickson, born July, 1832, died October 19, 1922, who married Eliza J. Lowe on April 28, 1858; William J., born in 1834, died in February, 1849; Robert Wilson, born on November 15, 1836, died on May 18, 1880, who married Rebecca Baxter; Mathilda, born in 1838, who married Alexander Cobb; and Sarah E., born in 1840, who married Isaac R. Oats (Oates) on January 1, 1861. Eleanor G. Wilson Falls died on October 23, 1840, and was buried at Bethlehem M.E. Church.

John Zimri Falls, Sr.

The Falls family had been always active in their church. John Zimri Falls, Sr. followed the tradition set by his grandfather John, who donated land for the old Pisgah A.R.P. Church near Kings Mountain, North Carolina. In 1836, he donated land for Bethlehem Methodist Episcopal Church in Lincoln County, and in February, 1893, he donated a parcel of land for Fallston M.E. Church in Cleveland County. He also donated land beside the church in Fallston for the Fallston Academy, which later became Fallston High School.

In 1850, John traded his land along Buffalo Creek to Wilke Wellmon, his former brother-in-law, for Wellmon's land near a crossroads along the Lincoln-Rutherfordton road. This crossroads became known as 'Fallston' in honor of John Zimri Falls, Sr.

On February 15, 1842, John married his second wife, Elizabeth C. Bigham, daughter of Samuel and Barbara Carpenter Bigham. Their family consisted of five sons:

Thomas Dixon, born on January 13, 1843, who married Annie P. Gardner, and died on July 5, 1905; George Lewis, born on November 1, 1844, who married Sarah Louisa Elliott on December 11, 1864, and died on February 14, 1886; John Zimri, Jr., born on September 30, 1846, who married Sarah Catherine Cline on October 21, 1867, and died on October 22, 1937; Fletcher, born on November 5, 1849, who married Alice Williamson on September 15, 1875, and died on January 27, 1933; and Benjamin Franklin, born on April 17, 1855, who married Sue Curtiss, and died on February 2, 1926. All but the two youngest sons of John Zimri Falls Sr. served in the Confederate Army in the War Between the States.

John Zimri Falls Sr. died on April 26, 1895, and was buried in the cemetery at Fallston M.E. Church. His wife, Elizabeth, survived him until November 23, 1901, when she died and was buried beside her husband. After the Fallston M.E. Church moved to its present site, the old cemetery became overgrown, and in the 1960s the graves of John Zimri and Elizabeth Falls were moved to Rose Hill Cemetery.

Sources: Materials from Mrs. Esther Wilson Bigham of Vista, California; Mrs. Virginia Walden of La Place, Louisiana, great-granddaughter of George Lewis Falls; John T. Falls, Sr., of Columbia, S.C., great-great-great-grandson of John Falls of Kings Creek, N.C.; Marriage Records and Deed Books of Cleveland County, N.C.; Death Certificates of Cleveland County, N.C.; Proof of Heirship of Fletcher Falls, File No. 6370, State of Texas, County of Eastland, sent by Mrs. Joan Roseborough of Grand Prairie, Texas; Wills of John Zimri Falls, Sr. and Thomas Dixon Falls, Cleveland County, North Carolina.

— Patricia DePriest King

JOHN ZIMRI FALLS JR. and FAMILY

448

John Zimri Falls Jr. was born September 30, 1846, in Cleveland County, the third son of John Zimri Falls Sr. and his wife, Elizabeth C. Bigham. Before his eighteenth birthday, Zimri joined Company C of the 71st Regiment of North Carolina troops in the Confederate States Army. He was commissioned a second lieutenant on May 27, 1864. He fought with his company in eastern North Carolina and Virginia. Zimri and Company C were present at the Battle of Bentonville where General Johnston's army of less than 20,000 men held back the Union forces under General Sherman for three days. Sherman's army numbered over 70,000 men.

After Lee's surrender at Appomattox Courthouse, Zimri returned home to Cleveland County where he married Sarah Catherine Cline on October 21, 1867. The daughter of David and Rachel Charlotte Lattimore Cline, Catherine was the calming influence Zimri needed to offset his fiery disposition.

Zimri became an active political, religious and civic leader in upper Cleveland County. He was a Justice of the Peace in No. 10 township for 32 years. One of the leading farmers of that township, he was an avid convert to the Baptist church, and faithfully attended New Bethel Church until the formation of Carpenter's Grove Baptist Church. He became a charter member of the new church which was closer to his home. In his later years, he moved from No. 10 township to Shelby, where he placed his membership with the First Baptist Church.

Married for 68 years, Zimri and Catherine produced a family of eleven children, ten of whom lived to adulthood in Cleveland County and whose numerous descendants still reside in the county. Their children were Mittie Ella, born October 29, 1868, who married Abram Decatur Warlick on December 22, 1887, and died on May 15, 1954; Alfred, born on April 19, 1870, who married Mattie Tulula Crowder on October 18, 1894, and died on March 14, 1953; John F., born on August 24, 1872, who married on November 2, 1895 Hattie Irene

THE JOSEPH ANDERSON FALLS FAMILY

449

Mary Catherine Harmon was born April 26, 1868. She was the daughter of John Jake and Elizabeth Jane Thornburg Harmon. Mary was a short woman with light brown hair when she married Joseph Anderson Falls. He was a tall man about six feet with dark hair and a large nose. They were married at her father's house in Cleveland County on December 17, 1885 by Adderson Oates, Esq. It was witnessed by Andrew McGill and James Randall. Joseph was the son of James Henry and Kathryn Huffstickler Falls and was born October 3, 1862.

Joseph Falls, became a prosperous brick manufacturer in Kings Mountain. He made the bricks and built his family a home on East King Street, around 1910. The walls are six inches thick. Six of his nine children grew up there. The home was sold in the early 1940's to a Mr. Frank Sisk of Bessemer City and became the Sisk Funeral Home.

Joe also made the bricks for the old Central Methodist Church that stood on the corners of Piedmont and Mountain Streets. It was built in 1905 and was torn down in 1966. The United Methodist Church stands in its place. Joe made the bricks for many of the early brick buildings of Kings Mountain.

Mary Falls was a religious woman who saw that her children went to church every Sunday and any other religious activities during the week. She hummed hymns as she went about her household chores. Mary was a thrifty woman and tight with money, maybe a little stingy sometimes. Her husband, Joe, on the other hand would give you the shirt off his back. He was very outgoing and work silk suits in his heydey. Joe also liked music and paid a Mr. Gardner to teach singing lessons once a week to Bessie, Roland, Ellen, and Marvin. These were the oldest children. Ollie and Oliver would sit and watch, they were too young to participate.

Marvin was killed in February 1933 in an automobile accident on his way to his brother-in-law's funeral, Capt. James Dickey.

Leola Falls, is the eldest child of Joe and Mary Falls. She was born August 5, 1887. She married Winston Whitworth November 4, 1908. She and her husband moved to Lowell, N.C. Leola was a tall woman with dark hair and Winston had two daughters.

Another daughter of Joe and Mary Falls was named Ida Lillian Falls born December 17, 1888. She married Thomas Van Buren Styers December 18, 1905. They had nine children, but one died in infancy. Two of their daughters went to Greensboro to work and the family eventually moved there. Ida died July 1952.

Thomas Edgar Falls was born July 19, 1890. He married Annie Cain and they had two children. Annie died and Edgar married Neely Tatum and they had two sons. The family lived in Elizabeth City, N.C. Edgar died March 24, 1944.

A fourth child, Pearlie Bright, born June 4, 1893 only lived a short time. She died March 1896.

Minnie Bessie born July 14, 1896 was a tall slim woman like her father and she had red hair. She married Capt. James Robert Dickey in 1921. They had four children. One of their daughters died at the age of 13 in 1938. Bessie died in December 1979, after several strokes. She had spent her last years in a rest home.

Ellen Birtie Falls (SEE RICHARD PATRICK CROKER) was a short woman like her mother, Mary, and she also had red hair. Ellen quit school in the eighth grade and went to work in the old Phenix Mill. In 1923 she was working as a telephone operator along with her sister, Bessie. Ollie Mae Falls, another sister, was working at the telegraph office, but was later transferred to Greensboro. Later several other members of the family followed. Ollie was born February 12, 1907. She married Jesse Whitmore and remained in Greensboro. Ellen retired from the Neisco Mills (old Margrace), after 37 years. She had been the telephone receptionist since 1955.

Roland Page Falls born September 28, 1901, married Eunice Hord. They had four children, but one died in childhood. Roland and Eunice also lived in Greensboro. Roland died February 19, 1956.

Oliver Troy Falls (Red) born November 21, 1909 was the last child born to Joe and Mary Falls. He was a short man like his mother and he too had red hair. He married Lois Cloninger in August 1933. They had one child. When the war was over Oliver came back to Kings Mountain and opened a venetion blind shop on York Road. Venetion blinds were very popular at that time in many homes. He had written on the back of his shop truck "Blind Man Driving". And that used to cause quite a stir on the highway with other motorists. Oliver and Lois had moved to Charlotte in the middle 1960's. They were preparing to move back to Kings Mountain when Oliver died in May 1978 of a heart attack. Only three daughters, of Joe and Mary Falls remain.

Leola is 94 years old and living in a rest home in Charleston, S.C. near a daughter. Ellen is 82 and living in a rest home in Cherry-

Costner and on August 10, 1950, Mrs. June Bradshaw Wright, and died on March 18, 1964; Louisa, born on November 5, 1875, and died on March 5, 1876; David Tilden, born on January 24, 1877, who married Kimmie Etta Grigg on January 1, 1900, and died on July 21, 1900; Bayard Thurman, Sr., born on January 28, 1879, who married Selma La Reau Eskridge on July 10, 1909, and died on August 28, 1966; Cicero Clemmie, born on March 24, 1881, who married Hattie Maude Lattimore on February 4, 1906, and Annie Hull on July 10, 1929, and died on January 6, 1952; Margaret Belzora, born on July 4, 1883, who married Clarence C. Warlick on December 31, 1902, and died on January 9, 1975; Docia Louada, born on November 26, 1886, who married Clyde Eaker on August 26, 1908, and died on June 23, 1953; Charlotte Catherine, born on December 25, 1888, who married George McClure Edwards on December 21, 1915, and died on April 1, 1977; and Laura Novella, born on October 2, 1893, who married W. Herbert Borders on July 29, 1919.

Sarah Catherine Cline Falls died on July 8, 1935, and was buried at New Bethel Baptist Church near Lawndale, North Carolina, beside the graves of her two children who predeceased her. Zimri died of a heart attack on October 22, 1937, and was buried beside his wife of so many years.

The children of John Zimri Falls Jr. and Sarah Catherine Cline were very prolific. Their children number over seventy who lived to adulthood. The annual Falls reunion in upper Cleveland County, held on the second Sunday in July, brings together all these descendants, many of whom still reside in Cleveland County.

Sources: Obituary of John Zimri Falls Jr. from the Shelby Daily Star, dated October 25, 1937; Cleveland and Rutherford Counties, N.C., Confederate Soldiers 1861-1865, foreword by Virginia Greene DePriest; Marriage Records, Death Certificates, and Will Books of Cleveland County, North Carolina; Cemetery Records from various churches in Cleveland County, North Carolina; Personal Remembrances by Sue Kathryn DePriest and Tilden B. Falls

— Patricia DePriest King

John Zimri, Jr. and Catherine Cline Falls.

ville, N.C. And Ollie is 75, still active and working part time at Cass Jewelers where she has worked full time for many years. She still lives in the little white house she and Jesse built in the early 1950's.

— Mrs. Charles Edwards

SARAH ELIZABETH PATTERSON FALLS

450

Sarah Elizabeth, oldest daughter of Ira H. and Angeline Whitesides Patterson, was born in Cleveland County November 25, 1873. On August 26, 1891 she was married to Alvin Price Falls who was also born in Cleveland County (1861-1942). To this union ten children were born, six of whom are still living.

S. Elizabeth, my mother, was an industrious homemaker and active in her church and community. She was a charter member of the Patterson Grove Baptist Church, choir leader in her early years and instrumental in organizing the Womans' Missionary Union to which she was elected first president.

For more than forty years she was an enthusiastic member of the Patterson Grove Home Demonstration Club. She held the offices of president, vice president and treasurer for a total of twenty-four years. She helped start the Cleveland County Fair as head of the canning department. Canning was a hobby of hers and she perfected that hobby. She won many blue ribbons for attractive exhibits of canned fruits and vegetable at both the county and state fairs. One year she was awarded a silver-plated loving cup for winning the most blue ribbons in her department.

Perhaps the most complimentary phase of her canning experiences came from the Kerr Fruit Jar Company which requested she can some fruits to be used by the company for display purposes. This she did and with pride.

In 1933 some of her canned fruits were exhibited at the World's Fair in Chicago. Ribbons were not awarded, but she received a Certificate of Excellence.

Mother left a legacy — not of material wealth but of intangibles — quiet patience, kindness, pleasant disposition, unselfishness, boundless energy and Christian fortitude.

Her friends and neighbors summed up her services very fittingly by saying:

"She was a Christian and hard working home builder who made valuable contributions during her ninety-one years". Martin Harmon, Editor of the Kings Mountain Herald.

"Mrs. Falls was one of the sweetest persons I have ever known. Her characteristics are found throughout the Bible. She was a great inspiration to me and encouraged me more than any other person in the Patterson Grove Church. Her words of encouragement are invaluable to me". Rev. J.J. Thornburg, Pastor.

"I don't know anyone who lived a fuller life and contributed more to the happiness of others than she did. I think the congeniality of her family was due to her influence". James Patterson, Nephew.

"Only words of kindness are spoken about

Joseph Anderson Falls, 1862-1947.

Home of Joseph Anderson Falls, built around 1910.

Sarah Elizabeth Patterson Falls

the silver-haired Mrs. Falls whose work has been her pleasure, whose unselfishness has been her gain and whose disposition has won her a wealth of friends". Mrs. Rush Hamrick, Reporter for the Cleveland Times.

"Mrs. Falls cultivated the principal art of life — that of growing old successfully, creatively and happily. She has always been interested in something outside herself — some interest, some cause, some affection. Those who knew her well realize the secret of her art. She has cultivated through the years an 'understanding heart' and an interest in others and their needs. You never see her when she is not pleasant. Her smile is contagious and her laugh is a real index to her character". Miss La Una Brashears, Home Demonstration Agent.

"Mrs. Falls was a dedicated Christian, a devoted mother and a wonderful neighbor who has been an inspiration to her church and community. It can truly be said of her, 'She hath done what she could'. Her life should be an inspiration and pattern for this generation". Mrs. R.F. Elam, neighbor for more than fifty years.

Sources: Bible, church minutes, newspapers, letters and personal knowledge

— L. Janet Falls

RUTH AUDREY BROWN FARGASON

451

Ruth Audrey Brown, daughter of William Thomas Brown and Fannie Jane Casey was born July 15, 1915 in Tuccapaw, South Carolina. She married in 1939, Wade Harper Fargason of Atlanta, Georgia, son of William Fargason and Mattie Harper (a descendent of Wade Hampton).

Ruth attended Shelby schools, sang in the choir and taught Sunday School at Shelby Second Baptist Church. She was the community hair stylist, boiling flax seed to make the setting lotion. She completed her education at Oglethorpe University (1954), Henry University, and taught school at South Mountain Institute, Nebo, North Carolina and in Georgia until her death August 4, 1959. She and Wade are buried in Mellwood Cemetery, Clarkton, Georgia. Wade died May 9, 1974.

Ruth and Wade's children are:

Josephine Annette born June 19, 1940 in Chattanooga, Tennessee; married Ronnie Sealey and they have three children. Wade Harper Fargason, Jr. born April 19, 1944, Cheverly, Maryland; married March 1, 1975 Virginia Mae Beasley; son Jason Wade born May 29, 1977.

— Mrs. John S. Blanton Jr.

EDWARD FLOYD FARRIS FAMILY

452

Edward Floyd Farris was born Jan. 9, 1903 at Bethany in York County South Carolina. He was the third child of Sylvanis Hampton and Mary Foster Farris. At the age of three years his parents moved to Cleveland County. Several years later they moved to Gaston County where he attended and was graduated from Tryon High School in March of 1923. Floyd attended Kings College where he graduated in business and accounting. After graduating from Kings College he was employed by the Bell Telephone System in Gastonia as collection supervisor. He worked in that capacity until 1928, at which time he was transferred to Charlotte, N.C. as cashier of the company there. In 1930 he returned to Gastonia where he took the position of Office Manager of the Bell System.

On December 30th. 1935 Floyd was married to Athleen Brown Whisnant whom he met while she was teaching in the public schools of Gastonia, N.C. Floyd and Athleen have one daughter, Mary Camille, who was born in Gastonia, N.C. on April 24, 1946. She graduated from Shelby, N.C. high school and was later graduated from the University of North Carolina at Greensboro, N.C. While in school she spent one year, her junior year, at Heidleberg University in Germany. After finishing school she taught German at the University of North Carolina at Greensboro, N.C. On April 4, 1970 Camille was married to William Allen Suttle of Greensboro, N.C. They have three boys, William Allen, Samuel Brown, and Allen Edward.

Floyd was transferred on September 1, 1952 to Shelby, N.C. as Southern Bell Telephone Co.'s group manager for Cleveland County, a position he held until his retirement on July 1, 1967. Lifestyle for Floyd and Athleen changed considerably after his retirement from Southern Bell and her retirement from teaching fifth grade at Marion School. For the first few years they visited forty-six of the fifty states, four continents, Mexico, and Canada. Other hobbies for each of them has been reading and gardening.

Floyd was active in civic affairs such as Chamber of Commerce work, having served as president in 1962. He was later made an honorary lifetime member of that body.

He served on the board of directors of the United Way for twenty-six years and on the state board for three years. He was the Executive director for five years. Upon retiring as director on April 30th. 1975, he was made an honorary lifetime member of the board. Floyd served as a member of the board of directors of the Children's Homes of North Carolina for a term of three years.

During his sixteen years as a Rotarian he served as bulletin editor for several terms and was on the board of directors for eight years. Floyd served on the board of directors of the T.B. Association for eight years. He was president of the Telephone Pioneers of America for two one year terms.

He also served for two years as president of the Alumni Association of Tryon High School. At present he is serving as publicity director of the American Association of Retired Persons for Cleveland County.

Floyd was county chairman of the Cerebral Palsy drive for one year.

Athleen (Mrs. Farris) during WWII permitted a watch tower to be built on their property. She contacted and arranged for volunteers to man this station 24 hours a day, reporting any planes in flying in the area to headquarters in Charlotte. She also worked with Mrs. Kay Dixon in collecting information on each person in Service to compile an "honor roll" book covering Gaston County. Floyd maintained a record of all aliens in the county, reporting this information to the Charlotte FBI once a week as to their movements. Telephone calls were monitored by Floyd and any unusual occurrences were reported to the FBI.

Some of his church activities consist of: The board of deacons at the First Baptist Church for many years and serving as chairman in 1962; secretary of this board for two years; a Sunday school teacher in the intermediate department of First church in Gastonia for eight years; serving for four years as a trustee of the Baptist Homes for the Aging at Winston-Salem, N.C. Albemarle, N.C. Hamilton, N.C. and Yanceyville, N.C.

Athleen Whisnant Farris was born in York County. She was the eighth child of a family of nine children. After graduating from Belmont High School and the University at Greensboro, N.C., she did graduate work at Peabody Teacher's College at Nashville, Tenn. and Appalachian State College at Boone, N.C. She taught in the Gastonia, N.C. City Schools and in Shelby City Schools for many years.

Athleen was an active member of the First Presbyterian Church in Gastonia until after her marriage at which time she became an active member of the Baptist Church. She was a member of the North Carolina Poetry Society, American Association of University Women, Ex Libris Book Club, Shelby Garden Club, Long Range Planning Committee of Cleveland County, Chairman of the March of Dimes for Gaston County. She was a member of the Retired Teachers Association, American Association of Retired Persons, and Benjamin Cleveland Chapter of Daughters of the American Revolution. She was Regent of this group for two years.

— Floyd Farris

THE JOSEPH FORBES FAMILY 453

In 1949 The Cleveland Times published an article: "Neglected Graveyard at City Park Holds Remains of William Forbis." Many questions arose about the Forbes family. Further research has clarified some of the unanswered questions.

On January 19, 1820 Joseph Forbes and John Forbes bought two tracts of land from John Patterson of Rutherford County. One tract had 260 acres and the other tract had 220 acres. Each parcel cost $1,000.00. This Joseph Forbes was the father and John Forbes was his son, both from York District, South Carolina.

Joseph Forbes married Mary Spence, daughter of John and Elizabeth Spence also of York District, South Carolina. Four children were born to this union: John S. (b. -d. ca 1842); William (b. ca 1799-d. 1851); Mary and Elizabeth.

Joseph in his will left the plantation where he lived in North Carolina to his son William, except 100 acres to be divided between his daughters Elizabeth and Mary. The daughters were also to have possession of the house as long as they remained single. No further data on the daughters is known. Joseph left a note dated January 14, 1822 for $59.00 to his son John against himself and a cross-cut saw. This would indicate that Joseph may have given his son John the parcel of land purchased in 1820 or made a loan of funds for its purchase. It is quite obvious that John S. owned one of the tracts mentioned here as the reference point of original deed "beginning at a white oak Wilson's corner" is also contained in later deeds of interest in lands of John S. Forbes, deceased.

Just when the son William got full possession of the plantation is unknown. William was married before 1839 to Margaret Ann Wilson, daughter of John and Jane (Jenet) Wilson. Their son Joseph T. was listed as age 11 in the 1850 U.S. Census. A daughter Margaret Ann was born January 3, 1841, the same day her mother Margaret Ann Wilson Forbes died. The baby Margaret Ann was reared by her grandparents John and Jane Wilson.

It appears William married a second time between January 3, 1841 and June 18, 1841 to Elizabeth (Jane E.) as given in the Register of Deeds, Cleveland Courthouse by William and Elizabeth Forbes for forty acres deeded to the town for founding of a county seat in Cleveland County.

It seems John Wilson's wife was a Walker and some members of the Walker, Wilson and Forbes families are buried in the Wilson cemetery.

John S. Forbes, according to a Bible record, had several children: Mary N. (b. 1811); Eleanor A.L. (b. 1813); Margaret P.M. (b. 1815); Joseph D. (b. 1818); Salaannes (Sarah) (b. 1820); Dorcas Dulceana (b. 1822); and William (b. 1824). John's will dated September 5, 1842 mentions Ellender (Eleanor) who married Joseph B. McKinney; Sarah who married Daniel McKinney and a daughter Nuri-sissy. He mentions his two sons Joseph D.

and William and also his son-in-law William B. McEntire. His son William died November 17, 1843. His two daughters, Sarah and Ellender, were single when the will was written. No mention is made of the other children.

This writer descended from Joseph Forbes (b. 1755-d. 1833) and Mary Spence Forbes (b. 1765-d. 1829), through their son John S. Forbes. John's daughter Sarah married Daniel McKinney. They had one daughter Narcisa Jane (b. 1846-d. 1902), who married Francis Newman Gardner in 1870 and they are my grandparents. Francis Newman and Narcisa Jane Gardner had two sons: William Hoyle (b. 1875-d. 1941); James Monroe (b. 1877-d. 1944) married Ollie Hester Hamrick (b. 1880-d. 1963), daughter of Enoch Avery Hamrick and Susan L. Owens Hamrick. James M. and wife Ollie had four children: Virgil Guy (b. 1897-d. 1921); Hattie Ozelle (b. 1900-d. 1964); Marvin Ralph (b. 1906-d. 1968); Mattie Lee (b. 1908-).

Joseph Forbes was born in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania in 1755 and moved to York District, South Carolina before the Revolutionary War. He was drafted into the South Carolina Militia for three months in the fall of 1778. He continued to serve as a draftee or a volunteer in three-month intervals until his final discharge in March of 1781.

He was in the battle of Sumter's defeat in South Carolina in August of 1780. He served in activities in Guilford, Hillsboro, and New Bern, North Carolina and in Henry County, Virginia.

Joseph Forbes lived in York District, South Carolina until 1820 when he bought land from John Patterson in Rutherford County, North Carolina in that portion which became Cleveland County in 1841. He lived on his plantation in North Carolina until his death on November 22, 1833.

Sources: U.S. Census of Rutherford County North Carolina 1790-1840; U.S. Census of Cleveland County North Carolina 1850-1900; U.S. Archives — Pension record of Joseph Forbes; N.C. Archives — wills of Joseph and John S. Forbes — Grace Turner, Researcher; N.C. Archives, deed and some estate papers of Daniel McKinney, Grace Turner, Researcher; N.C. Archives, petitions, guardian papers of Wilson and Forbes — from Elizabeth H. Magness, McKinney, Texas — Grace Turner, Researcher; Miscellaneous McKinney, Forbes and related families from research of Mildred McKinney Gee, Researcher; Cleveland County Historical Association Cemetery Index; Cleveland Times 1949 article; Bible record from Bible of Fannie A. McKinney, researched by William R. McKinney, Littleton, Colorado; Register of Deeds, York, South Carolina, will of John Spence — J.E. Hart, Jr. Researcher; Family Bible and personal knowledge of this writer

— Mattie Lee Gardner Forbes

ORVILLE EMBERRY FORD

454

Orville Emberry Ford was born in 1857 to Andrew and Mary Kiser Ford at the Andrew Ford homestead near Lawndale in #9 Township, Cleveland County. He was the third of thirteen children.

As a young man, he worked on his father's farm and taught school in Belwood until he came to Shelby in 1888 to enter the fertilizer business. Later he was associated with Orlando Elam, a nephew, in the furniture business, until 1896. He continued to sell fertilizer and run a wholesale grocery store near the Seaboard Depot, along with H.S. Nix and Augustus Beam as partners.

After this business was sold, he began operating one of the largest stores for farmers in this area, erecting in 1915 the brick building and warehouses that are still identified as the O.E. Ford Company. Earl Honeycutt, his wife's brother, assisted him. They sold buggies, wagons, power and lighting plants for farms, kerosene engines, fertilizer, guano and tankage. For thirteen years after 1905, he was the owner of Gantt Harness Company in Belwood. This firm tanned and manufactured leather goods which were sold all over the state. O.E. Ford Company bought the Gantt Harness Company in 1918, at which time Mr. Ford's foster son, Thad C. Ford, joined the O.E. Ford Company.

O.E. Ford was a member of the Shelby School Board, Chairman of the County Commissioners, alderman from his ward, and a director of the First National Bank from 1903 until his death. He was a steward of the Methodist Church in Shelby, chairman of the Trustees of the church for many years, and he was a director of the Shelby Insurance and Realty Company.

In temperament, he was kind, generous and full of good humor. He took great pride in the progress made in Cleveland County during his service as county commissioner. When courting his third wife, he would drive her all over the county in a buggy to point out various bridges and improvements which had been made.

Family memories include stories of his going down to the store after supper on a cold winter night to open up the coal bin behind the building, in case someone less fortunate came by looking for coal. Horseback riding was his hobby, and he kept and rode horses most of his life.

He was married three times: first, to Maggie McMurry; second in 1890 to Sallie Jones (1857-1910), and third, in 1914, to Gertrude Honeycutt (1888-1949), who had come to Shelby to teach the fifth grade. He had a daughter by each of these marriages: Mary Ola (1886-1931), Georgia Sue (1891-1891), and Ellen Montgomery (1918-). Sometime during the last five years of the last century, he brought Thad and Hazel Crocker, orphaned brother and sister, from Barium Springs Orphanage, to live in his home. Later they both took the Ford name.

He died August 5, 1922, and is buried in Sunset Cemetery in Shelby.

Sources: Family Bible; Oct. 1916 Star.

— Ellen Montgomery Ford

THAD CROCKER FORD

455

Thad Crocker Ford (September 10, 1889-October 9, 1948) was born Thaddeus Hendricks Crocker in Johnston County, North Carolina, one of five children of John and Elizabeth Clark Crocker. When the children were quite small, the father died and the family moved to Greensboro, where the mother soon died. The children were sent to the Presbyterian Orphanage at Barium Springs.

O.E. Ford, 1857-1918.

During the Depression when the banks closed, he was a trustee at the First National Bank in the re-organization process. For many years he was a director of the Shelby Savings and Loan Association. He was a member of the Shelby Kiwanis Club.

Central Methodist Church was dear to his heart. He and his wife were always present when the doors opened. He served the church in countless capacities locally, on the district, and at the conference level. He was a trustee of Davenport College, a Methodist junior college for women at Lenoir.

His days were long and full. He always arose at four in the morning and did a day's work before other people at the business arrived. He always had time for his family, and he never turned away anyone in trouble. In spite of adversities which could have defeated him, he never lost his sense of humor or his zest for living, and he never forgot to smile.

Though he died at an early age, he left a lasting mark on a community he loved. He is remembered by those who knew him as a kind man, devoted to his family and the Methodist Church, a hard working and successful business man who believed in free enterprise, a humble and generous man who was thoughtful of others, an advocate and leader in public education, and a man who was possessed with an inner glow, even in the face of personal tragedy.

The Ford children are Margaret Toms married to Harold Lee Bettis, and Edwin Clark Ford married to Esther Ann Quinn.

— Mrs. Harold Bettis

CHARLES DANIEL FORNEY, SR.

456

The youngest son of Daniel J. Forney, Charles Daniel Forney, was born May 12, 1882. He attended school in Burke County and at old Piedmont in Cleveland County. He lived for this time with his sister, Mamie Forney Elam at Cleveland Mills. Later he attended Davidson College.

Members of his family were Presbyterian and attended Quaker Meadows Church in Burke County.

During his stay in Cleveland County he met his bride-to-be, Frances Schenck Ramsaur. She was born March 5, 1883 to Thomas Johnson Ramsaur and Minnie Schenck. Her mother was the daughter of Major H.F. Schenck and Leucetia Lattimore. On May 16, 1906 Charles and Frances were married.

After college, C.D. Forney owned and operated Forney and Company on West Union Street in Morganton. He became a member and elder in the Morganton Presbyterian Church.

In 1913 they moved to Lawndale, Cleveland County, after the birth of three sons: Charles Daniel Forney, Jr., Thomas Jacob Forney, and Robert Ramsaur Forney. Mr. Forney was connected with Cleveland Mill and Power Company (later Cleveland Mills Company). After moving to Lawndale two daughters were born: Mamie Lou Forney and Minnie Anna Forney.

the home of Dr. R.C. Ellis, who was interested in helping the children from this orphanage, and had them for week-end visits. Thad came with him at times. O.E. Ford, a Shelby merchant, met Thad, and took a great interest in him. He eventually brought Thad to live with him permanently, along with Thad's sister, Hazel. Both children took the Ford name, though they were never adopted legally.

O.E. Ford operated a store in the same location as the present O.E. Ford Company. Thad ran the Gantt Harness Company in Belwood, in which Mr. Ford had an interest.

Thad married Tommie Brooks Baber, an English teacher from Cherryville, on June 9, 1915, at Central Methodist Church in Shelby. They lived in Belwood, where Thad continued to run Gantt Harness Company and was also the postmaster. In 1918, he joined O.E. Ford Company in Shelby. He and O.E. Ford's brother-in-law, Earl Honeycutt, continued to run the business after Mr. Ford's death.

Thad was vitally interested in his adopted city. He was a City Alderman and a member of the School Board for many years. He was an ardent supporter of public education.

Thad was born with a club foot, and the officials at Barium Springs decided to see if something could be done to correct the deformity. At that time Johns-Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore was the only place where this surgery was done. The matron at the orphanage dressed Thad in his best clothes. He was about eight years old and his clothes came in a barrel sent to the orphanage by concerned Presbyterians. The matron pinned a tag on him and put him on a train to Baltimore in the care of the conductor.

The doctors decided to operate on the foot and Thad stayed in the hospital for about six weeks recovering from the surgery and becoming the pet of the hospital. He returned to the orphanage on crutches, to become the center of attention there. He often spoke of a matron named Miss Celeste Boyd who massaged his foot at night when the pain was worst.

Thad had a limp the rest of his life, but he was always grateful to the people at the orphanage and at the hospital who cared enough to help a small orphan boy.

Thad's brother, Milton, came to Shelby to

C.D. Forney, Sr. later became Secretary and member of the Board of Directors of Cleveland Mills Company. He was active in all the affairs of the community. He and his wife joined the Lawndale Baptist Church. He was active in establishing a Boy Scout troupe in Lawndale and served on the local Scout Committee.

Charles Forney, Sr. served for 28 years on the Cleveland County Board of Education. He was extremely interested in the education of the children of Cleveland County.

Charles Daniel Forney, Jr. was graduated from North Carolina State University. For over 48 years he was associated with Cleveland Mills Company in Lawndale as textile supervisor, then secretary, and later as vice-president. He is now retired.

He is on the Executive and Advisory Board of the Boy Scouts and received the Silver Beaver award in 1964. He served 17 years on the Cleveland County Board of Education. He is active in community services.

Charles, Jr. married Frances Elizabeth Walker, October 15, 1938. They have three children. Charles Daniel Forney III married Betty Jo White of Burlington and they have three children: Jason Daniel, Elizabeth Jo, and Anna White. They reside in Greensboro.

The second child of Charles, Jr. and Frances W. is Michael Walker Forney who married Sharon Goodyear of Canada. They live in Shelby. Michael is Director of Quality Control at Cleveland Mills Company in Lawndale and Sharon is a teacher at Shelby High School. They have two children, Meagan Ryan and Shannon Elizabeth.

The third child of Charles, Jr. is Frances Carol Forney. She is married to George Murray Temple of Virginia. They have three children: George Murray Temple, Jr., Charles Benjamin Temple, and Robert Forney Temple. They live in Virginia Beach, Virginia.

The second son of Charles, Sr. is Thomas Jacob Forney, a graduate of The University of North Carolina. He has been connected with Cleveland Mills Company for 46 years and is now Chemical Engineer. He has been active in Boy Scout Committee work for many years. He was a charter member of the Lawndale Lions Club and active in community and church work. His wife is a teacher.

Thomas married Martha Lane Forlines of Durham March 26, 1949 and they now reside in Shelby. They have two children. Alice Ruth is married to Robert Alan Connolly of Mount Airy where they live. They have one child Julie Anne. The other child of Thomas is Thomas Jacob Forney, Jr. who lives with his parents in Shelby.

The third son, Robert Ramsaur Forney, graduated from Wake Forest University and since has served several terms on its Board of Trustees. He was associated with Lily Mills Company, later Belding Lily, for over 40 years. He served as President and Chairman of the Board before retiring at the end of 1977. He married Jessie Irvin of Cleveland County October 16, 1948 and they reside in Shelby. He is active in church, civic, and community affairs.

Mamie Lou Forney graduated from Meredith College and was a teacher at Shelby High School before her retirement in 1973 after 36 years of teaching. She married Burwell Thompson Bridges February 19, 1950 and they live in Shelby.

Minnie Anna Forney received her undergraduate degree at Meredith College, and her Medical Technology degree at Duke University. After being in charge of the Blood Chemistry Laboratory at Duke Hospital, she became a teacher. She received her Masters Degree from the University of North Carolina. She retired from teaching at Shelby High School in 1981. She lives in Lawndale and is active in the church and community.

Charles D. Forney, Sr. died July 11, 1952 and Mrs. Forney on June 21, 1973. Both are buried in Sunset Cemetery, Shelby.

Sources: Family Records

— Minnie Anna Forney

JACOB FORNEY, SR.

457

The ancestry of the present Forney family of Cleveland County dates back to France. Jacob Forney was born in 1721 in Alsace (then Germany). His father had fled from France after the revocation of the Edict of Nantes in 1685 preferring to leave his native land rather than renounce his religious belief as a French Huguenot.

There are many spellings of the name recorded. Jacob's father was from the Huguenot family of Pierre Chevalier de Ferney, Ain Province, France. Jacob's father changed his name to Forney in Alsace.

When Jacob was four years old his father died. At the age of 14 he left Alsace and went to Amsterdam. In 1735 he sailed to America and settled in Pennsylvania. He remained there and was employed until he became a mature man. He returned to Germany to obtain a small legacy.

He returned to America and aboard the ship were many Swiss emigrants. Among those was an attractive girl, Mariah Bergner, from Bern. Soon after arriving in Pennsylvania Jacob and Mariah were married. A few years after their wedding, they left Pennsylvania and moved to North Carolina about 1754. They settled in Tryon County which is now Lincoln County.

When the Revolutionary War was declared Jacob was too old to enlist, but his three sons became officers in the fight for freedom. The oldest, Jacob, Jr. was a Major, Peter became a General, and Abram a Major.

Cornwallis marched his troops through Lincoln County in 1781 and took over Jacob's home and land for three days. He depleted the Forney farm of cattle, hogs, and other livestock. His Lordship had been informed that Forney had money hidden on the plantation. The British made a complete search and found Forney's gold, silver, and jewelry buried on the place. Much of this wealth had been brought from Alsace.

Cornwallis had occupied the upper story of the home, but he had allowed the Forneys to occupy the basement. As soon as Jacob heard that the British had found his valuables, he seized his gun and rushed up the stairs to kill Cornwallis. His wife prevented tragic consequences from occurring by stopping Jacob.

Jacob's son Peter married Nancy Abernathy. The youngest son married Rachel Gabriel. The four daughters and their husbands were as follows: Catherine married Abram Earnhardt, Elizabeth married John Young, Christina married David Abernathy, and Susan married John D. Abernathy.

The Cleveland County Forneys descended from the oldest son, Jacob, Jr.

Jacob, Sr. died in 1806 and his wife survived for several years. Both were members of the Lutheran Church and are buried in the "Old Dutch Meeting House" graveyard near Macpehlah Church.

Jacob, Jr. was born November 6, 1754 and married Mary Corpening of Burke County. They moved to a valuable tract of land in Burke County purchased earlier by Jacob Forney, Sr. The move occurred soon after the Revolutionary War ended. This property was located on Upper Creek, five miles northwest of Morganton. He and his wife settled here and reared a large family at the home called Cedar Grove. Jacob, Jr. died in 1840 at the age of 86 and is buried in the family cemetery located on the land.

The eleven children of Jacob, Jr. and Mary Forney were: Elizabeth, died young; Thomas J. Forney married S.C. Harris of Montgomery County; Isaac Newton Forney married M.L. Corpening of Burke County; Marcus L. Forney married S. Connelly of Burke County, Albert G. Forney married Eglantine Logan of Rutherford County; Fatima E. Forney married H. Alexander Tate of Burke County; Peter Bergner Forney married H.S. Connelly of Caldwell County; James Harvey Forney married Emily Logan of Rutherford County; Daniel J. Forney married Sally Ramsaur of Lincoln County; Mary L. Forney married W.P. Reinhardt of Catawba County; Catherine S. Forney married A.T. Bost of Catawba County.

The Cleveland County descendants are from Daniel J. Forney and Sally Ramsaur. Their oldest child was Mamie Sue Forney, born 1861, married Thompson Peeler who died in 1888 and then Carme Elam of Cleveland County in 1891. After her marriage to Mr. Elam they resided in Cleveland County. The second child was Anna Marie born in 1863 who first was married to Richard Corpening and after his death to George Shuford Ramsaur. Their daughter, Mary Ramsaur, married Walter Lee of Cleveland County and they had three children Carme Lee, Sarah Lee Spangler, and Julia Lee O'Reilly. The first two reside in Shelby.

The other children of Daniel were: Willie Forney, Pinkney Forney married Mattie Whitener, Robert Forney married Emmie Perkins, Walter Forney, Henry Forney and Julia Forney married M.M. Bost. Daniel's youngest child was Charles Daniel Forney born in 1882.

Daniel died June 5, 1887 and Sally in 1908. Both are buried in the family cemetery in Burke County.

Sources: Wheeler's, Historical Sketches; Crawford, Lee Forney, Forney Forever; Personal records of the Forney Family

— Minnie Anna Forney

MARVIN FORTENBERRY'S FAMILY

458

On September 15, 1903, Marvin Arthur Fortenberry was born to William Clayton and Amanda Eaker Fortenberry near Casar, North Carolina. He was the sixth child of eight children. His parents were farmers and his father also worked at a sawmill. William Clayton loved to sing and Marvin inherited his father's bass voice and also enjoyed singing.

At an early age, Marvin started working for a Power Line Company. On December 23, 1923, he married Minnie Pearl Wallace who was born in Cleveland County on March 20, 1905, to David Lee and Dora Belle Turner Wallace. She was the fifth child of nine children. Her parents were farmers also, and her father, David Lee Wallace, donated the land and built Wallace Grove Baptist Church.

On December 17, 1924, a daughter, Mildred, was born to Marvin and Pearl Fortenberry. She graduated from Pfeiffer Jr. College, married William Parham Beam and they live on New Prospect Church Road. They have one son, William Parham Beam, Jr. who is married to Susan Spangler.

After Mildred's birth, Marvin moved his family to Hickory to work with a Power Company there. Later, he became a foreman and he had his crew built lines in various parts of the Carolinas and Virginia.

On February 9, 1927, a son, William Victor (Bill), was born. He is married to Irene Allen and they have two children, a daughter Ellen and a son, Billy. They live at 1414 Lackey Street, Shelby, N.C. Bill served in the Navy in the South Pacific during World War II for approximately two years. He graduated from National Business College.

On October 10, 1928, a daughter Dorothy was born. She attended Gardner-Webb Jr. College and is married to Charles D. Robertson. They have a daughter, Carol, and live at 800 Lowery Street, Shelby, N.C.

On July 18, 1930, another daughter, Josephine (JO), was born. She took nursing at Cleveland Memorial Hospital and is a Registered Nurse. She is married to Gene Montpetit and they have three daughters, Gina who is married to Robbie Crews, Denise and Delores. Jo and Gene, also, have a grandson, Christopher Crews. They live in Lake City, Florida.

After Jo's birth, Marvin moved his family back to Cleveland County and a daughter, Frances, was born December 2, 1932. Frances graduated from Pfeiffer Jr. College. She married Hubert Lindsey and they have two children — a boy, Bert, and a daughter, Beth. Their home is in Morganton, N.C.

On June 23, 1938, a son, Marvin Arthur Fortenberry, Jr., was born. He went to Gardner Webb a short time before entering the Army. He was stationed in Iceland. He is married to Martha Laughlin and they have a daughter, Cindy, who is married to Allen Hoyle. They live in Fallston. M.A., Jr. went to Cleveland Tech and majored in Industrial Management.

Another son, Wallace Lee Fortenberry, was born October 2, 1940. He graduated from Brevard Jr. College and Western Carolina University. He is married to Judy Gore and they have three sons, Lee, Michael and Jeffrey and they live in Columbus, Georgia.

On Christmas Day, 1943, a daughter, Carolyn, was born. She graduated from Pfeiffer College and is married to Dennis Hagler. They are living in Jacksonville, Florida. Carolyn went to the University of Jacksonville and received her Masters Degree.

On February 12, 1957, at the age of 51, Pearl Wallace Fortenberry died with cancer. She is buried at Clover Hill Methodist Church where Marvin's parents and other members of his family are buried.

On January 30, 1960, Marvin married another fine lady, Josephine Beam, born to Marcus and Willie Beam on January 22, 1911. They are residing at 814 Zion Church Road and are active in the New Prospect Baptist Church and Senior Citizens.

— Mrs. Mildred F. Beam

FULTON-HERNDON-LEDFORD FAMILIES

459

In October of 1856, my Great-great-grandmother Elizabeth Blalock Fulton (January 2, 1810 — April 12, 1885), widow of Daniel Asbury Fulton (August 5, 1804 — September 30, 1843), bought a tract of land along the old Yorkville Road in Cleveland County, midway between Shelby and Kings Mountain, from James M. Weir.

She and her children, Lucy Ann, Eleaiah Pratt, James Preston, Horatio Dekalb, Jeremiah, Mary Rachael, and Stacy Amanda, moved from South Carolina into a log cabin. The cabin burned in the 1930's. She lived there until all her children were married.

She remarried October, 1859, to Thomas Porter McGill, Sr. Incidentally, her new groom was the father-in-law of her daughter, Stacy Amanda. She had sold most of the land to my great grandfather H.D. Fulton (October 31, 1837 — December 28, 1907), in 1858.

Great Grandfather had married Sarah Beatty Dickson (November 25, 1839 — February, 1913) October 2, 1856. Sarah was a great granddaughter of Preston Goforth, Sr. who was killed at the Battle of Kings Mountain.

My great grandparents and their children lived on the farm. Their children Alice, Rachael Ann, Angeline Pratt, Mary Amanda, Charlie Lee, and H. Thomas. They later moved to Kings Mountain where they lived on West Mountain Street.

In 1916, after their deaths, when the estate was settled, my grandfather Walter Anthony Herndon (October 5, 1855 — January 25, 1923) bought the tract of land. He had married on September 1, 1885, Angeline Pratt Fulton (December 13, 1869 — July 19, 1957). Their children were Floyd, Ava, Lizzie Lee, Mae, Theodore, Vela, Enola, Emmett, George, and Frank.

My grandfather gave part of the Fulton land he had purchased to his daughter Mae, who married Ralph Dover, and part to my father, Walter Theodore Herndon (June 16, 1895 — December 13, 1959). My father married Minnie Eliza Randall (October 17, 1891 — September 23, 1968) September 20, 1916. Their children are May Sue, Flora, Deane, Betty, Charles, and David.

September 9, 1939, I (Flora Herndon, b. September 15, 1920) married William Theodore Ledford (b. September 2, 1919). We lived with his parents, Clarence Theodore and Eula Hayes Ledford, on a farm that was the old Hallman Plantation in the early 1800s.

Our son, Michael Theodore, was born in the old house on December 18, 1940. In the fall of 1941, we purchased from my Aunt Mae and Uncle Ralph Dover the former Fulton property. We moved into a house they had built in 1928. This house is located about three hundred feet from where the Fulton cabin stood. In July, 1943, our daughter, Margaret Ann, was born.

We farmed the land and raised chickens until 1953, at which time Ted started a feed route and then opened a business in Kings Mountain, January 1, 1954. August 18, 1963, our son, Michael Theodore, married Sue Jean Wright, daughter of Mildred Thornburg Wright and the late Hubert Wright. Since that time the business had grown and Kings Mountain Farm Center moved into a new building April, 1980. Less than a year later, Mike suffered a heart attack and died March 20, 1981.

We still operate the business and live on the farm which has been in the Fulton, Herndon, and Ledford families for 126 years.

— Flora Herndon Ledford

JOHN FRANKLIN GAFFNEY

460

Several suppositions have been advanced for the reason a twenty-two year old Irish Catholic priest left his home and family, in Granard, County Longford, Ireland, to come to America. The SNOW PALACE sailed from Dublin, July 31st, 1797, and arrived in New York harbor, in October, three months later. New York was a city of 70,000 at that time.

Typhus, typhoid, and yellow fever had reached epidemic proportions, and was subsiding. However, Michael Gaffney was one of the later victims but recovered rapidly.

Political unrest may have been a factor that precipitated Michael's emigration, but, in truth, he had a much more deep-seated and personal reason for this journey. This is substantiated by letters he received from his mother, and from sisters. All appealed to him to refrain from "saying such things about Father So & So. He is a good man, Michael." Besides these letters, a grandson, John Franklin Gaffney, affirmed this fact. Frank's father, Dr. Joseph Gustavous Gaffney, (son of Michael and Polly Gaffney, said the only comment Michael ever made was, "Just a difference of opinion." He was no longer a Catholic communicant. He was a graduate of Trinity College, Dublin, a Catholic school.

Three cold winters in New York were enough, and Michael booked passage on the sailing ship Marion, which sailed January 22, 1800 for Charleston, S.C. After a stormy twelve days at sea, they arrived, in what was then the busiest port in the South. In his journal he says the six men of board, passed the time pleasantly enough, "singing, laughing, joking, telling lies, drinking whiskey; in fact, doing everything but saying their prayers." No one ever accused Michael of being a teetotaler!

In a short time Michael became disenchanted with this swamp malaria-infested area, and its hot, humid climate. On December 11, 1800, he says he "departed without giving it one backward look."

Enroute to the northern part of South Carolina, Michael stopped at Smith's Ford, on Broad River, Union County. He remained there perhaps a year, still looking for the right place. While there he met and fell in love with Mary (POLLY) Smith, and they were married July 21, 1803, at her parents' home, Smith's Ford, S.C.

Michael established a business about eight miles from Smith's Ford. He built a substantial log cabin for his home, also, a log structure for his tavern and store. The roads by his tavern — five in all — were Indian trails. At this cross-roads Gaffney's Old Field became the shopping area for what is now the city of Gaffney. Gaffney was named in his honor as Michael had given all the land for a town.

It was to this log cabin Michael took his bride. The first Gaffney family was now begun in the United States. The Gaffneys were blessed with a family of three girls, and six boys. Nancy Reilly, Lucindia Reilly, and Melinda Reilly. They were given the name of Reilly (middle name) in honor of Michael's mother who was a Reilly before her marriage to William Gaffney. The boys were James Madison Smith, Joseph Gustavous, Henry Green, William Godolphin, Cornelius John, and Thomas Westhaven.

Michael Gaffney was born September 29, 1775, died September 6, 1854. Mary (Polly) Smith Gaffney, born July 1, 1783, died August 11, 1874. Both are buried in the Gaffney family Cemetery in Gaffney, South Carolina.

John Franklin (Frank) Gaffney, a grandson of Michael Gaffney, was the first Gaffney to come to Cleveland County, North Carolina. He moved his wife and children to Double Shoals, North Carolina about 1890. His wife Sarah Agnes (Sallie) Morgan Gaffney had a brother, Elias Morgan, (Frank's brother-in-law), who was operating a twine mill at Double Shoals. After Elias offered him stock in the mill they decided it was an encouraging prospect, and he joined the business.

Elias Morgan and his partner had purchased the mill from Mr. Albert Homesley. It was the oldest mill in Cleveland County. Ownership had changed hands frequently since its beginning and operation had been halted on a number of occasions. Elias was anxious to expand the business by adding a company store, for the convenience of the employees.

It took much courage, and persuasion for the Gaffneys to leave their beloved South Carolina home and settle in a little country town, such as Double Shoals. But, looking straight ahead, with honest confidence, Frank became an active partner in the Double Shoals Mill Company.

The expansion was completed, and the Company was running smoothly. The owners made a good team and all went well. Success was smiling on the business.

Several years had passed when a younger member of the family of Elias began pressing to join the firm. This became a reality. This young, inexperienced acquisition was for launching forth into untried ideas and plans. Tensions arose, and difficulties increased. As the owners had agreed in the beginning, if, for any reason, a partner became dissatisfied, the others would purchase his interest. To resolve the dilemma, Frank offered to sell his considerable stock. This was purchased, as previously agreed, and the relationship was dissolved.

Since Shelby offered better schooling for the Gaffney children, Sallie and Frank decided to establish themselves there. The first order of business was to find a suitable home for their family. They moved to Shelby and rented an apartment in the large building, the College Inn; previously The Shelby Female College. The Gaffneys resided here until a small residence was found for sale. Two blocks from the County Courthouse a lot, owned by William P. Love and George Frick became available. It measured two hundred feet along West Warren Street and one hundred and thirty feet north to an existing alley, with a permanent alley on the east side, and one on the west. For this, Frank and Sallie Gaffney paid the handsome sum of $400.00, January 1896. It was necessary to make many additions to accommodate ten people. After they occupied the house, two more girls were born. Sallie and Frank spent the remainder of their years at 214 West Warren St.

Frank invested in a number of pieces of property. One was a small farm on the southwest edge of Shelby; another was a place for manufacturing brick. These he operated for some years. In addition to these, he purchased several pieces of rental property, and attended to its up-keep.

As he grew older, it seemed that he developed a real big "sweet tooth." Much to the delight of the two youngest daughters, they were the excited beneficiaries. There was always a bag of "sweetmeats" in his pocket, to share with them.

Only two members of this family survive at this time, Mrs. J.R. (Lucille) Thomas, formerly of Orangeburg, South Carolina, and Mrs. D.Z. (Elma) Newton, of Shelby. Those who are deceased are: Annie Leila m. Joseph Henry Carroll, Ethel Eugenia m. Bloomfield Horton Kendall, William Oland m. 1st Nettie Williams — 2nd Corinne Martin, Elias Gustavous m. Mattie Caldwell Johnston, Clyde Monroe m. Mary Montague Wright, and Lucy Marie d. age 6 yrs. Earl Franklin m. Elizabeth Livingston — living in 1981, Joseph Lawrence m. Ethel May Almond — living in 1981

October 23, 1933, John Franklin Gaffney passed away at his home, and his wife Sarah Agnes Morgan Gaffney, died March 22, 1945. Both are buried in Sunset Cemetery, Shelby, North Carolina.

— Lucille Gaffney Thomas

THE BENJAMIN TYRA GANTT FAMILY

461

Benjamin Tyra Gantt was born August 4, 1876, and died June 16, 1960. He was the son of John Columbus Gantt and Eliza Adeline Gantt, (see Genealogy of Peter Gantt). He married Lou Vica Jane Lutz, born September 23, 1881 and died January 15, 1956. She was the daughter of John Franklin Lutz and Zora Octavia Weathers Lutz.

The children of Benjamin Tyra Gantt were: Marcus Simmons Gantt, born October 21, 1902. He married Maude Amelia Dixon (see Family of Marcus Simmons Gantt); John Tyra Gantt, born July 4, 1904. He married Maude Elaine Canipe, born December 11, 1905 (see Family of John Tyra Gantt); Robert Stacy Gantt, born October 1, 1905 and died July 7, 1974. He married Hallie Milton Grigg, born Benjamin Tyra and Lou Lutz Gantt Family.

Benjamin Tyra Gantt children. L to R: John Tyra, Martha Simmons and Robert Stacy. Back row L to R: Benjamin and Lou Lutz Gantt.

March 7, 1903. She was the daughter of T.O. Grigg, D.D.S. and Margaret Wilhelms Grigg. Robert and Hallie had one daughter, Margaret Lou Gantt, born November 9, 1926. She married Donald Buchanan, a Baptist Minister, who was born May 20, 1925. Their children were: Margaret Ann Buchanan, born 1951; Donald Buchanan, a Missionary to Egypt; and Andy Buchanan, born about 1957.

Another child of Benjamin Tyra Gantt was Evans Weathers Gantt, born January 20, 1907 and died May 22, 1965. He married Thelma Spangler, born April 29, 1911 and died April 13, 1969. She was the daughter of Will Spangler and Essie Cline Spangler. Their children were: Patsy Lee Gantt, born October 9, 1935. She married Paul Richard Shull. Their children were Victor Allen Shull, born April 9, 1955, Gary Douglas Shull, born September 30, 1966, Bradley Warren Shull, born May 15, 1965, and Andrew Evans Shull, born July 6, 1960.

Jack Evans Gantt was born April 27, 1937 and died May 22, 1958. He married Judy Howell. They had a daughter, Jackie Gantt, born October 4, 1958. Jack died while serving in the United States Air Force.

Jane Gantt was born June 4, 1938. She married N.F. Costner Jr., born March 9, 1937. Their child was Vickie Lynn Howell, born June 8, 1956. She married Cecil Cobb, born February 3, 1950.

James Wesley Gantt was born September 3, 1911 and died May 7, 1977. He married Virginia Frances Pierce, daughter of Dr. Pierce and Lula Wilson Pierce. They had one child, James Michael Gantt, born September 21, 1937. Michael married Hazel Elizabeth Edwards. Their children were Dawn Elizabeth Gantt, born October 3, 1959. Dawn is a Law School graduate and married Kenneth Rogers Benson; Jill Suzanne Gantt, born June 24, 1966.

James Wesley Gantt was an Educator. After his graduation from Brevard College, and Appalachian State University, he was Principal of Public schools for six years, August 1943 until June 1949. He was the Superintendent of Polk County Schools for ten years, 1949 until 1959. He was also with the North Carolina Employment Commission in Morganton, North Carolina for fifteen years and an Employment Counselor. James then retired in 1976. His wife Virginia, was a music teacher for twenty years, and a teacher of the mentally retarded children for seventeen years.

Ella Adeline Gantt, born July 24, 1916 was married to Thomas Hacket Fetzer, born June 7, 1916. He was the son of Thomas Johnson Fetzer and Pansy Blanton Fetzer, who was born October 16, 1890. Pansy was the daughter of William Hacket Blanton and Della Hamrick Blanton. Ella and Tom's children were: Charles Hacket Fetzer, born January 24, 1938. He married Ellen Kraus, who was born September 3, 1937. They had one child, Christopher Wolfe Fetzer, born August 27, 1978; Margaret Ann Fetzer, born November 27, 1939. She married Richard Pipes, born March 27, 1940. Their children were: William Thomas Pipes, born January 29, 1960, Margaret Elizabeth Pipes, born February 8, 1964 and Catherine Diane Pipes, born February 17, 1965; Thomas Hacket Fetzer Jr., born August 21, 1942 was married to Linda Phillips. Their child is Thomas Hacket Fetzer III, born January 4, 1970; Daniel Johnson Fetzer, born January 2, 1944, married Kathy Hinshaw, born August 24, 1953. Their child was Bradley Christopher Fetzer, born July 15, 1981.

Ben Tyra Gantt Jr., born September 12, 1920, married Lourene Walker, born April 9, 1921. Their children were: James Larry Gantt, born May 9, 1945, unmarried; Constance Hope Gantt, born March 3, 1950, married to Ronald Eugene Lail. Their children were Rachel Leah Lail, born March 1, 1971, James Matthews Lail, born March 2, 1975. Ben Tyra Gantt Jr. was a Sergeant during World War II in the United States Air Corps from 1946 until 1949. He received a B.S. Degree from the

The Homeplace of Benjamin Tyra Gantt, early 1800's.

Western Carolina Teachers College and a M. A. Degree from Duke University. He taught high school mathematics for three years and was principal of Polk County Schools for eighteen years. Ben entered the ministry in the United Methodist Church in 1970.

Annie May Gantt, born September 22, 1922, married A.R. McNeely. Their child, David McNeely was born May 23, 1942. He married Lynda Tucker, born March 24, 1945. Their children were: David Andrew McNeely, born November 13, 1963; James Phillip McNeely born April 7, 1967; and Margo Annette McNeely born June 19, 1969. Annie May Gantt McNeely later married Ben T. McAbee August 18, 1947. He died December 17, 1979. Children of this marriage are: Carolyn Ann McAbee, born August 18, 1948. She married Kenneth Rodney Hicks, born August 29, 1945. Their children are: Andy Scott Hicks born September 30, 1977; Allison Leigh Hicks born August 23, 1980; Lynda Jane McAbee, born August 13, 1950, was married to Vernon Donald Ross, born May 8, 1932; Mary Sue McAbee, born January 23, 1955, married Roger D. Fowler, born December 1945.

Ned Lutz Gantt, born November 30, 1924, was married to Mabel Huss, born December 11, 1923 and died April 24, 1952. Their child is Eric Gantt Greene, born December 28, 1949.

— John Tyra Gantt

THE JOHN TYRA GANTT FAMILY

462

John Tyra Gantt was born July 4, 1904, son of Benjamin Tyra Gantt and Lou Vica Jane Lutz, daughter of John Franklin Lutz, (See family of Benjamin Tyra Gantt), who was married to Maude Elain Canipe, born December 11, 1905; daughter of Amos E. Canipe and Lenora Olivine Lindsey Canipe. They have nine children.

Audrey Hope Gantt, born January 29, 1925, married Clint Rayford McNeely, born April 2, 1925. Her children are James Kenneth McNeely, born October 24, 1944, married Brenda Webb; Judith Hope McNeely, born May 10, 1946, married Larry Causby; Milton Gantt McNeely, born August 29, 1948.

Carol Milton Gantt, born March 27, 1927, married William Homer Pheagin, Jr., born July 7, 1926. Carol is a talented musician. She is certified as an organ instructor. Her husband, Bill, is a United Methodist Minister. Their children are Robert Edward Pheagin, born November 29, 1945, served four years in the United States Air Force, married Betty Cash, born March 3, 1934; Joseph William Pheagin, born March 7, 1951, married Ila Peters; John Daniel Pheagin born September 7, 1952, married Cindy Spencer; Timothy Lindsey Pheagin, born July 7, 1956, married April Meadows. Tim is a Methodist minister.

John Benny Gantt was born June 16, 1929, married Betty Sue Callahan, born January 26, 1931. Benny is retired from the United States Air Force. He served from 1947 until 1968, then retiring with the rank Master Sergeant. His children are Cathy Maria Gantt, married Thomas Larry Robert. He served a term in the United States Air Force; Wesley Tyra Gantt, born August 11, 1952, married Sandy James. Tyra served a term in the United States Air Force; Phillip Dean Gantt, born May 1, 1958. He also served a term in the United States Air Force.

Joann Elaine Gantt, born September 3, 1931, married Thomas Philbeck. Her children are Tommy Edwin Philbeck, born May 31, 1949. Tommy is serving in the United States Air Force. He married Ermind Maniaul; Elizabeth Marie Philbeck, born March 23rd, married John Ziegler; David Allen Philbeck, born October 30, 1952, married Martha Herbert; Dennis Dale Philbeck, a twin to David, born October 30, 1952, married Star Jolley.

Lowell Thomas Gantt, born June 9, 1933, married Barbara Lee Genoble, born August 12, 1936. Lowell retired as Tech Sergeant in the United States Air Force. He served from 1951 until 1971. His children are Sharon Gale Gantt, born January 3, 1956, married Wayne Connely; Dianne Gantt, born August 5, 1958, married Tommy Grigg; Jerry Gantt, born November 9, 1962; Lisa Gantt, born March 24, 1964, married Richard Lemons.

Hal Shuford Gantt, born June 15, 1937, married Lillian Peters, born 1947. Hal served four years in the United States Air Force and four years in the United States Navy. He has one child, John T. Gantt Jr., born December 26, 1966.

Rachel Adeline Gantt, born July 24, 1935, married Thomas Kilpatric, born March 3, 1933. Her children are Danny Michael Hutchins, born September 15, 1957; Kelly Sloane Kilpatric, born October 31, 1963; Jeanette Elizabeth Kilpatrick, born April 29, 1965; Karen Michelle Kilpatric, born December 20, 1969.

Charles Steven Gantt, born June 2, 1940, married Joann McNeely, born July 20, 1943. His children are Stephanie Denise Gantt, born May 2, 1967; and Susan Elizabeth Gantt, born March 23, 1970.

Johnny Scott Gantt, born April 21, 1944 and died March 17, 1979. He was married to Barbara Jane Painter, born October 29, 1947. His children are Christi Gantt, born September 19, 1966; and Bradford Daniel Gantt, born April 9, 1970.

John Tyra Gantt in his early adult life was a cabinet maker and later a Methodist Minister in the Western North Carolina Conference. He retired from the ministry in June 1980. John's father, Benjamin Tyra Gantt was a faithful church man. He served several places in the Methodist Church. He taught Sunday School for many years and served on the Board of Stewards in Kadesh Methodist Church. He was a hard working man, farming in the season and doing carpenter work in the slack seasons. Our farm of one hundred acres was rough and rocky. We never accumulated very much outside of a living.

Our farm was somewhat isolated. I remember Louis Blanton, the community joker, telling my father that he thought he should draw a pension for living in a place like that. What we boys didn't have, we didn't miss. We had a lot of fun. We could always find a muscadine vine, an apple tree or a peach tree and even a honey locust tree. My brother Stacy and I were always dramatizing the farm animals; Tex the mare, Carb the cow, and Bruce the bulldog. In fantasy, we would get them in trying situations. We had our dreams and air castles. We had a chicken rooster to die and we could see no reason why we couldn't cut his wings off and fly with them. We were a bit apprehensive about whether or not it worked, so we persuaded our smaller brother to take the first flight. We told him not to be gone long because we wanted our turn to fly. We took him to an apple tree that stood in a soft plowed ground. He mounted the tree top and spread his wings and when he hit the ground and looked around and saw my brothers and I laughing — that little boy came out with an oath only a seasoned sailor could match. Those were the good times!

Sources: Cemeteries; Hoyle Book; Family.

— John Tyra Gantt

John Tyra and Maude Gantt with their children on 50th Wedding Anniversary, 1973

THE MELVIN PUCKETT GANTT FAMILY

463

Melvin Puckett Gantt was born October 15, 1845 and died September 25, 1904. He was the son of Tyra Gantt born July 19, 1805 and Rhoda Hoyle Gantt born in 1812. Tyra Gantt came with his brother Henry Gantt II to Cleveland County from Catawba County about 1825. He lived in the Belwood community. Rhoda Hoyle Gantt later died April 14, 1891. Melvin married Lizzie Weber who died in 1887. He married again to Georgiana Jones, born January 27, 1850 and died February 10, 1925.

Melvins' children by Lizzie Weber were Abel Truman Gantt born January 1869. Abel married Brice Hill. They had an adopted daughter, Katherine, born 1915; Clarence Wellington Gantt was born March 21, 1870 and died October 9, 1898. He married Terissa Julia Ann Hoyle born April 11, 1871 and died March 4, 1901. Their children were Dorman Gantt born July 24, 1893; Clara Terissa Gantt born March 21, 1895. Clara married Buford Spurlin, who was born September 2, 1886; Mary Elizabeth Gantt, born November 12, 1896. Mary married George Martin, born August 10, 1895.

Another child born to Melvin and Lizzie was Emma Mahala Gantt born October 13, 1872. She married Joseph Benjamin Ivey on February 2, 1893. Mr. Ivey was born June 8, 1864. The Ivey family can trace their ancestral name back to the Norman name to "St. Ivo" in France. They went to England with William the Conqueror in the year 1066. Afterwards known as Iveys, Ives, and Iverson. (See the book "Men of the Burning Heart"). Joseph Benjamin Ivey founded the Ivey Stores in Charlotte, North Carolina. He was often called the "Merchant Prince." Their children were George Melvin Ivey, born August 14, 1896; Emma Virginia Ivey, born September 23, 1897; Ella Marie Ivey, born May 10, 1900; and Katherine Neal Ivey, born August 20, 1904.

The last child born to Melvin and Lizzie was Ella Alice Gantt, born April 8, 1876. She married John Nelson Ledford on February 13, 1901. Mr. Ledford was born October 24, 1873. Their children were Louis Ledford, born January 25, 1902; Emma Ledford, born November 9, 1904; Jamie Ledford, born May 28, 1908; John Nelson Ledford, born May 28, 1908 (a twin to Jamie); Mary Sue Ledford, born August 15, 1910; Charles Ivey Ledford, born October 23, 1915; Margaret Gantt Ledford, born June 9, 1917.

Melvin's children by Georgia Jones Gantt were Robert Melvin Gantt, born February 10, 1886. He married Kathleen Claywell on December 16, 1914. Kathleen was born March 11, 1890. Robert was a prominent Attorney in Durham, North Carolina. Their children were Kathryn Clayton Gantt, born March 10, 1920; Samuel Fox Gantt, born October 9, 1923; and Robert Melvin Gantt Jr., born June 21, 1922. Robert Jr. was a star football player for Duke Blue Devils in the 1960's.

Samuel Jones Gantt was born July 6, 1889. He married Mabel Isely, who was born August 26, 1892. Their children were Samuel Jones Gantt Jr., born October 16, 1916; Hugh Robert Gantt, born November 16, 1920; and Joseph Isely Gantt, born June 29, 1934.

Lucy Vashti Gantt was born September 11, 1891. Lucy married Clayton Plato Peeler, born September 5, 1885. Clayton owned an Automobile Agency in Shelby, North Carolina in the 1920's. He later moved to Staunton, Virginia and operated an oil distributing business. Lucy and Clayton's children were Melvin Able Peeler, born June 13, 1908; Clayton Samuel Peeler, born July 12, 1915.

— John Tyra Gantt

THE MARCUS SIMMONS GANTT FAMILY

464

Marcus (Marc) Simmons Gantt was the eldest of eight children born to Benjamin Tyra and Lou Vica Lutz Gantt. Marc was born October 20, 1902, near Rockdale, in upper Cleveland County, NC. He spent most of his working life as a salesman. His hobbies were hunting and riding horses.

Marc married Maude Amelia Nellie Dixon, daughter of William Warlick Dixon and Sarah Elizabeth Self. She was born near Kadesh Methodist Church at Belwood, NC. Maude worked for many years as a nurse at Cleveland Memorial Hospital in Shelby, NC. Both Marc and Maude Gantt are buried at Sunset Cemetery in Shelby, NC, along with two of their children, Hilda Rebecca Gantt, born April 4, 1939 and died November 23, 1939, and Derrell Benjamin Gantt, born April 9, 1926 and died June 8, 1945. Derrell was killed while serving with the First Marine Division on Okinawa during World War II.

Their four children who still live in Cleveland County are Elizabeth Elmo Gantt, who is the eldest, born December 20, 1923. She married Roy Billy Scruggs, born June 20, 1924, on February 1, 1948 and lives near Cliffside, NC, in Cleveland County where he owns a country store. They have two children, Roy Billy Scruggs, Jr., born August 15, 1948. He married Nora Ann Taylor on December 20, 1973; Mary Elizabeth Scruggs, born May 7, 1950. Elizabeth Gantt Scruggs is retired from the Cleveland County Health Department in Shelby where she worked for 32 years. They belong to Cliffside Baptist Church.

Ronald Marcus Gantt was born November 28, 1933. He married the former Jerry Ann Goforth, born July 13, 1936, on December 20, 1953. They have three children. Rhonda Lynn Gantt, born October 12, 1954, married Jack S. Moore; Gerald Marcus Gantt, born November 26, 1955; and Rebecca Ann Gantt, born February 14, 1957, married Drury Lacy Kessler Jr. Ronald served four years in the United States Navy during the Korean conflict. He is past Master of Cleveland Masonic Lodge #202. He owns an insurance agency in Shelby, NC. He and Jerry attend Aldersgate Methodist Church. They live on Moss Lake in the Woodbridge sub-division.

Sarah Adeline Gantt was born May 16, 1937. She married John Berry Blanton, born September 13, 1932, on May 26, 1956. They live in Polkville, NC. Their children are John Perry Blanton Jr., born July 24, 1958; Kimberly Dawn Blanton, born November 26, 1960. Kim married Johnny A. Swink Jr. on August 5, 1979; twins, Derrell Keith Blanton and Denene Helen Blanton, born July 11, 1965; and Holly Jane Blanton, born December 16, 1975 and died January 18, 1978. Holly Jane was a little Angel who was loved by all that knew her. Sarah and her family attend Polkville Baptist Church. J.B. is a department head at Dover Mill and Sarah will graduate in May of 1982 with a degree in Nursing.

The youngest child is William ("Bill") Dixon Gantt, was born October 1, 1940. Bill married first to Barbara Dee Roberts and second to Peggy Grayson Padgett. Bill has one child by his first marriage, Sandra Dee Gantt, born March 27, 1963. She married Jeffery Lee Mode and they have one child, Matthew Dixon Mode, born October 18, 1980, who is the only great-grandchild of Marc and Maude Gantt.

Bill also owns an insurance agency and is Chief of the Cleveland County Sheriff's Reserve. Bill and Peggy live in Shelby, N.C. and attend Bethel Baptist Church where they are very active and both sing in the choir. Bill and Peggy also have two daughters who are now married. Kathy Padgett Biggerstaff who married Michael G. Biggerstaff; and Mary Cynthia Padgett Jordon, who married Jon Ross Jordon. They have a daughter, Jennifer Lynn Jordon, born July 21, 1980.

All the descendants of the Marc Gantt family have fond memories of their parents and share the love they had for all of their relatives and friends in Cleveland County.

Sources: Personal memory.

— Ronald M. Gantt

THE GENEALOGY OF PETER GAUNT (GANTT)

465

The name Gantt originated from the name Ghent. The following is an article from the book "The Genealogy of Peter Hoyle," article 1531, page 406. It is an exact quote from this book. Quote: "King Edward III, King of England, was fighting the French. He took his wife, Phillippa, with him. She resided in Ghent, Belgium where a son was born and was called John of Ghent. When taken back to England, his name became John of Gaunt. He was never the King of England, but was content with being the power behind the throne. He made and unmade Kings. Later he became John Gaunt. The Gaunt coat of arms is an exact replica of that of King Edward III, King of England. He was King of England from 1327 to 1377. Peter came to America from Lincolnshire, England in the year A.D. 1600. His wife was Hannah. They had two sons Hannaniah and Israel. Peter lived in Sandwich, Massachusetts. Both sons moved to Long Island in 1620 and later to Shrewsbury, New Jersey. No further record can be found of Israel. Hannaniah Gaunt took up 500 acres of land in Burlington County in New Jersey. This land was owned by the Gaunts for 236 years. Hannaniah had married Dorothy Butler. They had a son, Zebulon Gaunt who married Sophia Rhoads. They had a son Zebulon Gaunt II. He married Esther Woolman. Zebulon II had a brother Israel Gaunt. Zebulon Gaunt II and Israel Gaunt and Sophia Gaunt went to the Carolina's where their descendants became owners of plantations and slaves." End of Quote.

No correct dates are known of these great events. According to generations this could have been about 1780 to 1800. The next record that can be found of the Gaunts, were living in Catawba County in the Ball's Creek Camp Grounds community. By this time the name had been changed to Gantt. Henry Gantt I was born about 1780. He married Sarah Bass, born about 1780. They had two sons, Tyra Gantt, born August 19, 1805 and died April 11, 1891. He was married to Rhoda Hoyle, born 1812. When they both died they were buried in Kadesh Cemetery, Belwood, N.C. (See family of Melvin P. Gantt).

Henry Gantt I had another son, Henry Gantt II, born about 1800. He was married to Ruth Martin, an orphan, raised by a Keever family. Henry II came with his brother Tyra to Cleveland County from Catawba County about 1825. Very little is known of Henry Gantt II. My grandmother, Eliza Hoyle Gantt, said he was a shiftless sort of person and worked as a hired hand on a farm. He was apparently not as prosperous as his brother Tyra Gantt.

My father, Benjamin Tyra Gantt, said Henry II and his wife were buried in Kadesh Cemetery in unmarked graves. Henry II and his wife, Ruth Martin Gantt, had three sons. They were: Joe Gantt, Jordan Gantt, and John Columbus Gantt. Each were Confederate Soldiers of America. Jordan Gantt was killed in the war. John Columbus Gantt was born August 6, 1844 and died February 22, 1914. He was married to Eliza Adeline Hoyle, born April 23, 1848 and died February 14, 1914. John and Eliza were both buried in Kadesh Church Cemetery. Eliza Hoyle Gantt was the daughter of Noah Hoyle, born February 18, 1804 and died June 2, 1876 and Elizabeth Shuford

Colonel Junius T. Gardner, 1860-1925.

Hoyle, born January 11, 1813 and died May 18, 1887. They were both buried in Kadesh Church Cemetery. Eliza Hoyle was the fifth generation of Peter Heil (Hoyle), the Pioneer who came to America in September 11, 1738 from Germany and settled near Dallas, North Carolina. (See family of Hoyles).

John Columbus Gantt owned and operated a blacksmith shop and was also a farmer. He lived and raised his family in Rockdale community in Upper Cleveland County. John and his wife had twelve children. They are: Maxwell North Gantt, born June 21, 1869; William Alonzo Gantt, born November 9, 1870; Joseph Robinson Gantt, born December 2, 1872; Alfie Gantt Sain, born May 6, 1875; Benjamin Tyra Gantt, born August 6, 1876. (See family of Benjamin Tyra Gantt); Florence Gantt Hord, born February 8, 1880; Mary Ruth Gantt Dellinger, born March 18, 1874; Susan Gantt Tillman, born July 26, 1881; Summy Osgood Gantt, born November 25, 1882; Hettie Gantt Dixon, born August 4, 1884; Edgar John Gantt, born May 26, 1886 and died January 9, 1887; and Connie Gantt Dellinger, born July 9, 1888.

— John Tyra Gantt

COLONEL JUNIUS T. GARDNER and DESCENDANTS 466

Colonel Junius Tazwell Gardner was born July 6, 1860, in Cleveland County. He was the eldest son of Dr. Oliver Perry and Margaret Young Gardner, who moved to Shelby when he was twelve years old.

Thomas Gardner, great grandfather of Junius T., came from England and married Olivine Martin about 1792. They settled on a farm between Double Shoals and Lawndale and reared twelve children, the fifth child being William Gardner. William married Rebecca Beam, having ten children, with Oliver P. Gardner their first child.

Junius T. Gardner had a half brother, Jasper, and a half sister, Hessie, who married Jesse J. McMurry. His brothers and sisters were the following: Cleo, who married Tom Robertson, Ollie, who married John Austin Anthony, William, who married Maggie Wray, Addie, who married Robert Farthing, Bessie, who married former Governor Clyde Roark Hoey, Bate, who married Mary Warren, and Oliver Maxwell, former governor of North Carolina, who married Fay Webb.

Educated in Shelby, Junius Gardner studied to be a pharmacist, received his license, and operated a drug store in Shelby for several years.

Being a man of marked patriotism, Colonel Gardner loved military service. For forty-one years he was identified with military life, answering every call that came from state or nation. Having natural talent for leadership, he rose rank by rank from lieutenant to colonel of the First North Carolina Regiment. When trouble with Spain came in 1898, he captained a troop of soldiers from Cleveland County. Later he went to the Mexican border in 1916 with his North Carolina regiment to settle the dispute there. As World War I began Colonel Gardner again answered his country's call and entered his regiment for training at Camp Sevier, Greenville, South Carolina.

While training in Florida in 1898 for the Spanish-American War, one of Captain Gardner's young soldiers, Andrew Lattimore, developed an illness which was considered fatal and he was sent to the "death house." Learning of this, Captain Gardner went to Andrew and found him still alive. He attended the young soldier personally, and saw that he received the best attention available. Lattimore recovered and lived until 1955.

A life long member of the Baptist Church, Junius Gardner was a devoted church man and gave freely of his service.

For twenty-four years Colonel Gardner was mayor of Shelby and this long service was interrupted only a few times by military obligations. Under Mayor Gardner's 1911-1913 term of office, Shelby bought the Shelby Electric Company for $15,000, insuring municipal ownership of electric power. During his 1921-1923 term, the city bought the rock quarry in southeast Shelby, to provide for further street and sidewalk paving, which had begun five years earlier. Also, the water and light systems were extended.

Colonel Gardner was married to Julia Jexanna Nooe on December 17, 1884 at Rutherford College, North Carolina. She had come to Cleveland County as a teacher at Belwood School. There were five children born in Shelby to this union. They were: Junius Talmadge Gardner, born November 29, 1886, who married Eunice Roberts of Shelby, and became superintendent at the Shelby post office, Margaret Pearl Gardner, born October 19, 1889, who married Joseph Graham Morrison, county agent of Lincoln County, Louis Williams Gardner born September 13, 1892, who married Annie Maude Wilkins of Rutherford County, and established Gardner Electric Company, John Nooe Gardner, born October 12, 1896, who married Martha Jwyman of and Helen Gardner, born November 11, 1898, who married Thomas Bright Carrick of High Point, a bridge engineer.

A leading citizen of Shelby, Colonel Gardner always had great hopes and plans for its growth and development. He was always friendly, courteous and loyal, which made him many lifelong friends. Early in life, he learned what being dependable and responsible meant, as his duty was to hitch the horse to the buggy when his father called to attend a patient, many times occurring during the night.

Junius Tazwell Gardner passed away October 9, 1925, while visiting relatives in Forest City. Funeral services were conducted on October 11 at his home on West Marion Street and he was buried with full military and Masonic honors at Sunset Cemetery.

Sources: Helen Gardner Carrick; Cleveland Star and The Living Past of Cleveland County.

— Carolyn Carrick Willis

THOMAS W. GARDNER and SOME DESCENDANTS

467

Thomas W. Gardner married Olive Martin on November 25, 1792 in Rutherford County, North Carolina, and settled in the First Broad River and Magness Creek area in that part of Rutherford County that became Cleveland County in 1841. There they resided and both are buried in the Gardner family cemetery.

The Gardner name had variant spellings and was sometimes listed as Gardner, Garner, Gardener, and Gardiner, but the current spelling has been Gardner for many generations.

Thomas W. and Olive Gardner are known to have reared twelve children; and, some family legends say thirteen children, but only twelve have been officially documented. Their children: Jeremiah (b. 1793 — d. 1833), and Martin (b. 1793 — d. 1824) were twins; Leanna (b. 1795 — d. 1881); Lewis (b. 1800 — d. 1880); William Hoyle (b. 1801 — d. 1847); Rebecca (b. 1805 — d. ca18_____); Esther (b. 1807 — _____); Catherine (b. _____); Jane (b. 1812 — d. 1890); David (b. 1814 — d. ca1865); Elizabeth (b. 1815 — d. 1906); James Lafayette (b. 1816-1862); and possibly Wilson.

It is interesting to note that twins seem to run in the family. One researcher has found approximately twenty-six or more sets of twins and one set of triplets in the Thomas W. Gardner lineage.

Perhaps the most well known in this Gardner family is O. Max Gardner. His father was Oliver Perry Gardner, a physician, who was the son of William Hoyle Gardner, fourth son of Thomas W. and Olive Gardner.

It is generally known that O. Max Gardner was a lawyer, senator, governor of North Carolina, advisor to President Roosevelt, and was appointed ambassador to the Court of St. James in Britain, but died on his way to London to begin his service. O. Max Gardner married Faye Lamar Webb, daughter of Judge James L. Webb, of Shelby, North Carolina.

This writer's lineage is through Jeremiah Gardner, twin brother to Martin Gardner, Thomas W.'s first sons. Jeremiah Gardner married Jane Huston Alexander on October 20, 1812 in Rutherford County. Born to this union were: Martin (b. 1814 — d. 1877); Jonathan Newman (b. 1815 — d. 1849); Jennie Emeline (b. 1816 — d. _____); Caroline (b. 1817 — d. _____).

Martin Gardner, son of Jeremiah, married Lydia Horn and settled in the Gaffney area of South Carolina. They had twelve children and most of them and their descendants remained in South Carolina, though some settled in Alabama. Jennie Emeline married Jesse Hord and settled in Cleveland County in the Waco area. Caroline married William Yarborough and is believed to have settled first in McDowell County and later in Cleveland County.

Jonathan Newman Gardner, my great grandfather, married Mary Ann McCombs, daughter of Major McCombs, October 18, 1835. Jonathan Newman died in 1849 leaving his wife with eight children. Their children; Jefferson Marion (b. 1836 — d. Civil War);

Major McCombs (b. 1838 — d. 1904); Jeremiah Alexander (b. 1840 — d. 1862); Mary Ann (1842 — d. 1929); Francis Newman (b. 1844 — d. 1931); Caroline (b. 1844 — d. 1888) twin to Francis N.; William Hoyle (b. 1847 — d. 1923); Lucy Tomora Ann (b. 1849 — d. 1903).

Francis Newman Gardner, my grandfather, married first, Narcissa Jane McKinney, daughter of Daniel and Sarah Forbes McKinney, and second, to Clementine Hamrick. His only children are from first marriage: William Hoyle (b. 1875 — d. 1941); James Monroe, my father, (b. 1877-1944); married Ollie Hester Hamrick on December 19, 1894. Their children: Virgil Guy (b. 1897 — d. 1921); Hattie Ozelle (b. 1900 — d. 1964); Marvin Ralph (b. 1906 — d. 1968); Mattie Lee (b. 1908 — _____).

Thomas W. Gardner's youngest son, James L. served in the Civil War and died of wounds in 1862. Six of Thomas W's grandsons are known to have served in the Civil War. Four of those were killed or died from war causes.

Six great grandsons of Thomas W. Gardner, and grandsons of my ancestor, Jeremiah (twin), also served. Of these six, two were killed and one was missing in action. One rode a horse to Alabama and settled there, one went out west and my grandfather, Francis Newman, was a musician in the war and was discharged for disability, having lost a lung from severe pneumonia. He lived to reach the age of 87 years.

The Gardner family has been a strong and stable family and is represented in many states in America. This family has contributed a great deal to the historical, cultural, political, financial, legal, industrial, agricultural, business, medical, educational and miscellaneous occupational activities wherever they have resided.

Sources: 1790-1850 United States Census of Rutherford County, North Carolina; 1850-1900 United States Census of Cleveland County, North Carolina; Family Bible records; Cemetery records; L.D.S. Library (Mormon Church Records), Charlottesville, Virginia; Personal knowledge.

— Mattie Lee Gardner Fornes

MARTIN and MARY E. HORD GETTYS

468

Mary Elizabeth Hord was born November 21, 1858 in Cleveland County, North Carolina, daughter of Richard Thomas Hord and wife, Margaret Harmon Thompson. She married Martin Gettys, son of Alexander Gettys, and wife, Elizabeth Chitwood of the same general area.

In December of 1890 the Martin Gettys family, including six children, moved to Texas. They purchased a farm north of Decatur, where four more children were born.

The irrigated garden of this family provided not only food for their table but an excess which they marketed to residents in Decatur. Mrs. Gettys was an energetic woman whose courage and good humor made her an asset to her community where she was often called upon to help nurse the sick.

Their children were:

Orrie Ella, eldest, never married but remained at home, a much appreciated and supportive element in the rearing of a large family.

Cicero Thomas, eldest son, set an example of diligence and determination to excel, which he encouraged his brothers to follow. He became a lawyer, practicing in Decatur where he reared his family.

Jesse, never married, was a successful lawyer and real estate investor in Gainesville, Texas.

Richard Alexander never married, moved to Gainesville where he helped his younger brother in the furniture business and was a devoted Sunday School teacher in the Baptist Church.

Dr. Albert C. was a Baptist preacher and taught Bible at Mary Hardin Baylor College in Belton, Texas for many years.

Marion farmed the family's farm for some years then moved to Fort Worth, Texas where he was employed at General Dynamics.

Dr. Embry Martin, scholar and teacher of history and government at Decatur Baptist College, served as that school's Dean for many years.

Dr. Plato Lee was an attorney, then college professor, teaching at Temple University in Philadelphia, Pa. and Texas A.&M.

Clarence Clifton, youngest son, was proprietor of a furniture store in Gainesville, Texas.

A daughter, Eliza Elizabeth, was born in 1901 but died a few months later.

The older of the children who remembered Rutherford and Cleveland Counties, North Carolina, often praised the quality of the area, its products, and its people, and assured their younger generations that not all good things originated in Texas.

Martin Gettys died in 1921, and Mary Elizabeth, in 1928. They are now survived by six grandchildren, seventeen great-grandchildren, and seven great-great-grandchildren.

— Mary Louise (Gettys) Woodruff

THE GEDNEY (GIDNEY) FAMILY ORIGIN

469

In the ancient method of spelling the word Geddaneý it was a derivative of the old Norse, "Gedda," — a pike or fish, plus "ney" — an island. Hence, Geddaneý simply distinguished or identified "the people from Pike Island." Southern England seems to have developed into a Gedney stronghold in the 17th Century as farming, shipping, and shipbuilding became a way of life for the British Isles. So, for all intent and purpose, the Gedney family might be considered English.

The founder of the Gedney (Gidney) family in America was John Gedney, who came to Salem, Massachusetts in May 1637. In 1666 one of his sons built a home near his father's dwelling, using timbers from the farm and shipyard. Today this house stands as one of the historic houses in Salem, unusual in design and materials, but typical of the area in which it was built.

Eleazer Gedney, a grandson of "Pioneer John," went to Westchester County, New York. From here the third Eleazer migrated up the Hudson River towards Albany, and there on the West Bank of the Hudson River he continued the ancestral shipping trade and acquired considerable land known as Gidneytown. The settlement grew to form the City of Newburgh. One son bought a farm several miles north of Newburgh on the East Bank of the Hudson. This farm was later called Hyde Park during the Roosevelt Administration.

After the Revolution, West Point Military Academy was established south of Newburgh to train military officers. Several members of the Gidney family received appointments to this Academy.

The name Gedney was spelled both Gedney and Gidney in Newburgh about the time of the American Revolution. Brothers buried in the same cemetery spelled the same name differently, and it was once assumed that some were Whigs and some Tories and that the difference in the spelling resulted. This explanation fades due to research into English records which reveals the same variation in spelling centuries earlier.

Samuel Sands Gidney (1791-1848), son of Eleazer Gidney of Newburgh, was a merchant in early life, but having studied surveying, he was hired by "Speculation Land Company." This company, a northern based firm, had acquired thousands of acres in Rutherford County, North Carolina and other Western counties of this state. More gold was being mined in this section than in any other area at this time, about twenty-five years before the California Gold Rush. Gidney arrived in 1825 in the Polkville vicinity journeying by stagecoach to the sparsely settled area on the East bank of the First Broad River. He stopped for room and board at the home of Robert Wells near Garner's Ford, (also called Gardner's Ford), near the river's intersection with Duncan's Creek. Records, surveys, and letters in Rutherford County tell the story of the "Speculation Lands."

Several years after his arrival in North Carolina Samuel S. Gidney married the innkeeper's daughter, Cynthia Sharpe Wells. In 1841 when Cleaveland County was created Gidney was appointed by the Court to survey the western boundary of the new county. He was also designated by the Court as surveyor for the county seat, Shelby, where preparation was being made to lay off streets and lots for dwellings, and businesses, a public square, churches, and schools. Shelby at the time had been by a committee from Rutherford and Lincoln Counties, but the town itself was merely a crossroads settlement, and the town was not finally chartered by an act of the General Assembly for several years.

Sources: Deeds, Wills; Family Bibles; Census Records; Cemetery Records; and visit to Salem, Massachusetts and Newburgh, New York.

— Robert Sarratt Gidney

Dr. R.M. Gidney, 1869-1933.

Hattie Leonora Sarrate Gidney, 1879-1961.

DR. ROBERT MANY GIDNEY and DESCENDANTS

470

Dr. Robert Many Gidney (1869-1933) was the third child of John Wells and Mary McFarland Gidney of Shelby, North Carolina. Robert had an early start in farming which gave him the experience to become manager of his father's plantation at the age of 14.

As a young man, he also taught school in Cleveland and Rutherford counties; purchased cotton, cord-wood and lumber for a merchant in Shelby; and clerked for the Miller Mercantile business on Warren Street. After surveying veterinary medicine, Dr. Gidney practiced successfully until he was appointed to serve as Cleveland County's first official farm agent in 1914, a position he held until 1921 when ill health prompted his resignation.

Using his early farming experience and knowledge of veterinary, Dr. Gidney guided Cleveland County to progress along many lines of agriculture. Cleveland County had the honor being known as a terrace county largely due to Gidney's expertise as a terracer. He helped farmers establish orchards on their farms. He organized teenage farm youths into clubs according to their agricultural interests: corn clubs, cotton clubs, pigs clubs, and rat irradiation campaigns. The first poultry exhibition in downtown Shelby was held by Farm Agent Gidney.

A proud moment in his life was his marriage in Cleveland County in 1900 to Hattie Leonora Sarratt (1879-1961), daughter of Obediah Camillus and Leonora Ramseur Sarratt. Robert and Hattie raised five children: Mary Leonora Gidney, born July 25, 1901, married Charles Aycock Hoey of Shelby. It was on Mary's wedding invitations that her father first added an "e" to his middle name to clarify its pronunciation. Thus, Many became Maney. Harriet Myrtle Gidney, born May 30, 1907, married Eddie Grover Parris of Shelby; Robert Sarratt Gidney (1910-1982), married Nettie Rachel Rayle of Greensboro, North Carolina; Elizabeth Lamar Gidney, born February 16, 1913, married John Cline Webb of Shelby; Elsie Belle Gidney, born February 16, 1913, married Alfred Greene Eskridge of Shelby. Elizabeth and Elsie are twins. As of April 1, 1982, all of the daughters are living in Shelby.

It was in August, 1910, that Dr. Gidney, his wife Hattie, and two daughters Mary and Harriet, moved from a house located off Highway, 150 about three miles northeast of downtown Shelby, into a new two-story frame house in the city on East Marion Street at Brookhill Road. Soon after this move, on November 2, 1910, a son, Robert Sarratt Gidney was born.

As a boy Robert enjoyed playing in downtown Shelby, particularly around the Courthouse (the present Historical Museum) where his father had an upstairs office while serving as county farm agent. Once while playing with a friend, the Courthouse bell used to call court to order was rung, immediately, the sheriff appeared and good naturedly advised two frightened little boys not to play with the bell or the judge might think they needed him. Thereafter, the boys played on the square, content to leave the bell untouched.

Robert was attending the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill when his father died in 1933, and he had to return to Shelby to help his family through the remaining depression years.

After several years of family farming and gaining experience as a bookkeeper, real estate and insurance salesman for Charles A. Hoey, Inc., Robert served as game protector in Cleveland County from 1942-1945. Rather than accept a promotion and leave Shelby, Robert became county tax collector in 1945. He was appointed Cleveland County Tax Supervisor in 1966 and served until ill health prompted his retirement in 1973.

Throughout his life in Shelby, Robert was active in community service, serving on various city commissions and boards, the county chapter of the Red Cross, the county Heart Association, and the Federal Land Bank Association of Shelby.

A 40-year member of the Shelby Lions Club with perfect attendance, Robert was the Lions "Citizen of the Year" in 1956.

Robert always had a keen appetite for being outdoors whether farming, hunting and fishing, or in later years, gardening. He was a charter member of the Cleveland County Wildlife Club.

After his retirement, Robert's interest focused largely on local history. He was appointed official Cleveland County Historian. He was a charter member and past president of the Cleveland County Historical Association.

Robert was a lifelong member of Central United Methodist Church in Shelby. Over the years he served on many of its boards and committees. His service as scoutmaster for Central's troop of boy scouts led to subsequent work with the Piedmont Council of Boy Scouts. Robert received the Silver Beaver Award in 1965.

It was in 1934 that the new minister of music at Central Church first caught Robert's attention. In 1937 Robert married Nettie Rachel Rayle, born November 24, 1909, the daughter of Charles R. and Sophronia Newman Rayle of Greensboro, North Carolina. Nettie continued her duties at Central Church. She directed the chancel choir, the men's chorus, and several children's choirs which regularly performed at church services. Nettie's solos created a special reverence at weddings, funerals, and regular church services for she was recognized in the Southeast as a concert artist and oratorio singer with the voice of a nightingale. More than one person has commented that they received much of their Sunday morning message from her singing. Nettie stepped down from this position in 1961 after 27 years of dedicated service. Through the years Central Church with its many activities was always an anchor point in the lives of Robert and Nettie.

Nettie was not selfish with her talent and readily performed on many occasions at other churches and locations throughout Cleveland County and the Carolinas.

Nettie was on the faculty at Gardner-Webb College in Boiling Springs, North Carolina for the school years 1945-46 and 1946-47. After time off due to the birth of her daughter, Rachel, she resumed teaching at the college in January, 1953 as an Instructor in Voice. She retired from the faculty in 1975 as an Assistant Professor of Voice.

Robert and Nettie had three children: Robert Sarratt Gidney, Jr., born December 25, 1938, and married to Carolyn Jean Raffield of Raleigh, North Carolina. Their three children are Lynda Carol, Susan Elizabeth, and Mary Catherine. Dr. Charles William Gidney, born April 9, 1943, and married to Sandra Ellen Wallace of Wilkes-Barre, Pennsylvania. Their child is Martha Wallace. Rachel Elizabeth Gidney, born October 4, 1947, and married to Larry Neal Briggs of Leasburg, North Carolina. Their child is Larry Neal, Jr.

Robert Sarratt Gidney died February 27, 1982 and is buried in Sunset Cemetery in Shelby. (At the time of his death, he was a valued advisor to this book, The Heritage of Cleveland County — Editors).

R.M. Gidney Home on E. Marion St., Shelby, NC

Sources: Records and information compiled by R.S. Gidney, Sr.; personal knowledge and memories.

— Robert Sarratt Gidney, Jr.

SAMUEL SANDS GIDNEY

471

Samuel Sands Gidney (1791-1848) came to Rutherford County in 1825 and married Cynthia Sharpe Wells. To this union were born three sons and two daughters:

(1) Robert Eleazer Gidney (1828-1854), who upon reaching the age of twenty-one came to Shelby as a clerk. He purchased several vacant lots and lived with his uncle, Thomas Price Wells, thus becoming the first Gidney to reside in Shelby. He was chosen to serve as County Treasurer (County Trustee) and died at age 26 while serving in this position.

(2) Jonathan Chauncey Gidney (1835-1889) married Martha Ellen (Matt) Roark. He studied medicine and operated a drugstore "on the square" in Shelby, after his service in the war.

(3) John Wells Gidney (August 3, 1837 — 1898) went to Texas but returned to join the Cleveland Guards at Shelby in 1861. This military unit was formed in April of 1861, was ordered to Garysburg, North Carolina, and was designated later as Company E, 12th Regiment of North Carolina Troops. Gidney was promoted from Lieutenant to Captain of company E May 19, 1862, and served in Virginia until October 27, 1864, when he resigned to go to Raleigh, North Carolina to serve in the House of Commons. He married Mary Evaline McFarland, and after receiving his law degree from U.N.C. at Chapel Hill he returned to Shelby, purchasing a home and acreage in the Eastern section of the rural town. He returned to the Legislature for several terms and was an attorney in Shelby until his death in 1898. During his residency in Shelby he was an active member of The Methodist Church and The Masonic Lodge. He also served as alderman and mayor of Shelby.

(4) Mary Levina Gidney, born in 1839, married Samuel Lattimore and lived in South Carolina.

(5) Roxanna Caroline Gidney, born in 1847, lived in Shelby briefly and married Sidney Vail Many of Newburgh, New York where the Gidneys and the Manys of Newburgh had been neighbors in the previous generation. Roxanna and Sidney went to Newburgh to make their home.

In addition to Samuel Sands Gidney, who moved to North Carolina in 1825, Cornelius Gidney, a cousin, came from Newburgh and married in Rutherford County about five years later. Cornelius' son, William A. Gidney, became a Baptist minister. He served in South Carolina and went to Transylvania County, North Carolina where he established the State Line Baptist Church. His descendants live in Western North Carolina in Clyde, Canton, and Asheville.

Another son of Cornelius Gidney and his wife Phebe Baily was Jeremiah Gidney who married in Rutherford County, where he built a log cabin and farmed. In 1874 he sold his farm and moved with his family to Texas. His descendants live in Texas and other western states. This family held a reunion in Texas in the Fall of 1981.

To my knowledge the Shelby residents of the family are descendants of John Wells Gidney since Jonathan Chauncey Gidney had no heirs, and the Gidneys in the Asheville area descended from Rev. William A. Gidney.

The children of John Wells Gidney and Mary Evalina McFarland were born and reared in Shelby. Six boys and two girls reached maturity:

Samuel Eleazer Gidney (1865-1940) married Susan Stevens and moved to Oklahoma, after graduating from Shelby's Military Academy in 1888 and receiving a law degree from U.N.C. at Chapel Hill.

Dr. Charles Chauncey Gidney (1867-1934), was a surgeon, physician, banker, and farmer in Plainview, Texas.

Dr. Robert Many Gidney (1869-1933), was a veterinarian, farmer, and county agent in Shelby.

Dr. John William Gidney (1871-1933), was a doctor in West Texas.

Daisie Gidney (1873-1909), single, was buried at Shelby.

Dr. Lauriston Irvin Gidney (1875-1911), single, was a dentist in Charlotte, North Carolina.

Leona Gidney (1879-1929), single, lived with her mother until 1918 in Shelby. She lived several years in Oklahoma and Texas with brothers (Doctors Charles and John) but was living in Shelby at the time of her death in 1929, and she is buried at Sunset Cemetery in Shelby.

Lamar Carson/Gidney (1883-1925), an engineer, bought the old home in Shelby on East Marion Street, and is buried at Sunset Cemetery here.

Sources: Family Bibles; Portraits; County records, wills, and deeds; Death and marriage records; Memory.

— Robert Sarratt Gidney

THE CECIL LEE GILLIATT FAMILY

472

Cecil Gilliatt distinguished himself as a successful and highly respected businessman who received national recognition for his achievements in the florist industry. Simultaneously he contributed greatly to Shelby community affairs, and for twenty-three years, made even greater contributions to American public education.

Born in Neosho County, Kansas (January 6, 1905), the youngest child of Theodore Robert and Della Johnson Gilliatt, Cecil received a bachelor's degree from Kansas State Teacher's College (Pittsburg) and did graduate work at Duke University while teaching at Durham High School. Shortly after his marriage to Rosalynd Nix of Shelby — see Rosalynd Nix Gilliatt report — (August 12, 1932) they moved to Shelby where he established his florist business. As a businessman, he served as president of the North Carolina State Florist Association, president of the Southern Retail Florist Association, and district representative of the Florist Transworld Delivery. Mr. Gilliatt's avocation as an educational statesman began in 1953 when he was elected to the Shelby City School Board. From this beginning he became president of the National School Boards Association in 1975, attaining the highest achievement that a layman can receive in public education.

In 1955 Mr. Gilliatt was chosen chairman of the Shelby School Board, a position he held for 16 years, while helping develop the local schools into a model system that attracted state-wide attention. Under his direction, the city schools emerged with some of the best facilities in the state. Also during this time the system expanded its academic programs and became a shining example of new and innovative programs among public school systems. An honest and sincere diplomat, Mr. Gilliatt was largely instrumental in guiding the school system through the period of desegregation while generating the full support of the community.

John Wells Gidney Family, July 8, 1895. Front: Lamar. Second row: Capt. John Wells, Mary McFarland Gidney. Third row: Charles, Daisy, Lauriston, Leona, Samuel. Fourth row: William and Robert.

While serving on the Shelby School Board he became active in the North Carolina State School Boards Association, serving first as a member of the board of directors and later two terms as president. Through this association he was instrumental in developing the state-wide kindergarten program. In 1971 Mr. Gilliatt was elected secretary-treasurer of the National School Boards Association. He served as second vice-president in 1974 and was elected president of the national association the following year.

During his 24 years of service to education, Cecil was a spokesman for local school board control of public education, a philosophy he defended before congressional members and federal education agencies. His primary concern was for the welfare of the student. His basic approach was "Will it be best for the children?" A frequent statement of his pertained to the growth of children: "Just as we can't scatter seeds on ill-prepared soil, neither can school boards deviate from their aim to make children grow." A most unassuming and unimposing leader, Mr. Gilliatt was the catalytic agent that caused decisions of major importance to be made for education. At his death, friends and family established the Gilliatt Scholarship Award which gives an outstanding student $1000.00 toward a college education next year.

He was a member and deacon of the First Baptist Church in Shelby. He was chairman of the board of trustees for Cleveland Technical Institute, president of the Shelby Chamber of Commerce, and the Shelby Merchants Association, the Cleveland County United Fund, the Cleveland County American Red Cross, Shelby Lions Club, Salvation Army, Cleveland Association of Government Agencies, Boy's Club, and Boy's Scouts of America. He was a sergeant in the N.C. State Guards in 1944-45.

Among his awards and recognitions received were Distinguished Service Award, N.C. Florist Association; Gold Medal Award, Outstanding Achievement, Floral Industry, 1971; Certificate of Appreciation for the support of the Distributive Clubs of America; Citizenship Award, Cleveland County Mental Health Association; Commended for his interest in and contribution to the Total Development of N.C. by Governor Dan Moore; Cleveland County Bicentennial Certificate of Merit; named "Citizen of the Year" 1953; received Human Service Award, posthumously.

Gardner-Webb College conferred an Honorary Doctor of Humane Letters upon him.

The Gilliatts had three children: Lee, Jr. (May 10, 1937) — graduate Shelby High School, Dartmouth College, Harvard Medical School — interned at Duke University Hospital, is now a pediatrician in Shelby. He was chairman of the Mental Health Board, member of Chamber of Commerce Board, is now a member of the Shelby Board of Education; member of Committee for Perinatal Care, Cleveland County and N.C. Pediatric Society, American Academy of Pediatrics, and American Medical Association. He is a member and deacon of First Baptist Church and active worker in Young Life. On June 2, 1962 he married Helen French Grondal who is a graduate of Barrington College and has a master's degree from U.N.C.-Chapel Hill. She is not only an accomplished musician, but is most accommodating in sharing it. They have two children, Nathan Bror (September 6, 1965) who is also a musician (guitar, piano, and trumpet), and Sandra Rosalynd (October 7, 1968) who is an accomplished violinist.

Their second child Benjamin Robert (July 2, 1942) is a graduate of Western Carolina University and received a law degree from Tulane University, and a Master of Business Administration degree from Columbia University, New York. He is a member of the North Carolina Bar

Rosalynd and Cecil Gilliatt. Picture taken 1975.

Association. He now lives in Chicago and is Assistant Treasurer and Director of Corporate Finance of Consolidated Foods Corporation. He was married to Ann Foley (1970-1980).

Their third child was Hattie Nix (August 29, 1947 — May 28, 1957).

As busy as Cecil was he had time to be an exemplary family man. His hobbies were fishing, gardening, and keeping his home surroundings in top shape.

He died September 15, 1978, and is buried at Sunset Cemetery.

Sources: Presentation of his honorary degree; Newspapers; Minutes and letters.

— Rosalynd N. Gilliatt

ROSALYND NIX GILLIATT

473

Rosalynd Nix Gilliatt was born on May 28, 1904, in Shelby, North Carolina. Her parents were William Benjamin Nix and Hattie Lattimore Nix (See account of William Benjamin Nix).

Rosalynd grew up in the local schools after which she earned an A.B. degree at the University of North Carolina at Greensboro. Even there, she played a major leadership role in student government, receiving an award for the greatest service to the college. She also studied at the University of California at Berkley.

Following her formal schooling, Rosalynd became a teacher of social studies, French, and dramatic arts in Raleigh, Durham, and Shelby. She has worked with youth in many ways through the years covering the gamut from drama productions to serving as counselor in a Vermont summer camp to youth correctional work. First appointed by Governor Luther Hodges in 1955, she served on the Juvenile Corrections Board for eighteen years — the first woman to serve on this board.

In 1932 Rosalynd was married to Cecil L. Gilliatt, a native of Kansas (See account of Cecil L. Gilliatt). They moved to Shelby and started Gilliatt Florist which they ran successfully for many years. Rosalynd worked in the business alongside Cecil, serving as consultant to many brides through the years.

Rosalynd's love of flowers may be evidenced in various ways. Even when she was a teacher in Raleigh, her students were aware of this. A little girl would daily pick a flower from the garden at the governor's mansion on her way to school, and daily the little girl would present the flower to her favorite teacher — Rosalynd Nix. Thus, whether it be sampling a sprig of moss at Duke Forest, accepting a pinon pine from a friend in Arizona, making the floral arrangements for a special banquet, or hooking a flower into a rug, Rosalynd has concerned herself with flowers. This has led her to active beautification work of all sorts. In 1966 she was appointed to the Governor's Committee on Beautification. Locally she has done extensive work with the Shelby Chamber of Commerce's Beautification Committee, and she has led campaigns for downtown Shelby plantings and beautification award programs. In 1970 the county commissioners gave the committee a nest egg to start a campaign for clear lights for the Court Square at Christmas. Rosalynd worked with the help of the appearance commission to light as many of the small trees on the approaching streets as possible. Currently, all of the trees of sufficient size on the downtown streets and on the square are lit each Christmas.

Rosalynd has worked extensively in the American Association of University Women. She was a charter member of the Shelby Branch and has served as local president. She has been state chairman for many committees. She served as North Carolina Division President, 1960-63; South Atlantic Regional Vice-President, 1967-71; and National Association Recording Secretary, 1971-75. In appreciation of this leadership, the North Carolina State Division established the Rosalynd Nix Gilliatt Endowment for International Fellowships in 1973. This endowment, contributed to by women from all over the United States, has exceeded one hundred thousand dollars and is now producing a stipend each year for a woman to study at the doctorate level.

When Rosalynd was elected regional vice president of AAUW at its Miami Convention, an incident occurred which illustrates her typical determination to make the best of everything that happens. After a visit to the beauty parlor, Ros decided to spray her hair well to preserve the beautician's work. With her roommate frantically admonishing her to stop, she sprayed all the harder. The spray was foot powder and had suddenly transformed her hair to total whiteness. Rather than lose the hairdo, she appeared the next morning — powder and all — and told her predecessor that the prospect of following her in office had turned her hair white overnight.

Among the many activities and awards of this busy woman are the following: P.T.A. Work, City Council President, 1948-50; member First Baptist Church; President Woman's Missionary Union of First Baptist, Shelby, 1942-52; Assistant Sunday School Teacher; recipient of Shelby Woman of the Year Award, 1951; Gray Lady for American Red Cross, 1943-45; member Shelby Appearance Commission; Chairman of Chamber of Commerce Beautification Committee, 1965-67; Woman Doer Award from Cleveland County Democratic Woman; Member of North Carolina Board of Juvenile Correction, 1956-73; member of Executive Board of North Carolina Family Life Council, 1956-58; member Board of Directors Merchants Association; member Dogwood Festival Committee; member of North Carolina Literary and Historical Society; member of Governor's Committee to Study Prevention of Juvenile Delinquency and Youth Crime, 1963-65; member of Governor's Advisory Beautification Committee, 1968-72; Chairman of N.C. Family Heritage Committee; first recipient of the First Lady of the Year Award of Beta Sigma Phi; listed in the Book of Golden Deeds of the Shelby Exchange Club, 1977; and recipient of the Award of Merit for Exemplary Effort in the All-America City Campaign.

In speaking of herself, Rosalynd has said, "I'm a very plain, ordinary person." That is her down-to-earth approach to living and sharing her sincere and honest perspective that have helped make her one of Shelby's most gracious and lovely ladies. Her house abounds with beautiful braided and hooked rugs, needlepoint, crewel embroidery, and crochet — products of her busy hands. She holds open house for a small group of women who enjoy handwork with her. No gossip and no eating are the order of the day at these sessions — pure enjoyment of handwork and fellowship.

Cecil and Rosalynd had three children: Lee, a physician in Shelby; Ben, an attorney in Chicago; and Hattie Nix, deceased. (See account of Cecil L. Gilliatt). Awards and honors have been given to her, buildings have been named for her, but she is prouder of the accomplishments of her family — husband, children, and grandchildren — than any other part of her life.

Always, Rosalynd Nix Gilliatt has been a wonderful representative of Shelby — a true dyed-in-the-wool native of Shelby, North Carolina.

Sources: Newspapers; Awards; Interviews of friends.

— Rebecca H. Hamrick

Albert Lee Glenn (Nov. 3, 1922) was born near Styce Power Plant in the Number Three Township. He was the first of four children born to Allen Glenn (Dec. 25, 1896) and Cora Smith Glenn (Oct. 4, 1896 — Oct. 22, 1978). (For Albert's brother, sisters, and paternal grandparents see "Allen Glenn"). His maternal grandparents were Boney Hampton Smith (June 2, 1869 — May 4, 1952) and Mollie McSwain Smith (June 13, 1864 — Feb. 13, 1945). Mollie's parents, Albert's great grandparents, were Rev. A.A. (Asa) McSwain (March 10, 1832 — Nov. 11, 1885) and Elizabeth Cornwell McSwain (Oct. 24, 1883 — Aug. 9, 1904). They are buried in the Beaver Dam Baptist Church Cemetery. Asa preached at the Boiling Springs Baptist Church (1869-1875) for twenty-five dollars and a pair of leather boots yearly. There are no pictures of him because he never allowed his picture to be made. It is said that Union soldiers stopped him and were going to take his horse, buggy, and gold watch, but he talked them out of it, explaining that he was a preacher and needed all three in order to preach.

Albert attended McBrayer, a two-room school about a mile from his home, part of his first school year. There were no buses. He attended elementary and high school at Earl. In 1939-1940, he attended Diesel School in Richmond, Virginia. In 1942-1943, he worked in the Ship Yard at Charleston, South Carolina and was inducted in the Navy in November, 1943. He received a medical discharge in January, 1944 because of a foot injury. This is when he came to live in Boiling Springs. He operated a garage for six years, beginning in a rented building while building his own. He and one employee made the concrete blocks for the new structure. His Uncles Jack, Ben, and "Bud" Glenn built it, completing it in the summer of 1945. We moved into the house where we now live, beside the shop, in August, 1945. This house is known as the "Preacher Pinkney Hamrick House" and was built about 1880 or 1890. Mr. Jim Lovelace said he ate his first home-made ice cream in this house "about the turn of the century." In 1950, Albert closed the garage and began operating a sawmill, which he still operates. We have also produced commercial eggs since 1972.

Albert became a Christian when he was a young boy attending New Hope Baptist Church at Earl and was baptized there by the Rev. J.L. Jenkins. I, Miriam Hamrick Glenn, (April 9, 1926) attended Boiling Springs Baptist Church, also pastored by Rev. Jenkins; and I, too, was baptized by him. On September 17, 1944, he married us in the Boiling Springs Baptist Church. Albert moved his membership to Boiling Springs and the church has been at the center of our lives from the beginning of our marriage. Albert served as a church trustee for many years; he is a deacon and has taught Sunday School for twenty-five years. I also taught in Sunday School, Training Union and Bible School. Both of us have served on various committees, including the Building Committee and the Building Finance Committee for the new building which was completed in 1969.

The following are some of Albert's civic responsibilities and pleasures. He was the first chief for the Boiling Springs Volunteer Fire Department, organized in 1945; a member of the Men's Progressive Club, organized and disbanded in the late 1940's; a charter member (with a perfect attendance record) of the Boiling Springs Lion's Club, sponsored by the Shelby Club in November, 1950. He is on the board of trustees for Crawley Memorial Hospital; and he has been a Town Commissioner for fifteen years, first being appointed to fill the unexpired term of O.P. Hamrick when he died in 1967.

Our four children and six grandchildren are as follows. Albert Lee Glenn, Jr., D.V.M. (May 26, 1948), a veterinarian in Pickens, South Carolina, who married Sandra Lee Jackson of Jackson County, Georgia. Their children are Jonathan Ryan (Feb. 11, 1978) and Stephanie Lauren (Nov. 30, 1981), both born in Greenville, South Carolina.

Marjorie Ann Glenn (Nov. 29, 1950), a Registered Dietitian and Consulting Nutritionist, who married Walker Hall Busby, Ph.D., neurobiologist, from Charlotte, North Carolina. Their children are Katherine Ann (Aug. 29, 1980) and Emily Sarah (Dec. 28, 1981), both born in Chapel Hill.

Mary Jane Glenn (Feb. 28, 1953) married Gerald Adrian Lipscomb from the Trinity Community. They live in Boiling Springs. Jane taught school for five years and is now assisting Gerald in his business, Lipscomb Signs in Forest City, North Carolina. Their children are Gerald Adrian, II (Nov. 15, 1979) and Patrick Alexander (Sept. 25, 1981). Both boys were born in Cleveland County, as were Gerald and our four children.

John Charles Glenn (July 24, 1958) lives in Boiling Springs. He is a partner in his father's business — Glenn Lumber Co., Inc. While operating a portable sawmill, the two were building an automatic mill which took five years to complete. It has been in operation since July, 1980. John is also a partner in the chicken business.

Sources: Gravestones at Pleasant Ridge Baptist Church and Beaver Dam Baptist Church; Boiling Springs Baptist Church history, "Our Dream for Tomorrow" by Mrs. M. A. Jolley; Conversation with family members; Conversation with the late Mr. Jim Lovelace many years ago.

— Miriam Hamrick Glenn
(Mrs. Albert L. Glenn)

ALLEN GLENN475

Allen Glenn (Dec. 25, 1896) was born in Union County, South Carolina. He was the seventh of Eleven children born to John Thomas Beaugare Glenn (May 20, 1862 — Mar. 7, 1940) and Sarah "Sally" Gibson Glenn (Jan. 29, 1963 — May 18, 1923). They are buried in the New Hope Baptist Church Cemetery. He is thought to have been born in Gaston County and she at Earl. Allen's parents moved back to Cleveland County before he was three years old. He lived in Cleveland County about forty-five years before moving just across the line in South Carolina, where he still lives.

Brothers and sisters of Allen and their spouses (if married) are: Sarah "Sally" Lily (Feb. 9, 1883 — Mar. 21, 1949) who married Noah Crotts; Willie Searless "Dick" (Mar. 10, 1885 — June 30, 1910) who married Minnie Grigg; Robert Franklin "Bud" (Apr. 20, 1887 — Apr. 16, 1976); Jess (Mar. 2, 1890 — Mars. 18, 1929) who married Pearl Moore; Minnie Dec. 12, 1892 — Sept. 3, 1974); John Oscar "Jack" (July 16, 1894 — Nov. 29, 1967) who married Linda Lookadoo; Oveda (July 5, 1899 — July 8, 1963) who married Charlie C. Melton; Lula (Dec. 10, 1901 — Oct. 6, 1976) who married Tommy Blanton; Ben (Feb. 22, 1904 — Dec. 13, 1977) who married Estelle Gladden; and Bonnie (Aug. 2, 1907 — Nov. 22, 1967) who married Harry Hopper.

When Allen was twenty-four years old he met Cora Smith (Oct. 4, 1896 — Oct. 22, 1978), also twenty-four, who was teaching in a one-room school located near Styce Shoals. They were married May 1, 1920 in Gaffney, South Carolina. She was born in the Swainsville Community in the house where her mother was born and is buried in the Buffalo Baptist Church Cemetery, Route one, Blacksburg, South Carolina.

Allen farmed and operated a cotton gin in his younger years. He was a good farmer, getting up early and working late in farming season and expecting all "hands" to do the same. He kept all tools and equipment in good repair and saw to it that the soil was properly prepared and that the crops were kept clean. He continued to farm, growing cotton, corn, and wheat until 1954 when he had a complete crop failure because of the boll weevil. He began logging and sawmilling which he continued until his retirement in 1962.

He believed strongly in people being honest and paying their debts. This he instilled in his children. He seldom attended church, but had good principles.

Cora's life revolved around her church and her home, which was always clean. At "Buffalo", she taught a class of Intermediate girls for many years. She attended Sunday School for fourteen years without missing a Sunday. When she did miss, it was because of Allen's illness. She worked hard on the farm and always had a garden (even the year she died at age eighty-two). Her cow, which she milked herself, and her chickens provided for the family and enough extra that she sold butter and eggs weekly. Her desire on Sundays was to have as many of her children and grandchildren as could come for dinner. She always got up at five o'clock and prepared most of the food before going to Sunday School. We all have happy memories of Sundays at "MaMa and PaPa's". In her orderly life, she never missed a day reading in her Bible, reading "The Shelby Daily Star", and writing in her diary, which she kept the last thirty-three years of her life.

Allen and Cora's children (all born in Cleveland County, the sons living here), grandchildren, and great grandchildren are: Albert Lee (see "Albert Lee Glenn"); Horace Hampton (May 3, 1924) who married Elsie Mae Webber of the Zoar Community on June 3, 1951. Their four children are: Ford Hampton (Jan. 10, 1953) who married Elizabeth Jane "Libby" Bridges; their daughter, Kiley Marie was born Dec. 6, 1978; Ralph Allen (June 13, 1954) married Pamela Brazell Parker; their son Ralph Allen, Jr. was born July, 1978; Ralph's second marriage was to Jennifer Lorentz; Lisa Ann (Aug. 18, 1959); and Lori Ann (Oct. 23, 1963). Cora and Allen's first daughter was Dorothy Evelyn (Oct. 18, 1928) who married Datis Eugene Cole from Finley, Hancock County, Ohio, on April 9, 1949 in Greenville, South Carolina. Their three children are: Kathleen Dianne (Dec. 1, 1950) who married William Harwell Thrasher from Decatur Georgia, in Greenville, South Carolina; their son Christopher Cole Thrasher was born Aug. 6, 1981; Datis Eugene Cole, Jr. (Mar. 25, 1953) who married Billie Kay Brown from Goldsboro, North Carolina, in Melbourne, Florida; Robert Glenn Cole (Sept. 18, 1957). Mary Nell (Mar. 30, 1932) who married Harry Lee Martin from Blacksburg, South Carolina, in Greer, South Carolina, May 12, 1951. Their two children are: Michael Leroy (Dec. 14, 1962) who married Susan Fowler of Shelby; their son Brian Jay was born March 24, 1981; Terry Diane (Dec. 31, 1856) who married Randy Ellis Bedford of Blacksburg, South Carolina; their daughter, Erica Nicole was born February 3, 1978.

Sources: Conversation with children of Allen Glenn; Conversation with Mary Glenn Lynn; My own knowledge.

— Miriam Hamrick Glenn
(Mrs. Albert L. Glenn)

SAMUEL PANNELL and KATHERINE GOODE GOFORTH

476

Samuel Pannell Goforth was the fifth child born to Elizabeth Pannell Goforth and George Edward Goforth on May 10, 1921. He had one sister, Zella, and five brothers, John, Charles, George, Joe and Coleman. The family resided in the Stoney Point Community, northeast of Shelby, where they worked on the family farm and operated the only general store in the area.

Sam graduated from Waco High School in 1939 and attended Brevard College in Brevard, North Carolina. After college he developed his trade as a welder at the Detroit Welding Academy in Detroit, Michigan. In 1941 and 1942 he was employed as a welder in the shipyards in Wilmington, North Carolina and Savannah, Georgia.

On February 28, 1942, Sam married his life long neighbor and childhood sweetheart, Katherine Goode, the third daughter of Fred and Rittie Goode. In 1943, Sam began his service to his country in the United States Navy as a First Class Petty Officer. He served his naval tour throughout the world, which ended in 1946.

In the spring of 1946, Sam and Katherine returned to Cleveland County and purchased 120 acres in Grover, North Carolina where they built their first home. Along with their modest wood frame house, they built a small welding shop so Sam could continue his trade as a welder for local industrialists and farmers in the area.

As Katherine managed the motherly and household duties, Sam worked to develop and expand his welding business. In 1952 Sam and his brothers Joe and Coleman joined together in the welding and steel fabrication business. When the brothers united, they built a new facility in Shelby, which was called Goforth Brothers, Inc. Sam and Katherine also moved their family of five children to Shelby and bought a 40 acre farm that same year. The original Goforth Brothers, Inc. was located on Highway 74 one block west of the present Goforth Industries location on Highway 74 By Pass. Coleman Goforth remained employed with Goforth Brothers until the late 1950's, at which time he went back to the Stoney Point Farm and Sam and brother Joe went on with Goforth Brothers. Goforth Brothers changed its name to Goforth Industries in 1974 under the leadership of Sam and Joe and Sam's three sons Steve, Dennis, and Richard. The business grew into a prominent leader in the steel fabrication industry, diversifying its interest into the manufacturing of textile equipment, forestry equipment, material handling equipment, and machine shop work. In 1975, the company's direction became managed by Sam and his three sons, where it continued to prosper.

On September 22, 1978 after a short but full life, Sam Goforth died due to complications resulting from a stroke at the age of 57. He is survived by his wife Katherine, who is very active in Aldersgate Methodist Church, Cleveland Springs Garden Club, and many service and social functions.

Sam and Katherine are the parents of five children and ten grandchildren who are as follows:

Sammie Katherine who married Richard Wells Lowery. Their children are Richelle, Laura Kaye and Matthew. Kaye is a housewife now but taught school several years at Crest High School. Richard is a sales representative for South-Western Publishing Company, a textbook company, located in Cincinnati, Ohio. The Lowery's live in Shelby.

Joe Steven who married Carolyn Buchanan. Their children are Sam, Scott, and Craig. Steve has been employed by Goforth Industries for eighteen (18) years and became President of the company in 1978. Carolyn is a housewife.

Dennis Goode, married Peggy Lou Cline. Their children are Jessica and Dennis, Jr. Dennis is a Vietnam Veteran and has been employed by Goforth Industries sixteen (16) years. He became Vice President and Secretary of the company in 1978. Peggy has been employed by First National Bank, but is now a housewife.

Richard Pannell married Linda Elmore. They have one daughter Lu. Richard has been employed by Goforth Industries for nine (9) years and became Vice President and Treasurer in 1978. Linda taught school in the Cleveland County System for six (6) years, but is now a mother and housewife.

Susan Carol married John Williams Porter. They have one daughter Katherine. Susan taught school in the Charlotte/Mecklenburg school system for several years. She now is a housewife and a mother. Bill is an attorney in Charlotte. Susan and Bill reside in Charlotte, North Carolina.

Sam and Katherine Goforth are both Cleveland County natives. Their children were all born and raised in Cleveland County and their children married only Cleveland County natives.

Sources: Personal Knowledge, family records, and memories.

— Richard Goforth and Kaye G. Lowery

THE WALTER GRAHAM FAMILY

477

Walter Gilchrist Graham (March 18, 1882 — November 6, 1967), son of Rebecca and James Knox Graham, of Maxton, North Carolina, graduated from Carolina Military Institute in Red Springs, North Carolina, and came to Shelby in 1902 to work for Belmont Mill Store. He married Carrie Leola Austell (March 19, 1882 — August 21, 1959) on July 12, 1905. She was a daughter of William Quitman and Maggie Turner Austell.

Carrie taught at Bethlehem School in Cleveland County. After their marriage, they started to Shelby in a two-horse surrey but had to change their route and go by the old county home (now Cleveland Tech) because the water was up at Still House Creek and could not be forded. Two members of their wedding party (Sanky Mauney and Alex White) were in the buggy with them. When they arrived in Shelby, they boarded the Seaboard train for Maxton where Walter was to be employed by the J.W. Carter Company.

Two sons were born — Winford and Austell. Due to Mrs. Graham's health, the doctor advised them to move to a higher altitude. Returning to Earl, they built a home joining her parents' farm. Three more children were born — Frances, Helen, and Max. Walter went into general merchandise business in Earl where hats, hardware, furniture, groceries and even funeral supplies were sold. One of his clerks once asked a black boy to go home and wash his feet so he could get in a casket to check its size. The boy never returned to Graham's store! Along with farming interests, Walter served three terms on the school board and served as Justice of the Peace for forty-six years. Carrie and Walter are buried in New Hope Church cemetery.

Winford Gilchrist graduated from Shelby High School and was accepted at Davidson College for the fall enrollment; however, when he arrived there, they were not able to house all students. He returned home and went into business for himself as a live stock dealer. He served as a military police at Fort Jackson, South Carolina, for three years during World War II. He died September 29, 1967, and was buried in New Hope cemetery.

James Austell graduated from Shelby High School in 1926. In the fall, he enrolled at UNC, Chapel Hill. He was employed by Kendall Medicine Company, served in the US Army during World War II, and was a representative for

Walter G. Graham Family. Kneeling: Max, Jr., Carolyn Lee, & Graham. Seated L to R: Max, Sr., Ruth, (holding Ruthie), Carrie & Walter, Whitfield Lee, Jr. Standing L to R: John T. Moore, Helen, Whitfield Lee, Sr., Frances, Austell, Winford.

Strietman Biscuit Company covering the western parts of North and South Carolina. He retired in 1976 and is enjoying touring the world.

Frances McGirt attended Shelby High School and graduated from Flora McDonald Conservatory, Red Springs, North Carolina. She taught music at Lattimore and the Rocky Mount City Schools. She married Jasper Whitfield Lee, owner of Lee Grocery Stores in Rocky Mount where they lived. Later, they moved to Wilson, North Carolina, and had three children — Whitfield, Jr., Graham, and Carolyn. Whitfield, Jr., graduated from North Carolina State University and became vice-president of Fixed Income with Merrill Lynch. He resigned to become a joint owner of Carolina Securities in Raleigh. He married Ann Roberts of Wilson. Their children are Justin and Elizabeth Ann. Graham finished Campbell University and is employed at Gysinger Hospital in Danville, Pennsylvania. He married Brenda Hutchings and has one daughter, Rebecca. Carolyn Elizabeth Lee finished the University of North Carolina, Greensboro and taught school in Raleigh. She married Mike Edwards, a graduate of the University of North Carolina, who works for the North Carolina News Network in Raleigh.

Helen Carolyn attended Number Three High School, Appalachian State University in Boone, and graduated from Wake Forest College. She did graduate work at Julliard School of Music. She was director of music for the High Point City Schools until her retirement. She was married to John Thomas Moore, Jr., of Mount Airy, who was associated with R.E.A. Express Company. He passed away September 18, 1979, in High Point where they lived. He is buried in Earl.

Max Lindsay Graham graduated from Number Three High School. In WWII he served 4 years in Quartermaster, U.S. Army. He was employed by A&P Food Stores for forty-three years. Most of those years he served as manager. He married Ruth Cattingham of Dillon, SC, a teacher in Gastonia. They had three children — Max, Jr., Ruthie, and John Walter. Max, Jr., graduated from Hunter Huss High School and North Carolina State University. He is now the personnel director for A.M.P. in Gastonia and Charlotte. Ruthie was born September 15, 1957, and died December 5, 1962, with pneumonia. While in high school, John Walter served as an intern for Governor Hunt and Speaker of the House Carl Stewart. John is now a junior at Wake Forest University.

Source: Family history.

— Austell Graham

HISTORY OF ABNER GREEN

478

Abner Green, the son of "Major" William Green, great grandfather, and direct ancestor of Charles Abner Green, was born in 1786 in Rutherford County, and died in 1878 at the age of ninety-two. Abner Green is buried in Concord Baptist Church Cemetery, near Bostic, N.C. He was married to Matilda Christmas April 5, 1836. To this union were born three boys and three girls: Sanders Donehew Green, born Oct. 22, 1840, grandfather of Charles Abner Green, the recorder of this article; Andrew Green, born in 1837; C.P. Green, born 1850; Mary Margaret Green, born 1843, married Rubin Harris Martin of Rutherford County; Menervie Green, married a Padgett, born 1839. Aquilla Green, born in 1849.

ANCESTORS OF PERMELIA ANN ESTHER GREEN

479

Joseph Green married Mary EcEntire. Major William Green, son of Joseph and Mary Green, was born in 1753 and died in 1832. He married Drucilla Green.

Henry Green, son of Major William Green and Drucilla Green, was born on Buffalo Creek in 1775 and died about 1827 or 1828. (I do not know his wife's name.) After Henry married, he built a home on what is now North Main Street in Boiling Springs in 1797.

Elias Green, son of Henry Green, was born April 5, 1807 and died September 16, 1893. His wife Rebecca Hamrick, daughter of Reuben Hamrick and Hannah McSwain Hamrick was born December 18, 1809 and died September 16, 1893.

Reuben Hamrick Green was born December 18, 1840 and died June 27, 1923. He was the son of Elias Green and Rebecca Hamrick Green. His wife was Elizabeth Jane Scruggs, daughter of Richard Scruggs and Selena Hawkins Scruggs. She was born August 8, 1846, died March 29, 1921.

Permelia Ann Esther Green, daughter of Reuben Hamrick Green and Elizabeth Jane Scruggs Green, was born August 16, 1864 and died January 2, 1951. Her husband Andrew Jackson Green, son of Joseph Green and Sarah Hamrick Green, was born August 24, 1860 and died August 1, 1943.

To this union were born six girls and one boy.

Bertha Jane Green was born June 19, 1884 and died June 27, 1967. She married Clarence Edgar Bridges at her home on February 23, 1911. He was born August 26, 1890 and died November 2, 1971.

Mary Jemimah Green was born January 14, 1886 and died July 27, 1974, not married.

Sarah Vernan Green was born October 31, 1890 and she died December 23, 1974. She married Joseph Manly Devenny December 20, 1911, in the Boiling Springs Baptist Church. He was born Sept. 11, 1887 and he died January 7, 1945.

Lottie Catherine Green was born May 31, 1895 and died May 23, 1980, not married.

Ollie Connie Greene was born June 29, 1900, not married.

Stanley Everette Green was born March 27, 1905, not married.

Lyda Ree Green was born January 21, 1910, not married.

Sources: S. C. Jones Book, Family Records.

— Ollie Connie Green

ANDREW JACKSON GREEN

480

Andrew Jackson Green was born August 24, 1860 in the Boiling Springs area. His father, Joseph Green, died in service while on his way home on a furlough. He was serving in the Confederate Army during the Civil War. In Charlotte, he died of a heart attack. His body was brought home for burial in Boiling Springs cemetery.

Andrew's mother had a hard time making a living for three small children. Andrew was my father. He and his brother, Solon, helped their mother farm and did all they could to help her as soon as they were big enough. Father and his brother, Solon, went with the threshers in the springtime and helped thrash wheat, oats, and rye for other people.

In the fall they moved their cane mill and molasses pan to other people's homes where they had cane and made molasses for them.

After Father married Permelia Ann Esther Green, he continued to farm and live in Boiling Springs area.

Father served as postmaster in Boiling Springs in the late eighteen hundreds for awhile. Then Shelby got a rural route through here and killed the Boiling Springs postoffice.

After clerking in a grocery store for awhile, he operated a cotton gin that stood about where Boiling Springs Post Office now stands. The gin burned to the ground one night. Later he operated a saw mill, a planer and Roller Mill. It was a three story building and stood just below where the Boiling Springs washerette now stands. The planer and saw mill were just behind Roller Mill, a mill for grinding wheat and corn. He operated them as long as he was able.

My father, Mr. Jim Green, and Mr. Asbury Webb dug more graves than any other three men in Boiling Springs. They worked willingly without pay and seldom received thanks.

Father used to go to neighbor's homes when someone was sick. He would sit up all night and help wait on them without pay.

My father, J.Y. Hamrick, Sr., and R.L. Davis Green were the first committee appointed by the Boiling Springs Church to see about getting a Baptist High School in Boiling Springs. The school opened Oct. 1, 1907.

Father and D.P. Hamrick were two of the first alderman elected for Boiling Springs which was incorporated in 1911.

Father, C.E. Bridges, and Steward Tailor dug the first deep wells in Boiling Springs in 1912 or 1913. They also dug wells in neighboring communities.

Father believed in attending church service and prayer service. He attended prayer service for five years without missing a single prayer service.

He was a member of the masonic lodge for more than fifty years. He was honored with a masonic burial when he died August 1, 1943.

Father did not have the opportunity to get much education but he read and studied his Bible. He was not rich in money and worldly possessions, but he had an insight and knowledge and vision of necessary improvements and growth of our church, schools, and community.

Sources: family records.

— Ollie Connie Green

A.J. GREEN'S HAMRICK ANCESTORS

481

First Generation

George Hamrick Sr. came from Germany in 1731 and married Nancy Cook.

Second Generation

George Hamrick Jr. son of George Hamrick Sr. and Nancy Cook Hamrick married Susanna Blanton.

Third Generation

Samuel Hamrick son of George Hamrick Jr. and Susanna Blanton Hamrick married Mary Hamrick.

Fourth Generation

Elijah Hamrick Sr. son of Samuel Hamrick and Susanna Blanton married Mary McSwain, daughter of William McSwain Jr. and Judith Moore McSwain.

Fifth Generation

Elijah Hamrick Jr. son of Elijah Hamrick Sr. and Mary McSwain Hamrick was born December 4, 1815 and he died September 13, 1862. His wife Hannah Hamrick, daughter of David Hamrick and Sarah McSwain Hamrick was born May 11, 1817 and she died December 1, 1883.

Sixth Generation

Sarah Hamrick, daughter of Elijah Hamrick Jr. and Hannah Hamrick was born November 3, 1836 and she died June 25, 1896. Her husband Joseph Green son of John Green Sr. and Judith McSwain Green was born December 30, 1833 and he died August 19, 1864 in service.

Seventh Generation

Andrew Jackson Green son of Joseph Green and Sarah Hamrick Green was born August 24, 1860 and he died August 1, 1943. His wife Permelia Ann Esther Green daughter of Reuben Hamrick Green and Elizabeth Jane Scruggs Green was born August 16, 1864 and she died January 2, 1951. They were the parents of six girls and one boy.

Bertha Jane Green was born June 19, 1884 and she died June 27, 1967. She married Clarence Edgar Bridges at her home February 23, 1911. Their ceremony was performed by Rev. Gordon Washburn. Edgar was the son of Cicero Miller Bridges and Jane Harrill Bridges. He was born August 26, 1880 and died November 2, 1971.

Mary Jemimah Green was born January 14, 1886 and she died July 27, 1974. Not married.

Sarah Vernan Green was born October 31, 1890 and she died December 23, 1974. She married Joseph Manly Devenny December 20, 1911 in the Boiling Springs Baptist Church. Rev. J.V. Devenny his father performed the ceremony. His mother was Eliza Bradshaw Devenny. He was born September 11, 1887 and he died January 7, 1945.

Lottie Catherine Green was born May 31, 1895 and died May 23, 1980. Not married.

Ollie Connie Green was born June 29, 1900. Not married.

Stanley Everette Green was born March 27, 1905. Not married.

Lyda Ree Green was born January 21, 1910. Not married.

Sources: S.C. Jones Book.

— Ollie Connie Green

A.J. GREEN'S ANCESTORS

482

Joseph Green married Mary McEntire.

Major William Green, son of Joseph and Mary McEntire Green, was born in 1753 and he died in 1832. He married Drucilla Green.

Henry Green, son of Major William Green and Drucilla Green, was born on Buffalo Creek in 1775 and died about 1827 or 1828. (I do not know his wife's name.) After Henry married he built a home on what is now North Main Street in Boiling Springs in 1797. His oldest child, John Green Sr., was born 1798, and died July 23, 1875.

John Green Sr. married Judith McSwain daughter of William McSwain Jr. and Judith Moore McSwain.

Joseph Green was the son of John Green Sr. and Judith McSwain Green. He was born December 30, 1833 and died August 19, 1864 in service in the Civil War. His wife, Sarah Hamrick, daughter of Elijah Hamrick Jr. and Hannah Hamrick was born November 3, 1836 and died June 25, 1896.

Andrew Jackson Green, son of Joseph Green and Sarah Hamrick Green, was born August 24, 1860 and he died August 1, 1943. His wife was Permelia Ann Esther Green, daughter of Reuben Hamrick Green and Elizabeth Jane Scruggs Green. She was born August 16, 1864 and died January 2, 1951. To this union were born six girls and one boy.

Bertha Jane Green was born June 19, 1884, and died June 27, 1967. Bertha married Clarence Edgar Bridges at her home February 23, 1911. He was born August 26, 1880 and died November 2, 1971.

Mary Jemimah Green was born January 14, 1886 and died July 27, 1974. Not married.

Sarah Vernan Green was born October 31, 1890 and died December 23, 1974. Vernan married Joseph Manly Devenny December 20, 1911 in the Boiling Springs Baptist Church. He was born September 11, 1897 and died January 7, 1945.

Lottie Catherine Green was born May 31, 1895 and died May 23, 1980 not married.

Ollie Connie Green was born June 29, 1900, not married.

Stanley Everette Green was born March 27, 1905, not married.

Lyda Ree Green was born January 21, 1910, not married.

Sources: S.J. Jones Book and family records.

— Ollie Connie Green

HISTORY OF CHARLEY ABNER GREEN, and MARGARET LOUISE VIRGINIA (JENNIE) HARTON GREEN

483

Charley Abner Green, the father of the recorder of this article (born Sept. 11, 1871, died Feb. 13, 1948). He was born near Piney Mt., Ellenboro, N.C., Rutherford Co.

He was a farmer by trade. He was married to Margaret Louise Virginia (Jennie) Harton, on 5-8, 1906, whose date of birth is Feb. 14, 1880 and date of death Nov. 16, 1944. They first made their home in Cliffside, N.C. and later settled in upper Rutherford County, about three miles north of Sunshine, on the Golden Valley Road, at Cooper Springs. He served as assistant rural mail carrier for over twenty five years, on Bostic Route Four, during the horse and buggy days. A carrier from Bostic, N.C. would bring the mail to near Mt. Harmony Church. He would then sort the mail, and begin his route by horse and buggy. He might be ten or eleven o'clock at night when he would get home.

Charley Abner Green and Margaret Louise Virginia Harton Green, are buried in the Mt. Lebenon Baptist Church Cemetery near Sunshine, N.C., Rutherford Co.

Charley Abner and Margaret Louise Virginia Harton Green, had six children.

(1) Sarah Ellis Green, born Sept. 15, 1907, married Clyde Panel Horton, born Jan. 21, 1898 — died Jan. 21, 1969. He is buried in Cedar Grove Me. Church Cemetery, Sunshine, N.C. They had eight children. (a) Margaret Lucille Horton Upton, born Aug. 27, 1926; (b) Clyde Panel Horton Jr., Oct. 9, 1928 — died 2-27, 1978; (c) Charles Dove Horton, born June 2, 1930; (d) Howard Houston Horton, Feb. 14, 1932; (e) Grace Ellis Horton Newton, Oct. 2, 1933; (f) Carl Richard Horton, Aug. 6, 1935; (g) Robert William Horton, April 26, 1941; (h) Martha Jane Horton Buchanan, May 27, 1944.

(2) Agnes Mae Green; born May 10, 1909, married Paul Durham Murray, born April 6, 1903. They had six children. (a) Louise Hazel Murray Gettys, Sept. 5, 1932; (b) Lester Wayne Murray, Nov. 8, 1933. (c) Walter Flay Murray, Aug. 25, 1938; (d) Eunice Marie Murray, Jan. 30, 1949; (e) Ruth Mae Murray Arrowwood, Sept. 10, 1951; (f) Betty Jean Murray, Oct. 28, 1954.

(3) Annie Sue Green; April 15, 1911, married Charles Edward Bridges, born Nov. 28, 1898 — died July 26, 1966. They had three children. (a) Virginia Lorene Bridges, Nov. 24, 1935. (b) Minnie Florence Bridges Fairbanks, March 19, 1938. (c) Mary Frances Bridges, born Jan. 12, 1944.

(4) Lois Naomi Green, Feb. 24, 1913, married Fred Toney, born Jan. 20, 1908. They had six children. (a) Lewis Charley Toney, Oct. 1, 1934; (b) Carl Wilburn Toney, Dec. 27, 1935 — July 26, 1979; (c) Fred Toney Jr., Aug. 12, 1937; (d) James Robert Toney, June 23, 1940; (e) Harold Hicks Toney, Dec. 6, 1943; (f) Jeanie Elizabeth Toney Ashe, Oct. 23, 1947.

(5) Charles Abner Green, Mary 14, 1915, married Louise Frances Callahan, born Dec. 3, 1922; children: (a) David Marion Green, born March 31, 1944, died May 30, 1971. (b) Mary Frances Green Mode, born Dec. 21, 1953; (c) John Charles Green, born July 20, 1956.

(6) William Woodrow Green, May 3, 1917, married Ardeth Lee Whitstine, born 3-26, 1932; children, (a) William Clyde Green, Feb.

Gun owned by Major Wm. Green.

20, 1960; (b) Martha LaUna Green, Jan. 31, 1963.

William Woodrow Green, great-great grandson of Major William Green, owns the gun that Major William Green used in the Revolutionary War.

It was given to him by his grandfather, Sanders Donehue Green, which was given to Sanders Donehue Green, by his grandfather, "Major" William Green. This gun was stolen at one time, recovered and is now locked in a hand vault.

Margaret Louise Virginia (Jennie) Harton Green, wife of Charley Abner Green, and the mother of the writer of this article, was born in Rutherford County, N.C. near Forest City, N.C., on the Smith Grove Raod. Her father was William Alonzo Harton, (born May 29, 1852, died July, 1901), the son of Robert H. Harton, and Jane B. Goode Harton. Her mother was Sarah Pricilla Grose Harton, daughter of Philip H. Grose and Jane Pickins Grose. Philip H. Grose was a gun-smith. Her maternal grandfather was Dr. Philip H. Grose, born June 10, 1787, wife Pricilla Roberson, March 18, 1785, married Jan. 9, 1811. Doctor Philip Grose came to this country from Germany. He was a very wealthy man, and owned a lot of slaves. Doctor Gross gave the land, and furnished the logs and lumber and with his slave labor built the first log church at the now, Pleasant Grove Methodist Church, near Forest City, N.C. in Rutherford County. He also owned one of the first cotton gins in Rutherford Co. and some of the descendants still have the cotton gin.

Margaret Louise Virginia Harton Green also had four brothers and three sisters: Claxton Harton, born 1866-1934; Robert Harton, born 1884-1935; Oscar Harton, born 1882; Ralph Harton, born Sept. 3, 1891 — died Jan. 29, 1974; Mamie Harton Cade, born 1876, died 1964; Mallie Harton, born 1878 died 1964. She was a school teacher and never married. Hester Harton, born Sept. 20, 1888, married Roy Horton June 1914. She is ninty-three years old, and still living.

I remember my mother most, as a devoted Christian mother, taking me to church for as long as I can remember. I never heard her say an unkind word to any one, or about any one. Her neighbors knew her for the kind deeds she did for them. I often wondered why my mother was still up, when I would come in late at night. After I had children of my own, I remembered this, and I knew.

My Father, Charley Abner Green, was a hard working farmer. He was a kind man to his family and his neighbors. I was thirty-three years old when he died, and never heard him use a curse word or any vulgarity. Both he, and my grandfather were total abstainers of strong drink.

— Charles Abner Green

CHARLES OLIN GREENE

484

Born September 23, 1909 in Lattimore, Cleveland County, North Carolina, to Samuel Washington and Buena Ida Bridges Greene. He is the oldest of three children: Tyree, born October 3, 1911 and Janie, born March 16, 1916. The family moved to Zebulon, Wake County, North Carolina when he was one.

At the age of six he entered first grade at Wakelon High School, then a boarding as well as a day school, where he remained until completion of first semester of grade ten.

When twelve he joined Zebulon Baptist Church and was in the first group baptized in their new building. He and his brother, Tyree, were first janitors of that building.

In 1925 the family moved back to Cleveland County and share-cropped on different farms. In 1926 he was graduated from Lattimore High School. As a young man he worked as a store clerk, carpenter, farmer, bridge construction with Seaboard Railroad and in 1930, with four friends, made the western wheat harvest working in Kansas, Nebraska and Colorado.

On December 9, 1931 he was married to Eliza Leary Brooks, daughter of Matt and Amelia Hamrick Brooks. They farmed on rental land for three years, raising five and a half cent cotton in the midst of the depression. Their first son, Charles Stanley, was born June 11, 1933.

He was active in the life of Double Springs Baptist Church serving as Sunday School teacher, secretary, and deacon. As a deacon he served with his father and grandfather who were in the deacon group.

In 1934 he surrendered to a call to the ministry and in September 1934, moved Eliza and Stanley to Wake Forest, North Carolina to enroll in Wake Forest College as a ministerial student. Eliza's father, on learning of this, said, "I know Eliza will perish now!" She came close!

While a student he served as pastor of Kirtrell Baptist Church, Wake Union Baptist, and Mountain Grove Baptist, all within forty miles of Wake Forest. A second son, Samuel Allen, was born August 13, 1936.

He was graduated summa cum laude from Wake Forest College in June of 1938. While a student he was inducted into Delta Kappa Alpha, an honorary ministerial fraternity, and for two years was an assistant in the Religion Department.

In July of 1938 the family moved to Pineville, North Carolina where he assumed pastorate of Stough Memorial Baptist Church. During the four years there the church instituted a budget program of church finance and erected a new educational building. He served as statistician for the Mecklenberg Baptist Association and as president of the Pastor's Conference. A third son, James Albert, was born November 6, 1940.

In August 1942 the family moved to Cary, North Carolina, where he assumed the pastorate of Cary Baptist Church. While there he served as Moderator of the Raleigh Baptist Association, as president of the Pastor's Conference, and on several committees of the North Carolina Baptist State Convention, Raleigh, North Carolina. During this pastorate a new parsonage was built.

On December 27, 1948, he moved his family to Lawndale, Cleveland County, North Carolina, to follow his beloved "father-in-the-ministry" and former pastor, the Reverend John W. Suttle, as pastor of New Bethel, Double Shoals and Lawndale Baptist Churches, all within a four mile radius of Lawndale.

In January 1951 the family moved into their new home on Lawndale, Route 1. From 1950 to 1954 new buildings were erected by all these churches.

While on this field he served as Vice-moderator and on numerous committees of the Kings Mountain Baptist Association and on numerous committees of the North Carolina Baptist State Convention and the Southern Baptist Convention. For four years he served on the General Board of the Baptist State Convention — three of those years as a member of the Board's Executive Committee. In 1957 he was asked to preach the annual sermon at the meeting in Raleigh of the North Carolina Baptist State Convention. In 1958 he was named "Rural Minister of the Year" by the Progressive Farmer and Emory University. All three of his churches were cited by the Sunday School Board of the Southern Baptist Convention for outstanding achievement in Sunday School work.

In November 1959, he became Director of Missions for the seventy churches of the Kings Mountain Baptist Association with offices in Shelby, North Carolina, serving there until retirement in August 1972. During this period he continued to serve on State Convention Committees and assignments and was active in civic and community affairs.

He served many years on the Cleveland County Mental Health Board, as a trustee of Wake Forest University 1959-1962 and again in 1967-1971, and several terms on the Board of Associates of Gardner-Webb College, Boiling Springs, North Carolina. He has had articles published in local, state and national publications and was named in Who's Who in the South and Southeast.

In retirement he served nearly ten years as pastor of Norman's Grove Baptist Church, Route 3, Lawndale, North Carolina and is now serving as interim pastor of New Prospect Baptist Church, Route 1, Shelby, North Carolina.

In all of his work his wife, Eliza, has been a strong and loving source of strength and encouragement. His three sons have honored him by finishing college and graduate work in their chosen field of Psychiatric Social Work and finding their place in useful service to others — Stanley with the V.A. Hospital in Roanoke, Virginia, Allen as Director of the Developmental Evaluation Center, Shelby, and Albert as professor in the Department of Counselor Education and Research at Appalachian State University, Boone, North Carolina. Stanley has a daughter, Elizabeth Charlene, and is married to Ruth Morris Greene. Allen is married to Peggy Padgett Greene and they have a daughter, Susan Amelia. Albert is married to Ruth Hartle Greene with two daughters, Margaret Brooks and Ruth Pearce.

His hobbies have been golf and woodworking. In retirement he has built 110 grandfather clocks and 30 grandmother clocks and more than 200 mantle, shelf and wall clocks. Through the years he has built most of the furniture in his home.

He says he's had a long, satisfying life in touching the lives of others and is still busy in retirement and enjoying the sunset years with his wife, Eliza, in their home on Route 1, Lawndale.

Sources: Rev. C.O. Greene

— Mrs. Dwight Beam

HISTORY OF DAVID MARION GREEN

485

David Marion Green, oldest son of Charles Abner and Louise Frances Callahan Green, was born March 31, 1944, in Henrietta, North Carolina, Rutherford County and died May 30, 1971, in Shelby, N.C. at the age of 27. He is buried in Cleveland County in Cleveland Memorial Park.

David was a very unique and unusual person, (to whom this history is dedicated). Born with a rare bone disease, known as Osteogenesis Imperfecta, (brittle bones), suffering a hundred or more broken bones in his life time. In spite of his many misfortunes he lived a very full life (from a wheel chair). Through the efforts of his parents and the Shelby City School System, he was able to finish high school. David enjoyed a host of friends world wide. His communications, world wide, were through amateur (ham) radio. He got his F.C.C. license at age 14 and was very active on the radio for many years. His call letters were WA4BHT, and was known on the air as the Big Hungry Tiger. He talked often with some very prominent people over the nation, such as, Sen. Barry Goldwater, Arthur Godfrey, etc.

David Marion Green was also a member of the Shelby Rescue and Life Saving Squad of Shelby, acting in the capacity of radio and telephone operator. He took, and passed, every life saving and rescue course offered. Through his faithful efforts and being at the radio and telephone all the time, much suffering was avoided, and lives were saved. He never let his handicap hinder him from doing his job, equal to any man, and was well liked and respected by the Squad members.

He was a member of Zoar Baptist Church, Shelby, N.C., and a member of the Shelby Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Inscribed on His marker in Cleveland Memorial Park, in Cleveland County, is this inscription, David Marion Green, March 31, 1944 — May 30, 1971.

"Heaven Called WA4BHT"

— Charles Abner Green

THE GRAHAM GREENE FAMILY

486

Graham Manning Greene, eldest son of Garland Manning and Maude Osborne was born January 30, 1910 in Boiling Springs, North Carolina and died September 21, 1964. He is buried in Cleveland Memorial Park.

Graham, my father had one brother, Horace Cade married Minnie Greg Lester. Two sisters, Annie Catherine and Laura Dixon. "Dixie" married Roy Lee Conner. They live in Danville, Virginia.

Graham married Frances Belk Doster, daughter of Frank Crowell and Ida Richardson Doster. They have two daughters Idonna Anne. "Donna" married Kenneth P. Crump of Hickory, North Carolina. They have two sons, Kenneth Graham and William Edward. Betty Frances married Charles K. Shelton of Wadesboro, North Carolina, later married Robert Sharpe of New York City.

Graham attended Furman University and was employed by First National Bank of Shelby, serving as manager of east Shelby branch. He was treasurer of Central United Methodist Church, a member of the Church's finance committee and official board.

He was also a member of the Piedmont Boy Scout Council, treasurer of Cleveland County Cripple Childrens Society, treasurer of the American cancer Society, treasurer of Shelby Lions Club and the local Student Exchange Fund. He also served as president of the PTA at Marion school.

Graham was the grandson of Dr. J.R. Osborne, who served as the first president of the North Carolina Dental Society. Frances, my mother, had one sister, Crowline, married C.L. Austell II, two brothers, Leonard Crowell married Louise O'Toole and Joseph Franklin married Pauline "Polly" Brackett.

Frances was a member of the Methodist Church, having worked in the Primary Department for several years and served on the Board of Missions of U.M.W. (United Methodist Women). She is a member of Cleveland County Community Concert Association, the Retired Teachers Organization, the Shelby Art League, the American Association of University Women, the Daughters of the American Revolution "D.A.R." and the Cleveland County Historical Museum. She also worked with the Brownie Scouts for a number of years, and was a former member of Shelby Junior Woman's Club also a former member of the Senior woman's club.

Sources: Family Bible; Shelby Daily Star

— Mrs. Kenneth Crump

GEORGE M. and PATIENCE (WASHBURN) GREEN

487

George McSwain Green was born May 26, 1817, son of John Green and Judith (McSwain) Green. On February 8, 1838, he was married to Nancy McSwain, born February 14, 1817, died February 6, 1852. They had two children: Clarissa Green (Pannell, Green) born September 25, 1840, died June 8, 1909, buried at High Shoals Baptist Church Cemetery near Henrietta, North Carolina, she had no children; and Thomas Franklin Green, born September 29, 1843, died October 14, 1904, buried at Little Bethel, Cedar Hill, Texas.

Geo. M. and Patience (Washburn) Green

After the death of his first wife, he married on November 17, 1854, Patience Washburn, daughter of Abriam Washburn, born May 23, 1798, and Rebecca (Durham) Washburn, born February 7, 1803, and granddaughter of Gabriel Washburn, born October 12, 1752, and Priscilla (McSwain) Washburn, born January 14, 1756; and Charles Alexander Durham and Patience Davis. There were four children of the second marriage: Nancy Victoria Green was born June 11, 1859, in Cleveland County, married Preston B. McAfee on December 15, 1881, at Shelby, died June 21, 1945, and is buried at Beersheba Presbyterian Church Cemetery near York, South Carolina. Jefferson Davis Green was born June 8, 1861, in Cleveland County, went to Jackson County, Oklahoma in 1896, married Mollie Davis of Mangum, Oklahoma in 1923, died there on June 14, 1936, and was buried at Warren, Oklahoma. He had no children. Mary Jane Green was born November 24, 1864, in Cleveland County, married James Robert Moore, November 23, 1882, died November 11, 1953, at her home in Shelby, and is buried in the Moore family plot at Sunset Cemetery. Charles Crawford Green was born January 21, 1870, in Shelby and died March 2, 1929, at the Moore home in Shelby, and is buried in the Green family plot at Sunset Cemetery, Shelby. He never married.

George M. Green served as deputy sheriff under Charles Blanton, the first sheriff of Cleveland County. He was elected high sheriff in 1858 and served until 1864. He died following a lengthy illness on June 6, 1889.

According to the obituary in "The New Era" of June 7, 1889, "Ex-Sheriff George M. Green, one of the oldest citizens of Shelby, died at his residence on (East) Marion Street

Wednesday night. Sheriff Green was in the seventy-third year of his age and died of a complication of diseases. He had served Cleveland County as sheriff and treasurer for a number of years. He leaves a widow and six children. His funeral took place this afternoon from the Shelby Baptist Church." Obituary in another local paper read in part: "With meager advantages in early life he was a useful citizen and filled for many years the office of county treasurer. He was a worthy member of the Baptist church for about a half century. The large concourse of our citizens at his funeral attest the high esteem in which he was held."

Patience Washburn Green was born April 9, 1830, in Cleveland County had died at the Green home on May 8, 1890.

Both are buried in the Green family plot at Sunset Cemetery.

Sources: Family records; Cleveland County records

— Miss Mary Sue Thompson

MISS HANNAH GREEN

488

When the first switchboard was placed in the house that Henry Green built in 1779 on North Main Street in Boiling Springs, 1903, the house at that time was owned and occupied by his grandson Reuben H. Green Sr. His wife Judith Green Green was also a granddaughter of Henry Green. Their daughter Hannah Green was the first switchboard operator, and she kept it as long as she was able.

Her nephew Bruno Hamrick operated it until they could get some one else. Her niece, Mrs. Addie Mae Green, widow of Plato Green with five small children, was the next operator of this switchboard. It was moved into her home on North Main Street a short distance from Miss Hannah's home. She was operator for thirteen years; then the switchboard closed in 1932.

Miss Hannah Green fell on Sunday morning while attending church services and suffered a broken hip. She had been confined to her bed for six years when she died January 25, 1927 at 71 years of age. Even though she suffered much, she was very patient and cheerful during her confinement.

Miss Hannah had a hard time during the Civil War; she ploughed an ox on Abe Hill which was very steep and rough. In fact, it is a small moutain. Abe Hill is on the west side of Sandy Run Creek between Boiling Springs and Mooresboro.

Miss Hannah's father Reuben H. Green Sr. was a charter member of Boiling Springs Baptist Church and the oldest member at that time. He shoveled the first shovel of dirt for Boiling Springs Baptist High School. Esley Green grandson of Reuben H. Green Sr., shoveled the second shovel.

Connie Green the smallest child in school shoveled the third shovel when Boiling Springs Baptist High School became Gardner-Webb College.

Sources: personal interviews, newspapers.

— Ollie Connie Green

JAMES MCSWAIN "J. MAC" GREEN and MARTHA MISSOURI "ZUE" SPANGLER

489

James McSwain Green, better known as J. Mac Green or "Uncle Mac Green," was born in the Boiling Springs area of Cleveland County, North Carolina, April 13, 1861, to John Green and his wife Sarah B. McSwain Green.

A few days before his nineteenth birthday, he married Martha Missouri "Zue" Spangler, daughter of Jonathan and Barbra H. Spangler. They settled and built a home near Zue's mother and lived there until after Zue died in 1905. After Zue's death, her mother, Barbra went to live with Mac to help raise the children.

Mac, an easy going, quiet type person, usually didn't have much to say. When he had something to say about others it was always good. If he couldn't find anything good to say, he just didn't say. If one of the children wanted something or to go somewhere, he'd say he would have to study about it. Later he would give them an answer and explain his answer. You never saw him angry or mad.

He loved to sing and was satisfied when he could get a group together to sing. He led the singing at his church, Double Shoals Baptist, where he and Zue were charter members and he was the first church clerk. He loved the Lord and his love for the Lord was carried into his home. There was always a family altar there.

Zue was the only daughter of Jonathan and Barbra Spangler and the middle of five children. At the age of twenty-one she married Mac Green. In their twenty-five years of marriage there were seven children, with the youngest being only seven years old when Zue died suddenly with side pleurisy.

There were seven children — five girls, two boys: Sarah Lou Green (married John W. Scism); Nettie Barbara Green (married E. Elmer McKinney); George Anderson Green (married Lizzie Mauney); Cora Ellen Green (married Robert M. Mitchell); May Green (married James S. Ware); Vista Eugena Green (married Bonnie H. Elliott); and Broadus Sylvanus Green (married Margaret Elliott).

Zue used her spare time to sew and make clothes for her children. She always saw to it that they had one good Sunday outfit clean and ready for Sunday morning. She often crocheted lace to trim the girl's dresses.

As the children grew older, Mac sold his farm and moved to Shelby to educate his children.

Mac Green died December 22, 1936 and was buried beside his wife in the Double Shoals Baptist Church Cemetery, Cleveland County, N.C.

— Theresa S. Lowe

JERRY and ANNIE GREEN

490

Jerry and Annie Green, a black family born in slavery, lived in Boiling Springs, North Carolina, and were the owners of the land which Gardner-Webb College now stands. The Annie Lissa Green.

Greens and their children sold their parts to J.C. Hamrick for the college.

There were only two buildings that belonged to the college at that time. The old home place was torn down to build a clinic, which now is a boys dorm; another house was torn down to build a stadium. The Green family also gave land to build a church, known as Green Bethel Baptist Church. The school was also named after the Greens. After busing came on the scene, the name was changed to West Cleveland.

Their son J.Y. raised enough hogs to supply pork for the entire school. Their daughter Jodie McAfee did all the laundry for the students and teachers.

The land deed is recorded at the Law Enforcement Center in Shelby.

— Mrs. Corine Cabaniss

JESSIE RANDALL GREENE FAMILY

491

The Silas Randall (1770-1855) who settled on Bowens River on highway 18 south of Shelby, was my great, great-grandfather. The early history of this clan was written in the John Randall sketch by Stella Randall.

One of the most prized possessions of my heritage is the Indenture of land consisting of four hundred acres, made to Silas Randall from the State of North Carolina for the sum of one hundred dollars. This land was to be deeded to his heirs forever; signed and sealed with his personal seal. Witnesses to this transaction was Nathaniel Hamrick and Jacob Randall and was dated July 20, 1837. This homestead was two hundred yards below my present home. Silas Randall built his home of logs, which was a three story house with a basement. The ground floor was one large room with a fireplace at one end and a bedroom at the other end. The third floor had two bedrooms. The kitchen was built separate from the house. This house was unoccupied when I was small, but was a favorite place for neighborhood children to play on Sunday afternoons. When this house was torn down in the 1920's my family kept wooden pegs it was built with, also some shingles.

My paternal grandfather was Preyer Randall (1855-1938), son of Samuel Randall (1827-?) and Abigail Randall and wife of Mattie Sealy (1852-1921). Three sons were born to this union. Maruin Randall (1886-1930), Anderson Randall (1880-1953) and John Edward Randall (1877-1955). Preyer Randall was a farmer and a stonemason and made a head-rock for his grave long before his death. The Ku Klux Klan was active during this period and he was a member. Once Grandpa Preyer witnessed a hanging and went on home to plow, the plow struck a rock and made a sound similar to the man hanging, he stopped his plow and vowed never to go to another hanging. "Grandma Matt" (1857-1921) was noted for her apple pies and fried chicken. She had a cow horn she used to call the family at meal times.

All of the Randalls were members of Pine Grove United Church and were buried there.

My father John Edward Randall (1877-1955) and my mother Laura Randall (1894-1940) owned a farm on the outer edge of the original compound where I was born. "Mama Laura" was a school teacher at Earl School and was a fine seamstress. She was also a barber for the community. With encouragement from my parents I also became a teacher. My first school was McBrayer, a two room, two teacher school. I married Wray Greene (1903-1972) a watchmaker and jeweler, and we built a home on the original homestead in 1931. Three sons were born to this union. Wray Randall (1925) watchmaker, married Jean Kendrick (1925). Donald Lynn (1928) diesel mechanic C.F.C.C., wife Jackie McIntyre (1930) son John Timothy (1952) auto body repair; wife, Dianne Carroll (1954); son Donnie Lee (1975); daughter, Amy Elizabeth (1977). Daughter Donna Lynn (1953); husband, Bruce Edward Wiggins (1951), dental lab technician; daughter Laura Lynn (1977), son Jacob Edward (1980).

Randall Coat of Arms

John Max Greene Sr. (1931) Southern Bell. Frist wife, Nancy Caldwell (1936) son John Max, Jr. (1958-1980) daughter Gina Lynn (1959). Second wife Betty McFarland (1932).

— Jessie Randall Greene

JOHN CHARLES GREEN

492

John Charles Green, the second son of Charles Abner and Louise Frances Callahan Green, was born July 20, 1956 in Shelby, North Carolina. He attended Shelby City Schools and graduated from Shelby High School in 1974. He attended his freshman year in college at Western Carolina University, Sylva, N.C. The second year he attended Gaston College, Gastonia, N.C. and received his Degree in Police Science. The last two years of his college work was at the University of North Carolina at Charlotte, N.C. where he received his B. S. Degree in Criminal Justice in 1978. He has also studied the Criminal Justice and the Penal System at the University of Copenhagen, Denmark. He is employed as a North Carolina Adult Probation and Parole Officer in Mecklenburg County.

He was married on June 23, 1979, to Susan Carol Baily, born Oct. 14, 1954, from Walnut Cove, N.C. in Stokes County. She is the daughter of Jack Mauger and Avis Carol Bray Baily, also of Stokes County. She is a 1979 graduate of the University of North Carolina at Charlotte, N.C. John Charles and Susan Carol Green live in Charlotte, North Carolina.

— Charles Abner Green

JOSEPH GREEN

493

Joseph Green, son of John Green, Sr. and Judith McSwain Green, was born December 30, 1833. Joseph married Sarah Hamrick, daughter of David Hamrick and Hannah Hamrick. Sarah was born November 3, 1836 and died June 25, 1896. Joseph owned and operated a farm near Sandy Run Creek about three miles from Boiling Springs. They were the parents of four children.

Charles Jefferson Green was born October 11, 1854 and died November 10, 1855.

Patia Jane Green was born August 1, 1856 and died July 6, 1897. Patia married George Green McSwain, who was born May 18, 1846 and died January 5, 1919. George was the son of Benjamin Franklin McSwain and Nancy Green McSwain.

Solon Alverose Green was born December 17, 1857 and died July 24, 1953. Solon married Catherine E. Hamrick, daughter of Charles J. Hamrick and Sarah Hamrick.

Andrew Jackson Green was born August 24, 1860 and died August 1, 1943. Andrew married Permelia Ann Esther Green, daughter of Reuben Hamrick Green and Elizabeth Jane Scruggs Green, at her home on August 12, 1883.

Joseph Green served in the Civil War in Company D 55, North Carolina Regiment. He died a faithful soldier in service on August 19, 1864. His body was sent back home for burial. He was buried in the Boiling Springs cemetery. He was devoted to his wife and children, and he and his wife were faithful members of the Boiling Springs Baptist Church.

Sources: family records.

— Ollie Connie Green

JOSEPH GREEN

494

Joseph Green, was born in 1724, and died Sept., 1771. He is buried in the Old Green Cemetery at the Bostic Brick Yard, near Bostic, N.C., in Rutherford Co. He was born in Tryon County, now Cleveland County, and at one time lived near Crouse, N.C., in Gaston County. He was married to Mary McEntire.

Joseph Green was a Captain in the French and Indian War. He also served as a Ranger. He is the father of Major William Green.

Joseph Green and Mary McIntire Green had six children: William (Major) Green, born 1753; Abraham Green, born 1760; Jacob Green, born 1767; Joseph Green, born 1769; Mary Green; and Isaac Green, born 1762.

Joseph Green settled first on Beaver Dam Creek on the South Fork of the Catawba River. His first land grant is dated 1753. He served in Samuel Coburn's Militia Company in 1747, the first Militia Company west of the Catawba River. By 1758 Joseph Green received a grant on Buffalo Creek. It is thought that Joseph and Mary Green were living on Buffalo Creek when William Green was born.

Tradition says that William "Major" Green, son of Joseph and Mary McEntire Green, was the first white child born in what is now Cleveland County.

— Charles Abner Green

"MAJOR" WILLIAM and DRUCILLA GREEN

495

"Major" William Green, the son of Joseph and Mary McIntire Green, was born on Buffalo Creek in Cleveland County in 1753 near the state line.

William Green first joined the Tory forces and fought in one battle which he regretted. He was captured by the Revolutionary forces along with several other prisoners and was sentenced to be hung along with Lt. William Langum the next morning. He and Langum managed to escape that night. Langum managed to untie the buckskin straps with his teeth that bound the hands and feet of his Comrade Green. As William Green had a knife, he then cut them both loose and they escaped. Aided by the friendly wilderness and sympathizing Loyalists, they in time reached their old retion on Buffalo Creek in Cleveland County. The home of "Major" Wm. Green's mother, Mary McIntire Green McAfee, is still standing and is located below Earl, North Carolina, near the North Carolina and South Carolina line.

Green, renouncing his brief and sad experience in the Tory service, joined the Whigs and battled manfully thereafter for his country. In 1781-82 Major Wm. Green fought with the Ten Months Men under Sumpter and fought in the Battle of Eutaw Springs. After the war he settled in Rutherford County and served in the House of Commons in 1798, and fourteen times in the State Senate, from 1800 to 1824. He received a large land grant and raised a large family and had several slaves. He died in Rutherford County November Sixth 1832 and is buried in the Green Cemetery near the old Bostic Brick Yard, Bostic, North Carolina.

He was a charter member of Sandy Run Baptist Church in Mooresboro, North Carolina, the oldest church in Cleveland County. When he moved to Rutherford County, he transferred his membership to Concord Baptist Church in Rutherford County, a church he helped to organize.

To this union of Major William and Drucilla Green were born eight children: Henry, 1775-1834; James, 1776-1884; Joseph 1778-1847; Charlotte, b. 1782; Viney, b. 1785; Abner, 1786-1878; William, b. 1789; Abraham, b. 1794.

— Charles Abner Green

Home of William (Major) Green's mother, Mary McIntire Green McAfee.

PERMELIA ANN ESTHER GREEN

496

Permelia Ann Esther Green was the daughter of Reuben Hamrick Green and Elizabeth Jane Scruggs Green. She was born August 16, 1864 in Rutherford County near Cliffside at her grandfather Richard Scruggs' home.

She married Andrew Jackson Green August 12, 1883 at her home in Boiling Springs; Rev. J.M. Bridges married them. After the wedding they attended church service at Boiling Springs Baptist Church and they had the wedding dinner at the groom's home.

Andrew was the son of Joseph Green, who died in service August 19, 1864. His mother was Mrs. Sarah Hamrick Green.

Andrew was born August 24, 1860. Andrew and Permelia Ann were my parents and they owned a big farm in the Boiling Springs area; they raised corn, wheat and cotton. They had a cane patch for making molasses, and they also raised sweet potatoes, pumpkins and several kinds of vegetables. Mother also grew herbs for medicine.

Father had a big orchard and they had apples such as Early Harvest, May, June, Hannah, Reuben, Jack, Asa Green, Turner, Thin Skin, Cane, Grand-daddy, Crib, Sheep nose, and pound apples. They had several kinds of peaches and pears. They also had grapes, cherries, damsons, muscadines, blackberries, strawberries, and dew berries.

Mother made lots of jellies, preserves, pickles, and kraut. She dried apples and peaches for making pies.

Mother made her vinegar; she ground apples in a sausage mill, pressed out the juice, strained it and put it into jugs to ferment for vinegar.

Mother made lye out of wood ashed to make her laundry soap with and also to make her hominy.

Father had chestnuts trees, black-walnuts, hickory-nuts and chinquapins. He also raised peanuts and popcorn. He raised beef cows as well as milk cows.

Mother sold sweet milk twenty-five cents per gallon, buttermilk ten cents per gallon and butter twenty-five cents per pound. She sold hens for twenty-five cents a piece.

Until glass jars came around, mother canned fruits and vegetables in tin cans and sealed them with old time soldering iron and cooked them in a wash pot.

Mother was an excellent cook and housekeeper. She kept boarders part of the time.

She did the sewing for the family, pieced quilts, quilted them and also embroidered; crocheted, made tatting and did much other fancy work.

Mother attended the Holland School and father attended the Lovelace School of which both were in the Boiling Springs area. Neither of them had the opportunity to go to school much; but they made good use of what education they had.

They read their Bibles and attended church as long as they were able.

They were devoted to each other and to their children. They tried to teach us to do right as best they could.

Mother was a fine nurse; she did not have special training but learned by experience.

Mother had all kinds of flowers in her yard and many kinds of potted plants. No matter who came and asked for flowers, she gave them some. She gave flowers for home use, parties, weddings, memorial day, funerals, and public affairs at school.

Many colored people came and asked for flowers. She never refused anyone.

Mother fell and suffered a broken hip November 18, 1946. She was confined to her bed until she died January 2, 1951.

Green Bethel (colored school) sent a big beautiful wreath of flowers for her funeral. They said that every child in school contributed some on the wreath.

Father and mother were the parents of six girls and one boy.

Father and mother celebrated their golden wedding at their home August 12, 1933. Many relatives and friends attended; they lacked eleven days being married sixty years when father died August 1, 1943.

— Ollie Connie Green

REUBEN HAMRICK GREEN

497

Reuben Hamrick Green was born December 18, 1840 and died June 7, 1923. He was the son of Elias Green and Rebecca Hamrick Green and grandson of Reuben Hamrick, who sold land for the first Boiling Springs Baptist Church, which was organized in 1847.

Reuben Hamrick Green married Elizabeth Jane Scruggs who was the daughter of Richard Scruggs and Selena Hawkins Scruggs. She was born August 8, 1846 and died March 29, 1921.

Reuben and his brother Thomas Green owned and operated a harness shop on North Main Street near the home of Miss Permella Pruett and Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Padgett. They had a good business when the Civil War started. Then they were drafted into the war. Reuben's brother Thomas died in service, and Reuben was wounded in the knee, which troubled him as long as he lived. Reuben never reopened his harness shop after the way ended. He owned a large farm in the Boiling Springs area and he farmed as long as he was able.

Reuben Hamrick Green sold more land for building purposes than any other person in Boiling Springs in his day. He wanted to see Boiling Springs prosper and he knew that was the only way for Boiling Springs to grow. He gave part of the land to the Boiling Springs cemetery and his grandfather Reuben Hamrick gave the other part of the cemetery.

He let the negroes have land where their present church, Green Bethel, is and enough land for their cemetery and the Green Bethel School. He gave a ten-foot road from North Main Street to their church and school. Reuben helped support the Boiling Springs Baptist High School. He and his wife were faithful members of the Boiling Springs Baptist Church.

To this union were born nine boys and two girls.

1. Toliver Green was born April 18, 1861 and he died June 15, 1938. His wife, Johnnie Brent Burge Green, was born December 4, 1865 and she died May 29, 1925.

2. R. L. Davis Green was born August 15, 1862 and he died December 17, 1947. His wife Elizabeth Jolley Green was born May 18, 1869 and she died July 21, 1944.

3. Permella Ann Esther Green was born August 16, 1864 and she died January 2, 1951. Her husband, Andrew Jackson Green, was born August 16, 1860 and he died August 1, 1943.

4. Jonas Green was born June 21, 1866 and he died January 28, 1911. His first wife, Blauche Hamrick Green, was born March 14, 1866 and she died February 11, 1904. His second wife, Ocie Ethel Mintz Green, was born December 19, 1883 and she died January, 1943.

5. Seaton Green was born July 24, 1868 and he died February 4, 1902. His wife, Sarah Annie Clauton Green, was born June 4, 1875 and she died April 28, 1970.

6. Summie G. Green was born August 10, 1870 and he died September 5, 1876.

7. Albert Green was born 1872 and he died September 19, 1876.

8. Doctor Landrum Green was born April 20, 1875 and he died October 11, 1876. (Summie, Albert, and Doctor Landrum Green all died with diphtheria.)

9. Volney Green was born November 6, 1877 and he died September 15, 1899. He died with typhoid fever. He was a fine musician. He could play the organ and had a beautiful voice to sing.

10. Cancas Green was born in 1878 and she died April 4, 1913. Her husband Chivous J. Bridges was born April 28, 1875 and he died April 14, 1932.

11. Murphy Green was born in 1880 and he died in 1957. His wife Erie Pearson Green died in March 1956.

Sources: personal interviews, memory.

— Ollie Connie Green

SANDERS DONEHUE and NARCISIS BLANTON GREEN

498

Sanders Donehue Green, the son of Abner Green and the grandfather of the writer of this history, Charles Abner Green, Jr., was born October 22, 1840 in Rutherford County near Ellenboro at Piney Mountain. He died June 9, 1926 and is buried in Concord Church Cemetery near Bostic, North Carolina. He served his country in the War between the States in the confederate army. My grandfather was a very stern man, but had a very tender, humble spirit and a faith in God that could not be shaken. He lived with my father's family for as long as I can remember and until he died. I can remember him quoting passages from the Bible.

Some fifteen years before he died he helped to build his own coffin. It was stored upstairs in Charlie Davis' country store near Sunshine, North Carolina, for many years before he died. The coffin was made from eighteen inch forestheart pine lumber. My grandfather also said he did not want any flowers at his funeral and as I recall, there were not any.

Through the persistent efforts of Sanders Donehue Green, a mail route was established through the Golden Valley and Duncan Creek Communities in Rutherford County.

Sanders Donehue Green married Narcisis Ellis Blanton, December 24, 1836 — November 6, 1915, and is buried in the Walls Church Cemetery near Ellenboro and Washburn's store. Her father was Jackson Blanton, b. 1820. Her mother was Maloney Blanton, b. 1822. To this union were born six children: Charly Abner Green (father of this author) born September 11, 1871, d. February 13, 1948. Robert Green, married Junie Bridges and they had three children: Estell, Ruby, Nellie. He lived in Charlotte, North Carolina, and is buried in Mecklenburg County.

Joulous Green, October 29, 1879 — April 5, 1959, is buried in Sunset Cemetery in Shelby. He married Mina McFalls, October 27, 1877 — September 25, 1965, and they have seven children: Buren, 1899-1956; infant, born 1903 and died in infancy; Forest, b. March 28, 1904; Bessie Green Morrow, born November 2, 1906; Sarah Green Hollifield, born June 2, 1914; Pearl Green Dotson, born February 13, 1919; Mavis Green, born February 9, 1921, and was killed in a freak auto accident August 1940.

Charlotte Green, born February 10, 1874, died November 8, 1957. Married Charlie Beam and to this union were born eight children: Davie, April 12, 1892-1962; Hattie, died at age six months; Edley Beam, May 19, 1895; another child died at birth; Paul Beam, born December 16, 1900; Fay Beam, born August 6, 1903; Carrie Beam, born 1905-1921; Fary Beam Bland, 1907-1980.

Mary Green, born 1867 married Seth Melton and they had one child, Anson Gustavis Melton, deceased.

Charlotte Green Beam buried in Rutherford County Memorial Park. Martha Green, September 1869-1907, married Pose Green and had three children: Cliff, Maudie and Nellie.

— Charles Abner Green

THE SAMUEL W. GREENE FAMILY

499

Samuel Washington Greene was born February 13, 1879 in the Double Springs community of Cleveland County, North Carolina. He was the son of Martin H. Greene and Laura Goforth and tre grandson of Henderson Howell Greene and Malinda Mode. Samuel had three brothers — Frank, William and Howell, along with one sister, Evia, who married Arthur Crowder.

Sam, as he was better known, married Beuna Ida Bridges in Cleveland County December 21, 1904. Beuna was born July 12, 1885 and was one of fourteen children of Cicero Miller Bridges and Jane Harrill, and Cicero's second wife, Carrie Hawkins. Her grandmother on her father's side was Nancy Hamrick Bridges, the daughter of Berry Hamrick, one of Cleveland County's earliest settlers.

Samuel W. Greene

Sam died on November 18, 1945 and Buena died on October 6, 1966. Both died in Cleveland County and are buried in Double Springs Baptist Church Cemetery.

Sam and Buena lived in the Double Springs and Lattimore communities of Cleveland County all of their lives except for a period of approximately twelve years when they resided in Zebulon (Wake County) North Carolina. While in Wake County, Sam's vocation was rural mail delivery (by horse and buggy), accountant and farmer. His only vocation in Cleveland County was farming, primarily cotton.

As was true of most persons in the rural setting, Sam's and Buena's lives were devoted to their church, their community and their families. Both carried leadership roles in their church, serving as Deacon, Treasurer, Sunday School Teacher, W.M.U. leader, choir, etc. They were always ready to help a friend or neighbor in need. Their lives were controlled primarily by their deep religious belief. Sam loved to read and work with his tools while Buena was highly skilled in sewing, crocheting, quilting and cooking. Having survived two wars and the horrible depression of the 30s, their lives and needs could be labeled simple, yet their devotion and love for God and man could be labeled nothing but outstanding.

Four children were born to this union: Clarence Oren, born November 11, 1906, died June 2, 1907. Charles Olin, born September 23, 1909, married Eliza Brooks of Cleveland County December 9, 1931. They have three sons: Stanley, Allen and Albert; Eulan Tyree, born October 3, 1911, married Virginia Russell Hill of White Plains, New York, June 20, 1936; two daughters, Martha and Sarah; Janie Annette, born March 14, 1916, married Lawrence V. Wright of Cleveland County December 9, 1933; Three sons, Larry, Erick and David: Lawrence died May 12, 1974 and is buried in Double Springs Baptist Church Cemetery.

More detailed information relating to Olin and Tyree appears elsewhere in this publication.

The three surviving children of Samuel and Buena Greene have had the benefit of their heritage of Cleveland County for a collective period of 208 years. For this we are extremely proud and grateful. There are children whose parents may have acquired more worldly possessions than ours, but none ever had a better father and mother.

— E. Tyree Greene

SEATON GREEN

500

Seaton Green was the son of Reuben Hamrick Green and Elizabeth Jane Scruggs Green. He was born July 24, 1868 and died February 4, 1902. His wife Sarah Annie Clanton was born June 4, 1875 and died April 28, 1970. They had one child, Hiram Green. He was born October 18, 1896 and died August 27, 1961. Hiram married Fay White who survives at the age of 85 and lives in Charlotte.

Beuna Ida Greene.

Seaton Green was reared on a farm in Boiling Springs. When he was a young man he clerked in the Company stores at Henrietta and Caroleen. That's where he met his wife to-be. She went into the store at Caroleen and bought some cloth from him and he fell in love with her at first sight. He asked a friend who the young lady was, and he told him "Annie Clanton". It wasn't long until he asked her for a date. After several dates with her they were married and lived in Boiling Springs. While clerking in the stores at Henrietta and Caroleen he attended the Baptist church at Henrietta and taught a Sunday School class. Etta McSwain was living at Henrietta at that time and she was a member of his Sunday School class. Mrs. Etta McSwain, widow of Joseph Franklin McSwain, has a home near Mooresboro and she is 96 years old.

Seaton Green was Editor of the "Reformer News" that was printed at Boiling Springs. It was always full of news and advertisements of interest to the citizens. It was printed once a week in the late 1800's. His printing office was in the back of A.W. McSwain's grocery store. His store stood where the man-made spring is and owned by Gardner-Webb College across from the Boiling Springs drug store. A.W. McSwain was the grandfather of G.T. McSwain Jr. who owns and operates a super market and furniture store on East College Avenue in Boiling Springs.

Nannie and Blanche Hamrick, Tommy and Judith Green set the type for Seaton Green. Nannie and Blanche were the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. D.J. Hamrick, Sr. Tommy and Judith were the son and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Reuben H. Green Sr. who shoveled the first shovel of dirt for the Boiling Springs Baptist High School in 1906 or 1907.

Seaton Green felt the call to preach so he attended Wake Forest College and studied for the ministry. His health failed and he found that he had T.B. He was sent to John-Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore, Maryland for treatment. After they had examined him they found that they couldn't do anything to help him, so he came back home. He soon died. He was a faithful member of the Boiling Springs Baptist Church and also the Masonic Lodge. He was buried in the Boiling Springs Cemetery. After his death his widow and son Hiram moved to Charlotte where she owned and operated a boarding house as long as she was able. She and Hiram were both buried at Charlotte.

Sources: Newspaper

— Ollie Connie Green

TYREE and VIRGINIA GREENE

501

Eulan Tyree Greene and Virginia Russell Hill first met while students at Shenandoah College and Conservatory of Music, Dayton, Virginia (now located in Winchester, Va.). Four years later, on June 20, 1936, they were married in White Plains, Westchester County, New York.

Virginia was born May 14, 1915 in Johnstown, Pa. Her father was Harvey J. Hill, a native of Pennsylvania and her mother was Loretta Stephenson Russell, a native of Ohio. Mr. Hill was a nationally known fund raiser for philanthropic organizations and causes with offices in New York City. Tyree was born October 3, 1911 in Zebulon, Wake County, North Carolina. His parents were Samuel W. Greene and Buena Ida Bridges, both natives of Cleveland County, Double Springs community. The family returned from Wake to Cleveland County while Tyree was a young boy and there he attended Lattimore grade and high schools until graduation in 1929.

Tyree has one brother, The Rev. C.O. Greene, who resides in the Lawndale-Double Shoals community of Cleveland County. One sister, Janie, wife of the late Lawrence V. Wright, resides in Shelby. Tyree, Olin and Janie trace their paternal ancestry back to William Greene and their maternal ancestry to Berry Hamrick, one of Cleveland County's earliest settlers.

Virginia and Tyree have two daughters — Martha and Sarah. Both children were born and educated in White Plains, N.Y. and both attended High Point College in High Point, N.C. Martha is married to Jack C. Packard, a native of Cleveland County and a mechanical engineer employed by General Electric Company. They have two daughters — Deborah and Elizabeth — and they reside in Charlotte, N.C. Sarah is married to Dr. Richard A. Goldman, Optometrist, and they also have two daughters, Rachael and Leah. They reside in Chelmsford, Massachusetts, a suburb of Boston.

From their earliest years, both Tyree and Virginia showed considerable interest and talent in music. Tyree won second place for his high school as baritone soloist in the North Carolina State High Schools Music Contest. His school's male quartet, of which he was a member, won second place honors also. He went on to earn his college education by singing in the college quartet, travelling extensively throughout the Southeast, giving radio, concert and church performances. Virginia's greatest interest in music was piano and organ. During the summer months, she served as organist of the Rockefeller family's provided by the YMCA for the men and women in uniform took on astronomical significance and importance. And Tyree found himself right in the middle of it.

E. Tyree and Virginia Hill Greene.

Space simply will not permit the mention of Tyree's responsibilities and accomplishments during his 35 years of Social Service. Perhaps they could be summed up as a career of service to God and his fellow-men. Not only was he able to achieve the top positions in his chosen profession, but along with it he found time to serve his church from Sunday School teacher and choir member to Chairman of the Board of Trustees, Chairman of the Church Council and Moderator of the Church. In addition, he continually served his community by giving leadership to school, civic, city, hospital, and other worthwhile projects and needs.

Upon retirement as Associate Executive Director of the World Headquarters of USO (after serving as Acting Executive Director), the return to Cleveland County was most welcome. Following the pattern of his previous years, here are some of the activities in which he has been engaged since his return home: Chairman, Cleveland County Bicentennial Committee; Founding member of Board, Cleveland County Community Concerts Association; Board member, Cleveland County Mental Health Association; Chairman, World Service Committee, Shelby Rotary Club; Founder, first President and Board member, Council of Aging of Cleveland County which established and operates the County's Senior Citizens Center; Treasurer, Cecilia Music Club; Treasurer, The Salvation Army; Treasurer, Presbyterian Refugee Resettlement Committee; Vice Chairman, Isothermal Planning and Development Advisory Committee; Vice Chairman, Cleveland County Nursing Homes Advisory Committee; Planner, first County Senior Citizens Health Fair; Co-Chairman, Cleveland County Senior Seminar in preparation for the White House Conference on Aging; United Fund volunteer; Co-Chairman of Project of Cleveland County Museum to co-ordinate and publish this book "Heritage of Cleveland County"; Recipient of the Shelby Exchange Club's 1982 award "Book of Golden Deeds".

It is with pride that we present this background of our parents.

Sources: personal knowledge.

— Martha Greene Packard and Sarah Greene Goldman

GREGORY — MYERS — SPRAGINS

502

THE REV. DR. AND MRS. JAMES MARVIN GREGORY moved from Baton Rouge, La. in May 1976, following his age retirement, to Shelby, N.C. in order to be near one of their four married children, who at that time lived in four different states. Mrs. Joel F. Spragins (Jeanne) lived in Shelby with her practicing physician husband and their children, Lucy, Mark, and Susan. This influenced her parents' becoming happily active participants of church and community life in Shelby.

The Gregorys moved into their own home at famous church in Pocantico Hills, Westchester County, N.Y.

Until retirement in latter 1974, most of Tyree's and Virginia's married life was spent in White Plains, N.Y. where Tyree commuted daily some 30 miles each way to his work in New York City. Virginia's life centered primarily around her family, community and church. She held many leading roles in support of community and church life which included schools, YWCA, hospitals, Women's Club, Art League, Church Women's Society, organist, Sunday School teacher, choir and the like. Her latter years, because of a slow down by arthritis, have been devoted to her interest and talent in art. Immediately upon becoming a resident of Cleveland County she became instrumental in founding the Cleveland County Working Artist Guild, and she has placed many of her works in County art exhibits, including her own water color show in the County Library during 1981. In 1976 she won first prize in water color at the Spring In Shelby exhibit held annually on the Court Square.

Most of Tyree's professional career has been in the area of Social Service. After graduating from College in 1933 he spent a short period teaching in Virginia public schools, following which he entered the business field in Washington and New York City, concentrating primarily on the areas of accounting, finance and management. In 1940 the opportunity arose to enter the field of professional Social Work through the YMCA in White Plains, N.Y. Within less than two years he found himself on the National staff of the YMCAs of USA and Canada as Associate Director of Business and Finance for the Armed Services Division. Then came World War II and the social, recreational, cultural, educational and religious services 302 Peach St., instead of another church manse. Landscaping, vegetable gardening, orcharding, and shop work — and a bit of painting — were made possible and rewarding hobbies. A sense of continuing usefulness (but at a slower pace) has enriched retirement through supplying vacant pulpits and interim pastorates, including one year as associate pastor of the Shelby Presbyterian Church.

Their oldest daughter, Mrs. Edward C. Myers (Margaret) moved from Virginia to Shelby in 1978 upon the retirement of her husband from the Army. Their three children Linda, Gregory, and James continued their education in the Shelby schools, and Margaret has furthered her career as a Registered Nurse in the Cleveland Memorial Hospital.

Mrs. Gregory (Martha Nan — "Nancy") has perhaps even increased her church and club activities in this hospitable and permanent setting, especially in the field of vocal and instrumental music. She is a native of Carrollton, Ky. and a graduate of Georgetown College. Her parents were Ralph B. McCrackin and Margaret Swango McCrackin. Dr. Gregory is a native of Birmingham, Ala. (1911) and is the son of the late Marvin B. and Lula Waters Gregory. He is a graduate of Southwestern at Memphis College and Louisville Presbyterian Theological Seminary and has done graduate work at Columbia University in New York and Union Seminary in Richmond, Va.

— Dr. James Gregory

DR. WILLIAM THOMAS GRIGG FAMILY

503

In 1663 William Grigg I migrated from England to Charles City County, Virginia. He was the first of this family in America.

Descendants of William Grigg I were in turn William Grigg II, William Grigg III, Abner Grigg and Jesse Grigg. All these were large land holders in Virginia. Jesse Grigg moved to Cleveland County (then part of Rutherford County) in 1797. It is said he owned all the land around the present town of Lawndale. He is buried just across the Broad River from the Cleveland Mills Dye House.

Frederick Grigg, Jesse's son, owned large areas of land West of Broad River, including the present town of Lawndale. He deeded the site for Palm Tree Methodist Church and was one of the church's founders. He is buried in the Grigg cemetery near the water tank in Lawndale.

One of Frederick's sons was Spencer Martin Grigg. His children were John, Mary Ellen, Sarah, Laura, Alford, Roxanna, Jasper, Callie, Walter, Frank, June and William Thomas, known as Dr. W.T. Grigg.

Dr. Grigg married Ellen Smith, daughter of Reverend Landrum Smith and Nancy Hamrick Smith.

The Dr. Grigg family lived in the Sharon Community of Cleveland County from about 1890 till 1908, except for one year in the Belwood Community. In 1908 it moved to Lawndale where it remained until the deaths of Dr. Grigg and Mrs. Grigg.

Little is known of Dr. Grigg's early scholastic training. It was probably obtained at private schools. He got his professional training at Atlanta Medical College and the Memphis Tennessee Medical College. In addition he was for one year an understudy of Dr. Gardner, father of Governor O. Max Gardner.

Dr. Grigg began the practice of medicine in the Sharon Community, continued there about eighteen years (except for one year at Belwood) then moved to Lawndale where he continued practice until a few years before his death at 94 years of age.

Ellen Smith's paternal ancestry goes back through Landrum Smith to Chesley Bostic, her maternal through Nancy Hamrick to George Hamrick.

The Dr. Grigg family had eight children: Fred, who died in infancy, Jasper Horace, Claud, Maud, Womble Quay, Marvin Atkins, Ruth and Eloise.

All the children of this family who grew to maturity attended and graduated from Piedmont High School. All attended college.

Marriages in this family were as follows: Horace to Edith Whisnant, Claud to Maude Bryan then to Margie Humphrey, Maud to Tom Hovis, Marvin to Evelina Lee, Eloise to Lyle Overholser, Quay to Lottie Stone.

Of the seven children of this family, four have worked in the field of education: Horace as teacher, high school principal and Superintendent of Cleveland County Schools (37 years), Claud as teacher, principal and Superintendent of Schools in Kings Mountain and Albemarle, Maud as teacher in Cleveland and Lincoln counties, North Carolina and one school in South Carolina; Quay was principal at Indian Trail before entering the ministry.

Quay was a minister in the Methodist Church, serving many churches. He was also a Naval Chaplain in World War II, and Chaplain for the American Legion in North Carolina.

Horace and Claud served in World War I, Horace in the Army, Claud in the Navy.

Ruth worked for the Cleveland Mills, Lawndale, and for Woman's College and the Post Office, both in Greensboro.

Eloise was a graduate nurse, serving in this capacity in Charlottesville, Virginia, until her marriage to Lyle Overholser.

All members of the Grigg family have been active in their support of churches at Sharon and Palm Tree Methodist Churches and other churches in communities where they have lived.

Grandchildren of Dr. and Mrs. Grigg are: Dorothy Claire, daughter of Horace and Edith; William Humphrey, Claud McNeill and David Lee, sons of Claud and Margie; Womble Quay, Jr., son of Quay and Lottie; Marvin, Jr., Richard, and Tommy, sons of Marvin and Evelina; James Grigg and Linda, children of Eloise and Lyle Overholser.

In general, it can be said the members of the Dr. W.T. Grigg family have been good citizens, successful, and highly regarded in whatever locality they have lived.

Sources: "William Grigg I Immigrant" by Cleo Grigg Johnson Gilchrist; Church and cemetery records

— J.H. Grigg
and Ruth Grigg

THE DR. GRIFFIN MILLER GOLD FAMILY

504

Griffin Miller Gold, Medical Doctor, born December 12, 1859 near Lattimore, North Carolina, (son of Daniel Pleasant and Margaret Jenkins Gold) was brought up on their farm. He was the grandson of Daniel and Frances Griffin Gold who came to North Carolina from Virginia about 1798.

Griffin attended medical college in Atlanta, Georgia, and Baltimore, Maryland. He practiced in Rutherford and Cleveland counties for forty-eight years and was a well-liked, successful doctor.

When we were small children, Dr. Griffin was our family physician. We were fond of him because he soon had us feeling better, (kind of a Santa Claus figure to us.) I remember him as being a fairly large, white-haired, nice looking fellow who was jovial and had a kind expression on his face. After his health forced him to retire, his son "Dr. Tom" was our family doctor. Later "Dr. Ben", another son, was our doctor until his health also forced him to retire.

Dr. Griffin married Josephine Packard November 7, 1883. They had four children: Willie Mae Gold (born 1884) married Allen Ramsey. Their daughter Josephine married Floyd Cline of Fallston. Bertha Fannie Gold (born 1886) married Frank Cline, (children): Inez married Johnny Elmore, and Cleve Cline died young. Thomas Byron Gold, M.D. (born 1887) see record. Mary C. Gold (born 1889) married "Fate" L.J. Cooper, (children): Arnold and Ruth Cooper.

Dr. Griffin Gold married second Ola Frances (Ottie) Mooney on April 6, 1893. They had three children: Benjamin Gold, M.D. was born January 31, 1894; near Lawndale. The family told that when "Ben was young his father bought a tract of land, and after Ben worked on it a while he said that he didn't want to dig a living out of that "old red hill". Most likely this helped him decide he didn't mind studying to make a physician. He studied medicine at the University of North Carolina and got his M.D. in 1920 at the University of Maryland. He interned at Rutherford Hospital and at Mercey Hospital, Baltimore (1920-1921), and Pediatrician Post Graduate Hospital, New York (1935). He was president of District Medical Society, President of Cleveland County Medical Society, and Past President of Medical Alumni, University of North Carolina. He was in World War I Navy. He lived in Shelby and was a Pediatrician and Family Physician.

Dr. "Ben" married (August 29, 1922) Anne B. Wilder, a nurse. They had three children: Dr. Benjamin Gold II, of Rocky Mount, North Carolina. Mary Ann Gold of Charlotte married Samuel Tally Atkinson (daughter: Gladys Ann Atkinson); Felicia Gold of St. Matthews, South Carolina, married Lawrence Gressette, (children: Virginia and Felicia Ann Gressette.)

In the early thirties doctors were still traveling over the county to make housecalls, and deliver babies. Sometimes having to stay all day, or all night — not leaving until the babies were delivered and all was safe. Being a nurse Ann went with Dr. "Ben" at times. They stayed all day when our daughter Ann, was born, and all night when our son Tom, was born. Delivery fees were $20.00! Nancy Blanche Gold, (born 1896) married Daniel Dobbin Lattimore. They were both school teachers, and at one time they, and his two sisters (Miss Lucy and Miss Claude) all taught at New House School. What a team they made, all being unusually good teachers, the children knew they had been to school. There were no discipline problems. Children walked for miles from every direction, by the time we reached school the roads were full. This was a happy time. "Dobb" was also a farmer and County Commissioner. He was a great influence in getting (R.E.A.) electricity in rural areas. Children: Daniel Dobbin III, David Franklin, and Rachel Gold Lattimore. Nancy Frances Lattimore, teacher, married Harold Queen, children: Nancy Carol, Virginia Lynn, and William Harrill Queen. Lois Floe Gold (born 1899) married Foster Elliott. They had two infants.

"Uncle Griff" died July 2, 1929, and is buried in Sunset Cemetery at Shelby with family.

Sources: Family Bibles; Cemeteries; Census; Marriage Bonds; Court House Records; Gold Book by Pleasant Daniel Gold.

— Mrs. Palmer (Nan) Gold

DANIEL GOLD and FRANCES GRIFFIN GOLD

505

Daniel Gold, III (born in Virginia, April 7, 1864) moved to Rutherford County, North Carolina soon after the Revolutionary war. Information regarding his early life is from tradition handed down through his relatives.

Pleasant Gold was his father, Daniel Gold II his grandfather who married Elizabeth Pleasont.

(For generations the name Pleasont has been used in the families: Plasont, Pleasont Daniel, Daniel Pleasont, etc.)

Daniel was born at "The Old Gold Home" in the South Fork of the Roanoke (now Dan River, Mecklinburg County, Virginia) on his father's farm. His father, uncles, and grandfather farmed and operated a ferry. As young Daniel grew older he helped operate the ferry, and saw troops of the American Revolution cross "Golds Ferry" on their way North or South.

Daniel was eager to learn and turned to "book learning" through self education in addition to all that local schools afforded and became a school teacher. "He was keenly aware of public affairs and was fluent in speech before an audience."

About 1793 Daniel married Frances Griffin. He, with his wife and at least one daughter, moved about 1798 to North Carolina settling in the Sandy Run section, Number 7 Township, Rutherford (now Cleveland County.)

On this land now owned by Reverend Rush Padgett's descendants, a few miles north of Lattimore and about 75 yds. west of Ripley Branch is the Old Gold Family Cemetery. Daniel, his wife and many family members are buried there.

At first Daniel farmed and taught school.

Then he was elected Justice of the Peace and served from 1807-1832. He was selected to represent Rutherford County in the North Carolina General Assembly (House of Commons) in 1808, again 1809, 1810, 1819, and 1827. He was a member of the North Carolina Constitutional Convention in 1835. He served as clerk in the Sandy Run Church for many years and was active in Baptist Church work. From all information he was said to be a man of profound judgment, yet having an excellent sense of humor.

Daniel and Frances had six children: Sarah Gold (1798) who married Elias Owens. He served in the Confederate war Co. H-28 N.C. Inf. C.S.A. William Moore Gold (1800), a county judge, who married Catherine Washburn. Pamela Gold who married William Isaac Holond. Milton Gold married Martha Fortune. Elizabeth Lucinda Gold married Wilson M. Jones.

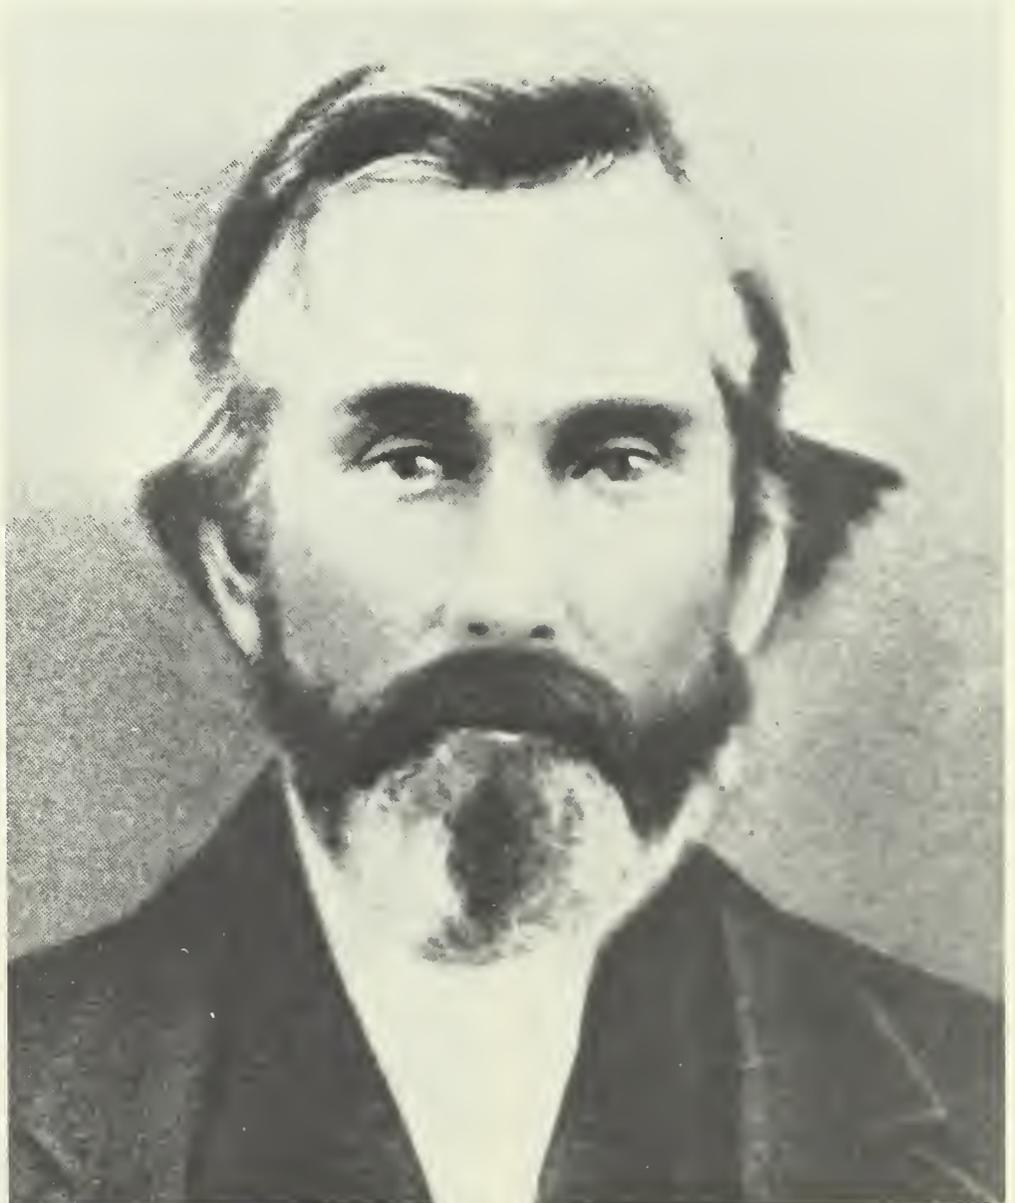

Daniel Pleasont Gold who married Margaret Jenkins. They had ten children: Mary Parmelia who married A.N. Dycus, who served in the Confederate Army and drowned returning home from war. Mary who married 2nd James Bridges; Nancy Armity who married Johnnie Lattimore; Martha Jane who married Andrew Jackson Hughes — parents of Hatcher Hughes who served in W.W.I. — Captain in A.E.F. and distinguished dramatist, author — Some of his plays were, A Marriage Made in Heaven, Wake up Jonathan, Hell Bent for Heaven, (Pulitzer Prize) 1923. "It's A grand Life", "The Lord Blesses The Bishop", etc. Hatcher married Janet Rainey Cool.

Benjamin Jenkins Gold volunteered in 1861, (under age 16) in his father's place to serve in the Confederate Army, and served throughout the war. He married Mary Martin, and resided at Blacksburg, South Carolina. He served two terms in the State Legislature. May 27, 1925 he died at his brother Daniel Christopher's home in Collensville, Texas, after attending a Confederate Reunion in Dallas. Frances Sarah Gold (1847), married David Harry of Grover.

Daniel Christopher Gold (1850), married Ida (last name unknown) of Texas, where they are buried.

William Milton Gold, a farmer and carpenter, married Margaret Palmer (daughter of Dr. V.J. Palmer). They moved to York County, South Carolina, where most of their children were born. Later they moved back, bought a farm near Polkville, built a home, and remained there as long as they lived. They were buried at Union Baptist Church where they were members. Their children: Kay, Joe, Will, Belle, Lucy and Tom Gold. Margaret Malindy Gold, (1856) single, is buried in Texas; Griffin Miller Gold, M.D., Ann Emaline Gold, (1801) who married John Franklin Long.

Daniel Pleasant Gold.

We and generations to come are indebted to Pleasont Daniel Gold, (deceased) native of North Carolina who gave years to extensive research on the Gold Family. He has traced a direct line back to John Gold in 1220, by compiling information from North Carolina, Virginia, and England.

Source: Family Bibles and other Records; Census Records; Marriage Bonds; Wills, Court Records; Griffin's History of Rutherford County; "Gold Generations in England and America", By Pleasont Daniel Gold

— Mrs. Palmer (Nan) Gold

RALPH ROYSTER GOLD FAMILY

506

Ralph Royster Gold, born May 9, 1898, was the second son of John Milton Gold (March 8, 1868 — July 6, 1941 See related article, Williamson Fortune "Min" Gold Family.) and Mary Martha Putnam (Feb. 2, 1872 — Sept. 21, 1954). Ralph attended the Piedmont School of the Lawndale Community. He was an avid bird dog hunter, a farmer, and the owner of a general store on Highway 226 near Dover Mill. Ralph Gold married Alma Claudia Branton (June 17, 1902) June 8, 1921.

Alma Claudia Branton was the eldest daughter of Julius William Branton (Sept. 7, 1868 — Sept. 6, 1950), a Shelby contractor and builder, and Claudia Ever White (Dec. 18, 1875 — Aug. 14, 1973) of Ruth, North Carolina. Mrs. Alma Gold graduated from Boiling Springs High School about 1920 after having attended Shelby School. She was a charter member of Zion Community Home Demonstration Club. Mrs. Gold is a member of the Zion Baptist Church and resides in the family home on Cabiness Road in the Zion Community. The children of Alma and Ralph Gold, Ralph Donald, Martha Evelyn Blanton, and Hugh William, all live in Cleveland County.

Ralph Donald Gold (April 20, 1922) married Veva C. "Sis" Crowder (Feb. 12, 1927) Feb. 20, 1948. He served overseas in the combat infantry and was decorated in World War II. His wife is the daughter of Plato Dixon Crowder (March 15, 1901 — Mary 19, 1971) and Nettie Nevada "Vada" Spangler Crowder (March 25, 1903) of Cleveland County. Donald and "Sis" raised their family on the family farm on Cabiness Road. Their children are Janet Iris (Sept. 8, 1950), Donald Allen (March 3, 1952), Ned Milton (March 22, 1957) and Gary Ralph (June 14, 1958). Janet married Roger Lee McSwain (May 1, 1950) Sept. 8, 1973 and has two children, Emily Kathryn (Nov. 8, 1977) and Katie Ellen (Dec. 30, 1980). Allen married Wanda Sue Sarratt (Dec. 22, 1952) of Boiling Springs July 7, 1978.

Martha Evelyn Gold, the only daughter of Ralph Royster Gold, was born Nov. 27, 1923 in Cleveland County. After completing Lattimore High School, Evelyn graduated from the Shelby Hospital School of Nursing Feb. 7, Ralph Royster and Alma Branton Gold.

1943. She married Harrill Lee "Bus" Blanton (April 17, 1924) Mary 17, 1945 in Milton, Florida while he was serving in the United States Navy. (See Harrill Lee Blanton and John Samuel Blanton for related articles.) Evelyn is an active member of the Lattimore Baptist Church and is an attendance counselor for the Cleveland County Schools. Much of her time away from work is devoted to community service. Her children are Harrill Lee, Jr. (Jan. 4, 1947), Martha Beatrix Caudill (Aug. 4, 1948), John Gold (July 8, 1955) William Michael (Jan. 15, 1959) and foster child Robert Steven "Bobby" Blanton (July 6, 1968).

Hugh William Gold (April 8, 1926, recorded April 9, 1926) married Sarah Elizabeth Callahan (Aug. 7, 1926) Feb. 22, 1945. During two years in the Infantry, he served nine months overseas under General Eisenhower and received a Battle Star for the Battle of the Rhine in World War II. Their children are Alma Lynn (June 9, 1946) and Carol Ann (March 10, 1948). Lynn married Frank Ledford (Oct. 10, 1942) and their children are Christy (Oct. 1, 1976) and Michelle (April 9, 1979). Ann, who married Freddy Harrill (March 2, 1948), has three children, Leslie (Nov. 3, 1968), Leigh (July 22, 1971) and Fred (May 14, 1975).

Ralph Royster Gold died suddenly May 30, 1968 after having led an active life through his final days. He was a Mason and a member of Zion Baptist Church. He was survived by two brothers, Dan Fortune (May 27, 1895-c1965) and John Milton, Jr. (Oct. 1, 1909 — Oct. 29, 1972), two sisters, Emma Wilson (July 13, 1903) and Minnie Borders (May 4, 1911), his wife, and ten grandchildren. He is buried in the Zion Baptist Church cemetery.

Sources: family Bible

— Stuart M. Caudill

THE ROBERT (BOB) MARION GOLD FAMILY

507

The word Gold (Gould), from which the family derives its name, is from Anglo-Saxon and Old English, meaning "a precious metal". The word appears in no other language. Its use as a family name by others not of English descent is an adoption of the English name.

The earliest record of the word Gold used for family designation is found in "Libre de Wentonia", more commonly known as "Domesday Book". This book was published in 1085 by order of William the Conqueror.

The earliest record found of a member of the Gold family in America was in 1622.

The North Carolina Golds descended from John Gold, of Somersetshire, England, born in 1220 during the reign of King Henry III. Daniel Gold, the first of the North Carolina Golds, settled in Rutherford County. He was ten years old when the Declaration of Independence was signed. He became a school teacher and was twenty-three years old when George Washington was inaugurated. He was thirty-three years old when he settled in Sandy Run, Number Seven Township, Rutherford County, which is now a part of Cleveland County.

Daniel Gold represented Rutherford County in the North Carolina General Assembly for four terms. He was a member of the North Carolina Constitutional Convention in 1835, and died in 1851 at the age of eighty-five. His children were Peggy, William Moore, Pamela, Milton, Elizabeth, and Daniel Pleasant.

His son, William Moore Gold, was a county judge and was known as Judge "Buck" Gold. Judge Gold married Catherine Washburn, and one of their children was Perry Greene Gold, who married Anne Covington.

Robert Marion Gold was the son of Perry Greene Gold and Anne Covington Gold. He had two brothers and five sisters. His brothers were William Moore, who died in infancy, and George Monroe, who married Minnie Padgett. His sisters were Abbie, who died while small; Ola, who married a McCormick; Florence, who married a Harper; Agnes, who married Mack Henson; and Amanda, who married William Noblett.

Robert (Bob) Marion Gold married Georgia Jane Bridges, the daughter of Lawson A. and Mary Justice Bridges. To this union three girls and one boy were born.

The oldest child was Nina, who married Loami Charles Toms, and their only child is Charles Carson Toms.

The second child was Huber H. Gold, who married Selma Mauney. They had two children: 1. Robert Stonewall Gold, who married Louise Towery, with their only child being Robert Stephen Gold. After the death of Louise T. Gold, Robert S. Gold married Donis Young. 2. Adele Mauney Gold, who married Thomas S. Tucker and had three daughters — Jeanne Tucker, Anne, who married John Vestal; and Linda, who married Shay Reyner.

The third child of Robert Marion Gold was Blomma, who married Roy Guy Stockton. Their children were: 1. Robbie Gold Stockton, who married Otis A. Thomas. They have two girls and one boy — Kelly, Wilkie and Otis A. (Bucky) Thomas, Jr. 2. Roy Guy Stockton, Jr. (deceased), who married Carolyn Gentry. Their only child is Robin Stockton.

The youngest, and the only living child of Robert M. and Goergia Gold, is Donniss, who married Paris Leland Yelton. They have two sons: Robert (Bob) William Yelton and Don Leland Yelton. Don married Emily Karen Bryant and their two children are Todd Leland and Leigh Allison Yelton.

Sources: family Bible and book on Gold history.

— Donniss Gold Yelton

THOMAS BYRON GOLD, M.D. and FAMILY

508

Thomas Byron Gold (born December 28, 1887, near Cleveland Mills, now Lawndale, North Carolina) was the son of Dr. Griffin Miller and Josephine Packard Gold. He married on June 12, 1912, Emma Dorcos Greene, daughter of J. Francis and Alice Price Greene of New House, North Carolina.

His sisters said this of Tom: "As they were growing up, he was a big tease . . . always playing pranks, throwing corn cobs at them, and running after them with snakes, fish heads, squirrel tails, etc." He was friendly and loved to joke, yet he had great concern for his patients and a good bed-side manner. He was a graduate of North Carolina Medical College, Charlotte; studied medicine in New York and in England; and practiced medicine in Lawndale and Shelby.

On September 14, 1917, he enlisted in World War I, leaving his wife and son at home. He was a Lieutenant in the Medical Corps, served A.E.F. (May 11, 1918 — July 20, 1919) and was awarded a Distinguished Service Cross (Citation below):

"Thomas B. Gold, 1st Lieutenant
Medical Corp. — 119 Infantry

For extra ordinary heroism in action near Busingy, France, October 9, 1918, and Manzinien, France, October 18, 1918. During the attack of October 9th, he established his aid post in a road side shrine up with the front line, where he again gave treatment until the heavy fire of the enemy forced him to withdraw. During the advance, of October (18-19) he established another front line post under enemy fire and thus saved the lives of many of the troops."

After the war Dr. Tom returned to Shelby where he specialized in Eye, Nose, and Throat until his death in 1945.

They had two children: Thomas Byron Gold Jr. (born October 10, 1914, died July 21, 1964) who married Marjorie Alice Fagon. Their two children were Thomas Byron Gold III, a graduate of Elon College, served three years in the U.S. Air Force, and now with Cone Mills of Reidsville, North Carolina, where he has received several promotions, (most recently — assistant manager of Wage and Salary Administration in the Corporate Industrial Relation Department). He has been active in community affairs and past president of Reidsville Jaycees. A second son, Walter Asbury Gold, is an orthodontist.

Jeremaine Edon Gold married Earl Hamrick, Jr. and they have two daughters: Edon Hamrick and Celia Hamrick.

Dr. "Tom", his wife, and son, Thomas Jr., are buried at Sunset Cemetery, Shelby.

Sources: family Bibles, quoted military citation, and other records.

— Mrs. Palmer (NM) Gold

WILLIAMSON FORTUNE "MIN" GOLD FAMILY

509

Williamson Fortune "Min" Gold was born (Oct. 1, 1836 — Dec. 7, 1928) to James Milton Gold (1802-1888) and Martha Fortune (1810-c1875) near Shelby in Cleveland County, North Carolina. He was the third child in a large farming family that lived in the western part of Rutherford County, now Cleveland County. His grandfather was Daniel Gold of Mecklenburg County, Virginia.

Min Gold's grandfather, Daniel Gold (c1768-c1849), was the second of three sons born to Pleasant Gold. Daniel married Frances Griffin around 1797 and they moved to the Sandy Run Township to raise their family. Daniel Gold's father, Pleasant Gold (1740-1832) descended from Daniel Gold (c1708-1780) and Elizabeth Pleasant (c1710-c1785). Daniel's father, Thomas Gold (c1678-c1760), presumably descended from Christopher Gold (c1648-c1718), son of Richard Gold (c1620-c1690), all of Mecklenburg County, Virginia.

Min Gold's ancestors emigrated to Virginia from Devonshire, England. Richard Gold settled in Virginia in 1651. In Gold Generations In England and America, written by Pleasant Daniel Gold, the line of descent is followed back twelve generations to John Gold, the Crusader, who lived at Seaborough in 1220.

Min Gold fought in the Civil War under General Stonewall Jackson. He was wounded, captured by the Union, and taken prisoner for one year. His wife, Margaret "Mag" Gordon William Fortune "Min" Gold.

Elliott (June 29, 1848 — Nov. 16, 1921), was the second daughter of John Paxton Elliott (1817-1873) and Sara Beam (1825-1895).

John Milton Gold (March 8, 1869 — July 5, 1945) was the oldest son of Min and Mag. He married Mary Martha Putnam (c1870-1955) Dec. 28, 1893. She was the daughter of Samuel Putnam (1838-c1908) and Artie Hardin (1835-c1910) of Cabiness Road, Zion Community, Cleveland County. There were six children: Dan Fortune (May 27, 1895-c1965), Ralph Royster (May 9, 1898 — May 30, 1968 — see Ralph Royster Gold Family), Clyde Putnam (July 30, 1900 — Dec. 29, 1938), Emma Wilson (July 31, 1903), John Milton, Jr. (Oct. 1, 1909 — Oct. 29, 1972) and Minnie Borders (May 4, 1911).

The second son of Min and Mag was Julius Benjamin Gold (Sept. 7, 1874-c1944). Married to Minnie Packard (c1875-c1950), they had ten children: Ethel Philbeck, Elsie DePriest, Maggie Morehead, Jennie Bell Hamrick, Alma, George, Willie, Benjamin "Bub", Meridith Dover, Elizabeth Martin, and John.

Laura Gold (Feb. 17, 1870-c1945) was the third child of Min and Mag Gold. She married Thomas Poole Cabiness (May 26, 1860 — Feb. 17, 1942) on Dec. 24, 1887 and had ten children. He was the son of Athel Montcalm Cabiness (c1835-c1905) and Perthenie Elizabeth Elliott (c1832-c1908).

Of Laura and Thomas, 10 children, George Turner (Nov. 29, 1880 — January 30, 1982) was first. He was followed by Pleas Buren (Feb. 25, 1892), Elizabeth Elliott Spangler (March 2, 1894), Mary Frances Moore (July 6, 1896), Charlie (June 15, 1898), Margaret Neal (Aug. 16, 1900), Minnie Gold Cabiness (Feb. 2, 1903), Thomas Evans (Jan. 20, 1905), Nina Rudasill (Aug. 1, 1908) and Thelma Brooks (July 19, 1910).

Julia Gold (Aug. 4, 1872-c1950), the fourth child, married George Cornwell (June 20, 1870-c1940) of the Lawndale Community on Feb. 19, 1891. Their children were Buena Bell Hull (Feb. 4, 1892), Zola Lala Stamey (c1894), Abner Milton, M.D. (May 17, 1895), Mittie "Mattie" May Gettys (c1897), Lee Williamson (c1900), Cora Marie Horn (c1902), Luna Clemantine Elmore (c1905), George Thomas (c1907), Margaret Lillian Mull (c1910), Pearl Gold Warlick (c1912), Amos Halstead (June 4, 1911-c1975), James Francis (July 1, 1913) and Robert Alton (c1915).

Mag and Min Gold had their fifth child, Martha "Mattie" Gold on Dec. 31, 1876. She died in 1931. She was married to O.C. Dixon (c1870-c1940) of Shelby, Dec. 8, 1897. Their children were Thomas G., Ben, F., Pearl Murray Max R., Clarence Spurling, Margaret Watson, O.C., Jr., W.F., and Hal.

Thomas Jackson Gold (April 11, 1879-c1950) married Nina Josephine Wheeler (c1885-c1955) of High Point, April 24, 1907. He was the sixth child of Min and Mag Gold. He graduated from the School of Law of the University of North Carolina, served as Mayor of High Point and as North Carolina State Senator from Gildord County. His two boys are Thomas Jackson Gold, Jr. and Robert Wheeler Gold, both of High Point.

Min and Mag's seventh child was Minnie Etta Gold. She was born Nov., 5, 1881 and died about 1956. She and Dr. James T. Justice (c1880-c1950) of Kernersville married on May 13, 1903, and had two children, James and Hugo.

Of the nine children born to Min and Mag Gold, Dr. Charles Fortune Gold (July 17, 1884 — June 30, 1946) was the eighth. Married to Hattie Poe Johnson (c1890-1975) of Raleigh on Jan. 19, 1911, they had one child, Charles Fortune Gold, Jr., (Dec. 17, 1911) who married Ernestine Bailey (July 17, 1917) of Lancaster, South Carolina. Dr. Gold was a graduate of the Medical School of North Carolina. His son Charles served as Commissioner of Insurance for the State of North Carolina for several years. His wife was active in community service.

The last child, George Elliott Gold (Dec. 28, 1895 — Feb. 9, 1937) married Lydia Ada Hoyle (Feb. 20, 1895) of Cleveland County, Dec. 6, 1911. His children are Ruth Grigg (March 4, 1913), George Elliott, Jr. (March 14, 1916), Hoyle (Dec. 2, 1918), Mary Sue Price (Nov. 1, 1921), Addie Frances (c1926) and Betty DeVinney (Nov. 1, 1934).

The descendants of Min and Mag Gold still gather annually for the Gold Family Reunion at Zion Baptist Church Community Building the last Sunday in September.

Sources: family records, newspaper clippings, personal knowledge.

— Stuart M. Caudill

EDWARD GOODE, III

510

Edward Goode, III, was born in 1749 in Lunenburg County, Virginia. He died in 1799 in Rutherford County, North Carolina. He was married in 1769 at Henrico County, Virginia, to Mary (Polly) Turpin, daughter of Lusby Turpin and wife Sara Redford. Edward Goode, III, was a son of Edward Goode, Jr. and his wife, Judith Morton Goode.

Issue (all born in Mecklenburg Co., Va.):

Sarah Goode born 1770 and died after 1830 in Jackson County, Georgia. She married Obediah Watson in 1790 in Virginia.

Thomas Goode was born April 1, 1771 and died 27 September 1861 in Cleveland County, North Carolina. He married Sarah Hicks Elliott, the daughter of Martin Elliott and his wife Sarah Finch.

Martha Goode was born 1772. She married in Rutherford County, North Carolina, on 24 July, 1799 to Joseph Jay.

John Goode was born 1776 and died after 1850 in Cleveland County. He married in 1807 in Rutherford County to Elizabeth (Betsy) Webb.

Nancy Goode was born 1777, and died in Tennessee. She married a Mr. Jones.

Elizabeth Goode was born in 1780. She married 19 July 1805 in Rutherford County to Noah Wells.

Richard Goode was born 1783 and died in 1859 in Asheville, St. Claire County, Alabama. He married on 19 September 1808 in Rutherford County to Hetty Webb, daughter of Robert Webb and his first wife.

Priscilla Goode was born 1784. She married in 1797 in North Carolina to Ambrose Christopher.

Benjamin Goode was born in 1785.

Lusby Goode was born in 1787.

Agnes Goode was born in 1786 and died in Georgia. She married 22 January 1802 in Rutherford County to John Hopson.

Thomas Goode and Sarah Hicks Elliott issue:

Benjamin Goode was born 28 October 1808 in Rutherford County. He married his first wife, Sarah Magness, on 14 November 1831 in Rutherford County. He married his second wife, Eliza Hull, lived in 1881, Hulls Cross Roads, Lincoln County, North Carolina.

Martin Elliott Goode was born 23 March 1810 in Rutherford County. He married 18 October 1839 in Rutherford County Mary Martin.

John Turpin Goode was born 11 April 1811 in North Carolina. He married Barbara Warlick who lived in Cleveland County.

Benjamin Franklin Goode and Sarah Magness issue:

Thomas G. Goode was born in 1833; Nancy A. Goode was born in 1835; Joseph Goode was born in 1837; Melinda Goode was born in 1839; Martin E. Goode was born in 1841; Sarah S. Goode was born in 1842; Martha M. Goode was born in 1845; Mary D. Goode was born in 1847. (All of these were born in North Carolina.)

In the 1850 Census Record Cleveland County, N.C. Benjamin Franklin Goode's first wife was listed as still living. A book which I have Virginia Cousins by G. Brown Goode also list the following children in addition to the above: John Edward Goode, Maggie Goode, Laura Goode.

John Turpin Goode and Marbara Warlick issue:

Noah A.G. Goode (Dr.) was born in 1835 in North Carolina. He married 23 December 1866 in Rutherford County to Sarah Williams; Mary L. Goode born 1837; Sarah Goode born 1840; Dicy L. Goode born 1841; Thomas F. Goode born 1843; William C. Goode born 1844. (All these were born in North Carolina.) Also, David Goode born 1847, CSA, Methodist Minister; Barbara Goode born 1849; Julius Goode; Augusta Goode; Mary Goode; Fanny Goode; Jimmy Goode. CSA not in census records but listed in Virginia Cousins by G. Brown Goode.

John Goode and Elizabeth Webb Goode issue:

Edward Goode was born 24 October 1809 in Rutherford County. He died October 10, 1844 in North Carolina and was buried in Race Path Cemetery, Gannats Grove Church. He married Lydia Scoggins.

Benjamin Goode was born in 1825 in North Carolina.

John Moten Goode was born 18 October 1819 in North Carolina. He died in January 24, 1905 and was buried in Race Path Cemetery. He married Chelsa Wall.

Elizabeth Goode was born 1825 in North Carolina. She married 7 October 1841 in Rutherford County to Jopha Wall.

Some descendants of John Moten Goode still live in Cleveland County. I have been told that John and his wife Elizabeth Webb are buried in a pasture on Floyd's Creek. How true this is I do not know. Mr. Cecil C. Goode who lives now in Cleveland County is a descendant of John Morten and Chelsa Wall. Note the name Morten. I am sure this must have been Morton as John Goode's grandmother was Judith Morton Goode.

Edward Goode has a descendant who did live in Mooresboro, North Carolina, Russel Goode.

The Cleveland County, North Carolina 1850 Federal Census shows: John Goode, Sr., 76 VA; Betsy Goode 67 N.C.; Edward Goode 37 N.C.; Benjamin Goode 25 N.C.

Richard Goode and Hetty Webb: Hetty Webb was a daughter of Robert Webb and his first wife. Richard moved to Hall County, Georgia in 1823. In 1856 he moved to St. County, Alabama. His daughter, Martha, was born in 1825 in Hall County. She married 11 November 1846 to Russell W. Thompson. Their daughter Candace T. Thompson was born in 1849 in Hall County and died May 1925 in St. Clair County. She married June 4, 1864 to Lewis Allen Dearman, my great grandparents.

— Mrs. Velvo Chaney

WILLIAM C. GOODE and DESCENDANTS

511

William C. Goode was born on March 24, 1844 in Patterson Springs, North Carolina. On July 26, 1888 he married Dora Starnes who was born on October 15, 1864.

William and Dora had three children. Fred Montgomery Goode was born on April 9, 1889; Bertha was born on September 11, 1894; and Aileen was born on June 27, 1901.

Fred was married on December 20, 1916 to Mary Rita Harmon. They had three children: Mary Schenck, Dora Ruth, and Mabel Katherine. Fred and Rittie (as she was called) owned a farm near Waco in an area called Stoney Point. They raised chickens as their principal livelihood. They were founder members of Beulah Methodist Church which is near by. On July 17, 1931, Fred died after an illness of several years of tuberculosis. At this time this illness was thought to be practically untreatable.

Mary Schenck Goode, his oldest child, married Charles Edward Goforth on November 29, 1934. They have five living children who are all married with children of their own. Charles is a farmer with considerable acreage in the Bethware Community. Their children and grandchildren are as follows: (1) Elizabeth Jane who married Charles Douglas Elmore. They now live in Lexington, North Carolina. Their children are Charles, Mark, Gini, and Molly. (2) Linda Schenck who married Charles Wayne Stroupe. Their children are Rita, Charles, Steven and Todd. They live in Gastonia. (3) Mary Helen who married Peter Jacob Hauser. Their children are Jeffrey and Jonathan. They live in Greenville, South Carolina. (4) Charles Edward who married Pamela Gail Nicholson. They have two children, Katherine and Tripp. (5) Paul Goode who married Debra Ann Porter.

COLONEL FREDERICK HAMBRIGHT

512

Their child's name is Anna.

Dora Ruth Goode is Fred and Rittie's second child. She married Fred Irvin Mills on December 3, 1938. Fred has just retired from Dover Industries after 40 years. Ruth also worked for the Dovers for many years as a secretary at Esther Mill. Ruth and Fred have one child, Fred Goode who married Betty Janet Crawley on September 4, 1965. They have two children: Julie and Fred Goode Mills, Jr.

Mabel Katherine, Fred and Rittie's youngest child, married Samuel Pannell Goforth on February 28, 1942. Sam was owner and operator of Goforth's Welding in Grover, North Carolina for six years. In 1952, he merged with his brothers Joe and Coleman and formed Goforth Brothers, Inc., a steel fabricating business on Highway 74 in Shelby. The business name was later changed to Goforth Industries, Inc. He died on September 22, 1978.

Katherine and Sam have five children who are all married with children of their own. Sammie Katherine who married Richard Wells Lowery. Their children are Richelle, Laura Kaye, and Matthew. Joe Steven who married Carolyn Buchanan. Their children are Sam, Scott and Craig. Dennis Goode who married Peggy Lou Cline. Their children are Jessica and D. Richard Pannell who married Linda Elmore. Their child's name is Lu. Susan Carol who married John William Porter. Their child's name is Katherine. All of Katherine and Sam's children live in Shelby except Susan who lives in Charlotte, North Carolina.

Bertha Goode never married but made her home for many years with her beloved sister Aileen. She is and has been loved and admired by all of her nieces and nephews. She is still very energetic and is known all over Shelby for her great sense of humor and practical jokes. She is a member of Central United Methodist Church.

Aileen Goode, William and Dora's youngest child, married Yates Blanton on March 24, 1923. Yates worked at Cleveland Hardware until his death on November 13, 1962. Aileen died in 1978. They had two children: Hilda Jean who married Robert Lee Eskridge. Jean works in the library at Shelby Junior High School. Their children are: Robert Lee who married Karen Yarboro. They live in Atlanta. Yates Kimble who married Beverly Rush and lives in Florence, Alabama. Lydia Jean who lives in Charlotte.

Aileen and Yates also had a son named James Goode who married Evelyn McCracken. Jimmy died in 1977. He taught school and was a band director. Evelyn lives in the Boiling Springs area. They have two children: Lynn who married Everett Scarboro and Libby who married Jerry Woodard.

Sources: family records, personal knowledge and memories

— Kaye Goforth Lowery

Frederick Hambright was born on May 17, 1727, in Germany. Frederick's father was Hans Conrad Hambrecht. He was born in 1688 in Neustatten, Germany. The Hambrights were natives of Prussia in Germany, where military training and experience were so much a part of the life of the people that it reflected in its members for several generations.

On October 17, 1738, a group of Palatines were imported to Philadelphia on the ship St. Andrew. These names appeared on the passenger list: Hans Conrad Hambrecht, Johannes Hambrecht, Viet Ad Hambrecht, and Adam Hambrecht. The last three names were brothers of Frederick. Frederick was only eleven years old at the time and the reason for his not being listed as a passenger is that only males over sixteen years of age were listed.

Frederick Hambright lived in Lancaster County, Pennsylvania, and later moved to Virginia. In Virginia he married Sarah Hardin some time between 1752 and 1754. Shortly after their marriage, Frederick and Sarah moved to Tryon County, North Carolina.

Frederick served with Captain Samuel CoBirin's Company of forty-eight men in the Spanish Alarm, 1747-1748, at Wilmington, North Carolina.

He patented land on the Catawba River on August 30, 1753. The place he lived was called the Fort. After building a log cabin, Frederick helped to fortify the fort near his home for protection against Catawba Indians. He patented more land on September 24, 1754. In May, 1769, he patented more land — this time in the fork of Long Creek and Still House Branch, which is now near Dallas, North Carolina and lived here until after the Battle of Kings Mountain.

In August, 1775 an association was drawn up and ordered to be signed by every freeholder in Lincoln County uniting and pledging themselves under solemn ties of religion, honor and love to their county, to resist, force by force, in defense of their national freedom and constitutional rights, against all invasions, and at the same time to take up arms and risk their lives and fortunes in maintaining freedom of their country when it became necessary. This association was signed by John Walker, Thomas Beatty, Frederick Hambright, Charles McLean, Jacob Forney, Jack Turner, and others. This was signed nearly twelve months before Congress declared independence.

Frederick Hambright was sent as a representative to the provincial Congress of North Carolina, which met at Hillsboro, August 21, 1775. Frederick also helped to organize and drill the militia. In June, 1776, he served as captain against the Indians on the western frontiers. On December 23, 1776, Frederick was appointed Justice of the Peace by the Provincial Congress which met at Halifax, North Carolina.

In 1779, Captain Hambright was made Lieutenant Colonel. Late in the same year he went in Lillington's brigade to the relief of Charleston. In 1780, Frederick served under Colonel McDowell in the Broad River region.

Frederick's wife died some time during the early part of the Revolution and was buried on his Long Creek home place.

Frederick met Mary Dover at or shortly before the Battle of Kings Mountain. They were married on July 17, 1781, in York County, South Carolina.

The crowning service of Colonel Hambright's career was at the Battle of Kings Mountain on October 7, 1780.

Near the close of the battle, Colonel Hambright was shot through his thigh cutting some arteries and filling his boot with blood. The old soldier refused help as it might distract the attention of his men.

Pressing to the front of the line, he called out in his broken German: Huzza, my brave boys, fight on a few minutes more, and the battle will be over." He recovered from his wound, yet its deep seated injury caused him to falter in his walk during the remainder of his life.

An address of thanks was made by the General Assembly of North Carolina and presented to Colonel Hambright for his part in the battle of Kings Mountain.

After the Revolutionary War, Colonel Hambright lived the rest of his life in sight of the field of battle. He was appointed a building commissioner to contract with workmen to construct the public buildings of Lincoln County on April 13, 1782. Frederick Hambright was the father of 22 — 12 by his first wife of whom 6 lived to maturity and 10 by his second wife of whom 9 lived to maturity.

In 1786, an elegant mounted sword was presented to Colonel Hambright for his "voluntary and distinguished services in the defeat of Major Patrick Ferguson at Kings Mountain." by the General Assembly of North Carolina.

Frederick Hambright was long a worthy member and elder of the Shiloh Presbyterian Church. Colonel Hambright died on March 9, 1817, and was buried in the old Shiloh Presbyterian grave yard, one mile from Grover. On his grave marker is the following inscription:

"In memory of Colonel Frederick Hambright, who departed this life March 9, 1817, in the ninetyeth year of his age.

"Adieu to all, both far and near, my loving wife and children dear, for my immortal soul is fled, I must be numbered with the dead."

— Anne Hambright

EDGAR BLANTON HAMILTON and FAMILY

513

Edgar Blanton Hamilton, grandson of Burwell Edgar Blanton (born December 31, 1875; died May 18, 1943) who was a brother of George, Charles, Dora, Margaret and Mary Blanton. Burwell Edgar was married to Mae Martin Blanton (born April 22, 1889; died May 18, 1943). The Blanton homeplace still stands in Blanton Industrial Park near Shelby. The Blanton's only child, Elizabeth, fondly known as Betty, was born in Shelby June 10, 1905 and died May 2, 1978. All are buried in Sunset Cemetery here. Betty was educated in the Shelby school system. She attended Fassifern High School in Hendersonville and upon graduation there, entered Converse College in Spartanburg, South Carolina, and graduated with a degree in music in 1926.

While visiting in Asheville, where her mother died of tuberculosis at Black Mountain, she met Joseph Wilcox Hamilton of West Jefferson, North Carolina, (born December 13, 1898; died June 4, 1962). They were married in Asheville in 1928. He was a graduate of the Wharton School of Finance at the University of Pennsylvania and had recently gone to work with Johns-Manville Corporation. The couple moved to Charlotte where Joseph Wilcox Hamilton, Jr. was born January 28, 1930, and Edgar Blanton Hamilton was born January 27, 1933. The Hamiltons moved from North Carolina in 1936 to Atlanta, Georgia, where Mr. Hamilton was promoted to Southeastern District Manager of Johns-Manville. He had a stroke in 1950 and was forced to retire. Both were very active in civic, social and church related activities.

Edgar, known as Ed, attended high school in Atlanta and graduated in 1955 with a B.S. Degree in Industrial Management from Georgia Tech. Upon graduation he went into the U.S. Army as a second lieutenant and served in Germany. After being honorably discharged as a first lieutenant, he resumed his career with Westinghouse Electric Corporation in Atlanta as an assistant sales engineer. In 1958 he married Edith Coulter Moore (born January 22, 1935) from Sylva, North Carolina. She attended Randolph Macon Woman's College in Lynchburg, Virginia, and graduated in 1957 from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. In 1964 her father, Dan K. Moore, was elected Governor of North Carolina for four years and at the end of his term, he and his wife, Jeanelle Moore, remained in Raleigh where he continued to serve the state as a member of the North Carolina Supreme Court until his retirement and Mrs. Moore serves as Executive Director of Keep North Carolina Beautiful, Inc.

The Hamilton's first child, Edgar Blanton Hamilton, Jr., was born in Atlanta on June 25, 1960. Their other child, Jeanelle Moore Hamilton, was born in Shelby on her mother's birthday, January 22, 1962.

The Hamiltons came to Shelby in 1961 when Ed joined The First National Bank of Shelby as vice president. Both were very active in Shelby and after joining the bank, Ed was elected to the bank's Board of Directors. He graduated from the Stonier Graduate School of Banking — Rutgers University, the Carolinas School of Banking, and The Executive Program at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. He was Senior Warden of the Episcopal Church of The Redeemer in Shelby, president of Shelby Rotary Club, president of Shelby Loan and Mortgage Corporation, chairman of the Advisory Board of The Salvation Army, member of the Advisory Board of Gardner-Webb College, chairman of the Heart Fund, chairman of the Cleveland County Cancer Society, and a member of the Board of Directors of the Cleveland

Edgar Blanton Hamilton Family. L to R: Ed, Jeanelle, Edith, Blanton.

County Boys' Club, Cleveland County Community Concert Association, and Cleveland County Historical Association. Mr. Hamilton was elected president of The First National Bank of Shelby in 1979.

Edgar Blanton Hamilton, Jr. will graduate in May, 1982 from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and will pursue a banking career in Atlanta, Georgia with the Trust Company Bank. Jeanelle Hamilton attends Salem College and will graduate in 1984. She plans to be a teacher and become involved in the work of several christian organizations.

— Edith M. Hamilton

ALGER VASON HAMRICK

514

Alger Vason Hamrick (b. November 6, 1891 — d. April 20, 1977) was the son of Leander Shepard Hamrick and Sarah Lucinda Hamrick. These parents lived in the Beaver Dam Community until they purchased a large area in West Shelby where they built a big two story house with porches around more than half of it. The family accused their father of being "land-hungry" as he kept on buying land from North Shelby to First Broad River. Leander and Sarah had six sons. This energetic family of father and sons worked many acres in cotton, corn, and other products planted on broad acres that are now covered with nice homes. These were the roots of Alger Vason and his brothers.

Alger went to school at Zoar, having to walk several miles from home, until he attained high school years at which time he attended Shelby High School. He attended college at Wake Forest College.

Alger worked as a bookkeeper at Shelby Oil Mill until he went into the wholesale grocery business with John McKnight. They built a large square red brick building next to the railroad tracks on West Graham Street and operated a business there for many years. Not long after McKnight retired, Alger opened A.V. Hamrick and Company, a wholesale drug company.

Alger had a great zest for life. He loved desserts and often said if a person really liked something it would not hurt him. He was an outgoing and friendly person who always showed a tremendous loyalty to his family, his hometown, his Democratic Party, his Kiwanis Club, and his church. During the hard depression years, he spent long hours as church treasurer of First Baptist Church trying to eek out enough money to pay Dr. Wall and keep the church going. He served for many years in this capacity.

Kiwanis Club, which he served as president, was very special to him. For well over twenty years he held a record of perfect attendance at the weekly Kiwanis meetings. He was equally as faithful, however, in everything to which he belonged.

This man was well known over Cleveland County because of his business connections. He served as alderman on the city council, member of the Board of Cleveland Memorial Hospital, Treasurer and Deacon of First Baptist Church, President of Shelby Kiwanis Club, Director of First Federal Building and Loan, Director of Shelby Building and Loan, Director and Vice President of Union Trust Company. Always a faithful and useful person, he was a reliable and progressive citizen of Shelby all his life.

On October 4, 1917, Alger married Ettie Abernathy (b. June 20, 1895). Ettie attended school at what was then North Carolina College for Women in Greensboro. Before her marriage she taught school in the Belwood section and later worked at A. B. Blanton Grocery Company.

Ettie is known by her friends for her wonderful spirit of giving — always remembering people with flowers from her lovely garden.

ALGER VASON HAMRICK, JR.

515

Alger Vason Hamrick, Jr., was the son of Alger Vason and Ettie Abernathy Hamrick. He was from the Sheppard Hamrick branch of the Hamricks. Born on October 20, 1918, which was soon after World War I, he was destined to fight in the war of the next generation, World War II.

Vason, as he was called, was born on the site of the present City Hall where the former female academy building at that time housed a small hospital. His family resided in a large frame house on West Marion Street, a house built by his grandfather, T.H. Abernathy. He lived there until he was ten years old at which time the family moved into a new brick home farther out on West Marion Street. This location furnished Vason with fields to roam and woods to explore. He always was proud of and loved West Shelby, the old farmland of his grandfather. In later years he built his own home on the same street and continued to reside there until his death.

As a young lad Vason attended Graham Elementary School and later Shelby High School. In his college years he studied at Mars Hill College and at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill where he majored in commerce. While a student at Mars Hill, he met a fellow student Rebecca Hollowell from Edenton, North Carolina. They were married on June 14, 1941, in Greensboro. (See Rebecca Hollowell Hamrick account.) This union brought two sons.

Vason's first employment was as a clerk and bookkeeper in the Charlotte office of Standard Oil Company of New Jersey. He moved from there to the position of office and traffic manager of Cooperative Mills, Inc., in Statesville, North Carolina. He worked there until he was called to active service in the army. He entered the army at a time when the push was hard and the need for infantrymen was great. Thus, after only six weeks of basic training, he was immediately shipped out to North Africa. After a brief stay in Casablanca, Vason was sent to the Anzio Beachhead in Italy where for several months his regiment was under constant enemy fire. This regiment was among the first to enter Rome to liberate the ancient city. Vason also was in the Southern France Invasion and in the advance across the Rhine River. He was wounded three times receiving the Purple Heart and two clusters.

When Vason returned to work after the war, he told his boss that he never expected to walk any farther than from the door of the building to the car. He had trekked all over France and Italy in sand and mud, up and down hills and dales, and he was quite ready for the luxury of riding. For some time after his army service he remained at Cooperative Mills where his wife had held his job during his army years, his having trained her prior to leaving for the service. In 1948 he moved to Shelby where he joined his father in the family wholesale drug business, A.V. Hamrick and Company. In later years he worked at Norris Packing Company and in 1960 joined Fiber Industries (where he was working at the time of his death).

Vason spent many years on the road as a salesman. His customers always showed a real devotion to him as a friend — a likeable, down-to-earth, and extremely honest and straightforward man. They placed real confidence in him to serve them as best he could and to be a friend. Fiber Industries in a newspaper article about him referred to him as "a quiet man ... reserved ... top notch ... with an outstanding work record." He was a sincere person of great compassion and understanding.

During his adult life Vason was a member of the Kiwanis Club and the Great Books Discussion Group. He served as a deacon of First Baptist Church for many years, and for years he worked with youth in Training Union.

The Hamrick's older son, Alger Vason Hamrick III (b. April 13, 1946) attended the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and U.N.C. Medical School. He married Ann Sloan Dill of Rocky Mount, North Carolina. They have three children: Rebecca Sloan (b. December 24, 1973) and twins Alger Vason IV and Ann Fountain (b. March 16 and 17, 1977). They reside in Raleigh where Al is a physician in family practice.

The younger son Charles Gregory (b. February 2, 1949) also attended the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and U.N.C. Law School. He later earned a Masters degree in Counseling at the University of North Carolina in Charlotte. He married Marie Ann Arrowood of Asheville, who teaches English at Shelby High School. Greg serves as a probation officer in Charlotte.

Vason died August 9, 1967, at the age of forty-eight and is buried in Sunset Cemetery in Shelby, North Carolina.

Sources: Shelby Daily Star, Family Members

— Rebecca H. Hamrick

Alger Vason Hamrick, Jr.

with books, or with cards, notes, and visits. She is a person keenly aware of the needs of those around her and is especially appreciative of the beautiful in life. Her favorite motto is "A place for everything, and everything in its place."

Alger and Ettie lived ten years with her father T.J. Abernathy at 804 West Marion Street. They then built the first home in the Hamrick wooded area farther out on West Marion, an area which is now filled with nice homes. This section was for many years prior to this development known as Lover's Lane and later as the street with "all the dogwood."

This couple had three children: Alger Vason, Jr. (see account on Alger Vason Hamrick, Jr., and also on Rebecca Hollowell Hamrick, his wife), Sara Mundy (b. December 25, 1922), and Spencer Dean (b. November 3, 1928).

Sara Mundy attended Woman's College of University of North Carolina where she majored in home economics. After teaching for several years, she married Charles McBrayer Broadway of Shelby. They have two children — Jean (married to William Skidmore of Charlotte) and Charles, Jr. (married to Ann McCoy of Greensboro) — and two grandchildren, Christopher Skidmore and Catherine McCoy Broadway. They reside in Greensboro.

Alger Vason and Ettie Abernathy Hamrick.

Spencer Dean attended Wake Forest College and U.N.C. Law School. He is married to the former Betty Jo Ring of High Point, a former Miss North Carolina. Betty Jo and Dean have three children: Spencer Dean, Jr.; Cameron Street; and Sara Ring. Dean practices law in Charlotte having served as president of the Charlotte-Mecklenburg Bar Association and member of the Board of Directors of the North Carolina Bar.

Alger Vason Hamrick died on April 20, 1976, and is buried in Sunset Cemetery in Shelby, North Carolina.

Sources: Shelby Daily Star, Cleveland Times, Family Members.

— Rebecca H. Hamrick

ALONZO MARION HAMRICK 516

On October 6, 1856, Alonzo Marion Hamrick was born. He was the fifth of six sons born to Street and Elmira Hamrick. Alonzo grew up on his father's farm that adjoins Crest Junior High School and lived in the "Old Hamrick House" that is still maintained by the Street Hamrick family.

Alonzo grew up in a mixture of poverty and excitement. Indians still roamed in Cleveland County. The Civil War claimed the lives of family and friends. Additions to house and lands had to wait for economic and political skies to clear.

The closeness of a remote farm family, the influence of a God-fearing mother and father, the discipline taught by poor health, and a determination to compete with brothers and peers in a newly awakening region of the United States combined to create a man of unusual strength.

School at Sharon and at Boiling Springs required a five mile walk. Alonzo never lost interest in education. He taught at Sharon and Beaver Dam and served as a committee-man for Shanghai School. In this capacity he hired the teachers, handled school correspondence, and helped with the budget under the direction of the superintendent of schools.

A great sense of humor never left Alonzo. While attending camp meetings and sitting behind some young girl who was wearing a bustle, he would often cut a slit in it with his knife so that when she started walking, she left a trail of wheat bran behind.

On August 11, 1881, Alonzo married Elnora Elizabeth McMurray at home. Alonzo had to borrow $2.50 for the marriage license from his mother. The McMurrays predicted that Elnora would perish because he couldn't make a living for her. They honeymooned at a camp meeting at Sharon. They then lived in a nearby two room house furnished with a bed made by nailing boards to the walls, a table, two chairs and a dutch oven. Only later could they afford a stove.

Alonzo started farming on rented land. Later he bought the land that is now Riverbend Acres for $11.00 per acre. He raised his family there and sold the same land for $11.00 per acre. He then bought the land around Crest Citgo for $70.00 per acre. In addition to farming he ran a general store at the cross roads, was a magistrate, and taught school occasionally. In times of poor health he even took up making ladies clothing. He even made a wedding dress for one young lady.

He purchased land occasionally until at one time he owned about 325 acres. He was the first farmer in Cleveland County to raise a bale of cotton to the acre. In his will, he left a farm to each of eight heirs.

Alonzo and Elnora had nine children. Kansas died in her teens; Neta married W.W. Jones; Evins married Gatla Jones; Dorcas married Cleaton Humphries, Dewitt married Beunah Hawkins, Twitty married Minnie Brooks, Bue married Bezola Hamrick, Cree married Affie Barnette, and Elmira never married after her boyfriend was killed in the "Shelby Disaster".

Alonzo was a charter member and great supporter of Poplar Springs Baptist Church. Among his personal papers are receipts for materials and labor used in building the church. He served as church clerk for years.

Alonzo served his community in the following ways: registrar for the Queens Precinct, road overseer, justice of the peace, tax lister, and leader in the Sharon Farmer's Alliance. He was always willing to lend his moral and financial support to community causes. He was an active Democrat who said that if a gentleman was running on the Republican ticket and a jackass on the Democratic ticket, he would vote for the jackass.

Alonzo was an invalid for eight years. He remained jolly and was a delight to the many friends and relatives who visited him. He usually made visitors forget their own troubles with jokes and conversation. He died on February 16, 1944, and was buried in Poplar Springs cemetery beside his wife who had died thirteen years earlier. His works still live in the Poplar Springs community and will continue to be an influence to those who follow after him.

Sources — Family records and personal knowledge

— Martha Philbeck-grandaughter
Marion Wayne Hamrick-great grandson

ALONZO MARTIN HAMRICK FAMILY

517

Alonzo Martin Hamrick of Double Spring, N.C. better known as Lon Hamrick, was the son of Eliza Reuben and Louise Bridges Hamrick. He married Sarah Adelaide Lattimore of Lattimore, N.C. January 25, 1873. To this union six children were born. Mary Elaine Hamrick born December 9, 1873, Lucy Wright Hamrick born April 28, 1875, Mildred Lee Hamrick born April 7, 1877, Howard Pinkney Hamrick born June 23, 1901, Mary Carson Hamrick born August 7, 1907, and an infant son stillborn six years later March 8, 1914.

Alonzo Martin Hamrick moved to Shelby, N.C. and traveled selling Hilson Club coffee. Later he ran for Superior Court clerk of Cleveland County and won the election over two opponents. He remained in this position for sixteen years. Later he became a probation officer and worked in Raleigh until he became ill. He died July 11, 1941.

Mary Elaine Hamrick married John Randolph Dover II. They had two children: Sarah Esther Dover and John Randolph Dover III. Sarah Esther Dover married George Jackson Vincent from the state of Oregon. They had two children: Lainey Vincent and George Jackson Vincent. Lainey Vincent married Carlton Lee Baker of Wellington, S.C. and they have two children: Kelly Baker and Carlton Lee Baker. George Jackson Vincent married first to Karen Walters, they had one son George Jackson Vincent III. They were divorced. Later he married Lynn Pemington of Shelby, N.C. They have two sons John Paul and Chadburn Vincent. John Randolph III married Ann Pearson of Bristol, Pennsylvania. They have three children Leslie Dover, John Randolph Dover IV, and Allison Dover who married Jerry Norton of Marion, N.C.

Lucy Wright Hamrick is single, Mildred Lee Hamrick married Charles Beatty Suttle II. They lived together fifteen years. They were divorced. After many years Mildred Lee married McMurry Wilkins of Greenville, S.C. originally from Shelby, N.C. No children were born to either marriage.

Howard Hamrick married Louise Hammer of Tuscaloosa, Alabama. They have one child, a daughter Rosemary Hamrick. Mary Carson Hamrick married Joseph Hopson Austell of Earl, N.C. June 21, 1930. They have one daughter, Mary Carson Austell. She married Carlos Francis Coppage Jr. of Anderson, S.C. originally from Karo, Georgia. They have two girls, Karen Elaine Coppage and Mary Kimberly Coppage.

Source: Bible and Cleveland Daily Star

HAMRICK ANCESTORS OF PERMELIA ANN ESTHER GREEN

518

George Hamrick Sr. came from Germany in 1731 and married Nancy Cook.

George Hamrick Jr., son of George Hamrick Sr. and Nancy Cook Hamrick, married Susanna Blanton.

Samuel Hamrick, son of George Hamrick Jr. and grandson of George Hamrick, Sr. who came from Germany, and Susanna Blanton Hamrick married Mary Hamrick. Their son, Reuben Hamrick was born in 1786 and died October 26, 1873. His wife Hannah McSwain Hamrick was born 1786 and died July 24, 1875. She was the daughter of William McSwain, Jr. and Judith Moore McSwain.

Rebecca Hamrick was the daughter of Reuben Hamrick and Hannah McSwain Hamrick. She was born December 18, 1809 and died September 16, 1893. Her husband Elias Green, son of Henry Green, was born April 5, 1807 and died May 28, 1885.

Reuben Hamrick Green, son of Elias Green and Rebecca Hamrick Green was born December 18, 1840 and died June 23, 1923. His wife Elizabeth Jane Scruggs Green, daughter of Richard Scruggs and Selena Hawkins Scruggs, was born August 8, 1846 and died March 29, 1921.

Permelia Ann Esther Green, was daughter of Reuben Hamrick and Elizabeth Jane Scruggs Green and was born on August 16, 1864 and died January 2, 1951.

Sources: family Bible.

— Ollie Connie Green

CAMERON STREET HAMRICK

519

Cameron Street Hamrick was born August 29, 1822 near what is now Crest Junior High School. Little is known about his early life. His father was Moses Hamrick, born December 24, 1791, and died August 10, 1868, and his

CHARLES JEFFERSON HAMRICK

520

Charles Jefferson Hamrick founded the C.J. Hamrick & Sons general merchandise store in Boiling Springs in 1875 when the south was still in the throes of poverty resulting from the Civil War. The business continues today under ownership of his grandson, Clifford Elijah Hamrick, and great-grandson, Clifford E. Hamrick Jr., and is the oldest mercantile business in Cleveland County.

C.J. Hamrick started the store with his son, Elijah Bly Hamrick, who ran it for nearly 70 years before his death at age 88, and with a son-in-law, Solon A. Green, who oversaw the operations of the firm's other assets, namely a cotton gin, grist mill and saw mill.

C.J. Hamrick was a veteran of the Civil War and served with notable valor for three and one-half years as a member of Company D, 55th N.C. Infantry. He was able to save his stock from the carpetbaggers in later years. He owned over 300 acres of land around the homeplace in Boiling Springs and farmed until he entered the mercantile business.

An enterprising man, he started a cotton gin on the creek at his homeplace and ginned one bale per day, but if it rained he was able to gin extra bales from water pressure. At that time the value of cottonseed was not known and so he buried all cottonseed from his ginning operations. He owned an old cotton press which was pulled by mule.

Charles Jefferson Hamrick was born June 11, 1833 and died November 27, 1918. His parents were James Young and Catharine Hardin Hamrick and he was reared on the paternal plantation. His father was the first representative from Cleveland County to the North Carolina General Assembly and the fifth generation descending from George Hamrick who came to America from Germany in 1731.

He was married to Sarah Hamrick of distant relationship and their children were James Street Hamrick

Rebecca Bridges Hamrick, wife of Street Hamrick.

grandfather was Price Hamrick, born in 1765 and died in 1822. Both gentlemen are buried in an old family cemetery located near Crest Junior High School.

Cameron Street Hamrick and Elmira Bridges were married August 10, 1843. She was a daughter of Jesse Bridges and Elizabeth Harrill Bridges, and was born on November 30, 1822 in what was the Double Springs section. To this union were born six sons: Marshall Newton, Sidney Hill, John Calhoun, Leander Shepard, Alonzo Marion, and Wiley Cicero.

When Street Hamrick and Elmira Bridges were married, his father gave him a horse. Street soon realized that he could not afford to keep a horse to plow with. He sold the horse for ten dollars and for several years plowed a steer. On January 1, 1850, he used the ten dollars to make a payment on two hundred acres of land he bought from James W. Irvin. He paid a total of one hundred and fifty dollars, or seventy-five cents per acre. He lived there from 1850 until his death on June 29, 1900.

The newlyweds needed household furnishings as well. They heard that George Champion, who had a store near Broad River, had dishes to sell. One day, they set out for Champion's store. After carefully selecting the bare necessities, they asked if he would credit them. He refused, so they came home without the dishes. Later, Mr. Champion sent word to Street to come back and get the dishes, but he went on and did not go back to get them.

Located on the land that Street bought in 1850 was a log house built by Mr. Irvin about 1784. This original part of the house included the log front of the house, an upstairs loft reached by an enclosed stairway, and a large chimney constructed of old field stones. During the Civil War, one room was added to this log house. The carpenter who began the work was a Mr. Pinson. He was drafted into the Confederate Army, and he left his carpenter tools with Cameron Street and his sons. They completed the addition to the original house.

We rely on electric clocks, radio, and television to tell the time of day, but Street and Elmira Hamrick had a certain mark on the porch of their house to tell the time when the sun was shining.

Elmira Bridges Hamrick died November 9, 1897, and is buried beside her husband in Sunset Cemetery in Shelby. I heard my father, her son, brag on her many times, saying that he owed her a great deal for his success in life.

Sources: records.

— Hubbard Hamrick

Street Hamrick Homeplace, father of Leander Hamrick and grandfather of Hubbard Hamrick.

Young (called J.Y. and who was named for his grandfather and he, too served in the General Assembly as a Senator in the late 1800's); Elijah Bly, Oliver N. and Mrs. Katharine (Katie) Green.

Sources: Family memorabilia, personal conversations, S.C. Jones Hamrick Generations.

— Grace R. Hamrick

CHARLES JEFFERSON HAMRICK FAMILY

521

Charles Jefferson Hamrick was born on June 4, 1876, the oldest child of George Washington and Phoebe Washburn Hamrick. Jeff, as he was called, spent his childhood on the family farm in the Lattimore area. As a boy he attended subscription schools, which were held during the winter months.

At the age of nineteen he entered the business world, working for the J.P.D. Withrow store in Hollis. Later he came to Lattimore and clerked in the store of his uncle, H.I. Washburn.

On December 6, 1911, Jeff was married to Belva Hamrick. The wedding took place at the home of the bride, with Rev. J.W. Suttle officiating.

Belva, the daughter of Sidney H. Hamrick and Elizabeth H. Hamrick, was born in the Beaver Dam community on May 18, 1884. When she was five, her mother died. This left the father with three small daughters. They moved back to the home of his parents so that they, and an aunt, "Aunt Frankie" Hamrick, could help in the rearing of the children. The little girls looked forward to Sundays when their cousins came to visit and they could play. Fondly remembered was "Aunt Frankies" hot gingerbread and fruit pies.

About the age of eleven Belva and her sister, Ida, were sent to a boarding school, located between Kings Mountain and Gastonia and called "All Healing." In her teen years she attended Asheville Normal in Asheville, leaving for school in September and not returning home until May. Belva taught school in Double Springs and Earl until she left the profession to be married.

Charles Jefferson Hamrick

C.J. Hamrick & Sons Store, established 1875.

After the couples wedding they "set up" housekeeping in Lattimore. By this time Jeff and his brother, Less, had gone into the mercantile business for themselves. They operated a general merchandise store known as Hamrick Brothers. The store carried a wide range of goods, from groceries, housewares to furniture and even caskets. This was the time when people brought in produce and exchanged it for other commodities.

Jeff and Belva also operated a boarding house, catering to drummers (salesmen), who arrived in town by train. At that time Lattimore had four daily passenger trains. The drummers rented horses and buggies from the local livery stable and drove to outlying areas to sell their wares.

In 1920 the family moved to Shelby. Again Jeff was connected with a store, this time the S.A. Washburn. The following year, they moved back to Lattimore.

Jeff, his brother, Less, and several other men had purchased the Verner Oil Company. This company was made up of the oil mill, real estate and cotton gins. The mill crushed the cotton seed, removed the oil for shipping and left by-products of crushed hulls and meal, which were sold for feed and fertilizer. Cleveland County was a rural area with cotton the main crop. The business was a success and Jeff was to remain with the mill, serving as president until his death.

Another interest of his was his farms. He also liked to see young, deserving men have their own land and he did what he could to help them accomplish this goal. Many people have told me that "Mr. Jeff" was a man of his word and that he had helped them get their start in life.

I remember both my parents as being thrifty, honest, hard workers who instilled in us, their children, a sense of responsibility and high principles in conduct. Mama was an unassuming person who loved her family and her home. An excellent cook, she was also a lover of flowers and had a "green thumb". I'm grateful to both for the high standards which they set for themselves and for us.

They had two daughters, Sarah Elizabeth and Phoebe Louise. Louise graduated from Meredith College and taught school in Lattimore and Shelby City Schools. Sarah attended Mars Hill College and U.N.C.-G. She married James F. Cornwell and they have four children. They are as follows: Dr. Charles L. Cornwell, who married Patsy Daniels of Montreat, North Carolina; and Carolyn, who married James Purcell of Elberton, Georgia. They have one daughter, Julia Elizabeth; George Richard, not married, and James Stephen, who married Mary Lou Clerking of Farmville, Virginia. They have one daughter, Kathryn Louise.

Jeff died on May 9, 1941. Belva died on December 22, 1961. Both are buried in Double Springs Church Cemetery.

Sources: Personal Knowledge; Family Records.

— Louise Hamrick

CHARLES OREN HAMRICK

522

Charles Oren Hamrick was born on August 29, 1900 in Cleveland County. His father was Charles Clingman Hamrick and his mother was Maggie Wilson both of Cleveland County. They were married in 1884 and farmed all of their adult lives. They had two additional children: Fuller and Gertrude.

Oren enlisted in the army in 1918 while attending Wake Forest College. He was a member of the Wake Forest Student Army Training Corp. They were preparing to be army officers but this program was ended when the armistice was signed on November 11, 1918.

Belva Hamrick

He graduated from Wake Forest College in three and a half years. Oren's first job was as a school teacher in Earl, North Carolina. He became principal of the school after one year. In 1923, he went into the wood, coal and fertilizer business with his brother-in-law, Peter F. Grigg. Later he accepted an offer from Mr. R.L. LeGrand, President of the Shelby Cotton Mill to become payroll officer.

Oren inherited one-third of the family farm and bought the rest from his brother and sister around 1927. He farmed this land located in West Shelby until he retired.

Oren married Margaret Wellmon of Cleveland County. They had three children: Celeste who married John Roberts, Julian who married Sara Ellen Honeycut and Elizabeth Ann who married John Brady.

Oren Hamrick was a loyal member of the First Baptist Church and the Shelby Kiwanis Club. For many years he and his wife spent time during the winter months in Florida. He enjoyed fishing and was a good conversationalist.

He grew flowers and vegetables in abundance so he could share with neighbors and friends.

He died on April 20, 1981.

— Mrs. Oren Hamrick

CHARLES RUSH HAMRICK

523

Charles Rush Hamrick, prominent civic, church and business leader of Shelby, was a man of many records and capabilities.

Known as "Mr. Kiwanian", at the time of his death he held a 42-year perfect attendance record with the Shelby Kiwanis Club which at the time was a national record. His attendance was kept intact by visiting other clubs during his travels "from Mexico to Maine, from California to Canada." Too, he had served as treasurer of the Shelby club since its inception in 1922 until 1963 when his health failed.

His record of dedication to First Baptist Church included 58 years in the bass section of the choir, longest in history of the church, Sunday School superintendent and treasurer, deacon and chairman of the music committee. His scrapbook tells that he had sung at more than 3,000 funerals throughout Cleveland County, also thought to be a record.

He served as trustee of Gardner-Webb College for many years; served for 18 years as a member of the Shelby School Board of which he was chairman for several terms. He also served many years alternately on the board of trustees of Wake Forest College and Baptist Hospital in Winston-Salem.

He was a member of the Cleveland Savings and Loan Association board of directors for 41 years and was a member of the Union Trust Company board of directors from its organization as Cleveland Bank and Trust Co., serving as vice chairman at his death.

He was a man whose capacity for friendship was boundless and who is remembered for his friendly smile, his ready conversational enterprise and his keen interest in his fellow men. He was a happy man whose fund of jokes and stories was almost inexhaustible, and he was a gentle man with kindly understanding.

At the time of his death on June 2, 1964 he was president of Kendall Drug Co., a wholesale drug firm in Shelby with which he first became associated in 1922 when it was known as Kendall Medicine Co. which manufactured some of its own medicinal remedies. Prior to 1922 he was associated with A. Blanton Grocery Co. in Shelby, National Paper Co., in Atlanta, Ga., The Watts Co. in Charlotte and Shelby Grocery Company in Shelby.

Born December 6, 1885, he was a native of Boiling Springs, one of seven children of Cora Galena Green Hamrick and Elijah Bly Hamrick of Boiling Springs and an eight generation descendant of George Hamrick who came to America from Germany in 1731. His grandfather was Charles Jefferson Hamrick, pioneer merchant in the county, who was married to Sarah Hamrick, and his great-grandfather James Young Hamrick, who married Catharine Hardin, was the first legislator from Cleveland County (1844-1849). Other ancestral grandparents included George Hamrick who married Phoebea Wright; James Hamrick who married Susannah Hamrick; George Hamrick II who married Susannah Blanton and the first George Hamrick who married Nancy Cook.

Charles Oren Hamrick, 1900-1981.

He was a graduate of Boiling Springs High School and attended Wake Forest University. Following his death a loan fund was established in his memory at the School of Pharmacy at the University of N.C. at Chapel Hill.

He was married on September 8, 1914 to Gordia Mae Grice (April 13, 1894 — June 16, 1980), who was a nurse. They were parents of three children; Charles Rush Hamrick, Jr. (September 18, 1921); James Bly Hamrick (July 3, 1924 — January 16, 1932); and Gordon Grice Hamrick (March 23, 1930).

Charles Rush Hamrick, Jr. married Grace Rutledge of Yadkinville and they have two sons: Charles Rush Hamrick, III (May 14, 1947) and Dale Rutledge Hamrick (March 2, 1950). Charles Rush Hamrick, III married Lydia Lee Blanton of Shelby (October 27, 1948) and they have two sons: Charles Rush Hamrick, IV (April 11, 1977) and George Blanton Hamrick (June 4, 1979).

Gordon Grice Hamrick married Dorothy Boyd Horton of Concord on June 4, 1955 and they were divorced August 31, 1972. They are parents of two daughters: Mary Moore Hamrick (December 7, 1957) and Dorothy Boyd Hamrick (April 27, 1961).

Sources: family records, Wake Forest University records, personal memorabilia, church records.

— Grace R. Hamrick

Charles Rush Hamrick.

CHARLES RUSH HAMRICK, JR.

524

Charles Rush Hamrick, Jr. is a ninth generation descendant of George Hamrick, one of the pioneer settlers of Cleveland County who came to America from Germany in 1731. The oldest son of Charles Rush and Gordia Mae Grice Hamrick, he has figured prominently in the business and civic activities of Shelby all of his adult life and currently is president of Kendall Drug Company, a wholesale pharmaceutical and drug sundries distributor in over 20 counties in western North Carolina and special institutions over the state.

Born September 18, 1921, he is a graduate of Shelby High School and was further educated at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. He was co-founder with Will G. Arey, Jr. of The Cleveland Times, a county weekly newspaper in Shelby, in 1941. He left the newspaper in March 1943 to serve with the U.S. Army Air Force during World War II until January 1946. In December 1946 he joined his father in the operation of Kendall Drug Company and at his father's death on June 2, 1964, became president of the company which he now operates with his brother, Gordon Grice Hamrick.

His business record includes service on the board, as vice president and as president (1967) of the Federal Wholesale Druggists Association; active in the N.C. Pharmaceutical Association and president of the Travelling Men's Auxiliary (1970-71) and past chairman of the NCPHA TMA Foundation; vice-president of the N.C. Wholesalers' Association; president (1975-77) of South Atlantic Drug Club; member (1976-79) Government Relations committee of the National Wholesale Druggists Association and serves (1979-82) on the NWDA board of directors.

He has been a member of the board of directors of Cleveland Federal Savings and Loan Association since 1965 and the board of First National Bank of Shelby since 1972. He was also on the board of Shelby Seamless Hosiery Mill (1967-77).

Rush has a long record of service in the Shelby Kiwanis Club, including president (1960); treasurer since 1964; lieutenant-governor of the Carolinas district of Kiwanis (1972-73); and has a perfect attendance record of 25 years.

He has served as president of the Shelby Junior Chamber of Commerce (1947) and as a national director from North Carolina in 1949; was president of the Greater Shelby Chamber of Commerce in 1967 with continuing service on the board and numerous committees; was campaign director of the Cleveland County United Fund in 1966 and UF president in 1967; former member of the boards of directors of the local American Red Cross, Piedmont Council of Boy Scouts of America and Florence Crittenden Home of Charlotte (1969-72).

He served on the N.C. Citizens Committee for Better Schools under appointments by Governors Luther Hodges and Terry Sanford and organized the Citizens' Committee for Shelby; was chairman of the N.C. Little Symphony for Cleveland County and Shelby schools for 20 years (1952-72); was county chairman to raise funds to bring the USS North Carolina Battleship back to the state (1961); and Cleveland County campaign chairman to raise funds for the Kennedy Memorial Library (1964).

Rush was also the first treasurer (1969) and chairman (1972-73) of the Shelter Home of Cleveland County which cares for abandoned and neglected children; former member of the Board of Advisors of Gardner-Webb College.

He was named the Jaycees' "Young Man of the Year" for Shelby in 1948 and received the Shelby Lions Club "Citizen of the Year" award in 1968.

He was appointed to the board of the Cleveland County Memorial Library in 1972, named vice president in 1978-79 and since 1979 has served as chairman of the board. He is county chairman (1982) of the "Save the Lighthouse" Committee to raise $12,000 locally to save the Cape Hatteras lighthouse; chairman of Annual alumni Giving for UNC-CH in this county since 1977; is immediate past president (1981) of North Lake Club and past president of The Cotillion. He is also a member of Cleveland Country Club and Blowing Rock Country Club.

He is a member of First Baptist Church of Shelby where he has served three terms as deacon and was associated with the children's Sunday School department for over 20 years.

Rush was married on October 2, 1942 to Grace Rutledge of Yadkinville (see Mrs. Charles Rush Hamrick, Jr.) and they reside at 909 Elizabeth Road. They have two sons: Charles Rush "Rusty" Hamrick, III, (see Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rush Hamrick, III) who was born May 14, 1947 and who married Lydia Lee Blanton and whose children are Charles Rush Hamrick IV (April 11, 1977) and George Blanton Hamrick (June 5, 1979); and Dale Rutledge Hamrick, born March 2, 1950. Both sons are associated with their father in business at Kendall Drug Co., "Rusty" as manager of retail customer services and Dale as warehouse manager.

Sources: Family records, news articles, various club files, church records.

— Grace R. Hamrick

MRS. CHARLES RUSH HAMRICK, JR.

525

Mrs. Charles Rush Hamrick, Jr., nee Grace Golden Rutledge, is an author and journalist. She has been active in the community life of Shelby since 1941 when she arrived in the city two days following graduation from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill with an A.B. Degree in Journalism.

She was employed by The Cleveland Times, a weekly newspaper which was four weeks old when she joined the staff. The paper was founded by her husband (to whom she was married October 2, 1942) and Will G. Arey, Jr., and she became its managing editor from 1943 to 1946 when Hamrick and Arey were called to service in World War II. She served as editor of the same paper from 1960 to 1965 when it was a semi-weekly and has been awarded for feature writing, news writing and make-up. She has contributed to other area newspapers at various times and in 1982 became a columnist for The Shelby Daily Star.

Charles Rush Hamrick, Jr.

She is author of "Miss Fay", a biography of Mrs. O. Max Gardner of Shelby, published by Gardner-Webb College in 1978, and is co-author with Mrs. Dan K. Moore of "The First Ladies of North Carolina", published in 1981, which contains personality biographies of the 24 First Ladies who have lived in the present Mansion (1891-1985) along with names of other First Ladies dating to 1776. A brief history of the Mansion is also included.

She was editor of "A History of First Baptist Church of Shelby", published in 1969, wrote and produced a pageant from the history at First Baptist in 1972 and again for the Bicentennial program on July 4, 1976. Other of her published works include "A History of the Shelby Woman's Club (1920-1970); "History of the Shelby Kiwanis Club" (1922-1972); "History of the Cleveland Savings & Loan Association" (1922-1972); and "A History of The Shelby Lions Club" (1929-1979).

Daughter of William Edward Rutledge, newspaper editor and publisher, and Lola Shore Rutledge of Yadkinville, she was born March 31, 1921. She was graduated from Yadkinville High School and attended The University of North Carolina at Greensboro for two years before transferring to the University at Chapel Hill.

In 1976-77 she served as president of the UNC-CH General Alumni Association, an elected post, to become the first and only woman to date to be elected to that post in the Association's 140-year history. She had previously served as vice president (1973-74) of the Association and was elected to the board of directors in 1971, one of three women first elected to the board and won the three-year term by virtue of receiving the largest number of votes.

She was a charter member of the Order of the Tar Heel One Hundred of UNC-CH which was founded in 1975 and continues to serve with the group which is now The Board of Visitors. She has served on the board of trustees of the UNC Center for Public Television since the board was appointed in 1979. She served as a member of the Cleveland County Selection Committee for the John Motley Morehead Foundation from 1954 until named to the district committee in 1976 on which she continues to serve.

She has served on the board of trustees of Cleveland Technical College since 1977 and has also served on the board of trustees of Cleveland Memorial Hospital (1967-1977); Board of Advisors of Gardner-Webb College (1972-1975); Governors Advisory Council on Comprehensive Health Planning under appointment by Governor Robert Scott (1970-1975); Cleveland County Mental Health Association and N.C. Mental Health Association boards; Board of Directors of Catawba Valley Girl Scout Council (1966-1970); Advisory Board of the Salvation Army (1961-66); twice president of the Shelby Junior Charity League (1948-49) and 1956-57); twice chairman of the League's annual Debutante Ball (1948 and 1961).

Grace was the first chairman of the Shelby Beautification Committee (1957-58) and later served as chairman of the Courthouse Square Beautification Committee; named Shelby "Woman of the Year" in 1963; "Who's Who of American Woman" (1968-69); secretary and trustee of the Cleveland County Historical Association (1965-70) and currently on the Association's board of directors. She was also chairman of the Cleveland Memorial Hospital Woman's Auxiliary (1966-68); and is on the board of directors of Kendall Drug Company.

She is a member of First Baptist Church of Shelby, Literario Book Club, North Lake and Cleveland Country Clubs in Shelby and Blowing Rock Country Club.

Grace and Rush are parents of two sons: Charles Rush Hamrick III and Dale Rutledge Hamrick. (see Charles Rush Hamrick, Jr.)

Sources: newspaper articles, UNC alumni files, family records.

— C. Rush Hamrick, Jr.

MR. & MRS. CHARLES RUSH HAMRICK, III

526

Charles Rush Hamrick, III and Lydia Lee Blanton, both descendants of prominent pioneer families of Cleveland County, were married July 18, 1970 and reside with their two sons at 315 Tremont Place in Shelby. The sons are Charles Rush Hamrick IV, called "Charlie", (April 11, 1977) and George Blanton Hamrick, called Blanton, (June 5, 1979).

Known to his family and friends as "Rusty", Hamrick is the son of Charles Rush Hamrick, Jr. and Grace Rutledge Hamrick and was born on May 14, 1947. He was graduated from Shelby High School where he was a member of the band, National Honor Society and marshal. He attained the rank of Eagle Scout in scouting.

He is a 1969 graduate of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill with a B.S. Degree in Business Administration. He also attended Naval ROTC in Chapel Hill and was commissioned an Ensign, spending three years of active duty in the U.S. Navy, 2½ years of which were aboard the Destroyer USS Courtney while stationed in Naples, Italy. He achieved the rank of lieutenant and also spent four years in the Naval Reserve.

In 1972 he joined his father at Kendall Drug Company, wholesale pharmaceutical firm and sundries supplier which serves some 20 counties in Western N.C., where he is director of customer services. He is president of TMA of the N.C. Pharmaceutical Association (1982-83); member of the board of directors of Eagle Roller Mill and Kendall Drug Co.; served as president of the Shelby Kiwanis Club (1977-78); assistant campaign chairman of the Cleveland County United Way (1982); member of Shelby Presbyterian Church where he is a member of the choir and former chairman of the Board of Deacons; and former director of Cleveland Country Club.

Lydia is the daughter of George Blanton, Jr. and Nancy Dicks Blanton and was born October 27, 1948. She is a graduate of Shelby High School and Stratford College where she received an Associate of Arts Degree and was a member of Alpha Delta Pi sorority. She also attended the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill for a year and in 1974 was graduated from Gardner-Webb College with an A.B. Degree in early childhood education.

She is a member of the Shelby Junior Charity League where she has been active in several capacities and co-chairman of the League's Debutante Ball for 1982; has been an active member of the Women's Auxiliary of Cleveland Memorial Hospital, Literario Book Club and Three Seasons Garden Club. She is also a member of Shelby Presbyterian Church and has served as an officer in the Women of the Church; and is a member of the Gardner-Webb College alumni board of directors.

Sources: family memorabilia, news articles, personal conversation.

— Grace R. Hamrick

Mrs. Charles Rush Hamrick, Jr.

Mr. & Mrs. Charles Rush Hamrick, III.

CLIFFORD ELIJAH HAMRICK, SR.

527

Clifford Elijah Hamrick, Sr., the youngest of seven children of Elijah Bly Hamrick and Cora Galena Greene Hamrick, was born August 27, 1904 in Cleveland County. He graduated from Boiling Springs High School in 1922, and attended Wake Forest College.

On June 1, 1928 he married Anna Louise Whitaker (May 3, 1905 — November 8, 1975). They reared three children: Ann, Clifford Elijah, Jr., (Bud) and Carol. Ann married William King Elliott and they have one daughter, Patti Ann. Patti, born September 21, 1957, was married to James William Ellis on June 26, 1978. They live in Statesville, North Carolina.

Clifford Jr. married Mary Etta McCurry and they have five children: Leslie Ann, (March 16, 1959) who was married to Rodney Wayne Beaver on December 31, 1979; Mary Louise (August 20, 1960), an X-ray technician at Charlotte Memorial Hospital in Charlotte, North Carolina; Clifford Elijah III ("Cliff") (June 29, 1962), a sophomore at Wake Forest University; Jean Leigh (September 15, 1964), a senior at Crest High School; and Carol Lynn (April 15, 1966), a sophomore at Crest High School.

Carol Lou married Dr. Drew Charles Hunsinger and they have two children; Drew Charles, Jr. (February 9, 1967), and Clifford Bly (October 16, 1971). They live in New Bern, North Carolina. Carol and Charles were divorced in November, 1981.

Clifford went into business with his father in 1936. In 1947 he became president of the firm C.J. Hamrick and Sons, Inc., begun in 1875 by his grandfather, Charles Jefferson Hamrick and his father, Elijah Bly Hamrick, and is now Cleveland County's oldest existing business. He continued as president until his semi-retirement in 1966, when he turned the management over to his son who became the fourth generation to be associated with the business.

He has been a longtime active member of the Shelby Kiwanis Club. He has continued to be an active member of the Boiling Springs Baptist Church where he has served on the board of deacons and many other committees. He has also taken part in many community activities, and has been a staunch supporter of Gardner-Webb College where he served on the board of trustees for many years, and is now serving as a director for the Bulldog Club.

In recognition of past achievements and outstanding service to community, state, and nation he was presented the Personalities of the South Award in 1978. Among the honors he has received from Gardner-Webb College are the Alumni Community Service Award in 1979, and the Bulldog of the Year Award in 1981.

Since 1946 he has served on the board of directors of First Federal Savings and Loan Association.

He lives in Boiling Springs in the family homeplace located across the street from the family business.

— Ann Hamrick Elliott

Clifford Elijah Hamrick, Sr.

DALE RUTLEDGE HAMRICK

528

Dale Rutledge Hamrick is the son of Charles Rush Hamrick, Jr. and Grace Rutledge Hamrick of Shelby. Born March 2, 1950, he is a 10th generation descendant of George Hamrick who settled in this area in 1731 after fleeing Germany for religious reasons. On his mother's side he is descended from the Rutledges of South Carolina who have been prominent in the nation's history and includes the signer of the Declaration of Independence.

Dale attended the public schools of Shelby and was graduated from high school at Virginia Episcopal School in Lynchburg, Va. in 1968. In 1972 he was graduated from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill where he received an A.B. Degree in Economics. For three years he was associated with Northwestern Bank in North Wilkesboro and in Winston-Salem. Since 1978 he has been associated with his father at Kendall Drug Company, a wholesale pharmaceutical and drug sundries distributor in over 20 counties in western North Carolina, and is currently warehouse manager.

He is a member of Shelby Presbyterian Church where he is a member of the choir, a deacon, Sunday School teacher and heads the senior high school youth department.

He is also a member of the Shelby Kiwanis Club and serves on the Kiwanis board of directors. He is a member of the board of directors of the Shelter Home of Cleveland County. He resides at 701 W. Sumter St.

Sources: Family records, news articles, church and club files.

— Grace R. Hamrick

DAVID HAMRICK

529

David Hamrick (1830-1863), son of William Hamrick and Jane McSwain (1810 South Carolina, living in 1880), was born on Beaver Dam Creek near the present town of Lattimore, North Carolina.

When he enlisted in the Civil War he made his will (July 29, 1861) which reads in part "considering the uncertainty of my earthly existence do make and publish this my last will and testament Viz First I give and bequeath unto my beloved wife Caroline Hamrick my part of the tract of land where my mother Jane Hamrick now lives it being the one 7th part of said tract and the other property of every description both real and personal. I desire, however, that my executor herein after named sell as much of said property as may be necessary to pay the debt owing by me and lastly I nominate and appoint my trusty brother and friend Samuel Hamrick my lawful executor this my last will and testament to all intents and purposes." Signed, David Hamrick. His will was recorded in Cleveland County. He served in the Cleveland County Co. E. 12 Regiment (1861) and was killed May 2, 1863 at Chancerville, Virginia. His remains were never returned to Cleveland County.

Dale Rutledge Hamrick.

He married (ca 1828) Caroline Hardin (b. February, 1833; d. February 19, 1901) daughter of George Hardin (1809-November 25, 1882) and Mary "Polly" Harrill (b November 16, 1815; d. February 7, 1841). Mary "Polly" was the daughter of Richard Harrill and wife Artiminy "Arta" Dobbins.

David and Caroline had two daughters: Mary Jane (1851-1945) married Jesse Whitson Bridges (1845-1904). See article elsewhere in book. Hester A. (1859-1926) married J. Franklin Bridges (1854-1937).

On November 14, 1872, after David's death, his wife Caroline married Isom Owens (1816-1890). There were no children born to this union.

Caroline, along with her two daughters, and parents are buried in the Double Springs Baptist Church Cemetery.

Sources: Family Bible

— Mrs. S. Arnold Ramey

ELIJAH BLY HAMRICK

530

"A record as merchant and business leader has been achieved by Elijah B. Hamrick of Boiling Springs, which in many respects is perhaps without parallel in the history of the state" wrote O.L. Moore in The State Magazine of October 2, 1943.

E.B. Hamrick and his father, Charles J. Hamrick, started C.J. Hamrick & Sons, a country store, in 1875 when the south was still in the agony of poverty resulting from the Civil War. Money was scarce and a country store's business was limited largely to supplying the few items that folks could not produce or make at home. They first hauled goods to the store by wagon and ox cart.

The establishment extended its operations into a wide trading territory and also operated a cotton gin, grist mill, saw mill and other community services under direction of a brother-in-law, Solon A. Green.

The firm showed steady growth and "became an emblem of honor and integrity in the business world" Moore wrote. "Salesmen went out of their way to stop at Hamrick's store." E.B. Hamrick operated the store for close to 70 years and never had a vacation with exception of the times he was kept away by illness. He continued to make semi-annual trips to New York to buy goods up until his death at age 88 on July 11, 1946. The firm continues in operation today by his son, Clifford E. Hamrick, and grandson, Clifford E. Hamrick, Jr.

Although first and always a merchant, his energy and business genius found expression in other outlets. He was a large land owner and farmer and was a heavy investor in banks and industrial corporations of Cleveland and Rutherford counties. His business judgement and experience were highly valued and widely sought. He was one of the founders of Ella Mill in Shelby and was one of the original stockholders of Cliffside Mills. Prior to his death he was a director of the Dover and Ora Mills and director of Union Trust Company. He was a share-

THE GEORGE and MARY HAMRICK FAMILY

531

George Hamrick (August 15, 1808 — May 8, 1882) and wife Mary Hamrick (October 26, 1808 — June 9, 1891) were married January 22, 1828. They were the children of two Cleveland County, North Carolina families. Their fathers were brothers and their mothers were sisters. Therefore, this husband and wife were double first cousins.

George Hamrick was the son of Reuben Hamrick (February 5, 1786 — October 26, 1873) and wife Hannah McSwain (May 11, 1785 — July 24, 1875). Mary Hamrick was the daughter of David Hamrick (July 28, 1782 — August 3, 1869) and wife Sarah McSwain (September 16, 1786 — January 20, 1866). Both sets of parents were Cleveland County landowners and farmers and they are buried at the Boiling Springs Cemetery. David Hamrick, Mary's father, served in the Legislature from Rutherford County in 1834 as indicated in S. C. Jones' The Hamrick Generations. This does not mean that David ever lived in what is now Rutherford County since Cleveland County was formed in 1841.

The paternal grandparents of George and Mary Hamrick were Samuel and Mary Hamrick, parents of Reuben and David. The maternal grandparents of George and Mary Hamrick were William McSwain and Judith Moore, parents of Hannah and Sarah. These two Cleveland County families were very attracted to each other as three sons and one daughter of Samuel and Mary Hamrick married children of William and Judith McSwain. There is also evidence of additional kinships between these and earlier generations. This tends to make many of these individuals related to themselves in a complex multiple of ways.

George and Mary Hamrick were members of Sandy Run Baptist Church at Mooresboro in Cleveland County before becoming charter members of Bethel Baptist Church of Ellenboro in Rutherford County. As the Bethel Church records reflect, they were very active members of this Church and community where they raised their family of eleven boys and two girls on their farm. Their sons were Jason, Wiley, Archibald, Greenberry, Amos, Eli, Doctor Noah, Lewis McSwain, John Landrum, Elias and Jehu. Of the two daughters in this family, Hannah married Isaac Hollifield and Sarah Minerva married John Landrum Green(e).

George was a deacon at Sandy Run and Bethel Baptist Churches. By legend he was the first person to be buried at the Bethel Church Cemetery. His wife, Mary, and many of their descendants are also buried there. Their daughter, Sarah Minerva (1846-1883) and her husband, John Green(e) (1844-1898), are buried beside them, along with his parents, William H. Green (1823-1862) and wife Diadema Hardin Green (1822-1909).

William McSwain (1762-1838), George and Mary Hamrick's maternal grandfather, was a soldier in the Revolutionary War. He is buried at the McSwain Family Cemetery in the Mt. Sinai Community of Cleveland County. He is the grandson of David McSwain who came holder in three building and loan associations and served as a director of First Federal Savings & Loan for nearly 30 years. He was president of the Mooresboro Creamery and also president of the Farmers & Merchants Bank in Mooresboro and Boiling Springs.

Elijah Bly and Cora Galena Greene Hamrick.

Mr. Hamrick was a member of Boiling Springs Baptist Church which he served in many capacities for over 75 years. He was a friend and benefactor of Gardner-Webb College, especially in its time of hard sledding while Boiling Springs Junior College. He gave many acres of land on which the college is located and when there was an operating deficit at the end of the session he would absorb the debts on his books. In launching an expansion program for the college, he started the ball rolling with a gift of $10,000 and it didn't stop until $150,000 was raised. Trustees voted to name one of the larger buildings E.B. Hamrick Hall and this action was followed with a matching gift by Dover Mills whose founders were indebted to him for his encouragement and investment in their initial ventures. When the O. Max Gardner family launched a financial campaign for half a million dollars to expand the college, the E.B. Hamricks again were first with another gift of $10,000.

The State article concluded: "This briefly is the record of a man who was born three years before the Civil War broke out and who, because of the destitution and poverty wrought by the unfortunate incident, was denied many of the privileges and opportunities in his youth that he is helping to make possible for youth of today, but who set his face resolutely to the future and worked hard and long."

Elijah Bly Hamrick was the son of Charles Jefferson Hamrick (June 11, 1833 — Nov. 27, 1918) and Sara Hamrick and was the seventh generation of George Hamrick (who married Nancy Cook) who came to America from Germany in 1731. He was born June 28, 1858 and died July 11, 1946. He was married to Cora Galena Green (January 11, 1863 — February 12, 1953) and they had seven children: Osie Foy (February 9, 1883 — January 9, 1928) who married Edwin Duval Hamrick (September 20, 1871 — May 22, 1958) and they had twelve children (Charles Evan, Lois Pearl, Winfrey Durham, Eunice Matilda, Martha Galena, Mary Theodochia, Leo Yates, Thomas Warren, Marjorie Foy, Dorothy Sue, Louise and Betty Jean); Thomas Carl (July 12, 1884 — November 27, 1944) who married Marietta Moore (October 1, 1887 — January 5, 1981) and they had eight children (John Carl, Felix Elijah, Marie Elizabeth, Helen Virginia, Edith Holland, Sadie Moore, Cora Margaret and Marietta); Charles Rush (December 6, 1885 — June 2, 1964) who married Gordia Mae Grice (April 13, 1894 — June 16, 1980) and they had three children (Charles Rush, Jr., James Bly and Gordon Grice); Dr. James Yates Hamrick (February 15, 1890 — August 21, 1951) who was first married to Elizabeth Champion (1892-1918) and they had one daughter (Katherine) and after her death he married Marjorie Pierce (1896-1950) and they had six children (James Oliver, William Albert, Robert Yates, Miriam, Edgar Bruce and Emma Jean); Oliver Paul (December 23, 1891 — February 25, 1968) who married Jessie Teresa Pangle (September 4, 1889 — October 22, 1960) and they had four children (Oliver Paul, Jr., Maxwell Bly, Teresa Ann and Audley Galbraith); Ladd Watts (August 20, 1897 — November 30, 1968) who married Rebecca Ritch (June 7, 1899 — February 13, 1963) and they had two sons (Ladd Watts, Jr., and Harvey Bly); Clifford Elijah Hamrick (August 27, 1904) who married Anna Louise Whitaker (May 3, 1905 — November 8, 1975) and they had three children (Galena Ann, Carol Lou and Clifford Elijah, Jr.)

Sources: family records, church records.

— Grace R. Hamrick

from Scotland and is buried in the same cemetery.

Sources: Family oral history, Family Bible Records, Bethel Cemetery Records — Tombstones, Bethel Church Records, Sandy Run Church Records, Cleveland County Cemetery Records, Boiling Springs Cemetery Tombstones, Mt. Sinai Cemetery (McSwain Family) Tombstones, The Hamrick Generations, S.C. Jones, Hamricks of the Past and Present, S.C. Hamrick.

— Agnes G. Yoos (Mrs. Albert)

GEORGE WASHINGTON and PHOEBE ADELINE HAMRICK

532

George Washington Hamrick was born on January 21, 1853, in what was known then as the Sandy Run Community. He was the son of Jefferson Wright Hamrick (1822-1862) and Ellen Peeler Hamrick (1830-1895).

George married Phoebe Adeline Washburn, (January 14, 1856 — December 12, 1929) on August 5, 1875. She was the daughter of Charles Gabriel Washburn (1826-1896) and Sarah Crowder Washburn (1834-1905) and one of sixteen children. The family lived in the Double Springs area and as a girl, Phoebe attended a school located in that community and known as the Hardin School. At an early age she joined Double Springs Baptist Church.

After the couple's marriage they moved into a small, two-room house on the Hamrick farm, located about three miles west of Lattimore. This was to be their home for the next two years. From there, they moved in with George's mother, who was now a widow, staying until 1890. At that time the family moved to a home in the Double Springs Community. This house, located two miles north of Lattimore, is standing today and is occupied by South Mountain Pulpwood Company.

I never knew my grandfather, but people said he was a quiet, unassuming man of integrity, one who made and held friends. He loved the soil. Farming was his life long occupation and he was known to be a very progressive farmer. Phoebe accepted her role as homemaker and was devoted to the task of rearing her family. Also, she loved to have company, especially her many nieces and nephews.

They had six children, one of whom died in early childhood of fever. I suppose it was typhoid fever. His name was Laddie (May 9, 1874 — July 1, 1884). Their only daughter, Bessie, the idol of the household, died at age twenty-two from a heart condition (February 9, 1885 — May 4, 1907). The other four children were: Charles Jefferson, who married Belva Hamrick (see related article); Lester O., who married Margaret Wilson of the Zion Community (see related article); Gary Hall, who married Leitha Bettis of Earl; and George Gleason, who married Ruth Falls of Lawndale. Gleason, as he was called, had polio at the age of eighteen months and was left a cripple for life.

George died at the age of sixty-six, September 26, 1919, and was buried in Double Springs Baptist Church Cemetery. He served the last twenty-three years of his life as a deacon and secretary for the church and was held in high esteem by those who knew him.

George W. Hamrick Family. Front row L to R: George W., Gleason, Phoebe. Back row L to R: Gary, Lester, Bessie, Jeff.

After his death, Phoebe continued to live at the homeplace. She passed away at the age of seventy-one and was buried beside her husband in Double Springs Church Cemetery.

Sources: Family

— Louise Hamrick

GORDON GRICE HAMRICK

533

Gordon Grice Hamrick, who was born March 23, 1930, is a descendant of one of the prominent pioneer families of Cleveland County; his ancestral lineage going to George Hamrick who came to this country from Germany in 1731.

Active in the civic and social life of the community, he is known for his ability to organize and see a project through, and is often sought for advice and in-put. He is an avid fan of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill from which he graduated with the class of 1955 with a B.S. in Business Administration. At UNC he set a track record in cross country and participated in many campus activities. He has served as president of the UNC-CH Cleveland County Alumni association, promotes bus trips to football games, and is a member of the University committee seeking to raise $30 million for erection of a multi-purpose sports arena on the campus at Chapel Hill. He is also a lifetime member of the UNC-CH Educational Foundation.

Gordon is vice-president and secretary-treasurer of Kendall Drug Company in Shelby, a wholesale pharmaceutical and drug sundries distributor in western North Carolina and special institutions over the state. He joined his father, Charles Rush Hamrick, and brother, Charles Rush Hamrick, Jr. in operation of the firm in 1960 after having been associated for five years with Proctor and Gamble in Atlanta, Ga. Following his father's death on June 2, 1964 he and his brother, Rush, became co-owners of Kendall Drug Co. which they operate today.

He conducted the organization of the Cleveland County Community Concert Association which has enjoyed successful seasons since 1976 and was first president of the group, serving from 1976 to 1979.

He was recipient of the "Citizen of the Year" award by the Shelby Lions Club in April 1977.

He is a past president of Shelby Rotary Club (1976); member of the board of directors of the Cleveland County Boys Club since its inception and has been active in fund-raising for the club. He served as special awards chairman for 10 years for the sports committee of the Shelby Chamber of Commerce; is a veteran of the Korean War, having served many months in Korea; is a member of Shelby Presbyterian Church, North Lake and Cleveland County Clubs.

Gordon is the son of the late Charles Rush Hamrick (Dec. 6, 1885 — June 2, 1964) and Gordia Mae Grice Hamrick (April 13, 1894 — June 16, 1980). He was married to Dorothy Boyd Horton of Concord on June 4, 1955 and they were divorced on August 31, 1972. They are parents of two daughters, Mary Moore Hamrick (December 7, 1957) who is a graduate of Duke University and who currently is an account executive with International Management Group in Cleveland, Ohio; and Dorothy Boyd Hamrick (April 27, 1961), who is a rising senior at Duke University's School of Nursing.

Sources: newspaper clippings, personal records, conversations.

— Grace R. Hamrick

THE HUBBARD HAMRICK and FRANCES BRYDGES FAMILY and DESCENDANTS

534

Reuben Hubbard Hamrick was born November 9, 1902, the seventh son of Leander and Sarah Hamrick. He has lived on West Warren Street in Shelby directly across from Graham School for seventy-nine years in the same house that his father built in 1890. He was brought up on a farm, and has been a farmer all his life, growing cotton, corn, and grain.

His education was in the public schools of Shelby, and two years at Wake Forest College. He is a life long member of the First Baptist Church of Shelby, having joined in September of 1919. He has served two terms as a deacon, and was a department secretary and in the general secretary's office for fifty-eight years. He never missed being in Sunday School for a period of forty-five years.

He was married to Frances Brydges on August 31, 1926. She was a daughter of Jasper Bunyan Brydges and Mary Ann Hopper. They have two daughters: Mary Lucinda, born June 29, 1927; and Ada Ruth, born January 31, 1933. Mary Lou married Harold Winston Causby, a son of Effie and Forest Causby of Morganton, and to them were born two sons, Harold David and Robert Hamrick Causby. David married Rebecca Ann Morrisett, the daughter of Stephen and Mary Keeley Morrisett of Boiling Springs, on June 30, 1970, his twenty-first birthday. David and Rebecca Causby are the parents of two daughters: Lucinda Warr, born May 16, 1972; and Katherine Wise, born June 11, 1976; and one son, Stephen Winston, born September 21, 1980.

Robert Causby was born on November 25, 1952. He is married to the former Catherine Elizabeth Upchurch, daughter of Allen McNeill and Margaret Brown Upchurch. They were married on March 7, 1981.

Ada Ruth Hamrick married Stanley Robert Sherman on May 11, 1952. He is a son of John Stanley and Charlotte King Sherman of Philadelphia, Penn. To Ruth and Stan were born two sons and one daughter, namely William Stanley, born February 10, 1954; Stephen Robert, born July 13, 1957, who married Gloria Dean Dixon, daughter of Betty Faye Curtis and Royce Dixon on July 13, 1980; and Sandra Leigh, born January 20, 1956, who married James Landrum Beason, Jr., son of Helen Whisnant Beason and James Landrum Beason, Sr. on June 16, 1978.

Hubbard Hamrick's paternal grandparents were married on August 10, 1843. They were Street Hamrick, who was born August 29, 1822 and died June 29, 1900, and Elmira Bridges, who was born November 30, 1822, and died November 9, 1897. They are both buried in Sunset Cemetery in Shelby.

His maternal grandfather was Reuben Hamrick who was born April 21, 1831. He died May 14, 1863 while serving in the Confederate Army, 5th Sergeant Co. D., 55th Regiment, and was buried in Cortland, Va. He married Phoebe Hamrick on December 16, 1852.

Mr. Hamrick's paternal great-grandfather was Moses Hamrick, born December 14, 1790. Moses's wife was Sarah Robinson, who was born June 10, 1802 and died December 10, 1850. She was a daughter of Isaac Robinson, a Revolutionary War soldier. Moses died August 10, 1868, and is buried in a family burying ground about two miles northeast of Boiling Springs.

Hubbard Hamrick's maternal great-grandfather was James Young Hamrick. He was born in 1810, and on July 17, 1829, he married Catherine Hardin. He was the first representative from Cleveland County to the North Carolina Legislature after it was formed in 1841. He died October 17, 1849.

Mr. Hamrick's paternal great-great-grandfather was Price Hamrick who was born in January of 1765, and in 1797 came to North Carolina from Virginia and settled near what is now Crest High School. He married Nancy Bridges who died in October of 1830. Price Hamrick died in October of 1820 and is also buried in the family plot near Boiling Springs.

Hubbard Hamrick's paternal third great-grandfather was Moses Richard Hamrick who married Susanna Blanton and lived in Virginia all of his life. His paternal fourth great-grandfather was George Hamrick who came from Germany in 1731 and settled in Germantown, Penn. (now a part of Philadelphia). He married Nancy Cook and they had twenty-four children. We only know of three of their children, namely Benjamin, George, Jr., and Moses Richard.

Source: Family records.

— Hubbard Hamrick

JAMES OLIVER HAMRICK

535

James Oliver Hamrick (May 22, 1922) was born in Boiling Springs, North Carolina. He was the first of six children born to Dr. James Yates Hamrick, Jr. and Marjorie Pierce Hamrick. (For brothers and sisters, see "Dr. James Yates Hamrick, Jr.") "J.O." is married to Ruby Allen of the Zoar Community.

He received his education in the Boiling Springs Elementary and High School, took a welding course and attended numerous seminars on welding and metallurgy, earning college credit. As a boy, he spent as much time as possible at Mr. Ed Lipscomb's Blacksmith Shop which was located near our home. Although much of his knowledge has come from his own experience, he learned a great deal from Mr. Ed and other old-time blacksmiths. When he was twelve or thirteen years old, J.O. borrowed fifty dollars from his grandfather Hamrick and bought a welding machine. He started welding in spite of the fact that many people tried to discourage him, warning, "That smoke will kill you in five years." He continued to weld and soon paid for the machine, stating, "I find it more exciting and see more opportunities than when I began." He not only enjoys performing the art of welding, he loves to talk about it, expressing, "The welding trade has never gotten proper credit." J.O. has designed and made a lot of machinery and farm implements and made modifications on others. As a welding instructor at Cleveland County Technical Institute he started many people in the welding field. Former students often thank him for his helping them to be able to weld commercially, as a hobby, or both.

J.O. worked for Duke Power Company at Cliffside, North Carolina for two and one-half years before going into the Army on September 23, 1943. Before his discharge on February 13, 1946, he served in the Pacific Theater — in Panama with the Twenty-Fourth Fighter Squadron, where he took several correspondence courses in Maintenance Welding. Later he was transferred to Guam to the 204th General Hospital, serving in the Utilities Section where he was in charge of maintenance. After military service, he operated a general repair shop for four years and was head of the Welding Department at Cleveland County Technical College for ten years. He worked for Royster Transport Co. for thirteen years. He stated, "I have never been out of a job; never looked for a job. Jobs have always come to me." He also said, "Daddy wanted us to go into Medicine, but never tried to force us into a vocation that we were not interested in, and he worked hard to help us in our choice." As a boy, J.O. was always busy. He still maintains "My vocation and hobby are one and the same." Retirement came when he had a heart attack on Friday, August 13, 1976.

J.O. is an avid reader and was listed in Outstanding Educators in 1972.

As a member of the Boiling Springs Baptist Church, he has served as Assistant Superintendent and teacher in the Junior Department, Training Union Director, deacon and on numerous committees.

J.O. has always liked to garden, while Ruby has canned and frozen food. She is very conservative, a good cook and housekeeper, in addition to holding down a full-time job for most of their married life.

They enjoy collecting antiques, curios, and "junk" — always finding a place for the first two and a use for the latter.

They have two sons and two grandchildren. Herman Oliver (Feb. 22, 1943) married Rachel Jolley. Their children are Cynthia Kay (Sept. 20, 1967) and Raymond Oliver (April 29, 1973). Herman teaches at Cleveland Technical College in a pilot project, "Rehabilitation Through Education." Governor Hunt has endorsed the program which is being observed by other states. He teaches all related subjects in the classroom located at the local prison. Thurston Allen (April 24, 1949) married Brenda Campbell. Thurston is a leather craftsman and a professional rodeo clown who has made a name for himself from Boston to Miami. He was "North Carolina Bull Rider" in 1978 and was listed in "Personalities of the South" in 1974. Brenda is an able assistant and partner.

Sources: Members of James Oliver's family; Newspaper clippings.

— Miriam Hamrick Glenn
(Mrs. Albert L. Glenn)

James Young Hamrick, who was born in 1810, was the first representative from Cleveland County after the county was formed in 1841 to serve in the North Carolina General Assembly. He served two terms, the first beginning in 1844 and the second in 1848. He died on October 17, 1849 during his second term and is buried in the Katie Hardin cemetery on the old Skinner place near Crest Junior High School.

Known to be a brilliant and conscientious young man, there is little information available concerning his early life and deeds. It is said that he rode his horse bareback on his first trip to Raleigh to serve in the Legislature and bought his first saddle there. He also owned several acres of land around his homeplace just outside Boiling Springs.

James Young Hamrick was born in 1810 to George Hamrick (1781-1847), a fourth generation descendant of the first George Hamrick who came to America from Germany in 1731, and Phebe Wright Hamrick (1780-1827). He was married to Catharine Hardin on July 17, 1829 and they were parents of Charles Jefferson Hamrick, founder of C.J. Hamrick & Sons store in Boiling Springs; Susanna who married Elijah McSwain; Loucindy who married Thomas Harrell; Andy who married Sara McSwain; Oliver who never married; Henderson Newton who never married; Sarahann who never married; and Phebe who married Reuben Hamrick.

(James Young Hamrick was the grandfather of James Young Hamrick II, known as J.Y., who also served in the General Assembly as a senator in the late 1800s and afterwards as Commissioner of Labor and Printing under the administration of Governor Daniel Russell, 1897-1901).

In a letter written December 3, 1848 from Raleigh by Hamrick to Mr. George M. Green, Sandy Run Post Office, he tells of his illness . . . a severe cough and pain in his breast. The letter was written to Green to be read to his wife and to be related to his constituents back home.

In part, he wrote: (sic) "This is no place for a sick man. Politicks is so high. The senate is tied, the house would of bin tied if Samuel Flemming had not rescind. The whigs are contrary. We offered at the outset to take one speaker and give one. they refused. We set to work and by the nominees giving scattering votes the 59 democrats prevented the 60 whigs from gitting a majority for 3 days. I told my friends that I had a loving wife and 8 children that I loved dearly. I also loved my contry and was sent here by the people of Cleaveland as there agent and without my vote evry thing was lost. I felt resolved on this occasion to sacrafice my life for my contry."

He continued that he was carried to the capital in his pale and weak condition to vote on important questions for three days and said "my punctuality in voting almost alarmed the hole house."

He asked Mr. Green and his wife to take the letter and read the "hole" of it to his family and in the portion to his family he wrote: (sic)

James Young Hamrick, 1810-1849.

"Dear wife be composed and try to take cear of the family and the stock. Send the children to school. Charles, you are a good boy for to work. Be attentive, git up the sheep, attend to the horses and cattle and hogs. if you hant got salt enough Drury Rollins has and he will let you have salt or you must borrow. Keep the stock off the wheat, have shoos made and mended as the nature of the case requirs, hall leaves and put in the stables, keep plenty of wood, keep the potatoe banks civerd in warm weather, open a hole in the banks, if there is any young pigs attend to them, take the shoos of the mare. if you hant soad that little bottom in wheet you had better do it yet. you had better not go to school very much yourself but send the rest of the childring if the new school is made up. send every day. dear wife I must come to a close and if any thing should happen either with me or you so that we never are permitted to see each other again in this world I earnestly hope that we will meet each other in that uper and better world where we shall meet to part no more where sickness sorrow pain and death are felt and feard no more where congregations never brake up and Sabbaths never never never ends. I remain your affectionate husband and friend. James Y. Hamrick"

Sources: Family records, S.J. Jones Hamrick Geneology

— Grace R. Hamrick

DR. JAMES YATES HAMRICK, JR.

537

Dr. James Yates Hamrick, Jr. (1890-1951) was born in Boiling Springs, North Carolina. He was the fourth child and third son of Elijah Bly and Cora Galena Green Hamrick, who had one daughter and six sons (see "E.B. Hamrick"). There were other James Yates and J.Y. Hamricks; thus, he added the "Jr." for his own identity.

He attended Boiling Springs elementary and secondary schools; Wake Forest College, Raleigh, North Carolina; Columbia University, New York City; and spent medical internship in a New York prison hospital.

Dr. Wilfred Thomason Grenfell (1865-1940), an Englishman, had been knighted for his notorious medical missionary work, and in 1913-1914, Dad had the rare opportunity for more internship with Sir Grenfell's Mission to Labrador and Newfoundland.

On June 2, 1915, in New York City, Dad received his Medical Degree from "Columbia College of Physicians and Surgeons" (now Columbia University).

He set up private practice in West Lake, Georgia; but after a short time he returned home and practiced in Boiling Springs and its surrounding area the remainder of his life. Before cars, he used horse and buggy for house calls.

In early years, he was a staff member of Rutherford Hospital — the nearest hospital then. Most babies were delivered in homes of the families. Minor surgery (including tooth extractions) was performed in his home/office. In 1923 Shelby Hospital (now Cleveland Memorial) was built. The county seat hospital offered convenience for Cleveland County doctors and patients. Naturally, he became a staff member there.

Dad was the physician for Boiling Springs Junior College (now Gardner-Webb) until 1946.

His first wife was Elizabeth Champion of Mooresboro, who lived less than two years after they were married. They had one infant, Katharine Champion Hamrick, now Mrs. James Crandall Andrews of Troy, New York.

In December, 1920, Dad married Marjorie Pierce, my mother, of Whiteville, North Carolina. She was a Cleveland County Public Health nurse during the 1918 "flu epidemic." They had six children.

In addition to being a registered nurse, "Miss Margie," as she was known, studied pediatrics; thus, she was able to help Dad in his practice. Both were avid readers and kept up-to-date with current medical research. His contemporaries considered him to be one of the best diagnosticians in the area. At times, Mama had to "fill in" for him. Once, while with an expectant mother, she delivered twins. Later, one of them (Rachel Jolley) became the wife of her first grandchild, Herman Oliver Hamrick.

Daddy and Mama had compassion for all with whom they came in contact, understanding when people found it hard (or impossible) to pay medical bills, especially during the Depression years. Many times their patients paid with farm produce.

Dad was interested in other things around him such as farming, "keeping bees," politics (he was a staunch Republican), and being a good father. He was a Baptist, as was the rest of the family.

The six living children and all of our spouses were born in Cleveland County except Katharine's husband, Jim Andrews, who was born in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.

Katharine married James C. Andrews. Their sons are: James Hamrick Andrews (Aug. 28, 1944), married to Jane DeBaun. Their daughter was Jenny Rebecca (Dec. 19, 1969); Robert Crandall (Sept. 14, 1957), married to Josie Gardner. Their daughter was Robin Kristen (Jan. 14, 1982); and a son Kenneth Bardshar (June 18, 1951).

J.O. (see "James Oliver Hamrick") was born in 1922. William Albert was born and died in 1923.

Robert Yates (Dec. 29, 1924) married Margaret Eloise Green. Their three sons are: Robert Yates, Jr. (March 6, 1945), married to Jane Pipkin; their children are Kimberly Jane (Aug. 3, 1972) and James ("Jimmy") Edward (June 10, 1975); George William (Nov. 18, 1956), married to Teresa Allene Long, daughter, Heather Allene (March 22, 1982); and Dale Lee (Jan. 17, 1960). Miriam (see "Albert Glenn").

Edgar Bruce (June 17, 1927) married Alva Hester ("Abbie") Wesson. Their three children are: Fredrick Wesson Hamrick (April 9, 1949), married to Linda Brooks; they had one son, Christopher (Chris) Lee (Oct. 26, 1970); Terri Elizabeth (Nov. 29, 1955); and Bruce Mark (March 21, 1962).

Emma Virginia ("Emma Jean"), married Henry Fletcher McGinnis. Their three children are: twin girls Marcia Leigh and Donna Lynn (April 27, 1953) and David Yates (Oct. 16, 1957). Marcia married Hoyle Daniel Treece II. Their two sons are Hoyle Daniel Treece III (July 11, 1978) and Joshua Richard (Jan. 29, 1980). Donna married Harold Raine ("Hal") Griffin. Their two children are Lauren Katherine (April 5, 1979) and Patrick McGinnis Griffin (March 29, 1981).

The following are buried in the Boiling Springs Baptist Church Cemetery: Dr. James Yates Hamrick, Jr. (February 15, 1980 — August 22, 1951); Elizabeth Champion Hamrick (March 6, 1892 — October 29, 1918); Marjorie Pierce Hamrick (September 12, 1896 — February 22, 1950); Infant William Albert Hamrick.

Sources: My own memory and that of my brothers and sisters, Cleveland County Courthouse records, Registrar's Office of Columbia University, letter written to relatives by my father from West Lake, Georgia, and gravestones.

— Miriam Hamrick Glenn
(Mrs. Albert L. Glenn)

JOHN CALHOUN HAMRICK

538

The third son of Elmira Bridges Hamrick, John Calhoun Hamrick, was born April 20, 1850, in Cleveland County, North Carolina about six miles from Shelby. His early childhood home was the Old Jimmy Irvin Place, now known as the Street Hamrick place which is located about one-fourth mile South of the Crest Junior High School in Cleveland County.

Having been raised on the farm he became more interested in farming as he grew older and in his early twenties he purchased a farm joining his father's farm. He was a very strong man physically, was very aggressive, and no job was too hard for him. He had six tenant families working on his farm to help with the planting and harvesting. He always worked ahead of them doing the same work they did. He was kind to his workers and saw that they were provided for. They ate the same food as he and his family ate.

He was a progressive farmer and was the purchaser of one of the first dozen cotton planters shipped to Cleveland County. He expanded his farming interest over the years and at the time of his death, was one of the largest land owners in Cleveland County. His homeplace contained over 1,400 acres all in one tract, and he also owned some smaller tracts and land in Shelby.

John waited until he was thirty-five years old before choosing a wife, and in August, 1885 he married Charlotte Madora Harrill, who was born June 14, 1861. They moved to what was then known as the Old Jenkins' farm and lived there the rest of their lives. This was only approximately one mile from his old homeplace. The children of John and Charlotte were: Allen Thurmond, born June 6, 1888; died January 28, 1977. Gilliatt Varhese was born August 27, 1890; died October 8, 1954. Jarvis Street was born May 27, 1892; died July 13, 1953. Wakefield was born September 22, 1897; died January 9, 1952. Two daughters, the oldest and youngest, died in infancy.

Thurman married Bertha Harrill, they had one daughter, Selma. Gilliatt married Emma Ledbetter and they had three children: Grady Timmons, Kathleen and Mary Charlotte. Jarvis' first wife was Alma Wilson, they had two daughters: Sarah Louise and Betty Love. Jarvis' second wife was Amelia Wilson, they had one son: George Thomas and one daughter, Charlotte Rebecca. Wakefield married Hester Hill, they had five children: John Berry, Harrill Everett and Carol Henderson (twins); Evelyn Sue, and Charles Wakefield.

John Calhoun believed in the growth and development of the area in which he lived. He invested money in Textiles and Stock in one of the first banks in Shelby.

He was very loyal to his church and he and his wife Charlotte were charter members of the Poplar Springs Baptist Church. He was also one of the first deacons of the church. He donated liberally to help build the first wooden church building and the second brick structure.

John Calhoun Hamrick.

John Calhoun Hamrick died at the age of ninety on August 11, 1940. He was the last survivor of the six brothers, sons of Street and Elmira Bridges. His wife, Charlotte, died on April 8, 1944.

— Mrs. Dolores Hamrick

LEANDER SHEPPARD HAMRICK

539

Leander Sheppard Hamrick was born April 23, 1854, at the old home place known as the Street Hamrick home. He was the fourth son of Street and Elmira Hamrick, and one of six brothers. At the close of the Civil War, he was but eleven years old, so all of his early years were lived during and immediately following the War Between the States. He was not old enough to be a Confederate soldier, but he was one who remained at home to help with the farming.

There were practically no schools at this time, hence most of his education was gained by the light of burning pine knots at night. Even so, his education was equal to, if not superior to, many of our day. For a number of years after he was grown, he taught school in the public schools of Cleveland County, and was regarded as one of the best teachers of his day.

I have heard him tell the following story many times that will give an idea of him as a young man. He said that when he became twenty-one years of age, he remained at home the following year and worked on his father's farm. At the end of the year, he was paid twenty-five dollars for his year's work. This money was folded, put in a cup, and hidden away in a corner cupboard. One year later, he got the money out and counted it. It was all there.

He learned to practice economy because there was nothing else to practice. As a result of his early training, he was economical all of his life. He gave liberally to his church, he educated his children, and was a liberal contributor to Boiling Springs High School in its early days. He also gave to many other worthy causes, but he never learned to spend money foolishly. He lived by the old saying, "A dollar saved is a dollar made."

He was married to Sarah Lucinda Hamrick, a daughter of Reuben and Phoebe Hamrick on September 30, 1880, and to this union were born seven sons, namely Spurgeon, Fitzhugh, Vetas, Alger, Broughton, an unnamed baby, and Hubbard. A few years after his marriage he bought and paid cash for his home and farm near Shelby.

In his later years, he had other interests, but he never got away from being an old time dirt farmer. When the price of cotton went down to 5¢ per pound, he worked harder and made what he could, but he never varied from his slogan, "Make a little, save some." He was a hard worker and never expected any hired worker to do more work than he did. He lived and worked by the commandment, "Six days shalt thou labor and do all thy work, but the seventh day is the Sabbath of the Lord thy God." He worked himself, and had little sympathy for laziness. He was a large land owner, a good farmer, and made his living by the sweat of his brow. He was a man of good judgment, and he had a high regard for the opinions of others, but he always thought through every problem and relied on his own judgment in the end. I have often heard him say that he made more money after he had gone to bed at night than while working during the day. There he would think through his problems, plan his work for the next day, and rise early the next day to carry out his plans.

He was a director of The Union Trust Company in Shelby, three different savings and loan associations, and a trustee of Boiling Springs High School (now Gardner Webb College) for about twenty-five years before his death.

He joined Beaver Dam Baptist Church in September 1882, and later the First Baptist Church in Shelby in April 1896. I never heard him make a talk in church or lead in a public prayer, but any one that knew him could see that he had faith in God. He was never too busy to attend his church services on Sunday or the mid-week prayer meeting. Not long before his death, he was awarded an honor for being present in Sunday School every Sunday for ten years. He carried his children to church and to Sunday School, and as a result they grew up in the church and its work. His mother before him was a Christian and had a great influence on his life. The memory of his mother was sacred to him, and he often related stories about her.

The other great influence on his life was his wife, my mother. She walked faithfully by his side, helping him and giving him advice when it was needed. What has been said of him can be said of five brothers, all of whom helped to make Cleveland County a better place to live.

He was struck by an automobile on January 25, and died as a result on January 29, 1934.

Sources: Family records.

— Hubbard Hamrick

LESTER OLIN HAMRICK

540

Lester Olin Hamrick was one of five children born to George Washington Hamrick and Phoebe Adline Washburn Hamrick; a grandson of Jefferson Wright Hamrick and Ellen Peeler Hamrick and Charles Gabriel Washburn and Sarah Crowder Washburn. He was born July 1, 1881 on his family farm located two miles west of Lattimore, North Carolina. He died at his home in Lattimore on October 1, 1949. Jefferson Wright Hamrick died in the Civil War and was originally buried in a family cemetery at Lattimore and was later moved approximately three miles to the Double Springs Baptist Church cemetery. All are now buried at Double Springs Baptist Church.

In October, 1921, Lester O. Hamrick and his Leander Hamrick, father of Hubbard Hamrick.

Sarah Hamrick, wife of Leander Hamrick.

brother Charles Jefferson purchased a cotton oil mill at Lattimore, four cotton gins, and the Pink Mfg. Company which they incorporated into and operated as the Lattimore Oil Company. Prior to entering this business, they had owned and operated a large general store in Lattimore. He was an organizer and life long officer and director of the M & J Finance Company.

Lester O. Hamrick was interested in Christian education. He contributed to church related schools and with the encouragement of his friend, the former governor O. Max Gardner, furnished the landscaping for the campus of Gardner-Webb College. This gift of cash and stock was made in 1946. He was an original incorporator of Gardner-Webb College and served it and its predecessor school as a long time trustee.

On July 25, 1925 Margaret Wilson and Lester O. Hamrick married at the home of the bride in the Zion community in Cleveland County. She was born August 8, 1897 on her family farm near Zion church and died April 5, 1977. She was educated at Limestone College after her graduation from Piedmont High School. She taught school at Dallas in Gaston County and later at Lattimore where she met her husband and resided until her death.

To their marriage was born a daughter who died an infant on August 25, 1931 and is buried at Double Springs Baptist Church. On August 5, 1933 a son, George Wilson Hamrick, was born to them and he grew up in Lattimore. He now resides in Shelby where he practiced law for twenty years and now serves as a Judge. He was married to Beth Putnam of Waco, North Carolina, on July 6, 1957. They have two daughters, Elizabeth and Kathy.

Sources: Personal interviews. Dedmon, Francis B., Lengthened Shadows: A History of Gardner-Webb College, 1907-1957. Hamrick, S.C., Hamricks of the Past and Present, 1975.

— George W. Hamrick

THE LOUIS CLYDE HAMRICK SR., FAMILY

541

This picture was taken in our mother's flower garden in the spring of 1927 where the Grover Baptist Church now stands.

Our father, Louis Clyde Hamrick, Sr., came to Grover from Ellenboro, North Carolina, (Rutherford County) to become Agent and Telegraph Operator for Southern Railway System in 1907. He served from 1907 to 1927. He married our mother, Maude C. Hambricht, in 1907.

Mother was born in Grover, North Carolina on September 20, 1883 and was a life long resident. Our father was born in Ellenboro, North Carolina on October 18, 1885. He was interested in civic affairs and was loved by all who knew him — both black and white. Our mother was interested in the home and family and her lovely flowers. She also had many friends and was Treasurer of the Woman's Missionary Society for many years. She loved her church and was very active in it.

To this family was born: Marvin A. Hamrick, Sr. — May 21, 1908, Margaret E. Hamrick — August 6, 1911 (deceased), and Louis Clyde Hamrick, Jr. — July 7, 1917. Death of father — July 10, 1928, death of mother — January 7, 1966; both rest in Grover Cemetery. Ancestry: George Hamrick was officer under the Kaiser in Germany. He fled from Germany and sailed from Holland in 1730 on account of religious beliefs. He was a very strong baptist and landed in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania in 1731. The original name was Homrick, but was later changed to Hamrick.

On our mother's side was Col. Frederick Hambricht who fought in the Battle of Kings Mountain against the British during the Revolutionary War.

On mother's side, our grandfather, Robert F. (Bob) Hambricht, operated a hotel in Grover Louis Clyde Hamrick, Sr. and wife Maude, 1927.

Selma Lee Hamrick married Harley Mercer. To this union was born Helen, b. Aug. 26, 1929, who married Vernon Ray Watson, Sr., b. Feb. 19, 1927. Their children are Beverly W. b. May 30, 1947 and Vernon Ray Jr. b. June 8, 1951. Beverly married James M. Smith b. Dec. 16, 1938. To this union was born Deborah Lynn S. Sept. 4, 1969, and Macbeth Denene S. on Apr. 19, 1973. Vernon Ray W. Jr. married Martha L. O'rear, b. May 26, 1975. Their child, Stacy Lynne was born May 26, 1975. Selma's second child, Mildred Maxine Mercer, b. Apr. 3, 1931 married Grover C. Futch, Jr. b. Sept. 15, 1924. Their children were Barbara Maxine F. b. Aug. 12, 1957, d. Sept. 16, 1957. Gregory Alan Futch, b. Oct. 16, 1958, and Diane Lucille Futch, b. Apr. 8, 1960. Selma's next girl was Harriet Wynelle Mercer, b. July 27, 1933, d. Mar. 11, 1970. Pattie Joyce Mercer, b. Feb. 20, 1936, married W.M. Foster b. Sept. 14, 1935, a contractor. Their children are William Michael Foster, b. Dec. 30, 1955 who married Marla Taylor b. Aug. 8, 1956. To this union was born Amy Nichole b. Aug. 1, 1981. Kathy Joyce Foster, b. Feb. 11, 1959, married B. Frank Carden and their child is Casey Frank Carden, b. May 30, 1980. Pattie Mercer's next two sons are Mark Steven Foster, b. July 25, 1961, and Douglas Mitchell Foster, b. Aug. 23, 1967.

Selma Lee's son, William Harley Mercer Jr. b. Nov. 7, '38 married Delores Lee Myers, b. Mar. 13, 1943. Their daughter Cynthia Elaine M. b. July 12, 1963 married Dwane Brooks, b. May 28, 1958. Their son, Bryan Wesley Brooks was born Nov. 4, 1981. William Harley Mercer Jr. had a son W.M. Mercer III b. Jan. 5, 1965 and a daughter, Elizabeth Ann b. Feb. 2, 1966. After a divorce William Jr. married Agnes Myrick, b. Feb. 26, 1940.

Addie Louise Hamrick married William Jack Brown Sr., b. July 2, 1910 on Nov. 6, 1932. To this union was born: William J. Brown Jr. b. Mar. 19, 1937 William Jr. married Phyllis Louise Michelis on Feb. 18, 1961. Their children are: Michael Hamrick Brown, b. Dec. 24, 1961, Carma Michele Brown b. Nov. 11, 1963 and Wendell Newton Brown b. Nov. 14, 1966.

Grace Madeline Hamrick married Charles Leverette Hodges, b. Dec. 12 1915. To this union was born Dorothy Grade July 15, 1944 who married Beebe Ray Short. Their children were Michael Ray Short b. Apr. 25, 1962 and George Leverette b. June 16, 1964. Dorothy was later married to Lawrence William Fluke. Their child was Christopher Fluke b. Oct. 14, 1971. Grace's second child was Leverette Wayne Hodges b. Aug. 11, '48, who married Judy Lindsey. They had a son Linsey Hamrick Hodges b. July 11, 1975. To Leverette and his second wife was born Shannon Hank Hodges on Feb. 16, 1979. Grace's third child was Patricia Jean Hodges b. Dec. 2, 1955, who married Tommy Kendall Land. Their only child was Kendra Melissa Land b. Feb. 8, 1975. Patricia later married Hershel Wade Pearce, a contractor in Dublin, Ga.

Lloyd Jones Hamrick b. 1916, was married to Stella Mae Smith b. Dec. 12, 1915. Their daughter, Marjorie Lou, b. Feb. 27, 1936 married Walter Reid Skinner b. Dec. 28, 1929. Their children are: Joseph Reid

H. b. Sept. 13, 1913, Lloyd Jones H. b. d. 1916, George Rush Jr. H. b. d. 1918. Twins Shedrick G. and Frederick C.H. b. Sept. 4, 1922 (Shedrick d. Aug. 1980.), and Grace Madeline H. b. July 25, 1924.

Tom Watson Hamrick married Sarah Ellen Thrift, b. Oct. 27, 1917. Their daughter, Elizabeth Ann, b. Oct. 19, 1940, married Samuel William Turner Sr. on Dec. 23, 1962. To this union were born Samuel Jr. b. May 13, 1964, and a daughter, Mary Elizabeth b. May 12, 1966. Tom Watson Jr. b. Oct. 27, 1943 married Linda Marie Gold on Mar. 28, 1964. To this union were born two sons: Tom Bradley H. b. Dec. 3, 1965, and John Kalan H. b. Oct. 4, 1968. Tom Watson Hamrick Jr. and Lynda were divorced and he married Amy Horton Lee b. Nov. 12, 1952, on Jan. 15, 1978.

for many years.

On father's side, our grandfather, Noah Hamrick, who was a medical doctor, was at Gettysburg, Pennsylvania during the Civil War.

— Marvin A. Hamrick, Sr. and Louis Clyde Hamrick, Jr.

MARY ETTA PUTNAM HAMRICK

542

Mary Etta Putnam, daughter of Benjamin F. Putnam, was born Mar. 28, 1889, d. Dec. 10, 1947, married George Rush Hamrick, b. Oct. 15, 1887 d. Mar. 1, 1968. Children born to them were: Tom Watson H. b. Dec. 21, 1907, Selma Lee H. b. Apr. 11, 1910, Addie Louise Skinner, b. June 11, 1956, Pam Sanford Skinner, b. May 10, 1957, William Reid Skinner, b. Nov. 21, 1974, Dena Skinner b. June 21, 1976, Larry Dean Skinner, b. Apr. 16, '58, who married Sonia Price, b. Sept. 4, 1962 on Oct. 10, 1981, and Sandra Jean Skinner, b. Feb. 28, 1963 who married Quinton Daniel Macon, b. Apr. 25, 1961, on Oct. 24, 1981.

George Rush Hamrick Jr. was born in 1918.

Twins: Shedrich G. and Frederick C. were born Sept. 4, 1922. Shedrick died in Aug. 1980. Frederick lives in Macon, Ga.

— T.S. Putnam
Edna Putnam
and Tom Watson Hamrick

OLIVER PAUL HAMRICK

543

My grandfather, Oliver Paul Hamrick, was born on December 23, 1881 in Cleveland County, when the Boiling Springs community was beginning to bounce back from post Civil War turmoil. He was one of seven children born to E.B. and Galena Greene Hamrick.

"PawPaw" was the second student to enroll at Boiling Springs Baptist High School (now Gardner-Webb College). In 1911, he graduated at the top of his class, and in his senior year took all college courses except for 12th grade English. This enabled him to later earn his A.B. degree in English from Wake Forest College in only three years. He was immediately approached about returning home to become business manager and head of the English department at Boiling Springs High School.

Jessie Teresa Pangle came to Boiling Springs in the fall of 1916 from Jefferson City, Tennessee to teach art and expression at Boiling Springs High School. A romance during the first year ended in marriage to my grandfather on June 20, 1917. They had four children: Oliver Paul Hamrick, Jr., Maxwell Bly Hamrick, Teresa Ann Hamrick, and Audley Galbraith Hamrick. "MawMaw" was a very devoted wife and mother. She was also an excellent cook, teacher, and artist.

Boiling Springs High School had many financial problems because of the depression. "PawPaw" bought calves at the sale barn, raised them, and had them butchered so that the students could have meat to eat in the school cafeteria. He went without his salary for three years in order to help the school during its financial problems. This made an extreme hardship on his own family. To help supplement the family income during this time, the family raised cows and sold milk. "PawPaw" also sold fresh meat out of the trunk of his car. The children had a cotton patch and a paper route.

After serving at this school for 18 years, he began a 25 year tenure as principal of Boiling Springs High School in 1932. He taught English as well as serving as principal. He was well known for his dramatic presentations of the writings of Shakespeare. He was known in the community as "Mr. O.P." or "Fessor." He was also known for his absent-mindedness. For instance, one day he took "MawMaw" to Shelby, let her out of the car to do some shopping, and drove back home without her.

During the first fifteen years of teaching, "PawPaw" augmented his salary by a part-time life insurance agency that he worked at on Saturday and during the summer vacation. He later began a small fire and casualty insurance business. He also built rental houses. They kept people in their home, especially students who could not afford dormitory fee.

"PawPaw" was active in all phases of community life. He served one term as mayor of Boiling Springs in the early 1930's and was an active member of the town board of commissioners at his death. He was very active in the Boiling Springs Baptist Church, serving in many positions. He strongly believed in being present any time the church doors were opened. He might go to prayer meeting with manure on his shoes, but he was there. He was a member of the board of advisors of Gardner-Webb College and a member of the board of trustees of Royster Memorial Hospital (now Crawley Memorial Hospital). He also belonged to the Cleveland County Historical Society as well as many other clubs.

"PawPaw" was very active in the Lions Club, attending many conventions. After "MawMaw" death in 1960, he went to a Lion's International Convention in Europe and while there, suffered a heart attack in Florence, Italy. While lying there for six weeks, he had time to think. During this time, he inspired to write a book, "Born at the Crossroads." This book is an interesting documentary of the growth and development of Boiling Springs, the Hamrick family, and Gardner-Webb College.

The welfare of all people in the community was very important to my grandfather. He helped many people own their own homes by lending them money or selling them land at very low interest rates.

"PawPaw" died on February 25, 1968. His influence and guidance is still missed by those who knew and loved him.

This article was written by Mr. O.P. Hamrick's granddaughter, Teresa Hamrick Huggins.

Sources: O.P. Hamrick, newspaper, family sources.

— Teresa Hamrick Huggins

REBECCA HOLLOWELL HAMRICK

544

Rebecca Hollowell Hamrick, wife of Alger Vason Hamrick, Jr., was born April 17, 1920, in picturesque Edenton, North Carolina, to Charles Thomas and Annie Gordon Hollowell (See account of Alger Vason Hamrick, Jr.).

Starting off to kindergarten at age three, she has been in school most of her life and loves it. After being graduated from Edenton High School in 1936, she entered Mars Hill College where she received her first voice lessons in exchange for getting up on bitter-cold mornings to light the fire for Zula Coon, Head of the Voice Department. For many years she also studied piano and organ in addition to voice.

Rebecca Hollowell Hamrick.

At Mars Hill while she was instructing a math class in the teacher's absence, she met her future husband, who was to adore her for the rest of his life. The class was putting math problems on the blackboard, and he did not think he could solve that particular problem, so she worked it for him. Less than five years later they were married. Meanwhile she had received her Associate of Arts degree from Mars Hill in 1938 and she had gone on to obtain an A.B. in English from Woman's College in Greensboro in 1940. Some years later, in 1959, she received her Masters degree in English from the University of North Carolina in Greensboro. She has continued her schooling with workshops, seminars, and summer work at various schools. In 1980 she held a fellowship at the University of North Carolina in Charlotte as part of the National Writing Project, after which she has made a writing consultant for the college.

Following college she taught one year in Taylorsville, and then she worked as office and traffic manager for Cooperative Mills in Statesville for several years. After the births of her two sons, Al and Greg (see Alger Vason Hamrick, Jr., account for children and grandchildren), she worked in the family business as bookkeeper and secretary for A.V. Hamrick and Company in Shelby. Since 1957 she has taught English at Shelby High School.

While teaching at high school, she has served in such capacities as head of the English Department, teacher of advanced placement English, sponsor of the yearbook, senior class sponsor, chairman of the steering committee for the Southern Association Accreditation, and a long time member of the curriculum and scholarship committees. Under her leadership, the English Department in bending with the times has made many curriculum changes in an effort to meet student needs. At Shelby High she has received such honors as the P.P.G. Star Teacher Award and the Shelby

City Schools Teacher of the Year in 1980.

A former student, Richard Hamrick, in writing to the Teacher of the Year Selection Committee, said this of her: "Mrs. Hamrick created an atmosphere in her classroom in which each student sensed that he was to perform to the best of his ability . . . Perhaps her most effective method of instruction was the example she set for us herself . . . This example served as motivation to read many different types of literature — and to think critically about the content. I have silently thanked her many times." She always has said that she expects nothing more from her students than the impossible. This has been a way of helping them to stretch to the ultimate.

In addition to her busy life at school, she is active in such organizations as N.C.A.E., North Carolina English Teachers Association, National Council of Teachers of English, American Association of University Women, Alpha Delta Kappa, PEO, Cecilia Music Club, American Legion Auxiliary, V.F.W. Auxiliary, and Cleveland County Choral Society. She has held key offices in these organizations. She has served as North Carolina State President of AAUW (1972-1974) and South Atlantic Regional Secretary-Treasurer of AAUW (1965-1969). She also served as North Carolina State President of Alpha Delta Kappa (1974-1976). These and many other similar positions have qualified her for listing in Who's Who of American Woman and Who's Who in the South and Southwest.

Always a woman of action, Rebecca Hamrick enjoys her church activities, especially the adult choir of First Baptist Church of Shelby. Her spirit of adventure has led her to thirty-six countries and five continents. She is a person who inspires others to be excited about life because of her many interests, her varied talents, her dedication to every task, and her devotion to her family.

Sources: Newspapers — Cleveland Times, Shelby Daily Star. 1980 Teacher of the Year Book of Shelby City Schools, family members.

— Gregory Hamrick

SIDNEY H. HAMRICK FAMILY

545

Sidney Hill Hamrick was born November 3, 1847 on a farm, five miles west of Shelby, near Beaver Dam Church. He was the second son of Street Hamrick (August 29, 1822 — June 29, 1900) and Elmira Bridges Hamrick (November 30, 1822 — November 9, 1897) and one of six brothers. His mother said she often would lie awake nights, planning activities to keep the boys busy and out of mischief.

Sidney's schooling lasted only a few months each year. He first attended a one room school at Beaver Dam. Later he went to a school in Boiling Springs. On the side he took up carpentry, learning enough so that when all the able-bodied men left to fight in the Civil War, he and his brothers could complete the addition to the family home.

As the war progressed and more men were needed, the seventeen year old boys volunteered. In March, 1865 Sidney left to fight for the Confederacy, a member of Company D, Sidney H. Hamrick.

Elizabeth H. Hamrick

Second Regiment of the North Carolina Troops. One rainy night while training in Johnson County, North Carolina, he was sleeping on the ground under a wet blanket. The next morning he had broken out with measles. He arose and started for home, walking from Smithfield to Shelby — a distance of approximately one hundred eighty miles.

After the war was over, Sidney tried his luck at teaching. While he enjoyed it, his main interest proved to be farming and about this time, he bought himself a farm.

Soon he met Elizabeth (May 9, 1856 — October 6, 1890), a tall, slender, auburn haired girl from Lattimore, the daughter of Drewery Harrill (1835-1862) and Jane H. Harrill (1835-1913). The couple's courtship was carried on with Sidney riding horseback to see Elizabeth. In 1880, they were married at the Harrill home. Elizabeth, an excellent seamstress, had made all of her trousseau. Home for the newlyweds was Sidney's farm.

Three daughters, Ida, Belva, and Darfer, were born to the couple; also, two babies died at birth. Tragedy struck the home in 1890 and Elizabeth, at age thirty-four, died from typhoid fever. Sidney took the three small girls and moved back to the home of his parents so that his mother and an aunt could help care for the children. After his mother's death they moved to his farm in South Shelby.

Six years later (1896) he remarried. This time to a young widow, Mrs. Patience Priscilla Washburn Cabaniss (October 21, 1870 — October 17, 1910), daughter of Charles Washburn (1826-1896) and Sarah Washburn (1834-1905). She had one son by her first marriage, Joseph T. Cabaniss. To Sidney and Priscilla were born two children, Phocian (January 17, 1901 — July 5, 1974) and Bernice (July 11, 1904 — January 4, 1941).

Sadness again came to the home. Priscilla died from tuberculosis. Ida, the eldest daughter, took over the responsibility of the home and of rearing the children.

Through the years Sidney continued his farming, dealt in real estate and had interests in the textile industry. As long as his health permitted, he attended regularly the Baptist Church and was active in church work, at one time being choirster and later a deacon.

As the Hamrick children grew into adulthood, each married and made a home of their own. Ida became Mrs. Baxter Putnam; Belva, Mrs. Jeff Hamrick; Darfer, Mrs. Herschel Blanton (see related articles). Phocian married Sarah Leatherwood and in 1927 Bernice became Mrs. Clyde Hoey, Jr. At this time Sidney gave up his home and stayed with the three oldest girls, two weeks at each home.

While living with his daughters he refrained from telling them how to rear their children and never did he criticize their home-life. As Christmas rolled around he gave a shining, silver dollar to each grandchild.

Sidney followed a simple way of living, believing this helped prolong his life. During his last years he looked forward to his birthdays, and particularly to his ninetieth. However, illness overtook him and when he reached his ninetieth birthday, he was too sick to realize it. On November 9, 1937 he passed away and was buried in Sunset Cemetery in Shelby.

Sources: Family records.

— Louise Hamrick

THOMAS HAMRICK FAMILY

546

Lloyd Hamrick's grandfather, Thomas Hamrick, born July 3, 1827, died November 15, 1909, was a descendant of pioneer George Hamrick and Nancy Cook. Thomas was born near Stice Shoals south of Shelby and married Rebecca Marks May 22, 1856. She was born January 31, 1840, died December 18, 1915.

Although only about five feet tall, Thomas served in the Civil War, Cleveland County Company D, 55th Regiment. Shortly afterwards the Hamricks came to Shelby where he was a skillful tailor of men's clothes. They bought one of the first and most historic houses from a Mr. Tidwell, who had bought it before the war. Located in the 300 block of North Lafayette Street (west side), the house had four rooms, two upstairs and two down, with the large chimney in the middle. Kitchen and dining room across the yard (for fire safety). When the Charleston earthquake occurred in 1886, the chimney was so badly damaged that it had to be replaced. Then the kitchen and dining room were added to the house.

The ten Hamrick children of Thomas and Rebecca Hamrick were: William Franklin, Hudson, Sarah, Lilly, Jessie, Eulas, John, Charles and Thomas Wells Hamrick.

Frank and Wells built on either side of the homeplace. Frank worked around 1900 in Asheville as linotype operator for the Citizen and was sent to New York to learn how to operate a new machine which he brought back, the first linotype machine in North Carolina. In 1900 Wells Hamrick founded the first jewelry business in Cleveland County. Frank joined him as optician in 1902. Sister Jessie assisted several generations of brides with wedding rings, gifts and other lines from the world's best markets.

Hudson McBrayer Hamrick, born August 30, 1879 — died June 19, 1955, third child of Thomas and Rebecca attended the local school and was married to Zoe Estella Hartgrove November 1, 1906. After losing money in a furniture plant partnership, Hudson made custom furniture and repaired antiques. Zoe died July 4, 1954.

The Hudson and Zoe Hamrick children were: Claude, Melva, and twins Herbert Lee and Lloyd Jackson Hamrick.

Herbert and Lloyd were born May 2, 1914 at their parents home on North Washington Street where they still live. Both attended Shelby schools and served in World War II. Herbert in a Tank Division and Lloyd in the Signal Corps.

Lloyd became an early teenage "movie addict," quitting school for odd jobs at the Princess Theater (later Carolina) where he sold tickets to the balcony for colored patrons, and later ran the projector there; later moved to the new State Theater on South Washington Street in 1939. Retired in 1959 — because of ill health.

On February 6, 1954, Lloyd married Lillian

Thomas Hamrick Home. Built before the Civil War.

Alice Melton, born July 2, 1915 in Rutherford County, and she was employed by J.P. Stevens in Shelby until it closed in 1981. The Hamricks are members of Central United Methodist Church, and photography has been a hobby of his since retirement. Lloyd has an extensive collection of Cleveland County early pictures — people, cemetery markers and interesting historic places. As a member of the Historical Association he has run the projector for historical films and programs, given and furnished pictures for special displays.

Sources: Thomas Hamrick family. Cleveland Star, 1940 special edition. Hamrick genealogy.

— Lloyd J. Hamrick

T. CARL HAMRICK and FAMILY

547

Thomas Carl, born July 12, 1884, was the oldest son of E.B. and Galena Green Hamrick. Their story with ancestry appears in this book.

One of seven children, he learned in childhood the necessity of work. He did farm work, hauled freight for his father, and helped his mother with housework. (He was an unusually good cook!) Fortunately, he enjoyed work and took pride in doing things well.

He attended Massey's Business College in Richmond, Virginia. Upon completing his studies, he became bookkeeper for Gordon Coal and Coke Company in Eagle, West Virginia. Subsequently, he worked for Craddock-Terry Shoe Company and Harris-Woodson Candy Company. A super salesman, he traveled throughout North and South Carolina.

On May 27, 1908, he married Marietta Moore born in Rutherford County October 1, 1887. She, daughter of John F. and Susan Holland Moore, had attended State Normal, now UNC-G, and taught one year. These two, with contrasting personalities, were our parents. He was very talkative; she, quiet and reserved.

They lived in Lattimore two years, but moved into a small house on her parents' property while our house, east of Boiling Springs, was under construction. Wishing to spend more time with his family, he gave up traveling and came home to farm and was active in North Carolina Cotton Growers Co-operative Association.

He farmed, operated a gristmill, made sausage and hominy, and grew marvelous gardens. Desire for his strawberries, peanuts, and watermelons was widespread. He worked hard and expected the same of us; but picking cotton was not our favorite pastime.

Active members of Boiling Springs Baptist Church, he was chairman of a building committee in 1920 when construction of a $65,000 church, later sold to Gardner-Webb, began. A church history refers to his "energetic, aggressive leadership and great liberality."

Full-time farming ended with the opportunity to travel for Kendall Medicine Company. Having a local territory enabled him to continue gardening and oversee the farm.

Our parents wanted us to become self-sufficient, contributing citizens. Their aim, to educate us, was achieved. Seven children as college graduates is impressive. Felix's health prevented his graduating; but six others received advanced degrees in chosen specialties.

Our father died November 27, 1944; our mother, January 5, 1981. Both are buried in Boiling Springs.

The current status of children and grandchildren follows. 1. Marie Elizabeth living in Charlotte, widow of Hugh J. Mack of Buffalo, New York, has retired as Art Director, Charlotte-Mecklenburg Schools.

2. Dr. John Carl Hamrick, retired surgeon, and wife Rose Thurman of Richmond, Indiana, live in Shelby. Children are: Dr. John Carl Hamrick, Jr., orthopedic surgeon, lives in Shelby with wife Margaret Ann Neal and children Anne Neal, John Carl III, Mary Margaret, Howard Tucker; Martha Rose, a counselor, and husband Wesley Dell Hood, a psychologist, in private practice of psychological services, live in Greensboro with children Lelia Rose, Vandiver Kelly, Charles David, Stephanie Helen; Susan Lucile, Supervisor for Advertising Trainees for Union Oil, and husband William Robert Mole, a Lockheed executive, live in Duarte, California.

Thomas Hamrick, 1827-1909 and Rebecca Hamrick, 1840-1915.

3. Felix Elijah, deceased, 1966, was married to Irene Bogue who lives in Boiling Springs. Daughter Edith Suzanne and husband Peter E. Morrisett with Tennessee-Eastman live in Kingsport, Tennessee. Their children are Mary Catherine, Laura Helen, Julia Lynn, Janet Irene, and John Gregory.

4. Helen Virginia, living in Greensboro, has retired from Greensboro Public Schools as a teacher of English and department chairman.

5. Edith Holland and husband, Dr. John David Bridgers, a pediatrician, live in High Point. Their children are: John David, Jr., Captain, United States Army, married to Jeanclaire Larsen, and father of Kathy and Griffin Holland; Samuel Leon, a resident in neurology at Yale; Carl Hamrick, an architect in San Francisco; Raymond Siegfried, movie editor with Bell Productions in Los Angeles; Barbara Jean, graduate of American Conservatory Theatre, in theatre in New York; Ellen Holland, French major, a senior at UNC-Chapel Hill.

6. Sadie Moore, CPA, and husband Wilburn Worth Williamson, Jr. live in Charlotte. She is associate professor of accounting, UNC-C; he, manufacturers' representative.

7. Cora Margaret (Kerr), an account executive with Merrill Lynch in Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, has two daughters: Virginia Margaret, completing a doctorate in art history, University of Chicago; Cynthia Susan, Director of Production and Planning for Knoll International, East Greenville, Pennsylvania.

8. Marietta, widow of James Lawrence Heinlein of Denver, Colorado, is department chairman and science teacher in Littleton. Her daughters are: Katherine Joan, engineering senior, Colorado School of Mines; Jamie Lynn, drama major, a junior at Loretta Heights College, Denver.

Sources: Family Bible, family letters, "Centennial of Boiling Springs Baptist Church," personal knowledge.

— Dr. John C. Hamrick and Helen V. Hamrick

THE WILLIAM HAROLD HAMRICK FAMILY

548

William Harold Hamrick was born on June 22, 1908 in Shelby, North Carolina. Harold, as he was called, was the eighth child of nine children born to William Smith Hamrick and Mary Lee Etter Roberts Hamrick. His siblings included Maude Edwina, Clara Belle, Fannie Roberts, Mark Quinn, Vera Loila, Palma Leer, Eva Rebecca and Mary Mable.

Harold was a direct line descendant of the first Hamrick to come to America. This was George Hamrick (the first) who came to America in 1731. George Hamrick (the first) was Harold's great-great-great-great-great-grandfather. Harold's forebearers after George Hamrick (the first) include George Hamrick (the second), Samuel Hamrick, James Hamrick, William Hamrick, Thomas Hamrick and Thomas Carl Hamrick.

Harold's father, William Smith Hamrick. Samuel Hamrick was probably the first forebearer of Harold's to enter Cleveland County. In S.C. Jones' book, "The Hamrick Generations: Being a Genealogy of the Hamrick Family," it is quoted that "Samuel Hamrick entered land in 1797, one-half mile from Mt. Sinai Church and settled about two hundred yards from the old McSwain graveyard. In 1814 he entered land one-half mile east of Boiling Springs Church, just where George Robertson Hamrick lives. He was buried at what is known as the Katie Hamrick oldplace, two miles east of Boiling Springs Church."

Harold grew up in Shelby, North Carolina and graduated from Shelby High School. On May 20, 1928 he married Sarah Adelaide Houser in Gaffney, South Carolina in front of a Justice of the Peace. Sarah Adelaide was the daughter of Charles John Houser and Mary Elizabeth Anthony Houser. Harold was rejected from serving in the military because of his age and the size family he had and, after his education in the Shelby Schools, began selling mill supplies for Shelby Supply Company whose owner was C. Gerald Morgan.

Harold's greatest ambition in life was to be a carpenter and wood craftsman and to open up his own wood working shop. His short life disallowed the full realization of this dream but his skill can still be attested to today by viewing a table and chair set and a desk in the possession of his wife, Sarah Houser Hamrick.

Probably one of Harold's first contacts with the church is witnessed in a certificate naming him a member of the "Cradle Roll" of the First M.E. Church of South Shelby. He was enrolled to this "Cradle Roll" on February 13, 1910, a little over a year and a half after he was born. This certificate was attested to by the Superintendent of the "Cradle Roll," Mrs. W.R. Newton; the Superintendent of the Church, J.F. Roberts and the Pastor, Reverend C.F. Sherill. Being raised as a God-fearing person, it was only natural for Harold to be a good Methodist. For most of his adult life, he taught Intermediate Sunday School at Central Methodist Church in Shelby, North Carolina.

Besides being a devoted church goer, Harold was a devoted Mason in Shelby. Few details are known by the author of his work in this area so little can be written of it.

William Harold and Sarah Houser reared four children, all born in Shelby, North Carolina. Jimmy Roger was born July 18, 1929; Larry Dean was born May 30, 1931; Harold Joe was born April 10, 1935 and Sara Elizabeth was born April 21, 1945. All of the children grew up in Shelby and several still make their home in the area.

Jimmy Roger married Patricia Ann Crenshaw of Spartanburg, South Carolina and bore two children, Ellen Crenshaw and Jamie Crenshaw. Larry Dean married Evelyn Gertrude Spencer of Raleigh, North Carolina and bore two children, Larry Dean and Patrick Spencer. Harold Joe married Marjorie Jane Lutz of Shelby, North Carolina and bore two children, Mary Kimberly and Kelli Jane. Sarah Elizabeth married Marshall Stuart Blanton of Shelby, North Carolina and bore two children, Kevin Stuart and William Brandon.

Having lived a fulfilling, but short life of 45 years, William Harold died suddenly of a cerebral hemorrhage on August 1, 1953. His grave is located in Sunset Cemetery in Shelby, North Carolina.

Sources: "Hamricks of the Past and Present, 1731-1975" by S.C. Hamrick, quoted sources in the article, family records, personal knowledge and interviews with family members.

— Larry Dean Hamrick, Jr.

ABRAHAM HARDIN

549

Much of the biography of Abraham Hardin was obtained from letters by him to Lyman Draper, author of "Kings Mountain and Its Heroes." While Draper of Wisconsin was writing the book he visited this area, staying at the home of Abraham Hardin. Hardin states much of the information he knew about the battle of Kings Mountain was obtained from his grandmother Jennet Sharp Glenn. Jennet Sharp, a very young girl removed from Virginia in the company of the Hardins, Hambrights, Kuykendalls, McAfees, etc. She stayed at the homes of the Hardins and Hambrights for several years. She was staying at the home of Colonel Frederick Hambright at the time of her marriage to William Glenn. William Glenn was taken prisoner by the British at the defeat at Briar Creek. It is stated he died in confinement.

Marietta Moore Hamrick.

Hardin states he was born on Hickory Creek, Rutherford (now Cleveland) County June 22, 1789 of poor parentage. There were no schools, so he had to labor on the farm and shop all day, read and study at night without help, except God's blessing of good health and a retentive memory. In 1814 he bought a little tract of land in York County where he served the Antioch Baptist Church as deacon and Sunday School Superintendent for sixty years. He was civil magistrate for forty two years, and was surveyor for York County for about the same length of time. He taught others the profession, among them was John R. Logan. He served in the state legislature eight years. He was also a carpenter — made coffins, making one for his wife and one for himself.

The first Sunday School in this area was started in 1826 and Abraham was among the ones who kept the banner floating in the breeze. The work consisted of reading the scriptures from the Old and New Testaments by the older ones, while the younger brought their spelling books. Perhaps the most prominent feature was the memorizing and reciting passages of scripture. The number of verses thus recited was said to be astonishing. Thomas Carroll, the clerk, says that in three or four years seven thousand four hundred and thirty verses were committed to memory.

The first church library in this area was started in April 1854 at Antioch Baptist Church. Twenty five dollars was given to buy books. A committee was appointed to select the books and a committee was appointed to draw up rules by which the books should be distributed and returned. Abraham was instrumental in getting this library started.

In the book "Men of Mark of South Carolina" a sketch of Abraham Tracy Hardin, Vice-President of New York Central Railway, it is stated that Tracy's father was Ira Hardin of Blacksburg, South Carolina. His grandfather was Abraham Hardin and his great grandfather was Davis Hardin. They came from Patterson Springs, Rutherford (now Cleveland) County in 1814.

Davis Hardin married Patsy (?) Glenn. The father of Davis was probably Jonathan who came from Chatham or Orange County, North Carolina.

Abraham Hardin married Rachel Whisnant, daughter of George and Sarah Amanda Wells Whisnant. Their children were: Martin C. married Elizabeth Sepaugh, Noah married Harriet B. Camp, Sarah married Rufus U. Patterson, Mary Elizabeth married John Wm. Stein Tate, Fannie married W.C. Goforth, Jane married Daniel Dunn, Ira married Elizabeth Hamilton, Dr. James Monroe left and perhaps went to Abraham Hardin, 1789-1881.

Texas, then back to Alabama from there to Georgia, Frances was fifteen according to 1850 census, no further record.

Abraham lived to be ninety two and was always active in his church and community. He died July 11, 1881, his wife died January 16, 1881.

— Miss Vera Hardin

W.K. HARDIN

550

W.K. Hardin, my grandfather, born September 7, 1831, seems as if he loved a girl and she married someone else; so she told him she would give him her first daughter. He waited until she was born and old enough for marriage — 20 years later. She was Laura Roberts, born September 1, 1851. To this union, seven children were born. My father, Clarence Tret Hardin was born the second child — first male child, on February 2, 1872. This family farmed the land, built a two-story house in front of the three room log house they lived in. Grandfather W.K., also built a rock wall around a spring where they got water. He built a milk box for milk and later he dug a well and completely lined it with rock to the top. They are both still in good shape. The house is still being used by Hardin descendants.

Clarence Tret Hardin was corporal in Co. G of the 1st Regiment of NC Volunteers. He served in the Spanish American War and went to Cuba on a cattle boat. He married Elizabeth Logan, daughter of B.F. Logan and Janie Hogue on July 19, 1899. (B.F. Logan served as sheriff of Cleveland County from 1870-80). To this union, seven children were born. Clarence Tret Hardin, Jr. married Floy Wells, they have one daughter, Nell; Mabel Hardin; Lillian Hardin married Earl Hopper, four children were born, Elizabeth, Charles, Jimmy, and Joyce; Mary Hardin married Durham Bridges, they have five children, Billy, Marjorie, David, Tret, and Ralph; Virginia Hardin married Clyde Wilson, they have two sons, Clyde and Benjamin, Virginia is now married to Garron Gordon; Gus Andrew Hardin married Elizabeth Anthony, they have two sons, Ronald and Vance; Kathryn Elizabeth Hardin married E. Vaughn Whitaker, they have two children, Cilda and Gary.

Our father died in 1923. My mother was left to raise seven children but the fine spirited woman she was, she did just that! For my father serving in the army, she received a small pension, with that help and the family farming the land, we made a go of it. She was always happy and no one could have had a better mama than we did. She lived at home until she died in 1953.

A great many of these descendants live on this farm which has been divided into small tracts. Most of the descendants who have passed away are buried in Sulphur Springs United Methodist Church Cemetery.

— Kathryn Whitaker and Mary Bridges

ANNIE EUNICE PLODK HARMON

551

Annie Eunice Plonk was born on September 17, 1885 in Cleveland County six miles north of Kings Mountain, North Carolina to William Lafayette and Martha Regina Ware Plonk. When she was a young girl, the family moved to Kings Mountain where her father had established a retail store in 1899. After her mother died in 1904, she helped her father with the rearing of the younger children, especially Mary who was only two. Through her life she remained interested in her family and helped when they were sick or needed assistance in other ways.

In 1908 Annie Eunice Plonk graduated from Lenoir College (now Lenoir-Rhyne College). After teaching in the Kings Mountain public schools for several years, she took nurse's training in Charlotte, North Carolina and became a registered nurse. She worked as a private duty nurse until she married a Kings Mountain merchant, Martin Luther Harmon, on November 16, 1918. After selling his store, he continued to work in the retailing of groceries at Plonk Brothers' Store until his retirement. He died on June 30, 1969.

After her marriage, Eunice Plonk Harmon, as she was known, became a full-time homemaker. She was an active member of St. Matthew's Lutheran Church, taught Sunday school classes and participated in women's missionary society. She was a member of the Kings Mountain Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution. On December 21, 1973 she died. Until the day of her death, she lived in the home in Kings Mountain that she and her husband built in the 1930s.

One child, Martin Luther Harmon, Junior, was born to the Harmons on May 8, 1920. Martin attended Kings Mountain city schools and graduated in journalism from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, North Carolina in 1940. While he was a student, he was the editor of the student newspaper Tar Heel during his senior year. Upon graduation he worked in Albemarle, North Carolina. During World War II, he served as an Ensign in the U.S. Naval Reserve.

W.K. Hardin Home. L to R: Georgie Byers, Clarence Tret (on horse), Laura, Virginia Patterson, Hattie Patterson, W.K., Gus.

On March 2, 1945, Martin Harmon bought the Kings Mountain Herald, a weekly newspaper, and published it until he sold it September 1, 1974. In addition to news stories, he wrote the editorials. His weekly column titled "Martin's Medicine" included human interest accounts about local people and visitors to the area.

Martin Harmon married Mary Ann Jones in Woodruff, South Carolina, on August 21, 1948. She had come from Woodruff to teach piano in Kings Mountain.

Martin Harmon was a conversationalist and enjoyed talking with and exchanging ideas with people. He died in a house fire on April 16, 1975. Both he and his father were members of Boyce Memorial Associate Reformed Presbyterian Church. He and his parents are buried in Mountain Rest Cemetery, Kings Mountain, North Carolina.

Sources: Whitesides, Martha Elizabeth McGill. History of the McGills of Gaston County and Roll of Descendants of Thomas Porter McGill and Martha Dickey. No date or publisher. Wolfe, Annie Lee; Carpenter, Ellen McGill; Gamble, Jean McArver; and Harmon, Martin. Originally compiled by Martha Elizabeth McGill Whitesides, 1940. History of the McGills of Gaston County and Roll of Descendants of Thomas Porter McGill and Martha Dickey. Revised 1972. Personal knowledge, cemetery records, correspondence with Registrar, Lenoir-Rhyne College, Hickory, North Carolina, March 5, 1982.

— Martha A. Plonk

THE HAYWOOD HARMON FAMILY

552

Haywood Harmon was born September 2, 1808 in Lincoln County. In 1837 when he was 25 years old he bought 77 acres from his father, Henry, located on the waters of Beason's Creek in Cleveland County. It joined lands owned by Thos. Roberts, William Lacky and others of the East side of Charleston Road.

In 1844, he bought 32 additional acres from Jacob S. Harmon on Beason's Creek joining land with Widow Fulton, J.M. Patterson, and others on both sides of the creek. He became one of the largest planters in Cleveland County, and was well loved and respected.

Haywood married Mary Katherine Branton, who was born December 4, 1809. They had eight children. The children were: John Jake Harmon, Nancy Ann Harmon Thornburg, Lydia Catherine Harmon Davis, Alex Harmon, William Avery Harmon, Robert Harmon, Ben Henry Harmon, Phillip Ray Harmon.

Mary B. Harmon died October 12, 1897 at the age of 88. Haywood Harmon was 90 when he died the next year, 1898.

Nancy Ann Harmon was the only woman field recruit for the Confederate Army. She was a good kettle drummer and beat the drums for the recruits to drill by in the El Bethel community. She was also an excellent horsewoman. Nancy Ann married Jonathon Thornburg and he also served in the Confederate Army and received a citation at Weldon, N.C. for holding a bridge against his commanding officer. Nancy Ann and Jonathon had 12 children.

John Jake Harmon, Nancy Ann's, brother served with Company G, 49th North Carolina Regiment of the Confederate States of America during the Civil War.

On November 27, 1866 John J. married Elizabeth Jane Thornburg. They had seven children. Their children were: Mary Catherine (See Joseph Anderson Falls Family) William Lee Harmon, Martha Adeline Harmon Fall, Margaret Ann Harmon Lynn, David Alexander Harmon, Elizabeth (Eliza) Jane Harmon Bridges, Frances Regina Harmon Ford. Elizabeth Jane and Frances Regina were twins.

— Mrs. Charles Edwards

COLONEL CHARLIE HEWITT HARRILL (D.D.S.)

553

Dr. Charlie Hewitt Harrill (son of Robert Lee and Julia Jane McSwain Harrill of Cleveland County) was born September 13, 1900. He attended old Boiling Springs High School in 1919 and Atlanta Dental College in Atlanta, Georgia, receiving his D.D.S. degree in 1923. After graduation from dental school, he practiced for a few years in Shelby and Lattimore before settling in Lincolnton, North Carolina.

On December 31, 1927, he married Laura Dry of Albermarle, North Carolina, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G.N. Dry. In November, 1928, Dr. Harrill entered the Army Dental Corps, receiving a commission as First Lieutenant. He was promoted to Captain three years later. He went on extended active duty in September, 1940, at Fort Jackson, South Carolina with the Medical Department of the 105th Engineers, Thirtieth Division. While serving at Fort Jackson, in February, 1941, he was made a major.

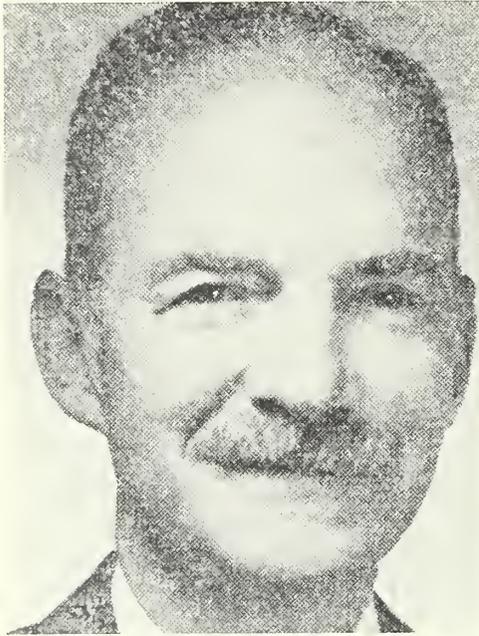

Col. Harrill left the Continental United States in May, 1942, for New Zealand, where he became Dental Surgeon of Headquarters of the Service Command. He served from August of that year until January, 1944, with a Station Hospital Unit at Guadalcanal. He was then transferred to New Caledonia in the South Pacific; here he was promoted to lieutenant colonel in the dental corps, while serving as the dental surgeon of the service command. Before he retired from active service he was promoted to full colonel.

Dr. Harrill became active in the Kiwanis Club in 1923. He was President of his club in 1949 and Lieutenant Governor of Division II in 1957. In 1959 he was serving his second consecutive year as District Chairman of the committee on Circle K clubs, a capacity in which his record was rated as superior.

He was described as an outstanding Baptist layman. He was also a Mason, a Shriner, and a Pythian. Dr. Harrill served as a member of the Board of Trustees of Gardner-Webb College, and was serving as assistant treasurer at the time of his death. He was known as an avid gardener. He also raised ponies and cattle on his farm "Tooth Acres". His friends described him as a quiet fellow, but with a lot of humor and dry wit, and all-around good fellow that was liked and respected by everyone." He was a tall handsome man, wore a mustache, and usually wore conservative suits, a red tie and red socks. He enjoyed collecting antiques. He died August 19, 1972, and is buried in the Lattimore Church cemetery.

Dr. and Mrs. Harrill's two children are: Barbara Caroline, born August 3, 1934, married Donald Neal Graham, son of Mr. and Mrs. N.C. Graham of Concord, North Carolina. Barbara and Donald live in Harrisburg, North Carolina. Charlie Hewitt Harrill, Jr. was born May 3, 1940. He married Sherril Blair, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. Allen Blair of Charlotte. Hewitt is Chief of Communications of the Panama Canal in Panama. He and Sherril have three sons: David, John, and James.

— Mrs. S. Arnold Ramey

Col. Charlie H. Harrill, D.D.S.

THE HOUSAND HARRILL FAMILY

554

Housand Harrill, the progenitor of the Harrills in Cleveland and Rutherford counties, was born in Virginia (ca 1731-1809). The first records find him in Bedford County Virginia with a family and paying taxes. He owned cattle and horses during the years 1779 to 1784 (auditors account book 1779 p. 230). He moved to Rutherford County, N.C. before 1786. The records of Sandy Run Church show that Housand Harrill and wife were received into fellowship of the church by letter March 3, 1786. The 1790 U.S. Census of Rutherford County, N.C. shows Housand Harrill living in the Morgan district with eight children, four boys and four girls.

He married Frances Philadelphia Street (1748-1833, tombstone) of New Kent County, Virginia. She was the daughter of John and Hannah Waddy Street (William & Mary Quarterly, her birth is listed here as 1747).

The D.A.R. records show Housand Harrill to have been a Private in the Revolutionary War, serving in the Virginia Militia.

On June 2, 1789, Housand Harrill was ordained as a deacon of Sandy Run Baptist Church and remained an active member as long as he lived. He was cited as one who would try to help settle the problems of the church members when called upon. He always represented the church in the associational meetings.

In 1804 Housand Harrill was elected as a representative in the North Carolina lower house, then known as the House of Commons. It has been said that he bought his first saddle and rode horseback to Raleigh to serve his term.

He lived on Beaver Dam Creek near the present Beaver Dam Church, Cleveland County, N.C. Housand was a prosperous farmer and a great church worker. He died sometime between July 1, 1806, when his will was written, and the July term of Rutherford County Court in 1809, when his will was probated. Both Housand and his wife Frances are buried in the family cemetery near the old homeplace in Cleveland County. Their children: Dicey, a daughter b. 1771 in Virginia; Samuel b. 1772 in Virginia, married Susanna Hamrick; John b. 1777 in Virginia, married first Nancy Bostic, second Susanna Washburn; Street; Richard; Philadelphia "Delphy" married William Street; Elizabeth married John Johnston; Edy married David Smith; Gilbert born 1784 married Martha Washburn, a sister to Susanna; Phebe born (ca 1786) married Thomas Reynolds.

Sources: Housand Harrill's will, tombstones, Sandy Run records and Jones' Hamrick Generation.

— Mrs. Arnold Ramey

REVEREND ISAIAH DURHAM HARRILL

555

Isaiah Durham Harrill was born October 15, 1872 and died December 18, 1932. He married Georgia Etta Lattimore December 6, 1896. Georgia was born December 12, 1874 and died March 15, 1963. Both were buried at the Lattimore Baptist Church cemetery.

Isaiah and his wife settled on the tract of land just north of Lattimore which had been purchased by his father, William, before the Civil War. There they reared three children: William Bunyan, Franklin Hugh and Edith Jane.

Ollie, daughter of Isaiah's brother, Washington, was reared and educated along with his other three children, after her father's death.

The bigger part of Isaiah's life was spent at the home site where he was born, and from which place he served numerous country churches in both Cleveland and Rutherford counties. He loved the land, and since he had no study, he spent numerous hours in the fields gathering from all nature about him supplementary material for his scripture-filled messages.

He uprooted his family only twice during his long ministry. Once to Lattimore, while serving the Lattimore Baptist Church there, and once to Boiling Springs for the express purpose of giving his children a high school education.

Higher education was very important to him, since in his chosen profession he so keenly felt the lack of it. However, if he felt the lack, no one else seemed to notice, or mind. He knew the Bible and could present its history, stories, and moral lessons in such a profound, vivid, dramatic, inspirational way, that all who heard were both impressed and blessed. Perhaps Mr. Gideon Price, of Lattimore, who often accompanied him on his Sunday morning preaching missions, expressed it best when he said, "I have never heard I.D. Harrill preach a sermon that was not worth hearing again."

In his early ministry Isaiah preached at a little Baptist church located at the foot of the mountains. In those days, the distance was great and transportation slow. In order to be rested for the Sunday morning service he would hitch his horse, Dave, to his buggy and make the trip there on Saturday afternoon. Some good accommodating church family would care for him overnight. His son, Hugh, remembers those trips, and particularly the horse, Dave, who knew the road so well, he could be trusted to bring the "napping" preacher safely home either night or day.

A 1932 newspaper clipping headlined Reverend I.D. Harrill Minister for 30 Years Is Dead, stated:

"Deceased had been in the Baptist Ministry in this section and other sections of Western North Carolina for 30 years, having held many pastorates in Cleveland and Rutherford Counties, serving some of the most active and progressive churches in this section.

"At the time of his death he was holding pastorates at Concord and Race Path Churches in Rutherford County, and Bethel Church at Ellenboro. During his ministry hundreds have been converted and under his leadership B.Y.P.U. work and other church activities have become more helpful and useful in the churches he served. "He was a lover of young people and their work, and made his appeal to them in such an understanding manner that he was greatly loved by the young people as well as the adults.

"Many wedding ceremonies have been performed, and many funeral services conducted by this good man. He was taken home on Sunday, the day of the week that made his life most useful; and the beautiful log and stucco home which he built in the edge of the woods was covered and surrounded with snow which seemed symbolic with the beautiful and pure life he desired to live and to show others how to live."

Rev. Isaiah Durham Harrill.

Reverend Harrill once stated that his heart's desire was that the mantle of Reverend Thomas Dixon Senior would fall upon him. A newspaper article written December 24, 1906, on Reverend Dixon's 86th birthday states, "the spiritual excellency of Cleveland County" was largely due to the 60 years ministry of this great man.

Surely I. D. Harrill's heart's desire came true and the mantle was worn with dignity, pride, and great humility throughout his long preaching ministry.

Sources: Family History, Bible, Newspaper articles.

The articles written on the Reverend Isaiah Durham Harrill and Family History were done by Aileen Padgett Harrill, wife of Reverend Hugh Harrill. I am deeply indebted to the extensive research and work done by Ollie Harrill Hildebrand, niece of Isaiah Durham Harrill, in her yet unpublished work, The Ancestry of William M. Harrill and his wife Nancy Jane Durham. Further information was taken from records found in the Harrill Family Bible, clipped and preserved newspaper articles and "word of mouth" stories handed down by various family members and my own observations and impressions of Isaiah Durham Harrill while a member of the Bostic Baptist Church in Rutherford County, which he served as pastor.

— Mrs. Hugh Harrill

JOHN HARRILL

556

John Harrill, Esq., son of Housand and Philadelphia Street Harrill, was born in Virginia (1777-1836).

He came with his parents to Rutherford County, N.C. (now Cleveland) around 1785 and settled near his parents on Beaver Dam Creek. John's farm was north of the present Beaver Dam Church. He was first married 31 July, 1797 to Nancy Bostic, daughter of Charles Bostic, Esq. Three children were born to this union, James, Polly and Betsey. Betsey was married on January 17, 1821 to Jesse Bridges. After Nancy's death, John Harrill married 8 Dec., 1819 his neighbor, Susanna Washburn (1796-1872) daughter of Gabriel and Priscilla McSwain Washburn.

John Harrill was a prosperous farmer and worked very hard to rear their large family. Their children were: Abraham Gabriel (1820-1900) married February 16, 1843 to Barbara Adeline Coble of Lincoln County. They moved to Lincoln County, N.C. and reared a large family; Nathaniel S. born in 1821, married October 10, 1854 to Susanne Lovelace. He fought in the Civil War; Hosea Holcum (1822-1871) married October 29, 1856 to Louisa Caroline Webb, daughter of Loranzo Dow and Martha "Patsy" Irvin Webb; Sarah, born 1824, married 23 March 1843 Isaac Price. They moved to Chimney Rock, N.C.; Housand H. (1826-1851) married 25 April 1845 Cinthia McSwain; Dicey, born in 1828, never married; John Thomas was born 1829, married 7 April 1859, Lucindy Hamrick; Priscilla, born 1831, married 3 August 1856 to Henry Champion; Robert E. born 1833 married Margaret Wesson; Delphia Street, born 1835, married 27 January 1857, David McSwain; Daniel the youngest son never married.

John Harrill died 18 November, 1836. He is buried with his first wife, Nancy Bostic Harrill, along with his father and mother in the Housand Harrill Cemetery north of highway 74 near Beaver Dam Church. Susanna, the second wife of John Harrill, is buried with her son Hosea Harrill at Beaver Dam Baptist Church, Cleveland County. It was her request that she be buried in the church cemetery. Susanna, her children; Nathaniel, Hosea, and Thomas, along with their grandmother, Frances Philadelphia Street Harrill, were charter members of Beaver Dam Baptist Church. Her husband, John Harrill died before Beaver Dam Church was organized.

Sources: tombstones, Bible and court records.

— Mrs. Arnold Ramey

Dr. John Aberdeen Harrill, 1850-1936.

Healing Academy, located between Kings Mountain and Gastonia, North Carolina. This academy later became Linwood College.

Not only was she a dedicated wife and mother, but also a caring and helpful neighbor. Because of my mother's excellent skill in cooking, and her warm hospitality, our home became a favorite meeting place for our relatives and friends.

My father was a life-long member of First Baptist Church, Shelby, North Carolina. My mother joined the Associate Reformed Presbyterian Church in Kings Mountain at a young age. She continued her membership in that church until our family bought our present homeplace around 1910. My mother joined Sulphur Springs Methodist Church, which was located near our farm. She realized the convenient location of this church would assure her Harriett Susan Black Harrill, 1870-1964.

THE FAMILY OF DR. JOHN ABERDEEN and HARRIET SUSAN BLACK HARRILL

557

My father, Dr. John Aberdeen Harrill, was born on a farm in Cleveland County, North Carolina, on September 28, 1850. He died October 19, 1936. He was the son of John and Elizabeth Jane Wray Harrill. When he was two years old, his father died, leaving his mother to rear him and an older brother, Lawson Hill Harrill. In his early twenties, he began to study dentistry under Dr. Turner, a Shelby dentist. After completing his training, he practiced dentistry for many years in the town of Shelby.

In 1900, his health began to fail. He retired from dentistry and moved to a farm where he remained until his death.

In 1893, he married Harriet Susan Black and to this union were born six children.

My mother, Harriet Susan Black, was born on a farm near Kings Mountain, North Carolina on July 12, 1870. She died October 14, 1964. She was the daughter of Jefferson and Eliza Borders Black. She was educated at the All that her children would be able to attend church regularly. A devoted Christian, she wanted her children to be brought up under the influence of a Christian church. I, along with several nieces, nephews and great nieces and nephews, are still active members of this church. My parents are buried in the church cemetery.

The children of this union are:

A. Lawson Herbert Harrill (b. March 7, 1895 — d. April 24, 1948). He married Aileen Austell (November 3, 1901 — November 27, 1979). They had three children. (a-1) Sarah Aileen Harrill (August 19, 1925) married Curtis David Baysinger. They have three children: Curtis David, Jr. (November 18, 1957); Karen Leigh (November 30, 1959) and Bruce Malcolm (September 21, 1961). (a-2) Robert Austell Harrill (October 8, 1927) married Mary Anne Byers. (a-3) Thomas Lawson Harrill (May 24, 1939) married Olivia Anne Conway. Their children are: Thomas Lawson, Jr. (April 18, 1969); Paula Anne (December 7, 1972) and Joshua Austell (April 19, 1980).

B. John Aberdeen Harrill, Jr. (September 18, 1896 — August 23, 1969) married Hazel Jones (August 21, 1903) and they have two children. (b-1) Harriet Ann Harrill (December 29, 1937) married David Harvey Tisinger. Their children are: John David (December 18, 1969) and Joel Wesley (June 12, 1971). David and Harriet were divorced and she is married to Roy Bogue. (b-2) Dr. John Aberdeen Harrill, III (June 12, 1942) married Lou Ann Facey. Their children are: John Aberdeen, IV (July 17, 1969); Andrew Menzies (August 4, 1972) and Ann Marie Jordan (July 21, 1978).

C. Ruth Harrill (November 6, 1898) married Matthew Moody Mauney (September 26, 1900 — February 23, 1955).

D. Jay Black Harrill (January 14, 1902 — February 2, 1967) married Mary Byers (October 28, 1908). To this union were born two children. (d-1) Jay Black Harrill, Jr. (November 29, 1938) married Janice Talbot. Their children are: Jay Black, III (November 7, 1966) and Lynn Talbot (September 1, 1969). (d-2) Mary Lois Harrill (December 22, 1942) married Langdon McIlroy Cooper. Their children are: Marya Ladd (August 17, 1970) and Abigail Harrill (April 14, 1974).

E. Thomas Carroll Harrill (June 22, 1904 — August 13, 1972) married Inez Mull New.

F. William Stowe Harrill (March 11, 1913) married Lalage L. Sperling (August 7, 1914). They have three children: (f-1) Susan Jane Harrill (May 23, 1946) married Stephen Allen Greer. Their children are: Stephen Allen, Jr. (November 20, 1971); Jefferson Matthews (March 13, 1975) and Michael William (April 29, 1978). (f-2) William Stowe Harrill, Jr. (June 7, 1949) married Pamela Elizabeth Smith. They have two children: Laura Elizabeth (May 17, 1975) and Frances Louisa (September 20, 1979). (f-3) Ruth Louisa (January 3, 1952) married Dr. Jennings Larry Stroud.

My surviving brother, William Stowe Harrill, Sr., joins me in expressing our love and thanks to our parents. We are proud to have been a part of the growth and development of Cleveland County.

— Ruth Harrill Mauney

ROBERT LEE HARRILL

558

Robert Lee "Bob" Harrill was born 22 February 1863 to Hosea Holcum Harrill, 1822-1871 (son of John, 1778-1819, and Susanna Washburn Harrill, 1796-1872) and Louisa Caroline Webb Harrill, 1836-1897 (daughter of Loranzo Dow, and wife Martha "Patsy" Irvin Webb. Martha "Patsy" Irvin was the daughter of the Revolutionary soldier, James Irvin, 1765-1845, and wife Rebecca Hardin Irvin, 1774-).

Robert "Bob" Harrill's father died when "Bob" was eight years of age. His mother managed to rear the three children, William, Charlotte and Robert Lee. Their home was on the "Big Road" near Brushy Creek bridge, on the north side of what is now known as highway 74, Cleveland County. His father Hosea Holcum Harrill, became ill while serving in the confederate army and was brought home in a "Carryall Wagon" by his wife Caroline. This illness led to his death. It is said that he died of yellow fever.

Robert Lee & Julia Jane McSwain Harrill.

At an early age Bob had to go to work to help earn a living. The war had robbed the family of almost everything that they had, such as food, farm products and livestock. His formal schooling was short, but he was taught at home.

On 5 March 1885 Bob Harrill married Julia Jane McSwain (daughter of John David, 1847-1913, and Lucy Harriett McSwain, 1847-1903, and great, great granddaughter of the Revolutionary Patriot Joe Wright). With only fifty cents in cash and a few acres of land that he inherited from his father, he started out to make a living and raise a family. It was while living near his father's homeplace that he made all kinds of furniture, even bed springs. He was considered the best man available to build a chimney. In his spare time he operated a blacksmith shop.

In early manhood he was ordained as deacon at Beaver Dam Baptist Church. He also served the church as its first organist. He organized a small brass band made up from members from Boiling Springs and Lattimore.

He farmed on a small scale which was hard work. There was no farm machinery available, only mules or horses, plow stocks, hoes, mowing blades, and grain cradles. Even though he believed in hard work, he tried to combine work with recreation. He had a fish pond where the children would go fishing and catch bullfrogs.

The Darfer post office was in his home (1898). It consisted of a box with a few "pigeon holes" in it. It was placed on top of an old chest of drawers that had belonged to his grandfather, Loranzo Dow Webb. This chest had been badly damaged by the Yankee soldiers as they passed through Cleveland County on their way south.

He would walk three miles from his home to Lattimore to his work. He also became a clerk in George DePriest's store in Lattimore and a few years later he worked at the Verner Oil Company. His salary was one dollar a day and that was considered good pay at that time. When weather permitted he would ride his bicycle the three miles to work.

In 1906 Bob Harrill moved his family into the new seven room house that he had built in Lattimore. He was anxious for his family to have an education and the advantages that Lattimore had to offer. He became very active in the Lattimore Baptist Church and Community, serving as deacon, town councilman and school-board member.

In 1920 he retired from public work, doing only small repair jobs. He spent most of his time in his shop making violins. Each of his children received one as a gift. He died 6 September 1925 and is buried with his wife, their sons, John, Charlie, Colin, and Howard and daughter Stella in the Lattimore church cemetery.

Their children were: Alma (1888-) married Dr. Robert Lee Hunt; Garva (1891-) married John Samuel Blanton; Stella (1893-1959) married William Thomas Davis; John (1896-1976) married Ruth Allen and owned and operated a hosiery mill; Leary (1897-1978) married Laura Weatherpoon and was North Carolina's 4 H Club leader; Dr. Charlie (1900-1972) married Laura Dry and was a Dentist and U.S. Army Colonel; Colin (1903-1981) married Pauline Dedmon and was a clerk and buyer for Campbells' Dept. Store in Shelby; Lucy Lee (b. 8 Feb. 1905 died in infancy); Robert Howard (b. 28 July 1907; d. 29 Jan. 1971) married Frances Dillingham. He was a real estate broker in Coral Gables, Fla. He served as a captain in World War II; Ora (b. 17 Aug. 1915; died in infancy). For information on Alma, Garva, Leary and Dr. Charlie see related articles.

— Mrs. John S. Blanton

Robert Lee and Julia Jane Harrill.

Sons and Daughters of "Bob" and "Julie" Harrill. L to R: Alma, Garva, John, L.R., Charlie, Colin and Howard. (Stella deceased).

MICHAUX DEWITT HARRILL and DESCENDANTS

559

Michaux DeWitt Harrill was born on March 20, 1895, the second of seven children of Franklin Harrill and Rixie Carolyn Stuard.

The Harrills are of Scotch-Irish and German descent. Franklin Harrill was born February 1, 1866 and died September 6, 1931. He lived in the Lattimore community and was married Rixie Carolyn Stuard who was born March 20, 1876 in Memory, North Carolina and died November 5, 1941. They were married by Reverend A. C. Irvin on June 15, 1892. Both are buried in the Double Springs Baptist Church cemetery.

Michaux grew up in the Lattimore community leading the usual life of a boy in those days — attending school in the community, doing chores on the large cotton farm and enjoying the good meals his grandmother prepared. She was a good and generous cook and preferred doing the cooking while his mother took care of Franklin, the children and the sewing.

Michaux served his country during World War I and after receiving an honorable discharge, came home shortly after Armistice, November 11, 1918.

On December 23, 1919 Michaux was married to Essie Fay Horn (see James Alexander "Cobb" Horn and Descendants) who was born October 4, 1895, the daughter of James Alexander and Loucreasa Lattimore Horn. They were married at the Horn home by Reverend John W. Suttle who was also the minister for the marriages of two of their children, Ralph and Evelyn.

Michaux and Fay began housekeeping only one half mile from the Horn homeplace on one hundred acres of land given them as a wedding gift from her father.

After the birth and death of their first child, William Eugene, who was born on May 21, 1922 and died June 4, 1922, they built a new house where two other children, Edwin Ralph and Evelyn Elaine, were born. Michaux was of good stature being six feet and one inch tall, having dark hair, blue eyes and being very strong. He was a successful farmer, acquiring more land and using his skills of management to provide for his family which was one of his goals. He was a loving, soft spoken man and it was often said "He only spoke when he meant to." He attended Double Shoals Baptist Church with Fay and his children.

In 1937 the original house located on Harris Creek Road in Cleveland County was remodeled to make it two storied and modernized for the comforts of his family.

Michaux continued until in March of 1951 when he accidentally cut his leg while marking trees and after six months died at Baptist Hospital in Winston-Salem, North Carolina on September 29, 1951. He is buried in the Double Shoals Baptist Church cemetery. Fay was a devoted wife and stayed by her husband's side during his illness. They were married for 31 years.

Essie Fay Horn Harrill has constantly lived within one half mile of her birthplace. She attended Union School and Piedmont School as a boarding student. She is a friendly person, a good neighbor and did all that was necessary to help her husband with the farm and family in the early days of homemaking. Many times, as was the custom, she fed the men who came to combine grain or thrash the wheat on the farm. It also was customary for her and her two sisters, Bessie Jane Horn Cabaniss and Verdie Mae Horn Dedmon, to meet and bake numerous fruit cakes for the Christmas season.

Fay is a member of Double Shoals Baptist Church and was a member of the Polkville Home Demonstration Club for as long as it existed. As a mother she excels in encouragement, in teaching a generous and honest way of life to her children and grandchildren and reveres her upbringing with love and a high regard for her parents. She has always displayed a positive attitude and a very keen sense of humor which is indicative of her happy way of life.

Fay and Michaux have two surviving children: Edwin Ralph Harrill born October 8, 1924 and Evelyn Elaine Harrill Spangler born October 18, 1926.

Edwin Ralph Harrill married Eva Lee Roberts on December 5, 1948. Eva Lee Roberts Harrill was born on March 30, 1930. Their three children are: an infant who was born and died on March 5, 1950; a son, Edwin Ralph, Jr. who was born November 28, 1951; and a daughter, Mary Jane who was born on February 16, 1954.

Edwin Ralph Harrill, Jr. married Pamela Jean McEntire (born August 28, 1953) on May 26, 1974. They have two sons: Edwin Ralph, III born November 12, 1977 and Michaux Alexander born November 8, 1980.

Mary Jane Harrill married Michael Ralph McSwain on August 9, 1979. Michael Ralph McSwain was born on January 23, 1954.

Evelyn Elaine Harrill married Earl Webb Spangler (born January 2, 1927) on December 17, 1950. Their four children are: Joan Harrill Spangler born February 5, 1952; Patricia Anne Spangler born August 12, 1953; Ernest Webb Spangler, II born August 5, 1954 and Carol Elaine Spangler born July 24, 1956.

Joan Harrill Spangler married Robert Lee Means, Jr. on December 20, 1975. Robert Lee Means, Jr. was born April 5, 1952. Their two sons are: Nicholas Lee born September 27, 1979 and Landon Alexander born August 26, 1981.

Patricia Anne Spangler married David Phillip Russell on July 15, 1978. David Phillip Russell was born August 3, 1951. They have a daughter, Julie Anne born February 12, 1981.

Ernest Webb Spangler, II married Clara Joan Howell on October 21, 1978. They have one son, Ernest Webb Spangler, III who was born March 17, 1980. Clara Joan Howell was born September 1, 1956.

Carol Elaine Spangler married Charles Phillips Henry on March 6, 1982. Charles Phillips Henry was born July 31, 1950.

Sources: Horn Family Bible; Harrill Family Bible.

— Mrs. Earl Webb Spangler

WILLIAM CROWELL HARRILL and FRANCES SUSANNAH JENKINS HARRILL

560

My father William Crowell Harrill was born September 20, 1859 died May 29th, 1942. He was born and grew up at the old home place on Brushy Creek, which is now part of the Blanton Farm. He was the oldest son of Hosea Halcombe and Caroline Webb Harrill. He had one brother Robert Harrill of Lattimore and a sister Charlotte. Uncle Bob married Julia McSwain and Aunt Charlotte married John Hamrick from the Poplar Springs Community.

Pa attended a one room school where he learned the three R's. His teacher was John Irvin, a relative. He used a modified Spencerian handwriting as long as he lived.

He and his younger brother and sister were left at home with their mother while his father was away in the Civil War.

Pa used to tell us stories about things that happened during the war. My favorite was the one when the Yankee Soldiers stood on a pile of wood chips out at the wood pile and talked to Grandma. The soldiers never dreamed that she was standing on her winter supply of ham, lard, potatoes and turnips. Her horses were muzzled and tethered down in the cane-break by Brushy Creek. The soldiers left, never knowing what they had missed.

It is told Grandpa died from pneumonia caused by exposure to the cold and rain during the war. Grandma was left with three young children under twelve years old. She moved in with her parents and her land was tended, and taken over by a friend who paid the taxes.

Pa grew up to be tall and handsome with auburn hair and "twinkly" blue eyes. He didn't like the farm so he tried working on the railroad and in the cotton mills. He also found time to be a deputy sheriff.

He married Frances Susannah Jenkins (b. March 31, 1874, d. February 12, 1940), the youngest daughter of James Edward and Nancy Elizabeth Eskridge Jenkins. Nancy was the daughter of Edward Jenkins born March 15, 1811 and Frances Scott Jenkins born August 9, 1814. When great grandpa Edward died, my great grandma, after having her husband prepared for viewing and burial, bathed and put on her burial clothes, lay down on the couch, folded her hands and died also. This happened on January 13, 1872.

On January 1, 1889 Pa, dressed in his gray suit, wearing a John B. Stetson black hat, and Ma wearing a lovely forest green dress with a basque waist and Leg-O-Mutton sleeves, started to York, South Carolina to be married. Two couples, Bob and Angelina Bridges and Jim and Athie Pinson from Boiling Springs, N.C. made the trip with them to be their witnesses.

Their trip to York from the Beaver Dam Community where Ma lived was a two day overnight trip over rough muddy roads. Their mode of travel was by horse and buggy. They spent the night in York's finest "Hotel". Separate rooms were created by hanging heavy curtains for partitions. A wash-stand with a pitcher of water, a bowl and towels were provided by the hotel. The toilet facility was outside.

The expression "Marry in green; you'll be ashamed to be seen" was not the case with my mother. She was a very out-going, out-spoken lady. I suppose this was balanced off by fathers quiet and retiring ways.

Ma and Pa tried living in the then "Boom Town" of Henrietta, N.C., but neither of them could take life in the dusty cotton mill, so they bought the Old Hamrick Farm west of Lattimore on Sandy Run Creek.

Ma ran the farm and raised us kids while Pa traveled for the W.T. Raleigh Co. His wagon looked very much like the Kraft Cheese Wagon seen on T.V. today. Later he traveled by buggy. His territory covered Rutherford County. There were no motels so he stayed overnight with friendly customers.

I will always remember the wonderful feeling of hearing the hoof-beats and the rattle of the wheels as Pa came up the driveway, and the knowledge that the minute he stepped out of the buggy there would be a pat on the head and a bag of fruit or candy. Sometimes a delicious wedge of cheese bought at some special country store.

We raised cotton and almost everything in the way of food. We canned berries, vegetables and meat. We made pickles, preserves and dried apples and peaches. There were peanuts for roasting, corn for popping and ham to broil on the open fire on cold winter nights. In the summer we had all kinds of fruits and melons and the best home-made ice cream on earth.

Life on our small farm required hard work from the oldest to the youngest. Whenever we had problems we had to use common sense and our God-given abilities to see us through, because during these depression years there was no money for outside help. In spite of all the hardships we managed to have time to sing and play together. The smoke-house, barns and granary gave us wonderful places to play. Our Easter egg hunts, swinging on grapevines, and playing in the branches and creeks are unforgettable.

By most standards we were considered poor, but those six boys and girls who grew up on that small farm, know we were very rich. The experiences we had and the values we learned are priceless.

The children of Bill and Fannie are Clifford, Vera, Elizabeth (Lizzie), Wade, Edna, and William (Bill). (See descendants of William Crowell and Frances Susannah Jenkins Harrill).

Sources: Family Bible, Family Records, Personal Knowledge and memories, also conversations with family members.

— Edna Frances Wade

WILLIAM CROWELL and FRANCES SUSANNAH JENKINS HARRILL and DESCENDANTS 561

Bill and Fannie Harrill's first child was Clifford Oren, born March 31, 1894 and died November 12, 1949. He attended Berea College and then a farm school called "The Willows" near Swannanoa, North Carolina. He was there during the Catawba River flood in 1916. He taught at Mt. Pleasant in Rutherford Co. and at the Golden Valley Institute. He later went to Battle Creek, Michigan, where he worked in the Kellogg Sanatorium for many years. Clifford's bride to be Dolly Manley, died just days before their wedding day. Clifford never married.

Vera Madge, their second child was born February 27, 1899. She was a teacher in the Old Lattimore School until she married Carl Casto Jolley on March 12, 1921. Carl was the son of George and Julia Robison Jolley of Cliffside, N.C. Carl's family was very talented in music. Carl died December 29, 1965. Vera lives at the home place near Rutherfordon, N.C. Carl and Vera had four daughters and one son.

Their oldest child, Frances Julia, was born January 12, 1922. She married Robert Franklin Wood of Bristol, Maryland, the son of Edward and Ella Moreland Wood. Frances and "Woodie" have one son, Robert Franklin Jr., b. August 12, 1953, and a daughter, Julie Elizabeth, b. October 4, 1955. Julie married Wesley Merchant of West Virginia and Maryland. Frances worked for American Red Cross and taught in Prince Georges Public Schools.

Martha Jane, their second child, was born November 13, 1923. Martha married Marvin Young Kirk of Mt. Pleasant, N.C. They have one daughter, Marsha Jolley Kirk, and one son, Max Parker Kirk. Martha was rated Teacher of the year in her County for 1981-1982.

George William, the third child, was born August 12, 1925; died May 14, 1980. George married Jacqueline Buttler, daughter of Marvin and Ethel Padgett Buttler of Rutherford County, N.C. George and "Jackie" traveled extensively throughout the eastern U.S., appraising property for tax assessment purposes. "Jackie" lives near Rutherfordon, N.C.

Alma Jean, the fourth child of Vera and Carl, was born August 12, 1930. She attended Gardner Webb College and Ohio State University and is a Reading Specialist in Columbus City Schools, Columbus, Ohio. Alma married Richard Dolliver Riley, February 19, 1955 in Washington, D.C. They have three children:

Jeanne Catherine, born October 23, 1956 in St. Johns, Newfoundland; David George born March 20, 1958; Mark Robert born July 16, 1959. Richard Riley was the grandson of Catherine Poraska Doliva of Warsaw Poland (b. November 25, 1871, d. December 31, 1967) and Alexander John Doliva, Black Village Poland. He was born February 26, 1869 and died in 1955. Grandma Doliva was a member of a Polish royal family. She ran away from home to marry Grandpa Doliva.

Suzanne Jolley was born May 9, 1944. She married Darrell Gibson, son of William and the late Beeda Gibson of Henrietta, N.C. They have one daughter, Shannon Lee, born April 16, 1969, and one son, Darrien Kirk Gibson, born June 2, 1975. Suzanne is a Speech Therapist Supervisor in Rutherford County Public Schools.

The third child of Bill and Fannie is Elizabeth Louise Harrill Walker Self. She was married to Stennett Walker of Bostic. Elizabeth had a lovely daughter Madge Harrill Walker, b. December 24, 1922, d. February 3, 1935 at the age of thirteen. Elizabeth later married Erastus G. Self of Belwood, N.C. Erastus died March 16, 1981. "Lizzie" lives at the old home place west of Lattimore, N.C.

Wade Eskridge Harrill was the fourth child of Bill and Fannie, born January 27, 1907. He married Goldie O. Talley September 19, 1946 from Indiana. Wade retired from Chrysler Corporation and moved to Wildwood Florida.

I, Edna Frances, am number five of the brood and was born November 28, 1913 at Lattimore, N.C. My birth was the first to be registered in the State of North Carolina. I grew up on the farm near Lattimore and attended Lattimore School. I went to Appalachian State Teachers College for two years and graduated from the University of Maryland. My teaching experiences were in N.C., Florida and twenty-six years in Prince George's County, Maryland.

I met and married Erwin Middlebrooks Wade March 15, 1941. We are retired and live with our twin granddaughters in Riverdale, Maryland. My activities in civic organizations, church and local politics keep me very busy.

Erwin and I have two daughters, Charlotte Anne, b. December 16, 1945 and Irene Frances (adopted), b. March 26, 1947.

Charlotte graduated from the University of Maryland and taught in Maryland Public Schools. Charlotte married David M. Roberson on June 30, 1967, son of Edward and Mildred Marshall Roberson. Edward was born in Guilford County, N.C. Mildred was born in Kentucky. Charlotte and David had two sons: Matthew David b. December 4, 1972, d. November 19, 1976, Craig Daniel b. November 21, 1974 d. December 26, 1979. They have one daughter Alissa Joy born October 12, 1978. They are now living in California.

Irene Frances Burracker (adopted) is the daughter of Paul and Mamie Burracker of Lurray, Va. Irene married Lynn Monroe Garbrick, son of Ruben Garbrick of State College, Pa. and Ann Clark of Kentucky. Lynn and Irene have four children: Charlotte Anne and Lynn Marie (twins) born December 3, 1967, Michael Erwin born October 27, 1969, and Stephen Lee born April 3, 1971. Michael and Stephen live with Irwin and Lynn Alsop in Riverdale, Maryland.

William Lee Harrill, the youngest child, born February 18, 1916, died November 27, 1975. Bill farmed and also worked in a textile plant. He married Mary Kathleen Jones on November 21, 1943. Kathleen is the daughter of Bunyan and Elva Barnett Jones of Poplar Springs.

Bill and Kathleen have one daughter, Nancy Lee, who graduated from the University of N.C. She taught art in Cleveland County Schools. She married Joseph Godwin, son of Dr. Joseph and Lucille Strickling Godwin of Mars Hill. Nancy and Joe had one son, Lee Christopher, b. December 5, 1971 and a daughter, Ashly Elizabeth, b. May 28, 1973, d. September 22, 1975.

Nancy later married Jerry Neinow from Minnesota.

After Jerry's death, Nancy married Ray Fisher of Greensboro on January 23, 1981. He has two lovely daughters, Stacy and Kristian. They live in Julian, N.C.

Sources: Family Bible, Family records, personal knowledge, personal interviews.

— Edna Frances Wade

ISAIAH DURHAM HARRILL ANCESTORS and HEIRS

562

Isaiah's father was William M. Harrill, born June 23, 1827, died April 27, 1909; married Nancy Jane Durham July 12, 1859. Nancy was born August 16, 1835, and died March 14, 1891.

William purchased a tract of land just north of Lattimore. There he built the old Harrill homestead to which he brought his bride before going away to the Civil War. The house still stands, owned and occupied by his grandson, Hugh.

Rev. Hugh Harrill, son of Rev. Isaiah Durham Harrill.

Six children were born to William and Nancy: Columbus, Washington, Franklin, Maggie, an infant son living only one day, and Isaiah Durham.

Isaiah's grandfather was Housen and his great grandfather was Gilbert Harrill.

Housen was born January 16, 1804; died November 26, 1887; married Abrilla Beam February 12, 1825.

Gilbert was born in 1783 and died in 1820. He married Martha Washburn.

Housen Harrill was Isaiah's great great grandfather, born in 1731; died in 1820. He married Frances Street, born 1748; died 1835. Their children were: Street, Richard, Philadelphia, Dicy, Samuel, Elizabeth, Edy, Phebe and Gilbert.

Housen came to North Carolina from Suffolk, Virginia about 1780. He settled near Beaver Dam Church in Cleveland County. He was a member and deacon of the Sandy Run Baptist Church in Mooresboro.

William Bunyan, son of Isaiah and Georgia Harrill was born September 18, 1899; died December 31, 1978; married Thelma Hawkins February 1, 1929. Thelma was born December 24, 1901. They had no children.

After graduating from Wake Forest College, W.B. began his life's work as an educator. At one time he was principal of Glennwood High School in McDowell County, and Fayetteville High School in Cumberland County.

The latter part of his life was spent as Educational Instructor, Acting Dean and Dean of Western North Carolina University in Cullowhee, North Carolina. The "William Bunyan Harrill Dormitory" stands on the campus today, an impressive monument to his work there.

Edith Jane, daughter of Isaiah and Georgia Harrill, was born December 21, 1905. She married Samuel Dawson Maddox July 4, 1936. She is now retired from the nursing profession and makes her home in the log home her father built in 1929.

Franklin Hugh, second son of Isaiah and Georgia Harrill, was born November 18, 1900. He married Nellie Aileen Padgett of Bostic, North Carolina June 21, 1930. Both graduated from Wake Forest College in 1940. Both pursued a life of service — he as a Baptist minister and she as an English teacher.

Hugh's ministry covered a period of 30 years. While at Wake Forest, he was pastor of three churches: Perry's Chapel in Franklin County, Tally Ho and Knapp of Reeds in Granville County.

After graduation from Wake Forest he was called to Johnston County where, for three years, he pastored Four Oaks and Blackmon's Grove Baptist Churches.

A call from the Lattimore and New Hope Baptist Churches brought him home to Cleveland County in 1944.

The last years of his ministry were spent at Sandy Plains Baptist Church, which he served for 21 years.

Barbara Jean Harrill, granddaughter of Isaiah, was born to Hugh and Aileen May 15, 1931.

She was graduated from Wake Forest College in 1953 and chose teaching as her profession. She taught in both North and South Carolina and at present is head of the Science Department at Crest Senior High School in Cleveland County, where she teaches biology.

Barbara married Sergeant Major Robert Wallis Hawkins, a professional soldier, July 6, 1958. They have three children: Katherine Aileen, Sarah Elizabeth and Susan Jeanette.

Richard Durham Harrill, grandson of Isaiah, was born to Hugh and Aileen May 21, 1934. After graduating from Appalachian State University in 1958 he began teaching in Charlotte, North Carolina.

During the summers he was affiliated with all phases of the Charlotte Y.M.C.A. youth program. This led to full time work at the Y.M.C.A. where he became Director of Adult Programs and Director of the East Branch of the Charlotte-Mecklenburg Y.M.C.A.

Richard became Executive Director of the Cherokee Family Y.M.C.A. in Gaffney, South Carolina in 1974. There he established the first Y.M.C.A. in Cherokee County and was instrumental in effecting the subsequent merger of the Y.M.C.A. and Limestone College.

On August 1, 1961 he married Kathryn Hannah Ross. They have two children: Allison Lee and Richard Hugh.

Sources: Family History, Bible, Newspaper articles

— Mrs. Hugh Harrill

THE WYATT L. HARRILL FAMILY

563

Wyatt L. Harrill (b. January 4, 1858 — d. December 30, 1932) was the grandson of Richard Harrill and Artaminsee Dobbins Harrill. On November 23, 1882, Wyatt was married to Selma Lee Champion.

This couple were the parents of eight children: Ector (b. September 4, 1883 — d. April 26, 1961); Essie (b. February 22, 1885 — d. November 25, 1976); Bertha (b. January 18, 1888 — d. September 10, 1961); Alice Burna (b. June 20, 1892 — d. October 24, 1959); Infant Son (b. April 14 — d. April 16, 1894); Ocie (b. June 19, 1896); and Clive (April 5, 1902 — d. April 10, 1966). These children made a wonderful contribution to Cleveland County in that many of them pursued a higher education and even became professional people.

Ector went to Wake Forest College and then practiced law in Kings Mountain for many years. He married Martha Simoton on October 12, 1915. They had two children: Thornton S. Harrill (b. October 7, 1917 — d. March 9, 1977) — married to Dorothy Cooper Harrill on April 20, 1949 — (children — William Eric Harrill and Mary Ellen Harrill; grandchildren — Rachel Nicole, Jason, Tonie, and Ryan William); and Saralee Harrill (b. December 30, 1919) — married to Jason W. Dorton.

Essie studied at Oxford College and then became a teacher. She remembered, even at age ninety, her many school experiences as a teacher. She began teaching in 1908 and taught for twenty-seven years in the Free Schools of Cleveland County. Her first school was at Elliott's Church in Polkville where she had sixty pupils. This was a one-room school with grades one through seven. She said the children worked and did not try to be unruly. They sat on benches with the boys and girls segregated at different ends of the room. Students carried their own basket lunch which consisted of a meat, biscuit, and some kind of pie. They finished the lunch off with a baked potato. Upon being asked to what Miss Essie attributed her long life, she said hard work — house work, field work, and teaching school.

Bertha also went to school at Oxford College. Bertha married Thurman Hamrick on June 10, 1914. They had one daughter Selma C. Hamrick (b. January 10, 1918). Selma still resides in the large red brick house built by her father on West Warren Street.

Alice Burna married Marion Olive Moore on October 15, 1915. They had a family consisting of Bessie Moore (b. September 15, 1915 — d. November 29, 1968) who married John R. Hawkins on December 23, 1949; and Harrill W. Moore (b. March 24, 1920) who married Violet Early on April 7, 1950 (children — Elizabeth Ann Moore Allen and David Moore; grandchildren — Michael Allen and Stacey Allen).

Clive married Mardecia Eaker on June 20, 1942. They had no children. Clive studied at Wake Forest College and then later earned his Masters Degree at the University at Chapel Hill. For many years he was principal of the Number Three School in Cleveland County.

Three of the children of Wyatt and Selma never married. These were Essie, Mignon Schofield and Ocie Lola. Ocie went to the high school at Boiling Springs. Ocie has many wonderful memories of the family life and surroundings of the Harrills. They lived in the Mt.

Sinai Community until only a few years ago when they moved to West Graham Street in Shelby. They lived on beautiful farm land located between the Ellis Ferry Road and the York Road. Their first house was a log structure; weather boarded on the outside and sealed on the inside. The house was big enough to take in travelers, as was the custom of the day. The family was quite interested in those who passed by. Also, a few days before the end of each month, a large number of horses and mules would be driven by on their way to the Bone Yard to be sold.

Essie's memories of her early school days included the memory of a little red linen book which she carried to school her first day. It had the ABC's on it. She clutched this book fiercely in her hand, hoping no one would see it and try to take it from her. She really loved that little book. Miss Essie also remembered the trouble she had learning the difference between B and D. She finally conquered these letters, however.

Just below the Harrill house the old Stice Post Office was located. A Mr. Hawkins took the mail from Shelby to Mr. Dixon Randall who then distributed it there at the post office. Around 1912 they began delivering mail to the homes.

Traces of Indian flints and early iron and mica mining, old church and school buildings still standing, forgotten cemeteries grown up in weeds, and an ever-flowing romantic river enhance the memories of this old Cleveland County family.

Sources: Shelby Daily Star, Family Members

— Rebecca H. Hamrick

DENT and LOTTIE HARRIS

564

Albert Dent Harris was born June 9, 1894 the eldest son of Joseph Suttle Harris (1856-1943) and Mary Ella Emmalissa Wood Harris (1866-1943). The grandparents were Rice and Louisa Byers Harris and William Smith Wood and Misenerah Humphries Wood. These families lived in Grassy Pond Community, Cherokee County, South Carolina.

Around 1910, the J. S. Harris family moved to Cleveland Mills, North Carolina to enable Dent, his two brothers, and three sisters to be educated at Piedmont School. Dent was one of Professor Littlejohn's outstanding algebra students.

Dent served in World War I. He had orders for overseas duty when the war ended.

He was a Cleveland County farmer. In the 1940's he established milk routes and hauled milk for Carnation Milk Company. The rattle of milk cans and the laughter of Dent Harris became familiar sounds along his route from New House to Boiling Springs. He retired as a salesman for Cleveland Distributors, Shelby.

Lottie Mae Crowder Harris was born January 18, 1897 the eldest child of William Albert (1873-1932) and Mary Etta (Molly) Boggs Crowder (1872-1911). The Crowder ancestors included her grandparents John K. and Biddie Walker Crowder; great grandparents Allen and Phoeby Grigg Crowder; and great-great-grandparents Bob and Lively Hastings Crowder who settled about two miles west of Polkville, North Carolina. The Boggs ancestors include grandparents Noah E. Boggs and Sarah Wilson Boggs and great grandparents Mr. and Mrs. William C. Boggs. The Boggs families lived near Belwood, North Carolina.

The Will Crowder family moved from Lawndale to Lattimore, North Carolina in 1907, where he became a successful farmer and ginner. Lottie was educated in the Lattimore schools; Asheville Normal, Asheville, North Carolina; Piedmont High School, Lawndale, North Carolina; and North Carolina Normal for Women at Greensboro.

She was a teacher at Fairview School, Polkville. It was her dream to be a Southern Baptist foreign missionary. However, arthritis prevented her from passing the physical examination. She often chuckled and said, "A handsome young man named Dent Harris convinced me to marry him and do home missions."

Dent and Lottie were married November 17, 1921 in the Crowder home, Lattimore. In 1922, they bought the Tom Heffner farm at Union Church near Polkville. They were active in Union Baptist Church. Both were B.Y.P.U. leaders, participants in singing schools in the 1920's and choir members in the 1950's. Lottie was Superintendent of Sunday School in the 1920's. During that time, Reverend Gordon Washburn was the pastor at Union Baptist Church, Lottie was a renowned and beloved Sunday School teacher for more than 50 years.

On February 21, 1982, Union Baptist Church Women's Missionary Union gave special recognition to Lottie Harris for 60 years of dedication, leadership, and service to the missions program. A Lottie Mae Crowder Harris Scholarship Fund was established in her honor. The fund will provide financial support for girls participating in special missions education events.

Their children were Mary Ellen born 1925; Joseph William born 1927; Thomas Cleveland born 1929; Fred Falls born 1932; Frances Boggs born 1935; and Clyde R. (1936-1939). Their grandchildren were children of Thomas and Marjorie Caudle Harris — Phyllis, David and Darrell (twins); children of Fred and Peggy Daves Harris — Judy and Donna; children of Frances and Minor Gettys — Eric and Myra.

Dent Harris died October 3, 1969 and Lottie Crowder Harris died February 22, 1982. They are buried in Union Baptist Church Cemetery.

Sources: Family Bible, records of Joe Washburn, military records, Reminiscences of Richard Jolly, personal interviews.

— Mary Harris

JOSEPH S. and ELLA HARRIS

565

Joseph Suttle Harris (1856-1943) was a proponent of education. He studied at Holly Springs, South Carolina and Burnt Chimney Academy, Forest City, North Carolina. Receipts written on scraps of lined tablet paper read: "Received of Louisa Harris, Four Dollars and Sixty-five cents in full for schooling at Holly Springs for year 1866. A.J. Settlemyer

February 23rd 1867" "Received of J.S. Harris, Twenty-two Dollars and 72 cents in full of Board and Tuition at Burnt Chimney (Acad) Spring Term, July 2nd 1881. J. Hyarboro"

Joe Harris was an avid reader. During his long lifetime, he continued his education through reading and study of the dictionary.

Around 1910, he and his wife, Mary Ella Emmalissa Wood Harris (1866-1960), moved their family of six children from Grassy Pond Community, Cherokee County, South Carolina to Cleveland Mills, North Carolina. This enabled their children and a nephew, Bevan Wood, to take advantage of educational opportunities in Cleveland County. Julia Irene (1892-1969), Albert Dent (1894-1969), Velma Verona (1896-), Allen Kent (1899-1973), Virginia Brown (1902-), and James Nesbitt (1907-1981) were students at Piedmont School. James graduated at Lattimore.

The nephew continued his education at Wake Forest College and earned a doctorate from Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, Louisville, Kentucky. In 1960, Dr. A.B. Wood (1893-1975) retired from Midwood Baptist Church, Charlotte, North Carolina and returned to Shelby.

Three children and the nephew married Piedmont students who were Cleveland County natives. Dent married Lottie Mae Crowder from Lattimore. Kent married Mary D. Palmer from Polkville. Virginia married Fred Beam from Lawndale. Dr. A.B. Wood married Ollie May Gold from Zion.

In the book, Reminiscences of Richard M. Jolly, Ella Harris was described as "one in a hundred for work." She was industrious, persevering with any task she undertook, and frugal. She bartered milk, butter, and eggs with Piedmont School for tuition for the children and nephew.

Joe S. Harris was kind and gentle and a cotton farmer. According to the Short Historical Sketch of New Bethel Baptist Church 1848-1948, he served that church as a deacon. New Bethel recognized his ordination from Grassy Pond. Rev. John W. Suttle was New Bethel's pastor while Joe Harris served as deacon.

Joe and Ella Harris not only provided their children an education, they instilled a strong work ethic and spirit of service. Irene married Henry Dixon and they were Fallston's Stamey Store employees. Dent was a Cleveland County farmer and salesman; Kent a Cleveland County farmer and cattleman; James a Shelby businessman; and Virginia a Piedmont teacher. Verona married A.L. Poole and was a bank employee in Gaffney and Union, South Carolina. These children and their families have been identified with work in the churches, schools, and worthy projects in their respective communities.

The Harris grandchildren are the children of Henry and Irene Dixon — Robert, Boyd, Charles, Lester, and Betty Jane; children of Dent and Lottie Harris — Mary, Joe Bill, Thomas, Fred, Frances and Clyde (1936-1939); two daughters of Kent and Mary D. Harris died in infancy; and the children of James and Madge Mauney Harris — George and Dorothy.

Joseph Suttle Harris was the son of Rice and Louisa Byers Harris. Rice volunteered for service in the Civil War and served in Company M, Fifth South Carolina regiment. He served through the Williamsburg battle and around Richmond. Joe Harris was six years old when his father died in Seven Pines battle.

Mary Ella Emmalissa Wood was a daughter of William Smith and Misenerah Humphries Wood of Cherokee County, South Carolina.

Joe Harris and Ella Wood married in 1890 and lived at Grassy Pond, Cherokee County, South Carolina until about 1910. They lived at Cleveland Mills, North Carolina for about ten years and returned to Grassy Pond for two years. In 1922, they bought the Curtis Weathers farm on the Double Shoals Road in Cleveland County. This was their home until their deaths. They are buried in Zion Baptist Church Cemetery.

Sources: family Bible, interviews with family members.

— Mary Harris

J. OLLIE HARRIS — FAMILY HISTORY

566

Ollie Harris was born September 2, 1913, son of J. Frank and Jessie Hambright Harris in Anderson, South Carolina. His mother, Jessie Hambright, was a direct descendant of Colonel Fredrick Hambright who fought in the Revolutionary War and who served in the N.C. General Assembly of 1775.

Ollie Harris attended grammar school in Anderson and in 1927 he came to Shelby to live with his grandparents, J. Frank Harris, Sr. and Cenie Miller Harris. He attended Shelby High School and graduated in 1931.

In 1928 he attended school and worked at the Lutz-Jackson Funeral Home which in 1933 became the Lutz-Austell Funeral Home. He was employed by the Lutz-Austell Funeral Home until 1947.

In 1934 Harris married Abbie Jane Wall, daughter of Dr. Zeno and Ada Ramsey Wall. Dr. Wall was pastor of First Baptist Church at that time. To this union was born Ollie Harris, Jr., who now lives in Houston, Texas and who has two children, Ollie III, and Elizabeth Wall Harris.

A daughter, Jane Wall Harris, was born in 1938 and has two children, David and Kathy Hambright, all of whom live in Kings Mountain.

In September of 1934, Ollie Harris entered and graduated from the Gupton-Jones College of Embalming, Nashville, Tenn. He became licensed as an embalmer in 1935.

In 1943, Ollie Harris entered the U.S. Army, received his basic training at Camp Barkley, Texas and Surgical Technician training at Fort Sam Houston, San Antonio, Texas. He went overseas in the European Theatre of operation in October of 1944, serving in France, Belgium, Luxemburg, Germany, and Austria with the 65th Field Hospital as a Surgical Technician and Staff Sergeant. Sergeant Harris was serving in Bastogne, Belgium during the Battle of the Bulge in December of 1944. During this time he was awarded the Bronze Star for services beyond the call of duty. Sergeant Harris was discharged in December, 1945 at Fort Bragg and returned to Shelby as an employee of Lutz-Austell Funeral Home.

In 1946, Harris assisted in the organization of the Veterans of Foreign Wars in Shelby and became its first elected Commander.

In July of 1947, Harris became the owner of Harris Funeral Home of Kings Mountain, which business is continuing.

In 1946, Harris was elected Coroner for Cleveland County and was Coroner until 1970. In 1965, Harris was elected President of the North Carolina Coroners' Association.

In 1960, Harris was elected as President of the N.C. Funeral Directors' Association and served for one term.

In 1954, Harris was elected as a member of the N.C. State Board of Embalmers' and served as its president in 1958.

Harris has served as Commander of the Kings Mountain American Legion and the Kings Mountain Veterans of Foreign Wars. He has served as President of the Kings Mountain Lions Club, Kings Mountain Chamber of Commerce, Kings Mountain Country Club, the Kings Mountain Red Cross Chapter and a trustee of Gardner-Webb College for 1 term.

Harris is a member and former chairman of the Deacons of Kings Mountain Baptist Church.

Harris became a member of the Shelby Volunteer Fire Department in 1934 and a member of the Kings Mountain Volunteer Fire Department until 1969.

In 1970, Harris ran for the N.C. Senate, was elected and served in the 1971-1972 session. Because of an eye operation, Harris did not run in the 1972 session but ran in 1974 and has been a member of the N.C. State Senate for the 1975-1976, 1977-1978, 1979-1980, 1981-1982, sessions. Harris became Chairman of the Senate Human Resources Committee in 1977, 1979, 1981.

Due to his leadership in Mental Health he was awarded the Valand Award in 1979, the outstanding Legislator Award in the field of Public Health by the North Carolina Association of Health Departments in 1979, the outstanding legislator by the N.C. Health Care Association in 1979.

In addition to Chairman of the Human Resources Committee, he is vice-chairman of the Ways and Means Committee and Senior Citizens Committee. He is a member of the Senate Rules Committee, Banking Committee, Judiciary #1 Committee, Appropriation Committee and University Board of Governor Committee. He is a member of the Mental Health Study Commission, the Mental Health, Mental Retardation, Alcohol and Drug Abuse Commission. He is also a member of the Governmental Operation Committee.

Harris who is 68 years of age at this time plans to run for re-election for his sixth term in the Senate, representing Cleveland, Gaston, Lincoln, and Rutherford Counties.

Harris holds the record of holding public office longer than any other person of Cleveland County at this time, over 34 years.

Benjamin Audy Harry

BENJAMIN AUDY HARRY FAMILY

567

Audy Harry (1-6-1891 — 7-1-1961), is the direct descendant of Martin Harry, who came to America in the 1740's from Germany. Audy's ancestors are referred to in the John Bishop Harry, Washington Marion Harry, and the David Filmore Clay Harry bibliographies. In 1916, Audy met a young school teacher named Bessie Frances Howard. He bought her box supper at a social and took her for a Sunday ride in Cap's Model T Ford. After courting Bessie, Audy married her on the last day of school, May 3, 1917. They took a train to Johnson City, Tennessee for their honeymoon.

Bessie was born March 5, 1891 in Mecklenburg County, Virginia. She is the daughter of Wiley Perry Howard and Sarah Elizabeth Woody. She is the direct descendant of John Heyward (spelling changed in later generations to Howard) a member of the House of Burgesses of Virginia in 1654, 1659, and 1660 and a tobacco farmer from Middle Plantation, now Williamsburg. Her family continued John Heyward's tradition of tobacco farming all the way down to her father.

In 1902, when Bessie was eleven years old, her family moved to Fuquay Springs, North Carolina, (now Fuquay-Varina). At that time, there was not a Baptist church in Fuquay Springs. Her father started the First Baptist Church there, which had its beginnings in a railroad tool house. The Mills-Railroad was being built from Raleigh to Fayetteville and had only been completed to Fuquay Springs. Bessie is the only living person today that went to the first Sunday School in that tool house.

Bessie received her Bachelor of Science degree cum laude from Oxford College, an all girl school, in 1913. Her favorite subject was Chemistry. She wanted to teach in Fuquay Springs, but a tremendous hail storm had destroyed all the crops, depressing the area. She was forced to teach elsewhere after graduation.

Bessie taught in Granville County one year and then in Wilmington, North Carolina the next. She did not like Wilmington because "the water tasted like fish", and wanted to move elsewhere for the next school year. Her pastor, W.R. Beach, from Fuquay Springs had moved to Grover in 1916. He talked Bessie into coming to Grover to teach in high school.

Audy and Bessie lived at the old mill stream family house in the earlier years of their marriage. Audy worked making wooden tables, including mosaics of the different woods. Later, they moved to town in Grover where Audy had a wood-working shop. All of the saws, planes, and lathes were pulley driven and he kept all of them in perfect condition.

Audy died at the age of seventy of a heart attack on July 1, 1961. He is buried at the Grover Cemetery.

Bessie still lives in the same house with her youngest son, Philip, and his family. It is here that she has helped keep a prayerful and hopeful vigil for her granddaughter, Kelli, who has not fully recovered from injuries sustained in an accident as she was leaving Grover School, December 18, 1980.

Sources: Memory, personal interviews.

— Bessie Harry

Kelli Jean Harry

CHILDREN OF BENJAMIN AUDY and BESSIE HOWARD HARRY

568

Audy and Bessie had seven children, Benjamin Donald on April 2, 1918; Sarah Jacquelyn on April 18, 1920; Thomas Howard on August 28, 1923; Bruce Audy on February 24, 1925; Jesse Frank on October 10, 1928; John Philip on April 10, 1930, and Myrtle Annette on July 16, 1933. They also raised Thomas Howard Harry, Junior (born February 10, 1945) from the time he was six months old.

Donald Harry, eldest child and son of Bessie and Audy Harry married Hansel Guest of Gaffney, South Carolina. They were married in Warms Springs, Georgia by Don's Uncle Grady, on October 10, 1939. They made their home in Grover for a brief time after which they settled in Charlotte. Hansel is a teacher in the Mecklenburg Schools. She and Don have three sons and one daughter. Donna is a teacher; Bob a surgeon; Ben and George are electrical engineers. Don gave the handmade tools that John Bishop Harry had made many years ago to the museum. Hansel provided a picture of the money swamp. Ben has been a key researcher of the Harry family.

John Philip Harry, youngest son of Bessie and Audy Harry, was raised in Grover, North Carolina. He retired, after twenty-two years of service in the U.S. Air Force. Much of his army career time was spent in Germany, and it was there he met and married Maria Rzyttha on December 23, 1965. They have four daughters Elizabeth Annette (Litsa), Bettina Maria (Tina), Nancy Denise, and Kelli Jean.

Philip and his family live in his childhood homeplace. His mother makes her home with them in a separate part of the house.

Tom sailed the Seven Seas during World War II. He and his wife, Norma Browning Harry, have three children. Tom and Norma live in Shelby, North Carolina.

Bruce Audy also served in the Navy. He now lives in More Haven, Florida. He has two children.

Annette is the youngest daughter of Bessie and Audy. She married Don Woods. When Don and Annette return home from work they go to their Spanish-type country home at Ranch Court, Piedmont, South Carolina. They have one son and two daughters.

Thomas Howard Harry, Jr. (Butch), grandson of Bess and Audy, was brought up in their home. He also served in the Navy and made a Good Will Tour to several ports of the world on the USS Bon Homme Richard. He married Cindy Shillinglaw of Blacksburg, South Carolina, and they have one daughter.

See separate article on Sarah Harry McCarter and Jesse Frank Harry.

Sources: Memory.

— Bessie Harry

BESSIE HARRY

569

Bessie Howard Harry was always active in the Grover community. She taught Sunday School, compiled an album of Service Men in World War II, and was the director of A History of First Baptist Church, Grover, North Carolina. For five years, 1949-1954, she was superintendent of Kings Mountain Baptist WMU. At the state meeting in Greensboro she was honored with a silver service as a token of the Association's appreciation.

She compiled a memorial booklet for Brice Holmes Harry, Jr. after his death in July, 1955. She had helped tutor him while he was confined to a respirator as a result of having polio in 1952.

Bessie continued her work at Minette Mills until many years after retirement time. She rode in the Grover Christmas Parade one year as Queen of Senior Citizens.

In 1968 Bessie visited her son, Philip, and his wife, Maria, in England and Germany. President Nixon was on his Good Will Tour to over the land Bess has left her beauty spots.

Bessie Harry, 1975 Senior Citizen Queen.

She often says that God gives us memories so that we may have roses in December. Our memory baskets overflow with the memories Bess provides. She keeps on keeping on!

Sources: Memory.

— Bessie Harry

CHARLES FRANKLIN HARRY, JR. FAMILY

570

In the summer of 1932 Stell Johnson came to Grover, North Carolina from Pike Road, Alabama to visit a friend, Mary McSwain. They had not seen each other since they were in school together in the fifth grade.

One Sunday they went to the annual Homecoming at Antioch Baptist Church. There Stell met Franklin Harry. They became engaged, but Stell went back to Alabama to finish college at the University of Montivello.

In July of 1933 Franklin went to Alabama. He and Stell were married July 8, 1933. They returned to Grover where they have been at home ever since.

Franklin was born in Grover, but Stell was born in Pike Road. She was the youngest child of Emma and Dr. Oscar Johnson. Stell's father was the typical country doctor, serving two counties for fifty years. There were no paved roads, so at first he made his house calls in a buggy or on horseback. Many of his fees were paid for with a head of cabbage, a chicken or whatever the people had. "Doc" married Emma McGowan in 1896.

Stell and Franklin had four children; Jean in 1934; C.F. Harry, III in 1936; Jim in 1940; and John in 1945.

Jean has two children, Philip and Debbie. Philip graduated from Clemson and is working with the Park Service. Debbie graduated from the University of South Carolina and is a pharmacist in Columbia, South Carolina.

Charlie and Ann Lutz Harry have two children, Robin, a sophomore at the University of North Carolina — Chapel Hill; and Scott, a junior at the McCallie school in Chattanooga, Tennessee.

Charles Franklin Harry, Jr.

Mrs. W.H. Lowrance, "Sister Minnie"

Jim and Shirley Youngblood Harry have four boys. Norman Phillips is a student at Clemson and the other boys are in high school.

John and Margaret Bryant Harry have one daughter, Ashley who is a student at the Day School in Gastonia.

Jean works in the business office at Cleveland Tech and the boys own and operate Grover Industries and Har-Ray Mills in Grover.

Franklin was born December 7, 1911. He died November 8, 1980 and is buried in the Grover Cemetery.

Franklin had a love affair with the "Old Minette Mill" where he started working when he was eight years old, the same year the mill began. He stoked the boiler, made the electricity for the town, swept the floors and gradually worked at all the jobs in the mill. He was Chairman of the Board for many years. Later he was chairman of the additional industries, Har-Ray Mills and Grover Industries.

The mill to him was not a thing; it was a being with soul and feelings. He watched over and nourished it from its infancy to maturity. Like his father before him, the employees were his friends first, then employees.

He was mayor of Grover from July 1, 1945 to November 1, 1975. During these years Grover experienced noted progress, paved streets, water works, street lights, fire department, and the rescue squad.

Franklin was a generous supporter of his Masonic Lodge, State Line Lodge #375; and his church, Shiloh Presbyterian where he had been deacon, Sunday School Superintendent, and treasurer. The Masonic Home for children in Oxford, North Carolina has The Charles Franklin Harry, Jr. Children's Playground established as a memorial to him.

Europe and a special smile from him added another highlight to Bessie's trip.

As soon as she returned home from Europe, Admiral Smith, Director of Sanford (Florida) Naval Academy, where her son Jesse Frank was Headmaster, and administrator, got in touch with her to ask her to be Housemother for 6-8 grade boys; boys from many parts of the world. So it was that Bess kept her talents going . . . her needle and thread for mending; her comforting words for homesickness; her help in subject matter; her sense of humor to fit in any time; and her Iodex to salve any ache, pain, cut, scratch or bruise that came along.

Mayor C.F. Harry, Jr. appointed her to be a charter member and representative of Grover to the Cleveland County Historical Association. She was present May 8, 1976 for the filling and closing of the capsule of County interests to be opened in 2041. At ninety years of age she accepted a three-year term on the Board of Directors of the Historical Association. She is currently helping Rush Hamrick save the Cape Hatteras Lighthouse. She is also still using the illustration of the cat and "antique" saucer of milk to lure fellow Clevelanders to join the Historical Association. She and Jackie Rountree, at the request of Bob Gidney, Historian, prepared the first town (Grover) display for the museum.

In 1973 we found Bess on the Sea of Galilee. Friends and family had provided her the opportunity to make a Holy Land Tour. When she returned she compiled a booklet of her adventures between Grover and Galilee.

Bess is still where the action is, be it Sunday School, Bible School, weddings, funerals, or in Raleigh to see about her invalid sister, or at Bethel Hill in Roxboro for homecoming.

In her kitchen equipped with a two-burner hot plate, a toaster, frypan and percolator, she can still turn out a meal fit for a king and all his subjects. Her speciality at the present is dried fruit fried pies.

One of her favorite quotations is: "Make you the world a bit better or more beautiful because you have lived in it." by Edward W. Bok. All

After Franklin's father died the Minette Mill employees presented the family a handsome bronze plaque which ended with these words: Charles Franklin Harry, Sr. — Humanity's Friend. Charles Franklin Harry, Jr. and his family continue this trend.

Sources: personal experience

— Jackie Rountree

CHARLES FRANKLIN HARRY, SR. FAMILY

571

Once upon a time a man was shot and his cousin went over to keep a watch over him. When he stepped upon the porch he could see someone putting out the midnight supper. He not only looked more closely, he gazed admiringly, and then affirmed, "That's the girl I'm going to marry!" And so he did.

The man who had been shot was Charlie Hughes, cousin to Charlie Harry who was to become my father. The soon-to-be-bride was Effie Jeannete Holmes who had come from Chester, South Carolina where she lived with her sister, Minnie Lowrance. She had come to look after her sister, Annie, who was married to Charlie Hughes. Aunt Annie was expecting a baby, and was going blind.

Effie went back to Chester to her job as bookkeeper for her brohter-in-law, W.H. Lowrance, Aunt Minnie's husband. Charlie Harry kept the C & W Railway busy! He was either going to Gastonia to catch the C & W train to Chester to see Effie or sending letters by mail. Mama saved these letters in an old tin fruit cake box.

After many letters and many visits Charles Franklin Harry, Jr. (b. 10-21-1885) and Effie Jeanette Holmes (b. 9-2-1884) were married February 5, 1909 in the home of Mr. & Mrs. W.H. Lowrance. Afterwards they came to Grover where a wedding feast awaited. Daddy forever teased mama for choosing to eat hot cornbread, butter, and molasses on her wedding night instead of the more gourmet.

In daddy's love letters to mama he usually teased her about the beautiful and lovely Turner girls of Grover or he would discuss their house and home plans. They began their housekeeping across the branch (Jake's) in a more than modest and small house. It is in ruins now, but the chimney still stands as a sort of monument to their beginnings as a family. They moved to town and progressed from one house to another until, finally, in 1928 daddy moved mama into the house she had planned to her liking.

In the meantime a mill, Minette, had been founded, seven children produced, the Great Depression was being overcome, and mama and daddy became greatly involved in all areas of civic, community, church and social activities. Mama helped Dr. Oates deliver babies, and then helped "lay out" anyone who died by placing them on a board and putting fifty cent pieces on their eyelids.

Mama was one of the first housewives to get an electric mixer — a Kitchen Aid. Before long folks from all about were bringing her the ingredients to make chow-chow, mayonnaise, angel food cakes, ice cream, and other things that required extra arm effort. In between these times she went to Eastern Star; Ladies Auxiliary; with daddy on trips to Coney Island, excursions and to local places . . . and then cheerfully fed and housed anyone daddy brought in, be they from New York or just down the street. She even prepared oyster stews for all the mill employees. Sometimes they would be in the sewing room part of the mill, at the house, or sometimes at the church.

The neighborhood folks would also come Monday through Friday evenings at seven o'clock to gather around the radio to listen and laugh with us over the antics of "Amos and Andy". We also had a combination victrola and Edison phonograph. It played thick and thin records. One of the thick records was about a "bar" (bear) and the narrator's punch line was "I wasn't scered, but I thought I'd Remember . . .

Articles
Are Indexed
By
Article Numbers
. . . Not By Page
Number

better go". I can hear Warren Hicks laughing over and over again everytime he'd come to the house to listen to it.

Mama's father, Benjamin Franklin Holmes, was a Methodist minister in Spartanburg County. He had been married before he married mama's mother, Mary Jane Pearson, who had also been married before. Each had his and her children and then their children. They were Lon, Etta, Annie, Perry, Esther, Minnie, and Effie. Esther died as a young girl. Lon was really a half-brother, but after their parents died, all the children more or less brought each other up. Her sister, Minnie, made her home with mama for the latter years of her life. She became affectionately known as "Sister" Minnie, and contributed a very gentle portion to the heritage of Cleveland County.

Daddy let himself be imposed on, but by and large, he thoroughly enjoyed it. His Christmas delight was to give away silver dollars to all whom he met or to those who came to the house to get theirs. We went to Shelby one day and while at the stoplight a lady backed her car out and into us. Daddy got out and apologized for even being in Shelby.

He was known mostly by "Cap" Harry, except on those occasions when mama's annoyance got the best of her and it was "Charlie Harry!!!. They tore up the pattern and the mold after just one of you." Some of the pattern and the mold carried over into their 18 grandchildren. As a result of these mama was now mostly known as "Nannie".

Cap tried to be an executive at times, but more times he was at his first love, the saw mill.

Times were changing and the pace of living becoming more speedy. Many of his old cronies had gone. On March 8, 1952 daddy went too.

Mama spent the last year of her life in Florida — maybe to prepare her family for a longer separation. She died April 8, 1958. The night after her funeral the children and families gathered together in the dining room of "mama's house." We got out the old tin fruit cake box and read daddy's love letters to each other. We laughed and cried and rejoiced that they were at home together forever.

Their Children — SaDelle Holmes Harry

Charlie and Effie Holmes Harry

Effie Holmes Harry

Uzzell, (Mrs. T.A., Jr.) Charles Franklin Harry, Jr., Minnie Frances Harry Barrier, David Lowrance Harry, Sr., William Benjamin Harry, Brice Holmes Harry, Sr., Effie Jeanette Harry Rountree (Jackie), (Mrs. G.R.)

— Jeanette Harry Rountree

CHILDREN OF CHARLES FRANKLIN HARRY, SR. and EFFIE HOLMES HARRY

572

The seven children of Effie and Charlie Harry were born between the years December 13, 1908 and October 31, 1919. They are SaDelle Holmes, Charles Franklin, Jr., Frances, David Lowrance, William Benjamin, Brice Holmes, and Jeanette (Jackie).

SaDelle (Syd) has made her home in Asheville, North Carolina. She is married to Thomas Albert Uzzell, Jr., a retired lawyer. They have two daughters, Jeanette Pease and Corrinne Spencer, and five grandchildren.

Frances has made her home in High Point since leaving Grover in 1954.

David married (Oct. 31, 1936) Gladys Westbrook from Blacksburg, South Carolina, where they had been school mates. Gladys was the daughter of Robert Lewis Westbrook and Alice Walla Elliott. David and Gladys have one son, David Lowrance, Jr., and one daughter, Peggy Hidell. They have five grandchildren. Dave and Gladys maintain homes in Grover and Myrtle Beach, South Carolina. Before retirement, David, along with his brothers and father operated the mill.

Bill (W.B.) had a unique arrangement while growing up. When he was six years old he lived in Chester, South Carolina with his aunt, "Sister" Minnie, and Uncle Willie Lowrance during the nine school months. In the summer months he came home to Grover to be with his family and to work in the mill. When he was in the ninth grade it was decided for him to remain at his Grover home.

He went to Blacksburg High School and there met Katherine Bonebrake, daughter of Benjamin Snively and Louise Fayssoux Bonebrake. Bill and Katherine were married July 20, 1940. They have three daughters, Louise Neal, Susan Meares, and Billie Ann Kelly, and five grandchildren.

Before retirement Bill, too, was a part of the operation of the mill. They make their home at Myrtle Beach, South Carolina now. Katherine's mother, Louise Bonebrake (Mama Lou) keeps a home in Shelby waiting for them.

Holmes was a storekeeper from the time he was a kid. After a medical discharge from the Army, during World War, II he joined forces with his father and brothers in operating the mill.

Louise McMillan came to Grover to teach school. She and Holmes were married June 6, 1941. They had two sons, Brice and Robert, and a foster son, Maynard Pierce from the Thornwell Home for Children in Clinton, South Carolina. Louise and her sister and two brothers, had been brought up at Thornwell. When Louise and Holmes' son, Brice, died July 7, 1955, they took Maynard into their home. Maynard is now married to the former Donna Mauney. They live in Shelby. Robert has a son, Brice, and a daughter, Kathleen.

Holmes died on July 23, 1970. He and his son, Brice, are buried in the Grover Cemetery.

See separate articles on Charles Franklin Harry, Jr. and Jeanette (Jackie) Rountree.

Source: Personal Knowledge.

— Jackie Rountree

DAVID FILMORE CLAY HARRY FAMILY

573

David Filmore Clay Harry's second wife was Frances Sara Gold (b. 11-28-1847 — d. 5-2-1930). Frances (Fannie) was the daughter of Daniel Pleasant Gold (b. 2-11-1815 — d. 1-12-1879) and Margaret M. Jenkins (b. 10-31-1821 — d. 10-4-1878). Daniel and Margaret were married November 5, 1838.

The children of David and Fannie were Charles Franklin, Sr., Ralph Gold (b. 12-9-1886 — d. 12-19-1886), Woodfin Grady, Benjamin Audy, and Margaret (Maggie) Lee.

This family was reared on the old mill stream where there was a lake that gave the water power for a saw mill, table manufacturing and clearer rollers for textile mills, a Grist Mill and French Burrs flour mill. This was a popular place for swimming, all-day gatherings and baptizings. It has remained in the family. The "old homeplace" has been home for the families of David Filmore Clay, Audy, Margaret, W.B. and now, Jeanette (Jackie) Rountree — (Mrs. Glenn R.). Glenn has fashioned and placed in cement a bird feeder out of the old turbine wheel that Mrs. Audy (Bessie) gave him after Audy passed away. Today Jake's branch has been re-dammed for storage. With special pumps, and pipes, this same water supplements the water supply for the textile industries of Grover.

I remember hearing the family worrying about Grandpa (D.F.C.) taking so much "patent" medicine, and what all it was going to do to him. Being less than five years old I had no idea what patent medicine was — other than it must be a terrible and scary thing. Even with today's glamorous advertising, I approach "patent" medicine with caution. Grandpa's funeral must have been one of the last funerals conducted at the "Little Church in the Pines", (Shiloh Presbyterian) which he had built. He died December 8, 1924.

Children of Charles Franklin Harry, Sr., 1922. Seated front: Bill. L to R: David, Franklin, Frances, Holmes, SaDelle, and Jeanette.

Children of Charles Franklin Harry, Sr., 1967. L to R: Jackie Rountree, Holmes, Bill, David, Frances Barrier, SaDelle Uzzell and Franklin.

Grandma Harry lived six years after Grandpa died. She spent part time staying with one son and then another. When she stayed at our house she slept with me. Most every night she'd moan and groan and seem really bad off. She'd call out, "Oh, Lordy! Oh, Charlie! Oh, Grady! Oh, Audy! Oh, Maggie Lee! Oh, Effie!" I'd ask her why she was moaning and groaning and she'd say, "It makes me feel better." If there should be a summer storm during the night, we'd have to put all the windows down and be even hotter. Her groans and moans became even louder — so she couldn't hear the thunder.

She was famous for her story-telling, some true, some made up. Folks came from all around to hear her tell stories and to tell about what all went on in Polkville and Upper Cleveland when she was growing up. She would sit in a rocking chair on the front porch and we'd sit all around the chair. I always stood on the rocker and rocked along with her as she told her stories. One that she had told to tease Grandpa by telling was a favorite with all of us. There were many snakes at the "old homeplace" where she lived. One day she went to the garden and felt something run up her leg under her long dress, petticoats and apron. She screamed and yelled for help and Grandpa came with a shotgun and the boys with hoes and rakes and sticks. When they found the culprit it was a grasshopper. Grandpa was outdone and asked her if she wasn't ashamed to carry on so over a mere grasshopper. She said no, she wasn't, but she was ashamed she had married a man who had to have a shotgun with which to kill it — backed up by sons with hoes and rakes and sticks!

Much of her story-telling knack tided over into her children. All four of them had their own set of yarns to tell and re-tell.

Sources: family Bible, memory.

— Jackie Rountree

JESSE FRANK HARRY

574

Jesse Frank Harry was born October 10, 1927, to Benjamin Audy and Bessie Howard Harry, on a sixty acre, family owned farm located near the small town of Grover, Cleveland County, North Carolina. He was dubbed "Jake" early in life, and was known in this community by that name. He was fifth in line in a large family with four brothers and two sisters.

Jake received a gold seal diploma from Grover High School in 1945, and was awarded the Danforth Foundation Leadership Award. He was president of the senior class, and won the citizenship award. Following graduation he served a year in the Navy, after which, he returned to high school at Kings Mountain where he earned his second high school diploma. At Kings Mountain he was editor of the high school paper, and was elected president of the student body.

Active in sports, Jake lettered in several sports in high school, and he won The Best Fighter award in the 1945 Carolinas Golden Gloves, Novice Division.

Jake was married to Goldie Ray Rippy of the Mount Paran Community, Cherokee County, South Carolina, in 1949. This union gave birth to an only son, Ronald Dean. In 1962, following dissolution of this marriage in 1959, he married a former schoolmate, Dorothy Presley.

After an enlistment in the Air Force during the Korean conflict, with duty in Europe, Jake attended five colleges and universities; University of Tampa, East Carolina College (B.S. Degree), Seminole Junior College (Sanford, Fla.), University of Florida, and Florida Technological University (Med Degree).

After several years of regional level management with Western Auto Supply Company, Jake left the sales field for what he believed would be a more fulfilling profession. He accepted a teaching position in the field of education. He served as teacher, athletic director, admissions director, headmaster, and finally as Administrator of the Sanford Naval Academy, a two school Bernarr McFadden Foundation Educational unit located in Sanford, Florida.

Upon dissolution of the Bernarr McFadden

David Filmore Clay Harry Family. Seated: David and Fannie Gold Harry. Standing: Charlie, Audy, Maggie Lee and Grady.

Audy and Grady Harry on old mill pond.

Foundation in 1976, Jake went into public school education, where he is presently a member of the administration of a large central Florida high school.

Jake's motto was instilled in him by his mother, a former school teacher, who always included in her letters to him these words by Edgar Guest: "tis by desire and by design, not by chance that men grow fine."

— J.F. Harry

Grady Harry

JOHN BISHOP HARRY FAMILY 575

John Bishop Harry was born March 7, 1774 in Hagerstown, Maryland. John Bishop was the eldest son of David Harry, Senior (November 13, 1750 — March 18, 1843) and Margaret Bishop (April 2, 1755 — April 5, 1836). John Bishop had two brothers, Martin and David, Junior, and two sisters, Margaret and Mary.

John Bishop's father, David, Senior, was a wagonmaker and a Revolutionary War veteran. John Bishop's uncle, Martin Harry, Junior, served as a sergeant in the Flying Camp, a fast moving and attacking calvary commanded by George Washington.

John Bishop Harry's grandfather, Martin Harry (May 27, 1720 — August 30, 1788), and grandmother, Anna Maria Harry (January 1, 1720 — July 2, 1780), were born in the Alsace Loraine region of Germany. They came to America in the early 1740's and helped lay out the town of Elizabethtown, Maryland, later named Hagerstown. Martin and Anna Maria were Lutherans and are buried in the Lutheran Church cemetery in Hagerstown. They had seven sons and no daughters; Jonathan, David, Senior, Charles, Martin, Junior, Jacob, John, and Andrew.

John Bishop Harry married Sarah Ann Hutchinson (June 15, 1784 — June 29, 1844) of Plymouth, Virginia on April 20, 1806 in Shenandoah County, Virginia. John Bishop and Sarah Ann traveled on their honeymoon in a covered wagon to Lincoln County, North Carolina.

John Bishop, whose nickname was "John Bull", settled in Lincolntown, North Carolina where he kept the old tavern and inn. "By trade, he was a silversmith, clock maker, and gun maker, the love of which flows through the generations — love of guns and easy money makers."

In 1835 "John Bull" was a North Carolina Senator representing Lincoln County.

"John Bull" took an active part in the organization of Cleaveland (now Cleveland) County when it was formed in 1841 from land previously in Lincoln County. He helped survey the new county and lay out the town of Shelby.

"John Bull" became a large landowner and slave owner. He owned some thousand acres between Buffalo Creek and the South Carolina line. It laid along a stream called Jacob's Branch. He lived in a large house that he built.

Sarah Ann and John Bishop had four sons; John Hutchinson (March 9, 1807-?), David (1811-?), Will (abt. 1820-?), Washington Marion (July 7, 1822 — January 25, 1889), and four daughters; Maria Ana Margratha Harry Benton (May 27, 1809 — July 1, 1829), Ann Elizabeth Harry Bridges (January 29, 1814 —

May 17, 1882), Lydia Harry Martin (August 2, 1816-?), and Juliana Harry Hopper (December 15, 1818-?).

John Hutchinson Harry, the eldest son, went to Texas in 1836 bringing with him a company of men for the purpose of joining the Texas force against the Mexican government. He served under General Houston as quartermaster. John Harry was deputized to transport the archives and State arms from Port Lavaca to Austin, just previous to the burning of Port Lavaca by the Indians. David Harry also served in the Texas Revolution. Will Harry moved to Lubbock, Texas. Washington Marion Harry, the youngest child, was the only son that established a home near his father.

An unfortunate accident befell John Bishop Harry. As he was returning from Raleigh on horseback, the old man was caught in a heavy thunder shower. The dye from the red lining of his hat mixed with the rain and ran into his eyes. It injured his eyesight and he was almost blind during the last years of his life.

A beautifully executed will in his own handwriting shows that he was well educated. It is also interesting to note that a map of his property made by him showed the location of a money swamp where gold, silver, and Confederate money was hidden during the War between the States. The money swamp has never been found.

After the death of his wife, Sarah Ann, John Bishop sold his home to Major Borders. He moved two miles up the road and built a smaller, rectangular home with one big room,

Harry

Harry Family Coat of Arms

a fireplace in the south, and two pot racks at the north end. He had a dozen slaves that lived nearby and assisted him. Here he lived out his last years in luxury and comfort. His slaves prepared his meals, kept the big log fires burning in the winter. A bed of embers burned under the pots on the pot racks of the kitchen fireplace. They worked his farm in the summer and split the big chestnut trees in the woodlands into rails to fence in the cattle, hogs, and sheep. The old rail fence enclosed one hundred acres of pasture land. John Bishop Harry Tombstone of John Bishop Harry.

Margaret is buried in the Grover Cemetery alongside her mother and father and brother, Grady.

Her footstone reads:

Margaret Lee Harry
Nurse — Humanitarian
April 13, 1887 — May 5, 1973
Sources: Family Bible and memory.

— Jeanette H. Rountree

WASHINGTON MARION HARRY FAMILY

577

Washington Marion Harry (b. 7-7-1822 — d. 1-25-1889), youngest of the eight recorded children of John Bishop Harry, married Mary McArthur (b. 6-11-1822 — d. 5-25-1909) on August 14, 1842 in Cleveland County.

Mary was the daughter of John McArthur and Susannah Roberts McArthur of Rutherford County.

Washington's family and ancestors are referred to in the John Bishop Harry biography sketch.

Mary and Washington had seven children who lived beyond their first year. A son and daughter died in infancy. George Washington Harry died when he was seven months and three days of age.

Washington and Mary's eldest child, John Wesley McMicken (Mack), established a home one-half mile from his father's home. The front room of his home was a community store. Ex-slaves farmed his land. He was a school master in the town of Whitaker (now Grover). There were plenty of pupils, but no text books. Mack remembered the principles of "riting" the three R's, so he got a blank accountant book that the Yankees had thought of no value, and wrote by hand the examples to teach the boys and girls the rudiments of education. The unusual text book is the property of the D.J. Keeter family, grandchildren of Mr. Harry of Confederate days. Mrs. Franklin (Stell) Harry has a framed copy of the back and front of a lived to be 87 years old and died in the third year of the War between the States.

Washington Marion Harry

Sources: Family & courthouse records, Mormon Archives.

— Benjamin B. Harry

MARGARET (MAGGIE) LEE HARRY

576

Margaret (Maggie) Lee Harry was born at Grover. After attending the Grover Grammar School, she attended Round Hill Academy, a boarding School near Rutherfordton.

In those days, young ladies married early or taught school. Margaret was determined to become a nurse, despite family opposition. With little encouragement, she boarded the Southern R.R. train for Boston, Massachusetts where she entered Massachusetts General Hospital, from which she graduated in 1918. She was also a graduate of the School of Social Work and Public Health in Richmond, Virginia.

As the first Delano nurse, sent out by the American Red Cross, she worked in the mountains around Highlands, North Carolina. Here she encountered much poverty and deprivation in isolated mountain cabins. She assisted many families financially and helped many worthy children to attend the DAR school at Tommassee and Talullah Falls.

For a number of years she was head of the Meriwether County Health Department in Georgia. Here again, she placed scores of children in educational institutions and assisted many financially.

Those who knew Margaret knew her to be prim, proper, and precise. It was always a wonderment that she could tolerate the conditions of the poverty in which she lived and worked for a part of her life. Perhaps it was such that motivated her to do all that she could, as one person, to alleviate these conditions.

Margaret Lee Harry

page of the "text book".

Their youngest child, Zebulon, was an employee of the railroad and later a merchant in Gastonia, North Carolina. He married Margaret Estelle Underwood on April 1, 1891.

Sarah Susannah married Noah William Moss. Eliza Ann Jane married Columbus Morrow. David Filmore Clay married Nancy Jane Adams. His second wife was Sara Frances (Fanny) Gold. Dicia Catherine married Edd Curry. Mary Elizabeth Julia Ann (Aunt Sis) married Dock Pinkney Bell. Her second husband was Dave J. Allen.

Washington's father, John Bishop Harry, owned an acreage of some thousand acres between Buffalo Creek and the South Carolina line. It lay along a stream called Jacob's Branch. Washington constructed a log dam on the branch, and used the power from it to set up a community service center consisting of a corn mill, saw mill, syrup mill, and a cotton gin which was probably the first cotton gin in Cleveland County. It had on it the printed letters of the Whitney patent, and was geared to operate not only by water power, but also to a cog gear that operated the gin by manpower.

Washington and Mary are buried in the Grover cemetery.

Sources: John Bishop Harry biography

— Ben Harry Bessie Howard Harry and Jackie Harry Rountree

WOODFIN GRADY HARRY

578

Woodfin Grady Harry (b. 10-7-89 — d. 10-5-76) was born at the homeplace near Grover, North Carolina. Like many boys of this era, he was named for the famous orator, Henry W. Grady. He attended the Grover Grammar School, and in his teens, Westminster Academy where old Britain Presbyterian Church is located near Rutherfordton.

A cousin, Pulitzer Prize winner, Hatcher

Mary McArthur Harry

QUINCY HARTMAN and ELIZABETH JOHNSON HARTMAN

579

Quincey Hartman was born in the Belwood community of Cleveland County on December 12, 1878. His parents were John and Nancy Poole Hartman. Sarah Elizabeth Johnson was born in the Moriah community of Upper Cleveland County on December 23, 1879. Her parents were Joseph and Phoebe Bass Johnson. Quincey grew into a tall, handsome man with dark hair and piercing eyes. "Lizzie" was dainty, petite, and very feminine and lady-like. They were married August 28, 1898 and as newly-weds made their home in Belwood. Their marriage produced twelve children: Getty Marie, Myrtle Mary, Velma Texie, Theodore Columbus, Lois Ola Emmaline (L.O.E.) (deceased 1965), Jasper Swain (Swain), Irod Cecil (Joe), Ruth G., Vera Evelyn, Byron Miller (Hub), Jay Reen (Jake) and Durham Palmer (deceased 1928). The large family grew up sharing in the farming and household duties.

After the boys were old enough to handle the farming chores, Quincey went back to using his carpentry skills. Lizzie spent her time with the children and the housework. During the winters she spent many hours making beautiful handmade quilts — many of which went to the church raffles.

The church was the center of the Hartman's lives. Quincey was Sunday School Superintendent at Knob Creek Methodist Church for forty years and was instrumental in the construction of the frame building that stood before the present-day rock structure. Lizzie was a Sunday School teacher and a charter member of the Knob Creek Ladies Missionary Society.

They had very high moral standards and considered it their duty and privilege to spend much time visiting and caring for the sick in the community. They looked upon such things as dancing and card playing as a waste of time and the work of the devil. They both, however, had beautiful singing voices. Quincey sang tenor and Lizzie sang what many people called the "sweetest alto in the world". They sang in their church and with their children. Almost all the children learned to play some type of Hughes, interested him in attending the University of North Carolina from which he graduated in 1913.

After a year serving as principal of a school in Statesville, he attended Columbia Theological Seminary. As a Presbyterian minister he served churches in New Orleans, Louisiana; Newton, North Carolina; and Manchester, Georgia. He was always glad when he could come back to preach in his home church, Shiloh Presbyterian. His whole ministry must have centered around "The Beatitudes." These were his favorite preaching subjects.

Reverend Harry was married to Mabel Enid Bulloch, a cousin of Theodore Roosevelt, of Bullochville, Georgia. The town name was later changed, by President Franklin Delano Roosevelt, to Warm Springs because of the attention it received as a polio center. Mr. Harry served as Mayor of Warm Springs during all of Roosevelt's presidential years, and in that capacity, became a close personal friend and minister to the president.

The three children of W.G. Harry are Mrs. James (Julia Frances) Bennett, Spartanburg, South Carolina; Mrs. Andrew J. (Margaret) Thompson, Warm Springs, Georgia; and Henry G. Harry, Augusta, Georgia.

He married secondly Matilda Burks French from Columbus, Georgia, who still lives there.

Grady's fondness for North Carolina, Cleveland County, the Grover Community, and his 'ole homeplace on Jake's Branch grew with the years. He requested to be buried along with his mother and father and sister. And this he was on his 87th birthday.

— Jeanette H. Rountree

Rev. W.G. Harry meeting President F.D. Roosevelt at Warm Springs, Georgia, 1944.

musical instrument, including the pump organ, piano, accordion, mouth harp, guitar, etc.

The ten children that survive are still a close knit family and they enjoy getting together often for songfests, good old-fashioned picking and grinning and some sentimental reminiscing about their growing-up years. Several still live in Belwood and still attend the Knob Creek Methodist Church that was so dear to their parents.

Quincey and Lizzie had a happy life together. They were a devoted couple — devoted to God, their children, their community, and last but certainly not least — they were devoted to each other. They had been married 63 years when Quincey died on November 3, 1961. Lizzie died seven years later on June 5, 1968. They are both buried at Knob Creek Methodist Church Cemetery, Belwood, N.C. The fine example they set is our valuable inheritance.

Sources: Family Bible

— Joyce H. Lutz

THE HAWKINS FAMILY

580

Ransom Newton Hawkins, grandson of Thomas Hawkins, Sr. and Lucretia Dyars, son of Thomas Hawkins, Jr. and Ellinder Williams Hawkins.

Born in 1838 in Rutherford County, NC., his father came down to North Carolina from Virginia where his grandparents landed when they came to America from England about 1802.

He was a veteran of the Civil War. In 1836, he married Julia Ann Winn from the same community. They settled in the Boiling Springs area of Cleveland County where they raised their family of ten children.

The old home place still stands and has been restored by one of the grandchildren who lives there now.

He was one of our pioneer Baptist ministers. Along with his active ministry, he farmed to make a living. He helped organize and build several churches in the county, serving as pastor at Sandy Plains, Mount Sinai, Walls Church at Ellenboro and others near by.

We found records in church histories, Bibles, family legal records, Kings Mountain Baptist Association Minutes, and families who remembered.

In his early ministry churches were small, crude buildings, unheated and poorly kept. He was faithful to his conviction sometimes riding a mule to his church and walking miles to get there.

His wife died some few years before he did, and he lived on by himself to reach eighty years. They are both buried at Boiling Springs Cemetery.

Their children: Preston P. Hawkins, 1858, married Susan Smith; William Thomas Hawkins 1861, married Nancy Blanton and Ellen Blanton; Arminda Hawkins, 1862, married Burel B. Blanton; John Henderson Hawkins, 1864, married Hattie Hughes; Callie K. Hawkins, 1867, married George I. Morehead; Dora Hawkins, 1869, married Columbus Ciaro Lovelace; Octovia Evelyn Hawkins, 1871, married J. Luke Green; Joseph S. Hawkins, 1873, married Eliza Etta Smith; Governor Vance Hawkins, 1875, married Olive Blanton, second marriage to Bessie Gladden; Robert Newton Hawkins, 1877-1897, was never married.

Most of their children spent their entire lives in Boiling Springs and most of them raised good size families.

There are quite a few older Hawkins families in this county but we do not know how closely related they are.

Robert Newton Hawkins (1897-1978) was a member of the fifth generation that we have a record of. He was a son of John Henderson Hawkins and Hattie Hughes Hawkins and was born in the same area of Cleveland County that his fore fathers helped settle.

He went to school at Boiling Springs High School, which is Gardner Webb College now. He taught in the county schools a few years later and he worked for the Ford Motor Company. Later he joined Metropolitan Life Insurance Company as a sales representative, from which he retired.

He lived all his married life in Shelby where he and his wife Mildred Cabiniss Hawkins raised one son, Robert Lawson Hawkins, who lives in Raleigh, where he has been employed by the Raleigh School System for the past 25 years. He married Ann Moorehead and they have three children: Steven of Raleigh, Jim of the Air Force in Missouri, and Nancy Lynn married Carter Freeze and they live in Shelby, NC.

Robert Newton Hawkins had one brother, Clyde Hawkins (1895-1964) he married Bertha Spencer, A sister, Orla Mae Hawkins 1900 married Wilburn Putnam. He was a member of First Baptist Church of Shelby, when he died he was buried in Sunset Cemetery.

— M.C. Hawkins

THE HAYWOOD FAMILY

581

The Haywood family name is well known in North Carolina history. Haywood County was named for John Haywood who served as treasurer of North Carolina for forty years.

Two descendants of the Haywood family are present-day residents of Cleveland County. Brothers, Gerald Wayne Witherspoon of Shelby and Philip Warren Witherspoon of Kings Mountain were reared in Richmond County on a farm that has been in their mother's family for generations.

The Haywood family of Montgomery County and later of Richmond County were descendants of Byrd Haywood, born in Virginia about 1750, who came to North Carolina as a young man. One of his five sons was James, born about 1793. James' son, James Duncan, born in 1821, married Sarah Ann McDonald on April 3, 1855.

The years 1870-1880 brought changes to the family of James Duncan and Sarah Haywood. They sold their lands in Montgomery County and moved to Richmond County. A family source said that James and Sarah made this move because they had heard that Richmond County was to begin public school education. James donated an acre of land to build the first public school in Richmond County. The building still stands near the family home-site.

When the family of James Duncan and Sarah moved to Richmond County in 1874 they lived in a log house between Rockingham and Ellerbe. Later the unmarried sons, Joe and Zack, built a new house on the same site. As the other children grew to adulthood they settled nearby. Most of the family is buried at the Haywood Cemetery across the road from the original homesite.

James Martin Haywood, the oldest son of James Duncan, was born in Montgomery County on December 1, 1862. He married Nancy Catherine Covington of Richmond County. They had 11 children, the fourth being Willie Alice. She grew up to be a beautiful young teacher, teaching in one room schools until her marriage to a red-headed farmer from Darlington County, South Carolina. He was Thomas Franklin Witherspoon, a descendant of the Witherspoons from Scotland who settled in Williamsburg County, South Carolina in 1734 and the same Witherspoon family from whom John Witherspoon, signer of the Declaration of Independence, descended.

Willie Alice and Thomas Franklin moved to the Haywood farm in Richmond County after living in Clarendon County, South Carolina and in Rockingham, North Carolina for several years. They reared and educated six children on the family farm. Two of these six are presently residing in Cleveland County.

Philip Warren Witherspoon, born July 18, 1936, attended Rockingham public schools and Wingate College. He served in the Army from 1958-1960. After completing his military duty, he came to Cleveland County, married Patricia Goforth Ware, later adopting her two sons, Charles Edmond and Patrick Alan. Their daughter, Wanda Lynn, was born February 13, 1964. Charles is now married to Lynn Watson and they reside in Charlotte.

Philip has been very active in Cleveland County activities. He is presently Captain of Kings Mountain Police Reserve, Director of Kings Mountain Sertoma Club, Kings Mountain Booster Club, and Treasurer of Improved Order of Redmen.

Gerald Wayne Witherspoon was born on December 26, 1937. He married Mary Yvonne Chappell of Rockingham and they moved to Cleveland County in 1976. Their two sons are now married. Gerald Wayne Witherspoon, Jr. married Cynthia Hord from Mooresboro and they are living in Maxton, North Carolina. David Brian married Regina Scholl from Rockingham, North Carolina and they are making their home in Rockingham.

Gerald has been very active in Cleveland County activities. He is presently Chairman of the Administrative Board of Lafayette Street United Methodist Church, President of Piedmont Shrine Club, Past President of Shelby Optimist Club, and Director of Resident Lenders of North Carolina. He has officiated high school football for a number of years. He is a Charter Member of Cleveland Horse Association and was Show Chairman of the first two shows put on in the new facilities that he helped build at the fairgrounds. He is also a Committee Member of Scout Troop 105.

Sources: Haywood, Dr. Hubert; The Haywood Family U.S. Census; 1790; 1800; 1850; 1860; 1870 Record of Deeds; 1868-1877, Vols. 22, 23, 24

— Jean Witherspoon Hawkins (Mrs. Leo F.)

BROADUS and JOANN HEATHERLY

582

Broadus Heatherly was born September 10, 1930 to Sunnie Henson and Joseph Paul Heatherly, a farmer and textile worker, in Union County, South Carolina. He is one of eight children born to this couple.

His Grandfather, Squire Joe Heatherly, was a native North Carolinian. It was said of him that he always had great love for North Carolina and a prayer that one of his eight sons would become a minister. Perhaps Broadus, a Grandson, being a Baptist Minister serving churches in North Carolina is the fulfillment of this dream and prayer.

He is married to JoAnn Mathis, (June 29, 1950) daughter of Viola Jones and Grady Mathis. JoAnn, the oldest of five children was born October 9, 1933 in Spartanburg, South Carolina. Her father died when she was a baby and she was brought up by her stepfather, Julius Ford the father of the two younger brothers and two younger sisters.

JoAnn and Broadus are the parents of one son, Terry Heatherly, now living in Summer-ville, West Virginia and a daughter, Cheryl Billings now living in Shelby, North Carolina. The couple have three grandchildren.

Broadus attended Union County Schools (South Carolina), North Greenville Junior College and holds a B.S. Degree in psychology from the Baptist College at Charleston, South Carolina. He did his graduate work at the University of South Carolina, Southeastern Baptist Theological Seminary, and South Carolina Baptist Hospital School of Pastoral Care.

He was ordained to the gospel ministry on June 1956 by West Springs Baptist Church a rural church in Union County, South Carolina. He was in his second year of college when ordained.

During his ministry he has served Sulphur Springs Baptist Church in Union County, Rehoboth and Cherokee Falls Baptist Churches in Cherokee County (South Carolina) and First Baptist Church of St. Stephen, in Berkley County, South Carolina.

The Heatherly's came to the pastorate of Mount Sinai Baptist Church, located in the southern tip of Cleveland County, in June 1972. They readily admit that this is the best community and the best church they have ever served.

They have always been active in community and civic activities and have always cooperated with the Baptist Association State Convention and Southern Baptist Convention wherever they have served.

JoAnn attended Union County (South Carolina) public schools, Cecils Business College of Spartanburg, South Carolina and Shelby, Commercial College, Shelby, North Carolina.

Among her work experiences she served as Secretary to the Principal of Macedonia High School in Moncks Corner, South Carolina for six years and more recently Office Manager for Shelby Concrete Products, Inc. in Shelby, North Carolina.

JoAnn's hobbies include reading, swimming and collecting souvenir tea cups. Broadus enjoys traveling, collecting items with sentimental attachments and walking. However, the two agree that their favorite pastime is visiting and playing with the three grandchildren.

Sources: Personal

— Broadus Heatherly

CHARITY CAROLINE LOVE HENDRICK

583

Charity Caroline Love Hendrick was my great-great grandmother. She was the daughter of Charles and Fereby Ingram Love and was born in 1805 in what was then Rutherford County, North Carolina, but since 1841 has been Cleveland County. One of four daughters and six sons, she came from a family that was industrious and had accumulated some wealth, especially in property, but as shown by a gift of her brother James Love, they had not done it only for selfish reasons. This brother, on August 11, 1841, soon after the formation of Cleveland County from Lincoln and Rutherford counties, donated for a county seat to be named for the Revolutionary hero, Colonel Shelby, a piece of land, 147 acres, "more or less" and designated certain plots thereof to be used for the building of a church for each of the four denominations then existing in this part of the country, and also for a courthouse and a school.

Charity was married to William (Bill) Hendrick, who was born in Virginia in 1801, and had moved to the then Rutherford County (later Cleveland) with his parents, who were seeking good Farming land. To this union of Bill and Charity were born eight children. The couple purchased four hundred acres of land near what is now the north edge of the town of Shelby. Part of the land comprised the site of the present Cleveland Memorial Hospital. Later, having sold this property, they bought the Tom Elliott Farm, known as the J. Mack Green Old Homestead at Double Shoals and lived there for several years. Bill died March 24, 1859, at the age of 59 years, 9 months. Charity died July 21, 1884, at the age of 79 years, 3 months, and 26 days. She and her husband were both buried at Double Shoals in a burial ground which has since become a part of the cemetery of the Double Shoals Baptist Church. Their grave stones carry the above dates.

Charity Caroline Love Hendrick, 1805-1884.

Charity was always known as a good, kind and peace-loving citizen. She was generous and a good neighbor to all, sharing many things she had with others. She was never too busy to help a friend or neighbor in sickness or trouble. She maintained a spacious and beautiful home. She was thrifty, industrious, and her home was dedicated to the rearing of her children as good citizens and for the help of those who needed the family's help. Her family attended Zion Baptist Church, either walking the three miles there, or going by buggy.

Just looking at Charity's portrait and reflecting on the things people have told me about her, lead me to believe she was a lovely lady with many admirable qualities that endeared her to those who knew her. As an early American woman, she participated in many activities for the good of her community and her country. She served her generation well and left a goodly heritage. I'm proud that Charity Caroline Love Hendrick was my ancestor.

LANDMARKS!

Landmarks! Landmarks! Our ancient landmarks do not destroy
With delight we'll view them, hold dear, and enjoy.

Our old County Courthouse has been transformed into an educational museum

Filled with pictures of leaders and interesting articles long used

Here young and old search things of the past
These indelible impressions on the mind will always last
And from them is derived pleasure so vast.

The old cream brick church with its melodious chimes
Calls us to worship so many times
Its many spires point to the clear blue sky
One cannot but gaze as he passes by
At the beautiful stained glass windows sparkling in the bright sun
For here so many new lives have begun.

Another landmark is known as the banker's house
It is of "Second Empire" style that features a central mansard roof tower."

It looks like an ancient castle of renown
With many windows, gables, and a balcony
Indeed it is the most unique house in town.

Beyond the river is an old homeplace
Made of hand hewn logs and field stones for chimney and fireplace

It has been preserved and used by a family clan
It will not be removed if all stick to the plan
There they meet for fellowship year after year
With fond recollections they hold so dear

Another two story beauty I want to tell about
It will stand another hundred years, no doubt.
Of bricks brought by flatboat from Charleston, though originally from England
Of course, some of the bricks were made of clay from this land.

Landmarks! Landmarks! I'm happy, so happy, that some still remain,
Despite weather conditions, wind, sun, lightning, and rain!

Frances Brydges Hamrick
(Mrs. R. Hubbard Hamrick)

GEORGE HENDRICK FAMILY

584

George Hendrick, was the oldest child of Thomas Hendrick and wife Mary (Polly) Newton Hendrick. He was born in Virginia, November 2, 1794, and died September 8, 1862. He was first married to Miss Eddie Sizemore of Virginia; she was born November 1791, and died September 9, 1849. To them were born nine children, to-wit:

Jim Hendrick, born in Virginia, April 12, 1817, died November 7, 1881. He married Elizabeth (Betty) Glasco on September 27, 1838. She was a daughter of Thomas Glasco, and a sister of Henry Glasco. She was born April 12, 1811, and died September 29, 1898. (Henry Glasco was the father of Oliver and Will Glasco.) Jim Hendrick and wife bought a large farm and settled on the west side of Old County Line Road between Shelby and Fallston and adjoining the homestead of his brother Bedford Hendrick. This old homestead of Jim Hendrick was later known as the Charley Royster homestead. Jim Hendrick was buried at Pleasant Grove Baptist Church. Jim Hendrick and wife Elizabeth (Betty) Glasco had four children, as follows:

Julia Hendrick, born August 27, 1839. She married George Washington Dellinger and they had seven children, as follows: Elizabeth Dellinger married Frank Royster; Zuela Dellinger married Alex Dellinger; Mark Dellinger married daughter of Isaac Newton; Andrew Jackson Dellinger, Eugene Dellinger, Ada Dellinger.

E. Sidney Hendrick, born October 27, 1841; died in prison at Point Lookout in 1863; died single.

Elizabeth Hendrick, born December 12, 1845, died August 26, 1896, was a second wife of Pink Petty and had two children: James Fennell Petty and Elzata Petty, both died in infancy.

James Crowder Hendrick, born August 31, 1848, died October 24, 1924, married Betsy Sallie Ford on October 18, 1868. She was born February 28, 1846, and died August 24, 1916, both were buried at Pleasant Grove Baptist Church. They had seven children: Amanda Salula Hendrick, born July 15, 1869, married Columbus C. Grigg, son of Billy Grigg and wife Susan Costner Grigg. They had 8 children: Carra, Theodore, Arthur, Idona, Edgar, Macy, Bessie and Mamie. Rochell Lee Hendrick, born January 1, 1871, married Nursa Costner, daughter of William Costner and Martha Howell. They had six children as follows: Verta Lee Hendrick, born July 7, 1900; Andrew Ford Hendrick, born January 23, 1902, married Beuna Borders, daughter of Jack Borders; Charles Wesley Hendrick, born July 23, 1905, married Vera Dellahay; Emma Francis Hendrick, born January 19, 1908, married June 20, 1931, to Robert Agnew; John Rochell Hendrick, born August 17, 1912, married Dorothy Leonard; James Walter Hendrick, born August 26, 1916, married Nina Kirby.

Sidney Columbus Hendrick, born October 3, 1873, married Cloe Harrelson, daughter of Dan Harrelson, and they have ten children: Orrin, Floy, Harrill, Madaline, Mable, Eva,

Fred, Sidney, Herbert and Elizabeth. James Andrew Hendrick, born December 20, 1877, married Ellen Moss, daughter of Jefferson Moss, and they have one daughter, Kate Hendrick; Mary Lucinda Hendrick, born February 27, 1880, married A. Pressley Smith, son of H. Mack Smith. They had five children: Grace, Foister, Alvin, Austin and Clara. Solon Emberly Hendrick, born January 7, 1886, married Bessie Shytle, daughter of Bud Shytle. They had five children: Paul, Verna, Sue, Seth, Carroll and Ben; Mittie Elizabeth Hendrick, born June 17, 1888, married James Abernathy. They had two children, Wilbur and Walton Sherrill, who died in infancy

Andred Ford Hendrick, born January 23, 1902, married Beuna Borders, who had five children: Andrew Ford Hendrick, Jr., born 1925, married Jean Lorraine Dockery, born 1927, and have three children: Pamela Gail Hendrick, born 1948, married Gary Haaby; Andrew Ford Hendrick III, born 1951, married Karen Esther Hege; Mark Everette Hendrick, born 1958; Joseph Rochell Hendrick, born 1927, married Mary Ann Teele, and have one child, Joseph Rochell Hendrick; William Thomas Hendrick, born 1930, married Sandra McGinnis, and have three children, Lisa Hendrick, Lynn Hendrick, Laura Hendrick; Jack Borders Hendrick, born 1933, married Barbara Matheny, born 1938; Edward Lee Hendrick, born 1937, married Barbara Harris, born 1941.

— Andrew Ford Hendrick III and Mark Everette Hendrick

Source: Family knowledge.

CHARITY MARY SPANGLER HENDRICK

585

Charity Mary Spangler, the oldest child of Abson Dixon "Dick" Spangler and Nana Patience Green Spangler was born December 28, 1888 in the Double Shoals Community of Cleveland County, North Carolina.

On March 5, 1911, at the age of twenty-two, she married Chesley Hendrick, a widower with three children from his first marriage. Chesley lived just a little over a mile from Mary's homeplace and Mary joined him there to take on the responsibilities of an already made family plus raise a family of her own.

Chesley, born May 17, 1884, was the son of Alfred A. Hendrick and Mary Lucinda Marshall Ann Royster. His first wife was LaVada Hendrick who died July 16, 1907. Mary and Chess were married almost forty-three years before he died December 16, 1953. Mary died July 11, 1967. To this union six children were born.

Beatrice Hendrick married Sherrill Hamrick. They had three children; Sherrill Jr., C.L. and Cynthia Hamrick. Sherrill Jr. married Geraldine Mode and they have two children; Milbern Lee and Kimberly Geraldine Hamrick. C.L. is not married. Cynthia has an adopted daughter Janet Hamrick.

Austin Delphia Hendrick, born April 25, 1915, died July 1915, age three months.

C.S. Hendrick married Clisty Revella Hoyle.

There were four children to this union; Bobby Gene, Clemmie Randall, Sadie Rose and Terecita Susann. Bobby married Joyce Ridings and they have a son Jerry Keith. Randall married Julia Ann Dellinger and they have a son Jeffrey Scott Hendrick. Sadie married J.L. Lail and they have two children, Marty Alan and Michael Scott Lail. Susann married David Camp.

Alfred Dixon Hendrick married Dora Whitaker and they have two children; Linda Dianne and Lewis Dixon "Dickie" Hendrick. Dianne married Wray Larry Black and they have two children; Kimberly Ann and Christopher Wray Black. Dickie Hendrick is single.

Milbern Yates Hendrick, born August 10, 1924, died in 1945 at the age of twenty-one.

Mary Ruth Hendrick married Lester Furman Crenshaw, Jr. They have two children; Lester Furman Crenshaw III and Mary Ann Crenshaw. Lester III will marry Becky Porterfield on April 18, 1982. Mary Ann is married to Javen Arthur Haney, Jr. and they have one child, Bryan Wesley Haney.

Children of Chesley and his first wife LaVada Gardner Hendrick were America Hendrick, Doyle Hendrick and Gola Ophelia Hendrick, who remained single.

America Hendrick married C. Ray Wilson and they had three daughters; Betty, Nancy and Janice. Betty married Harvey R. Cook and they have two children, Harvey Jr. and Deborah Cook and their children are Jody Ray Cook, Christopher A. Cook and Adam and Michael Steven Hilton. Nancy married Ramond Dawson and they have one child Tiyna Renee Dawson. Janice married Glenn McKee and they have five children; Dennis, Jerry, Randy, Barry and Mary McKee, and one grandchild, Philip Shane McKee.

Doyle Hendrick married Louella Wright and they had six children; William Alan "Billy", Joyce Marshall Ann, Mary Alice, Conon Doyle Hendrick, Jr., and Jaunita Hendrick. Billy married Betty Strickland and they have two sons, William Alan Jr. "Buddy" and Wayne Hendrick, who is married to Robin Leonhart and they have a daughter Tina. Joyce married John Allen Strickland and they have three children; Shelia, Pam and Cheryl (married to David Wayne Greene). Marshall Ann is married to Boyd Williams and they have two children; Toni and Randy Williams and four grandchildren — Tal and David Wallace sons of Toni Williams and husband Richard Wallace, and Kim and Susan Williams, daughters of Randy and Kathy Costner Williams. Mary Alice married/divorced Farrell Laughlin and there was a daughter Robin and a son David. Robin is married to Larry Bivens and they have two children, Jimmy and Ashley. C.D. Hendrick Jr. is married to Nell Gold and they have four children; Mischia, who is married to Al T. Tinnin and they have a child Charity Tinnin; Karen, C.D. "Butch" III and Richie Hendrick. Jaunita married Billy Webb Hoyle and they have four children; Phyllis, Mickey, Dean and Dale and six grandchildren Richard, Mark and Andy Haynes, sons of Phyllis and Johnny Haynes; Chad and Josh Hoyle; sons of Mickey and Kay Green Hoyle; and Justin Hoyle, son of Dean and Ann Kimble Hoyle.

Chess and Mary Hendrick were members of Pleasant Grove Baptist Church, Highway 18 north of Shelby, and there they are buried in the church cemetery.

Source: personal knowledge.

— Beatrice Hamrick

ELIZABETH SARAH HERNDON FAMILY

586

Elizabeth Sarah (1843-1908) was one of ten children born to George (1810-1879) and Mary Curreth Graham Herndon (1822-1904).

William H. married Emma Logan, and they had seven children: "Big" Pinkney, Gaffney, Benjamin, Sallie Herndon Hord, Jay Herndon Little, Alice Herndon Butler, and Mary Lizzie Herndon Ellis.

Frank married Agnes Falls, and they had eight children: Bun, Howard, Quinton, Clyde, Claude, Aliene Herndon Baldwin, Aquilla Herndon, and Estelle Herndon Mullinax.

Caroline (Carrie) married Sumpter C. Ratteree, and they had four children: Bright, Pride, Jim, and Jasper.

John G. married Dovie Blanton, and their children were Lester, Earnest, Odus, Buella Herndon Parker, and Lula Herndon Logan.

Henderson was married to Jane Poston, and their children were Maxie, Lee, "Little" Pinkney, Hubert, Gaither, Pearl Herndon, and Edna Herndon.

George was married twice to Eliza Byrd and Martha Carroll. There were no children born to Martha, but Eliza had twelve children: Joe, Tom, Plato, Elmer, Byrd, Jim, Lala Herndon Crocker, Corrie Herndon Martin, Maggie Herndon Blalock, Emma Herndon Blalock, Julia Herndon Vick, and Flora Herndon Gordon.

Walter Anthony (1855-1923) was married to Pratt Fulton, and they were blessed with ten children: Frank, Mae Herndon Dover, Lizzie Lee Herndon Randle, Veilia Herndon Yarbrow, Ava Herndon McSwain, Enola Herndon Dover, Emmitt Herndon Yarbrow, Floyd, Elizabeth Herndon Logan, and Theodore.

Mary Eliza married Marcus Ware. They had three sons and two daughters. Leon was the only son mentioned by relatives and friends.

Ann Sophia married John Poston, and three daughters were born. Lizzie, who was never married, was the only daughter mentioned by our friends.

Elizabeth Sarah Herndon married my grandfather, Leonidas Marion Logan. They had seven children: George, William, Benjamin, Leonides, Bessie Logan Carter, Jane Logan Little, and my father, John Jackson Logan.

References to the Elizabeth Sarah Herndon and Leonidas Marion Logan family are in the sketches of the John R. and Sarah Jackson Logan family.

Members of this family are buried at Bethlehem, Kings Mountain, Grover, Elizabeth, and El Bethel cemeteries.

Sources: grave stones, family histories, interviews with relatives and friends.

— Lula Logan Hardin

Home of George Carruth Herndon, Circa 1878.

THE GEORGE CARRUTH HERNDON FAMILY

587

The origins of the Herndon family of Cleveland County, N.C. began in New Kent County, Virginia (near Charlottesville) and before that in Kent County, England. There are several different spellings of the name.

The name first appears in extant records in the year 833. It continues today as a community or estate name in five localities in County Kent, England.

Among the names inscribed on the roll of Battle Abby as having come with William the Conqueror into Britain in 1066, is that of Hei-roin. He is the ancestor of the family of Herons. One branch of the family, probably to distinguish it from another, assumed the suffix "don", which according to some means "Heron of the Hill" and to others "Heron of the Valley".

In 1193, a member of the family journeyed with Richard I to the Holy Land for his escutcheon is carved on a stone gateway in the city of Rhodes. A modification of these arms, argent, a heron volant azure, between three escallops sable, is also found in stained glass in Lincoln Inn Chapel, London.

The first Herndon in the New World whom we have authentic record is William Herndon (1649-1722) m Catherin Diggs. He patented lands in St. Stephens Parish, New Kent County, Virginia in Feb. 1674.

From this family there came Edward, b 1678, and married to Mary Waller; John (1700-1786) m Sarah Pomfret; Joseph b 1743; John (1774-1851) in Charlotte County, Virginia, m Elizabeth Mealer.

As early as March 1803 this John, son of Joseph, had purchased from Thomas Beatty for 70 pounds, N.C. currency, 84 acres near Beaver Dam Creek on the west side of the Catawba River in Lincoln County, N.C. He later sold this property, evidently without ever having lived there, and he and Elizabeth located in Rutherford County and later Cleveland County, N.C. Their home was situated about six miles north of Shelby. There he died in 1851 and was buried on the plantation.

Among the children born to this union was George Herndon (1810-1879) in Charlotte County, Virginia. He married Mary Carruth Graham (1877-1904) and they lived near White Plains, N.C. (later renamed Kings Mountain).

George Carruth Herndon was born of this parentage March 18, 1852 in Cleveland County, N.C. He was married to Mary Eliza Bird who was born near Antioch Church in Cherokee County, S.C., and is buried in Bethlehem Churchyard. He married second Martha Carroll and moved to Union Level, Virginia where he died August 6, 1924 and is buried in Bethany Churchyard, Baskerville, Virginia. No issue from the second marriage.

George Carruth Herndon was a great grandson of Major John Carruth who assisted in laying off Cleveland County.

In c 1878 George and Eliza built the first known brick house in the Kings Mountain area. It was on Bethlehem Road where Phifer Road dead-ends, and had a French Mansard slate roof with Masonic emblems carved above the upstairs windows. This house was the birthplace of their twelve children, three of them to become well-known Kings Mountain citizens — two of them mayors. The others went to South Carolina and Va.

This house has had a magic appeal to all the family through the years. Although it stood vacant and neglected for many years, we brought our children from many miles to walk through the house, sit on its upstairs window-seats and look out at the Blue Ridge Mountains fifty miles away. It was a sad day for us all when it was razed in the 1960's.

George and Eliza's twelve children, all blue-eyed and three red-heads, were as follows: Thomas; Margaret (Maggie) m Jim Blalock; Lala m Jason Crocker; Emma m William Blalock; Marion Elmer; Julia m Charles Vick; Corrie m Tom Martin; Joe; Plato; Bird; James Edward; Flora m Edward Gordon. As of 1981 all are deceased. But there are 33 grandchildren and numerous great-grandchildren.

Sources: The Herndons of Virginia by Dr. John Goodwin Herndon Herndon Family Heritage Book by Beatrice Bagley to be published soon. Mauney Memorial Library Carolina Room files, Kings Mountain, N.C.

— Hazel Herndon Fryer

JOHN GRAHAM and CORDOVIA BLANTON HERNDON

588

John Graham Herndon (1847-1928) was born & grew up in the Bethlehem Community. Mr. Herndon volunteered in the service of the Confederacy, going with the last call of 17 years old and serving only a short while in the war.

After his service in the Civil War, he spent some time selling clocks in the Fayetteville & Cumberland County area, using a horse drawn wagon for transportation. In 1879 he married Dovie Blanton and they lived for a short while in the Bethlehem Community. Then, they moved to a farm near Grover, bordered by Buffalo Creek. This was land that had been in the Graham family (his maternal grandparents) for many years. Around 1907 they moved to the town of Grover. Their children were: twin daughters Beulah 1881-1966 married James L. Parker, Loula 1881-1966 married Hugh A. Logan 1877-1931, Lester 1883-1943 married Novella Bookout 1888-1977, Otis 1885-1964 married Pearl Roberts, Ernest 1892-1957 married Rena Bookout 1892-1965.

John Herndon was the son of George 1810-1878 and Mary Carruth Graham Herndon

1822-1904. He was a descendant of Major John Carruth of Revolutionary War fame. Dovie Blanton Herndon (1856-1952) was born in Polk County — daughter of Hill and Amanda Whitesides Blanton. When she was about 10 years old her family moved to Western Tennessee. Dovie returned to N.C. in 1875 and made her home with an uncle — Alex Wray. She married John Graham Herndon in 1879. They lived in the Grover and Bethlehem Communities. After her husband's death "Granny Herndon" continued to live at the homeplace and enjoyed her favorite pastimes — gardening and quilt making. Her family estimates that she pieced several hundred quilt tops during her lifetime. She spent the last nine years of her life confined to a wheelchair due to a hip injury, but continued her hobby of quilt making. Dovie Blanton Herndon is a descendant of Burwell Blanton, who served in the Revolutionary War.

Sources: Family records, D.A.R. & U.D.C. papers, cemetery records, "Herndon Family History" by John Herndon of Virginia, Newspaper.

— Mrs. Jacqueline Parker Davis

Dovie Malinda Blanton and John Graham Herndon with their five children. Back row, twin girls, Loula (Mrs. H. A. Logan), Beulah (Mrs. J. L. Parker). The boys are: J. Lester, Otis and Ernest. The dog most always got in the pictures of the family.

THE MARION ELMER HERNDON, SR. FAMILY

589

Marion Elmer Herndon, Sr. was born January 16, 1884 (d. 1962) in the "Brick House", the first known brick house in the Kings Mountain area, built by his parents on Bethlehem Road about three miles from Kings Mountain. His parents were George Carruth Herndon and Mary Eliza Bird. George was born in Cleveland County in that vicinity, and Eliza came from around Antioch Church near Kings Mountain National Military Park.

After finishing high school at Mars Hill Academy, Mars. Hill, N.C., Elmer, red-headed and out-going, came to Kings Mountain and clerked in Plonk Brother's Store. He was determined not to farm as his father had done. A year or so later he attended a business college in Macon, Georgia. (There he roomed with D.C. Mauney and told us he talked of nothing but Sadie! The Sadie Mill was later organized and named for his wife.)

When he returned home, some of the business men of the community asked him to organize a bank "for the farmers" and that they would back him. In 1906, at the age of 22, the People's Loan and Trust Company was organized and was located on the southwest corner of East Mountain and Cherokee Streets. The building was razed in the 1970's and in 1981 is a vacant lot.

Some years after the banks organization it was merged with Commercial Bank and Trust Company with the main bank in Gastonia and five branches in the surrounding towns. In the 1929 crash this chain went under and my father grieved as though he had lost one of his children — as indeed he felt he had.

My father first met my mother (b. 1889 d. 1935), a brunette who loved painting and drawing, when she was fourteen years old and he twenty. They met at the home of her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Carpenter, who lived in a two-story white house on the present

(See photograph page 307)

In the summer of 1920, Robert Ransom Hewitt (April 13, 1887 — February 11, 1960) and Bertie Lee Rowe Hewitt (August 1, 1889 — October 21, 1970) with their three young children moved to Lattimore where he and Dr. R.L. Hunt established Hunt and Hewitt Co., a general mercantile business, which grew steadily until the economic depression of the early thirties.

To help sustain the family economically and educate the children, the Hewitts "raised the roof" of their home, which they had built in the late twenties, and added three bedrooms and a bath. This enabled them to provide rooms and meals for teachers of Lattimore High School. With two large vegetable gardens, fruit trees, grape and berry vines, livestock to furnish milk, butter, eggs, and meat, and much hard work by the family "Miss Bertie" provided meals that are remembered, not only for the quantity, but also for their quality.

The roots for both the Hewitt and Rowe families are in Germany. Both names have gone through changes in spelling. The German name Huyet became Huitt, Huit, and Hewitt. Rauch was changed to Rowe (with a short "o"). Both families settled in Pennsylvania and were among those who became known as the Pennsylvania "Dutch" (Duetsch in German). Both names are listed among those pioneer families who migrated in the mid to late 1700's to that section of North Carolina now known as Catawba, Rowan, and Lincoln counties. The Huyets (Hewitts) have been staunch, loyal members of the Lutheran Church, founder and supporter of Lenoir Rhyne College, "all the way back to Martin Luther" (a little inside family joke). Most members of the Rowe (Rauch) family have been members of the (German) Reform Church, founder and supporter of Catawba College in Salisbury, N.C.

When the Hewitts moved to Cleveland County, there was no Lutheran Church closer than Kings Mountain. Robert, his sister, Sallie (Mrs. Graham) Dellinger, and about a dozen other determined souls decided to correct that situation. They organized Ascension Lutheran Church and held their services wherever they could in the Presbyterian and Episcopal Churches, in the old high school and Marion School buildings until they were able to build the church on North Lafayette Street in Shelby.

Elizabeth Roberta Hewitt, the first of Robert and Bertie Hewitt's children, was born November 5, 1914. After graduating from Lattimore High School, she took her first two years of college work at Lenoir Rhyne College in Hickory, N.C. then transferred to and graduated from U.N.C.-Greensboro. After two years of teaching English, she married Virgil Weathers, a graduate of the University of North Carolina. (See the William Thomas Weathers family history). She returned to teaching in 1962 and taught for eighteen years in the Cleveland County School System. Since they were married in 1937, Elizabeth and Virgil have made their home in Shelby. They have two daughters. Robbie (Roberta Rowe), born January site of the Post Office, and where he boarded.

Marion Herndon, Sr., 1884-1962

While he worked to establish himself, she attended high school in town going on to Elizabeth College, Charlotte, N.C. She was graduated in Art in 1910. The college later moved to Salem, Virginia before it was finally closed and all records sent to Lenoir Rhyne College where they are today.

Elizabeth College was on the edge of town in those days, and I remember hearing my parents tell how my Dad rode the train on Sundays to see her. Once at the station he had to take a streetcar the rest of the way. The college was located where the Presbyterian Hospital is today, and I never pass there but what I think of my parents in their youth walking underneath those same big trees on Sunday afternoons.

They were married in a small home ceremony a year after she finished school, and lived in Kings Mountain until 1934 when they moved to Charlotte.

Both were active in civic, cultural and church affairs, and were members of the First Baptist Church — which my grandmother Carpenter and two other ladies had organized around 1890. In 1927, my mother did a large oil painting of the Jordan River for the Baptistry. It remains there today.

Children born of this union were: George Anderson Herndon (1912); Hazel Hoke Herndon (1914), m. Frank Milton Fryer; Marion Elmer Herndon, Jr. (1919); Helen Frances Herndon, b. February 28, 1923 d. March 1, 1923.

There are eight grandchildren and nine great grandchildren.

Sources: The Herndons of Virginia by Dr. John Goodwin Herndon, Herndon Family Heritage Book by Beatrice Bagley to be published soon., Counting Kindred by E.L. and M.M. Deppen, Carpenters A Plenty by Robert Carpenter, soon to be published. Mauney Memorial Library Carolina Room files, Kings Mountain, N.C.

— Hazel Herndon Fryer

Lula Carpenter Herndon, 1890-1935.

26, 1941, is married to David A. Irvin, attorney. Their home is Winston-Salem, N.C. and they have two children, David Alexander (Alex) Irvin, Jr., born October 7, 1964, and Elizabeth Hewitt Irvin, born October 7, 1974. The younger Weathers daughter, Jane Hewitt, born October 26, 1946, is married to Richard W. Addis and they have a son, Richard W. Addis, Jr., born December 28, 1968. Jane is a teacher in the Shelby School System.

Robert R. Hewitt, Jr. was born October 19, 1916. After attending Appalachian State and the University of North Carolina, he settled in Suffolk, Va. where he married Frances M. Beaton. Their daughter, Sandra Rowe Hewitt, born September 18, 1943, and her husband Robert Frantz live in Virginia Beach, Va. The son (of Bob and Francis Hewitt), Robert R. Hewitt, III, born October 10, 1955, is headmaster of a private school in Suffolk, Va.

The third child of Robert and Bertie Hewitt, Polly (Bertie Pauline), born March 28, 1920, a graduate of Lenoir Rhyne College and a teacher of business education in Taylorsville, N.C., is married to William L. Warren. They have one daughter, Dottie (Dorothy Lee) McCurdy, born December 16, 1947, who has one son, Woody (William Woodrow) Elder, born January 6, 1971.

An ancestor, the Reverend W.W. Rowe, closed "The Rowe Family Sketch" (see Sources) with these words:

We trust that this sketch will make all (the family) take a deeper interest in our family history and may none of us do anything that would bring discredit upon it . . . May we all take the things we have inherited from them (our forefathers) and use them for good in our community, county, state and church.

While the name Hewitt may not be among the FFC's (First Families of Cleveland County), to the children of Robert and Bertie, this proud and beautiful spot of North Carolina is home.

Sources: Genealogy of Moses Monroe Huit, Mrs. Albert Hewitt; Ancestry and Genealogy of Pinkney E. Rowe, compiled by Georgia Rowe Arlowe; The Rowe Family, by Rev. W.W. Rowe; The Rowe Sketch by Rev. W.W. Rowe, published in the Catawba County News, February 10, 1911.

— Elizabeth Hewitt Weathers

Remember . . .

Articles
Are Indexed
By
Article Numbers
. . . Not By Page
Number

RACHEL ANNETTE BROWN HIGH

591

Rachel Annette Brown, daughter of William Thomas Brown and Fannie Jane Casey, was born February 12, 1924 at Cherryville, North Carolina. She married August 26, 1944, Samuel Alexander High, born September 15, 1921, Gaston County, son of Hubert H. High.

Rachel was graduated from Shelby High School in 1949, where she played basketball. She and Sam finished Gardner Webb in 1943 and Southwest Seminary, Texas in 1947. She did her graduate work at Towson State University, Towson, Maryland. She has taught in Baltimore County, Maryland since 1970.

Sam died March 5, 1981 in Baltimore, Maryland, and is buried at Salters Baptist Church, Maryland. He served as pastor in Texas, Maryland and North Carolina. He was Secretary of Training for the Southern Baptist Convention of Maryland from 1960 to 1972.

Rachel was a Children's Worker for the Southern Baptist Convention of North Carolina from 1947 to 1954 and for the Southern Baptist Convention of Maryland from 1954 to 1972. She authored periodicals for the Baptist Sunday School Board.

Rachel and Sam's children are:

Samala Annette born August 3, 1952, Garner, North Carolina; married November 29, 1975, Broadus Hocutt; lives in Charlotte, North Carolina.

Mary Jane born January 4, 1955, Baltimore, Maryland; attended Mars Hill College; works with deaf in Washington, D.C.

Samuel Alexander High, Jr. born August 1, 1959, Baltimore, Maryland; lives in Baltimore.

— Mrs. John S. Blanton, Jr.

THE LAWRENCE EUGENE HINNANT FAMILY

592

"Josh" Hinnant was born in Wake County, North Carolina, and attended Wendell public schools and the University of North Carolina. He served in the United States Army during World War II. His parents were Walter Robert and Alice Mayes Hinnant, both of whom were descended from eastern North Carolina families who came to this state in the seventeenth and early eighteenth centuries.

Bertie and Robert Hewitt.

Prior to coming to Kings Mountain he worked in the banking and retail fields in Raleigh. In August 1957, he married Virginia Summers, born 1927, of Kings Mountain. She is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Frank R. Summers. Their two children are: Bonnie Frances, born December 10, 1959, a graduate of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, now employed by First National Bank, Shelby; and Walter Rickert, born April 9, 1961, a student at Wake Forest University.

Mr. Hinnant came to Kings Mountain in 1958 to work with First National Bank of Kings Mountain (now First Union National Bank). He is now vice president and city executive and a director of that bank. Now the president of the Kings Mountain Hospital Board of Trustees, he is also chairman of the Kings Mountain Industrial Development Commission and a member of the board of the Kings Mountain Business Development Corporation. He has been a member of the board and several times president of the Kings Mountain Country Club.

Now in his third term as a member of the Cleveland County Board of Commissioners, Mr. Hinnant is first vice president of the Cleveland County Board of the Council on Aging, and has been a member of the Social Services and Mental Health Boards.

The Hinnants are members of St. Matthews Lutheran Church where he has been a member and Vice Chairman of the church council several times. Mrs. Hinnant is organist at that church and has been active in Lutheran Church Women and Sunday School work. She is a graduate of Salem College and the University of North Carolina. She is now president of the Kings Mountain Garden Club and has held offices at the local and district levels of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

— Mrs. L.E. Hinnant

BESS GARDNER HOEY

593

Bess Gardner Hoey, the eighth child of Dr. O.P. Gardner and Margaret Young Gardner, was born in Shelby, North Carolina and lived there all her life except for the four years spent in the Governor's Mansion in Raleigh from January 1937-1941. Her age was a well-kept secret, and was not even recorded on her tombstone. She attended Shelby Female College until age 16 when she left school to keep house for her widowed father. On March 22, 1900 she married Clyde Roark Hoey. They had three children: Clyde R. Hoey, Jr. Charles A. Hoey, and Isabel Young Hoey Paul.

Bess Hoey was the only woman in the history of the State whose brother and husband each served as Governor of North Carolina. She was a leader in the civic, educational, social and religious life of Shelby and the State. She was an active and dedicated member of Central Methodist Church, and was the first President of the Twentieth Century Club of Shelby. "She was especially interested in helping the underprivileged and in inspiring young people to the higher and nobler things of life." (Shelby Daily Star).

"Miss Bess," as she was called, was known as "one of the most gracious first ladies of the Mansion in Raleigh and was more widely and intimately known by more people than any other woman in North Carolina." (The Cleveland Times) She created an atmosphere of dignity and simplicity in which all were welcomed and quickly came to feel at ease. She was known as the first orator among the governors' wives and was in demand over the state for her eloquent speechmaking. "She distinguished herself as a humanitarian, a hostess, a lover of gardening and people, and was one of the most lovable women who ever graced the state's capitol. She stressed beautification of roadsides and communities, expressed firm belief in a strict temperance code and took a firm stand on women in the role of motherhood and as homemakers, citing them as 'the molders of human souls and builders of any nation.' She urged clubwomen to stretch out helping hands to young people preparing for life. She campaigned to bring cleanliness and beauty to the state" (Grace Hamrick in THE FIRST LADIES OF N.C.) and set in motion a plan to make North Carolina more beautiful with plantings of dogwood, red bud, yellow jasmine, rhododendron and laurel along North Carolina roadsides.

"Miss Bess" established the first greenhouse for exotic flowers at the State Penitentiary and trained prisoners to grow unusual varieties for use in the mansion. She loved flowers and had an extensive and varied garden at her home in Shelby. During the growing season she had fresh flowers in the house each day. "A brilliant reminder of her love for beauty appears each fall at Sunset Cemetery in Children of Robert and Bertie Hewitt. L to R: Virgil Weathers (husband of Elizabeth), Robert, Jr., Frances B. (wife of Robert, Jr.), Elizabeth H., Polly H.

Shelby in the splendor of sugar maple trees which were planted when she was president of the Shelby Civic League in 1907." (Hamrick in FIRST LADIES OF N.C.)

"Miss Bess" taught the Bess Hoey Bible Class at Central Methodist Church for many years. On September 13, 1953 the Bess Hoey Memorial United Methodist Church was dedicated to her memory. This church is located just outside Shelby near a piece of property where the Hoeyes had planned to build a home.

"In 1934, her interest in amateur theatricals caused her to live in the hills, study the natives and learn to smoke a corncob pipe to prepare for the role of Mom Cagle in a production of Lula Vollmer's 'Sun-Up.' She gained many accolades for her performance." (Hamrick in FIRST LADIES OF N.C.)

An editorial in the Asheville Citizen at her death on February 13, 1942 described Bess Gardner Hoey as "dramatic to the very core of her being. She loved people and was at home equally with the humble and the great. Blessed with an unflinching sense of humor, an excellent memory for people, and an inquiring mind, she was truly a helpmate to the distinguished man whose honors she shared so long and intimately." And from the Shelby Daily Star, "The world has been made sweeter by 'Miss Bess' having lived It was a joy to be in the presence of Mrs. Hoey's wholesome, radiant personality. Her sympathies were as broad as her acquaintance. Her buoyant cheerful spirit inspired her friends and her sound philosophy of life made it good to be in her presence Many a time she went about 'doing good' when her physical heart was tired, but her spiritual heart was ready and willing to help others."

And finally, as noted on her tombstone, she was "radiant in life, triumphant in death."

Sources: Family records.

— Charlotte Hoey Mansfield

CHARLES AYCOCK HOEY

594

A native of Shelby, Charles Aycock Hoey was born on September 17, 1902, the second son of Clyde Roark Hoey and Bess Gardner Hoey. His brother, Clyde Roark Hoey, Jr., made his permanent residence in Canton, N.C., and his sister, Isabel Hoey Paul, lived in Raleigh, N.C.

As a young man, Charles worked in the local Ford garage as a mechanic. He attended N.C. State College, but after one semester decided to return to Shelby to go into business for himself. He opened his own car dealership, selling Hudson and Essex cars. These were depression years, few people had money to buy cars, and the business proved to be unsuccessful. However, he was able to sell the dealership, and joined J.D. Lineberger in real estate. Eventually he bought Mr. Lineberger's share in the real estate business, added insurance, and incorporated the business that was later known as Charles A. Hoey, Inc., Insurance & Real Estate.

Charles was married to Mary Gidney, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Robert Maney Gidney of Shelby, N.C., on August 18, 1926. They had three children: Elizabeth, Charlotte, and Clyde R. Hoey, II. Charles died on January 27, 1961 and was buried in Sunset Cemetery in Shelby, N.C.

The Hoey homeplace where he grew up was on East Marion Street. Charles loved to tell the story of how he would eat breakfast at his house and then go next door to have breakfast again at his grandmother's house.

Charles Hoey was an astute businessman and had a genuine concern for Shelby and Cleveland County. He was a Director of First Federal Savings & Loan, a member of the Board of Directors of Cleveland Memorial Hospital, a charter member of the Kiwanis Club, and was very active in recruiting new industries for this area. Many nights Charles and several other business men of the town would gather on the benches outside the Cleveland Drug Company — to joke, to talk sports, to discuss business, and to talk over community problems. It sometimes seemed that more business deals were consummated and more decisions concerning the town were made in those talks outside the drug store than occurred during the business day or in formal meetings.

He was a member of Central Methodist Church and served on the Board of Stewards. He was Church Treasurer at the time when the note for the church was paid in full. He was interested in the means of communication used by the different ministers and the effects on the budget, and commented on the doubling of the postage budget during the term of one minister who communicated through thoughtfully written letters.

"Vacation" was not a part of Charles' life. Rarely was he away from the office for relaxation. He enjoyed a game of golf on Sunday afternoons and occasionally on a Wednesday afternoon, but he derived his greatest pleasure and satisfaction from his business. He bought a farm in the eastern part of the country in the early 1940's and enjoyed planning the management of that farm with his tenant.

Charles used a unique method of discipline with his children which rarely required his giving a negative answer. If a request was made to go somewhere or do something that he didn't quite approve, his reply would be, "You can go if you really want to, but I'd rather you didn't, and if you don't, I'll make it up to you." With that kind of answer it was always impossible to go, and he always kept his word with the granting of a future request.

Charles was a little over six feet tall with a slightly receding hairline. He remembered stories and loved to tell them, always ending them with his resounding laugh. Although he had little formal education, he was an avid reader of business and political writings, and had a wide knowledge about many areas of everyday life. When consulted about problems, he was a good listener, and attempted to give his best judgment when it was sought. He was a devoted husband, father, and grandfather, and we regret that he died before our children were old enough to know and remember him.

The following excerpt from an editorial written at the time of his death summarizes the man that he was: "The people of Shelby will miss the pleasing personality and infectious laughter of Charles Hoey. Son of an illustrious father, Mr. Hoey was a successful and respected businessman in his town. He was a man who loved the community and contributed greatly to its progress. Mr. Hoey took an active part not only in the business but the civic and church life of Shelby. His business experience, judgment and intelligence equipped him for many tasks which required time and energy given unselfishly. Shelby has lost one of its most substantial citizens in his death and the organizations with which he was connected have lost a valuable asset."

Sources: Family records.

— Charlotte Hoey Mansfield
and Clyde R. Hoey, II

Charles Aycock Hoey

CICERO ALBERTA HOEY

595

Born August 14, 1897, Cicero Alberta Hoey was, according to a publication by Eckerd's Drug Company, "a Wilmington, Delaware landmark since 1916 having migrated from Shelby, North Carolina." Upon retirement after 25 years of service with Eckerd he was said to be "not only a star salesman at the drug counter, but his ingratiating manner had made his a familiar and outstanding personality with his "Y' come, and see us soon, y' hear" having become an unforgettable trademark."

The pharmacy business was a third career for Cicero. The first was acquiring the agency for the Moon and Diana. "You may have heard of the Moon, but how many people do you meet who ever heard of the Diana? It was a car thirty years ahead of its time. It was impressive, beautiful. It sold for $2,600. That was a bit steep in those days (about 1927). The ones who could afford it, I guess, it was too far ahead of its time for them. They went for Packards, Pierce Arrows, not enough of them for Dianas. It went broke." (Quote from Tom Malone's column "This Bears Mention", Wilmington, Delaware — 1968).

But the automobile business was operated along with his second career in the real estate profession as a self-employed broker. He continued his own business for ten years, followed by five years with the real estate firm of William V. Montgomery and Sons, Inc.

Uncle Cicero married the former Catherine Cunningham. They had two children, Ruth (Mrs. Robert Lautz of Carrcroft, Wilmington, Delaware) and Franklin J. Hoey. Grandchildren are Susan Lautz, Deborah Hoey (Mrs. Thomas Ringdall), and Robert Lautz, Jr. Until his death July 18, 1979, Northerners teased him with, "You're not giving me a lot of hoey?" The name is pronounced that way and he always laughed, "I'm 82 years old and they think its original."

— Eleanor Hoey Bradshaw

CLYDE ROARK HOEY

596

Clyde Roark Hoey was born in Shelby, North Carolina on December 11, 1877 to Samuel Alberta and Mary Charlotte Roark Hoey. His father was a captain in the Confederate Army. His grandfather, Samuel Johnson Hoey, of Union County, South Carolina, was a lawyer, who graduated from the University of South Carolina in 1819.

Until he was twelve, young Clyde attended the schools of that era, some of them one-teacher schools. Then, because of his father's poor health he quit to become a printer's "devil" on the Shelby Aurora. He had taken full advantage of his schooling, for he received a prize with this notation: "To little Clyde, for learning the multiplication tables at the early age of six years."

After working on the Aurora for a short time, he went to the Charlotte Observer as a full printer. While there, having learned that the Shelby Review was for sale, he made arrangements to buy the paper. So, at the age of sixteen, he began publishing his own newspaper, which he named The Cleveland Star (now the Shelby Daily Star). During this time he also read law. With one summer session at the University of North Carolina in 1899, he took the State Bar examination, and was licensed to practice law in September of that year. His law practice and his entrance into politics caused him to give up editing the paper, though he retained ownership until 1908.

Clyde Hoey could not vote for himself when he won his first political victory in 1898. He was elected to the House of Representatives about five weeks before his twenty-first birthday. He was re-elected in 1900. In 1903, he was elected to the State Senate. He was Assistant United States Attorney for the Western District of North Carolina from 1913 to 1919, when he was elected to fill the vacancy of E.Y. Webb in Congress. He served two years, but declined renomination.

On January 7, 1937, he was inaugurated Governor of North Carolina and served until January 9, 1941. In the keynote address to the Bess Gardner Hoey, wife of Clyde Roark Hoey.

Democratic Convention in Raleigh in 1938, Comptroller General Lindsey Warren said: "To my mind one of the greatest contributions Clyde Hoey has made is something that can be felt far better than it can be described or tabulated. By his everyday acts, from his morning stroll to the drug store soda fountain to the more than three hundred speeches he has made in every section of the State; by his sympathetic understanding of all our people; by his unique and gracious personality; by his humane and common sense approach to the daily problems of government; by just being his own friendly self, Clyde Hoey has created an affection for himself and his administration which permeates the people of North Carolina from the Atlantic Ocean to the Tennessee line."

At the close of his term, Robert L. Thompson wrote a brief biography, closing with these words: "Clyde R. Hoey came into the Governor's office a forthright, fearless and unaffected man, who was better liked, and more admired in his home town than any other citizen. He left four years later, a forthright, fearless and unaffected man, who was better liked, and more admired than any other citizen in North Carolina."

